BOOK ONE: GENESIS

CHAPTER 1

1 In the beginning God created heaven and earth.

2 But the earth was empty and void, and darkness was over the face of the abyss, and the spirit of God was borne over the waters.

3 And God said, “Let there be light.” And light came to be.

4 God saw that the light was good, and he divided the light from the darkness.

5 He called the light Day, and the darkness Night. And evening came, and morning, one day.

6 God also said, “Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide waters from waters.”

7 And God made the firmament and divided the waters that were beneath the firmament from those that were above it. And so it came to be.

8 God called the firmament Heaven. And evening came, and morning, a second day.

9 Then God said, “Let the waters beneath heaven be gathered into one place, and let the dry land appear.” And so it came to be.

10 God called the dry land Earth, and the gatherings of waters he called Seas. And God saw that it was good.

11 And he said, “Let the earth put forth the green plant that bears seed, and the fruit-bearing tree that produces fruit according to its kind, whose seed is in itself upon the earth.” And so it came to be.

12 And the earth brought forth the green plant, bearing seed according to its kind, and the tree producing fruit, each one having seed according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

13 And evening came, and morning, a third day.

14 Then God said, “Let there be lights in the firmament of heaven to divide day and night, and let them be for signs and times, and for days and years, 15 so that they may shine in the firmament of heaven and give light upon the earth.” And so it came to be.

16 God made two great lights: the greater light to govern the day, the lesser light to govern the night—and the stars.

17 He set them in the firmament of heaven to shine upon the earth,

18 to govern day and night, and to divide light from darkness. And God saw that it was good.

19 And evening came, and morning, a fourth day.

20 God also said, “Let the waters bring forth the moving creature with a living soul, and the winged creature above the earth beneath the firmament of heaven.”

21 And God created the great sea monsters and every living and moving soul that the waters had brought forth according to their kinds, and every winged creature according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

22 He blessed them, saying, “Increase and multiply, and fill the waters of the sea; and let the birds multiply upon the earth.”

23 And evening came, and morning, a fifth day.

24 God also said, “Let the earth bring forth the living soul according to its kind: cattle, creeping things, and beasts of the earth according to their kinds.” And so it came to be.

25 God made the beasts of the earth according to their kinds, the cattle, and every creeping thing of the earth according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

26 Then he said, “Let us make man according to our image and likeness, and let him rule over the fish of the sea, the winged creatures of heaven, the beasts, the whole earth, and every creeping thing that moves upon the earth.”

27 And God created man in his own image; in the image of God he created him; male and female he created them.

28 God blessed them and said, “Increase and multiply, and fill the earth and subject it. Rule over the fish of the sea, the winged creatures of heaven, and every living thing that moves upon the earth.”

29 And God said, “Behold, I have given you every plant that bears seed upon the earth, and all the trees that bear within themselves the seed of their kind, to be food for you,

30 and for every living thing of the earth, every bird of heaven, and all that moves upon the earth and has a living soul, so that they may have food.” And so it came to be.

31 God saw all the things he had made, and they were very good. And evening came, and morning, a sixth day.

CHAPTER 2

1 Thus the heavens and the earth were completed, and all their array.

2 On the seventh day God completed the work he had done, and on the seventh day he rested from all the work he had accomplished.

3 God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it, because on it he had ceased from all his work, which God had created to make.

4 These are the generations of heaven and earth when they were created, in the day when the Lord (YHWH) God made heaven and earth,

5 and every shrub of the field before it arose upon the earth, and every plant of the countryside before it sprouted. For the Lord God had not sent rain upon the earth, and there was no man to cultivate the earth,

6 but a spring rose from the earth and watered the whole surface of the earth.

7 Then the Lord God formed man from the clay of the earth and breathed the breath of life into his face, and man became a living soul.

8 Now the Lord God had planted a paradise of delight from the beginning, and there he placed the man he had formed.

9 From the ground the Lord God brought forth every tree beautiful to behold and sweet for eating, the tree of life also in the midst of the paradise, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil.

10 And a river was flowing out from the place of delight to water the paradise, and from there it is divided into four heads.

11 The name of the first is Pishon; it winds around the whole land of Havilah, where gold is born,

12 and the gold of that land is excellent. Bdellium and onyx stone are found there.

13 The name of the second river is Gihon; it winds around the whole land of Ethiopia.

14 The name of the third river is Tigris; it runs opposite the Assyrians. The fourth river is the Euphrates.

15 Therefore the Lord God took the man and placed him in the paradise of delight, to cultivate it and keep it.

16 And he commanded him, saying, “Eat from every tree of the paradise, 17 but do not eat from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil; for on whatever day you eat from it, you will surely die.”

18 The Lord God also said, “It is not good for the man to be alone. Let us make him a helper like himself.”

19 And so the Lord God, having formed from the ground all the living things of the earth and every winged creature of heaven, brought them to Adam to see what he would call them. For each living soul, whatever Adam called it is its name.

20 Adam gave their names to all the living things, every winged creature of heaven, and all the beasts of the earth. But for Adam no helper like himself was found.

21 Therefore the Lord God cast a deep sleep upon Adam, and when he had fallen asleep, he took one of his ribs and filled its place with flesh.

22 The Lord God built the rib he had taken from Adam into a woman, and brought her to Adam.

23 And Adam said, “This now is bone from my bones and flesh from my flesh. She will be called Woman, because she was taken from man.”

24 For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and cling to his wife, and the two will be in one flesh.

25 Now both were naked—Adam and his wife—and they were not ashamed.

CHAPTER 3

1 But the serpent was more cunning than all the living things of the earth that the Lord God had made. He said to the woman, “Why did God command you not to eat from every tree of the paradise?”

2 The woman answered him, “We eat from the fruit of the trees that are in the paradise,

3 but concerning the fruit of the tree in the midst of the paradise, God commanded us not to eat it or touch it, lest perhaps we die.”

4 But the serpent said to the woman, “You will by no means die.

5 For God knows that on whatever day you eat from it, your eyes will be opened, and you will be like gods, knowing good and evil.”

6 The woman therefore saw that the tree was good for food, beautiful to the eyes, and delightful to behold. She took some of its fruit and ate, and she gave it to her husband, who ate.

7 Then the eyes of them both were opened. When they knew that they were naked, they sewed fig leaves together and made loin-coverings for themselves.

8 And when they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the paradise in the afternoon breeze, Adam and his wife hid themselves from the face of the Lord God in the midst of the tree of the paradise.

9 The Lord God called to Adam and said, “Where are you?”

10 He answered, “I heard your voice in the paradise, and I was afraid because I was naked, so I hid myself.”

11 He said to him, “Who told you that you were naked, unless you have eaten from the tree from which I commanded you not to eat?”

12 Adam said, “The woman whom you gave me as a companion gave me fruit from the tree, and I ate.”

13 Then the Lord God said to the woman, “Why have you done this?” She answered, “The serpent deceived me, and I ate.”

14 And the Lord God said to the serpent, “Because you have done this, you are cursed among all living things and beasts of the earth. You will walk upon your breast and eat earth all the days of your life.

15 I will set enmity between you and the woman, and between your seed and her seed. She will crush your head, and you will lie in wait for her heel.”

16 To the woman he also said, “I will multiply your hardships and your conceptions. In pain you will bear sons; you will be under the power of your husband, and he will rule over you.”

17 But to Adam he said, “Because you listened to the voice of your wife and ate from the tree from which I commanded you not to eat, cursed is the earth in your work. Through labors you will eat from it all the days of your life.

18 Thorns and thistles it will bring forth for you, and you will eat the plant of the earth.

19 In the sweat of your face you will eat bread until you return to the earth from which you were taken; for you are dust, and into dust you will return.”

20 Adam called his wife’s name Eve, because she was the mother of all the living.

21 The Lord God also made garments of skins for Adam and his wife and clothed them.

22 And he said, “Behold, Adam has become like one of us, knowing good and evil. Now therefore, lest he reach out his hand and also take from the tree of life, and eat, and live forever—”

23 The Lord God sent him out from the paradise of delight to cultivate the earth from which he had been taken.

24 He cast Adam out, and before the paradise of delight he stationed cherubim and a flaming sword that turned, to guard the way to the tree of life.

CHAPTER 4

1 Now Adam knew Eve his wife, and she conceived and bore Cain, saying, “I have acquired a man through God.”

2 Again she bore his brother Abel. Abel became a shepherd of sheep, but Cain a worker of the soil.

3 After many days Cain offered gifts to the Lord from the fruits of the earth.

4 Abel also offered from the firstborn of his flock and from their fat. And the Lord looked upon Abel and his gifts,

5 but upon Cain and his gifts he did not look. Cain became exceedingly angry, and his face fell.

6 The Lord said to him, “Why are you angry, and why has your face fallen?

7 Is it not so that if you act well, you will receive? But if you act badly, sin will immediately be present at the doors. Yet its appetite will be beneath you, and you will rule over it.”

8 Cain said to Abel his brother, “Let us go outside.” And when they were in the field, Cain rose up against Abel his brother and killed him.

9 The Lord said to Cain, “Where is Abel your brother?” He answered, “I do not know. Am I my brother’s keeper?”

10 And he said to him, “What have you done? The voice of your brother’s blood cries out to me from the earth.

11 Now therefore you will be cursed upon the earth, which opened its mouth and received your brother’s blood from your hand.

12 When you cultivate it, it will not give you its fruits. You will be a wanderer and a fugitive upon the earth.”

13 Cain said to the Lord, “My iniquity is too great for me to deserve pardon.

14 Behold, today you cast me away from the face of the earth, and I will be hidden from your face. I will be a wanderer and a fugitive upon the earth; therefore anyone who finds me will kill me.”

15 The Lord said to him, “By no means will it be so; whoever kills Cain will be punished sevenfold.” And the Lord set a mark for Cain, so that no one who found him would kill him.

16 Cain departed from the face of the Lord and lived as a fugitive in the land east of Eden.

17 Cain knew his wife, and she conceived and bore Enoch. Cain built a city and called its name after the name of his son, Enoch.

18 Enoch fathered Irad; Irad fathered Mehujael; Mehujael fathered Methushael; and Methushael fathered Lamech.

19 Lamech took two wives; the name of the first was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah.

20 Adah bore Jabal, who was the father of those who dwell in tents and are shepherds.

21 His brother’s name was Jubal; he was the father of those who play the lyre and organ.

22 Zillah also bore Tubal-cain, a hammerer and smith in every work of bronze and iron. Tubal-cain’s sister was Naamah.

23 Lamech said to his wives Adah and Zillah, “Hear my voice, wives of Lamech; listen to my speech. For I killed a man for my wound, and a young man for my bruise.

24 Vengeance for Cain will be given sevenfold, but for Lamech seventy times seven.”

25 Adam again knew his wife, and she bore a son and called his name Seth, saying, “God has appointed another seed for me in place of Abel, whom Cain killed.”

26 A son was also born to Seth, whom he called Enosh. This one began to call upon the name of the Lord.

CHAPTER 5

1 This is the book of Adam’s generations. On the day God created man, he made him in the likeness of God.

2 Male and female he created them, and he blessed them. He called their name Adam on the day they were created.

3 Adam lived one hundred thirty years and fathered a son according to his own image and likeness, and he called his name Seth.

4 After Adam fathered Seth, his days were eight hundred years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

5 All the time Adam lived came to nine hundred thirty years, and he died.

6 Seth also lived one hundred five years and fathered Enosh.

7 After Seth fathered Enosh, he lived eight hundred seven years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

8 All the days of Seth came to nine hundred twelve years, and he died.

9 Enosh lived ninety years and fathered Kenan.

10 After Kenan’s birth Enosh lived eight hundred fifteen years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

11 All the days of Enosh came to nine hundred five years, and he died.

12 Kenan also lived seventy years and fathered Mahalalel.

13 After Kenan fathered Mahalalel, he lived eight hundred forty years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

14 All the days of Kenan came to nine hundred ten years, and he died.

15 Mahalalel lived sixty-five years and fathered Jared.

16 After Mahalalel fathered Jared, he lived eight hundred thirty years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

17 All the days of Mahalalel came to eight hundred ninety-five years, and he died.

18 Jared lived one hundred sixty-two years and fathered Enoch.

19 After Jared fathered Enoch, he lived eight hundred years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

20 All the days of Jared came to nine hundred sixty-two years, and he died.

21 Enoch lived sixty-five years and fathered Methuselah.

22 Enoch walked with God; after he fathered Methuselah, he lived three hundred years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

23 All the days of Enoch came to three hundred sixty-five years.

24 He walked with God, and he did not appear, because God took him.

25 Methuselah also lived one hundred eighty-seven years and fathered Lamech.

26 After Methuselah fathered Lamech, he lived seven hundred eighty-two years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

27 All the days of Methuselah came to nine hundred sixty-nine years, and he died.

28 Lamech lived one hundred eighty-two years and fathered a son.

29 He called his name Noah, saying, “This one will comfort us from the works and labors of our hands in the earth that the Lord has cursed.”

30 After Lamech fathered Noah, he lived five hundred ninety-five years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

31 All the days of Lamech came to seven hundred seventy-seven years, and he died. And when Noah was five hundred years old, he fathered Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

CHAPTER 6

1 When men began to multiply upon the earth and had fathered daughters,

2 the sons of God, seeing that the daughters of men were beautiful, took as wives for themselves any whom they chose.

3 And God said, “My spirit will not remain in man forever, because he is flesh; his days will be one hundred twenty years.”

4 Now giants were upon the earth in those days. For after the sons of God went in to the daughters of men and they bore children, these are the mighty men of ancient times, men renowned.

5 But God saw that the wickedness of men was great upon the earth, and that every thought of the heart was intent on evil at all times.

6 He regretted that he had made man upon the earth, and he was inwardly touched by grief of heart.

7 He said, “I will wipe man whom I created from the face of the earth—from man to living things, from creeping things to the birds of heaven—for I regret that I made them.”

8 But Noah found grace before the Lord.

9 These are the generations of Noah. Noah was a just and perfect man among his generations; he walked with God.

10 And he fathered three sons: Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

11 But the earth was corrupt before God and filled with iniquity.

12 And when God saw that the earth was corrupt—for all flesh had corrupted its way upon the earth—

13 he said to Noah, “The end of all flesh has come before me. The earth is filled with iniquity because of their presence, and I will destroy them with the earth.

14 Make yourself an ark from smoothed timbers. You shall make small rooms in the ark and coat it with pitch inside and out.

15 This is how you shall make it: the ark will be three hundred cubits long, fifty cubits wide, and thirty cubits high.

16 Make a window in the ark, and finish its top at one cubit. Set the door of the ark in its side, and make lower parts, upper rooms, and third stories within it.

17 Behold, I will bring the waters of a flood upon the earth to kill all flesh beneath heaven in which there is the spirit of life. Everything upon the earth will be consumed.

18 But I will establish my covenant with you. You shall enter the ark—you and your sons, your wife and your sons’ wives with you.

19 Of every living thing of all flesh you shall bring two into the ark, so that they may live with you; they shall be male and female.

20 Of winged creatures according to their kind, of cattle according to their kind, and of every creeping thing of the earth according to its kind, two of every kind will enter with you so that they may live.

21 Therefore take with you some of every food that can be eaten, and gather it to yourself. It will be food both for you and for them.”

22 So Noah did all that God had commanded him.

CHAPTER 7

1 Then the Lord said to him, “Enter the ark, you and all your household, for I have seen that you are just before me in this generation.

2 From every clean living creature take seven and seven, male and female; but from the unclean living creatures, two and two, male and female.

3 From the winged creatures of heaven also take seven and seven, male and female, so that seed may be saved over the face of the whole earth.

4 For when seven more days have passed, I will rain upon the earth for forty days and forty nights, and I will wipe every substance that I have made from the surface of the earth.”

5 So Noah did all that the Lord had commanded him.

6 He was six hundred years old when the waters of the flood overflowed the earth.

7 Noah entered the ark with his sons, his wife, and his sons’ wives because of the waters of the flood.

8 From the clean and unclean living creatures, from the winged creatures, and from everything that moves upon the earth,

9 two and two, male and female, entered the ark with Noah, as the Lord had commanded Noah.

10 When seven days had passed, the waters of the flood overflowed the earth.

11 In the six hundredth year of Noah’s life, in the second month, on the seventeenth day of the month, all the springs of the great abyss burst open, and the floodgates of heaven were opened.

12 Rain fell upon the earth for forty days and forty nights.

13 On that very day Noah entered the ark, along with Shem, Ham, and Japheth his sons, his wife, and the three wives of his sons.

14 They themselves and every animal according to its kind, all cattle according to their kind, everything that moves upon the earth according to its kind, and every winged creature according to its kind—all birds and everything with wings—

15 entered the ark with Noah, two and two from all flesh in which there was the spirit of life.

16 Those that entered went in male and female from all flesh, as God had commanded him. And the Lord shut him in from outside.

17 The flood continued for forty days upon the earth. The waters increased and lifted the ark high above the ground.

18 They overflowed violently and filled all things upon the surface of the earth, while the ark was borne upon the waters.

19 The waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth, and all the high mountains beneath the whole heaven were covered.

20 The water rose fifteen cubits above the mountains it had covered.

21 All flesh that moved upon the earth was consumed: birds, living creatures, beasts, every creeping thing that creeps upon the earth, and all men.

22 Everything on land in which there was the breath of life died.

23 And he wiped away every substance that was upon the earth, from man to beast, both creeping things and the birds of heaven; they were wiped from the earth. Only Noah remained, and those who were with him in the ark.

24 The waters held the earth for one hundred fifty days.

CHAPTER 8

1 But God remembered Noah, and all the living creatures, and all the cattle that were with him in the ark. He brought a wind over the earth, and the waters diminished.

2 The springs of the abyss and the floodgates of heaven were closed, and the rains from heaven were restrained.

3 The waters returned from the earth, going and returning, and they began to diminish after one hundred fifty days.

4 In the seventh month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, the ark came to rest upon the mountains of Armenia.

5 The waters continued to recede until the tenth month. In the tenth month, on the first day of the month, the mountain peaks appeared.

6 When forty days had passed, Noah opened the window he had made in the ark and released a raven,

7 which went out and did not return until the waters upon the earth had dried.

8 After it he also sent out a dove to see whether the waters had now ceased from the face of the earth.

9 When she found no place for her foot to rest, she returned to him in the ark, for the waters were over the whole earth. He reached out his hand, caught her, and brought her into the ark.

10 After waiting another seven days, he again sent the dove out from the ark.

11 She came to him in the evening carrying in her mouth an olive branch with green leaves. Noah therefore understood that the waters had ceased upon the earth.

12 Nevertheless, he waited another seven days and sent out the dove, and she did not return to him again.

13 Thus in the six hundred first year, in the first month, on the first day of the month, the waters had diminished upon the earth. Noah opened the roof of the ark and looked; he saw that the surface of the earth was dry.

14 In the second month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, the earth was dried.

15 Then God spoke to Noah, saying,

16 “Go out from the ark—you and your wife, your sons and your sons’ wives with you.

17 Bring out with you all the living creatures that are with you from all flesh—winged creatures, beasts, and every creeping thing that creeps upon the earth—and go forth upon the earth: increase and multiply upon it.”

18 So Noah went out with his sons, his wife, and his sons’ wives.

19 All the living creatures, the cattle, and the creeping things that creep upon the earth also went out from the ark according to their kinds.

20 Then Noah built an altar to the Lord. Taking from all the clean animals and clean birds, he offered burnt offerings upon the altar.

21 The Lord smelled the fragrance of sweetness and said, “Never again will I curse the earth because of men, for the perception and thought of the human heart are prone to evil from youth. Never again will I strike every living soul as I have done.

22 Through all the days of the earth, sowing and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, night and day will not cease.”

CHAPTER 9

1 God blessed Noah and his sons and said to them, “Increase and multiply, and fill the earth.

2 Let your terror and trembling be upon every animal of the earth, every bird of heaven, and all that moves upon the earth. All the fish of the sea have been handed over to your hand.

3 Everything that moves and lives will be food for you; I have handed all things to you, as I did the green plants.

4 Except that you shall not eat flesh with blood.

5 For the blood of your souls I will require from the hand of every beast; and from the hand of man, from the hand of a man and his brother, I will require the soul of man.

6 Whoever sheds human blood, his blood will be shed, for man was made in the image of God.

7 But you: increase and multiply, go forth upon the earth, and fill it.”

8 God also said this to Noah and to his sons with him:

9 “Behold, I will establish my pact with you and with your seed after you,

10 and with every living soul that is with you—birds, cattle, all the animals of the earth that came out from the ark, and every beast of the earth.

11 I will establish my pact with you: never again will all flesh be killed by the waters of a flood, nor will there ever again be a flood that destroys the earth.”

12 And God said, “This is the sign of the covenant I give between me and you and every living soul that is with you, for everlasting generations:

13 I will set my bow in the clouds, and it will be the sign of the covenant between me and the earth.

14 When I cover heaven with clouds, my bow will appear in the clouds,

15 and I will remember my covenant with you and with every living soul that gives life to flesh. Never again will the waters become a flood to wipe away all flesh.

16 The bow will be in the clouds, and I will see it and remember the everlasting covenant made between God and every living soul of all flesh upon the earth.”

17 And God said to Noah, “This will be the sign of the covenant I have established between me and all flesh upon the earth.”

18 The sons of Noah who went out from the ark were Shem, Ham, and Japheth. Ham was the father of Canaan.

19 These three were Noah’s sons, and from them the entire race of men was sown across all the earth.

20 And Noah, a farmer, began to cultivate the earth, and he planted a vineyard.

21 And drinking the wine, he became drunk and was naked in his tent.

22 When Ham, the father of Canaan, saw that his father’s private parts were exposed, he told his two brothers outside.

23 But Shem and Japheth laid a cloak upon their shoulders and walked backward to cover their father’s private parts. Their faces were turned away, and they did not see their father’s genitals.

24 When Noah awoke from the wine and learned what his younger son had done to him,

25 he said, “Cursed be Canaan; he will be a servant of servants to his brothers.”

26 And he said, “Blessed is the Lord, God of Shem; let Canaan be his servant.

27 May God enlarge Japheth, and may he dwell in the tents of Shem; and let Canaan be his servant.”

28 Noah lived three hundred fifty years after the flood.

29 All his days came to nine hundred fifty years, and he died.

CHAPTER 10

1 These are the generations of Noah’s sons—Shem, Ham, and Japheth. Sons were born to them after the flood.

2 The sons of Japheth were Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, and Tiras.

3 The sons of Gomer were Ashkenaz, Riphath, and Togarmah.

4 The sons of Javan were Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim, and Dodanim.

5 From these the islands of the nations were divided into their lands, each according to his tongue and his families within their nations.

6 The sons of Ham were Cush, Mizraim, Put, and Canaan.

7 The sons of Cush were Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, Raamah, and Sabteca. The sons of Raamah were Sheba and Dedan.

8 Cush fathered Nimrod; he began to be mighty upon the earth,

9 and he was a powerful hunter before the Lord. For this reason the saying arose, “Like Nimrod, a powerful hunter before the Lord.”

10 The beginning of his kingdom was Babylon, Erech, Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar.

11 From that land Asshur went out and built Nineveh, the broad streets of the city, and Calah, 12 as well as Resen between Nineveh and Calah. This is the great city.

13 Mizraim fathered Ludim, Anamim, Lehabim, Naphtuhim,

14 Pathrusim, and Casluhim, from whom the Philistines and Caphtorim came.

15 Canaan fathered Sidon his firstborn, and the Hethite,

16 the Jebusite, the Amorite, the Girgashite,

17 the Hivite, the Arkite, the Sinite,

18 the Arvadite, the Zemarite, and the Hamathite. After this the peoples of the Canaanites were sown abroad.

19 The borders of Canaan extended as one comes from Sidon toward Gerar as far as Gaza, until one enters Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboiim, as far as Lasha.

20 These are the sons of Ham according to their kindreds, tongues, generations, lands, and nations.

21 Sons were also born to Shem, the father of all the sons of Eber and the elder brother of Japheth.

22 The sons of Shem were Elam, Asshur, Arphaxad, Lud, and Aram.

23 The sons of Aram were Uz, Hul, Gether, and Mash.

24 Arphaxad fathered Shelah, from whom Eber arose.

25 Two sons were born to Eber. The name of one was Peleg, because in his days the earth was divided, and his brother’s name was Joktan.

26 Joktan fathered Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah,

27 Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah,

28 Obal, Abimael, Sheba,

29 Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab. All these were sons of Joktan.

30 Their dwelling extended from Mesha toward Sephar, the eastern mountain.

31 These are the sons of Shem according to their kindreds, tongues, and lands within their nations.

32 These are the families of Noah according to their peoples and nations. From these the nations were divided upon the earth after the flood.

CHAPTER 11

1 Now the earth was of one lip and the same words.

2 As they journeyed from the east, they found a plain in the land of Shinar and settled there.

3 One said to his neighbor, “Come, let us make bricks and bake them with fire.” They had bricks in place of stones and bitumen in place of mortar.

4 And they said, “Come, let us make ourselves a city and a tower whose summit reaches heaven, and let us make our name renowned before we are divided into all lands.”

5 But the Lord came down to see the city and tower that the sons of Adam were building,

6 and he said, “Behold, they are one people, and all have one lip. They have begun to do this, nor will they desist from their thoughts until they complete them in deed.

7 Come therefore, let us go down and confuse their tongue there, so that no one may hear the voice of his neighbor.”

8 And so the Lord divided them from that place into all lands, and they ceased building the city.

9 For this reason its name was called Babel, because there the lip of the whole earth was confused, and from there the Lord scattered them over the face of all regions.

10 These are the generations of Shem. Shem was one hundred years old when he fathered Arphaxad, two years after the flood.

11 After Shem fathered Arphaxad, he lived five hundred years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

12 Arphaxad lived thirty-five years and fathered Shelah.

13 After Arphaxad fathered Shelah, he lived three hundred three years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

14 Shelah also lived thirty years and fathered Eber.

15 After Shelah fathered Eber, he lived four hundred three years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

16 Eber lived thirty-four years and fathered Peleg.

17 After Eber fathered Peleg, he lived four hundred thirty years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

18 Peleg also lived thirty years and fathered Reu.

19 After Peleg fathered Reu, he lived two hundred nine years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

20 Reu lived thirty-two years and fathered Serug.

21 After Reu fathered Serug, he lived two hundred seven years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

22 Serug lived thirty years and fathered Nahor.

23 After Serug fathered Nahor, he lived two hundred years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

24 Nahor lived twenty-nine years and fathered Terah.

25 After Nahor fathered Terah, he lived one hundred nineteen years, and he fathered sons and daughters.

26 Terah lived seventy years and fathered Abram, Nahor, and Haran.

27 These are the generations of Terah. Terah fathered Abram, Nahor, and Haran; and Haran fathered Lot.

28 Haran died before Terah his father in the land of his birth, in Ur of the Chaldeans.

29 Abram and Nahor took wives. The name of Abram’s wife was Sarai, and the name of Nahor’s wife was Milcah, the daughter of Haran, who was the father of Milcah and Iscah.

30 Sarai was barren and had no children.

31 Terah took Abram his son, Lot the son of Haran and son of his own son, and Sarai his daughter-in-law, the wife of Abram his son. He brought them out from Ur of the Chaldeans to go into the land of Canaan. They came as far as Haran and settled there.

32 The days of Terah came to two hundred five years, and he died in Haran.

CHAPTER 12

1 The Lord said to Abram, “Go out from your land, from your kindred, and from your father’s house, and come into the land that I will show you.

2 I will make you into a great nation; I will bless you and magnify your name, and you will be blessed.

3 I will bless those who bless you and curse those who curse you, and in you all the kindreds of the earth will be blessed.”

4 So Abram departed as the Lord had commanded him, and Lot went with him. Abram was seventy-five years old when he departed from Haran.

5 He took Sarai his wife, Lot his brother’s son, all the possessions they had acquired, and the souls they had made in Haran. They set out to go into the land of Canaan, and when they had entered it,

6 Abram passed through the land as far as the place of Shechem, as far as the illustrious valley. At that time the Canaanite was in the land.

7 The Lord appeared to Abram and said to him, “To your seed I will give this land.” There Abram built an altar to the Lord, who had appeared to him.

8 From there he crossed over to the mountain east of Bethel and pitched his tent there, with Bethel to the west and Ai to the east. There too he built an altar to the Lord and called upon his name.

9 Abram continued onward, going still farther toward the south.

10 Now a famine arose in the land, and Abram went down into Egypt to dwell there as a stranger, for the famine had grown severe in the land.

11 When he was near to entering Egypt, he said to Sarai his wife, “I know that you are a beautiful woman.

12 When the Egyptians see you, they will say, ‘She is his wife.’ Then they will kill me and keep you alive.

13 Say, I beg you, that you are my sister, so that it may go well with me because of you and my soul may live for your sake.”

14 When Abram entered Egypt, the Egyptians saw that the woman was exceedingly beautiful.

15 The princes reported her to Pharaoh and praised her before him, and the woman was taken into Pharaoh’s house.

16 They treated Abram well because of her, and he came to have sheep, cattle, donkeys, male servants and female servants, female donkeys, and camels.

17 But the Lord scourged Pharaoh and his house with very great plagues because of Sarai, Abram’s wife.

18 Pharaoh called Abram and said to him, “What is this you have done to me? Why did you not tell me that she was your wife?

19 Why did you say she was your sister, so that I might take her for myself as a wife? Now therefore, behold your wife. Take her and go.”

20 Pharaoh gave his men orders concerning Abram, and they led him away with his wife and all that he had.

1 Abram therefore went up from Egypt into the southern region—he and his wife and all that he had, and Lot with him.

2 He was exceedingly rich in holdings of gold and silver.

3 He returned by the way he had come, from the south to Bethel, as far as the place where he had first pitched his tent between Bethel and Ai,

4 at the place of the altar he had made before. There he called upon the name of the Lord.

5 Lot, who was with Abram, also had flocks of sheep, herds, and tents.

6 The land could not contain them so that they might dwell together, for their possessions were many and they could not dwell together.

7 Therefore a quarrel arose between the shepherds of Abram's flocks and the shepherds of Lot's flocks. At that time the Canaanite and the Perizzite lived in that land.

8 Abram said to Lot, "Please, let there be no dispute between me and you or between my shepherds and yours, for we are brothers.

9 Behold, the whole land is before you. Please, withdraw from me. If you go to the left, I will keep to the right; if you choose the right, I will go to the left."

10 Lot lifted his eyes and saw the whole region around the Jordan, all of which was watered—before the Lord overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah—like the paradise of the Lord and like Egypt as one comes to Zoar.

11 Lot chose for himself the region around the Jordan and departed from the east, and each brother separated from the other.

12 Abram lived in the land of Canaan, while Lot remained in the towns around the Jordan and lived in Sodom.

13 But the men of Sodom were most wicked, and they were sinners beyond measure before the Lord.

14 After Lot had separated from him, the Lord said to Abram, "Lift your eyes and look from the place where you now are: north and south, east and west.

15 All the land you see I will give to you and to your seed forever.

16 I will make your seed like the dust of the earth. If any man can number the dust of the earth, he will also be able to number your seed.

17 Rise and walk through the land in its length and breadth, for I am going to give it to you."

18 Abram therefore moved his tent and came to live beside the valley of Mamre, which is in Hebron. There he built an altar to the Lord.

CHAPTER 14

1 At that time Amraphel king of Shinar, Arioch king of Pontus, Chedorlaomer king of the Elamites, and Tidal king of the nations

2 made war against Bera king of Sodom, Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, which is Zoar.

3 All these assembled in the Wooded Valley, which is now the Sea of Salt.

4 For twelve years they had served Chedorlaomer, but in the thirteenth year they withdrew from him.

5 Therefore in the fourteenth year Chedorlaomer came with the kings who were with him, and they struck the Rephaim in Ashteroth-Karnaim, the Zuzim with them, and the Emim in Shaveh-Kiriathaim,

6 and the Horites in the mountains of Seir, as far as the Plains of Paran, which are in the wilderness.

7 They returned and came to the spring of Mishpat, which is Kadesh, and struck the whole region of the Amalekites, and the Amorite who lived in Hazazon-tamar.

8 Then the king of Sodom, the king of Gomorrah, the king of Admah, the king of Zeboiim, and also the king of Bela, which is Zoar, went out and drew up their battle line against them in the Wooded Valley:

9 against Chedorlaomer king of the Elamites, Tidal king of the nations, Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Pontus—four kings against five.

10 The Wooded Valley had many pits of bitumen. The kings of Sodom and Gomorrah turned their backs and fell there, while those who remained fled to the mountain.

11 They took all the possessions of Sodom and Gomorrah and all things that pertained to food, and went away.

12 They also took Lot and his possessions—he was the son of Abram's brother and lived in Sodom.

13 Behold, one who had escaped reported this to Abram the Hebrew, who lived in the valley of Mamre the Amorite, the brother of Eshcol and Aner; for these had made a covenant with Abram.

14 When Abram heard that Lot his brother had been taken captive, he numbered his ready men born in his household, three hundred eighteen, and pursued as far as Dan.

15 And with his companions divided, he rushed upon them by night, struck them, and pursued them as far as Hobah, which is to the left of Damascus.

16 He brought back all the possessions, Lot his brother and Lot's possessions, and also the women and the people.

17 The king of Sodom went out to meet him after he returned from the slaughter of Chedorlaomer and the kings who were with him, in the valley of Shaveh, which is the King's Valley.

18 But Melchizedek king of Salem brought out bread and wine, for he was a priest of God Most High.

19 He blessed Abram and said, "Blessed be Abram by God Most High, who created heaven and earth, 20 and blessed be God Most High, by whose protection your enemies are in your hands." And he gave him tithes from everything.

21 The king of Sodom said to Abram, "Give me the souls; take the rest for yourself."

22 Abram answered him, "I lift my hand to the Lord God Most High, Possessor of heaven and earth,

23 that from a thread of the weft to a sandal strap, I will take nothing from all that is yours, lest you say, 'I made Abram rich'—

24 except what the young men have eaten and the shares of the men who came with me: Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre. These will take their shares."

CHAPTER 15

1 After these things, the word of the Lord came to Abram through a vision, saying, “Do not be afraid, Abram. I am your protector, and your reward is exceedingly great.”

2 Abram said, “Lord God, what will you give me? I am going childless, and this Eliezer of Damascus is the son of the steward of my house.”

3 Abram added, “You have given me no seed, and behold, one born in my household will be my heir.”

4 At once the word of the Lord came to him, saying, “This man will not be your heir, but one who comes from your own belly—you will have him as your heir.”

5 He brought him outside and said to him, “Look up to heaven and count the stars, if you can.” And he said to him, “So will your seed be.”

6 Abram believed God, and it was reckoned to him as justice.

7 And he said to him, “I am the Lord, who brought you out from Ur of the Chaldeans to give you this land and let you possess it.”

8 But Abram said, “Lord God, how can I know that I will possess it?”

9 The Lord answered him, “Take for me a three-year-old cow, a three-year-old she-goat, a ram of three years, a turtledove, and a dove.”

10 Abram took all these and divided them down the middle. He placed the two parts opposite each other, but he did not divide the birds.

11 Birds descended upon the carcasses, and Abram drove them away.

12 As the sun was setting, a deep sleep fell upon Abram, and a great, dark horror seized him.

13 It was said to him, “Know this beforehand: your seed will be a stranger in a land not its own. They will subject them to servitude and afflict them for four hundred years.

14 Nevertheless, I will judge the nation they will serve, and afterward they will depart with great substance.

15 But you will go to your fathers in peace and be buried in a good old age.

16 In the fourth generation they will return here, for the iniquities of the Amorites are not yet complete at the present time.”

17 When the sun had set, dark obscurity came, and a smoking furnace appeared, and a lamp of fire passed between those divided parts.

18 On that day the Lord made a covenant with Abram, saying, “To your seed I will give this land, from the river of Egypt to the great river Euphrates:

19 the Kenites, the Kenizzites, the Kadmonites,

20 the Hethites, the Perizzites, the Rephaim,

21 the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Girgashites, and the Jebusites.”

CHAPTER 16

1 Now Sarai, Abram's wife, had borne no children. But she had an Egyptian maidservant named Hagar,

2 and she said to her husband, "Behold, the Lord has closed me from bearing. Go in to my maidservant, so that perhaps, at least from her, I may receive sons." And he consented to her entreaty.

3 So Sarai took Hagar her Egyptian maidservant, after they had lived ten years in the land of Canaan, and gave her as a wife to Abram her husband.

4 He went in to her. But when she saw that she had conceived, she despised her mistress.

5 Sarai said to Abram, "You are acting unjustly against me. I gave my maidservant into your bosom, and when she saw that she had conceived, she held me in contempt. May the Lord judge between me and you."

6 Abram answered her, "Behold, your maidservant is in your hand. Use her as you please." When Sarai afflicted her, she fled.

7 The angel of the Lord found her beside a spring of water in the wilderness, the spring on the road to Shur in the desert.

8 He said to her, "Hagar, Sarai's maidservant, where have you come from, and where are you going?" She answered, "I am fleeing from the face of Sarai my mistress."

9 The angel of the Lord said to her, "Return to your mistress and humble yourself beneath her hand."

10 And again he said, "Multiplying, I will multiply your seed, and it will not be numbered for multitude."

11 Then he said, "Behold, you have conceived and will bear a son. You shall call his name Ishmael, because the Lord has heard your affliction.

12 He will be a wild man. His hand will be against everyone, and everyone's hand against him; he will pitch his tents opposite all his brothers."

13 Then she called the name of the Lord who was speaking to her, "You are God who saw me." For she said, "Indeed, here I have seen the back parts of the one who sees me."

14 Therefore she called that well the Well of the Living One Who Sees Me. It lies between Kadesh and Bered.

15 Hagar bore Abram a son, and he called his name Ishmael.

16 Abram was eighty-six years old when Hagar bore Ishmael to him.

CHAPTER 17

1 When Abram had reached ninety-nine years of age, the Lord appeared to him and said, “I am God Almighty. Walk before me, and be perfect.

2 I will set my covenant between me and you, and I will multiply you exceedingly.”

3 Abram fell prostrate upon his face.

4 And God said to him, “I am, and my pact is with you: you will be the father of many nations.

5 No longer will your name be called Abram, but you will be called Abraham, because I have appointed you the father of many nations.

6 I will make you grow exceedingly; I will set you among nations, and kings will come from you.

7 I will establish my pact between me and you and your seed after you throughout their generations as an everlasting covenant, so that I may be your God and the God of your seed after you.

8 I will give to you and your seed the land of your sojourn, the whole land of Canaan, as an everlasting possession; and I will be their God.”

9 God said again to Abraham, “You therefore shall keep my pact, you and your seed after you throughout their generations.

10 This is my pact, which you shall observe between me and you and your seed after you: every male among you shall be circumcised.

11 You shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskin so that it may be a sign of the covenant between me and you.

12 An infant of eight days shall be circumcised among you, every male throughout your generations. Both the one born in the household and the one purchased shall be circumcised, as shall whoever is not of your stock.

13 And my pact will be in your flesh as an everlasting covenant.

14 The male whose flesh of the foreskin has not been circumcised—that soul will be wiped away from his people, because he has made my pact void.”

15 God also said to Abraham, “You shall not call your wife Sarai, but Sarah.

16 I will bless her, and from her I will give you a son whom I will bless. He will become nations, and kings of peoples will arise from him.”

17 Abraham fell upon his face and laughed, saying in his heart, “Do you think a son will be born to a centenarian, and Sarah at ninety will bear?”

18 And he said to God, “If only Ishmael might live before you!”

19 God said to Abraham, “Sarah your wife will bear you a son, and you shall call his name Isaac. I will establish my pact for him as an everlasting covenant, and with his seed after him.

20 Concerning Ishmael also, I have heard you. Behold, I will bless him, increase him, and multiply him greatly. He will father twelve chiefs, and I will make him into a great nation.

21 But I will establish my pact with Isaac, whom Sarah will bear to you at this time in the next year.”

22 When the speaker’s discourse with Abraham had ended, God ascended from Abraham.

23 Abraham took Ishmael his son, all those born in his household, everyone he had purchased, and every male among all the men of his house. He circumcised the flesh of their foreskin at once on that very day, as God had commanded him.

24 Abraham was ninety-nine years old when he circumcised the flesh of his own foreskin.

25 Ishmael his son had completed thirteen years at the time of his circumcision.

26 On that same day Abraham and Ishmael his son were circumcised,

27 and all the men of his house—those born in the household, those purchased, and foreigners—were all circumcised alike.

CHAPTER 18

1 Now the Lord appeared to him in the valley of Mamre while he was sitting at the entrance of his tent in the very heat of the day.

2 When he lifted his eyes, three men appeared to him, standing near him. As soon as he saw them, he ran from the entrance of the tent to meet them and bowed down to the ground.

3 And he said, “My lord, if I have found favor in your eyes, do not pass by your servant,

4 but let me bring a little water; wash your feet, and rest beneath the tree.

5 I will set out a morsel of bread; strengthen your hearts, and afterward you will pass on, for this is why you have turned aside to your servant.” They said, “Do as you have spoken.”

6 Abraham hurried into the tent to Sarah and said to her, “Quickly, mix three measures of fine flour and make hearth-baked loaves.”

7 Then he ran to the herd, took from it a calf most tender and choice, and gave it to a servant, who hurried to prepare it.

8 He also took butter and milk and the calf he had prepared, and set them before the men; and he stood beside them under the tree.

9 When they had eaten, they said to him, “Where is Sarah your wife?” He answered, “There, in the tent.”

10 He said to him, “I will return to you at this same time, with life as my companion, and Sarah your wife will have a son.” Hearing this, Sarah laughed behind the door of the tent.

11 Now they were both old and advanced in years, and the way of women had ceased for Sarah.

12 She laughed secretly, saying, “After I have grown old, and my lord is aged, shall I give myself to pleasure?”

13 But the Lord said to Abraham, “Why did Sarah laugh, saying, ‘Shall I truly bear a child, old woman that I am?’

14 Is anything difficult for God? At the appointed time I will return to you, at this same time, with life as my companion, and Sarah will have a son.”

15 Sarah denied it, saying, “I did not laugh,” for terror had seized her. But the Lord said, “It is not so; you did laugh.”

16 When the men rose from there, they turned their eyes toward Sodom, and Abraham walked with them, escorting them.

17 And the Lord said, “Can I conceal from Abraham what I am about to do, 18 since he will become a great and exceedingly strong nation, and in him all the nations of the earth will be blessed?

19 For I know that he will command his sons and his household after him to keep the way of the Lord and to carry out judgment and justice, so that the Lord may bring upon Abraham all that he has spoken to him.”

20 And so the Lord said, “The outcry of Sodom and Gomorrah has multiplied, and their sin has grown exceedingly grave.

21 I will go down and see whether they have fulfilled in deed the outcry that has come to me; and if it is not so, I will know.”

22 They turned from there and went toward Sodom, but Abraham still stood before the Lord.

23 Drawing near, he said, “Will you destroy the righteous with the wicked?

24 If there are fifty righteous people in the city, will they perish together? Will you not spare that place for the sake of the fifty righteous within it?

25 Far be it from you to do this thing—to kill the righteous with the wicked, so that the righteous should fare like the wicked. This is not yours to do. You who judge all the earth will never carry out such a judgment.”

26 The Lord said to him, “If I find in Sodom fifty righteous people in the midst of the city, I will spare the whole place for their sake.”

27 Abraham answered, “Since I have once begun, I will speak to my Lord, though I am dust and ashes.

28 What if the fifty righteous lack five? Will you wipe out the whole city for forty-five?” He said, “I will not wipe it out if I find forty-five there.”

29 Again he spoke to him: “But if forty are found there, what will you do?” He said, “I will not strike it for the sake of forty.”

30 “Please do not be indignant, Lord, if I speak. What if thirty are found there?” He answered, “I will not do it if I find thirty there.”

31 He said, “Since I have once begun, I will speak to my Lord. What if twenty are found there?” He said, “I will not kill for the sake of twenty.”

32 “I implore you, Lord, do not be angry if I speak once more. What if ten are found there?” And he said, “I will not wipe it out for the sake of ten.”

33 The Lord departed when he had ceased speaking to Abraham, and Abraham returned to his place.

CHAPTER 19

1 The two angels came to Sodom in the evening, while Lot was sitting at the city gate. When he saw them, he rose and went to meet them, and bowed low to the ground.

2 He said, “Please, my lords, turn aside into the house of your servant and remain there. Wash your feet, and in the morning you may set out on your way.” They said, “No; we will remain in the street.”

3 But he pressed them insistently to turn aside to him. When they entered his house, he made a feast and baked unleavened bread, and they ate.

4 Before they went to bed, the men of the city surrounded the house, from boy to old man, all the people together.

5 They called to Lot and said to him, “Where are the men who came to you tonight? Bring them out here to us, so that we may know them.”

6 Lot went out to them and shut the door behind him.

7 He said, “Do not, please, my brothers—do not do this evil.

8 I have two daughters who have not yet known a man. I will bring them out to you, and you may abuse them as you please, provided that you do no harm to these men, since they have entered beneath the shadow of my roof.”

9 But they said, “Stand back there!” And again they said, “You came in as a stranger—are you now to judge? We will afflict you more than them.” They pressed Lot with extreme violence and were already near to breaking down the door.

10 But behold, the men put out a hand, drew Lot inside to themselves, and shut the door.

11 They struck those outside with blindness, from the least to the greatest, so that they could not find the door.

12 Then they said to Lot, “Do you have anyone of yours here—a son-in-law, or sons, or daughters? Bring everyone who belongs to you out of this city,

13 for we will destroy this place, because their outcry has grown great before the Lord, who sent us to destroy them.”

14 Lot went out and spoke to his sons-in-law, who were to receive his daughters, and said, “Rise, leave this place, for the Lord will destroy this city.” But to them he seemed to be speaking in jest.

15 When morning came, the angels urged him, saying, “Rise, take your wife and the two daughters you have, lest you too perish in the wickedness of the city.”

16 When he lingered, they took hold of his hand, his wife’s hand, and the hand of each of his two daughters, because the Lord was sparing him.

17 They led him out and placed him beyond the city. There they spoke to him, saying, “Save your soul. Do not look behind your back, nor stand anywhere in all the surrounding region; but save yourself on the mountain, lest you too perish with them.”

18 Lot said to them, “Please, my lord,

19 your servant has found favor before you, and you have magnified the mercy you have shown me by saving my soul. Yet I cannot be saved on the mountain, lest evil overtake me and I die.

20 This city is near, and I can flee to it; it is small, and I will be saved in it. Is it not a little one? And my soul will live.”

21 He said to him, “Behold, I have received your plea in this matter also, and I will not overthrow the city for which you have spoken.

22 Hurry and save yourself there, for I can do nothing until you enter it.” Therefore the name of that city was called Zoar.

23 The sun came forth over the earth, and Lot entered Zoar.

24 Then the Lord rained sulfur and fire upon Sodom and Gomorrah, from the Lord out of heaven.

25 He overthrew these cities, the whole surrounding region, all the inhabitants of the cities, and everything green upon the earth.

26 But his wife looked behind her and was turned into a statue of salt.

27 Abraham rose in the morning and went to the place where he had stood before with the Lord.

28 He looked upon Sodom and Gomorrah and all the land of that region, and saw ash rising from the earth like the smoke of a furnace.

29 For when God overthrew the cities of that region, he remembered Abraham and delivered Lot from the overthrow of the cities in which he had lived.

30 Lot went up from Zoar and remained in the mountain, and his two daughters with him, for he was afraid to remain in Zoar. He lived in a cave, he and his two daughters with him.

31 The elder said to the younger, “Our father is old, and none of the men remain on the earth who can come in to us according to the custom of all the earth.

32 Come, let us make him drunk with wine and lie with him, so that we may preserve seed from our father.”

33 So that night they gave their father wine to drink. The elder went in and lay with her father, but he did not perceive when his daughter lay down or when she rose.

34 The next day the elder said to the younger, “Behold, yesterday I lay with my father. Let us give him wine to drink tonight also, and you shall lie with him, so that we may preserve seed from our father.”

35 That night also they gave their father wine to drink, and the younger daughter went in and lay with him. Not even then did he perceive when she lay down with him or when she rose.

36 Thus the two daughters of Lot conceived by their father.

37 The elder bore a son and called his name Moab; he is the father of the Moabites to the present day.

38 The younger also bore a son and called his name Ammon, that is, “Son of My People”; he is the father of the Ammonites to this day.

CHAPTER 20

1 Abraham journeyed from there into the southern land and lived between Kadesh and Shur; he sojourned in Gerar.

2 Of Sarah his wife he said, “She is my sister.” So Abimelech, king of Gerar, sent for her and took her.

3 But God came to Abimelech in a dream by night and said to him, “Behold, you will die because of the woman you have taken, for she has a husband.”

4 Now Abimelech had not touched her, and he said, “Lord, will you kill an unwitting and righteous nation?

5 Did he not say to me, ‘She is my sister’? And did she not say, ‘He is my brother’? In the simplicity of my heart and the cleanness of my hands I did this.”

6 God said to him, “I too know that you did this with a simple heart, and therefore I kept you from sinning against me and did not permit you to touch her.

7 Now therefore restore the wife to her husband, for he is a prophet. He will pray for you, and you will live. But if you are unwilling to restore her, know that you will surely die—you and all that is yours.”

8 Abimelech rose at once in the night and called all his servants. He spoke all these words in their hearing, and all the men were very afraid.

9 Abimelech also called Abraham and said to him, “What have you done to us? How have we sinned against you, that you brought a great sin upon me and upon my kingdom? You have done to us what you ought not to have done.”

10 Pressing him further, he said, “What did you see, that you would do this?”

11 Abraham answered, “I thought within myself, ‘Perhaps there is no fear of God in this place, and they will kill me because of my wife.’

12 Moreover, she truly is my sister: she is the daughter of my father, though not the daughter of my mother, and I took her as my wife.

13 When God led me out of my father’s house, I said to her, ‘You will show me this mercy: in every place we enter, say that I am your brother.’”

14 So Abimelech took sheep and cattle, male and female servants, and gave them to Abraham; and he restored Sarah his wife to him.

15 He said, “The land is before you; live wherever it pleases you.”

16 But to Sarah he said, “Behold, I have given your brother a thousand pieces of silver. This will be for you a covering of the eyes before all who are with you and wherever you go; and remember that you were reproved.”

17 Then Abraham prayed, and God healed Abimelech, his wife, and his female servants, and they bore children.

18 For the Lord had closed every womb in the house of Abimelech because of Sarah, Abraham’s wife.

CHAPTER 21

1 The Lord visited Sarah as he had promised, and fulfilled what he had spoken.

2 She conceived and bore a son in her old age, at the time God had foretold.

3 Abraham called the name of his son, whom Sarah bore to him, Isaac.

4 And he circumcised him on the eighth day, as God had commanded him,

5 when Abraham was one hundred years old; for Isaac was born when his father was this age.

6 Sarah said, “God has made laughter for me; whoever hears will laugh with me.”

7 Again she said, “Who, hearing it, would have believed Abraham—that Sarah would nurse a son whom she bore to him in his old age?”

8 The boy grew and was weaned, and Abraham made a great feast on the day of his weaning.

9 When Sarah saw the son of Hagar the Egyptian playing with Isaac her son, she said to Abraham,

10 “Cast out this maidservant and her son, for the maidservant’s son will not be heir with my son Isaac.”

11 Abraham found this grievous because of his son.

12 God said to him, “Do not let it seem harsh to you concerning the boy and your maidservant. In all that Sarah says to you, listen to her voice, for in Isaac seed will be called for you.

13 Yet I will also make the maidservant’s son into a great nation, because he is your seed.”

14 So Abraham rose in the morning, took bread and a skin of water, laid them on her shoulder, gave her the boy, and sent her away. She departed and wandered in the wilderness of Beersheba.

15 When the water in the skin was gone, she cast the boy beneath one of the trees there.

16 She went away and sat opposite him at a distance of a bowshot, for she said, “I will not see the boy die.” Sitting opposite him, she raised her voice and wept.

17 But God heard the boy’s voice, and the angel of God called to Hagar from heaven, saying, “What are you doing, Hagar? Do not be afraid, for God has heard the boy’s voice from the place where he is.

18 Rise, lift up the boy and take hold of his hand, for I will make him into a great nation.”

19 God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water. She went and filled the skin and gave the boy a drink.

20 God was with him. He grew and lived in the wilderness, and became a young archer.

21 He lived in the wilderness of Paran, and his mother took a wife for him from the land of Egypt.

22 At that time Abimelech and Phicol, commander of his army, said to Abraham, “God is with you in everything you do.

23 Therefore swear by God that you will not harm me, my posterity, or my stock; but according to the mercy I have shown you, you will do to me and to the land in which you have lived as a stranger.”

24 Abraham said, “I will swear.”

25 Then he reproached Abimelech because of a well of water that his servants had taken by force.

26 Abimelech answered, “I did not know who did this thing; you did not tell me, and I had heard nothing of it before today.”

27 So Abraham took sheep and cattle and gave them to Abimelech, and the two of them struck a covenant.

28 Abraham set seven ewe lambs from the flock apart.

29 Abimelech said to him, “What do these seven ewe lambs mean, which you have set apart?”

30 He said, “You will receive the seven ewe lambs from my hand, so that they may be a testimony for me that I dug this well.”

31 Therefore that place was called Beersheba, because there they both swore an oath.

32 And they entered into a covenant concerning the Well of the Oath.

33 Abimelech and Phicol, commander of his army, rose and returned to the land of the Philistines. But Abraham planted a grove at Beersheba and there called upon the name of the Lord, the everlasting God.

34 And he was a settler in the land of the Philistines for many days.

CHAPTER 22

1 After these things had taken place, God tested Abraham and said to him, “Abraham, Abraham.” He answered, “Here I am.”

2 He said to him, “Take your only-begotten son Isaac, whom you love, and go into the land of Vision. There you shall offer him as a burnt offering upon one of the mountains that I will show you.”

3 So Abraham rose in the night, saddled his donkey, and took with him two young men and Isaac his son. When he had cut wood for the burnt offering, he went to the place God had commanded him.

4 On the third day, he lifted his eyes and saw the place far away.

5 He said to his servants, “Wait here with the donkey. The boy and I will hurry over there; after we have worshiped, we will return to you.”

6 He took the wood for the burnt offering and laid it upon Isaac his son, while he carried the fire and the sword in his hands. As the two went on together,

7 Isaac said to his father, “My father.” He answered, “What is it, my son?” Isaac said, “Here are the fire and the wood; where is the victim for the burnt offering?”

8 Abraham said, “God will provide for himself the victim for the burnt offering, my son.” So they went on together.

9 They came to the place God had shown him. There he built an altar and arranged the wood upon it; and when he had bound Isaac his son, he placed him on the altar above the pile of wood.

10 He reached out his hand and seized the sword to sacrifice his son.

11 And behold, the angel of the Lord called from heaven, saying, “Abraham, Abraham.” He answered, “Here I am.”

12 He said to him, “Do not reach out your hand against the boy, and do nothing to him. Now I know that you fear God, for you did not spare your only-begotten son for my sake.”

13 Abraham lifted his eyes and saw behind his back a ram caught by its horns among the thorns. He took it and offered it as a burnt offering in place of his son.

14 He called the name of that place “The Lord Sees.” Therefore to this day it is said, “On the mountain the Lord will see.”

15 The angel of the Lord called to Abraham from heaven a second time, saying,

16 “By myself I have sworn, says the Lord: because you have done this thing and have not spared your only-begotten son for my sake,

17 I will bless you, and I will multiply your seed like the stars of heaven and like the sand upon the seashore. Your seed will possess the gates of its enemies,

18 and in your seed all the nations of the earth will be blessed, because you obeyed my voice.”

19 Abraham returned to his servants, and together they went to Beersheba, and he lived there.

20 After these things had taken place, word came to Abraham that Milcah too had borne sons to Nahor his brother:

21 Uz the firstborn, Buz his brother, and Kemuel the father of the Syrians,

22 Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph,

23 and Bethuel, from whom Rebekah was born. These eight Milcah bore to Nahor, Abraham’s brother.

24 His concubine, whose name was Reumah, bore Tebah, Gaham, Tahash, and Maacah.

CHAPTER 23

1 Sarah lived one hundred and twenty-seven years.

2 She died in the city of Arba, which is Hebron, in the land of Canaan; and Abraham came to mourn and weep for her.

3 When he rose from the funeral duty, he spoke to the sons of Heth, saying,

4 “I am a newcomer and a foreigner among you. Give me the right of burial among you, so that I may bury my dead.”

5 The sons of Heth answered, saying,

6 “Hear us, my lord. You are a prince of God among us. Bury your dead in the choicest of our tombs; no one will be able to prevent you from burying your dead in his tomb.”

7 Abraham rose and bowed before the people of the land, namely, the sons of Heth.

8 He said to them, “If it pleases your souls that I should bury my dead, hear me and intercede for me with Ephron son of Zohar,

9 that he may give me the double cave he owns at the far end of his field. Let him deliver it to me in your presence for its worthy price, as my possession for a burial place.”

10 Now Ephron lived in the midst of the sons of Heth. In the hearing of all who entered the gate of that city, Ephron answered Abraham, saying,

11 “No, my lord; instead, listen to what I say. I give you the field and the cave that is in it; in the presence of the sons of my people I give it to you. Bury your dead.”

12 Abraham bowed before the people of the land.

13 With the people standing around him, he spoke to Ephron: “Please hear me. I will give money for the field; receive it, and then I will bury my dead there.”

14 Ephron answered,

15 “My lord, hear me. The land you ask for is worth four hundred shekels of silver. This is the price between me and you—but what is that? Bury your dead.”

16 When Abraham heard this, he weighed out the money Ephron had asked for in the hearing of the sons of Heth: four hundred shekels of silver, of approved public currency.

17 Thus the field that had belonged to Ephron, where the double cave stood facing Mamre—the field itself, the cave, and all the trees within all its boundaries round about—was secured

18 as Abraham’s possession, in the sight of the sons of Heth and of all who entered the gate of that city.

19 And so Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the double cave of the field facing Mamre. This is Hebron in the land of Canaan.

20 The field and the cavern within it were secured to Abraham by the sons of Heth as his possession for a tomb.

CHAPTER 24

1 Now Abraham was old and of many days, and the Lord had blessed him in all things.

2 He said to the senior servant of his house, who was over all that he possessed, “Put your hand beneath my thigh,

3 so that I may place you under oath by the Lord, the God of heaven and earth: do not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites among whom I live,

4 but go to my own land and kindred, and from there take a wife for my son Isaac.”

5 The servant answered, “If the woman is unwilling to come with me into this land, must I take your son back to the place from which you departed?”

6 Abraham said, “Take care that you never take my son back there.

7 The Lord, the God of heaven, who took me from my father’s house and the land of my birth, who spoke to me and swore to me, saying, ‘To your seed I will give this land’—he will send his angel before you, and from there you will take a wife for my son.

8 But if the woman is unwilling to follow you, you will not be bound by the oath. Only do not take my son back there.”

9 So the servant put his hand beneath the thigh of Abraham his master and swore to him concerning this matter.

10 He took ten camels from his master’s herd and departed, taking with him some of every kind of good his master possessed. He journeyed to Mesopotamia, to the city of Nahor.

11 He made the camels kneel outside the town beside a well of water in the evening, at the time when women usually come out to draw water, and he said,

12 “O Lord, God of my master Abraham, please come to meet me today, and show mercy to my master Abraham.

13 Behold, I am standing near the spring of water, and the daughters of those who live in this city will come out to draw water.

14 Therefore, when I say to a young woman, ‘Lower your jar so that I may drink,’ and she answers, ‘Drink, and I will also give your camels water,’ let her be the one you have prepared for your servant Isaac. By this I will understand that you have shown mercy to my master.”

15 Before he had finished the words within himself, behold, Rebekah came out, the daughter of Bethuel, who was the son of Milcah, wife of Abraham’s brother Nahor; and she had a jar upon her shoulder.

16 The young woman was exceedingly lovely, a most beautiful virgin whom no man had known. She went down to the spring, filled her jar, and was returning.

17 The servant ran to meet her and said, “Please give me a little water to drink from your jar.”

18 She answered, “Drink, my lord,” and quickly lowered the jar upon her arm and gave him a drink.

19 When he had drunk, she added, “I will draw water for your camels also, until they have all drunk.”

20 Emptying her jar into the troughs, she ran back to the well to draw water, and gave what she drew to all the camels.

21 The man watched her in silence, wishing to know whether the Lord had prospered his journey or not.

22 After the camels had drunk, the man brought out gold earrings weighing two shekels, and two bracelets weighing ten shekels.

23 He said to her, “Whose daughter are you? Tell me, is there room in your father’s house for us to stay?”

24 She answered, “I am the daughter of Bethuel, the son Milcah bore to Nahor.”

25 She added, “We have plenty of straw and hay, and ample room to stay.”

26 The man bowed down and worshiped the Lord,

27 saying, “Blessed be the Lord, the God of my master Abraham, who has not withdrawn his mercy and truth from my master, and who has led me by a straight path to the house of my master’s brother.”

28 So the young woman ran and told her mother’s household everything she had heard.

29 Now Rebekah had a brother named Laban, who hurried out to the man at the spring.

30 When he saw the earrings and the bracelets on his sister’s hands and heard her recount all the words, saying, “This is what the man said to me,” he came to the man, who was standing beside the camels near the spring of water.

31 He said to him, “Come in, you who are blessed by the Lord. Why do you stand outside? I have prepared the house and a place for the camels.”

32 He brought him into the lodging, unburdened the camels, and gave them straw and hay. He also gave water to wash the feet of the servant and the men who had come with him.

33 Bread was set before him, but he said, “I will not eat until I have spoken my words.” Laban answered him, “Speak.”

34 He said, “I am Abraham’s servant.

35 The Lord has blessed my master greatly, and my master has been magnified. The Lord has given him sheep and cattle, silver and gold, male and female servants, camels and donkeys.

36 Sarah, my master’s wife, bore my master a son in her old age, and he has given him all that he had.

37 My master bound me by oath, saying, ‘You shall not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I live,

38 but you shall go to my father’s house and take a wife for my son from my kindred.’

39 I answered my master, ‘What if the woman is unwilling to come with me?’

40 He said, ‘The Lord, in whose sight I walk, will send his angel with you and direct your way. You will take a wife for my son from my kindred and my father’s house.

41 You will be innocent of my curse when you come to my relatives and they do not give her to you.’

42 So today I came to the spring of water and said, ‘O Lord, God of my master Abraham, if you have directed the way on which I now walk,

43 behold, I stand beside the spring of water, and when the virgin who comes out to draw water hears from me, “Give me a little water to drink from your jar,”

44 and she says to me, “You drink, and I will draw for your camels also,” let her be the woman whom the Lord has prepared for my master’s son.’

45 While I was silently turning these things over within myself, Rebekah appeared, coming with the jar she carried upon her shoulder. She went down to the spring and drew water. I said to her, ‘Give me a little to drink.’

46 She quickly lowered the jar from her shoulder and said to me, ‘You drink, and I will give your camels water also.’ I drank, and she watered the camels.

47 I asked her, ‘Whose daughter are you?’ She answered, ‘I am the daughter of Bethuel, Nahor’s son, whom Milcah bore to him.’ So I hung the earrings to adorn her face and placed the bracelets upon her hands.

48 Bowing low, I worshiped the Lord and blessed the Lord, the God of my master Abraham, who led me by a straight path to take the daughter of my master’s brother for his son.

49 Therefore, if you will show mercy and truth to my master, tell me; but if something else pleases you, tell me that also, so that I may turn to the right or to the left.”

50 Laban and Bethuel answered, “The word has gone forth from the Lord. We cannot say anything to you beyond what pleases him.

51 Behold, Rebekah is before you. Take her and go, and let her be the wife of your master’s son, as the Lord has spoken.”

52 When Abraham’s servant heard this, he fell down and worshiped the Lord upon the ground.

53 He brought out vessels of silver and gold and garments and gave them to Rebekah as a gift; he also presented gifts to her brothers and her mother.

54 They began the feast and ate and drank together, and remained there. When the servant rose in the morning, he said, “Send me away, so that I may go to my master.”

55 Her brothers and mother answered, “Let the young woman remain with us at least ten days, and afterward she will depart.”

56 He said, “Do not delay me, for the Lord has directed my way. Send me away, so that I may go to my master.”

57 They said, “Let us call the young woman and ask her own will.”

58 When she was called and came, they asked, “Will you go with this man?” She said, “I will go.”

59 So they sent her away, with her nurse, Abraham’s servant, and his companions.

60 They invoked prosperity upon their sister, saying, “You are our sister; may you grow into thousands upon thousands, and may your seed possess the gates of its enemies.”

61 Rebekah and her young women mounted the camels and followed the man, and he hurried back to his master.

62 At that time Isaac was walking along the road that leads to the well named “The Living One Who Sees,” for he lived in the southern land.

63 He had gone out into the field to meditate as the day declined. When he lifted his eyes, he saw camels coming in the distance.

64 Rebekah also saw Isaac and came down from the camel.

65 She said to the servant, “Who is that man coming through the field to meet us?” The servant said to her, “He is my master.” Then she quickly took her mantle and covered herself.

66 The servant recounted to Isaac all that he had done.

67 Isaac brought her into the tent of Sarah his mother and took her as his wife. He loved her so much that he tempered the grief which had come from his mother’s death.

1 Abraham took another wife, whose name was Keturah.

2 She bore him Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah.

3 Jokshan fathered Sheba and Dedan. The sons of Dedan were the Asshurim, Letushim, and Leummim.

4 From Midian came Ephah, Epher, Hanoch, Abida, and Eldaah. All these were sons of Keturah.

5 Abraham gave all that he possessed to Isaac.

6 But to the sons of his concubines he gave gifts, and while he was still living he separated them from Isaac his son, toward the eastern region.

7 The days of Abraham's life were one hundred and seventy-five years.

8 Failing in strength, he died in a good old age, advanced in years and full of days, and was gathered to his people.

9 His sons Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the double cave situated in the field of Ephron son of Zohar the Hethite, facing Mamre,

10 which he had bought from the sons of Heth. There Abraham was buried, and Sarah his wife.

11 After his death, God blessed Isaac his son, who lived beside the well named "The Living One Who Sees."

12 These are the generations of Ishmael, Abraham's son, whom Hagar the Egyptian, Sarah's maidservant, bore to him.

13 These are the names of his sons according to their names and generations: Ishmael's firstborn was Nebaioth, then Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam,

14 Mishma, Dumah, Massa,

15 Hadar, Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah.

16 These are the sons of Ishmael, and these are their names by their strongholds and towns: twelve princes of their tribes.

17 The years of Ishmael's life were one hundred and thirty-seven. Failing in strength, he died and was added to his people.

18 He lived from Havilah as far as Shur, which faces Egypt as one goes toward the Assyrians; he died in the presence of all his brothers.

19 These also are the generations of Isaac, Abraham's son: Abraham fathered Isaac.

20 When Isaac was forty years old, he took as his wife Rebekah, the daughter of Bethuel the Syrian from Mesopotamia and the sister of Laban.

21 Isaac entreated the Lord for his wife because she was barren. The Lord heard him and gave conception to Rebekah.

22 But the little ones struck against each other in her womb, and she said, "If it was to be this way for me, what need was there for me to conceive?" And she went to inquire of the Lord.

23 He answered her, "Two nations are in your womb, and two peoples will be divided from your belly. One people will overcome the other, and the elder will serve the younger."

24 Now the time for giving birth had come, and behold, twins were found in her womb.

25 The one who came out first was red and entirely rough like a hide; his name was called Esau. Immediately the other came out, holding the sole of his brother's foot in his hand, and therefore he called him Jacob.

26 Isaac was sixty years old when the little ones were born to him.

27 When they grew up, Esau became a man skilled in hunting and a farmer, while Jacob was a simple man who lived in tents.

28 Isaac loved Esau because he ate of what Esau hunted, but Rebekah loved Jacob.

29 Once Jacob cooked a stew, and Esau came to him from the field exhausted.

30 He said, "Give me some of this red dish, for I am utterly exhausted." For this reason his name was called Edom.

31 Jacob said to him, "Sell me your birthright."

32 He answered, "Behold, I am dying. What good will the birthright do me?"

33 Jacob said, "Then swear to me." Esau swore to him and sold his birthright.

34 Thus he received bread and a meal of lentils, ate and drank, and went away, making little of the fact that he had sold the birthright.

CHAPTER 26

1 A famine arose in the land after the sterility that had occurred in the days of Abraham, and Isaac went to Abimelech, king of the Philistines, in Gerar.

2 The Lord appeared to him and said, “Do not go down into Egypt, but rest in the land that I will tell you of,

3 and sojourn in it. I will be with you and bless you, for to you and your seed I will give all these regions, fulfilling the oath I pledged to Abraham your father.

4 I will multiply your seed like the stars of heaven and give to your descendants all these regions; and in your seed all the nations of the earth will be blessed,

5 because Abraham obeyed my voice, kept my precepts and commandments, and observed my ceremonies and laws.”

6 So Isaac remained in Gerar.

7 When the men of that place asked him about his wife, he answered, “She is my sister.” For he was afraid to confess that she was joined to him in marriage, thinking they might kill him because of her beauty.

8 When many days had passed and he was still staying there, Abimelech, king of the Philistines, looked through a window and saw him playing with Rebekah his wife.

9 He summoned him and said, “It is clear that she is your wife. Why did you lie that she was your sister?” He answered, “I was afraid I might die because of her.”

10 Abimelech said, “Why did you deceive us? Someone among the people might have had intercourse with your wife, and you would have brought a great sin upon us.” And he commanded all the people, saying,

11 “Whoever touches this man’s wife will surely die.”

12 Isaac sowed in that land and found a hundredfold in that same year, and the Lord blessed him.

13 The man became wealthy and went on advancing and increasing until he had become exceedingly great.

14 He also possessed flocks and herds and a multitude of household servants. Because of this, the Philistines, envying him,

15 stopped up at that time all the wells that the servants of his father Abraham had dug, filling them with earth,

16 so much so that Abimelech himself said to Isaac, “Go away from us, for you have become far mightier than we are.”

17 He departed, came to the torrent of Gerar, and lived there.

18 Again he dug other wells, which the servants of his father Abraham had dug and which the Philistines had once stopped up after Abraham’s death; he called them by the same names his father had given them before.

19 They dug in the torrent and found living water.

20 But there too the shepherds of Gerar quarreled with Isaac’s shepherds, saying, “The water is ours.” Because of what had happened, he called the name of the well Calumny.

21 They dug another, and over that one too they quarreled, so he called it Enmities.

22 Moving on from there, he dug another well, for which they did not contend. So he called its name Breadth, saying, “Now the Lord has made room for us and caused us to increase upon the earth.”

23 From that place he went up to Beersheba,

24 where the Lord appeared to him that same night, saying, “I am the God of Abraham your father. Do not be afraid, for I am with you. I will bless you and multiply your seed for the sake of my servant Abraham.”

25 So he built an altar there and called upon the name of the Lord. He stretched out his tent and commanded his servants to dig a well.

26 Abimelech came to him there from Gerar, with Ahuzzath his friend and Phicol the commander of his troops.

27 Isaac said to them, “Why have you come to me, a man you hate and have driven away from you?”

28 They answered, “We saw that the Lord is with you, and so we said, ‘Let there be an oath between us, and let us enter into a covenant,

29 that you will do us no harm, just as we touched nothing of yours and did nothing that would injure you, but sent you away in peace, increased by the blessing of the Lord.’”

30 So he made a feast for them, and after food and drink,

31 they rose in the morning and swore to one another. Then Isaac sent them peacefully back to their own place.

32 Behold, on that same day Isaac's servants came and told him about the well they had dug, saying, "We have found water."

33 So he called it Abundance, and the city's name was established as Beersheba to the present day.

34 When Esau was forty years old, he took as wives Judith daughter of Beeri the Hethite and Basemath daughter of Elon from the same place.

35 Both of them grieved Isaac and Rebekah.

CHAPTER 27

1 Isaac grew old, and his eyes became dim so that he could not see. He called Esau his elder son and said to him, “My son?” He answered, “Here I am.”

2 His father said, “You see that I have grown old, and I do not know the day of my death.

3 Take your weapons, your quiver and bow, and go out. When you have caught something in the hunt,

4 make from it the kind of dish you know I desire, and bring it for me to eat, so that my soul may bless you before I die.”

5 Rebekah heard this. When Esau had gone into the field to fulfill his father’s command,

6 she said to her son Jacob, “I heard your father speaking with your brother Esau and saying to him,

7 ‘Bring me something from your hunt and make food for me to eat, and I will bless you before the Lord before I die.’

8 Now therefore, my son, consent to my counsel.

9 Go to the flock and bring me two of the best young goats, so that I may make from them foods which your father gladly eats.

10 When you bring them in and he has eaten, may he bless you before he dies.”

11 Jacob answered her, “You know that my brother Esau is a hairy man, while I am smooth.

12 If my father touches me and perceives it, I fear he will think I meant to mock him, and I will bring a curse upon myself instead of a blessing.”

13 His mother said to him, “Let that curse be upon me, my son. Only listen to my voice, and go bring what I have told you.”

14 He went and brought them and gave them to his mother. She prepared the food as she knew his father desired.

15 She dressed him in Esau’s very good garments, which she kept with her at home.

16 She wrapped the skins of the young goats around his hands and covered the bare parts of his neck.

17 Then she gave him the dish and handed him the loaves she had baked.

18 When he brought them in, he said, “My father?” Isaac answered, “I hear you. Who are you, my son?”

19 Jacob said, “I am Esau, your firstborn. I have done as you commanded me. Rise, sit, and eat from my hunt, so that your soul may bless me.”

20 Isaac said again to his son, “How were you able to find it so quickly, my son?” He answered, “It was God’s will that what I desired should quickly meet me.”

21 Isaac said, “Come near so that I may touch you, my son, and prove whether you are my son Esau or not.”

22 He came near to his father. After feeling him, Isaac said, “The voice indeed is Jacob’s voice, but the hands are Esau’s hands.”

23 He did not recognize him, because the hairy hands bore the likeness of the elder. So, blessing him,

24 he said, “Are you my son Esau?” He answered, “I am.”

25 Isaac said, “Bring me the food from your hunt, my son, so that my soul may bless you.” When it was brought, he ate; Jacob also offered him wine, and he drank it.

26 Then he said to him, “Come near to me and give me a kiss, my son.”

27 He came near and kissed him. As soon as Isaac smelled the fragrance of his garments, he blessed him and said, “Behold, the scent of my son is like the scent of a full field that the Lord has blessed.

28 May God give you from the dew of heaven and from the fatness of the earth an abundance of grain and wine.

29 May peoples serve you, and tribes bow down before you. Be lord over your brothers, and may the sons of your mother bow down before you. Let the one who curses you be cursed, and let the one who blesses you be filled with blessings.”

30 Isaac had scarcely finished speaking when Jacob went out, and Esau came in.

31 He brought his father the food he had cooked from the hunt, saying, “Rise, my father, and eat from your son’s hunt, so that your soul may bless me.”

32 Isaac said to him, “Who, then, are you?” He answered, “I am your firstborn son Esau.”

33 Isaac shook with overwhelming astonishment, and marveling beyond what can be believed, he said, “Then who is the one who just now brought me captured game? I ate from it all before you came, and I blessed him—and he will be blessed.”

34 When Esau heard his father’s words, he roared with a great cry. Stricken with dismay, he said, “Bless me also, my father.”

35 Isaac said, “Your own brother came deceitfully and received your blessing.”

36 Esau added, “Rightly was his name called Jacob, for behold, he has supplanted me a second time. Before, he took my birthright; now, a second time, he has stolen my blessing.” Again he said to his father, “Have you not reserved a blessing for me also?”

37 Isaac answered, “I have established him as your lord and subjected all his brothers to serve him. I have sustained him with grain and wine. After all this, my son, what more can I do for you?”

38 Esau said to him, “Do you have only one blessing, my father? I implore you, bless me also.” And he wept with a great wail.

39 Moved, Isaac said to him, “In the fatness of the earth and in the dew of heaven from above

40 will your blessing be. You will live by the sword and serve your brother. But the time will come when you will shake off and loose his yoke from your neck.”

41 So Esau always hated Jacob because of the blessing with which his father had blessed him. He said in his heart, “The days of mourning for my father will come, and I will kill my brother Jacob.”

42 These things were reported to Rebekah. She sent for her son Jacob and said to him, “Behold, your brother Esau is threatening to kill you.

43 Now therefore, my son, listen to my voice. Rise and flee to my brother Laban in Haran.

44 Live with him for a few days, until your brother’s fury subsides

45 and his indignation ceases and he forgets what you did against him. Afterward I will send and bring you back here. Why should I be bereaved of both sons in one day?”

46 Rebekah said to Isaac, “I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Heth. If Jacob takes a wife from the stock of this land, I do not want to live.”

CHAPTER 28

1 So Isaac called Jacob, blessed him, and commanded him, saying, “Do not take a wife from the stock of Canaan.

2 But go and set out for Syrian Mesopotamia, to the house of Bethuel, your mother’s father, and there take a wife for yourself from the daughters of Laban, your mother’s brother.

3 May Almighty God bless you, cause you to grow, and multiply you, so that you may become throngs of peoples.

4 May he give the blessings of Abraham to you and to your seed after you, so that you may possess the land of your sojourn, which he promised to your grandfather.”

5 When Isaac sent him away, he departed and went to Syrian Mesopotamia, to Laban son of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebekah his mother.

6 Esau saw that his father had blessed Jacob and sent him into Syrian Mesopotamia to take a wife from there, and that after blessing him he had commanded him, saying, “You shall not take a wife from the daughters of Canaan.”

7 He also saw that Jacob obeyed his parents and went into Syria,

8 and he recognized that his father did not gladly look upon the daughters of Canaan.

9 So he went to Ishmael and, besides the wives he already had, took as his wife Mahalath, daughter of Ishmael son of Abraham and sister of Nebaioth.

10 Jacob departed from Beersheba and traveled toward Haran.

11 When he came to a certain place and wished to rest there after sunset, he took one of the stones that lay there, placed it beneath his head, and slept in that place.

12 He saw in dreams a ladder standing upon the earth, its top touching heaven; and the angels of God were ascending and descending upon it.

13 And he saw the Lord leaning upon the ladder and saying to him, “I am the Lord, the God of Abraham your father and the God of Isaac. The land upon which you sleep I will give to you and to your seed.

14 Your seed will be like the dust of the earth. You will spread abroad to the west and the east, the north and the south, and in you and your seed all the tribes of the earth will be blessed.

15 I will be your keeper wherever you go, and I will bring you back into this land. I will not leave you until I have fulfilled all that I have said.”

16 When Jacob awoke from sleep, he said, “Truly the Lord is in this place, and I did not know it.”

17 And being afraid, he said, “How fearsome is this place! This is nothing other than the house of God and the gate of heaven.”

18 Rising in the morning, Jacob took the stone he had placed beneath his head, set it upright as a pillar, and poured oil over it.

19 He called the name of the city Bethel; before this it had been called Luz.

20 He also vowed a vow, saying, “If God will be with me and keep me on the road I walk, and give me bread to eat and clothing to wear,

21 and if I return safely to my father’s house, the Lord will be my God,

22 and this stone, which I have set upright as a pillar, will be called the House of God. Of all that you give me, I will offer you a tenth.”

CHAPTER 29

1 Jacob continued on and came to the eastern land.

2 He saw a well in a field and three flocks of sheep lying beside it, for the livestock were watered from that well, and its mouth was closed with a great stone.

3 The custom was that when all the sheep had gathered, they would roll away the stone, refresh the flocks, and then put it back over the mouth of the well.

4 Jacob said to the shepherds, “Brothers, where are you from?” They answered, “From Haran.”

5 He asked them, “Do you know Laban son of Nahor?” They said, “We know him.”

6 “Is he well?” Jacob asked. They said, “He is well, and behold, Rachel his daughter is coming with his flock.”

7 Jacob said, “Much of the day still remains, and it is not time for the flocks to be brought back to their folds. Give the sheep water first, and then lead them back to pasture.”

8 They answered, “We cannot until all the livestock are gathered and we remove the stone from the mouth of the well; then we will water the flocks.”

9 While they were still speaking, behold, Rachel came with her father’s sheep, for she herself pastured the flock.

10 When Jacob saw her and knew that she was his cousin and that the sheep belonged to Laban, his mother’s brother, he removed the stone that closed the well.

11 After watering the flock, he kissed her; and raising his voice, he wept.

12 He told her that he was her father’s brother and Rebekah’s son. She hurried and told her father.

13 When Laban heard that Jacob, his sister’s son, had come, he ran to meet him. He embraced him, fell upon him with kisses, and brought him into his house. When he heard the reasons for Jacob’s journey,

14 he answered, “You are my bone and my flesh.” After the days of one full month had passed,

15 he said to him, “Because you are my brother, will you serve me for nothing? Tell me what wages you will receive.”

16 Now he had two daughters: the elder was named Leah, and the younger was called Rachel.

17 Leah had bleary eyes, but Rachel was lovely of face and graceful in appearance.

18 Jacob loved her and said, “I will serve you seven years for Rachel, your younger daughter.”

19 Laban answered, “It is better that I give her to you than to another man. Remain with me.”

20 So Jacob served seven years for Rachel, and because of the greatness of his love, they seemed to him only a few days.

21 Then he said to Laban, “Give me my wife, for the time has now been fulfilled, so that I may go in to her.”

22 Laban called many throngs of friends to the feast and held the wedding.

23 In the evening he brought his daughter Leah in to Jacob.

24 He gave his daughter a maidservant named Zilpah. When Jacob had gone in to Leah according to custom, in the morning he saw that it was Leah.

25 He said to his father-in-law, “What is this that you meant to do? Did I not serve you for Rachel? Why did you deceive me?”

26 Laban answered, “It is not the custom in our place to give the younger ones in marriage first.

27 Complete the week of this union, and I will give you this one also for the service you will render me another seven years.”

28 Jacob consented to the terms. When the week had passed, he took Rachel as his wife.

29 Her father had given her Bilhah as a servant.

30 At last, having obtained the marriage he desired, he loved the latter more than the former, and served Laban another seven years.

31 When the Lord saw that Leah was despised, he opened her womb, while her sister remained barren.

32 She conceived and bore a son, and called his name Reuben, saying, “The Lord has seen my humiliation; now my husband will love me.”

33 Again she conceived and bore a son, and said, “Because the Lord heard that I was held in contempt, he has given me this one also.” And she called his name Simeon.

34 She conceived a third time and bore another son. She said, “Now my husband will be joined to me, because I have borne him three sons.” Therefore she called his name Levi.

35 She conceived a fourth time and bore a son, and said, “Now I will confess to the Lord.” For this reason she called him Judah. Then she ceased bearing children.

CHAPTER 30

1 When Rachel saw that she was unfruitful, she envied her sister and said to her husband, “Give me children, or else I will die.”

2 Jacob was angry with her and answered, “Am I in the place of God, who has deprived you of the fruit of your womb?”

3 She said, “I have my maidservant Bilhah. Go in to her, so that she may bear upon my knees and I may have sons through her.”

4 She gave Bilhah to him in marriage.

5 When her husband went in to her, Bilhah conceived and bore a son.

6 Rachel said, “The Lord has judged for me and heard my voice, giving me a son.” Therefore she called his name Dan.

7 Bilhah conceived again and bore another son.

8 Rachel said of him, “God has matched me with my sister, and I have prevailed.” She called him Naphtali.

9 When Leah perceived that she had ceased bearing children, she gave her maidservant Zilpah to her husband.

10 After conceiving, she bore a son.

11 Leah said, “Good fortune!” and therefore called his name Gad.

12 Zilpah also bore another son.

13 Leah said, “This is for my blessedness, for women will call me blessed.” Therefore she called him Asher.

14 Reuben went out into the field during the wheat harvest and found mandrakes, which he brought to his mother Leah. Rachel said, “Give me a portion of your son’s mandrakes.”

15 Leah answered, “Does it seem a small thing to you that you took my husband from me? Would you take my son’s mandrakes also?” Rachel said, “Let him sleep with you tonight in exchange for your son’s mandrakes.”

16 When Jacob returned from the field in the evening, Leah went out to meet him and said, “You will come in to me, because I have hired you for the wage of my son’s mandrakes.” And he slept with her that night.

17 God heard her prayers, and she conceived and bore a fifth son.

18 She said, “God has given me my wage because I gave my maidservant to my husband.” And she called his name Issachar.

19 Leah conceived again and bore a sixth son.

20 She said, “God has endowed me with a good dowry. This time my husband will be with me, because I have borne him six sons.” And therefore she called his name Zebulun.

21 After him she bore a daughter named Dinah.

22 The Lord also remembered Rachel, heard her, and opened her womb.

23 She conceived and bore a son, saying, “God has taken away my reproach.”

24 She called his name Joseph, saying, “May the Lord add another son to me.”

25 After Joseph was born, Jacob said to his father-in-law, “Send me away, so that I may return to my homeland and my own land.

26 Give me my wives and my children, for whom I have served you, so that I may go. You know the service by which I have served you.”

27 Laban said to him, “May I find favor in your sight. I have learned by experience that God has blessed me because of you.

28 Set your wages, and I will give them to you.”

29 Jacob answered, “You know how I have served you and how great your possession was in my hands.

30 You had little before I came to you, and now you have become rich. The Lord has blessed you at my entrance. It is right, therefore, that at some time I should provide for my own household also.”

31 Laban said, “What shall I give you?” Jacob answered, “I want nothing; but if you will do what I ask, I will again pasture and keep your livestock.

32 Go around all your flocks and separate all the varied sheep and those with scattered fleece. Whatever is dark, spotted, and varied among the sheep and the goats will be my wages.

33 Tomorrow my justice will answer for me when the time of our agreement comes before you. Anything among the sheep or goats that is not variegated, spotted, or dark will accuse me of theft.”

34 Laban said, “I am pleased with what you ask.”

35 That day he separated the she-goats and ewes, he-goats and rams, that were variegated or spotted. Every single-colored flock—that is, those of white or black fleece—he put into the hands of his sons.

36 He set a distance of three days’ journey between himself and his son-in-law, who pastured the rest of his flocks.

37 Jacob took green rods of poplar, almond, and plane wood and partly stripped their bark. Where the bark had been removed, whiteness appeared, but the parts left whole remained green; and in this way the color became varied.

38 He placed them in the troughs where the water was poured, so that when the flocks came to drink, they would have the rods before their eyes and conceive at the sight of them.

39 It came to pass that in the very heat of intercourse, the sheep looked at the rods and bore offspring that were spotted, variegated, and sprinkled with different colors.

40 Jacob divided the flock and placed the rods in the troughs before the eyes of the rams. Now all the white and black belonged to Laban, but the rest to Jacob, and the flocks were kept separate from one another.

41 Therefore, whenever the sheep were mounted in the first season, Jacob placed the rods in the water troughs before the eyes of the rams and sheep, so that they would conceive while gazing at them.

42 But when the mating was late and the conception last, he did not place them there. Thus those of the late season became Laban’s, and those of the first season Jacob’s.

43 The man became rich beyond measure and possessed many flocks, female and male servants, camels and donkeys.

1 Jacob heard the words of Laban's sons, who were saying, "Jacob has taken everything that belonged to our father. He has grown rich from our father's substance and become renowned."

2 He also noticed Laban's face, that it was not toward him as it had been yesterday and the day before.

3 This was especially so when the Lord said to him, "Return to the land of your fathers and to your lineage, and I will be with you."

4 Jacob sent for Rachel and Leah and called them into the field where he pastured the flocks.

5 He said to them, "I see that your father's face is not toward me as it was yesterday and the day before, but the God of my father has been with me.

6 You yourselves know that I have served your father with all my strength.

7 Yet your father has deceived me and changed my wage ten times, but God did not permit him to harm me.

8 Whenever he said, 'The variegated will be your wages,' all the sheep bore variegated offspring; but when, to the contrary, he said, 'You will receive every white one as wages,' all the flocks bore white offspring.

9 Thus God took your father's substance and gave it to me.

10 For when the time came for the sheep to conceive, I lifted my eyes and saw in dreams the males mounting the females, variegated, spotted, and of different colors.

11 The angel of God said to me in dreams, 'Jacob?' I answered, 'Here I am.'

12 He said, 'Lift your eyes and see all the males mounting the females—variegated, spotted, and sprinkled with color. For I have seen everything Laban has done to you.

13 I am the God of Bethel, where you anointed the stone and vowed a vow to me. Now therefore rise, leave this land, and return to the land of your birth.'"

14 Rachel and Leah answered, "Do we have any share remaining in the property and inheritance of our father's house?

15 Has he not regarded us as strangers, sold us, and eaten our price?

16 But God took our father's wealth and delivered it to us and our sons. Therefore do everything God has commanded you."

17 So Jacob rose, set his children and wives upon camels, and departed.

18 He took all his substance, his flocks, and everything he had acquired in Mesopotamia, and went to Isaac his father in the land of Canaan.

19 At that time Laban had gone to shear the sheep, and Rachel stole her father's idols.

20 Jacob was unwilling to tell his father-in-law that he was fleeing.

21 Both he and everything that was his departed; and after crossing the river, he headed toward Mount Gilead.

22 On the third day Laban was told that Jacob had fled.

23 Taking his brothers with him, he pursued Jacob for seven days and overtook him on Mount Gilead.

24 He saw God in dreams saying to him, "Take care that you speak nothing harsh against Jacob."

25 Jacob had already stretched out his tent on the mountain. When Laban and his brothers caught up with him, Laban fixed his tent on the same Mount Gilead.

26 He said to Jacob, "Why have you acted this way, secretly driving my daughters away like captives taken by the sword?

27 Why did you wish to flee without my knowledge and not tell me, so that I might escort you with joy, songs, tambourines, and lyres?

28 You did not permit me to kiss my sons and daughters. You have acted foolishly. And now indeed,

29 my hand has the power to repay you with harm; but the God of your father said to me yesterday, 'Take care that you say nothing harsh against Jacob.'

30 Granted, you wished to go to your own people and longed for your father's house. But why did you steal my gods?"

31 Jacob answered, "I departed without your knowledge because I was afraid you might take your daughters from me by force.

32 But as for your charge of theft: let whoever is found with your gods be put to death before our brothers. Search for whatever of yours you find with me, and take it away.” When he said this, he did not know that Rachel had stolen the idols.

33 So Laban entered Jacob’s tent, Leah’s, and the tent of each maidservant, but found nothing. When he entered Rachel’s tent, 34 she quickly hid the idols beneath the camel’s bedding and sat upon them. Though he searched the whole tent, he found nothing.

35 She said, “Let not my lord be angry that I cannot rise before you, for what is customary for women has now happened to me.” Thus the searcher’s careful effort was thwarted.

36 Then Jacob, swelling with anger, quarreled with him: “For what fault of mine, for what sin of mine, have you pursued me in such fury

37 and searched all my household goods? What have you found from all the substance of your house? Put it here before my brothers and yours, and let them judge between me and you.

38 Was I with you for twenty years for this? Your sheep and goats were not barren, and I did not eat the rams of your flock.

39 I did not show you what had been seized by a wild beast; I repaid every loss. Whatever perished by theft, you exacted from me.

40 By day and night I was scorched by heat and frost, and sleep fled from my eyes.

41 Thus for twenty years I served you in your house: fourteen for your daughters and six for your flocks. You also changed my wage ten times.

42 If the God of my father Abraham and the Fear of Isaac had not been present with me, perhaps you would now have sent me away naked. God looked upon my affliction and the labor of my hands, and rebuked you yesterday.”

43 Laban answered him, “The daughters are mine, and the sons, and your flocks, and everything you see is mine. What can I do to my sons and my grandsons?

44 Come, therefore, and let us enter into a covenant, so that it may be a testimony between me and you.”

45 So Jacob took a stone and set it upright as a pillar.

46 He said to his brothers, “Bring stones.” They gathered stones and made a mound, and they ate upon it.

47 Laban called it the Mound of Witness, and Jacob the Heap of Testimony, each according to the character of his own language.

48 Laban said, “This mound will be a witness between me and you today.” Therefore its name was called Gilead, that is, the Mound of Witness.

49 “May the Lord look upon us and judge between us when we have gone away from one another.

50 If you afflict my daughters or bring in other wives over them, there is no witness to our words except God, who is present and watching.”

51 Laban said again to Jacob, “Behold this mound and the stone I have raised between me and you.

52 It will be a witness: this mound, I say, and this stone shall be for testimony if either I pass beyond it on my way to you, or you pass beyond it intending harm against me.

53 May the God of Abraham and the God of Nahor, the God of their father, judge between us.” So Jacob swore by the Fear of his father Isaac.

54 He sacrificed victims on the mountain and called his brothers to eat bread. When they had eaten, they remained there.

55 Laban rose in the night, kissed his sons and daughters, and blessed them. Then he returned to his own place.

CHAPTER 32

1 Jacob also continued on the journey he had begun, and angels of God met him.

2 When he saw them, he said, “These are the camps of God.” And he called the name of that place Mahanaim, that is, Camps.

3 Jacob sent messengers ahead of him to his brother Esau in the land of Seir, the region of Edom.

4 He commanded them, saying, “Speak this way to my lord Esau: ‘This is what your brother Jacob says: I have sojourned with Laban and remained there until the present day.

5 I have cattle, donkeys, sheep, male servants, and female servants. I now send an embassy to my lord, that I may find favor in your sight.’”

6 The messengers returned to Jacob, saying, “We came to your brother Esau, and behold, he is hurrying to meet you with four hundred men.”

7 Jacob was very afraid and stricken with terror. He divided the people who were with him, and the flocks, sheep, cattle, and camels, into two companies,

8 saying, “If Esau comes to one company and strikes it, the other company that remains will be saved.”

9 Jacob said, “God of my father Abraham and God of my father Isaac, O Lord, who said to me, ‘Return to your land and the place of your birth, and I will do good to you’:

10 I am less than all your mercies and your truth, which you have fulfilled toward your servant. With my staff I crossed this Jordan; now I return with two companies.

11 Deliver me from the hand of my brother Esau, for I fear him greatly, lest he come and strike the mother with the children.

12 You said that you would do good to me and expand my seed like the sand of the sea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.”

13 He slept there that night, then set apart from what he had gifts for his brother Esau:

14 two hundred female goats, twenty male goats, two hundred ewes, twenty rams,

15 thirty mother camels with their young, forty cows, twenty bulls, twenty female donkeys, and ten of their young.

16 He sent each herd separately by the hands of his servants and said to them, “Go ahead of me, and let there be space between herd and herd.”

17 He commanded the first, saying, “If you meet my brother Esau and he asks you, ‘Whose are you? Where are you going? Whose are these that you follow?’

18 you will answer, ‘They belong to your servant Jacob. He has sent them as gifts to my lord Esau, and he himself is coming behind us.’”

19 He gave the same commands to the second and third, and to all who followed the herds, saying, “Speak these same words to Esau when you find him.

20 And you shall add, ‘Behold, your servant Jacob also follows our journey.’” For Jacob said, “I will appease him with the gifts that go ahead; afterward I will see him, and perhaps he will be gracious to me.”

21 So the gifts went ahead of him, but he remained that night in the camp.

22 Rising early, he took his two wives, his two maidservants, and his eleven sons, and crossed the ford of the Jabbok.

23 He also brought across everything that belonged to him.

24 Then he remained alone, and behold, a man wrestled with him until morning.

25 When the man saw that he could not overcome Jacob, he touched the sinew of his thigh, and at once it withered.

26 He said to him, “Release me, for dawn is already rising.” Jacob answered, “I will not release you unless you bless me.”

27 He said, “What is your name?” He answered, “Jacob.”

28 The man said, “Your name will no longer be called Jacob, but Israel, for if you were strong against God, how much more will you prevail against men?”

29 Jacob asked him, “Tell me, by what name are you called?” He answered, “Why do you ask my name?” And he blessed him in that same place.

30 Jacob called the name of that place Peniel, saying, “I saw God face to face, and my soul was saved.”

31 The sun rose upon him as soon as he had passed beyond Peniel, but he limped on his foot.

32 For this reason the children of Israel do not eat the sinew that withered in Jacob’s thigh, to the present day, because he touched the sinew of his thigh and it became numb.

CHAPTER 33

1 Jacob lifted his eyes and saw Esau coming, and four hundred men with him. He divided the sons of Leah and Rachel and of both maidservants.

2 He placed the two maidservants and their children at the front, Leah and her sons in the second place, and Rachel and Joseph last.

3 He himself went forward and bowed low to the ground seven times, until his brother drew near.

4 Esau ran to meet his brother and embraced him. Clasping his neck, he kissed him, and wept.

5 Lifting his eyes, he saw the women and their little ones and said, “What is the meaning of these? Do they belong to you?” Jacob answered, “They are the little ones whom God has given me, your servant.”

6 The maidservants and their sons came near and bowed down.

7 Leah also approached with her children, and they bowed down in the same way. Last of all, Joseph and Rachel bowed down.

8 Esau said, “What are all these companies I met?” Jacob answered, “To find favor before my lord.”

9 But Esau said, “I have a great abundance, my brother. Let what is yours remain yours.”

10 Jacob said, “Please, no. If I have found favor in your eyes, receive this little gift from my hands. For I have seen your face as though I had seen the countenance of God. Be gracious to me, 11 and receive the blessing I have brought you, which God has granted me, bestowing all things.” Only after his brother pressed him did Esau accept it.

12 Then Esau said, “Let us travel together, and I will be your companion on the journey.”

13 Jacob said, “My lord, you know that I have tender little ones, and sheep and cattle with young beside me. If I make them labor too much as we walk, all the flocks will die in one day.

14 Let my lord go ahead of his servant, and I will follow his footsteps slowly, according to what I see my little ones can bear, until I come to my lord in Seir.”

15 Esau answered, “Please, let at least some of the people with me remain as companions on your way.” Jacob said, “There is no need. This one thing alone I require: that I may find favor in your sight, my lord.”

16 So that day Esau returned along the road by which he had come to Seir.

17 Jacob came to Succoth, where, with a house built and tents fixed, he called the name of that place Succoth, that is, Tents.

18 He passed on to Salem, a city of the Shechemites in the land of Canaan, after he returned from Syrian Mesopotamia; and he lived beside the town.

19 He bought for one hundred lambs the portion of the field where he had pitched his tents, from the sons of Hamor, father of Shechem.

20 He raised an altar there and invoked over it the Most Mighty God of Israel.

CHAPTER 34

1 Dinah, the daughter of Leah, went out to see the women of that region.

2 Shechem, son of Hamor the Hivite and prince of that land, saw her and loved her. He seized her and lay with her, overpowering the virgin by force.

3 His soul was glued to her, and he soothed her in her sorrow with caresses.

4 He went to his father Hamor and said, “Obtain this young woman for me as a wife.”

5 Jacob heard what had happened while his sons were away, occupied with pasturing the livestock, and he remained silent until they returned.

6 Hamor, Shechem’s father, went out to speak to Jacob.

7 Behold, Jacob’s sons were coming from the field. When they heard what had happened, they were exceedingly angry, because Shechem had committed a foul deed in Israel and, by violating Jacob’s daughter, had perpetrated an unlawful thing.

8 Hamor spoke to them: “The soul of my son Shechem clings to your daughter. Give her to him as a wife,

9 and let us join in marriages with one another. Give your daughters to us, and receive our daughters.

10 Live with us. The land is in your power; cultivate it, trade in it, and possess it.”

11 Shechem also said to her father and brothers, “May I find favor before you. Whatever you determine, I will give.

12 Increase the dowry and demand gifts, and I will gladly give whatever you ask. Only give me this young woman as a wife.”

13 Jacob’s sons answered Shechem and his father deceitfully, raging over the rape of their sister.

14 “We cannot do what you ask or give our sister to an uncircumcised man, for this is unlawful and impious among us.

15 But in this way we will be able to make a covenant: if you are willing to become like us, and every male among you is circumcised,

16 then we will give and receive your daughters and ours in turn. We will live with you and become one people.

17 But if you are unwilling to be circumcised, we will take our daughter and leave.”

18 Their offer pleased Hamor and his son Shechem.

19 The young man did not delay, but at once fulfilled what had been asked, for he loved the young woman greatly and was renowned throughout his father’s household.

20 They entered the city gate and spoke to the people:

21 “These men are peaceful and wish to live with us. Let them trade in the land and cultivate it, for it is spacious and broad and needs cultivators. We will receive their daughters as wives and give them ours.

22 Only one thing delays so great a benefit: that we circumcise our males, imitating the rite of their nation.

23 And their substance, livestock, and all they possess will be ours. Only let us consent to this, and by living together we will become one people.”

24 Everyone assented, and all the males were circumcised.

25 And behold, on the third day, when the pain of the wounds is most severe, two sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah’s brothers, took their swords and entered the city confidently. They killed all the males,

26 slew Hamor and Shechem together, and took their sister Dinah from Shechem’s house.

27 When they had gone out, Jacob’s other sons rushed upon the dead and plundered the city in vengeance for the rape.

28 They ravaged their sheep, herds, donkeys, and everything in the houses and fields.

29 They also carried away their little ones and wives as captives.

30 After these bold deeds had been done, Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, “You have troubled me and made me hateful to the Canaanites and Perizzites, the inhabitants of this land. We are few; they will gather together and strike me, and I and my household will be destroyed.”

31 They answered, “Should they have abused our sister as a prostitute?”

CHAPTER 35

1 Meanwhile God spoke to Jacob: “Rise, go up to Bethel and dwell there, and make an altar to the God who appeared to you when you were fleeing from your brother Esau.”

2 Jacob then gathered his whole household and said, “Cast away the foreign gods that are among you; cleanse yourselves and change your garments.

3 Rise, and let us go up to Bethel, so that there we may make an altar to God, who answered me in the day of my distress and was my companion on my journey.”

4 So they gave him all the foreign gods they had, and the earrings that were in their ears; and he buried them beneath the terebinth that is beyond the city of Shechem.

5 When they set out, the terror of God invaded all the cities round about, and they did not dare pursue those who were departing.

6 Thus Jacob came to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan and is surnamed Bethel, he and all the people with him.

7 There he built an altar and called that place the House of God, for there God had appeared to him when he fled from his brother.

8 At that time Deborah, Rebekah’s nurse, died and was buried at the foot of Bethel beneath an oak; the place was called the Oak of Weeping.

9 God appeared to Jacob again after he returned from Syrian Mesopotamia, and blessed him,

10 saying, “You shall no longer be called Jacob, but Israel shall be your name.” And he called him Israel,

11 and said to him, “I am God Almighty. Increase and multiply. Nations and peoples of nations shall come from you, and kings shall issue from your loins.

12 The land I gave to Abraham and Isaac I will give to you, and to your seed after you.”

13 Then he withdrew from him.

14 Jacob set up a stone pillar in the place where God had spoken with him, pouring out a drink offering over it and pouring oil upon it,

15 and he called that place Bethel.

16 Then he departed from there and came in the spring to the land that leads to Ephrath. There Rachel went into labor,

17 and because of the difficulty of the birth she began to face danger. The midwife said to her, “Do not be afraid, for you will have this son also.”

18 As her soul went out because of the pain, and death was now drawing near, she named her son Benoni, that is, Son of My Sorrow; but his father called him Benjamin, that is, Son of the Right Hand.

19 So Rachel died and was buried on the road leading to Ephrath, which is Bethlehem.

20 Jacob set up a pillar over her grave; this is the pillar of Rachel’s tomb to the present day.

21 Departing from there, he pitched his tent beyond the Tower of the Flock.

22 While he was dwelling in that region, Reuben went and slept with Bilhah, his father’s concubine; and this did not escape him at all. Now the sons of Jacob were twelve.

23 The sons of Leah: Reuben the firstborn, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun.

24 The sons of Rachel: Joseph and Benjamin.

25 The sons of Bilhah, Rachel’s maidservant: Dan and Naphtali.

26 The sons of Zilpah, Leah’s maidservant: Gad and Asher. These are the sons of Jacob who were born to him in Syrian Mesopotamia.

27 He also came to his father Isaac at Mamre, the city of Arba, which is Hebron, where Abraham and Isaac had sojourned.

28 The days of Isaac were completed at one hundred and eighty years.

29 Consumed by age, he died and was added to his people, old and full of days; and his sons Esau and Jacob buried him.

CHAPTER 36

1 These are the generations of Esau, who is Edom.

2 Esau took wives from the daughters of Canaan: Adah daughter of Elon the Hethite, and Oholibamah daughter of Anah, daughter of Zibeon the Hivite,

3 and Basemath daughter of Ishmael, sister of Nebaioth.

4 Adah bore Eliphaz, and Basemath bore Reuel.

5 Oholibamah bore Jeush, Jaalam, and Korah. These are the sons of Esau who were born to him in the land of Canaan.

6 Esau took his wives, his sons and daughters, every soul of his household, his possessions, his livestock, and all that he was able to acquire in the land of Canaan, and went into another region, withdrawing from his brother Jacob.

7 For they were exceedingly rich and could not dwell together; the land where they sojourned could not sustain them because of the abundance of their flocks.

8 So Esau dwelt on Mount Seir; he is Edom.

9 These are the generations of Esau, father of Edom, on Mount Seir,

10 and these are the names of his sons: Eliphaz, son of Adah the wife of Esau, and Reuel, son of Basemath his wife.

11 The sons of Eliphaz were Teman, Omar, Zepho, Gatam, and Kenaz.

12 Timna was the concubine of Eliphaz, Esau's son, and she bore him Amalek. These are the sons of Adah, Esau's wife.

13 The sons of Reuel were Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. These are the sons of Basemath, Esau's wife.

14 These also were the sons of Oholibamah daughter of Anah, daughter of Zibeon, the wife of Esau, whom she bore to him: Jeush, Jaalam, and Korah.

15 These are the chiefs of Esau's sons. The sons of Eliphaz, Esau's firstborn: Chief Teman, Chief Omar, Chief Zepho, Chief Kenaz, 16 Chief Korah, Chief Gatam, and Chief Amalek. These are the sons of Eliphaz in the land of Edom, and these are the sons of Adah.

17 These also are the sons of Reuel, son of Esau: Chief Nahath, Chief Zerah, Chief Shammah, and Chief Mizzah. These are the chiefs of Reuel in the land of Edom, and these are the sons of Basemath, Esau's wife.

18 These are the sons of Oholibamah, Esau's wife: Chief Jeush, Chief Jaalam, and Chief Korah. These are the chiefs of Oholibamah daughter of Anah, the wife of Esau.

19 These are the sons of Esau, and these are their chiefs. He is Edom.

20 These are the sons of Seir the Horite, inhabitants of the land: Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, 21 Dishon, Ezer, and Dishan. These are the chiefs of the Horites, the sons of Seir in the land of Edom.

22 The sons of Lotan were Hori and Hemam; Timna was Lotan's sister.

23 These are the sons of Shobal: Alvan, Manahath, Ebal, Zepho, and Onam.

24 These are the sons of Zibeon: Aiah and Anah. This is the Anah who found hot springs in the wilderness while he was pasturing the donkeys of his father Zibeon.

25 He had a son, Dishon, and a daughter, Oholibamah.

26 These are the sons of Dishon: Hemdan, Eshban, Ithran, and Cheran.

27 These also are the sons of Ezer: Bilhan, Zaavan, and Akan.

28 Dishan had two sons: Uz and Aran.

29 These are the chiefs of the Horites: Chief Lotan, Chief Shobal, Chief Zibeon, Chief Anah, 30 Chief Dishon, Chief Ezer, and Chief Dishan. These are the chiefs of the Horites who ruled in the land of Seir.

31 These are the kings who reigned in the land of Edom before the children of Israel had a king:

32 Bela son of Beor, whose city was named Dinhabah.

33 Bela died, and Jobab son of Zerah from Bozrah reigned in his place.

34 When Jobab died, Husham from the land of the Temanites reigned in his place.

35 When he too died, Hadad son of Bedad, who struck Midian in the country of Moab, reigned in his place; his city was named Avith.

36 When Hadad died, Samlah from Masrekah reigned in his place.

37 When he too died, Shaul from the river Rehoboth reigned in his place.

38 When he also passed away, Baal-hanan son of Achbor succeeded him as king.

39 When he too died, Hadar reigned in his place; his city was named Pau, and his wife was named Mehetabel, daughter of Matred, daughter of Mezahab.

40 These, then, are the names of the chiefs of Esau according to their clans, places, and names: Chief Timna, Chief Alvah, Chief Jetheth,

41 Chief Oholibamah, Chief Elah, Chief Pinon,

42 Chief Kenaz, Chief Teman, Chief Mibzar,

43 Chief Magdiel, and Chief Iram. These are the chiefs of Edom dwelling in the land of their dominion. This is Esau, father of the Edomites.

CHAPTER 37

1 Jacob dwelt in the land of Canaan, where his father had sojourned.

2 These are his generations. When Joseph was sixteen years old, he tended the flock with his brothers, still a boy. He was with the sons of Bilhah and Zilpah, his father's wives, and he accused his brothers before their father of a most wicked crime.

3 Israel loved Joseph more than all his other sons because he had fathered him in his old age, and he made him a many-colored robe.

4 When his brothers saw that their father loved him more than all his other sons, they hated him and could not speak a peaceful word to him.

5 It happened also that he saw a dream and told it to his brothers, and this cause became a seedbed of greater hatred.

6 He said to them, "Listen to this dream I saw.

7 I thought we were binding sheaves in the field, and that my sheaf, as it were, rose and stood, while your sheaves stood around and bowed down to my sheaf."

8 His brothers answered, "Will you be our king? Or will we be subjected to your dominion?" Thus this matter of the dreams and words supplied tinder for envy and hatred.

9 He saw another dream also, and as he told it to his brothers he said, "I saw in a dream the sun, the moon, and eleven stars bowing down to me."

10 When he told this to his father and brothers, his father rebuked him and said, "What does this dream you saw mean? Shall I, your mother, and your brothers bow down before you upon the ground?"

11 His brothers therefore envied him, but his father silently pondered the matter.

12 While his brothers were staying at Shechem to pasture their father's flocks,

13 Israel said to him, "Your brothers are tending the sheep at Shechem. Come, I will send you to them." When Joseph answered him,

14 "I am ready," he said, "Go and see whether all is well with your brothers and the livestock, and report to me what is happening." Sent from the valley of Hebron, he came to Shechem.

15 A man found him wandering in the field and asked what he was seeking.

16 He answered, "I am looking for my brothers. Tell me where they are tending the flocks."

17 The man said to him, "They have left this place, for I heard them say, 'Let us go to Dothan.'" So Joseph went on after his brothers and found them at Dothan.

18 When they saw him in the distance, before he came near them, they plotted to kill him.

19 They said to one another, "Look, the dreamer is coming.

20 Come, let us kill him and throw him into an old cistern. We will say, 'A savage beast devoured him.' Then it will be apparent how his dreams profit him."

21 When Reuben heard this, he tried to deliver him from their hands and said,

22 "Do not take his life or shed blood. Throw him into this cistern in the wilderness, but keep your hands innocent." He said this because he wished to rescue him from their hands and return him to his father.

23 So as soon as Joseph reached his brothers, they stripped him of his long, many-colored robe,

24 and threw him into the old cistern, which had no water.

25 As they sat down to eat bread, they saw Ishmaelite travelers coming from Gilead, their camels carrying spices, resin, and stacte down to Egypt.

26 Then Judah said to his brothers, "What do we gain if we kill our brother and conceal his blood?

27 It is better that he be sold to the Ishmaelites and that our hands not be defiled, for he is our brother and our flesh." His brothers agreed with his words.

28 When the Midianite merchants passed by, they drew him out of the cistern and sold him to the Ishmaelites for twenty pieces of silver, and they led him into Egypt.

29 When Reuben returned to the cistern and did not find the boy,

30 he tore his garments, went to his brothers, and said, “The boy is nowhere to be found! And I—where shall I go?”

31 Then they took his robe and dipped it in the blood of a young goat they had killed.

32 They sent men to carry it to their father and say, “We found this. See whether it is your son’s robe or not.”

33 When the father recognized it, he said, “It is my son’s robe. A savage beast has eaten him; a wild animal has devoured Joseph.”

34 He tore his garments, clothed himself in sackcloth, and mourned his son for a long time.

35 All his children gathered to ease their father’s grief, but he refused to be comforted and said, “I shall go down mourning to my son in the realm of the dead.” And while he persisted in weeping, 36 the Midianites sold Joseph in Egypt to Potiphar, Pharaoh’s eunuch and commander of the army.

CHAPTER 38

1 At that time Judah went down from his brothers and turned aside to a man of Adullam named Hirah.

2 There he saw the daughter of a Canaanite man named Shua, and he took her as his wife and went in to her.

3 She conceived and bore a son, and called his name Er.

4 Conceiving again, she bore a son and called him Onan.

5 She also bore a third, whom she called Shelah; after his birth, she ceased bearing children.

6 Judah gave his firstborn son Er a wife named Tamar.

7 But Er, Judah's firstborn, was wicked in the sight of the Lord, and was killed by him.

8 So Judah said to his son Onan, "Go in to your brother's wife and join yourself to her, so that you may raise up seed for your brother."

9 Knowing that sons would not be born for him, whenever Onan went in to his brother's wife, he spilled his seed on the ground, lest children be born in his brother's name.

10 Therefore the Lord struck him, because he did a detestable thing.

11 For this reason Judah said to Tamar his daughter-in-law, "Remain a widow in your father's house until my son Shelah grows up." For he feared that Shelah also might die like his brothers. So she went away and dwelt in her father's house.

12 After many days had passed, Judah's wife, the daughter of Shua, died. When Judah had received consolation after his mourning, he went up to Timnah to the shearers of his sheep, he and Hirah the Adullamite, the shepherd of his flock.

13 Tamar was told that her father-in-law was going up to Timnah to shear the sheep.

14 She took off her widow's garments, put on a veil, changed her appearance, and sat at the fork in the road that leads to Timnah, because Shelah had grown and she had not received him as her husband.

15 When Judah saw her, he thought she was a prostitute, for she had covered her face so that she would not be recognized.

16 Going over to her, he said, "Let me sleep with you," for he did not know she was his daughter-in-law. She answered, "What will you give me to enjoy intercourse with me?"

17 He said, "I will send you a young goat from the flock." She replied, "I will allow what you want, if you give me a pledge until you send what you promise."

18 Judah said, "What would you have me give you as a pledge?" She answered, "Your ring, your bracelet, and the staff you hold in your hand." And from that one act of intercourse, the woman conceived.

19 She arose and went away; taking off the attire she had assumed, she put on her widow's garments.

20 Judah sent the young goat by his Adullamite shepherd so that he might recover the pledge he had given the woman, but he could not find her.

21 He asked the men of that place, "Where is the woman who was sitting at the fork in the road?" They all answered, "There was no prostitute in this place."

22 He returned to Judah and said, "I did not find her. The men of that place also told me that no prostitute had ever sat there."

23 Judah said, "Let her keep them for herself. Surely she cannot accuse us of deceit. I sent the young goat I promised, and you did not find her."

24 But three months later, they told Judah, "Tamar your daughter-in-law has committed fornication, and her womb appears to be swelling." Judah said, "Bring her out to be burned."

25 As she was being led to punishment, she sent word to her father-in-law: "I conceived by the man to whom these belong. Recognize whose ring, bracelet, and staff these are."

26 Recognizing the gifts, he said, "She is more just than I, because I did not give her to my son Shelah." Nevertheless, he did not know her again.

27 When the time of birth came, twins appeared in her womb. At the very outpouring of the infants, one put out a hand, and the midwife tied scarlet thread around it, saying,

28 "This one will come out first."

29 But when he drew back his hand, the other came out. The woman said, “Why was the wall divided for you?” And for this reason she called his name Perez.

30 Afterward his brother came out, on whose hand was the scarlet thread; she called him Zerah.

CHAPTER 39

1 Joseph was taken down to Egypt, and Potiphar, Pharaoh’s eunuch and commander of the army, an Egyptian man, bought him from the Ishmaelites who had brought him there.

2 The Lord was with him, and he was a man who prospered in all he did; and he dwelt in his master’s house.

3 His master knew very well that the Lord was with Joseph and that everything Joseph did was directed by the Lord in Joseph’s hand.

4 Joseph found favor before his master and ministered to him. His master appointed him over everything, and Joseph governed the house entrusted to him and all that had been delivered into his care.

5 The Lord blessed the Egyptian’s house because of Joseph and multiplied all his possessions, both in the house and in the fields.

6 His master knew nothing except the bread he ate. Now Joseph had a handsome face and a beautiful appearance.

7 After many days, his mistress cast her eyes upon Joseph and said, “Sleep with me.”

8 He would not consent to the evil deed, and said to her, “Look, my master, having entrusted everything to me, does not know what he has in his house.

9 Nothing is outside my authority or withheld from me except you, because you are his wife. How then can I do this evil and sin against my God?”

10 With words of this kind, the woman kept troubling the young man day after day, but he refused the shameful intercourse.

11 One day Joseph entered the house to do some work when no witness was present.

12 She grasped the edge of his garment and said, “Sleep with me.” Leaving his cloak in her hand, he fled and went outside.

13 When the woman saw the garment in her hands and realized that she had been scorned,

14 she called the men of her household and said to them, “Look! He has brought in a Hebrew man to make sport of us. He came in to me to sleep with me, but I cried out,

15 and when he heard my voice, he left the cloak I was holding and fled outside.”

16 She kept the cloak and showed it to her husband when he returned home, as proof of her claim,

17 and said, “The Hebrew servant you brought here came in to make sport of me.

18 But when he heard me cry out, he left the cloak I was holding and fled outside.”

19 When his master heard these things, far too ready to believe his wife’s words, he became very angry.

20 He delivered Joseph into the prison where the king’s prisoners were kept, and there he was confined.

21 But the Lord was with Joseph, showed him mercy, and gave him favor in the sight of the keeper of the prison.

22 The keeper entrusted to Joseph all the prisoners held in custody, and whatever was done was under his authority.

23 The keeper knew nothing of it, since everything had been entrusted to Joseph. For the Lord was with him and directed all his works.

CHAPTER 40

1 After these things had taken place, two eunuchs—the cupbearer of the king of Egypt and the baker—sinned against their lord.

2 Pharaoh became angry with them, for one was chief of the cupbearers and the other chief of the bakers,

3 and sent them to the prison of the commander of the army, where Joseph also was confined.

4 The keeper of the prison entrusted them to Joseph, who ministered to them. A little time passed while they were held in custody.

5 Both saw a dream in one night, each with a meaning fitting to himself.

6 When Joseph came to them in the morning and saw that they were sad,

7 he asked them, “Why are your faces sadder today than usual?”

8 They answered, “We have seen a dream, and there is no one to interpret it for us.” Joseph said to them, “Does not interpretation belong to God? Tell me what you saw.”

9 The first, the chief of the cupbearers, related his dream: “I saw a vine before me,

10 with three branches that gradually budded; after the blossoms appeared, grapes ripened.

11 Pharaoh’s cup was in my hand, so I took the grapes, pressed them into the cup I was holding, and handed the cup to Pharaoh.”

12 Joseph answered, “This is the interpretation of the dream: the three branches are three days yet to come.

13 After them Pharaoh will remember your service and restore you to your former station. You will give him the cup according to your office, as you were accustomed to do before.

14 Only remember me when all goes well with you, and show me mercy by pleading with Pharaoh to bring me out of this prison.

15 For I was stolen away from the land of the Hebrews, and here, though innocent, I was thrown into the pit.”

16 When the chief baker saw that Joseph had interpreted the dream wisely, he said, “I also saw a dream: I had three baskets of flour upon my head,

17 and in the highest basket I was carrying every kind of food made by the baker’s art, but birds were eating from it.”

18 Joseph answered, “This is the interpretation of the dream: the three baskets are three days yet to come.

19 After them Pharaoh will take your head from you and hang you upon a cross, and the birds will tear your flesh.”

20 The third day was Pharaoh’s birthday. He made a great feast for his servants and, amid the banquet, remembered the chief cupbearer and the chief baker.

21 He restored one to his place, to hand him the cup,

22 and hanged the other upon a gibbet, so that the truth of the interpreter was proved.

23 Yet when prosperity returned, the chief cupbearer forgot his interpreter.

CHAPTER 41

1 After two years, Pharaoh saw a dream. He thought he was standing above the river,

2 from which seven cows came up, exceedingly beautiful and fat, and grazed in the marshes.

3 Seven other cows also emerged from the river, hideous and wasted with leanness, and grazed in the green places along the riverbank.

4 They devoured the cows whose appearance was wondrous and whose bodies were well formed. Pharaoh awoke,

5 then slept again and saw another dream: seven full and beautiful heads of grain sprouted upon one stalk.

6 Seven other heads, thin and scorched by blight, also sprang up,

7 devouring all the beauty of the first. Pharaoh awoke from sleep,

8 and when morning came, he was overwhelmed with dread. He sent for all the diviners and wise men of Egypt and told them his dream, but there was no one who could interpret it.

9 Then at last the chief cupbearer remembered and said, “I confess my sin.

10 The king was angry with his servants and ordered the chief baker and me to be shut in the prison of the commander of the army.

11 There, in one night, we each saw a dream foretelling the future.

12 A Hebrew boy was there, a servant of that same commander of the army. We told him our dreams,

13 and we heard from him everything that the outcome afterward proved true: I was restored to my office, and the other was hanged upon a cross.”

14 At once, by the king’s command, Joseph was brought out of prison. They shaved him, changed his garment, and presented him to Pharaoh.

15 Pharaoh said to him, “I have seen dreams, but there is no one who can explain them. I have heard that you interpret them with great wisdom.”

16 Joseph answered, “Apart from me, God will give Pharaoh a favorable answer.”

17 So Pharaoh related what he had seen: “I thought I was standing upon the bank of the river,

18 and seven cows came up from the river, exceedingly beautiful and fat-fleshed, and they grazed upon the green growth of the marsh.

19 And behold, seven other cows followed them, so deformed and lean that I have never seen such cows in all the land of Egypt.

20 After they had devoured and consumed the first cows,

21 they gave no sign of being satisfied but remained numb with the same leanness and foul appearance. I awoke, and then sank again into sleep.

22 I saw a dream: seven full and exceedingly beautiful heads of grain sprouted upon one stalk.

23 Seven other heads, thin and scorched by blight, sprang from the stubble,

24 and devoured the beauty of the first. I told the dream to the diviners, but there is no one who can explain it.”

25 Joseph answered, “The king’s dream is one. God has shown Pharaoh what he is about to do.

26 The seven beautiful cows and the seven full heads of grain are seven years of abundance; they contain the same force in the dream.

27 The seven thin and lean cows that came up after them, and the seven thin heads scorched by the burning wind, are seven years of famine to come.

28 They will be fulfilled in this order:

29 behold, seven years of great fruitfulness will come throughout all the land of Egypt.

30 They will be followed by seven other years of such barrenness that all the former abundance will be handed over to oblivion, for famine will consume the whole land,

31 and the greatness of the abundance will be destroyed by the greatness of the want.

32 As for your seeing a second dream concerning the same matter, this is a sign of its certainty, because the word of God shall come to pass and be fulfilled swiftly.

33 Now therefore let the king find a wise and diligent man and set him over the land of Egypt.

34 Let him appoint overseers throughout all the regions, and take a fifth part of the produce during the seven years of abundance,

35 which are now about to come. Let them gather it into storehouses, and let all the grain be laid up under Pharaoh's authority and kept in the cities.

36 Let it be prepared for the coming famine of seven years that will crush Egypt, so that the land is not consumed by want."

37 The counsel pleased Pharaoh and all his servants.

38 He said to them, "Can we find a man like this, filled with the spirit of God?"

39 Then he said to Joseph, "Since God has shown you all that you have spoken, can I find anyone wiser and like you?

40 You shall be over my house, and at the command of your mouth all the people shall obey. Only by the throne of the kingdom shall I be before you."

41 Pharaoh said again to Joseph, "Behold, I have appointed you over the whole land of Egypt."

42 He took the ring from his hand and gave it into Joseph's hand. He clothed him in a robe of fine linen and placed a gold chain around his neck.

43 He made him ride in his second chariot, while a herald cried out that all should bend the knee before him and know that he had been appointed over the whole land of Egypt.

44 The king also said to Joseph, "I am Pharaoh. Without your command no one shall move hand or foot in all the land of Egypt."

45 He changed his name and, in the Egyptian language, called him Savior of the World. He gave him Asenath daughter of Potiphera, priest of Heliopolis, as his wife. So Joseph went out into the land of Egypt.

46 Joseph was thirty years old when he stood before King Pharaoh, and he traveled throughout all the regions of Egypt.

47 The seven years of abundance came, and the crops were gathered in sheaves and collected in the storehouses of Egypt.

48 All the abundance of produce was also stored in each city.

49 The abundance of wheat was so great that it equaled the sand of the sea, and its plenty exceeded all measure.

50 Before the famine came, two sons were born to Joseph, whom Asenath daughter of Potiphera, priest of Heliopolis, bore to him.

51 He called the firstborn Manasseh, saying, "God has made me forget all my hardships and my father's house."

52 He called the second Ephraim, saying, "God has made me increase in the land of my poverty."

53 When the seven years of abundance that had been in Egypt came to an end, 54 the seven years of want that Joseph had foretold began to come. Famine prevailed throughout the whole world, but there was bread in all the land of Egypt.

55 When that land began to hunger, the people cried out to Pharaoh, asking for food. He answered them, "Go to Joseph, and do whatever he tells you."

56 The famine increased daily throughout the land. Joseph opened all the storehouses and sold grain to the Egyptians, for the famine had crushed them also.

57 All the provinces came to Egypt to buy food and temper the evil of the want.

CHAPTER 42

1 When Jacob heard that food was being sold in Egypt, he said to his sons, “Why are you negligent?

2 I have heard that wheat is for sale in Egypt. Go down and buy what we need, so that we may live and not be consumed by want.”

3 So ten of Joseph’s brothers went down to buy grain in Egypt.

4 But Jacob kept Benjamin at home, for he had said to his brothers, “Perhaps some harm may befall him on the journey.”

5 They entered the land of Egypt with others who were going to buy, for there was famine in the land of Canaan.

6 Joseph was the ruler in the land of Egypt, and grain was sold to the people at his nod. When his brothers bowed down before him,

7 he recognized them, but spoke to them more harshly, as to strangers, and asked them, “Where have you come from?” They answered, “From the land of Canaan, to buy what we need for food.”

8 Although he recognized his brothers, he was not recognized by them.

9 Remembering the dreams he had once seen, he said to them, “You are spies. You have come to see the vulnerable parts of the land.”

10 They said, “It is not so, my lord. Your servants have come to buy food.

11 We are all sons of one man. We have come in peace; your servants are plotting no evil.”

12 He answered them, “It is otherwise. You have come to inspect the undefended parts of this land.”

13 But they said, “Your servants are twelve brothers, sons of one man in the land of Canaan. The youngest is with our father, and the other is no more.”

14 “This is just what I said,” he replied. “You are spies.

15 Now I will put you to the test: by the life of Pharaoh, you shall not leave this place until your youngest brother comes.

16 Send one of you to bring him, while you remain in chains, until it is proved whether what you have said is true or false. Otherwise, by the life of Pharaoh, you are spies.”

17 So he delivered them into custody for three days.

18 On the third day he brought them out of prison and said, “Do what I have said, and you will live, for I fear God.

19 If you are men of peace, let one of your brothers be bound in prison. But you may go and carry the grain you bought to your homes.

20 Bring your youngest brother to me, so that I may prove your words and you may not die.” They did as he had said,

21 and they said to one another, “We deserve to suffer these things, because we sinned against our brother. We saw the anguish of his soul when he pleaded with us, and we did not listen. Therefore this distress has come upon us.”

22 Reuben, one of them, said, “Did I not tell you, ‘Do not sin against the boy’? But you did not listen to me. Behold, now his blood is required.”

23 They did not know that Joseph understood, because he spoke to them through an interpreter.

24 He turned away for a little while and wept, then returned and spoke to them.

25 Taking Simeon and binding him in their presence, Joseph commanded his servants to fill their sacks with wheat, return each man’s money to his little sack, and give them provisions in addition for the road; and they did so.

26 They loaded the grain upon their donkeys and departed.

27 When one of them opened his sack to give his beast fodder at the lodging place, he saw the money at the mouth of the little sack.

28 He said to his brothers, “My money has been returned—look, it is here in the sack.” Astonished and troubled, they said to one another, “What is this that God has done to us?”

29 They came to their father Jacob in the land of Canaan and told him all that had happened to them, saying,

30 “The lord of the land spoke harshly to us and took us for spies in the province.

31 We answered him, ‘We are men of peace and devise no ambushes.

32 We are twelve brothers, born of one father. One is no more, and the youngest is with our father in the land of Canaan.’

33 He said to us, ‘By this I will prove that you are men of peace: leave one of your brothers with me, take the food your households need, and go.

34 Bring your youngest brother to me, so that I may know you are not spies. Then you may receive back the one held in chains, and from then on you will have permission to buy whatever you wish.’”

35 When they had said this and were pouring out the grain, each man found his money tied at the mouth of his sack, and when all were terrified together,

36 their father Jacob said, “You have made me bereft of children. Joseph is no more, Simeon is held in chains, and you will take Benjamin. All these evils have fallen upon me.”

37 Reuben answered him, “Kill my two sons if I do not bring him back to you. Entrust him into my hand, and I will restore him to you.”

38 But he said, “My son shall not go down with you. His brother is dead, and he alone remains. If some adversity should befall him in the land to which you go, you will bring my gray hair down in sorrow to the realm of the dead.”

CHAPTER 43

1 Meanwhile the famine pressed heavily upon the whole land.

2 When the food they had brought from Egypt was consumed, Jacob said to his sons, “Return and buy us a little food.”

3 Judah answered, “That man warned us under oath, saying, ‘You shall not see my face unless you bring your youngest brother with you.’

4 Therefore, if you are willing to send him with us, we will go together and buy what you need.

5 But if you are not willing, we will not go. For the man, as we have often told you, warned us, saying, ‘You shall not see my face without your youngest brother.’”

6 Israel said to them, “You have brought this misery upon me by telling him that you had another brother.”

7 But they answered, “The man questioned us in order about our family: whether our father was living and whether we had a brother. We answered him according to what he asked. Could we have known that he would say, ‘Bring your brother with you’?”

8 Judah also said to his father, “Send the boy with me, so that we may set out and live, lest we and our little ones die.

9 I take responsibility for the boy; require him from my hand. If I do not bring him back and restore him to you, I will be guilty of sin against you for all time.

10 If there had been no delay, we would already have returned a second time.”

11 So their father Israel said to them, “If it must be so, do what you will. Take some of the land’s finest produce in your vessels and carry gifts to the man: a little resin and honey, storax and stacte, terebinth resin and almonds.

12 Take double the money with you, and carry back the money you found in the sacks, lest perhaps it was done by mistake.

13 Take your brother also and go to the man.

14 And may my God Almighty make him merciful toward you and send back with you the brother he holds and this Benjamin. But I shall be like one bereaved, without children.”

15 So the men took the gifts, double the money, and Benjamin. They went down to Egypt and stood before Joseph.

16 When Joseph saw them and Benjamin with them, he commanded the steward of his house: “Bring the men into the house, slaughter victims, and prepare a feast, for they are to eat with me at noon.”

17 The steward did what he had been commanded and brought the men into the house.

18 Terrified there, they said to one another, “We have been brought in because of the money we carried back in our sacks before, so that he may roll an accusation upon us and violently subject both us and our donkeys to slavery.”

19 Therefore they approached the steward of the house at the very door

20 and said, “Please, my lord, hear us. We came down before to buy food.

21 After buying it, when we came to the lodging place, we opened our sacks and found the money at their mouths. We have now brought it back at the same weight.

22 We have also brought other silver to buy what we need. We have no knowledge of who put the money in our purses.”

23 But he answered, “Peace be with you. Do not be afraid. Your God and the God of your father gave you treasures in your sacks, for I have the money you gave me, accepted as good.” Then he brought Simeon out to them.

24 Having brought them into the house, he brought water, and they washed their feet; and he gave fodder to their donkeys.

25 They prepared the gifts until Joseph entered at noon, for they had heard that they were to eat bread there.

26 So Joseph entered his house. They offered him the gifts they held in their hands and bowed low to the ground.

27 He graciously greeted them in return and asked, “Is your elderly father, of whom you told me, well? Is he still living?”

28 They answered, “Your servant our father is well; he is still living.” And they bowed down before him.

29 Raising his eyes, Joseph saw Benjamin, his brother from the same mother, and said, “Is this your little brother, of whom you told me?” Then he said again, “May God have mercy upon you, my son.”

30 He hurried away, for his inward parts were moved over his brother and tears were bursting forth. He entered his chamber and wept.

31 Then he washed his face, came out again, mastered himself, and said, “Set out the loaves.”

32 When they were set out, Joseph ate separately, his brothers separately, and the Egyptians who ate with Joseph separately, for it is unlawful for the Egyptians to eat with Hebrews, and they consider a meal of this kind profane.

33 They sat before him, the firstborn according to his birthright and the youngest according to his age, and they marveled greatly

34 after taking the portions they had received from him; and a greater portion came to Benjamin, so that it exceeded theirs by five parts. They drank and became intoxicated with him.

CHAPTER 44

1 Joseph commanded the steward of his house, “Fill their sacks with as much grain as they can hold, and put each man’s money at the top of his sack.

2 Put my silver cup, along with the price he paid for the wheat, at the mouth of the youngest one’s sack.” And it was done so.

3 When morning dawned, they were sent away with their donkeys.

4 They had left the city and gone only a little way when Joseph summoned the steward of his house and said, “Rise and pursue the men. When you overtake them, say, ‘Why have you repaid good with evil?

5 The cup you stole is the one from which my lord drinks and by which he is accustomed to divine. You have done a most wicked thing.’”

6 He did as Joseph commanded. When he overtook them, he spoke these words in order.

7 They answered, “Why does our lord speak in this way, as though your servants had committed so great a crime?

8 We brought back to you from the land of Canaan the money we found at the top of our sacks. How then could it follow that we have stolen gold or silver from your lord’s house?

9 Let the one among your servants with whom you find what you seek die, and we will be our lord’s servants.”

10 He said to them, “Let it be according to your sentence. The one with whom it is found shall be my servant, but you shall be innocent.”

11 So each man quickly lowered his sack to the ground and opened it.

12 The steward searched them, beginning with the eldest and ending with the youngest, and found the cup in Benjamin’s sack.

13 They tore their garments, loaded the donkeys again, and returned to the town.

14 Judah was the first to enter Joseph’s presence with his brothers, for Joseph had not yet left the place, and all of them fell to the ground together before him.

15 He said to them, “Why did you choose to do this? Do you not know that no one is my equal in the knowledge of divination?”

16 Judah answered, “What can we answer my lord? What can we say, or justly offer in our defense? God has discovered the iniquity of your servants. Behold, we are all my lord’s servants, both we and the one with whom the cup was found.”

17 Joseph answered, “Far be it from me to act so. The one who stole the cup shall be my servant, but you may go free to your father.”

18 Judah came nearer and spoke boldly: “Please, my lord, let your servant speak a word in your ears, and do not be angry with your servant, for you are next after Pharaoh,

19 my lord. You asked your servants before, ‘Do you have a father or a brother?’

20 We answered you, my lord, ‘We have an elderly father and a little boy who was born in his old age. His brother from the same mother is dead; he alone remains to his mother, and his father loves him tenderly.’

21 You said to your servants, ‘Bring him to me, and I will set my eyes upon him.’

22 We told my lord, ‘The boy cannot leave his father, for if he leaves him, he will die.’

23 And you said to your servants, ‘Unless your youngest brother comes with you, you shall see my face no more.’

24 So when we went up to your servant our father, we told him everything my lord had said.

25 Our father said, ‘Return and buy us a little wheat.’

26 We told him, ‘We cannot go. If our youngest brother goes down with us, we will set out together. Otherwise, in his absence, we dare not see the man’s face.’

27 He answered, ‘You know that my wife bore me two sons.

28 One went out, and you said, “A beast devoured him.” He has not been seen to this day.

29 If you take this one also and something happens to him on the road, you will bring my gray hair down in grief to the realm of the dead.’

30 Therefore, if I go in to your servant our father and the boy is absent—since his soul hangs upon this one’s soul—

31 when he sees that he is not with us, he will die, and your servants will bring his gray hair down in sorrow to the realm of the dead.

32 I, your servant, took the boy into my own keeping and gave my word, saying, ‘If I do not bring him back, I will be guilty of sin against my father for all time.’

33 Therefore let me, your servant, remain in the boy’s place in service to my lord, and let the boy go up with his brothers.

34 For I cannot return to my father without the boy, lest I stand as a witness to the calamity that will crush my father.”

CHAPTER 45

1 Joseph could no longer restrain himself before the many people standing nearby. So he commanded everyone to go outside, and no stranger was present when they recognized one another.

2 He lifted up his voice in weeping, and the Egyptians and all Pharaoh's house heard it.

3 He said to his brothers, "I am Joseph. Is my father still living?" His brothers could not answer, for they were overwhelmed with terror.

4 He spoke to them gently: "Come near to me." When they came near, he said, "I am Joseph, your brother, whom you sold into Egypt.

5 Do not be terrified, and do not let it seem grievous to you that you sold me into these regions, for God sent me into Egypt before you for your salvation.

6 It has been two years since the famine began in the land, and five years still remain in which there can be neither plowing nor reaping.

7 God sent me ahead so that you might be preserved upon the earth and have food by which you may live.

8 I was sent here not by your counsel but by God's will. He has made me like a father to Pharaoh, lord of his entire house, and ruler throughout all the land of Egypt.

9 Hurry, go up to my father, and say to him, 'Your son Joseph sends you this word: God has made me lord of the whole land of Egypt. Come down to me; do not delay.

10 You shall dwell in the land of Goshen and be near me—you, your sons and grandsons, your sheep and herds, and everything you possess.

11 There I will feed you, for five years of famine still remain, lest you, your house, and everything you possess perish.'

12 Behold, your eyes and the eyes of my brother Benjamin see that it is my own mouth speaking to you.

13 Tell my father of all my glory and everything you have seen in Egypt. Hurry and bring him to me."

14 When he had embraced his brother Benjamin, he fell upon his neck and wept; Benjamin likewise wept upon his neck.

15 Joseph kissed all his brothers and wept over each one. After this they dared to speak to him.

16 The news was heard and spread by common report in the king's court: "Joseph's brothers have come." Pharaoh and all his household rejoiced.

17 Pharaoh told Joseph to command his brothers: "Load your beasts and go into the land of Canaan.

18 Take your father and kindred from there and come to me. I will give you all the good things of Egypt, so that you may eat the marrow of the land.

19 Command them also to take wagons from the land of Egypt to carry their little ones and wives. Say to them, 'Take your father and come with all speed.

20 Leave nothing of your household goods, for all the wealth of Egypt shall be yours.'"

21 The sons of Israel did as they had been commanded. Joseph gave them wagons according to Pharaoh's command and provisions for the journey.

22 He also ordered two robes to be brought out for each man, but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver and five of the finest robes.

23 He sent his father the same amount of money and clothing, adding ten male donkeys carrying riches from all the wealth of Egypt, and as many female donkeys carrying wheat and bread for the journey.

24 Then he sent his brothers away, saying as they departed, "Do not become angry on the way."

25 They went up from Egypt and came to their father Jacob in the land of Canaan.

26 They told him, "Your son Joseph is alive, and he rules throughout all the land of Egypt." When Jacob heard this, he seemed to awaken from a deep sleep, yet he did not believe them.

27 But they related the whole course of events. When he saw the wagons and all that Joseph had sent, his spirit revived,

28 and he said, "It is enough for me if my son Joseph is still alive. I will go and see him before I die."

CHAPTER 46

1 Israel set out with everything he had and came to the Well of the Oath. There he sacrificed victims to the God of his father Isaac.

2 In a vision of the night he heard God calling him and saying, “Jacob, Jacob.” He answered, “Here I am.”

3 God said to him, “I am the most mighty God of your father. Do not be afraid to go down to Egypt, for there I will make you into a great nation.

4 I will go down there with you, and I will bring you back from there. Joseph also will place his hands upon your eyes.”

5 Jacob arose from the Well of the Oath. His sons carried him, along with their little ones and their wives, in the wagons Pharaoh had sent to carry the old man.

6 They took all that he possessed in the land of Canaan, and he came to Egypt with all his seed:

7 his sons and grandsons, his daughters, and all his progeny together.

8 These are the names of the sons of Israel who entered Egypt, Jacob himself with his children. The firstborn was Reuben.

9 The sons of Reuben: Enoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi.

10 The sons of Simeon: Jemuel, Jamin, Ahod, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul, the son of a Canaanite woman.

11 The sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

12 The sons of Judah: Er, Onan, Shelah, Perez, and Zerah; but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan. The sons born to Perez were Hezron and Hamul.

13 The sons of Issachar: Tola, Puvah, Job, and Shimron.

14 The sons of Zebulun: Sered, Elon, and Jahleel.

15 These are the sons of Leah whom she bore in Syrian Mesopotamia, together with her daughter Dinah. All the souls of her sons and daughters numbered thirty-three.

16 The sons of Gad: Ziphion, Haggi, Shuni, Ezbon, Eri, Arodi, and Areli.

17 The sons of Asher: Jimnah, Jeshua, Jessui, and Beriah, along with their sister Serah. The sons of Beriah: Heber and Malchiel.

18 These are the sons of Zilpah, whom Laban gave to his daughter Leah; and Jacob fathered these sixteen souls.

19 The sons of Rachel, Jacob’s wife: Joseph and Benjamin.

20 Sons were born to Joseph in the land of Egypt, whom Asenath daughter of Potiphera, priest of Heliopolis, bore him: Manasseh and Ephraim.

21 The sons of Benjamin: Bela, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, Ehi, Rosh, Muppim, Huppim, and Ard.

22 These are the sons of Rachel whom she bore to Jacob; all the souls numbered fourteen.

23 The sons of Dan: Hushim.

24 The sons of Naphtali: Jahzeel, Guni, Jezer, and Shillem.

25 These are the sons of Bilhah, whom Laban gave to his daughter Rachel; and Jacob fathered these seven souls.

26 All the souls who entered Egypt with Jacob and came forth from his thigh, apart from his sons’ wives, numbered sixty-six.

27 The sons of Joseph who were born to him in the land of Egypt were two souls. All the souls of Jacob’s house who entered Egypt numbered seventy.

28 Jacob sent Judah ahead of him to Joseph, so that he might report to him and that he might meet him in Goshen.

29 When Jacob arrived there, Joseph harnessed his chariot and went up to meet his father at that same place. When he saw him, he fell upon his neck and wept in his embrace.

30 The father said to Joseph, “Now I shall die with joy, because I have seen your face and leave you alive.”

31 Joseph said to his brothers and to all his father’s house, “I will go up and report to Pharaoh, and I will say to him, ‘My brothers and my father’s house, who were in the land of Canaan, have come to me.

32 They are shepherds of sheep, men who attend to the feeding of flocks. They have brought their sheep, herds, and all they were able to possess with them.’

33 When he calls you and says, ‘What is your occupation?’

34 you shall answer, ‘Your servants are shepherds, from our infancy to the present, both we and our fathers.’ You shall say this so that you may dwell in the land of Goshen, for the Egyptians detest all shepherds of sheep.”

CHAPTER 47

1 Joseph went in and reported to Pharaoh: “My father and brothers, their sheep and herds, and all they possess have come from the land of Canaan. Behold, they are standing in the land of Goshen.”

2 He also placed five men, the last among his brothers, before the king.

3 Pharaoh asked them, “What is your occupation?” They answered, “Your servants are shepherds of sheep, both we and our fathers.

4 We have come to sojourn in your land because there is no grass for your servants’ flocks, for the famine has grown heavy in the land of Canaan. We ask that you command us, your servants, to remain in the land of Goshen.”

5 Then the king said to Joseph, “Your father and brothers have come to you.

6 The land of Egypt is before you. Make them dwell in the best place, and give them the land of Goshen. If you know that there are diligent men among them, appoint them masters over my livestock.”

7 After this Joseph brought his father before the king and presented him to Pharaoh, and Jacob blessed him.

8 Pharaoh asked him, “How many are the days of the years of your life?”

9 He answered, “The days of my sojourning are one hundred and thirty years, few and evil, and they have not reached the days of my fathers in which they sojourned.”

10 He blessed the king and went out.

11 Joseph gave his father and brothers a possession in Egypt, in Rameses, the best place in the land, as Pharaoh had commanded.

12 He fed them and all his father’s house, giving food to each one.

13 For there was no bread in all the world, and the famine oppressed the land, especially Egypt and Canaan.

14 From these lands he gathered all the money from the sale of grain and brought it into the king’s treasury.

15 When the buyers’ money had failed, all Egypt came to Joseph, saying, “Give us loaves. Why should we die before you because the money is gone?”

16 He answered them, “Bring your livestock, and I will give you food in exchange for them if you have no money.”

17 When they brought it, he gave them food in exchange for horses, sheep, oxen, and donkeys, and sustained them that year in exchange for their livestock.

18 They came again in the second year and said to him, “We will not hide from our lord that when the money failed, the livestock failed as well. Nor is it hidden from you that we have nothing left but our bodies and our land.

19 Why should we die while you look on, both we and our land? We will belong to you. Buy us into royal servitude and provide seed, lest the land become a wilderness when its cultivator perishes.”

20 So Joseph bought all the land of Egypt, each person selling his possession because of the greatness of the famine. He subjected it to Pharaoh,

21 along with all its peoples, from the farthest boundary of Egypt to its furthest reaches,

22 except the land of the priests, which the king had given them. They also received appointed portions of food from the public storehouses, and therefore they were not compelled to sell their possessions.

23 Then Joseph said to the peoples, “Behold, as you see, Pharaoh possesses both you and your land. Take seed and sow the fields,

24 so that you may have produce. You shall give a fifth part to the king; the remaining four parts I leave to you for seed and for food for your households and children.”

25 They answered, “Our salvation is in your hand. Only let our lord look upon us, and we will serve the king gladly.”

26 From that time to the present day, a fifth part is paid to the kings throughout all the land of Egypt, and this became as though a law, except for the land of the priests, which remained free from this condition.

27 So Israel dwelt in Egypt, that is, in the land of Goshen, and possessed it. He increased and multiplied exceedingly.

28 He lived there seventeen years, and all the days of his life were one hundred and forty-seven years.

29 When he saw that the day of his death was drawing near, he called his son Joseph and said to him, “If I have found favor in your sight, put your hand beneath my thigh and show me mercy and truth: do not bury me in Egypt,

30 but let me sleep with my fathers. Carry me out of this land and lay me in the tomb of my ancestors.” Joseph answered him, “I will do as you have commanded.”

31 “Then swear to me,” he said. When Joseph swore, Israel worshiped God, turning toward the head of the bed.

CHAPTER 48

1 After these things had taken place, Joseph was told that his father was ill. Taking his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim, he went to him.

2 The old man was told, “Behold, your son Joseph is coming to you.” Gathering his strength, he sat up on the bed.

3 When Joseph came in, he said to him, “God Almighty appeared to me at Luz, which is in the land of Canaan, and blessed me.

4 He said, ‘I will increase and multiply you, and make you into throngs of peoples. I will give this land to you and to your seed after you as an everlasting possession.’

5 Therefore your two sons who were born to you in the land of Egypt before I came here to you shall be mine. Ephraim and Manasseh shall be counted as mine, like Reuben and Simeon.

6 But the others whom you father after them shall be yours and shall be called by the names of their brothers in their inheritances.

7 As for me, when I came from Mesopotamia, Rachel died on the journey in the land of Canaan. It was springtime, and I was entering Ephrath. I buried her beside the road to Ephrath, which is also called Bethlehem.”

8 Seeing Joseph’s sons, Israel said to him, “Who are these?”

9 He answered, “They are my sons, whom God has given me in this place.” Israel said, “Bring them to me, so that I may bless them.”

10 Israel’s eyes were dim because of his great age, and he could not see clearly. When they were brought near, he kissed and embraced them,

11 and said to his son, “I have not been denied the sight of you, and beyond this, God has shown me your seed.”

12 When Joseph had taken them from his father’s lap, he bowed low to the ground.

14 Israel stretched out his right hand and placed it upon the head of Ephraim, the younger brother, and his left upon the head of Manasseh, who was older, crossing his hands.

15 He blessed the sons of Joseph and said, “The God before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked, the God who feeds me from my youth to this present day,

16 the angel who has delivered me from every evil—may he bless these boys. May my name be invoked upon them, and also the names of my fathers Abraham and Isaac; and may they grow into a multitude upon the earth.”

17 When Joseph saw that his father had placed his right hand upon Ephraim’s head, he took it grievously. Taking his father’s hand, he tried to lift it from Ephraim’s head and move it onto Manasseh’s.

18 He said to his father, “It should not be so, Father, for this one is the firstborn. Put your right hand upon his head.”

19 But he refused and said, “I know, my son, I know. He also will become peoples and will multiply, but his younger brother will be greater than he, and his seed will grow into nations.”

20 He blessed them at that time, saying, “In you shall Israel be blessed, and it shall be said, ‘May God make you like Ephraim and like Manasseh.’” And he set Ephraim before Manasseh.

21 He said to his son Joseph, “Behold, I am dying, but God will be with all of you and will lead you back to the land of your fathers.

22 I give you one portion beyond your brothers, which I took from the hand of the Amorite with my sword and my bow.”

CHAPTER 49

1 Jacob called his sons and said to them, “Gather together, so that I may announce what shall come upon you in the last days.

2 Gather together and hear, sons of Jacob; hear Israel your father.

3 Reuben, my firstborn, you are my strength and the beginning of my sorrow, first in gifts and greater in authority.

4 You were poured out like water; may you not increase, because you went up to your father’s bed and defiled his couch.

5 Simeon and Levi are brothers, warring vessels of iniquity.

6 May my soul not enter their counsel, nor my glory be in their assembly, for in their fury they killed a man, and in their will they undermined a wall.

7 Cursed be their fury, because it was unyielding, and their indignation, because it was hard. I will divide them in Jacob and scatter them in Israel.

8 Judah, your brothers shall praise you. Your hand shall be upon the necks of your enemies; the sons of your father shall bow down before you.

9 Judah is a lion’s cub. To the prey, my son, you have gone up. Resting, you lay down like a lion and like a lioness. Who will rouse him?

10 The scepter shall not be taken from Judah, nor the ruler from his thigh, until the one who is to be sent comes; and he shall be the expectation of the nations.

11 Tying his colt to the vineyard and his she-donkey, O my son, to the vine, he shall wash his robe in wine and his cloak in the blood of the grape.

12 His eyes are more beautiful than wine, and his teeth whiter than milk.

13 Zebulun shall dwell upon the seashore and at the haven of ships, reaching as far as Sidon.

14 Issachar is a strong donkey lying down between the boundaries.

15 He saw that rest was good and the land excellent; he set his shoulder to carrying, and became a servant under tribute.

16 Dan shall judge his people like another tribe in Israel.

17 May Dan be a snake in the way, a horned serpent on the path, biting the horse’s hooves so that its rider falls backward.

18 I will wait for your salvation, O Lord.

19 Gad, girded, shall fight before him, and he himself shall be girded from behind.

20 Asher—his bread is fat, and he shall provide delicacies for kings.

21 Naphtali is a stag set free, uttering words of beauty.

22 Joseph is a son who increases, a son who increases and is beautiful to behold; daughters ran upon the wall.

23 But they embittered him and quarreled, and those who held darts envied him.

24 His bow rested upon strength, and the bonds of his arms and hands were loosed by the hands of the Mighty One of Jacob; from there came forth the shepherd, the stone of Israel.

25 The God of your father shall be your helper, and the Almighty shall bless you with blessings of heaven above, blessings of the deep lying below, blessings of breasts and womb.

26 The blessings of your father were strengthened by the blessings of his fathers until the desire of the everlasting hills came. May they be upon Joseph’s head and upon the crown of the Nazirite among his brothers.

27 Benjamin is a ravenous wolf: in the morning may he eat the prey, and in the evening he shall divide the spoils.”

28 All these are the twelve tribes of Israel. Their father spoke these things to them and blessed each one with his own blessings.

29 He commanded them, saying, “I am being gathered to my people. Bury me with my fathers in the double cave in the field of Ephron the Hethite, 30 opposite Mamre in the land of Canaan, which Abraham bought with the field from Ephron the Hethite as a possession for burial.

31 There they buried him and Sarah his wife. There Isaac was buried with Rebekah his wife. There also Leah lies entombed.”

32 When he had finished the commands by which he instructed his sons, he drew his feet up onto the bed and died, and he was added to his people.

CHAPTER 50

1 When Joseph saw this, he fell upon his father's face, weeping and kissing him.

2 He commanded his servants the physicians to embalm his father with spices.

3 As they fulfilled his commands, forty days passed, for this was the custom for embalmed corpses. Egypt mourned him for seventy days.

4 When the time of mourning was completed, Joseph spoke to Pharaoh's household: "If I have found favor in your sight, speak in the hearing of Pharaoh,

5 because my father made me swear, saying, 'Behold, I am dying. You shall bury me in my tomb, which I dug for myself in the land of Canaan.' Therefore I will go up and bury my father, and then I will return."

6 Pharaoh said to him, "Go up and bury your father, as you were made to swear."

7 As he went up, all the elders of Pharaoh's house and all the men of greater age in the land of Egypt went with him,

8 along with Joseph's household and his brothers, except their little ones, flocks, and herds, which they had left in the land of Goshen.

9 Chariots and horsemen also accompanied him, and the company was not small.

10 They came to the Threshing Floor of Atad, which lies beyond the Jordan, and there, observing the funeral rites with great and vehement lamentation, they filled seven days.

11 When the inhabitants of the land of Canaan saw this, they said, "This is a great mourning for the Egyptians." Therefore that place was called the Mourning of Egypt.

12 So the sons of Jacob did as he had commanded them.

13 They carried him into the land of Canaan and buried him in the double cave, which Abraham had bought with the field from Ephron the Hethite as a possession for burial, opposite Mamre.

14 After burying his father, Joseph returned to Egypt with his brothers and the whole company.

15 After their father died, Joseph's brothers were afraid and said to one another, "Perhaps he will remember the injury he suffered and repay us for all the evil we did."

16 So they sent word to him, saying, "Before your father died, he commanded us

17 to say these things to you in his words: 'I beg you to forget the crime of your brothers, and the sin and malice they practiced against you.' We also ask you to forgive this iniquity of the servants of your father's God." When Joseph heard this, he wept.

18 His brothers came to him and, bowing low to the ground, said, "We are your servants."

19 He answered them, "Do not be afraid. Can we resist the will of God?

20 You devised evil against me, but God turned it to good, so that he might exalt me, as you see at present, and save many peoples.

21 Do not be afraid. I will feed you and your little ones." He comforted them and spoke kindly and gently.

22 Joseph dwelt in Egypt with all his father's house, and he lived one hundred and ten years. He saw Ephraim's sons to the third generation. The sons of Machir, son of Manasseh, were also born upon Joseph's knees.

23 When these years had passed, he said to his brothers, "After my death, God will visit you and cause you to go up from this land to the land he swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob."

24 He made them swear and said, "God will visit you; carry my bones with you from this place."

25 He died when the one hundred and ten years of his life were complete. Embalmed with spices, he was laid in a coffin in Egypt.

BOOK TWO: EXODUS

CHAPTER 1

1 These are the names of the sons of Israel who entered Egypt with Jacob; each entered with his household:

2 Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah,

3 Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin,

4 Dan and Naphtali, Gad and Asher.

5 Thus all the souls who came from Jacob’s thigh were seventy; but Joseph was in Egypt.

6 When he had died, with all his brothers and all that generation,

7 the sons of Israel grew, and, as if sprouting, multiplied; they became exceedingly strong and filled the land.

8 Meanwhile, a new king arose over Egypt, who did not know Joseph.

9 He said to his people, “Look, the people of the sons of Israel are many and stronger than we are.

10 Come, let us oppress them wisely, lest perhaps they multiply; and if war should come upon us, they may join our enemies and, after defeating us, depart from the land.”

11 Therefore he set taskmasters over them, to afflict them with burdens; and they built cities of tabernacles for Pharaoh: Pithom and Rameses.

12 Yet the more they oppressed them, the more they multiplied and grew.

13 The Egyptians hated the sons of Israel and afflicted them with mockery,

14 bringing their life to bitterness through hard work in clay and brick and through every service by which they were pressed in the work of the land.

15 Then the king of Egypt spoke to the Hebrew midwives, one of whom was called Shiphrah and the other Puah,

16 commanding them, “When you act as midwives for the Hebrew women and the time of birth comes, if it is a male, kill him; if a female, keep her alive.”

17 But the midwives feared God and did not do as the king of Egypt commanded, but preserved the males.

18 Having summoned them to himself, the king said, “What is this you have chosen to do, that you preserve the boys?”

19 They answered, “Hebrew women are not like Egyptian women; for they have knowledge in giving birth, and they deliver before we come to them.”

20 Therefore God dealt well with the midwives; and the people grew and became exceedingly strong.

21 And because the midwives feared God, he made households for them.

22 Therefore Pharaoh commanded all his people, saying, “Every male that is born, throw into the river; but keep every female alive.”

CHAPTER 2

1 After this a man from the house of Levi went out and took a wife from his own stock.

2 She conceived and bore a son; and seeing that he was beautiful, she hid him for three months.

3 When she could hide him no longer, she took a basket of reeds and coated it with bitumen and pitch; she put the little child inside and set it among the reeds on the riverbank,

4 while his sister stood at a distance, watching what would happen.

5 Now Pharaoh's daughter came down to wash in the river, while her girls walked along the riverbank. Seeing the basket among the papyrus, she sent one of her maidservants, and when it had been brought,

6 she opened it and saw in it a little boy crying. Moved with pity for him, she said, "This is one of the Hebrew children."

7 The boy's sister said to her, "Do you want me to go and call a Hebrew woman for you, who can nurse the child?"

8 She answered, "Go." The girl went and called her own mother.

9 Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Take this boy and nurse him for me, and I will give you your wages." The woman took him and nursed him; and when he had grown up, she delivered him to Pharaoh's daughter.

10 She adopted him in place of a son and called his name Moses, saying, "For I took him from the water."

11 In those days, after Moses had grown, he went out to his brothers. He saw their affliction, and an Egyptian man striking one of his Hebrew brothers.

12 Looking this way and that, and seeing no one present, he struck down the Egyptian and hid him in the sand.

13 Going out the next day, he saw two Hebrews quarrelling and said to the one doing wrong, "Why do you strike your neighbor?"

14 He answered, "Who made you ruler and judge over us? Do you want to kill me as you killed the Egyptian yesterday?" Moses was afraid and said, "How has this matter become known?"

15 Pharaoh heard this report and sought to kill Moses. But Moses fled from his sight, stayed in the land of Midian, and sat beside a well.

16 The priest of Midian had seven daughters. They came to draw water, and, having filled the troughs, wished to water their father's flocks.

17 Shepherds came upon them and drove them away; but Moses rose, defended the girls, and watered their sheep.

18 When they returned to their father Raguel, he said to them, "Why have you come so quickly today?"

19 They answered, "An Egyptian man rescued us from the hand of the shepherds; moreover, he drew water with us and gave the sheep drink."

20 He said, "Where is he? Why did you leave the man? Call him, so that he may eat bread."

21 So Moses swore that he would live with him. And he took his daughter Zipporah as his wife;

22 she bore him a son, whom he called Gershom, saying, "I have been a sojourner in a foreign land." She bore another, whom he called Eliezer, saying, "For the God of my father, my helper, rescued me from the hand of Pharaoh."

23 After a long time the king of Egypt died. The sons of Israel groaned because of their work and cried out; their cry rose to God from their work.

24 God heard their groaning and remembered the covenant that he had struck with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

25 And the Lord (YHWH) looked upon the sons of Israel and knew them.

CHAPTER 3

1 Moses was shepherding the sheep of Jethro his father-in-law, priest of Midian; and having driven the flock into the inner wilderness, he came to Horeb, the mountain of God.

2 The Lord appeared to him in a flame of fire from the midst of a bush; and he saw that the bush was burning and was not consumed.

3 Moses said, “I will go and see this great sight: why the bush is not consumed.”

4 When the Lord saw that he was going to see, he called to him from the midst of the bush and said, “Moses, Moses.” He answered, “Here I am.”

5 He said, “Do not come near here. Take off the sandal from your feet, for the place where you stand is holy ground.”

6 And he said, “I am the God of your father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.” Moses hid his face, for he did not dare look toward God.

7 The Lord said to him, “I have seen the affliction of my people in Egypt, and I have heard their cry because of the harshness of those who oversee the work.

8 Knowing his pain, I have come down to deliver him from the hands of the Egyptians and bring him up from that land into a good and spacious land, a land flowing with milk and honey, to the places of the Canaanite, Hittite, Amorite, Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite.

9 Therefore the cry of the sons of Israel has come to me, and I have seen their affliction, with which the Egyptians oppress them.

10 But come: I will send you to Pharaoh, so that you may bring my people, the sons of Israel, out of Egypt.”

11 Moses said to God, “Who am I, that I should go to Pharaoh and bring the sons of Israel out of Egypt?”

12 He said to him, “I will be with you. This will be your sign that I have sent you: when you have brought my people out of Egypt, you will sacrifice to God on this mountain.”

13 Moses said to God, “Look, I will go to the sons of Israel and say to them, ‘The God of your fathers has sent me to you.’ If they say to me, ‘What is his name?’ what shall I say to them?”

14 God said to Moses, “I am who I am.” He said, “Thus you shall say to the sons of Israel: ‘He Who Is has sent me to you.’”

15 Again God said to Moses, “Thus you shall say to the sons of Israel: ‘The Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has sent me to you. This is my name forever, and this is my memorial from generation to generation.’

16 Go, gather the elders of Israel, and say to them, ‘The Lord God of your fathers appeared to me, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying: “In visiting, I have visited you, and I have seen all that has happened to you in Egypt.

17 And I have said that I will bring you out of the affliction of Egypt, into the land of the Canaanite, Hittite, Amorite, Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite, into a land flowing with milk and honey.”’

18 They will hear your voice; then you and the elders of Israel shall go to the king of Egypt and say to him, ‘The Lord God of the Hebrews has called us. We will go a three days’ journey into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the Lord our God.’

19 But I know that the king of Egypt will not let you go except by a mighty hand.

20 For I will stretch out my hand and strike Egypt with all my wonders which I will do in their midst; after this, he will let you go.

21 And I will give this people favor in the sight of the Egyptians, so that when you go out, you will not go out empty;

22 but every woman shall ask her neighbor and the woman lodging in her house for articles of silver and gold and garments. You shall put them on your sons and daughters, and you shall strip Egypt.”

CHAPTER 4

1 Moses answered, “They will not believe me or hear my voice, but will say, ‘The Lord did not appear to you.’”

2 He said to him, “What is that which you hold in your hand?” He answered, “A staff.”

3 The Lord said, “Throw it on the ground.” He threw it down, and it became a serpent, so that Moses fled.

4 The Lord said, “Stretch out your hand and take hold of its tail.” He stretched it out, took hold of it, and it became a staff.

5 “So that they may believe,” he said, “that the Lord God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has appeared to you.”

6 Again the Lord said, “Put your hand into your bosom.” When he put it into his bosom, he brought it out leprous, like snow.

7 He said, “Draw your hand back into your bosom.” He drew it back and brought it out again, and it was like the rest of his flesh.

8 “If they do not believe you or heed the word of the first sign, they will believe the word of the following sign.

9 But if they do not believe even these two signs or heed your voice, take water from the river and pour it upon the dry ground, and whatever you draw from the river will become blood.”

10 Moses said, “Please, Lord, I have not been eloquent from yesterday and the day before yesterday; and since you have spoken to your servant, I am more impeded and slow of tongue.”

11 The Lord said to him, “Who made a human mouth? Or who fashioned one mute or deaf, seeing or blind? Is it not I?

12 Go, then, and I will be in your mouth and teach you what you shall say.”

13 But he said, “Please, Lord, send whom you will send.”

14 The Lord became angry with Moses and said, “Aaron your Levite brother—I know that he is eloquent. Look, he is coming out to meet you, and seeing you he will rejoice in his heart.

15 Speak to him and put my words in his mouth; and I will be in your mouth and in his mouth, and I will show you what you ought to do.

16 He will speak for you to the people and will be your mouth; but you will be for him in the things that concern God.

17 Take this staff also in your hand, with which you will perform the signs.”

18 Moses went and returned to Jethro his father-in-law and said to him, “I will go and return to my brothers in Egypt, to see whether they are still alive.” Jethro said to him, “Go in peace.”

19 Then the Lord said to Moses in Midian, “Go and return to Egypt, for all those who sought your soul are dead.”

20 So Moses took his wife and his sons, put them upon a donkey, and returned to Egypt, carrying the staff of God in his hand.

21 The Lord said to him as he returned to Egypt, “See that you perform before Pharaoh all the wonders that I have put in your hand. But I will harden his heart, and he will not let the people go.

22 You shall say to him, ‘Thus says the Lord: Israel is my firstborn son.

23 I told you, “Let my son go, that he may serve me,” and you refused to let him go. Look, I will kill your firstborn son.’”

24 While he was on the way, at the lodging place, the Lord met him and wanted to kill him.

25 Therefore Zipporah took a very sharp stone and cut off her son’s foreskin; she touched his feet and said, “You are a bridegroom of bloods to me.”

26 And he let him go after she had said, “A bridegroom of bloods because of the circumcision.”

27 The Lord said to Aaron, “Go out to meet Moses in the wilderness.” He went to meet him at the mountain of God and kissed him.

28 Moses told Aaron all the words of the Lord by which he had sent him, and the signs he had commanded.

29 They came together and gathered all the elders of the sons of Israel.

30 Aaron spoke all the words that the Lord had spoken to Moses, and performed the signs before the people,

31 and the people believed. They heard that the Lord had visited the sons of Israel and had looked on their affliction; and they bowed down and worshiped.

CHAPTER 5

1 After this Moses and Aaron went in and said to Pharaoh, “Thus says the Lord God of Israel: Let my people go, that they may sacrifice to me in the wilderness.”

2 But he answered, “Who is the Lord, that I should hear his voice and let Israel go? I do not know the Lord, and I will not let Israel go.”

3 They said, “The God of the Hebrews has called us, that we may go a three days’ journey into the wilderness and sacrifice to the Lord our God, lest perhaps pestilence or sword come upon us.”

4 The king of Egypt said to them, “Why do you, Moses and Aaron, draw the people away from their work? Go to your burdens.”

5 Pharaoh said, “The people of the land are numerous; you see that the crowd has grown—how much more if you give them rest from their work?”

6 Therefore that day he commanded the overseers of the work and the taskmasters of the people, saying,

7 “You shall no longer give the people straw to make bricks, as before; let them go and gather stubble themselves.

8 And lay upon them the quota of bricks which they made before; diminish nothing, for they are idle, and therefore they cry out, saying, ‘Let us go and sacrifice to our God.’

9 Let them be oppressed with work and fulfill it, so that they do not give heed to lying words.”

10 So the overseers of the work and taskmasters went out to the people and said, “Thus says Pharaoh: I do not give you straw.

11 Go and gather it wherever you can find it, and nothing of your work will be diminished.”

12 The people were scattered through all the land of Egypt to gather straw.

13 The overseers of the work pressed them, saying, “Complete your work each day, as you used to do when straw was given to you.”

14 And those set over the work of the sons of Israel were whipped by Pharaoh’s taskmasters, who said, “Why have you not filled the quota of bricks as before, neither yesterday nor today?”

15 The overseers of the sons of Israel came and cried out to Pharaoh, saying, “Why do you deal this way with your servants?

16 Straw is not given to us, yet bricks are commanded of us; look, your servants are beaten with whips, and your people are treated unjustly.”

17 He said, “You are idle, idle; therefore you say, ‘Let us go and sacrifice to the Lord.’

18 Go then and work. Straw will not be given to you, but you shall deliver the customary number of bricks.”

19 The overseers of the sons of Israel saw themselves in trouble, because it was said to them, “Nothing shall be diminished from the bricks for each day.”

20 They met Moses and Aaron, who were standing opposite them, as they came out from Pharaoh,

21 and said to them, “May the Lord see and judge, because you have made our odor stink before Pharaoh and his servants and put a sword in his hand to kill us.”

22 Moses returned to the Lord and said, “Lord, why have you afflicted this people? Why did you send me?

23 For since I went in to Pharaoh to speak in your name, he has afflicted your people, and you have not delivered them.”

CHAPTER 6

1 The Lord said to Moses, “Now you will see what I will do to Pharaoh; for by a strong hand he will let them go, and with a mighty hand he will drive them from his land.”

2 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying, “I am the Lord,

3 who appeared to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob as God Almighty; and I did not make known to them my name Adonai.

4 And I struck a covenant with them, to give them the land of Canaan, the land of their sojourning, in which they were strangers.

5 I have heard the groaning of the sons of Israel, whom the Egyptians oppressed, and I have remembered my pact.

6 Therefore say to the sons of Israel: I am the Lord who will bring you out from the prison-house of the Egyptians, rescue you from slavery, and redeem you with an uplifted arm and great judgments.

7 I will take you to myself as a people, and I will be your God; and you shall know that I am the Lord your God who has brought you out from the prison-house of the Egyptians,

8 and brought you into the land over which I raised my hand to give it to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. I will give it to you as a possession. I am the Lord.”

9 Moses told all this to the sons of Israel, but they did not listen to him because of anguish of spirit and the most grievous work.

10 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

11 “Go in and speak to Pharaoh king of Egypt, that he may let the sons of Israel go from his land.”

12 Moses answered before the Lord, “Look, the sons of Israel do not hear me; how then will Pharaoh hear me, especially since I am uncircumcised in lips?”

13 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron and gave them a command concerning the sons of Israel and Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

14 These are the heads of their houses by their families. The sons of Reuben, Israel’s firstborn: Hanoch and Pallu, Hezron and Carmi;

15 these are the kindreds of Reuben. The sons of Simeon: Jemuel, Jamin, Ahod, Jachin, Zohar, and Saul son of a Canaanite woman; these are the generations of Simeon.

16 These are the names of the sons of Levi by their kindreds: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. The years of Levi’s life were one hundred thirty-seven.

17 The sons of Gershon: Libni and Shimei, by their kindreds.

18 The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel; the years of Kohath’s life were one hundred thirty-three.

19 The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. These are the kindreds of Levi by their families.

20 Amram took as wife Jochebed, his father’s sister; she bore him Aaron and Moses. The years of Amram’s life were one hundred thirty-seven.

21 The sons of Izhar: Korah, Nepheg, and Zichri.

22 The sons of Uzziel: Mishael, Elzaphan, and Sithri.

23 Aaron took as wife Elisheba daughter of Amminadab, sister of Nahshon; she bore him Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

24 The sons of Korah: Assir, Elkanah, and Abiasaph; these are the kindreds of the Korahites.

25 Eleazar son of Aaron took a wife from the daughters of Putiel; she bore him Phinehas. These are the heads of the Levite families by their kindreds.

26 This is Aaron and Moses, to whom the Lord commanded that they bring the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt by their companies.

27 These are the ones who spoke to Pharaoh king of Egypt to bring the sons of Israel out of Egypt—this Moses and Aaron—

28 on the day when the Lord spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt.

29 And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying, “I am the Lord. Speak to Pharaoh king of Egypt all that I speak to you.”

30 Moses said before the Lord, “Look, I am uncircumcised in lips; how will Pharaoh hear me?”

CHAPTER 7

1 The Lord said to Moses, “Look, I have made you God to Pharaoh, and Aaron your brother will be your prophet.

2 You will speak to him all that I command you, and he will speak to Pharaoh, that he may let the sons of Israel go from his land.

3 But I will harden his heart and multiply my signs and wonders in the land of Egypt,

4 and he will not hear you. I will lay my hand upon Egypt and bring my army, my people, the sons of Israel, out of the land of Egypt by very great judgments.

5 And the Egyptians will know that I am the Lord, when I stretch out my hand over Egypt and bring the sons of Israel out from their midst.”

6 So Moses and Aaron did as the Lord commanded; thus they did.

7 Moses was eighty years old and Aaron eighty-three when they spoke to Pharaoh.

8 The Lord said to Moses and Aaron,

9 “When Pharaoh says to you, ‘Show signs,’ you shall say to Aaron, ‘Take your staff and throw it down before Pharaoh, and it will become a serpent.’”

10 So Moses and Aaron went in to Pharaoh and did as the Lord commanded. Aaron took the staff before Pharaoh and his servants, and it became a serpent.

11 Pharaoh called the wise men and sorcerers, and they too did likewise by Egyptian enchantments and certain secret arts.

12 Each threw down his staff, and they became dragons; but Aaron’s staff devoured their staffs.

13 Pharaoh’s heart was hardened, and he did not hear them, as the Lord had commanded.

14 The Lord said to Moses, “Pharaoh’s heart is weighed down; he does not want to let the people go.

15 Go to him in the morning. Look, he will be going out to the waters. Stand to meet him on the bank of the river, and take in your hand the staff that became a dragon.

16 Say to him, ‘The Lord God of the Hebrews sent me to you, saying, “Let my people go, that they may sacrifice to me in the wilderness.” And until now you have not been willing to hear.

17 Thus says the Lord: By this you will know that I am the Lord. Look, with the staff in my hand I will strike the water of the river, and it will become blood.

18 The fish also that are in the river will die, the waters will rot, and the Egyptians will be afflicted as they drink the river water.”

19 The Lord also said to Moses, “Say to Aaron, ‘Take your staff and stretch out your hand over the waters of Egypt, over their rivers, streams, pools, and every reservoir of water, that they may become blood. There shall be blood in all the land of Egypt, both in wooden vessels and in stone.’”

20 Moses and Aaron did as the Lord commanded. Raising the staff, he struck the river water before Pharaoh and his servants, and it became blood.

21 The fish in the river died, the river rotted, and the Egyptians could not drink the river water; and there was blood in all the land of Egypt.

22 The sorcerers of Egypt did the same by their enchantments, and Pharaoh’s heart was hardened; he did not hear them, as the Lord had commanded.

23 He turned away and went into his house, and did not take this to heart either.

24 All the Egyptians dug around the river for water to drink, for they could not drink from the river water.

25 Seven days were completed after the Lord struck the river.

CHAPTER 8

1 The Lord also said to Moses, “Go in to Pharaoh and say to him, ‘Thus says the Lord: Let my people go, that they may sacrifice to me.

2 But if you refuse to let them go, look, I will strike all your borders with frogs,

3 and the river will teem with frogs. They will come up and enter your house, your bedroom, your bed, the houses of your servants, your people, your ovens, and the remains of your food;

4 frogs will enter upon you, your people, and all your servants.’”

5 The Lord said to Moses, “Say to Aaron, ‘Stretch out your hand over the rivers, streams, and pools, and bring frogs up over the land of Egypt.’”

6 Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt, and frogs came up and covered the land of Egypt.

7 The sorcerers did likewise by their enchantments and brought frogs up over the land of Egypt.

8 Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron and said to them, “Pray to the Lord, that he may take away the frogs from me and my people, and I will let the people go, that they may sacrifice to the Lord.”

9 Moses said to Pharaoh, “Set the time for me when I shall pray for you, your servants, and your people, that the frogs may be driven away from you, your house, your servants, and your people, and remain only in the river.”

10 He answered, “Tomorrow.” Moses said, “It will be according to your word, that you may know that there is none like the Lord our God.

11 The frogs will withdraw from you, your house, your servants, and your people; only in the river will they remain.”

12 Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh, and Moses cried to the Lord about the promise concerning the frogs that he had made with Pharaoh.

13 The Lord did according to Moses’ word, and the frogs died out of the houses, villages, and fields.

14 They gathered them into immense heaps, and the land rotted.

15 But Pharaoh, seeing that relief had been given, made his heart heavy and did not hear them, as the Lord had commanded.

16 The Lord said to Moses, “Speak to Aaron: ‘Stretch out your staff and strike the dust of the ground, and let it become gnats throughout all the land of Egypt.’”

17 They did so. Aaron stretched out his hand holding the staff and struck the dust of the ground; and gnats came upon people and beasts. All the dust of the ground became gnats throughout all the land of Egypt.

18 The sorcerers did likewise with their enchantments, to bring forth gnats, but they could not. Gnats were on people and beasts.

19 The sorcerers said to Pharaoh, “This is the finger of God.” But Pharaoh’s heart was hardened, and he did not hear them, as the Lord had commanded.

20 The Lord also said to Moses, “Rise early and stand before Pharaoh, for he will be going out to the waters, and say to him, ‘Thus says the Lord: Let my people go, that they may sacrifice to me.

21 But if you do not let them go, look, I will send every kind of fly upon you, your servants, your people, and your houses; the houses of the Egyptians and all the land where they are will be filled with flies of different kinds.

22 On that day I will make remarkable the land of Goshen, where my people are, so that no flies may be there; and you will know that I am the Lord in the midst of the land.

23 I will set a division between my people and your people. Tomorrow this sign will be.’”

24 The Lord did so. A very grievous fly came into the houses of Pharaoh and his servants, and into all the land of Egypt; the land was ruined by such flies.

25 Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron and said to them, “Go, sacrifice to your God in this land.”

26 Moses said, “It cannot be done so, for we will sacrifice to the Lord our God the abominations of the Egyptians. If we kill before their eyes what the Egyptians worship, will they not bury us under stones?

27 We will go a three days’ journey into the wilderness and sacrifice to the Lord our God, as he commanded us.”

28 Pharaoh said, “I will let you go to sacrifice to the Lord your God in the wilderness; only do not go too far away. Pray for me.”

29 Moses said, “When I have gone out from you, I will pray to the Lord, and tomorrow the fly will depart from Pharaoh, his servants, and his people. Only do not deceive again by not letting the people go to sacrifice to the Lord.”

30 Moses went out from Pharaoh and prayed to the Lord.

31 He did according to his word and took away the flies from Pharaoh, his servants, and his people; not even one remained.

32 But Pharaoh’s heart grew heavy, so that he did not let the people go on this occasion either.

CHAPTER 9

1 The Lord said to Moses, “Go in to Pharaoh and speak to him: ‘Thus says the Lord God of the Hebrews: Let my people go, that they may sacrifice to me.

2 But if you still refuse and hold them back,

3 look, my hand will be upon your fields, upon your horses, donkeys, camels, cattle, and sheep: a very grievous pestilence.

4 The Lord will make a wonder between the possessions of Israel and those of the Egyptians, so that absolutely nothing of what belongs to the sons of Israel will perish.’”

5 The Lord set a time, saying, “Tomorrow the Lord will do this thing in the land.”

6 The Lord did this thing the next day; all the living animals of the Egyptians died, but absolutely none of the animals of the sons of Israel perished.

7 Pharaoh sent to see, and not one thing was dead of what Israel possessed. But Pharaoh’s heart grew heavy, and he did not let the people go.

8 The Lord said to Moses and Aaron, “Take your hands full of ashes from the furnace, and let Moses scatter them toward heaven before Pharaoh.

9 They will become dust over all the land of Egypt; for on people and beasts throughout all the land of Egypt there will be sores and swelling blisters.”

10 They took ashes from the furnace and stood before Pharaoh, and Moses scattered them toward heaven; and sores with swelling blisters came upon people and beasts.

11 The sorcerers could not stand before Moses because of the sores that were on them and throughout all the land of Egypt.

12 The Lord hardened Pharaoh’s heart, and he did not hear them, as the Lord had spoken to Moses.

13 The Lord said to Moses, “Rise early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh, and say to him, ‘Thus says the Lord God of the Hebrews: Let my people go, that they may sacrifice to me.

14 For this time I will send all my plagues upon your heart, your servants, and your people, that you may know there is none like me in all the earth.

15 For now, stretching out my hand, I will strike you and your people with pestilence, and you will perish from the earth.

16 But for this purpose I have set you up: that I may show my strength in you and that my name may be told in all the earth.

17 Do you still hold back my people and refuse to let them go?

18 Look, tomorrow at this very hour I will rain down exceedingly much hail, such as has not been in Egypt from the day it was founded until this present time.

19 Therefore now send and gather your beasts and all that you have in the field. For people, beasts, and everything found outside, not gathered in from the fields—when the hail falls upon them—they will die.’”

20 Whoever among Pharaoh’s servants feared the word of the Lord made his servants and beasts flee into the houses;

21 but whoever disregarded the word of the Lord left his servants and beasts in the fields.

22 The Lord said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand toward heaven, that hail may come throughout all the land of Egypt, upon people, beasts, and every herb of the field in the land of Egypt.”

23 Moses stretched out his staff toward heaven, and the Lord gave thunder, hail, and lightning running across the earth; the Lord rained hail upon the land of Egypt.

24 Hail and fire were borne together, mixed with one another, of such greatness as had never appeared before in all the land of Egypt since that nation was founded.

25 The hail struck throughout all the land of Egypt everything in the fields, from human to beast; it struck every herb of the field and broke every tree of the countryside.

26 Only in the land of Goshen, where the sons of Israel were, did no hail fall.

27 Pharaoh sent and called Moses and Aaron, saying to them, “I have sinned even now. The Lord is just; I and my people are wicked.

28 Pray to the Lord that God’s thunders and hail may cease. Then I will let you go, and you shall not remain here any longer.”

29 Moses said, “When I have gone out of the city, I will spread out my palms to the Lord; the thunders will cease, and there will be no more hail, that you may know that the earth belongs to the Lord.

30 But I know that you and your servants do not yet fear the Lord God.”

31 Thus the flax and barley were damaged, because the barley was green and the flax was already putting forth seed pods;

32 but the wheat and spelt were not damaged, because they were late crops.

33 Moses went out from Pharaoh, from the city, and stretched out his hands to the Lord; the thunders and hail ceased, and rain no longer dripped upon the earth.

34 But Pharaoh, seeing that the rain, hail, and thunders had ceased, increased his sin;

35 his heart and the hearts of his servants grew heavy and exceedingly hard, and he did not let the sons of Israel go, as the Lord had commanded through Moses.

CHAPTER 10

1 The Lord said to Moses, “Go in to Pharaoh, for I have hardened his heart and the hearts of his servants, that I may perform these my signs in him,

2 and that you may tell in the ears of your son and your grandson how often I crushed the Egyptians and performed my signs among them; and you may know that I am the Lord.”

3 Moses and Aaron went in to Pharaoh and said to him, “Thus says the Lord God of the Hebrews: How long will you refuse to submit to me? Let my people go, that they may sacrifice to me.

4 But if you resist and refuse to let them go, look, tomorrow I will bring locusts into your territory.

5 They will cover the surface of the land, so that none of it can be seen; they will consume what the hail left behind, and gnaw away every tree that sprouts in the fields.

6 They will fill your houses, the houses of your servants, and all the Egyptians, in a measure your fathers and grandfathers have not seen from the day they came upon the earth until this day.” Then he turned and went out from Pharaoh.

7 Pharaoh’s servants said to him, “How long will we endure this stumbling block? Let the men go, that they may sacrifice to the Lord their God. Do you not see that Egypt has perished?”

8 They brought Moses and Aaron back to Pharaoh, and he said to them, “Go, sacrifice to the Lord your God. Who are the ones who will go?”

9 Moses said, “We will go with our little ones and elders, with our sons and daughters, with our sheep and herds; for it is a solemnity of the Lord our God.”

10 Pharaoh answered, “So may the Lord be with you as I let you and your little ones go. It is beyond doubt that you are plotting evil.

11 It shall not be so. Only the men may go and sacrifice to the Lord, for that is what you yourselves asked.” Immediately they were driven from Pharaoh’s presence.

12 The Lord said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand over the land of Egypt for the locust, that it may come up over it and devour every herb that the hail left behind.”

13 Moses stretched out his staff over the land of Egypt, and the Lord brought a scorching wind all that day and night. When morning came, the scorching wind lifted up the locusts.

14 They came up over all the land of Egypt and settled in every territory of the Egyptians, without number; there had been none like them before that time, nor will there be after.

15 They covered the entire surface of the land, laying everything waste. Thus the herb of the land and every fruit of the trees that the hail had left were consumed; absolutely nothing green remained on tree or herb of the land in all Egypt.

16 Therefore Pharaoh hurriedly called Moses and Aaron and said to them, “I have sinned against the Lord your God and against you.

17 But now forgive my sin this one time also, and pray to the Lord your God that he may take this death away from me.”

18 Moses went out from Pharaoh’s presence and prayed to the Lord.

19 He caused a most violent west wind to blow, which swept up the locusts and threw them into the Red Sea; not even one remained in all the territory of Egypt.

20 But the Lord hardened Pharaoh’s heart, and he did not let the sons of Israel go.

21 The Lord said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand toward heaven, and let darkness come over the land of Egypt, so dense that it can be felt.”

22 Moses stretched out his hand toward heaven, and dreadful darkness came throughout all the land of Egypt for three days.

23 No one saw his brother or moved from the place where he was; but wherever the sons of Israel lived, there was light.

24 Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron and said to them, “Go, sacrifice to the Lord. Only let your sheep and herds remain; your little ones may go with you.”

25 Moses said, “You too will give us sacrifices and burnt offerings which we may offer to the Lord our God.

26 All the flocks will go with us; not a hoof will remain, for from them are the things necessary for the worship of the Lord our God—especially since we do not know what must be sacrificed until we arrive at that place.”

27 But the Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he was unwilling to let them go.

28 Pharaoh said to Moses, "Get away from me, and beware that you never again see my face; on whatever day you appear before me, you will die."

29 Moses answered, "It will be as you have said: I will never again see your face."

CHAPTER 11

1 The Lord said to Moses, “I will yet bring one plague upon Pharaoh and Egypt; after this he will let you go, and he will compel you to go out.

2 Therefore tell all the people that every man should ask his friend and every woman her neighbor for articles of silver and gold.”

3 The Lord gave his people favor in the sight of the Egyptians. Moses was also a very great man in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharaoh’s servants and all the people.

4 He said, “Thus says the Lord: At midnight I will go out through Egypt,

5 and every firstborn in the land of the Egyptians will die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sits upon his throne to the firstborn of the slave woman who is at the mill, and every firstborn of beasts.

6 There will be a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, such as has never been before and will never be afterward.

7 But among all the sons of Israel not even a dog will growl, from man to beast, that you may know by what a wonder the Lord divides the Egyptians from Israel.

8 All these your servants will come down to me and bow before me, saying, ‘Go out, you and all the people subject to you.’ After this we will go out.” And he went out from Pharaoh exceedingly angry.

9 The Lord said to Moses, “Pharaoh will not hear you, so that many signs may be done in the land of Egypt.”

10 Moses and Aaron performed all the written wonders before Pharaoh. But the Lord hardened Pharaoh’s heart, and he did not let the sons of Israel go from his land.

CHAPTER 12

1 The Lord also spoke to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt:

2 “This month shall be for you the beginning of months; it shall be the first of the months of the year.

3 Speak to the whole assembly of the sons of Israel and say to them: On the tenth day of this month, each shall take a lamb for his family and household.

4 But if the number is too small to suffice for eating a lamb, he shall take his neighbor who is joined to his household, according to the number of souls sufficient for eating the lamb.

5 The lamb shall be without blemish, a male, one year old; by this rule you shall also take a kid.

6 You shall keep it until the fourteenth day of this month, and the whole multitude of the sons of Israel shall sacrifice it at evening.

7 They shall take some of its blood and put it on both doorposts and on the lintels of the houses in which they will eat it.

8 They shall eat the flesh that night, roasted with fire, with unleavened bread and wild lettuces.

9 You shall not eat any of it raw or boiled in water, but only roasted with fire; you shall eat its head with its feet and entrails.

10 Nothing of it shall remain until morning; whatever is left over, you shall burn with fire.

11 You shall eat it this way: gird your loins, have sandals on your feet, hold staffs in your hands, and eat in haste; for it is the Passover—that is, the passing over—of the Lord.

12 I will pass through the land of Egypt that night and strike every firstborn in the land of Egypt, from man to beast; and upon all the gods of Egypt I will execute judgments. I am the Lord.

13 The blood will be a sign for you in the houses where you are. I will see the blood and pass over you; there will be no destroying plague among you when I strike the land of Egypt.

14 You shall have this day as a memorial and celebrate it as a solemnity to the Lord throughout your generations, in a perpetual observance.

15 For seven days you shall eat unleavened bread. On the first day there shall be no leaven in your houses. Whoever eats what is leavened, that soul will perish from Israel, from the first day to the seventh day.

16 The first day shall be holy and solemn, and the seventh day venerable with the same festival. You shall do no work on them, except what pertains to eating.

17 You shall keep the unleavened bread, for on this very day I will bring your army out of the land of Egypt; you shall keep this day throughout your generations as a perpetual rite.

18 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at evening, you shall eat unleavened bread until the twenty-first day of the same month at evening.

19 For seven days leaven shall not be found in your houses. Whoever eats what is leavened, his soul will perish from the assembly of Israel, whether a sojourner or a native of the land.

20 You shall eat nothing leavened; in all your dwellings you shall eat unleavened bread.”

21 Moses called all the elders of the sons of Israel and said to them, “Go, take an animal for your families, and sacrifice the Passover.

22 Dip a bunch of hyssop in the blood that is in the threshold, and sprinkle the lintel and both doorposts with it. None of you shall go out the door of his house until morning.

23 For the Lord will pass through, striking the Egyptians; and when he sees the blood on the lintel and both doorposts, he will pass over the door of the house and will not allow the destroyer to enter your houses and strike.

24 Keep this word as a statute for you and your sons forever.

25 When you enter the land that the Lord will give you as he promised, you shall observe these ceremonies.

26 When your sons say to you, ‘What is this observance?’

27 you shall say to them, ‘It is the victim of the Lord’s passing over, when he passed over the houses of the sons of Israel in Egypt, striking the Egyptians and delivering our houses.’” The people bowed down and worshiped.

28 The sons of Israel went out and did as the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron.

29 It happened at midnight: the Lord struck every firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sat on his throne to the firstborn of the captive woman who was in prison, and every firstborn of beasts.

30 Pharaoh rose in the night, he and all his servants and all Egypt; and a great cry arose in Egypt, for there was no house in which a dead person did not lie.

31 Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron at night and said, “Rise and go out from among my people, you and the sons of Israel. Go, sacrifice to the Lord as you say.

32 Take your sheep and herds as you requested; and as you go, bless me.”

33 The Egyptians pressed the people to leave the land quickly, saying, “We will all die.”

34 So the people took their kneaded dough before it was leavened and, binding it in cloaks, put it upon their shoulders.

35 The sons of Israel did as Moses commanded and asked the Egyptians for articles of silver and gold and a great many garments.

36 The Lord gave the people favor before the Egyptians, so that they lent to them; and they stripped the Egyptians.

37 The sons of Israel set out from Rameses for Succoth, about six hundred thousand men on foot, apart from little ones.

38 And an innumerable mixed multitude went up with them, with sheep, herds, and a great many living animals of different kinds.

39 They baked the dough they had carried, already kneaded, from Egypt, and made unleavened cakes baked in ashes; for it could not be leavened, as the Egyptians were forcing them to leave and allowing them no delay, nor had they had any opportunity to prepare food.

40 The dwelling of the sons of Israel during which they remained in Egypt was four hundred thirty years.

41 When they were completed, on that very day all the army of the Lord went out from the land of Egypt.

42 This is a night to be observed for the Lord, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt; all the sons of Israel must observe it throughout their generations.

43 The Lord said to Moses and Aaron, “This is the observance of the Passover: no foreigner shall eat of it.

44 But every purchased slave shall be circumcised, and then shall eat.

45 A resident stranger and a hired worker shall not eat of it.

46 It shall be eaten in one house. You shall not carry any of its flesh outside, and you shall not break its bone.

47 The whole assembly of the sons of Israel shall do it.

48 If any sojourner wishes to join your colony and keep the Lord’s Passover, every male of his shall first be circumcised; then he shall celebrate rightly and shall be as a native of the land. But anyone not circumcised shall not eat of it.

49 The same law shall be for the native and the resident who sojourns among you.”

50 All the sons of Israel did as the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron.

51 On that very day the Lord brought the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt by their companies.

CHAPTER 13

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Sanctify to me every firstborn that opens the womb among the sons of Israel, both of people and of beasts, for all are mine.”

3 Moses said to the people, “Remember this day on which you came out of Egypt, out of the house of slavery; for by a strong hand the Lord brought you out of this place. Therefore you shall not eat leavened bread.

4 Today you are going out, in the month of new fruits.

5 When the Lord brings you into the land of the Canaanite, Hittite, Amorite, Hivite, and Jebusite, which he swore to your fathers to give you, a land flowing with milk and honey, you shall celebrate this sacred observance in this month.

6 For seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day there will be a solemnity of the Lord.

7 You shall eat unleavened bread for seven days. Nothing leavened shall appear with you or throughout all your territory.

8 You shall tell your son on that day, saying, ‘This is what the Lord did for me when I came out of Egypt.’

9 It will be like a sign on your hand and like a memorial before your eyes, and so that the law of the Lord may always be in your mouth; for by a strong hand the Lord brought you out of Egypt.

10 You shall keep this observance at its appointed time from days to days.

11 When the Lord brings you into the land of the Canaanite, as he swore to you and your fathers, and gives it to you,

12 you shall set apart for the Lord everything that opens the womb, and every firstborn among your livestock. Whatever male you have, you shall consecrate to the Lord.

13 You shall exchange the firstborn of a donkey for a sheep; if you do not redeem it, you shall kill it. But every firstborn of man among your sons you shall redeem with a price.

14 When your son asks you tomorrow, saying, ‘What is this?’ you shall answer him, ‘By a strong hand the Lord brought us out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slavery.

15 For when Pharaoh was hardened and refused to let us go, the Lord killed every firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of man to the firstborn of beasts. Therefore I sacrifice to the Lord every male that opens the womb, and redeem every firstborn of my sons.’

16 It will therefore be like a sign on your hand and like something hung between your eyes for remembrance, because by a strong hand the Lord brought us out of Egypt.”

17 When Pharaoh had sent the people away, God did not lead them by the way of the land of the Philistines, though it was near, thinking lest perhaps the people might repent when they saw wars rising against them and return to Egypt.

18 But he led them around by the way of the wilderness that is beside the Red Sea; and the sons of Israel went up armed from the land of Egypt.

19 Moses also took Joseph’s bones with him, for he had made the sons of Israel swear, saying, “God will visit you; carry my bones out of here with you.”

20 Setting out from Succoth, they camped at Etham, at the far edge of the wilderness.

21 The Lord went before them by day in a pillar of cloud to show the way, and by night in a pillar of fire, that he might be a guide for the journey at both times.

22 The pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night never departed from before the people.

CHAPTER 14

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 "Speak to the sons of Israel: They are to turn back and camp opposite Pi-hahiroth, which is between Migdol and the sea, opposite Baal-zephon. You shall set camp before it by the sea.

3 Pharaoh will say of the sons of Israel, 'They are hemmed in within the land; the wilderness has shut them in.'

4 I will harden his heart, and he will pursue you; I will be glorified in Pharaoh and in all his army, and the Egyptians will know that I am the Lord." And they did so.

5 The king of Egypt was told that the people had fled. Pharaoh's heart and the hearts of his servants changed toward the people, and they said, "What have we chosen to do, letting Israel go so that they no longer serve us?"

6 So he yoked his chariot and took all his people with him.

7 He took six hundred chosen chariots and every chariot there was in Egypt, with commanders over the entire army.

8 The Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he pursued the sons of Israel; but they went out with an uplifted hand.

9 As the Egyptians pursued the tracks of those going ahead, they found them camped beside the sea. All Pharaoh's cavalry, his chariots, and the whole army were at Pi-hahiroth opposite Baal-zephon.

10 When Pharaoh drew near, the sons of Israel lifted up their eyes and saw the Egyptians behind them, and they were greatly afraid; they cried out to the Lord,

11 and said to Moses, "Perhaps there were no graves in Egypt, so you brought us to die in the wilderness? What did you mean to do by bringing us out of Egypt?

12 Is this not the word we spoke to you in Egypt, saying, 'Leave us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians'? For it was much better to serve them than to die in the wilderness."

13 Moses said to the people, "Do not be afraid. Stand firm and see the great works of the Lord, which he will do today; for the Egyptians whom you now see, you will never again see forever.

14 The Lord will fight for you, and you will be silent."

15 The Lord said to Moses, "Why do you cry out to me? Speak to the sons of Israel that they set out.

16 But you, lift up your staff and stretch out your hand over the sea and divide it, so that the sons of Israel may walk through the midst of the sea on dry ground.

17 As for me, I will harden the hearts of the Egyptians so that they pursue you; and I will be glorified in Pharaoh, all his army, his chariots, and his horsemen.

18 The Egyptians will know that I am the Lord, when I am glorified in Pharaoh, his chariots, and his horsemen."

19 The angel of God, who went before the camp of Israel, lifted himself up and went behind them; and the pillar of cloud went with him, leaving the front and behind their backs

20 stood between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel. It was a dark cloud and gave light to the night, so that they could not come near one another through the whole night.

21 When Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, the Lord took it away by a strong scorching wind all night and turned it into dry land; and the water was divided.

22 The sons of Israel entered through the midst of the dry sea, for the water was like a wall at their right and left.

23 The Egyptians pursued and entered after them through the midst of the sea: all Pharaoh's cavalry, his chariots, and his horsemen.

24 When the morning watch had come, look, the Lord looked down upon the camp of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire and cloud and killed their army,

25 overturned the wheels of the chariots, and they were carried into the deep. Therefore the Egyptians said, "Let us flee from Israel, for the Lord fights for them against us."

26 The Lord said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand over the sea, that the waters may return upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots and horsemen."

27 When Moses stretched out his hand toward the sea, it returned at first light to its former place. As the Egyptians fled, the waters met them, and the Lord wrapped them in the midst of the waves.

28 The waters returned and covered the chariots and horsemen, all Pharaoh's army that had entered the sea after them; not even one of them remained.

29 But the sons of Israel went through the midst of the dry sea, and the waters were like a wall for them at their right and left;

30 and on that day the Lord delivered Israel from the hand of the Egyptians.

31 They saw the Egyptians dead upon the shore of the sea and the great hand that the Lord had wielded against them. The people feared the Lord and believed the Lord and Moses his servant.

CHAPTER 15

1 Then Moses and the children of Israel sang this song to the Lord, and said: “Let us sing to the Lord, for he has been gloriously magnified; horse and rider he has cast into the sea.

2 The Lord is my strength and my praise, and he has become my salvation. This is my God, and I will glorify him; the God of my father, and I will exalt him.

3 The Lord is like a fighting man; Almighty is his name.

4 Pharaoh’s chariots and his army he hurled into the sea; his chosen leaders were drowned in the Red Sea.

5 The depths covered them; they went down into the deep like a stone.

6 Your right hand, Lord, is magnified in strength; your right hand, Lord, struck the enemy.

7 In the multitude of your glory you brought down your adversaries; you sent out your wrath, which devoured them like straw.

8 At the breath of your fury the waters gathered; the flowing wave stood still; the depths gathered in the midst of the sea.

9 The enemy said: ‘I will pursue and seize; I will divide the spoils; my soul will be filled. I will draw my sword; my hand will kill them.’

10 Your breath blew, and the sea covered them; they sank like lead in mighty waters.

11 Who is like you among the mighty, Lord? Who is like you, magnificent in holiness, terrible and praiseworthy, doing wonders?

12 You stretched out your hand, and the earth devoured them.

13 In your mercy you have been a guide to the people you redeemed, and in your strength you have carried it to your holy dwelling.

14 Peoples rose up and were enraged; pains seized the inhabitants of Philistia.

15 Then the rulers of Edom were troubled; trembling seized the strong men of Moab; all the inhabitants of Canaan grew stiff.

16 Let dread and fear fall upon them. By the greatness of your arm, let them become motionless like a stone, until your people pass over, Lord, until this people whom you have possessed passes over.

17 You will bring them in and plant them on the mountain of your inheritance, your most firmly established dwelling, which you have made, Lord—your sanctuary, Lord, which your hands established.

18 The Lord will reign forever and beyond.

19 For Pharaoh’s horseman entered the sea with his chariots and horsemen, and the Lord brought the waters of the sea back over them; but the children of Israel walked through its midst on dry ground.”

20 Then Mary the prophetess, Aaron’s sister, took a tambourine in her hand; and all the women came out after her with tambourines and dances.

21 She sang before them, saying: “Let us sing to the Lord, for he has been gloriously magnified; horse and its rider he has cast into the sea.”

22 Moses led Israel away from the Red Sea, and they went out into the wilderness of Shur. They walked three days through the wilderness and found no water.

23 They came to Marah, but could not drink the waters from Marah because they were bitter; therefore he gave the place a fitting name, calling it Marah, that is, Bitterness.

24 And the people murmured against Moses, saying, “What shall we drink?”

25 But he cried out to the Lord, who showed him a piece of wood. When he had thrown it into the waters, they were changed into sweetness. There he established precepts and judgments for him, and there he tested him,

26 saying: “If you listen to the voice of the Lord your God, and do what is right before him, and obey his commands, and keep all his precepts, I will not bring upon you any of the sickness that I brought upon Egypt; for I am the Lord, your healer.”

27 Then the children of Israel came to Elim, where there were twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees; and they camped beside the waters.

CHAPTER 16

1 They set out from Elim, and the whole multitude of the children of Israel came into the wilderness of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after they had left the land of Egypt.

2 And the whole assembly of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness.

3 The children of Israel said to them: “Would that we had died by the hand of the Lord in the land of Egypt, when we sat by pots of meat and ate bread to fullness! Why have you led us out into this wilderness, to kill this whole multitude with hunger?”

4 Then the Lord said to Moses: “Behold, I will rain bread from heaven for you. Let the people go out and gather what is sufficient for each day, that I may test whether they will walk in my law or not.

5 But on the sixth day let them prepare what they bring in, and let it be double what they used to gather each day.”

6 Moses and Aaron said to all the children of Israel: “In the evening you will know that the Lord has brought you out of the land of Egypt,

7 and in the morning you will see the glory of the Lord, for he has heard your murmuring against the Lord. And what are we, that you have murmured against us?”

8 And Moses said: “The Lord will give you meat to eat in the evening and bread to fullness in the morning, because he has heard your murmurings by which you have murmured against him. For what are we? Your murmuring is not against us, but against the Lord.”

9 Moses also said to Aaron: “Say to the whole assembly of the children of Israel, ‘Come near before the Lord, for he has heard your murmuring.’”

10 While Aaron spoke to the whole gathering of the children of Israel, they looked toward the wilderness; and behold, the glory of the Lord appeared in the cloud.

11 Then the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:

12 “I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel. Speak to them: ‘In the evening you will eat meat, and in the morning you will be filled with bread; and you will know that I am the Lord your God.’”

13 So it came to pass in the evening that quail came up and covered the camp; and in the morning dew lay around the camp.

14 When it had covered the surface of the earth, there appeared in the wilderness something small, and as if crushed by a pestle, like frost upon the earth.

15 When the children of Israel saw it, they said to one another, “Manhu?” which means, “What is this?” For they did not know what it was. Moses said to them: “This is the bread that the Lord has given you for food.

16 This is the word that the Lord commanded: Let each one gather from it as much as is sufficient to eat, a gomor for each head; according to the number of your souls who dwell in the tabernacle, so shall you take it.”

17 And the children of Israel did so; they gathered, one more and another less.

18 When they measured it by the measure of a gomor, he who had gathered more had no excess, and he who had prepared less found no lack; each gathered according to what he could eat.

19 Moses said to them, “Let no one leave any of it until morning.”

20 They did not listen to him; some of them left it until morning, and it began to swarm with worms and rot. And Moses was angry with them.

21 They gathered it morning by morning, each as much as could suffice to eat; and when the sun grew hot, it melted.

22 On the sixth day they gathered double food, that is, two gomors for each man. And all the leaders of the multitude came and told Moses.

23 He said to them: “This is what the Lord has spoken: Tomorrow is a holy Sabbath rest to the Lord. Whatever must be done, do; and whatever must be cooked, cook. But whatever is left over, set aside until morning.”

24 They did as Moses commanded, and it did not rot, nor was any worm found in it.

25 Moses said: “Eat it today, because today is the Sabbath of the Lord; today it will not be found in the field.

26 Gather for six days; but on the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord, therefore it will not be found.”

27 The seventh day came, and some of the people went out to gather, but they found none.

28 Then the Lord said to Moses: “How long will you refuse to keep my commands and my law?

29 See that the Lord has given you the Sabbath, and therefore on the sixth day he gives you double food. Let each one remain where he is; let no one go out from his place on the seventh day.”

30 So the people kept Sabbath on the seventh day.

31 And the house of Israel called its name Man. It was like white coriander seed, and its taste was like fine flour with honey.

32 Moses said: “This is the word that the Lord commanded: ‘Fill a gomor with it, and let it be kept for generations to come, that they may know the bread by which I fed you in the wilderness when you were brought out of the land of Egypt.’”

33 Moses said to Aaron: “Take one vessel and put Man in it, as much as a gomor can hold, and place it before the Lord to be kept for your generations,”

34 as the Lord commanded Moses. And Aaron placed it in the tabernacle for keeping.

35 The children of Israel ate Man forty years, until they came into inhabited land. They were fed with this food until they reached the borders of the land of Canaan.

36 A gomor is a tenth part of an ephah.

CHAPTER 17

1 Therefore the whole multitude of the children of Israel set out from the wilderness of Sin by their stages, according to the word of the Lord, and camped at Rephidim, where there was no water for the people to drink.

2 The people quarreled with Moses and said, “Give us water to drink.” Moses answered them, “Why do you quarrel with me? Why do you test the Lord?”

3 So the people there thirsted for lack of water, and murmured against Moses, saying: “Why did you make us come out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and livestock with thirst?”

4 Then Moses cried to the Lord, saying, “What shall I do with this people? A little more, and they will stone me.”

5 And the Lord said to Moses: “Go on before the people, and take with you some of the elders of Israel. Take in your hand the staff with which you struck the river, and go.

6 Behold, I will stand there before you upon the rock at Horeb; you shall strike the rock, and water will come out of it for the people to drink.” Moses did so before the elders of Israel.

7 And he called that place Temptation, because of the quarrel of the children of Israel and because they tested the Lord, saying, “Is the Lord among us or not?”

8 Then Amalek came and fought against Israel at Rephidim.

9 Moses said to Joshua: “Choose men, and go out to fight Amalek. Tomorrow I will stand on the top of the hill, with the staff of God in my hand.”

10 Joshua did as Moses had told him and fought Amalek. But Moses, Aaron, and Hur went up to the top of the hill.

11 Whenever Moses raised his hands, Israel prevailed; but when he lowered them a little, Amalek prevailed.

12 Moses’ hands became heavy. So they took a stone and put it beneath him, and he sat on it; while Aaron and Hur supported his hands, one on either side. Thus his hands did not grow weary until sunset.

13 And Joshua put Amalek and his people to flight by the edge of the sword.

14 Then the Lord said to Moses: “Write this in a book as a memorial, and put it into Joshua’s hearing, for I will blot out the memory of Amalek from under heaven.”

15 Moses built an altar and called its name, “The Lord is my exaltation,” saying:

16 “Because a hand is upon the throne of the Lord, the Lord will have war against Amalek from generation to generation.”

CHAPTER 18

1 When Jethro, priest of Midian and Moses' kinsman, heard all that God had done for Moses and for Israel his people, and that the Lord had brought Israel out of Egypt,

2 he took Zipporah, Moses' wife, whom Moses had sent back,

3 and her two sons. One was called Gershom, for his father said, "I was a stranger in a foreign land";

4 and the other Eliezer, for he said, "The God of my father is my helper, and he rescued me from Pharaoh's sword."

5 So Jethro, Moses' kinsman, came with his sons and his wife to Moses in the wilderness, where he was camped beside the mountain of God.

6 And he sent word to Moses, saying: "I, Jethro, your kinsman, am coming to you, with your wife and her two sons."

7 Moses went out to meet his kinsman, bowed down, and kissed him; they greeted one another with words of peace. When he had entered the tabernacle,

8 Moses told his kinsman everything that the Lord had done to Pharaoh and the Egyptians for Israel's sake, all the hardship that had happened to them on the journey, and how the Lord had delivered them.

9 And Jethro rejoiced over all the good that the Lord had done for Israel, because he had rescued him from the hand of the Egyptians.

10 And he said: "Blessed be the Lord, who delivered you from the hand of the Egyptians and from the hand of Pharaoh, who rescued his people from the hand of Egypt.

11 Now I know that the Lord is great above all gods, because they acted proudly against them."

12 Then Jethro, Moses' kinsman, offered burnt offerings and sacrifices to God; and Aaron and all the elders of Israel came to eat bread with him before God.

13 On the next day Moses sat to judge the people, who stood before Moses from morning until evening.

14 When his kinsman saw everything he was doing among the people, he said, "What is this that you are doing among the people? Why do you sit alone, while all the people wait for you from morning until evening?"

15 Moses answered him, "The people come to me seeking God's decision.

16 Whenever any dispute arises among them, they come to me that I may judge between them and make known the precepts of God and his laws."

17 But he said, "What you are doing is not good.

18 You and this people with you will wear yourselves out in foolish toil; the matter is beyond your strength. You cannot bear it alone.

19 But listen to my words and counsel, and God will be with you. You must be for the people in matters concerning God, so that you may bring the matters to him.

20 Make known to the people the ceremonies and manner of worship, the way by which they must walk, and the work they must do.

21 But provide from all the people able men, fearing God, men in whom is truth, who hate greed; and appoint from among them commanders of thousands, hundreds, fifties, and tens,

22 to judge the people at all times. Let them bring every greater matter to you, but let them judge only the smaller matters; thus it will be lighter for you, when the burden is divided among others.

23 If you do this, you will fulfill God's command and be able to bear his commands; and all this people will return to their places in peace."

24 Having heard this, Moses did everything he had suggested.

25 And from all Israel he chose capable men and appointed them leaders of the people: commanders of thousands, hundreds, fifties, and tens.

26 They judged the people at all times, bringing every harder matter to him, while judging only easier matters.

27 Then he dismissed his kinsman, who returned and went to his own land.

CHAPTER 19

1 In the third month of Israel's departure from the land of Egypt, on this day they came into the wilderness of Sinai.

2 For they had set out from Rephidim and come as far as the wilderness of Sinai; they camped in that place, and there Israel pitched tents opposite the mountain.

3 But Moses went up to God, and the Lord called to him from the mountain and said: "This is what you shall say to the house of Jacob and announce to the children of Israel:

4 You yourselves have seen what I did to the Egyptians, how I carried you on eagles' wings and took you to myself.

5 Therefore, if you listen to my voice and keep my pact, you will be my own possession from among all peoples, for all the earth is mine.

6 And you will be to me a priestly kingdom and a holy nation. These are the words you shall speak to the children of Israel."

7 Moses came and summoned the elders of the people, and set before them all the words that the Lord had commanded.

8 All the people answered together: "All that the Lord has spoken, we will do." And when Moses had reported the people's words to the Lord,

9 the Lord said to him: "Now I will come to you in the darkness of a cloud, so that the people may hear me speaking with you and believe you forever." So Moses reported the people's words to the Lord.

10 He said to him: "Go to the people and sanctify them today and tomorrow; let them wash their garments.

11 Let them be ready for the third day, for on the third day the Lord will come down before all the people upon Mount Sinai.

12 Set boundaries around the people, and say to them: 'Take care not to go up the mountain or touch its boundary. Everyone who touches the mountain will surely die.

13 No hand shall touch him; rather, he shall be stoned or pierced with darts. Whether beast or man, he shall not live. When the trumpet begins to sound, then let them go up the mountain.'"

14 Moses went down from the mountain to the people and sanctified them. When they had washed their garments,

15 he said to them: "Be ready for the third day, and do not come near your wives."

16 Now the third day had come and morning had grown bright; and behold, thunder began to be heard, lightning flashed, a very thick cloud covered the mountain, and the blast of the trumpet sounded more and more violently. The people in the camp were afraid.

17 Moses brought them out from the camp to meet God, and they stood at the foot of the mountain.

18 The whole of Mount Sinai smoked because the Lord had come down upon it in fire; smoke went up from it as from a furnace, and the whole mountain was terrible.

19 The sound of the trumpet grew ever louder and lengthened; Moses spoke, and God answered him.

20 The Lord came down upon Mount Sinai, on the very summit of the mountain, and called Moses to its summit. When he had gone up, 21 he said to him: "Go down and charge the people, lest they wish to cross the boundaries to see the Lord, and a great multitude of them perish.

22 Let the priests also, who come near to the Lord, sanctify themselves, lest he strike them."

23 Moses said to the Lord: "The multitude cannot go up Mount Sinai, for you yourself warned and commanded us, saying, 'Set boundaries around the mountain and sanctify it.'"

24 The Lord said to him: "Go, go down. Then you and Aaron with you shall come up; but the priests and the people must not cross the boundaries or go up to the Lord, lest he kill them."

25 So Moses went down to the people and told them everything.

CHAPTER 20

1 And the Lord spoke all these words:

2 “I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slavery.

3 You shall have no strange gods before me.

4 You shall not make for yourself a carved image, nor any likeness that is in heaven above, or in the earth below, or of those things that are in the waters under the earth.

5 You shall not worship them or serve them, for I am the Lord your God, a strong, jealous God, visiting the iniquity of fathers upon children, to the third and fourth generation of those who hate me,

6 and showing mercy to thousands of those who love me and keep my precepts.

7 You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain; for the Lord will not hold guiltless one who takes the name of the Lord his God frivolously.

8 Remember to sanctify the Sabbath day.

9 Six days you shall work and do all your work.

10 But the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord your God. You shall do no work on it—you, your son and your daughter, your male servant and female servant, your livestock, and the stranger within your gates.

11 For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea and all that is in them, and rested on the seventh day; therefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day and sanctified it.

12 Honor your father and your mother, that you may live long upon the land that the Lord your God will give you.

13 You shall not kill.

14 You shall not commit adultery.

15 You shall not steal.

16 You shall not speak false testimony against your neighbor.

17 You shall not covet your neighbor’s house; nor shall you desire his wife, his male servant, his female servant, his ox, his donkey, or anything that is his.”

18 Now all the people saw voices and lamps, the sound of the trumpet, and the smoking mountain. Terrified and shaken by fear, they stood at a distance,

19 saying to Moses: “You speak to us, and we will listen; but let not the Lord speak to us, lest perhaps we die.”

20 Moses said to the people: “Do not fear, for God has come to test you, and so that his terror may be in you and you do not sin.”

21 So the people stood at a distance, but Moses went near the darkness in which God was.

22 The Lord further said to Moses: “This you shall say to the children of Israel: ‘You have seen that I spoke to you from heaven.

23 You shall not make gods of silver for yourselves, nor shall you make gods of gold for yourselves.

24 You shall make for me an altar of earth, and upon it you shall offer your burnt offerings and peace offerings, your sheep and oxen, in every place where there will be remembrance of my name. I will come to you and bless you.

25 But if you make for me an altar of stone, you shall not build it of cut stones; for if you lift a tool over it, it will be defiled.

26 You shall not go up by steps to my altar, lest your nakedness be exposed.’”

CHAPTER 21

1 “These are the judgments you shall set before them.

2 If you buy a Hebrew servant, he shall serve you six years; in the seventh he shall go out free, without payment.

3 With whatever clothing he came in, with that shall he go out. If he came in with a wife, his wife shall go out with him.

4 But if his master gives him a wife, and she bears him sons or daughters, the woman and her children shall belong to her master, but he himself shall go out with his clothing.

5 But if the servant says, ‘I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free,’

6 his master shall bring him before the gods, and bring him to the door and doorpost; and he shall pierce his ear with an awl, and he shall be his servant forever.

7 If a man sells his daughter as a female servant, she shall not go out as female servants ordinarily go out.

8 If she displeases the eyes of her master, to whom she had been given, he shall release her; but he shall have no power to sell her to a foreign people, because he has rejected her.

9 But if he betroths her to his son, he shall deal with her according to the custom for daughters.

10 If he takes another for him, he shall not withhold from the girl marriage provision, clothing, or the price of her chastity.

11 If he does not do these three things, she shall go out free, without money.

12 Whoever strikes a man intending to kill him shall surely die.

13 But if he did not lie in wait, and God delivered him into his hands, I will appoint for you a place to which he must flee.

14 If anyone kills his neighbor deliberately and by ambush, you shall tear him away from my altar, that he may die.

15 Whoever strikes his father or mother shall surely die.

16 Whoever steals a man and sells him, if convicted of the crime, shall surely die.

17 Whoever curses his father or mother shall surely die.

18 If men quarrel and one strikes his neighbor with a stone or fist, and he does not die but lies in bed,

19 if he rises and walks outside upon his staff, the man who struck him shall be innocent; only he shall compensate him for his lost work and expenses for physicians.

20 Whoever strikes his male servant or female servant with a rod, and they die in his hands, shall be guilty of a crime.

21 But if the servant survives for one or two days, he shall not be subject to punishment, because he is his money.

22 If men quarrel and someone strikes a pregnant woman and causes a miscarriage, but she herself lives, he shall be subject to a fine as much as the woman’s husband demands and the arbitrators determine.

23 But if her death follows, he shall give soul for soul,

24 eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot,

25 burn for burn, wound for wound, bruise for bruise.

26 If anyone strikes out the eye of his male servant or female servant and makes them one-eyed, he shall let them go free for the eye which he destroyed.

27 If he knocks out the tooth of his male or female servant, he shall likewise let them go free.

28 If an ox gores a man or a woman and they die, the ox shall be stoned, and its flesh shall not be eaten; but the ox’s owner shall be innocent.

29 But if the ox has been a gorer yesterday and the day before, and they have warned its owner, yet he has not confined it, and it kills a man or woman, the ox shall be stoned and its owner also shall be killed.

30 If a payment is imposed upon him, he shall give whatever is demanded for his soul.

31 If it gores a son or daughter, he shall be subject to the same judgment.

32 If it attacks a male or female servant, he shall give their master thirty shekels of silver, and the ox shall be stoned.

33 If anyone opens a cistern, or digs one and does not cover it, and an ox or donkey falls into it,

34 the owner of the cistern shall pay the price of the animal; but what is dead shall be his.

35 If one man’s ox wounds another’s ox and it dies, they shall sell the live ox and divide its price; they shall also divide the carcass of the dead one between them.

36 But if it was known that the ox had been a gorer yesterday and the day before, and its owner did not guard it, he shall repay ox for ox, and receive the whole carcass.

CHAPTER 22

1 If anyone steals an ox or sheep and kills or sells it, he shall restore five oxen for one ox and four sheep for one sheep.

2 If a thief is found breaking in or digging through, and is struck and dies, the striker shall not be guilty of blood.

3 But if he does this after the sun has risen, he has committed murder and he himself shall die. If he has nothing to make restitution for the theft, he shall be sold.

4 If what he stole is found alive in his possession—whether ox, donkey, or sheep—he shall restore double.

5 If anyone damages a field or vineyard, and lets his animal feed in another's field, he shall make restitution from whatever he has best in his field or vineyard, according to the estimate of the loss.

6 If a fire breaks out and finds thorns, and catches stacks of grain, or standing crops in fields, the one who started the fire shall pay the damage.

7 If anyone entrusts money or an article to a friend for safekeeping, and it is stolen from the one who received it, if the thief is found, he shall restore double.

8 If the thief is hidden, the owner of the house shall be brought before the gods and swear that he did not lay his hand on his neighbor's property,

9 in order to commit fraud, whether involving ox, donkey, sheep, clothing, or anything that can suffer loss. The case of both shall come before the gods; and if they judge him guilty, he shall restore double to his neighbor.

10 If anyone entrusts to his neighbor for safekeeping a donkey, ox, sheep, or any animal, and it dies, is injured, or is captured by enemies, and no one sees it,

11 an oath shall be between them that he did not lay his hand on his neighbor's property. The owner shall accept the oath, and the other shall not be compelled to make restitution.

12 But if it was stolen from him, he shall repay the owner for the loss.

13 If it was eaten by a beast, he shall bring him what was killed, and shall not make restitution.

14 Whoever borrows any of these things from his neighbor, and it is injured or dies while its owner is not present, shall be compelled to make restitution.

15 But if the owner was present, he shall not make restitution, especially if it came hired for the wage of its work.

16 If anyone seduces an unmarried virgin and sleeps with her, he shall give her a dowry and take her as wife.

17 If the girl's father refuses to give her, he shall pay money according to the dowry that virgins customarily receive.

18 You shall not allow sorcerers to live.

19 Whoever has intercourse with an animal shall surely die.

20 Whoever sacrifices to gods shall be killed, except to the Lord alone.

21 You shall not grieve or afflict a stranger, for you yourselves were strangers in the land of Egypt.

22 You shall not harm widow or orphan.

23 If you harm them, they will cry out to me, and I will hear their cry;

24 my fury will be enraged, and I will strike you with the sword; your wives will become widows and your children orphans.

25 If you lend money to my poor person who dwells with you, you shall not press him like a collector, nor oppress him with interest.

26 If you take your neighbor's garment as a pledge, you shall return it to him before the sun sets.

27 For it alone is what covers him, the clothing of his flesh, and he has nothing else in which to sleep. If he cries out to me, I will hear him, because I am merciful.

28 You shall not speak evil of gods, and you shall not curse the ruler of your people.

29 You shall not delay in giving your tithes and firstfruits. You shall give me the firstborn of your sons.

30 You shall do the same with your oxen and sheep: seven days it shall be with its mother; on the eighth day you shall give it to me.

31 You shall be holy men to me. You shall not eat flesh that has first been tasted by beasts, but shall throw it to dogs.

CHAPTER 23

1 You shall not receive a lying report, nor join your hand to give false testimony for the wicked.

2 You shall not follow a crowd to do evil; nor in judgment shall you yield to the opinion of the many, to turn away from truth.

3 Nor shall you show favor to a poor man in judgment.

4 If you encounter your enemy's ox or donkey gone astray, bring it back to him.

5 If you see the donkey of one who hates you lying under its burden, you shall not pass by, but shall lift it up with him.

6 You shall not pervert the judgment of a poor man.

7 Flee falsehood. You shall not kill the innocent and just, for I abhor the wicked.

8 Nor shall you accept gifts, which blind even the prudent and overthrow the words of the just.

9 You shall not trouble a foreigner. For you know the souls of strangers, because you yourselves were strangers in the land of Egypt.

10 For six years you shall sow your land and gather its produce;

11 but in the seventh year you shall leave it and let it rest, that the poor of your people may eat; and what is left they shall let the beasts of the field eat. You shall do the same with your vineyard and olive grove.

12 You shall work six days; on the seventh day you shall cease, that your ox and donkey may rest, and the son of your female servant and the stranger may be refreshed.

13 Keep all that I have said to you. You shall not swear by the name of foreign gods, nor shall it be heard from your mouth.

14 Three times in every year you shall celebrate feasts for me.

15 You shall keep the solemnity of unleavened bread. Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, as I commanded you, at the time of the month of new things, when you came out of Egypt. You shall not appear before me empty-handed.

16 You shall also keep the solemnity of the harvest of the firstfruits of your work, whatever you sow in the field; and the solemnity at the end of the year, when you gather all your produce from the field.

17 Three times in the year all your males shall appear before the Lord your God.

18 You shall not sacrifice the blood of my victim with leaven, nor shall the fat of my solemnity remain until morning.

19 You shall bring the firstfruits of the produce of your land into the house of the Lord your God. You shall not cook a kid in its mother's milk.

20 Behold, I will send my angel, who will go before you, keep you on the way, and bring you into the place that I have prepared.

21 Watch him and listen to his voice; do not consider him to be despised, for he will not forgive when you sin, and my name is in him.

22 But if you listen to his voice and do all that I say, I will be an enemy to your enemies and afflict those who afflict you.

23 My angel will go before you and bring you to the Amorite, Hittite, Perizzite, Canaanite, Hivite, and Jebusite, whom I will crush.

24 You shall not worship their gods or serve them; you shall not do their works, but shall destroy them and break their statues to pieces.

25 You shall serve the Lord your God, that I may bless your bread and water and take sickness away from your midst.

26 No woman will be unfruitful or barren in your land; I will fulfill the number of your days.

27 I will send my terror ahead of you and kill every people among whom you enter; I will turn the backs of all your enemies before you.

28 Sending hornets ahead, I will drive out the Hivite, Canaanite, and Hittite before you enter.

29 I will not drive them out before you in one year, lest the land be made a wilderness and the beasts increase against you.

30 Little by little I will drive them out before you, until you increase and possess the land.

31 I will set your boundaries from the Red Sea to the sea of the Philistines, and from the wilderness to the river. I will give the inhabitants of the land into your hands and drive them out before you.

32 You shall not enter into a covenant with them or with their gods.

33 They shall not live in your land, lest they cause you to sin against me if you serve their gods; for this will certainly be a snare to you.”

CHAPTER 24

1 He also said to Moses: “You and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy elders of Israel, come up to the Lord, and you shall worship from a distance.

2 Moses alone shall come up to the Lord; they shall not come near, nor shall the people come up with him.”

3 So Moses came and told the people all the words and judgments of the Lord. All the people answered with one voice: “All the words that the Lord has spoken, we will do.”

4 Moses wrote all the words of the Lord. Rising early in the morning, he built an altar at the foot of the mountain and twelve pillars for the twelve tribes of Israel.

5 He sent young men from the children of Israel, who offered burnt offerings and sacrificed peace offerings to the Lord: calves.

6 Moses took half the blood and put it in bowls, and poured the remaining half upon the altar.

7 Taking the scroll of the covenant, he read it with the people hearing; and they said, “All that the Lord has spoken, we will do and we will be obedient.”

8 Then he sprinkled the blood he had taken upon the people and said: “This is the blood of the covenant that the Lord has struck with you concerning all these words.”

9 Then Moses and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel went up,

10 and saw the God of Israel. Under his feet was something like a work of sapphire stone, and like the sky when it is clear.

11 He did not lay his hand upon those of the children of Israel who had withdrawn far away; they saw God, and ate and drank.

12 Then the Lord said to Moses: “Come up to me on the mountain and stay there. I will give you stone tablets, the law, and the commands that I have written, that you may teach them.”

13 Moses and Joshua his minister rose up, and Moses went up to the mountain of God.

14 He said to the elders: “Wait here until we return to you. You have Aaron and Hur with you; if any question arises, bring it to them.”

15 When Moses had gone up, the cloud covered the mountain,

16 and the glory of the Lord dwelt upon Sinai, covering it with the cloud six days. On the seventh day he called to him from the midst of the darkness.

17 The appearance of the glory of the Lord was like a burning fire on the summit of the mountain in the sight of the children of Israel.

18 Moses entered the midst of the cloud and went up the mountain. He was there forty days and forty nights.

CHAPTER 25

1 Then the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:

2 “Speak to the children of Israel, that they may take firstfruits for me. From every man who offers willingly, you shall receive them.

3 These are what you shall receive: gold, silver, and bronze;

4 blue, purple, and twice-dyed scarlet, fine linen, and goats’ hair;

5 skins of rams dyed red, violet skins, and acacia wood;

6 oil to prepare lamps, spices for ointment and sweet incense;

7 onyx stones and gems to adorn the ephod and breastpiece.

8 They shall make a sanctuary for me, and I will dwell in their midst.

9 According to every likeness of the tabernacle which I will show you, and of all its vessels for its service, so shall you make it.

10 Make an ark of acacia wood, two and a half cubits long, a cubit and a half wide, and likewise a cubit and a half high.

11 You shall overlay it inside and out with purest gold, and make a gold molding around it above.

12 You shall make four gold rings and put them at the four corners of the ark: two rings on one side and two on the other.

13 You shall also make poles of acacia wood and overlay them with gold.

14 You shall put them through the rings on the sides of the ark, that it may be carried by them.

15 They shall always remain in the rings and never be taken out of them.

16 You shall put into the ark the testimony that I will give you.

17 You shall also make a mercy-seat of purest gold, two and a half cubits long and a cubit and a half wide.

18 You shall make two gold cherubim, hammered, at either side of the oracle.

19 Let one cherub be on one side and the other on the other side.

20 They shall cover both sides of the mercy-seat, spreading out their wings and covering the oracle; they shall look toward one another with their faces turned toward the mercy-seat, with which the ark is to be covered,

21 in which you shall put the testimony that I will give you.

22 From there I will command you and speak with you above the mercy-seat, from the midst of the two cherubim that will be upon the ark of the testimony, all that I will command through you to the children of Israel.

23 You shall also make a table of acacia wood, two cubits long, one cubit wide, and a cubit and a half high.

24 You shall overlay it with purest gold and make for it a gold rim all around.

25 For the rim itself you shall make a carved molding four fingers high, and above it another little gold molding.

26 You shall also make four gold rings and put them at the four corners of the table, at its four feet.

27 The gold rings shall be under the molding, so that poles may be put through them and the table can be carried.

28 You shall make the poles of acacia wood and surround them with gold for carrying the table.

29 You shall make dishes, bowls, censers, and cups, in which drink offerings are to be offered, of purest gold.

30 You shall always set the bread of presentation upon the table before me.

31 You shall also make a lampstand of hammered purest gold: its shaft, branches, cups, little spheres, and lilies shall come forth from it.

32 Six branches shall come out from its sides, three from one side and three from the other.

33 On each branch shall be three cups shaped like a nut, together with a little sphere and lily; and likewise three cups like a nut on the other branch, together with a little sphere and lily. This shall be the work of the six branches that extend from the shaft.

34 But on the lampstand itself shall be four cups shaped like nuts, with little spheres and lilies at each.

35 There shall be little spheres under two branches in three places, where the six branches proceed together from one shaft.

36 Thus the little spheres and branches shall be of one piece with it, all hammered from purest gold.

37 You shall also make seven lamps and put them upon the lampstand, that they may shine opposite it.

38 Its snuffers and the vessels in which what is snuffed is put out shall also be made of purest gold.

39 The whole weight of the lampstand with all its vessels shall be one talent of purest gold.

40 See and make it according to the pattern shown you on the mountain.

CHAPTER 26

1 You shall make the tabernacle this way: ten curtains of twisted fine linen, blue, purple, and twice-dyed scarlet, variegated with embroidered work.

2 The length of one curtain shall be twenty-eight cubits, and its width four cubits. All the curtains shall be of one measure.

3 Five curtains shall be joined to one another, and the other five shall adhere by a like joining.

4 You shall make blue loops on the edges and ends of the curtains, that they may be joined to one another.

5 Each curtain shall have fifty loops at both ends, so placed that loop faces loop and one can be fitted to the other.

6 You shall make fifty gold rings by which the curtains' hangings shall be joined, that one tabernacle may be made.

7 You shall make eleven curtains of goats' hair to cover the roof of the tabernacle.

8 The length of one curtain shall be thirty cubits and the width four. All the curtains shall have an equal measure.

9 Of these you shall join five separately and join six to one another, folding the sixth curtain double at the front of the roof.

10 You shall make fifty loops at the edge of one curtain that can be joined to the other, and fifty loops at the edge of the other curtain that can be joined to the first.

11 You shall make fifty bronze clasps by which the loops shall be joined, that one covering may be made of all of them.

12 What remains of the curtains made for the roof—that is, the one curtain that is extra—you shall cover the back of the tabernacle with half of it.

13 A cubit shall hang on one side and a cubit on the other, what is extra in the length of the curtains, covering both sides of the tabernacle.

14 You shall make another covering for the roof from red-dyed ram skins, and over this another covering from violet skins.

15 You shall make standing boards for the tabernacle of acacia wood,

16 each ten cubits long and a cubit and a half wide.

17 On the sides of each board, make two tenons by which one board may be joined to another. You shall prepare all the boards this way.

18 Of these, twenty shall be on the south side, facing south.

19 You shall cast forty silver bases for them, so that two bases may be placed under each board, for its two corners.

20 On the second side of the tabernacle, facing north, there shall also be twenty boards,

21 having forty silver bases, two bases placed under each board.

22 For the west side of the tabernacle you shall make six boards,

23 and again two others to be set up at the corners at the back of the tabernacle.

24 They shall be joined from bottom to top, and one fastening shall hold them all together. The same kind of joining shall be kept for the two boards that are to be placed at the corners.

25 Together there shall be eight boards and their sixteen silver bases, reckoning two bases for each board.

26 You shall make five bars of acacia wood to hold the boards on one side of the tabernacle, 27 and five others on the other side, and the same number for the west side.

28 They shall pass through the middle of the boards from end to end.

29 You shall overlay the boards with gold, and cast gold rings on them through which the bars may hold the boards together; you shall overlay the bars with gold plates.

30 You shall set up the tabernacle according to the pattern shown you on the mountain.

31 You shall make a veil of blue, purple, twice-dyed scarlet, and twisted fine linen, woven with embroidered work and beautiful variety.

32 You shall hang it before four pillars of acacia wood, which shall be overlaid with gold and have gold capitals, but silver bases.

33 The veil shall be put through the rings; within it you shall put the ark of the testimony, and it shall divide the sanctuary and the holy of holies.

34 You shall put the mercy-seat upon the ark of the testimony in the holy of holies,

35 and the table outside the veil, and the lampstand opposite the table on the south side of the tabernacle; for the table shall stand on the north side.

36 You shall also make a curtain for the entrance of the tabernacle of blue, purple, twice-dyed scarlet, and twisted fine linen, with embroidered work.

37 You shall overlay five pillars of acacia wood, before which the curtain will be drawn; their capitals shall be gold and their bases bronze.

CHAPTER 27

1 You shall make an altar of acacia wood, five cubits long and five cubits wide—that is, square—and three cubits high.

2 Its horns shall be from it at its four corners, and you shall overlay it with bronze.

3 You shall make pots for its use to receive ashes, tongs, forks, and receptacles for fires; make all its vessels of bronze.

4 You shall also make a bronze grating in the form of a net; at its four corners shall be four bronze rings.

5 You shall put these under the ledge of the altar, and the grating shall reach to the middle of the altar.

6 You shall make two poles for the altar of acacia wood and overlay them with bronze plates.

7 You shall put them through the rings, and they shall be on both sides of the altar for carrying it.

8 You shall make it not solid but hollow and empty within, as it was shown you on the mountain.

9 You shall also make the court of the tabernacle. On its south side, facing south, there shall be hangings of twisted fine linen; one side shall extend one hundred cubits in length.

10 There shall be twenty pillars with the same number of bronze bases; their capitals and their engraved work shall be silver.

11 Likewise on the north side along the length, there shall be hangings one hundred cubits long, twenty pillars, and the same number of bronze bases; their capitals and engraved work shall be silver.

12 On the width of the court, facing west, there shall be hangings for fifty cubits, ten pillars, and the same number of bases.

13 On the width of the court facing east there shall also be fifty cubits.

14 On one side there shall be hangings for fifteen cubits, with three pillars and the same number of bases;

15 and on the other side there shall be hangings extending fifteen cubits, with three pillars and the same number of bases.

16 At the entrance of the court there shall be a curtain twenty cubits long, of blue, purple, twice-dyed scarlet, and twisted fine linen, with embroidered work; it shall have four pillars with the same number of bases.

17 All the pillars around the court shall be covered with silver plates, with silver capitals and bronze bases.

18 The court shall extend one hundred cubits in length, fifty in width, and be five cubits high; it shall be made of twisted fine linen and have bronze bases.

19 You shall make all the vessels of the tabernacle for every use and ceremony, both its pegs and those of the court, of bronze.

20 Command the children of Israel to bring you pure oil from olive trees, crushed with a pestle, that a lamp may burn continually

21 in the tabernacle of the testimony, outside the veil that is spread before the testimony. Aaron and his sons shall set it in place, that it may give light before the Lord until morning. It shall be a perpetual service through their generations from the children of Israel.”

CHAPTER 28

1 Bring near to yourself your brother Aaron with his sons, from among the children of Israel, that they may serve me in the priesthood: Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

2 You shall make holy garments for Aaron your brother, for glory and beauty.

3 Speak to all who are wise in heart, whom I have filled with a spirit of wisdom, that they may make Aaron's garments, in which, made holy, he may minister to me.

4 These are the garments they shall make: a breastpiece, a shoulder-piece, a tunic, a fitted linen garment, a turban, and a sash. They shall make holy garments for your brother Aaron and for his sons, that they may serve me in the priesthood.

5 They shall take gold, blue, purple, scarlet twice-dyed, and fine linen.

6 They shall make the shoulder-piece of gold, blue, purple, scarlet twice-dyed, and twisted fine linen, in embroidered work.

7 It shall have two joined edges at its two upper sides, so that they may come together as one.

8 Its woven band, and all the varied work, shall likewise be of gold, blue, purple, scarlet twice-dyed, and twisted fine linen.

9 You shall take two onyx stones and engrave on them the names of the children of Israel:

10 six names on one stone and the other six on the other, according to the order of their birth.

11 With an engraver's work, and a gem-cutter's carving, you shall engrave them with the names of the children of Israel, set and enclosed in gold.

12 You shall put them on the two sides of the shoulder-piece, a memorial for the children of Israel. Aaron shall bear their names before the Lord, upon both shoulders, for remembrance.

13 You shall also make hooks of gold,

14 and two chains of the purest gold, linked one to another, which you shall fasten into the hooks.

15 You shall also make the breastpiece of judgment in embroidered work, like the workmanship of the shoulder-piece: of gold, blue, purple, scarlet twice-dyed, and twisted fine linen.

16 It shall be square and doubled, a span in length and a span in width.

17 You shall set in it four rows of stones: in the first row, a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald;

18 in the second, a carbuncle, a sapphire, and a jasper;

19 in the third, a ligure, an agate, and an amethyst;

20 in the fourth, a chrysolite, an onyx, and a beryl. They shall be set in gold in their rows.

21 They shall bear the names of the children of Israel: they shall be engraved with twelve names, each stone with the name of one of the twelve tribes.

22 You shall make on the breastpiece chains, linked one to another, of the purest gold,

23 and two golden rings, which you shall put at the two upper ends of the breastpiece.

24 You shall join the golden chains to the rings at its edges,

25 and fasten the ends of those chains to the two hooks on the two sides of the shoulder-piece that face the breastpiece.

26 You shall make two other golden rings and put them at the ends of the breastpiece, on the edges opposite the shoulder-piece and facing its back.

27 You shall also make two other golden rings, to be put on the two lower sides of the shoulder-piece, opposite the front of its lower joining, so that it may be fitted to the shoulder-piece,

28 and the breastpiece, by its rings, may be bound to the rings of the shoulder-piece with a blue cord, that the workmanship may remain joined and the breastpiece and shoulder-piece may not be separated from one another.

29 Aaron shall bear the names of the children of Israel in the breastpiece of judgment over his breast when he enters the sanctuary, a memorial before the Lord forever.

30 You shall put in the breastpiece of judgment the Teaching and the Truth, which shall be over Aaron's breast when he enters before the Lord; and he shall always bear the judgment of the children of Israel over his breast in the sight of the Lord.

31 You shall make the robe of the shoulder-piece entirely blue,

32 with an opening in its middle at the top, and a woven edge all around its opening, as is commonly made at the edges of garments, so that it may not easily tear.

33 Around its lower hem you shall make, all around, something like pomegranates of blue, purple, and scarlet twice-dyed, with bells interspersed among them,

34 so that there shall be a golden bell and a pomegranate, then another golden bell and a pomegranate.

35 Aaron shall wear it when ministering, so that its sound may be heard when he enters and leaves the sanctuary before the Lord, and he may not die.

36 You shall make a plate of the purest gold and engrave on it with an engraver's work, "Holy to the Lord."

37 You shall bind it with a blue cord, and it shall be upon the turban,

38 over the high priest's forehead. Aaron shall bear their iniquities in all the gifts and offerings that the children of Israel have offered and made holy. The plate shall always be upon his forehead, that the Lord may be favorable to them.

39 You shall weave the tunic of fine linen, make a turban of fine linen, and make the sash in embroidered work.

40 For Aaron's sons you shall prepare linen tunics, sashes, and turbans, for glory and beauty.

41 You shall clothe your brother Aaron and his sons with all these. You shall consecrate their hands and make them holy, that they may serve me in the priesthood.

42 You shall make linen undergarments for them to cover the flesh of their nakedness, from the loins to the thighs.

43 Aaron and his sons shall wear them when they enter the tabernacle of testimony or come near the altar to minister in the sanctuary, lest, guilty of iniquity, they die. It shall be an everlasting statute for Aaron and his seed after him.

CHAPTER 29

1 This also you shall do, that they may be consecrated to me for the priesthood. Take a young bull from the herd and two unblemished rams,

2 unleavened loaves, cakes without leaven kneaded with oil, and unleavened wafers smeared with oil; make them all of wheat flour.

3 Put them in a basket and offer them, along with the bull and the two rams.

4 Bring Aaron and his sons to the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony. When you have washed the father and his sons with water,

5 clothe Aaron with his garments: the linen garment, the tunic, the shoulder-piece, and the breastpiece, which you shall fasten with the sash.

6 Put the turban on his head and the holy plate upon the turban,

7 and pour the anointing oil over his head. By this rite he shall be consecrated.

8 Bring forward his sons also, clothe them with linen tunics, and gird them with the sash,

9 Aaron and his sons, and put turbans on them. They shall be priests to me by an everlasting ordinance. After you have consecrated their hands,

10 bring the bull before the tabernacle of testimony. Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands upon its head,

11 and you shall slaughter it before the Lord at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony.

12 Taking some of the bull's blood, put it with your finger upon the horns of the altar, and pour out the rest of the blood at its base.

13 Take all the fat that covers the entrails, the lobe of the liver, the two kidneys and the fat upon them, and offer it in smoke upon the altar.

14 But burn the bull's flesh, hide, and dung outside the camp, because it is for sin.

15 Take one ram, upon whose head Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands.

16 When you have slaughtered it, take its blood and pour it around the altar.

17 Cut the ram into pieces. Wash its entrails and legs, and lay them upon the cut pieces of flesh and upon its head.

18 Offer the whole ram in smoke upon the altar. It is an offering to the Lord, the sweetest fragrance of an offering to the Lord.

19 Take the other ram, upon whose head Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands.

20 When you have sacrificed it, take some of its blood and put it upon the tip of Aaron's right ear and his sons' right ears, and upon the thumbs of their hands and their right feet; then pour the blood around the altar.

21 When you have taken some of the blood upon the altar and of the anointing oil, sprinkle Aaron and his garments, his sons and their garments. When they and their garments have been consecrated,

22 take from the ram its fat, its tail, the fat that covers the vital parts, the lobe of the liver, the two kidneys, the fat upon them, and the right shoulder, because it is the ram of consecration;

23 also one round loaf, one cake kneaded with oil, and one wafer from the basket of unleavened bread that is set before the Lord.

24 Put all these upon the hands of Aaron and his sons, and consecrate them by lifting them before the Lord.

25 Then receive all of them from their hands and burn them in smoke on the altar as a whole burnt offering, a most sweet fragrance before the Lord, because it is his offering.

26 Take also the breast from the ram by which Aaron was consecrated, and make it holy by lifting it before the Lord; it shall be your portion.

27 You shall also make holy the lifted breast and the shoulder which you separated from the ram

28 by which Aaron and his sons were consecrated; they shall belong to Aaron and his sons as an everlasting right from the children of Israel, for they are the first offerings and first portions from their peace offerings, which they offer to the Lord.

29 The holy garment that Aaron wears shall belong to his sons after him, that they may be anointed in it and their hands consecrated.

30 The son of his who is appointed high priest in his place, and who enters the tabernacle of testimony to minister in the sanctuary, shall wear it seven days.

31 Take the ram of consecration and boil its flesh in a holy place.

32 Aaron and his sons shall eat it. They shall also eat the loaves in the basket at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony,

33 that it may be an atoning sacrifice and the hands of those offering may be made holy. No foreigner shall eat of them, because they are holy.

34 If any of the consecrated flesh or loaves remains until morning, burn the remainder with fire; they shall not be eaten, because they have been made holy.

35 You shall do to Aaron and his sons all that I have commanded you. For seven days you shall consecrate their hands.

36 Each day you shall offer a bull for sin to make atonement. You shall cleanse the altar when you sacrifice the offering of atonement, and anoint it for its sanctification.

37 For seven days you shall make atonement for the altar and make it holy, and it shall be Holy of Holies; whoever touches it shall be made holy.

38 This is what you shall do upon the altar: two one-year-old lambs continually, every day,

39 one lamb in the morning and the other in the evening,

40 with a tenth part of flour kneaded with beaten oil, having the measure of a fourth part of a hin, and wine for a drink offering of the same measure, with one lamb.

41 Offer the other lamb toward evening, according to the rite of the morning offering and according to what we have said, for a sweet fragrance.

42 It is a sacrifice to the Lord, a continual offering throughout your generations, at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony before the Lord, where I shall appoint to speak with you.

43 There I shall command the children of Israel, and the altar shall be made holy by my glory.

44 I shall make holy the tabernacle of testimony and the altar, and Aaron with his sons, that they may serve me in the priesthood.

45 I shall dwell in the midst of the children of Israel, and I shall be their God.

46 They shall know that I am the Lord their God, who brought them out of the land of Egypt in order to dwell among them: I, the Lord their God.

CHAPTER 30

1 You shall also make an altar for burning incense, of acacia wood,

2 a cubit long and a cubit wide, square, and two cubits high. Its horns shall rise from it.

3 You shall overlay it with the purest gold, its grating, its sides all around, and its horns. You shall make a golden rim around it,

4 and two golden rings under the rim on each side, that poles may be put into them and the altar carried.

5 You shall make the poles of acacia wood and overlay them with gold.

6 You shall put the altar opposite the veil hanging before the ark of testimony, before the mercy-seat that covers the testimony, where I shall speak with you.

7 Aaron shall burn sweet-smelling incense upon it every morning. When he tends the lamps, he shall burn it.

8 When he sets them in place toward evening, he shall burn perpetual incense before the Lord throughout your generations.

9 You shall not offer on it incense of another composition, nor an offering or sacrifice, nor pour drink offerings upon it.

10 Aaron shall make atonement upon its horns once a year with the blood offered for sin, and shall make atonement upon it throughout your generations. It shall be Holy of Holies to the Lord.

11 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

12 “When you take the number of the children of Israel according to their count, each shall give to the Lord a price for his soul, and there shall be no plague among them when they are counted.

13 This is what everyone passing into the count shall give: half a shekel by the measure of the sanctuary—a shekel has twenty obols; half a shekel shall be offered to the Lord.

14 Everyone counted, from twenty years old and upward, shall give the price.

15 The rich shall not add to half a shekel, and the poor shall not diminish anything from it.

16 You shall deliver the money received from the children of Israel, which they have contributed, for the uses of the tabernacle of testimony, that it may be their memorial before the Lord and he may be gracious to their souls.”

17 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

18 “You shall also make a bronze basin with its base for washing. Put it between the tabernacle of testimony and the altar. Having put water in it,

19 Aaron and his sons shall wash their hands and feet in it

20 when they are about to enter the tabernacle of testimony and when they draw near to the altar to offer incense there to the Lord,

21 lest they die. It shall be an everlasting statute for him and his seed throughout their generations.”

22 The Lord spoke to Moses,

23 saying, “Take for yourself spices: five hundred shekels of the finest choice myrrh, half as much cinnamon—that is, two hundred and fifty shekels—and likewise two hundred and fifty of calamus,

24 five hundred shekels of cassia by the sanctuary weight, and a hin of olive oil.

25 You shall make from these holy anointing oil, a compounded ointment, the work of a perfumer,

26 and with it you shall anoint the tabernacle of testimony and the ark of the covenant,

27 the table with its vessels, the lampstand and its utensils, the altar of incense,

28 the altar of whole burnt offering, and all the equipment belonging to their service.

29 You shall make them all holy, and they shall be Holy of Holies; whoever touches them shall be made holy.

30 You shall anoint Aaron and his sons and make them holy, that they may serve me in the priesthood.

31 You shall say to the children of Israel, ‘This shall be holy anointing oil to me throughout your generations.

32 No human flesh shall be anointed with it, and you shall make no other like it by its composition. It is holy, and it shall be holy to you.

33 Whoever compounds such a thing, or gives some of it to a foreigner, shall be cut off from his people.’”

34 The Lord said to Moses, “Take for yourself spices: stacte, onycha, sweet galbanum, and the purest frankincense; all shall be of equal weight.

35 You shall make incense from them, compounded by a perfumer, carefully blended, pure, and most worthy of sanctification.

36 When you have crushed it all into finest powder, put some of it before the tabernacle of testimony, in the place where I shall appear to you. The incense shall be Holy of Holies to you.

37 You shall not make this composition for your own use, because it is holy to the Lord.

38 Whoever makes anything like it in order to enjoy its fragrance shall perish from his peoples.”

CHAPTER 31

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “See, I have called by name Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah,

3 and I have filled him with the Spirit of God, with wisdom, understanding, knowledge, and every kind of workmanship,

4 to devise whatever may be made skillfully from gold, silver, and bronze,

5 marble, gems, and varieties of wood.

6 I have given him Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, as a companion. And I have put wisdom in the heart of every skilled person, that they may make all that I have commanded you:

7 the tabernacle of the covenant, the ark of testimony, the mercy-seat upon it, and all the vessels of the tabernacle;

8 the table and its vessels, the most pure lampstand with its vessels, and the altar of incense;

9 the altar of whole burnt offering and all their vessels, the basin with its base;

10 the holy garments for Aaron the priest in his ministry, and for his sons, that they may perform their office in the holy things;

11 the anointing oil and the incense of spices in the sanctuary. They shall make all that I have commanded you.”

12 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

13 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them, ‘See that you keep my sabbath, for it is a sign between me and you throughout your generations, that you may know that I am the Lord who makes you holy.

14 Keep my sabbath, for it is holy to you. Whoever defiles it shall surely die; whoever does work on it, that soul shall perish from the midst of his people.

15 Work shall be done six days; on the seventh day is sabbath, holy rest to the Lord. Everyone who does work on that day shall die.

16 Let the children of Israel keep the sabbath and celebrate it throughout their generations. It is an everlasting pact

17 between me and the children of Israel, and a perpetual sign; for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, and on the seventh he ceased from work.’”

18 When such words on Mount Sinai were completed, the Lord gave Moses two stone tablets of testimony, written by the finger of God.

CHAPTER 32

1 When the people saw that Moses delayed in coming down from the mountain, they gathered against Aaron and said, “Rise, make gods for us to go before us; for we do not know what has happened to this man Moses, who brought us out of the land of Egypt.”

2 Aaron said to them, “Take the golden earrings from the ears of your wives, sons, and daughters, and bring them to me.”

3 The people did as he commanded, bringing the earrings to Aaron.

4 When he had received them, he shaped them by casting and made from them a molten calf. Then they said, “These are your gods, Israel, who brought you out of the land of Egypt.”

5 When Aaron saw this, he built an altar before it and proclaimed with a herald’s voice, “Tomorrow is a feast of the Lord.”

6 Rising early in the morning, they offered whole burnt offerings and peace offerings; the people sat down to eat and drink, then rose up to play.

7 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying, “Go, go down; your people, whom you brought out of the land of Egypt, have sinned.

8 They have quickly turned aside from the way you showed them. They made themselves a molten calf, worshiped it, and, sacrificing offerings to it, said, ‘These are your gods, Israel, who brought you out of the land of Egypt.’”

9 Again the Lord said to Moses, “I see that this people is stiff-necked.

10 Leave me, that my fury may burn against them and I may destroy them; and I will make you into a great nation.”

11 But Moses prayed to the Lord his God, saying, “Why, Lord, does your fury burn against your people, whom you brought out of the land of Egypt with great strength and a mighty hand?

12 Please, do not let the Egyptians say, ‘He brought them out cunningly to kill them in the mountains and wipe them from the earth.’ Let your anger cease, and be appeased concerning the wickedness of your people.

13 Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, your servants, to whom you swore by yourself, saying, ‘I will multiply your seed like the stars of heaven, and all this land of which I spoke I will give to your seed, and you shall possess it forever.’”

14 So the Lord was appeased and did not do the evil he had spoken against his people.

15 Moses returned from the mountain carrying the two tablets of testimony in his hand, written on both sides,

16 made by the work of God; the writing too was the writing of God, carved upon the tablets.

17 When Joshua heard the uproar of the shouting people, he said to Moses, “The sound of battle is heard in the camp.”

18 He answered, “It is not the cry of those urging battle, nor the shout of those driven to flight; I hear the voice of singers.”

19 When he came near the camp, he saw the calf and the dances. Burning with anger, he threw the tablets from his hand and shattered them at the foot of the mountain.

20 Taking the calf they had made, he burned it and ground it to powder, scattered it on the water, and made the children of Israel drink from it.

21 Moses said to Aaron, “What did this people do to you, that you brought such great sin upon them?”

22 He answered, “Let not my lord be angry; you know this people, that it is bent toward evil.

23 They said to me, ‘Make gods for us to go before us; for we do not know what has happened to this Moses, who brought us out of the land of Egypt.’

24 I said to them, ‘Who among you has gold?’ They took it and gave it to me; I threw it into the fire, and this calf came out.”

25 Moses saw that the people had been stripped naked, for Aaron had stripped them for the shame of their filth and set them naked among their enemies.

26 Standing in the gate of the camp, he said, “Whoever is for the Lord, join me.” All the sons of Levi gathered to him.

27 He said to them, “Thus says the Lord God of Israel: ‘Let every man put his sword upon his thigh. Go to and fro from gate to gate through the middle of the camp, and let each kill his brother, his friend, and his neighbor.’”

28 The sons of Levi did according to Moses’ word, and about twenty-three thousand people fell that day.

29 Moses said, “You have consecrated your hands today to the Lord, each one against his son and his brother, that a blessing may be given you.”

30 On the next day Moses said to the people, “You have sinned a great sin. I will go up to the Lord; perhaps I may be able to plead with him for your crime.”

31 Returning to the Lord, he said, “I beg you, this people has sinned a great sin and made gods of gold for themselves. Either forgive them this offense, 32 or, if you will not, blot me from your book which you have written.”

33 The Lord answered him, “Whoever has sinned against me, I will blot him from my book.

34 But you, go and lead this people where I told you. My angel shall go before you. Yet on the day of punishment I will visit this sin of theirs.”

35 Therefore the Lord struck the people for the guilt of the calf that Aaron had made.

CHAPTER 33

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying, “Go, go up from this place, you and your people whom you brought out of the land of Egypt, into the land which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying, ‘I will give it to your seed.’

2 I shall send my angel before you, that I may cast out the Canaanite, Amorite, Hittite, Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite,

3 and that you may enter a land flowing with milk and honey. For I will not go up with you, because you are a stiff-necked people, lest perhaps I destroy you on the way.”

4 When the people heard this very bad word, they mourned; and no one wore his customary adornment.

5 The Lord said to Moses, “Say to the children of Israel: ‘You are a stiff-necked people. If I go up among you once, I will destroy you. Now then, take off your adornment, that I may know what to do to you.’”

6 Therefore the children of Israel took off their adornment from Mount Horeb onward.

7 Moses took the tabernacle and pitched it far outside the camp, and called its name the Tabernacle of the Covenant. Everyone who had any question went out to the Tabernacle of the Covenant, outside the camp.

8 Whenever Moses went out to the tabernacle, all the people rose and each stood at the entrance of his own tent, watching Moses’ back until he entered the tent.

9 When he entered the Tabernacle of the Covenant, the pillar of cloud came down and stood at the entrance, and the Lord spoke with Moses.

10 All saw that the pillar of cloud stood at the entrance of the tabernacle. They stood and worshiped at the entrances of their tents.

11 The Lord spoke with Moses face to face, as a man is accustomed to speak with his friend. When Moses returned to the camp, his servant Joshua son of Nun, a young man, did not depart from the tabernacle.

12 Moses said to the Lord, “You command me to lead this people out, yet you have not told me whom you will send with me, especially since you have said, ‘I know you by name, and you have found favor before me.’

13 If therefore I have found favor in your sight, show me your face, that I may know you and find favor before your eyes. Look upon this people, this nation of yours.”

14 The Lord said, “My face shall go before you, and I will give you rest.”

15 Moses said, “If you yourself do not go before us, do not lead us out from this place.

16 For how shall it be known that I and your people have found favor in your sight, unless you walk with us, so that we are glorified above all peoples dwelling upon the earth?”

17 The Lord said to Moses, “I will do this thing also, which you have spoken, for you have found favor before me, and I know you by name.”

18 He said, “Show me your glory.”

19 He answered, “I will show you all my goodness and call in the name of the Lord before you; I will have mercy on whom I will, and I will be gracious to whom it pleases me.”

20 Again he said, “You cannot see my face, for no human shall see me and live.”

21 And again he said, “See, there is a place beside me, and you shall stand upon the rock.

22 When my glory passes by, I shall put you in the hollow of the rock and cover you with my right hand until I have passed by.

23 Then I shall take away my hand, and you shall see my back; but my face you cannot see.”

CHAPTER 34

1 Then he said, “Cut for yourself two stone tablets like the former ones, and I shall write on them the words which the tablets you broke contained.

2 Be ready in the morning, to go up at once to Mount Sinai, and stand there with me upon the mountain’s summit.

3 Let no one go up with you, nor let anyone be seen on the whole mountain. Cattle and sheep must not graze opposite it.”

4 So he cut two stone tablets like the former ones; rising by night, he went up Mount Sinai as the Lord had commanded him, carrying the tablets with him.

5 When the Lord came down in the cloud, Moses stood with him there, calling on the name of the Lord.

6 As he passed before him, he said, “Ruling Lord God, merciful and gracious, patient, abundant in mercy, and true,

7 keeping mercy for thousands, taking away iniquity, crimes, and sins; yet no one is innocent before you by himself; repaying the iniquity of fathers to children and grandchildren, to the third and fourth generation.”

8 Moses hurried, bowed face-down to the ground, and worshiped,

9 saying, “If I have found favor in your sight, Lord, I beg you, walk with us—for this people is stiff-necked—and take away our iniquities and sins, and possess us.”

10 The Lord answered, “I will enter into a pact before all who see it. I will perform signs never seen upon the earth or in any nations, that this people among whom you are may see the terrible work of the Lord which I will do.

11 Observe all that I command you today. I myself shall cast out before you the Amorite, Canaanite, Hittite, Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite.

12 Take care that you never make friendships with the inhabitants of that land, lest they become your ruin.

13 Rather, destroy their altars, break their statues, and cut down their sacred groves.

14 Do not worship a foreign god. The Lord’s name is Jealous; he is a jealous God.

15 Do not enter into a pact with the people of those regions, lest, when they have prostituted themselves to their gods and worshiped their images, someone call you to eat from the things sacrificed.

16 You shall not take wives for your sons from their daughters, lest, after those women have prostituted themselves, they make your sons prostitute themselves to their gods.

17 You shall not make molten gods for yourself.

18 You shall keep the feast of unleavened bread. Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, as I commanded you, at the time of the month of new things; for in the month of spring you came out of Egypt.

19 Everything male that opens the womb shall be mine. From every animal, whether cattle or sheep, it shall be mine.

20 You shall redeem the firstborn of a donkey with a sheep; but if you do not give a price for it, it shall be killed. You shall redeem the firstborn of your sons, and you shall not appear before me empty-handed.

21 Six days you shall work; on the seventh day you shall cease even from plowing and reaping.

22 You shall keep for yourself the feast of weeks with the firstfruits of your wheat harvest, and the feast when, at the turning of the year, all things are gathered in.

23 Three times in the year all your males shall appear before the almighty Lord God of Israel.

24 For when I remove nations from before you and enlarge your borders, no one shall lie in wait for your land when you go up and appear before the Lord your God three times in the year.

25 You shall not sacrifice the blood of my victim with leaven, nor shall any of the victim of the Passover feast remain until morning.

26 You shall offer the firstfruits of your land’s produce in the house of the Lord your God. You shall not boil a young goat in its mother’s milk.”

27 The Lord said to Moses, “Write these words for yourself, by which I have struck a covenant with you and with Israel.”

28 He was there with the Lord forty days and forty nights; he did not eat bread or drink water, and he wrote the ten words of the covenant on the tablets.

29 When Moses came down from Mount Sinai holding the two tablets of testimony, he did not know that his face had become horned from sharing in the Lord's speech.

30 When Aaron and the children of Israel saw Moses' horned face, they were afraid to come near him.

31 When he called them, Aaron and all the leaders of the assembly returned to him. After he had spoken with them,

32 all the children of Israel also came to him, and he commanded them all that he had heard from the Lord on Mount Sinai.

33 When he had finished speaking, he put a veil over his face.

34 When he entered before the Lord and spoke with him, he removed it until he came out; then he spoke to the children of Israel all that had been commanded him.

35 They saw that Moses' face as he came out was horned, but he covered his face again whenever he spoke with them.

CHAPTER 35

1 When the whole assembly of the children of Israel had gathered, Moses said to them, “These are the things the Lord has commanded to be done.

2 Work shall be done six days; the seventh day shall be holy to you, a sabbath, the Lord’s rest. Whoever does work on it shall be killed.

3 You shall not kindle fire in any of your dwellings on the sabbath day.”

4 Moses said to the whole company of the children of Israel, “This is the word the Lord commanded:

5 ‘Set apart among yourselves first offerings for the Lord. Let everyone willing and of ready heart offer them to the Lord: gold, silver, and bronze;

6 blue, purple, scarlet twice-dyed, fine linen, and goats’ hair;

7 skins of rams dyed red, violet skins, acacia wood;

8 oil for preparing the lamps, for making the ointment, and for the sweetest incense;

9 onyx stones and gems for adorning the shoulder-piece and breastpiece.

10 Let every wise person among you come and make what the Lord has commanded:

11 the tabernacle, its covering and its outer covering, its rings, boards with their bars, pegs, and bases;

12 the ark and its poles, the mercy-seat, and the veil spread before it;

13 the table with its poles and vessels, and the bread of presentation;

14 the lampstand for supporting lights, its vessels and lamps, and oil for feeding the flames;

15 the altar of incense and its poles, the anointing oil and incense of spices, and the curtain at the entrance of the tabernacle;

16 the altar of whole burnt offering, its bronze grating with its poles and vessels, the basin and its base;

17 the curtains of the court with its columns and bases, the curtain at the entrance of the court;

18 the pegs of the tabernacle and of the court, with their cords;

19 the garments used in the service of the sanctuary: the garments of Aaron the high priest and of his sons, that they may serve me in the priesthood.’”

20 Then the whole multitude of the children of Israel went out from Moses’ presence.

21 They offered to the Lord, with hearts most ready and devout, first offerings to make the work of the tabernacle of testimony, everything needed for its service and for the holy garments.

22 Men with women brought bracelets, earrings, rings, and armlets; every article of gold was set apart as a gift to the Lord.

23 Whoever had blue, purple, scarlet twice-dyed, fine linen, goats’ hair, skins of rams dyed red, or violet skins,

24 brought offerings of silver and bronze to the Lord, and acacia wood for various uses.

25 The skilled women who had spun gave blue, purple, crimson, and fine linen, 26 and goats’ hair, freely giving all by their own choice.

27 The leaders brought onyx stones and gems for the shoulder-piece and breastpiece,

28 spices and oil for preparing lamps, and for preparing the ointment and compounding the incense of sweetest fragrance.

29 All men and women of devout heart brought gifts to make the works the Lord had commanded through Moses’ hand. All the children of Israel dedicated freewill offerings to the Lord.

30 Moses said to the children of Israel, “See, the Lord has called by name Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah,

31 and has filled him with the Spirit of God, with wisdom, understanding, knowledge, and every teaching,

32 to devise and make work in gold, silver, and bronze,

33 to carve stones, and in carpenter’s work, whatever may be skillfully devised.

34 He has put it in his heart, and also in Oholiab son of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan, 35 wisdom to make the works of a woodworker, embroiderer, and weaver of blue, purple, scarlet twice-dyed, and fine linen, and to weave everything and devise each new work.”

CHAPTER 36

1 So Bezalel and Oholiab, and every wise person to whom the Lord had given wisdom and understanding to know how to work skillfully in all that was needed for the uses of the sanctuary, did as the Lord commanded.

2 Moses called them, and every skilled person to whom the Lord had given wisdom, everyone who had freely offered himself to do the work.

3 He delivered to them all the gifts of the children of Israel. While they pressed on with the work, the people brought offerings every morning.

4 Therefore the craftsmen were compelled to come,

5 and said to Moses, “The people are bringing more than is needed.”

6 So Moses ordered a proclamation to be made: “Let neither man nor woman bring anything more for the work of the sanctuary.” Thus the bringing of gifts ceased,

7 because what had been brought was sufficient and more than sufficient.

8 All the wise-hearted made the ten curtains for completing the work of the tabernacle, of twisted fine linen, blue, purple, and scarlet twice-dyed, in varied and embroidered work.

9 One curtain was twenty-eight cubits long and four cubits wide; all the curtains had one measure.

10 He joined five curtains one to another, and joined the other five to one another.

11 He made blue loops on the edge of one curtain at each side, and likewise on the edge of the other curtain,

12 so that the loops met one another and were joined together.

13 He also cast fifty golden rings to catch the loops of the curtains, and the tabernacle became one.

14 He made eleven coverings of goats’ hair to cover the tabernacle roof.

15 One covering was thirty cubits long and four cubits wide; all the coverings had one measure.

16 He joined five of them separately and the other six separately.

17 He made fifty loops on the edge of one covering and fifty loops on the edge of the other, so that they might join one another.

18 He made fifty bronze clasps by which the covering was joined, so that one covering was made from all the pieces.

19 He made a covering for the tabernacle from skins of rams dyed red, and another covering above it from violet skins.

20 He made standing boards of acacia wood for the tabernacle.

21 Each board was ten cubits long and a cubit and a half wide.

22 There were two sockets in each board, so that one might be joined to another. Thus he made all the boards of the tabernacle.

23 Of these, twenty were on the south side toward the south,

24 with forty silver bases. Two bases were placed under one board, at the two sides of its corners, where the sockets of the sides end at the corners.

25 For the side of the tabernacle facing north, he made twenty boards,

26 with forty silver bases, two bases for each board.

27 For the west side of the tabernacle, that is, the side facing the sea, he made six boards,

28 and two others for the rear corners of the tabernacle.

29 They were joined from bottom to top and carried together into one joint. He did this at both sides for the corners,

30 so that there were eight boards together with sixteen silver bases, two bases under each board.

31 He made bars of acacia wood, five to hold the boards of one side of the tabernacle,

32 five others to fit the boards of the other side, and besides these five other bars for the west side of the tabernacle facing the sea.

33 He also made another bar extending through the middle of the boards from corner to corner.

34 He overlaid the boards with gold and cast their bases of silver. He made their rings of gold, through which the bars might be put, and overlaid the bars themselves with plates of gold.

35 He made the veil of blue, purple, crimson, and twisted fine linen, in varied and finely distinguished embroidery,

36 and four columns of acacia wood. He overlaid their capitals with gold and cast their bases of silver.

37 He made the curtain at the entrance of the tabernacle from blue, purple, crimson, and twisted fine linen, in woven work, 38 and five columns with their capitals, which he overlaid with gold, and cast their bases of bronze.

CHAPTER 37

1 Bezalel made the ark of acacia wood, two and a half cubits long, a cubit and a half wide, and a cubit and a half high; he overlaid it inside and outside with the purest gold.

2 He made it a golden rim all around,

3 casting four golden rings at its four corners, two rings on one side and two on the other.

4 He made poles of acacia wood and overlaid them with gold,

5 and put them into the rings on the sides of the ark to carry it.

6 He made the mercy-seat, that is, the oracle, of the purest gold, two and a half cubits long and a cubit and a half wide.

7 He also made two hammered cherubim of gold, which he put at the two ends of the mercy-seat:

8 one cherub at the end of one side and another cherub at the end of the other side; two cherubim at the two ends of the mercy-seat,

9 spreading their wings and covering the mercy-seat, facing one another and it.

10 He made the table of acacia wood, two cubits long and one cubit wide, and a cubit and a half high.

11 He overlaid it with the purest gold and made it a golden rim all around.

12 He made for the rim a chased golden border four fingers wide, and above it another golden rim.

13 He cast four golden rings and put them at the four corners by the table's four feet,

14 opposite the rim. He put poles in them, so that the table could be carried.

15 He made the poles of acacia wood and overlaid them with gold.

16 He made the table's vessels for its various uses—dishes, bowls, cups, and censers—of pure gold, in which drink offerings are to be offered.

17 He made the lampstand of hammered pure gold; its shaft, branches, bowls, knobs, and lilies came from it.

18 Six branches came out from its two sides, three branches from one side and three from the other.

19 There were three nut-shaped bowls on each branch, with knobs and lilies together; and three nut-shaped bowls on the other branch, with knobs and lilies together. The work was the same for the six branches that came out of the lampstand's shaft.

20 On the shaft itself were four nut-shaped bowls, with knobs and lilies by each one,

21 and knobs beneath two branches in three places, for the six branches coming out together from one shaft.

22 Thus the knobs and branches came from it; all was hammered from the purest gold.

23 He made its seven lamps, its snuffers, and the vessels into which what was snuffed was put out, of the purest gold.

24 The lampstand with all its vessels weighed a talent of gold.

25 He made the altar of incense of acacia wood, square, one cubit on each side and two cubits high; its horns rose out from its corners.

26 He overlaid it with the purest gold, its grating, its sides, and its horns.

27 He made it a golden rim all around and two golden rings under the rim on each side, into which poles might be put and by which the altar could be carried.

28 He made the poles of acacia wood and overlaid them with plates of gold.

29 He compounded the oil for the holy anointing and the incense from the purest spices, the work of a perfumer.

CHAPTER 38

1 He made the altar of whole burnt offering from acacia wood, five cubits square and three cubits high.

2 Its horns rose from its corners, and he overlaid it with bronze plates.

3 For its use he made various vessels of bronze: cauldrons, tongs, forks, hooks, and fire-pans.

4 He made its bronze grating like a net, and beneath it, in the middle of the altar, a little ledge,

5 casting four rings at the four upper points of the grating for putting in the carrying poles.

6 He made the poles of acacia wood and overlaid them with bronze plates.

7 He put them into the rings projecting from the sides of the altar. The altar itself was not solid but hollow, of boards, and empty inside.

8 He made the bronze basin and its base from the mirrors of the women who kept watch at the entrance of the tabernacle.

9 He made the court. On its south side were curtains of twisted fine linen, one hundred cubits long,

10 twenty bronze columns with their bases; the capitals of the columns and all the engraved work were silver.

11 The curtains on the north side, and their columns, bases, capitals, and engraved work, were of the same measure, workmanship, and material.

12 On the side facing west were curtains fifty cubits long, ten bronze columns with their bases, and silver capitals and engraved work.

13 Toward the east he made curtains fifty cubits long.

14 Of these, one side had fifteen cubits of curtains, three columns, and their bases;

15 and on the other side—because he made the entrance of the tabernacle between the two—were also curtains of fifteen cubits, three columns, and as many bases.

16 All the curtains of the court were woven of twisted fine linen.

17 The bases of the columns were bronze, their capitals with all their engraved work were silver, and he overlaid the columns of the court themselves with silver.

18 At its entrance he made a curtain in woven work of blue, purple, crimson, and twisted fine linen, twenty cubits long and five cubits high, according to the measure of all the court curtains.

19 The columns at the entrance were four with bronze bases, and their capitals and engraved work were silver.

20 He made the pegs of the tabernacle and the court all around of bronze.

21 These are the furnishings of the tabernacle of testimony, counted according to Moses' command in the services of the Levites by the hand of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest,

22 which Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, had completed at the Lord's command through Moses.

23 With him was Oholiab son of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan, who too was an excellent worker in wood, embroiderer, and weaver of blue, purple, crimson, and fine linen.

24 All the gold expended in the work of the sanctuary, gold offered as gifts, was twenty-nine talents and seven hundred thirty shekels by the sanctuary measure.

25 The contribution was from those who entered the count, from twenty years old and upward: six hundred three thousand five hundred fifty armed men.

26 There were also one hundred talents of silver, from which the bases of the sanctuary and of the entrance where the veil hangs were cast.

27 One hundred bases were made from one hundred talents, one talent counted for each base.

28 From one thousand seven hundred seventy-five shekels he made the capitals of the columns, which he also overlaid with silver.

29 The bronze offered was seventy-two thousand talents and four hundred additional shekels,

30 from which were cast the bases at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony, the bronze altar with its grating, and all the vessels belonging to its use,

31 and the bases of the court all around and at its entrance, and the pegs of the tabernacle and court all around.

CHAPTER 39

1 From blue, purple, crimson, and fine linen they made the garments Aaron was to wear when he ministered in the holy things, as the Lord commanded Moses.

2 They made the shoulder-piece of gold, blue, purple, scarlet twice-dyed, and twisted fine linen,

3 in embroidered work. They cut sheets of gold and drew them out into threads, so they could be twisted with the warp of the former colors.

4 They made two joined edges, coupled one to another at its two upper sides,

5 and a sash from the same colors, as the Lord commanded Moses.

6 They prepared two onyx stones, fastened and enclosed in gold, and engraved by a gem-cutter's skill with the names of the children of Israel.

7 They put them upon the sides of the shoulder-piece as a memorial for the children of Israel, as the Lord commanded Moses.

8 They made the breastpiece in embroidered work like the work of the shoulder-piece, from gold, blue, purple, scarlet twice-dyed, and twisted fine linen.

9 It was square, doubled, a span in measure.

10 They set in it four rows of gems. In the first row were a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald.

11 In the second, a carbuncle, a sapphire, and a jasper.

12 In the third, a ligure, an agate, and an amethyst.

13 In the fourth, a chrysolite, an onyx, and a beryl, surrounded and set in gold in their rows.

14 The twelve stones were engraved with the names of the twelve tribes of Israel, each with the name of one tribe.

15 They also made on the breastpiece little chains linked one to another, of the purest gold,

16 two hooks and two golden rings. They put the rings on the two sides of the breastpiece,

17 from which hung two golden chains, which they fastened into the hooks projecting at the corners of the shoulder-piece.

18 These fitted together front and back, so that the shoulder-piece and breastpiece were joined to one another.

19 Bound tight to the sash and firmly joined by rings connected with a blue cord, they did not hang loose or move apart, as the Lord commanded Moses.

20 They also made the robe of the shoulder-piece entirely blue,

21 with an opening in the upper part at the middle, and a woven edge around the opening.

22 At the lower hem, near the feet, they made pomegranates of blue, purple, crimson, and twisted fine linen,

23 and bells of the purest gold, which they put between the pomegranates around the robe's outer edge:

24 a golden bell and a pomegranate. The high priest wore this ornament when he ministered, as the Lord commanded Moses.

25 They made woven tunics of fine linen for Aaron and his sons,

26 and turbans with their little crowns of fine linen,

27 and linen undergarments of fine linen,

28 and a sash of twisted fine linen, blue, purple, and scarlet twice-dyed, in woven work, as the Lord commanded Moses.

29 They made the plate of sacred reverence from the purest gold and wrote upon it with gem-cutter's work, "Holy to the Lord."

30 They bound it to the turban with a blue cord, as the Lord commanded Moses.

31 Thus all the work of the tabernacle and its covering of testimony was completed. The children of Israel did all that the Lord had commanded Moses.

32 They brought the tabernacle and the covering, with all its equipment: rings, boards, poles, columns, and bases;

33 the covering of skins of rams dyed red and the other covering of violet skins;

34 the veil; the ark, its poles, and the mercy-seat;

35 the table with its vessels and the bread of presentation;

36 the lampstand, lamps, their vessels, and the oil;

37 the golden altar, the ointment, the incense of spices,

38 and the curtain at the entrance of the tabernacle;

39 the bronze altar, its net, poles, and all its vessels; the basin with its base; the curtains of the court, and the columns with their bases;

40 the curtain at the entrance of the court, its cords and pegs. Nothing was lacking from the vessels commanded to be made for the service of the tabernacle and the covering of the covenant.

41 They also brought the garments which the priests use in the sanctuary, namely Aaron and his sons, 42 as the Lord had commanded; the children of Israel brought them.

43 After Moses saw that they had completed everything, he blessed them.

CHAPTER 40

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “In the first month, on the first day of the month, you shall raise up the tabernacle of testimony,

3 put the ark in it, and let the veil hang before it.

4 When the table has been brought in, put on it what has been rightly commanded. The lampstand shall stand with its lamps,

5 and the golden altar on which incense is burned, before the ark of testimony. You shall put the curtain at the entrance of the tabernacle,

6 and the altar of whole burnt offering before it;

7 the basin between the altar and the tabernacle, which you shall fill with water.

8 You shall surround the court with curtains, and its entrance.

9 Taking the anointing oil, you shall anoint the tabernacle with its vessels, that they may be made holy;

10 the altar of whole burnt offering and all its vessels,

11 and the basin with its base. You shall consecrate everything with anointing oil, that they may be Holy of Holies.

12 Bring Aaron and his sons to the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony and, once washed with water,

13 clothe them in holy garments, that they may minister to me and their anointing may establish an everlasting priesthood.”

14 Moses did all that the Lord had commanded.

15 So in the first month of the second year, on the first day of the month, the tabernacle was set up.

16 Moses raised it, put in the boards, bases, and bars, and set up the columns.

17 He spread the covering over the tabernacle and put the outer covering above it, as the Lord commanded.

18 He put the testimony in the ark, placed the poles below it, and the oracle above it.

19 When he had brought the ark into the tabernacle, he hung the veil before it, to fulfill the Lord’s command.

20 He put the table in the tabernacle of testimony on the north side, outside the veil,

21 arranging the bread of presentation before it, as the Lord commanded Moses.

22 He put the lampstand in the tabernacle of testimony opposite the table, on the south side,

23 placing the lamps in order, according to the Lord’s command.

24 He put the golden altar under the covering of testimony, opposite the veil,

25 and burned incense of spices upon it, as the Lord commanded Moses.

26 He put the curtain at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony,

27 and the altar of whole burnt offering in the entrance of testimony, offering on it the whole burnt offering and sacrifices, as the Lord commanded.

28 He set the basin between the tabernacle of testimony and the altar, filling it with water.

29 Moses, Aaron, and his sons washed their hands and feet from it

30 when they entered the covering of the covenant and came near the altar, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

31 He raised the court around the tabernacle and altar, and drew the curtain at its entrance. After everything was completed,

32 the cloud covered the tabernacle of testimony, and the Lord’s glory filled it.

33 Moses could not enter the covering of the covenant, because the cloud covered all things and the majesty of the Lord flashed forth, for the cloud had covered everything.

34 Whenever the cloud left the tabernacle, the children of Israel set out by their companies;

35 if it hung over it, they remained in the same place.

36 For the cloud of the Lord rested upon the tabernacle by day, and fire by night, before all the people of Israel throughout all their encampments.

BOOK THREE: LEVITICUS

CHAPTER 1

1 Then the Lord called Moses and spoke to him from the tabernacle of testimony, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: If anyone among you offers a victim to the Lord from the livestock—that is, if he offers victims from cattle or sheep—

3 if his offering is a burnt offering from the herd, he shall offer an unblemished male at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony, to make the Lord favorable to him.

4 He shall place his hand upon the victim's head, and it will be acceptable and effective for his expiation.

5 He shall slaughter the calf before the Lord, and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall offer its blood, pouring it around the altar that stands before the entrance of the tabernacle.

6 When the victim's skin has been removed, they shall cut its limbs into pieces.

7 They shall put fire beneath the altar, having first arranged a pile of wood;

8 then they shall arrange the cut members above it, namely the head and all that adheres to the liver.

9 After the entrails and feet have been washed with water, the priest shall burn them upon the altar as a burnt offering and a sweet fragrance to the Lord.

10 But if the offering is a burnt offering from the flocks, whether from sheep or goats, he shall offer an unblemished male.

11 He shall slaughter it before the Lord at the side of the altar that faces north; and the sons of Aaron shall pour its blood around the altar.

12 They shall divide the members, the head, and all that adheres to the liver, and place them upon the wood beneath which the fire is to be set.

13 They shall wash the entrails and feet with water. The priest shall burn everything offered upon the altar as a burnt offering and a most sweet fragrance to the Lord.

14 But if the offering to the Lord is a burnt offering of birds, it shall be from turtledoves or young pigeons.

15 The priest shall offer it at the altar; twisting back its head at the neck and breaking open the place of the wound, he shall make the blood run down over the altar's rim.

16 But he shall cast the crop and feathers near the altar on the eastern side, in the place where the ashes are usually poured out.

17 He shall break its wing joints but shall not cut or divide it with iron; and he shall burn it upon the altar, with fire set beneath the wood. It is a burnt offering and an offering of most sweet fragrance to the Lord.”

CHAPTER 2

1 “When a soul offers an offering of sacrifice to the Lord, fine flour shall be his offering. He shall pour oil upon it and put frankincense on it,

2 and shall bring it to the sons of Aaron, the priests. One of them shall take a handful full of the flour and oil, with all the frankincense, and shall place the memorial portion upon the altar as a most sweet fragrance to the Lord.

3 Whatever remains of the sacrifice shall belong to Aaron and his sons, a Holy of Holies from the Lord's offerings.

4 But when you offer a sacrifice baked in an oven, it shall be of fine flour: loaves without leaven mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers rubbed with oil.

5 If your offering is from a pan, it shall be fine flour mixed with oil and without leaven.

6 You shall divide it into small pieces and pour oil upon it.

7 But if the sacrifice is from a griddle, the fine flour shall likewise be mixed with oil.

8 Offering it to the Lord, you shall deliver it into the priest's hands.

9 When he has offered it, he shall take the memorial portion from the sacrifice and burn it upon the altar as a fragrance of sweetness to the Lord.

10 Whatever remains shall belong to Aaron and his sons, a Holy of Holies from the Lord's offerings.

11 Every offering presented to the Lord shall be made without leaven; no leaven or honey shall be burned in sacrifice to the Lord.

12 You shall offer only their firstfruits and gifts; they shall not be placed upon the altar as a fragrance of sweetness.

13 Whatever sacrifice you offer, you shall season with salt; you shall not remove the salt of your God's covenant from your sacrifice. In every offering you shall offer salt.

14 But if you offer to the Lord a gift of the first of your produce from ears still green, you shall roast it with fire, crush it in the manner of spelt, and thus offer your firstfruits to the Lord,

15 pouring oil over it and placing frankincense upon it, because it is an offering of the Lord.

16 From it the priest shall burn as the memorial of the gift a portion of the crushed grain and oil, with all the frankincense.”

CHAPTER 3

1 “But if his offering is a victim of peace offerings and he wishes to offer from the cattle, whether male or female, he shall offer it unblemished before the Lord.

2 He shall place his hand upon the head of his victim, which shall be slaughtered at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony; and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall pour the blood around the altar.

3 From the victim of peace offerings they shall offer as an offering to the Lord the fat that covers the vital organs and all the fat within:

4 the two kidneys with the fat covering the flanks, and the lobe of the liver with the kidneys.

5 They shall burn these upon the altar with the burnt offering, with fire set beneath the wood, as an offering of most sweet fragrance to the Lord.

6 But if his offering is from the sheep and is a victim of peace offerings, whether he offers male or female, they shall be unblemished.

7 If he offers a lamb before the Lord,

8 he shall place his hand upon the head of his victim, which shall be slaughtered in the vestibule of the tabernacle of testimony; and the sons of Aaron shall pour its blood around the altar.

9 From the victim of peace offerings they shall offer a sacrifice to the Lord: the fat and the entire tail,

10 with the kidneys, the fat covering the belly and all the vital organs, both kidneys with the fat beside the flanks, and the lobe of the liver with the kidneys.

11 The priest shall burn these upon the altar as food for the fire and an offering of the Lord.

12 If his offering is a goat, and he offers it to the Lord,

13 he shall place his hand upon its head and slaughter it at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony; and the sons of Aaron shall pour its blood around the altar.

14 From it they shall take as food for the Lord's fire the fat covering the belly and covering all the vital organs,

15 the two kidneys with the membrane upon them beside the flanks, and the fat of the liver with the kidneys.

16 The priest shall burn these upon the altar as nourishment for the fire and a most sweet fragrance. All fat shall belong to the Lord,

17 by a perpetual law throughout your generations and in all your dwellings: you shall eat neither blood nor fat at all.”

CHAPTER 4

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel: If a soul sins through ignorance and does any one of all the things the Lord commanded not to be done,

3 if the anointed priest sins, causing the people to transgress, he shall offer to the Lord for his sin an unblemished calf.

4 He shall bring it to the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony before the Lord, place his hand upon its head, and slaughter it to the Lord.

5 He shall also draw some of the calf's blood and carry it into the tabernacle of testimony.

6 When he has dipped his finger in the blood, he shall sprinkle it seven times before the Lord, opposite the veil of the sanctuary.

7 He shall put some of the same blood upon the horns of the altar of incense most pleasing to the Lord, which is in the tabernacle of testimony; but all the remaining blood he shall pour at the base of the altar of burnt offering at the tabernacle's entrance.

8 He shall remove the calf's fat for the sin: both the fat covering the vital organs and all that is within,

9 the two kidneys and the membrane upon them beside the flanks, and the fat of the liver with the kidneys,

10 just as it is removed from the calf of the victim of peace offerings; and he shall burn these upon the altar of burnt offering.

11 But the skin and all the flesh, with head, feet, entrails, dung,

12 and the rest of the body, he shall carry outside the camp to a clean place where ashes are usually poured out. He shall burn them upon a pile of wood in the place where the ashes are poured.

13 But if the whole assembly of Israel is unaware and through inexperience does what is against the Lord's command,

14 and afterward understands its sin, it shall offer a calf for its sin and bring it to the entrance of the tabernacle.

15 The elders of the people shall place their hands upon its head before the Lord. When the calf has been slaughtered in the Lord's sight,

16 the anointed priest shall carry some of its blood into the tabernacle of testimony,

17 and, dipping his finger, shall sprinkle it seven times opposite the veil.

18 He shall put some of the same blood upon the horns of the altar that is before the Lord in the tabernacle of testimony; but the remaining blood he shall pour beside the base of the altar of burnt offerings at the entrance of the tabernacle.

19 He shall take all its fat and burn it upon the altar,

20 doing with this calf as he did with the former calf. When the priest prays for them, the Lord will be favorable to them.

21 But he shall carry the calf itself outside the camp and burn it as he burned the former calf, because it is for the sin of the multitude.

22 If a leader sins and through ignorance does one of the many things forbidden by the Lord's law,

23 and afterward understands his sin, he shall offer as a victim to the Lord an unblemished male goat.

24 He shall place his hand upon its head and slaughter it in the place where the burnt offering is usually killed before the Lord, because it is for sin.

25 The priest shall dip his finger in the blood of the victim for sin, touch the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour the remainder at its base.

26 He shall burn the fat above, as is usually done with victims of peace offerings. The priest shall pray for him and for his sin, and it will be forgiven him.

27 But if a soul among the people of the land sins through ignorance, doing any of the things forbidden by the Lord's law and thereby transgressing,

28 and comes to know his sin, he shall offer an unblemished female goat.

29 He shall place his hand upon the head of the victim for sin and slaughter it in the place of burnt offering.

30 The priest shall take some of its blood upon his finger, touch the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour the remainder at its base.

31 Removing all the fat, as it is usually removed from victims of peace offerings, he shall burn it upon the altar as a fragrance of sweetness to the Lord. The priest shall pray for him, and it will be forgiven him.

32 But if he offers from the flocks a victim for sin, namely an unblemished ewe,

33 he shall place his hand upon its head and slaughter it in the place where the victims of burnt offerings are usually killed.

34 The priest shall take some of its blood upon his finger, touch the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour the remainder at its base.

35 Removing all the fat, as the fat of the ram offered for peace offerings is usually removed, he shall burn it upon the altar as incense to the Lord. The priest shall pray for him and for his sin, and it will be forgiven him.”

CHAPTER 5

1 “If a soul sins after hearing the voice of one who swears, and is a witness either because he himself saw or because he knows, then unless he discloses it, he shall bear his iniquity.

2 A soul who touches anything unclean—whether what was killed by a beast, what died by itself, or any other creeping thing—and has forgotten his uncleanness, is guilty and has transgressed.

3 And if he touches anything of human uncleanness, according to every impurity by which one is usually defiled, and, having forgotten, afterward comes to know it, he shall be subject to guilt.

4 A soul who swears and declares with his lips that he will do either evil or good, confirming it by oath and word, and, having forgotten, afterward understands his offense,

5 shall do penance for the sin

6 and offer from the flocks a ewe or female goat; and the priest shall pray for that soul and for his sin.

7 But if he cannot offer an animal, he shall offer to the Lord two turtledoves or two young pigeons, one for sin and the other as a burnt offering.

8 He shall give them to the priest, who, offering the first for sin, shall twist its head back toward the little wings, so that it remains attached to the neck and is not completely torn off.

9 He shall sprinkle some of its blood upon the wall of the altar; whatever remains he shall cause to drip down to its foundation, because it is for sin.

10 He shall burn the other as a burnt offering, as is usually done. The priest shall pray for him and for his sin, and it will be forgiven him.

11 But if his hand is unable to offer two turtledoves or two young pigeons, he shall offer for his sin a tenth part of an ephah of fine flour. He shall put no oil in it and place no frankincense upon it, because it is for sin.

12 He shall deliver it to the priest, who shall draw from it a full handful and burn it upon the altar as a memorial of the one who offered it,

13 praying for him and making expiation. But the priest shall have the remaining portion as a gift.”

14 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

15 “If a soul, transgressing the ceremonies, sins through error in things sanctified to the Lord, he shall offer for his offense an unblemished ram from the flocks, which can be bought for two shekels according to the sanctuary's weight.

16 He shall restore the damage he caused and add a fifth part above it, delivering it to the priest, who shall pray for him while offering the ram; and it will be forgiven him.

17 If a soul sins through ignorance, does one of the things forbidden by the Lord's law, and, being guilty of sin, understands his iniquity,

18 he shall offer the priest an unblemished ram from the flocks, according to the measure and valuation of the sin. The priest shall pray for him, because he did it unknowingly, and it will be forgiven him,

19 because through error he transgressed against the Lord.”

CHAPTER 6

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “A soul who sins and, despising the Lord, denies to his neighbor a deposit entrusted to his faith, extorts anything by force, or commits fraud,

3 or finds a lost thing and denies it besides, swearing falsely, or does any other of the many things in which people usually sin,

4 when convicted of the offense,

5 shall restore in full everything he wished to obtain by fraud, and a fifth part besides to the owner whom he harmed.

6 For his sin he shall offer an unblemished ram from the flock and give it to the priest according to the valuation and measure of the offense.

7 The priest shall pray for him before the Lord, and he will be forgiven for each thing by which he sinned.”

8 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

9 “Command Aaron and his sons: This is the law of the burnt offering. It shall burn upon the altar all night until morning; the fire shall be from the same altar.

10 The priest shall be clothed in a tunic and linen undergarments. He shall take up the ashes consumed by the devouring fire and place them beside the altar.

11 He shall take off the former garments, put on others, carry the ashes outside the camp, and cause them to be consumed to embers in a most clean place.

12 The fire shall always burn upon the altar. The priest shall nourish it, putting wood beneath it every morning; and, placing the burnt offering above, he shall burn upon it the fat of the peace offerings.

13 This is the perpetual fire, which shall never fail upon the altar.

14 This is the law of the sacrifice and libations which the sons of Aaron shall offer before the Lord and before the altar.

15 The priest shall take a handful of the fine flour mixed with oil and all the frankincense placed upon the flour, and shall burn it upon the altar as a memorial of most sweet fragrance to the Lord.

16 But Aaron and his sons shall eat the remaining portion of flour without leaven, in the holy place of the tabernacle's court.

17 It shall not be leavened, because a portion of it is offered as incense to the Lord. It shall be a Holy of Holies, like what is offered for sin and offense.

18 Only the males of Aaron's stock shall eat it. It shall be a lawful and everlasting portion throughout your generations from the Lord's sacrifices. Everyone who touches these shall be made holy.”

19 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

20 “This is the offering of Aaron and his sons, which they must offer to the Lord on the day of their anointing. They shall offer a tenth part of an ephah of fine flour as an everlasting sacrifice, half of it in the morning and half in the evening.

21 It shall be fried in a pan mixed with oil. The priest who succeeds his father by right shall offer it hot as a most sweet fragrance to the Lord, 22 and it shall be burned entirely upon the altar.

23 For every sacrifice of the priests shall be consumed by fire, and no one shall eat from it.”

24 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

25 “Speak to Aaron and his sons: This is the law of the victim for sin. It shall be slaughtered before the Lord in the place where the burnt offering is offered. It is a Holy of Holies.

26 The priest who offers it shall eat it in a holy place, in the tabernacle's court.

27 Whatever touches its flesh shall be made holy. If a garment is sprinkled with its blood, it shall be washed in a holy place.

28 The earthen vessel in which it was cooked shall be broken; but if the vessel is bronze, it shall be scoured and washed with water.

29 Every male of priestly stock shall eat its flesh, because it is a Holy of Holies.

30 But a victim slaughtered for sin, whose blood is carried into the tabernacle of testimony to make expiation in the sanctuary, shall not be eaten but shall be burned with fire.”

CHAPTER 7

1 “This also is the law of the victim for offense; it is a Holy of Holies.

2 Therefore, where the burnt offering is slaughtered, the victim for offense shall also be killed; its blood shall be poured around the altar.

3 From it they shall offer the tail and the fat covering the vital organs,

4 the two kidneys and the fat beside the flanks, and the lobe of the liver with the kidneys.

5 The priest shall burn these upon the altar; it is the Lord's incense for offense.

6 Every male of priestly stock shall eat this flesh in a holy place, because it is a Holy of Holies.

7 As a victim is offered for sin, so also for offense: there shall be one law for both victims, and it shall belong to the priest who offers it.

8 The priest who offers the victim of burnt offering shall have its skin.

9 Every sacrifice of fine flour baked in an oven, and whatever is prepared on a griddle or in a pan, shall belong to the priest by whom it is offered.

10 Whether mixed with oil or dry, it shall be divided by equal measure among all the sons of Aaron.

11 This is the law of the victim of peace offerings that is offered to the Lord.

12 If the offering is for thanksgiving, they shall offer loaves without leaven mixed with oil, unleavened wafers anointed with oil, cooked fine flour, and little cakes mixed and sprinkled with oil,

13 and also leavened loaves with the victim of thanksgiving slaughtered for peace offerings.

14 One of these shall be offered to the Lord as firstfruits and shall belong to the priest who pours out the victim's blood.

15 Its flesh shall be eaten the same day; none of it shall remain until morning.

16 If anyone offers a victim by vow or voluntarily, it shall likewise be eaten the same day; but if anything remains for the next day, it is lawful to eat it.

17 Whatever the third day finds, fire shall consume.

18 If anyone eats the flesh of the victim of peace offerings on the third day, the offering shall become void and shall not benefit the one who offered it. Rather, every soul who contaminates himself with such food shall be guilty of transgression.

19 Flesh that touches anything unclean shall not be eaten but shall be burned with fire. Whoever is clean may eat from it.

20 A polluted soul who eats the flesh of a victim of peace offerings offered to the Lord shall perish from his peoples.

21 One who touches the uncleanness of a human, an animal, or anything that can pollute, and eats such flesh, shall perish from his peoples.”

22 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

23 “Speak to the children of Israel: You shall not eat the fat of sheep, cattle, or goats.

24 You may have for various uses the fat of an animal that died by itself and of an animal seized by a beast.

25 If anyone eats the fat that ought to be offered as incense to the Lord, he shall perish from his people.

26 Neither shall you take as food the blood of any animal, whether bird or livestock.

27 Every soul who eats blood shall perish from his peoples.”

28 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

29 “Speak to the children of Israel, saying: Whoever offers a victim of peace offerings to the Lord shall also offer its sacrifice—that is, its libations.

30 He shall hold in his hands the victim's fat and breast; and when he has consecrated both, offering them to the Lord, he shall deliver them to the priest,

31 who shall burn the fat upon the altar; but the breast shall belong to Aaron and his sons.

32 The right shoulder from victims of peace offerings shall also fall to the priest as firstfruits.

33 That son of Aaron who offers the blood and fat shall also have the right shoulder as his portion.

34 For I have taken the breast of elevation and the shoulder of separation from the children of Israel, from their victims of peace offerings, and have given them to Aaron the priest and his sons by a perpetual law from all the people of Israel.

35 This is the anointing of Aaron and his sons in the Lord's ceremonies, on the day Moses offered them to exercise the priesthood,

36 and what the Lord commanded to be given them by the children of Israel as a perpetual observance throughout their generations.

37 This is the law of the burnt offering, the sacrifice for sin and offense, consecration, and victims of peace offerings,

38 which the Lord established for Moses on Mount Sinai when he commanded the children of Israel to offer their offerings to the Lord in the wilderness of Sinai.”

CHAPTER 8

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Take Aaron with his sons, their garments, the anointing oil, the calf for sin, two rams, and the basket of unleavened bread,

3 and gather the whole assembly at the entrance of the tabernacle.”

4 Moses did as the Lord commanded. When the whole multitude had been gathered before the doors of the tabernacle,

5 he said, “This is the word the Lord commanded to be done.”

6 Immediately he presented Aaron and his sons. When he had washed them,

7 he clothed the high priest in the linen undergarment, girded him with the sash, put the blue tunic upon him, and placed the shoulder-piece over it.

8 Binding it with the woven band, he fitted it to the breastpiece, in which were the Teaching and the Truth.

9 He also covered his head with the turban and placed upon it, opposite the forehead, the golden plate consecrated in sanctification, as the Lord had commanded him.

10 He took the anointing oil and anointed the tabernacle with all its furnishings.

11 When, to make it holy, he had sprinkled the altar seven times, he anointed it and all its vessels, and made the basin with its base holy with oil.

12 Pouring the oil upon Aaron's head, he anointed and consecrated him.

13 He also presented Aaron's sons, clothed them in linen tunics, girded them with sashes, and put turbans upon them, as the Lord had commanded.

14 He offered the calf for sin; and when Aaron and his sons had placed their hands upon its head, 15 he slaughtered it, drew the blood, dipped his finger, and touched the horns of the altar all around. Having expiated and made the altar holy, he poured the remaining blood at its foundations.

16 He burned upon the altar the fat over the vital organs, the lobe of the liver, and the two kidneys with their little fat portions.

17 He burned the calf with its skin, flesh, and dung outside the camp, as the Lord had commanded.

18 He also offered the ram as a burnt offering; Aaron and his sons placed their hands upon its head, 19 and he slaughtered it and poured its blood around the altar.

20 Cutting the ram into pieces, he burned its head, limbs, and fat with fire,

21 having first washed the entrails and feet. He burned the whole ram together upon the altar, because it was a burnt offering of most sweet fragrance to the Lord, as he had been commanded.

22 He offered the second ram for the priests' consecration; Aaron and his sons placed their hands upon its head.

23 When Moses had slaughtered it, he took some of its blood and touched the extremity of Aaron's right ear, the thumb of his right hand, and likewise the great toe of his right foot.

24 He presented Aaron's sons; and when he had touched with the slaughtered ram's blood the extremity of each one's right ear and the thumbs and great toes of their right hand and foot, he poured the remainder around the altar.

25 He separated the fat, the tail, all the fat covering the entrails, the lobe of the liver, the two kidneys with their fat, and the right shoulder.

26 From the basket of unleavened bread before the Lord he took a loaf without leaven, a little cake mixed with oil, and a wafer, and placed them upon the fat and right shoulder,

27 delivering everything together to Aaron and his sons. After they had raised them before the Lord,

28 Moses received them again from their hands and burned them upon the altar of burnt offering, because it was an offering of consecration, a fragrance of sweetness, a sacrifice to the Lord.

29 He took the breast, raising it before the Lord from the ram of consecration as his portion, as the Lord had commanded him.

30 Taking the ointment and the blood that was upon the altar, he sprinkled Aaron and his garments, and his sons and their garments.

31 When he had made them holy in their clothing, he commanded them, saying, “Cook the flesh before the doors of the tabernacle and eat it there. Eat also the bread of consecration placed in the basket, as the Lord commanded me, saying, ‘Aaron and his sons shall eat it.’

32 But whatever remains of the flesh and bread, fire shall consume.

33 You shall not go out from the entrance of the tabernacle for seven days, until the day when the time of your consecration is completed; for consecration is finished in seven days,

34 as has been done at present, so that the rite of sacrifice might be completed.

35 Day and night you shall remain in the tabernacle, observing the Lord's watches, lest you die; for so it has been commanded me.”

36 Aaron and his sons did everything the Lord had spoken through the hand of Moses.

CHAPTER 9

1 On the eighth day Moses called Aaron, his sons, and the elders of Israel, and said to Aaron,

2 “Take from the herd a calf for sin and a ram as a burnt offering, both unblemished, and offer them before the Lord.

3 And you shall speak to the children of Israel: ‘Take a male goat for sin, and a calf and lamb, each a year old and without blemish, as a burnt offering;

4 and an ox and a ram for peace offerings. Slaughter them before the Lord, offering with the sacrifice of each fine flour mixed with oil; for today the Lord will appear to you.’”

5 Therefore they took everything Moses had commanded to the entrance of the tabernacle, where the whole multitude stood.

6 Moses said, “This is the word the Lord has commanded. Do it, and his glory will appear to you.”

7 He said to Aaron, “Approach the altar and slaughter for your sin. Offer the burnt offering and pray for yourself and the people; and when you have killed the people's victim, pray for them, as the Lord commanded.”

8 Aaron immediately approached the altar and slaughtered the calf for his sin.

9 His sons offered him its blood; dipping his finger in it, he touched the horns of the altar and poured the remainder at its base.

10 He burned upon the altar the fat, kidneys, and lobe of the liver that were for sin, as the Lord had commanded Moses;

11 but its flesh and skin he burned with fire outside the camp.

12 He also slaughtered the victim of burnt offering. His sons offered him its blood, which he poured around the altar.

13 They also offered the victim itself, cut into pieces, with its head and each of its members; he burned all these with fire upon the altar,

14 having first washed the entrails and feet with water.

15 Offering for the people's sin, he killed the male goat; and when the altar had been expiated,

16 he made the burnt offering,

17 adding to the sacrifice the libations offered with it and burning them upon the altar, besides the ceremonies of the morning burnt offering.

18 He also slaughtered the ox and ram, the people's victims of peace offerings. His sons offered him the blood, which he poured around the altar.

19 But the fat of the ox, the ram's tail, the kidneys with their fat, and the lobe of the liver

20 they placed upon the breasts; and when the fat had been burned upon the altar,

21 Aaron separated their breasts and right shoulders, raising them before the Lord, as Moses had commanded.

22 Extending his hands toward the people, he blessed them. Thus, when the victims for sin, the burnt offerings, and the peace offerings were completed, he came down.

23 Moses and Aaron entered the tabernacle of testimony, then came out and blessed the people. The Lord's glory appeared to the whole multitude,

24 and look, fire going out from the Lord devoured the burnt offering and the fat upon the altar. When the crowds saw this, they praised the Lord, falling upon their faces.

CHAPTER 10

1 Nadab and Abihu, sons of Aaron, took their censers, placed fire and incense upon them, and offered foreign fire before the Lord, which had not been commanded them.

2 Fire went out from the Lord and devoured them, and they died before the Lord.

3 Moses said to Aaron, “This is what the Lord spoke: ‘I will be made holy in those who approach me, and I will be glorified in the sight of all the people.’” Hearing this, Aaron was silent.

4 Moses called Mishael and Elizaphan, sons of Uzziel, Aaron's paternal uncle, and said to them, “Go, take your brothers away from before the sanctuary, and carry them outside the camp.”

5 Going at once, they took them as they lay, clothed in linen tunics, and cast them outside, as they had been commanded.

6 Moses spoke to Aaron and to Eleazar and Ithamar, his sons: “Do not uncover your heads or tear your garments, lest perhaps you die and indignation arise against the whole assembly. Let your brothers and all the house of Israel mourn the burning the Lord kindled.

7 But you shall not go out from the doors of the tabernacle, or else you will perish, for the oil of holy anointing is upon you.” They did everything according to Moses' command.

8 The Lord also said to Aaron,

9 “You and your sons shall not drink wine or anything able to intoxicate when you enter the tabernacle of testimony, lest you die, because it is an everlasting command throughout your generations,

10 so that you may have knowledge to discern between holy and profane, polluted and clean,

11 and may teach the children of Israel all my ordinances which the Lord spoke to them through the hand of Moses.”

12 Moses spoke to Aaron and to Eleazar and Ithamar, his remaining sons: “Take the sacrifice remaining from the Lord's offering and eat it without leaven beside the altar, because it is a Holy of Holies.

13 You shall eat it in a holy place, because it was given to you and your sons from the Lord's offerings, as was commanded me.

14 You and your sons and daughters with you shall also eat in a most clean place the breast that was offered and the shoulder that was separated, for they are reserved for you and your children from the saving victims of the children of Israel,

15 because they raised the shoulder, breast, and fat burned upon the altar before the Lord, and these belong to you and your sons by a perpetual law, as the Lord commanded.”

16 Meanwhile, when Moses sought the male goat offered for sin, he found it burned. Angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, Aaron's remaining sons, he said,

17 “Why did you not eat the victim for sin in the holy place? It is a Holy of Holies and was given to you so that you might bear the multitude's iniquity and pray for them in the Lord's sight, 18 especially since none of its blood was carried within the holy places and you ought to have eaten it in the sanctuary, as was commanded me.”

19 Aaron answered, “Today the victim for sin and the burnt offering were offered before the Lord, but what you see has happened to me. How could I eat it or please the Lord in the ceremonies with a mourning mind?”

20 When Moses heard this, he was satisfied.

CHAPTER 11

1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

2 “Say to the children of Israel: These are the animals you ought to eat from all the living things of the earth.

3 Among livestock, you shall eat everything that has a divided hoof and chews the cud.

4 But whatever chews the cud and has a hoof yet does not divide it, such as the camel and the others, you shall not eat but shall reckon among the unclean.

5 The hyrax, which chews the cud but does not divide the hoof, is unclean.

6 The hare also, for it too chews the cud but does not divide the hoof.

7 And the pig, which divides the hoof but does not chew the cud.

8 You shall not eat their flesh or touch their carcasses, because they are unclean to you.

9 These are what are born in the waters and are lawful to eat: you shall eat everything having fins and scales, whether in seas, rivers, or pools.

10 But whatever has no fins and scales among the things moving and living in the waters shall be abominable to you

11 and execrable; you shall not eat their flesh, and you shall avoid their carcasses.

12 Everything in the waters that has no fins and scales shall be polluted.

13 These are the birds you ought not to eat and which must be avoided: the eagle, griffin vulture, and sea eagle;

14 the kite and vulture according to its kind;

15 every raven kind according to its likeness;

16 the ostrich, owl, gull, and hawk according to its kind;

17 the eagle owl, cormorant, and ibis;

18 the swan, pelican, and purple swamphen;

19 the heron and plover according to its kind, and also the hoopoe and bat.

20 Every winged creature that walks upon four feet shall be abominable to you.

21 But whatever indeed walks upon four feet yet has longer hind legs with which it leaps upon the earth,

22 you ought to eat, such as the bruchus according to its kind, the attacus, ophiomachus, and locust, each according to its kind.

23 But whatever among winged creatures has only four feet shall be execrable to you.

24 Whoever touches their carcasses shall be polluted and unclean until evening;

25 and if it is necessary for him to carry anything of these dead, he shall wash his garments and be unclean until sunset.

26 Every animal having a hoof but not dividing it and not chewing the cud shall be unclean; whoever touches it shall be contaminated.

27 Whatever walks upon its hands among all living things that go on four feet shall be unclean; whoever touches their carcasses shall be polluted until evening.

28 Whoever carries such carcasses shall wash his garments and be unclean until evening, because all these are unclean to you.

29 These also shall be reckoned among polluted things that move upon the earth: the weasel, mouse, and crocodile, each according to its kind;

30 the shrew, chameleon, gecko, lizard, and mole.

31 All these are unclean. Whoever touches their carcasses shall be unclean until evening.

32 Anything upon which any part of their carcasses falls shall be polluted, whether a wooden vessel, garment, skins, or haircloths. Anything used for work shall be dipped in water and remain polluted until evening; afterward it shall be made clean.

33 But an earthen vessel into which any of these falls shall be polluted and therefore must be broken.

34 Any food you eat, if water has been poured upon it, shall be unclean; and every liquid drunk from any vessel shall be unclean.

35 Anything upon which such carcasses fall shall be unclean; whether ovens or cooking pots, they shall be destroyed and shall be unclean.

36 But springs, cisterns, and every gathering of waters shall be clean. Whoever touches their carcass shall be polluted.

37 If it falls upon seed for sowing, it shall not pollute it.

38 But if someone pours water over the seed and afterward it is touched by carcasses, it shall immediately be polluted.

39 If an animal you are permitted to eat dies, whoever touches its carcass shall be unclean until evening;

40 and whoever eats anything from it or carries it shall wash his garments and be unclean until evening.

41 Everything that creeps upon the earth shall be abominable and shall not be taken as food.

42 Whatever four-footed creature walks upon its breast, whatever has many feet, or whatever is dragged along the ground, you shall not eat, because it is abominable.

43 Do not contaminate your souls or touch any of them, lest you be unclean.

44 For I am the Lord your God. Be holy, because I am holy. Do not pollute your souls with any creeping thing that moves upon the earth.

45 For I am the Lord who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God. You shall be holy, because I am holy.

46 This is the law of living creatures and birds, and of every living soul that moves in water and creeps upon the earth,

47 so that you may know the differences between clean and unclean and know what you ought to eat and what to reject.”

CHAPTER 12

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: If a woman, having received seed, bears a male, she shall be unclean seven days, according to the days of her menstrual separation.

3 On the eighth day the little child shall be circumcised.

4 But she shall remain thirty-three days in the blood of her purification. She shall touch nothing holy and shall not enter the sanctuary until the days of her purification are completed.

5 But if she bears a female, she shall be unclean two weeks according to the rite of menstrual flow, and shall remain sixty-six days in the blood of her purification.

6 When the days of her purification are completed for a son or daughter, she shall bring a year-old lamb as a burnt offering and a young pigeon or turtledove for sin to the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony and deliver them to the priest.

7 He shall offer them before the Lord and pray for her, and thus she shall be cleansed from the flow of her blood. This is the law for one who bears a male or female.

8 But if her hand does not find and she is unable to offer a lamb, she shall take two turtledoves or two young pigeons, one as a burnt offering and the other for sin. The priest shall pray for her, and thus she shall be cleansed.”

CHAPTER 13

1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

2 “A person in whose skin and flesh there arises a changed color, a pustule, or something appearing bright—that is, a plague of leprosy—shall be brought to Aaron the priest or to any one of his sons.

3 When he sees leprosy in the skin, the hairs changed to white, and the appearance of the leprosy lower than the skin and the rest of the flesh, it is a plague of leprosy, and at his judgment the person shall be separated.

4 But if a shining whiteness is in the skin yet is not lower than the remaining flesh, and the hairs retain their former color, the priest shall confine him seven days.

5 On the seventh day he shall examine him. If the leprosy has not grown further or passed beyond its former boundaries in the skin, he shall confine him again for another seven days.

6 On the seventh day he shall inspect him. If the leprosy is darker and has not grown in the skin, he shall declare him clean, because it is a scab. The person shall wash his garments and be clean.

7 But if, after he was seen by the priest and restored to cleanness, the leprosy grows again, he shall be brought to him

8 and condemned to uncleanness.

9 If a plague of leprosy is in a person, he shall be brought to the priest,

10 who shall inspect him. If a white color is in the skin, has changed the appearance of the hair, and living flesh itself appears,

11 it shall be judged a very old leprosy grown into the skin. Therefore the priest shall contaminate him and shall not confine him, because he is plainly unclean.

12 But if the leprosy blooms and spreads through the skin and covers all the skin from head to feet, whatever falls under the sight of the eyes,

13 the priest shall examine him and judge him held by a most clean leprosy; because all has turned white, the person shall therefore be clean.

14 But whenever living flesh appears in him,

15 then by the priest's judgment he shall be polluted and reckoned among the unclean; for living flesh, if it is sprinkled with leprosy, is unclean.

16 But if it turns white again and covers the whole person,

17 the priest shall examine him and decree that he is clean.

18 When flesh and skin in which an ulcer arose has healed,

19 and a white or reddish scar appears in the place of the ulcer, the person shall be brought to the priest.

20 When he sees the place of leprosy lower than the remaining flesh and the hairs turned white, he shall contaminate him, for a plague of leprosy has arisen in the ulcer.

21 But if the hair retains its former color, the scar is somewhat dark, and it is not lower than the neighboring flesh, he shall confine him seven days.

22 If it grows, he shall adjudge him to leprosy;

23 but if it stays in its place, it is the scar of the ulcer, and the person shall be clean.

24 When flesh and skin have been burned by fire, and after healing have a white or red scar,

25 the priest shall examine it. If it has turned white and its place is lower than the rest of the skin, he shall contaminate him, because a plague of leprosy has arisen in the scar.

26 But if the hair's color has not changed, the plague is not lower than the remaining flesh, and the appearance of leprosy itself is somewhat dark, he shall confine him seven days.

27 On the seventh day he shall inspect him. If the leprosy has grown in the skin, he shall contaminate him.

28 But if the whiteness stays in its place and is not very bright, it is the plague of a burn, and therefore he shall be declared clean, because it is the scar of the burning.

29 A man or woman in whose head or beard leprosy has sprouted shall be examined by the priest.

30 If the place is lower than the remaining flesh and the hair yellow and finer than usual, he shall contaminate them, because it is leprosy of the head and beard.

31 But if he sees the place of the spot level with the neighboring flesh and the hair black, he shall confine the person seven days.

32 On the seventh day he shall inspect it. If the spot has not grown, the hair retains its color, and the place of the plague is level with the remaining flesh, 33 the person shall be shaved except at the place of the spot and shall be confined another seven days.

34 If on the seventh day the plague is seen to have stayed in its place and is not lower than the remaining flesh, he shall declare him clean. After washing his garments, he shall be clean.

35 But if after cleansing the spot grows again in the skin,

36 he shall no longer inquire whether the hair has changed to yellow, because the person is plainly unclean.

37 But if the spot has stayed and the hairs are black, he shall know that the person is healed and confidently pronounce him clean.

38 A man or woman in whose skin whiteness appears

39 shall be examined by the priest. If he discovers a dim whiteness shining in the skin, he shall know it is not leprosy but a white-colored spot, and the person is clean.

40 A man whose hair falls from his head is bald and clean.

41 And if the hairs fall from his forehead, he is bald in front and clean.

42 But if a white or red color arises in the baldness or frontal baldness,

43 and the priest sees this, he shall without doubt condemn him for leprosy which has arisen in the bald place.

44 Therefore whoever is marked with leprosy and separated at the priest's judgment 45 shall have his garments torn, his head uncovered, and his mouth covered with a garment; he shall cry that he is contaminated and filthy.

46 During all the time he is leprous and unclean, he shall live alone outside the camp.

47 A woolen or linen garment that has leprosy,

48 whether in warp or weft, or a skin or anything made from skin,

49 if it is infected with a white or red spot, shall be reckoned leprosy and shown to the priest.

50 After examining it, he shall confine it seven days.

51 Looking again on the seventh day, if he finds that it has grown, it is a persevering leprosy. He shall judge the garment polluted, and everything in which it is found;

52 therefore it shall be burned in flames.

53 But if he sees that it has not grown,

54 he shall command them to wash the thing in which the leprosy is, and he shall confine it another seven days.

55 When he sees that its former appearance has not returned, though the leprosy has not grown, he shall judge it unclean and burn it with fire, because the leprosy is infused into the garment's surface or throughout it.

56 But if the place of leprosy is darker after the garment is washed, he shall tear it out and divide it from the sound material.

57 But if it appears further in places that were formerly unspotted, it is a flying and wandering leprosy and must be burned with fire.

58 If it ceases, he shall wash the clean parts with water a second time, and they shall be clean.

59 This is the law of leprosy in a woolen or linen garment, in warp and weft, and in every furnishing of skin: how it ought to be declared clean or contaminated.”

CHAPTER 14

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “This is the rite of the leprous person when he is to be cleansed. He shall be brought to the priest,

3 who shall go outside the camp. When he finds that the leprosy has been cleansed,

4 he shall command the one being purified to offer for himself two living birds lawful to eat, cedar wood, scarlet thread, and hyssop.

5 He shall command one of the birds to be slaughtered in an earthen vessel over living waters.

6 But the other living bird, with the cedar wood, scarlet, and hyssop, he shall dip in the blood of the slaughtered bird.

7 With it he shall sprinkle seven times the one who is to be cleansed, that he may duly be purified; and he shall release the living bird to fly away into the field.

8 When the person has washed his garments, he shall shave all the hair of his body and wash with water. Having been purified, he shall enter the camp, but only so that he remains outside his tent for seven days.

9 On the seventh day he shall shave the hair of his head, his beard and eyebrows, and the hair of his whole body. When his garments and body have been washed again,

10 on the eighth day he shall take two unblemished male lambs, a year-old ewe without blemish, three tenths of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice, and separately a sextary of oil.

11 The priest purifying the person shall set him and all these things before the Lord at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony.

12 He shall take one lamb and offer it for offense, with the sextary of oil; and he shall offer everything before the Lord.

13 He shall slaughter the lamb where the victim for sin and the burnt offering are usually slaughtered—that is, in the holy place. For as with the victim for sin, so with the victim for offense: it belongs to the priest and is a Holy of Holies.

14 Taking some of the blood of the victim slaughtered for offense, the priest shall put it upon the extremity of the right ear of the one being cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand and the great toe of his right foot.

15 He shall pour some of the sextary of oil into his left hand,

16 dip his right finger in it, and sprinkle it seven times before the Lord.

17 The oil remaining in his left hand he shall pour upon the extremity of the right ear of the one being cleansed, upon the thumb of his right hand and great toe of his right foot, and upon the blood poured out for offense,

18 and upon his head.

19 He shall pray for him before the Lord and make the sacrifice for sin; then he shall slaughter the burnt offering

20 and place it upon the altar with its libations, and the person shall duly be cleansed.

21 But if he is poor and his hand cannot find the things stated for offense, he shall take a lamb as an offering, that the priest may pray for him, and a tenth part of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice, with a sextary of oil,

22 and two turtledoves or two young pigeons, one for sin and the other as a burnt offering.

23 On the eighth day of his purification he shall offer them to the priest at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony before the Lord.

24 The priest, receiving the lamb for offense and the sextary of oil, shall raise them together.

25 When the lamb has been slaughtered, he shall put some of its blood upon the extremity of the right ear of the one being cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand and the great toe of his right foot.

26 He shall pour some of the oil into his left hand,

27 dip a finger of his right hand in it, and sprinkle seven times before the Lord.

28 He shall touch the extremity of the right ear of the one being cleansed and the thumb of his right hand and great toe of his right foot, in the place of the blood poured out for offense.

29 But the remaining oil in his left hand he shall pour upon the head of the purified person, that he may make the Lord favorable to him.

30 He shall offer a turtledove or young pigeon,

31 one for offense and the other as a burnt offering, with its libations.

32 This is the sacrifice of a leprous person who cannot have everything for his cleansing.”

33 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

34 “When you enter the land of Canaan, which I shall give you as a possession, if there is a plague of leprosy in a house,

35 the owner of the house shall go and report to the priest, saying, ‘Something like a plague of leprosy seems to me to be in my house.’

36 He shall command them to carry everything out of the house before he enters it to see whether it is leprous, lest everything in the house become unclean. Afterward he shall enter to examine the house's leprosy.

37 When he sees in its walls things like little valleys, deformed by pallor or redness and lower than the remaining surface, 38 he shall go out through the house's entrance and immediately close it for seven days.

39 Returning on the seventh day, he shall examine it. If he finds that the leprosy has grown, 40 he shall command the stones in which the leprosy is to be dug out and cast outside the city in an unclean place.

41 He shall have the house scraped all around within and the dust from the scraping scattered outside the city in an unclean place.

42 Other stones shall be put in place of those removed, and the house shall be coated with other clay.

43 But if, after the stones have been dug out, the dust scraped away, and other earth spread on,

44 the priest enters and sees the leprosy returned and the walls sprinkled with spots, it is a persevering leprosy, and the house is unclean.

45 They shall immediately destroy it and cast its stones, timbers, and all its dust outside the town in an unclean place.

46 Whoever enters the house while it is closed shall be unclean until evening.

47 Whoever sleeps in it or eats anything shall wash his garments.

48 But if the priest enters and sees that the leprosy has not grown in the house after it was coated again, he shall purify it, its soundness having been restored.

49 For its purification he shall take two birds, cedar wood, scarlet thread, and hyssop.

50 When one bird has been slaughtered in an earthen vessel over living waters,

51 he shall take the cedar wood, hyssop, scarlet, and living bird, dip everything in the blood of the slaughtered bird and in the living waters, and sprinkle the house seven times.

52 He shall purify it with the bird's blood, the living waters, the living bird, cedar wood, hyssop, and scarlet thread.

53 When he has released the bird to fly freely into the field, he shall pray for the house, and it shall duly be cleansed.

54 This is the law of every leprosy and plague,

55 of leprosy in garments and houses,

56 of scars and erupting pustules, of shining spots, and of various forms with changed colors,

57 so that it may be known at what time anything is clean or unclean.”

CHAPTER 15

1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: A man who suffers a discharge of seed shall be unclean.

3 He shall be judged subject to this affliction when the foul fluid clings to his flesh at every moment and congeals.

4 Every bed upon which he sleeps shall be unclean, and every place where he sits.

5 If anyone touches his bed, he shall wash his garments, bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

6 If he sits where that man sat, he too shall wash his garments, bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

7 Whoever touches his flesh shall wash his garments, bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

8 If such a man casts saliva upon one who is clean, that person shall wash his garments, bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

9 The saddle upon which he sits shall be unclean.

10 Whatever was beneath the one suffering a discharge of seed shall be polluted until evening. Whoever carries any of these things shall wash his garments, bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

11 Anyone whom such a man touches without first washing his hands shall wash his garments, bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

12 An earthen vessel he touches shall be broken, but a wooden vessel shall be washed with water.

13 If the one suffering such an affliction is healed, he shall count seven days after his cleansing; and when his garments and whole body have been washed in living waters, he shall be clean.

14 On the eighth day he shall take two turtledoves or two young pigeons, come before the Lord at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony, and give them to the priest.

15 The priest shall make one for sin and the other as a burnt offering, and shall pray for him before the Lord, that he may be cleansed from his discharge of seed.

16 A man from whom the seed of intercourse goes out shall wash his whole body with water and be unclean until evening.

17 He shall wash with water the garment and skin that had it, and it shall be unclean until evening.

18 The woman with whom he had intercourse shall bathe in water and be unclean until evening.

19 A woman who at the return of the month suffers a flow of blood shall be separated for seven days.

20 Everyone who touches her shall be unclean until evening,

21 and whatever she sleeps or sits upon during the days of her separation shall be polluted.

22 Whoever touches her bed shall wash his garments, bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

23 Whoever touches any vessel upon which she sat shall wash his garments, bathe in water, and be polluted until evening.

24 If a man has intercourse with her during the time of menstrual blood, he shall be unclean seven days, and every bed upon which he sleeps shall be polluted.

25 A woman who suffers a flow of blood for many days outside the menstrual time, or whose blood does not cease flowing after menstruation, shall be unclean as though she were in the menstrual time for as long as she is subject to this affliction.

26 Every bed upon which she sleeps and vessel upon which she sits shall be polluted.

27 Whoever touches these shall wash his garments, bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

28 If the blood stops and ceases to flow, she shall count seven days for her purification.

29 On the eighth day she shall offer for herself to the priest two turtledoves or two young pigeons at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony.

30 He shall make one for sin and the other as a burnt offering, and shall pray for her before the Lord and for the flow of her uncleanness.

31 Therefore you shall teach the children of Israel to guard against uncleanness, lest they die in their filth when they pollute my tabernacle which is among them.

32 This is the law of one who suffers a discharge of seed and one who is polluted by intercourse, 33 and of her who is separated at menstrual times or flows continually with blood, and of the man who sleeps with her.”

CHAPTER 16

1 The Lord spoke to Moses after the death of Aaron's two sons, when they were killed while offering foreign fire.

2 He commanded him, saying, “Speak to your brother Aaron, lest he enter at every time into the sanctuary within the veil, before the mercy-seat covering the ark, and die—for I shall appear in a cloud above the oracle—

3 unless he first does these things: he shall offer a calf for sin and a ram as a burnt offering.

4 He shall be clothed in a linen tunic and cover his private parts with linen undergarments; he shall be girded with a linen sash and place a linen turban upon his head. These are holy garments; when he has bathed, he shall put them all on.

5 From the whole multitude of the children of Israel he shall receive two male goats for sin and one ram as a burnt offering.

6 When he has offered the calf and prayed for himself and his house,

7 he shall cause the two goats to stand before the Lord at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony.

8 Casting lots over both, he shall assign one to the Lord and the other to the emissary goat.

9 The one whose lot comes out for the Lord he shall offer for sin.

10 But the one for the emissary goat he shall set alive before the Lord, that he may pour prayers over it and send it into the wilderness.

11 When these things have been duly celebrated, he shall offer the calf, pray for himself and his house, and slaughter it.

12 Taking a censer filled with coals from the altar and drawing with his hand compounded aromatic incense, he shall enter beyond the veil into the holy places,

13 so that, when the aromatics are placed upon the fire, their cloud and vapor may cover the oracle above the testimony, and he may not die.

14 He shall also take some of the calf's blood and sprinkle it with his finger seven times opposite the mercy-seat toward the east.

15 When he has killed the goat for the people's sin, he shall carry its blood within the veil, as commanded concerning the calf's blood, and sprinkle it opposite the oracle.

16 He shall expiate the sanctuary from the uncleannesses of the children of Israel, from their transgressions, and from all their sins. According to this rite he shall act toward the tabernacle of testimony, fixed among them in the midst of the filth of their habitation.

17 Let no one be in the tabernacle when the high priest enters the sanctuary to pray for himself, his house, and the whole assembly of Israel, until he comes out.

18 When he comes out to the altar before the Lord, he shall pray for himself and pour the blood taken from the calf and goat upon its horns all around.

19 Sprinkling it with his finger seven times, he shall expiate it and make it holy from the uncleannesses of the children of Israel.

20 After he has cleansed the sanctuary, tabernacle, and altar, he shall offer the living goat.

21 Placing both hands upon its head, he shall confess all the iniquities of the children of Israel and all their offenses and sins. Calling these down upon its head, he shall send it into the wilderness through a prepared man.

22 When the goat has carried all their iniquities into a solitary land and has been released in the wilderness,

23 Aaron shall return to the tabernacle of testimony, take off the garments in which he was formerly clothed when entering the sanctuary, and leave them there.

24 He shall wash his flesh in a holy place and put on his own garments. After coming out, he shall offer his burnt offering and the people's and pray both for himself and the people.

25 He shall burn upon the altar the fat offered for sins.

26 The one who released the emissary goat shall wash his garments and body with water, and thus enter the camp.

27 The calf and goat slaughtered for sin, whose blood was carried into the sanctuary to complete expiation, shall be carried outside the camp; their skins, flesh, and dung shall be burned with fire.

28 Whoever burns them shall wash his garments and flesh with water, and thus enter the camp.

29 This shall be an everlasting ordinance for you: in the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month, you shall afflict your souls and do no work, whether native or stranger sojourning among you.

30 On this day there shall be expiation and cleansing for you from all your sins; before the Lord you shall be cleansed.

31 For it is a Sabbath of rest, and you shall afflict your souls by a perpetual observance.

32 The priest who has been anointed and whose hands have been initiated to exercise the priesthood in his father's place shall make expiation. He shall be clothed in the linen robe and holy garments,

33 and shall expiate the sanctuary, the tabernacle of testimony, and the altar, and also the priests and the whole people.

34 This shall be an everlasting ordinance for you, that prayer be made for the children of Israel and for all their sins once a year.” Therefore he did as the Lord had commanded Moses.

CHAPTER 17

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to Aaron and his sons and all the children of Israel, saying to them: This is the word the Lord commanded, saying,

3 ‘Any man from the house of Israel who kills an ox, sheep, or goat within or outside the camp,

4 and does not offer it at the entrance of the tabernacle as an offering to the Lord, shall be guilty of blood. As though he had shed blood, so shall he perish from the midst of his people.

5 Therefore the children of Israel ought to offer to the priest their victims which they kill in the field, that they may be made holy to the Lord before the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony and slaughter them as victims of peace offerings to the Lord.

6 The priest shall pour the blood upon the Lord's altar at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony and burn the fat as a fragrance of sweetness to the Lord.

7 They shall no longer slaughter their victims to demons, with whom they have prostituted themselves. It shall be an everlasting ordinance for them and their descendants.’

8 And you shall say to them: ‘A man from the house of Israel or from the strangers sojourning among you who offers a burnt offering or victim

9 and does not bring it to the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony to be offered to the Lord shall perish from his people.

10 Any man from the house of Israel or from the strangers sojourning among them who eats blood—I will set my face firmly against that soul and destroy it from his people,

11 because the soul of the flesh is in the blood. I gave it to you so that upon the altar you might expiate with it for your souls and the blood might be an atonement for the soul.

12 Therefore I said to the children of Israel: No soul among you shall eat blood, nor any of the strangers sojourning among you.

13 Any man from the children of Israel or the strangers sojourning among you who by hunting or bird-catching takes a wild animal or bird lawful to eat shall pour out its blood and cover it with earth.

14 For the soul of all flesh is in the blood. Therefore I said to the children of Israel: You shall not eat the blood of any flesh, because the soul of the flesh is in the blood; whoever eats it shall perish.

15 A soul who eats what died by itself or was seized by a beast, whether native or stranger, shall wash his garments and himself with water and be contaminated until evening; in this order he shall become clean.

16 But if he does not wash his garments and body, he shall bear his iniquity.’”

CHAPTER 18

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: I am the Lord your God.

3 You shall not act according to the custom of the land of Egypt, where you lived; and you shall not act according to the manner of the land of Canaan, into which I am about to bring you, nor walk in their ordinances.

4 You shall do my judgments, keep my precepts, and walk in them. I am the Lord your God.

5 Keep my laws and judgments; a person who does them shall live in them. I am the Lord.

6 No man shall approach one near to him in blood to reveal that person's nakedness. I am the Lord.

7 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father or the nakedness of your mother. She is your mother; you shall not reveal her nakedness.

8 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's wife, for it is your father's nakedness.

9 You shall not reveal the nakedness of your sister by father or mother, whether born at home or outside.

10 You shall not reveal the nakedness of your son's daughter or your daughter's granddaughter, because it is your nakedness.

11 You shall not reveal the nakedness of the daughter of your father's wife whom she bore to your father, for she is your sister.

12 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's sister, because she is your father's flesh.

13 You shall not reveal the nakedness of your mother's sister, because she is your mother's flesh.

14 You shall not reveal the nakedness of your paternal uncle or approach his wife, who is joined to you by affinity.

15 You shall not reveal the nakedness of your daughter-in-law, because she is your son's wife; neither shall you uncover her shame.

16 You shall not reveal the nakedness of your brother's wife, because it is your brother's nakedness.

17 You shall not reveal the nakedness of your wife and her daughter. You shall not take her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter to reveal her shame, because they are her flesh and such intercourse is incest.

18 You shall not take your wife's sister as her rival or reveal her nakedness while your wife is still living.

19 You shall not approach a woman suffering menstruation or reveal her foulness.

20 You shall not have intercourse with your neighbor's wife or be stained by the mingling of seed.

21 You shall not give any of your seed to be consecrated to the idol Moloch, nor pollute the name of your God. I am the Lord.

22 You shall not lie with a male in female intercourse, because it is an abomination.

23 You shall not have intercourse with any animal or be stained with it. A woman shall not lie beneath an animal or mingle with it, because it is a crime.

24 Do not be polluted by any of these things, by which all the nations I shall cast out before your sight have been contaminated

25 and by which the land is polluted. I shall visit its crimes upon it, so that it vomits out its inhabitants.

26 Keep my ordinances and judgments and do none of all these abominations, whether native or settler sojourning among you.

27 For the inhabitants of the land who were before you did all these execrations and polluted it.

28 Therefore take care lest it likewise vomit you out when you do equal things, as it vomited out the nation before you.

29 Every soul who does any of these abominations shall perish from the midst of his people.

30 Keep my commands. Do not do what those before you did, and do not be polluted by these things. I am the Lord your God.”

CHAPTER 19

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to the whole assembly of the children of Israel and say to them: Be holy, because I, the Lord your God, am holy.

3 Let everyone fear his father and mother. Keep my Sabbaths. I am the Lord your God.

4 Do not turn to idols or make molten gods for yourselves. I am the Lord your God.

5 If you slaughter a victim of peace offerings to the Lord, so that he may be favorable,

6 you shall eat it on the day it is slaughtered and on the next day; whatever remains for the third day you shall burn with fire.

7 If anyone eats from it after two days, he shall be profane and guilty of impiety.

8 He shall bear his iniquity, because he polluted what is holy to the Lord, and that soul shall perish from his people.

9 When you reap the crops of your land, you shall not cut the surface of the land to the very ground or gather the remaining ears.

10 Neither shall you gather the clusters and fallen grapes in your vineyard, but shall leave them to be plucked by the poor and sojourners. I am the Lord your God.

11 You shall not commit theft. You shall not lie, nor shall anyone deceive his neighbor.

12 You shall not swear falsely by my name or pollute the name of your God. I am the Lord.

13 You shall not defraud your neighbor or oppress him by force. The work of your hired laborer shall not remain with you until morning.

14 You shall not curse the deaf or place a stumbling block before the blind, but shall fear the Lord your God, because I am the Lord.

15 You shall not do what is iniquitous or judge unjustly. Do not consider the person of the poor or honor the face of the powerful. Judge your neighbor justly.

16 You shall not be an accuser or whisperer among the people. You shall not stand against your neighbor's blood. I am the Lord.

17 You shall not hate your brother in your heart, but shall rebuke him publicly, lest you have sin because of him.

18 You shall not seek vengeance or remember an injury from your fellow citizens. You shall love your friend as yourself. I am the Lord.

19 Keep my laws. You shall not make your animal mate with living things of another kind. You shall not sow your field with different seed. You shall not put on a garment woven from two things.

20 If a man sleeps in intercourse of seed with a woman who is a bondwoman and marriageable, yet has not been redeemed by a price or given liberty, they shall both be beaten and shall not die, because she was not free.

21 For his offense he shall offer a ram to the Lord at the entrance of the tabernacle of testimony.

22 The priest shall pray for him and for his sin before the Lord; the Lord will become favorable to him, and the sin will be forgiven.

23 When you enter the land and plant fruit-bearing trees in it, you shall remove their foreskins. The fruits they bring forth shall be unclean to you, and you shall not eat from them.

24 But in the fourth year all their fruit shall be made holy, praiseworthy to the Lord.

25 In the fifth year you shall eat the fruit, gathering what they bring forth. I am the Lord your God.

26 You shall not eat with blood. You shall not practice augury or observe dreams.

27 You shall not cut the hair around in a circle or shave the beard.

28 You shall not cut your flesh for the dead or make any figures or marks upon yourselves. I am the Lord.

29 Do not prostitute your daughter, lest the land be contaminated and filled with crime.

30 Keep my Sabbaths and fear my sanctuary. I am the Lord.

31 Do not turn aside to magicians or inquire anything from diviners, to be polluted through them. I am the Lord your God.

32 Rise before a gray head and honor the person of an old man; and fear the Lord your God. I am the Lord.

33 If a stranger lives in your land and stays among you, do not reproach him.

34 Let him be among you as though native, and love him as yourselves, for you also were strangers in the land of Egypt. I am the Lord your God.

35 Do not do anything iniquitous in judgment, rule, weight, or measure.

36 Let the scale be just, the weights equal, the bushel just, and the sextary equal. I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt.

37 Keep all my precepts and all my judgments, and do them. I am the Lord.”

CHAPTER 20

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “You shall speak these things to the children of Israel: If any man from the children of Israel or the strangers living in Israel gives any of his seed to the idol Moloch, let him surely die; the people of the land shall stone him.

3 I will set my face against him and cut him off from the midst of his people, because he gave some of his seed to Moloch, contaminated my sanctuary, and polluted my holy name.

4 But if the people of the land, being negligent and as though regarding my command as little, let the man who gave some of his seed to Moloch go and refuse to kill him,

5 I will set my face upon that man and his kindred and cut off from the midst of their people both him and all who consented with him to prostitute themselves with Moloch.

6 A soul who turns aside to magicians and diviners and prostitutes himself with them—I will set my face against that soul and kill him from the midst of his people.

7 Make yourselves holy and be holy, because I am the Lord your God.

8 Keep my precepts and do them; I am the Lord who makes you holy.

9 Whoever curses his father or mother, let him surely die. He cursed father and mother; let his blood be upon him.

10 If anyone commits adultery with another's wife and perpetrates adultery with his neighbor's spouse, let both the adulterer and adulteress surely die.

11 Whoever sleeps with his stepmother and reveals his father's shame, let both surely die; let their blood be upon them.

12 If anyone sleeps with his daughter-in-law, let both die, because they have committed a crime; let their blood be upon them.

13 Whoever sleeps with a male in female intercourse, both have committed an abomination; let them surely die; let their blood be upon them.

14 Whoever takes a daughter as wife and her mother besides has committed a crime; he shall be burned alive with them, and so great an abomination shall not remain in your midst.

15 Whoever has intercourse with an animal or livestock, let him surely die; kill the animal also.

16 A woman who lies beneath any animal shall be killed together with it; let their blood be upon them.

17 Whoever takes his sister, his father's daughter or mother's daughter, and sees her nakedness while she beholds her brother's shame, they have done a wicked thing. They shall be killed in the sight of their people because they mutually revealed their nakedness, and they shall bear their iniquity.

18 Whoever has intercourse with a woman during menstrual flow and reveals her nakedness, and she opens the fountain of her blood, both shall be killed from the midst of their people.

19 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your maternal or paternal aunt. Whoever does this has uncovered the shame of his own flesh; both shall bear their iniquity.

20 Whoever has intercourse with the wife of his paternal or maternal uncle and reveals the shame of his kindred, both shall bear their sin; they shall die without children.

21 Whoever takes his brother's wife does an unlawful thing; he has revealed his brother's nakedness; they shall be without children.

22 Keep my laws and judgments and do them, lest the land you are about to enter and inhabit vomit you out also.

23 Do not walk in the ordinances of the nations I shall expel before you, for they did all these things and I abhorred them.

24 But I say to you: Possess their land, which I shall give you as an inheritance, a land flowing with milk and honey. I am the Lord your God, who separated you from the other peoples.

25 Therefore you also shall separate the clean animal from the unclean and the clean bird from the unclean. Do not pollute your souls with livestock, birds, or anything moving upon the earth which I showed you to be polluted.

26 You shall be holy to me, because I, the Lord, am holy and separated you from the other peoples so that you might be mine.

27 A man or woman in whom there is a pythonic or divining spirit, let them surely die; they shall overwhelm them with stones; let their blood be upon them.”

CHAPTER 21

1 The Lord also said to Moses, “Speak to the priests, the sons of Aaron, and say to them: A priest shall not be contaminated by the deaths of his fellow citizens,

2 except only for those of his blood and near to him—that is, father, mother, son, daughter, and brother,

3 and a virgin sister not married to a man.

4 Neither shall he be contaminated for a leader of his people.

5 They shall not shave the head or beard or make cuts in their flesh.

6 They shall be holy to their God and shall not pollute his name, for they offer the Lord's incense and the bread of their God; therefore they shall be holy.

7 They shall not take as wife a prostitute or vile harlot, nor one repudiated by her husband, because they are consecrated to their God

8 and offer the bread of presentation. Therefore let them be holy, because I also am holy, the Lord who makes them holy.

9 If a priest's daughter is discovered in fornication and violates her father's name, she shall be consumed by flames.

10 The high priest—that is, the greatest priest among his brothers, upon whose head the anointing oil was poured, whose hands were consecrated in priesthood, and who is clothed in holy garments—shall not uncover his head or tear his garments.

11 He shall not enter at all for any dead person; neither shall he be contaminated for his father or mother.

12 He shall not go out from the holy places, lest he pollute the Lord's sanctuary, because the oil of his God's holy anointing is upon him. I am the Lord.

13 He shall take a virgin as wife.

14 But he shall not take a widow, one repudiated, one filthy, or a prostitute, but a young woman from his people,

15 lest he mingle the stock of his lineage with the common people of his nation, because I am the Lord who makes him holy.”

16 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

17 “Speak to Aaron: A man from your seed throughout their families who has a blemish shall not offer bread to his God

18 or approach his ministry: if he is blind, lame, has a small, large, or crooked nose,

19 has a broken foot or hand,

20 is hunchbacked, bleary-eyed, has a white growth in the eye, continual scabies, an eruption on the body, or a rupture.

21 Anyone from the seed of Aaron the priest who has a blemish shall not approach to offer victims to the Lord or bread to his God.

22 Nevertheless he shall eat the bread offered in the sanctuary,

23 but only so that he does not enter within the veil or approach the altar, because he has a blemish and ought not contaminate my sanctuary. I am the Lord who makes them holy.”

24 Therefore Moses spoke to Aaron, his sons, and all Israel everything that had been commanded him.

CHAPTER 22

1 The Lord also spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to Aaron and his sons, that they guard themselves from the things consecrated by the children of Israel and do not contaminate the name of the things made holy to me which they offer. I am the Lord.

3 Say to them and their descendants: Every man from your stock who approaches the consecrated things which the children of Israel offered to the Lord while uncleanness is in him shall perish before the Lord. I am the Lord.

4 A man from Aaron's seed who is leprous or suffers a discharge of seed shall not eat the things made holy to me until he is healed. Whoever touches what is unclean upon the dead, and one from whom seed goes out as in intercourse,

5 and one who touches a creeping thing or anything unclean whose touch is filthy,

6 shall be unclean until evening and shall not eat the things made holy. But when he has washed his flesh with water

7 and the sun has set, then, being cleansed, he shall eat from the consecrated things, because it is his food.

8 They shall not eat what died by itself or was seized by a beast or be polluted by these. I am the Lord.

9 Let them keep my precepts, lest they become subject to sin and die in the sanctuary when they have polluted it. I am the Lord who makes them holy.

10 No foreigner shall eat from the consecrated things; a priest's guest and hired laborer shall not eat from them.

11 But one whom the priest buys and one born in his house shall eat from them.

12 If a priest's daughter is married to anyone from the people, she shall not eat from the consecrated things or firstfruits.

13 But if she is widowed or repudiated, has no children, and returns to her father's house, she shall be fed from her father's food as she was accustomed when a young woman. No foreigner has authority to eat from them.

14 Whoever eats from the consecrated things through ignorance shall add a fifth part to what he ate and give it to the priest in the sanctuary.

15 They shall not contaminate the consecrated things of the children of Israel which they offer to the Lord,

16 lest perhaps they bear the iniquity of their offense when they eat the consecrated things. I am the Lord who makes them holy.”

17 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

18 “Speak to Aaron and his sons and to all the children of Israel, and say to them: A man from the house of Israel or from the strangers living among you who offers his offering—whether fulfilling vows or offering voluntarily—whatever he offers as a burnt offering to the Lord, 19 to be offered through you, shall be an unblemished male from the cattle, sheep, or goats.

20 If it has a blemish, you shall not offer it, and it shall not be acceptable.

21 A man who offers a victim of peace offerings to the Lord, whether fulfilling vows or offering voluntarily, from cattle or sheep, shall offer it unblemished so that it may be acceptable; no blemish shall be in it.

22 If it is blind, broken, scarred, has pustules, scabies, or an eruption, you shall not offer these to the Lord or burn any of them upon the Lord's altar.

23 You may voluntarily offer an ox or sheep with an ear or tail cut off, but a vow cannot be fulfilled from them.

24 You shall not offer to the Lord any animal whose testicles have been crushed, bruised, cut, or removed, and you shall not do this at all in your land.

25 From the hand of a foreigner you shall not offer bread to your God or anything else he may wish to give, because all are corrupted and blemished; you shall not receive them.”

26 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

27 “When an ox, sheep, or goat is born, it shall remain seven days beneath its mother's udder; from the eighth day onward it may be offered to the Lord.

28 Whether ox or sheep, they shall not be slaughtered on one day with their young.

29 If you slaughter a victim for thanksgiving to the Lord, so that he may be favorable,

30 you shall eat it on the same day; nothing shall remain until the morning of the next day. I am the Lord.

31 Keep my commands and do them. I am the Lord.

32 Do not pollute my holy name, so that I may be made holy in the midst of the children of Israel. I am the Lord who makes you holy 33 and brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God. I am the Lord.”

CHAPTER 23

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: These are the Lord's feast days, which you shall call holy.

3 Six days you shall do work; the seventh day, because it is Sabbath rest, shall be called holy. You shall do no work on it; it is the Lord's Sabbath in all your dwellings.

4 These, therefore, are the Lord's holy feast days, which you ought to celebrate at their times.

5 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at evening, is the Lord's Passover.

6 On the fifteenth day of this month is the Lord's solemnity of unleavened bread. For seven days you shall eat unleavened bread.

7 The first day shall be most celebrated and holy for you; you shall do no servile work on it,

8 but shall offer sacrifice by fire to the Lord for seven days. The seventh day shall be more celebrated and holier, and you shall do no servile work on it.”

9 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

10 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: When you enter the land I shall give you and reap the crop, you shall carry sheaves of ears, the firstfruits of your harvest, to the priest.

11 He shall raise the bundle before the Lord so that it may be acceptable for you, on the day after the Sabbath, and shall make it holy.

12 On the same day when the sheaf is consecrated, an unblemished year-old lamb shall be slaughtered as a burnt offering to the Lord.

13 Libations shall be offered with it: two tenths of fine flour mixed with oil as incense to the Lord and a most sweet fragrance, and a libation of wine, a fourth part of a hin.

14 You shall eat no bread, roasted grain, or porridge from the crop until the day you offer from it to your God. It is an everlasting command throughout your generations and all your dwellings.

15 Therefore, from the day after the Sabbath on which you offered the sheaf of firstfruits, you shall number seven full weeks,

16 until the day after the completion of the seventh week—that is, fifty days—and thus you shall offer a new sacrifice to the Lord

17 from all your dwellings: two loaves of firstfruits, from two tenths of leavened fine flour, which you shall bake as firstfruits to the Lord.

18 With the loaves you shall offer seven unblemished year-old lambs, one calf from the herd, and two rams; they shall be a burnt offering with their libations, a most sweet fragrance to the Lord.

19 You shall also make a male goat for sin and two year-old lambs as victims of peace offerings.

20 When the priest has raised them with the loaves of firstfruits before the Lord, they shall fall to his use.

21 You shall call this day most celebrated and most holy; you shall do no servile work on it. It shall be an everlasting ordinance in all your dwellings and generations.

22 After you reap the crop of your land, you shall not cut it to the ground or gather the remaining ears, but shall leave them for the poor and sojourners. I am the Lord your God.”

23 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

24 “Speak to the children of Israel: In the seventh month, on the first day of the month, you shall have a Sabbath, a memorial with trumpets sounding, and it shall be called holy.

25 You shall do no servile work on it and shall offer a burnt offering to the Lord.”

26 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

27 “On the tenth day of this seventh month, the day of expiations shall be most celebrated and shall be called holy. You shall afflict your souls on it and offer a burnt offering to the Lord.

28 You shall do no servile work during this day, because it is the day of propitiation, so that the Lord your God may be made favorable to you.

29 Every soul not afflicted on this day shall perish from his peoples,

30 and whoever does any work, I shall destroy him from his people.

31 Therefore you shall do no work on it; it shall be an everlasting ordinance for you throughout all your generations and dwellings.

32 It is a Sabbath of rest, and you shall afflict your souls on the ninth day of the month; from evening to evening you shall celebrate your Sabbaths.”

33 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

34 “Speak to the children of Israel: From the fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the Lord's feast of tabernacles for seven days.

35 The first day shall be called most celebrated and most holy; you shall do no servile work on it.

36 For seven days you shall offer burnt offerings to the Lord. The eighth day also shall be most celebrated and most holy, and you shall offer a burnt offering to the Lord, for it is an assembly and gathering; you shall do no servile work on it.

37 These are the Lord's feast days, which you shall call most celebrated and most holy. On them you shall offer offerings to the Lord, burnt offerings and libations according to the rite of each day, 38 besides the Lord's Sabbaths, your gifts, and what you offer by vow or voluntarily give to the Lord.

39 Therefore, from the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you have gathered all the fruits of your land, you shall celebrate the Lord's feast for seven days; on the first and eighth days shall be a Sabbath—that is, rest.

40 On the first day you shall take for yourselves fruit of the most beautiful tree, branches of palms, boughs of densely leaved trees, and willows from the brook, and rejoice before the Lord your God.

41 You shall celebrate his solemnity seven days each year; it shall be an everlasting ordinance throughout your generations. In the seventh month you shall celebrate the feast,

42 and you shall live in shelters for seven days; everyone of Israel's stock shall remain in tabernacles,

43 so that your descendants may learn that I caused the children of Israel to live in tabernacles when I brought them out of the land of Egypt. I am the Lord your God.”

44 Moses spoke to the children of Israel concerning the Lord's solemnities.

CHAPTER 24

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Command the children of Israel to bring you the purest, clear olive oil, to prepare the lamps continually

3 outside the veil of testimony in the tabernacle of the covenant. Aaron shall set them from evening until morning before the Lord, by a perpetual worship and rite throughout your generations.

4 They shall always be set upon the purest lampstand in the Lord's sight.

5 You shall also take fine flour and bake twelve loaves from it, each having two tenths.

6 You shall set six on each side upon the purest table before the Lord,

7 and place the clearest frankincense upon them, so that the bread may be a memorial of the Lord's offering.

8 Every Sabbath they shall be changed before the Lord, received from the children of Israel by an everlasting covenant.

9 They shall belong to Aaron and his sons, that they may eat them in a holy place, because it is a Holy of Holies from the Lord's sacrifices by perpetual right.”

10 Look, the son of an Israelite woman, whom she had borne to an Egyptian man among the children of Israel, went out and quarreled in the camp with an Israelite man.

11 When he had blasphemed the Name and cursed it, he was brought to Moses. His mother was named Shelomith, daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan.

12 They put him in prison until they knew what the Lord would command.

13 The Lord spoke to Moses,

14 saying, “Lead the blasphemer outside the camp. Let all who heard place their hands upon his head, and let all the people stone him.

15 And you shall speak to the children of Israel: ‘A man who curses his God shall bear his sin;

16 and whoever blasphemes the name of the Lord, let him surely die. The whole multitude shall overwhelm him with stones, whether citizen or sojourner. Whoever blasphemes the Lord's name, let him surely die.

17 Whoever strikes and kills a human, let him surely die.

18 Whoever strikes an animal shall return a substitute—that is, soul for soul.

19 Whoever inflicts a blemish upon any of his fellow citizens, as he did, so shall it be done to him:

20 fracture for fracture, eye for eye, tooth for tooth shall he restore. As the blemish he inflicted, so shall he be compelled to endure.

21 Whoever strikes livestock shall return another. Whoever strikes a human shall be punished.

22 Let judgment be equal among you, whether a sojourner or citizen sins, because I am the Lord your God.’”

23 Moses spoke to the children of Israel; and they led the one who had blasphemed outside the camp and overwhelmed him with stones. The children of Israel did as the Lord had commanded Moses.

CHAPTER 25

1 The Lord spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: When you enter the land I shall give you, you shall Sabbath a Sabbath to the Lord.

3 For six years you shall sow your field, and for six years prune your vineyard and gather its fruits.

4 But in the seventh year there shall be a Sabbath for the land, a rest of the Lord. You shall not sow the field or prune the vineyard.

5 You shall not reap what the ground brings forth spontaneously or gather the grapes of your firstfruits as a vintage, for it is a year of rest for the land.

6 But they shall be food for you: for you, your male servant, female servant, hired laborer, and the stranger sojourning with you.

7 Everything that grows shall provide food for your animals and livestock.

8 You shall also number for yourself seven weeks of years—that is, seven times seven—which together make forty-nine years.

9 You shall sound the trumpet in the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month, at the time of propitiation, throughout all your land.

10 You shall make the fiftieth year holy and proclaim release to all the inhabitants of your land, for it is the Jubilee. A person shall return to his possession, and everyone shall return to his former family,

11 because it is the Jubilee and fiftieth year. You shall neither sow nor reap what grows spontaneously in the field or gather the firstfruits of the vintage,

12 because of the Jubilee's sanctification; but you shall eat what is immediately offered.

13 In the year of Jubilee everyone shall return to his possessions.

14 When you sell anything to your fellow citizen or buy from him, do not grieve your brother; rather, according to the number of years from the Jubilee you shall buy from him,

15 and according to the reckoning of produce he shall sell to you.

16 The more years remain after the Jubilee, the more the price shall increase; and the less time you count, the less the purchase shall cost, for he sells you the time of the produce.

17 Do not afflict your fellow tribesmen, but let everyone fear his God, because I am the Lord your God.

18 Do my precepts, keep my judgments, and fulfill them, so that you may live in the land without any fear,

19 and the ground may bring forth its fruits for you, from which you may eat to fullness, fearing no one's attack.

20 But if you say, ‘What shall we eat in the seventh year if we do not sow or gather our produce?’

21 I shall give you my blessing in the sixth year, and it shall produce the fruits of three years.

22 You shall sow in the eighth year and eat the old produce until the ninth year; until the new is born, you shall eat the old.

23 The land shall not be sold in perpetuity, because it is mine and you are my strangers and settlers.

24 Therefore every region of your possession shall be sold under the condition of redemption.

25 If your brother, having become poor, sells his little possession, and his near relative wishes, he may redeem what the other sold.

26 But if he has no near relative and is himself able to find the price for redeeming it,

27 the produce shall be calculated from the time he sold it; he shall return what remains to the buyer, and thus receive his possession.

28 But if his hand cannot find enough to return the price, the buyer shall have what he bought until the year of Jubilee, for in it every sale shall return to its former lord and possessor.

29 Whoever sells a house within a city's walls shall have the right to redeem it until one full year is completed.

30 If he does not redeem it and the circle of the year has passed, the buyer and his descendants shall possess it in perpetuity, and it cannot be redeemed even in the Jubilee.

31 But a house in a village without walls shall be sold by the law of fields; if it has not been redeemed before, it shall return to its lord in the Jubilee.

32 The houses of the Levites in their cities can always be redeemed.

33 If they have not been redeemed, they shall return to their lords in the Jubilee, because the houses in the cities of the Levites are their possessions among the children of Israel.

34 But their suburban lands shall not be sold, because they are a perpetual possession.

35 If your brother becomes poor and weak in hand, and you receive him as a stranger and sojourner to live with you,

36 take no interest from him and no more than you gave. Fear your God, so that your brother may live with you.

37 You shall not give him your money at interest or demand an overabundance of produce.

38 I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt to give you the land of Canaan and to be your God.

39 If your brother, compelled by poverty, sells himself to you, you shall not oppress him with the service of household servants,

40 but he shall be like a hired laborer and settler; he shall work with you until the year of Jubilee,

41 and afterward he shall go out with his children and return to his kindred and the possession of his fathers.

42 For they are my servants, and I brought them out of the land of Egypt. They shall not be sold under the condition of servants.

43 Do not afflict him through power, but fear your God.

44 Let your male and female servants be from the nations around you.

45 You may have as servants strangers sojourning among you, or those born from them in your land.

46 You shall transmit them to your descendants by hereditary right and possess them forever; but you shall not oppress your brothers, the children of Israel, through power.

47 If the hand of a stranger and sojourner among you becomes strong and your brother, having become poor, sells himself to him or to anyone of his stock,

48 after the sale he may be redeemed. Whoever among his brothers wishes may redeem him,

49 or his paternal uncle, cousin, blood relative, or relation by marriage. But if he himself is able, he shall redeem himself,

50 counting only the years from the time of his sale until the year of Jubilee; and the money for which he was sold shall be calculated according to the number of years and the reckoning of a hired laborer.

51 If many years remain until the Jubilee, according to these he shall also return the price.

52 If few remain, he shall settle the account with him according to the number of years and return to the buyer what remains for the years,

53 the wages for those in which he already served being counted. He shall not afflict him violently in your sight.

54 But if he cannot be redeemed by these means, in the year of Jubilee he shall go out with his children.

55 For the children of Israel are my servants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt.”

CHAPTER 26

1 “I am the Lord your God. You shall not make for yourselves an idol or carved image, raise pillars, or place a distinguished stone in your land to worship it, for I am the Lord your God.

2 Keep my Sabbaths and tremble before my sanctuary. I am the Lord.

3 If you walk in my precepts, keep my commands, and do them, I shall give you rains at their times.

4 The land shall bring forth its growth, and the trees shall be filled with fruit.

5 The threshing of harvest shall overtake the vintage, and the vintage shall reach the sowing. You shall eat your bread to fullness and live in your land without fear.

6 I shall give peace within your borders; you shall sleep, and there shall be no one to terrify you. I shall remove harmful beasts, and the sword shall not pass through your borders.

7 You shall pursue your enemies, and they shall fall before you.

8 Five of you shall pursue a hundred foreigners, and a hundred of you ten thousand; your enemies shall fall by the sword in your sight.

9 I shall look upon you and cause you to increase. You shall multiply, and I shall establish my pact with you.

10 You shall eat the oldest of the old and cast out the old when the new arrives.

11 I shall set my tabernacle in your midst, and my soul shall not cast you away.

12 I shall walk among you and be your God, and you shall be my people.

13 I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of the Egyptians so that you would not serve them, and who broke the chains from your necks so that you might walk upright.

14 But if you do not hear me or do all my commands,

15 if you despise my laws and scorn my judgments, so as not to do what I established and to bring my pact to nothing,

16 I also shall do these things to you: I shall visit you swiftly with need and burning fever that consumes your eyes and wastes your souls. In vain you shall sow seed, which your enemies shall devour.

17 I shall set my face against you, and you shall fall before your enemies and be subjected to those who hate you; you shall flee with no one pursuing.

18 But if even then you do not obey me, I shall increase your corrections sevenfold because of your sins.

19 I shall crush the pride of your hardness and make heaven above you like iron and the earth like bronze.

20 Your labor shall be consumed in vain; the land shall not bring forth growth or the trees provide fruit.

21 If you walk contrary to me and refuse to hear me, I shall increase your plagues sevenfold because of your sins.

22 I shall send upon you the beasts of the field, which shall consume you and your livestock, reduce everything to fewness, and make your roads deserted.

23 But if even then you refuse to receive discipline and walk contrary to me,

24 I also shall walk against you as an adversary and strike you seven times because of your sins.

25 I shall bring upon you a sword, avenger of my covenant. When you flee into the cities, I shall send pestilence into your midst, and you shall be delivered into your enemies' hands, 26 after I have broken the staff of your bread, so that ten women bake loaves in one oven and return them by weight; you shall eat and not be filled.

27 But if through these things you still do not hear me and walk against me,

28 I also shall walk against you in opposing fury and correct you with seven plagues because of your sins,

29 so that you eat the flesh of your sons and daughters.

30 I shall destroy your high places and break your images. You shall fall among the ruins of your idols, and my soul shall abhor you,

31 so completely that I reduce your cities to solitude and make your sanctuaries desolate; no longer shall I receive a most sweet fragrance.

32 I shall destroy your land, and your enemies shall be astonished over it when they become its inhabitants.

33 But I shall scatter you among the nations and draw the sword after you; your land shall be deserted and your cities destroyed.

34 Then the land shall be pleased with its Sabbaths throughout all the days of its solitude, when you are 35 in a hostile land. It shall Sabbath and rest in the Sabbaths of its solitude, because it did not rest in your Sabbaths when you lived in it.

36 To those of you who remain, I shall give fear in their hearts in the regions of their enemies. The sound of a flying leaf shall terrify them, and they shall flee as though from a sword; they shall fall with no one pursuing,

37 and each shall fall upon his brothers as though fleeing wars. None of you shall dare resist your enemies.

38 You shall perish among the nations, and a hostile land shall consume you.

39 But if some of these remain, they shall waste away in their iniquities in the land of their enemies and be afflicted because of their fathers' sins and their own,

40 until they confess their iniquities and those of their ancestors, by which they transgressed against me and walked contrary to me.

41 Therefore I also shall walk against them and lead them into a hostile land until their uncircumcised mind is ashamed; then they shall pray for their impieties.

42 And I shall remember my covenant which I struck with Jacob, Isaac, and Abraham. I shall remember the land also,

43 which, when abandoned by them, shall delight in its Sabbaths, enduring solitude because of them. But they shall pray for their sins because they rejected my judgments and despised my laws.

44 And yet, even when they were in a hostile land, I did not cast them away utterly or so despise them that they were consumed and my pact with them made void, for I am the Lord their God.

45 I shall remember my former covenant, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt in the sight of the nations to be their God. I am the Lord.” These are the judgments, precepts, and laws which the Lord gave between himself and the children of Israel on Mount Sinai through the hand of Moses.

CHAPTER 27

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: A person who makes a vow and promises his soul to God shall give the price according to valuation.

3 If it is a male from twenty years old to sixty, he shall give fifty shekels of silver according to the sanctuary's measure.

4 If a woman, thirty.

5 From five years to twenty, a male shall give twenty shekels; a female, ten.

6 From one month to the fifth year, five shekels shall be given for a male; for a female, three.

7 A male sixty years old and above shall give fifteen shekels; a female, ten.

8 If he is poor and cannot render the valuation, he shall stand before the priest and give whatever the priest values and sees him able to render.

9 But an animal that can be slaughtered to the Lord, if anyone vows it, shall be holy.

10 It cannot be exchanged—that is, neither better for worse nor worse for good. But if he exchanges it, both what was exchanged and that for which it was exchanged shall be consecrated to the Lord.

11 If anyone vows an unclean animal that cannot be slaughtered to the Lord, it shall be brought before the priest, 12 who, judging whether it is good or bad, shall set the price.

13 But if the one who offers it wishes to give for it, he shall add a fifth part above the valuation.

14 If a person vows his house and makes it holy to the Lord, the priest shall examine whether it is good or bad, and it shall be sold according to the price established by him.

15 But if the one who vowed it wishes to redeem it, he shall give a fifth part above the valuation and shall have the house.

16 If he vows a field of his possession and consecrates it to the Lord, its price shall be valued according to the measure of seed. If the land is sown with thirty bushels of barley, it shall be sold for fifty shekels of silver.

17 If he vows the field immediately from the year in which the Jubilee begins, it shall be valued at whatever it can be worth.

18 But if after some time, the priest shall calculate the money according to the number of years remaining until the Jubilee, and it shall be deducted from the price.

19 If the one who vowed the field wishes to redeem it, he shall add a fifth part to the valued money and possess it.

20 But if he does not wish to redeem it and it is sold to anyone else, the one who vowed it shall no longer be able to redeem it.

21 For when the day of Jubilee comes, it shall be made holy to the Lord, and the consecrated possession shall belong by right to the priests.

22 If a purchased field, and not one from the possession of ancestors, is made holy to the Lord,

23 the priest shall calculate its price according to the number of years until the Jubilee, and the one who vowed it shall give that price to the Lord.

24 But in the Jubilee it shall return to the former lord who sold it and had it in the allotment of his possession.

25 Every valuation shall be weighed by the sanctuary's shekel. A shekel has twenty obols.

26 No one can make holy and vow firstborn animals, which belong to the Lord; whether ox or sheep, they are the Lord's.

27 But if it is an unclean animal, the one who offered it shall redeem it according to your valuation and add a fifth part of the price. If he refuses to redeem it, it shall be sold to another for whatever it was valued by you.

28 Anything consecrated to the Lord—whether human, animal, or field—shall not be sold or redeemed. Whatever has once been consecrated shall be a Holy of Holies to the Lord.

29 Every consecration offered from a human shall not be redeemed, but shall surely die.

30 All the tithes of the land, whether from produce or fruits of trees, are the Lord's and are made holy to him.

31 But if anyone wishes to redeem his tithes, he shall add a fifth part to them.

32 Of all the tithes of ox, sheep, and goat that pass beneath the shepherd's rod, whatever comes tenth shall be made holy to the Lord.

33 Neither good nor bad shall be selected, nor shall one be exchanged for another. If anyone exchanges it, both what was exchanged and that for which it was exchanged shall be made holy to the Lord and shall not be redeemed.”

34 These are the precepts which the Lord commanded Moses for the children of Israel on Mount Sinai.

BOOK FOUR: NUMBERS

CHAPTER 1

1 The Lord spoke to Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, in the tabernacle of the covenant, on the first day of the second month, in the second year after their departure from Egypt, saying,

2 “Take the sum of the whole congregation of the children of Israel by their kindreds and households, and the names of each one, every one of the male sex

3 from twenty years old and above, all the strong men of Israel. You and Aaron shall number them by their companies.

4 With you shall be the leaders of the tribes and households in their kindreds,

5 whose names are these: from Reuben, Elizur son of Shedeur;

6 from Simeon, Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai;

7 from Judah, Nahshon son of Amminadab;

8 from Issachar, Nethanel son of Zuar;

9 from Zebulun, Eliab son of Helon;

10 and from the sons of Joseph: from Ephraim, Elishama son of Ammihud; from Manasseh, Gamaliel son of Pedahzur;

11 from Benjamin, Abidan son of Gideoni;

12 from Dan, Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai;

13 from Asher, Pagiel son of Ocran;

14 from Gad, Eliasaph son of Deuel;

15 from Naphtali, Ahira son of Enan.”

16 These were the most noble leaders of the multitude through their tribes and kindreds, and heads of Israel's army,

17 whom Moses and Aaron took with the whole multitude of the common people.

18 On the first day of the second month they gathered them and reviewed them by kindreds, households, families, heads, and the name of each one from twenty years old and above,

19 as the Lord had commanded Moses. They were numbered in the wilderness of Sinai.

20 From Reuben, Israel's firstborn, by their generations, families, and households, and by the names of each head, every one of the male sex from twenty years old and above who went out to war, 21 were forty-six thousand five hundred.

22 From the sons of Simeon, by their generations, families, and kindred households, reviewed by the names and heads of each, every one of the male sex from twenty years old and above who went out to war,

23 were fifty-nine thousand three hundred.

24 From the sons of Gad, by their generations, families, and kindred households, reviewed by the names of each from twenty years old and above, all who went out to war,

25 were forty-five thousand six hundred fifty.

26 From the sons of Judah, by their generations, families, and kindred households, by the names of each from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go out to war,

27 were reviewed as seventy-four thousand six hundred.

28 From the sons of Issachar, by their generations, families, and kindred households, by the names of each from twenty years old and above, all who went out to war,

29 were reviewed as fifty-four thousand four hundred.

30 From the sons of Zebulun, by their generations, families, and kindred households, reviewed by the names of each from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go out to war,

31 were fifty-seven thousand four hundred.

32 From the sons of Joseph—the sons of Ephraim—by their generations, families, and kindred households, reviewed by the names of each from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go out to war,

33 were forty thousand five hundred.

34 From the sons of Manasseh, by their generations, families, and kindred households, reviewed by the names of each from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go out to war,

35 were thirty-two thousand two hundred.

36 From the sons of Benjamin, by their generations, families, and kindred households, reviewed by the names of each from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go out to war,

37 were thirty-five thousand four hundred.

38 From the sons of Dan, by their generations, families, and kindred households, reviewed by the names of each from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go out to war,

39 were sixty-two thousand seven hundred.

40 From the sons of Asher, by their generations, families, and kindred households, reviewed by the names of each from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go out to war,

41 were forty-one thousand five hundred.

42 From the sons of Naphtali, by their generations, families, and kindred households, reviewed by the names of each from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go out to war,

43 were fifty-three thousand four hundred.

44 These are those whom Moses and Aaron numbered, with the twelve leaders of Israel, each by the households of their kindreds.

45 The entire number of the children of Israel by their households and families, from twenty years old and above, who were able to go out to war, 46 was six hundred three thousand five hundred fifty men.

47 But the Levites in the tribe of their families were not numbered with them.

48 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

49 “Do not number the tribe of Levi or place their sum with the children of Israel,

50 but appoint them over the tabernacle of testimony, all its vessels, and everything pertaining to the ceremonies. They shall carry the tabernacle and all its furnishings, serve in its ministry, and camp around the tabernacle.

51 When departure is required, the Levites shall take down the tabernacle; when camp is to be made, they shall raise it. Any outsider who approaches shall be killed.

52 The children of Israel shall pitch camp, each by his companies, divisions, and army.

53 But the Levites shall pitch their tents around the tabernacle, lest indignation come upon the multitude of the children of Israel, and they shall keep watch in the watches of the tabernacle of testimony.”

54 Therefore the children of Israel did according to everything the Lord had commanded Moses.

CHAPTER 2

1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

2 “The children of Israel shall camp around the tabernacle of the covenant, each by their companies, signs, standards, and kindred households.

3 On the east Judah shall pitch tents by the companies of his army; the leader of his sons shall be Nahshon son of Amminadab.

4 The entire sum of fighting men from his stock was seventy-four thousand six hundred.

5 Beside him camped those from the tribe of Issachar, whose leader was Nethanel son of Zuar.

6 The entire number of his fighting men was fifty-four thousand four hundred.

7 In the tribe of Zebulun the leader was Eliab son of Helon.

8 The entire army of fighting men from his stock was fifty-seven thousand four hundred.

9 All who were numbered in Judah's camp were one hundred eighty-six thousand four hundred; by their companies they shall go out first.

10 In the camp of the sons of Reuben on the southern side, the leader shall be Elizur son of Shedeur.

11 His whole army of fighting men who were numbered was forty-six thousand five hundred.

12 Beside him camped those from the tribe of Simeon, whose leader was Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai.

13 His whole army of fighting men who were numbered was fifty-nine thousand three hundred.

14 In the tribe of Gad the leader was Eliasaph son of Deuel.

15 His whole army of fighting men who were numbered was forty-five thousand six hundred fifty.

16 All who were reviewed in Reuben's camp were one hundred fifty-one thousand four hundred fifty by their companies; they shall depart in the second place.

17 Then the tabernacle of testimony shall be raised by the offices of the Levites and their companies. As it is raised, so shall it be taken down. Each shall depart by their places and orders.

18 On the western side shall be the camp of the sons of Ephraim, whose leader was Elishama son of Ammihud.

19 His whole army of fighting men who were numbered was forty thousand five hundred.

20 With them was the tribe of the sons of Manasseh, whose leader was Gamaliel son of Pedahzur.

21 His whole army of fighting men who were numbered was thirty-two thousand two hundred.

22 In the tribe of the sons of Benjamin the leader was Abidan son of Gideoni.

23 His whole army of fighting men who were reviewed was thirty-five thousand four hundred.

24 All who were numbered in Ephraim's camp were one hundred eight thousand one hundred by their companies; they shall depart third.

25 On the northern side the sons of Dan camped, whose leader was Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai.

26 His whole army of fighting men who were numbered was sixty-two thousand seven hundred.

27 Beside him those from the tribe of Asher pitched tents, whose leader was Pagiel son of Ocran.

28 His whole army of fighting men who were numbered was forty-one thousand five hundred.

29 From the tribe of the sons of Naphtali, the leader was Ahira son of Enan.

30 His whole army of fighting men was fifty-three thousand four hundred.

31 All who were numbered in Dan's camp were one hundred fifty-seven thousand six hundred; they shall depart last.

32 This is the number of the children of Israel, divided by their kindred households and the companies of the army: six hundred three thousand five hundred fifty.

33 But the Levites were not numbered among the children of Israel, for so the Lord had commanded Moses.

34 The children of Israel did according to everything the Lord had commanded. They camped by their companies and departed by their families and paternal households.”

CHAPTER 3

1 These are the generations of Aaron and Moses on the day the Lord spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai.

2 These are the names of Aaron's sons: Nadab his firstborn, then Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

3 These are the names of Aaron's sons, the priests who were anointed and whose hands were filled and consecrated to exercise the priesthood.

4 For Nadab and Abihu died childless when they offered foreign fire in the Lord's sight in the wilderness of Sinai; and Eleazar and Ithamar exercised the priesthood before Aaron their father.

5 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

6 “Bring forward the tribe of Levi and cause them to stand in the sight of Aaron the priest, that they may minister to him, keep watch,

7 and observe everything pertaining to the multitude's worship before the tabernacle of testimony.

8 They shall guard the vessels of the tabernacle, serving in its ministry.

9 You shall give the Levites as a gift

10 to Aaron and his sons, to whom they have been delivered by the children of Israel. You shall appoint Aaron and his sons over the worship of the priesthood. The outsider who approaches to minister shall die.”

11 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

12 “I have taken the Levites from the children of Israel in place of every firstborn who opens the womb among the children of Israel, and the Levites shall be mine.

13 For every firstborn is mine. From the time I struck the firstborn in the land of Egypt, I made holy to myself everything first born in Israel, from human to livestock; they are mine. I am the Lord.”

14 The Lord spoke to Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, saying,

15 “Number the sons of Levi by their paternal households and families, every male from one month old and above.”

16 Moses numbered them as the Lord had commanded,

17 and the sons of Levi were found by their names: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

18 The sons of Gershon: Libni and Shimei.

19 The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel.

20 The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi.

21 From Gershon were two families, the Libnites and Shimeites.

22 Their people of the male sex from one month old and above numbered seven thousand five hundred.

23 These shall camp behind the tabernacle toward the west,

24 under the leader Eliasaph son of Lael.

25 They shall keep watch in the tabernacle of the covenant over

26 the tabernacle itself and its covering, the curtain drawn before the doors of the covering of the covenant, and the curtains of the court; also the curtain hanging at the entrance of the tabernacle's court, everything pertaining to the rite of the altar, the tabernacle's cords, and all its furnishings.

27 The kindred of Kohath shall have the peoples of the Amramites, Izharites, Hebronites, and Uzzielites. These are the families of the Kohathites reviewed by their names.

28 All the males from one month old and above, eight thousand six hundred, shall keep watch over the sanctuary

29 and camp on the southern side.

30 Their leader shall be Elizaphan son of Uzziel.

31 They shall guard the ark, table, lampstand, altars, vessels of the sanctuary in which ministry is performed, the veil, and every furnishing of this kind.

32 Eleazar son of Aaron the priest, leader of the leaders of the Levites, shall be over those who keep the watch of the sanctuary.

33 From Merari shall be the peoples of the Mahlites and Mushites, reviewed by their names.

34 All the males from one month old and above were six thousand two hundred.

35 Their leader was Zuriel son of Abihail; they shall camp on the northern side.

36 Under their custody shall be the boards of the tabernacle, its bars, columns and bases, and everything pertaining to worship of this kind,

37 and the columns of the court all around with their bases, pegs, and cords.

38 Moses and Aaron with his sons shall camp before the tabernacle of the covenant—that is, on the eastern side—keeping custody of the sanctuary in the midst of the children of Israel. Any stranger who approaches shall die.

39 All the Levites whom Moses and Aaron numbered according to the Lord's command, by their families, males from one month old and above, were twenty-two thousand.

40 The Lord said to Moses, “Number the firstborn males of the children of Israel from one month old and above, and take their sum.

41 You shall take the Levites for me in place of every firstborn of the children of Israel—I am the Lord—and their livestock in place of all the firstborn livestock of the children of Israel.”

42 Moses reviewed the firstborn of the children of Israel as the Lord had commanded.

43 The males by their names, from one month old and above, were twenty-two thousand two hundred seventy-three.

44 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

45 “Take the Levites in place of the firstborn of the children of Israel, and the livestock of the Levites in place of their livestock; and the Levites shall be mine. I am the Lord.

46 But as the price of the two hundred seventy-three firstborn of the children of Israel who exceed the number of the Levites,

47 you shall take five shekels for each head according to the sanctuary's measure—a shekel has twenty obols—

48 and give the money to Aaron and his sons as the price of those who are above the number.”

49 Therefore Moses took the money from those who were beyond and whom they had redeemed from the Levites,

50 for the firstborn of the children of Israel: one thousand three hundred sixty-five shekels according to the sanctuary's weight.

51 He gave it to Aaron and his sons according to the word the Lord had commanded him.

CHAPTER 4

1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

2 “Take the sum of the sons of Kohath from the midst of the Levites by their households and families,

3 from thirty years old and above to the fiftieth year, all who enter to stand and minister in the tabernacle of the covenant.

4 This is the service of the sons of Kohath: the tabernacle of the covenant and the Holy of Holies.

5 When the camp is to be moved, Aaron and his sons shall enter, take down the veil hanging before the doors, and wrap the ark of testimony in it.

6 They shall cover it again with a covering of violet skins, spread over it a cloth entirely blue, and insert the poles.

7 They shall also wrap the table of presentation in a blue cloth and place with it the censers, little mortars, cups, and bowls for pouring libations; bread shall always be upon it.

8 They shall spread over it a scarlet cloth, cover this again with a covering of violet skins, and insert the poles.

9 They shall take a blue cloth and cover the lampstand with its lamps, tongs, snuffers, and all the oil vessels needed to prepare the lamps.

10 Over all these they shall place a covering of violet skins and insert the poles.

11 They shall likewise wrap the golden altar in a blue garment, spread a covering of violet skins over it, and insert the poles.

12 They shall wrap all the vessels used in ministry in the sanctuary in a blue cloth, spread a covering of violet skins over them, and insert the poles.

13 They shall also cleanse the altar of ashes and wrap it in a purple garment.

14 They shall place with it all the vessels used in its ministry—that is, receptacles for fires, forks, three-pronged forks, hooks, and shovels. They shall cover all the altar's vessels together with a covering of violet skins and insert the poles.

15 When Aaron and his sons have wrapped the sanctuary and all its vessels for the movement of the camp, then the sons of Kohath shall enter to carry the wrapped things. They shall not touch the vessels of the sanctuary, lest they die. These are the burdens of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the covenant.

16 Eleazar son of Aaron the priest shall be over them; to his care belong the oil for preparing the lamps, compounded incense, the sacrifice always offered, anointing oil, everything pertaining to the tabernacle's worship, and all the vessels in the sanctuary.”

17 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

18 “Do not destroy the people of Kohath from the midst of the Levites,

19 but do this for them, so that they may live and not die if they touch the Holy of Holies: Aaron and his sons shall enter, arrange the work of each, and divide what each ought to carry.

20 Let no others, through any curiosity, see the things in the sanctuary before they are wrapped, or else they shall die.”

21 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

22 “Take the sum also of the sons of Gershon by their households, families, and kindreds,

23 from thirty years old and above to fifty years. Number all who enter and minister in the tabernacle of the covenant.

24 This is the office of the family of the Gershonites:

25 they shall carry the curtains of the tabernacle and the covering of the covenant, the other covering and the violet veil over all, and the curtain hanging at the entrance of the tabernacle of the covenant;

26 the curtains of the court and the veil at the entrance before the tabernacle; everything pertaining to the altar, the cords, and the vessels of ministry.

27 At the command of Aaron and his sons, the sons of Gershon shall carry these; each shall know to which burden he ought to be assigned.

28 This is the service of the family of the Gershonites in the tabernacle of the covenant, and they shall be under the hand of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest.

29 You shall also review the sons of Merari by their families and paternal households,

30 from thirty years old and above to fifty years, all who enter the office of their ministry and the worship of the covenant of testimony.

31 These are their burdens: they shall carry the boards of the tabernacle and its bars, the columns and their bases,

32 and the columns of the court all around with their bases, pegs, and cords. They shall receive all the vessels and furnishings by number, and thus carry them.

33 This is the office and ministry of the family of the Merarites in the tabernacle of the covenant; they shall be under the hand of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest.”

34 Therefore Moses, Aaron, and the leaders of the assembly reviewed the sons of Kohath by their kindreds and paternal households, 35 from thirty years old and above to the fiftieth year, all who enter the ministry of the tabernacle of the covenant.

36 They were found to be two thousand seven hundred fifty.

37 This is the number of the people of Kohath who enter the tabernacle of the covenant; Moses and Aaron numbered them according to the Lord's word through the hand of Moses.

38 The sons of Gershon also were numbered by their kindreds and paternal households, 39 from thirty years old and above to the fiftieth year, all who enter to minister in the tabernacle of the covenant.

40 They were found to be two thousand six hundred thirty.

41 This is the people of the Gershonites whom Moses and Aaron numbered according to the Lord's word.

42 The sons of Merari also were numbered by their kindreds and paternal households, 43 from thirty years old and above to the fiftieth year, all who enter to fulfill the rites of the tabernacle of the covenant.

44 They were found to be three thousand two hundred.

45 This is the number of the sons of Merari whom Moses and Aaron reviewed according to the Lord's command through the hand of Moses.

46 All the Levites who were reviewed and whom Moses, Aaron, and the leaders of Israel caused to be reviewed by name, by their kindreds and paternal households,

47 from thirty years old and above to the fiftieth year, entering the ministry of the tabernacle and the carrying of burdens,

48 were together eight thousand five hundred eighty.

49 According to the Lord's word, Moses reviewed them, each according to his office and burdens, as the Lord had commanded him.

CHAPTER 5

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Command the children of Israel to cast out of the camp every leprous person, everyone who has a discharge of seed, and everyone polluted by the dead.

3 Cast both male and female out of the camp, lest they contaminate it when they live with you.”

4 The children of Israel did so and cast them outside the camp, as the Lord had spoken to Moses.

5 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

6 “Speak to the children of Israel: When a man or woman commits any of all the sins that usually befall humans and through negligence transgresses the Lord's command and offends,

7 they shall confess their sin and restore the principal itself, with a fifth part above it, to the one against whom they sinned.

8 But if there is no one to receive it, they shall give it to the Lord, and it shall belong to the priest, apart from the ram offered for expiation so that it may be a favorable victim.

9 All the firstfruits which the children of Israel offer also belong to the priest,

10 and whatever is offered in the sanctuary by individuals and delivered into the priest's hands shall be his.”

11 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

12 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: A man whose wife has gone astray and, despising her husband,

13 has slept with another man, while her husband could not discover it, but the adultery is hidden and cannot be proved by witnesses because she was not found in fornication—

14 if a spirit of jealousy stirs the man against his wife, whether she is polluted or is assailed by false suspicion,

15 he shall bring her to the priest and offer for her a tenth part of a satah of barley flour. He shall pour no oil upon it or place frankincense upon it, because it is a sacrifice of jealousy and an offering investigating adultery.

16 Therefore the priest shall present her and set her before the Lord.

17 He shall take holy water in an earthen vessel and put into it a little earth from the tabernacle floor.

18 When the woman stands in the Lord's sight, he shall uncover her head and place upon her hands the sacrifice of remembrance and the offering of jealousy. He himself shall hold the most bitter waters into which he has gathered curses with an execration.

19 He shall adjure her and say: ‘If a foreign man has not slept with you, and if you are not polluted by abandoning your husband's bed, these most bitter waters into which I have gathered curses shall not harm you.

20 But if you have turned aside from your husband, are polluted, and have lain with another man,

21 you shall be subject to these curses: May the Lord make you a curse and an example to everyone among his people. May he cause your thigh to rot and your swelling womb to burst.

22 May the cursed waters enter your belly; with your womb swelling, may your thigh rot.’ And the woman shall answer, ‘Amen, amen.’

23 The priest shall write these curses in a little book and erase them with the most bitter waters into which he gathered the curses.

24 He shall give them to her to drink. When she has drained them,

25 the priest shall take the sacrifice of jealousy from her hand, raise it before the Lord, and place it upon the altar, but only so that first

26 he takes a handful from the sacrifice offered and burns it upon the altar; and thus he shall give the woman the most bitter waters to drink.

27 When she has drunk them, if she is polluted and guilty of adultery after despising her husband, the waters of cursing shall pass through her; with her belly swollen, her thigh shall rot, and the woman shall become a curse and example to all the people.

28 But if she was not polluted, she shall be innocent and shall bear children.

29 This is the law of jealousy. If a woman turns aside from her husband and is polluted,

30 and her husband, stirred by a spirit of jealousy, brings her into the Lord's sight, the priest shall do to her according to everything written.

31 The husband shall be without guilt, and she shall receive her iniquity.”

CHAPTER 6

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: When a man or woman makes a vow to be made holy and wishes to consecrate himself to the Lord,

3 they shall abstain from wine and everything able to intoxicate. They shall not drink vinegar made from wine or any other drink, or anything pressed from the grape; they shall not eat fresh or dried grapes.

4 Throughout all the days in which they are consecrated to the Lord by vow, they shall eat nothing that can come from the vine, from raisin even to grape seed.

5 During all the time of his separation, a razor shall not pass over his head until the day on which he is consecrated to the Lord is completed. He shall be holy, while the hair of his head grows.

6 During all the time of his consecration, he shall not enter for the dead.

7 He shall not be contaminated even at the funeral of father, mother, brother, or sister, because the consecration of his God is upon his head.

8 Throughout all the days of his separation he shall be holy to the Lord.

9 But if someone suddenly dies before him, the head of his consecration shall be polluted. He shall shave it immediately on the same day of his purification and again on the seventh.

10 On the eighth day he shall offer two turtledoves or two young pigeons to the priest at the entrance of the covenant of testimony.

11 The priest shall make one for sin and the other as a burnt offering and pray for him because he sinned over the dead; he shall make his head holy on that day.

12 He shall consecrate to the Lord the days of his separation, offering a year-old lamb for sin, yet so that the former days become void because his sanctification was polluted.

13 This is the law of consecration. When the days he determined by vow are completed, he shall be brought to the entrance of the tabernacle of the covenant

14 and shall offer his offerings to the Lord: an unblemished year-old lamb as a burnt offering, an unblemished year-old ewe for sin, and an unblemished ram as a victim of peace offerings;

15 also a basket of unleavened loaves mixed with oil, unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and the libations for each.

16 The priest shall offer these before the Lord and make both what is for sin and the burnt offering.

17 He shall slaughter the ram as a victim of peace offerings to the Lord, offering with it the basket of unleavened bread and the libations due by custom.

18 Then the Nazarite shall have the hair of his consecration shaved before the entrance of the tabernacle of the covenant. He shall take his hair and place it upon the fire set beneath the sacrifice of peace offerings.

19 The priest shall take the cooked shoulder of the ram, one unleavened cake from the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and deliver them into the Nazarite's hands after his head has been shaved.

20 Receiving them again from him, he shall raise them in the Lord's sight. They shall be made holy for the priest, like the breast which was commanded to be separated and the thigh. After these things, the Nazarite may drink wine.

21 This is the law of the Nazarite when he vows his offering to the Lord during the time of his consecration, apart from what his hand may find. According to what he vowed in his mind, so shall he do for the perfection of his sanctification.”

22 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

23 “Speak to Aaron and his sons: Thus shall you bless the children of Israel and say to them:

24 ‘May the Lord bless you and keep you.

25 May the Lord show his face to you and have mercy on you.

26 May the Lord turn his countenance toward you and give you peace.’

27 They shall invoke my name over the children of Israel, and I shall bless them.”

CHAPTER 7

1 On the day Moses completed and raised the tabernacle and anointed and made it holy with all its vessels—and likewise the altar and all its vessels—

2 the leaders of Israel and heads of families, who were over the individual tribes and commanders of those who had been numbered, offered gifts.

3 Before the Lord they offered six covered wagons with twelve oxen. Two leaders offered one wagon, and each offered one ox; they offered them in the sight of the tabernacle.

4 The Lord said to Moses,

5 “Receive them, that they may serve in the ministry of the tabernacle, and deliver them to the Levites according to the order of their ministry.”

6 Therefore, when Moses had received the wagons and oxen, he delivered them to the Levites.

7 He gave two wagons and four oxen to the sons of Gershon, according to what they needed.

8 He gave the other four wagons and eight oxen to the sons of Merari according to their offices and worship, under the hand of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest.

9 But he gave no wagons or oxen to the sons of Kohath, because they serve in the sanctuary and carry their burdens upon their own shoulders.

10 Therefore the leaders offered their offering before the altar for the dedication of the altar on the day it was anointed.

11 The Lord said to Moses, “Let each leader offer gifts on an individual day for the dedication of the altar.”

12 On the first day Nahshon son of Amminadab, from the tribe of Judah, offered his offering.

13 In it were a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

14 a little golden mortar of ten shekels, full of incense;

15 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

16 a male goat for sin;

17 and as a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This is the offering of Nahshon son of Amminadab.

18 On the second day Nethanel son of Zuar, leader from the tribe of Issachar, offered

19 a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

20 a golden little mortar having ten shekels, full of incense;

21 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

22 a male goat for sin;

23 and as a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This was the offering of Nethanel son of Zuar.

24 On the third day the leader of the sons of Zebulun, Eliab son of Helon,

25 offered a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

26 a golden little mortar weighing ten shekels, full of incense;

27 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

28 a male goat for sin;

29 and as a sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This is the offering of Eliab son of Helon.

30 On the fourth day the leader of the sons of Reuben, Elizur son of Shedeur,

31 offered a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

32 a golden little mortar weighing ten shekels, full of incense;

33 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

34 a male goat for sin;

35 and as victims of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This was the offering of Elizur son of Shedeur.

36 On the fifth day the leader of the sons of Simeon, Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai,

37 offered a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

38 a golden little mortar weighing ten shekels, full of incense;

39 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

40 a male goat for sin;

41 and as victims of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This was the offering of Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai.

42 On the sixth day the leader of the sons of Gad, Eliasaph son of Deuel,

43 offered a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

44 a golden little mortar weighing ten shekels, full of incense;

45 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

46 a male goat for sin;

47 and as victims of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This was the offering of Eliasaph son of Deuel.

48 On the seventh day the leader of the sons of Ephraim, Elishama son of Ammihud,

49 offered a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

50 a golden little mortar weighing ten shekels, full of incense;

51 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

52 a male goat for sin;

53 and as victims of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This was the offering of Elishama son of Ammihud.

54 On the eighth day the leader of the sons of Manasseh, Gamaliel son of Pedahzur,

55 offered a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

56 a golden little mortar weighing ten shekels, full of incense;

57 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

58 a male goat for sin;

59 and as victims of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This was the offering of Gamaliel son of Pedahzur.

60 On the ninth day the leader of the sons of Benjamin, Abidan son of Gideoni,

61 offered a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

62 and a golden little mortar weighing ten shekels, full of incense;

63 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

64 a male goat for sin;

65 and as victims of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This was the offering of Abidan son of Gideoni.

66 On the tenth day the leader of the sons of Dan, Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai,

67 offered a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

68 a golden little mortar weighing ten shekels, full of incense;

69 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

70 a male goat for sin;

71 and as victims of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This was the offering of Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai.

72 On the eleventh day the leader of the sons of Asher, Pagiel son of Ocran,

73 offered a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

74 a golden little mortar weighing ten shekels, full of incense;

75 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

76 a male goat for sin;

77 and as victims of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This was the offering of Pagiel son of Ocran.

78 On the twelfth day the leader of the sons of Naphtali, Ahira son of Enan,

79 offered a silver dish weighing one hundred thirty shekels and a silver bowl having seventy shekels according to the sanctuary's weight, both full of fine flour mixed with oil for sacrifice;

80 a golden little mortar weighing ten shekels, full of incense;

81 an ox from the herd, a ram, and a year-old lamb as a burnt offering;

82 a male goat for sin;

83 and as victims of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old lambs. This was the offering of Ahira son of Enan.

84 These were offered by the leaders of Israel for the dedication of the altar on the day it was consecrated: twelve silver dishes, twelve silver bowls, and twelve golden little mortars.

85 Each dish had one hundred thirty shekels of silver, and each bowl seventy shekels—that is, all the silver vessels together were two thousand four hundred shekels according to the sanctuary's weight.

86 The twelve golden little mortars full of incense each weighed ten shekels according to the sanctuary's weight—that is, together one hundred twenty shekels of gold.

87 For the burnt offering were twelve oxen from the herd, twelve rams, twelve year-old lambs and their libations, and twelve male goats for sin.

88 As victims of peace offerings were twenty-four oxen, sixty rams, sixty male goats, and sixty year-old lambs. These were offered for the dedication of the altar when it was anointed.

89 When Moses entered the tabernacle of the covenant to consult the oracle, he heard the voice speaking to him from the mercy-seat above the ark of testimony, between the two cherubim; from there it spoke to him.

CHAPTER 8

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to Aaron and say to him: When you set the seven lamps, let the lampstand be erected on the southern side. Therefore command that the lamps face north, opposite the table of the bread of presentation; they ought to shine toward the side the lampstand faces.”

3 Aaron did so and placed the lamps upon the lampstand as the Lord had commanded Moses.

4 This was the workmanship of the lampstand: of hammered gold, both its central shaft and everything growing from either side of the branches. According to the pattern the Lord showed Moses, so he made the lampstand.

5 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

6 “Take the Levites from the midst of the children of Israel and purify them

7 according to this rite: let them be sprinkled with water of purification and shave all the hair of their flesh. When they have washed their garments and been cleansed,

8 they shall take an ox from the herd and its libation of fine flour mixed with oil; but you shall take another ox from the herd for sin.

9 You shall bring the Levites before the tabernacle of the covenant, when the whole multitude of the children of Israel has been called together.

10 When the Levites are before the Lord, the children of Israel shall place their hands upon them.

11 Aaron shall offer the Levites as a gift in the Lord's sight from the children of Israel, that they may serve in his ministry.

12 The Levites also shall place their hands upon the heads of the oxen, of which you shall make one for sin and the other as a burnt offering to the Lord, that you may pray for them.

13 You shall set the Levites in the sight of Aaron and his sons and consecrate them, offered to the Lord.

14 You shall separate them from the midst of the children of Israel, that they may be mine.

15 Afterward they shall enter the tabernacle of the covenant to serve me. Thus you shall purify and consecrate them as an offering to the Lord, because they were given to me as a gift by the children of Israel.

16 I received them in place of the firstborn who open every womb in Israel.

17 For all the firstborn of the children of Israel are mine, both humans and livestock. From the day I struck every firstborn in the land of Egypt, I made them holy to myself,

18 and I took the Levites in place of all the firstborn of the children of Israel.

19 I delivered them as a gift to Aaron and his sons from the midst of the people, that they might serve me for Israel in the tabernacle of the covenant and pray for them, lest a plague be among the people if they dare approach the sanctuary.”

20 Moses, Aaron, and the whole multitude of the children of Israel did to the Levites what the Lord had commanded Moses.

21 They were purified and washed their garments. Aaron raised them in the Lord's sight and prayed for them,

22 so that, having been purified, they might enter their offices in the tabernacle of the covenant before Aaron and his sons. As the Lord had commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so it was done.

23 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

24 “This is the law of the Levites: from twenty-five years old and above they shall enter to minister in the tabernacle of the covenant.

25 When they have completed the fiftieth year of age, they shall cease serving.

26 They shall be ministers to their brothers in the tabernacle of the covenant, guarding what was entrusted to them, but they shall not do the works themselves. Thus you shall arrange the Levites in their watches.”

CHAPTER 9

1 In the wilderness of Sinai, in the first month of the second year after they had departed from the land of Egypt, the Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Let the children of Israel make the Passover at its time,

3 on the fourteenth day of this month at evening, according to all its ceremonies and justifications.”

4 Moses commanded the children of Israel to make the Passover.

5 They made it at its time, on the fourteenth day of the month at evening, on Mount Sinai. The children of Israel did according to everything the Lord had commanded Moses.

6 But look, certain men unclean because of the soul of a human, who could not make the Passover on that day, approached Moses and Aaron

7 and said to them, “We are unclean because of the soul of a human. Why are we deprived, so that we cannot offer the offering to the Lord at its time among the children of Israel?”

8 Moses answered them, “Stand, while I consult what the Lord commands concerning you.”

9 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

10 “Speak to the children of Israel: A man who is unclean because of a soul, or is far away on a journey within your nation, shall make the Passover to the Lord

11 in the second month, on the fourteenth day of the month at evening. They shall eat it with unleavened bread and wild lettuces.

12 They shall leave none of it until morning and shall not break its bone; they shall observe the entire rite of Passover.

13 But if anyone is clean and was not on a journey, yet did not make the Passover, that soul shall be exterminated from his peoples, because he did not offer sacrifice to the Lord at its time; he shall bear his sin.

14 A sojourner and stranger, if they are among you, shall also make the Passover to the Lord according to its ceremonies and justifications. The same command shall be among you for both stranger and native.”

15 Therefore, on the day the tabernacle was raised, a cloud covered it. From evening until morning there was over the tent something like the appearance of fire.

16 Thus it happened continually: by day the cloud covered it and by night something like the appearance of fire.

17 When the cloud protecting the tabernacle was taken away, then the children of Israel departed; and in the place where the cloud stood, there they camped.

18 At the Lord's command they departed, and at his command they pitched the tabernacle. Throughout all the days when the cloud stood over the tabernacle, they remained in the same place.

19 If it happened to remain over it for a long time, the children of Israel kept the Lord's watches and did not depart

20 throughout however many days the cloud was over the tabernacle. At the Lord's command they raised the tents, and at his command they took them down.

21 If the cloud was there from evening until morning and immediately left the tabernacle at dawn, they departed; and if it withdrew after a day and night, they broke up the tents.

22 But if it remained over the tabernacle for two days, one month, or a longer time, the children of Israel stayed in the same place and did not depart; but immediately when it withdrew, they moved camp.

23 By the Lord's word they pitched their tents, and by his word they departed; they kept the Lord's watches according to his command through the hand of Moses.

CHAPTER 10

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Make for yourself two hammered silver trumpets, with which you may summon the multitude when the camp is to be moved.

3 When you sound the trumpets, the whole assembly shall gather to you at the entrance of the tabernacle of the covenant.

4 If you sound once, the leaders and heads of the multitude of Israel shall come to you.

5 But if a longer, broken signal sounds, those on the eastern side shall move camp first.

6 At the second sound and equal wailing of the trumpet, those living on the south shall raise their tents; according to this manner the others shall act, with the trumpets wailing for departure.

7 But when the people are to be gathered, the trumpet signal shall be simple, and they shall not wail in broken sounds.

8 The sons of Aaron, the priests, shall sound the trumpets; this shall be an everlasting ordinance throughout your generations.

9 If you go out from your land to war against enemies fighting you, you shall sound the wailing trumpets, and there shall be remembrance of you before the Lord your God, so that you may be rescued from your enemies' hands.

10 Whenever you have a banquet, feast days, and new moons, you shall sound the trumpets over the burnt offerings and victims of peace offerings, so that they may be for you a remembrance of your God. I am the Lord your God.”

11 In the second year, in the second month, on the twentieth day of the month, the cloud was lifted from the tabernacle of the covenant.

12 The children of Israel departed by their companies from the wilderness of Sinai, and the cloud rested in the wilderness of Paran.

13 The first moved camp according to the Lord's command through the hand of Moses.

14 The sons of Judah departed by their companies, whose leader was Nahshon son of Amminadab.

15 In the tribe of the sons of Issachar, the leader was Nethanel son of Zuar.

16 In the tribe of Zebulun, the leader was Eliab son of Helon.

17 The tabernacle was taken down, and the sons of Gershon and Merari went out carrying it.

18 The sons of Reuben also departed by their companies and order, whose leader was Elizur son of Shedeur.

19 In the tribe of the sons of Simeon, the leader was Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai.

20 In the tribe of Gad, the leader was Eliasaph son of Deuel.

21 The Kohathites also departed carrying the sanctuary. The tabernacle was carried until they reached the place where it was to be raised.

22 The sons of Ephraim moved camp by their companies; the leader in their army was Elishama son of Ammihud.

23 In the tribe of the sons of Manasseh, the leader was Gamaliel son of Pedahzur.

24 In the tribe of Benjamin, the commander was Abidan son of Gideoni.

25 Last of all the camps, the sons of Dan departed by their companies; the leader in their army was Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai.

26 In the tribe of the sons of Asher, the leader was Pagiel son of Ocran.

27 In the tribe of the sons of Naphtali, the leader was Ahira son of Enan.

28 These are the camps and departures of the children of Israel by their companies when they went out.

29 Moses said to Hobab son of Raguel the Midianite, his kinsman, “We are departing for the place the Lord will give us. Come with us, that we may do good to you, because the Lord has promised good things to Israel.”

30 He answered him, “I will not go with you, but shall return to my land, where I was born.”

31 Moses said, “Do not leave us, for you know in what places we ought to camp through the wilderness, and you shall be our guide.

32 When you come with us, whatever is best from the resources the Lord shall deliver to us, we shall give you.”

33 Therefore they departed from the Lord's mountain on a three-days' journey, and the ark of the Lord's covenant went before them for three days, providing a place for the camp.

34 The Lord's cloud also was over them by day when they walked.

35 When the ark was raised, Moses said, “Rise, Lord, and let your enemies be scattered; let those who hate you flee from your face.”

36 But when it was set down, he said, “Return, Lord, to the multitude of Israel's army.”

CHAPTER 11

1 Meanwhile a murmur arose from the people, like those grieving over labor, against the Lord. When the Lord heard it, he became angry; the Lord's fire was kindled against them and devoured the outermost part of the camp.

2 When the people cried to Moses, Moses prayed to the Lord, and the fire was swallowed up.

3 He called the name of that place Burning, because the Lord's fire had been kindled against them.

4 The mixed common people who had gone up with them burned with desire. Sitting and weeping, with the children of Israel joined to them, they said, “Who will give us flesh to eat?

5 We remember the fish we ate freely in Egypt; the cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions, and garlic come to mind.

6 Our soul is dry; our eyes see nothing except Man.”

7 Man was like coriander seed, the color of bdellium.

8 The people went around gathering it, crushed it with a mill or ground it in a mortar, cooked it in a pot, and made little cakes from it tasting like oiled bread.

9 When dew descended upon the camp at night, Man descended with it.

10 Therefore Moses heard the people weeping by their families, each at the entrance of his tent. The Lord's fury became exceedingly angry, and the matter seemed unbearable to Moses also.

11 He said to the Lord, “Why have you afflicted your servant? Why do I not find favor before you? And why have you placed the weight of this whole people upon me?

12 Did I conceive this whole multitude or give birth to it, that you say to me, ‘Carry them in your bosom as a nurse usually carries a little child, and bring them into the land for which you swore to their fathers’?

13 From where shall I get flesh to give so great a multitude? They weep against me, saying, ‘Give us flesh to eat.’

14 I cannot sustain this whole people alone, because it is heavy for me.

15 But if it seems otherwise to you, I beg you to kill me, and let me find favor in your eyes, lest I be afflicted with such great evils.”

16 The Lord said to Moses, “Gather for me seventy men from the elders of Israel whom you know to be elders and teachers of the people. Lead them to the entrance of the tabernacle of the covenant and cause them to stand there with you,

17 so that I may descend and speak to you. I shall take from your spirit and give to them, so that they may sustain the burden of the people with you and you alone not be weighed down.

18 You shall also say to the people: ‘Make yourselves holy; tomorrow you shall eat flesh. For I heard you say, “Who will give us flesh for food? It was well with us in Egypt.” Therefore the Lord will give you flesh, and you shall eat,

19 not for one day, two, five, ten, or even twenty,

20 but for a month of days, until it goes out through your nostrils and turns to nausea, because you rejected the Lord who is in your midst and wept before him, saying, “Why did we go out of Egypt?”’”

21 Moses said, “This people has six hundred thousand footmen, and you say, ‘I will give them flesh to eat for a whole month’?

22 Will a multitude of sheep and cattle be slaughtered so that there may be enough food? Or will all the fish of the sea be gathered together to satisfy them?”

23 The Lord answered him, “Is the Lord's hand powerless? Now you shall see whether my word is fulfilled in deed.”

24 Therefore Moses came and told the people the Lord's words, gathering seventy men from the elders of Israel, whom he caused to stand around the tabernacle.

25 The Lord descended through the cloud and spoke to him, taking from the spirit that was in Moses and giving it to the seventy men. When the spirit rested upon them, they prophesied and did not cease afterward.

26 But two men remained in the camp, one named Eldad and the other Medad, upon whom the spirit rested. For they too had been enrolled but had not gone out to the tabernacle.

27 When they prophesied in the camp, a boy ran and reported to Moses, saying, “Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp.”

28 Immediately Joshua son of Nun, Moses' minister and one chosen from many, said, “My lord Moses, forbid them.”

29 But he said, “Why are you jealous for me? Who would grant that all the people might prophesy and that the Lord would give them his spirit?”

30 Moses and the elders of Israel returned to the camp.

31 A wind going out from the Lord seized quail from across the sea, carried them, and let them fall into the camp for a day's journey on every side around it; they flew in the air two cubits high above the ground.

32 Therefore the people rose throughout that whole day, the night, and the next day, and gathered quail. The one who gathered little had ten cors. They dried them around the camp.

33 The flesh was still in their teeth and such food had not failed when, look, the Lord's fury was stirred against the people and struck them with an exceedingly great plague.

34 That place was called Graves of Desire, for there they buried the people who had desired. Departing from Graves of Desire, they came to Hazeroth and remained there.

CHAPTER 12

1 Mary and Aaron spoke against Moses because of his Ethiopian wife,

2 and said, “Has the Lord spoken only through Moses? Has he not likewise spoken to us?” When the Lord heard this—

3 for Moses was the meekest man above all people living upon the earth—

4 he immediately spoke to him, Aaron, and Mary: “Only you three go out to the tabernacle of the covenant.” When they had gone out,

5 the Lord descended in a pillar of cloud and stood at the tabernacle's entrance, calling Aaron and Mary. When they went,

6 he said to them, “Hear my words. If anyone among you is a prophet of the Lord, I shall appear to him in a vision or speak to him through a dream.

7 But my servant Moses is not such, for he is most faithful in all my house.

8 For I speak to him mouth to mouth, and openly; he sees the Lord not through riddles and figures. Why, then, were you not afraid to disparage my servant Moses?”

9 Angry against them, he went away.

10 The cloud over the tabernacle also withdrew; and look, Mary appeared white with leprosy like snow. When Aaron looked upon her and saw her covered with leprosy,

11 he said to Moses, “I beg you, my lord, do not place upon us this sin which we foolishly committed.

12 Let her not become like one dead or like an aborted child cast from its mother's womb. Look, half her flesh is already devoured by leprosy.”

13 Moses cried to the Lord, saying, “God, I beg you, heal her.”

14 The Lord answered him, “If her father had spit in her face, ought she not at least to have been suffused with shame for seven days? Let her be separated outside the camp for seven days, and afterward she shall be recalled.”

15 Therefore Mary was shut outside the camp for seven days, and the people did not move from that place until Mary was recalled.

CHAPTER 13

1 The people departed from Hazeroth and pitched their tents in the wilderness of Paran.

2 There the Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

3 “Send men to examine the land of Canaan, which I shall give to the children of Israel, one from each tribe, from among the leaders.”

4 Moses did what the Lord commanded, sending leading men from the wilderness of Paran, whose names are these:

5 from the tribe of Reuben, Shammua son of Zaccur;

6 from the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat son of Huri;

7 from the tribe of Judah, Caleb son of Jephunneh;

8 from the tribe of Issachar, Igal son of Joseph;

9 from the tribe of Ephraim, Hoshea son of Nun;

10 from the tribe of Benjamin, Palti son of Raphu;

11 from the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel son of Sodi;

12 from the tribe of Joseph, the scepter of Manasseh, Gaddi son of Susi;

13 from the tribe of Dan, Ammiel son of Gemalli;

14 from the tribe of Asher, Sethur son of Michael;

15 from the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi son of Vophsi;

16 from the tribe of Gad, Geuel son of Machi.

17 These are the names of the men Moses sent to examine the land; and he called Hoshea son of Nun Joshua.

18 Therefore Moses sent them to examine the land of Canaan and said to them, “Go up through the southern region. When you come to the mountains,

19 examine what the land is like, and the people who inhabit it: whether strong or weak, few in number or many;

20 whether the land itself is good or bad; what the cities are like, walled or without walls;

21 whether the soil is rich or barren, wooded or without trees. Take courage and bring us some of the land's fruits.” It was the time when early grapes could already be eaten.

22 When they had gone up, they explored the land from the wilderness of Zin to Rehob, as one enters Hamath.

23 They went up toward the south and came to Hebron, where Ahiman, Shishai, and Talmai, sons of Anak, were; for Hebron was founded seven years before Tanis, a city of Egypt.

24 Going as far as the Torrent of the Cluster, they cut a branch with its cluster of grapes, which two men carried on a pole. They also took pomegranates and figs from that place.

25 It was called Nahal-Eshcol—that is, Torrent of the Cluster—because the children of Israel had carried a cluster from there.

26 After circling the whole region, the explorers of the land returned after forty days.

27 They came to Moses, Aaron, and the whole assembly of the children of Israel in the wilderness of Paran, which is in Kadesh. They spoke to them and the whole multitude and showed the land's fruits.

28 They reported, saying, “We came into the land to which you sent us. It truly flows with milk and honey, as can be known from these fruits.

29 But it has exceedingly strong inhabitants and great, walled cities. We saw the stock of Anak there.

30 Amalek lives in the south; the Hittite, Jebusite, and Amorite in the mountains; but the Canaanite stays beside the sea and around the streams of the Jordan.”

31 Meanwhile Caleb restrained the murmur of the people rising against Moses and said, “Let us go up and possess the land, for we shall be able to obtain it.”

32 But the others who had been with him said, “We are entirely unable to go up against this people, because it is stronger than we are.”

33 They disparaged before the children of Israel the land they had inspected, saying, “The land through which we passed devours its inhabitants. The people we saw are of towering stature.

34 There we saw certain monsters among the sons of Anak, of the race of giants; compared with them, we appeared like locusts.”

CHAPTER 14

1 Therefore the whole assembly cried aloud and wept that night.

2 All the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron, saying,

3 “Would that we had died in Egypt! And would that we might perish in this vast wilderness, and that the Lord would not lead us into this land, lest we fall by the sword and our wives and children be led captive. Is it not better to return to Egypt?”

4 They said to one another, “Let us appoint a leader for ourselves and return to Egypt.”

5 Hearing this, Moses and Aaron fell prone upon the ground before the whole multitude of the children of Israel.

6 But Joshua son of Nun and Caleb son of Jephunneh, who had also explored the land, tore their garments

7 and spoke to the whole multitude of the children of Israel: “The land through which we passed is exceedingly good.

8 If the Lord is favorable, he shall lead us into it and deliver to us a soil flowing with milk and honey.

9 Do not rebel against the Lord or fear the people of this land, because we can devour them like bread. All protection has withdrawn from them; the Lord is with us. Do not fear.”

10 When the whole multitude cried out and wished to overwhelm them with stones, the Lord's glory appeared over the covering of the covenant to all the children of Israel.

11 The Lord said to Moses, “How long will this people disparage me? How long will they not believe me, despite all the signs I performed before them?

12 Therefore I shall strike them with pestilence and consume them, but I shall make you leader over a nation greater and stronger than this.”

13 Moses said to the Lord, “Then the Egyptians, from whose midst you brought out this people, shall hear,

14 and the inhabitants of this land, who have heard that you, Lord, are among this people, are seen face to face, your cloud protects them, and you go before them in a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night.

15 They shall hear that you killed so great a multitude as one person and say,

16 ‘He was unable to lead the people into the land for which he swore; therefore he killed them in the wilderness.’

17 Therefore let the strength of the Lord be magnified as you swore, saying,

18 ‘The Lord is patient and abundant in mercy, taking away iniquity and crimes, yet leaving no one innocent, visiting the fathers' sins upon the children to the third and fourth generation.’

19 Forgive, I beg you, the sin of this people according to the greatness of your mercy, as you have been favorable to those departing from Egypt even to this place.”

20 The Lord said, “I have forgiven according to your word.

21 As I live, the Lord's glory shall fill the whole earth.

22 Yet all the people who saw my majesty and the signs I performed in Egypt and in the wilderness, but have now tempted me ten times and not obeyed my voice,

23 shall not see the land for which I swore to their fathers, nor shall anyone among those who disparaged me behold it.

24 My servant Caleb, who, full of another spirit, followed me, I shall lead into this land through which he passed, and his seed shall possess it.

25 For the Amalekite and Canaanite live in the valleys. Tomorrow move camp and return to the wilderness by the way of the Red Sea.”

26 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

27 “How long does this most wicked multitude murmur against me? I have heard the complaints of the children of Israel.

28 Therefore say to them: ‘As I live, says the Lord, as you spoke in my hearing, so shall I do to you.

29 In this wilderness your corpses shall lie. All of you numbered from twenty years old and above who murmured against me

30 shall not enter the land over which I raised my hand to cause you to live, except Caleb son of Jephunneh and Joshua son of Nun.

31 But your little children, of whom you said they would be prey to the enemies, I shall lead in, that they may see the land which displeased you.

32 Your corpses shall lie in the wilderness.

33 Your sons shall wander in the desert forty years and bear your fornication, until the corpses of their fathers are consumed in the desert,

34 according to the number of forty days in which you examined the land. A year shall be counted for a day; for forty years you shall receive your iniquities and know my vengeance.

35 For as I have spoken, so shall I do to this whole most wicked multitude that rose against me. In this wilderness it shall fail and die.’”

36 Therefore all the men whom Moses had sent to examine the land, who returned and caused the whole multitude to murmur against him by disparaging the land as evil,

37 died, struck in the Lord's sight.

38 But Joshua son of Nun and Caleb son of Jephunneh lived, out of all who had gone to examine the land.

39 Moses spoke all these words to all the children of Israel, and the people mourned exceedingly.

40 Look, rising early in the morning, they went up to the mountain's summit and said, “We are ready to go up to the place of which the Lord spoke, because we have sinned.”

41 Moses said to them, “Why do you transgress the Lord's word, which shall not result prosperously for you?

42 Do not go up, for the Lord is not with you, lest you fall before your enemies.

43 The Amalekite and Canaanite are before you, and you shall fall by their sword because you refused to submit to the Lord; the Lord shall not be with you.”

44 But they, darkened, went up to the mountain's summit. Yet the ark of the Lord's testament and Moses did not leave the camp.

45 The Amalekite and Canaanite who lived on the mountain came down, struck and cut them down, and pursued them as far as Hormah.

CHAPTER 15

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: When you enter the land of your habitation which I shall give you,

3 and make an offering to the Lord as a burnt offering or victim, fulfilling vows, voluntarily offering gifts, or burning a fragrance of sweetness to the Lord at your solemnities, from cattle or sheep,

4 whoever slaughters the victim shall offer a sacrifice of fine flour, a tenth part of an ephah mixed with oil measuring a fourth part of a hin,

5 and shall give wine of the same measure for pouring as libations with the burnt offering or victim. For each lamb,

6 and for rams, the sacrifice shall be two tenths of fine flour mixed with a third part of a hin of oil,

7 and he shall offer a third part of the same measure of wine as a libation, a fragrance of sweetness to the Lord.

8 But when you make a burnt offering or victim from cattle, to fulfill a vow or as victims of peace offerings,

9 for each ox you shall give three tenths of fine flour mixed with half a hin of oil,

10 and wine of the same measure for pouring as libations, an offering of most sweet fragrance to the Lord.

11 Thus you shall act

12 for each ox, ram, lamb, and young goat.

13 Both natives and sojourners

14 shall offer sacrifices by the same rite.

15 There shall be one command and judgment both for you and for strangers of the land.”

16 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

17 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them:

18 When you come into the land I shall give you

19 and eat from the bread of that region, you shall separate firstfruits to the Lord

20 from your foods. As you separate firstfruits from the threshing floors,

21 so also from cooked foods you shall give first things to the Lord.

22 But if through ignorance you pass over anything the Lord spoke to Moses

23 and commanded through him to you, from the day he began to command and afterward,

24 and the multitude forgets to do it, it shall offer a calf from the herd as a burnt offering of most sweet fragrance to the Lord, with its sacrifice and libations as the ceremonies require, and a male goat for sin.

25 The priest shall pray for the whole multitude of the children of Israel, and it will be forgiven them, because they did not sin willingly, nevertheless offering incense to the Lord for themselves and for their sin and error.

26 It will be forgiven to the whole people of the children of Israel and the strangers sojourning among them, because the guilt of all the people was through ignorance.

27 But if one soul sins unknowingly, he shall offer a year-old female goat for his sin.

28 The priest shall pray for that soul because he sinned unknowingly before the Lord, obtain pardon for him, and it will be forgiven him.

29 There shall be one law for natives and strangers, for all who sin through ignorance.

30 But the soul who commits anything through pride, whether citizen or sojourner—because he rebelled against the Lord—shall perish from his people.

31 For he despised the Lord's word and made his command void; therefore he shall be destroyed and shall bear his iniquity.”

32 While the children of Israel were in the wilderness, they found a man gathering wood on the Sabbath day.

33 They brought him to Moses, Aaron, and the whole multitude.

34 They confined him in prison, not knowing what ought to be done to him.

35 The Lord said to Moses, “Let this man surely die; let the whole assembly overwhelm him with stones outside the camp.”

36 When they had led him outside, they overwhelmed him with stones, and he died, as the Lord had commanded.

37 The Lord also said to Moses,

38 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them that they should make fringes for themselves at the corners of their cloaks, placing blue bands in them.

39 When they see these, let them remember all the Lord's commands and not follow their own thoughts and eyes, prostituting themselves through various things,

40 but rather, mindful of the Lord's precepts, let them do them and be holy to their God.

41 I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God.”

CHAPTER 16

1 Look, Korah son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi, and Dathan and Abiram sons of Eliab, and On son of Peleth, from the sons of Reuben,

2 rose against Moses, with two hundred fifty other men from the children of Israel, leaders of the assembly who were called by name at the time of council.

3 When they stood against Moses and Aaron, they said, “Let it be enough for you, for the whole multitude is holy and the Lord is among them. Why are you raised above the Lord's people?”

4 When Moses heard this, he fell prone upon his face.

5 He spoke to Korah and the whole multitude: “In the morning the Lord will make known who belong to him and will bring the holy near himself; those whom he chooses shall approach him.

6 Therefore do this: let each take his censer—you, Korah, and all your council.

7 Tomorrow draw fire and place incense over it before the Lord; whomever he chooses, that one shall be holy. You sons of Levi raise yourselves too greatly.”

8 Again he said to Korah, “Hear, sons of Levi.

9 Is it little to you that the God of Israel separated you from all the people and joined you to himself, that you might serve him in the worship of the tabernacle, stand before the throng of the people, and minister to him?

10 Therefore he caused you and all your brothers, the sons of Levi, to approach him—so that you claim the priesthood also,

11 and your whole body stands against the Lord? For what is Aaron that you murmur against him?”

12 Therefore Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiram, sons of Eliab. They answered, “We will not come.

13 Is it little to you that you brought us out of a land flowing with milk and honey to kill us in the desert, unless you also rule over us?

14 Truly you have brought us into a land flowing with streams of milk and honey and given us possessions of fields and vineyards! Do you also wish to tear out our eyes? We will not come.”

15 Moses became exceedingly angry and said to the Lord, “Do not regard their sacrifices. You know that I never received even a little donkey from them or afflicted any one of them.”

16 He said to Korah, “You and your whole congregation stand separately before the Lord tomorrow, and Aaron apart.

17 Each take your censers, place incense upon them, and offer to the Lord two hundred fifty censers; Aaron also shall hold his censer.”

18 When they had done this, with Moses and Aaron standing,

19 and had heaped the whole multitude against them at the entrance of the tabernacle, the Lord's glory appeared to all.

20 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

21 “Separate yourselves from the midst of this congregation, that I may suddenly destroy them.”

22 They fell prone upon their faces and said, “Most mighty God of the spirits of all flesh, when one sins, will your anger rage against all?”

23 The Lord said to Moses,

24 “Command the whole people to separate from the tabernacles of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.”

25 Moses rose and went to Dathan and Abiram, with the elders of Israel following him.

26 He said to the assembly, “Withdraw from the tabernacles of these impious men and do not touch anything belonging to them, lest you be enveloped in their sins.”

27 When they had withdrawn from their tents all around, Dathan and Abiram came out and stood at the entrances of their pavilions with their wives, children, and whole company.

28 Moses said, “By this you shall know that the Lord sent me to do all the things you see and that I did not bring them forth from my own heart:

29 if they perish by the customary death of humans and a plague visits them by which others usually are visited, the Lord did not send me.

30 But if the Lord does a new thing, so that the earth opens its mouth and swallows them with everything belonging to them, and they descend alive into hell, you shall know that they blasphemed the Lord."

31 Therefore, immediately when he ceased speaking, the earth split beneath their feet.

32 Opening its mouth, it devoured them with their tabernacles and all their substance.

33 Covered with earth, they descended alive into hell and perished from the midst of the multitude.

34 But all Israel standing around fled at the cry of those perishing, saying, "Lest perhaps the earth swallow us also."

35 Fire going out from the Lord also killed the two hundred fifty men who offered incense.

36 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

37 "Command Eleazar son of Aaron the priest to take the censers lying in the burning and scatter the fire here and there, because they have been made holy

38 in the deaths of the sinners. Let him beat them into plates and fasten them to the altar, because incense was offered in them to the Lord and they were made holy, so that the children of Israel may see them as a sign and memorial."

39 Therefore Eleazar the priest took the bronze censers in which those whom the burning devoured had offered, beat them into plates, and fastened them to the altar,

40 so that afterward the children of Israel might be admonished that no foreigner who is not from Aaron's seed should approach to offer incense to the Lord, lest he suffer as Korah and his whole congregation suffered, when the Lord spoke to Moses.

41 But on the next day the whole multitude of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron, saying, "You killed the Lord's people."

42 When sedition arose and the tumult increased,

43 Moses and Aaron fled to the tabernacle of the covenant. When they entered, the cloud covered it, and the Lord's glory appeared.

44 The Lord said to Moses,

45 "Withdraw from the midst of this multitude; even now I shall destroy them." When they lay upon the ground,

46 Moses said to Aaron, "Take the censer, draw fire from the altar, place incense upon it, and go quickly to the people to pray for them; for anger has already gone out from the Lord, and the plague rages."

47 When Aaron had done this and run into the midst of the multitude which the burning was already laying waste, he offered incense.

48 Standing between the dead and the living, he prayed for the people, and the plague ceased.

49 Those struck were fourteen thousand seven hundred people, apart from those who perished in Korah's sedition.

50 Aaron returned to Moses at the entrance of the tabernacle of the covenant after the destruction ceased.

CHAPTER 17

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Speak to the children of Israel and receive from them one staff for each of their kindreds, from all the leaders of the tribes, twelve staffs; you shall write each one's name upon his staff.

3 Aaron's name shall be upon the tribe of Levi, and one staff shall contain all its separate families.

4 You shall place them in the tabernacle of the covenant before the testimony, where I shall speak to you.

5 The staff of the one I choose shall sprout, and I shall restrain from myself the complaints of the children of Israel by which they murmur against you.”

6 Moses spoke to the children of Israel, and all the leaders gave him staffs by the individual tribes; there were twelve staffs apart from Aaron's staff.

7 When Moses had placed them before the Lord in the tabernacle of testimony,

8 returning the next day, he found Aaron's staff in the house of Levi had sprouted. With buds swelling, flowers had broken forth which, when the leaves expanded, were formed into almonds.

9 Therefore Moses brought all the staffs out from the Lord's sight to all the children of Israel. They saw, and each received his staff.

10 The Lord said to Moses, “Return Aaron's staff to the tabernacle of testimony, that it may be preserved there as a sign to the rebellious children of Israel and their complaints against me may cease, lest they die.”

11 Moses did as the Lord had commanded.

12 But the children of Israel said to Moses, “Look, we are consumed; we have all perished.

13 Whoever approaches the Lord's tabernacle dies. Are we all to be destroyed to annihilation?”

CHAPTER 18

1 The Lord said to Aaron, “You, your sons, and your paternal household with you shall bear the iniquity of the sanctuary; and you and your sons together shall sustain the sins of your priesthood.

2 But take with you also your brothers from the tribe of Levi and the scepter of your father; let them be ready and minister to you. But you and your sons shall minister in the tabernacle of testimony.

3 The Levites shall keep watch according to your commands and over all the tabernacle's works, but only so that they do not approach the vessels of the sanctuary or the altar, lest both they die and you perish together.

4 Let them be with you and keep watch in the tabernacle's watches and all its ceremonies. A foreigner shall not mingle with you.

5 Keep watch over the sanctuary and the ministry of the altar, lest indignation arise against the children of Israel.

6 I have given you your brothers the Levites from the midst of the children of Israel and delivered them as a gift to the Lord, to serve in the ministries of his tabernacle.

7 But you and your sons guard your priesthood. Everything pertaining to the altar's worship and within the veil shall be administered by priests. If any outsider approaches, he shall be killed.”

8 The Lord spoke to Aaron: “Look, I have given you custody of my firstfruits. Everything made holy by the children of Israel I have delivered to you and your sons for the priestly office as everlasting ordinances.

9 Therefore you shall receive these from the things made holy and offered to the Lord: every offering and sacrifice and whatever is rendered to me for sin and offense and falls among the Holy of Holies shall belong to you and your sons.

10 You shall eat it in the sanctuary; only males shall eat from it, because it is consecrated to you.

11 But the firstfruits which the children of Israel vow and offer I have given to you, your sons, and your daughters by perpetual right; whoever is clean in your house shall eat them.

12 All the marrow of oil, wine, and grain—whatever they offer as firstfruits to the Lord—I have given to you.

13 All the first things of the produce which the ground brings forth and which are carried to the Lord shall fall to your use; whoever is clean in your house shall eat them.

14 Everything the children of Israel render by vow shall be yours.

15 Whatever first breaks forth from the womb of all flesh, which they offer to the Lord, whether human or livestock, shall belong by right to you, but only so that you receive a price for the human firstborn and cause every unclean animal to be redeemed.

16 Its redemption after one month shall be five shekels of silver by the sanctuary's weight. A shekel has twenty obols.

17 But you shall not cause the firstborn of ox, sheep, or goat to be redeemed, because they are made holy to the Lord. You shall pour their blood upon the altar and burn the fat as a most sweet fragrance to the Lord.

18 But the flesh shall fall to your use, just as the consecrated breast and right shoulder shall be yours.

19 All the firstfruits of the sanctuary which the children of Israel offer to the Lord I have given to you, your sons, and your daughters by perpetual right. It is an everlasting pact of salt before the Lord for you and your sons.”

20 The Lord said to Aaron, “You shall possess nothing in their land and have no portion among them; I am your portion and inheritance in the midst of the children of Israel.

21 But to the sons of Levi I have given all the tithes of Israel as a possession for the ministry by which they serve me in the tabernacle of the covenant,

22 so that the children of Israel may no longer approach the tabernacle and commit a deadly sin,

23 while only the sons of Levi serve me in the tabernacle and bear the people's sins. It shall be an everlasting ordinance throughout your generations. They shall possess nothing else,

24 content with the offering of tithes which I separated for their uses and necessities.”

25 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

26 “Command the Levites and announce to them: When you receive from the children of Israel the tithes I gave you, offer their firstfruits to the Lord—that is, a tenth part of the tithe—

27 so that it may be reckoned to you as an offering of first things, both from threshing floors and winepresses.

28 From all whose firstfruits you receive, offer to the Lord and give to Aaron the priest.

29 Everything you offer from the tithes and separate as the Lord's gifts shall be the best and chosen.

30 You shall say to them: ‘If you offer each excellent and better thing from the tithes, it shall be reckoned to you as though you gave firstfruits from the threshing floor and winepress.

31 You and your families shall eat them in all your places, because it is the price for the ministry by which you serve in the tabernacle of testimony.

32 You shall not sin concerning this by reserving the choice and rich portions for yourselves, lest you pollute the offerings of the children of Israel and die.’”

CHAPTER 19

1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

2 “This is the observance of the victim which the Lord established. Command the children of Israel to bring you a red cow of full age, in which there is no blemish and which has not borne a yoke.

3 You shall deliver it to Eleazar the priest, who shall lead it outside the camp and slaughter it in everyone's sight.

4 Dipping his finger in its blood, he shall sprinkle it opposite the tabernacle's doors seven times.

5 He shall burn it while all see, delivering its skin, flesh, blood, and dung to the flames.

6 The priest shall also cast cedar wood, hyssop, and twice-dyed scarlet into the flame devouring the cow.

7 Only then, after washing his garments and body, shall he enter the camp; he shall be stained until evening.

8 The one who burned it shall also wash his garments and body and be unclean until evening.

9 A clean man shall gather the cow's ashes and pour them outside the camp in a most clean place, that they may be kept for the multitude of the children of Israel as water of sprinkling, because the cow was burned for sin.

10 When the one who carried the cow's ashes has washed his garments, he shall be unclean until evening. The children of Israel and strangers living among them shall have this as holy by perpetual right.

11 Whoever touches a human corpse and because of this is unclean seven days

12 shall be sprinkled from this water on the third and seventh day, and thus be cleansed. If he was not sprinkled on the third day, he cannot be cleansed on the seventh.

13 Everyone who touches the dead body of a human soul and is not sprinkled with this mixture shall pollute the Lord's tabernacle and perish from Israel. Because he was not sprinkled with the water of expiation, he shall be unclean and his filth shall remain upon him.

14 This is the law of a person who dies in a tent: all who enter his tent and all the vessels there shall be polluted seven days.

15 A vessel having no cover or binding above it shall be unclean.

16 If anyone in a field touches the corpse of a slain person or one who died by himself, or his bone or grave, he shall be unclean seven days.

17 They shall take some ashes of the burning and sin and pour living waters over them in a vessel.

18 When a clean person has dipped hyssop in them, he shall sprinkle from it the whole tent, all its furnishings, and the people polluted by contamination of this kind.

19 In this manner the clean person shall purify the unclean on the third and seventh day. Having been expiated on the seventh day, he shall wash himself and his garments and be unclean until evening.

20 If anyone is not expiated by this rite, his soul shall perish from the midst of the assembly, because he polluted the Lord's sanctuary and was not sprinkled with water of purification.

21 This shall be an everlasting lawful command. The one who sprinkles the waters shall also wash his garments. Everyone who touches the waters of expiation shall be unclean until evening.

22 Whatever the unclean person touches he shall make unclean, and the soul who touches any of these things shall be unclean until evening.”

CHAPTER 20

1 The children of Israel and the whole multitude came into the wilderness of Zin in the first month, and the people remained in Kadesh. Mary died there and was buried in the same place.

2 When the people lacked water, they gathered against Moses and Aaron.

3 Turning to sedition, they said, “Would that we had perished among our brothers before the Lord.

4 Why did you lead the Lord's assembly into the wilderness, so that both we and our animals might die?

5 Why did you make us ascend from Egypt and lead us into this most evil place, which cannot be sown, which produces neither fig, vines, nor pomegranates, and besides has no water to drink?”

6 Moses and Aaron left the multitude and entered the tabernacle of the covenant. They fell prone upon the ground and cried to the Lord, saying, “Lord God, hear the cry of this people and open to them your treasure, a fountain of living water, that when they are satisfied their murmuring may cease.” The Lord's glory appeared over them.

7 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

8 “Take the staff and gather the people, you and your brother Aaron. Speak to the rock before them, and it shall give waters. When you have brought water out of the rock, the whole multitude and its animals shall drink.”

9 Therefore Moses took the staff which was in the Lord's sight, as he had commanded him.

10 When the multitude was gathered before the rock, he said to them, “Hear, rebels and unbelievers: shall we be able to cast water out of this rock for you?”

11 When Moses had raised his hand and struck the flint twice with the staff, most abundant waters went out, so that the people and animals drank.

12 The Lord said to Moses and Aaron, “Because you did not believe me so as to make me holy before the children of Israel, you shall not lead these peoples into the land I shall give them.”

13 This is the water of Contradiction, where the children of Israel quarreled against the Lord and he was made holy among them.

14 Meanwhile Moses sent messengers from Kadesh to the king of Edom, who said, “Your brother Israel sends these words: You know all the labor that seized us,

15 how our fathers descended into Egypt, we lived there a long time, and the Egyptians afflicted us and our fathers;

16 and how we cried to the Lord, and he heard us and sent an angel who brought us out of Egypt. Look, we are now situated in the city of Kadesh at the extremity of your borders.

17 We beg that we may pass through your land. We shall not go through fields or vineyards or drink water from your wells, but shall walk on the public way, turning neither right nor left until we pass your borders.”

18 Edom answered, “You shall not pass through me, or else I shall meet you armed.”

19 The children of Israel said, “We shall walk by the beaten road; and if we or our livestock drink your waters, we shall give what is just. There shall be no difficulty concerning the price; only let us pass quickly.”

20 But he answered, “You shall not pass.” Immediately he went out to meet them with an innumerable multitude and a strong hand.

21 He refused to yield to their plea and grant passage through his borders. Therefore Israel turned away from him.

22 When they moved camp from Kadesh, they came to Mount Hor, on the borders of Edom's land.

23 There the Lord spoke to Moses:

24 “Let Aaron go to his peoples, for he shall not enter the land I gave to the children of Israel, because he was unbelieving toward my mouth at the waters of Contradiction.

25 Take Aaron and his son with him and lead them onto Mount Hor.

26 When you strip the father of his garment, clothe Eleazar his son with it; Aaron shall be gathered and die there.”

27 Moses did as the Lord commanded, and they ascended Mount Hor before the whole multitude.

28 When he had stripped Aaron of his garments, he clothed Eleazar his son with them.

29 When Aaron died upon the mountain's summit, Moses descended with Eleazar.

30 Seeing that Aaron had died, the whole multitude wept over him for thirty days throughout all their families.

CHAPTER 21

1 When the Canaanite king of Arad, who lived in the south, heard that Israel had come by the way of the explorers, he fought against him and, being victorious, took plunder from him.

2 But Israel bound himself to the Lord by a vow, saying, “If you deliver this people into my hand, I shall destroy its cities.”

3 The Lord heard Israel's prayers and delivered the Canaanite, whom Israel killed after overthrowing his cities; and he called the name of that place Hormah—that is, Anathema.

4 They departed from Mount Hor by the way leading to the Red Sea, to go around the land of Edom. The people began to weary of the journey and labor.

5 Speaking against God and Moses, they said, “Why did you lead us out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? Bread is lacking; there are no waters; our soul now loathes this very light food.”

6 Therefore the Lord sent fiery serpents among the people; at their wounds and the deaths of very many,

7 they came to Moses and said, “We have sinned, because we spoke against the Lord and you. Pray that he take the serpents from us.” Moses prayed for the people,

8 and the Lord spoke to him: “Make a bronze serpent and place it as a sign; whoever is struck and looks upon it shall live.”

9 Therefore Moses made a bronze serpent and placed it as a sign. When those who were struck looked upon it, they were healed.

10 The children of Israel departed and camped at Oboth.

11 Going out from there, they pitched tents at Iye-Abarim, in the wilderness facing Moab toward the eastern side.

12 Moving from there, they came to the Torrent Zered.

13 Leaving it, they camped opposite the Arnon, which is in the wilderness and projects into the borders of the Amorite. For the Arnon is the boundary of Moab, dividing the Moabites and Amorites.

14 Therefore it is said in the Book of the Wars of the Lord: “As he did in the Red Sea, so shall he do in the torrents of the Arnon.

15 The cliffs of the torrents bent down, that they might rest in Ar and recline within the borders of the Moabites.”

16 From that place appeared the well concerning which the Lord spoke to Moses: “Gather the people, and I shall give them water.”

17 Then Israel sang this song: “Let the well rise.” They sang together:

18 “The well which the leaders dug and the commanders of the multitude prepared, in the lawgiver and with their staffs.” From the wilderness, to Mattanah;

19 from Mattanah to Nahaliel; from Nahaliel to Bamoth;

20 from Bamoth to the valley in the region of Moab, at the summit of Pisgah, which looks toward the desert.

21 Israel sent messengers to Sihon king of the Amorites, saying,

22 “I beg that I may pass through your land. We shall not turn into fields or vineyards or drink water from wells; we shall walk by the royal way until we pass your borders.”

23 He refused to allow Israel to pass through his borders. Rather, gathering an army, he went out to meet him in the wilderness, came to Jahaz, and fought against him.

24 Israel struck him by the edge of the sword and possessed his land from the Arnon to the Jabbok and the sons of Ammon, because the Ammonites' borders were held by a strong guard.

25 Therefore Israel took all his cities and lived in the cities of the Amorite, namely Heshbon and its villages.

26 Heshbon was the city of Sihon king of the Amorites, who fought against the king of Moab and took all the land that had been under his rule as far as the Arnon.

27 Therefore it is said in the proverb: “Come into Heshbon; let the city of Sihon be built and constructed.

28 Fire went out from Heshbon, a flame from the town of Sihon, and devoured Ar of the Moabites and the inhabitants of the heights of the Arnon.

29 Woe to you, Moab! You have perished, people of Chemosh. He gave his sons into flight and his daughters into captivity to Sihon king of the Amorites.

30 Their yoke perished from Heshbon as far as Dibon; weary, they reached Nophah and as far as Medeba.”

31 Thus Israel lived in the land of the Amorite.

32 Moses sent men to explore Jazer; they took its villages and possessed its inhabitants.

33 They turned and went up by the way of Bashan, and Og king of Bashan came to meet them with all his people to fight at Edrei.

34 The Lord said to Moses, “Do not fear him, because I have delivered him, all his people, and his land into your hand. You shall do to him as you did to Sihon king of the Amorites, inhabitant of Heshbon.”

35 Therefore they struck him with his sons and all his people to annihilation and possessed his land.

CHAPTER 22

1 They departed and camped in the plains of Moab, where Jericho lies beyond the Jordan.

2 Balak son of Zippor saw everything Israel had done to the Amorite,

3 and that the Moabites greatly feared him and could not bear his assault.

4 He said to the elders of Midian, “This people shall destroy everyone living within our borders as an ox usually plucks grass to the roots.” He was king in Moab at that time.

5 Therefore he sent messengers to Balaam son of Beor, a diviner who lived by the river in the land of the sons of Ammon, to call him and say, “Look, a people has gone out from Egypt, covered the surface of the earth, and settled opposite me.

6 Therefore come and curse this people, because it is stronger than I, if perhaps I may be able to strike and cast it from my land. For I know that whoever you bless is blessed, and whoever you heap curses upon is cursed.”

7 The elders of Moab and Midian departed with the price of divination in their hands. When they came to Balaam and told him all Balak's words,

8 he answered, “Remain here tonight, and I shall answer whatever the Lord tells me.” While they remained with Balaam, God came and said to him,

9 “What do these men want with you?”

10 He answered, “Balak son of Zippor, king of the Moabites, sent to me,

11 saying, ‘Look, the people who went out from Egypt covered the surface of the earth. Come and curse them, if perhaps I may be able to fight and drive them away.’”

12 God said to Balaam, “Do not go with them or curse the people, because they are blessed.”

13 Rising in the morning, he said to the leaders, “Go into your land, because the Lord has forbidden me to come with you.”

14 The leaders returned and said to Balak, “Balaam refused to come with us.”

15 Again he sent far more and nobler men than he had sent before.

16 When they came to Balaam, they said, “Thus says Balak son of Zippor: Do not delay coming to me.

17 I am prepared to honor you and shall give whatever you wish. Come and curse this people.”

18 Balaam answered, “If Balak gave me his house full of silver and gold, I could not change the word of the Lord my God to speak either more or less.

19 I beg that you remain here this night also, so that I may know what the Lord answers me again.”

20 Therefore God came to Balaam at night and said to him, “If these men came to call you, rise and go with them, but only so that you do what I command you.”

21 Balaam rose in the morning, saddled his female donkey, and departed with them.

22 God became angry. The Lord's angel stood in the way against Balaam, who sat upon the donkey and had two servants with him.

23 Seeing the angel standing in the way with a drawn sword, the donkey turned from the road and went through the field. When Balaam beat her and wished to return her to the path, 24 the angel stood in the narrow place between two stone walls surrounding vineyards.

25 Seeing him, the donkey pressed herself against the wall and crushed the rider's foot. He beat her again.

26 Nevertheless the angel moved to a narrow place where there was no room to turn right or left and stood in the way.

27 When the donkey saw the angel standing, she collapsed beneath the rider's feet. Angry, he struck her sides more violently with a staff.

28 The Lord opened the donkey's mouth, and she said, “What have I done to you? Why have you now struck me a third time?”

29 Balaam answered, “Because you deserved it and mocked me. Would that I had a sword, so that I might strike you!”

30 The donkey said, “Am I not your animal, upon whom you have always been accustomed to sit until this present day? Tell me, have I ever done anything like this to you?” He said, “Never.”

31 Immediately the Lord opened Balaam's eyes, and he saw the angel standing in the way with a drawn sword and worshiped him prone upon the ground.

32 The angel said to him, “Why have you struck your donkey a third time? I came to oppose you, because your way is perverse and contrary to me.

33 Unless the donkey had turned from the way, giving place to the one resisting, I would have killed you and she would live.”

34 Balaam said, “I have sinned, not knowing that you stood against me. Now, if it displeases you that I go, I shall return.”

35 The angel said, “Go with these men, but take care that you speak nothing except what I command you.” Therefore he went with the leaders.

36 When Balak heard, he went out to meet him in a Moabite town situated at the extremity of the Arnon's borders.

37 He said to Balaam, “I sent messengers to call you. Why did you not come to me immediately? Is it because I am unable to pay a reward for your coming?”

38 He answered, “Look, I am here. Can I speak anything except what God puts in my mouth?”

39 Therefore they traveled together and came to the city at the extremity of his kingdom's borders.

40 When Balak had slaughtered oxen and sheep, he sent gifts to Balaam and the leaders with him.

41 In the morning he led him to the high places of Baal, and he looked upon the outermost part of the people.

CHAPTER 23

1 Balaam said to Balak, “Build seven altars for me here and prepare the same number of calves and rams.”

2 When he had done according to Balaam's word, they placed a calf and ram together upon each altar.

3 Balaam said to Balak, “Stand a little while beside your burnt offering until I go, if perhaps the Lord will meet me; whatever he commands, I shall speak to you.”

4 When he had gone quickly, God met him. Balaam spoke to him: “I have raised seven altars and placed a calf and ram above each.”

5 The Lord put a word in his mouth and said, “Return to Balak and speak these things.”

6 Returning, he found Balak and all the leaders of the Moabites standing beside his burnt offering.

7 Taking up his parable, he said: “Balak, king of the Moabites, brought me from Aram, from the mountains of the east: ‘Come,’ he said, ‘and curse Jacob; hasten and detest Israel.’

8 How shall I curse one whom God has not cursed? By what reason shall I detest one whom the Lord does not detest?

9 From the highest flints I shall see him, and from the hills I shall behold him. The people shall live alone and shall not be reckoned among the nations.

10 Who can number the dust of Jacob and know the number of Israel's stock? May my soul die the death of the just, and may my last things become like theirs.”

11 Balak said to Balaam, “What is this you are doing? I called you to curse my enemies, and you, on the contrary, bless them.”

12 He answered, “Can I speak anything except what the Lord commands?”

13 Therefore Balak said, “Come with me to another place from which you may see part of Israel but cannot see all of it; curse him from there.”

14 When he had led him to a high place upon the summit of Mount Pisgah, Balaam built seven altars and placed a calf and ram upon each.

15 He said to Balak, “Stand here beside your burnt offering until I go to meet him.”

16 When the Lord met him and put a word in his mouth, he said, “Return to Balak and speak these things to him.”

17 Returning, he found him and the leaders of the Moabites standing beside his burnt offering. Balak said, “What has the Lord spoken?”

18 Taking up his parable, he said: “Stand, Balak, and listen; hear, son of Zippor.

19 God is not like a human, that he should lie, nor like a son of man, that he should change. Therefore, has he said and will not do? Has he spoken and will not fulfill?

20 I was brought to bless; I am unable to prevent the blessing.

21 There is no idol in Jacob, nor is an image seen in Israel. The Lord his God is with him, and the signal of the king's victory is in him.

22 God brought him out of Egypt; his strength is like that of the rhinoceros.

23 There is no augury in Jacob or divination in Israel. At their times Jacob and Israel shall be told what God has wrought.

24 Look, the people shall rise like a lioness and be lifted like a lion. It shall not lie down until it devours prey and drinks the blood of the slain.”

25 Balak said to Balaam, “Neither curse him nor bless him.”

26 He said, “Did I not tell you that whatever God commanded me, this I would do?”

27 Balak said to him, “Come, and I shall lead you to another place, if perhaps it pleases God that you curse them from there.”

28 When he had led him to the summit of Mount Peor, which looks toward the wilderness,

29 Balaam said to him, “Build seven altars for me here and prepare the same number of calves and rams.”

30 Balak did as Balaam had said and placed calves and rams upon each altar.

CHAPTER 24

1 When Balaam saw that it pleased the Lord to bless Israel, he did not go as before to seek augury, but directed his face toward the wilderness.

2 Raising his eyes, he saw Israel living in tents by its tribes; and when the Spirit of God rushed upon him,

3 taking up his parable, he said: “Balaam son of Beor has spoken; the man whose eye is stopped has spoken;

4 the hearer of God's words has spoken, who beheld a vision of the Almighty, who falls and thus his eyes are opened.

5 How beautiful are your tabernacles, Jacob, and your tents, Israel!

6 Like wooded valleys, like gardens irrigated beside rivers, like tabernacles the Lord has pitched, like cedars near waters.

7 Water shall flow from his bucket, and his seed shall be in many waters. Because of Agag his king shall be raised, and his kingdom shall be taken away.

8 God brought him out of Egypt; his strength is like that of the rhinoceros. They shall devour the nations that are his enemies, break their bones, and pierce them with arrows.

9 Lying down, he slept like a lion and like a lioness whom no one shall dare awaken. Whoever blesses you shall himself be blessed; whoever curses shall be reckoned in a curse.”

10 Balak became angry against Balaam and, clapping his hands, said, “I called you to curse my enemies, whom, on the contrary, you have blessed three times.

11 Return to your place. I had determined to honor you magnificently, but the Lord has deprived you of the appointed honor.”

12 Balaam answered Balak, “Did I not say to your messengers whom you sent me,

13 ‘If Balak gave me his house full of silver and gold, I could not pass beyond the word of the Lord my God to bring forth anything good or evil from my own heart; but whatever the Lord says, this I shall speak’?

14 Nevertheless, as I go to my people, I shall give counsel concerning what your people shall do to this people at the last time.”

15 Therefore, taking up his parable, he said again: “Balaam son of Beor has spoken; the man whose eye is stopped has spoken;

16 the hearer of God's words has spoken, who knows the teaching of the Most High and sees visions of the Almighty, who, falling, has his eyes open.

17 I shall see him, but not now; I shall behold him, but not near. A star shall arise from Jacob, and a rod shall rise from Israel. It shall strike the leaders of Moab and lay waste all the sons of Seth.

18 Edom shall be his possession; the inheritance of Seir shall fall to its enemies, but Israel shall act valiantly.

19 From Jacob shall come one who rules and destroys the remnants of the city.”

20 When he saw Amalek, taking up his parable, he said: “Amalek, the beginning of the nations, whose last things shall perish.”

21 He also saw the Kenite and, taking up his parable, said: “Your dwelling is indeed strong; but if you place your nest in the rock

22 and are chosen from the stock of Ken, how long can you remain? For Asshur shall take you.”

23 Taking up his parable, he spoke again: “Alas! Who shall live when God does these things?

24 They shall come in triremes from Italy, overcome the Assyrians, lay waste the Hebrews, and at last they too shall perish.”

25 Balaam rose and returned to his place; Balak also returned by the way he had come.

CHAPTER 25

1 At that time Israel was staying in Shittim, and the people committed fornication with the daughters of Moab,

2 who called them to their sacrifices. They ate and adored their gods.

3 Israel was initiated into Baal-Peor, and the Lord became angry.

4 He said to Moses, “Take all the leaders of the people and hang them upon gibbets before the sun, so that my fury may be turned away from Israel.”

5 Moses said to the judges of Israel, “Let each one kill his neighbors who were initiated into Baal-Peor.”

6 And behold, one of the children of Israel entered before his brothers to a Midianite prostitute, while Moses and the whole multitude of the children of Israel watched and wept before the doors of the tabernacle.

7 When Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, saw this, he rose from the midst of the multitude and took a dagger.

8 Following the Israelite man into the brothel, he pierced them both together—the man and the woman in their genital places. And the plague ceased from the children of Israel.

9 Twenty-four thousand people were killed.

10 The Lord said to Moses,

11 “Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, turned my anger away from the children of Israel, because he was moved with my zeal against them, so that I myself did not destroy the children of Israel in my zeal.

12 Therefore speak to him: Behold, I give him the peace of my covenant,

13 and both he and his seed shall have a pact of everlasting priesthood, because he was zealous for his God and expiated the crime of the children of Israel.”

14 The name of the Israelite man who was killed with the Midianite woman was Zimri son of Salu, a leader from the kindred and tribe of Simeon.

15 The Midianite woman who was killed with him was called Cozbi daughter of Zur, a most noble prince of the Midianites.

16 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

17 “Let the Midianites feel you as enemies, and strike them,

18 because they too acted against you as enemies and deceived you by their snares through the idol Peor and through Cozbi, the daughter of a prince of Midian, their sister, who was struck down on the day of the plague for the sacrilege of Peor.”

CHAPTER 26

1 After the blood of the guilty had been poured out, the Lord said to Moses and Eleazar son of Aaron the priest,

2 “Number the entire sum of the children of Israel from twenty years old and upward, by their houses and kindreds, all who are able to go forth to war.”

3 Therefore Moses and Eleazar the priest spoke on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan, opposite Jericho, to those who were

4 twenty years old and upward, as the Lord had commanded. This is their number.

5 Reuben was Israel’s firstborn. His son was Hanoch, from whom came the family of the Hanochites; and Pallu, from whom came the family of the Palluites;

6 and Hezron, from whom came the family of the Hezronites; and Carmi, from whom came the family of the Carmites.

7 These are the families from the stock of Reuben. Their number was found to be forty-three thousand seven hundred thirty.

8 The son of Pallu was Eliab.

9 His sons were Nemuel, Dathan, and Abiram. These are Dathan and Abiram, leaders of the people, who rose against Moses and Aaron in the sedition of Korah, when they rebelled against the Lord.

10 The earth opened its mouth and devoured Korah, while many died, when fire consumed two hundred fifty men. And a great miracle occurred:

11 although Korah perished, his sons did not perish.

12 The sons of Simeon by their kindreds were Nemuel, from whom came the family of the Nemuelites; Jamin, from whom came the family of the Jaminites; Jachin, from whom came the family of the Jachinites;

13 Zerah, from whom came the family of the Zerahites; and Saul, from whom came the family of the Saulites.

14 These are the families from the stock of Simeon. Their whole number was twenty-two thousand two hundred.

15 The sons of Gad by their kindreds were Zephon, from whom came the family of the Zephonites; Haggi, from whom came the family of the Haggites; Shuni, from whom came the family of the Shunites;

16 Ozni, from whom came the family of the Oznites; Eri, from whom came the family of the Erites;

17 Arod, from whom came the family of the Arodites; and Ariel, from whom came the family of the Arielites.

18 These are the families of Gad. Their whole number was forty thousand five hundred.

19 The sons of Judah were Er and Onan, both of whom died in the land of Canaan.

20 The sons of Judah by their kindreds were Shelah, from whom came the family of the Shelanites; Perez, from whom came the family of the Perezites; and Zerah, from whom came the family of the Zerahites.

21 The sons of Perez were Hezron, from whom came the family of the Hezronites; and Hamul, from whom came the family of the Hamulites.

22 These are the families of Judah. Their whole number was seventy-six thousand five hundred.

23 The sons of Issachar by their kindreds were Tola, from whom came the family of the Tolaites; Puah, from whom came the family of the Puahites;

24 Jashub, from whom came the family of the Jashubites; and Shimron, from whom came the family of the Shimronites.

25 These are the kindreds of Issachar. Their number was sixty-four thousand three hundred.

26 The sons of Zebulun by their kindreds were Sered, from whom came the family of the Seredites; Elon, from whom came the family of the Elonites; and Jahleel, from whom came the family of the Jahleelites.

27 These are the kindreds of Zebulun. Their number was sixty thousand five hundred.

28 The sons of Joseph by their kindreds were Manasseh and Ephraim.

29 From Manasseh arose Machir, from whom came the family of the Machirites. Machir fathered Gilead, from whom came the family of the Gileadites.

30 Gilead had sons: Iezer, from whom came the family of the Iezerites; Helek, from whom came the family of the Helekites;

31 Asriel, from whom came the family of the Asrielites; Shechem, from whom came the family of the Shechemites;

32 Shemida, from whom came the family of the Shemidaites; and Hepher, from whom came the family of the Hepherites.

33 Hepher was the father of Zelophehad, who had no sons but only daughters. Their names were Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

34 These are the families of Manasseh, and their number was fifty-two thousand seven hundred.

35 The sons of Ephraim by their kindreds were these: Shuthelah, from whom came the family of the Shuthelahites; Becher, from whom came the family of the Becherites; and Tahan, from whom came the family of the Tahanites.

36 The son of Shuthelah was Eran, from whom came the family of the Eranites.

37 These are the kindreds of the sons of Ephraim. Their number was thirty-two thousand five hundred.

38 These are the sons of Joseph by their families. The sons of Benjamin by their kindreds were Bela, from whom came the family of the Belaites; Ashbel, from whom came the family of the Ashbelites; Ahiram, from whom came the family of the Ahiramites;

39 Shupham, from whom came the family of the Shuphamites; and Hupham, from whom came the family of the Huphamites.

40 The sons of Bela were Ard and Naaman. From Ard came the family of the Ardites; from Naaman, the family of the Naamites.

41 These are the sons of Benjamin by their kindreds. Their number was forty-five thousand six hundred.

42 The sons of Dan by their kindreds were Shuham, from whom came the family of the Shuhamites. These are the kindreds of Dan by their families.

43 All were Shuhamites, whose number was sixty-four thousand four hundred.

44 The sons of Asher by their kindreds were Imnah, from whom came the family of the Imnaites; Ishvi, from whom came the family of the Ishvites; and Beriah, from whom came the family of the Beriites.

45 The sons of Beriah were Heber, from whom came the family of the Heberites; and Malchiel, from whom came the family of the Malchielites.

46 The name of Asher’s daughter was Sarah.

47 These are the kindreds of the sons of Asher, and their number was fifty-three thousand four hundred.

48 The sons of Naphtali by their kindreds were Jahzeel, from whom came the family of the Jahzeelites; Guni, from whom came the family of the Gunites;

49 Jezer, from whom came the family of the Jezerites; and Shillem, from whom came the family of the Shillemites.

50 These are the kindreds of the sons of Naphtali by their families. Their number was forty-five thousand four hundred.

51 This is the sum of the children of Israel who were counted: six hundred one thousand seven hundred thirty.

52 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

53 “The land shall be divided among these as their possessions according to the number of names.

54 To the more numerous you shall give a greater portion, and to the fewer a smaller one. To each, according as they have now been counted, possession shall be delivered, 55 yet only in such a way that the lot divides the land among tribes and families.

56 Whatever falls by lot, that shall either the more numerous or the fewer receive.”

57 This also is the number of the sons of Levi by their families: Gershon, from whom came the family of the Gershonites; Kohath, from whom came the family of the Kohathites; and Merari, from whom came the family of the Merarites.

58 These are the families of Levi: the family of Libni, the family of Hebron, the family of Mahli, the family of Mushi, and the family of Korah. Now Kohath fathered Amram, 59 who had as his wife Jochebed daughter of Levi, who was born to him in Egypt. She bore to her husband Amram the sons Aaron and Moses, and Mary their sister.

60 From Aaron arose Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

61 Nadab and Abihu died when they offered foreign fire before the Lord.

62 All who were numbered were twenty-three thousand males from one month old and upward, because they were not counted among the children of Israel, nor was possession given to them with the others.

63 This is the number of the children of Israel who were enrolled by Moses and Eleazar the priest on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan, opposite Jericho.

64 Among them was none of those who had previously been numbered by Moses and Aaron in the wilderness of Sinai,

65 for the Lord had foretold that they would all die in the wilderness. None of them remained except Caleb son of Jephunneh and Joshua son of Nun.

CHAPTER 27

1 Then the daughters of Zelophehad approached. He was the son of Hepher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, who was the son of Joseph. Their names were Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

2 They stood before Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the leaders of the people at the entrance of the tabernacle of covenant, and said,

3 “Our father died in the wilderness. He was not in the sedition that was stirred against the Lord under Korah, but died in his own sin. He had no male sons. Why should his name be taken away from his family because he had no son? Give us a possession among our father’s kindred.”

4 Moses brought their case to the judgment of the Lord,

5 who said to him,

6 “The daughters of Zelophehad ask a just thing. Give them possession among their father’s kindred, and let them succeed him in the inheritance.

7 You shall also speak these things to the children of Israel:

8 When a man dies without a son, the inheritance shall pass to his daughter.

9 If he has no daughter, his brothers shall be his successors.

10 But if there are no brothers either, you shall give the inheritance to his father’s brothers.

11 If he has no paternal uncles, the inheritance shall be given to those nearest to him. This shall be sacred to the children of Israel as a perpetual law, just as the Lord commanded Moses.”

12 The Lord also said to Moses, “Ascend this mountain Abarim, and from there behold the land that I am going to give to the children of Israel.

13 When you have seen it, you too shall go to your people, as your brother Aaron went,

14 because you offended me in the wilderness of Zin, in the multitude’s contradiction, and would not sanctify me before them over the waters. These are the Waters of Contradiction at Kadesh in the wilderness of Zin.”

15 Moses answered him,

16 “May the Lord, the God of the spirits of all flesh, provide a man to be over this multitude,

17 who may go out and come in before them and lead them out or bring them in, lest the Lord’s people be like sheep without a shepherd.”

18 The Lord said to him, “Take Joshua son of Nun, a man in whom the spirit is, and place your hand upon him.

19 He shall stand before Eleazar the priest and the whole multitude.

20 In the sight of all, you shall give him commands and a portion of your glory, so that the entire assembly of the children of Israel may hear him.

21 On his behalf, if anything must be done, Eleazar the priest shall consult the Lord. At his word Joshua shall go out and come in, and all the children of Israel with him, and the rest of the multitude.”

22 Moses did as the Lord had commanded. When he had taken Joshua, he set him before Eleazar the priest and the whole gathering of the people.

23 Laying his hands upon Joshua’s head, he repeated everything the Lord had commanded.

CHAPTER 28

1 The Lord also said to Moses,

2 “Command the children of Israel and say to them: Offer my oblation, my breads, and the incense of most sweet fragrance at their appointed times.

3 These are the sacrifices you must offer: two year-old lambs without blemish every day as an everlasting burnt offering.

4 You shall offer one in the morning and the other in the evening,

5 with a tenth part of an ephah of fine flour mixed with the purest oil, measuring a fourth part of a hin.

6 It is the continual burnt offering that you offered on Mount Sinai as the most sweet fragrance of the Lord’s incense.

7 For each lamb you shall pour out a fourth part of a hin of wine in the sanctuary of the Lord.

8 You shall likewise offer the other lamb in the evening, according to the whole rite of the morning sacrifice and its libations, an oblation of most sweet fragrance to the Lord.

9 On the Sabbath day you shall offer two year-old lambs without blemish, two tenths of fine flour mixed with oil as a sacrifice, and the libations

10 that are duly poured out each Sabbath as an everlasting burnt offering.

11 On the first days of the months you shall offer a burnt offering to the Lord: two calves from the herd, one ram, and seven year-old lambs without blemish;

12 and for the sacrifice of each calf, three tenths of fine flour mixed with oil; and for each ram, two tenths of fine flour mixed with oil;

13 and for each lamb, a tenth of a tenth of fine flour with oil as a sacrifice. It is a burnt offering of most sweet fragrance and incense to the Lord.

14 These shall be the libations of wine to be poured out for each victim: half a hin for each calf, a third for a ram, and a fourth for a lamb. This shall be the burnt offering for all the months that follow one another as the year turns.

15 A he-goat shall also be offered to the Lord for sins, with its libations, in addition to the everlasting burnt offering.

16 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, shall be the Passover of the Lord,

17 and on the fifteenth day, the solemnity. For seven days they shall eat unleavened bread.

18 The first of these days shall be venerable and holy; you shall do no servile work in it.

19 You shall offer as incense a burnt offering to the Lord: two calves from the herd, one ram, and seven year-old lambs without blemish.

20 The sacrifices for each shall be of fine flour mixed with oil: three tenths for each calf, and two tenths for the ram,

21 and a tenth of a tenth for each lamb, that is, for each of the seven lambs.

22 And offer one he-goat for sin, that expiation may be made for you,

23 besides the morning burnt offering, which you shall always offer.

24 You shall do this on each of the seven days as fuel for the fire and as a most sweet fragrance to the Lord, which shall rise from the burnt offering and each one’s libations.

25 The seventh day also shall be most celebrated and holy for you; you shall do no servile work in it.

26 The Day of Firstfruits also, when you offer new fruits to the Lord after the weeks have been completed, shall be venerable and holy; you shall do no servile work in it.

27 You shall offer a burnt offering of most sweet fragrance to the Lord: two calves from the herd, one ram, and seven year-old lambs without blemish;

28 and for their sacrifices, three tenths of fine flour mixed with oil for each calf, two tenths for the ram,

29 and a tenth of a tenth for each of the seven lambs. Also offer a he-goat,

30 which is slain for expiation, besides the everlasting burnt offering and its libations.

31 You shall offer them all without blemish, with their libations.”

CHAPTER 29

1 “The first day of the seventh month shall also be venerable and holy for you. You shall do no servile work in it, because it is a day of sounding and of trumpets.

2 You shall offer a burnt offering of most sweet fragrance to the Lord: one calf from the herd, one ram, and seven year-old lambs without blemish;

3 and for their sacrifices, three tenths of fine flour mixed with oil for the calf, two tenths for the ram,

4 and one tenth for each of the seven lambs;

5 and a he-goat for sin, offered for the expiation of the people,

6 besides the burnt offering of the first day of the month with its sacrifices and the everlasting burnt offering with its customary libations. You shall offer them with the same ceremonies as incense of most sweet fragrance to the Lord.

7 The tenth day of this seventh month shall also be holy and venerable for you, and you shall afflict your souls. You shall do no servile work in it.

8 You shall offer a burnt offering of most sweet fragrance to the Lord: one calf from the herd, one ram, and seven year-old lambs without blemish;

9 and for their sacrifices, three tenths of fine flour mixed with oil for the calf, two tenths for the ram,

10 and a tenth of a tenth for each of the seven lambs;

11 and a he-goat for sin, apart from those customarily offered for transgression in expiation, and the everlasting burnt offering with its sacrifice and their libations.

12 On the fifteenth day of the seventh month, which shall be holy and venerable for you, you shall do no servile work, but shall celebrate a solemnity to the Lord for seven days.

13 You shall offer a burnt offering of most sweet fragrance to the Lord: thirteen calves from the herd, two rams, and fourteen year-old lambs without blemish;

14 and for their libations, three tenths of fine flour mixed with oil for each of the thirteen calves, and two tenths for each one ram, that is, for each of the two rams,

15 and a tenth of a tenth for each of the fourteen lambs;

16 and a he-goat for sin, apart from the everlasting burnt offering and its sacrifice and libation.

17 On the second day you shall offer twelve calves from the herd, two rams, and fourteen year-old lambs without blemish.

18 You shall duly perform the sacrifices and libations for each of the calves, rams, and lambs,

19 and offer a he-goat for sin, apart from the everlasting burnt offering and its sacrifice and libation.

20 On the third day you shall offer eleven calves, two rams, and fourteen year-old lambs without blemish.

21 You shall duly perform the sacrifices and libations for each of the calves, rams, and lambs,

22 and offer a he-goat for sin, apart from the everlasting burnt offering and its sacrifice and libation.

23 On the fourth day you shall offer ten calves, two rams, and fourteen year-old lambs without blemish.

24 You shall duly perform the sacrifices and libations for each of the calves, rams, and lambs,

25 and offer a he-goat for sin, apart from the everlasting burnt offering and its sacrifice and libation.

26 On the fifth day you shall offer nine calves, two rams, and fourteen year-old lambs without blemish.

27 You shall duly perform the sacrifices and libations for each of the calves, rams, and lambs,

28 and offer a he-goat for sin, apart from the everlasting burnt offering and its sacrifice and libation.

29 On the sixth day you shall offer eight calves, two rams, and fourteen year-old lambs without blemish.

30 You shall duly perform the sacrifices and libations for each of the calves, rams, and lambs,

31 and offer a he-goat for sin, apart from the everlasting burnt offering and its sacrifice and libation.

32 On the seventh day you shall offer seven calves, two rams, and fourteen year-old lambs without blemish.

33 You shall duly perform the sacrifices and libations for each of the calves, rams, and lambs,

34 and offer a he-goat for sin, apart from the everlasting burnt offering and its sacrifice and libation.

35 On the eighth day, which is most celebrated, you shall do no servile work,

36 offering a burnt offering of most sweet fragrance to the Lord: one calf, one ram, and seven year-old lambs without blemish.

37 You shall duly perform the sacrifices and libations for each of the calves, rams, and lambs,

38 and offer a he-goat for sin, apart from the everlasting burnt offering and its sacrifice and libation.

39 These you shall offer to the Lord at your solemnities, besides your vows and spontaneous oblations as burnt offerings, sacrifices, libations, and peace offerings.”

CHAPTER 30

1 Moses told the children of Israel everything the Lord had commanded him.

2 He spoke to the leaders of the tribes of the children of Israel: “This is the word the Lord has commanded:

3 If any man vows a vow to the Lord or binds himself by an oath, he shall not make his word void, but shall fulfill everything he promised.

4 If a woman in her father’s house, still of maidenly age, vows anything and binds herself by an oath, and her father learns of the vow she promised and the oath by which she bound her soul, and remains silent, she shall be held to her vow.

5 Whatever she promised and swore, she shall fulfill in deed.

6 But if her father contradicts her as soon as he hears, both her vows and her oaths shall be void, and she shall not be held liable for the promise, because her father contradicted it.

7 If she has a husband and vows anything, and a word once issuing from her mouth binds her soul by an oath,

8 then on the day her husband hears it and does not contradict her, she shall be held to the vow and shall render whatever she promised.

9 But if he contradicts her as soon as he hears and makes void her promises and the words by which she bound her soul, the Lord shall be merciful to her.

10 A widow and a divorced woman shall render whatever they vow.

11 If a wife in her husband’s house binds herself by a vow and an oath,

12 and her husband hears and remains silent and does not contradict the promise, she shall render whatever she promised.

13 But if he immediately contradicts it, she shall not be held liable for the promise, because her husband contradicted it, and the Lord shall be merciful to her.

14 If she vows and binds herself by an oath to afflict her soul through fasting or abstinence from other things, it shall be for her husband to decide whether she does it or does not do it.

15 But if her husband hears and remains silent, postponing his decision until another day, she shall render whatever she vowed and promised, because he remained silent as soon as he heard.

16 But if he contradicts it after he has learned of it, he himself shall bear her iniquity.

17 These are the laws the Lord established for Moses between husband and wife and between father and daughter who is still of maidenly age or remains in her parent’s house.”

CHAPTER 31

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “First avenge the children of Israel upon the Midianites, and then you shall be gathered to your people.”

3 Moses immediately said, “Arm men from among you for battle, who may exact the Lord’s vengeance upon the Midianites.

4 Let one thousand men be chosen from each tribe of Israel to be sent to war.”

5 They gave one thousand from each tribe, that is, twelve thousand men equipped for battle.

6 Moses sent them with Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest, and he delivered to him the sacred vessels and the trumpets for sounding.

7 When they had fought against the Midianites and conquered them, they killed all the males,

8 along with their kings: Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, the five princes of the nation. They also killed Balaam son of Beor with the sword.

9 They captured their women and little ones, all their cattle and all their goods; everything they could possess they plundered.

10 They consumed with flame both the cities and the villages and fortresses.

11 They took the spoil and everything they had captured, both people and beasts,

12 and brought them to Moses, Eleazar the priest, and the whole multitude of the children of Israel. They carried the remaining goods to the camp on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan, opposite Jericho.

13 Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the leaders of the assembly went out to meet them beyond the camp.

14 Moses became angry with the leaders of the army, the commanders of thousands and the centurions who had come from the war,

15 and said, “Why have you spared the women?

16 Are these not the ones who, at Balaam’s suggestion, deceived the children of Israel and made you transgress against the Lord in the sin of Peor, from which the people also were struck?

17 Therefore kill everything of the male sex, even among the little ones, and slaughter the women who have known men in intercourse.

18 But preserve for yourselves the young girls and all the female virgins.

19 Remain outside the camp for seven days. Whoever has killed a person or touched one killed shall be cleansed on the third and seventh days.

20 Every spoil—whether a garment, a vessel, anything prepared for use from goatskins or hair, or wood—shall be expiated.”

21 Eleazar the priest also spoke thus to the men of the army who had fought: “This is the commandment of the law that the Lord commanded Moses:

22 gold, silver, bronze, iron, lead, tin,

23 and everything able to pass through flames shall be purified by fire. Whatever cannot endure fire shall be sanctified by the water of expiation.

24 You shall wash your garments on the seventh day, and after being purified you shall enter the camp.”

25 The Lord also said to Moses,

26 “You, Eleazar the priest, and the leaders of the people shall take the sum of what was captured, from people even to livestock.

27 You shall divide the spoil equally between those who fought and went out to war and all the rest of the multitude.

28 From those who fought and were in the war you shall separate a portion for the Lord: one soul out of five hundred, both from the people and from the cattle, donkeys, and sheep.

29 You shall give it to Eleazar the priest, because they are the firstfruits of the Lord.

30 From the half belonging to the children of Israel, you shall also take one head out of fifty—from the people, cattle, donkeys, sheep, and every living creature—and give them to the Levites who keep watch over the tabernacle of the Lord.”

31 Moses and Eleazar did as the Lord had commanded.

32 The spoil the army had captured was six hundred seventy-five thousand sheep,

33 seventy-two thousand cattle,

34 sixty-one thousand donkeys,

35 and thirty-two thousand human souls of the female sex who had not known men.

36 The half portion given to those who had been in battle was three hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep.

37 From these, six hundred seventy-five sheep were reckoned as the Lord’s portion;

38 from thirty-six thousand cattle, seventy-two cattle;

39 from thirty thousand five hundred donkeys, sixty-one donkeys;

40 and from sixteen thousand human souls, thirty-two souls fell to the Lord’s portion.

41 Moses delivered the number of the Lord’s firstfruits to Eleazar the priest, as had been commanded him,

42 from the half portion of the children of Israel that he had separated from those who had been in battle.

43 From the half portion that fell to the rest of the multitude—that is, from three hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep,

44 thirty-six thousand cattle,

45 thirty thousand five hundred donkeys,

46 and sixteen thousand people—

47 Moses took one head out of fifty and gave them to the Levites who kept watch in the tabernacle of the Lord, as the Lord had commanded.

48 The leaders of the army, the commanders of thousands and the centurions, approached Moses and said,

49 “We your servants have counted the warriors whom we had under our hand, and not even one was missing.

50 For this reason we each offer among the Lord’s gifts what we were able to find in the spoil of gold: anklets, bracelets, rings, armlets, and necklaces, so that you may entreat the Lord for us.”

51 Moses and Eleazar the priest received all the gold in its various forms, 52 weighing sixteen thousand seven hundred fifty shekels, from the commanders of thousands and the centurions.

53 For whatever each man had seized in the spoil was his own.

54 They took what they had received into the tabernacle of testimony as a memorial of the children of Israel before the Lord.

CHAPTER 32

1 The children of Reuben and Gad had many cattle, and their substance in beasts was immeasurable. When they saw that the lands of Jazer and Gilead were suited for feeding animals,

2 they came to Moses, Eleazar the priest, and the leaders of the multitude, and said,

3 “Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, Elealeh, Shebam, Nebo, and Beon—

4 the land the Lord struck in the sight of the children of Israel—is a most fertile region for grazing animals, and we your servants have very many beasts.

5 We ask, if we have found grace before you, that you give it to us your servants as a possession and do not make us cross the Jordan.”

6 Moses answered them, “Shall your brothers go to battle while you sit here?

7 Why do you overturn the minds of the children of Israel, so that they dare not cross into the place the Lord is going to give them?

8 Did your fathers not act in this way when I sent them from Kadesh-Barnea to examine the land?

9 When they had come as far as the Valley of the Cluster and surveyed the whole region, they overturned the heart of the children of Israel, so that they would not enter the territory the Lord gave them.

10 In anger he swore, saying,

11 ‘These men who came up from Egypt, from twenty years old and upward, shall not see the land I promised under oath to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, for they were unwilling to follow me,

12 except Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite and Joshua son of Nun. These fulfilled my will.’

13 The Lord became angry against Israel and led them around the wilderness for forty years, until the entire generation that had done evil in his sight was consumed.

14 And behold,” he said, “you have risen in place of your fathers, the increase and offspring of sinful men, to increase the Lord’s fury against Israel.

15 If you are unwilling to follow him, he will abandon the people in the wilderness, and you will be the cause of everyone’s death.”

16 But they drew near and said, “We shall build sheepfolds and stalls for the beasts, and fortified cities for our little ones.

17 We ourselves, armed and girded, shall proceed to battle before the children of Israel until we bring them into their places. Our little ones and everything we possess shall be in walled cities because of the inhabitants’ snares.

18 We shall not return to our homes until the children of Israel possess their inheritance,

19 nor shall we seek anything beyond the Jordan, because we already have our possession on its eastern side.”

20 Moses said to them, “If you do what you promise, go equipped before the Lord to battle,

21 and let every armed warrior cross the Jordan until the Lord overthrows his enemies

22 and all the land is subjected to him. Then you shall be blameless before the Lord and Israel, and you shall possess the regions you desire before the Lord.

23 But if you do not do what you say, no one can doubt that you sin against God; and know that your sin shall overtake you.

24 Therefore build cities for your little ones, and folds and stalls for your sheep and beasts; and fulfill what you have promised.”

25 The children of Gad and Reuben said to Moses, “We are your servants. We shall do what our lord commands.

26 We shall leave our little ones, women, cattle, and beasts in the cities of Gilead,

27 but all we your servants shall go equipped to war, just as you, lord, say.”

28 Therefore Moses commanded Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the leaders of the families throughout the tribes of Israel, saying to them,

29 “If all the children of Gad and Reuben cross the Jordan with you armed for war before the Lord, and the land is subjected to you, give them Gilead as a possession.

30 But if they are unwilling to cross armed with you into the land of Canaan, let them receive places to live among you.”

31 The children of Gad and Reuben answered, “As the Lord has spoken to his servants, so shall we do.

32 We ourselves shall go armed before the Lord into the land of Canaan, and we confess that we have already received our possession beyond the Jordan.”

33 Therefore Moses gave to the children of Gad and Reuben and to the half tribe of Manasseh son of Joseph the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, and their land with its surrounding cities.

34 The children of Gad therefore built Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer,

35 Atroth-Shophan, Jazer, Jogbehah,

36 Beth-Nimrah, and Beth-Haran, fortified cities, with folds for their livestock.

37 The children of Reuben built Heshbon, Elealeh, Kiriathaim,

38 Nebo and Baal-Meon, their names having been changed, and also Sibmah, giving names to the cities they built.

39 The children of Machir son of Manasseh went into Gilead and laid it waste, killing its Amorite inhabitant.

40 Moses therefore gave the land of Gilead to Machir son of Manasseh, who lived in it.

41 Jair son of Manasseh went and occupied its villages, which he called Havoth-Jair, that is, the Villages of Jair.

42 Nobah also went and seized Kenath with its villages, and called it Nobah after his own name.

CHAPTER 33

1 These are the stations of the children of Israel, who went out from Egypt by their companies under the hand of Moses and Aaron.

2 Moses recorded them according to the places of their camps, which they changed at the Lord’s command.

3 Therefore, departing from Rameses in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month—the day after the Passover—the children of Israel went out with uplifted hand while all the Egyptians watched

4 and buried the firstborn whom the Lord had struck, for he had also executed vengeance upon their gods.

5 They camped at Succoth.

6 From Succoth they came to Etham, which is at the farthest boundaries of the wilderness.

7 Departing from there, they came opposite Pi-Hahiroth, which looks toward Baal-Zephon, and camped before Migdol.

8 Departing from Pi-Hahiroth, they passed through the midst of the sea into the wilderness. After walking three days through the wilderness of Etham, they camped at Marah.

9 Departing from Marah, they came to Elim, where there were twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees, and there they camped.

10 Departing even from there, they pitched their tents beside the Red Sea. Departing from the Red Sea, 11 they camped in the wilderness of Sin.

12 Departing from there, they came to Dophkah.

13 Departing from Dophkah, they camped at Alush.

14 Departing from Alush, they pitched their tents at Rephidim, where the people lacked water to drink.

15 Departing from Rephidim, they camped in the wilderness of Sinai.

16 Departing also from the wilderness of Sinai, they came to the Graves of Craving.

17 Departing from the Graves of Craving, they camped at Hazeroth.

18 From Hazeroth they came to Rithmah.

19 Departing from Rithmah, they camped at Rimmon-Perez.

20 Departing from there, they came to Libnah.

21 From Libnah they camped at Rissah.

22 Departing from Rissah, they came to Kehelathah.

23 Departing from there, they camped at Mount Shepher.

24 Departing from Mount Shepher, they came to Haradah.

25 Departing from there, they camped at Makheloth.

26 Departing from Makheloth, they came to Tahath.

27 From Tahath they camped at Terah.

28 Departing from there, they pitched their tents at Mithkah.

29 From Mithkah they camped at Hashmonah.

30 Departing from Hashmonah, they came to Moseroth.

31 From Moseroth they camped at Bene-Jaakan.

32 Departing from Bene-Jaakan, they came to Mount Gidgad.

33 Departing from there, they camped at Jotbathah.

34 From Jotbathah they came to Abronah.

35 Departing from Abronah, they camped at Ezion-Geber.

36 Departing from there, they came to the wilderness of Zin, which is Kadesh.

37 Departing from Kadesh, they camped at Mount Hor, at the farthest boundaries of the land of Edom.

38 At the Lord's command Aaron the priest ascended Mount Hor and died there in the fortieth year after the children of Israel's departure from Egypt, in the fifth month, on the first day of the month, 39 when he was one hundred twenty-three years old.

40 The Canaanite king of Arad, who lived toward the south, heard that the children of Israel had come into the land of Canaan.

41 Departing from Mount Hor, they camped at Zalmonah.

42 Departing from there, they came to Punon.

43 Departing from Punon, they camped at Oboth.

44 From Oboth they came to Iye-Abarim, which is at the borders of the Moabites.

45 Departing from Iye-Abarim, they pitched their tents at Dibon-Gad.

46 Departing from there, they camped at Almon-Diblathaim.

47 Departing from Almon-Diblathaim, they came to the mountains of Abarim opposite Nebo.

48 Departing from the mountains of Abarim, they crossed to the plains of Moab beside the Jordan, opposite Jericho.

49 There they camped from Beth-Jeshimoth as far as Abel-Shittim in the level places of the Moabites.

50 There the Lord spoke to Moses:

51 "Command the children of Israel and say to them: When you cross the Jordan and enter the land of Canaan, 52 destroy all the inhabitants of that land; break their monuments, shatter their statues, and lay waste all their high places.

53 Cleanse the land and dwell in it, for I have given it to you as a possession.

54 You shall divide it among yourselves by lot. To the more numerous you shall give a wider portion and to the few a narrower one. As the lot falls to each, so shall the inheritance be assigned. The possession shall be divided by tribes and families.

55 But if you are unwilling to kill the inhabitants of the land, those who remain shall be like nails in your eyes and spears in your sides, and they shall oppose you in the land of your habitation.

56 Whatever I had thought to do to them, I shall do to you."

CHAPTER 34

1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying,

2 “Command the children of Israel and say to them: When you enter the land of Canaan and it falls to you by lot as a possession, it shall be bounded by these limits.

3 The southern portion shall begin from the wilderness of Zin, which is beside Edom, and shall have the Salt Sea as its eastern boundary.

4 It shall circle the southern region through the Ascent of the Scorpion, so as to pass into Zin and extend from the south as far as Kadesh-Barnea. From there its limits shall go out to a village named Addar and extend as far as Azmon.

5 The boundary shall circle from Azmon as far as the Torrent of Egypt and end at the shore of the Great Sea.

6 The western region shall begin from the Great Sea and be enclosed by that same boundary.

7 On the northern region the boundaries shall begin from the Great Sea and extend as far as the highest mountain,

8 from which they shall come to Hamath as far as the boundaries of Zedad.

9 The limits shall proceed as far as Ziphron and the village of Enan. These shall be the boundaries on the north.

10 From there the boundaries shall be measured toward the eastern region from the village of Enan as far as Shepham.

11 From Shepham the boundaries shall descend to Riblah opposite the spring of Daphni. From there they shall extend eastward to the Sea of Chinnereth,

12 reach as far as the Jordan, and at last be enclosed by the Salt Sea. This land, with its boundaries all around, shall be yours.”

13 Moses commanded the children of Israel, saying, “This shall be the land you possess by lot, which the Lord commanded to be given to the nine tribes and the half tribe.

14 For the tribe of the children of Reuben by their families, the tribe of the children of Gad according to the number of their kindreds, and half the tribe of Manasseh—

15 that is, two and a half tribes—have received their portion beyond the Jordan, opposite Jericho, toward the eastern region.”

16 The Lord said to Moses,

17 “These are the names of the men who shall divide the land for you: Eleazar the priest and Joshua son of Nun,

18 and one leader from each tribe.

19 These are their names: from the tribe of Judah, Caleb son of Jephunneh;

20 from the tribe of Simeon, Samuel son of Ammihud;

21 from the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad son of Chislon;

22 from the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki son of Jogli;

23 from the sons of Joseph, from the tribe of Manasseh, Hanniel son of Ephod;

24 from the tribe of Ephraim, Kemuel son of Shiphtan;

25 from the tribe of Zebulun, Elizaphan son of Parnach;

26 from the tribe of Issachar, the leader Paltiel son of Azzan;

27 from the tribe of Asher, Ahihud son of Shelomi;

28 and from the tribe of Naphtali, Pedahel son of Ammihud.”

29 These are they whom the Lord commanded to divide the land of Canaan among the children of Israel.

CHAPTER 35

1 The Lord also spoke these things to Moses on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan, opposite Jericho:

2 “Command the children of Israel to give the Levites, from their possessions,

3 cities to dwell in, with their suburbs all around, so that they may remain in the towns and the suburbs may be for their cattle and beasts.

4 From the city walls outward, these shall extend all around for the space of one thousand paces.

5 Toward the east there shall be two thousand cubits, and toward the south likewise two thousand. Toward the sea, which faces west, the measure shall be the same, and the northern region shall end at an equal boundary. The cities shall be in the middle, with the suburbs outside.

6 Of the towns you give the Levites, six shall be set apart as refuges for fugitives, so that whoever has shed blood may flee to them; and besides these, another forty-two towns,

7 that is, forty-eight in all, with their suburbs.

8 The cities given from the possessions of the children of Israel shall be taken in greater number from those who have more and in fewer number from those who have less. Each shall give towns to the Levites according to the measure of his inheritance.”

9 The Lord said to Moses,

10 “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: When you have crossed the Jordan into the land of Canaan,

11 determine which cities ought to be refuges for fugitives who have shed blood unwillingly.

12 When a fugitive is in them, the slain person’s kinsman shall be unable to kill him until he stands in the sight of the multitude and his case is judged.

13 Of the cities set apart as refuges for fugitives,

14 three shall be beyond the Jordan and three in the land of Canaan,

15 both for the children of Israel and for newcomers and sojourners, so that whoever has shed blood unwillingly may flee to them.

16 If anyone strikes with iron and the one struck dies, he shall be guilty of murder and shall himself die.

17 If he throws a stone and the one struck falls dead, he shall be punished in the same way.

18 If one struck with wood perishes, he shall be avenged with the striker’s blood.

19 The slain person’s nearest kinsman shall kill the murderer; as soon as he seizes him, he shall kill him.

20 If through hatred anyone pushes a person or treacherously throws anything at him,

21 or, being his enemy, strikes him with his hand and the man dies, the striker shall be guilty of murder. As soon as the slain person’s kinsman finds him, he shall slaughter him.

22 But if by chance and without hatred

23 or enmity he does any of these things,

24 and this is proved in the people’s hearing, and the case between the striker and the kinsman of blood is examined,

25 the innocent shall be delivered from the avenger’s hand and by judgment returned to the city to which he had fled. He shall remain there until the high priest who was anointed with holy oil dies.

26 If the killer is found outside the boundaries of the cities appointed for exiles

27 and is struck by the avenger of blood, the one who kills him shall be without guilt.

28 For the fugitive ought to have remained in the city until the high priest’s death. But after the priest dies, the killer shall return to his own land.

29 These shall be everlasting and lawful ordinances in all your habitations.

30 A murderer shall be punished on the testimony of witnesses; no one shall be condemned on the testimony of one.

31 You shall accept no price from one guilty of blood; he shall immediately die himself.

32 Exiles and fugitives shall by no means be able to return to their cities before the high priest’s death,

33 lest you pollute the land of your habitation, which is stained by the blood of the innocent. It cannot otherwise be expiated except by the blood of the one who shed another's blood.

34 And thus your possession shall be cleansed while I dwell with you, for I am the Lord who dwells among the children of Israel."

CHAPTER 36

1 The leaders of the families of Gilead son of Machir, son of Manasseh, from the stock of the sons of Joseph, approached and spoke to Moses before the leaders of Israel, saying,

2 “The Lord commanded you, our lord, to divide the land by lot among the children of Israel and to give the daughters of our brother Zelophehad the possession owed to their father.

3 If men of another tribe take them as wives, their possession shall follow them and, being transferred to another tribe, shall be diminished from our inheritance.

4 And thus, when the Jubilee—that is, the fiftieth year of remission—arrives, the distribution of lots shall be confounded, and the possession of some shall pass to others.”

5 Moses answered the children of Israel and, at the Lord’s command, said, “The tribe of the sons of Joseph has spoken rightly.

6 This law concerning the daughters of Zelophehad has been promulgated by the Lord: Let them marry whom they wish, provided they marry men of their own tribe,

7 lest the possession of the children of Israel be mingled from tribe to tribe. For all men shall take wives from their own tribe and kindred,

8 and all women shall receive husbands from the same tribe, so that the inheritance may remain in the families

9 and the tribes may not be mingled with one another, but may remain

10 as they were separated by the Lord.” The daughters of Zelophehad did as had been commanded.

11 Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Noah married the sons of their paternal uncle,

12 from the family of Manasseh, who was the son of Joseph. The possession attributed to them remained in the tribe and family of their father.

13 These are the commandments and judgments that the Lord commanded through the hand of Moses to the children of Israel on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan, opposite Jericho.

BOOK FIVE: DEUTERONOMY

CHAPTER 1

1 These are the words Moses spoke to all Israel beyond the Jordan, in the level wilderness opposite the Red Sea, between Paran, Tophel, Laban, and Hazeroth, where there is very much gold.

2 It is eleven days from Horeb by way of Mount Seir to Kadesh-Barnea.

3 In the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, Moses spoke to the children of Israel everything the Lord had commanded him to tell them,

4 after he had struck Sihon king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon, and Og king of Bashan, who remained at Ashtaroth and Edrei,

5 beyond the Jordan in the land of Moab. Moses began to explain the law, saying,

6 "The Lord our God spoke to us at Horeb: 'You have remained at this mountain long enough.

7 Turn and come to the mountain of the Amorites and to the other places near it—the plains and mountains, the lower places toward the south and beside the seashore, the land of the Canaanites and Lebanon, as far as the great river Euphrates.

8 Behold,' he said, 'I have delivered it to you. Enter and possess the land concerning which the Lord swore to your fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob that he would give it to them and to their seed after them.'

9 At that time I said to you,

10 'I am unable to sustain you alone, because the Lord your God has multiplied you, and today you are exceedingly numerous, like the stars of heaven.

11 May the Lord, the God of your fathers, add many thousands to this number and bless you as he has spoken.

12 I am unable alone to sustain your affairs, burden, and disputes.

13 Give from among you wise and knowledgeable men whose conduct is proven in your tribes, so that I may appoint them as your leaders.'

14 Then you answered me, 'What you wish to do is a good thing.'

15 I took wise and noble men from your tribes and appointed them as leaders: commanders of thousands, centurions, leaders of fifty, and leaders of ten, who would teach you every matter.

16 I commanded them: 'Hear the people and judge what is just, whether the person is a citizen or a sojourner.

17 There shall be no distinction of persons. You shall hear the small as you hear the great, nor shall you show regard for anyone's person, because judgment belongs to God. But if anything seems difficult to you, refer it to me, and I shall hear it.'

18 I commanded everything you ought to do.

19 Departing from Horeb, we crossed that terrible and immense wilderness you saw, by way of the mountain of the Amorites, as the Lord our God had commanded us. When we came to Kadesh-Barnea,

20 I said to you, 'You have come to the mountain of the Amorites, which the Lord our God is going to give us.

21 See the land the Lord your God gives you. Ascend and possess it, as the Lord our God spoke to your fathers. Do not fear or be terrified by anything.'

22 All of you approached me and said, 'Let us send men to examine the land and report by what road we ought to ascend and to what cities we should go.'

23 Since the proposal pleased me, I sent twelve men from among you, one from each tribe.

24 They went, ascended into the mountains, and came as far as the Valley of the Cluster. After examining the land,

25 they took some of its fruits to show its richness, brought them to us, and said, 'The land the Lord our God is going to give us is good.'

26 But you were unwilling to ascend. Disbelieving the word of the Lord our God,

27 you murmured in your tents and said, ‘The Lord hates us, and therefore he led us from the land of Egypt to deliver us into the Amorites’ hand and destroy us.

28 Where shall we ascend? The messengers have terrified our heart, saying: “The multitude is immense and taller than we are; the cities are great and fortified as high as heaven. We saw the sons of Anak there.”’

29 I said to you, ‘Do not dread or fear them.

30 The Lord God, who is your leader, shall himself fight for you, as he did in Egypt while everyone watched.

31 And in the wilderness, as you yourself have seen, the Lord your God carried you as a man is accustomed to carry his little son, along every road you walked until you came to this place.’

32 Yet not even then did you believe the Lord your God,

33 who went before you on the way and marked out the place where you ought to pitch your tents, showing you the road by fire at night and by a pillar of cloud by day.

34 When the Lord heard the voice of your words, he became angry and swore:

35 ‘Not one of the people of this most wicked generation shall see the good land I promised under oath to your fathers,

36 except Caleb son of Jephunneh. He shall see it, and I shall give to him and his sons the land he trod, because he followed the Lord.’

37 Nor is his indignation against the people astonishing, since the Lord also became angry with me because of you and said, ‘Neither shall you enter there.

38 But Joshua son of Nun, your minister, shall enter in your place. Exhort and strengthen him, and he shall divide the land to Israel by lot.

39 Your little ones, of whom you said that they would be led captive, and the children who today do not know the distinction between good and evil, shall enter. I shall give the land to them, and they shall possess it.

40 But you, turn and go into the wilderness by way of the Red Sea.’

41 You answered me, ‘We have sinned against the Lord. We shall ascend and fight, as the Lord our God commanded.’ But when you had armed yourselves and were proceeding into the mountain,

42 the Lord said to me, ‘Tell them: Do not ascend or fight, for I am not with you, lest you fall before your enemies.’

43 I spoke, and you did not hear. Opposing the Lord’s command and swelling with pride, you ascended into the mountain.

44 Therefore the Amorite who lived in the mountains came out to meet you and pursued you as bees are accustomed to pursue, and struck you down from Seir as far as Hormah.

45 When you returned and wept before the Lord, he did not hear you or consent to your voice.

46 Therefore you remained at Kadesh-Barnea for a long time.”

CHAPTER 2

1 Departing from there, we came into the wilderness that leads to the Red Sea, as the Lord had told me, and we circled Mount Seir for a long time.

2 The Lord said to me,

3 “You have circled this mountain long enough. Go toward the north,

4 and command the people: ‘You shall pass through the territory of your brothers, the children of Esau who live in Seir, and they shall fear you.

5 Therefore take diligent care not to move against them, for I shall not give you from their land even as much as one footprint can tread, because I have given Mount Seir to Esau as a possession.

6 You shall buy food from them with money and eat; you shall draw purchased water and drink.

7 The Lord your God has blessed you in every work of your hands. He has known your journey—how you crossed this great wilderness—and for forty years the Lord your God has dwelt with you, and nothing has been lacking to you.’

8 When we had passed our brothers, the children of Esau who lived in Seir, by the level road from Elath and Ezion-Geber, we came to the road that leads into the wilderness of Moab.

9 The Lord said to me, ‘Do not fight against the Moabites or enter battle against them, for I shall give you nothing from their land, because I delivered Ar to the children of Lot as a possession.’

10 The Emim were its first inhabitants, a great and mighty people, so tall that they were of the stock of Anak.

11 They were believed to be giants and were like the sons of Anak; indeed, the Moabites call them Emim.

12 The Horites previously lived in Seir. When they had been expelled and destroyed, the children of Esau lived there, as Israel did in the land of its possession that the Lord gave it.

13 Therefore, rising to cross the Torrent Zered, we came to it.

14 The time in which we journeyed from Kadesh-Barnea until the crossing of the Torrent Zered was thirty-eight years, until the whole generation of warriors was consumed from the camp, as the Lord had sworn,

15 whose hand was against them, so that they would perish from the midst of the camp.

16 After all the warriors had fallen,

17 the Lord spoke to me, saying,

18 ‘Today you shall cross the borders of Moab, the city named Ar.

19 As you approach the territory of the children of Ammon, beware of fighting against them or moving to battle, for I shall not give you any of the land of the children of Ammon, because I gave it to the children of Lot as a possession.’

20 It was reckoned a land of giants, and giants formerly lived in it, whom the Ammonites call Zamzummim,

21 a great and numerous people of lofty stature, like the Anakim. The Lord destroyed them from before the Ammonites and made the Ammonites live in their place,

22 just as he had done for the children of Esau who live in Seir, destroying the Horites and delivering their land to them, which they possess even to the present.

23 The Cappadocians also expelled the Hivites, who lived in Hazerim as far as Gaza. Coming out from Cappadocia, they destroyed them and lived in their place.

24 ‘Rise and cross the Torrent Arnon. Behold, I have delivered Sihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and his land into your hand. Begin to possess it and commit battle against him.

25 Today I shall begin to send terror and dread of you upon the peoples who live beneath all heaven, so that when they hear your name they may be afraid, tremble like women in labor, and be seized with pain.’

26 Therefore I sent messengers from the wilderness of Kedemoth to Sihon king of Heshbon with peaceful words, saying,

27 ‘We shall pass through your land. We shall walk on the public road, turning neither to the right nor to the left.

28 Sell us food for a price, so that we may eat; give us water for money, and thus we shall drink. Only grant us passage,

29 as the children of Esau who live in Seir and the Moabites who remain at Ar did, until we come to the Jordan and cross into the land the Lord our God is going to give us.’

30 But Sihon king of Heshbon was unwilling to grant us passage, because the Lord your God had hardened his spirit and made his heart obstinate, so that he would be delivered into your hands, as you now see.

31 The Lord said to me, ‘Behold, I have begun to deliver Sihon and his land to you. Begin to possess it.’

32 Sihon came out to meet us with all his people for battle at Jahaz.

33 The Lord our God delivered him to us, and we struck him down with his sons and all his people.

34 At that time we seized all his cities, killing their inhabitants—men, women, and little ones. We left nothing in them,

35 except the beasts, which fell as a portion to those taking spoil, and the spoils of the cities we seized,

36 from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the Torrent Arnon, and the town situated in the valley, as far as Gilead. There was no village or city that escaped our hands; the Lord our God delivered them all to us,

37 except the land of the children of Ammon, which we did not approach, and everything adjoining the Torrent Jabbok, the cities in the mountains, and all the places from which the Lord our God prohibited us.”

CHAPTER 3

1 Then we turned and ascended by way of Bashan. Og king of Bashan came out to meet us with his people to fight at Edrei.

2 The Lord said to me, “Do not fear him, because he has been delivered into your hand with all his people and his land. You shall do to him as you did to Sihon king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon.”

3 Therefore the Lord our God also delivered Og king of Bashan and all his people into our hands, and we struck them down even to destruction,

4 laying waste all his cities at one time. There was no town that escaped us: sixty cities, the whole region of Argob in the kingdom of Og in Bashan.

5 All the cities were fortified with exceedingly high walls, gates, and bars, besides innumerable towns that had no walls.

6 We destroyed them as we had done to Sihon king of Heshbon, destroying every city, the men, women, and little ones,

7 but plundering the beasts and the spoils of the cities.

8 At that time we took from the hand of the two Amorite kings the land beyond the Jordan, from the Torrent Arnon as far as Mount Hermon,

9 which the Sidonians call Sirion and the Amorites Senir;

10 all the cities situated in the plain, the whole land of Gilead and Bashan as far as Salecah and Edrei, cities of Og’s kingdom in Bashan.

11 For Og king of Bashan alone remained from the stock of the giants. His iron bed is shown at Rabbah of the children of Ammon, nine cubits in length and four in width according to the measure of a man’s hand-cubit.

12 At that time we possessed the land from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the Torrent Arnon, as far as the middle of Mount Gilead, and I gave its cities to Reuben and Gad.

13 I delivered the remaining part of Gilead and all Bashan of Og’s kingdom to the half tribe of Manasseh—the entire region of Argob. All Bashan is called the Land of Giants.

14 Jair son of Manasseh possessed the whole region of Argob as far as the borders of the Geshurites and Maacathites. He called Bashan by his own name, Havoth-Jair, that is, the Villages of Jair, even to the present day.

15 I also gave Gilead to Machir.

16 To the tribes of Reuben and Gad I gave from the land of Gilead as far as the Torrent Arnon, the middle of the torrent and its boundary, as far as the Torrent Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon;

17 and the plain of the wilderness, the Jordan, and the boundaries of Chinnereth as far as the sea of the wilderness, which is the Salt Sea, at the foot of Mount Pisgah toward the east.

18 At that time I commanded you: ‘The Lord your God gives you this land as an inheritance. All your mighty men shall go equipped before your brothers, the children of Israel,

19 apart from your wives, little ones, and beasts. For I know that you have much livestock, and these shall remain in the cities I delivered to you,

20 until the Lord gives rest to your brothers as he has given to you, and they too possess the land he is going to give them beyond the Jordan. Then each of you shall return to the possession I gave you.’

21 At that time I also commanded Joshua: ‘Your eyes have seen what the Lord your God did to these two kings. So shall he do to all the kingdoms into which you shall cross.

22 Do not fear them, for the Lord your God shall fight for you.’

23 At that time I prayed to the Lord:

24 ‘Lord God, you have begun to show your servant your greatness and most mighty hand. For there is no other god either in heaven or upon earth who can do your works or be compared to your strength.

25 Therefore I shall cross and see this excellent land beyond the Jordan, this noble mountain, and Lebanon.’

26 The Lord became angry with me because of you and did not hear me, but said to me, ‘It is enough for you. Speak to me no more about this matter.

27 Ascend the summit of Pisgah and turn your eyes westward, northward, southward, and eastward, and look, for you shall not cross this Jordan.

28 Command Joshua, strengthen him, and give him courage, because he shall go before this people and divide among them the land you shall see.’

29 And we remained in the valley opposite the shrine of Peor.

CHAPTER 4

1 “And now, Israel, hear the precepts and judgments I teach you, so that by doing them you may live and, entering, may possess the land the Lord, the God of your fathers, is going to give you.

2 You shall not add to the word I speak to you or take away from it. Keep the commandments of the Lord your God that I command you.

3 Your eyes have seen everything the Lord did against Baal-Peor, how he crushed all its worshipers from your midst.

4 But all of you who cling to the Lord your God are alive even to the present day.

5 You know that I taught you precepts and just ordinances as the Lord my God commanded me. So shall you do them in the land you are going to possess.

6 You shall observe them and fulfill them in deed, for this is your wisdom and understanding before the peoples, so that when they hear all these precepts, they may say, ‘Behold a wise and understanding people, a great nation.’

7 Nor is there another nation so great that has gods drawing near to it as our God is present to all our supplications.

8 For what other nation is so renowned that it has ceremonies, just judgments, and the whole law I shall set before your eyes today?

9 Therefore carefully guard yourself and your soul. Do not forget the words your eyes have seen, and do not let them fall from your heart all the days of your life. You shall teach them to your sons and grandsons,

10 from the day you stood before the Lord your God at Horeb, when the Lord spoke to me: ‘Gather the people to me, so that they may hear my words and learn to fear me for all the time they live upon earth, and may teach their children.’

11 You approached the foot of the mountain, which burned as far as heaven, and there were darkness, cloud, and gloom upon it.

12 The Lord spoke to you from the midst of the fire. You heard the voice of his words but saw no form at all.

13 He showed you his pact, which he commanded you to perform—the Ten Words—which he wrote upon two tablets of stone.

14 At that time he commanded me to teach you the ceremonies and judgments you ought to perform in the land you are going to possess.

15 Therefore carefully guard your souls. You saw no likeness on the day the Lord spoke to you at Horeb from the midst of the fire,

16 lest perhaps, being deceived, you make for yourselves a carved likeness or the image of male or female,

17 the likeness of any beasts upon earth or birds flying beneath heaven,

18 or of reptiles that move upon the earth or fish that remain in the waters beneath the earth;

19 lest perhaps, raising your eyes to heaven, you see the sun, moon, and all the stars of heaven and, deceived by error, adore and worship what the Lord your God created for the service of all the nations beneath heaven.

20 But the Lord took you and led you from Egypt’s iron furnace so that he might have an hereditary people, as you are on the present day.

21 The Lord became angry against me because of your words and swore that I would not cross the Jordan or enter the excellent land he is going to give you.

22 Behold, I die upon this soil; I shall not cross the Jordan. You shall cross and possess the noble land.

23 Beware lest you ever forget the pact of the Lord your God that he made with you and make for yourself a carved likeness of those things the Lord has forbidden to be made,

24 because the Lord your God is a consuming fire, a jealous God.

25 If you father sons and grandsons, remain in the land, and, being deceived, make for yourselves any likeness—committing evil before the Lord your God so as to provoke him to anger—

26 I call heaven and earth as witnesses today that you shall quickly perish from the land you are going to possess after crossing the Jordan. You shall not live in it for a long time, but the Lord shall destroy you

27 and scatter you among all nations, and you shall remain few among the peoples to whom the Lord shall lead you.

28 There you shall serve gods fashioned by human hands, wood and stone, which neither see, hear, eat, nor smell.

29 When you seek the Lord your God there, you shall find him, if only you seek him with your whole heart and with all the tribulation of your soul.

30 After all the things foretold have found you, at the last time you shall return to the Lord your God and hear his voice,

31 because the Lord your God is a merciful God. He shall not abandon you, utterly destroy you, or forget the pact in which he swore to your fathers.

32 Ask concerning the ancient days before you, from the day God created man upon earth, from one end of heaven to its other end, whether any such thing has ever occurred or ever been known:

33 that a people heard the voice of God speaking from the midst of fire as you heard it, and lived;

34 or that God acted to enter and take for himself a nation from the midst of nations through trials, signs and wonders, battle, a mighty hand and outstretched arm, and terrifying visions, according to everything the Lord your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes.

35 This was so that you might know that the Lord himself is God and there is no other besides him.

36 From heaven he caused you to hear his voice, that he might teach you, and upon earth he showed you his immense fire, and you heard his words from the midst of the fire.

37 Because he loved your fathers and chose their seed after them, he led you from Egypt, going before you in his great power, 38 so that he might destroy at your entrance nations greater and stronger than you, bring you in, and give you their land as a possession, as you see on the present day.

39 Therefore know today and consider in your heart that the Lord himself is God in heaven above and upon earth below, and there is no other.

40 Keep his precepts and commandments that I command you, so that it may be well with you and your children after you, and you may remain for a long time upon the land the Lord your God is going to give you."

41 Then Moses set apart three cities beyond the Jordan toward the eastern region,

42 so that one who unwillingly killed his neighbor, not having been his enemy one or two days before, might flee to them and escape to one of these cities:

43 Bezer in the wilderness, which is situated in the level land of the tribe of Reuben; Ramoth in Gilead, which is in the tribe of Gad; and Golan in Bashan, which is in the tribe of Manasseh.

44 This is the law Moses set before the children of Israel,

45 and these are the testimonies, ceremonies, and judgments he spoke to the children of Israel when they went out from Egypt,

46 beyond the Jordan in the valley opposite the shrine of Peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon, whom Moses struck. The children of Israel, going out from Egypt,

47 possessed his land and the land of Og king of Bashan, the two Amorite kings who were beyond the Jordan toward the sunrise,

48 from Aroer, which is situated upon the bank of the Torrent Arnon, as far as Mount Sion, which is also Hermon,

49 the whole plain beyond the Jordan toward the eastern region, as far as the sea of the wilderness and the foot of Mount Pisgah.

CHAPTER 5

1 Moses called all Israel and said to them, “Hear, Israel, the ceremonies and judgments I speak in your hearing today. Learn them and fulfill them in deed.

2 The Lord our God made a covenant with us at Horeb.

3 He did not enter a pact with our fathers, but with us who are here at present and are alive.

4 He spoke to us face to face on the mountain from the midst of the fire.

5 At that time I was the intermediary and mediator between the Lord and you, to declare his words to you, for you feared the fire and did not ascend the mountain. And he said:

6 ‘I am the Lord your God, who led you from the land of Egypt, from the house of servitude.

7 You shall have no foreign gods in my sight.

8 You shall not make for yourself a carved thing or the likeness of anything in heaven above, upon earth below, or moving in the waters beneath the earth.

9 You shall not adore or worship them, for I am the Lord your God, a jealous God, repaying the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generation of those who hate me,

10 and showing mercy to many thousands who love me and keep my precepts.

11 You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain, because whoever takes his name upon a vain thing shall not go unpunished.

12 Observe the Sabbath day, to sanctify it, as the Lord your God commanded you.

13 For six days you shall labor and do all your works.

14 The seventh day is the Sabbath, that is, the rest of the Lord your God. You shall do no work in it—you, your son and daughter, your manservant and maidservant, your ox and donkey, every beast of yours, and the sojourner within your gates—so that your manservant and maidservant may rest as you do.

15 Remember that you too served in Egypt and the Lord your God led you from there with a mighty hand and outstretched arm. Therefore he commanded you to observe the Sabbath day.

16 Honor your father and mother, as the Lord your God commanded you, so that you may live a long time and it may be well with you in the land the Lord your God is going to give you.

17 You shall not kill.

18 Neither shall you commit adultery.

19 You shall not steal.

20 Nor shall you speak false testimony against your neighbor.

21 You shall not covet your neighbor’s wife, house, field, manservant, maidservant, ox, donkey, or anything that is his.’

22 The Lord spoke these words to your whole multitude on the mountain from the midst of fire, cloud, and gloom, with a great voice, adding nothing further. He wrote them upon two tablets of stone, which he delivered to me.

23 But after you heard the voice from the midst of darkness and saw the mountain burning, all the leaders of the tribes and the elders approached me and said,

24 ‘Behold, the Lord our God has shown us his majesty and greatness. We heard his voice from the midst of the fire and proved today that when God speaks with man, man lives.

25 Why then shall we die and this immense fire devour us? For if we hear the voice of the Lord our God any longer, we shall die.

26 For what is all flesh, that it should hear the voice of the living God speaking from the midst of the fire, as we heard, and be able to live?

27 You approach instead and hear everything the Lord our God says to you. Then speak to us, and, hearing, we shall do it.’

28 When the Lord heard this, he said to me, ‘I heard the voice of this people’s words that they spoke to you. They have spoken everything well.

29 Who shall grant them such a mind that they may fear me and keep all my commandments at all times, so that it may be well with them and their children forever?

30 Go and tell them: Return to your tents.

31 But you, stand here with me, and I shall speak to you all my commandments, ceremonies, and judgments, which you shall teach them so that they may perform them in the land I shall give them as a possession.’

32 Therefore keep and do what the Lord your God has commanded you. You shall turn neither to the right nor to the left,

33 but shall walk by the way the Lord your God commanded, so that you may live, it may be well with you, and your days may be prolonged in the land of your possession.”

CHAPTER 6

1 “These are the precepts, ceremonies, and judgments the Lord your God commanded me to teach you, so that you may perform them in the land into which you are crossing to possess it;

2 so that you may fear the Lord your God and keep all his commandments and precepts that I command you, your sons, and your grandsons all the days of your life, that your days may be prolonged.

3 Hear, Israel, and take care to do what the Lord commanded you, so that it may be well with you and you may be multiplied still more, as the Lord, the God of your fathers, promised you a land flowing with milk and honey.

4 Hear, Israel: the Lord our God is one Lord.

5 You shall love the Lord your God with your whole heart, your whole soul, and your whole strength.

6 These words that I command you today shall be in your heart.

7 You shall tell them to your children and meditate upon them while sitting in your house and walking on the road, while sleeping and rising.

8 You shall bind them as a sign upon your hand, and they shall be and shall move between your eyes.

9 You shall write them upon the threshold and doors of your house.

10 When the Lord your God brings you into the land concerning which he swore to your fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and gives you great and excellent cities you did not build,

11 houses full of every wealth that you did not construct, cisterns you did not dig, and vineyards and olive groves you did not plant,

12 and you eat and are filled,

13 take diligent care lest you forget the Lord, who led you from the land of Egypt, from the house of servitude. You shall fear the Lord your God, serve him alone, and swear by his name.

14 You shall not go after the foreign gods of any nations surrounding you,

15 because the Lord your God in your midst is a jealous God, lest at any time the fury of the Lord your God become angry against you and remove you from the surface of the earth.

16 You shall not tempt the Lord your God as you tempted him at the Place of Temptation.

17 Keep the precepts of the Lord your God and the testimonies and ceremonies he commanded you.

18 Do what is pleasing and good in the Lord’s sight, so that it may be well with you and, entering, you may possess the excellent land concerning which the Lord swore to your fathers, 19 that he would destroy all your enemies before you, as he spoke.

20 When your son asks you tomorrow, ‘What do these testimonies, ceremonies, and judgments mean that the Lord our God commanded us?’

21 you shall tell him, ‘We were Pharaoh’s servants in Egypt, and the Lord led us from Egypt with a mighty hand.

22 Before our sight he wrought great and grievous signs and wonders in Egypt against Pharaoh and his whole house,

23 and led us from there, that he might bring us in and give us the land concerning which he swore to our fathers.

24 The Lord commanded us to perform all these lawful ordinances and fear the Lord our God, so that it may be well with us all the days of our life, as it is today.

25 He shall be merciful to us if we keep and perform all his precepts before the Lord our God, as he commanded us.’”

CHAPTER 7

1 “When the Lord your God brings you into the land you are entering to possess and destroys many nations before you—the Hittite, Girgashite, Amorite, Canaanite, Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite, seven nations much greater in number and stronger than you—

2 and the Lord your God delivers them to you, you shall strike them even to destruction. You shall not enter a covenant with them or show them mercy,

3 nor join marriages with them. You shall not give your daughter to his son or take his daughter for your son,

4 because she shall lead your son astray from following me, so that he may serve foreign gods instead. The Lord’s fury shall become angry and quickly destroy you.

5 Rather, you shall do these things to them: overturn their altars, break their statues, cut down their groves, and burn their carved things.

6 For you are a holy people to the Lord your God. The Lord your God chose you to be his peculiar people from all the peoples upon earth.

7 The Lord was joined to you and chose you not because you surpassed all nations in number, since you are fewer than all peoples,

8 but because the Lord loved you and kept the oath he swore to your fathers. He led you out with a mighty hand and redeemed you from the house of servitude, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt.

9 You shall know that the Lord your God himself is the mighty and faithful God, keeping pact and mercy with those who love him and those who keep his precepts for a thousand generations,

10 and immediately repaying those who hate him, so that he destroys them, delays no longer, and at once returns to them what they deserve.

11 Therefore keep the precepts, ceremonies, and judgments I command you today to perform.

12 If, after hearing these judgments, you keep and perform them, the Lord your God shall also keep with you the pact and mercy he swore to your fathers.

13 He shall love and multiply you and bless the fruit of your womb and the fruit of your land—your grain, vintage, oil, herds, and flocks of sheep—upon the land concerning which he swore to your fathers that he would give it to you.

14 You shall be blessed among all peoples. There shall be none sterile of either sex among you, whether among humans or your herds.

15 The Lord shall remove every sickness from you. He shall not bring upon you the grievous diseases of Egypt that you knew, but upon all your enemies.

16 You shall devour all the peoples the Lord your God is going to give you. Your eye shall not spare them, nor shall you serve their gods, lest they become your ruin.

17 If you say in your heart, ‘These nations are more numerous than I; how shall I be able to destroy them?’

18 do not fear, but remember what the Lord your God did to Pharaoh and all the Egyptians:

19 the greatest plagues your eyes saw, the signs and wonders, mighty hand, and outstretched arm by which the Lord your God led you out. So shall he do to all the peoples you fear.

20 Moreover, the Lord your God shall send hornets among them until he destroys and scatters all who flee from you and are able to hide.

21 You shall not fear them, because the Lord your God is in your midst, a great and terrible God.

22 He shall consume these nations before you gradually and by portions. You shall not be able to destroy them all at once, lest the beasts of the earth multiply against you.

23 The Lord your God shall deliver them before you and kill them until they are utterly destroyed.

24 He shall deliver their kings into your hands, and you shall destroy their names from beneath heaven. No one shall be able to resist you until you crush them.

25 You shall burn their carved things with fire. You shall not covet the silver and gold from which they were made or take anything from them for yourself, lest you offend, because it is an abomination of the Lord your God.

26 Nor shall you bring anything from an idol into your house, lest you become anathema as it is. You shall detest it like filth and hold it as an abomination, like pollution and dirt, because it is anathema.”

CHAPTER 8

1 “Take diligent care to perform every commandment I command you today, so that you may live, be multiplied, and, entering, possess the land concerning which the Lord swore to your fathers.

2 You shall remember the entire journey by which the Lord your God led you through the wilderness for forty years, that he might afflict and test you, and that what revolved in your mind might become known—whether you would keep his commandments or not.

3 He afflicted you with want and gave you manna as food, which neither you nor your fathers knew, so that he might show you that man does not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God.

4 The garment with which you were covered did not fail through age, and your foot was not worn away—behold, this is the fortieth year—

5 so that you may consider in your heart that as a man instructs his son, so the Lord your God instructed you,

6 that you may keep the commandments of the Lord your God, walk in his ways, and fear him.

7 For the Lord your God shall bring you into a good land, a land of streams, waters, and springs, in whose plains and mountains the depths of rivers burst forth;

8 a land of wheat, barley, and vineyards, in which figs, pomegranates, and olive groves grow; a land of oil and honey,

9 where you shall eat your bread without any want and enjoy an abundance of everything, whose stones are iron and from whose mountains ores of bronze are dug,

10 so that when you have eaten and are filled, you may bless the Lord your God for the excellent land he gave you.

11 Observe and beware lest at any time you forget the Lord your God and neglect his commandments, judgments, and ceremonies that I command you today;

12 lest, after you have eaten and are filled, built beautiful houses and lived in them,

13 and have herds of cattle, flocks of sheep, silver and gold, and an abundance of everything,

14 your heart be lifted up and you not remember the Lord your God, who led you from the land of Egypt, from the house of servitude,

15 and was your leader in the great and terrible wilderness, where there was a serpent burning with its breath, a scorpion, and a dipsas, and no water at all; who brought streams from the hardest rock

16 and fed you in the wilderness with manna that your fathers did not know. After he afflicted and tested you, at the last he had mercy upon you,

17 lest you say in your heart, ‘My strength and the might of my hand provided all these things for me.’

18 Rather, remember the Lord your God, because he himself provided you strength so that he might fulfill his pact concerning which he swore to your fathers, as the present day shows.

19 But if, forgetting the Lord your God, you follow foreign gods, worship them, and adore them, behold, I now foretell that you shall utterly perish.

20 Like the nations the Lord destroyed at your entrance, so shall you perish if you are disobedient to the voice of the Lord your God.”

CHAPTER 9

1 “Hear, Israel: today you shall cross the Jordan to possess nations greater and stronger than you, immense cities walled as high as heaven,

2 a great and lofty people, the sons of Anak, whom you yourself have seen and heard, against whom no one is able to stand.

3 Therefore know today that the Lord your God himself shall cross before you, a devouring and consuming fire, to crush, destroy, and quickly scatter them before your face, as he has spoken to you.

4 When the Lord your God has destroyed them in your sight, do not say in your heart, ‘Because of my justice the Lord brought me in to possess this land,’ although these nations were destroyed because of their impieties.

5 For you do not enter to possess their lands because of your just deeds or the uprightness of your heart. Rather, because they acted impiously, they were destroyed at your entrance, and so that the Lord might fulfill his word that he promised under oath to your fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

6 Therefore know that the Lord your God did not give you this excellent land as a possession because of your just deeds, since you are a people of the hardest neck.

7 Remember and do not forget how you provoked the Lord your God to anger in the wilderness. From the day you went out from Egypt to this place, you always contended against the Lord.

8 For even at Horeb you provoked him, and in anger he wished to destroy you,

9 when I ascended the mountain to receive the stone tablets, the tablets of the pact the Lord made with you, and remained on the mountain forty days and nights, eating no bread and drinking no water.

10 The Lord gave me two stone tablets written by the finger of God and containing all the words he spoke to you on the mountain from the midst of the fire when the assembly of the people was gathered.

11 When forty days and as many nights had passed, the Lord gave me the two stone tablets, the tablets of the covenant,

12 and said to me, ‘Rise and descend quickly from here, because your people whom you led from Egypt have quickly abandoned the way you showed them and made for themselves a molten thing.’

13 Again the Lord said to me, ‘I see that this people is stiff-necked.

14 Let me crush them and destroy their name from beneath heaven, and I shall establish you over a nation greater and stronger than this one.’

15 When I descended from the burning mountain, holding the two tablets of the covenant in both hands,

16 and saw that you had sinned against the Lord your God, made for yourselves a molten calf, and quickly abandoned the way he had shown you,

17 I cast the tablets from my hands and broke them in your sight.

18 I fell before the Lord as before, for forty days and nights, eating no bread and drinking no water, because of all your sins that you committed against the Lord and by which you provoked him to anger.

19 For I feared his indignation and anger, by which he was stirred against you and wished to destroy you. Yet the Lord heard me this time also.

20 Becoming exceedingly angry against Aaron also, he wished to crush him, and I likewise prayed for him.

21 But your sin that you had made—the calf—I seized and burned with fire. Breaking it into pieces and reducing it entirely to powder, I cast it into the torrent descending from the mountain.

22 At the Burning, the Temptation, and the Graves of Craving, you also provoked the Lord.

23 And when he sent you from Kadesh-Barnea, saying, ‘Ascend and possess the land I gave you,’ you despised the command of the Lord your God, did not believe him, and were unwilling to hear his voice.

24 You have always been rebellious from the day I began to know you.

25 I lay before the Lord for forty days and nights, during which I prayed to him with supplication not to destroy you as he had threatened.

26 Praying, I said, ‘Lord God, do not destroy your people and your inheritance, whom you redeemed in your greatness and led from Egypt with a mighty hand.

27 Remember your servants Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Do not look upon this people's hardness, impiety, and sin,

28 lest perhaps the inhabitants of the land from which you led us say: "The Lord was unable to bring them into the land he promised them, and he hated them; therefore he led them out to kill them in the wilderness."

29 They are your people and inheritance, whom you led out in your great strength and with your outstretched arm.'"

CHAPTER 10

1 “At that time the Lord said to me, ‘Hew for yourself two stone tablets like the former ones and ascend the mountain to me. You shall also make an ark of wood,

2 and I shall write upon the tablets the words that were upon those you broke before. You shall place them in the ark.’

3 Therefore I made an ark from shittim wood. When I had hewn two stone tablets like the former ones, I ascended the mountain with them in my hands.

4 He wrote upon the tablets, according to what he had written before, the Ten Words the Lord spoke to you on the mountain from the midst of the fire when the people were gathered, and gave them to me.

5 Returning from the mountain, I descended and placed the tablets in the ark I had made, where they remain even now, as the Lord commanded me.

6 The children of Israel moved camp from Beeroth of the children of Jaakan to Moserah, where Aaron died and was buried, and Eleazar his son exercised the priesthood in his place.

7 From there they came to Gudgodah. Departing from that place, they camped at Jotbathah, in a land of waters and torrents.

8 At that time he set apart the tribe of Levi to carry the ark of the Lord’s covenant, stand before him in ministry, and bless in his name, even to the present day.

9 For this reason Levi had no portion or possession with his brothers, because the Lord himself is his possession, as the Lord your God promised him.

10 I stood on the mountain as before for forty days and nights. The Lord heard me this time also and was unwilling to destroy you.

11 He said to me, ‘Go and proceed before the people, so that they may enter and possess the land I swore to their fathers that I would deliver to them.’

12 And now, Israel, what does the Lord your God ask of you except that you fear the Lord your God, walk in his ways, love him, and serve the Lord your God with your whole heart and your whole soul,

13 and keep the Lord’s commandments and ceremonies that I command you today, so that it may be well with you?

14 Behold, heaven, the heaven of heaven, the earth, and everything in it belong to the Lord your God.

15 Yet the Lord was joined closely to your fathers and loved them, and he chose their seed after them—that is, you—from all nations, as is proved today.

16 Therefore circumcise the foreskin of your heart and harden your neck no longer,

17 because the Lord your God himself is God of gods and Lord of lords, the great, mighty, and terrible God, who shows no regard for persons and accepts no gifts.

18 He executes judgment for the orphan and widow, loves the sojourner, and gives him food and clothing.

19 Therefore you also shall love sojourners, because you yourselves were newcomers in the land of Egypt.

20 You shall fear the Lord your God and serve him alone. You shall cling to him and swear by his name.

21 He is your praise and your God, who did for you these great and terrible things your eyes have seen.

22 Your fathers descended into Egypt as seventy souls, and behold, now the Lord your God has multiplied you like the stars of heaven.”

CHAPTER 11

1 “Therefore love the Lord your God and observe his precepts, ceremonies, judgments, and commandments at all times.

2 Know today what your children do not know, who did not see the discipline of the Lord your God, his great deeds, mighty hand, and outstretched arm;

3 the signs and works he performed in the midst of Egypt against Pharaoh the king and all his land;

4 and against the whole army of the Egyptians, their horses and chariots—how the waters of the Red Sea covered them while they pursued you, and the Lord destroyed them even to the present day;

5 and what he did for you in the wilderness until you came to this place;

6 and to Dathan and Abiram, sons of Eliab son of Reuben, whom the earth swallowed with its mouth open, with their households, tabernacles, and all the substance they possessed in the midst of Israel.

7 Your eyes saw the great works the Lord performed,

8 so that you may keep all his commandments that I command you today and may be able to enter and possess the land into which you are going,

9 and live in it for a long time—the land flowing with milk and honey that the Lord promised under oath to your fathers and their seed.

10 For the land you are entering to possess is not like the land of Egypt from which you came, where, after seed is cast, irrigating waters are led like those of gardens.

11 Rather, it is mountainous and level, awaiting rains from heaven,

12 a land the Lord your God always visits, and his eyes are upon it from the beginning of the year to its end.

13 Therefore, if you obey my commandments that I command you today, loving the Lord your God and serving him with your whole heart and your whole soul,

14 he shall give your land the early and latter rain, so that you may gather grain, wine, and oil,

15 and grass from the fields to feed the beasts, and that you yourselves may eat and be filled.

16 Beware lest perhaps your heart be deceived and you depart from the Lord, serve foreign gods, and adore them,

17 and the Lord, becoming angry, close heaven so that rain does not descend and the earth does not give its growth, and you quickly perish from the excellent land the Lord is going to give you.

18 Place these words of mine in your hearts and souls, hang them as a sign upon your hands, and set them between your eyes.

19 Teach your children to meditate upon them—when you sit in your house, walk on the road, lie down, and rise.

20 You shall write them upon the posts and doors of your house,

21 so that your days and your children’s days may be multiplied in the land the Lord swore to your fathers that he would give them, as long as heaven hangs over earth.

22 For if you keep the commandments I command you and perform them, loving the Lord your God, walking in all his ways, and clinging to him,

23 the Lord shall destroy all these nations before your face, and you shall possess those that are greater and stronger than you.

24 Every place your foot treads shall be yours. Your boundaries shall be from the wilderness and Lebanon, from the great river Euphrates as far as the western sea.

25 No one shall stand against you. The Lord your God shall place terror and dread of you upon all the land you shall tread, as he spoke to you.

26 Behold, today I set before your sight a blessing and a curse:

27 a blessing, if you obey the commandments of the Lord your God that I command you today;

28 a curse, if you do not obey the commandments of the Lord your God, but depart from the way I now show you and walk after foreign gods whom you do not know.

29 When the Lord your God brings you into the land to which you go to dwell, you shall place the blessing upon Mount Gerizim and the curse upon Mount Ebal,

30 which are beyond the Jordan, behind the road that extends toward the setting sun, in the land of the Canaanite who lives in the plains opposite Gilgal, which is beside the valley extending and entering far away.

31 For you shall cross the Jordan to possess the land the Lord your God is going to give you, that you may have and possess it.

32 Therefore see that you fulfill the ceremonies and judgments I set before your sight today.”

CHAPTER 12

1 “These are the precepts and judgments you must perform in the land the Lord, the God of your fathers, is going to give you to possess, all the days you walk upon the soil.

2 Overthrow all the places where the nations you are going to possess worshiped their gods—upon high mountains and hills and beneath every leafy tree.

3 Scatter their altars, break their statues, burn their groves with fire, shatter their idols, and destroy their names from those places.

4 You shall not act in this way toward the Lord your God.

5 Rather, you shall come to the place the Lord your God chooses from all your tribes to place his name there and dwell in it.

6 In that place you shall offer your burnt offerings and victims, tithes and firstfruits of your hands, vows and gifts, and the firstborn of your cattle and sheep.

7 There you shall eat in the sight of the Lord your God, and you and your households shall rejoice in everything to which you put your hand, in which the Lord your God has blessed you.

8 You shall not act there as we act here today, each doing what seems right to himself,

9 for until the present time you have not come to the rest and possession the Lord your God is going to give you.

10 You shall cross the Jordan and live in the land the Lord your God is going to give you, so that you may rest from all surrounding enemies and live without any fear

11 in the place the Lord your God chooses for his name to be there. To that place you shall bring everything I command: burnt offerings, offerings, tithes, firstfruits of your hands, and whatever is chief among the gifts you vow to the Lord.

12 There you shall feast before the Lord your God—you, your sons and daughters, manservants and maidservants, and the Levite who remains in your cities, for he has no other portion or possession among you.

13 Beware of offering your burnt offerings in every place you see.

14 Instead, you shall offer the victims and do everything I command you in the place the Lord chooses within one of your tribes.

15 But if you wish to eat and the eating of flesh delights you, kill and eat within your cities according to the blessing the Lord your God gave you—whether it is unclean, that is, blemished and weak, or clean, that is, whole and without blemish, which may lawfully be offered. You shall eat it as you eat the gazelle and deer, 16 except that you shall not eat the blood, which you shall pour upon the ground like water.

17 Within your towns you shall not be able to eat the tithe of your grain, wine, and oil; the firstborn of your herds and flocks; anything you vow or wish to offer spontaneously; or the firstfruits of your hands.

18 Rather, you shall eat them before the Lord your God in the place the Lord your God chooses—you, your son and daughter, manservant and maidservant, and the Levite who remains in your cities. You shall rejoice and be refreshed before the Lord your God in everything to which you extend your hand.

19 Beware of abandoning the Levite at any time while you live in the land.

20 When the Lord your God enlarges your borders as he spoke to you, and you wish to eat the flesh your soul desires,

21 but the place the Lord your God chooses for his name to be there is far away, you shall kill from the herds and flocks you possess, as I commanded you, and eat in your towns as it pleases you.

22 As the gazelle and deer are eaten, so shall you eat them; the clean and unclean alike shall eat together.

23 Only beware of eating the blood, for their blood is for the soul, and therefore you must not eat the soul with the flesh.

24 Instead, you shall pour it upon the ground like water,

25 so that it may be well with you and your children after you when you do what is pleasing in the Lord’s sight.

26 But the things you sanctify and vow to the Lord you shall take and bring to the place the Lord chooses.

27 You shall offer your oblations, flesh and blood, upon the altar of the Lord your God. You shall pour the blood of the offerings upon the altar, but you yourself shall eat the flesh.

28 Observe and hear everything I command you, so that it may be well with you and your children after you forever, when you do what is good and pleasing in the sight of the Lord your God.

29 When the Lord your God destroys before your face the nations you enter to possess, and you possess them and live in their land,

30 beware of imitating them after they have been overthrown at your entrance, or seeking their ceremonies, saying, ‘As these nations worshiped their gods, so shall I worship.’

31 You shall not act similarly toward the Lord your God. For they did for their gods every abomination the Lord abhors, offering their sons and daughters and burning them with fire.

32 Do only what I command you for the Lord. Add nothing and diminish nothing.”

CHAPTER 13

1 “If a prophet or one who says he has seen a dream rises in your midst and foretells a sign and wonder,

2 and what he spoke occurs, but he says to you, ‘Let us go and follow foreign gods whom you do not know, and let us serve them,’

3 you shall not hear the words of that prophet or dreamer, because the Lord your God tests you, that it may be revealed whether you love him with your whole heart and whole soul.

4 Follow the Lord your God, fear him, keep his commandments, and hear his voice. You shall serve him and cling to him.

5 But that prophet or fabricator of dreams shall be killed, because he spoke to turn you away from the Lord your God, who led you from the land of Egypt and redeemed you from the house of servitude, and to make you wander from the way the Lord your God commanded you. Thus you shall remove evil from your midst.

6 If your brother, your mother’s son, or your son or daughter, or the wife in your bosom, or a friend whom you love as your soul wishes to persuade you secretly, saying, ‘Let us go and serve foreign gods whom neither you nor your fathers know,’

7 gods of any surrounding nations, whether near or far, from one end of the earth to the other,

8 do not consent to him or hear him. Your eye shall not spare him, so that you show mercy or conceal him.

9 Instead, you shall kill him immediately. Let your hand be first upon him, and afterward let all the people put forth their hand.

10 He shall be overwhelmed with stones and killed, because he wished to draw you away from the Lord your God, who led you from the land of Egypt, from the house of servitude,

11 so that all Israel, hearing, may fear and never again do anything like this.

12 If you hear some saying in one of your cities that the Lord your God shall give you to live in,

13 ‘Sons of Belial have gone out from your midst and turned aside the inhabitants of their city, saying: Let us go and serve foreign gods whom you do not know,’

14 inquire solicitously and diligently. When the truth of the matter has been examined, if you find it certain that what is said is true and this abomination was committed in deed,

15 you shall immediately strike the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword and destroy it and everything in it, even the livestock.

16 You shall gather all its goods in the middle of its streets and burn them with the city, so that you consume everything for the Lord your God, and it shall be an everlasting mound. It shall be built no more.

17 Nothing from that anathema shall cling to your hand, so that the Lord may turn from the anger of his fury, have mercy upon you, and multiply you as he swore to your fathers,

18 when you hear the voice of the Lord your God, keeping all his precepts that I command you today and doing what is pleasing in the sight of the Lord your God.”

CHAPTER 14

1 “Be children of the Lord your God. You shall not cut yourselves or make baldness over the dead,

2 because you are a holy people to the Lord your God, and he chose you to be his peculiar people from all nations upon earth.

3 Do not eat things that are unclean.

4 These are the animals you ought to eat: the ox, sheep, goat,

5 deer, gazelle, bubalus, tragelaph, pygarg, oryx, and camelopard.

6 You shall eat every animal that parts its hoof into two divisions and chews the cud.

7 But among those that chew the cud and do not part the hoof, you must not eat the camel, hare, or choerogryllus. Because they chew the cud but do not divide the hoof, they shall be unclean to you.

8 The pig also, because it divides the hoof but does not chew the cud, shall be unclean. You shall not eat their flesh or touch their carcasses.

9 Of everything living in the waters, you shall eat those having fins and scales.

10 Do not eat those without fins and scales, because they are unclean.

11 Eat every clean bird.

12 Do not eat the unclean: namely, the eagle, griffin, osprey,

13 ixion, vulture, and kite according to its kind;

14 and every kind of raven;

15 the ostrich, owl, gull, and hawk according to its kind;

16 the heron, swan, and ibis;

17 the diving bird, porphyrion, and night raven;

18 the pelican and charadrius, each according to its kind; also the hoopoe and bat.

19 Everything that crawls and has little wings shall be unclean and shall not be eaten.

20 Eat everything that is clean.

21 But do not eat anything that has died by itself. Give it to the sojourner within your gates to eat, or sell it to him, because you are a holy people of the Lord your God. You shall not boil a kid in its mother’s milk.

22 Each year you shall set apart a tenth portion of all your fruits that grow from the earth,

23 and in the sight of the Lord your God, in the place he chooses for his name to be invoked there, you shall eat the tithe of your grain, wine, and oil, and the firstborn of your herds and sheep, so that you may learn to fear the Lord your God at all times.

24 But when the journey is longer and you are unable to carry all these things to the place the Lord your God chooses, although he has blessed you,

25 you shall sell everything and reduce it to money, carry it in your hand, and depart for the place the Lord your God chooses.

26 With that money you shall buy whatever pleases you, whether from herds or sheep, and also wine, strong drink, and everything your soul desires. You and your household shall eat before the Lord your God and feast.

27 Beware of abandoning the Levite within your gates, because he has no other portion in your possession.

28 In the third year you shall set apart another tithe from everything growing for you at that time and store it within your gates.

29 The Levite who has no other portion or possession with you, and the sojourner, orphan, and widow within your gates, shall come, eat, and be filled, so that the Lord your God may bless you in all the works of your hands that you perform.”

CHAPTER 15

1 “In the seventh year you shall make a remission,

2 which shall be celebrated in this order: one to whom anything is owed by his friend, neighbor, or brother shall be unable to demand it, because it is the Lord’s year of remission.

3 You may demand it from a sojourner and newcomer, but you shall have no power to demand it from a citizen and kinsman.

4 There shall be no needy person or beggar at all among you, so that the Lord your God may bless you in the land he is going to deliver to you as a possession,

5 provided you hear the voice of the Lord your God and keep everything he ordered and that I command you today. He shall bless you as he promised.

6 You shall lend to many nations and receive a loan from none. You shall rule over many nations, and no one shall rule over you.

7 If one of your brothers who remains within the gates of your city in the land the Lord your God is going to give you comes to poverty, you shall not harden your heart or contract your hand,

8 but shall open it to the poor and lend him what you perceive him to need.

9 Beware lest perhaps an impious thought creep upon you and you say in your heart, ‘The seventh year of remission is approaching,’ and you turn your eyes from your poor brother, unwilling to lend what he asks, lest he cry against you to the Lord and it become sin to you.

10 Instead, you shall give to him and shall act with no cunning in relieving his needs, so that the Lord your God may bless you at all times and in everything to which you put your hand.

11 The poor shall not be lacking in the land of your habitation. Therefore I command you to open your hand to your needy and poor brother who lives with you in the land.

12 When your Hebrew brother, man or woman, is sold to you and serves you for six years, in the seventh year you shall release that person free.

13 When you grant freedom, you shall by no means permit the person to depart empty,

14 but shall give provision from your flocks, threshing floor, and winepress with which the Lord your God has blessed you.

15 Remember that you too served in the land of Egypt and the Lord your God liberated you. Therefore I now command you.

16 But if he says, ‘I do not wish to go out,’ because he loves you and your household and perceives that it is well with him under you,

17 you shall take an awl and pierce his ear at the door of your house, and he shall serve you forever. You shall act similarly toward the maidservant.

18 Do not turn your eyes from them when you release them free, because each served you for six years according to the wage of a hired worker, so that the Lord your God may bless you in every work you perform.

19 Of the firstborn born among your herds and sheep, you shall sanctify to the Lord your God everything of the male sex. You shall not work with the firstborn of an ox or shear the firstborn of the sheep.

20 Each year you and your household shall eat them in the sight of the Lord your God, in the place the Lord chooses.

21 But if it has a blemish, is lame or blind, or is deformed or weak in any part, it shall not be sacrificed to the Lord your God.

22 Instead, you shall eat it within the gates of your city. The clean and unclean shall eat alike, as they eat the gazelle and deer.

23 You shall observe only this: do not eat their blood, but pour it upon the ground like water.”

CHAPTER 16

1 “Observe the month of new fruits and the beginning of springtime, that you may keep the Passover to the Lord your God, because in this month the Lord your God led you from Egypt by night.

2 You shall sacrifice the Passover to the Lord your God from the sheep and cattle in the place the Lord your God chooses for his name to dwell there.

3 You shall not eat leavened bread with it. For seven days you shall eat without leaven the bread of affliction, because you went from Egypt in fear, so that you may remember the day of your departure from Egypt all the days of your life.

4 Leaven shall not appear in all your borders for seven days, and none of its flesh sacrificed in the evening of the first day shall remain until morning.

5 You shall not be able to sacrifice the Passover in any of your cities the Lord your God is going to give you,

6 but only in the place the Lord your God chooses for his name to dwell there. You shall sacrifice the Passover in the evening at sunset, when you went out from Egypt.

7 You shall cook and eat it in the place the Lord your God chooses, and, rising in the morning, you shall go to your tents.

8 For six days you shall eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day, because it is the assembly of the Lord your God, you shall do no work.

9 You shall number seven weeks for yourself from the day you put the sickle to the standing grain.

10 You shall celebrate the feast day of Weeks to the Lord your God with a spontaneous oblation from your hand, which you shall offer according to the blessing of the Lord your God.

11 You shall feast before the Lord your God—you, your son and daughter, manservant and maidservant, the Levite within your gates, and the newcomer, orphan, and widow who remain with you—in the place the Lord your God chooses for his name to dwell there.

12 You shall remember that you were a servant in Egypt, and you shall keep and perform what has been commanded.

13 You shall also celebrate the solemnity of Tabernacles for seven days when you gather your fruits from the threshing floor and winepress.

14 You shall feast in your festivity—you, your son and daughter, manservant and maidservant, and the Levite, newcomer, orphan, and widow within your gates.

15 For seven days you shall celebrate feasts to the Lord your God in the place the Lord chooses. The Lord your God shall bless you in all your fruits and in every work of your hands, and you shall be in joy.

16 Three times each year every male of yours shall appear in the sight of the Lord your God, in the place he chooses: at the solemnity of Unleavened Bread, the solemnity of Weeks, and the solemnity of Tabernacles. He shall not appear before the Lord empty,

17 but each shall offer according to what he has, according to the blessing the Lord his God gave him.

18 You shall appoint judges and teachers within all your gates the Lord your God shall give you, throughout each of your tribes, so that they may judge the people with just judgment

19 and not turn to either side. You shall show no regard for persons and accept no gifts, because gifts blind the eyes of the wise and change the words of the just.

20 You shall justly pursue what is just, so that you may live and possess the land the Lord your God gave you.

21 You shall plant no grove or any tree beside the altar of the Lord your God.

22 Neither shall you make or set up for yourself a statue, which the Lord your God hates.”

CHAPTER 17

1 “You shall not sacrifice to the Lord your God a sheep or ox in which there is a blemish or any defect, because it is an abomination to the Lord your God.

2 When a man or woman is found among you within one of the gates the Lord your God shall give you who does evil in the sight of the Lord your God and transgresses his pact,

3 going to serve foreign gods and adoring them—the sun, moon, or any army of heaven—which I did not command,

4 and this is reported to you, then, hearing, you shall inquire diligently. If you find it true that this abomination was committed in Israel,

5 you shall lead the man or woman who perpetrated this most wicked deed to the gates of your city, and they shall be overwhelmed with stones.

6 The one who is killed shall perish at the word of two or three witnesses. No one shall be killed when one gives testimony against him.

7 The hand of the witnesses shall be first to kill him, and afterward the hand of the rest of the people shall be put forth, so that you may remove evil from your midst.

8 If you perceive that a judgment among you is difficult and ambiguous—between blood and blood, case and case, leprosy and leprosy—and see that the words of judges within your gates vary, rise and ascend to the place the Lord your God chooses.

9 You shall come to the priests of Levitical stock and to the judge who is serving at that time. You shall inquire of them, and they shall show you the truth of the judgment.

10 You shall do whatever those presiding over the place the Lord chooses say and teach you,

11 according to his law. You shall follow their sentence and turn neither to the right nor to the left.

12 But the man who becomes proud and is unwilling to obey the authority of the priest who ministers to the Lord your God at that time and the judge’s decree shall die, and you shall remove evil from Israel.

13 All the people, hearing, shall fear, so that no one afterward may swell with pride.

14 When you have entered the land the Lord your God shall give you, possess it, and live in it, and say, ‘I shall establish a king over me, as all the surrounding nations have,’

15 you shall establish the one the Lord your God chooses from the number of your brothers. You shall not be able to make a man of another nation king who is not your brother.

16 When he has been established, he shall not multiply horses for himself or lead the people back into Egypt, uplifted by the number of his cavalry, especially since the Lord commanded you never again to return by that same way.

17 He shall not have many wives to entice his mind, nor immense weights of silver and gold.

18 But after he sits upon the throne of his kingdom, he shall write for himself in a scroll a Deuteronomy of this law, receiving the exemplar from the priests of the Levitical tribe.

19 He shall have it with him and read it all the days of his life, so that he may learn to fear the Lord his God and keep his words and ceremonies commanded in the law.

20 His heart shall not be lifted in pride above his brothers, nor shall he turn to the right or left, so that he and his sons may reign over Israel for a long time.”

CHAPTER 18

1 “The priests and Levites, and all who are of that same tribe, shall have no portion or inheritance with the rest of Israel, because they shall eat the Lord’s sacrifices and oblations.

2 They shall receive nothing else from the possession of their brothers, for the Lord himself is their inheritance, as he spoke to them.

3 This shall be the priests’ judgment from the people and those who offer victims: whether they sacrifice an ox or sheep, they shall give the priest the shoulder and stomach,

4 the firstfruits of grain, wine, and oil, and a portion of wool from the shearing of sheep.

5 For the Lord your God chose him from all your tribes, so that he and his sons may stand and minister in the Lord’s name forever.

6 If a Levite goes from one of your cities in all Israel where he lives and, desiring the place the Lord chooses, wishes to come,

7 he shall minister in the name of the Lord his God like all his brother Levites who stand before the Lord at that time.

8 He shall receive the same portion of food as the others, apart from what is owed him in his city through paternal succession.

9 When you enter the land the Lord your God shall give you, beware of wishing to imitate the abominations of those nations.

10 Let there not be found among you one who ritually cleanses his son or daughter by leading them through fire; one who consults soothsayers or observes dreams and auguries; or a sorcerer,

11 enchanter, one who consults pythonic spirits or diviners, or one who seeks truth from the dead.

12 For the Lord abhors all these things, and because of crimes such as these he shall destroy them at your entrance.

13 You shall be perfect and without blemish with the Lord your God.

14 These nations whose land you shall possess hear augurs and diviners, but you have been otherwise instructed by the Lord your God.

15 The Lord your God shall raise up for you from your nation and your brothers a prophet like me. You shall hear him,

16 as you asked the Lord your God at Horeb when the assembly was gathered and you said, ‘I shall no longer hear the voice of the Lord my God or see this immense fire any more, lest I die.’

17 The Lord said to me, ‘They have spoken everything well.

18 I shall raise up for them from the midst of their brothers a prophet like you. I shall place my words in his mouth, and he shall speak to them everything I command him.

19 But whoever is unwilling to hear his words, which he shall speak in my name, I shall stand as avenger.

20 Yet the prophet who, corrupted by arrogance, wishes to speak in my name things I did not command him to say, or speaks in the name of foreign gods, shall be killed.’

21 But if you answer in silent thought, ‘How can I understand a word the Lord has not spoken?’

22 you shall have this sign: what that prophet foretells in the Lord’s name and does not occur, the Lord has not spoken. Rather, the prophet fabricated it through the swelling of his own mind; therefore you shall not fear him.”

CHAPTER 19

1 “When the Lord your God destroys the nations whose land he is going to deliver to you, and you possess it and live in its cities and houses,

2 you shall set apart for yourself three cities in the midst of the land the Lord your God shall give you as a possession,

3 carefully preparing the road. You shall divide the entire territory of your land equally into three portions, so that one fleeing because of homicide may have a nearby place to escape.

4 This shall be the law of the fleeing killer whose life is to be preserved: one who unknowingly strikes his neighbor and is proved to have had no hatred against him yesterday or the day before;

5 but went with him in simplicity into the forest to cut wood, and while cutting wood the axe escaped his hand, its iron slipped from the handle, struck his friend, and killed him. This man shall flee to one of the cities named above and live,

6 lest perhaps the kinsman of the one whose blood was shed, driven by grief, pursue and seize him if the journey is longer and strike his soul, although he is not guilty of death because he is shown to have had no prior hatred against the one killed.

7 Therefore I command you to divide three cities at equal distances from one another.

8 But when the Lord your God enlarges your borders, as he swore to your fathers, and gives you all the land he promised them—

9 provided you keep his commandments and perform what I command you today, loving the Lord your God and walking in his ways at all times—you shall add another three cities and double the number of the three cities named above,

10 so that innocent blood may not be shed in the midst of the land the Lord your God shall give you to possess, lest you be guilty of blood.

11 But if anyone, hating his neighbor, lies in wait for his life, rises, strikes him so that he dies, and flees to one of the cities named above,

12 the elders of that city shall send and seize him from the place of refuge, deliver him into the hand of the kinsman of the one whose blood was shed, and he shall die.

13 You shall not show him mercy, and you shall remove innocent blood from Israel, so that it may be well with you.

14 You shall not take up and transfer your neighbor’s boundaries, which those before you fixed in your possession that the Lord your God shall give you in the land you receive to possess.

15 One witness shall not stand against anyone, whatever the sin or crime may be. Every word shall stand at the word of two or three witnesses.

16 If a lying witness stands against a man, accusing him of transgression,

17 both men whose case it is shall stand before the Lord in the sight of the priests and judges serving in those days.

18 When, searching most diligently, they find that the false witness spoke a lie against his brother,

19 they shall return to him what he thought to do to his brother, and you shall remove evil from your midst,

20 so that the others, hearing, may have fear and never dare to do such things.

21 You shall show him no mercy, but shall exact soul for soul, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.”

CHAPTER 20

1 “If you go out to war against your enemies and see cavalry, chariots, and a multitude of the adversary’s army greater than yours, you shall not fear them, because the Lord your God, who led you from the land of Egypt, is with you.

2 When the battle is now approaching, the priest shall stand before the battle line and speak thus to the people:

3 ‘Hear, Israel: today you commit battle against your enemies. Let not your heart be terrified. Do not fear, yield, or dread them,

4 because the Lord your God is in your midst and shall fight for you against your adversaries, to rescue you from danger.’

5 The leaders throughout each company shall also proclaim in the army’s hearing: ‘What man has built a new house and not dedicated it? Let him go and return to his house, lest perhaps he die in war and another dedicate it.

6 What man has planted a vineyard and has not yet made it common, from which all may lawfully eat? Let him go and return to his house, lest perhaps he die in war and another man perform his office.

7 What man has betrothed a wife and not taken her? Let him go and return to his house, lest perhaps he die in war and another man take her.’

8 After saying these things, they shall add the rest and speak to the people: ‘What man is fearful and fainthearted? Let him go and return to his house, lest he make the hearts of his brothers afraid as he himself is terrified by fear.’

9 When the leaders of the army fall silent and finish speaking, each shall prepare his divisions for battle.

10 Whenever you approach to conquer a city, you shall first offer it peace.

11 If it receives the offer and opens its gates to you, all the people within it shall be saved and shall serve you under tribute.

12 But if it is unwilling to enter a covenant and begins war against you, you shall assault it.

13 When the Lord your God delivers it into your hand, you shall strike everything of the male sex within it with the edge of the sword,

14 except the women and infants, beasts, and other things in the city. You shall divide all the spoil among the army and eat from the spoils of your enemies that the Lord your God gives you.

15 So shall you act toward all cities exceedingly far from you that are not among these cities you shall receive as a possession.

16 But of these cities that shall be given to you, you shall permit absolutely no one to live.

17 Rather, you shall kill with the edge of the sword the Hittite, Amorite, Canaanite, Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite, as the Lord your God commanded you,

18 lest perhaps they teach you to perform all the abominations they committed for their gods, and you sin against the Lord your God.

19 When you besiege a city for a long time and surround it with fortifications to conquer it, you shall not cut down trees from which food can be eaten, nor ought you lay waste the surrounding region with axes, for a tree is not a man and cannot increase the number of those fighting against you.

20 But if any trees do not bear fruit, but are wild and fit for other uses, cut them down and construct machines until you seize the city that fights against you.”

CHAPTER 21

1 “When the corpse of a slain person is found in the land the Lord your God is going to give you and the one guilty of the killing is unknown,

2 your elders and judges shall go out and measure the distances from the corpse to each of the surrounding cities.

3 When they perceive which is nearer than the others, the elders of that city shall take a heifer from the herd that has not drawn a yoke or torn the ground with a plowshare.

4 They shall lead it to a rough and rocky valley that has never been plowed or received seed, and there cut the heifer’s neck.

5 The priests, the sons of Levi, whom the Lord your God chose to minister to him and bless in his name, shall approach, and at their word every affair and whatever is clean or unclean shall be judged.

6 The elders of that city shall come to the slain person and wash their hands over the heifer struck in the valley.

7 They shall say, ‘Our hands did not shed this blood, nor did our eyes see it.

8 Be merciful to your people Israel, whom you redeemed, Lord, and do not reckon innocent blood in the midst of your people Israel.’ The guilt of blood shall be removed from them,

9 and you shall be innocent of the blameless blood that was shed when you do what the Lord commanded.

10 If you go out to battle against your enemies and the Lord your God delivers them into your hand and you lead away captives,

11 and among the captives you see a beautiful woman, love her, and wish to have her as a wife,

12 you shall bring her into your house. She shall shave her hair and cut her nails,

13 put aside the garment in which she was captured, and, sitting in your house, weep for her father and mother for one month. Afterward you shall enter to her and sleep with her, and she shall be your wife.

14 But if afterward she does not sit well in your mind, you shall release her free. You shall not be able to sell her for money or oppress her by power, because you humbled her.

15 If a man has two wives, one loved and the other hated, and they bear him children, and the hated woman’s son is the firstborn,

16 then when he wishes to divide his substance among his sons, he shall not be able to make the loved woman’s son the firstborn and prefer him above the hated woman’s son.

17 Instead, he shall acknowledge the hated woman’s son as firstborn and give him double from everything he possesses, for this son is the beginning of his children, and to him the rights of the firstborn are owed.

18 If a man fathers a stubborn and insolent son who does not hear his father’s or mother’s command and, after being disciplined, despises obedience,

19 they shall seize him and lead him to the elders of that city and to the gate of judgment.

20 They shall say to them, ‘This son of ours is insolent and stubborn. He despises hearing our warnings and gives himself to feasting, luxury, and banquets.’

21 The people of the city shall overwhelm him with stones, and he shall die, so that you may remove evil from your midst and all Israel, hearing, may be terrified.

22 When a man commits a sin punishable by death, is adjudged to die, and is hanged upon a gibbet,

23 his corpse shall not remain upon the wood, but shall be buried on that same day, because one who hangs upon wood is cursed by God. You shall by no means contaminate your land, which the Lord your God gave you as a possession.”

CHAPTER 22

1 “You shall not see your brother’s ox or sheep wandering and pass by, but shall lead it back to your brother,

2 even if your brother is not near or you do not know him. You shall lead it into your house, and it shall remain with you until your brother seeks and receives it.

3 You shall act similarly concerning a donkey, garment, and every possession of your brother that is lost. If you find it, do not neglect it as though it were another’s.

4 If you see your brother’s donkey or ox fallen on the road, you shall not disregard it, but shall lift it with him.

5 A woman shall not be clothed in a man’s garment, nor shall a man use a woman’s garment, for one who does these things is abominable before God.

6 If, while walking on the road, you find a bird’s nest in a tree or upon the ground, and the mother sitting upon the young or eggs, you shall not hold her with the young.

7 Instead, you shall permit her to go, keeping the captured young, so that it may be well with you and you may live a long time.

8 When you build a new house, you shall make a wall around the roof, lest blood be shed in your house and you be guilty when another slips and falls headlong.

9 You shall not sow your vineyard with another seed, lest both the seed you sowed and what grows from the vineyard be sanctified together.

10 You shall not plow with an ox and donkey together.

11 You shall not be clothed with a garment woven from wool and linen.

12 You shall make cords in the fringes at the four corners of the cloak with which you are covered.

13 If a man takes a wife and afterward hates her,

14 seeks occasions to dismiss her, casts a most wicked name upon her, and says, ‘I took this woman as a wife, and when I entered to her I did not find her a virgin,’

15 her father and mother shall take and bring with them the signs of her virginity to the city’s elders who are at the gate.

16 The father shall say, ‘I gave my daughter to this man as a wife. Because he hates her,

17 he casts a most wicked name upon her, saying: “I did not find your daughter a virgin.” And behold, these are the signs of my daughter’s virginity.’ They shall spread the garment before the city’s elders.

18 The elders of that city shall seize the man and beat him,

19 condemning him besides to one hundred shekels of silver, which he shall give to the young woman’s father because he defamed a virgin of Israel with a most wicked name. He shall have her as his wife and shall not be able to dismiss her all the days of his life.

20 But if what he charges is true and virginity is not found in the young woman,

21 they shall cast her beyond the doors of her father’s house, and the men of that city shall overwhelm her with stones, and she shall die, because she committed an abomination in Israel by fornicating in her father’s house. Thus you shall remove evil from your midst.

22 If a man sleeps with another man’s wife, both shall die—that is, the adulterer and adulteress—and you shall remove evil from Israel.

23 If a man betroths a virgin young woman, and someone finds her in the city and lies with her,

24 you shall lead them both to that city’s gate, and they shall be overwhelmed with stones: the young woman because she did not cry out although she was in the city, and the man because he humbled his neighbor’s wife. Thus you shall remove evil from your midst.

25 But if a man finds in the field a young woman who is betrothed, seizes her, and lies with her, he alone shall die.

26 The young woman shall suffer nothing and is not guilty of death, for as a robber rises against his brother and kills his soul, so also the young woman suffered.

27 She was alone in the field; she cried out, and no one was there to deliver her.

28 If a man finds a virgin young woman who has no betrothed, seizes her, and lies with her, and the matter comes to judgment,

29 the one who slept with her shall give her father fifty shekels of silver and shall have her as his wife because he humbled her. He shall not be able to dismiss her all the days of his life.

30 A man shall not take his father’s wife or reveal her covering.”

CHAPTER 23

1 “A eunuch whose testicles are crushed or amputated and whose member is cut off shall not enter the assembly of the Lord.

2 A mamzer—that is, one born from a prostitute—shall not enter the assembly of the Lord even to the tenth generation.

3 An Ammonite or Moabite shall not enter the assembly of the Lord forever, even after the tenth generation,

4 because they were unwilling to meet you with bread and water on the road when you went out from Egypt, and because they hired against you Balaam son of Beor from Mesopotamia of Syria to curse you.

5 But the Lord your God was unwilling to hear Balaam and turned his curse into your blessing, because he loved you.

6 You shall not make peace with them or seek good things for them all the days of your life forever.

7 You shall not abhor an Edomite, because he is your brother, or an Egyptian, because you were a newcomer in his land.

8 Those born from them shall enter the assembly of the Lord in the third generation.

9 When you go out to battle against your enemies, you shall guard yourself from every evil thing.

10 If there is among you a man polluted by a nocturnal dream, he shall go outside the camp

11 and shall not return before he washes with water toward evening; after sunset he shall return to the camp.

12 You shall have a place outside the camp to which you may go for the requirements of nature,

13 carrying a peg upon your belt. When you sit, you shall dig around and, bringing out the soil, cover

14 that by which you were relieved, for the Lord your God walks in the midst of the camp to rescue you and deliver your enemies to you. Therefore let your camp be holy, and let no foulness appear in it, lest he abandon you.

15 You shall not deliver to his master a servant who has fled to you.

16 He shall live with you in the place that pleases him and rest in one of your cities. Do not grieve him.

17 There shall be no prostitute among the daughters of Israel or fornicator among the sons of Israel.

18 You shall not offer a prostitute’s wages or the price of a dog in the house of the Lord your God, whatever it is that you vow, because both are an abomination before the Lord your God.

19 You shall not lend to your brother at interest money, fruits, or any other thing,

20 but may lend so to a foreigner. You shall lend your brother what he needs without interest, so that the Lord your God may bless you in every work of yours in the land you enter to possess.

21 When you vow a vow to the Lord your God, you shall not delay in rendering it, because the Lord your God shall require it, and if you delay, it shall be reckoned to you as sin.

22 If you are unwilling to promise, you shall be without sin.

23 But what has once gone out from your lips you shall observe and perform as you promised the Lord your God and spoke by your own will and mouth.

24 When you enter your neighbor’s vineyard, eat as many grapes as please you, but do not carry any outside with you.

25 If you enter your friend’s standing grain, you may break ears and rub them with your hand, but shall not reap with a sickle.”

CHAPTER 24

1 “If a man takes a wife and has her, but she does not find grace before his eyes because of some foulness, he shall write a bill of divorce, give it into her hand, and dismiss her from his house.

2 When, after departing, she takes another husband,

3 and he also hates her, gives her a bill of divorce, and dismisses her from his house, or certainly if he dies,

4 the former husband shall not be able to receive her again as a wife, because she is polluted and has become abominable before the Lord, lest you make your land sin, which the Lord your God shall deliver to you to possess.

5 When a man has newly taken a wife, he shall not proceed to war or have any public necessity imposed upon him, but shall remain free from obligation in his house so that he may rejoice with his wife for one year.

6 You shall not take the lower or upper millstone as a pledge, because he has pledged his soul to you.

7 If a man is caught soliciting his brother from among the children of Israel, sells him, and receives a price, he shall be killed, and you shall remove evil from your midst.

8 Observe diligently lest you incur a plague of leprosy, but perform solicitously everything the priests of Levitical stock teach you according to what I commanded them.

9 Remember what the Lord your God did to Mary on the road when you went out from Egypt.

10 When you demand from your neighbor anything he owes you, you shall not enter his house to take away a pledge, 11 but shall stand outside, and he shall bring out to you what he has.

12 But if he is poor, the pledge shall not remain with you overnight.

13 Rather, you shall immediately return it to him before sunset, so that, sleeping in his garment, he may bless you and you may have justice before the Lord your God.

14 You shall not deny the wages of your needy and poor brother or of the newcomer who remains with you in the land and is within your gates.

15 On that same day, before sunset, you shall render him the price of his labor, because he is poor and sustains his soul from it, lest he cry against you to the Lord and it be reckoned to you as sin.

16 Fathers shall not be killed for sons or sons for fathers, but each shall die for his own sin.

17 You shall not pervert the judgment of the newcomer and orphan or take a widow’s garment as a pledge.

18 Remember that you served in Egypt and the Lord your God rescued you from there. Therefore I command you to do this thing.

19 When you reap the standing grain in your field and forget and leave a sheaf, you shall not return to take it. Instead, you shall permit the newcomer, orphan, and widow to take it, so that the Lord your God may bless you in every work of your hands.

20 If you gather the fruits of your olive trees, you shall not return to gather whatever remains upon the trees, but shall leave it to the newcomer, orphan, and widow.

21 If you harvest your vineyard, you shall not gather the remaining clusters, but they shall fall to the use of the newcomer, orphan, and widow.

22 Remember that you too served in Egypt, and therefore I command you to do this thing.”

CHAPTER 25

1 “If there is a case between some people and they appeal to the judges, they shall give the palm of justice to the one they perceive to be just, but condemn the impious one for impiety.

2 If they judge the one who sinned worthy of blows, they shall cast him down and cause him to be beaten before them. The measure of the blows shall correspond to the measure of the sin,

3 yet only so that they do not exceed the number forty, lest your brother depart shamefully torn before your eyes.

4 You shall not bind the mouth of the ox treading out your fruits upon the threshing floor.

5 When brothers live together and one of them dies without children, the dead man’s wife shall not marry another. Instead, his brother shall take her and raise up seed for his brother.

6 He shall call the firstborn son from her by his brother’s name, so that his name may not be destroyed from Israel.

7 But if he is unwilling to take his brother’s wife, who is owed to him by law, the woman shall go to the city gate, appeal to the elders, and say, ‘My husband’s brother is unwilling to raise up his brother’s name in Israel or take me as his wife.’

8 They shall immediately cause him to be summoned and shall question him. If he answers, ‘I am unwilling to take her as a wife,’

9 the woman shall approach him before the elders, remove the shoe from his foot, spit in his face, and say, ‘So shall it be done to the man who does not build his brother’s house.’

10 His name shall be called in Israel, The House of the Unshod.

11 If two men have a dispute with one another and begin to struggle, and the wife of one, wishing to rescue her husband from the stronger man’s hand, puts forth her hand and seizes his genitals,

12 you shall cut off her hand and shall not be bent by any mercy toward her.

13 You shall not have differing weights in your bag, greater and lesser,

14 nor shall there be in your house a greater and lesser bushel.

15 You shall have a just and true weight, and your bushel shall be equal and true, so that you may live for a long time upon the land the Lord your God gives you.

16 For the Lord your God abhors the one who does these things and detests every injustice.

17 Remember what Amalek did to you on the road when you went out from Egypt,

18 how he met you and struck the last of your company, who remained behind exhausted, when you were consumed by hunger and labor, and how he did not fear God.

19 Therefore, when the Lord your God gives you rest and subjects all surrounding nations in the land he promised you, you shall destroy Amalek’s name from beneath heaven. Beware of forgetting.”

CHAPTER 26

1 “When you enter the land the Lord your God is going to give you to possess, obtain it, and live in it,

2 you shall take the firstfruits of all your fruits, place them in a basket, and go to the place the Lord your God chooses for his name to be invoked there.

3 You shall approach the priest serving in those days and say to him, ‘Today I profess before the Lord your God that I have entered the land concerning which he swore to our fathers that he would give it to us.’

4 The priest, receiving the basket from your hand, shall place it before the altar of the Lord your God.

5 You shall speak in the sight of the Lord your God: ‘A Syrian persecuted my father, who descended into Egypt and sojourned there in a very small number, but grew into a great and mighty nation of immeasurable multitude.

6 The Egyptians afflicted and persecuted us, imposing most grievous burdens.

7 We cried to the Lord, the God of our fathers, who heard us and regarded our humiliation, labor, and anguish,

8 and led us from Egypt with a mighty hand and outstretched arm, with immense terror, signs, and wonders.

9 He brought us to this place and delivered to us a land flowing with milk and honey.

10 Therefore I now offer the firstfruits of the land the Lord gave me.’ You shall leave them in the sight of the Lord your God and adore the Lord your God.

11 You shall feast in all the good things the Lord your God gives you and your household—you, the Levite, and the newcomer who is with you.

12 When you have completed the tithe of all your fruits in the third year, the year of tithes, you shall give it to the Levite, newcomer, orphan, and widow, so that they may eat within your gates and be filled.

13 You shall speak in the sight of the Lord your God: ‘I have removed what was sanctified from my house and given it to the Levite, newcomer, orphan, and widow, as you commanded me. I have not passed over your commandments or forgotten your authority.

14 I did not eat from these things in my mourning, separate them in any uncleanness, or spend anything from them in a funeral matter. I obeyed the voice of the Lord my God and did everything as you commanded me.

15 Look from your sanctuary and from the high dwelling place of heaven, and bless your people Israel and the land you gave us, as you swore to our fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey.’

16 Today the Lord your God commanded you to perform these commandments and judgments and to keep and fulfill them with your whole heart and whole soul.

17 Today you chose the Lord to be your God, to walk in his ways, keep his ceremonies, commandments, and judgments, and obey his authority.

18 And today the Lord chose you to be his peculiar people, as he spoke to you, and to keep all his precepts,

19 and that he might make you higher than all the nations he created, for his praise, name, and glory, so that you may be a holy people of the Lord your God, as he spoke.”

CHAPTER 27

1 Moses and the elders of Israel commanded the people, saying, “Keep every commandment I command you today.

2 When you have crossed the Jordan into the land the Lord your God shall give you, you shall raise immense stones and smooth them with lime,

3 so that after crossing the Jordan you may write upon them all the words of this law, and may enter the land the Lord your God shall give you, a land flowing with milk and honey, as he swore to your fathers.

4 Therefore, when you have crossed the Jordan, raise on Mount Ebal the stones I command you today, and smooth them with lime.

5 There you shall build an altar to the Lord your God from stones that iron has not touched,

6 from unshaped and unpolished rocks, and you shall offer burnt offerings upon it to the Lord your God.

7 You shall sacrifice peace offerings, eat there, and feast before the Lord your God.

8 You shall write upon the stones all the words of this law plainly and clearly.”

9 Moses and the priests of Levitical stock said to all Israel, “Attend and hear, Israel: today you have become the people of the Lord your God.

10 You shall hear his voice and perform the commandments and just ordinances I command you.”

11 On that day Moses commanded the people, saying,

12 “These shall stand upon Mount Gerizim to bless the people after the Jordan has been crossed: Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Joseph, and Benjamin.

13 Opposite them, these shall stand upon Mount Ebal to curse: Reuben, Gad, Asher, Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali.

14 The Levites shall pronounce and say to all the men of Israel with a loud voice:

15 ‘Cursed is the man who makes a carved or molten thing, an abomination of the Lord, the work of artisans’ hands, and sets it in secret.’ All the people shall answer and say, ‘Amen.’

16 ‘Cursed is one who does not honor his father and mother.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’

17 ‘Cursed is one who transfers his neighbor’s boundaries.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’

18 ‘Cursed is one who causes the blind to wander on the road.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’

19 ‘Cursed is one who perverts the judgment of the newcomer, orphan, and widow.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’

20 ‘Cursed is one who sleeps with his father’s wife and reveals the covering of his bed.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’

21 ‘Cursed is one who sleeps with any beast.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’

22 ‘Cursed is one who sleeps with his sister, the daughter of his father or mother.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’

23 ‘Cursed is one who sleeps with his mother-in-law.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’

24 ‘Cursed is one who secretly strikes his neighbor.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’

25 ‘Cursed is one who accepts gifts to strike the soul of innocent blood.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’

26 ‘Cursed is one who does not remain in the words of this law or fulfill them in deed.’ And all the people shall say, ‘Amen.’”

CHAPTER 28

1 “But if you hear the voice of the Lord your God, performing and keeping all his commandments that I command you today, the Lord your God shall make you higher than all the nations upon earth.

2 All these blessings shall come upon you and overtake you, provided you hear his precepts.

3 Blessed shall you be in the city and blessed in the field.

4 Blessed shall be the fruit of your womb, the fruit of your land, and the fruit of your beasts—the herds of your cattle and folds of your sheep.

5 Blessed shall be your barns, and blessed your remnants.

6 Blessed shall you be entering and departing.

7 The Lord shall give your enemies who rise against you to fall in your sight. By one way they shall come against you, and by seven they shall flee from your face.

8 The Lord shall send blessing upon your storehouses and every work of your hands, and shall bless you in the land you receive.

9 The Lord shall raise you up as a holy people for himself, as he swore to you, if you keep the commandments of the Lord your God and walk in his ways.

10 All the peoples of the earth shall see that the Lord’s name has been invoked upon you, and they shall fear you.

11 The Lord shall cause you to abound in every good thing, in the fruit of your womb, the fruit of your beasts, and the fruit of your land, which the Lord swore to your fathers that he would give you.

12 The Lord shall open his excellent treasure, heaven, to give rain to your land in its time, and shall bless all the works of your hands. You shall lend to many nations, but shall receive no loan from anyone.

13 The Lord shall establish you as the head and not the tail. You shall always be above and not beneath, provided you hear the commandments of the Lord your God that I command you today and keep and perform them,

14 and do not turn from them to the right or left, follow foreign gods, or worship them.

15 But if you are unwilling to hear the voice of the Lord your God, to keep and perform all his commandments and ceremonies that I command you today, all these curses shall come upon you and overtake you.

16 Cursed shall you be in the city; cursed in the field.

17 Cursed shall be your barn, and cursed your remnants.

18 Cursed shall be the fruit of your womb and the fruit of your land, the herds of your cattle and flocks of your sheep.

19 Cursed shall you be entering, and cursed departing.

20 The Lord shall send upon you famine, hunger, and rebuke in all the works you perform, until he crushes and quickly destroys you because of your most wicked inventions by which you abandoned me.

21 May the Lord join pestilence to you until he consumes you from the land you enter to possess.

22 May the Lord strike you with want, fever, cold, burning heat, corrupted air, and blight, and pursue you until you perish.

23 May the heaven above you be bronze and the earth you tread iron.

24 May the Lord give dust as rain to your land, and may ashes descend upon you from heaven until you are crushed.

25 May the Lord deliver you to fall before your enemies. By one way you shall go out against them and by seven shall flee, and you shall be scattered throughout all the kingdoms of earth.

26 May your corpse become food for all the birds of heaven and beasts of earth, with no one to drive them away.

27 May the Lord strike you with Egypt’s ulcer, the part of the body through which excrement is discharged, with scab and itching, so that you cannot be cured.

28 May the Lord strike you with madness, blindness, and fury of mind,

29 so that you grope at midday as the blind are accustomed to grope in darkness and do not direct your ways. At all times may you endure slander and be oppressed by violence, with no one to deliver you.

30 May you take a wife and another sleep with her. May you build a house and not live in it. May you plant a vineyard and not harvest it.

31 May your ox be sacrificed before you and you not eat from it. May your donkey be seized in your sight and not returned to you. May your sheep be given to your enemies, with no one to help you.

32 May your sons and daughters be delivered to another people while your eyes see and fail at the sight of them all day, with no strength in your hand.

33 May a people you do not know eat the fruit of your land and all your labors, and may you always endure slander and be oppressed all your days,

34 and be astonished at the terror of what your eyes shall see.

35 May the Lord strike you with a most grievous ulcer in the knees and calves, so that you cannot be healed from the sole of your foot to the crown of your head.

36 The Lord shall lead you and the king you establish over yourself to a nation that neither you nor your fathers know, and there you shall serve foreign gods of wood and stone.

37 You shall become lost as a proverb and fable among all the peoples to whom the Lord brings you.

38 You shall cast much seed into the earth and gather little, because locusts shall devour everything.

39 You shall plant and dig a vineyard but drink no wine or gather anything from it, because it shall be laid waste by worms.

40 You shall have olive trees throughout all your borders but not be anointed with oil, because they shall fall and perish.

41 You shall father sons and daughters but not enjoy them, because they shall be led into captivity.

42 Blight shall consume all your trees and the fruits of your land.

43 The newcomer who lives with you in the land shall ascend above you and become higher, but you shall descend and become lower.

44 He shall lend to you, and you shall not lend to him. He shall be the head and you the tail.

45 All these curses shall come upon you, pursue and overtake you until you perish, because you did not hear the voice of the Lord your God or keep his commandments and ceremonies that he commanded you.

46 They shall be signs and wonders upon you and your seed forever,

47 because you did not serve the Lord your God in joy and gladness of heart amid an abundance of everything.

48 You shall serve your enemy whom the Lord shall send upon you, in hunger, thirst, nakedness, and every want. He shall place an iron yoke upon your neck until he crushes you.

49 The Lord shall bring upon you a nation from afar and from the farthest boundaries of earth, like an eagle flying with force, whose language you are unable to understand;

50 a most shameless nation that shows no regard for the old or mercy to the little one.

51 It shall devour the fruit of your beasts and the fruits of your land until you perish, leaving you no wheat, wine, oil, herds of cattle, or flocks of sheep until it destroys you.

52 It shall crush you within all your cities, and your strong and lofty walls in which you trusted shall be destroyed throughout all your land. You shall be besieged within your gates throughout all the land the Lord your God gives you.

53 You shall eat the fruit of your womb, the flesh of your sons and daughters whom the Lord your God gave you, in the anguish and devastation by which your enemy oppresses you.

54 The delicate and exceedingly luxurious man among you shall begrudge his brother and the wife who lies in his bosom,

55 so as not to give them any of his sons' flesh that he eats, because he has nothing else amid the siege and want by which your enemies devastate you within all your gates.

56 The tender and delicate woman who was unable to walk upon the ground or set down the sole of her foot because of excessive softness and tenderness shall begrudge her husband who lies in her bosom the flesh of her son and daughter,

57 and the uncleanness of the afterbirth that comes from between her thighs, and the children born at that same hour, for they shall eat them secretly because of the want of everything amid the siege and devastation by which your enemy oppresses you within your gates.

58 Unless you keep and perform all the words of this law written in this scroll and fear his glorious and terrible name—that is, the Lord your God—

59 the Lord shall increase your plagues and the plagues of your seed: great and enduring plagues, most grievous and perpetual diseases.

60 He shall turn against you all the afflictions of Egypt that you feared, and they shall cling to you.

61 Moreover, the Lord shall bring upon you every sickness and plague not written in the scroll of this law until he crushes you.

62 You who were previously like the stars of heaven in multitude shall remain few in number, because you did not hear the voice of the Lord your God.

63 As the Lord previously rejoiced over you, doing good to you and multiplying you, so he shall rejoice in destroying and overthrowing you, so that you are removed from the land you enter to possess.

64 The Lord shall scatter you among all peoples, from one end of the earth to its boundaries. There you shall serve foreign gods unknown to you and your fathers, gods of wood and stone.

65 Among those nations also you shall not rest, nor shall there be rest for the sole of your foot, for there the Lord shall give you a fearful heart, failing eyes, and a soul consumed by sorrow.

66 Your life shall be as though hanging before you. You shall fear night and day and shall not believe in your life.

67 In the morning you shall say, ‘Who shall grant me evening?’ and in the evening, ‘Who shall grant me morning?’ because of your heart’s dread by which you are terrified and because of what your eyes shall see.

68 The Lord shall lead you back to Egypt in fleets, by the way concerning which he told you that you would see it no more. There you shall be sold to your enemies as male and female servants, and there shall be no buyer.”

CHAPTER 29

1 These are the words of the covenant the Lord commanded Moses to strike with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, besides the covenant he made with them at Horeb.

2 Moses called all Israel and said to them, “You saw everything the Lord did before you in the land of Egypt to Pharaoh, all his servants, and his entire land:

3 the great trials your eyes saw, those signs and immense wonders.

4 Yet the Lord has not given you an understanding heart, seeing eyes, and ears able to hear, even to the present day.

5 He led you through the wilderness for forty years. Your garments were not worn away, nor were the shoes of your feet consumed through age.

6 You ate no bread and drank no wine or strong drink, so that you might know that I am the Lord your God.

7 You came to this place, and Sihon king of Heshbon and Og king of Bashan came out to meet us for battle. We struck them,

8 took their land, and delivered it as a possession to Reuben, Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh.

9 Therefore keep the words of this pact and fulfill them, so that you may understand everything you do.

10 All of you stand today before the Lord your God: your leaders, tribes, elders, teachers, and all the people of Israel;

11 your children and wives, and the newcomer who remains with you in the camp, except the cutters of wood and those who carry water;

12 so that you may pass into the covenant of the Lord your God and the oath the Lord your God strikes with you today,

13 that he may raise you up as his people and himself be your God, as he spoke to you and swore to your fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

14 Nor with you alone do I strike this covenant and confirm these oaths,

15 but with all who are present and absent.

16 For you know how we lived in the land of Egypt and how we passed through the midst of the nations through which you passed.

17 You saw their abominations and filth—that is, their idols of wood, stone, silver, and gold—which they worshiped.

18 Lest perhaps there be among you a man or woman, family or tribe, whose heart is turned today from the Lord our God to go and serve the gods of those nations, and there be among you a root sprouting gall and bitterness,

19 and when he hears the words of this oath, he blesses himself in his heart, saying, ‘There shall be peace for me, and I shall walk in the depravity of my heart,’ so that the drunken may consume the thirsty,

20 may the Lord not forgive him. Instead, may his fury smoke then most greatly and his zeal rise against that man; may all the curses written in this scroll rest upon him; and may the Lord destroy his name from beneath heaven

21 and consume him into destruction from all the tribes of Israel, according to the curses contained in the book of this law and covenant.

22 The following generation, the children born afterward, and sojourners who come from far away shall speak when they see the plagues of that land and the diseases with which the Lord afflicted it,

23 burning it with sulfur and the heat of salt, so that it is no longer sown and no green thing sprouts, after the example of the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboiim, which the Lord overthrew in his anger and fury.

24 All nations shall say, ‘Why did the Lord act this way toward this land? What is this immense anger of his fury?’

25 They shall answer, ‘Because they abandoned the Lord’s pact that he made with their fathers when he led them from the land of Egypt,

26 and served and adored foreign gods whom they did not know and who had not been allotted to them.

27 Therefore the Lord’s fury became angry against this land, to bring upon it all the curses written in this scroll,

28 and he cast them from their land in anger, fury, and greatest indignation, and cast them into a foreign land, as is proved today.’

29 Hidden things belong to the Lord our God, but those revealed belong to us and our children forever, so that we may perform all the words of this law.”

CHAPTER 30

1 “Therefore, when all these words come upon you—the blessing or curse I set before your sight—and you are led to penance of heart among all the nations into which the Lord your God scattered you,

2 and return to him and obey his commands, as I command you today, you and your sons, with your whole heart and whole soul,

3 the Lord your God shall bring back your captivity, have mercy upon you, and gather you again from all the peoples among whom he previously scattered you.

4 If you have been scattered as far as the hinges of heaven, from there the Lord your God shall draw you back,

5 take you, and bring you into the land your fathers possessed, and you shall obtain it. Blessing you, he shall make you more numerous than your fathers were.

6 The Lord your God shall circumcise your heart and the heart of your seed, so that you may love the Lord your God with your whole heart and whole soul and be able to live.

7 He shall turn all these curses upon your enemies and those who hate and persecute you.

8 But you shall return and hear the voice of the Lord your God and perform all the commandments I command you today.

9 The Lord your God shall cause you to abound in every work of your hands, in the offspring of your womb, the fruit of your beasts, the fertility of your land, and the abundance of everything. For the Lord shall return to rejoice over you in every good thing, as he rejoiced over your fathers,

10 provided you hear the voice of the Lord your God, keep his precepts and ceremonies written in this law, and return to the Lord your God with your whole heart and whole soul.

11 This commandment I command you today is not above you or placed far away.

12 It is not situated in heaven, so that you could say, ‘Which of us is able to ascend to heaven, bring it to us, so that we may hear and fulfill it in deed?’

13 Nor is it placed beyond the sea, so that you might make excuse and say, ‘Which of us shall be able to cross the sea and bring it all the way to us, so that we may hear and perform what is commanded?’

14 Rather, the word is exceedingly near you, in your mouth and heart, so that you may perform it.

15 Consider that today I have set before your sight life and good, and on the contrary, death and evil,

16 so that you may love the Lord your God, walk in his ways, and keep his commandments, ceremonies, and judgments; and may live and be multiplied, and he may bless you in the land you enter to possess.

17 But if your heart turns away, you are unwilling to hear, and, deceived by error, you adore and serve foreign gods,

18 I foretell to you today that you shall perish and die after a short time in the land you enter to possess after crossing the Jordan.

19 I call heaven and earth as witnesses today that I have set before you life and death, blessing and curse. Therefore choose life, so that you and your seed may live,

20 love the Lord your God, obey his voice, and cling to him—for he is your life and the length of your days—so that you may live in the land concerning which the Lord swore to your fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob that he would give it to them.”

CHAPTER 31

1 Therefore Moses went and spoke all these words to all Israel.

2 He said to them, “Today I am one hundred twenty years old. I am no longer able to go out and come in, especially since the Lord has said to me, ‘You shall not cross this Jordan.’

3 Therefore the Lord your God shall cross before you. He himself shall destroy all these nations in your sight, and you shall possess them. Joshua here shall cross before you, as the Lord has spoken.

4 The Lord shall do to them as he did to Sihon and Og, kings of the Amorites, and their land, and shall destroy them.

5 Therefore, when he delivers these also to you, you shall act toward them in the same way as I commanded you.

6 Act manfully and be strengthened. Do not fear or dread at the sight of them, because the Lord your God himself is your leader and shall not dismiss or abandon you.”

7 Moses called Joshua and said to him before all Israel, “Be strengthened and mighty, for you shall bring this people into the land the Lord swore to their fathers that he would give them, and you shall divide it by lot.

8 The Lord, who is your leader, shall himself be with you. He shall not dismiss or abandon you. Do not fear or dread.”

9 Therefore Moses wrote this law and delivered it to the priests, the sons of Levi who carried the ark of the Lord’s covenant, and to all the elders of Israel.

10 He commanded them, saying, “After seven years, in the year of remission, at the solemnity of Tabernacles,

11 when all from Israel assemble to appear in the sight of the Lord your God in the place the Lord chooses, you shall read the words of this law before all Israel in their hearing,

12 with all the people gathered as one—men, women, little ones, and newcomers within your gates—so that, hearing, they may learn, fear the Lord your God, and keep and fulfill all the words of this law.

13 Their children who do not now know shall also be able to hear and fear the Lord their God all the days they live in the land you go to obtain after crossing the Jordan.”

14 The Lord said to Moses, “Behold, the days of your death are near. Call Joshua and stand in the tabernacle of testimony, so that I may command him.” Therefore Moses and Joshua went and stood in the tabernacle of testimony.

15 The Lord appeared there in a pillar of cloud, which stood at the entrance of the tabernacle.

16 The Lord said to Moses, “Behold, you shall sleep with your fathers, and this people, rising, shall fornicate after foreign gods in the land they enter to live in. There they shall abandon me and make void the covenant I made with them.

17 My fury shall become angry against them on that day. I shall abandon them and hide my face from them, and they shall become food for devouring. Every evil and affliction shall find them, so that on that day they say, ‘Truly, because God is not with me, these evils have found me.’

18 But I shall hide and conceal my face on that day because of all the evils they committed by following foreign gods.

19 Therefore now write this canticle for yourselves and teach it to the children of Israel, so that they may hold it in memory and sing it with their mouth, and this song may be my testimony among the children of Israel.

20 For I shall bring them into the land flowing with milk and honey, concerning which I swore to their fathers. When they have eaten, are filled, and become fat, they shall turn to foreign gods and serve them. They shall slander me and make my pact void.

21 After many evils and afflictions find them, this canticle shall answer them as testimony, because no forgetfulness shall erase it from the mouth of their seed. For I know the thoughts they are going to perform today, before I bring them into the land I promised them.”

22 Therefore Moses wrote the canticle and taught it to the children of Israel.

23 The Lord commanded Joshua son of Nun, saying, “Be strengthened and mighty, for you shall bring the children of Israel into the land I promised, and I shall be with you.”

24 Therefore, after Moses wrote the words of this law in a scroll and completed it,

25 he commanded the Levites who carried the ark of the Lord’s covenant, saying,

26 “Take this book and place it beside the ark of the covenant of the Lord your God, so that it may be there as testimony against you.

27 For I know your contention and hardest neck. Even while I am still living and going with you, you have always acted contentiously against the Lord—how much more when I am dead?

28 Gather to me all the elders throughout your tribes and the teachers. I shall speak these words in their hearing and call heaven and earth against them.

29 For I know that after my death you shall act wickedly and quickly turn from the way I commanded you. Evils shall meet you at the last time, when you do evil in the Lord's sight and provoke him through the works of your hands."

30 Therefore Moses spoke the words of this canticle in the hearing of the whole assembly of Israel and completed them to the end.

CHAPTER 32

1 “Hear, heavens, what I speak; let the earth hear the words of my mouth.

2 Let my teaching thicken like rain; let my utterance flow like dew, like a shower upon grass and drops upon blades of grass.

3 For I shall invoke the Lord’s name; give magnificence to our God.

4 God’s works are perfect, and all his ways are judgments. God is faithful and without any iniquity, just and upright.

5 They sinned against him and are not his children in their filth—a depraved and perverse generation.

6 Is this what you return to the Lord, foolish and senseless people? Is he not your father, who possessed you, made you, and created you?

7 Remember the ancient days; consider each generation. Question your father, and he shall declare it to you; your elders, and they shall tell you.

8 When the Most High divided the nations, when he separated the sons of Adam, he established the boundaries of the peoples according to the number of the children of Israel.

9 But the Lord’s portion is his people; Jacob is the cord of his inheritance.

10 He found him in a desert land, in a place of horror and vast wilderness. He led him around and taught him, and guarded him like the pupil of his eye.

11 Like an eagle urging its young to fly and hovering over them, he spread his wings, took him up, and carried him upon his shoulders.

12 The Lord alone was his leader, and no foreign god was with him.

13 He established him upon a high land, that he might eat the fruits of the fields and suck honey from the rock and oil from the hardest stone;

14 butter from the herd and milk from the sheep, with the fat of lambs and rams, sons of Bashan; and goats with the marrow of wheat, and that he might drink the purest blood of the grape.

15 The beloved grew fat and kicked. Grown fat, thick, and broad, he abandoned God his maker and withdrew from God his savior.

16 They provoked him with foreign gods and stirred him to anger with abominations.

17 They sacrificed to demons and not to God, to gods they did not know. New and recent gods came, whom their fathers did not worship.

18 You abandoned the God who fathered you and forgot the Lord who created you.

19 The Lord saw and was stirred to anger, because his sons and daughters provoked him.

20 He said, ‘I shall hide my face from them and consider their last things, for they are a perverse generation and unfaithful children.

21 They provoked me with what was not God and irritated me with their vanities. I shall provoke them with what is not a people and irritate them with a foolish nation.

22 Fire has been kindled in my fury and shall burn to the lowest depths of hell. It shall devour the earth with its growth and burn the foundations of the mountains.

23 I shall gather evils upon them and complete my arrows in them.

24 They shall be consumed by hunger, and birds shall devour them with a most bitter bite. I shall send the teeth of beasts upon them, with the fury of creatures dragging upon the ground and of serpents.

25 Outside, the sword shall lay them waste, and inside, terror—the young man together with the virgin, the nursing infant with the old man.’

26 I said, ‘Where are they? I shall cause their memory to cease from among humans.’

27 But I delayed because of the enemies’ anger, lest perhaps their adversaries become proud and say, ‘Our uplifted hand, and not the Lord, did all these things.’

28 It is a nation without counsel and without prudence.

29 If only they were wise, understood, and provided for their last things.

30 How can one pursue a thousand and two put ten thousand to flight? Is it not because their God sold them and the Lord enclosed them?

31 For our God is not like their gods, and our enemies are judges.

32 Their vine is from the vineyard of Sodom and the outskirts of Gomorrah; their grape is a grape of gall, and their clusters are most bitter.

33 Their wine is the gall of dragons and the incurable venom of asps.

34 Are these things not stored with me and sealed in my treasures?

35 Vengeance is mine, and I shall repay in time, so that their foot may slip. The day of destruction is near, and the times hasten to be present.

36 The Lord shall judge his people and have mercy upon his servants. He shall see that the hand has been weakened, that even those enclosed have failed, and the remnants are consumed.

37 He shall say, ‘Where are their gods, in whom they had confidence,

38 from whose victims they ate fat and drank the wine of libations? Let them rise and help you, and protect you in necessity.

39 See that I alone am, and there is no other god besides me. I shall kill, and I shall make alive. I shall strike, and I shall heal, and there is no one able to rescue from my hand.

40 I shall raise my hand to heaven and say: I live forever.

41 If I sharpen my sword like lightning and my hand seizes judgment, I shall return vengeance upon my enemies and repay those who hate me.

42 I shall make my arrows drunk with blood, and my sword shall devour flesh—from the blood of the slain and from captivity, from the naked head of the enemies.’

43 Praise his people, nations, because he shall avenge the blood of his servants, repay vengeance upon their enemies, and be merciful to the land of his people.”

44 Therefore Moses came and spoke all the words of this canticle in the people’s hearing, he and Joshua son of Nun.

45 He finished all these words, speaking to all Israel,

46 and said to them, “Place your hearts upon all the words to which I bear witness for you today, so that you may command your children to keep, perform, and fulfill everything written in this law.

47 For these things have not been commanded to you in vain, but so that each may live in them. By performing them, you may remain for a long time in the land you enter to possess after crossing the Jordan.”

48 The Lord spoke to Moses on that same day, saying,

49 “Ascend this mountain Abarim—that is, of Passages—Mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab opposite Jericho. See the land of Canaan that I shall deliver to the children of Israel to obtain, and die upon the mountain.

50 Ascending it, you shall be joined to your peoples, as Aaron your brother died upon Mount Hor and was added to his peoples,

51 because you transgressed against me in the midst of the children of Israel at the Waters of Contradiction in Kadesh in the wilderness of Zin, and did not sanctify me among the children of Israel.

52 From opposite it you shall see the land but shall not enter the land I shall give to the children of Israel.”

CHAPTER 33

1 This is the blessing with which Moses, the man of God, blessed the children of Israel before his death.

2 He said: “The Lord came from Sinai and arose for us from Seir. He appeared from Mount Paran, and thousands of saints were with him. In his right hand was a fiery law.

3 He loved the peoples; all the saints are in his hand, and those who approach his feet shall receive from his teaching.

4 Moses commanded us a law, the inheritance of the multitude of Jacob.

5 He shall be king with the Most Upright when the leaders of the people are gathered with the tribes of Israel.

6 May Reuben live and not die, and may he be small in number.”

7 This is Judah’s blessing: “Hear, Lord, the voice of Judah, and bring him to his people. His hands shall fight for him, and you shall be his helper against his adversaries.”

8 To Levi also he said: “Your Perfection and your Teaching belong to your holy man, whom you tested at the Temptation and judged at the Waters of Contradiction,

9 who said to his father and mother, ‘I do not know you,’ and to his brothers, ‘I am ignorant of you,’ and they did not know their sons. These kept your utterance and observed your pact.

10 They shall set your judgments before Jacob and your law before Israel. They shall place incense in your fury and a burnt offering upon your altar.

11 Bless his strength, Lord, and receive the works of his hands. Strike the backs of his enemies, and let those who hate him not rise.”

12 Of Benjamin he said: “The Lord’s most beloved shall live confidently in him. He shall remain as in a bridal chamber all day and rest between his shoulders.”

13 Of Joseph also he said: “May his land be from the Lord’s blessing, from the fruits of heaven and the dew and the deep lying beneath;

14 from the fruits brought forth by the sun and moon;

15 from the summit of the ancient mountains and the fruits of the everlasting hills;

16 and from the fruits of the earth and its fullness. May the blessing of him who appeared in the bush come upon Joseph’s head and upon the crown of the Nazirite among his brothers.

17 His beauty is like the firstborn of a bull; his horns are the horns of the rhinoceros. With them he shall winnow the nations as far as the boundaries of earth. These are the multitudes of Ephraim, and these the thousands of Manasseh.”

18 Of Zebulun he said: “Rejoice, Zebulun, in your going out, and Issachar in your tabernacles.

19 They shall call the peoples to the mountain. There they shall sacrifice victims of justice. They shall suck the sea’s inundation like milk and the hidden treasures of the sands.”

20 Of Gad he said: “Blessed is Gad in breadth. He rested like a lion and seized the arm and crown.

21 He saw his preeminence, because in his portion a teacher was laid up. He was with the leaders of the people and performed the Lord’s just deeds and his judgment with Israel.”

22 Of Dan also he said: “Dan is a lion’s cub; he shall flow abundantly from Bashan.”

23 Of Naphtali he said: “Naphtali shall enjoy abundance and be full of the Lord’s blessings. He shall possess the sea and the south.”

24 Of Asher also he said: “Blessed among sons is Asher. May he be pleasing to his brothers and dip his foot in oil.

25 Iron and bronze shall be his shoe. As the days of your youth, so also shall be your old age.

26 There is no other god like the God of the Most Upright, the rider of heaven, your helper. By his magnificence the clouds run.

27 His dwelling place is above, and beneath are everlasting arms. He shall cast the enemy from your face and say, ‘Be crushed.’

28 Israel shall live confidently and alone. Jacob’s eye shall be in a land of grain and wine, and the heavens shall be dark with dew.

29 Blessed are you, Israel. Who is like you, a people saved in the Lord? He is the shield of your help and sword of your glory. Your enemies shall deny you, and you shall tread upon their necks.”

CHAPTER 34

1 Therefore Moses ascended from the plains of Moab to Mount Nebo, to the summit of Pisgah opposite Jericho, and the Lord showed him all the land of Gilead as far as Dan,

2 all Naphtali, the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, and all the land of Judah as far as the farthest sea,

3 the southern region, and the breadth of the plain of Jericho, the City of Palms, as far as Zoar.

4 The Lord said to him, “This is the land concerning which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying, ‘I shall give it to your seed.’ You have seen it with your eyes but shall not cross to it.”

5 There Moses, the Lord’s servant, died in the land of Moab at the Lord’s command,

6 and he buried him in the valley of the land of Moab opposite Peor. No man has known his grave even to the present day.

7 Moses was one hundred twenty years old when he died. His eye was not dimmed, nor were his teeth moved.

8 The children of Israel wept for him on the plains of Moab for thirty days, and the days of mourning for Moses were completed.

9 Joshua son of Nun was filled with the spirit of wisdom because Moses had laid his hands upon him. The children of Israel obeyed him and acted as the Lord had commanded Moses.

10 No prophet rose again in Israel like Moses, whom the Lord knew face to face,

11 in all the signs and wonders he sent him to perform in the land of Egypt against Pharaoh, all his servants, and his entire land,

12 and in all the mighty hand and great wonders Moses performed before all Israel.

BOOK SIX: JOSHUA

CHAPTER 1

1 After the death of Moses, the Lord's servant, the Lord (YHWH) spoke to Joshua son of Nun, Moses' minister, saying to him,

2 "Moses my servant is dead. Rise and cross this Jordan, you and all the people with you, into the land I shall give to the children of Israel.

3 I shall deliver to you every place the sole of your foot treads, as I spoke to Moses.

4 Your boundary shall be from the wilderness and Lebanon as far as the great river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, as far as the Great Sea toward the setting sun.

5 No one shall be able to resist you all the days of your life. As I was with Moses, so shall I be with you. I shall not dismiss or abandon you.

6 Be strengthened and mighty, for you shall divide by lot among this people the land concerning which I swore to their fathers that I would deliver it to them.

7 Therefore be strengthened and exceedingly mighty, so that you may keep and perform the whole law Moses my servant commanded you. Turn from it neither to the right nor the left, so that you may understand everything you do.

8 Let not the scroll of this law depart from your mouth, but meditate upon it day and night, so that you may keep and perform everything written in it. Then you shall direct your way and understand it.

9 Behold, I command you: be strengthened and mighty. Do not dread or fear, because the Lord your God is with you in everything to which you go."

10 Joshua commanded the leaders of the people, saying, "Pass through the midst of the camp and command the people, saying,

11 'Prepare provisions for yourselves, because after the third day you shall cross the Jordan and enter to possess the land the Lord your God is going to give you.'"

12 To the Reubenites, Gadites, and half tribe of Manasseh he said,

13 "Remember the word Moses, the Lord's servant, commanded you: 'The Lord your God gave you rest and all the land.

14 Your wives, children, and beasts shall remain in the land Moses delivered to you beyond the Jordan. But all of you mighty in hand shall cross armed before your brothers and fight for them,

15 until the Lord gives rest to your brothers as he gave to you, and they too possess the land the Lord your God is going to give them. Then return to the land of your possession and live in it, which Moses, the Lord's servant, gave you beyond the Jordan toward the sunrise.'"

16 They answered Joshua, saying, "We shall do everything you commanded us and go wherever you send us.

17 As we obeyed Moses in everything, so shall we obey you. Only may the Lord your God be with you as he was with Moses.

18 Whoever contradicts your mouth and does not obey all the words you command him shall die. Only be strengthened and act manfully."

CHAPTER 2

1 Therefore Joshua son of Nun secretly sent two men as explorers from Shittim and said to them, “Go and examine the land and the city of Jericho.” Going, they entered the house of a prostitute named Rahab and rested with her.

2 It was reported to the king of Jericho: “Behold, men from the children of Israel entered here by night to explore the land.”

3 The king of Jericho sent to Rahab, saying, “Bring out the men who came to you and entered your house, for they are explorers and came to examine the entire land.”

4 The woman took and hid the men and said, “I confess that they came to me, but I did not know where they were from.

5 When the gate was being closed in the darkness, they likewise went out. I do not know where they went. Pursue them quickly, and you shall seize them.”

6 But she had caused the men to ascend to the roof of her house and covered them with flax straw that was there.

7 Those who had been sent pursued them by the road leading to the ford of the Jordan, and as soon as they went out, the gate was closed.

8 Those hiding had not yet fallen asleep when, behold, the woman ascended to them and said,

9 “I know that the Lord has delivered the land to you, for terror of you has rushed upon us and all the inhabitants of the land have grown faint.

10 We heard that the Lord dried the waters of the Red Sea at your entrance when you went out from Egypt, and what you did to the two Amorite kings beyond the Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom you killed.

11 Hearing these things, we became terrified and our heart grew faint, nor did spirit remain in us at your entrance, for the Lord your God himself is God in heaven above and upon earth below.

12 Therefore now swear to me by the Lord that, as I have shown mercy to you, so you shall act toward my father’s house, and give me a true sign

13 that you shall save my father and mother, my brothers and sisters, and everything that is theirs, and rescue our souls from death.”

14 They answered her, “May our soul be for you in death, provided you do not betray us. When the Lord delivers the land to us, we shall show you mercy and truth.”

15 Therefore she lowered them by a rope from the window, for her house clung to the wall.

16 She said to them, “Ascend into the mountains, lest perhaps those returning meet you. Hide there for three days until they return, and then go by your way.”

17 They said to her, “We shall be innocent of this oath by which you bound us,

18 if, when we enter the land, this scarlet cord is the sign, and you bind it in the window through which you lowered us, and gather your father, mother, brothers, and all your kindred into your house.

19 Whoever goes outside the door of your house, his blood shall be upon his own head and we shall be innocent. But the blood of all who are with you in the house shall return upon our head if anyone touches them.

20 But if you wish to betray us and disclose this word publicly, we shall be clean from this oath by which you bound us.”

21 She answered, “As you have spoken, so let it be.” Sending them away to depart, she hung the scarlet cord in the window.

22 They walked to the mountains and remained there for three days until those who had pursued returned, for they sought them along the whole road and did not find them.

23 When the pursuers entered the city, the explorers returned and descended from the mountain. Crossing the Jordan, they came to Joshua son of Nun and told him everything that had happened to them.

24 They said, “The Lord has delivered this whole land into our hands, and all its inhabitants have been cast down by fear.”

CHAPTER 3

1 Therefore Joshua, rising in the night, moved camp. Departing from Shittim, he and all the children of Israel came to the Jordan and remained there for three days.

2 When these had passed, heralds went through the midst of the camp

3 and began to proclaim, “When you see the ark of the covenant of the Lord your God and the priests of Levitical stock carrying it, you also shall rise and follow those going before you.

4 Let there be a space of two thousand cubits between you and the ark, so that you may see from afar and know by what way you should enter, because you have not walked by it before. Take care not to approach the ark.”

5 Joshua said to the people, “Sanctify yourselves, for tomorrow the Lord shall perform wonders among you.”

6 He said to the priests, “Take up the ark of the covenant and go before the people.” Fulfilling what was commanded, they took it and walked before them.

7 The Lord said to Joshua, “Today I shall begin to exalt you before all Israel, so that they may know that, as I was with Moses, so I am with you.

8 Command the priests who carry the ark of the covenant, saying to them: ‘When you enter the edge of the Jordan’s water, stand in it.’”

9 Joshua said to the children of Israel, “Approach here and hear the word of the Lord your God.”

10 Again he said, “By this you shall know that the living Lord God is in your midst and shall destroy before your sight the Canaanite, Hittite, Hivite, Perizzite, Girgashite, Jebusite, and Amorite.

11 Behold, the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth shall go before you through the Jordan.

12 Prepare twelve men from the tribes of Israel, one from each tribe.

13 When the priests carrying the ark of the Lord God of all the earth set the soles of their feet in the waters of the Jordan, the lower waters shall run down and fail, but those coming from above shall stand together in one mass.”

14 Therefore the people went out from their tabernacles to cross the Jordan, and the priests carrying the ark of the covenant proceeded before them.

15 When they entered the Jordan and their feet were dipped at the edge of the water—for the Jordan had filled the banks of its channel at harvest time—

16 the waters descending stood in one place and appeared swelling like a mountain far away, from the city called Adam as far as the place of Zarethan. But the lower waters descended into the Sea of the Wilderness, which is now called the Dead Sea, until they failed entirely.

17 The people advanced opposite Jericho, while the priests carrying the ark of the Lord’s covenant stood girded upon dry ground in the middle of the Jordan, and all the people crossed through the dry channel.

CHAPTER 4

1 When they had crossed, the Lord said to Joshua,

2 “Choose twelve men, one from each tribe,

3 and command them to take from the middle of the Jordan’s channel, where the priests’ feet stood, twelve exceedingly hard stones. You shall place them at the camp where you pitch your tents tonight.”

4 Joshua called the twelve men he had chosen from the children of Israel, one from each tribe,

5 and said to them, “Go before the ark of the Lord your God to the middle of the Jordan, and each carry from there one stone upon his shoulder, according to the number of the children of Israel,

6 so that it may be a sign among you. When your children ask you tomorrow, saying, ‘What do these stones mean?’

7 you shall answer them, ‘The waters of the Jordan failed before the ark of the Lord’s covenant when it crossed.’ Therefore these stones were placed as a memorial of the children of Israel forever.”

8 The children of Israel acted as Joshua commanded, carrying twelve stones from the middle of the Jordan’s channel, as the Lord had ordered him, according to the number of the children of Israel, as far as the place where they camped, and there they placed them.

9 Joshua also placed another twelve stones in the middle of the Jordan’s channel, where the priests carrying the ark of the covenant had stood, and they remain there even to the present day.

10 The priests carrying the ark stood in the middle of the Jordan until everything the Lord had commanded Joshua to speak to the people, and Moses had told him, was completed. The people hurried and crossed.

11 When everyone had crossed, the ark of the Lord also crossed, and the priests proceeded before the people.

12 The children of Reuben and Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh, armed, went before the children of Israel, as Moses had commanded them.

13 Forty thousand warriors, by companies and divisions, advanced through the plains and level places of the city of Jericho.

14 On that day the Lord magnified Joshua before all Israel, so that they feared him as they had feared Moses while he lived.

15 He said to him,

16 “Command the priests carrying the ark of the covenant to ascend from the Jordan.”

17 He commanded them, saying, “Ascend from the Jordan.”

18 When those carrying the ark of the Lord’s covenant ascended and began to tread dry ground, the waters returned to their channel and flowed as they had been accustomed before.

19 The people ascended from the Jordan on the tenth day of the first month and camped at Gilgal, toward the eastern region of the city of Jericho.

20 Joshua placed at Gilgal the twelve stones they had taken from the Jordan’s channel.

21 He said to the children of Israel, “When your children ask their fathers tomorrow, ‘What do these stones mean?’

22 you shall teach them and say, ‘Israel crossed this Jordan through a dry channel,

23 when the Lord your God dried its waters before your sight until you crossed,

24 as he had previously done at the Red Sea, which he dried until we crossed,’

25 so that all the peoples of the earth may learn the Lord’s most mighty hand and you may fear the Lord your God at all times.”

CHAPTER 5

1 Therefore, when all the kings of the Amorites who lived beyond the Jordan toward the western region, and all the kings of Canaan who possessed places near the Great Sea, heard that the Lord had dried the streams of the Jordan before the children of Israel until they crossed, their heart was dissolved and no spirit remained in them, because they feared the entrance of the children of Israel.

2 At that time the Lord said to Joshua, “Make stone knives for yourself and circumcise the children of Israel a second time.”

3 He did what the Lord commanded and circumcised the children of Israel upon the Hill of Foreskins.

4 This was the reason for the second circumcision: all the male people who went out from Egypt, all the warriors, died in the wilderness during the exceedingly long circuits of the way.

5 All of them had been circumcised, but the people born in the wilderness

6 remained uncircumcised during forty years of journey through the exceedingly broad wilderness, until those who had not heard the Lord’s voice were consumed, to whom he had previously sworn that he would not show the land flowing with milk and honey.

7 Their sons succeeded in place of their fathers and were circumcised by Joshua, because they were in their foreskin as when they were born, and no one had circumcised them on the way.

8 After all were circumcised, they remained in the same place of the camp until they were healed.

9 The Lord said to Joshua, “Today I have taken away the reproach of Egypt from you.” The name of that place was called Gilgal even to the present day.

10 The children of Israel remained at Gilgal and kept the Passover on the fourteenth day of the month, toward evening, on the plains of Jericho.

11 On the following day they ate from the fruits of the land: unleavened bread and parched grain of that same year.

12 The manna failed after they ate from the fruits of the land. The children of Israel used that food no longer, but ate from the fruits of the present year of the land of Canaan.

13 When Joshua was in the field of the city of Jericho, he raised his eyes and saw a man standing opposite him, holding a drawn sword. He went to him and said, “Are you ours or our adversaries’?”

14 He answered, “By no means. Rather, I am the prince of the Lord’s army, and now I come.”

15 Joshua fell prone upon the ground and, adoring, said, “What does my lord speak to his servant?”

16 He said, “Remove your shoe from your feet, for the place upon which you stand is holy.” Joshua did as he had been commanded.

CHAPTER 6

1 Jericho was closed and fortified for fear of the children of Israel, and no one dared go out or enter.

2 The Lord said to Joshua, “Behold, I have given Jericho, its king, and all its mighty men into your hand.

3 Let all the warriors circle the city once each day. You shall do this for six days.

4 But on the seventh day, let the priests take seven trumpets used in the Jubilee and go before the ark of the covenant. You shall circle the city seven times, and the priests shall sound the trumpets.

5 When the trumpet’s voice sounds longer and more sharply and roars in your ears, all the people shall shout with the greatest cry, the city walls shall fall from their foundations, and each shall enter through the place opposite which he stood.”

6 Therefore Joshua son of Nun called the priests and said to them, “Take up the ark of the covenant, and let another seven priests take the seven trumpets of Jubilees and walk before the ark of the Lord.”

7 He also said to the people, “Go and circle the city, armed, going before the ark of the Lord.”

8 When Joshua had finished speaking and the seven priests sounded the seven trumpets before the ark of the Lord’s covenant,

9 the entire armed army went before it, while the rest of the common people followed the ark, and everything resounded with trumpets.

10 Joshua had commanded the people, saying, “You shall not shout, your voice shall not be heard, and no word shall go out from your mouth until the day comes when I tell you: ‘Shout and cry aloud.’”

11 Therefore the ark of the Lord circled the city once during the day, and, returning to the camp, remained there.

12 Joshua rose in the night, and the priests took up the ark of the Lord.

13 Seven of them took the seven trumpets used in the Jubilee and, walking and sounding, went before the ark of the Lord. The armed people went before them, while the rest of the common people followed the ark and resounded with trumpets.

14 They circled the city once on the second day and returned to the camp. So they did for six days.

15 On the seventh day, rising at dawn, they circled the city seven times according to what had been arranged.

16 When the priests sounded the trumpets during the seventh circuit, Joshua said to all Israel, “Cry aloud, for the Lord has delivered the city to you.

17 Let this city and everything in it be anathema to the Lord. Let Rahab the prostitute alone live, with all who are with her in the house, because she hid the messengers we directed.

18 But beware of touching anything from what has been commanded, lest you become guilty of transgression and all the camp of Israel be under sin and troubled.

19 Whatever gold, silver, bronze vessels, and iron there is shall be consecrated to the Lord and stored in his treasuries.”

20 Therefore, when all the people cried aloud and the trumpets sounded, after the voice and noise roared in the multitude’s ears, the walls immediately fell. Each ascended through the place opposite him, and they seized the city.

21 They killed everything in it, from man to woman and infant to old man. They also struck the cattle, sheep, and donkeys with the edge of the sword.

22 Joshua said to the two men who had been sent as explorers, “Enter the prostitute woman’s house and bring her and everything that belongs to her out, as you confirmed to her by oath.”

23 The young men entered and brought out Rahab, her parents, brothers, all her goods and kindred, and made them remain outside the camp of Israel.

24 They burned the city and everything in it, except the gold, silver, bronze vessels, and iron, which they consecrated to the Lord’s treasury.

25 But Joshua caused Rahab the prostitute, her father’s house, and everything she had to live, and they lived in the midst of Israel even to the present day, because she hid the messengers he had sent to explore Jericho. At that time Joshua pronounced an imprecation, saying,

26 “Cursed before the Lord is the man who raises and builds the city of Jericho. Upon his firstborn may he lay its foundations, and upon the last of his children set up its gates.”

27 Therefore the Lord was with Joshua, and his name was spread throughout all the land.

CHAPTER 7

1 But the children of Israel transgressed the command and took from the anathema. For Achan son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, from the tribe of Judah, took something from the anathema, and the Lord became angry against the children of Israel.

2 When Joshua sent men from Jericho against Ai, which is beside Beth-Aven toward the eastern region of the town of Bethel, he said to them, “Ascend and explore the land.” Fulfilling the command, they explored Ai.

3 Returning, they said to him, “Let not all the people ascend. Instead, let two or three thousand men go and destroy the city. Why should all the people be troubled in vain against exceedingly few enemies?”

4 Therefore three thousand warriors ascended, but they immediately turned their backs.

5 They were struck by the men of the city of Ai, and thirty-six men fell from among them. Their adversaries pursued them from the gate as far as Shebarim, and they fell while fleeing down the slopes. The people’s heart became terrified and melted like water.

6 Joshua tore his garments and fell prone upon the ground before the ark of the Lord until evening, he and all the elders of Israel, and they cast dust upon their heads.

7 Joshua said, “Alas, Lord God, why did you wish to lead this people across the river Jordan, to deliver us into the Amorites’ hands and destroy us? If only we had remained beyond the Jordan as we began.

8 My Lord God, what shall I say, seeing Israel turn its back to its enemies?

9 The Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land shall hear and, gathering together, surround us and destroy our name from the earth. What shall you do for your great name?”

10 The Lord said to Joshua, “Rise. Why do you lie prone upon the ground?

11 Israel has sinned and transgressed my pact. They took from the anathema, stole, lied, and hid it among their vessels.

12 Israel shall not be able to stand before its enemies but shall flee them, because it is polluted by the anathema. I shall no longer be with you until you crush the one guilty of this crime.

13 Rise, sanctify the people, and say to them, ‘Sanctify yourselves for tomorrow, for thus says the Lord God of Israel: The anathema is in your midst, Israel. You shall not be able to stand before your enemies until the one contaminated by this crime is destroyed from you.

14 In the morning you shall approach one by one through your tribes. Whatever tribe the lot finds shall approach by its kindreds; the kindred by houses; and the house by men.

15 Whoever is apprehended in this crime shall be burned with fire with all his substance, because he transgressed the Lord’s pact and committed an abomination in Israel.’”

16 Therefore Joshua rose in the morning and brought Israel forward by its tribes, and the tribe of Judah was found.

17 When it was presented according to its families, the family of Zerah was found. Presenting it also by houses, he found Zabdi.

18 Dividing his house by individual men, he found Achan son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, from the tribe of Judah.

19 Joshua said to Achan, “My son, give glory to the Lord God of Israel, confess, and show me what you did. Do not hide it.”

20 Achan answered Joshua, saying, “Truly, I sinned against the Lord God of Israel, and I did thus and thus.

21 For among the spoils I saw an exceedingly good scarlet cloak, two hundred shekels of silver, and a gold bar of fifty shekels. Coveting them, I took and hid them in the ground opposite the middle of my tabernacle, and I covered the silver with the excavated soil.”

22 Therefore Joshua sent ministers. Running to his tabernacle, they found everything hidden in the same place, together with the silver.

23 Taking them from the tent, they carried them to Joshua and all the children of Israel and cast them before the Lord.

24 Therefore Joshua took Achan son of Zerah, the silver, cloak, and gold bar; his sons and daughters, cattle, donkeys, and sheep; his tabernacle and all his goods—and all Israel with him—and they led them to the Valley of Achor.

25 There Joshua said, “Because you troubled us, may the Lord trouble you on this day.” All Israel stoned him, and everything that belonged to him was consumed by fire.

26 They gathered a great heap of stones over him, which remains even to the present day, and the Lord’s fury turned away from them. The name of that place was called the Valley of Achor even to this day.

CHAPTER 8

1 The Lord said to Joshua, “Do not fear or dread. Take with you the entire multitude of warriors and, rising, ascend to the town of Ai. Behold, I have delivered its king, people, city, and land into your hand.

2 You shall do to the city of Ai and its king as you did to Jericho and its king, but you shall plunder its spoil and every living creature for yourselves. Place an ambush behind the city.”

3 Joshua and the entire army of warriors with him rose to ascend against Ai. Choosing thirty thousand mighty men, he sent them by night

4 and commanded them, saying, “Place an ambush behind the city and do not withdraw far away. All of you shall be prepared.

5 I and the rest of the multitude with me shall approach opposite the city. When they come out against us, as we did before, we shall flee and turn our backs

6 until, pursuing, they are drawn farther from the city, for they shall think we flee as before.

7 Therefore, when we flee and they pursue, you shall rise from the ambush and lay waste the city. The Lord your God shall deliver it into your hands.

8 When you have seized it, burn it and do everything as I commanded.”

9 He sent them away, and they proceeded to the place of ambush and sat between Bethel and Ai, on the western region of the city of Ai. But Joshua remained that night in the midst of the people.

10 Rising at dawn, he reviewed his companions and ascended with the elders at the front of the army, surrounded by the help of the warriors.

11 When they came and ascended opposite the city, they stood on its northern region, with a valley between them and the city.

12 He had chosen five thousand men and placed them in ambush between Bethel and Ai on the western side of that same city.

13 The entire rest of the army directed its battle line toward the north, so that the last of that multitude touched the western region of the city. Therefore Joshua went that night and stood in the middle of the valley.

14 When the king of Ai saw this, he hurried in the morning and went out with the whole army of the city, directing the battle line toward the wilderness, unaware that an ambush lay behind his back.

15 But Joshua and all Israel yielded their place, feigning fear and fleeing by way of the wilderness.

16 They all shouted and exhorted one another, pursuing them. When they had withdrawn from the city,

17 not even one remained in the city of Ai and Bethel who did not pursue Israel, for they had rushed out leaving the towns open.

18 The Lord said to Joshua, “Raise the shield in your hand against the city of Ai, because I shall deliver it to you.”

19 When he raised the shield opposite the city, the ambush that was hiding immediately rose, proceeded to the city, seized it, and burned it.

20 The men of the city who pursued Joshua looked back and saw the city’s smoke ascending as far as heaven. They were no longer able to flee here or there, especially since those who had feigned flight and were heading toward the wilderness resisted the pursuers most mightily.

21 When Joshua and all Israel saw that the city had been seized and its smoke ascended, they turned back and struck the men of Ai.

22 Those who had seized and burned the city also came out from it against their own forces and began striking the enemy in the middle. Therefore, when the adversaries were cut down from both sides, none of so great a multitude was saved.

23 They also apprehended the king of the city of Ai alive and presented him to Joshua.

24 Therefore, after all who had pursued Israel toward the wilderness were killed and fell by the sword in that same place, the children of Israel returned and struck the city.

25 Those who fell on that same day, from man to woman, were twelve thousand people, all of the city of Ai.

26 Joshua did not draw back the hand he had extended on high holding the shield until all the inhabitants of Ai were killed.

27 But the children of Israel divided the beasts and spoil of the city among themselves, as the Lord had commanded Joshua.

28 He burned the city and made it an everlasting mound.

29 He also hanged its king upon a gibbet until evening and sunset. Joshua commanded, and they took his corpse down from the cross, cast it at the very entrance of the city, and gathered a great heap of stones over him, which remains even to the present day.

30 Then Joshua built an altar to the Lord God of Israel upon Mount Ebal,

31 as Moses, the Lord's servant, had commanded the children of Israel and as is written in the scroll of the law of Moses: an altar from unpolished stones that iron had not touched. Upon it he offered holocausts to the Lord and sacrificed peace victims.

32 He wrote upon the stones a Deuteronomy of the law of Moses that Moses had arranged before the children of Israel.

33 All the people, elders, leaders, and judges stood on both sides of the ark in the sight of the priests carrying the ark of the Lord's covenant, newcomer as well as native. Half of them were beside Mount Gerizim and half beside Mount Ebal, as Moses, the Lord's servant, had commanded. First he blessed the people of Israel.

34 Afterward he read all the words of blessing and curse, and everything written in the scroll of the law.

35 He left untouched nothing of what Moses had ordered, but repeated everything before the whole multitude of Israel, the women, little ones, and newcomers who remained among them.

CHAPTER 9

1 When they heard these things, all the kings beyond the Jordan who lived in the mountains and plains, in the maritime regions and along the shore of the Great Sea, and those living beside Lebanon—the Hittite, Amorite, Canaanite, Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite—

2 gathered together to fight against Joshua and Israel with one mind and the same purpose.

3 But those living in Gibeon, hearing everything Joshua had done to Jericho and Ai,

4 devised cunningly and took provisions for themselves, placing old sacks upon their donkeys, with wineskins torn and sewn together.

5 They wore exceedingly old shoes stitched with patches as evidence of age and old garments. The bread they carried as provision was hard and broken into pieces.

6 They proceeded to Joshua, who was then remaining in the camp at Gilgal, and said to him and all Israel together, “We have come from a distant land, wishing to make peace with you.” The men of Israel answered them,

7 “Perhaps you live in the land owed to us by lot, and we shall not be able to enter a covenant with you.”

8 But they said to Joshua, “We are your servants.” Joshua said to them, “Who are you, and where have you come from?”

9 They answered, “Your servants came from an exceedingly distant land in the name of the Lord your God. For we heard the fame of his power, everything he did in Egypt,

10 and to the two kings of the Amorites beyond the Jordan: Sihon king of Heshbon and Og king of Bashan, who was at Ashtaroth.

11 Our elders and all the inhabitants of our land said to us, ‘Take provisions in your hands for the exceedingly long journey, meet them, and say: We are your servants; enter a covenant with us.’

12 Behold, when we departed from our houses to come to you, we took these loaves hot. Now they have become dry and broken by excessive age.

13 We filled these wineskins new; now they are torn and undone. The garments and shoes we wear and have upon our feet are worn and almost consumed because of the length of the longer journey.”

14 Therefore they received some of their provisions and did not inquire of the Lord’s mouth.

15 Joshua made peace with them and, entering a covenant, promised that they would not be killed. The leaders of the multitude also swore to them.

16 But three days after the covenant was entered, they heard that they lived nearby and would be among them.

17 The children of Israel moved camp and came to their cities on the third day, whose names are Gibeon, Chephirah, Beeroth, and Kiriath-Jearim.

18 They did not strike them because the leaders of the multitude had sworn to them in the name of the Lord God of Israel. Therefore all the common people murmured against the leaders.

19 They answered them, “We swore to them in the name of the Lord God of Israel, and therefore we cannot touch them.

20 But we shall do this to them: let them be preserved so that they may live, lest the Lord’s anger be stirred against us if we perjure ourselves.

21 Let them live in such a way that they cut wood and carry water for the use of the whole multitude.” While they were speaking these things, 22 Joshua called the Gibeonites and said to them, “Why did you wish to deceive us by fraud, saying, ‘We live exceedingly far from you,’ when you are in our midst?

23 Therefore you shall be under a curse, and there shall never fail from your stock one cutting wood and carrying water into the house of my God.”

24 They answered, “It was reported to us your servants that the Lord your God had promised Moses his servant that he would deliver all the land to you and destroy all its inhabitants. Therefore we feared exceedingly and, compelled by terror of you, provided for our souls and entered this plan.

25 Now we are in your hand. Do to us what seems good and right to you.”

26 Therefore Joshua acted as he had said and delivered them from the hand of the children of Israel, so that they were not killed.

27 On that day he decreed that they should serve the whole people and the Lord’s altar, cutting wood and carrying water even to the present time, in the place the Lord would choose.

CHAPTER 10

1 When Adoni-Zedek king of Jerusalem heard that Joshua had seized Ai and overthrown it—for as he had done to Jericho and its king, so he did to Ai and its king—and that the Gibeonites had fled to Israel and were their confederates,

2 he feared exceedingly. For Gibeon was a great city, one of the royal cities and greater than the town of Ai, and all its warriors were exceedingly mighty.

3 Therefore Adoni-Zedek king of Jerusalem sent to Hoham king of Hebron, Piram king of Jarmuth, Japhia king of Lachish, and Debir king of Eglon, saying,

4 "Ascend to me and bring aid, so that we may conquer Gibeon, because it has fled to Joshua and the children of Israel."

5 Therefore the five kings of the Amorites gathered and ascended—the king of Jerusalem, king of Hebron, king of Jarmuth, king of Lachish, and king of Eglon—with their armies, and camped around Gibeon, assaulting it.

6 The inhabitants of the besieged city of Gibeon sent to Joshua, who was then remaining in the camp at Gilgal, saying to him, "Do not withdraw your hands from helping your servants. Ascend quickly, liberate us, and bring aid, for all the kings of the Amorites who live in the mountains have assembled against us."

7 Joshua ascended from Gilgal, with the entire army of warriors and the most mighty men.

8 The Lord said to Joshua, "Do not fear them, for I have delivered them into your hands. None of them shall be able to resist you."

9 Therefore Joshua rushed upon them suddenly, ascending from Gilgal throughout the night.

10 The Lord threw them into confusion before Israel and crushed them with a great plague at Gibeon. He pursued them by the road of the ascent of Beth-Horon and struck them as far as Azekah and Makkedah.

11 As they fled the children of Israel and were on the descent of Beth-Horon, the Lord sent great stones from heaven upon them as far as Azekah. Far more died by the hailstones than the children of Israel struck with the sword.

12 Then Joshua spoke to the Lord on the day he delivered the Amorite in the sight of the children of Israel, saying before them, "Sun, do not move opposite Gibeon, nor moon opposite the Valley of Aijalon."

13 The sun and moon stood until the nation avenged itself upon its enemies. Is this not written in the Book of the Just? Therefore the sun stood in the middle of heaven and did not hasten to set for the space of one day.

14 There was not so long a day before or afterward, the Lord obeying a human voice and fighting for Israel.

15 Joshua returned with all Israel to the camp at Gilgal.

16 For the five kings had fled and hidden in a cave at the city of Makkedah.

17 It was reported to Joshua that the five kings had been found hiding in the cave at the city of Makkedah.

18 He commanded his companions, saying, "Roll immense rocks to the cave's mouth and appoint diligent men to guard those enclosed.

19 But do not stand still. Pursue the enemies and strike down the last of those fleeing. Do not permit them to enter the defenses of their cities, whom the Lord God has delivered into your hands."

20 Therefore, after the adversaries had been cut down with a great plague and almost consumed to destruction, those able to escape Israel entered fortified cities.

21 The whole army returned to Joshua at Makkedah, where the camp then was, safe and complete in number. No one dared mutter against the children of Israel.

22 Joshua commanded, saying, "Open the cave's mouth and bring out to me the five kings hiding in it."

23 The ministers acted as had been commanded them and brought the five kings from the cave to him: the king of Jerusalem, king of Hebron, king of Jarmuth, king of Lachish, and king of Eglon.

24 When they had been brought to him, he called all the men of Israel and said to the leaders of the army who were with him, "Go and place your feet upon the necks of these kings." They went and trod the necks of those subjected beneath their feet.

25 Again he said to them, "Do not fear or dread. Be strengthened and mighty, for so shall the Lord do to all your enemies against whom you fight."

26 Joshua struck and killed them and hanged them upon five stakes, and they remained hanging until evening.

27 When the sun set, he commanded his companions to take them down from the gibbets. They cast them into the cave where they had hidden and placed immense rocks over its mouth, which remain to the present.

28 On that same day Joshua seized Makkedah and struck it with the edge of the sword. He killed its king and all its inhabitants, leaving not even the smallest remnants. He did to the king of Makkedah as he had done to the king of Jericho.

29 He passed with all Israel from Makkedah to Libnah and fought against it.

30 The Lord delivered it with its king into Israel's hands. They struck the city and all its inhabitants with the edge of the sword, leaving no remnants. They did to the king of Libnah as they had done to the king of Jericho.

31 From Libnah he passed to Lachish with all Israel and, arranging the army around it, assaulted it.

32 The Lord delivered Lachish into Israel's hands. He seized it on the second day and struck with the edge of the sword every soul within it, as he had done to Libnah.

33 At that time Horam king of Gezer ascended to help Lachish, whom Joshua struck with all his people even to destruction.

34 He passed from Lachish to Eglon and surrounded it.

35 He conquered it on that same day and struck with the edge of the sword all the souls within it, according to everything he had done to Lachish.

36 He also ascended with all Israel from Eglon to Hebron and fought against it.

37 He seized it and struck with the edge of the sword its king, all the towns of that region, and every soul that had remained there. He left no remnants. As he had done to Eglon, so he did to Hebron, consuming with the sword everything he found there.

38 Returning from there to Debir,

39 he seized and laid it waste. He struck its king and all the surrounding towns with the edge of the sword and left no remnants. As he had done to Hebron and Libnah and their kings, so he did to Debir and its king.

40 Therefore Joshua struck the whole mountainous, southern, and level land and the Slopes with their kings. He left no remnants but killed everything able to breathe, as the Lord God of Israel had commanded him, 41 from Kadesh-Barnea as far as Gaza, and all the land of Goshen as far as Gibeon.

42 He seized and laid waste all their kings and regions in one assault, for the Lord God of Israel fought for him.

43 He returned with all Israel to the camp at Gilgal.

CHAPTER 11

1 When Jabin king of Hazor heard these things, he sent to Jobab king of Madon, the king of Shimron, and the king of Achshaph;

2 also to the kings of the north who lived in the mountains and the plain south of Chinneroth, in the level places and regions of Dor beside the sea;

3 to the Canaanite in the east and west, the Amorite, Hittite, Perizzite, and Jebusite in the mountains, and the Hivite who lived at the foot of Hermon in the land of Mizpah.

4 They all went out with their companies, an exceedingly numerous people like the sand upon the seashore, with horses and chariots of immense multitude.

5 All these kings assembled as one at the waters of Merom to fight against Israel.

6 The Lord said to Joshua, “Do not fear them, for tomorrow at this same hour I shall deliver all these to be wounded in the sight of Israel. You shall hamstring their horses and burn their chariots with fire.”

7 Joshua and the entire army with him came upon them suddenly at the waters of Merom and rushed upon them.

8 The Lord delivered them into Israel’s hands. They struck and pursued them as far as Great Sidon, the waters of Misrephoth, and the plain of Mizpah toward its eastern region. He struck them all, leaving no remnants.

9 He did as the Lord had commanded him: he hamstrung their horses and burned their chariots with fire.

10 Returning immediately, he seized Hazor and struck its king with the sword, for Hazor had held preeminence among all these kingdoms from ancient times.

11 He struck every soul remaining there. He left no remnants but laid everything waste even to destruction and destroyed the city itself by fire.

12 He seized, struck, and destroyed all the surrounding cities and their kings, as Moses, the Lord’s servant, had commanded him.

13 Apart from the cities situated on hills and mounds, Israel burned the others. Only the most fortified Hazor was consumed by flame.

14 The children of Israel divided among themselves all the spoil of these cities and the beasts, after all the people had been killed.

15 As the Lord had commanded Moses his servant, so Moses commanded Joshua, and Joshua fulfilled everything. He passed over not one word from all the commandments the Lord had ordered Moses.

16 Therefore Joshua seized all the mountainous and southern land, the land of Goshen, the plain, the western region, Mount Israel, and its level places;

17 and the region of the mountain ascending toward Seir as far as Baal-Gad, through the plain of Lebanon beneath Mount Hermon. He seized, struck, and killed all their kings.

18 Joshua fought against these kings for a long time.

19 There was no city that delivered itself to the children of Israel except the Hivite who lived at Gibeon, for they seized all the others by fighting.

20 For it had been the Lord’s sentence that their hearts should be hardened and they should fight against Israel, fall, deserve no clemency, and perish, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

21 At that time Joshua came and killed the Anakim from the mountains, from Hebron, Debir, Anab, and all Mount Judah and Israel, and destroyed their cities.

22 He left none from the stock of the Anakim in the land of the children of Israel, except in the cities of Gaza, Gath, and Ashdod, where alone they were left.

23 Therefore Joshua seized the whole land, as the Lord had spoken to Moses, and delivered it as a possession to the children of Israel according to their portions and tribes. The land rested from battles.

CHAPTER 12

1 These are the kings the children of Israel struck and whose land they possessed beyond the Jordan toward the sunrise, from the Torrent Arnon as far as Mount Hermon and the whole eastern region facing the wilderness.

2 Sihon king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon, ruled from Aroer, situated upon the bank of the Torrent Arnon, and from the middle region in the valley and half Gilead as far as the Torrent Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon;

3 and from the wilderness as far as the Sea of Chinneroth toward the east and the Sea of the Wilderness, which is the Salt Sea, toward the eastern region by the road leading to Beth-Jeshimoth, and on the southern side beneath the Slopes of Pisgah.

4 The boundary of Og king of Bashan, from the remnants of the Rephaim, who lived at Ashtaroth and Edrei and ruled upon Mount Hermon, at Salecah, and throughout Bashan as far as the borders

5 of the Geshurites and Maacathites and the half region of Gilead—the borders of Sihon king of Heshbon.

6 Moses, the Lord's servant, and the children of Israel struck them, and Moses delivered their land as a possession to the Reubenites, Gadites, and half tribe of Manasseh.

7 These are the kings of the land whom Joshua and the children of Israel struck beyond the Jordan toward the west, from Baal-Gad in the plain of Lebanon as far as the mountain whose region ascends toward Seir. Joshua delivered it as a possession to the tribes of Israel, to each their portions,

8 both in the mountains and plains and level places, on the Slopes, in the wilderness, and in the south, where there were Hittite, Amorite, Canaanite, Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite.

9 The king of Jericho, one; the king of Ai, which is beside Bethel, one;

10 the king of Jerusalem, one; the king of Hebron, one;

11 the king of Jarmuth, one; the king of Lachish, one;

12 the king of Eglon, one; the king of Gezer, one;

13 the king of Debir, one; the king of Geder, one;

14 the king of Hormah, one; the king of Arad, one;

15 the king of Libnah, one; the king of Adullam, one;

16 the king of Makkedah, one; the king of Bethel, one;

17 the king of Tappuah, one; the king of Hepher, one;

18 the king of Aphek, one; the king of Sharon, one;

19 the king of Madon, one; the king of Hazor, one;

20 the king of Shimron, one; the king of Achshaph, one;

21 the king of Taanach, one; the king of Megiddo, one;

22 the king of Kadesh, one; the king of Jokneam of Carmel, one;

23 the king of Dor and the province of Dor, one; the king of the nations of Gilgal, one;

24 the king of Tirzah, one. All the kings were thirty-one.

CHAPTER 13

1 Joshua was old and advanced in years, and the Lord said to him: “You have grown old and are long-lived, and a very broad land remains, which has not yet been divided by lot:

2 namely, all Galilee of the Philistines, and all Geshur.

3 From the turbid river that waters Egypt as far as the borders of Ekron toward the north lies the land of Canaan, which is divided among the five petty kings of the Philistines: those of Gaza, Ashdod, Ashkelon, Gath, and Ekron.

4 To the south, however, are the Hivites, all the land of Canaan, and Maara of the Sidonians, as far as Aphek and the borders of the Amorite,

5 and its confines; also the region of Lebanon toward the east, from Baal-gad beneath Mount Hermon until you enter Hamath;

6 all who dwell in the mountain country from Lebanon as far as the waters of Misrephoth, and all the Sidonians. I am he who will destroy them from before the face of the children of Israel. Let it therefore come into Israel’s portion of inheritance, as I commanded you.

7 And now divide the land as a possession to the nine tribes and the half-tribe of Manasseh.”

8 with whom Reuben and Gad possessed the land that Moses, servant of the Lord, delivered to them beyond the streams of the Jordan, on the eastern side:

9 from Aroer, which is situated on the bank of the torrent Arnon, and the city in the middle of the valley, and all the plains of Medeba, as far as Dibon;

10 and all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, as far as the borders of the children of Ammon;

11 and Gilead, and the border of Geshur and Maacah, and all Mount Hermon, and all Bashan, as far as Salecah;

12 all the kingdom of Og in Bashan, who reigned in Ashtaroth and Edrei—he was of the remnant of the Rephaim. And Moses struck them and destroyed them.

13 But the children of Israel were unwilling to destroy Geshur and Maacah, and they have dwelt in the midst of Israel even to the present day.

14 But to the tribe of Levi he gave no possession, for the sacrifices and victims of the Lord God of Israel—these are its inheritance, as he spoke to him.

15 Moses therefore gave a possession to the tribe of the children of Reuben according to their kindreds.

16 Their border was from Aroer, which is situated on the bank of the torrent Arnon, and the city in the middle of the valley of that torrent; all the plain that leads to Medeba;

17 Heshbon and all their villages that are in the plains; Dibon also, and Bamoth-baal, and the town of Baal-meon;

18 Jahaz, Kedemoth, and Mephaath;

19 Kiriathaim, Sibmah, and Zereth-shahar on the mountain of the valley;

20 Beth-peor, the slopes of Pisgah, and Beth-jeshimoth;

21 and all the cities of the plain, and all the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, whom Moses struck together with the princes of Midian: Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, commanders of Sihon and inhabitants of the land.

22 And Balaam son of Beor, the soothsayer, the children of Israel killed by the sword among the rest of the slain.

23 And the river Jordan became the border of the children of Reuben. This is the possession of the Reubenites according to their kindreds, with its cities and villages.

24 Moses also gave a possession to the tribe of Gad and his children according to their kindreds, whose division is this:

25 the border of Jazer, and all the cities of Gilead, and half the land of the children of Ammon, as far as Aroer, which is opposite Rabbah;

26 and from Heshbon as far as Ramoth-mizpeh and Betonim, and from Mahanaim as far as the borders of Debir;

27 and in the valley Beth-haram, Beth-nimrah, Succoth, and Zaphon—the remaining part of the kingdom of Sihon king of Heshbon. Its border also is the Jordan, as far as the furthest part of the Sea of Chinnereth beyond the Jordan, on the eastern side.

28 This is the possession of the children of Gad according to their families, with its cities and villages.

29 He also gave a possession to the half-tribe of Manasseh and his children according to their kindreds,

30 whose beginning is this: from Mahanaim, all Bashan, and all the kingdoms of Og king of Bashan, and all the villages of Jair that are in Bashan—sixty towns;

31 and half of Gilead, and Ashtaroth and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan—to the children of Machir son of Manasseh, to half the children of Machir according to their kindreds.

32 Moses divided this possession in the plains of Moab beyond the Jordan, opposite Jericho, on the eastern side.

33 But to the tribe of Levi he gave no possession, because the Lord God of Israel himself is its possession, as he spoke to him.

CHAPTER 14

1 This is what the children of Israel possessed in the land of Canaan, which Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the chiefs of the families throughout the tribes of Israel gave to them,

2 dividing everything by lot, as the Lord had commanded by the hand of Moses, to the nine tribes and the half-tribe.

3 For to two tribes and a half Moses had given a possession beyond the Jordan, apart from the Levites, who received no land among their brothers.

4 Instead, the children of Joseph, divided into two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim, succeeded into their place. And the Levites received no other portion in the land except cities in which to dwell, with their suburbs for feeding their beasts and livestock.

5 As the Lord had commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did, and they divided the land.

6 And so the children of Judah approached Joshua in Gilgal, and Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite spoke to him: “You know what the Lord spoke to Moses, the man of God, concerning me and you in Kadesh-barnea.

7 I was forty years old when Moses, servant of the Lord, sent me from Kadesh-barnea to examine the land, and I reported to him what appeared true to me.

8 But my brothers who went up with me dissolved the heart of the people; nevertheless, I followed the Lord my God.

9 And Moses swore on that day, saying: ‘The land your foot has trodden shall be your possession, and your children’s forever, because you followed the Lord my God.’

10 The Lord, therefore, has granted me life, as he promised, even to the present day. It is forty-five years since the Lord spoke this word to Moses, when Israel walked through the wilderness. Today I am eighty-five years old,

11 as strong as I was at that time when I was sent to explore. The strength of that time has remained in me even to today, both for fighting and for walking.

12 Give me, therefore, this mountain which the Lord promised, as you also heard, upon which are the Anakim and great and fortified cities—if perhaps the Lord is with me, and I am able to destroy them, as he promised me.”

13 And Joshua blessed him and delivered Hebron to him as a possession.

14 And from that time Hebron belonged to Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, even to the present day, because he followed the Lord God of Israel.

15 The name of Hebron was formerly Kiriath-arba. Adam, the greatest among the Anakim, lay there. And the land ceased from battles.

CHAPTER 15

1 Therefore, the lot of the children of Judah according to their kindreds was this: from the border of Edom, the wilderness of Zin toward the south, as far as the furthest part of the southern region.

2 Its beginning was from the summit of the Salt Sea and from its tongue that faces south.

3 It goes out toward the ascent of the Scorpion, passes through Zin, ascends to Kadesh-barnea, reaches Hezron, ascends to Addar, and circles Karkaa;

4 and from there, passing through Azmon, it reaches the torrent of Egypt, and its boundaries shall be the Great Sea. This shall be the end of the southern region.

5 But on the east its beginning shall be the Salt Sea as far as the ends of the Jordan; and those parts that face north run from the tongue of the sea as far as that same river Jordan.

6 The border ascends to Beth-hoglah, passes northward into Beth-arabah, and ascends to the stone of Bohan son of Reuben.

7 It extends as far as the borders of Debara from the Valley of Achor, facing north toward Gilgal, which is opposite the ascent of Adummim, on the southern side of the torrent. It passes the waters called the Fountain of the Sun, and its outlets shall be at the Fountain of Rogel.

8 It ascends through the valley of the son of Hinnom, along the side of the Jebusite toward the south—this is Jerusalem—and from there rises to the summit of the mountain that is opposite Gehenna to the west, at the top of the Valley of Rephaim toward the north.

9 It passes from the summit of the mountain as far as the fountain of the waters of Nephtoah, and reaches as far as the villages of Mount Ephron; then it bends toward Baalah, which is Kiriath-jearim, that is, the City of Forests.

10 And it circles from Baalah westward as far as Mount Seir, passes beside the northern flank of Mount Jearim into Chesalon, descends into Beth-shemesh, and passes into Timnah.

11 It reaches toward the northern side of Ekron; bends toward Shikkeron; passes Mount Baalah; reaches Jabneel; and is enclosed by the boundary of the Great Sea toward the west.

12 These are the boundaries of the children of Judah all around, according to their kindreds.

13 But to Caleb son of Jephunneh he gave a portion in the midst of the children of Judah, as the Lord had commanded him: Kiriath-arba, of the father of Anak, which is Hebron.

14 And from it Caleb destroyed the three sons of Anak: Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmai, of the stock of Anak.

15 And ascending from there, he came to the inhabitants of Debir, which formerly was called Kiriath-sepher, that is, the City of Letters.

16 And Caleb said: “Whoever strikes Kiriath-sepher and takes it, I will give him Achsah my daughter as wife.”

17 And Othniel son of Kenaz, Caleb’s younger brother, took it; and he gave him Achsah his daughter as wife.

18 And as they journeyed together, she was persuaded by her husband to ask a field of her father. She sighed as she sat upon the donkey, and Caleb said to her, “What do you have?”

19 But she answered: “Give me a blessing. You have given me a southern and arid land; join to it also one that is watered.” Caleb therefore gave her the upper and the lower watered ground.

20 This is the possession of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their kindreds.

21 The cities at the furthest parts of the children of Judah, beside the border of Edom in the south, were: Kabzeel, Eder, Jagur,

22 Kinah, Dimonah, Adadah,

23 Kedesh, Hazor, Ithnan,

24 Ziph, Telem, Bealoth,

25 New Hazor and Kerioth-hezron, which is Hazor;

26 Amam, Shema, Moladah,

27 Hazar-gaddah, Heshmon, Beth-pelet,

28 Hazar-shual, Beersheba, Biziothiah,

29 Baalah, Iim, Ezem,

30 Eltolad, Chesil, Hormah,

31 Ziklag, Madmannah, Sansannah,

32 Lebaoth, Shilhim, Ain, and Rimmon: all the cities were twenty-nine, with their villages.

33 And in the plains: Eshtaol, Zorah, Ashnah,

34 Zanoah, En-gannim, Tappuah, Enam,

35 Jarmuth, Adullam, Socoh, Azekah,

36 Shaaraim, Adithaim, Gederah, and Gederothaim: fourteen cities, with their villages.

37 Zenan, Hadashah, Migdal-gad,

38 Dilean, Mizpeh, Joktheel,

39 Lachish, Bozkath, Eglon,

40 Chebon, Lahmam, Chithlish,

41 Gederoth, Beth-dagon, Naamah, and Makkedah: sixteen cities, with their villages.

42 Libnah, Ether, Ashan,

43 Iphtah, Ashnah, Nezib,

44 Keilah, Achzib, and Mareshah: nine cities, with their villages.

45 Ekron, with its towns and little villages;

46 from Ekron as far as the sea, everything that slopes toward Ashdod and its villages;

47 Ashdod with its towns and little villages; Gaza with its towns and little villages, as far as the torrent of Egypt, with the Great Sea as its boundary.

48 And in the mountain country: Shamir, Jattir, Socoh,

49 Dannah and Kiriath-sannah, which is Debir;

50 Anab, Eshtemoh, Anim,

51 Goshen, Holon, and Giloh: eleven cities, with their villages.

52 Arab, Dumah, Eshan,

53 Janum, Beth-tappuah, Aphekah,

54 Humtah, Kiriath-arba—which is Hebron—and Zior: nine cities, with their villages.

55 Maon, Carmel, Ziph, Juttah,

56 Jezreel, Jokdeam, Zanoah,

57 Kain, Gibeah, and Timnah: ten cities, with their villages.

58 Halhul, Beth-zur, Gedor,

59 Maarath, Beth-anoth, and Eltekon: six cities, with their villages.

60 Kiriath-baal, which is Kiriath-jearim, the City of Forests, and Rabbah: two cities, with their villages.

61 In the wilderness: Beth-arabah, Middin, Secacah,

62 Nibshan, the City of Salt, and En-gedi: six cities, with their villages.

63 But the children of Judah were not able to destroy the Jebusite inhabitant of Jerusalem; and the Jebusite has dwelt with the children of Judah in Jerusalem even to the present day.

CHAPTER 16

1 The lot of the children of Joseph also fell from the Jordan opposite Jericho and its waters on the east—the wilderness that ascends from Jericho to Mount Bethel.

2 It goes out from Bethel to Luz, and passes the border of the Archite at Ataroth;

3 and descends westward beside the border of the Japhletite, as far as the border of Lower Beth-horon and Gezer; and its regions end at the Great Sea.

4 And the children of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, possessed it.

5 The border of the children of Ephraim according to their kindreds was made thus: their possession toward the east was Ataroth-addar as far as Upper Beth-horon.

6 And the boundaries go out toward the sea. Michmethath faces northward, and the border circles eastward into Taanath-shiloh and passes eastward by Janoah.

7 It descends from Janoah into Ataroth and Naarath, reaches Jericho, and goes out to the Jordan.

8 From Tappuah it passes toward the sea into the Valley of Reeds, and its outlets are at the Salt Sea. This is the possession of the tribe of the children of Ephraim according to their families.

9 And cities were set apart for the children of Ephraim in the midst of the possession of the children of Manasseh, with their villages.

10 And the children of Ephraim did not kill the Canaanite who dwelt in Gezer; and the Canaanite has dwelt in the midst of Ephraim, tributary, even to this day.

CHAPTER 17

1 The lot fell to the tribe of Manasseh—for he is Joseph's firstborn. To Machir, Manasseh's firstborn and father of Gilead, who was a warrior, came the possession of Gilead and Bashan;

2 and to the remaining children of Manasseh according to their families: the children of Abiezer, Helek, Asriel, Shechem, Hepher, and Shemida. These are the male children of Manasseh son of Joseph, according to their kindreds.

3 But Zelophehad son of Hepher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, had no sons, but daughters only, whose names are these: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

4 They came into the presence of Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the chiefs, saying, "The Lord commanded by the hand of Moses that a possession be given to us in the midst of our brothers." And according to the Lord's command, he gave them a possession in the midst of their father's brothers.

5 Thus ten measured portions fell to Manasseh, apart from the land of Gilead and Bashan beyond the Jordan.

6 For the daughters of Manasseh possessed an inheritance in the midst of his sons; but the land of Gilead fell by lot to the remaining sons of Manasseh.

7 Manasseh's border was from Asher to Michmethath, which faces Shechem; and it goes out to the right, beside the inhabitants of the fountain of Tappuah.

8 For the land of Tappuah had fallen within Manasseh's lot, though Tappuah itself, beside the borders of Manasseh, belonged to the children of Ephraim.

9 The border descends to the Valley of Reeds, south of the torrent. The cities of Ephraim are in the midst of the cities of Manasseh; Manasseh's border is north of the torrent, and its outlet proceeds to the sea,

10 so that Ephraim's possession is on the south and Manasseh's on the north, and the sea encloses both. They are joined to the tribe of Asher on the north and the tribe of Issachar on the east.

11 Manasseh's inheritance in Issachar and Asher was Beth-shean and its villages, Ibleam with its villages, the inhabitants of Dor with its towns, the inhabitants of En-dor with its villages, likewise the inhabitants of Taanach with its villages, the inhabitants of Megiddo with its villages, and the third part of the city of Nopheth.

12 The children of Manasseh were not able to overthrow these cities, but the Canaanite began to dwell in his land.

13 After the children of Israel grew strong, however, they subjected the Canaanites and made them tributaries, but did not kill them.

14 The children of Joseph spoke to Joshua and said, "Why have you given me the possession of one lot and one measured portion, though I am so great a multitude and the Lord has blessed me?"

15 Joshua said to them, "If you are a numerous people, ascend into the forest and cut out spaces for yourself in the land of the Perizzite and Rephaim, since the possession of Mount Ephraim is narrow for you."

16 The children of Joseph answered him, "We shall not be able to ascend into the mountains, since the Canaanites who dwell in the level land use iron chariots—in the land where Beth-shean and its villages are situated, and Jezreel, which possesses the middle of the valley."

17 Joshua said to the house of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh, "You are a numerous people and of great strength; you shall not have one lot,

18 but you shall pass to the mountain, cut it down for yourself, and clear spaces in which to dwell. And you shall be able to proceed farther when you overthrow the Canaanite, whom you say has iron chariots and is exceedingly strong."

CHAPTER 18

1 All the children of Israel assembled in Shiloh, and there they fixed the tabernacle of the testimony; and the land was subjected to them.

2 But seven tribes remained among the children of Israel that had not yet received their possessions.

3 Joshua said to them, “How long will you waste away in idleness and not enter to possess the land the Lord God of your fathers has given you?

4 Choose three men from each tribe, that I may send them to go, circle the land, and describe it according to the number of each multitude; then let them bring back to me what they have described.

5 Divide the land among yourselves into seven parts. Let Judah remain within its borders in the southern region, and the house of Joseph in the north.

6 Describe the land between these into seven parts, and come here to me, that here before the Lord your God I may cast the lot for you.

7 For there is no portion among you for the Levites, but the priesthood of the Lord is their inheritance. Gad, Reuben, and the half-tribe of Manasseh have already received their possessions beyond the Jordan on the eastern side, which Moses, servant of the Lord, gave them.”

8 When the men arose to go describe the land, Joshua commanded them, saying, “Circle the land and describe it, and return to me, that here before the Lord in Shiloh I may cast the lot for you.”

9 And so they went; and surveying it, they divided it into seven parts, writing them in a scroll. Then they returned to Joshua in the camp at Shiloh.

10 He cast the lots before the Lord in Shiloh and divided the land for the children of Israel into seven parts.

11 The first lot came up for the children of Benjamin according to their families, that they might possess the land between the children of Judah and the children of Joseph.

12 Their northern border began at the Jordan, proceeded beside the northern side of Jericho, ascended from there westward into the mountain country, and reached the wilderness of Beth-aven.

13 It passed beside Luz on the south—which is Bethel—and descended to Ataroth-addar, to the mountain south of Lower Beth-horon.

14 Then it bends, circling toward the sea on the south side of the mountain that faces Beth-horon toward the southwest, and its outlets are at Kiriath-baal, also called Kiriath-jearim, a city of the children of Judah. This is the side toward the sea, on the west.

15 On the south, from the side of Kiriath-jearim, the border goes out toward the sea and reaches the fountain of the waters of Nephtoah.

16 It descends to the part of the mountain that faces the Valley of the Children of Hinnom, which is toward the northern side at the furthest part of the Valley of Rephaim. It descends into Gehenna—that is, the Valley of Hinnom—beside the Jebusite’s southern side, and reaches the Fountain of Rogel.

17 It passes northward and goes out to En-shemesh, that is, the Fountain of the Sun.

18 It passes as far as the mounds opposite the ascent of Adummim, and descends to Aben-bohen, that is, the stone of Bohan son of Reuben. It passes along the northern side to the level country and descends into the plain.

19 It passes north of Beth-hoglah, and its outlets face the northern tongue of the Salt Sea at the southern end of the Jordan.

20 The Jordan is its border on the east. This is the possession of the children of Benjamin according to its surrounding borders and their families.

21 Its cities were Jericho, Beth-hoglah, the Valley of Keziz,

22 Beth-arabah, Zemaraim, Bethel,

23 Avvim, Parah, Ophrah,

24 the village of Chephar-ammoni, Ophni, and Geba: twelve cities, with their villages.

25 Gibeon, Ramah, Beeroth,

26 Mizpeh, Chephirah, Mozah,

27 Rekem, Irpeel, Taralah,

28 Zela, Eleph, Jebus—which is Jerusalem—Gibeath, and Kiriath: fourteen cities, with their villages. This is the possession of the children of Benjamin according to their families.

CHAPTER 19

1 The second lot went out for the children of Simeon according to their kindreds, and their inheritance was

2 in the midst of the possession of the children of Judah: Beersheba, Sheba, Moladah,

3 Hazar-shual, Balah, Ezem,

4 Eltolad, Bethul, Hormah,

5 Ziklag, Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susah,

6 Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhen: thirteen cities, with their villages;

7 Ain, Rimmon, Ether, and Ashan: four cities, with their villages;

8 and all the villages around these cities as far as Baalath-beer-ramath toward the southern region. This is the inheritance of the children of Simeon according to their kindreds,

9 within the possession and measured portion of the children of Judah, because it was too large; and therefore the children of Simeon possessed land in the midst of their inheritance.

10 The third lot fell to the children of Zebulun according to their kindreds; the border of their possession extended as far as Sarid.

11 It ascended from the sea and Maralah, reached Dabbesheth, and extended to the torrent opposite Jokneam.

12 From Sarid it turns eastward to the borders of Chisloth-tabor, goes out to Daberath, and ascends toward Japhia.

13 From there it passes eastward as far as Gath-hepher and Eth-kazin, and goes out to Rimmon, Amthar, and Noah.

14 It circles Hannathon on the north, and its outlets are the Valley of Iphtah-el,

15 with Kattath, Nahalal, Shimron, Idalah, and Bethlehem: twelve cities, with their villages.

16 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Zebulun according to their kindreds, its cities and their villages.

17 The fourth lot went out for Issachar according to their kindreds,

18 and his inheritance was Jezreel, Chesulloth, Shunem,

19 Hapharaim, Shion, Anaharath,

20 Rabbith, Kishion, Ebez,

21 Remeth, En-gannim, En-haddah, and Beth-pazzez.

22 His border reached as far as Tabor, Shahazumah, and Beth-shemesh, and its outlets were at the Jordan: sixteen cities, with their villages.

23 This is the possession of the children of Issachar according to their kindreds, its cities and their villages.

24 The fifth lot fell to the tribe of the children of Asher according to their kindreds.

25 Their border was Helkath, Hali, Beten, Achshaph,

26 Allammelech, Amad, and Mishal; it reached Carmel by the sea, Shihor, and Libnath,

27 and turned eastward to Beth-dagon. It passed as far as Zebulun and the Valley of Iphtah-el northward into Beth-emek and Neiel, and went out to the left of Cabul, 28 and to Ebron, Rehob, Hammon, and Kanah, as far as Great Sidon.

29 It turned back to Hormah as far as the exceedingly fortified city of Tyre and as far as Hosah; and its outlets were at the sea from the measured portion of Achzib,

30 with Ummah, Aphek, and Rehob: twenty-two cities, with their villages.

31 This is the possession of the children of Asher according to their kindreds, its cities and their villages.

32 The sixth lot fell to the children of Naphtali according to their families.

33 The border began from Heleph and the oak in Zaanannim, and Adami, which is Nekeb, and Jabneel as far as Lakkum; and its outlet was at the Jordan.

34 The border turns westward to Aznoth-tabor, goes out from there to Hukkok, passes into Zebulun on the south and Asher on the west, and into Judah at the Jordan toward the sunrise.

35 The exceedingly fortified cities were Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth, 36 Adamah, Ramah, Hazor,

37 Kedesh, Edrei, En-hazor,

38 Yiron, Migdal-el, Horem, Beth-anath, and Beth-shemesh: nineteen cities, with their villages.

39 This is the possession of the tribe of the children of Naphtali according to their kindreds, its cities and their villages.

40 The seventh lot went out for the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families.

41 The border of its possession was Zorah, Eshtaol, and Ir-shemesh, that is, the City of the Sun;

42 Shaalabbin, Aijalon, Ithlah,

43 Elon, Timnah, Ekron,

44 Eltekeh, Gibbethon, Baalath,

45 Jehud, Bene-berak, Gath-rimmon,

46 Me-jarkon, and Rakkon, with the border facing Joppa,

47 and by that boundary it is enclosed. The children of Dan went up and fought against Leshem, seized it, struck it with the edge of the sword, possessed it, and dwelt in it, calling its name Leshem-dan after the name of Dan their father.

48 This is the possession of the tribe of the children of Dan according to their kindreds, its cities and their villages.

49 When he had finished dividing the land by lot to each according to their tribes, the children of Israel gave Joshua son of Nun a possession in their midst,

50 according to the Lord’s command: the city he requested, Timnath-serah in Mount Ephraim. He built the city and dwelt in it.

51 These are the possessions Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the chiefs of the families and tribes of the children of Israel divided by lot at Shiloh, before the Lord at the entrance of the tabernacle of the testimony. And they partitioned the land.

CHAPTER 20

1 The Lord spoke to Joshua, saying, “Speak to the children of Israel and say to them:

2 Set apart the cities of fugitives, concerning which I spoke to you by the hand of Moses,

3 so that whoever unknowingly strikes a soul may flee to them and escape the wrath of his neighbor, who is the avenger of blood.

4 When he has fled to one of these cities, he shall stand before the city gate and speak to the elders of that city the things that establish his innocence. Thus they shall receive him and give him a place in which to dwell.

5 And when the avenger of blood pursues him, they shall not deliver him into his hand, because he struck his neighbor unknowingly and is not proven to have been his enemy two or three days before.

6 He shall dwell in that city until he stands before judgment, giving an account of his deed, and until the high priest who is in office at that time dies. Then the slayer shall return and enter his city and his house, from which he had fled.”

7 And they appointed Kedesh in Galilee of Mount Naphtali, Shechem in Mount Ephraim, and Kiriath-arba—which is Hebron—in Mount Judah.

8 And beyond the Jordan, east of Jericho, they appointed Bezer, which is situated in the level wilderness, from the tribe of Reuben; Ramoth in Gilead from the tribe of Gad; and Golan in Bashan from the tribe of Manasseh.

9 These cities were established for all the children of Israel and the sojourners who dwelt among them, so that whoever unknowingly struck a soul might flee to them and not die by the hand of his neighbor who desired to avenge the blood shed, until he stood before the people to set forth his cause.

CHAPTER 21

1 The chiefs of the families of Levi approached Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the leaders of the kindreds throughout each of the tribes of the children of Israel.

2 They spoke to them at Shiloh in the land of Canaan and said, “The Lord commanded by the hand of Moses that cities be given to us in which to dwell, with their suburbs for feeding our beasts.”

3 And according to the Lord’s command, the children of Israel gave cities and their suburbs from their own possessions.

4 The lot went out for the family of Kohath, and to the children of Aaron the priest, from the tribes of Judah, Simeon, and Benjamin, came thirteen cities.

5 And to the remaining children of Kohath—that is, the Levites who remained—from the tribes of Ephraim and Dan and the half-tribe of Manasseh, came ten cities.

6 To the children of Gershon the lot went out that they should receive thirteen cities from the tribes of Issachar, Asher, and Naphtali, and the half-tribe of Manasseh in Bashan.

7 And to the children of Merari according to their kindreds came twelve cities from the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Zebulun.

8 The children of Israel gave the Levites the cities and their suburbs, as the Lord had commanded by the hand of Moses, assigning each by lot.

9 From the tribes of the children of Judah and Simeon Joshua gave the cities whose names are these,

10 to the children of Aaron, through the families of Kohath of the Levitical stock—for the first lot had gone out to them—

11 Kiriath-arba, of the father of Anak, which is called Hebron, in Mount Judah, with its suburbs all around.

12 But its fields and villages he had given to Caleb son of Jephunneh as a possession.

13 Therefore, to the children of Aaron the priest he gave Hebron, a city of refuge, with its suburbs; and Libnah with its suburbs;

14 Jattir and Eshtemoh;

15 Holon and Debir;

16 Ain, Juttah, and Beth-shemesh, with their suburbs: nine cities from the two tribes, as has been said.

17 And from the tribe of the children of Benjamin: Gibeon and Geba;

18 Anathoth and Almon, with their suburbs: four cities.

19 All the cities of the children of Aaron the priest together were thirteen, with their suburbs.

20 But to the remaining families of the children of Kohath of the Levitical stock, this possession was given:

21 from the tribe of Ephraim, the cities of refuge—Shechem with its suburbs in Mount Ephraim—and Gezer;

22 Kibzaim and Beth-horon, with their suburbs: four cities.

23 And from the tribe of Dan: Eltekeh and Gibbethon;

24 Aijalon and Gath-rimmon, with their suburbs: four cities.

25 And from the half-tribe of Manasseh: Taanach and Gath-rimmon, with their suburbs: two cities.

26 All ten cities, with their suburbs, were given to the children of Kohath of the lower rank.

27 To the children of Gershon of the Levitical stock he gave, from the half-tribe of Manasseh, the cities of refuge: Golan in Bashan and Bosra, with their suburbs—two cities.

28 And from the tribe of Issachar: Kishion and Daberath;

29 Jarmuth and En-gannim, with their suburbs: four cities.

30 And from the tribe of Asher: Mishal and Abdon;

31 Helkath and Rehob, with their suburbs: four cities.

32 And from the tribe of Naphtali, the cities of refuge: Kedesh in Galilee, Hammoth-dor, and Kartan, with their suburbs—three cities.

33 All the cities of the families of Gershon were thirteen, with their suburbs.

34 But to the children of Merari, Levites of the lower rank, according to their families, were given from the tribe of Zebulun: Jokneam and Kartah;

35 Dimnah and Nahalal—four cities, with their suburbs.

36 From the tribe of Reuben beyond the Jordan opposite Jericho: the cities of refuge Bezer in the wilderness, Misor, Jazer, Jethson, and Mephaath—four cities, with their suburbs.

37 From the tribe of Gad, the cities of refuge: Ramoth in Gilead, Mahanaim, Heshbon, and Jazer—four cities, with their suburbs.

38 All the cities of the children of Merari according to their families and kindreds were twelve.

39 Therefore, all the cities of the Levites in the midst of the possession of the children of Israel were forty-eight, 40 with their suburbs, each distributed according to families.

41 And the Lord God gave Israel all the land that he had sworn to their fathers he would deliver to them; and they possessed it and dwelt in it.

42 Peace was given by him among all the surrounding nations. None of their enemies dared resist them, but all were brought under their dominion.

43 Not even one word of what he had promised to provide them proved void; all things were fulfilled in deeds.

CHAPTER 22

1 At that time Joshua called the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh,

2 and said to them, “You have done everything Moses, servant of the Lord, commanded you; you have also obeyed me in everything.

3 You have not forsaken your brothers for a long time, even to the present day, keeping the command of the Lord your God.

4 Since, therefore, the Lord your God has given your brothers rest and peace, as he promised, return and go to your tents and to the land of your possession, which Moses, servant of the Lord, delivered to you beyond the Jordan,

5 provided only that you carefully keep and fulfill in deed the commandment and law Moses, servant of the Lord, commanded you: that you love the Lord your God, walk in all his ways, observe his commandments, cling to him, and serve him with all your heart and with all your soul.”

6 Joshua blessed them and dismissed them, and they returned to their tents.

7 Moses had given a possession in Bashan to one half of the tribe of Manasseh; and therefore to the half that remained Joshua gave a lot among their other brothers beyond the Jordan, on the western side. And when he dismissed them to their tents and had blessed them,

8 he said to them, “Return to your dwellings with much substance and riches, with silver and gold, bronze and iron, and an abundance of clothing. Divide the spoil of your enemies with your brothers.”

9 The children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh returned and departed from the children of Israel at Shiloh, which is situated in Canaan, to enter Gilead, the land of their possession, which they had obtained according to the Lord’s command by the hand of Moses.

10 When they came to the mounds of the Jordan in the land of Canaan, they built beside the Jordan an altar of immeasurable magnitude.

11 When the children of Israel heard this, and reliable messengers reported to them that the children of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh had built an altar in the land of Canaan, upon the mounds of the Jordan, opposite the children of Israel,

12 they all assembled in Shiloh to ascend and fight against them.

13 Meanwhile, they sent to them in the land of Gilead Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest,

14 and ten chiefs with him, one from each tribe.

15 They came to the children of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh in the land of Gilead and said to them:

16 “Thus commands all the people of the Lord: What is this transgression? Why have you forsaken the Lord God of Israel, building a sacrilegious altar and withdrawing from his worship?

17 Is it a small thing to you that you sinned at Baal-peor, and that the stain of this crime remains among us even to the present day, and many of the people fell?

18 And today you have forsaken the Lord, and tomorrow his wrath will rage against all Israel.

19 But if you think the land of your possession is unclean, cross over to the land in which the Lord’s tabernacle is, and dwell among us—only do not withdraw from the Lord or from our fellowship by building an altar besides the altar of the Lord our God.

20 Did not Achan son of Zerah pass beyond the Lord’s command, and did not his wrath lie upon all the people of Israel? He was one man—and would that he alone had perished in his crime!”

21 The children of Reuben and Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh answered the chiefs of Israel’s delegation:

22 “The most mighty God, the Lord—the most mighty God, the Lord—he knows, and Israel also shall understand: if we built this altar with a spirit of transgression, let him not preserve us, but punish us in the present;

23 and if we did it with the intention of placing holocausts, sacrifice, and peace victims upon it, let him himself seek it out and judge.

24 Rather, did we not do it from this thought and deliberation, that we said: Tomorrow your children will say to our children, ‘What have you to do with the Lord God of Israel?

25 The Lord placed the river Jordan as a boundary between us and you, O children of Reuben and children of Gad; and therefore you have no portion in the Lord.’ And by this occasion your children will turn our children away from the fear of the Lord. We therefore thought it better,

26 and said: Let us build ourselves an altar—not for holocausts, nor for offering victims,

27 but as a testimony between us and you, and between our offspring and your progeny, so that we may serve the Lord and that it may be our right to offer holocausts, victims, and peace offerings; and that tomorrow your children may by no means say to our children, ‘You have no portion in the Lord.’

28 And if they should wish to say it, they shall answer them: ‘Behold the altar of the Lord our fathers made—not for holocausts or sacrifice, but as a testimony between us and you.’

29 Far be this crime from us, that we should withdraw from the Lord and forsake his footsteps by building an altar for offering holocausts, sacrifices, and victims besides the altar of the Lord our God, which was built before his tabernacle.”

30 When Phinehas the priest and the chiefs of Israel’s delegation who were with him heard these things, they were appeased and received the words of the children of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh most gladly.

31 Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest said to them, “Now we know that the Lord is with us, because you are strangers to this transgression, and you have delivered the children of Israel from the hand of the Lord.”

32 He returned with the chiefs from the children of Reuben and Gad, from the land of Gilead at the borders of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and reported to them.

33 The word pleased all who heard it. The children of Israel praised God and no longer spoke of ascending against them to fight and destroy the land of their possession.

34 And the children of Reuben and the children of Gad called the altar they had built “Our Testimony That the Lord Himself Is God.”

CHAPTER 23

1 Much time passed after the Lord had given Israel peace and all the surrounding nations had been subjected, and Joshua was now long-lived and of exceedingly great age.

2 Joshua called all Israel, the elders, chiefs, leaders, and teachers, and said to them, “I have grown old and am advanced in age.

3 And you see everything the Lord your God has done to all the nations around you—how he himself fought for you.

4 And now, because he has divided by lot for you all the land from the eastern side of the Jordan as far as the Great Sea, though many nations still remain,

5 the Lord your God will destroy them and take them away from before your face, and you shall possess the land, as he promised you.

6 Only be strengthened and be diligent to keep everything written in the scroll of the law of Moses, and do not turn away from it either to the right or to the left,

7 lest, after you have entered among the nations that will be among you, you swear by the name of their gods, serve them, and adore them.

8 Instead, cling to the Lord your God, as you have done even to this day.

9 And then the Lord God will take away before your sight great and exceedingly mighty nations, and no one will be able to resist you.

10 One of you will pursue a thousand men of the enemy, because the Lord your God himself will fight for you, as he promised.

11 Guard this one thing with the utmost care: that you love the Lord your God.

12 But if you should choose to cling to the errors of these nations that dwell among you, mingle marriages with them, and join friendships,

13 know even now that the Lord your God will not destroy them from before your face. Instead, they shall be to you a pit and a snare, an obstacle at your side and stakes in your eyes, until he takes you away and scatters you from this excellent land he has delivered to you.

14 Behold, today I enter the way of all the earth, and you shall know with your whole soul that not one of all the words the Lord promised to fulfill for you has passed away in vain.

15 Therefore, just as he fulfilled in deed what he promised and every good thing came, so he will bring upon you whatever evils he threatened, until he takes you away and scatters you from this excellent land he delivered to you,

16 because you have passed beyond the pact of the Lord your God that he struck with you, and have served strange gods and adored them. Swiftly and speedily the fury of the Lord will rise against you, and you shall be taken away from this excellent land he delivered to you.”

CHAPTER 24

1 Joshua assembled all the tribes of Israel at Shechem and called the elders, chiefs, judges, and teachers; and they stood in the sight of the Lord.

2 He spoke thus to the people: “The Lord God of Israel says these things: Beyond the river your fathers dwelt from the beginning—Terah, father of Abraham and Nahor—and they served strange gods.

3 Therefore I took your father Abraham from the borders of Mesopotamia and led him into the land of Canaan, and I multiplied his seed.

4 I gave him Isaac; and to him, in turn, I gave Jacob and Esau. Of these, to Esau I gave Mount Seir as a possession, but Jacob and his sons descended into Egypt.

5 And I sent Moses and Aaron, and struck Egypt with many signs and wonders.

6 I brought you and your fathers out of Egypt, and you came to the sea; and the Egyptians pursued your fathers with chariots and cavalry as far as the Red Sea.

7 But the children of Israel cried to the Lord, and he placed darkness between you and the Egyptians, brought the sea upon them, and covered them. Your eyes saw everything I did in Egypt, and you dwelt in the wilderness a long time.

8 I brought you into the land of the Amorite who dwelt beyond the Jordan. When they fought against you, I delivered them into your hands, and you possessed their land and killed them.

9 Then Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab, arose and fought against Israel. He sent and called Balaam son of Beor to curse you,

10 but I was unwilling to hear him. On the contrary, through him I blessed you and delivered you from his hand.

11 You crossed the Jordan and came to Jericho. The men of its city fought against you—the Amorite, Perizzite, Canaanite, Hittite, Girgashite, Hivite, and Jebusite—and I delivered them into your hands.

12 I sent hornets before you and cast them from their places—the two kings of the Amorites—not by your sword or by your bow.

13 And I gave you a land in which you had not labored, and cities you had not built, that you might dwell in them; vineyards and olive groves you had not planted.

14 Now, therefore, fear the Lord and serve him with a perfect and utterly true heart. Take away the gods your fathers served in Mesopotamia and Egypt, and serve the Lord.

15 But if it seems evil to you to serve the Lord, a choice is given to you: choose today what pleases you, whom above all you ought to serve—whether the gods your fathers served in Mesopotamia, or the gods of the Amorites in whose land you dwell. But I and my house will serve the Lord.”

16 The people answered and said, “Far be it from us that we should forsake the Lord and serve strange gods.

17 The Lord our God himself brought us and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the house of servitude. He performed immense signs before our eyes and preserved us along every way by which we walked and among all the peoples through whom we passed.

18 And he cast out all the nations, the Amorite inhabitant of the land we entered. Therefore we shall serve the Lord, because he is our God.”

19 Joshua said to the people, “You will not be able to serve the Lord, for he is a holy God, mighty and jealous, and he will not forgive your crimes and sins.

20 If you forsake the Lord and serve strange gods, he will turn and afflict you and overthrow you, after he has bestowed good things upon you.”

21 The people said to Joshua, “It shall by no means be as you say, but we shall serve the Lord.”

22 Joshua said to the people, “You are witnesses that you yourselves have chosen the Lord, to serve him.” And they answered, “We are witnesses.”

23 “Now, therefore,” he said, “take away the strange gods from your midst, and incline your hearts to the Lord God of Israel.”

24 The people said to Joshua, “We shall serve the Lord our God and be obedient to his commands.”

25 Joshua therefore struck a covenant on that day and set commandments and judgments before the people at Shechem.

26 He also wrote all these words in the scroll of the law of the Lord. And he took an exceedingly great stone and placed it beneath the oak that was in the sanctuary of the Lord.

27 He said to all the people, “Behold, this stone shall be a testimony to you, because it has heard all the words of the Lord that he spoke to you, lest perhaps afterward you wish to deny them and lie to the Lord your God.”

28 And he dismissed the people, each one to his possession.

29 After these things Joshua son of Nun, servant of the Lord, died, being one hundred and ten years old.

30 They buried him within the borders of his possession at Timnath-serah, which is situated in Mount Ephraim, on the northern side of Mount Gaash.

31 Israel served the Lord all the days of Joshua and of the elders who lived a long time after Joshua and who knew all the works the Lord had done in Israel.

32 The bones of Joseph, which the children of Israel had carried from Egypt, they buried at Shechem, in the portion of the field Jacob had bought from the children of Hamor, father of Shechem, for one hundred young ewes; and it became a possession of the children of Joseph.

33 Eleazar son of Aaron also died, and they buried him at Gibeath, belonging to Phinehas his son, which had been given to him in Mount Ephraim.

BOOK SEVEN: JUDGES

CHAPTER 1

1 After Joshua's death, the children of Israel consulted the Lord (YHWH), saying, "Who shall ascend before us against the Canaanite and be leader of the war?"

2 The Lord said, "Judah shall ascend. Behold, I have delivered the land into his hands."

3 And Judah said to Simeon his brother, "Ascend with me into my lot and fight against the Canaanite, so that I also may go with you into your lot." And Simeon went with him.

4 Judah ascended, and the Lord delivered the Canaanite and Perizzite into their hands; and they struck ten thousand men in Bezek.

5 They found Adoni-bezek in Bezek, fought against him, and struck the Canaanite and Perizzite.

6 But Adoni-bezek fled. They pursued and seized him, cutting off the extremities of his hands and feet.

7 Adoni-bezek said, "Seventy kings, with the extremities of their hands and feet amputated, gathered remnants of food beneath my table. As I did, so God has repaid me." They brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died.

8 Therefore the children of Judah assaulted Jerusalem, took it, struck it with the edge of the sword, and delivered the entire city to the fire.

9 Afterward they descended and fought against the Canaanite who dwelt in the mountains, the south, and the plains.

10 And Judah, proceeding against the Canaanite who dwelt in Hebron—whose name in ancient times was Kiriath-arba—struck Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmai.

11 Setting out from there, he went to the inhabitants of Debir, whose old name was Kiriath-sepher, that is, the City of Letters.

12 Caleb said, "Whoever strikes Kiriath-sepher and lays it waste, I will give him Achsah my daughter as wife."

13 And when Othniel son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother, had taken it, he gave him Achsah his daughter as wife.

14 As she journeyed, her husband urged her to ask a field of her father. When she sighed while sitting upon the donkey, Caleb said to her, "What do you have?"

15 She answered, "Give me a blessing, for you have given me arid land; give me also land watered by waters." Caleb therefore gave her the upper watered ground and the lower watered ground.

16 But the children of the Kenite, Moses' kinsman, ascended from the City of Palms with the children of Judah into the wilderness of his lot, which is south of Arad, and dwelt with him.

17 Judah went with Simeon his brother, and together they struck the Canaanite who dwelt in Zephath and killed him. The name of the city was called Hormah, that is, Anathema.

18 And Judah took Gaza with its territories, Ashkelon, and Ekron with its borders.

19 The Lord was with Judah, and he possessed the mountains; but he was not able to destroy the inhabitants of the valley, because they abounded in scythed chariots.

20 They gave Hebron to Caleb, as Moses had said, and he destroyed from it the three sons of Anak.

21 But the children of Benjamin did not destroy the Jebusite inhabitant of Jerusalem; and the Jebusite has dwelt with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem even to the present day.

22 The house of Joseph also ascended into Bethel, and the Lord was with them.

23 For when they were besieging the city, which was formerly called Luz,

24 they saw a man going out of the city and said to him, "Show us the entrance to the city, and we shall show you mercy."

25 When he had shown them, they struck the city with the edge of the sword; but they released that man and all his kindred.

26 Having been released, he went into the land of the Hittites, built a city there, and called it Luz, which is so named even to the present day.

27 Manasseh also did not destroy Beth-shean and Taanach with their villages, nor the inhabitants of Dor, Ibleam, and Megiddo with their villages; and the Canaanite began to dwell with them.

28 But after Israel was strengthened, he made them tributaries and was unwilling to destroy them.

29 Ephraim also did not kill the Canaanite who dwelt in Gezer, but dwelt with him.

30 Zebulun did not destroy the inhabitants of Kitron and Nahalol; instead, the Canaanite dwelt in his midst and became his tributary.

31 Asher also did not destroy the inhabitants of Acco and Sidon, Ahlab, Achzib, Helbah, Aphek, and Rehob;

32 and he dwelt in the midst of the Canaanite inhabitant of that land and did not kill him.

33 Naphtali also did not destroy the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh and Beth-anath; and he dwelt among the Canaanite inhabitant of the land, and the Beth-shemeshites and Beth-anathites became tributaries to him.

34 The Amorite confined the children of Dan in the mountain and gave them no place to descend to the level country.

35 And he dwelt on Mount Heres—which is interpreted “earthen”—in Aijalon and Shaalbim. And the hand of the house of Joseph grew heavy, and he became tributary to him.

36 The Amorite’s border was from the ascent of the Scorpion, the rock, and the higher places.

CHAPTER 2

1 The angel of the Lord ascended from Gilgal to the Place of Those Who Weep and said, “I brought you out of Egypt and led you into the land for which I swore to your fathers; and I promised that I would not make void my pact with you forever,

2 provided only that you did not strike a covenant with the inhabitants of this land, but overthrew their altars. And you were unwilling to hear my voice. Why have you done this?

3 For this reason I was unwilling to destroy them from before your face, so that you might have enemies and their gods might be your ruin.”

4 When the angel of the Lord spoke these words to all the children of Israel, they raised their voice and wept.

5 And the name of that place was called the Place of Those Who Weep, or of Tears; and there they immolated victims to the Lord.

6 Joshua therefore dismissed the people, and the children of Israel went each one into his possession, that they might obtain it.

7 They served the Lord all his days and all the days of the elders who lived a long time after him and knew all the works the Lord had done with Israel.

8 But Joshua son of Nun, servant of the Lord, died at one hundred and ten years of age,

9 and they buried him within the borders of his possession at Timnath-serah in Mount Ephraim, on the northern side of Mount Gaash.

10 And all that generation was gathered to their fathers. Others arose who did not know the Lord or the works he had done with Israel.

11 The children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord and served the Baals.

12 They forsook the Lord God of their fathers, who had brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed strange gods, the gods of the peoples who dwelt around them; and they adored them and provoked the Lord to anger,

13 forsaking him and serving Baal and Ashtaroth.

14 The Lord, angered against Israel, delivered them into the hands of plunderers, who seized them; and he sold them to enemies who dwelt all around, and they were not able to resist their adversaries.

15 Wherever they wished to go, the Lord’s hand was upon them, as he had spoken and sworn to them; and they were exceedingly afflicted.

16 The Lord raised up judges to deliver them from the hands of those laying them waste, but they were unwilling to hear even them,

17 fornicating with strange gods and adoring them. They quickly forsook the way their fathers had entered; hearing the Lord’s commandments, they did everything contrary to them.

18 And when the Lord raised up judges, during their days mercy was moved, and he heard the groaning of the afflicted and delivered them from the slaughter of those laying them waste.

19 But after the judge died, they turned back and did things far worse than their fathers had done, following strange gods, serving and adoring them. They did not forsake their inventions or the exceedingly hard way in which they had grown accustomed to walk.

20 The fury of the Lord was angered against Israel, and he said, “Because this nation has made void my pact, which I struck with their fathers, and has scorned hearing my voice,

21 I also will not destroy the nations Joshua left behind when he died,

22 so that through them I may test Israel—whether they will keep the way of the Lord and walk in it as their fathers kept it, or not.”

23 Therefore the Lord left all these nations and was unwilling to overthrow them quickly, nor did he deliver them into Joshua’s hands.

CHAPTER 3

1 These are the nations the Lord left behind, that through them he might train Israel and all who had not known the wars of the Canaanites,

2 so that afterward their children might learn to contend with enemies and become accustomed to fighting:

3 the five satraps of the Philistines, every Canaanite and Sidonian, and the Hivite who dwelt on Mount Lebanon, from Mount Baal-hermon as far as the entrance of Hamath.

4 And he left them so that through them he might test Israel—whether they would hear the Lord's commandments, which he had commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses, or not.

5 And so the children of Israel dwelt in the midst of the Canaanite, Hittite, Amorite, Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite.

6 They took their daughters as wives, delivered their own daughters to their sons, and served their gods.

7 The children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord, forgot their God, and served the Baals and Ashtaroth.

8 The Lord, angered against Israel, delivered them into the hands of Cushan-rishathaim king of Mesopotamia; and they served him eight years.

9 They cried to the Lord, who raised up for them a savior and delivered them, namely Othniel son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother.

10 The Spirit of the Lord was in him, and he judged Israel. He went out to battle, and the Lord delivered Cushan-rishathaim king of Syria into his hands, and he oppressed him.

11 The land rested forty years, and Othniel son of Kenaz died.

12 But the children of Israel added to their evil in the sight of the Lord, who strengthened Eglon king of Moab against them because they did evil in his sight.

13 And he joined to him the children of Ammon and Amalek. He went and struck Israel and possessed the City of Palms.

14 The children of Israel served Eglon king of Moab eighteen years.

15 Afterward they cried to the Lord, who raised up for them a savior named Ehud, son of Gera, son of Jemini, who used either hand as his right. The children of Israel sent gifts through him to Eglon king of Moab.

16 He made himself a two-edged sword, having a hilt in the middle and the length of the palm of a hand, and girded it beneath his cloak upon his right thigh.

17 He presented the gifts to Eglon king of Moab. Now Eglon was exceedingly fat.

18 When he had presented the gifts to him, he escorted away the companions who had come with him.

19 Returning from Gilgal, where the idols were, he said to the king, "I have a secret word for you, O king." He commanded silence, and everyone around him went out.

20 Ehud entered to him. He was sitting alone in a summer upper room. And he said, "I have a word of God for you." He immediately rose from the throne.

21 Ehud extended his left hand, took the dagger from his right thigh, and thrust it into his belly

22 so forcefully that the hilt followed the blade into the wound and was bound fast by the exceedingly thick fat. He did not draw out the sword, but left it in the body as he had struck; and immediately excrement burst forth through the secret passages of nature.

23 But Ehud closed the doors of the upper room most carefully, fastened them with the bar,

24 and went out through the back entrance. The king's servants entered, saw the doors of the upper room closed, and said, "Perhaps he is purging his bowels in the summer chamber."

25 They waited a long time, until they were ashamed; and seeing that no one opened, they took the key, opened, and found their lord lying dead upon the ground.

26 But while they were in confusion, Ehud escaped and passed the place of the idols from which he had returned, and came to Seirath.

27 Immediately he sounded the trumpet on Mount Ephraim, and the children of Israel descended with him, as he walked at their head.

28 He said to them, "Follow me, for the Lord has delivered our enemies, the Moabites, into our hands." They descended after him and seized the fords of the Jordan that cross into Moab, and permitted no one to cross.

29 At that time they struck about ten thousand Moabites, all robust and mighty men. None of them was able to escape.

30 Moab was humbled beneath Israel’s hand on that day, and the land rested eighty years.

31 After him was Shamgar son of Anath, who struck six hundred men of the Philistines with a plowshare; and he too defended Israel.

CHAPTER 4

1 The children of Israel added to their evil in the sight of the Lord after Ehud's death,

2 and the Lord delivered them into the hands of Jabin king of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor. He had a commander of his army named Sisera, who dwelt in Harosheth of the Gentiles.

3 The children of Israel cried to the Lord, for he had nine hundred scythed chariots and had fiercely oppressed them for twenty years.

4 Now Deborah, a prophetess and wife of Lapidoth, judged the people at that time.

5 She sat beneath the palm that was called by her name, between Ramah and Bethel in Mount Ephraim; and the children of Israel ascended to her for every judgment.

6 She sent and called Barak son of Abinoam from Kedesh of Naphtali, and said to him, "The Lord God of Israel has commanded you: Go, lead the army to Mount Tabor, and take with you ten thousand warriors from the children of Naphtali and the children of Zebulun.

7 And I shall lead to you at the place of the torrent Kishon Sisera, commander of Jabin's army, with his chariots and all his multitude, and shall deliver them into your hand."

8 Barak said to her, "If you come with me, I shall go; if you are unwilling to come with me, I shall not proceed."

9 She said to him, "I shall indeed go with you, but in this instance the victory shall not be credited to you, because Sisera shall be delivered into the hand of a woman." Deborah therefore arose and proceeded with Barak to Kedesh.

10 He summoned Zebulun and Naphtali and ascended with ten thousand warriors, having Deborah in his company.

11 Now Heber the Kenite had once withdrawn from the other Kenites, his brothers, the children of Hobab, Moses' kinsman; and he had pitched his tents as far as the valley called Zaanaim, which was beside Kedesh.

12 It was reported to Sisera that Barak son of Abinoam had ascended Mount Tabor.

13 And he gathered nine hundred scythed chariots and his entire army from Harosheth of the Gentiles to the torrent Kishon.

14 Deborah said to Barak, "Rise, for this is the day on which the Lord has delivered Sisera into your hands. Behold, he himself is your leader." Barak therefore descended from Mount Tabor, and ten thousand warriors with him.

15 And the Lord terrified Sisera, all his chariots, and the whole multitude with the edge of the sword before Barak, so much that Sisera leapt down from his chariot and fled on foot.

16 Barak pursued the fleeing chariots and army as far as Harosheth of the Gentiles, and the entire multitude of the enemy fell even to destruction.

17 But Sisera, fleeing, reached the tent of Jael, wife of Heber the Kenite; for there was peace between Jabin king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite.

18 Jael therefore went out to meet Sisera and said to him, "Enter to me, my lord; enter, do not fear." He entered her tent, and she covered him with a cloak.

19 He said to her, "Give me, I beg you, a little water, for I thirst greatly." She opened a skin of milk, gave him drink, and covered him.

20 Sisera said to her, "Stand before the entrance of the tent, and when anyone comes questioning you and saying, 'Is anyone here?' you shall answer, 'There is no one.'"

21 Jael, wife of Heber, therefore took a tent peg and also took up a hammer. Entering secretly and in silence, she placed the peg above the temple of his head and, striking it with the hammer, drove it through his brain as far as the ground. Joining sleep to death, he failed and died.

22 And behold, Barak came pursuing Sisera. Jael went out to meet him and said, "Come, and I shall show you the man you seek." When he entered to her, he saw Sisera lying dead, with the peg driven into his temple.

23 Therefore on that day God humbled Jabin king of Canaan before the children of Israel,

24 who grew daily and oppressed Jabin king of Canaan with a strong hand until they destroyed him.

CHAPTER 5

1 Deborah and Barak son of Abinoam sang on that day, saying:

2 “You who willingly offered your souls from Israel to danger, bless the Lord.

3 Hear, O kings; perceive with your ears, O princes. I am she, I am she who shall sing to the Lord; I shall make melody to the Lord God of Israel.

4 O Lord, when you went out from Seir and passed through the regions of Edom, the earth moved, and the heavens and clouds dripped waters.

5 The mountains flowed from before the face of the Lord, and Sinai from before the face of the Lord God of Israel.

6 In the days of Shamgar son of Anath, in the days of Jael, the paths rested, and those who entered by them walked through crooked byways.

7 The strong ceased in Israel and rested, until Deborah arose, until a mother arose in Israel.

8 The Lord chose new wars, and he himself overthrew the gates of the enemies. If shield and spear appeared among forty thousand of Israel!

9 My heart loves the princes of Israel. You who by your own will offered yourselves to peril, bless the Lord.

10 You who mount gleaming donkeys, who sit in judgment, and who walk upon the road—speak.

11 Where the chariots collided and the army of the enemies was suffocated, there let the justices of the Lord be recounted, and his clemency toward the strong of Israel. Then the people of the Lord descended to the gates and obtained sovereignty.

12 Arise, arise, Deborah; arise, arise and speak a song. Arise, Barak, and seize your captives, son of Abinoam.

13 The remnants of the people were saved; the Lord fought among the strong.

14 From Ephraim he destroyed them in Amalek, and after him from Benjamin among your peoples, O Amalek. From Machir princes descended, and from Zebulun those who would lead the army to battle.

15 The leaders of Issachar were with Deborah, and they followed the footsteps of Barak, who gave himself to danger as though into a precipice and abyss. Reuben being divided against himself, a contention of great souls was found.

16 Why do you dwell between two boundaries, that you may hear the whistlings of the flocks? Reuben being divided against himself, a contention of great souls was found.

17 Gilead rested beyond the Jordan, and Dan gave himself to ships. Asher dwelt upon the seashore and remained in the harbors.

18 But Zebulun and Naphtali offered their souls to death in the region of Merom.

19 Kings came and fought; the kings of Canaan fought at Taanach beside the waters of Megiddo, and yet they carried away nothing as plunder.

20 From heaven battle was waged against them. The stars, remaining in their order and course, fought against Sisera.

21 The torrent Kishon dragged away their corpses—the torrent Kedumim, the torrent Kishon. Trample the robust, O my soul.

22 The horses’ hoofs fell away as the enemy’s mightiest fled with force and plunged down the precipice.

23 “Curse the land of Meroz,” said the angel of the Lord. “Curse its inhabitants, because they did not come to the Lord’s aid, to the aid of his mightiest.”

24 Blessed among women is Jael, wife of Heber the Kenite, and blessed may she be in her tent.

25 To him asking for water she gave milk, and in a bowl of princes she offered butter.

26 She put her left hand to the peg and her right to the workmen’s hammers. She struck Sisera, seeking a place for the wound in his head, and mightily piercing his temple.

27 Between her feet he fell; he failed and died. Before her feet he rolled and lay lifeless and miserable.

28 Looking through the window, his mother wailed, and spoke from the upper room: ‘Why does his chariot delay returning? Why have the feet of his chariot teams tarried?’

29 One wiser than the rest of his wives answered these words to her mother-in-law:

30 ‘Perhaps he is now dividing the spoils, and the most beautiful among the women is being chosen for him. Garments of diverse colors are delivered to Sisera as plunder, and varied furnishings are gathered to adorn necks.’

31 So may all your enemies perish, O Lord; but those who love you, as the sun shines at its rising, so may they glow.”

32 And the land rested for forty years.

CHAPTER 6

1 The children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord, and he delivered them into the hand of Midian for seven years.

2 They were exceedingly oppressed by them, and made for themselves dens and caves in the mountains and exceedingly fortified places from which to resist.

3 When Israel had sown, Midian and Amalek and the other eastern nations would ascend.

4 Pitching their tents among them, they laid waste everything that was in the grass as far as the entrance of Gaza; and they left nothing whatever belonging to life in Israel—neither sheep, nor oxen, nor donkeys.

5 For they and all their flocks came with their tents and filled everything like locusts, an innumerable multitude of men and camels, laying waste whatever they touched.

6 And Israel was exceedingly humbled in the sight of Midian.

7 He cried to the Lord, requesting aid against the Midianites.

8 The Lord sent them a man, a prophet, who spoke: “Thus says the Lord God of Israel: I caused you to ascend from Egypt and brought you out of the house of servitude.

9 I delivered you from the hand of the Egyptians and all the enemies who afflicted you; I cast them out at your entrance and delivered their land to you.

10 And I said: ‘I am the Lord your God. Do not fear the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you dwell.’ But you were unwilling to hear my voice.”

11 Then the angel of the Lord came and sat beneath the oak in Ophrah that belonged to Joash, father of the family of Abiezer. And while Gideon his son was beating out and cleaning grain in the winepress to escape Midian,

12 the angel of the Lord appeared to him and said, “The Lord is with you, mightiest of men.”

13 Gideon said to him, “I beg you, my lord, if the Lord is with us, why have all these things seized us? Where are his wonders of which our fathers told us, saying, ‘The Lord brought us out of Egypt’? But now the Lord has forsaken us and delivered us into the hand of Midian.”

14 The Lord looked upon him and said, “Go in this strength of yours, and you shall deliver Israel from the hand of Midian. Know that I have sent you.”

15 Answering, he said, “I beg you, my lord, by what shall I deliver Israel? Behold, my family is the lowest in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father’s house.”

16 The Lord said to him, “I shall be with you, and you shall strike Midian as one man.”

17 He said, “If I have found grace before you, give me a sign that it is you who speak to me.

18 Do not withdraw from here until I return to you, carrying a sacrifice and offering it to you.” He answered, “I shall await your coming.”

19 Gideon therefore entered, cooked a young goat, and made unleavened loaves from a measure of flour. Placing the flesh in a basket and pouring the broth of the flesh into a pot, he carried everything beneath the oak and offered it to him.

20 The angel of the Lord said to him, “Take the flesh and unleavened loaves, place them upon that rock, and pour the broth over them.” When he had done so,

21 the angel of the Lord extended the end of the staff he held in his hand and touched the flesh and unleavened loaves. Fire ascended from the rock and consumed the flesh and unleavened loaves; and the angel of the Lord vanished from his eyes.

22 Gideon, seeing that he was the angel of the Lord, said, “Alas, my Lord God! For I have seen the angel of the Lord face to face.”

23 The Lord said to him, “Peace be with you. Do not fear; you shall not die.”

24 Gideon therefore built an altar there to the Lord and called it “The Lord’s Peace,” even to the present day. While he was still in Ophrah, which belongs to the family of Abiezer, 25 that night the Lord said to him, “Take your father’s bull and a second bull of seven years, and destroy your father’s altar of Baal; and cut down the grove that is around the altar.

26 You shall build an altar to the Lord your God upon the summit of this rock, upon which you placed the sacrifice before. Take the second bull and offer a holocaust upon the pile of wood you cut from the grove.”

27 Gideon therefore took ten men from his servants and did as the Lord had commanded him. But fearing his father's house and the men of that city, he was unwilling to do it by day and completed everything by night.

28 When the men of his town arose in the morning, they saw the altar of Baal destroyed, the grove cut down, and the second bull placed upon the altar that had then been built.

29 They said to one another, "Who did this?" And when they sought the author of the deed, it was said, "Gideon son of Joash did all these things."

30 They said to Joash, "Bring your son out here, that he may die, because he destroyed the altar of Baal and cut down the grove."

31 He answered them, "Are you avengers of Baal, that you should fight for him? Whoever is his adversary, let him die before tomorrow's light comes. If he is a god, let him avenge himself upon the one who dug down his altar."

32 From that day Gideon was called Jerubbaal, because Joash had said, "Let Baal avenge himself upon the one who dug down his altar."

33 Therefore all Midian, Amalek, and the eastern peoples gathered together; and crossing the Jordan, they camped in the Valley of Jezreel.

34 But the Spirit of the Lord clothed Gideon, and sounding the trumpet, he summoned the house of Abiezer to follow him.

35 He sent messengers throughout all Manasseh, which also followed him, and other messengers into Asher, Zebulun, and Naphtali, who came to meet him.

36 Gideon said to God, "If you save Israel by my hand, as you have spoken,

37 I shall place this fleece of wool upon the threshing floor. If dew is upon the fleece alone and dryness upon all the ground, I shall know that by my hand, as you have spoken, you will deliver Israel."

38 And so it was done. Rising in the night and squeezing the fleece, he filled a basin with dew.

39 Gideon said again to God, "Let not your fury be angered against me if I test yet once more, seeking a sign in the fleece. I ask that the fleece alone be dry and all the ground wet with dew."

40 God did that night as he had requested: there was dryness upon the fleece alone and dew upon all the ground.

CHAPTER 7

1 Therefore Jerubbaal, who is also Gideon, rising in the night with all the people who were with him, came to the fountain called Harod. Midian's camp was in the valley, on the northern side of the high hill.

2 The Lord said to Gideon, "The people with you are many, and Midian shall not be delivered into their hands, lest Israel glory against me and say, 'I was delivered by my own strength.'

3 Speak to the people and proclaim in the hearing of all: 'Whoever is fearful and timid, let him return.'" Twenty-two thousand men withdrew from Mount Gilead and returned from the people, and only ten thousand remained.

4 The Lord said to Gideon, "The people are still many. Lead them to the waters, and there I shall test them. He of whom I say to you, 'Let him go with you,' shall go; he whom I forbid to go shall return."

5 When the people had descended to the waters, the Lord said to Gideon, "Those who lap the waters with their tongue as dogs are accustomed to lap, you shall set apart; but those who drink with knees bent shall be in the other part."

6 Therefore the number of those who lapped the waters, casting hand to mouth, was three hundred men; but all the remaining multitude drank with knee bent.

7 The Lord said to Gideon, "By the three hundred men who lapped the waters I shall deliver you and deliver Midian into your hand. Let all the remaining multitude return to its place."

8 Taking provisions and trumpets according to their number, he commanded all the remaining multitude to go away to their tents, and he committed himself to the contest with the three hundred men. Midian's camp was below in the valley.

9 That same night the Lord said to him, "Rise and descend into the camp, because I have delivered them into your hand.

10 But if you fear to go alone, let Purah your servant descend with you.

11 And when you hear what they say, then your hands shall be strengthened, and you shall descend more securely into the enemy's camp." Therefore he and Purah his servant descended to the part of the camp where the watches of armed men were.

12 Midian, Amalek, and all the eastern peoples lay spread through the valley like a multitude of locusts. Their camels also were innumerable, like the sand that lies upon the seashore.

13 When Gideon had come, someone was recounting a dream to his neighbor and related what he had seen in this manner: "I saw a dream, and it seemed to me that a barley hearth-cake rolled and descended into Midian's camp. When it reached a tent, it struck it, overthrew it, and leveled it entirely with the ground."

14 The one to whom he spoke answered, "This is nothing other than the sword of Gideon son of Joash, an Israelite man; for the Lord has delivered Midian and all its camp into his hands."

15 When Gideon heard the dream and its interpretation, he adored. He returned to Israel's camp and said, "Arise, for the Lord has delivered Midian's camp into our hands."

16 He divided the three hundred men into three parts and gave trumpets into their hands, empty jars, and lamps in the midst of the jars.

17 He said to them, "What you see me do, do this. I shall enter one part of the camp, and follow what I do.

18 When the trumpet in my hand sounds, you also sound around the camp and cry out: 'For the Lord and for Gideon!'"

19 Gideon and the three hundred men with him entered a part of the camp as the watches of the middle of the night began. The guards having been roused, they began to sound the trumpets and smash the jars against one another.

20 When they sounded in three places around the camp and broke the pitchers, they held the lamps in their left hands and the sounding trumpets in their right, and cried out, "The sword of the Lord and of Gideon!"

21 Each stood in his place around the enemy's camp. Therefore the entire camp was thrown into confusion, and shouting and wailing, they fled.

22 Nevertheless, the three hundred men continued sounding the trumpets. And the Lord sent a sword throughout the entire camp, and they cut one another down in mutual slaughter,

23 fleeing as far as Beth-shittah and the edge of Abel-meholah in Tabbath. And the men of Israel, crying out from Naphtali, Asher, and all Manasseh, pursued Midian.

24 Gideon sent messengers throughout all Mount Ephraim, saying, "Descend to meet Midian, and seize the waters as far as Beth-barah and the Jordan." All Ephraim cried out and seized the waters and the Jordan as far as Beth-barah.

25 They seized two men of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb. They killed Oreb at the Rock of Oreb, and Zeeb at the Winepress of Zeeb. They pursued Midian, carrying the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon beyond the streams of the Jordan.

CHAPTER 8

1 The men of Ephraim said to him, “What is this you wished to do, that you did not call us when you went to battle against Midian?” They quarreled fiercely, nearly bringing violence upon him.

2 He answered them, “For what have I been able to do like what you have done? Is not Ephraim’s gleaned cluster better than Abiezer’s harvest?

3 The Lord delivered into your hands the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb. What have I been able to do like what you have done?” When he had spoken this, their spirit, with which they had swollen against him, rested.

4 When Gideon came to the Jordan, he crossed it with the three hundred men who were with him; and from exhaustion, they were unable to pursue those fleeing.

5 He said to the men of Succoth, “Give bread, I beg you, to the people with me, for they have exceedingly failed, so that we may be able to pursue Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian.”

6 The princes of Succoth answered, “Perhaps the palms of the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna are in your hand, and for that reason you demand that we give bread to your army?”

7 He said to them, “When the Lord has delivered Zebah and Zalmunna into my hands, I shall grind your flesh with the thorns and briers of the wilderness.”

8 Ascending from there, he came to Penuel and spoke similar things to the men of that place. They answered him as the men of Succoth had answered.

9 Therefore he said also to them, “When I return victorious in peace, I shall destroy this tower.”

10 But Zebah and Zalmunna were resting with all their army, for fifteen thousand men remained from all the companies of the eastern peoples, one hundred and twenty thousand warriors who drew the sword having been slain.

11 Gideon ascended by the way of those who dwelt in tents, toward the eastern side of Nobah and Jogbehah, and struck the enemy’s camp while they were secure and suspected nothing adverse.

12 Zebah and Zalmunna fled. Gideon pursued and seized them, and all their army was thrown into confusion.

13 Returning from battle before sunrise,

14 he seized a young man from the men of Succoth and questioned him concerning the names of the princes and elders of Succoth; and he wrote down seventy-seven men.

15 He came to Succoth and said to them, “Behold Zebah and Zalmunna, concerning whom you reproached me, saying, ‘Perhaps the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna are in your hands, and for that reason you demand that we give bread to men who are weary and have failed.’”

16 Therefore he took the elders of the city and the thorns and briers of the wilderness, and with them ground and crushed the men of Succoth.

17 He also overthrew the tower of Penuel, killing the inhabitants of the city.

18 He said to Zebah and Zalmunna, “What manner of men were those you killed at Tabor?” They answered, “Like you, and one of them was as a king’s son.”

19 He answered them, “They were my brothers, my mother’s sons. As the Lord lives, if you had preserved them, I would not kill you.”

20 He said to Jether his firstborn, “Rise and kill them.” But he did not draw the sword, for he was afraid, because he was still a boy.

21 Zebah and Zalmunna said, “You rise and rush upon us, for a man’s strength is according to his age.” Gideon arose and killed Zebah and Zalmunna, and took the ornaments and bosses with which the necks of royal camels are customarily adorned.

22 All the men of Israel said to Gideon, “Rule over us—you, your son, and your son’s son—because you delivered us from the hand of Midian.”

23 He said to them, “I shall not rule over you, nor shall my son rule over you; but the Lord shall rule over you.”

24 He said to them, “I ask one petition of you: give me earrings from your spoil.” For the Ishmaelites were accustomed to have gold earrings.

25 They answered, “We shall give them most gladly.” Spreading a cloak upon the ground, they cast upon it earrings from the spoil.

26 The weight of the earrings he requested was one thousand seven hundred shekels of gold, apart from the ornaments, necklaces, and purple garments the kings of Midian were accustomed to use, and besides the gold chains of the camels.

27 Gideon made an ephod from it and placed it in his city, Ophrah. All Israel fornicated with it, and it became a ruin to Gideon and all his house.

28 But Midian was humbled before the children of Israel, nor were they able to raise their necks any further; and the land rested for forty years, during which Gideon presided.

29 Jerubbaal son of Joash therefore departed and dwelt in his house.

30 He had seventy sons who came out from his thigh, because he had many wives.

31 And his concubine, whom he had in Shechem, bore him a son named Abimelech.

32 Gideon son of Joash died in a good old age and was buried in the tomb of Joash his father at Ophrah, of the family of Abiezer.

33 After Gideon died, the children of Israel turned away and fornicated with the Baals. They struck a covenant with Baal, that he might be their god.

34 They did not remember the Lord their God, who rescued them from the hands of all their surrounding enemies,

35 nor did they show mercy to the house of Jerubbaal Gideon according to all the good he had done for Israel.

CHAPTER 9

1 Abimelech son of Jerubbaal went to Shechem to his mother's brothers and spoke to them and to all the kindred of his mother's father's house, saying,

2 "Speak to all the men of Shechem: What is better for you—that seventy men, all the sons of Jerubbaal, should rule over you, or that one man should rule? Consider also that I am your bone and your flesh."

3 His mother's brothers spoke all these words concerning him to all the men of Shechem, and inclined their heart after Abimelech, saying, "He is our brother."

4 They gave him seventy weights of silver from the shrine of Baal-berith. From it he hired needy and wandering men, and they followed him.

5 He came to his father's house in Ophrah and killed his brothers, the seventy sons of Jerubbaal, upon one stone. Only Jotham, Jerubbaal's youngest son, remained, for he was hidden.

6 All the men of Shechem and all the families of the city of Millo assembled; and they went and established Abimelech as king beside the oak that stood in Shechem.

7 When this was reported to Jotham, he went and stood upon the summit of Mount Gerizim. Raising his voice, he cried out and said, "Hear me, men of Shechem, so may God hear you.

8 The trees went to anoint a king over themselves and said to the olive tree, 'Rule over us.'

9 It answered, 'Can I forsake my richness, which both gods and men use, and come to be promoted among the trees?'

10 The trees said to the fig tree, 'Come and receive kingship over us.'

11 It answered them, 'Can I forsake my sweetness and most delightful fruits and go to be promoted among the other trees?'

12 The trees spoke to the vine: 'Come and rule over us.'

13 It answered them, 'Can I forsake my wine, which gladdens God and men, and be promoted among the other trees?'

14 All the trees said to the bramble, 'Come and rule over us.'

15 It answered them, 'If you truly establish me as king over you, come and rest beneath my shadow. But if you are unwilling, let fire go out from the bramble and devour the cedars of Lebanon.'

16 Now therefore, if you acted rightly and without sin in establishing Abimelech as king over you, and acted well toward Jerubbaal and his house and repaid his benefits—he who fought for you

17 and gave his soul to dangers to rescue you from the hand of Midian—

18 though you have now risen against my father's house and killed his sons, seventy men, upon one stone, and established Abimelech, son of his maidservant, as king over the inhabitants of Shechem because he is your brother:

19 if, therefore, you acted rightly and without fault toward Jerubbaal and his house, rejoice today in Abimelech, and let him rejoice in you.

20 But if perversely, let fire go out from him and consume the inhabitants of Shechem and the town of Millo; and let fire go out from the men of Shechem and the town of Millo and devour Abimelech."

21 When he had said these things, he fled and went away to Beer, and dwelt there for fear of Abimelech his brother.

22 And so Abimelech reigned over Israel for three years.

23 The Lord sent a most evil spirit between Abimelech and the inhabitants of Shechem, and they began to detest him,

24 so that the crime of killing Jerubbaal's seventy sons and the shedding of their blood might be laid upon Abimelech their brother and upon the other chiefs of Shechem who had aided him.

25 They placed ambushes against him upon the summits of the mountains; and while they awaited his coming, they practiced robbery, taking spoil from those passing by. This was reported to Abimelech.

26 Now Gaal son of Obed came with his brothers and crossed into Shechem. At his coming the inhabitants of Shechem were raised up.

27 They went out into the fields, laid waste the vineyards, and trod the grapes. Forming choirs of singers, they entered the shrine of their god; and amid feasts and cups they cursed Abimelech, 28 while Gaal son of Obed cried, “Who is Abimelech, and what is Shechem, that we should serve him? Is he not Jerubbaal’s son, and did he not establish Zebul his servant as prince over the men of Hamor, father of Shechem? Why then should we serve him?

29 Would that someone gave this people beneath my hand, that I might remove Abimelech from their midst.” And it was said to Abimelech, “Gather the multitude of your army and come.”

30 For Zebul, prince of the city, hearing the words of Gaal son of Obed, was exceedingly angry,

31 and secretly sent messengers to Abimelech, saying, “Behold, Gaal son of Obed has come into Shechem with his brothers and assaults the city against you.

32 Therefore arise by night with the people who are with you and lie hidden in the field.

33 At first light, when the sun rises, rush upon the city. And when he goes out against you with his people, do to him what you can.”

34 Abimelech therefore arose by night with all his army and set ambushes beside Shechem in four places.

35 Gaal son of Obed went out and stood at the entrance of the city gate. And Abimelech and all the army with him arose from the place of ambush.

36 When Gaal saw the people, he said to Zebul, “Behold, a multitude descends from the mountains.” He answered him, “You see the shadows of the mountains as though they were the heads of men and are deceived by this error.”

37 Again Gaal said, “Behold, a people descends from the navel of the earth, and one wedge-shaped company comes by the way that faces the oak.”

38 Zebul said to him, “Where now is your mouth, with which you said, ‘Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him?’ Is this not the people you despised? Go out and fight against him.”

39 Gaal therefore went out in the sight of the people of Shechem and fought against Abimelech,

40 who pursued him as he fled and drove him into the city. Many fell on his side as far as the city gate.

41 Abimelech remained in Arumah, but Zebul expelled Gaal and his companions from the city and did not permit him to remain in it.

42 On the following day the people went out into the field. When this was reported to Abimelech,

43 he took his army, divided it into three companies, and set ambushes in the fields. Seeing the people going out of the city, he arose and rushed upon them

44 with his own wedge-shaped company, assaulting and besieging the city, while the two companies roamed through the field pursuing their adversaries.

45 Abimelech assaulted the city throughout that entire day. He took it, killed its inhabitants, and destroyed it, so that he scattered salt upon it.

46 When those who dwelt in the tower of Shechem heard this, they entered the shrine of their god Berith, where they had struck a covenant with him and from which the place had received its name; and it was exceedingly fortified.

47 Abimelech also heard that the men of the tower of Shechem had gathered together.

48 He ascended Mount Zalmon with all his people, seized an axe, cut a branch from a tree, placed it upon his shoulder, and said to his companions, “What you see me do, do quickly.”

49 Therefore, vying with one another, they cut branches from the trees and followed their leader. Surrounding the stronghold, they set it on fire; and so it happened that one thousand people were killed by smoke and fire—men and women together, inhabitants of the tower of Shechem.

50 Abimelech, setting out from there, came to the town of Thebez, surrounded it, and besieged it with his army.

51 There was a high tower in the middle of the city to which men and women together, and all the chiefs of the city, had fled. The door was most securely closed, and they stood upon the tower’s roof behind the battlements.

52 Abimelech approached beside the tower and fought fiercely. Drawing near the entrance, he strove to set fire beneath it.

53 And behold, one woman, casting down a fragment of a millstone from above, struck Abimelech’s head and shattered his brain.

54 He quickly called his armor-bearer and said to him, “Draw your sword and strike me, lest perhaps it be said that I was killed by a woman.” Fulfilling what was commanded, he killed him.

55 When he was dead, all those of Israel who were with him returned to their dwellings.

56 And God repaid the evil Abimelech had done against his father by killing his seventy brothers.

57 What the Shechemites had done was also repaid to them, and the curse of Jotham son of Jerubbaal came upon them.

CHAPTER 10

1 After Abimelech, Tola son of Puah, Abimelech's paternal uncle, arose as leader in Israel. He was a man of Issachar who dwelt in Shamir of Mount Ephraim.

2 He judged Israel for twenty-three years, died, and was buried in Shamir.

3 Jair the Gileadite succeeded him and judged Israel for twenty-two years.

4 He had thirty sons sitting upon thirty young donkeys, and they were princes of thirty cities, which from his name are called Havoth-jair, that is, the Towns of Jair, even to the present day in the land of Gilead.

5 Jair died and was buried in the place called Kamon.

6 But the children of Israel, joining new sins to the old, did evil in the sight of the Lord and served idols—the Baals and Ashtaroth, and the gods of Syria, Sidon, Moab, the children of Ammon, and the Philistines. They forsook the Lord and did not worship him.

7 The Lord, angered against them, delivered them into the hands of the Philistines and the children of Ammon.

8 They were afflicted and fiercely oppressed for eighteen years—all who dwelt beyond the Jordan in the land of the Amorite, which is in Gilead.

9 So far did it go that the children of Ammon crossed the Jordan and laid waste Judah, Benjamin, and Ephraim; and Israel was exceedingly afflicted.

10 Crying to the Lord, they said, "We have sinned against you, because we forsook the Lord our God and served the Baals."

11 The Lord spoke to them: "Did not the Egyptians, Amorites, children of Ammon, and Philistines,

12 and also the Sidonians, Amalek, and Canaan oppress you? And you cried to me, and I rescued you from their hand.

13 Yet you forsook me and worshiped strange gods; therefore I shall no longer add to deliver you.

14 Go and invoke the gods you chose; let them deliver you in the time of anguish."

15 The children of Israel said to the Lord, "We have sinned. Repay us whatever pleases you; only deliver us now."

16 Saying these things, they cast all the idols of strange gods from their borders and served the Lord God, who grieved over their miseries.

17 Therefore the children of Ammon, crying out together, pitched their tents in Gilead; and against them the assembled children of Israel camped in Mizpah.

18 The princes of Gilead said, each to his neighbors, "Whoever among us first begins to fight against the children of Ammon shall be leader of the people of Gilead."

CHAPTER 11

1 At that time Jephthah the Gileadite was an exceedingly mighty man and warrior, the son of a prostitute woman, born of Gilead.

2 But Gilead had a wife from whom he received sons. After they had grown, they cast Jephthah out, saying, “You cannot be heir in our father’s house, because you were born of another mother.”

3 Fleeing and avoiding them, he dwelt in the land of Tob. Needy and marauding men gathered to him and followed him as their prince.

4 In those days the children of Ammon fought against Israel.

5 As they pressed fiercely, the elders of Gilead proceeded to take Jephthah from the land of Tob as their aid.

6 They said to him, “Come and be our prince, and fight against the children of Ammon.”

7 He answered them, “Are you not those who hated me and cast me out of my father’s house? And now you have come to me, compelled by necessity.”

8 The princes of Gilead said to Jephthah, “For this reason, therefore, we have now come to you, that you may set out with us, fight against the children of Ammon, and be leader of all who dwell in Gilead.”

9 Jephthah also said to them, “If you truly have come to me that I may fight for you against the children of Ammon, and the Lord delivers them into my hands, shall I be your prince?”

10 They answered him, “The Lord, who hears these things, is himself mediator and witness that we shall fulfill our promises.”

11 Jephthah therefore went with the princes of Gilead, and all the people made him their prince. And Jephthah spoke all his words before the Lord in Mizpah.

12 He sent messengers to the king of the children of Ammon to say in his own person, “What is there between me and you, that you have come against me to lay waste my land?”

13 He answered them, “Because Israel took my land when he ascended from Egypt, from the borders of the Arnon as far as the Jabbok and the Jordan. Now therefore restore it to me in peace.”

14 Through them Jephthah again sent word and commanded them to say to the king of Ammon:

15 “Thus says Jephthah: Israel did not take the land of Moab or the land of the children of Ammon.

16 But when they ascended from Egypt, he walked through the wilderness as far as the Red Sea and came to Kadesh.

17 He sent messengers to the king of Edom, saying, ‘Permit me to pass through your land.’ He was unwilling to consent to his pleas. He also sent to the king of Moab, who likewise scorned to provide passage. Therefore he remained in Kadesh,

18 circled along the side of the land of Edom and the land of Moab, came toward the eastern region of the land of Moab, and camped beyond the Arnon. He was unwilling to enter Moab’s borders, for the Arnon is the boundary of the land of Moab.

19 Israel therefore sent messengers to Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, and they said to him, ‘Permit me to pass through your land as far as the river.’

20 He also despised Israel’s words and did not permit him to pass through his borders. Instead, gathering an immeasurable multitude, he went out against him at Jahaz and fiercely resisted.

21 The Lord delivered him with all his army into Israel’s hands; Israel struck him and possessed all the land of the Amorite inhabitant of that region,

22 and all its territories from the Arnon as far as the Jabbok, and from the wilderness as far as the Jordan.

23 Therefore the Lord God of Israel overthrew the Amorite while his people Israel fought against him, and do you now wish to possess his land?

24 Are not the things your god Chemosh possesses owed to you by right? But the things the Lord our God has obtained as victor shall pass into our possession.

25 Unless perhaps you are better than Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab, or can show that he quarreled against Israel and fought against him

26 when he dwelt in Heshbon and its villages, Aroer and its villages, and all the cities beside the Jordan for three hundred years. Why for so long a time have you attempted nothing concerning this recovery?

27 Therefore I do not sin against you, but you act wickedly against me by declaring unjust wars upon me. Let the Lord, the judge of this day, judge between Israel and the children of Ammon."

28 The king of the children of Ammon was unwilling to consent to Jephthah's words, which he had sent through messengers.

29 Therefore the Spirit of the Lord came upon Jephthah; and circling Gilead and Manasseh, and Mizpah of Gilead, he passed from there to the children of Ammon.

30 He vowed a vow to the Lord, saying, "If you deliver the children of Ammon into my hands,

31 whoever shall first go out from the doors of my house and meet me when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, I shall offer him as a holocaust to the Lord."

32 Jephthah crossed to the children of Ammon to fight against them, and the Lord delivered them into his hands.

33 He struck from Aroer until you come to Minnith—twenty cities—and as far as Abel, which is planted with vineyards, with an exceedingly great slaughter. And the children of Ammon were humbled by the children of Israel.

34 But as Jephthah returned to his house in Mizpah, his only-begotten daughter came to meet him with timbrels and choirs, for he had no other children.

35 Seeing her, he tore his garments and said, "Alas, my daughter! You have deceived me, and you yourself are deceived, for I opened my mouth to the Lord and shall not be able to do otherwise."

36 She answered him, "My father, if you opened your mouth to the Lord, do to me whatever you promised, since vengeance and victory over your enemies have been granted to you."

37 She said to her father, "Grant me only this for which I beg: permit me to circle the mountains for two months and mourn my virginity with my companions."

38 He answered her, "Go." And he released her for two months. When she had departed with her associates and companions, she wept for her virginity in the mountains.

39 When the two months were completed, she returned to her father, and he did to her as he had vowed. She had not known a man. From that time a practice grew frequent in Israel and the custom was observed, 40 that after the circuit of a year the daughters of Israel assemble as one and mourn the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite for four days.

CHAPTER 12

1 And behold, sedition arose in Ephraim. Crossing toward the north, they said to Jephthah, “Why, when you went to battle against the children of Ammon, were you unwilling to call us to go with you? Therefore we shall burn your house.”

2 He answered them, “I and my people had a fierce dispute against the children of Ammon. I called you to provide aid to me, and you were unwilling to do so.

3 Seeing this, I placed my soul in my hands and crossed to the children of Ammon, and the Lord delivered them into my hands. What have I deserved, that you should rise against me in battle?”

4 Therefore, calling all the men of Gilead to himself, he fought against Ephraim. The men of Gilead struck Ephraim because he had said, “Gilead is a fugitive from Ephraim and dwells in the midst of Ephraim and Manasseh.”

5 The Gileadites seized the fords of the Jordan by which Ephraim would return. And when one from the number of Ephraim came to them fleeing and said, “I beg you to permit me to cross,” the Gileadites said to him, “Are you an Ephraimite?” When he said, “I am not,”

6 they asked him, “Then say Shibboleth,” which is interpreted “Ear of Grain.” He answered, “Sibboleth,” for he was unable to express an ear of grain with that same letter. Immediately they seized him and cut his throat at that very crossing of the Jordan. At that time forty-two thousand from Ephraim fell.

7 Jephthah the Gileadite therefore judged Israel for six years. He died and was buried in his city of Gilead.

8 After him Ibzan of Bethlehem judged Israel.

9 He had thirty sons and the same number of daughters, whom he sent abroad and gave to husbands; and for his sons of the same number, he received wives and brought them into his house. He judged Israel for seven years,

10 died, and was buried in Bethlehem.

11 Elon the Zebulunite succeeded him and judged Israel for ten years.

12 He died and was buried in Zebulun.

13 After him Abdon son of Hillel the Pirathonite judged Israel.

14 He had forty sons and thirty grandsons from them, riding upon seventy young donkeys. He judged Israel for eight years,

15 died, and was buried at Pirathon in the land of Ephraim, on Mount Amalek.

CHAPTER 13

1 Again the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord, and he delivered them into the hands of the Philistines for forty years.

2 Now there was a certain man from Zorah, of the stock of Dan, named Manoah, who had a barren wife.

3 The angel of the Lord appeared to her and said, “You are barren and without children, but you shall conceive and bear a son.

4 Take care, therefore, that you drink neither wine nor strong drink, nor eat anything unclean,

5 because you shall conceive and bear a son whose head no razor shall touch. For he shall be a Nazirite of God from his infancy and from his mother’s womb, and he shall begin to deliver Israel from the hand of the Philistines.”

6 When she came to her husband, she said to him, “A man of God came to me, having an angelic countenance, exceedingly terrible. When I asked who he was, where he had come from, and by what name he was called, he was unwilling to tell me.

7 But he answered this: ‘Behold, you shall conceive and bear a son. Take care that you drink neither wine nor strong drink, nor eat anything unclean, for the boy shall be a Nazirite of God from his infancy, from his mother’s womb even to the day of his death.’”

8 Manoah therefore prayed to the Lord and said, “I beg you, O Lord, that the man of God whom you sent may come again and teach us what we ought to do concerning the boy who is to be born.”

9 The Lord heard Manoah’s entreaty, and the angel of God appeared again to his wife while she sat in the field; but Manoah her husband was not with her. When she saw the angel,

10 she hastened and ran to her husband and reported to him, saying, “Behold, the man whom I saw before has appeared to me.”

11 He arose and followed his wife, and coming to the man, said to him, “Are you the one who spoke to the woman?” He answered, “I am.”

12 Manoah said to him, “When your word has been fulfilled, what do you wish the boy to do, or from what must he keep himself?”

13 The angel of the Lord said to Manoah, “Let her abstain from everything of which I spoke to your wife.

14 Let her eat nothing born from the vine, drink neither wine nor strong drink, and eat nothing unclean. Let her fulfill and keep what I commanded her.”

15 Manoah said to the angel of the Lord, “I beg you to consent to my pleas, and let us prepare a young goat for you.”

16 The angel answered him, “If you compel me, I shall not eat your bread. But if you wish to make a holocaust, offer it to the Lord.” And Manoah did not know that he was the angel of the Lord.

17 He said to him, “What is your name, that if your word is fulfilled we may honor you?”

18 He answered him, “Why do you ask my name, which is Wonderful?”

19 Manoah therefore took the young goat and libations and placed them upon the rock, offering to the Lord, who does wonders, while he and his wife watched.

20 When the flame of the altar ascended into heaven, the angel of the Lord likewise ascended in the flame. When Manoah and his wife saw this, they fell prone upon the ground.

21 The angel of the Lord appeared to them no more. And immediately Manoah understood him to be the angel of the Lord,

22 and said to his wife, “Dying we shall die, because we have seen God.”

23 The woman answered him, “If the Lord wished to kill us, he would not have received a holocaust and libations from our hands, nor shown us all these things, nor told us the things that are to come.”

24 Therefore she bore a son and called his name Samson. The boy grew, and the Lord blessed him.

25 And the Spirit of the Lord began to be with him in the camp of Dan between Zorah and Eshtaol.

CHAPTER 14

1 Samson therefore descended into Timnah and saw there a woman from the daughters of the Philistines.

2 He ascended and reported to his father and mother, saying, “I saw a woman in Timnah from the daughters of the Philistines. I ask that you take her for me as wife.”

3 His father and mother said to him, “Is there no woman among the daughters of your brothers or among all my people, that you wish to take a wife from the uncircumcised Philistines?” Samson said to his father, “Take this one for me, because she has pleased my eyes.”

4 But his parents did not know that the matter was done by the Lord and that he sought an occasion against the Philistines, for at that time the Philistines ruled over Israel.

5 Samson therefore descended with his father and mother into Timnah. When they came to the vineyards of the town, a fierce young lion appeared roaring and met him.

6 But the Spirit of the Lord rushed upon Samson, and he tore the lion apart, rending it into pieces as though it were a young goat, having nothing whatever in his hand. He was unwilling to report this to his father and mother.

7 He descended and spoke to the woman who had pleased his eyes.

8 After some days, returning to take her, he turned aside to see the lion’s corpse, and behold, a swarm of bees and a honeycomb were in the lion’s mouth.

9 Taking it in his hands, he ate along the way. Coming to his father and mother, he gave them a portion, and they also ate; yet he was unwilling to tell them that he had taken the honey from the lion’s body.

10 His father therefore descended to the woman, and he made a feast for his son Samson, for so young men were accustomed to do.

11 When the citizens of that place saw him, they gave him thirty companions to be with him.

12 Samson said to them, “I shall propose a riddle to you. If you solve it for me within the seven days of the feast, I shall give you thirty linen garments and the same number of tunics.

13 But if you are unable to solve it, you shall give me thirty linen garments and the same number of tunics.” They answered him, “Propose the riddle, that we may hear it.”

14 He said to them, “From the eater came forth food, and from the strong came forth sweetness.” They were unable to solve the proposition for three days.

15 When the seventh day was present, they said to Samson’s wife, “Flatter your husband and persuade him to tell you what the riddle signifies. If you are unwilling to do this, we shall burn you and your father’s house. Did you call us to the wedding so that you might plunder us?”

16 She poured out tears before Samson and complained, saying, “You hate me and do not love me. For this reason you are unwilling to explain to me the riddle you proposed to the children of my people.” He answered, “I was unwilling to tell my father and mother, and shall I be able to tell you?”

17 Therefore she wept before him during the seven days of the feast. At last, on the seventh day, when she was troublesome to him, he explained it. She immediately reported it to her citizens.

18 On the seventh day before sunset they said to him, “What is sweeter than honey, and what is stronger than a lion?” He said to them, “If you had not plowed with my heifer, you would not have found my proposition.”

19 Therefore the Spirit of the Lord rushed upon him. He descended to Ashkelon and struck thirty men there; taking away their garments, he gave them to those who had solved the riddle. Exceedingly angry, he ascended to his father’s house.

20 But his wife took as husband one of his friends and wedding companions.

CHAPTER 15

1 After a little time, when the days of wheat harvest were at hand, Samson came wishing to visit his wife and brought her a young goat. When he wished to enter her chamber as usual, her father prevented him, saying,

2 “I thought you hated her and therefore delivered her to your friend. But she has a sister younger and more beautiful than she; let her be your wife in her place.”

3 Samson answered him, “From this day there shall be no fault in me against the Philistines, for I shall do you evil.”

4 He went and caught three hundred foxes, joined their tails to tails, and tied torches in the middle.

5 Setting them on fire, he released them to run here and there. They immediately went into the Philistines’ crops. These being set on fire, both the already gathered produce and that still standing upon the stalk were burned, so much that the flame also consumed the vineyards and olive groves.

6 The Philistines said, “Who did this thing?” They were told, “Samson, the Timnite’s son-in-law, because he took his wife and delivered her to another, did these things.” The Philistines ascended and burned both the woman and her father.

7 Samson said to them, “Though you have done these things, I shall still demand vengeance from you, and then I shall rest.”

8 He struck them with an immense slaughter, so that in astonishment they placed calf upon thigh. Descending, he dwelt in the cave of the rock of Etam.

9 Therefore the Philistines ascended into the land of Judah and camped in the place afterward called Lehi, that is, Jawbone, where their army was poured out.

10 Those of the tribe of Judah said to them, “Why have you ascended against us?” They answered, “We have come to bind Samson and repay him for what he did to us.”

11 Therefore three thousand men of Judah descended to the cave of the flint-rock of Etam and said to Samson, “Do you not know that the Philistines rule over us? Why did you wish to do this?” He said to them, “As they did to me, so I did to them.”

12 They said, “We have come to bind you and deliver you into the hands of the Philistines.” Samson said to them, “Swear and pledge to me that you will not kill me.”

13 They said, “We shall not kill you, but shall deliver you bound.” They bound him with two new ropes and took him from the rock of Etam.

14 When he came to the place of the Jawbone and the Philistines met him shouting, the Spirit of the Lord rushed upon him. And as flax is accustomed to be consumed by the smell of fire, so the bonds with which he was bound were scattered and loosed.

15 Finding the jawbone—that is, the mandible—of a donkey lying there, he seized it and killed one thousand men with it,

16 and said, “With the jawbone of a donkey, with the mandible of a donkey’s colt, I destroyed them and struck one thousand men.”

17 When he had completed these words in song, he cast the mandible from his hand and called the name of that place Ramath-lehi, which is interpreted “Elevation of the Jawbone.”

18 Thirsting exceedingly, he cried to the Lord and said, “You have given this greatest salvation and victory into the hand of your servant. Behold, I die of thirst and shall fall into the hands of the uncircumcised.”

19 Therefore the Lord opened a molar tooth in the donkey’s jawbone, and waters went out from it. Drinking them, he revived his spirit and recovered his strength. For this reason the name of that place was called “Fountain of the One Who Invoked from the Jawbone,” even to the present day.

20 And he judged Israel in the days of the Philistines for twenty years.

CHAPTER 16

1 He also went to Gaza, saw a prostitute woman there, and entered to her.

2 When the Philistines heard this, and the news spread among them that Samson had entered the city, they surrounded him and placed guards at the city gate. There they waited silently all night, that when morning came they might kill him as he went out.

3 But Samson slept until the middle of the night. Then rising, he seized both doors of the gate with their posts and bar, placed them upon his shoulders, and carried them to the summit of the mountain that faces Hebron.

4 After these things he loved a woman who dwelt in the Valley of Sorek and was called Delilah.

5 The princes of the Philistines came to her and said, “Deceive him and learn from him in what he has such strength and how we may be able to overcome him, bind him, and afflict him. If you do this, each of us shall give you one thousand one hundred pieces of silver.”

6 Delilah therefore spoke to Samson: “Tell me, I beg you, in what is your greatest strength, and with what could you be bound so that you cannot break free?”

7 Samson answered her, “If I am bound with seven sinew cords not yet dry and still moist, I shall be weak like other men.”

8 The satraps of the Philistines brought her seven cords, as he had said, and with them she bound him,

9 while ambushers hid with her and awaited the outcome in the chamber. She cried to him, “The Philistines are upon you, Samson!” He broke the bonds as one might break a thread of tow twisted with husk when it receives the smell of fire; and it was not known in what his strength lay.

10 Delilah said to him, “Behold, you mocked me and spoke falsely. At least now tell me with what you must be bound.”

11 He answered her, “If I am bound with new ropes that have never been put to work, I shall be weak and like other men.”

12 Delilah again bound him with them and cried, “The Philistines are upon you, Samson!”—with ambushers prepared in the chamber. He broke the bonds like threads of woven cloth.

13 Delilah said to him again, “How long do you deceive me and speak falsely? Show me with what you must be bound.” Samson answered her, “If you weave the seven locks of my head with the web and fasten a peg tied around them into the ground, I shall be weak.”

14 When Delilah had done this, she said to him, “The Philistines are upon you, Samson!” Rising from sleep, he drew out the peg with his locks and the web.

15 Delilah said to him, “How do you say that you love me when your soul is not with me? Three times you have lied to me and were unwilling to tell me in what your greatest strength lies.”

16 And as she was troublesome to him and clung to him continually for many days, giving him no space for rest, his soul failed and was wearied even to death.

17 Then, opening the truth of the matter, he said to her, “Iron has never ascended upon my head, because I am a Nazirite—that is, consecrated to God—from my mother’s womb. If my head is shaved, my strength shall withdraw from me, and I shall fail and be like other men.”

18 Seeing that he had confessed his whole soul to her, she sent to the princes of the Philistines and commanded, “Ascend yet once more, because now he has opened his heart to me.” They ascended, taking the money they had promised.

19 But she caused him to sleep upon her knees and recline his head in her bosom. She called a barber and shaved his seven locks, and began to drive him away and repel him from herself, for his strength immediately departed from him.

20 She said, “The Philistines are upon you, Samson!” Rising from sleep, he said in his soul, “I shall go out as I did before and shake myself free,” not knowing that the Lord had withdrawn from him.

21 When the Philistines seized him, they immediately tore out his eyes, led him bound in chains to Gaza, and shut him in prison, where they made him grind.

22 And now his hair began to grow again.

23 The princes of the Philistines assembled as one to immolate magnificent victims to Dagon their god and to feast, saying, “Our god has delivered Samson our enemy into our hands.”

24 When the people also saw this, they praised their god and said the same: “Our god has delivered our adversary into our hands—he who destroyed our land and killed very many.”

25 Rejoicing through the feast, when the meal had now been taken, they commanded that Samson be called to play before them. Brought from prison, he played before them, and they made him stand between two pillars.

26 He said to the boy guiding his steps, “Permit me to touch the pillars upon which the whole house hangs, that I may lean upon them and rest a little.”

27 The house was full of men and women, and all the princes of the Philistines were there; and from the roof and upper floor about three thousand of both sexes watched Samson playing.

28 But he invoked the Lord and said, “Lord God, remember me and now restore to me my former strength, my God, that I may avenge myself upon my enemies and receive one vengeance for the loss of my two lights.”

29 Grasping both pillars upon which the house rested, holding one with his right hand and the other with his left,

30 he said, “Let my soul die with the Philistines.” Shaking the pillars forcefully, the house fell upon all the princes and the remaining multitude there; and he killed far more in dying than he had killed before while living.

31 His brothers and all his kindred descended, took his body, and buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol in the tomb of Manoah his father. And he judged Israel for twenty years.

CHAPTER 17

1 At that time there was a certain man from Mount Ephraim named Micah.

2 He said to his mother, “The one thousand one hundred pieces of silver you had set apart for yourself and concerning which you swore in my hearing—behold, I have them, and they are with me.” She answered him, “Blessed is my son by the Lord.”

3 Therefore he returned them to his mother, who had said to him, “I consecrated and vowed this silver to the Lord, that my son may receive it from my hand and make a graven and molten thing. And now I deliver it to you.”

4 Therefore he returned them to his mother. She took two hundred pieces of silver and gave them to the silversmith to make from them a graven and molten thing, which was in Micah’s house.

5 He also set apart in it a little house for the god and made an ephod and teraphim—that is, a priestly garment and idols. He filled the hand of one of his sons, and he became his priest.

6 In those days there was no king in Israel, but each one did what appeared right to himself.

7 There was also another young man from Bethlehem of Judah, from its kindred. He was a Levite and dwelt there.

8 Going out from the city of Bethlehem, he wished to sojourn wherever he might find it suitable for himself. As he journeyed, he came into Mount Ephraim and turned aside for a little into Micah’s house.

9 Micah asked him where he had come from. He answered, “I am a Levite from Bethlehem of Judah, and I go to dwell wherever I am able and perceive it to be useful to me.”

10 Micah said, “Remain with me and be to me a parent and priest. I shall give you ten pieces of silver each year, a double garment, and the things necessary for sustenance.”

11 He consented and remained with the man and was to him like one of his sons.

12 Micah filled his hand and had the young man as priest with him.

13 And he said, “Now I know that God will do good to me, since I have a priest of Levitical stock.”

CHAPTER 18

1 In those days there was no king in Israel, and the tribe of Dan sought a possession for itself in which to dwell, for even to that day it had not received a lot among the other tribes.

2 Therefore the children of Dan sent five exceedingly mighty men from their stock and family, from Zorah and Eshtaol, to explore the land and inspect it diligently. They said to them, “Go and examine the land.” As they proceeded, they came into Mount Ephraim, entered Micah’s house, and rested there.

3 Recognizing the voice of the young Levite and using his lodging, they said to him, “Who brought you here? What do you do here? For what reason did you wish to come here?”

4 He answered them, “Micah provided me with these and these things and hired me for wages to be his priest.”

5 They asked him to consult the Lord, that they might know whether they would proceed on a prosperous journey and whether the matter would have its effect.

6 He answered them, “Go in peace. The Lord regards your way and the journey upon which you proceed.”

7 Therefore the five men went and came to Laish. They saw the people dwelling there without any fear, according to the custom of the Sidonians, secure and quiet, with no one resisting them at all, possessing great riches, far from Sidon, and separated from all men.

8 Returning to their brothers in Zorah and Eshtaol, they answered those who asked what they had done:

9 “Arise, let us ascend to them, for we have seen an exceedingly rich and fertile land. Do not neglect it; do not cease. Let us go and possess it. There shall be no labor.

10 We shall enter among those who are secure, into a very broad region; and the Lord shall deliver to us a place in which there is no lack of anything produced upon the earth.”

11 Therefore six hundred men from the kindred of Dan—that is, from Zorah and Eshtaol—set out girded with weapons of war.

12 Ascending, they remained at Kiriath-jearim of Judah. From that time the place received the name “Camp of Dan,” and it is behind Kiriath-jearim.

13 From there they passed into Mount Ephraim. When they came to Micah’s house,

14 the five men who had previously been sent to examine the land of Laish said to their other brothers, “You know that in these houses there are an ephod, teraphim, a graven thing, and a molten thing. Consider what pleases you.”

15 Turning aside a little, they entered the house of the young Levite who was in Micah’s house and greeted him with peaceful words.

16 But the six hundred armed men stood before the entrance.

17 Those who had entered the young man’s house strove to take the graven thing, ephod, teraphim, and molten thing, while the priest stood before the entrance, with the six hundred exceedingly mighty men waiting not far away.

18 Therefore those who had entered took the graven thing, ephod, idols, and molten thing. The priest said to them, “What are you doing?”

19 They answered him, “Be silent and place your finger upon your mouth. Come with us, that we may have you as father and priest. What is better for you—to be priest in the house of one man, or in one tribe and family in Israel?”

20 When he heard this, he consented to their words, took the ephod, idols, and graven thing, and set out with them.

21 As they proceeded, they caused the little ones, beasts, and everything precious to go before them.

22 When they were already far from Micah’s house, the men dwelling in Micah’s buildings followed them, crying out together,

23 and began to shout behind their backs. When they looked back, they said to Micah, “What do you want? Why do you cry out?”

24 He answered, “You have taken my gods, which I made for myself, and the priest, and everything I have; and you say, ‘What is it to you?’”

25 The children of Dan said to him, “Take care that you speak no more to us, lest men enraged in soul come upon you, and you perish with all your house.”

26 And thus they proceeded upon the journey they had begun. But Micah, seeing that they were stronger than he, returned to his house.

27 The six hundred men took the priest and the things we described above, and came to Laish, to a quiet and secure people. They struck them with the edge of the sword and delivered the city to the fire,

28 with no one whatever bringing aid, because they dwelt far from Sidon and had no fellowship or business with any men. The city was situated in the region of Rehob. Rebuilding it, they dwelt in it

29 and called the city's name Dan, according to the name of their father whom Israel had begotten; it had formerly been called Laish.

30 They set up the graven thing for themselves; and Jonathan son of Gershom, son of Moses, and his sons were priests in the tribe of Dan until the day of their captivity.

31 Micah's idol remained among them all the time the house of God was in Shiloh. In those days there was no king in Israel.

CHAPTER 19

1 There was a certain Levite man dwelling on the side of Mount Ephraim who took a wife from Bethlehem of Judah.

2 She left him and returned to her father's house in Bethlehem and remained with him for four months.

3 Her husband followed her, wishing to be reconciled to her, to flatter her, and to lead her back with him. He had in his company a servant and two donkeys. She received him and brought him into her father's house. When his father-in-law heard this and saw him, he joyfully ran to meet him

4 and embraced the man. The son-in-law remained in his father-in-law's house for three days, eating and drinking familiarly with him.

5 On the fourth day, rising in the night, he wished to set out. His father-in-law held him and said to him, "First taste a little bread and strengthen your stomach, and then you shall set out."

6 They sat together, ate, and drank. The girl's father said to his son-in-law, "I ask you to remain here today, that we may rejoice together."

7 But he arose and began to wish to set out. Nevertheless, his father-in-law earnestly held him and made him remain with him.

8 When morning came, the Levite prepared for the journey. His father-in-law said to him again, "I ask you to take a little food and, having taken strength, set out afterward when the day has grown." Therefore they ate together.

9 The young man arose to proceed with his wife and servant. His father-in-law spoke to him again: "Consider that the day is declining toward sunset and evening draws near. Remain with me today also, and pass the day joyfully; tomorrow you shall set out to go to your house."

10 The son-in-law was unwilling to consent to his words. He immediately set out and came opposite Jebus, which by another name is called Jerusalem, leading with him two laden donkeys and his concubine.

11 They were now beside Jebus, and day was changing into night. The servant said to his master, "Come, I beg you, let us turn aside to the city of the Jebusites and remain in it."

12 His master answered him, "I shall not enter a town of a strange nation that is not of the children of Israel, but shall pass as far as Gibeah.

13 And when I have reached there, we shall remain in it or certainly in the city of Ramah."

14 Therefore they passed Jebus and pursued the journey they had begun; and the sun set upon them beside Gibeah, which is in the tribe of Benjamin.

15 They turned aside to it to remain there. When they had entered, they sat in the city square, and no one wished to receive them as guests.

16 And behold, an old man appeared returning from the field and his work in the evening. He too was from Mount Ephraim and dwelt as a sojourner in Gibeah; but the men of that region were children of Jemini.

17 Raising his eyes, the old man saw the man sitting with his bundles in the city square and said to him, "Where do you come from, and where are you going?"

18 He answered him, "We set out from Bethlehem of Judah and proceed to our place, which is on the side of Mount Ephraim, from which we had gone to Bethlehem. And now we go to the house of God, but no one wishes to receive us beneath his roof,

19 though we have straw and hay as fodder for the donkeys, and bread and wine for the use of me, your maidservant, and the servant who is with me. We lack nothing except lodging."

20 The old man answered him, "Peace be with you. I shall provide everything necessary; only, I beg you, do not remain in the square."

21 He brought him into his house and provided fodder for the donkeys. After they had washed their feet, he received them into the feast.

22 While they feasted and refreshed their bodies with food and drink after the labor of the journey, the men of that city came—children of Belial, that is, Without a Yoke. Surrounding the old man's house, they began to strike the doors, crying to the master of the house and saying, "Bring out the man who entered your house, that we may abuse him."

23 The old man went out to them and said, "Do not, brothers, do not commit this evil, because the man has entered my lodging. Cease from this folly.

24 I have a virgin daughter, and this man has a concubine. I shall bring them out to you, that you may humiliate them and fulfill your lust; only, I beg you, do not work this crime against nature upon the man.”

25 They were unwilling to consent to his words. Seeing this, the man brought his concubine out to them and delivered her to be mocked. After they had abused her throughout the entire night, they released her in the morning.

26 But as the darkness withdrew, the woman came to the entrance of the house where her lord was remaining, and there she collapsed.

27 When morning came, the man arose and opened the entrance to complete the journey he had begun; and behold, his concubine lay before the entrance with her hands spread upon the threshold.

28 Thinking she was resting, he spoke to her: “Rise, and let us walk.” When she answered nothing, he understood that she was dead. He took her, placed her upon the donkey, and returned to his house.

29 When he had entered it, he seized a sword and cut the corpse of his wife, with her bones, into twelve parts and pieces, and sent them into all the territories of Israel.

30 When each saw this, they cried out together: “Never has such a thing been done in Israel, from the day our fathers ascended from Egypt even to the present time. Give judgment, and determine together what must be done.”

CHAPTER 20

1 Therefore all the children of Israel went out and assembled together as one man, from Dan as far as Beersheba and the land of Gilead, before the Lord in Mizpah.

2 All the corners of the peoples and all the tribes of Israel came into the assembly of the people of God—four hundred thousand footmen, warriors.

3 Nor was it hidden from the children of Benjamin that the children of Israel had ascended into Mizpah. And the Levite, husband of the murdered woman, was asked how so great a crime had been perpetrated.

4 He answered, “I came to Gibeah of Benjamin with my wife and turned aside there.

5 And behold, the men of that city surrounded the house where I remained by night, wishing to kill me; and tormenting my wife with incredible fury of lust, at last she died.

6 Seizing her, I cut her into pieces and sent the parts into all the territories of your possession, because never has so great a wickedness and so immense an offense been committed in Israel.

7 All you children of Israel are present. Determine what you ought to do.”

8 All the people stood and answered as with the speech of one man: “We shall not withdraw to our tents, nor shall anyone enter his house,

9 but we shall do this together against Gibeah.

10 Let ten men be chosen from one hundred throughout all the tribes of Israel, one hundred from one thousand, and one thousand from ten thousand, that they may carry provisions for the army and we may fight against Gibeah of Benjamin and repay it what it deserves for the crime.”

11 And all Israel assembled against the city as one man, with the same mind and one counsel.

12 They sent messengers to the entire tribe of Benjamin to say, “Why has so great a wickedness been found among you?

13 Deliver the men of Gibeah who perpetrated this outrage, that they may die and evil may be taken away from Israel.” They were unwilling to hear the command of their brothers, the children of Israel,

14 but assembled from all the cities belonging to their lot into Gibeah, that they might bring them aid and fight against the whole people of Israel.

15 There were found twenty-five thousand from Benjamin who drew the sword, apart from the inhabitants of Gibeah, 16 who were seven hundred exceedingly mighty men, fighting with the left hand as with the right; and they cast stones from slings so surely that they could strike even a hair, and the blow of the stone would by no means be carried to the other side.

17 There were also found four hundred thousand men of Israel, apart from the children of Benjamin, who drew the sword and were prepared for battle.

18 Rising, they came to the house of God, that is, to Shiloh. They consulted God and said, “Who shall be prince of the contest in our army against the children of Benjamin?” The Lord answered them, “Let Judah be your leader.”

19 Immediately the children of Israel arose in the morning and camped beside Gibeah.

20 Proceeding from there to battle against Benjamin, they began to assault the city.

21 The children of Benjamin went out from Gibeah and killed twenty-two thousand men of the children of Israel on that day.

22 Again the children of Israel, trusting both in strength and number, arranged the battle line in the same place in which they had fought before,

23 yet so that they first ascended and wept before the Lord until night and consulted him, saying, “Must I proceed further to fight against the children of Benjamin, my brothers, or not?” He answered them, “Ascend against them and enter the contest.”

24 When the children of Israel proceeded to battle against the children of Benjamin on the next day,

25 the children of Benjamin burst from the gates of Gibeah and, meeting them, raged against them with so great a slaughter that they struck down eighteen thousand men who drew the sword.

26 For this reason all the children of Israel came to the house of God and, sitting, wept before the Lord. They fasted that day until evening and offered him holocausts and peace victims,

27 and questioned him concerning their condition. At that time the ark of the covenant of God was there,

28 and Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron, was overseer of the house. They therefore consulted the Lord and said, “Must we go out further to battle against the children of Benjamin, our brothers, or rest?” The Lord said to them, “Ascend, for tomorrow I shall deliver them into your hands.”

29 The children of Israel placed ambushes around the city of Gibeah,

30 and for the third time, as once and twice before, brought out the army against Benjamin.

31 But the children of Benjamin also burst boldly from the city and pursued their fleeing adversaries farther, so that they wounded them as on the first and second days and struck them along two paths as they turned their backs—one leading to Bethel and the other to Gibeah—and struck down about thirty men.

32 For they thought they were yielding in their customary manner. But those feigning flight artfully entered a plan to draw them away from the city and, as though fleeing, lead them to the paths described above.

33 Therefore all the children of Israel arose from their places and arranged the battle line in the place called Baal-tamar. The ambushes around the city also gradually began to reveal themselves

34 and proceed from the city’s western side. Another ten thousand men from all Israel provoked the city’s inhabitants to battle. The war grew heavy against the children of Benjamin, and they did not understand that destruction pressed upon them from every side.

35 The Lord struck them in the sight of the children of Israel; and on that day they killed twenty-five thousand one hundred of them, all warriors who drew the sword.

36 But when the children of Benjamin saw themselves to be inferior, they began to flee. Seeing this, the children of Israel gave them room to flee, that they might come to the prepared ambushes they had placed beside the city.

37 When those in hiding suddenly arose, and Benjamin gave his back to those striking, they entered the city and struck it with the edge of the sword.

38 The children of Israel had given a sign to those they had placed in ambush: after they had seized the city, they were to kindle fire so that smoke ascending on high would show the city was taken.

39 When the children of Israel, placed in the battle itself, saw this—for the children of Benjamin thought they fled and pursued them more insistently, having slain thirty men from their army—

40 and saw what was like a pillar of smoke ascending from the city; Benjamin also looked back and saw the city taken and flames carried on high.

41 Those who had first feigned flight turned their face and resisted more fiercely. When the children of Benjamin saw this, they turned to flight

42 and began to go toward the way of the wilderness, their adversaries pursuing them there also; but those who had burned the city met them as well.

43 And so it happened that they were struck by enemies on both sides, and there was no rest for the dying. They fell and were laid low on the eastern side of the city of Gibeah.

44 Those killed in that same place were eighteen thousand men, all exceedingly robust warriors.

45 When those who remained of Benjamin saw this, they fled into the wilderness and proceeded to the rock called Rimmon. In that flight, as they scattered and went in different directions, they killed five thousand men. And when they continued farther, they pursued them and killed another two thousand.

46 And so it happened that all those of Benjamin who fell in different places were twenty-five thousand warriors exceedingly ready for battle.

47 Therefore six hundred men remained from the entire number of Benjamin who were able to escape and flee into the wilderness; and they remained at the Rock of Rimmon for four months.

48 But the children of Israel returned and struck with the sword every remnant of the city, from men even to beasts; and a devouring flame consumed all Benjamin’s cities and villages.

CHAPTER 21

1 The children of Israel had also sworn in Mizpah and said, “None of us shall give one of his daughters as wife to the children of Benjamin.”

2 They all came to the house of God in Shiloh and, sitting in his sight until evening, raised their voice and began to weep with a great wail, saying,

3 “Why, O Lord God of Israel, has this evil happened among your people, that today one tribe should be taken away from us?”

4 Rising at dawn on the next day, they built an altar and offered holocausts and peace victims there, and said,

5 “Who from all the tribes of Israel did not ascend in the Lord’s army?” For they had bound themselves with a great oath while they were in Mizpah, that those who had been absent should be killed.

6 The children of Israel, being led to penance over Benjamin their brother, began to say, “One tribe has been taken away from Israel.

7 From where shall they receive wives? For we all swore together that we would not give them our daughters.”

8 For this reason they said, “Who from all the tribes of Israel did not ascend to the Lord in Mizpah?” And behold, the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead were found not to have been in that army.

9 At that time also, when they were in Shiloh, none of them was found there.

10 Therefore they sent ten thousand exceedingly robust men and commanded them, “Go and strike the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead with the edge of the sword, both their wives and their little ones.

11 And this is what you must observe: kill every male and the women who have known men, but preserve the virgins.”

12 There were found from Jabesh-gilead four hundred virgins who had not known the bed of a man, and they led them to the camp in Shiloh, in the land of Canaan.

13 They sent messengers to the children of Benjamin who were at the Rock of Rimmon and commanded them to receive them in peace.

14 The children of Benjamin came at that time, and wives from the daughters of Jabesh-gilead were given to them; but they did not find others to deliver in like manner.

15 All Israel grieved exceedingly and did penance over the killing of one tribe from Israel.

16 The elders said, “What shall we do for the remainder who have not received wives? All the women in Benjamin have fallen,

17 and it must be provided with great care and immense diligence that one tribe not be destroyed from Israel.

18 For we cannot give them our daughters, being bound by the oath and curse with which we said, ‘Cursed is he who gives one of his daughters as wife to Benjamin.’”

19 They formed a plan and said, “Behold, the Lord’s annual solemnity is in Shiloh, which is situated north of the city of Bethel, east of the road that extends from Bethel to Shechem, and south of the town of Lebonah.”

20 They commanded the children of Benjamin and said, “Go and hide in the vineyards.

21 When you see the daughters of Shiloh come out according to custom to lead the dances, go out suddenly from the vineyards, each seize one wife from among them, and proceed into the land of Benjamin.

22 And when their fathers and brothers come and begin to complain and quarrel against you, we shall say to them: ‘Have mercy upon them, for they did not seize them by the right of those fighting and victorious. But when they asked to receive them, you did not give them, and the sin is on your side.’”

23 The children of Benjamin did as had been commanded them. According to their number, each seized one wife for himself from those who led the dances. They departed into their possession, built cities, and dwelt in them.

24 The children of Israel also returned by their tribes and families to their tents. In those days there was no king in Israel, but each one did what appeared right to himself.

BOOK EIGHT: RUTH

CHAPTER 1

1 In the days of one judge, when judges presided, a famine arose in the land. And a man from Bethlehem of Judah went to sojourn in the region of Moab with his wife and two children.

2 He was called Elimelech, and his wife Naomi; and their two sons, one Mahlon and the other Chilion, were Ephrathites from Bethlehem of Judah. Entering the region of Moab, they remained there.

3 Elimelech, Naomi's husband, died; and she remained with her sons.

4 They took Moabite wives, one of whom was called Orpah and the other Ruth. They remained there ten years,

5 and both died, namely Mahlon and Chilion; and the woman remained bereaved of her two children and husband.

6 She arose to proceed to her homeland from the region of Moab with both her daughters-in-law, for she had heard that the Lord (YHWH) had regarded his people and given them food.

7 Therefore she went out from the place of her sojourn with both daughters-in-law; and now, placed upon the way of returning to the land of Judah,

8 she said to them, "Go to your mother's house. May the Lord show you mercy, as you have done with the dead and with me.

9 May he grant you to find rest in the houses of the husbands you shall obtain." And she kissed them. Raising their voice, they began to weep

10 and to say, "We shall proceed with you to your people."

11 She answered them, "Return, my daughters. Why do you come with me? Do I still have sons in my womb, that you may hope for husbands from me?

12 Return, my daughters, and go, for I am now consumed by old age and am not fit for the bond of marriage. Even if I could conceive this night and bear sons,

13 if you wished to await them until they grew and completed the years of puberty, you would be old women before you married. Do not, I beg you, my daughters, for your anguish presses me more, and the hand of the Lord has gone out against me."

14 Raising their voice, therefore, they began to weep again. Orpah kissed her mother-in-law and returned, but Ruth clung to her mother-in-law.

15 Naomi said to her, "Behold, your kinswoman has returned to her people and her gods. Go with her."

16 She answered, "Do not oppose me so that I leave you and go away. Wherever you proceed, I shall proceed; and where you remain, I too shall remain. Your people are my people, and your God is my God.

17 In whatever land you are received when dying, in it I shall die, and there I shall receive a place of burial. May the Lord do these things to me and add these things, if anything but death separates me and you."

18 Naomi therefore, seeing that Ruth had determined with steadfast soul to proceed with her, was unwilling to oppose her or persuade her further to return to her own people.

19 They set out together and came to Bethlehem. When they entered the city, swift report spread among everyone, and the women said, "Is this that Naomi?"

20 She said to them, "Do not call me Naomi—that is, Beautiful—but call me Mara—that is, Bitter—because the Almighty has exceedingly filled me with bitterness.

21 I went out full, and the Lord has led me back empty. Why then do you call me Naomi, whom the Lord has humbled and the Almighty afflicted?"

22 Therefore Naomi came with Ruth the Moabite, her daughter-in-law, from the land of her sojourn; and she returned to Bethlehem when barley was first being reaped.

CHAPTER 2

1 Now the man Elimelech had a blood relative, a powerful man of great wealth named Boaz.

2 Ruth the Moabite said to her mother-in-law, “If you command, I shall go into the field and gather the ears that escape the hands of the reapers, wherever I find grace from a father of a household who is clement toward me.” She answered, “Go, my daughter.”

3 Therefore she went and gathered ears behind the backs of the reapers. It happened that the field had a lord named Boaz, who was of Elimelech’s kindred.

4 And behold, he came from Bethlehem and said to the reapers, “The Lord be with you.” They answered him, “May the Lord bless you.”

5 Boaz said to the young man who presided over the reapers, “Whose is this girl?”

6 He answered him, “This is the Moabite who came with Naomi from the region of Moab.

7 She asked to gather the remaining ears, following the footsteps of the reapers. From morning even to now she has stood in the field and has not returned home even for a moment.”

8 Boaz said to Ruth, “Hear, daughter. Do not go into another field to gather, nor withdraw from this place, but join my girls.

9 Follow wherever they reap. For I have commanded my young men that no one trouble you. And if you thirst, go to the bundles and drink from the waters from which the young men also drink.”

10 Falling upon her face and adoring upon the ground, she said to him, “From where is this to me, that I should find grace before your eyes and you should deem a foreign woman worthy of knowing?”

11 He answered her, “Everything you did for your mother-in-law after your husband’s death has been reported to me, and that you left your parents and the land in which you were born and came to a people you did not know before.

12 May the Lord repay you for your work, and may you receive a full reward from the Lord God of Israel, to whom you came and beneath whose wings you fled for refuge.”

13 She said, “I have found grace before your eyes, my lord, you who have consoled me and spoken to the heart of your maidservant, though I am not like one of your girls.”

14 Boaz said to her, “When the hour of eating comes, come here, eat bread, and dip your morsel in vinegar.” Therefore she sat beside the reapers; she heaped parched grain for herself, ate and was satisfied, and took the remnants.

15 Then she arose to gather ears according to custom. But Boaz commanded his young men, saying, “Even if she wishes to reap with you, do not prevent her.

16 And intentionally cast some from your bundles and permit them to remain, that she may gather without shame, and let no one rebuke her as she gathers.”

17 Therefore she gathered in the field until evening; and beating and shaking out what she had gathered with a rod, she found about the measure of an ephah of barley, that is, three measures.

18 Carrying these, she returned to the city and showed her mother-in-law. Moreover, she brought out and gave her some of the remnants of her food with which she had been satisfied.

19 Her mother-in-law said to her, “Where did you gather today, and where did you work? Blessed be he who had mercy upon you.” She told her with whom she had worked and said that the man’s name was Boaz.

20 Naomi answered her, “May he be blessed by the Lord, because he has preserved toward the dead the same grace he had shown the living.” And again she said, “The man is our near kinsman.”

21 Ruth said, “He also commanded me this: that I should join his reapers until all the crops are reaped.”

22 Her mother-in-law said to her, “It is better, my daughter, that you go out to reap with his girls, lest anyone resist you in another field.”

23 Therefore she joined Boaz’s girls and reaped with them until the barley and wheat were stored in the granaries.

CHAPTER 3

1 After she returned to her mother-in-law, she heard from her, “My daughter, I shall seek rest for you and provide that it may be well with you.

2 This Boaz, with whose girls you joined in the field, is our near kinsman, and tonight he winnows the barley threshing floor.

3 Therefore wash, anoint yourself, put on more refined garments, and descend to the threshing floor. Let the man not see you until he has finished eating and drinking.

4 But when he goes to sleep, note the place in which he sleeps. You shall come and uncover the cloak with which he is covered at the part of his feet, cast yourself down, and lie there; and he shall tell you what you ought to do.”

5 She answered, “Whatever you command, I shall do.”

6 She descended to the threshing floor and did everything her mother-in-law had commanded her.

7 When Boaz had eaten and drunk and become more cheerful, he went to sleep beside the heap of sheaves. She came secretly and, uncovering the cloak, cast herself down at his feet.

8 And behold, when it was already midnight, the man was frightened and disturbed, and saw a woman lying at his feet.

9 He said to her, “Who are you?” She answered, “I am Ruth your maidservant. Spread your cloak over your handmaid, because you are a near kinsman.”

10 He said, “You are blessed by the Lord, daughter, and you have surpassed your earlier mercy with the latter, because you have not followed young men, whether poor or rich.

11 Therefore do not fear. Whatever you say to me, I shall do for you, for all the people dwelling within the gates of my city know that you are a woman of virtue.

12 Nor do I deny that I am a near kinsman, but there is another nearer than I.

13 Rest this night. When morning comes, if he wishes to retain you by the right of kinship, the matter is well done. But if he is unwilling, I shall receive you without any doubt—as the Lord lives. Sleep until morning.”

14 Therefore she slept at his feet until the night withdrew. She arose before people could recognize one another, and Boaz said, “Take care that no one knows you came here.”

15 And again he said, “Spread out the cloak with which you are covered and hold it with both hands.” When she spread and held it, he measured six measures of barley and placed them upon her. Carrying them, she entered the city

16 and came to her mother-in-law. She said to her, “What did you do, daughter?” And Ruth recounted everything the man had done for her.

17 She said, “Behold, he gave me six measures of barley and said, ‘I am unwilling for you to return empty to your mother-in-law.’”

18 Naomi said, “Wait, daughter, until we see what outcome the matter has, for the man shall not cease unless he completes what he has spoken.”

CHAPTER 4

1 Boaz therefore ascended to the gate and sat there. When he saw the near kinsman of whom they had spoken before passing by, he said to him, calling him by his own name, “Turn aside a little and sit here.” He turned aside and sat.

2 Boaz took ten men from the city’s elders and said to them, “Sit here.”

3 When they were seated, he spoke to the near kinsman: “Naomi, who returned from the region of Moab, will sell the portion of the field of our brother Elimelech.

4 I wished you to hear this and to tell you before everyone sitting here and the elders of my people. If you wish to possess it by the right of kinship, buy and possess it. But if it displeases you, tell me this very thing, that I may know what I ought to do. For there is no near kinsman except you, who are first, and me, who am second.” He answered, “I shall buy the field.”

5 Boaz said to him, “When you buy the field from the woman’s hand, you must also receive Ruth the Moabite, who was the dead man’s wife, so that you may raise up the name of your kinsman in his inheritance.”

6 He answered, “I yield the right of kinship, for I ought not destroy the posterity of my family. You use my privilege, which I profess myself gladly to relinquish.”

7 Now this was the ancient custom in Israel among near kinsmen: whenever one yielded his right to another, that the concession might be firm, the man removed his shoe and gave it to his neighbor. This was the testimony of yielding in Israel.

8 Therefore Boaz said to his near kinsman, “Take off your shoe.” He immediately removed it from his foot.

9 But Boaz said to the elders and all the people, “You are witnesses today that I have possessed everything belonging to Elimelech, Chilion, and Mahlon, Naomi delivering it;

10 and that I have taken Ruth the Moabite, Mahlon’s wife, in marriage, that I may raise up the dead man’s name in his inheritance, lest his name be destroyed from his family, brothers, and people. You, I say, are witnesses of this matter.”

11 All the people who were at the gate and the elders answered, “We are witnesses. May the Lord make this woman who enters your house like Rachel and Leah, who built the house of Israel, that she may be an example of virtue in Ephrathah and have a celebrated name in Bethlehem.

12 And may your house become like the house of Perez, whom Tamar bore to Judah, from the seed the Lord shall give you from this girl.”

13 Boaz therefore took Ruth and received her as wife. He entered to her, and the Lord granted her to conceive and bear a son.

14 The women said to Naomi, “Blessed is the Lord, who has not permitted a successor of your family to fail, that his name might be called in Israel;

15 and that you may have one who consoles your soul and nourishes your old age. For he was born from your daughter-in-law, who loves you and is much better to you than if you had seven sons.”

16 Naomi received the boy, placed him in her bosom, and performed the office of nurse and bearer.

17 The neighboring women congratulated her and said, “A son has been born to Naomi.” They called his name Obed. He is the father of Jesse, father of David.

18 These are the generations of Perez: Perez begot Hezron;

19 Hezron begot Ram; Ram begot Amminadab;

20 Amminadab begot Nahshon; Nahshon begot Salmon;

21 Salmon begot Boaz; Boaz begot Obed;

22 Obed begot Jesse; Jesse begot David.

BOOK NINE: FIRST SAMUEL

CHAPTER 1

1 There was one man from Ramathaim-zophim, from Mount Ephraim, and his name was Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Elihu, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, an Ephrathite.

2 He had two wives: the name of one was Hannah and the name of the second Peninnah. Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children.

3 That man ascended from his city on appointed days to adore and sacrifice to the Lord (YHWH) of hosts in Shiloh. The two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, priests of the Lord, were there.

4 The day came, and Elkanah immolated; and he gave portions to Peninnah his wife and all her sons and daughters.

5 But to Hannah he gave one portion sorrowfully, because he loved Hannah. The Lord, however, had closed her womb.

6 Her rival also afflicted her and distressed her fiercely, so much that she reproached her because the Lord had closed her womb.

7 Thus she did every year, when at the returning season they ascended to the Lord's temple, and so she provoked her. But Hannah wept and took no food.

8 Therefore Elkanah her husband said to her, "Hannah, why do you weep, and why do you not eat? For what reason is your heart afflicted? Am I not better to you than ten sons?"

9 Hannah arose after she had eaten and drunk in Shiloh. And while Eli the priest sat upon a seat before the posts of the Lord's temple,

10 Hannah, being bitter in soul, prayed to the Lord, weeping abundantly.

11 She vowed a vow, saying, "O Lord of hosts, if, looking, you see the affliction of your handmaid, remember me, do not forget your maidservant, and give your servant male sex, I shall give him to the Lord all the days of his life, and no razor shall ascend upon his head."

12 And it happened, while she multiplied prayers before the Lord, that Eli watched her mouth.

13 Hannah spoke in her heart, and only her lips moved; her voice was not heard at all. Eli therefore thought her drunk

14 and said to her, "How long will you be drunk? Digest for a little while the wine in which you are soaked."

15 Hannah answered, "By no means, my lord, for I am an exceedingly unhappy woman. I have drunk neither wine nor anything able to intoxicate, but have poured out my soul in the sight of the Lord.

16 Do not regard your handmaid as one of the daughters of Belial, for from the multitude of my pain and sorrow I have spoken until now."

17 Then Eli said to her, "Go in peace, and may the God of Israel give you the petition you asked of him."

18 She said, "May your handmaid find grace in your eyes." The woman went upon her way and ate, and her countenance was no longer changed in different ways.

19 They arose in the morning and adored before the Lord; and returning, they came to their house in Ramah. Elkanah knew Hannah his wife, and the Lord remembered her.

20 And it happened after the circuit of days that Hannah conceived and bore a son. She called his name Samuel, because she had asked him from the Lord.

21 Elkanah her husband and all his house ascended to immolate to the Lord the solemn victim and his vow.

22 But Hannah did not ascend, for she said to her husband, "I shall not go until the infant is weaned, and I shall lead him so that he may appear before the Lord's sight and remain there continually."

23 Elkanah her husband said to her, "Do what appears good to you, and remain until you wean him. And I pray that the Lord may fulfill his word." Therefore the woman remained and nursed her son until she removed him from milk.

24 After she had weaned him, she led him with her with three calves, three measures of flour, and an amphora of wine, and brought him to the Lord's house in Shiloh. The boy was still a very little child.

25 They immolated a calf and presented the boy to Eli.

26 Hannah said, "I beg you, my lord—as your soul lives, my lord—I am that woman who stood here before you praying to the Lord.

27 For this boy I prayed, and the Lord gave me the petition I asked of him.

28 For this reason I also have lent him to the Lord for all the days in which he shall be lent to the Lord." And they adored the Lord there. And Hannah prayed and said:

CHAPTER 2

1 “My heart has exulted in the Lord, and my horn has been exalted in my God. My mouth has been enlarged over my enemies, because I have rejoiced in your salvation.

2 None is holy as the Lord is, for there is no other besides you, and none is mighty like our God.

3 Do not multiply lofty speech in your boasting. Let old things withdraw from your mouth, because the Lord is the God of knowledges, and thoughts are prepared for him.

4 The bow of the mighty has been overcome, and the weak have been girded with strength.

5 Those formerly filled have hired themselves out for bread, and the hungry have been satisfied, until the barren woman bore very many and she who had many sons grew weak.

6 The Lord puts to death and gives life; he leads down to the realm of the dead and leads back.

7 The Lord makes poor and makes rich; he humbles and raises up.

8 He raises the needy from dust and lifts the poor from dung, that he may sit with princes and hold a throne of glory. For the hinges of the earth are the Lord’s, and upon them he placed the world.

9 He shall preserve the feet of his holy ones, and the impious shall fall silent in darkness, because a man shall not be strengthened in his own might.

10 His adversaries shall fear the Lord, and over them he shall thunder in the heavens. The Lord shall judge the ends of the earth, give dominion to his king, and exalt the horn of his christ.”

11 Elkanah went to Ramah, to his house. But the boy was a minister in the Lord’s sight before the face of Eli the priest.

12 Now Eli’s sons were children of Belial, not knowing the Lord

13 or the office of the priests toward the people. Instead, whenever anyone immolated a victim, the priest’s servant came while the flesh was cooking, holding a three-pronged fork in his hand.

14 He thrust it into the cauldron, kettle, pot, or pan, and everything the fork lifted the priest took for himself. Thus they did to all Israel coming into Shiloh.

15 Even before they burned the fat, the priest’s servant came and said to the one immolating, “Give me flesh, that I may cook it for the priest, for I shall not receive cooked flesh from you, but raw.”

16 The one immolating said to him, “First let the fat be burned today according to custom, and take for yourself whatever your soul desires.” He answered him, “By no means. You shall give it now, or else I shall take it by force.”

17 Therefore the sin of the young men was exceedingly great before the Lord, because they drew men back from the Lord’s sacrifice.

18 But Samuel ministered before the Lord’s face, a boy girded with a linen ephod.

19 His mother made him a small tunic, which she brought on appointed days, ascending with her husband to immolate the solemn victim.

20 Eli blessed Elkanah and his wife and said to him, “May the Lord repay you seed from this woman for the loan you lent to the Lord.” And they went to their place.

21 Therefore the Lord visited Hannah, and she conceived and bore three sons and two daughters; and the boy Samuel was magnified before the Lord.

22 Now Eli was exceedingly old, and he heard everything his sons did to all Israel and how they slept with the women who kept watch at the entrance of the tabernacle.

23 He said to them, “Why do you do things of this kind, the exceedingly evil things I hear from all the people?

24 Do not, my sons. For the report I hear is not good, that you cause the Lord’s people to transgress.

25 If a man sins against a man, God can be appeased toward him. But if a man sins against the Lord, who shall pray for him?” They did not hear their father’s voice, because the Lord wished to kill them.

26 But the boy Samuel advanced and grew, and pleased both the Lord and men.

27 A man of God came to Eli and said to him, “Thus says the Lord: Was I not openly revealed to your father’s house when they were in Egypt, in Pharaoh’s house?

28 I chose him from all the tribes of Israel as priest to me, that he might ascend to my altar, burn incense to me, and carry the ephod before me; and I gave your father's house everything from the sacrifices of the children of Israel.

29 Why have you kicked away my victim and my gifts, which I commanded to be offered in the temple, and honored your sons more than me, that you might eat the first portions of every sacrifice of Israel my people?

30 Therefore the Lord God of Israel says: Speaking, I spoke, that your house and your father's house should minister in my sight forever. But now the Lord says: Far be this from me. Whoever glorifies me, I shall glorify; but those who despise me shall be ignoble.

31 Behold, days are coming, and I shall cut off your arm and the arm of your father's house, so that there shall be no old man in your house.

32 And you shall see your rival in the temple amid all Israel's prosperity, and there shall be no old man in your house all the days.

33 Nevertheless, I shall not entirely take away a man from you from my altar, but so that your eyes may fail and your soul waste away; and a great part of your house shall die when it reaches manly age.

34 This shall be your sign, which shall come upon your two sons, Hophni and Phinehas: on one day they both shall die.

35 And I shall raise up for myself a faithful priest who shall do according to my heart and my soul. I shall build him a faithful house, and he shall walk before my christ all days.

36 And it shall be that whoever remains in your house shall come so that prayer may be made for him, and shall offer a silver coin and a loaf of bread, and shall say, 'Permit me, I beg you, to one priestly portion, that I may eat a morsel of bread.'"

CHAPTER 3

1 The boy Samuel ministered to the Lord before Eli, and the word of the Lord was precious in those days; there was no manifest vision.

2 It happened on a certain day that Eli lay in his place. His eyes had grown dim, and he was unable to see.

3 Before the lamp of God was extinguished, Samuel slept in the Lord's temple, where the ark of God was.

4 And the Lord called Samuel. Answering, he said, "Behold, I am here."

5 He ran to Eli and said, "Behold, I am here, for you called me." He said, "I did not call. Return and sleep." He went and slept.

6 The Lord added to call Samuel again. Samuel arose, went to Eli, and said, "Behold, I am here, for you called me." He answered, "I did not call you, my son. Return and sleep."

7 Now Samuel did not yet know the Lord, nor had the word of the Lord been revealed to him.

8 The Lord added and called Samuel yet a third time. He arose and went to Eli,

9 and said, "Behold, I am here, for you called me." Eli therefore understood that the Lord was calling the boy, and said to Samuel, "Go and sleep. If he calls you again, you shall say, 'Speak, Lord, for your servant hears.'" Samuel therefore went and slept in his place.

10 The Lord came and stood, and called as he had called the second time, "Samuel, Samuel." Samuel said, "Speak, Lord, for your servant hears."

11 The Lord said to Samuel, "Behold, I do a word in Israel at which both ears of everyone who hears it shall ring.

12 On that day I shall raise against Eli everything I spoke concerning his house. I shall begin, and I shall complete.

13 For I foretold to him that I would judge his house forever because of iniquity, because he knew his sons acted unworthily and did not correct them.

14 For this reason I swore to Eli's house that the iniquity of his house shall not be expiated by victims and gifts forever."

15 Samuel slept until morning and opened the doors of the Lord's house. And Samuel feared to tell Eli the vision.

16 Eli therefore called Samuel and said, "Samuel, my son?" Answering, he said, "I am ready."

17 He asked him, "What is the word the Lord spoke to you? I beg you, do not conceal it from me. May God do these things to you and add these things if you hide from me one word from all the words spoken to you."

18 Samuel therefore told him all the words and hid nothing from him. He answered, "He is the Lord. Let him do what is good in his eyes."

19 Samuel grew, and the Lord was with him, and none of all his words fell to the ground.

20 All Israel, from Dan as far as Beersheba, knew that Samuel was a faithful prophet of the Lord.

21 And the Lord added to appear in Shiloh, because the Lord had been revealed to Samuel in Shiloh according to the word of the Lord. And Samuel's word came to all Israel.

CHAPTER 4

1 And it happened in those days that the Philistines assembled for battle. Israel went out to meet the Philistines in battle and camped beside the Stone of Aid. But the Philistines came to Aphek

2 and arranged the battle line against Israel. When the contest began, Israel turned its back to the Philistines, and about four thousand men were slain in that contest, scattered through the fields.

3 The people returned to the camp, and the elders of Israel said, “Why has the Lord struck us today before the Philistines? Let us bring to ourselves from Shiloh the ark of the Lord’s covenant, and let it come into our midst, that it may save us from the hand of our enemies.”

4 Therefore the people sent to Shiloh and took from there the ark of the covenant of the Lord of hosts, who sits above the cherubim. Eli’s two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, were with the ark of God’s covenant.

5 When the ark of the Lord’s covenant came into the camp, all Israel shouted with a great cry, and the earth resounded.

6 The Philistines heard the voice of the cry and said, “What is this voice of a great cry in the Hebrews’ camp?” And they learned that the ark of the Lord had come into the camp.

7 The Philistines feared, saying, “God has come into the camp.” They groaned, saying,

8 “Woe to us! For there was not so great an exultation yesterday or the day before. Woe to us! Who shall save us from the hand of these exalted gods? These are the gods who struck Egypt with every plague in the wilderness.

9 Be strengthened and be men, Philistines, lest you serve the Hebrews as they also served you. Be strengthened and fight.”

10 Therefore the Philistines fought, and Israel was slain; each one fled to his tent. An exceedingly great slaughter was made, and thirty thousand footmen from Israel fell.

11 The ark of God was captured, and Eli’s two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, also died.

12 A man of Benjamin ran from the battle line and came to Shiloh on that day, his garment torn and his head scattered with dust.

13 When he arrived, Eli sat upon a seat facing the road, watching, for his heart trembled for the ark of God. After that man entered, he reported it to the city, and the entire city wailed.

14 Eli heard the sound of the cry and said, “What is this sound of this tumult?” The man hastened, came, and reported to Eli.

15 Now Eli was ninety-eight years old. His eyes had grown dim, and he could not see.

16 The man said to Eli, “I am the one who came from the battle, and I am the one who fled from the battle line today.” He said to him, “What happened, my son?”

17 The one reporting answered, “Israel fled before the Philistines, and a great ruin was made among the people. Moreover, your two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, are dead, and the ark of God was captured.”

18 When he named the ark of God, Eli fell backward from the seat beside the entrance and died with his neck broken. For the man was old and advanced in years, and he had judged Israel for forty years.

19 Now his daughter-in-law, the wife of Phinehas, was pregnant and near childbirth. Hearing the report that the ark of God had been captured and that her father-in-law and husband were dead, she bent down and gave birth, for sudden pains had rushed upon her.

20 At the very moment of her death, those standing around her said, “Do not fear, for you have borne a son.” She did not answer them or take notice.

21 She called the boy Ichabod, saying, “Glory has been transferred from Israel,” because the ark of God had been captured, and because of her father-in-law and her husband.

22 And she said, “Glory has been transferred from Israel, because the ark of God was captured.”

CHAPTER 5

1 The Philistines took the ark of God and carried it from the Stone of Aid into Ashdod.

2 The Philistines took the ark of God, brought it into Dagon's temple, and set it beside Dagon.

3 When the Ashdodites arose at dawn on the next day, behold, Dagon lay prone upon the ground before the ark of the Lord. They took Dagon and restored him to his place.

4 Rising again in the morning on the next day, they found Dagon lying upon his face on the ground before the ark of the Lord. But Dagon's head and the two palms of his hands had been cut off upon the threshold,

5 and only Dagon's trunk remained in its place. For this reason the priests of Dagon and all who enter his temple do not tread upon Dagon's threshold in Ashdod even to the present day.

6 But the Lord's hand grew heavy upon the Ashdodites and demolished them. He struck Ashdod and its territories in the most secret part of the buttocks. The villages and fields boiled up in the midst of that region, mice were born, and there was confusion from a great death in the city.

7 Seeing a plague of this kind, the men of Ashdod said, "Let the ark of the God of Israel not remain with us, because his hand is hard upon us and upon Dagon our god."

8 Sending, they gathered all the satraps of the Philistines to themselves and said, "What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel?" The Gittites answered, "Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried around." And they carried the ark of the God of Israel around.

9 While they carried it around, the Lord's hand brought an exceedingly great killing through each city. He struck the men of every city, from small to great, and their protruding intestines putrefied. The Gittites formed a plan and made themselves leather seats.

10 Therefore they sent the ark of God into Ekron. When the ark of God came into Ekron, the Ekronites cried out, saying, "They have brought the ark of the God of Israel to us to kill us and our people."

11 They therefore sent and gathered all the satraps of the Philistines, who said, "Release the ark of the God of Israel, and let it return to its place, that it may not kill us with our people."

12 For the terror of death was in every city, and the hand of God was exceedingly grievous. The men who had not died were also struck in the most secret part of the buttocks, and the wailing of every city ascended into heaven.

CHAPTER 6

1 Therefore the ark of the Lord was in the region of the Philistines for seven months.

2 The Philistines called the priests and diviners, saying, “What shall we do with the ark of the Lord? Tell us how we may send it back to its place.” They said,

3 “If you send back the ark of the God of Israel, do not release it empty, but repay him what you owe for sin, and then you shall be healed. And you shall know why his hand does not withdraw from you.”

4 They said, “What is it that we ought to repay him for the offense?” They answered:

5 “According to the number of the Philistines’ provinces, you shall make five golden anuses and five golden mice, because one plague was upon all of you and your satraps. You shall make likenesses of your anuses and likenesses of the mice that demolished the land, and you shall give glory to the God of Israel, if perhaps he may lift his hand from you, your gods, and your land.

6 Why do you make your hearts heavy, as Egypt and Pharaoh made their heart heavy? Was it not after he was struck that he released them and they departed?

7 Now therefore seize and make one new cart, and join to the cart two cows with calves upon whom no yoke has been placed, and shut their calves at home.

8 You shall take the ark of the Lord and place it upon the cart, and place the gold vessels you paid him for the offense in a little chest at its side. Then release it to go.

9 And you shall watch. If it ascends by the way of its own territory toward Beth-shemesh, he did this great evil to us. But if not, we shall know that his hand by no means touched us, but it happened by chance.”

10 Therefore they did in this manner. Taking two cows that nursed calves, they joined them to the cart and shut their calves at home.

11 They placed the ark of God upon the cart and the little chest that held the golden mice and likenesses of the anuses.

12 The cows went directly by the way leading to Beth-shemesh and walked upon one path, going and lowing. They turned neither to the right nor to the left, and the satraps of the Philistines followed as far as the borders of Beth-shemesh.

13 Now the Beth-shemeshites were reaping wheat in the valley. Raising their eyes, they saw the ark and rejoiced when they saw it.

14 The cart came into the field of Joshua the Beth-shemeshite and stood there. A great stone was there. They cut apart the wood of the cart and placed the cows upon it as a holocaust to the Lord.

15 The Levites took down the ark of God and the little chest beside it in which the gold vessels were, and placed them upon the great stone. The men of Beth-shemesh offered holocausts and immolated victims to the Lord on that day.

16 The five satraps of the Philistines saw and returned to Ekron on that day.

17 These are the golden anuses the Philistines repaid to the Lord for the offense: Ashdod one, Gaza one, Ashkelon one, Gath one, Ekron one;

18 and the golden mice according to the number of the Philistines’ cities, of the five provinces, from the walled city as far as the village without a wall, and as far as Great Abel, upon which they placed the ark of the Lord, which was in the field of Joshua the Beth-shemeshite even to that day.

19 But he struck some of the men of Beth-shemesh because they had seen the ark of the Lord; and he struck seventy men from the people and fifty thousand of the common people. The people mourned because the Lord had struck the common people with a great slaughter.

20 The men of Beth-shemesh said, “Who shall be able to stand in the sight of this holy Lord God? And to whom shall he ascend from us?”

21 They sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kiriath-jearim, saying, “The Philistines have brought back the ark of the Lord. Descend and bring it back to yourselves.”

CHAPTER 7

1 Therefore the men of Kiriath-jearim came, brought back the ark of the Lord, and carried it into Abinadab's house in Gibeah. They sanctified Eleazar his son to guard the ark of the Lord.

2 And it happened that from the day the ark of the Lord remained in Kiriath-jearim, the days multiplied—for it was now the twentieth year—and all the house of Israel rested after the Lord.

3 Samuel spoke to all the house of Israel, saying, "If you return to the Lord with your whole heart, take away the strange gods from your midst, the Baals and Ashtaroth. Prepare your hearts for the Lord and serve him alone, and he shall rescue you from the hand of the Philistines."

4 Therefore the children of Israel took away the Baals and Ashtaroth and served the Lord alone.

5 Samuel said, "Gather all Israel in Mizpah, that I may pray to the Lord for you."

6 They assembled in Mizpah, drew water, and poured it out in the Lord's sight. They fasted on that day and said there, "We have sinned against the Lord." And Samuel judged the children of Israel in Mizpah.

7 The Philistines heard that the children of Israel had assembled in Mizpah, and the satraps of the Philistines ascended against Israel. When the children of Israel heard this, they feared before the face of the Philistines.

8 They said to Samuel, "Do not cease crying to the Lord our God for us, that he may save us from the hand of the Philistines."

9 Samuel took one suckling lamb and offered it whole as a holocaust to the Lord. Samuel cried to the Lord for Israel, and the Lord heard him.

10 And it happened, while Samuel offered the holocaust, that the Philistines entered battle against Israel. But on that day the Lord thundered with a great crash over the Philistines, terrified them, and they were slain before the face of Israel.

11 The men of Israel went out from Mizpah, pursued the Philistines, and struck them as far as the place beneath Beth-car.

12 Samuel took one stone and placed it between Mizpah and Shen, and called the name of that place "Stone of Aid." And he said, "Thus far the Lord has aided us."

13 The Philistines were humbled and no longer added to come into Israel's borders. Therefore the hand of the Lord was upon the Philistines all Samuel's days.

14 The cities the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from Ekron as far as Gath, with their territories. Israel was delivered from the hand of the Philistines, and there was peace between Israel and the Amorite.

15 Samuel also judged Israel all the days of his life.

16 Each year he went around Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpah, and judged Israel in the places named above.

17 He returned to Ramah, for his house was there, and there he judged Israel. He also built an altar to the Lord there.

CHAPTER 8

1 And it happened, when Samuel had grown old, that he appointed his sons as judges over Israel.

2 The name of his firstborn son was Joel, and the name of the second was Abijah; they were judges in Beer-sheba.

3 But his sons did not walk in his ways. They turned aside after avarice, accepted gifts, and perverted judgment.

4 Therefore all the elders of Israel assembled and came to Samuel in Ramah.

5 They said to him, “Behold, you have grown old, and your sons do not walk in your ways. Appoint a king for us, that he may judge us, just as all the nations have.”

6 The word was displeasing in Samuel’s eyes, because they had said, “Give us a king, that he may judge us.” And Samuel prayed to the Lord.

7 But the Lord said to Samuel, “Hear the voice of the people in all that they say to you. For they have not rejected you, but me, that I should not reign over them.

8 According to all their works that they have done from the day I brought them out of Egypt even to this day—as they abandoned me and served strange gods—so they also do to you.

9 Now therefore, hear their voice. Nevertheless, solemnly warn them and declare to them the right of the king who shall reign over them.”

10 And so Samuel spoke all the words of the Lord to the people who had asked him for a king.

11 He said, “This shall be the right of the king who will rule over you: he will take your sons and place them in his chariots; he will make them his horsemen and runners before his four-horse chariots.

12 He will appoint for himself commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds, plowmen of his fields and reapers of his crops, and makers of his weapons and chariots.

13 Your daughters also he will make his perfumers, cooks, and bakers.

14 He will take your fields, vineyards, and best olive groves and give them to his servants.

15 He will also take a tenth of your grain and the yield of your vineyards, to give it to his eunuchs and servants.

16 He will take away your male servants and female servants, your finest young men, and your donkeys, and put them to his work.

17 He will also take a tenth of your flocks, and you will be his servants.

18 And in that day you will cry out from before the face of your king, whom you chose for yourselves; and the Lord will not hear you in that day, because you asked for a king for yourselves.”

19 But the people refused to hear Samuel’s voice. They said, “By no means! For there shall be a king over us,

20 and we too shall be like all the nations. Our king shall judge us, go out before us, and fight our battles for us.”

21 Samuel heard all the words of the people and spoke them in the ears of the Lord.

22 Then the Lord said to Samuel, “Hear their voice and appoint a king over them.” And Samuel said to the men of Israel, “Let each one go to his own city.”

CHAPTER 9

1 There was a man of Benjamin named Kish, son of Abiel, son of Zeror, son of Bechorath, son of Aphiah, son of a Benjaminite, mighty in strength.

2 He had a son named Saul, chosen and good. There was no man among the children of Israel better than he; from his shoulders upward he stood above all the people.

3 Now the donkeys of Kish, Saul's father, had been lost. And Kish said to Saul his son, "Take one of the servants with you; arise, go, and search for the donkeys." And when they had passed through the hill country of Ephraim,

4 and through the land of Shalishah, and had not found them, they also passed through the land of Shaalim, but they were not there; and through the land of Benjamin, but found them not at all.

5 When they came to the land of Zuph, Saul said to the servant who was with him, "Come, and let us return, lest perhaps my father cease caring about the donkeys and become anxious about us."

6 He said to him, "Behold, there is a man of God in this city, an honorable man. Everything he says comes to pass without uncertainty. Now therefore, let us go there; perhaps he may tell us about the way for which we came."

7 Saul said to his servant, "Behold, we shall go. What shall we carry to the man of God? The bread in our bags has run out, and we have no little basket to give the man of God, nor anything else."

8 The servant answered Saul again and said, "Behold, a quarter of a silver stater has been found in my hand. Let us give it to the man of God, that he may tell us our way."

9 (Formerly in Israel, each one going to consult God spoke in this way: "Come, and let us go to the seer." For he who is called a prophet today was formerly called a seer.)

10 Saul said to his servant, "Your word is excellent. Come, let us go." And they went into the city where the man of God was.

11 As they ascended the slope of the city, they found girls going out to draw water and said to them, "Is the seer here?"

12 They answered them and said, "He is. Behold, he is before you; hurry now. For he came to the city today, because today the people have a sacrifice on the high place.

13 As you enter the city, you will find him at once, before he ascends to the high place to eat. For the people will not eat until he comes, because he blesses the victim, and afterward those who were invited eat. Now therefore, ascend, for you will find him today."

14 And they ascended into the city. As they walked in the midst of the city, Samuel appeared, coming out to meet them, that he might ascend to the high place.

15 Now the Lord had revealed Samuel's ear one day before Saul came, saying,

16 "Tomorrow, at this very hour, I shall send you a man from the land of Benjamin. You shall anoint him as leader over my people Israel, and he shall save my people from the hand of the Philistines. For I have looked upon my people, because their cry has come to me."

17 When Samuel saw Saul, the Lord said to him, "Behold the man of whom I spoke to you. This one shall rule my people."

18 Saul approached Samuel in the midst of the gate and said, "Tell me, I pray, where the seer's house is."

19 Samuel answered Saul, saying, "I am the seer. Ascend before me to the high place, that you may eat with me today. I shall send you away in the morning, and I shall tell you everything that is in your heart.

20 And concerning the donkeys you lost the day before yesterday, do not be anxious, for they have been found. And to whom shall all the best things of Israel belong? Are they not for you and all your father's house?"

21 Saul answered and said, "Am I not a son of Benjamin, from the least tribe of Israel, and is not my kindred the last among all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? Why then have you spoken this word to me?"

22 Therefore Samuel took Saul and his servant, brought them into the dining chamber, and gave them a place at the head of those who had been invited; there were about thirty men.

23 Samuel said to the cook, "Give the portion I gave you and commanded you to set apart with you."

24 Then the cook lifted the shoulder and placed it before Saul. Samuel said, "Behold what remained. Set it before you and eat, because it was deliberately preserved for you when I invited the people." And Saul ate with Samuel that day.

25 They descended from the high place into the town, and Samuel spoke with Saul upon the roof. Saul spread his bed upon the roof and slept.

26 When they arose in the morning and it was already growing light, Samuel called Saul upon the roof, saying, “Arise, and I shall send you away.” Saul arose, and they both went out, he and Samuel.

27 As they descended to the farthest part of the city, Samuel said to Saul, “Tell the servant to go ahead of us and pass on. But you, stand here a little while, that I may declare to you the word of the Lord.”

CHAPTER 10

1 Then Samuel took a small flask of oil and poured it over Saul's head. He kissed him and said, "Behold, the Lord has anointed you as prince over his inheritance, and you shall deliver his people from the hands of their enemies who surround them. And this shall be the sign to you that God has anointed you as prince:

2 When you depart from me today, you will find two men beside Rachel's tomb, in the borders of Benjamin toward the south. They will say to you, 'The donkeys you went to seek have been found. Your father, having put aside concern for the donkeys, is anxious about you and says, "What shall I do about my son?"'

3 When you depart from there and pass farther on and come to the oak of Tabor, three men ascending to God at Bethel will meet you there: one carrying three young goats, another three loaves of bread, and another carrying a vessel of wine.

4 When they have greeted you, they will give you two loaves, and you shall receive them from their hand.

5 After this you will come to the hill of God, where the Philistine garrison is. When you have entered the city there, you will meet a company of prophets descending from the high place, with psaltery, timbrel, flute, and harp before them, while they prophesy.

6 And the Spirit of the Lord shall leap upon you; you shall prophesy with them and shall be changed into another man.

7 Therefore, when all these signs have come upon you, do whatever your hand finds, because the Lord is with you.

8 And you shall descend before me to Gilgal—for I shall descend to you—that you may offer an oblation and immolate peace victims. You shall wait seven days, until I come to you and show you what you are to do."

9 And so, when Saul turned his shoulder to depart from Samuel, God changed his heart into another, and all these signs came on that day.

10 They came to the hill spoken of above, and behold, a band of prophets met him. The Spirit of the Lord leapt upon him, and he prophesied in their midst.

11 And all who had known him yesterday and the day before, seeing that he was with the prophets and prophesying, said to one another, "What is this thing that has happened to the son of Kish? Is Saul also among the prophets?"

12 One answered another, saying, "And who is their father?" Therefore it became a proverb: "Is Saul also among the prophets?"

13 Then he ceased prophesying and came to the high place.

14 Saul's uncle said to him and to his servant, "Where did you go?" They answered, "To seek the donkeys. When we did not find them, we came to Samuel."

15 His uncle said to him, "Tell me what Samuel said to you."

16 Saul said to his uncle, "He told us that the donkeys had been found." But he did not tell him the word concerning the kingdom that Samuel had spoken to him.

17 Samuel called the people together to the Lord in Mizpah,

18 and said to the children of Israel, "Thus says the Lord God of Israel: 'I brought Israel out of Egypt and rescued you from the hand of the Egyptians and from the hand of all the kings who afflicted you.

19 But today you have cast away your God, who alone saved you from all your evils and tribulations, and you have said, "By no means; rather, appoint a king over us." Now therefore, stand before the Lord by your tribes and by your families.'"

20 Samuel brought forward all the tribes of Israel, and the lot fell upon the tribe of Benjamin.

21 He brought forward the tribe of Benjamin and its kindreds, and the lot fell upon the kindred of Matri; and it came as far as Saul son of Kish. Therefore they sought him, but he was not found.

22 After this they consulted the Lord whether he would come there. And the Lord answered, "Behold, he is hidden at home."

23 Therefore they ran and brought him from there. He stood in the midst of the people, and he was taller than all the people from his shoulders upward.

24 Samuel said to all the people, "Surely you see whom the Lord has chosen, for there is none like him among all the people." And all the people cried out and said, "Long live the king!"

25 Then Samuel spoke to the people the law of the kingdom, wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the Lord. And Samuel sent all the people away, each one to his own house.

26 Saul also went away to his house in Gibeah, and part of the army went with him, those whose hearts God had touched.

27 But the sons of Belial said, “Can this man save us?” And they despised him and brought him no gifts. But he pretended not to hear.

CHAPTER 11

1 And it happened about a month later that Nahash the Ammonite ascended and began to fight against Jabesh-gilead. All the men of Jabesh said to Nahash, “Make a covenant with us, and we shall serve you.”

2 Nahash the Ammonite answered them, “On this condition I shall strike a covenant with you: that I tear out the right eyes of all of you and make you a reproach throughout all Israel.”

3 The elders of Jabesh said to him, “Grant us seven days, that we may send messengers into all the borders of Israel; and if there is no one to defend us, we shall come out to you.”

4 Therefore the messengers came to Saul’s Gibeah and spoke these words in the hearing of the people. And all the people lifted up their voice and wept.

5 And behold, Saul was coming from the field, following the oxen. He said, “What has happened to the people, that they weep?” And they told him the words of the men of Jabesh.

6 The Spirit of the Lord leapt upon Saul when he heard these words, and his fury was exceedingly enraged.

7 Taking both oxen, he cut them into pieces and sent them throughout all the borders of Israel by the hand of messengers, saying, “Whoever does not go out and follow Saul and Samuel, so shall it be done to his oxen.” Therefore the fear of the Lord invaded the people, and they went out as one man.

8 He counted them in Bezek: the children of Israel were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand.

9 They said to the messengers who had come, “Thus shall you say to the men who are in Jabesh-gilead: ‘Tomorrow, when the sun grows hot, salvation shall be yours.’” Therefore the messengers came and announced it to the men of Jabesh, and they rejoiced.

10 They said, “In the morning we shall come out to you, and you shall do to us whatever pleases you.”

11 And it happened, when the next day came, that Saul arranged the people in three divisions. He entered the midst of the camp during the morning watch and struck Ammon until the day grew hot. Those who remained were scattered, so that not even two of them were left together.

12 The people said to Samuel, “Who is it who said, ‘Shall Saul reign over us?’ Give us the men, and we shall kill them.”

13 But Saul said, “No one shall be killed on this day, because today the Lord has wrought salvation in Israel.”

14 Then Samuel said to the people, “Come, and let us go to Gilgal and renew the kingdom there.”

15 And all the people went to Gilgal, and there in Gilgal they made Saul king before the Lord. There they immolated peace victims before the Lord, and Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced there exceedingly.

CHAPTER 12

1 Then Samuel said to all Israel, “Behold, I have heard your voice according to everything you spoke to me, and I have appointed a king over you.

2 And now the king walks before you. But I have grown old and gray, and my sons are with you. And so I have lived before you from my youth even to this day. Behold, I am present.

3 Speak concerning me before the Lord and before his christ: whether I have taken anyone’s ox or donkey; whether I have falsely accused anyone or oppressed anyone; whether I have received a gift from anyone’s hand. I shall reject it today and restore it to you.”

4 They said, “You have neither falsely accused us nor oppressed us, nor have you taken anything from anyone’s hand.”

5 He said to them, “The Lord is witness against you, and his christ is witness this day, that you have found nothing in my hand.” And they said, “He is witness.”

6 Samuel said to the people, “It is the Lord who made Moses and Aaron and brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt.

7 Now therefore, stand, that I may contend with you in judgment before the Lord concerning all the mercies of the Lord that he wrought with you and with your fathers:

8 how Jacob entered Egypt, and your fathers cried to the Lord; and the Lord sent Moses and Aaron, brought your fathers out of Egypt, and settled them in this place.

9 But they forgot the Lord their God, and he delivered them into the hand of Sisera, commander of Hazor’s army, and into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the king of Moab; and they fought against them.

10 Afterward they cried to the Lord and said, ‘We have sinned, because we abandoned the Lord and served the Baals and Ashtaroth. Now therefore, rescue us from the hand of our enemies, and we shall serve you.’

11 And the Lord sent Jerubbaal, Bedan, Jephthah, and Samuel, and rescued you from the hand of your enemies all around, and you dwelt securely.

12 But when you saw that Nahash, king of the children of Ammon, had come against you, you said to me, ‘By no means; rather, a king shall rule us,’ though the Lord your God was reigning among you.

13 Now therefore, your king is present, whom you chose and requested. Behold, the Lord has given you a king.

14 If you fear the Lord, serve him, hear his voice, and do not provoke the mouth of the Lord, then both you and the king who rules you shall follow the Lord your God.

15 But if you do not hear the voice of the Lord, but provoke his words, the hand of the Lord shall be upon you and upon your fathers.

16 Even now, stand and see this great thing that the Lord will do in your sight.

17 Is it not the wheat harvest today? I shall call upon the Lord, and he will give thunder and rain. And you shall know and see that you have done a great evil for yourselves in the sight of the Lord by asking for a king over you.”

18 Samuel cried to the Lord, and the Lord gave thunder and rain on that day.

19 All the people feared the Lord and Samuel exceedingly. And all the people said to Samuel, “Pray for your servants to the Lord your God, that we may not die; for we have added to all our sins the evil of asking for a king for ourselves.”

20 Samuel said to the people, “Do not fear. You have done all this evil; nevertheless, do not withdraw from behind the Lord, but serve the Lord with your whole heart.

21 And do not turn aside after vain things, which shall neither profit you nor rescue you, because they are vain.

22 The Lord will not abandon his people because of his great name, for the Lord has sworn to make you a people for himself.

23 Far be it from me to commit this sin against the Lord by ceasing to pray for you. And I shall teach you the good and upright way.

24 Therefore fear the Lord and serve him in truth and with your whole heart, for you have seen the magnificent things he has wrought among you.

25 But if you persevere in malice, both you and your king shall perish together.”

CHAPTER 13

1 Saul was a son of one year when he began to reign, and he reigned two years over Israel.

2 Saul chose for himself three thousand men of Israel. Two thousand were with Saul in Michmash and on the mountain of Bethel, and one thousand were with Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin. But he sent the rest of the people away, each one to his own tents.

3 Jonathan struck the Philistine garrison that was in Gibeah. When the Philistines heard of it, Saul sounded the trumpet throughout all the land, saying, “Let the Hebrews hear.”

4 And all Israel heard this report: “Saul has struck the Philistine garrison, and Israel has raised itself against the Philistines.” Therefore the people were summoned after Saul in Gilgal.

5 The Philistines assembled to fight against Israel: thirty thousand chariots, six thousand horsemen, and the rest of the multitude, like the exceedingly abundant sand upon the seashore. Ascending, they encamped in Michmash, east of Beth-aven.

6 When the men of Israel saw that they had been placed in straits—for the people were afflicted—they hid themselves in caves, in hidden places, in rocks, in caverns, and in cisterns.

7 Some Hebrews crossed the Jordan into the land of Gad and Gilead. And while Saul was still in Gilgal, all the people following him were terrified.

8 He waited seven days according to Samuel’s appointed time, but Samuel did not come to Gilgal, and the people slipped away from him.

9 Therefore Saul said, “Bring me the holocaust and the peace offerings.” And he offered the holocaust.

10 When he had finished offering the holocaust, behold, Samuel came. Saul went out to meet him and greet him.

11 Samuel said to him, “What have you done?” Saul answered, “Because I saw that the people were slipping away from me, and you had not come within the appointed days, while the Philistines had assembled in Michmash,

12 I said, ‘Now the Philistines will descend against me in Gilgal, and I have not appeased the face of the Lord.’ Compelled by necessity, I offered the holocaust.”

13 Samuel said to Saul, “You have acted foolishly and have not kept the commandments of the Lord your God that he commanded you. Had you not done this, the Lord would now have established your kingdom over Israel forever.

14 But your kingdom shall by no means arise any further. The Lord has sought for himself a man according to his own heart, and the Lord has commanded him to be leader over his people, because you did not keep what the Lord commanded.”

15 Then Samuel arose and ascended from Gilgal to Gibeah of Benjamin. The remainder of the people ascended after Saul to meet the people who were attacking them, coming from Gilgal to Gibeah on the hill of Benjamin. Saul counted the people found with him, about six hundred men.

16 Saul, Jonathan his son, and the people found with them were in Gibeah of Benjamin, while the Philistines had settled in Michmash.

17 Three bands of raiders went out from the camp of the Philistines. One band proceeded toward the way of Ophrah, to the land of Shual.

18 Another entered by the way of Beth-horon, and the third turned toward the way of the border overlooking the valley of Zeboim, toward the wilderness.

19 Now no ironworker was found throughout all the land of Israel, for the Philistines had taken care lest the Hebrews make sword or spear.

20 Therefore all Israel descended to the Philistines, each man to sharpen his plowshare, mattock, axe, or hoe.

21 And so the edges of the plowshares, mattocks, three-pronged forks, and axes were blunt, even to the goad that needed mending.

22 When the day of battle came, neither sword nor spear was found in the hand of any of the people who were with Saul and Jonathan, except Saul and Jonathan his son.

23 And the Philistine garrison went out to cross over at Michmash.

CHAPTER 14

1 And it happened one day that Jonathan son of Saul said to the young man who bore his armor, “Come, and let us cross over to the Philistine garrison beyond that place.” But he did not tell his father this.

2 Now Saul was staying at the farthest part of Gibeah, beneath the pomegranate tree that was in Migron, and the people with him numbered about six hundred men.

3 Ahijah son of Ahitub, brother of Ichabod, son of Phinehas, who had been born of Eli, the priest of the Lord in Shiloh, was bearing the ephod. And the people did not know where Jonathan had gone.

4 Between the ascents by which Jonathan was striving to cross over to the Philistine garrison, rocks rose on either side, like teeth, with steep crags here and there. The name of one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh.

5 One crag projected northward opposite Michmash, and the other southward opposite Gibeah.

6 Jonathan said to the young man who bore his armor, “Come, let us cross over to the garrison of these uncircumcised men, if perhaps the Lord may act for us; for it is not difficult for the Lord to save, whether by many or by few.”

7 His armor-bearer said to him, “Do everything that pleases your soul. Go where you desire, and I shall be with you wherever you wish.”

8 Jonathan said, “Behold, we are crossing over to those men. When we appear to them,

9 if they speak to us in this way, ‘Remain until we come to you,’ let us stand in our place and not ascend to them.

10 But if they say, ‘Ascend to us,’ let us ascend, because the Lord has delivered them into our hands. This shall be the sign for us.”

11 Therefore they both appeared to the Philistine garrison. And the Philistines said, “Behold, the Hebrews are coming out of the caverns in which they had hidden.”

12 The men of the garrison spoke to Jonathan and his armor-bearer, saying, “Ascend to us, and we shall show you something.” Jonathan said to his armor-bearer, “Let us ascend. Follow me, for the Lord has delivered them into the hands of Israel.”

13 Jonathan climbed up, crawling on hands and feet, and his armor-bearer after him. Some fell before Jonathan; others his armor-bearer killed as he followed him.

14 The first slaughter with which Jonathan and his armor-bearer struck was about twenty men within half an acre of land, as much as a pair of oxen is accustomed to plow in a day.

15 And a terror came to pass in the camp and throughout the fields. All the people of their garrison and those who had gone out to plunder were stunned, and the earth was disturbed. It happened as though by a terror from God.

16 Saul’s watchmen who were in Gibeah of Benjamin looked, and behold, the multitude was overthrown and fleeing here and there.

17 Saul said to the people who were with him, “Inquire and see who has gone from us.” When they had inquired, Jonathan and his armor-bearer were found to be absent.

18 Saul said to Ahijah, “Bring near the ark of God.” For the ark of God was there with the children of Israel on that day.

19 While Saul was speaking to the priest, a great tumult arose in the camp of the Philistines. It grew little by little and resounded more distinctly. And Saul said to the priest, “Withdraw your hand.”

20 Then Saul and all the people who were with him cried out together and came as far as the place of combat. And behold, every man’s sword had turned against his neighbor, and the slaughter was exceedingly great.

21 Moreover, the Hebrews who had been with the Philistines yesterday and the day before, and who had ascended with them into the camp, returned to be with the Israel who were with Saul and Jonathan.

22 All the Israelites who had hidden themselves on Mount Ephraim, hearing that the Philistines had fled, also joined their own men in battle. And there were about ten thousand men with Saul.

23 The Lord saved Israel on that day, and the battle reached as far as Beth-aven.

24 The men of Israel were bound together on that day, for Saul had placed the people under oath, saying, “Cursed is the man who eats bread before evening, until I am avenged upon my enemies.” And none of all the people ate bread.

25 The whole multitude of the land came into a forest where there was honey upon the face of the ground.

26 And so the people entered the forest, and flowing honey appeared. Yet no one brought his hand to his mouth, for the people feared the oath.

27 But Jonathan had not heard when his father placed the people under oath. He extended the tip of the staff he held in his hand and dipped it into a honeycomb. He turned his hand to his mouth, and his eyes were enlightened.

28 One of the people answered and said, “Your father bound the people by an oath, saying, ‘Cursed is the man who eats bread today.’” Now the people had become faint.

29 Jonathan said, “My father has troubled the land. You yourselves have seen that my eyes were enlightened because I tasted a little of this honey.

30 How much more if the people had eaten from the spoil of their enemies that they found? Would not a greater slaughter have been made among the Philistines?”

31 Therefore on that day they struck the Philistines from Michmash as far as Aijalon. But the people were exceedingly weary.

32 Turning to the spoil, they took sheep, oxen, and calves and slaughtered them upon the ground; and the people ate with the blood.

33 They reported to Saul, saying that the people had sinned against the Lord by eating with the blood. He said, “You have transgressed. Roll a great stone to me here and now.”

34 Saul said, “Disperse yourselves among the multitude and tell them that each one is to bring me his ox and his ram. Slaughter them upon this stone and eat, and you shall not sin against the Lord by eating with the blood.” Therefore each one of all the people brought the ox in his hand until night, and they slaughtered them there.

35 Then Saul built an altar to the Lord. At that time he first began to build an altar to the Lord.

36 Saul said, “Let us rush upon the Philistines by night and devastate them until the morning grows light, and let us not leave a man among them.” The people said, “Do whatever seems good in your eyes.” But the priest said, “Let us approach God here.”

37 Saul consulted the Lord: “Shall I pursue the Philistines? Will you deliver them into the hands of Israel?” But he did not answer him on that day.

38 Saul said, “Bring here all the corners of the people, and know and see through whom this sin has happened today.

39 As the Lord, the Savior of Israel, lives, even if it was done through Jonathan my son, he shall die without reprieve.” To this no one among all the people contradicted him.

40 He said to all Israel, “Separate yourselves to one side, and I and Jonathan my son shall be on the other side.” The people answered Saul, “Do whatever seems good in your eyes.”

41 Saul said to the Lord God of Israel, “O Lord God of Israel, give an indication. Why have you not answered your servant today? If this iniquity is in me or in Jonathan my son, give a manifestation; but if this iniquity is in your people, give holiness.” And Jonathan and Saul were taken, while the people went free.

42 Saul said, “Cast the lot between me and Jonathan my son.” And Jonathan was taken.

43 Saul said to Jonathan, “Tell me what you have done.” Jonathan told him and said, “Tasting, I tasted a little honey with the tip of the staff that was in my hand; and behold, I must die.”

44 Saul said, “May God do these things to me and add these also, for dying you shall die, Jonathan.”

45 But the people said to Saul, “Shall Jonathan then die, who has wrought this great salvation in Israel? This is an abomination! As the Lord lives, not one hair of his head shall fall to the ground, for he has worked with God today.” Therefore the people delivered Jonathan, so that he did not die.

46 Saul withdrew and did not pursue the Philistines, while the Philistines went away to their own places.

47 And Saul, his kingdom strengthened over Israel, fought all around against all his enemies: against Moab, the children of Ammon, Edom, the kings of Zobah, and the Philistines. Wherever he turned, he prevailed.

48 Having gathered an army, he struck Amalek and rescued Israel from the hand of its devastators.

49 The sons of Saul were Jonathan, Ishvi, and Malchishua. The names of his two daughters were these: the name of the firstborn was Merab, and the name of the younger Michal.

50 The name of Saul’s wife was Ahinoam daughter of Ahimaaz. The name of the commander of his army was Abner son of Ner, Saul’s cousin.

51 Kish was Saul’s father, and Ner, Abner’s father, was the son of Abiel.

52 There was powerful war against the Philistines throughout all Saul’s days. For whenever Saul saw a strong man fit for battle, he joined him to himself.

CHAPTER 15

1 Samuel said to Saul, “The Lord sent me to anoint you as king over his people Israel. Now therefore, hear the voice of the Lord.

2 Thus says the Lord of hosts: ‘I have reckoned everything Amalek did to Israel, how he opposed him on the way when he ascended from Egypt.

3 Now therefore, go and strike Amalek, and demolish everything that belongs to him. Do not spare him, and do not covet anything from his possessions, but kill man and woman, infant and suckling, ox and sheep, camel and donkey.’”

4 And so Saul commanded the people and counted them as lambs: two hundred thousand footmen and ten thousand men of Judah.

5 When Saul had come as far as the city of Amalek, he laid an ambush in the torrent-bed.

6 Saul said to the Kenite, “Go away, withdraw, and descend from Amalek, lest perhaps I envelop you with him. For you showed mercy to all the children of Israel when they ascended from Egypt.” And the Kenite withdrew from the midst of Amalek.

7 Saul struck Amalek from Havilah until you come to Shur, which is opposite Egypt.

8 He captured Agag, king of Amalek, alive, but killed all the common people with the edge of the sword.

9 Saul and the people spared Agag, the best flocks of sheep and herds, the garments and rams, and everything that was beautiful; they were unwilling to destroy these. But whatever was vile and rejected, this they demolished.

10 Then the word of the Lord came to Samuel, saying,

11 “I repent that I appointed Saul king, because he has abandoned me and has not fulfilled my words in deed.” Samuel was grieved and cried to the Lord all night.

12 Samuel arose in the night to go to Saul in the morning. And it was reported to Samuel that Saul had come to Carmel, had erected for himself a triumphal arch, and, turning back, had passed on and descended into Gilgal. Therefore Samuel came to Saul, and Saul was offering a holocaust to the Lord from the first of the spoils he had brought from Amalek.

13 When Samuel came to Saul, Saul said to him, “Blessed are you by the Lord. I have fulfilled the word of the Lord.”

14 Samuel said, “Then what is this voice of flocks resounding in my ears, and of herds, that I hear?”

15 Saul said, “They brought them from Amalek. For the people spared the better sheep and herds, that they might be immolated to the Lord your God; but the rest we killed.”

16 Samuel said to Saul, “Permit me, and I shall tell you what the Lord spoke to me in the night.” He said to him, “Speak.”

17 Samuel said, “When you were little in your own eyes, were you not made head among the tribes of Israel? And the Lord anointed you as king over Israel.

18 The Lord sent you on the way and said, ‘Go and kill the sinners of Amalek, and you shall fight against them even to their annihilation.’

19 Why then did you not hear the voice of the Lord, but turned toward the spoil and did evil in the eyes of the Lord?”

20 Saul said to Samuel, “Indeed, I heard the voice of the Lord and walked in the way by which the Lord sent me. I brought Agag, king of Amalek, and killed Amalek.

21 But the people took sheep and oxen from the spoil—the firstfruits of the things that were slain—to immolate to the Lord their God in Gilgal.”

22 Samuel said, “Does the Lord desire holocausts and victims, and not rather that the voice of the Lord be obeyed? For obedience is better than victims, and to hearken better than to offer the fat of rams.

23 For to resist is like the sin of divination, and to refuse to acquiesce is like the crime of idolatry. Therefore, because you have cast away the word of the Lord, the Lord has cast you away from being king.”

24 Saul said to Samuel, “I have sinned, because I transgressed the word of the Lord and your words, fearing the people and obeying their voice.

25 But now, bear my sin, I pray, and return with me, that I may adore the Lord.”

26 Samuel said to Saul, “I shall not return with you, because you have cast away the word of the Lord, and the Lord has cast you away from being king over Israel.”

27 Samuel turned to depart, but Saul grasped the edge of his cloak, and it was torn.

28 Samuel said to him, “The Lord has torn the kingdom of Israel from you today and has delivered it to your neighbor, who is better than you.

29 Moreover, the Triumpher in Israel will not spare, nor will he be bent by repentance; for he is not a man, that he should repent.”

30 But Saul said, “I have sinned. Yet now honor me before the elders of my people and before Israel, and return with me, that I may adore the Lord your God.”

31 Therefore Samuel returned, following Saul, and Saul adored the Lord.

32 Samuel said, “Bring Agag, king of Amalek, to me.” And Agag, exceedingly fat and trembling, was brought to him. Agag said, “Does bitter death separate in this manner?”

33 Samuel said, “As your sword made women childless, so shall your mother be childless among women.” And Samuel cut him into pieces before the Lord in Gilgal.

34 Then Samuel went away to Ramah, but Saul ascended to his house in Gibeah.

35 Samuel saw Saul no more until the day of his death. Nevertheless, Samuel mourned Saul, because the Lord repented that he had appointed him king over Israel.

CHAPTER 16

1 The Lord said to Samuel, “How long will you mourn Saul, since I have cast him away from reigning over Israel? Fill your horn with oil and come, that I may send you to Jesse the Bethlehemite, for I have provided myself a king among his sons.”

2 Samuel said, “How shall I go? For Saul will hear and kill me.” The Lord said, “You shall take a calf from the herd in your hand and say, ‘I have come to immolate to the Lord.’

3 You shall call Jesse to the victim, and I shall show you what you are to do. You shall anoint whomever I show you.”

4 Therefore Samuel did as the Lord had spoken to him. He came to Bethlehem, and the elders of the city, astonished, went to meet him and said, “Is your entrance peaceful?”

5 He said, “It is peaceful. I have come to immolate to the Lord. Sanctify yourselves and come with me, that I may immolate.” Therefore he sanctified Jesse and his sons and called them to the sacrifice.

6 When they had entered, he saw Eliab and said, “Is his christ before the Lord?”

7 The Lord said to Samuel, “Do not regard his face or the height of his stature, because I have cast him away. Nor do I judge according to the gaze of man, for man sees the things that appear, but the Lord beholds the heart.”

8 Jesse called Abinadab and brought him before Samuel. He said, “Neither has the Lord chosen this one.”

9 Jesse brought Shammah, of whom he said, “The Lord has not chosen this one either.”

10 And so Jesse brought his seven sons before Samuel. Samuel said to Jesse, “The Lord has not chosen from among these.”

11 Samuel said to Jesse, “Are the sons now complete?” He answered, “The little one still remains, and he is pasturing the sheep.” Samuel said to Jesse, “Send and bring him, for we shall not recline until he comes here.”

12 Therefore he sent and brought him. Now he was ruddy, beautiful in appearance, and comely of face. And the Lord said, “Arise, anoint him, for this is he.”

13 Therefore Samuel took the horn of oil and anointed him in the midst of his brothers. And the Spirit of the Lord was directed into David from that day and thereafter. Samuel arose and went away to Ramah.

14 But the Spirit of the Lord withdrew from Saul, and an evil spirit from the Lord harassed him.

15 Saul’s servants said to him, “Behold, an evil spirit of God harasses you.

16 Let our lord command, and your servants who stand before you will seek a man skilled at playing the harp, so that when the evil spirit of the Lord seizes you, he may play with his hand, and you may bear it more lightly.”

17 Saul said to his servants, “Then provide me someone who plays well, and bring him to me.”

18 One of the young men answered and said, “Behold, I have seen a son of Jesse the Bethlehemite who is skilled at playing, exceedingly strong, a man of war, prudent in speech, and a beautiful man; and the Lord is with him.”

19 Therefore Saul sent messengers to Jesse, saying, “Send me David your son, who is in the pastures.”

20 And so Jesse took a donkey laden with bread, a vessel of wine, and one young goat, and sent them to Saul by the hand of David his son.

21 David came to Saul and stood before him. Saul loved him exceedingly, and he became his armor-bearer.

22 Saul sent to Jesse, saying, “Let David stand in my sight, for he has found grace in my eyes.”

23 Therefore, whenever the evil spirit of the Lord seized Saul, David took the harp and struck it with his hand. Saul was refreshed and felt lighter, for the evil spirit withdrew from him.

CHAPTER 17

1 The Philistines gathered their companies for battle and assembled at Socoh of Judah. They encamped between Socoh and Azekah, within the borders of Dammim.

2 Saul and the children of Israel also assembled and came into the Valley of the Terebinth, and they arranged the battle line to fight against the Philistines.

3 The Philistines stood upon the mountain on one side, and Israel stood upon the mountain on the other side, with the valley between them.

4 And a bastard man went out from the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath, from Gath, whose height was six cubits and a span.

5 A bronze helmet was upon his head, and he was clothed in a coat of scales. The weight of his coat was five thousand shekels of bronze.

6 He had bronze greaves upon his legs, and a bronze shield covered his shoulders.

7 The shaft of his spear was like a weaver's beam, while the iron of his spear weighed six hundred shekels of iron. His armor-bearer went before him.

8 Standing, he cried out against the battle lines of Israel and said to them, "Why have you come prepared for battle? Am I not a Philistine, and are you not Saul's servants? Choose a man from among yourselves, and let him descend to single combat.

9 If he is able to fight with me and strike me, we shall be your servants. But if I prevail and strike him, you shall be servants and shall serve us."

10 The Philistine said, "I have reproached the companies of Israel today. Give me a man, and let him enter single combat with me."

11 When Saul and all the Israelites heard such words from the Philistine, they were stunned and exceedingly afraid.

12 Now David was the son of the Ephrathite man mentioned above, from Bethlehem of Judah, whose name was Jesse. He had eight sons and, in the days of Saul, was an old man, advanced in years among men.

13 His three eldest sons had gone after Saul into battle. The names of his three sons who went to war were Eliab the firstborn, Abinadab the second, and Shammah the third.

14 But David was the youngest. Therefore, while the three eldest followed Saul, 15 David went and returned from Saul to pasture his father's flock in Bethlehem.

16 The Philistine came forward morning and evening and stood there for forty days.

17 Jesse said to David his son, "Take for your brothers an ephah of roasted grain and these ten loaves, and run to your brothers in the camp.

18 Carry these ten little cheeses to the commander, visit your brothers to see whether they fare well, and learn with whom they have been assigned."

19 Now Saul, they, and all the children of Israel were fighting against the Philistines in the Valley of the Terebinth.

20 And so David arose in the morning, entrusted the flock to a keeper, and went away laden, as Jesse had commanded him. He came to the place of Magalah and to the army, which had gone out to battle and was shouting in the combat.

21 For Israel had arranged its battle line, and the Philistines were likewise prepared opposite them.

22 Therefore David left the vessels he had brought under the hand of the keeper of the baggage and ran to the place of combat. He asked whether all was well with his brothers.

23 While he was still speaking with them, that bastard man appeared, ascending from the camp of the Philistines—Goliath by name, the Philistine from Gath. While he spoke these same words, David heard them.

24 But all the Israelites, when they saw the man, fled from his face, fearing him greatly.

25 Someone from Israel said, "Have you seen this man who ascends? For he has ascended to reproach Israel. Therefore the man who strikes him, the king will enrich with great riches, give him his daughter, and make his father's house free from tribute in Israel."

26 David said to the men who stood with him, "What shall be given to the man who strikes this Philistine and takes away the reproach from Israel? For who is this uncircumcised Philistine, who has reproached the battle lines of the living God?"

27 The people repeated the same word to him, saying, "These things shall be given to the man who strikes him."

28 When Eliab, his eldest brother, heard him speaking with the others, he became angry with David and said, “Why did you come, and why did you abandon those few sheep in the wilderness? I know your pride and the wickedness of your heart, for you descended in order to see the battle.”

29 David said, “What have I done? Is it not a word?”

30 He turned a little away from him toward another and spoke the same word. And the people answered him with a word as before.

31 The words David had spoken were heard and reported in Saul’s sight.

32 When David had been brought to him, he said, “Let no one’s heart collapse because of him. I, your servant, shall go and fight against the Philistine.”

33 Saul said to David, “You are not able to withstand this Philistine or to fight against him, because you are a boy, while he has been a man of war from his youth.”

34 David said to Saul, “Your servant pastured his father’s flock, and a lion or bear would come and take a ram from the midst of the flock.

35 I pursued them, struck them, and rescued it from their mouth. They rose against me, but I seized their jaw, strangled them, and killed them.

36 For I, your servant, have killed both lion and bear. Therefore this uncircumcised Philistine shall be like one of them. Now I shall go and take away the people’s reproach, for who is this uncircumcised Philistine, who has dared to curse the army of the living God?”

37 David said, “The Lord who rescued me from the hand of the lion and from the hand of the bear—he shall deliver me from the hand of this Philistine.” Saul said to David, “Go, and may the Lord be with you.”

38 Saul clothed David in his own garments, placed a bronze helmet upon his head, and clothed him in a coat of mail.

39 Therefore David girded Saul’s sword over his garment and began to test whether he could walk armed, for he was not accustomed to it. David said to Saul, “I cannot walk in this manner, because I have no practice.” And he laid them aside.

40 He took his staff, which he always held in his hands, chose for himself five exceedingly smooth stones from the torrent, and placed them in the shepherd’s bag he had with him. He took the sling in his hand and advanced against the Philistine.

41 The Philistine went on, walking and drawing near against David, with his armor-bearer before him.

42 When the Philistine looked and saw David, he despised him. For he was a youth, ruddy, and beautiful in appearance.

43 The Philistine said to David, “Am I a dog, that you come to me with a staff?” And the Philistine cursed David by his gods.

44 He said to David, “Come to me, and I shall give your flesh to the birds of heaven and the beasts of the earth.”

45 But David said to the Philistine, “You come to me with sword, spear, and shield; but I come to you in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the companies of Israel whom you have reproached.

46 Today the Lord will give you into my hand. I shall strike you and take your head from you, and today I shall give the corpses of the Philistine camp to the birds of heaven and the beasts of the earth, that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel,

47 and that this whole assembly may know that the Lord does not save by sword or spear. For the battle is his, and he will deliver you into our hands.”

48 Therefore, when the Philistine arose, came, and drew near against David, David hurried and ran to the battle opposite the Philistine.

49 He put his hand into the bag, took one stone, cast it with the sling, and, whirling it, struck the Philistine in the forehead. The stone was embedded in his forehead, and he fell upon his face to the earth.

50 Thus David prevailed against the Philistine with sling and stone, and, striking the Philistine, killed him. And since David had no sword in his hand,

51 he ran and stood over the Philistine, took his sword, and drew it from its sheath. He killed him and cut off his head. When the Philistines saw that their strongest man was dead, they fled.

52 The men of Israel and Judah arose, shouted, and pursued the Philistines until they came to the valley and as far as the gates of Ekron. The wounded Philistines fell along the way of Shaaraim, and as far as Gath and Ekron.

53 The children of Israel returned after pursuing the Philistines and invaded their camp.

54 David took the Philistine’s head and brought it to Jerusalem, but he placed his weapons in his own tent.

55 At the time when Saul saw David going out against the Philistine, he said to Abner, commander of the army, “From what stock does this youth descend, Abner?” Abner said, “As your soul lives, O king, I do not know.”

56 The king said, “You inquire whose son this boy is.”

57 When David returned after striking the Philistine, Abner took him and brought him before Saul, with the Philistine’s head in his hand.

58 Saul said to him, “From what lineage are you, O youth?” David said, “I am the son of your servant Jesse the Bethlehemite.”

CHAPTER 18

1 And it happened, when David had finished speaking to Saul, that Jonathan's soul was fastened to David's soul, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul.

2 Saul took him on that day and did not permit him to return to his father's house.

3 David and Jonathan entered a covenant, for Jonathan loved him as his own soul.

4 For Jonathan stripped himself of the tunic in which he was clothed and gave it to David, with his other garments, even his sword, his bow, and his belt.

5 David went out to everything for which Saul sent him, and he conducted himself prudently. Saul placed him over the men of war, and he was accepted in the eyes of all the people, and especially in the sight of Saul's servants.

6 Now when David returned after striking the Philistine, women came out from all the cities of Israel, singing and leading dances to meet King Saul, with joyful timbrels and sistrums.

7 The women sang before them as they played, saying, "Saul struck a thousand, and David ten thousand."

8 Saul became exceedingly angry, and this saying was displeasing in his eyes. He said, "They have given David ten thousand, and to me they have given a thousand. What remains for him except the kingdom alone?"

9 Therefore Saul regarded David with eyes that were not upright from that day and thereafter.

10 But on the next day an evil spirit of God invaded Saul, and he prophesied in the midst of his house. David played with his hand, as he did each day, while Saul held a spear.

11 He cast it, thinking that he could fasten David to the wall. But David turned away from his face a second time.

12 Saul feared David because the Lord was with him and had withdrawn from Saul.

13 Therefore Saul removed him from himself and made him commander over a thousand men, and David went out and came in before the people.

14 David also conducted himself prudently in all his ways, and the Lord was with him.

15 And so Saul saw that he was exceedingly prudent and began to guard himself against him.

16 But all Israel and Judah loved David, for he went in and went out before them.

17 Saul said to David, "Behold my elder daughter Merab. I shall give her to you as wife; only be a strong man and fight the Lord's battles." But Saul was calculating, saying, "Let not my hand be against him, but let the hand of the Philistines be against him."

18 David said to Saul, "Who am I, or what is my life, or my father's kindred in Israel, that I should become the king's son-in-law?"

19 But when the time came that Merab, Saul's daughter, should be given to David, she was given as wife to Adriel the Meholathite.

20 Now Michal, Saul's other daughter, loved David. This was reported to Saul, and it pleased him.

21 Saul said, "I shall give her to him, that she may become a stumbling block to him and that the hand of the Philistines may be against him." And Saul said to David, "In two things you shall be my son-in-law today."

22 Saul commanded his servants, "Speak to David secretly from me, saying, 'Behold, you please the king, and all his servants love you. Now therefore, become the king's son-in-law.'"

23 Saul's servants spoke all these words in David's ears. David said, "Does it seem a small thing in your eyes to become the king's son-in-law? But I am a poor and slender man."

24 The servants reported to Saul, saying, "David spoke words of this kind."

25 Saul said, "Speak thus to David: 'The king has no need of a bridal price, except only one hundred foreskins of the Philistines, that vengeance may be taken upon the king's enemies.'" For Saul intended to deliver David into the hands of the Philistines.

26 When his servants reported to David the words Saul had spoken, the saying was pleasing in David's eyes, that he should become the king's son-in-law.

27 After a few days David arose and went away with the men who were under him. He struck two hundred men of the Philistines, brought their foreskins, and counted them out to the king, that he might be his son-in-law. Therefore Saul gave him Michal his daughter as wife.

28 Saul saw and understood that the Lord was with David. And Michal, Saul's daughter, loved him.

29 Saul began to fear David still more, and Saul became David's enemy all his days.

30 The princes of the Philistines went out. From the beginning of their going out, David conducted himself more prudently than all Saul's servants, and his name became exceedingly renowned.

CHAPTER 19

1 Saul spoke to Jonathan his son and to all his servants, that they should kill David. But Jonathan son of Saul loved David greatly.

2 Jonathan informed David, saying, “Saul my father seeks to kill you. Therefore watch yourself, I pray, in the morning. You shall remain secretly and hide yourself.

3 But I shall go out and stand beside my father in the field, wherever you are. I shall speak about you to my father, and whatever I see, I shall report to you.”

4 Therefore Jonathan spoke good things about David to Saul his father and said to him, “Let not the king sin against his servant David, because he has not sinned against you, and his works are exceedingly good toward you.

5 He placed his soul in his own hand and struck the Philistine, and the Lord wrought a great salvation for all Israel. You saw and rejoiced. Why then do you sin against innocent blood by killing David, who is without fault?”

6 When Saul heard this, he was appeased by Jonathan’s voice and swore, “As the Lord lives, he shall not be killed.”

7 And so Jonathan called David and told him all these words. Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he was before him as he had been yesterday and the day before.

8 War was stirred again, and David went out and fought against the Philistines. He struck them with a great slaughter, and they fled from his face.

9 And an evil spirit of the Lord came upon Saul. He sat in his house and held a spear, while David played with his hand.

10 Saul attempted to fasten David to the wall with the spear, but David turned away from Saul’s face. The spear, carried by a fruitless blow, struck the wall; and David fled and was saved that night.

11 Therefore Saul sent his guards to David’s house, that they might watch him and he might be killed in the morning. When Michal his wife reported this to David, saying, “Unless you save yourself this night, tomorrow you shall die,”

12 she lowered him through a window. He went away, fled, and was saved.

13 Then Michal took a statue and placed it upon the bed. She placed a hairy goatskin at its head and covered it with garments.

14 Saul sent officers to seize David, but the answer was given that he was ill.

15 Again Saul sent messengers to see David, saying, “Bring him to me in the bed, that he may be killed.”

16 When the messengers came, a likeness was found upon the bed, with goatskin at its head.

17 Saul said to Michal, “Why have you mocked me in this manner and released my enemy so that he fled?” Michal answered Saul, “Because he said to me, ‘Release me, or else I shall kill you.’”

18 But David fled and was saved. He came to Samuel in Ramah and reported to him everything Saul had done to him. He and Samuel went away and stayed in Naioth.

19 It was reported to Saul by those saying, “Behold, David is in Naioth in Ramah.”

20 Therefore Saul sent constables to seize David. When they saw a company of prophets prophesying and Samuel standing over them, the Spirit of the Lord also came upon them, and they too began to prophesy.

21 When this was reported to Saul, he sent other messengers, but they also prophesied. Again Saul sent a third group of messengers, and they too prophesied. And Saul, enraged with anger,

22 also went away to Ramah. He came as far as the great cistern that is in Socoh and asked, saying, “In what place are Samuel and David?” It was said to him, “Behold, they are in Naioth in Ramah.”

23 He went away to Naioth in Ramah, and the Spirit of the Lord also came upon him. As he walked onward, he prophesied until he came to Naioth in Ramah.

24 He too stripped himself of his garments and prophesied with the others before Samuel. He fell naked throughout that whole day and night. From this also came the proverb, “Is Saul also among the prophets?”

CHAPTER 20

1 David fled from Naioth, which is in Ramah, and, coming, spoke before Jonathan: “What have I done? What is my iniquity, and what is my sin against your father, that he seeks my soul?”

2 He said to him, “Far be it! You shall not die. For my father will do nothing great or small unless he first informs me. Has my father concealed this word alone from me? By no means shall this be.”

3 And he swore again to David. But David said, “Your father certainly knows that I have found grace in your eyes, and he will say, ‘Let Jonathan not know this, lest perhaps he be grieved.’ Indeed, as the Lord lives and as your soul lives, only one step, so to speak, separates me and death.”

4 Jonathan said to David, “Whatever your soul says to me, I shall do for you.”

5 David said to Jonathan, “Behold, tomorrow is the new moon, and according to custom I am accustomed to sit beside the king to eat. Therefore release me, that I may hide in the field until the evening of the third day.

6 If your father looks and seeks me, you shall answer him, ‘David asked me that he might go quickly to Bethlehem, his city, because solemn victims are offered there for all his fellow tribesmen.’

7 If he says, ‘Good,’ there shall be peace for your servant. But if he is angry, know that his malice is complete.

8 Therefore show mercy to your servant, because you have made me, your servant, enter the Lord’s covenant with you. But if there is any iniquity in me, kill me yourself, and do not bring me to your father.”

9 Jonathan said, “Far be this from you. For it cannot be that, if I certainly learn that my father’s malice against you is complete, I would not report it to you.”

10 David answered Jonathan, “Who shall report to me if perhaps your father answers you harshly concerning me?”

11 Jonathan said to David, “Come, and let us go outside into the field.” When they had both gone out into the field,

12 Jonathan said to David, “O Lord God of Israel, if I sound out my father’s judgment tomorrow or the day after, and there is anything good concerning David, but I do not immediately send to you and make it known to you,

13 may the Lord do these things to Jonathan and add these also. But if my father’s malice against you persists, I shall reveal it to your ear and release you, that you may go in peace. And may the Lord be with you, as he was with my father.

14 And if I live, you shall show me the mercy of the Lord. But if I die,

15 you shall not take away your mercy from my house forever, when the Lord uproots David’s enemies, each one from the earth. May he take Jonathan from his house, and may the Lord require it from the hand of David’s enemies.”

16 Therefore Jonathan struck a covenant with the house of David, and the Lord required it from the hand of David’s enemies.

17 Jonathan added an oath to David because he loved him; for as he loved his own soul, so he loved him.

18 Jonathan said to him, “Tomorrow is the new moon, and you shall be sought,

19 for your seat will be sought until the day after tomorrow. Therefore descend quickly and come to the place where you are to be hidden on the day when it is lawful to work, and you shall sit beside the stone whose name is Ezel.

20 I shall shoot three arrows beside it and cast them as though practicing at a mark.

21 I shall also send the boy, saying to him, ‘Go and bring me the arrows.’

22 If I say to the boy, ‘Behold, the arrows are on this side of you; take them,’ then come to me, for there is peace for you and nothing evil, as the Lord lives. But if I speak thus to the boy, ‘Behold, the arrows are beyond you,’ go in peace, because the Lord has released you.

23 And concerning the word that you and I have spoken, may the Lord be between me and you forever.”

24 Therefore David was hidden in the field. The new moon came, and the king sat to eat bread.

25 When the king had sat upon his chair, according to custom, which was beside the wall, Jonathan arose, and Abner sat at Saul’s side. David’s place appeared empty.

26 Saul said nothing on that day, for he thought that perhaps something had happened to David so that he was not clean or purified.

27 When the second day after the new moon had dawned, David’s place again appeared empty. Saul said to Jonathan his son, “Why has the son of Jesse come neither yesterday nor today to eat?”

28 Jonathan answered Saul, “He earnestly asked me that he might go to Bethlehem,

29 and said, ‘Release me, because there is a solemn sacrifice in the city, and one of my brothers has summoned me. Now therefore, if I have found grace in your eyes, I shall go quickly and see my brothers.’ For this reason he did not come to the king’s table.”

30 Saul became angry against Jonathan and said to him, “Son of a woman who willfully seizes a man! Do I not know that you love the son of Jesse, to your own confusion and to the confusion of your shameful mother?

31 For all the days that the son of Jesse lives upon the earth, neither you nor your kingdom shall be established. And so now send and bring him to me, for he is a son of death.”

32 Jonathan answered Saul his father, saying, “Why shall he die? What has he done?”

33 Saul seized a spear to strike him. And Jonathan understood that it had been determined by his father that David should be killed.

34 Therefore Jonathan arose from the table in furious anger and ate no bread on the second day of the new moon. For he was grieved over David because his father had confounded him.

35 When morning dawned, Jonathan came into the field according to his agreement with David, with a little boy beside him.

36 He said to his boy, “Go and bring me the arrows that I shoot.” When the boy had run, he shot another arrow beyond the boy.

37 And so the boy came to the place of the arrow Jonathan had sent. Jonathan cried behind the boy and said, “Behold, the arrow is there, farther beyond you.”

38 Jonathan again cried behind the boy, saying, “Hurry swiftly; do not stand still.” Jonathan’s boy gathered the arrows and brought them to his lord.

39 He was entirely ignorant of what was being done, for Jonathan and David alone knew the matter.

40 Therefore Jonathan gave his weapons to the boy and said to him, “Go and carry them into the city.”

41 When the boy had gone, David arose from the place that inclined toward the south. Falling prone upon the earth, he adored three times. They kissed one another and wept together, but David more.

42 Jonathan said to David, “Go in peace. Whatever we both swore in the name of the Lord, saying, ‘May the Lord be between me and you, and between my seed and your seed forever.’”

43 David arose and went away, while Jonathan entered the city.

CHAPTER 21

1 David came to Nob, to Ahimelech the priest. Ahimelech was astonished that David had come and said to him, “Why are you alone, with no one beside you?”

2 David said to Ahimelech the priest, “The king commanded me a matter and said, ‘Let no one know the matter for which you were sent by me, nor what commands I gave you.’ For I have also appointed my young men to such and such a place.

3 Now therefore, if you have anything at hand—even five loaves—give it to me, or whatever you may find.”

4 The priest answered David and said to him, “I have no common bread at hand, but only holy bread—if the young men are clean, especially from women?”

5 David answered the priest and said to him, “Indeed, if it is a question of women, we have restrained ourselves since yesterday and the day before, when we went out, and the vessels of the young men have been holy. Moreover, this way is defiled, but even it shall today be sanctified in the vessels.”

6 Therefore the priest gave him sanctified bread, for there was no bread there except only the loaves of proposition, which had been taken away from the face of the Lord so that hot loaves might be placed there.

7 Now a certain man from Saul’s servants was there that day, within the tabernacle of the Lord. His name was Doeg the Edomite, the mightiest of Saul’s shepherds.

8 David said to Ahimelech, “Do you have a spear or sword here at hand? For I did not take my sword and weapons with me, because the king’s matter was urgent.”

9 The priest said, “Behold, here is the sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom you struck in the Valley of the Terebinth. It is wrapped in a cloak behind the ephod. If you wish to take it, take it, for there is no other here except it.” David said, “There is no other like it. Give it to me.”

10 And so David arose and fled from Saul’s face on that day, and he came to Achish, king of Gath.

11 When Achish’s servants saw David, they said to him, “Is this not David, king of the land? Did they not sing to him in dances, saying, ‘Saul struck a thousand, and David ten thousand’?”

12 David placed these words in his heart and feared greatly before the face of Achish, king of Gath.

13 He changed his face before them and collapsed between their hands. He struck against the doors of the gate, and his saliva flowed down upon his beard.

14 Achish said to his servants, “You have seen that the man is insane. Why did you bring him to me?

15 Do we lack madmen, that you brought this one in to rave in my presence? Shall this man enter my house?”

CHAPTER 22

1 Therefore David went away from there and fled into the cave of Adullam. When his brothers and all his father's house heard of it, they descended to him there.

2 All who had been placed in distress, who were oppressed by debt, and who were bitter in soul assembled to him. He became their prince, and there were about four hundred men with him.

3 David departed from there to Mizpah, which belongs to Moab, and said to the king of Moab, "Let my father and my mother remain with you, I pray, until I know what God will do for me."

4 He left them before the face of the king of Moab, and they remained with him all the days David was in the stronghold.

5 Gad the prophet said to David, "Do not remain in the stronghold. Depart and go into the land of Judah." David departed and came into the forest of Hereth.

6 Saul heard that David and the men who were with him had appeared. Saul was staying in Gibeah, in the grove that is in Ramah, holding a spear in his hand, with all his servants standing around him.

7 He said to his servants who stood beside him, "Hear now, sons of Benjamin. Will the son of Jesse give fields and vineyards to all of you, and make you all commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds?

8 For all of you have conspired against me, and there is no one to report to me—especially when my son entered a covenant with the son of Jesse. There is none among you who grieves for my lot or informs me that my son has raised my servant against me, lying in wait for me even to this day."

9 But Doeg the Edomite, who stood by and was first among Saul's servants, answered, "I saw the son of Jesse in Nob with Ahimelech son of Ahitub, the priest.

10 He consulted the Lord for him and gave him provisions. He also gave him the sword of Goliath the Philistine."

11 Therefore the king sent to summon Ahimelech the priest, son of Ahitub, and all his father's house—the priests who were in Nob—and they all came to the king.

12 Saul said to Ahimelech, "Hear, son of Ahitub." He answered, "Behold, I am here, my lord."

13 Saul said to him, "Why have you conspired against me, you and the son of Jesse, and given him bread and a sword and consulted God for him, so that he might rise against me, remaining an ambusher even to this day?"

14 Ahimelech answered the king and said, "And who among all your servants is like David—faithful, the king's son-in-law, proceeding at your command, and glorious in your house?

15 Did I begin today to consult God for him? Far be this from me. Let not the king suspect such a thing against his servant or against all my father's house, for your servant knew nothing of this matter, either small or great."

16 The king said, "Dying you shall die, Ahimelech, you and all your father's house."

17 The king said to the guards who stood around him, "Turn and kill the priests of the Lord, for their hand is with David. They knew that he had fled and did not inform me." But the king's servants were unwilling to extend their hands against the priests of the Lord.

18 The king said to Doeg, "You turn and rush upon the priests." Doeg the Edomite turned, rushed upon the priests, and slaughtered on that day eighty-five men clothed in the linen ephod.

19 He also struck Nob, the city of the priests, with the edge of the sword—men and women, infants and sucklings, ox, donkey, and sheep, with the edge of the sword.

20 But one son of Ahimelech son of Ahitub, whose name was Abiathar, escaped and fled to David.

21 He reported to him that Saul had killed the priests of the Lord.

22 David said to Abiathar, "I knew on that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would undoubtedly report it to Saul. I am guilty of all the souls of your father's house.

23 Remain with me. Do not fear. If anyone seeks my soul, he shall seek your soul also, and with me you shall be preserved."

CHAPTER 23

1 They reported to David, saying, “Behold, the Philistines are attacking Keilah and plundering the threshing floors.”

2 Therefore David consulted the Lord, saying, “Shall I go and strike these Philistines?” The Lord said to David, “Go, and you shall strike the Philistines and save Keilah.”

3 The men who were with David said to him, “Behold, we are afraid while remaining here in Judah. How much more if we go to Keilah against the companies of the Philistines?”

4 Therefore David consulted the Lord again. Answering, he said to him, “Arise and go to Keilah, for I shall deliver the Philistines into your hand.”

5 Therefore David and his men went to Keilah and fought against the Philistines. He drove away their livestock and struck them with a great slaughter, and David saved the inhabitants of Keilah.

6 Now at the time when Abiathar son of Ahimelech fled to David in Keilah, he had descended with the ephod with him.

7 It was reported to Saul that David had come to Keilah. Saul said, “God has delivered him into my hands, for he is enclosed, having entered a city with gates and bars.”

8 Saul commanded all the people to descend for battle to Keilah and besiege David and his men.

9 When David learned that Saul was secretly preparing evil for him, he said to Abiathar the priest, “Bring near the ephod.”

10 David said, “O Lord God of Israel, your servant has heard a report that Saul intends to come to Keilah, that he may overthrow the city because of me.

11 Will the men of Keilah deliver me into his hands? And will Saul descend, as your servant has heard? O Lord God of Israel, tell your servant.” The Lord said, “He shall descend.”

12 David said, “Will the men of Keilah deliver me and the men who are with me into Saul’s hands?” The Lord said, “They shall deliver you.”

13 Therefore David and his men, about six hundred, arose and went out of Keilah. They wandered uncertainly here and there. It was reported to Saul that David had fled from Keilah and was saved, for which reason he refrained from going out.

14 David stayed in the wilderness in the most secure places and remained on the mountain of the wilderness of Ziph, on the dark mountain. Yet Saul sought him every day, but God did not deliver him into his hands.

15 David saw that Saul had gone out to seek his soul. Now David was in the wilderness of Ziph, in the forest.

16 Jonathan son of Saul arose and went to David in the forest, and he strengthened his hands in God. He said to him,

17 “Do not fear, for the hand of Saul my father shall not find you. You shall reign over Israel, and I shall be second to you. Even Saul my father knows this.”

18 Therefore they both struck a covenant before the Lord. David remained in the forest, but Jonathan returned to his house.

19 The Ziphites ascended to Saul in Gibeah, saying, “Behold, does not David hide among us in the most secure places of the forest, on the hill of Hachilah, which is to the right of the wilderness?

20 Now therefore, as your soul has desired to descend, descend. It shall be ours to deliver him into the king’s hands.”

21 Saul said, “Blessed are you by the Lord, because you have grieved for my lot.

22 Go, therefore, I pray, prepare more diligently, act with greater care, and consider the place where his foot may be, or who has seen him there. For he thinks concerning me that I craftily lie in wait for him.

23 Consider and see all his hiding places in which he hides. Return to me with certainty, that I may go with you. Even if he has buried himself in the earth, I shall search him out among all the thousands of Judah.”

24 But they arose and went to Ziph before Saul. David and his men were in the wilderness of Maon, in the plains to the right of Jeshimon.

25 Therefore Saul and his companions went to seek him. It was reported to David, and immediately he descended to the rock and lived in the wilderness of Maon. When Saul heard this, he pursued David in the wilderness of Maon.

26 Saul went along one side of the mountain, while David and his men were on the other side. David despaired of being able to escape from Saul’s face. And so Saul and his men encircled David and his men like a crown, that they might capture them.

27 But a messenger came to Saul, saying, “Hurry and come, for the Philistines have poured themselves over the land.”

28 Therefore Saul turned back, ceasing to pursue David, and proceeded to meet the Philistines. For this reason they called that place the Dividing Rock.

CHAPTER 24

1 Therefore David ascended from there and dwelt in the most secure places of Engedi.

2 When Saul returned after pursuing the Philistines, they reported to him, saying, “Behold, David is in the wilderness of Engedi.”

3 Therefore Saul took three thousand chosen men from all Israel and proceeded to search for David and his men, even upon the steepest rocks, which are passable only by wild goats.

4 He came to the sheepfolds that presented themselves to the traveler. A cave was there, which Saul entered to purge his bowels; but David and his men were hiding in the inner part of the cave.

5 David’s servants said to him, “Behold the day of which the Lord spoke to you: ‘I shall deliver your enemy to you, that you may do to him as it pleases your eyes.’” Therefore David arose and silently cut off the edge of Saul’s cloak.

6 After this David’s heart struck him because he had cut off the edge of Saul’s cloak.

7 He said to his men, “May the Lord be gracious to me, that I should not do this thing to my lord, the Lord’s christ, by sending my hand against him, because he is the Lord’s christ.”

8 David restrained his men with words and did not permit them to rise against Saul. But Saul, arising from the cave, proceeded on the journey he had begun.

9 David also arose after him. Going out of the cave, he cried behind Saul, saying, “My lord the king.” Saul looked behind him, and David, bowing himself prone to the earth, adored.

10 He said to Saul, “Why do you hear the words of men who say, ‘David seeks evil against you’?

11 Behold, today your eyes have seen that the Lord delivered you into my hand in the cave. I considered killing you, but my eye spared you, for I said, ‘I shall not extend my hand against my lord, because he is the Lord’s christ.’

12 Rather, my father, see and recognize the edge of your cloak in my hand. For when I cut off the end of your cloak, I was unwilling to extend my hand against you. Consider and see that there is neither evil nor iniquity in my hand, nor have I sinned against you; but you lie in wait for my soul, that you may take it away.

13 May the Lord judge between me and you, and may the Lord avenge me upon you; but let my hand not be against you.

14 As it is also said in the ancient proverb, ‘From the impious, impiety shall go forth.’ Therefore let my hand not be against you.

15 Whom do you pursue, O king of Israel? Whom do you pursue? You pursue a dead dog and a single flea.

16 May the Lord be judge and judge between me and you. May he see and judge my cause and rescue me from your hand.”

17 When David had finished speaking words of this kind to Saul, Saul said, “Is this your voice, my son David?” Saul lifted up his voice and wept.

18 He said to David, “You are more just than I, for you have rendered good to me, while I have repaid you evil.

19 And today you have shown the good things you have done to me: how the Lord delivered me into your hand, and you did not kill me.

20 For who, when he has found his enemy, will release him upon a good way? But may the Lord repay you for this return, for what you have wrought toward me today.

21 And now, because I know that you shall most certainly reign and shall have the kingdom of Israel in your hand,

22 swear to me by the Lord that you will not destroy my seed after me nor take away my name from my father’s house.”

23 David swore to Saul. Therefore Saul went to his house, while David and his men ascended to safer places.

CHAPTER 25

1 Samuel died, and all Israel assembled and mourned him, and they buried him at his house in Ramah. David arose and descended into the wilderness of Paran.

2 There was a certain man in the wilderness of Maon whose possession was in Carmel, and that man was exceedingly great. He had three thousand sheep and one thousand goats, and it happened that his flock was being sheared in Carmel.

3 The name of that man was Nabal, and the name of his wife was Abigail. That woman was exceedingly prudent and beautiful; but her husband was hard, utterly wicked, and malicious. He was of the lineage of Caleb.

4 Therefore, when David heard in the wilderness that Nabal was shearing his flock,

5 he sent ten young men and said to them, “Ascend to Carmel, come to Nabal, and greet him peacefully in my name.

6 You shall say, ‘Peace be to my brothers and to you, peace to your house, and peace to everything you have.

7 I have heard that your shepherds are shearing. When they were with us in the wilderness, we were never troublesome to them, nor was anything from their flock ever missing during all the time they were with us in Carmel.

8 Ask your young men, and they will tell you. Now therefore, let your young men find grace in your eyes, for we have come on a good day. Whatever your hand finds, give to your servants and to your son David.’”

9 When David’s young men came, they spoke all these words to Nabal in David’s name, and they fell silent.

10 But Nabal answered David’s young men and said, “Who is David, and who is the son of Jesse? Today servants who flee from their masters have multiplied.

11 Shall I then take my bread, my water, and the flesh of the animals I killed for my shearers, and give it to men whom I do not know where they are from?”

12 And so David’s young men returned by their way. They came back and reported to him all the words Nabal had spoken.

13 Then David said to his young men, “Let each one gird on his sword.” Each man girded on his sword, and David also girded on his own sword. About four hundred men followed David, while two hundred remained with the baggage.

14 But one of Nabal’s young men reported to Abigail his wife, saying, “Behold, David sent messengers from the wilderness to bless our lord, but he turned against them.

15 Those men were sufficiently good to us and not troublesome, nor did anything ever perish during all the time we lived with them in the wilderness.

16 They were a wall to us both by night and by day, all the days we pastured the flocks among them.

17 Therefore consider and think again what you should do, because malice is complete against your husband and against your house. And he is a son of Belial, so that no one can speak to him.”

18 Therefore Abigail hurried and took two hundred loaves, two skins of wine, five cooked rams, five measures of roasted grain, one hundred clusters of raisins, and two hundred cakes of figs, and placed them upon donkeys.

19 She said to her young men, “Go before me. Behold, I shall follow behind you.” But she did not inform Nabal her husband.

20 Therefore, when she had mounted a donkey and was descending to the roots of the mountain, David and his men were descending to meet her, and she met them.

21 David said, “Truly, in vain I preserved everything belonging to this man in the wilderness, and nothing perished from all that belonged to him, for he has repaid me evil for good.

22 May God do these things to David’s enemies and add these also, if by morning I leave of all who belong to him anyone who urinates against a wall.”

23 When Abigail saw David, she hurried, descended from the donkey, fell before David upon her face, and adored upon the ground.

24 She fell at his feet and said, “Upon me, my lord, let this iniquity be. Let your handmaid speak, I beseech, in your ears, and hear the words of your servant.

25 Let not my lord the king, I pray, place his heart upon that iniquitous man Nabal. For according to his name, he is a fool, and folly is with him. But I, your handmaid, did not see your young men, my lord, whom you sent.

26 Now therefore, my lord, as the Lord lives and as your soul lives, the Lord has prevented you from coming into blood and has saved your own hand for you. And now may your enemies and those who seek evil against my lord become like Nabal.

27 Therefore receive this blessing that your handmaid has brought to you, my lord, and give it to the young men who follow you, my lord.

28 Take away the iniquity of your servant, for the Lord shall surely make for you, my lord, a faithful house, because you fight the Lord's battles, my lord. Therefore let no malice be found in you all the days of your life.

29 For if a man ever rises to pursue you and seek your soul, the soul of my lord shall be guarded as in the bundle of the living with the Lord your God. But the soul of your enemies shall be whirled away as by the force and circle of a sling.

30 Therefore, when the Lord has done for you, my lord, all the good things he spoke concerning you and has appointed you leader over Israel,

31 this shall not be a sob or a scruple of heart for you, my lord—that you shed innocent blood or avenged yourself. And when the Lord has dealt well with my lord, you shall remember your handmaid."

32 David said to Abigail, "Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, who sent you today to meet me, and blessed is your eloquence,

33 and blessed are you, who prevented me today from going into blood and avenging myself with my own hand.

34 Otherwise, as the Lord God of Israel lives, who prevented me from doing evil to you, unless you had quickly come to meet me, there would not have remained to Nabal by the morning light anyone who urinates against a wall."

35 Therefore David received from her hand everything she had brought him and said to her, "Go peacefully to your house. Behold, I have heard your voice and honored your face."

36 Abigail came to Nabal, and behold, he had a banquet in his house like the banquet of a king, and Nabal's heart was joyful, for he was exceedingly drunk. She told him no word, small or great, until morning.

37 But at daybreak, when Nabal had digested the wine, his wife told him these words. His heart died within him, and he became like a stone.

38 When ten days had passed, the Lord struck Nabal, and he died.

39 When David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, "Blessed is the Lord, who judged the cause of my reproach from Nabal's hand, preserved his servant from evil, and returned Nabal's malice upon his own head." Therefore David sent and spoke to Abigail, that he might take her as wife for himself.

40 David's young men came to Abigail in Carmel and spoke to her, saying, "David has sent us to you, that he may receive you as wife for himself."

41 She arose, adored prone upon the earth, and said, "Behold, let your servant be a handmaid, that she may wash the feet of my lord's servants."

42 Abigail hurried and arose and mounted a donkey. Five maidens went with her as her attendants, and she followed David's messengers and became his wife.

43 David also took Ahinoam from Jezreel, and they were both his wives.

44 But Saul gave Michal his daughter, David's wife, to Palti son of Laish, who was from Gallim.

CHAPTER 26

1 The Ziphites came to Saul in Gibeah, saying, “Behold, David is hidden on the hill of Hachilah, which is opposite the wilderness.”

2 Saul arose and descended into the wilderness of Ziph, and with him were three thousand men from the chosen of Israel, that he might seek David in the wilderness of Ziph.

3 Saul encamped in Gibeah of Hachilah, which was opposite the wilderness beside the way. But David dwelt in the wilderness. Seeing that Saul had come after him into the wilderness,

4 he sent spies and learned with certainty that he had come there.

5 David arose secretly and came to the place where Saul was. He saw the place in which Saul slept, with Abner son of Ner, commander of his army. Saul slept in the tent, and the rest of the multitude was around him.

6 David said to Ahimelech the Hittite and to Abishai son of Zeruiah, Joab’s brother, “Who will descend with me to Saul in the camp?” Abishai said, “I shall descend with you.”

7 Therefore David and Abishai came to the people by night and found Saul lying and sleeping in the tent, with his spear fixed in the earth at his head, while Abner and the people slept around him.

8 Abishai said to David, “God has enclosed your enemy in your hands today. Now therefore, I shall pierce him through to the earth with the spear once, and there will be no need for a second.”

9 David said to Abishai, “Do not kill him. For who shall extend his hand against the Lord’s christ and be innocent?”

10 David said, “As the Lord lives, unless the Lord strikes him, or his day comes that he should die, or he descends into battle and perishes,

11 may the Lord be gracious to me, that I should extend my hand against the Lord’s christ. Now therefore, take the spear that is at his head and the cup of water, and let us go.”

12 Therefore David took the spear and the cup of water that were at Saul’s head, and they went away. There was no one who saw, understood, or awakened, but all were sleeping, because a sleep of the Lord had rushed upon them.

13 When David had crossed to the opposite side and stood far away upon the summit of the mountain, with a great distance between them,

14 David cried to the people and to Abner son of Ner, saying, “Will you not answer, Abner?” Abner answered, “Who are you, who cries out and disturbs the king?”

15 David said to Abner, “Are you not a man? And who else is like you in Israel? Why then did you not guard your lord the king? For one from the crowd entered to kill the king your lord.

16 This thing you have done is not good. As the Lord lives, you are sons of death, because you did not guard your lord, the Lord’s christ. Now therefore, see where the king’s spear is and where the cup of water that was at his head is.”

17 Saul recognized David’s voice and said, “Is this your voice, my son David?” David said, “It is my voice, my lord the king.”

18 He said, “For what cause does my lord pursue his servant? What have I done, or what evil is in my hand?

19 Now therefore, hear, I pray, my lord the king, the words of your servant. If the Lord incites you against me, let him smell a sacrifice; but if the children of men, they are cursed in the sight of the Lord, who have cast me out today so that I should not dwell in the Lord’s inheritance, saying, ‘Go, serve strange gods.’

20 And now, let not my blood be poured upon the earth before the Lord. For the king of Israel has gone out to seek one flea, just as a partridge is pursued in the mountains.”

21 Saul said, “I have sinned. Return, my son David, for I shall by no means harm you any further, because my soul was precious in your eyes today. For it is apparent that I have acted foolishly and have been exceedingly ignorant of many things.”

22 David answered and said, “Behold the king’s spear. Let one of the king’s young men cross over and take it.

23 But the Lord shall repay each one according to his justice and faith, for the Lord delivered you into my hand today, and I was unwilling to extend my hand against the Lord’s christ.

24 And as your soul was magnified in my eyes today, so may my soul be magnified in the Lord’s eyes, and may he deliver me from every distress.”

25 Saul said to David, “Blessed are you, my son David. Indeed, you shall surely act, and you shall mightily prevail.” David went away on his way, and Saul returned to his place.

CHAPTER 27

1 David said in his heart, “At some time, one day, I shall fall into Saul’s hands. Is it not better that I flee and be saved in the land of the Philistines, so that Saul may despair and cease seeking me throughout all the borders of Israel? Therefore I shall flee from his hands.”

2 David arose and went away, he and the six hundred men with him, to Achish son of Maoch, king of Gath.

3 David dwelt with Achish in Gath, he and his men, each man with his household; and David with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess and Abigail, Nabal’s wife, from Carmel.

4 It was reported to Saul that David had fled to Gath, and he no longer added to seek him.

5 David said to Achish, “If I have found grace in your eyes, let a place be given to me in one of the cities of this region, that I may dwell there. For why should your servant remain with you in the king’s city?”

6 And so Achish gave him Ziklag on that day. For this reason Ziklag became the possession of the kings of Judah even to this day.

7 The number of days David dwelt in the region of the Philistines was four months.

8 David and his men ascended and took plunder from the Geshurites, Girzites, and Amalekites. For these villages had been inhabited in the land from antiquity, as one goes toward Shur as far as the land of Egypt.

9 David struck the entire land and left neither man nor woman alive. Taking sheep, oxen, donkeys, camels, and garments, he returned and came to Achish.

10 Achish would say to him, “Against whom did you rush today?” David would answer, “Against the south of Judah, against the south of Jerahmeel, and against the south of the Kenite.”

11 David kept neither man nor woman alive, nor brought them to Gath, saying, “Lest perhaps they speak against us, saying, ‘David did these things.’” This was his decree throughout all the days he dwelt in the region of the Philistines.

12 Therefore Achish believed David, saying, “He has wrought many evils against his people Israel. Therefore he shall be my servant forever.”

CHAPTER 28

1 And it happened in those days that the Philistines gathered their companies to prepare for war against Israel. Achish said to David, “Knowing, know now that you and your men shall go out with me in the camp.”

2 David said to Achish, “Now you shall know what your servant will do.” Achish said to David, “And I shall appoint you guardian of my head all your days.”

3 Now Samuel was dead, and all Israel had mourned him and buried him in Ramah, his city. And Saul had removed the magicians and diviners from the land.

4 The Philistines assembled, came, and encamped in Shunem. Saul also gathered all Israel and came to Gilboa.

5 Saul saw the camp of the Philistines, and he feared, and his heart was exceedingly terrified.

6 He consulted the Lord, but he did not answer him, neither by dreams, nor by priests, nor by prophets.

7 Saul said to his servants, “Seek for me a woman who has a divining spirit, and I shall go to her and inquire through her.” His servants said to him, “There is a woman who has a divining spirit in Endor.”

8 Therefore he changed his appearance, was clothed in other garments, and went away with two men. They came to the woman by night, and he said to her, “Divine for me by the spirit, and raise up for me whomever I tell you.”

9 The woman said to him, “Behold, you know how much Saul has done and how he has erased the magicians and diviners from the land. Why then do you lie in wait for my soul, that I may be killed?”

10 Saul swore to her by the Lord, saying, “As the Lord lives, nothing evil shall happen to you because of this matter.”

11 The woman said to him, “Whom shall I raise up for you?” He said, “Raise up Samuel for me.”

12 When the woman saw Samuel, she cried out with a great voice and said to Saul, “Why have you deceived me? For you are Saul.”

13 The king said to her, “Do not fear. What did you see?” The woman said to Saul, “I saw gods ascending from the earth.”

14 He said to her, “What is his form?” She said, “An old man ascends, and he is wrapped in a cloak.” Saul understood that it was Samuel, inclined his face to the earth, and adored.

15 Samuel said to Saul, “Why have you disturbed me, that I should be raised?” Saul said, “I am exceedingly constrained. For the Philistines fight against me, and God has withdrawn from me and has been unwilling to hear me, either by the hand of prophets or by dreams. Therefore I called you, that you might show me what I should do.”

16 Samuel said, “Why do you question me, when the Lord has withdrawn from you and passed over to your rival?

17 For the Lord will do to you as he spoke by my hand. He will tear your kingdom from your hand and give it to your neighbor David,

18 because you did not obey the voice of the Lord nor execute the wrath of his fury against Amalek. Therefore the Lord has done to you today what you suffer.

19 The Lord will also give Israel with you into the hands of the Philistines. Tomorrow you and your sons shall be with me, and the Lord will also deliver the camp of Israel into the hands of the Philistines.”

20 Immediately Saul fell stretched upon the earth, for he was terrified by Samuel’s words. There was no strength in him, because he had eaten no bread throughout that whole day.

21 Therefore that woman entered to Saul, for he was greatly disturbed, and said to him, “Behold, your handmaid obeyed your voice and placed my soul in my hand, and I heard the words you spoke to me.

22 Now therefore, you also hear the voice of your handmaid, and I shall place a morsel of bread before you, that by eating you may recover strength and be able to make the journey.”

23 He refused and said, “I shall not eat.” But his servants and the woman compelled him. At last, hearing their voice, he arose from the earth and sat upon the bed.

24 That woman had a fatted calf in the house. She hurried and killed it, then took flour, mixed it, and baked unleavened bread.

25 She placed it before Saul and his servants. When they had eaten, they arose and walked throughout that whole night.

CHAPTER 29

1 Therefore all the companies of the Philistines assembled in Aphek, while Israel encamped above the spring that was in Jezreel.

2 The satraps of the Philistines marched in hundreds and thousands, while David and his men were in the last company with Achish.

3 The princes of the Philistines said to Achish, “What do these Hebrews intend?” Achish said to the princes of the Philistines, “Do you not know David, who was servant to Saul, king of Israel, and has been with me for many days or years? I have found nothing in him from the day he fled over to me even to this day.”

4 But the princes of the Philistines became angry against him and said to him, “Let this man return and remain in his place where you appointed him. Let him not descend with us into battle, lest he become our adversary when we begin to fight. For how else can he appease his lord except with our heads?

5 Is this not David, to whom they sang in dances, saying, ‘Saul struck his thousands, and David his ten thousands’?”

6 Therefore Achish called David and said to him, “As the Lord lives, you are upright and good in my sight, and your going out and coming in with me in the camp is good. I have found nothing evil in you from the day you came to me even to this day, but you do not please the satraps.

7 Therefore return and go in peace, and do not offend the eyes of the satraps of the Philistines.”

8 David said to Achish, “For what have I done, and what have you found in me, your servant, from the day I came into your sight even to this day, that I should not come and fight against the enemies of my lord the king?”

9 Achish answered and spoke to David, “I know that you are good in my eyes, like an angel of God. But the princes of the Philistines have said, ‘He shall not ascend with us into battle.’

10 Therefore arise in the morning, you and the servants of your lord who came with you. When you have arisen in the night and it begins to grow light, depart.”

11 And so David arose in the night, he and his men, that they might depart in the morning and return to the land of the Philistines. But the Philistines ascended into Jezreel.

CHAPTER 30

1 When David and his men came to Ziklag on the third day, the Amalekites had made an attack from the south against Ziklag. They had struck Ziklag and burned it with fire.

2 They had led the women captive from it, from the least even to the greatest. They had killed no one, but led them away with themselves and proceeded on their way.

3 Therefore, when David and his men came to the city and found it burned with fire, and their wives, sons, and daughters led captive,

4 David and the people who were with him lifted up their voices and mourned until tears failed within them.

5 For David's two wives had also been led captive: Ahinoam the Jezreelitess and Abigail, wife of Nabal from Carmel.

6 David was exceedingly grieved, for the people wished to stone him, because each man's soul was bitter over his sons and daughters. But David was strengthened in the Lord his God.

7 He said to Abiathar the priest, son of Ahimelech, "Bring the ephod near to me." Abiathar brought the ephod near to David.

8 David consulted the Lord, saying, "Shall I pursue these raiders and overtake them, or not?" The Lord said to him, "Pursue, for without doubt you shall overtake them and recover the spoil."

9 Therefore David went, he and the six hundred men who were with him, and they came as far as the torrent Besor, where some who were weary remained.

10 David himself and four hundred men pursued, for two hundred had remained, who were weary and unable to cross the torrent Besor.

11 They found an Egyptian man in the field and brought him to David. They gave him bread to eat and water to drink,

12 and also a piece of a fig cake and two clusters of raisins. When he had eaten these, his spirit returned and he was refreshed, for he had eaten no bread nor drunk water for three days and three nights.

13 David said to him, "Whose are you, and where are you from, and where are you going?" He said, "I am an Egyptian boy, servant of an Amalekite man. My lord abandoned me because I began to be ill the day before yesterday.

14 For we erupted against the southern region of the Cherethites, against Judah, and against the south of Caleb, and we burned Ziklag with fire."

15 David said to him, "Can you lead me to that company?" He said, "Swear to me by God that you will not kill me nor deliver me into my lord's hands, and I shall lead you to that company." And David swore to him.

16 When he had led him, behold, they were reclining over the face of the whole land, eating and drinking and celebrating the day like a feast because of all the plunder and spoils they had taken from the land of the Philistines and the land of Judah.

17 David struck them from evening until the evening of the next day. No one escaped from them except four hundred young men, who mounted camels and fled.

18 Therefore David rescued everything the Amalekites had taken, and he rescued his two wives.

19 Nothing was missing, from the least even to the greatest, either of sons or daughters, of spoils, or of anything they had seized. David brought everything back.

20 He took all the flocks and herds and drove them before his face. They said, "This is David's spoil."

21 David came to the two hundred men who, weary, had remained and had been unable to follow David, whom he had commanded to stay at the torrent Besor. They went out to meet David and the people who were with him. David approached the people and greeted them peacefully.

22 Every utterly wicked and iniquitous man among the men who had gone with David answered and said, "Because they did not come with us, we shall give them nothing from the spoil we rescued. Let each man's wife and children suffice him; when they have received them, let them depart."

23 But David said, "You shall not do this, my brothers, with the things the Lord delivered to us. He guarded us and gave the raiders who erupted against us into our hands.

24 Nor shall anyone hear you concerning this word, for an equal portion shall belong to the one descending to battle and the one remaining with the baggage, and they shall divide alike."

25 This became, from that day and thereafter, an established and determined ordinance, and as a law in Israel even to this day.

26 Therefore David came to Ziklag and sent gifts from the spoil to the elders of Judah, his neighbors, saying, “Receive a blessing from the spoil of the Lord’s enemies”:

27 to those who were in Bethel, those in Ramoth toward the south, and those in Jattir;

28 those in Aroer, those in Siphmoth, and those in Eshtemoa;

29 those in Rachal, those in the cities of Jerahmeel, and those in the cities of the Kenite;

30 those in Hormah, those at the lake of Ashan, and those in Athach;

31 those in Hebron, and the rest who were in those places where David and his men had stayed.

CHAPTER 31

1 The Philistines fought against Israel, and the men of Israel fled before the face of the Philistines and fell slain on Mount Gilboa.

2 The Philistines rushed upon Saul and his sons and struck Jonathan, Abinadab, and Malchishua, Saul's sons.

3 The whole weight of the battle turned upon Saul. The archers overtook him, and he was severely wounded by the archers.

4 Saul said to his armor-bearer, "Draw your sword and strike me, lest perhaps these uncircumcised men come and kill me, mocking me." But his armor-bearer was unwilling, for he had been terrified with exceeding terror. Therefore Saul seized the sword and rushed upon it.

5 When his armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he too rushed upon his own sword and died with him.

6 Therefore Saul died, and his three sons, his armor-bearer, and all his men, together on that day.

7 When the men of Israel who were across the valley and across the Jordan saw that the Israelite men had fled and that Saul and his sons were dead, they abandoned their cities and fled. The Philistines came and dwelt there.

8 On the next day, the Philistines came to despoil the slain and found Saul and his three sons lying on Mount Gilboa.

9 They cut off Saul's head and stripped him of his weapons. They sent them throughout the land of the Philistines, that it might be announced in the temple of the idols and among the peoples.

10 They placed his weapons in the temple of Ashtaroth, but they suspended his body upon the wall of Beth-shan.

11 When the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead heard everything the Philistines had done to Saul,

12 all the strongest men arose and walked throughout the night. They took the corpse of Saul and the corpses of his sons from the wall of Beth-shan, came to Jabesh-gilead, and burned them there.

13 They took their bones, buried them in the grove of Jabesh, and fasted seven days.

BOOK TEN: SECOND SAMUEL

CHAPTER 1

1 And it happened, after Saul had died, that David returned from the slaughter of Amalek and remained in Ziklag for two days.

2 But on the third day a man appeared, coming from Saul's camp, with his garment torn and his head sprinkled with dust. When he came to David, he fell upon his face and adored.

3 David said to him, "Where do you come from?" He said to him, "I fled from Israel's camp."

4 David said to him, "What is the word that has happened? Tell me." He said, "The people fled from the battle, and many of the people, falling, have died. Saul and Jonathan his son have also perished."

5 David said to the young man who reported this to him, "How do you know that Saul and Jonathan his son are dead?"

6 The young man who reported it said, "By chance I came upon Mount Gilboa, and Saul was leaning upon his spear. Chariots and horsemen were drawing near to him.

7 Turning behind him and seeing me, he called. When I answered, 'I am here,'

8 he said to me, 'Who are you?' I said to him, 'I am an Amalekite.'

9 He said to me, 'Stand over me and kill me, because distresses have taken hold of me, and yet my whole soul is still within me.'

10 Standing over him, I killed him, for I knew that he could not live after the fall. I took the diadem that was upon his head and the bracelet from his arm, and I have brought them here to you, my lord."

11 Then David grasped his garments and tore them, as did all the men who were with him.

12 They mourned, wept, and fasted until evening over Saul, Jonathan his son, the people of the Lord (YHWH), and the house of Israel, because they had fallen by the sword.

13 David said to the young man who had reported it to him, "Where are you from?" He answered, "I am the son of an Amalekite man who is a foreigner."

14 David said to him, "Why were you not afraid to send your hand forth to kill the Lord's christ?"

15 Calling one of his young men, David said, "Approach and rush upon him." He struck him, and he died.

16 David said to him, "Your blood is upon your own head, for your mouth spoke against you, saying, 'I killed the Lord's christ.'"

17 David mourned with a lamentation of this kind over Saul and Jonathan his son

18 (and he commanded that they teach the children of Judah the bow, as it is written in the Book of the Just), and he said: "Consider, O Israel, those who died, wounded upon your high places.

19 The renowned of Israel were killed upon your mountains. How have the mighty fallen?

20 Do not announce it in Gath, nor proclaim it in the crossroads of Ashkelon, lest perhaps the daughters of the Philistines rejoice, lest the daughters of the uncircumcised exult.

21 O mountains of Gilboa, let neither dew nor rain come upon you, nor let there be fields of firstfruits, because there the shield of the mighty was cast away—the shield of Saul, as though it had not been anointed with oil.

22 From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the mighty, Jonathan's arrow never returned backward, and Saul's sword did not return empty.

23 Saul and Jonathan, lovable and comely in their life, were not divided even in death: swifter than eagles, stronger than lions.

24 Daughters of Israel, weep over Saul, who clothed you in scarlet amid delights, who furnished golden ornaments for your adornment.

25 How have the mighty fallen in battle? Was Jonathan slain upon your high places?

26 I grieve over you, my brother Jonathan, exceedingly comely and lovable beyond the love of women. As a mother loves her only son, so I loved you.

27 How have the strong fallen, and the weapons of war perished?”

CHAPTER 2

1 Therefore, after these things, David consulted the Lord, saying, “Shall I ascend into one of the cities of Judah?” The Lord said to him, “Ascend.” David said, “Where shall I ascend?” He answered him, “To Hebron.”

2 Therefore David ascended, with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess and Abigail, wife of Nabal from Carmel.

3 David also led the men who were with him, each one with his household, and they remained in the towns of Hebron.

4 The men of Judah came and anointed David there, that he might reign over the house of Judah. And it was reported to David that the men of Jabesh-gilead had buried Saul.

5 Therefore David sent messengers to the men of Jabesh-gilead and said to them, “Blessed are you by the Lord, who showed this mercy to your lord Saul and buried him.

6 And now the Lord shall indeed repay you with mercy and truth. I also shall repay you with favor, because you have done this thing.

7 Let your hands be strengthened, and be sons of strength. For although your lord Saul is dead, nevertheless the house of Judah has anointed me as king for itself.”

8 But Abner son of Ner, commander of Saul’s army, took Ish-bosheth son of Saul and led him around through the camp.

9 He appointed him king over Gilead, the Geshurites, Jezreel, Ephraim, Benjamin, and all Israel.

10 Ish-bosheth son of Saul was forty years old when he began to reign over Israel, and he reigned two years. But the house of Judah alone followed David.

11 The number of days David remained, ruling in Hebron over the house of Judah, was seven years and six months.

12 Abner son of Ner and the young men of Ish-bosheth son of Saul went out from the camp into Gibeon.

13 Joab son of Zeruiah and David’s young men also went out and met them beside the pool of Gibeon. When they had assembled together, they sat opposite one another, these on one side of the pool and those on the other.

14 Abner said to Joab, “Let the young men arise and play before us.” Joab answered, “Let them arise.”

15 Therefore they arose and crossed over, twelve in number from Benjamin on the side of Ish-bosheth son of Saul, and twelve from David’s young men.

16 Each one grasped the head of his counterpart and drove his sword into his opponent’s side, and they fell together. The name of that place in Gibeon was called the Field of the Strong.

17 An exceedingly hard battle arose on that day, and Abner and the men of Israel were put to flight by David’s young men.

18 The three sons of Zeruiah were there: Joab, Abishai, and Asahel. Now Asahel was an exceedingly swift runner, like one of the roe deer that dwell in the forests.

19 Asahel pursued Abner and did not turn aside to the right or the left, ceasing to pursue Abner.

20 Therefore Abner looked behind him and said, “Are you Asahel?” He answered, “I am.”

21 Abner said to him, “Go to the right or the left, seize one of the young men, and take his spoil for yourself.” But Asahel was unwilling to cease pressing him.

22 Again Abner spoke to Asahel: “Withdraw; do not follow me, lest I be compelled to pierce you through to the earth and be unable to lift up my face to Joab your brother.”

23 But he scorned to hear and was unwilling to turn aside. Therefore Abner struck him in the groin with the back of the spear and pierced him through, and he died in that same place. All who passed through the place where Asahel had fallen and died stood still.

24 While Joab and Abishai pursued the fleeing Abner, the sun set. They came as far as the hill of the aqueduct, which is opposite the valley of the wilderness road in Gibeon.

25 The children of Benjamin assembled to Abner, gathered into one band, and stood upon the summit of one hill.

26 Abner cried out to Joab and said, “Shall your blade rage even to annihilation? Do you not know that despair is dangerous? How long will you not tell the people to cease pursuing their brothers?”

27 Joab said, “As the Lord lives, if you had spoken, the people would have withdrawn in the morning from pursuing their brother.”

28 Therefore Joab sounded the trumpet, and the whole army stood still. They pursued Israel no further and did not enter combat.

29 But Abner and his men went through the plains throughout that whole night. They crossed the Jordan, passed through all Beth-horon, and came to the camp.

30 Joab returned, leaving Abner, and assembled all the people. Nineteen men besides Asahel were missing from David's young men.

31 But David's servants struck three hundred sixty from Benjamin and from the men who were with Abner, and they died.

32 They took Asahel and buried him in his father's tomb in Bethlehem. Joab and the men who were with him walked throughout the whole night and arrived in Hebron at twilight itself.

CHAPTER 3

1 Therefore a long conflict arose between the house of Saul and the house of David. David advanced and became continually stronger in himself, while the house of Saul diminished each day.

2 Sons were born to David in Hebron. His firstborn was Amnon, from Ahinoam the Jezreelitess.

3 After him was Chileab, from Abigail, wife of Nabal from Carmel; the third was Absalom, son of Maacah daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur.

4 The fourth was Adonijah, son of Haggith; the fifth was Shephatiah, son of Abital.

5 The sixth was Ithream, from Eglah, David's wife. These were born to David in Hebron.

6 Therefore, while there was war between the house of Saul and the house of David, Abner son of Ner ruled the house of Saul.

7 Now Saul had a concubine named Rizpah, daughter of Aiah. And Ish-bosheth said to Abner,

8 "Why did you enter to my father's concubine?" Abner, exceedingly angry because of Ish-bosheth's words, said, "Am I a dog's head against Judah today—I who have shown mercy to the house of Saul your father, to his brothers and his neighbors, and have not delivered you into David's hands—and today you have sought in me something to accuse concerning a woman?

9 May God do these things to Abner and add these also, unless I do with David just as the Lord swore to him:

10 that the kingdom be transferred from the house of Saul and David's throne be raised over Israel and Judah, from Dan as far as Beer-sheba."

11 And he could answer him nothing, because he feared him.

12 Therefore Abner sent messengers to David on his own behalf, saying, "Whose is the land?" and that they should say, "Make friendship with me, and my hand shall be with you, and I shall bring all Israel back to you."

13 He said, "Excellent. I shall make friendship with you. But I ask one thing of you, saying: You shall not see my face before you bring Michal, Saul's daughter; and thus you shall come and see me."

14 David sent messengers to Ish-bosheth son of Saul, saying, "Restore my wife Michal, whom I betrothed to myself for one hundred foreskins of the Philistines."

15 Therefore Ish-bosheth sent and took her from her husband, Paltiel son of Laish.

16 Her husband followed her, weeping as far as Bahurim. Abner said to him, "Go and return." And he returned.

17 Abner also brought a word to the elders of Israel, saying, "Yesterday and the day before, you sought David to reign over you.

18 Now therefore, act, because the Lord spoke to David, saying, 'By the hand of my servant David I shall save my people Israel from the hand of the Philistines and all his enemies.'"

19 Abner also spoke to Benjamin. He went to speak to David in Hebron everything that pleased Israel and all Benjamin.

20 He came to David in Hebron with twenty men, and David made a banquet for Abner and the men who had come with him.

21 Abner said to David, "I shall arise and gather all Israel to you, my lord the king, and I shall enter a covenant with you, that you may rule over all, as your soul desires." When David had sent Abner away and he had gone in peace,

22 immediately David's young men and Joab came after striking raiders, with exceedingly great spoil. But Abner was not with David in Hebron, because he had already released him and he had departed in peace.

23 Joab and all the army that was with him came afterward. Therefore it was reported to Joab by those telling him, "Abner son of Ner came to the king, and he released him, and he went in peace."

24 Joab entered to the king and said, "What have you done? Behold, Abner came to you. Why did you release him, so that he went and departed?

25 Do you not know Abner son of Ner, that he came to you for this purpose: to deceive you, to know your going out and your coming in, and to learn everything you do?"

26 Therefore Joab went out from David and sent messengers after Abner. He brought him back from the cistern of Sirah, while David knew nothing of it.

27 When Abner had returned to Hebron, Joab led him apart into the midst of the gate to speak to him deceitfully. There he struck him in the groin, and he died in vengeance for the blood of Asahel his brother.

28 When David heard that the deed had already been done, he said, “I and my kingdom are clean before the Lord forever from the blood of Abner son of Ner.

29 May it come upon the head of Joab and upon all his father’s house. May there not fail from Joab’s house one suffering a discharge of seed, a leper, one holding a spindle, one falling by the sword, or one in need of bread.”

30 Therefore Joab and Abishai his brother killed Abner because he had killed Asahel their brother in the battle at Gibeon.

31 David said to Joab and all the people who were with him, “Tear your garments, gird yourselves with sackcloth, and mourn before Abner’s funeral.” And King David followed the bier.

32 When they had buried Abner in Hebron, King David lifted up his voice and wept over Abner’s tomb, and all the people also wept.

33 The king, mourning and lamenting Abner, said: “By no means did Abner die as cowards are accustomed to die.

34 Your hands were not bound, nor were your feet weighed down with fetters; but as men are accustomed to fall before the children of iniquity, so you fell.” And all the people, repeating, wept over him.

35 When the whole multitude came to take food with David, while it was still clear day, David swore, saying, “May God do these things to me and add these also, if before sunset I taste bread or anything else.”

36 All the people heard, and everything the king had done was pleasing to them in the sight of the whole people.

37 And all the common people and all Israel knew on that day that it had not been done by the king that Abner son of Ner should be killed.

38 The king also said to his servants, “Do you not know that a prince and a very great man has fallen today in Israel?

39 But I am still tender, though anointed king, while these men, the sons of Zeruiah, are hard for me. May the Lord repay the one who does evil according to his malice.”

CHAPTER 4

1 Ish-bosheth son of Saul heard that Abner had fallen in Hebron. His hands were loosened, and all Israel was disturbed.

2 Now two men were commanders of raiders for Saul's son. The name of one was Baanah and the name of the other Rechab, sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, from the children of Benjamin; for Beeroth also was reckoned within Benjamin.

3 The Beerothites fled into Gittaim and were foreigners there even to that time.

4 Jonathan son of Saul had a son disabled in his feet. For he was five years old when the report concerning Saul and Jonathan came from Jezreel. Therefore his nurse took him and fled; and while she hurried to flee, he fell and became lame. His name was Mephibosheth.

5 Therefore Rechab and Baanah, sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, came and entered Ish-bosheth's house in the heat of the day, while he slept upon his bed at midday. And the doorkeeper of the house, while cleaning wheat, fell asleep.

6 They entered the house secretly, taking ears of wheat, and struck him in the groin—Rechab and Baanah his brother—and fled.

7 When they had entered the house, he was sleeping upon his bed in the inner chamber. Striking him, they killed him; and taking away his head, they went by the wilderness road throughout the whole night.

8 They brought Ish-bosheth's head to David in Hebron and said to the king, "Behold the head of Ish-bosheth son of Saul, your enemy, who sought your soul. Today the Lord has given vengeance to my lord the king upon Saul and his seed."

9 But David answered Rechab and Baanah his brother, sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and said to them, "As the Lord lives, who rescued my soul from every distress,

10 the one who reported to me and said, 'Saul is dead,' thinking that he announced good things, I seized and killed in Ziklag—he to whom I ought to have given a reward for the report.

11 How much more now, when impious men have killed an innocent man in his own house upon his own bed, shall I not seek his blood from your hand and take you away from the earth?"

12 Therefore David commanded his young men, and they killed them. Cutting off their hands and feet, they suspended them over the pool in Hebron. But they took Ish-bosheth's head and buried it in Abner's tomb in Hebron.

CHAPTER 5

1 All the tribes of Israel came to David in Hebron, saying, “Behold, we are your bone and your flesh.

2 Moreover, yesterday and the day before, when Saul was king over us, you were leading Israel out and bringing it back. And the Lord said to you, ‘You shall pasture my people Israel, and you shall be leader over Israel.’”

3 The elders of Israel also came to the king in Hebron, and King David struck a covenant with them in Hebron before the Lord. And they anointed David as king over Israel.

4 David was a son of thirty years when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years.

5 In Hebron he reigned over Judah for seven years and six months, and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty-three years over all Israel and Judah.

6 The king and all the men who were with him went to Jerusalem against the Jebusite inhabitant of the land. They said to David, “You shall not enter here unless you remove the blind and the lame,” saying, “David shall not enter here.”

7 But David captured the fortress of Zion. This is the City of David.

8 For on that day David had proposed a reward for whoever struck the Jebusite, reached the pipes of the rooftops, and removed the blind and the lame who hated David’s soul. For this reason it is said in the proverb, “The blind and the lame shall not enter the temple.”

9 David dwelt in the fortress and called it the City of David. He built all around from Millo and inward.

10 He advanced, progressing and increasing, and the Lord God of hosts was with him.

11 Hiram, king of Tyre, also sent messengers to David, with cedar wood, woodworkers, and stoneworkers for walls, and they built David’s house.

12 David knew that the Lord had confirmed him as king over Israel and had exalted his kingdom over his people Israel.

13 Therefore David took still more concubines and wives from Jerusalem after he came from Hebron, and other sons and daughters were born to David.

14 These are the names of those born to him in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab, Nathan, Solomon,

15 Ibhar, Elishua, Nepheg,

16 Japhia, Elishama, Eliada, and Eliphelet.

17 Therefore the Philistines heard that they had anointed David as king over Israel, and they all ascended to seek David. When David heard, he descended into the stronghold.

18 The Philistines came and spread themselves through the Valley of Rephaim.

19 David consulted the Lord, saying, “Shall I ascend against the Philistines? And will you give them into my hand?” The Lord said to David, “Ascend, for I shall surely deliver the Philistines into your hand.”

20 Therefore David came to Baal-perazim and struck them there. He said, “The Lord has divided my enemies before me, as waters are divided.” For this reason the name of that place was called Baal-perazim.

22 The Philistines again added to ascend and spread themselves through the Valley of Rephaim.

23 David consulted the Lord: “Shall I ascend against the Philistines, and will you deliver them into my hands?” He answered, “Do not ascend against them, but circle behind their back, and you shall come against them opposite the pear trees.

24 When you hear the sound of one walking upon the tops of the pear trees, then you shall enter battle, for then the Lord shall go out before your face to strike the camp of the Philistines.”

25 Therefore David did as the Lord had commanded him and struck the Philistines from Gibeah until you come to Gezer.

CHAPTER 6

1 David again gathered all the chosen men from Israel, thirty thousand.

2 David arose and went away, with all the people who were with him from the men of Judah, that they might bring the ark of God, over which the name of the Lord of hosts is invoked, who sits upon the cherubim above it.

3 They placed the ark of God upon a new cart and took it from Abinadab's house, which was in Gibeah. Uzzah and Ahio, sons of Abinadab, drove the new cart.

4 When they had taken it from Abinadab's house, which was in Gibeah, Ahio, guarding the ark of God, went before the ark.

5 David and all Israel played before the Lord with every crafted wooden instrument, harps, lyres, timbrels, sistrums, and cymbals.

6 But after they came to the threshing floor of Nachon, Uzzah extended his hand to the ark of God and held it, because the oxen kicked and caused it to lean.

7 The Lord became angry with indignation against Uzzah and struck him for his rashness, and he died there beside the ark of God.

8 David was grieved because the Lord had struck Uzzah, and the name of that place was called the Striking of Uzzah even to this day.

9 David feared the Lord on that day, saying, "How shall the ark of the Lord enter to me?"

10 He was unwilling to turn the ark of the Lord aside to himself into the City of David, but turned it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite.

11 The ark of the Lord dwelt in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite for three months, and the Lord blessed Obed-edom and all his house.

12 It was reported to King David that the Lord had blessed Obed-edom and everything belonging to him because of the ark of God. Therefore David went and brought the ark of God from Obed-edom's house into the City of David with joy. Seven choirs and the victim of a calf were with David.

13 When those carrying the ark of the Lord had crossed six paces, he immolated an ox and a ram.

14 David danced with all his strength before the Lord, and David was girded with a linen ephod.

15 David and all the house of Israel led the ark of the Lord's covenant with jubilation and the blast of a trumpet.

16 When the ark of the Lord entered the City of David, Michal daughter of Saul, looking through the window, saw King David leaping and dancing before the Lord, and she despised him in her heart.

17 They brought in the ark of the Lord and placed it in its place in the midst of the tabernacle David had stretched out for it. And David offered holocausts and peace offerings before the Lord.

18 When he had finished offering holocausts and peace offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the Lord of hosts.

19 He distributed to the entire multitude of Israel, to both man and woman, one loaf of bread for each, one portion of roasted beef, and fine flour fried in oil. And all the people went away, each one to his own house.

20 David returned to bless his house. Michal daughter of Saul went out to meet David and said, "How glorious the king of Israel was today, uncovering himself before the maidservants of his servants, and being naked as one of the buffoons is naked."

21 David said to Michal, "Before the Lord, who chose me rather than your father and all his house and commanded me to be leader over the Lord's people in Israel,

22 I shall play and shall become still more vile than I have become. I shall be humble in my own eyes, and with the maidservants of whom you spoke, I shall appear more glorious."

23 Therefore no son was born to Michal daughter of Saul even to the day of her death.

CHAPTER 7

1 And it happened, when the king had settled in his house and the Lord had given him rest on every side from all his enemies,

2 that he said to Nathan the prophet, “Do you see that I dwell in a house of cedar while the ark of God has been placed in the midst of skins?”

3 Nathan said to the king, “Go, do everything that is in your heart, because the Lord is with you.”

4 But it happened in that night, and behold, the word of the Lord came to Nathan, saying,

5 “Go and speak to my servant David: ‘Thus says the Lord: Shall you build me a house for dwelling?

6 For I have not dwelt in a house from that day when I brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt even to this day, but I walked in a tabernacle and a tent.

7 Through all the places I passed with all the children of Israel, did I, speaking, speak to one of the tribes of Israel, whom I commanded to pasture my people Israel, saying, “Why have you not built me a house of cedar?”’

8 And now you shall say these things to my servant David: ‘Thus says the Lord of hosts: I took you from the pastures, following the flocks, that you might be leader over my people Israel.

9 I was with you everywhere you walked and killed all your enemies before your face. I made for you a great name, like the name of the great who are upon the earth.

10 I shall appoint a place for my people Israel and plant him, and he shall dwell beneath it and shall be disturbed no more. Nor shall the children of iniquity add to afflict him as before,

11 from the day when I appointed judges over my people Israel. I shall give you rest from all your enemies. And the Lord foretells to you that the Lord shall make a house for you.

12 When your days have been completed and you sleep with your fathers, I shall raise up your seed after you, who shall go out from your womb, and I shall establish his kingdom.

13 He shall build a house for my name, and I shall establish the throne of his kingdom forever.

14 I shall be a father to him, and he shall be a son to me. If he does anything iniquitously, I shall rebuke him with the rod of men and with the blows of the children of men.

15 But I shall not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from Saul, whom I removed from my face.

16 Your house and your kingdom shall be faithful forever before your face, and your throne shall be firm perpetually.’”

17 According to all these words and according to this entire vision, so Nathan spoke to David.

18 Then King David entered and sat before the Lord and said, “Who am I, O Lord God, and what is my house, that you have brought me this far?

19 Yet even this seemed little in your sight, O Lord God, unless you also spoke concerning the house of your servant into the distant future. For this is the law of Adam, O Lord God.

20 What more can David add, to speak to you? For you know your servant, O Lord God.

21 Because of your word and according to your heart, you have done all these great things, so that you might make them known to your servant.

22 Therefore you are magnified, O Lord God, because there is none like you, nor is there any god besides you, in all the things we have heard with our ears.

23 For what nation upon the earth is like your people Israel, for whose sake God went to redeem it as a people for himself and to establish a name for himself, and to do for them great and terrible things upon the earth before the face of your people whom you redeemed for yourself from Egypt—a nation and its god?

24 For you established your people Israel as an everlasting people for yourself, and you, O Lord God, became their God.

25 Now therefore, O Lord God, raise up forever the word that you spoke concerning your servant and his house, and do as you have spoken,

26 that your name may be magnified forever and it may be said, ‘The Lord of hosts is God over Israel.’ And the house of your servant David shall be established before the Lord,

27 because you, O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, revealed your servant's ear, saying, 'I shall build a house for you.' Therefore your servant found his heart to pray this prayer to you.

28 Now therefore, O Lord God, you are God, and your words shall be true, for you have spoken these good things to your servant.

29 Therefore begin and bless the house of your servant, that it may be before you forever, because you, O Lord God, have spoken, and by your blessing the house of your servant shall be blessed forever."

CHAPTER 8

1 And it happened after these things that David struck the Philistines and humbled them, and David took the bridle of tribute from the hand of the Philistines.

2 He struck Moab and measured them with a cord, leveling them to the earth. He measured two cords, one for killing and one for preserving alive. And Moab became David's servant under tribute.

3 David struck Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah, when he went to rule over the river Euphrates.

4 David captured from his force one thousand seven hundred horsemen and twenty thousand footmen. He hamstrung all the chariot teams but left one hundred chariots from among them.

5 Syria of Damascus also came to bring aid to Hadadezer, king of Zobah, and David struck twenty-two thousand men from Syria.

6 David placed a garrison in Syria of Damascus, and Syria became David's servant under tribute. The Lord preserved David in everything to which he went.

7 David took the golden weapons that Hadadezer's servants had and carried them to Jerusalem.

8 From Betah and Beeroth, cities of Hadadezer, King David took exceedingly much bronze.

9 Tou, king of Hamath, heard that David had struck all Hadadezer's strength.

10 Tou sent Joram his son to King David to greet him with congratulations and give thanks, because he had conquered Hadadezer and struck him. For Hadadezer was Tou's enemy. In Joram's hand were vessels of gold, vessels of silver, and vessels of bronze.

11 King David also sanctified these to the Lord, with the silver and gold he had sanctified from all the nations he had subdued:

12 from Syria, Moab, the children of Ammon, the Philistines, Amalek, and the spoils of Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah.

13 David also made a name for himself when he returned after capturing Syria in the Valley of Salt, eighteen thousand having been slain.

14 He placed guards in Edom and established a garrison, and all Edom became servant to David. The Lord preserved David in everything to which he went.

15 David reigned over all Israel, and David rendered judgment and justice to all his people.

16 Joab son of Zeruiah was over the army; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud was keeper of the records;

17 Zadok son of Ahitub and Ahimelech son of Abiathar were priests; Seraiah was scribe;

18 and Benaiah son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and Pelethites. But David's sons were priests.

CHAPTER 9

1 David said, “Do you think there is anyone who remains from Saul’s house, that I may show mercy to him because of Jonathan?”

2 Now there was a servant from Saul’s house named Ziba. When the king called him to himself, he said to him, “Are you Ziba?” He answered, “I am your servant.”

3 The king said, “Does anyone remain from Saul’s house, that I may show the mercy of God to him?” Ziba said to the king, “A son of Jonathan remains, disabled in his feet.”

4 “Where is he?” he said. Ziba said to the king, “Behold, he is in the house of Machir son of Ammiel, in Lo-debar.”

5 Therefore King David sent and took him from the house of Machir son of Ammiel, from Lo-debar.

6 When Mephibosheth son of Jonathan son of Saul came to David, he fell upon his face and adored. David said, “Mephibosheth?” He answered, “Behold, I am your servant.”

7 David said to him, “Do not fear, for I shall surely show mercy to you because of Jonathan your father. I shall restore to you all the fields of Saul your father, and you shall always eat bread at my table.”

8 Adoring him, he said, “Who am I, your servant, that you have looked upon a dead dog like me?”

9 Therefore the king called Ziba, Saul’s servant, and said to him, “Everything that belonged to Saul and all his house I have given to your lord’s son.

10 Therefore you, your sons, and your servants shall work the land for him, and you shall bring food to your lord’s son, that he may be nourished. But Mephibosheth, your lord’s son, shall always eat bread at my table.” Now Ziba had fifteen sons and twenty servants.

11 Ziba said to the king, “Just as you commanded your servant, my lord the king, so shall your servant do. And Mephibosheth shall eat at my table like one of the king’s sons.”

12 Mephibosheth had a little son named Mica, and all the kindred of Ziba’s house served Mephibosheth.

13 But Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem, because he continually ate from the king’s table, and he was lame in both feet.

CHAPTER 10

1 And it happened after these things that the king of the children of Ammon died, and Hanun his son reigned in his place.

2 David said, “I shall show mercy to Hanun son of Nahash, as his father showed mercy to me.” Therefore David sent his servants to console him over his father’s death. But when David’s servants came into the land of the children of Ammon,

3 the princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanun their lord, “Do you think David sent consolers to you because of honor for your father, and not for this reason—that David sent his servants to you to investigate and spy out the city and overthrow it?”

4 Therefore Hanun took David’s servants, shaved half of their beards, cut their garments in the middle as far as the buttocks, and sent them away.

5 When this was reported to David, he sent to meet them, for the men were exceedingly and shamefully confounded. David commanded them, “Remain in Jericho until your beard grows, and then return.”

6 The children of Ammon, seeing that they had done injury to David, sent and hired for wages twenty thousand footmen from Syria of Rehob and Syria of Zobah, one thousand men from the king of Maacah, and twelve thousand men from Ish-tob.

7 When David heard this, he sent Joab and the entire army of warriors.

8 Therefore the children of Ammon went out and arranged the battle line before the very entrance of the gate. But Syria of Zobah, Rehob, Ish-tob, and Maacah were apart in the field.

9 Therefore Joab, seeing that battle was prepared against him both before and behind, chose from all the chosen men of Israel and arranged the battle line against Syria.

10 But the remaining part of the people he delivered to Abishai his brother, who arranged the battle line against the children of Ammon.

11 Joab said, “If the Syrians prevail against me, you shall be an aid to me. But if the children of Ammon prevail against you, I shall aid you.

12 Be a strong man, and let us fight for our people and the city of our God. But the Lord shall do what is good in his sight.”

13 Therefore Joab and the people who were with him entered combat against the Syrians, who immediately fled from his face.

14 The children of Ammon, seeing that the Syrians had fled, themselves fled from Abishai’s face and entered the city. Joab returned from the children of Ammon and came to Jerusalem.

15 Therefore the Syrians, seeing that they had fallen before Israel, assembled together.

16 Hadadezer sent and brought out the Syrians who were beyond the river and led out their army. Shobach, commander of Hadadezer’s army, was their prince.

17 When this was reported to David, he gathered all Israel, crossed the Jordan, and came to Helam. The Syrians arranged the battle line opposite David and fought against him.

18 The Syrians fled from Israel’s face, and David killed from the Syrians seven hundred chariots and forty thousand horsemen. He struck Shobach, commander of the army, and he died immediately.

19 All the kings who were in Hadadezer’s garrison, seeing that they had been defeated by Israel, were terrified, and fifty-eight thousand fled before Israel. They made peace with Israel and served them. And the Syrians feared to bring aid to the children of Ammon any further.

CHAPTER 11

1 And it happened, as the year turned, at the time when kings are accustomed to go out to wars, that David sent Joab and his servants with him and all Israel. They laid waste the children of Ammon and besieged Rabbah, but David remained in Jerusalem.

2 While these things were being done, it happened that David arose from his bed after midday and walked upon the roof of the royal house. From opposite him he saw a woman washing herself upon her roof, and the woman was exceedingly beautiful.

3 Therefore the king sent and inquired who the woman was. It was reported to him that she was Bathsheba daughter of Eliam, wife of Uriah the Hittite.

4 And so David sent messengers and took her. When she had entered to him, he slept with her, and immediately she was cleansed from her uncleanness.

5 She returned to her house, having conceived. Sending word, she informed David and said, “I have conceived.”

6 Then David sent to Joab, saying, “Send Uriah the Hittite to me.” And Joab sent Uriah to David.

7 Uriah came to David, and David asked how rightly Joab and the people were doing and how the war was being conducted.

8 David said to Uriah, “Go into your house and wash your feet.” Uriah went out from the king’s house, and a royal portion followed him.

9 But Uriah slept before the gate of the royal house with the other servants of his lord and did not go down to his house.

10 It was reported to David by those saying, “Uriah did not go into his house.” David said to Uriah, “Did you not come from a journey? Why did you not go down into your house?”

11 Uriah said to David, “The ark of God and Israel and Judah dwell in tents, and my lord Joab and my lord’s servants remain upon the face of the earth—and shall I enter my house to eat and drink and sleep with my wife? By your life and by the life of your soul, I shall not do this thing.”

12 Therefore David said to Uriah, “Remain here today also, and tomorrow I shall send you away.” Uriah remained in Jerusalem that day and the next.

13 David called him to eat and drink before him and made him drunk. Going out in the evening, Uriah slept upon his bed with his lord’s servants and did not go down into his house.

14 Therefore it happened in the morning that David wrote a letter to Joab and sent it by the hand of Uriah,

15 writing in the letter: “Set Uriah opposite the battle, where the fighting is strongest, and abandon him, that he may be struck and die.”

16 And so, when Joab was besieging the city, he set Uriah in the place where he knew the strongest men were.

17 The men went out from the city and fought against Joab, and some of the people among David’s servants fell. Uriah the Hittite also died.

18 And so Joab sent and reported to David all the matters of the battle.

19 He commanded the messenger, saying, “When you have finished telling the king all the account of the war,

20 if you see him become indignant and he says, ‘Why did you approach the wall to fight? Did you not know that many weapons are hurled down from above the wall?

21 Who struck Abimelech son of Jerubbaal? Did not a woman cast a fragment of a millstone upon him from the wall and kill him in Thebez? Why did you approach beside the wall?’ then you shall say, ‘Your servant Uriah the Hittite also fell.’”

22 Therefore the messenger departed, came, and told David everything Joab had commanded him.

23 The messenger said to David, “The men prevailed against us and came out to us into the field, but, making an assault, we pursued them as far as the gate of the city.

24 Then the archers directed missiles at your servants from high upon the wall, and some of the king’s servants died. Moreover, your servant Uriah the Hittite also died.”

25 David said to the messenger, “You shall say these things to Joab: ‘Do not let this matter break you, for the outcome of war varies: now the sword consumes this one, and now that one. Strengthen your warriors against the city, that you may destroy it, and encourage them.’”

26 When Uriah’s wife heard that Uriah her husband had died, she mourned him.

27 When the mourning had passed, David sent and brought her into his house. She became his wife and bore him a son. And this thing that David had done was displeasing before the Lord.

CHAPTER 12

1 Therefore the Lord sent Nathan to David. When he had come to him, he said to him, “There were two men in one city, one rich and the other poor.

2 The rich man had exceedingly many sheep and oxen.

3 But the poor man had nothing at all except one little ewe lamb, which he had bought and nourished. It had grown up with him and his children together, eating from his bread, drinking from his cup, and sleeping in his bosom; it was like a daughter to him.

4 Now when a certain traveler came to the rich man, the rich man spared taking from his own sheep and oxen to provide a feast for that traveler who had come to him. Instead, he took the poor man’s ewe and prepared food for the man who had come to him.”

5 Then David was exceedingly angry with indignation against that man and said to Nathan, “The Lord lives: the man who did this is a son of death.

6 He shall restore the ewe fourfold because he did this thing and did not spare.”

7 Nathan said to David, “You are that man. Thus says the Lord God of Israel: ‘I anointed you king over Israel, and I delivered you from Saul’s hand.

8 I gave you your lord’s house and your lord’s wives into your bosom, and I gave you the house of Israel and Judah. If these things are small, I shall add much greater things to you.

9 Why, therefore, have you despised the word of the Lord, that you would do evil in my sight? You struck Uriah the Hittite with the sword, took his wife as a wife for yourself, and killed him with the sword of the children of Ammon.

10 For this reason the sword shall not withdraw from your house forever, because you despised me and took the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be your wife.’

11 Therefore thus says the Lord: ‘Behold, I shall raise up evil against you from your own house. I shall take your wives before your eyes and give them to your neighbor, and he shall sleep with your wives before the eyes of this sun.

12 For you acted secretly, but I shall do this thing in the sight of all Israel and in the sight of the sun.’”

13 David said to Nathan, “I have sinned against the Lord.” Nathan said to David, “The Lord also has taken away your sin; you shall not die.

14 Nevertheless, because by this thing you have caused the enemies of the Lord to blaspheme, the son who has been born to you shall surely die.”

15 Nathan returned to his house. The Lord also struck the little one whom Uriah’s wife had borne to David, and he became desperately ill.

16 David entreated the Lord for the little one. David undertook a fast, went apart, and lay upon the earth.

17 The elders of his house came, urging him to rise from the earth, but he was unwilling and did not eat food with them.

18 It happened on the seventh day that the infant died. David’s servants were afraid to tell him that the little one was dead, for they said, “Behold, while the little one was still living, we spoke to him, and he did not hear our voice. How much more will he afflict himself if we say, ‘The boy is dead’?”

19 Therefore, when David saw his servants whispering, he understood that the infant was dead. He said to his servants, “Is the boy dead?” They answered him, “He is dead.”

20 Therefore David arose from the earth, washed, and was anointed. When he had changed his garment, he entered the house of the Lord and adored. He came into his own house and asked them to set bread before him, and he ate.

21 His servants said to him, “What is this thing that you have done? For the infant, while he was still living, you fasted and wept; but when the boy was dead, you arose and ate bread.”

22 He said, “For the infant, while he was still living, I fasted and wept, for I said, ‘Who knows whether perhaps the Lord may give him to me and the infant may live?’

23 But now that he is dead, why should I fast? Shall I be able to call him back any longer? I shall go to him instead, but he shall not return to me.”

24 David consoled Bathsheba his wife, went in to her, and slept with her. She bore a son and called his name Solomon, and the Lord loved him.

25 He sent by the hand of Nathan the prophet and called his name Beloved of the Lord, because the Lord loved him.

26 Meanwhile Joab fought against Rabbah of the children of Ammon and stormed the royal city.

27 Joab sent messengers to David, saying, “I have fought against Rabbah, and the City of Waters is about to be taken.

28 Now, therefore, gather the remaining part of the people, besiege the city, and take it, lest, when the city has been laid waste by me, the victory be ascribed to my name.”

29 And so David gathered all the people and set out against Rabbah. When he had fought, he took it.

30 He took their king’s diadem from his head, a talent’s weight of gold, having most precious gems, and it was placed upon David’s head. He also carried away exceedingly much spoil from the city.

31 He also brought out its people and sawed them, drove iron carts over them, divided them with knives, and passed them through the pattern of bricks. Thus he did to all the cities of the children of Ammon. Then David and the entire army returned to Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 13

1 And it happened after these things that Amnon son of David loved Tamar, the exceedingly beautiful sister of Absalom son of David,

2 and he languished exceedingly for her, so that he became sick because of his love for her. For since she was a virgin, it seemed difficult to him to do anything dishonorable with her.

3 Now Amnon had a friend named Jonadab, son of Shammah, David's brother, a very prudent man.

4 He said to him, "Why do you grow so thin with wasting day after day, son of the king? Why do you not tell me?" Amnon said to him, "I love Tamar, the sister of my brother Absalom."

5 Jonadab answered him, "Lie upon your bed and pretend weakness. When your father comes to visit you, say to him, 'Let Tamar my sister come, I pray, that she may give me food and make a dish, that I may eat from her hand.'"

6 And so Amnon lay down and began to act as though he were sick. When the king came to visit him, Amnon said to the king, "Let Tamar my sister come, I beseech you, that she may make two little cakes before my eyes and I may take food from her hand."

7 Therefore David sent to Tamar's house, saying, "Come into the house of Amnon your brother and make a dish for him."

8 Tamar came into the house of Amnon her brother, but he was lying down. Taking flour, she mixed it and dissolved it, and before his eyes she cooked the little cakes.

9 Taking what she had cooked, she poured it out and set it before him, but he refused to eat. Amnon said, "Cast everyone out from me." And when they had cast everyone out,

10 Amnon said to Tamar, "Bring the food into the inner chamber, that I may eat from your hand." Therefore Tamar took the little cakes she had made and brought them to Amnon her brother in the inner chamber.

11 When she had offered him the food, he seized her and said, "Come, lie with me, my sister."

12 She answered him, "Do not, my brother; do not violate me, for this is not lawful in Israel. Do not commit this folly.

13 For I shall not be able to bear my disgrace, and you will be like one of the fools in Israel. Instead, speak to the king, and he will not deny me to you."

14 But he was unwilling to yield to her pleas. Prevailing by strength, he violated her and lay with her.

15 Then Amnon held her in exceedingly great hatred, so that the hatred with which he hated her was greater than the love with which he had loved her before. Amnon said to her, "Arise and go."

16 She answered him, "This evil that you now do against me by casting me out is greater than what you did before." But he was unwilling to hear her.

17 Instead, calling the young man who ministered to him, he said, "Cast this woman out from me, outside, and close the door behind her."

18 She was clothed in a robe reaching to the ankles, for the king's virgin daughters used garments of this kind. Therefore his minister cast her outside and closed the door behind her.

19 She sprinkled ashes upon her head, tore her ankle-length robe, placed her hands upon her head, and went on, walking and crying aloud.

20 Absalom her brother said to her, "Did Amnon your brother lie with you? But now, sister, be silent. He is your brother; do not afflict your heart over this matter." Therefore Tamar remained wasting away in the house of Absalom her brother.

21 When King David heard these things, he was exceedingly grieved. But he was unwilling to grieve the spirit of Amnon his son, because he loved him, for he was his firstborn.

22 Moreover, Absalom spoke to Amnon neither evil nor good, for Absalom hated Amnon because he had violated Tamar his sister.

23 And it happened after the time of two years that Absalom's sheep were being shorn in Baal-hazor, which is beside Ephraim, and Absalom called all the king's sons.

24 He came to the king and said to him, "Behold, your servant's sheep are being shorn. Let the king, I pray, come with his servants to his servant."

25 The king said to Absalom, "Do not, my son; do not ask that we all come and burden you." Though he urged him, the king was unwilling to go and blessed him.

26 Absalom said, “If you are unwilling to come, let at least Amnon my brother come with us, I pray.” The king said to him, “It is not necessary for him to go with you.”

27 And so Absalom urged him, and he sent Amnon and all the king’s sons with him. Absalom made a feast like the feast of a king.

28 Now Absalom had commanded his servants, saying, “Watch when Amnon has become drunk with wine, and when I say to you, ‘Strike him and kill him,’ do not fear, for I am the one commanding you. Be strengthened and be valiant men.”

29 Therefore Absalom’s servants did against Amnon just as Absalom had commanded them. All the king’s sons arose, each mounted his mule, and fled.

30 While they were still proceeding on the journey, a report reached David, saying, “Absalom has struck all the king’s sons, and not even one of them remains.”

31 And so the king arose, tore his garments, and fell upon the earth. All his servants who stood beside him tore their garments.

32 But Jonadab son of Shammah, David’s brother, answered and said, “Let not my lord the king suppose that all the young men, the king’s sons, have been killed. Amnon alone is dead, for this was set in Absalom’s mouth from the day Amnon violated Tamar his sister.

33 Now, therefore, let not my lord the king set this word upon his heart, saying, ‘All the king’s sons have been killed,’ for Amnon alone is dead.”

34 But Absalom fled. The young watchman lifted his eyes and looked, and behold, many people were coming by a side road from the flank of the mountain.

35 Jonadab said to the king, “Behold, the king’s sons are here. According to the word of your servant, so it has happened.”

36 When he had ceased speaking, the king’s sons also appeared. Entering, they lifted up their voices and wept; the king also and all his servants wept with exceedingly great weeping.

37 But Absalom fled and went to Talmai son of Ammihud, king of Geshur. David therefore mourned his son all the days.

38 After Absalom had fled and come into Geshur, he was there three years.

39 And King David ceased pursuing Absalom, because he had been consoled over Amnon’s death.

CHAPTER 14

1 Now Joab son of Zeruiah understood that the king's heart had turned toward Absalom.

2 He sent to Tekoa and took from there a wise woman. He said to her, "Pretend that you are mourning. Put on mourning clothes, and do not anoint yourself with oil, that you may be like a woman who has already been mourning someone dead for a very long time.

3 You shall enter to the king and speak words of this kind to him." And Joab put the words into her mouth.

4 Therefore, when the woman of Tekoa had entered to the king, she fell before him upon the earth, adored, and said, "Save me, O king."

5 The king said to her, "What cause do you have?" She answered, "Alas, I am a widow, for my husband is dead.

6 Your handmaid had two sons. They quarreled against one another in the field, and there was no one who could restrain them. One struck the other and killed him.

7 And behold, the entire kindred has risen against your handmaid and says, 'Deliver the one who struck his brother, that we may kill him for the soul of his brother whom he killed and destroy the heir.' They seek to extinguish my spark that remains, so that neither name nor remnant of my husband may survive upon the earth."

8 The king said to the woman, "Go into your house, and I shall give command concerning you."

9 The woman of Tekoa said to the king, "Upon me, my lord the king, and upon my father's house be the iniquity; but let the king and his throne be innocent."

10 The king said, "Whoever speaks against you, bring him to me, and he shall not add to touch you any further."

11 She said, "Let the king remember the Lord his God, so that the next of blood may not be multiplied to take vengeance, and that they may by no means kill my son." He said, "The Lord lives: not one of your son's hairs shall fall to the earth."

12 Therefore the woman said, "Let your handmaid speak a word to my lord the king." And he said, "Speak."

13 The woman said, "Why have you devised such a thing against the people of God? The king has spoken this word so that he sins and does not bring back his own outcast.

14 We all die, and like waters we flow away into the earth, which do not return. Nor does God desire a soul to perish; instead, he reconsiders, devising that the one cast away should not perish utterly.

15 Now, therefore, I have come to speak this word to my lord the king in the presence of the people. Your handmaid said, 'I shall speak to the king, in hope that somehow the king may do the word of his handmaid.'

16 And the king listened, that he might deliver his handmaid from the hand of all who desired to erase me and my son together from the inheritance of God.

17 Therefore let your handmaid say: 'May the word of my lord the king be like a sacrifice.' For like an angel of God, so is my lord the king, that he is moved neither by blessing nor by curse. Therefore the Lord your God also is with you."

18 The king answered and said to the woman, "Do not hide from me the word about which I ask you." The woman said to him, "Speak, my lord the king."

19 The king said, "Is the hand of Joab with you in all these things?" The woman answered and said, "By the life of your soul, my lord the king, there is no turning either to the left or to the right from all that my lord the king has spoken. For your servant Joab himself commanded me, and he himself put all these words into the mouth of your handmaid.

20 Your servant Joab commanded this so that I might turn the form of this discourse. But you, my lord the king, are wise, possessing the wisdom of an angel of God, that you may understand all things upon the earth."

21 The king said to Joab, "Behold, having been appeased, I have done your word. Go, therefore, and call back the young man Absalom."

22 Joab fell upon his face to the earth, adored, and blessed the king. Joab said, "Today your servant understands that I have found grace in your eyes, my lord the king, for you have done the word of your servant."

23 Therefore Joab arose, went into Geshur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem.

24 But the king said, "Let him return to his house, and let him not see my face." Therefore Absalom returned to his house and did not see the king's face.

25 Now in all Israel there was no man as beautiful and exceedingly comely as Absalom. From the sole of his foot to the crown of his head, there was no blemish in him.

26 When he cut the hair of his head—he was shorn once a year, because his hair weighed heavily upon him—the hair of his head weighed two hundred shekels by the public weight.

27 Three sons were born to Absalom, and one daughter named Tamar, of elegant form.

28 Absalom remained in Jerusalem two years and did not see the king's face.

29 And so he sent to Joab, that Joab might send him to the king, but Joab was unwilling to come to him. When he had sent a second time and Joab was unwilling to come to him,

30 he said to his servants, "You know Joab's field beside my field, which has a barley harvest. Go, therefore, and set it on fire." So Absalom's servants set the standing grain on fire. Joab's servants came with their garments torn and said, "Absalom's servants have set part of the field on fire."

31 Joab arose and came to Absalom in his house and said, "Why have your servants set my standing grain on fire?"

32 Absalom answered Joab, "I sent to you, beseeching you to come to me, that I might send you to the king and that you might say to him, 'Why did I come from Geshur? It was better for me to be there.' Therefore I beseech you that I may see the king's face. But if he remembers my iniquity, let him kill me."

33 And so Joab entered to the king and reported everything to him. Absalom was called, and he entered to the king and adored upon his face to the earth before him. And the king kissed Absalom.

CHAPTER 15

1 Therefore after these things Absalom made for himself chariots and horsemen and fifty men who would go before him.

2 Rising early, Absalom stood beside the entrance of the gate. Every man who had a matter and came to the king's judgment, Absalom called to himself and said, "From what city are you?" Answering, the man would say, "Your servant is from one of the tribes of Israel."

3 Absalom would answer him, "Your words seem good and just to me, but there is no one appointed by the king to hear you." And Absalom would say,

4 "Who would appoint me judge over the land, that all who have a matter might come to me and I might judge justly?"

5 Moreover, when a man approached him to salute him, he extended his hand, took hold of him, and kissed him.

6 He did this to all Israel who came for judgment to be heard by the king, and he enticed the hearts of the men of Israel.

7 Now after forty years, Absalom said to King David, "I shall go and fulfill my vows that I vowed to the Lord in Hebron.

8 For your servant vowed a vow when he was in Geshur of Syria, saying, 'If the Lord brings me back to Jerusalem, I shall sacrifice to the Lord.'"

9 King David said to him, "Go in peace." And he arose and went to Hebron.

10 But Absalom sent spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, "As soon as you hear the sound of the trumpet, say, 'Absalom has reigned in Hebron.'"

11 Now two hundred men called from Jerusalem went with Absalom, going with a simple heart and entirely ignorant of the cause.

12 Absalom also summoned Ahithophel the Gilonite, David's counselor, from his city, Giloh. While he sacrificed victims, the conspiracy became strong, and the people gathering increased with Absalom.

13 Therefore a messenger came to David, saying, "With its whole heart, all Israel follows Absalom."

14 David said to his servants who were with him in Jerusalem, "Arise, let us flee, for there will be no escape for us from Absalom's face. Hasten to depart, lest perhaps he come and seize us, drive ruin upon us, and strike the city with the edge of the sword."

15 The king's servants said to him, "Your servants shall gladly execute everything our lord the king commands."

16 Therefore the king and his entire house went out on foot. The king left ten women, concubines, to guard the house.

17 The king and all Israel went out on foot and stood far from the house.

18 All his servants walked beside him. The bands of the Cherethites and Pelethites, and all the Gittites—six hundred valiant fighting men who had followed him from Gath on foot—went before the king.

19 The king said to Ittai the Gittite, "Why do you come with us? Return and dwell with the king, because you are a stranger and have gone out from your place.

20 You came yesterday, and today shall you be compelled to go out with us? But I shall go where I am going. Return, and lead your brothers back with you; and the Lord shall show mercy and truth toward you, because you have shown grace and faith."

21 Ittai answered the king, saying, "The Lord lives, and my lord the king lives: wherever you shall be, my lord the king, whether in death or in life, there your servant shall be."

22 David said to Ittai, "Come and pass over." Ittai the Gittite passed over, and all the men who were with him and the rest of the multitude.

23 Everyone wept with a loud voice, and all the people passed over. The king also crossed the brook Kidron, and all the people proceeded toward the road that looks toward the desert.

24 Zadok the priest also came, and all the Levites with him, bearing the ark of the covenant of God, and they set down the ark of God. Abiathar went up until all the people who had gone out of the city had finished passing.

25 The king said to Zadok, "Carry the ark of God back into the city. If I find grace in the eyes of the Lord, he will bring me back and show me it and his tabernacle.

26 But if he says to me, 'You do not please me,' I am ready. Let him do what is good before him."

27 The king said to Zadok the priest, "O seer, return into the city in peace. And let Ahimaaz your son and Jonathan son of Abiathar, your two sons, be with you.

28 Behold, I shall hide in the plains of the desert until word comes from you to inform me.”

29 Therefore Zadok and Abiathar carried the ark of God back to Jerusalem and remained there.

30 But David ascended the slope of the Mount of Olives, climbing and weeping, walking with bare feet and covered head. All the people who were with him also ascended with covered heads, weeping.

31 Now it was reported to David that Ahithophel also was in the conspiracy with Absalom. David said, “Make foolish, I pray, O Lord, the counsel of Ahithophel.”

32 When David ascended to the summit of the mountain, where he was about to adore the Lord, behold, Hushai the Archite met him, his garment torn and his head full of earth.

33 David said to him, “If you come with me, you will be a burden to me.

34 But if you return to the city and say to Absalom, ‘I am your servant, O king. As I was your father’s servant, so I shall be your servant,’ you will destroy the counsel of Ahithophel.

35 You have with you Zadok and Abiathar the priests. Every word you hear from the king’s house, you shall report to Zadok and Abiathar the priests.

36 Their two sons are with them: Ahimaaz son of Zadok and Jonathan son of Abiathar. Through them you shall send to me every word that you hear.”

37 Therefore Hushai, David’s friend, came into the city, and Absalom also entered Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 16

1 When David had passed a little beyond the summit of the mountain, Ziba, Mephibosheth's servant, appeared to meet him with two donkeys loaded with two hundred loaves, one hundred clusters of raisins, one hundred cakes of dried figs, and a skin of wine.

2 The king said to Ziba, "What do these things mean?" Ziba answered, "The donkeys are for the king's household to sit upon; the loaves and dried figs are for your servants to eat; and the wine is for anyone who grows faint in the desert to drink."

3 The king said, "Where is your lord's son?" Ziba answered the king, "He remained in Jerusalem, saying, 'Today the house of Israel will restore my father's kingdom to me.'"

4 The king said to Ziba, "All that belonged to Mephibosheth shall be yours." Ziba said, "I pray that I may find grace before you, my lord the king."

5 Therefore King David came as far as Bahurim. And behold, a man from the kindred of Saul's house, named Shimei son of Gera, came out from there. He proceeded, coming out and cursing,

6 and he cast stones against David and against all King David's servants, while all the people and all the warriors walked on the king's right and left sides.

7 Thus Shimei spoke while cursing the king: "Go out, go out, man of blood and man of Belial.

8 The Lord has returned upon you all the blood of Saul's house, because you invaded the kingdom in his place. The Lord has given the kingdom into the hand of Absalom your son. And behold, your evils press upon you, because you are a man of blood."

9 Abishai son of Zeruiah said to the king, "Why does this dead dog curse my lord the king? I shall go and cut off his head."

10 The king said, "What is there between me and you, sons of Zeruiah? Let him alone, that he may curse, for the Lord has commanded him to curse David. And who is there who dares say, 'Why has he done so?'"

11 The king said to Abishai and all his servants, "Behold, my son who came out from my womb seeks my soul. How much more now this son of Benjamin? Let him alone, that he may curse according to the Lord's command.

12 Perhaps the Lord may look upon my affliction, and the Lord may return good to me for this cursing today."

13 Therefore David and his companions walked along the road with him. But Shimei proceeded along the ridge of the mountain on the side opposite him, cursing, casting stones against him, and scattering earth.

14 And so the king and all the people with him arrived weary, and they refreshed themselves there.

15 But Absalom and all his people entered Jerusalem, and Ahithophel with him.

16 When Hushai the Archite, David's friend, came to Absalom, he said to him, "Hail, O king! Hail, O king!"

17 Absalom said to him, "Is this your grace toward your friend? Why did you not go with your friend?"

18 Hushai answered Absalom, "By no means, for I shall belong to him whom the Lord and all this people and all Israel have chosen, and with him I shall remain.

19 But to add this also: whom shall I serve? Is it not the king's son? As I obeyed your father, so I shall obey you also."

20 Absalom said to Ahithophel, "Enter into counsel concerning what we ought to do."

21 Ahithophel said to Absalom, "Go in to your father's concubines, whom he left to guard the house, so that when all Israel hears that you have defiled your father, their hands may be strengthened with you."

22 Therefore they stretched a tent for Absalom upon the roof, and he went in to his father's concubines before all Israel.

23 Now the counsel Ahithophel gave in those days was as if someone consulted God. Such was every counsel of Ahithophel, both when he was with David and when he was with Absalom.

CHAPTER 17

1 Therefore Ahithophel said to Absalom, “I shall choose for myself twelve thousand men, and rising, I shall pursue David this night.

2 I shall rush upon him—for he is weary and his hands are weakened—and strike him. When all the people who are with him have fled, I shall strike the king when he is left alone.

3 And I shall bring back all the people, just as one man is accustomed to return. For you seek one man, and all the people shall be at peace.”

4 His word pleased Absalom and all the elders of Israel.

5 But Absalom said, “Call Hushai the Archite, and let us hear what he also says.”

6 When Hushai had come to Absalom, Absalom said to him, “Ahithophel has spoken a word of this kind. Ought we to do it or not? What counsel do you give?”

7 Hushai said to Absalom, “The counsel Ahithophel has given this time is not good.”

8 Hushai continued, “You know your father and the men who are with him: they are exceedingly valiant and bitter in soul, like a bear raging in the forest when her cubs have been taken. Moreover, your father is a man of war and will not remain with the people.

9 Perhaps he now lies hidden in pits or in whatever single place he desires. When anyone falls at the beginning, whoever hears it will hear and say, ‘A slaughter has occurred among the people who followed Absalom.’

10 Then even the most valiant man, whose heart is like a lion’s, will melt with fear. For all the people of Israel know that your father is valiant and that all who are with him are strong.

11 But this counsel seems right to me: let all Israel be gathered to you, from Dan to Beersheba, innumerable as the sand of the sea, and you shall be in their midst.

12 We shall rush upon him in whatever place he is found and cover him as dew is accustomed to fall upon the earth. Of the men who are with him, we shall not leave even one.

13 But if he has entered some city, all Israel shall encircle that city with ropes, and we shall drag it into the torrent, so that not even a pebble from it may be found.”

14 Absalom and all the men of Israel said, “The counsel of Hushai the Archite is better than the counsel of Ahithophel.” But by the Lord’s will, the useful counsel of Ahithophel was destroyed, that the Lord might bring evil upon Absalom.

15 Hushai said to Zadok and Abiathar the priests, “In this and this manner Ahithophel counseled Absalom and the elders of Israel, and I gave counsel of this and this kind.

16 Now, therefore, send quickly and report to David, saying, ‘Do not remain this night in the plains of the desert, but cross over without delay, lest perhaps the king and all the people who are with him be swallowed up.’”

17 Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz stood beside the spring of Rogel. A handmaid went and reported to them, and they set out to carry the message to King David, for they could not be seen or enter the city.

18 But a certain young man saw them and informed Absalom. They entered with hurried step into the house of a certain man in Bahurim, who had a well in his courtyard, and they descended into it.

19 The woman took and spread a covering over the mouth of the well, as though drying hulled grain, and thus the matter was hidden.

20 When Absalom’s servants came into the house, they said to the woman, “Where are Ahimaaz and Jonathan?” The woman answered them, “They passed by in haste after tasting a little water.” Those who sought them did not find them and returned to Jerusalem.

21 When they had gone away, the men ascended from the well, proceeded, and reported to King David. They said, “Arise and cross the river quickly, for Ahithophel has given counsel of this kind against you.”

22 Therefore David arose, and all the people who were with him, and they crossed the Jordan until it grew light. Not even one remained who had not crossed the river.

23 But Ahithophel, seeing that his counsel had not been carried out, saddled his donkey, arose, and went to his house and his city. Having set his house in order, he died by hanging and was buried in his father’s tomb.

24 David came to the camp, and Absalom crossed the Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him.

25 Absalom appointed Amasa over the army in Joab's place. Now Amasa was the son of a man named Ithra of Jezreel, who went in to Abigail daughter of Nahash, the sister of Zeruiah, who was Joab's mother.

26 Israel encamped with Absalom in the land of Gilead.

27 When David had come into the camp, Shobi son of Nahash from Rabbah of the children of Ammon, Machir son of Ammiel from Lo-debar, and Barzillai the Gileadite from Rogelim

28 offered him bedding, tapestries, earthen vessels, wheat, barley, flour, parched grain, beans, lentils, and roasted chickpeas,

29 and honey, butter, sheep, and fat calves. They gave them to David and the people who were with him to eat, for they supposed that the people were wearied with hunger and thirst in the desert.

CHAPTER 18

1 Therefore David, having reviewed his people, appointed tribunes and centurions over them.

2 He placed a third part of the people under the hand of Joab, a third part under the hand of Abishai son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and a third part under the hand of Ittai, who was from Gath. The king said to the people, "I also shall go out with you."

3 The people answered, "You shall not go out. For whether we flee, they will not greatly concern themselves about us; or whether half of us fall, they will not care enough, because you alone are counted as ten thousand. Therefore it is better that you be a safeguard for us in the city."

4 The king said to them, "I shall do what seems right to you." Therefore the king stood beside the gate, while the people went out by their companies, in hundreds and thousands.

5 The king commanded Joab, Abishai, and Ittai, saying, "Preserve the young man Absalom for me." And all the people heard the king commanding all the princes concerning Absalom.

6 And so the people went out into the field against Israel, and the battle took place in the forest of Ephraim.

7 There the people of Israel were cut down by David's army, and a great slaughter of twenty thousand occurred that day.

8 The battle was scattered there over the face of the whole land, and there were many more of the people whom the forest consumed than those whom the sword devoured that day.

9 It happened that Absalom met David's servants while sitting upon a mule. When the mule had gone beneath a thick and great oak, his head caught fast in the oak. He hung between heaven and earth, while the mule upon which he had sat passed on.

10 A certain man saw this and reported it to Joab, saying, "I saw Absalom hanging from an oak."

11 Joab said to the man who had reported it to him, "If you saw him, why did you not pierce him through to the earth? I would have given you ten shekels of silver and one belt."

12 He said to Joab, "Even if you weighed out a thousand pieces of silver into my hands, I would by no means put my hand upon the king's son. For in our hearing the king commanded you, Abishai, and Ittai, saying, 'Guard the young man Absalom for me.'

13 Moreover, if I had acted boldly against my own soul, this could by no means have been hidden from the king—and would you have stood against me?"

14 Joab said, "It shall not be as you wish; instead, I shall attack him before you." Therefore he took three spears in his hand and drove them into Absalom's heart. While he was still throbbing, clinging to the oak,

15 ten young men, Joab's armor-bearers, ran up, struck him, and killed him.

16 Then Joab sounded the trumpet and restrained the people from pursuing fleeing Israel, desiring to spare the multitude.

17 They took Absalom and cast him into a great pit in the forest, and they heaped an exceedingly great pile of stones over him. But all Israel fled to their tents.

18 Now while Absalom was still living, he had raised for himself a monument that is in the King's Valley, for he had said, "I have no son, and this shall be the memorial of my name." He called the monument by his own name, and it is called the Hand of Absalom to this day.

19 Ahimaaz son of Zadok said, "I shall run and report to the king that the Lord has executed judgment for him from the hand of his enemies."

20 Joab said to him, "You shall not be a messenger this day, but you shall report on another. Today I do not want you to report, for the king's son is dead."

21 Joab said to Cushi, "Go and report to the king what you have seen." Cushi adored Joab and ran.

22 But Ahimaaz son of Zadok again said to Joab, "What prevents me from also running after Cushi?" Joab said to him, "Why do you wish to run, my son? You will not be the bearer of good news."

23 He answered, "But what if I run?" And he said to him, "Run." Therefore Ahimaaz ran by a shorter road and passed Cushi.

24 Now David was sitting between the two gates. The watchman who was upon the summit of the gate over the wall lifted his eyes and saw a man running alone.

25 Crying out, he informed the king. The king said, "If he is alone, there is good news in his mouth." While he hastened and drew nearer,

26 the watchman saw another man running. Crying out from the summit, he said, “Another man appears to me, running alone.” The king said, “This one also is a good messenger.”

27 The watchman said, “I perceive the running of the first to be like the running of Ahimaaz son of Zadok.” The king said, “He is a good man, and he comes bearing good news.”

28 Ahimaaz cried out and said to the king, “Hail, O king!” Adoring the king, bowed to the earth before him, he said, “Blessed is the Lord your God, who has confined the men who lifted their hands against my lord the king.”

29 The king said, “Is there peace for the young man Absalom?” Ahimaaz said, “I saw a great tumult when Joab your servant, O king, sent me your servant. I know nothing else.”

30 The king said to him, “Pass over and stand here.” When he had passed over and stood,

31 Cushi appeared. Coming, he said, “I bring good news, my lord the king, for the Lord has judged for you today from the hand of all who rose against you.”

32 The king said to Cushi, “Is there peace for the young man Absalom?” Cushi answered, “May the enemies of my lord the king and all who rise against him for evil become like the young man.”

33 Therefore the king was grieved. He ascended the upper room of the gate and wept. As he went, he spoke thus: “My son Absalom! Absalom, my son! Who would grant me that I might die for you? Absalom, my son! My son Absalom!”

CHAPTER 19

1 Now it was reported to Joab that the king was weeping and mourning his son.

2 And the victory was turned into mourning for all the people that day, for the people heard it said that day, “The king grieves over his son.”

3 The people turned aside from entering the city that day, as a people is accustomed to turn aside when routed and fleeing from battle.

4 But the king covered his head and cried with a loud voice, “My son Absalom! Absalom, my son, my son!”

5 Therefore Joab entered the house to the king and said, “Today you have confounded the faces of all your servants who saved your soul today, and the souls of your sons and your daughters, and the souls of your wives and your concubines.

6 You love those who hate you and hold those who love you in hatred. Today you have shown that you do not care for your commanders or your servants. And now I know truly that if Absalom were living and all of us had fallen, then it would please you.

7 Now, therefore, arise, go out, and speak to satisfy your servants. For I swear to you by the Lord that if you do not go out, not even one will remain with you this night. And this will be worse for you than all the evils that have come upon you from your youth to the present.”

8 Therefore the king arose and sat in the gate, and it was reported to all the people that the king was sitting in the gate. The entire multitude came before the king, but Israel fled to their tents.

9 All the people also disputed throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, “The king delivered us from the hand of our enemies; he saved us from the hand of the Philistines. And now he has fled from the land because of Absalom.

10 But Absalom, whom we anointed over us, is dead in battle. How long will you remain silent and not bring the king back?”

11 Then King David sent to Zadok and Abiathar the priests, saying, “Speak to the elders of Judah, saying, ‘Why are you the last to bring the king back into his house?’”—for the word of all Israel had reached the king in his house.

12 “You are my brothers; you are my bone and my flesh. Why are you the last to bring the king back?

13 And say to Amasa, ‘Are you not my bone and my flesh? May God do these things to me and add these things also if you are not commander of the army before me at all times in place of Joab.’”

14 He inclined the heart of all the men of Judah as though of one man, and they sent to the king, saying, “Return, you and all your servants.”

15 The king returned and came as far as the Jordan. All Judah came as far as Gilgal to meet the king and conduct him across the Jordan.

16 Shimei son of Gera, a son of Benjamin from Bahurim, hastened and descended with the men of Judah to meet King David,

17 with one thousand men from Benjamin. Ziba, the servant from Saul’s house, was also with him, together with his fifteen sons and twenty servants. Rushing into the Jordan before the king,

18 they crossed the fords to conduct the king’s house over and to act according to his command. But Shimei son of Gera prostrated himself before the king when he had already crossed the Jordan

19 and said to him, “Do not impute iniquity to me, my lord. Do not remember the injuries of your servant on the day you went out from Jerusalem, my lord the king, nor let the king set them in his heart.

20 For I, your servant, acknowledge my sin. Therefore today I have come first from all the house of Joseph and descended to meet my lord the king.”

21 But Abishai son of Zeruiah answered and said, “Shall Shimei not be killed for these words, because he cursed the christ of the Lord?”

22 David said, “What is there between me and you, sons of Zeruiah? Why do you become a satan to me today? Shall a man therefore be killed in Israel today? Do I not know that today I have been made king over Israel?”

23 The king said to Shimei, “You shall not die.” And he swore to him.

24 Mephibosheth son of Saul also descended to meet the king, his feet unwashed and his beard untrimmed. He had not washed his garments from the day the king went out until the day of his return in peace.

25 When he had met the king at Jerusalem, the king said to him, “Why did you not come with me, Mephibosheth?”

26 Answering, he said, “My lord the king, my servant despised me. I, your servant, told him to saddle a donkey for me, that I might mount and go with the king, for your servant is lame.

27 Moreover, he accused me, your servant, to you, my lord the king. But you, my lord the king, are like an angel of God. Do what is pleasing to you.

28 For my father’s house was nothing except liable to death before my lord the king, but you placed me, your servant, among the guests of your table. What just complaint, therefore, do I have? Or what further can I cry out to the king?”

29 Therefore the king said to him, “Why do you speak any further? What I have spoken is fixed: you and Ziba shall divide the possessions.”

30 Mephibosheth answered the king, “Let him even take everything, since my lord the king has returned peacefully into his house.”

31 Barzillai the Gileadite also descended from Rogelim and conducted the king across the Jordan, prepared even to accompany him beyond the river.

32 Now Barzillai the Gileadite was exceedingly old, that is, eighty years old. He had provided nourishment for the king while he remained in the camp, for he was an exceedingly rich man.

33 Therefore the king said to Barzillai, “Come with me, that you may rest securely with me in Jerusalem.”

34 Barzillai said to the king, “How many are the days of the years of my life, that I should ascend with the king to Jerusalem?

35 I am eighty years old today. Are my senses vigorous enough to discern sweet or bitter? Can food and drink delight your servant? Or can I any longer hear the voice of male and female singers? Why should your servant be a burden to my lord the king?

36 Your servant shall proceed a little way from the Jordan with you. I do not need this recompense.

37 But I beseech you, let your servant return and die in my city and be buried beside the tomb of my father and my mother. But here is your servant Chimham. Let him go with you, my lord the king, and do for him whatever seems good to you.”

38 Therefore the king said to him, “Chimham shall cross with me, and I shall do for him whatever pleases you. And everything you ask of me, you shall obtain.”

39 When all the people and the king had crossed the Jordan, the king kissed Barzillai and blessed him, and he returned to his place.

40 Therefore the king crossed into Gilgal, and Chimham with him. All the people of Judah had conducted the king across, but only half of the people of Israel had been present.

41 And so all the men of Israel, gathering to the king, said to him, “Why have our brothers, the men of Judah, stolen you and conducted the king and his house across the Jordan, and all David’s men with him?”

42 Every man of Judah answered the men of Israel, “Because the king is nearer to me. Why are you angry over this matter? Have we eaten anything from the king, or have gifts been given to us?”

43 A man of Israel answered the men of Judah and said, “I am greater by ten parts with the king, and David belongs more to me than to you. Why have you injured me, and why was I not informed first, that I might bring my king back?” But the men of Judah answered the men of Israel more harshly.

CHAPTER 20

1 It also happened that there was a man of Belial there named Sheba son of Bichri, a man of Benjamin. He sounded the trumpet and said, “We have no part in David, nor inheritance in the son of Jesse. Return to your tents, O Israel.”

2 All Israel separated from David and followed Sheba son of Bichri, but the men of Judah clung to their king from the Jordan as far as Jerusalem.

3 When the king had come into his house in Jerusalem, he took the ten women, the concubines whom he had left to guard the house, and delivered them into custody, providing nourishment for them. He did not go in to them, but they remained shut away until the day of their death, living in widowhood.

4 The king said to Amasa, “Summon all the men of Judah to me for the third day, and you be present here.”

5 Therefore Amasa went to summon Judah, but he delayed beyond the appointed time the king had set for him.

6 David said to Abishai, “Now Sheba son of Bichri will afflict us more than Absalom. Therefore take your lord’s servants and pursue him, lest perhaps he find fortified cities and escape us.”

7 Therefore Joab’s men went out with him, and the Cherethites and Pelethites also. All the strong men went out from Jerusalem to pursue Sheba son of Bichri.

8 When they were beside the great stone that is in Gibeon, Amasa came and met them. Now Joab was clothed in a close-fitting tunic made to the measure of his form, and over it he was girded with a sword hanging in its sheath as far as his loins, which was fashioned so that with a slight movement it could come out and strike.

9 And so Joab said to Amasa, “Hail, my brother.” With his right hand he took hold of Amasa’s chin as though kissing him.

10 But Amasa did not observe the sword Joab had. Joab struck him in the side and poured out his entrails upon the earth; he did not add a second wound, and Amasa died. Then Joab and Abishai his brother pursued Sheba son of Bichri.

11 Meanwhile, when certain men from Joab’s companions had stood beside Amasa’s corpse, they said, “Behold the one who wished to be in Joab’s place, the companion of David.”

12 But Amasa lay covered with blood in the middle of the road. A certain man saw that all the people stopped to look at him, and he moved Amasa from the road into a field and covered him with a garment, lest those passing by stop because of him.

13 Therefore, when he had been removed from the road, every man passed on, following Joab to pursue Sheba son of Bichri.

14 Now Sheba had passed through all the tribes of Israel into Abel and Beth-maacah, and all the chosen men had gathered to him.

15 And so they came and attacked him in Abel and Beth-maacah. They surrounded the city with fortifications, and the city was besieged. All the multitude who were with Joab labored to destroy the walls.

16 A wise woman cried out from the city, “Hear! Hear! Say to Joab, ‘Approach here, and I shall speak with you.’”

17 When he had approached her, she said to him, “Are you Joab?” He answered, “I am.” She spoke to him thus: “Hear the words of your handmaid.” He answered, “I hear.”

18 Again she said, “A word was spoken in the ancient proverb: ‘Let those who inquire, inquire in Abel.’ And thus they brought matters to completion.

19 Am I not one who answers truth in Israel? Yet you seek to overturn a city and overthrow a mother in Israel. Why do you cast down the inheritance of the Lord?”

20 Joab answered and said, “Far be it, far be this from me. I do not cast down, nor do I demolish.

21 The matter is not so. Rather, a man from Mount Ephraim, Sheba son of Bichri by surname, lifted his hand against King David. Deliver him alone, and we shall withdraw from the city.” The woman said to Joab, “Behold, his head shall be cast to you through the wall.”

22 Therefore she entered to all the people and spoke to them wisely. They cut off the head of Sheba son of Bichri and cast it to Joab. He sounded the trumpet, and they withdrew from the city, each one to his tent. Joab returned to the king at Jerusalem.

23 Therefore Joab was over the entire army of Israel, while Benaiah son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and Pelethites.

24 Adoram was over the tribute, and Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud was keeper of the records.

25 Sheva was scribe, and Zadok and Abiathar were priests.

26 And Ira the Jairite was David’s priest.

CHAPTER 21

1 A famine also occurred in the days of David for three years continually, and David consulted the oracle of the Lord. The Lord said, “It is because of Saul and his house of blood, because he killed the Gibeonites.”

2 Therefore the king called the Gibeonites and spoke to them. Now the Gibeonites were not of the children of Israel, but were remnants of the Amorites. For the children of Israel had sworn to them, but Saul desired to strike them in zeal, as though for the children of Israel and Judah.

3 Therefore David said to the Gibeonites, “What shall I do for you? And what shall be your expiation, that you may bless the inheritance of the Lord?”

4 The Gibeonites said to him, “Our dispute is not over silver and gold, but against Saul and against his house. Nor do we desire that a man from Israel be killed.” The king said to them, “What, therefore, do you wish me to do for you?”

5 They said to the king, “We ought so to destroy the man who crushed us and oppressed us unjustly that not even one of his stock remains within all the borders of Israel.

6 Let seven men from his sons be given to us, that we may crucify them to the Lord in Gibeah of Saul, once the chosen of the Lord.” The king said, “I shall give them.”

7 But the king spared Mephibosheth son of Jonathan son of Saul because of the oath of the Lord that had been between David and Jonathan son of Saul.

8 And so the king took the two sons of Rizpah daughter of Aiah whom she bore to Saul, Armoni and Mephibosheth, and the five sons of Michal daughter of Saul whom she had borne to Adriel son of Barzillai, who was from Meholath.

9 He gave them into the hands of the Gibeonites, who crucified them upon the mountain before the Lord. These seven fell, killed together, in the first days of harvest, when the barley harvest was beginning.

10 Then Rizpah daughter of Aiah took sackcloth and spread it beneath herself upon the rock from the beginning of harvest until water dripped upon them from heaven. She did not permit birds to tear them by day or beasts by night.

11 What Rizpah daughter of Aiah, Saul’s concubine, had done was reported to David.

12 David went and took the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son from the men of Jabesh-gilead, who had stolen them from the street of Beth-shan, where the Philistines had hung them when they killed Saul in Gilboa.

13 He carried away from there the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son, and they gathered the bones of those who had been fastened up.

14 They buried them with the bones of Saul and Jonathan his son in the land of Benjamin, at the side, in the tomb of Kish his father. They did everything the king had commanded, and after these things God was propitiated toward the land again.

15 Again there was a battle of the Philistines against Israel, and David descended, and his servants with him, and they fought against the Philistines. But David grew faint.

16 Ishbi-benob, who was of the stock of Arapha and whose spearhead weighed three hundred ounces, was girded with a new sword and attempted to strike David.

17 Abishai son of Zeruiah came to his aid, struck the Philistine, and killed him. Then David’s men swore, saying, “You shall no longer go out with us to war, lest you extinguish the lamp of Israel.”

18 A second battle also took place in Gob against the Philistines. Then Sibbecai the Hushathite struck Saph, of the stock of Arapha, from the race of giants.

19 A third battle also took place in Gob against the Philistines, in which Adeodatus son of Saltus, the Bethlehemite weaver, struck Goliath the Gittite, whose spear shaft was like the beam of weavers.

20 A fourth battle took place in Gath, in which there was a tall man who had six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot—that is, twenty-four—and he was of the origin of Arapha.

21 He blasphemed Israel, but Jonathan son of Shammah, David’s brother, struck him.

22 These four were born of Arapha in Gath, and they fell by the hand of David and his servants.

CHAPTER 22

1 David spoke to the Lord the words of this song on the day the Lord delivered him from the hand of all his enemies and from the hand of Saul.

2 And he said: “The Lord is my rock, my strength, and my savior.

3 My mighty God—in him I shall hope; my shield and the horn of my salvation, my lifter and my refuge, my savior—you will deliver me from iniquity.

4 I shall call upon the praiseworthy Lord, and I shall be saved from my enemies.

5 For the crushings of death surrounded me; the torrents of Belial terrified me.

6 The cords of the realm of the dead surrounded me; the snares of death overtook me.

7 In my tribulation I shall call upon the Lord, and I shall cry to my God. He will hear my voice from his temple, and my cry will come to his ears.

8 The earth was moved and trembled; the foundations of the mountains were shaken and battered, because he was angry with them.

9 Smoke ascended from his nostrils, and fire from his mouth shall devour; coals were kindled by him.

10 He bent the heavens and descended, and darkness was beneath his feet.

11 He mounted upon the cherubim and flew; he glided upon the wings of the wind.

12 He set darkness around himself as a hiding place, sifting waters from the clouds of the heavens.

13 From the brightness before his sight, coals of fire were kindled.

14 The Lord shall thunder from heaven, and the Most High shall give his voice.

15 He sent arrows and scattered them; lightning, and he consumed them.

16 The outpourings of the sea appeared, and the foundations of the world were revealed at the rebuke of the Lord, at the breath of the spirit of his fury.

17 He sent from on high and took me; he drew me out of many waters.

18 He delivered me from my most powerful enemy and from those who hated me, because they were stronger than I.

19 My enemy came upon me on the day of my affliction, and the Lord became my support.

20 He led me out into breadth; he delivered me because I pleased him.

21 The Lord will repay me according to my justice; according to the cleanness of my hands he will return to me.

22 For I have kept the ways of the Lord and have not acted impiously against my God.

23 For all his judgments are in my sight, and I have not removed his precepts from me.

24 I shall be perfect with him, and I shall guard myself from my iniquity.

25 The Lord will restore to me according to my justice and according to the cleanness of my hands before the sight of his eyes.

26 With the holy, you will be holy; and with the valiant, perfect.

27 With the chosen, you will be chosen; and with the perverse, you will be perverse.

28 You will save the poor people, and with your eyes you will humble the exalted.

29 For you are my lamp, O Lord, and you, O Lord, will illuminate my darkness.

30 For in you I shall run girded; in my God I shall leap over the wall.

31 God—his way is immaculate; the word of the Lord is examined by fire. He is a shield to all who hope in him.

32 Who is God besides the Lord? And who is mighty besides our God?

33 God, who girded me with fortitude and made my perfect way level,

34 making my feet equal to those of deer and setting me upon my high places,

35 teaching my hands for battle and making my arms like a bronze bow.

36 You have given me the shield of your salvation, and your gentleness has multiplied me.

37 You will enlarge my steps beneath me, and my ankles will not fail.

38 I shall pursue my enemies and crush them, and I shall not turn back until I consume them.

39 I shall consume them and break them, that they may not rise; they shall fall beneath my feet.

40 You have girded me with fortitude for battle; you have bent those who resisted me beneath me.

41 You have given my enemies' backs to me; those who hate me, and I shall destroy them.

42 They shall cry, and there will be no one to save; to the Lord, and he will not hear them.

43 I shall erase them like the dust of the earth; like the mud of the streets I shall crush and shatter them.

44 You will save me from the contradictions of my people; you will preserve me as head of the nations. A people whom I do not know shall serve me.

45 Foreign sons shall resist me; at the hearing of the ear they shall obey me.

46 Foreign sons have flowed away and shall be confined within their straits.

47 The Lord lives, and blessed is my God; and the mighty God of my salvation shall be exalted.

48 God, you give vindications to me and cast down peoples beneath me.

49 You lead me out from my enemies, and from those who resist me you lift me up; from the iniquitous man you will deliver me.

50 Therefore I shall confess to you among the nations, O Lord, and I shall sing to your name:

51 magnifying the salvations of his king and showing mercy to his christ David and to his seed forever."

CHAPTER 23

1 Now these are the last words of David. David son of Jesse said: “The man to whom it was appointed concerning the christ of the God of Jacob, the distinguished psalmist of Israel, said:

2 The Spirit of the Lord has spoken through me, and his word through my tongue.

3 The God of Israel said to me; the Mighty One of Israel spoke: ‘The ruler of men, the just ruler in the fear of God,

4 is like the light of dawn when the sun rises, gleaming in a morning without clouds, and like grass springing from the earth through rains.’

5 Nor is my house so great with God that he should enter an eternal pact with me, firm in all things and fortified. For all my salvation and every desire— there is nothing from it that does not spring forth.

6 But all transgressors shall be plucked out like thorns, which are not taken with hands.

7 If anyone wishes to touch them, he will be armed with iron and the wood of a spear, and, kindled with fire, they shall be burned to nothing.”

8 These are the names of David’s valiant men. Sitting in the chair, the wisest prince among the three, he is like the most tender little worm of wood, who killed eight hundred in one assault.

9 After him was Eleazar, son of his paternal uncle, the Ahohite, among the three valiant men who were with David when they reproached the Philistines and were gathered there for battle.

10 When the men of Israel had gone up, he stood and struck the Philistines until his hand failed and stiffened with the sword. The Lord wrought a great salvation that day, and the people who had fled returned to strip spoil from the slain.

11 After him was Shammah son of Agee from Arari. The Philistines were gathered at a post, for there was a field there full of lentils. When the people had fled from the face of the Philistines, 12 he stood in the middle of the field and defended it and struck the Philistines, and the Lord wrought a great salvation.

13 Moreover, the three who were princes among the thirty had descended before and came to David at harvest time in the cave of Adullam. The camp of the Philistines was positioned in the Valley of Giants.

14 David was in the stronghold, and the station of the Philistines was then in Bethlehem.

15 Therefore David longed and said, “Oh, if someone would give me a drink of water from the cistern that is in Bethlehem beside the gate!”

16 Therefore the three valiant men broke into the Philistines’ camp, drew water from the cistern of Bethlehem that was beside the gate, and brought it to David. But he was unwilling to drink; instead, he poured it out to the Lord,

17 saying, “May the Lord be gracious to me, that I should not do this. Shall I drink the blood of these men who went forth, and the peril of their souls?” Therefore he was unwilling to drink. These things the three mightiest men did.

18 Abishai also, Joab’s brother, son of Zeruiah, was prince of the three. He is the one who lifted his spear against three hundred, whom he killed, and he was renowned among the three.

19 He was nobler among the three and was their prince, but he had not attained to the first three.

20 And Benaiah son of Jehoiada, an exceedingly valiant man of great deeds, was from Kabzeel. He struck the two lions of Moab, and he descended and struck a lion in the middle of a cistern in the days of snow.

21 He also killed an Egyptian man, a man worthy of spectacle, who had a spear in his hand. And so, when Benaiah had gone down to him with a staff, he wrenched the spear by force from the Egyptian’s hand and killed him with his own spear.

22 These things Benaiah son of Jehoiada did.

23 He also was renowned among the three valiant men who were nobler among the thirty; nevertheless, he had not attained to the three. And David made him his private confidant, of the secret council.

24 Asahel, Joab’s brother, was among the thirty; Elhanan, son of his paternal uncle, from Bethlehem;

25 Shammah from Harod; Elika from Harod;

26 Helez from Palti; Ira son of Ikkesh from Tekoa;

27 Abiezer from Anathoth; Mebunnai from Hushah;

28 Zalmon the Ahohite; Maharai the Netophathite;

29 Heled son of Baanah, himself a Netophathite; Ittai son of Ribai from Gibeah of the children of Benjamin;

30 Benaiah the Pirathonite; Hiddai from the torrent of Gaash;

31 Abi-albon the Arbathite; Azmaveth from Beromi;

32 Eliabah from Shaalbon; of the sons of Jashen, Jonathan;

33 Shammah from Orori; Ahiam son of Sharar the Arorite;

34 Eliphelet son of Ahasbai son of Maacah; Eliam son of Ahithophel the Gilonite;

35 Hezrai from Carmel; Paarai from Arbi;

36 Igal son of Nathan from Zobah; Bani from Gad;

37 Zelek from Ammon; Naharai the Beerothite, armor-bearer of Joab son of Zeruiah;

38 Ira the Ithrite; Gareb, himself also an Ithrite;

39 Uriah the Hittite: thirty-seven in all.

CHAPTER 24

1 And the fury of the Lord added to its anger against Israel, and he moved David among them, saying, “Go, number Israel and Judah.”

2 The king said to Joab, commander of his army, “Walk through all the tribes of Israel, from Dan as far as Beersheba, and number the people, that I may know their number.”

3 Joab said to the king, “May the Lord your God increase your people, as great as it now is, and multiply it again a hundredfold before the eyes of my lord the king. But why does my lord the king desire such a thing?”

4 But the king’s word prevailed over the words of Joab and the commanders of the army. Joab and the commanders of the soldiers went out from the king’s face to number the people of Israel.

5 When they had crossed the Jordan, they came to Aroer, to the right of the city that is in the valley of Gad.

6 They passed through Jazer into Gilead and into the lower land of Hodsi, and they came into the woodlands of Dan. Circling beside Sidon,

7 they passed near the walls of Tyre and all the land of the Hivite and the Canaanite, and they came to the south of Judah in Beersheba.

8 Having surveyed the entire land, they were present in Jerusalem after nine months and twenty days.

9 Therefore Joab gave the number from the registration of the people to the king. There were found from Israel eight hundred thousand valiant men who drew the sword, and from Judah five hundred thousand fighting men.

10 But David’s heart struck him after the people had been numbered. David said to the Lord, “I have sinned exceedingly in this deed. But I pray, O Lord, that you take away the iniquity of your servant, for I have acted exceedingly foolishly.”

11 And so David arose in the morning, and the word of the Lord came to Gad the prophet and David’s seer, saying,

12 “Go and speak to David: ‘Thus says the Lord: A choice of three things is given to you. Choose from these the one you desire, that I may do it to you.’”

13 When Gad had come to David, he reported to him, saying, “Either famine shall come upon you in your land for seven years, or for three months you shall flee your adversaries and they shall pursue you, or surely for three days there shall be pestilence in your land. Now, therefore, deliberate and see what word I shall answer him who sent me.”

14 David said to Gad, “I am exceedingly constrained. But it is better that I fall into the hands of the Lord—for his mercies are many—than into the hands of men.”

15 The Lord sent pestilence into Israel from the morning until the appointed time, and seventy thousand men of the people died from Dan as far as Beersheba.

16 When the angel of the Lord extended his hand over Jerusalem to destroy it, the Lord had mercy upon the affliction and said to the angel striking the people, “It is enough. Now restrain your hand.” The angel of the Lord was beside the threshing floor of Araunah the Jebusite.

17 When David saw the angel cutting down the people, he said to the Lord, “I am the one who sinned; I acted iniquitously. These who are sheep—what have they done? Let your hand, I beseech you, be turned against me and against my father’s house.”

18 Gad came to David that day and said to him, “Ascend and establish an altar to the Lord on the threshing floor of Araunah the Jebusite.”

19 David ascended according to the word of Gad, which the Lord had commanded him.

20 Looking out, Araunah noticed the king and his servants passing toward him.

21 He went out, adored the king with his face bowed to the earth, and said, “For what cause has my lord the king come to his servant?” David said to him, “That I may buy the threshing floor from you and build an altar to the Lord, that the killing which rages among the people may cease.”

22 Araunah said to David, “Let my lord the king take and offer as it pleases him. You have oxen for a holocaust, and the cart and the yokes of the oxen for use as wood.”

23 Araunah the king gave everything to the king. Araunah said to the king, “May the Lord your God receive your vow.”

24 Answering him, the king said, “By no means as you wish. Instead, I shall buy it from you for a price, and I shall not offer gratuitous holocausts to the Lord my God.” Therefore David bought the threshing floor and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver.

25 David built an altar to the Lord there and offered holocausts and peace offerings. The Lord was propitiated toward the land, and the plague was restrained from Israel.

BOOK ELEVEN: FIRST KINGS

CHAPTER 1

1 Now King David had grown old and had many days of age. Though he was covered with garments, he did not grow warm.

2 Therefore his servants said to him, “Let us seek a young virgin for our lord the king. Let her stand before the king and warm him; let her sleep in his bosom and warm our lord the king.”

3 And so they sought a beautiful young woman throughout all the borders of Israel. They found Abishag the Shunammite and brought her to the king.

4 Now the maiden was exceedingly beautiful. She slept with the king and ministered to him, but the king did not know her.

5 But Adonijah son of Haggith exalted himself, saying, “I shall reign.” He made for himself chariots and horsemen and fifty men who would run before him.

6 His father had not corrected him at any time, saying, “Why have you done this?” He also was exceedingly beautiful, born second after Absalom.

7 His word was with Joab son of Zeruiah and Abiathar the priest, who aided the cause of Adonijah.

8 But Zadok the priest, Benaiah son of Jehoiada, Nathan the prophet, Shimei, Rei, and the strength of David’s army were not with Adonijah.

9 Therefore Adonijah sacrificed rams, calves, and every fattened thing beside the stone of Zoheleth, which was near the spring of Rogel. He called all his brothers, the king’s sons, and all the men of Judah who were the king’s servants.

10 But he did not call Nathan the prophet, Benaiah, any of the valiant men, or Solomon his brother.

11 And so Nathan said to Bathsheba, Solomon’s mother, “Have you not heard that Adonijah son of Haggith has begun to reign, and our lord David does not know it?

12 Now, therefore, come, receive counsel from me, and save your soul and the soul of your son Solomon.

13 Go and enter to King David and say to him, ‘Did you not, my lord the king, swear to me, your handmaid, saying: “Solomon your son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne”? Why, therefore, does Adonijah reign?’

14 And while you are still there speaking with the king, I shall come after you and complete your words.”

15 Therefore Bathsheba entered to the king in the bedchamber. Now the king had grown exceedingly old, and Abishag the Shunammite ministered to him.

16 Bathsheba bowed herself and adored the king. The king said to her, “What do you desire?”

17 Answering, she said, “My lord, you swore by the Lord (YHWH) your God to me, your handmaid: ‘Solomon your son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne.’

18 And behold, now Adonijah reigns, while you, my lord the king, do not know it.

19 He has slaughtered oxen, every fattened thing, and very many rams. He has called all the king’s sons, Abiathar the priest, and Joab the commander of the army, but Solomon your servant he has not called.

20 Nevertheless, my lord the king, the eyes of all Israel look to you, that you may declare to them who ought to sit upon your throne after you, my lord the king.

21 And it shall be, when my lord the king sleeps with his fathers, that I and my son Solomon shall be sinners.”

22 While she was still speaking with the king, Nathan the prophet came.

23 They reported to the king, saying, “Nathan the prophet is here.” When he had entered before the king and adored him, bowed to the earth,

24 Nathan said, “My lord the king, did you say, ‘Let Adonijah reign after me, and let him sit upon my throne’?

25 For today he descended and sacrificed oxen, fattened things, and very many rams. He called all the king's sons, the commanders of the army, and Abiathar the priest. Behold, they are eating and drinking before him and saying, 'May King Adonijah live!'

26 But he did not call me, your servant, Zadok the priest, Benaiah son of Jehoiada, or Solomon your servant.

27 Has this word gone out from my lord the king, while you did not tell me, your servant, who would sit upon the throne of my lord the king after him?"

28 King David answered, saying, "Call Bathsheba to me." When she had entered before the king and stood before him,

29 the king swore and said, "The Lord lives, who rescued my soul from every distress:

30 just as I swore to you by the Lord God of Israel, saying, 'Solomon your son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne in my place,' so shall I do this day."

31 Bathsheba lowered her face to the earth and adored the king, saying, "May my lord David live forever."

32 King David also said, "Call Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada to me." When they had entered before the king, 33 he said to them, "Take your lord's servants with you, set Solomon my son upon my mule, and lead him into Gihon.

34 There let Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anoint him king over Israel. You shall sound the trumpet and say, 'May King Solomon live!'

35 You shall ascend after him, and he shall come and sit upon my throne. He shall reign in my place, and I shall command him to be leader over Israel and over Judah."

36 Benaiah son of Jehoiada answered the king, saying, "Amen. So may the Lord God of my lord the king speak.

37 Just as the Lord was with my lord the king, so may he be with Solomon, and may he make Solomon's throne more exalted than the throne of my lord King David."

38 Therefore Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, Benaiah son of Jehoiada, the Cherethites, and the Pelethites descended. They set Solomon upon King David's mule and led him into Gihon.

39 Zadok the priest took the horn of oil from the tabernacle and anointed Solomon. They sounded the trumpet, and all the people said, "May King Solomon live!"

40 The entire multitude ascended after him, the people playing flutes and rejoicing with great joy, and the earth resounded from their cry.

41 Adonijah and all who had been invited by him heard it, and the feast had already ended. Joab also, when he had heard the sound of the trumpet, said, "What does the cry of the tumultuous city mean?"

42 While he was still speaking, Jonathan son of Abiathar the priest came. Adonijah said to him, "Enter, for you are a valiant man and one who announces good things."

43 Jonathan answered Adonijah, "By no means! For our lord King David has appointed Solomon king.

44 He sent with him Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, Benaiah son of Jehoiada, the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and they set him upon the king's mule.

45 Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anointed him king in Gihon. They ascended from there rejoicing, and the city resounded. This is the sound you heard.

46 Moreover, Solomon sits upon the throne of the kingdom.

47 The king's servants entered and blessed our lord King David, saying, 'May God enlarge Solomon's name above your name, and may he magnify his throne above your throne.' And the king adored upon his bed.

48 He spoke: 'Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, who today has given one sitting upon my throne while my eyes see it.'"

49 Therefore all who had been invited by Adonijah were terrified. They arose and each went his own way.

50 But Adonijah, fearing Solomon, arose, departed, and took hold of the horn of the altar.

51 They reported to Solomon, saying, "Behold, Adonijah fears King Solomon and has taken hold of the horn of the altar, saying, 'Let King Solomon swear to me today that he will not kill his servant with the sword.'"

52 Solomon said, "If he is a good man, not even one hair of his shall fall to the earth. But if evil is found in him, he shall die."

53 Therefore King Solomon sent and brought him away from the altar. Entering, he adored King Solomon. Solomon said to him, “Go into your house.”

CHAPTER 2

1 Now the days of David drew near that he should die, and he commanded Solomon his son, saying,

2 “I am entering the way of all the earth. Be strengthened and be a man.

3 Observe the charges of the Lord your God, that you may walk in his ways, keep his ceremonies, his precepts, his judgments, and his testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses, that you may understand everything you do and wherever you turn,

4 that the Lord may confirm his words that he spoke concerning me, saying, ‘If your sons guard their ways and walk before me in truth with all their heart and all their soul, a man from you shall not be taken away from the throne of Israel.’

5 You also know what Joab son of Zeruiah did to me, what he did to the two commanders of Israel’s army, Abner son of Ner and Amasa son of Jether. He killed them and shed the blood of war in peace, and he placed the gore of battle upon the belt around his loins and upon the shoe on his feet.

6 Therefore you shall act according to your wisdom and shall not lead his gray hair peacefully down to the realm of the dead.

7 But you shall also repay favor to the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite, and they shall be among those who eat at your table, for they met me when I fled from the face of Absalom your brother.

8 You also have with you Shimei son of Gera, a son of Benjamin from Bahurim, who cursed me with an exceedingly grievous curse when I went to the camp. But because he descended to meet me when I crossed the Jordan, I swore to him by the Lord, saying, ‘I shall not kill you with the sword.’

9 You shall not allow him to be innocent. But you are a wise man, that you may know what you shall do to him, and you shall lead his gray hairs down with blood to the realm of the dead.”

10 Therefore David slept with his fathers and was buried in the City of David.

11 The days during which David reigned over Israel were forty years. He reigned in Hebron seven years and in Jerusalem thirty-three.

12 Solomon sat upon the throne of David his father, and his kingdom was exceedingly strengthened.

13 Then Adonijah son of Haggith entered to Bathsheba, Solomon’s mother. She said to him, “Is your entrance peaceful?” He answered, “It is peaceful.”

14 And he added, “I have a word for you.” She said to him, “Speak.” And he said,

15 “You know that the kingdom was mine and that all Israel had set me before itself as king. But the kingdom was transferred and became my brother’s, for it was appointed to him by the Lord.

16 Now, therefore, I ask one petition of you: do not confound my face.” She said to him, “Speak.”

17 He said, “I pray that you speak to King Solomon—for he cannot deny you anything—that he may give me Abishag the Shunammite as wife.”

18 Bathsheba said, “Good. I shall speak to the king for you.”

19 Therefore Bathsheba came to King Solomon to speak to him for Adonijah. The king arose to meet her and adored her, and he sat upon his throne. A throne was placed for the king’s mother, and she sat at his right hand.

20 She said to him, “I beseech one little petition of you. Do not confound my face.” The king said to her, “Ask, my mother, for it is not lawful that I turn away your face.”

21 She said, “Let Abishag the Shunammite be given as wife to Adonijah your brother.”

22 King Solomon answered and said to his mother, “Why do you ask Abishag the Shunammite for Adonijah? Ask the kingdom for him also, for he is my brother, older than I, and he has Abiathar the priest and Joab son of Zeruiah.”

23 Therefore King Solomon swore by the Lord, saying, “May God do these things to me and add these also, for Adonijah has spoken this word against his own soul.

24 And now the Lord lives, who has strengthened me, set me upon the throne of David my father, and made me a house just as he spoke: Adonijah shall be killed this day.”

25 King Solomon sent by the hand of Benaiah son of Jehoiada, who killed him, and he died.

26 The king also said to Abiathar the priest, “Go to your field in Anathoth. You are indeed a man of death, but I shall not kill you today, because you carried the ark of the Lord God before David my father and endured labor in everything in which my father labored."

27 Therefore Solomon cast out Abiathar, that he should not be priest of the Lord, so that the word of the Lord which he had spoken concerning the house of Eli in Shiloh might be fulfilled.

28 News came to Joab that Joab had turned aside after Adonijah and had not turned aside after Solomon. Therefore Joab fled into the tabernacle of the Lord and took hold of the horn of the altar.

29 It was reported to King Solomon that Joab had fled into the tabernacle of the Lord and was beside the altar. Solomon sent Benaiah son of Jehoiada, saying, "Go, kill him."

30 Benaiah came to the tabernacle of the Lord and said to him, "Thus says the king: 'Come out.'" He said, "I shall not come out, but I shall die here." Benaiah reported the word back to the king, saying, "Thus Joab spoke, and thus he answered me."

31 The king said to him, "Do as he has spoken. Kill him and bury him, and you shall remove from me and from my father's house the innocent blood shed by Joab.

32 The Lord shall return his blood upon his own head, because he killed two just men, better than himself. He killed them with the sword while my father David did not know it: Abner son of Ner, commander of Israel's army, and Amasa son of Jether, commander of Judah's army.

33 Their blood shall return upon Joab's head and upon the head of his seed forever. But may peace from the Lord be upon David, his seed, his house, and his throne forever."

34 Therefore Benaiah son of Jehoiada ascended, attacked him, and killed him. He was buried in his house in the desert.

35 The king appointed Benaiah son of Jehoiada over the army in his place, and he set Zadok the priest in Abiathar's place.

36 The king also sent and called Shimei. He said to him, "Build yourself a house in Jerusalem and dwell there. You shall not go out from there, here or there.

37 On whatever day you go out and cross the brook Kidron, know that you shall be killed. Your blood shall be upon your own head."

38 Shimei said to the king, "The word is good. Just as my lord the king has spoken, so shall your servant do." Therefore Shimei dwelt in Jerusalem for many days.

39 But it happened after three years that Shimei's servants fled to Achish son of Maacah, king of Gath. It was reported to Shimei that his servants had gone into Gath.

40 Shimei arose, saddled his donkey, and went to Achish in Gath to seek his servants, and he brought them back from Gath.

41 It was reported to Solomon that Shimei had gone from Jerusalem into Gath and returned.

42 Sending, he called him and said to him, "Did I not bind you by witness through the Lord and forewarn you, 'On whatever day you go out here or there, know that you shall die'? And you answered me, 'The word I have heard is good.'

43 Why, therefore, did you not keep the oath of the Lord and the precept that I commanded you?"

44 The king said to Shimei, "You know all the evil of which your heart is conscious, which you did to David my father. The Lord has returned your malice upon your own head.

45 But King Solomon shall be blessed, and David's throne shall be stable before the Lord forever."

46 Therefore the king commanded Benaiah son of Jehoiada, who went out and struck him, and he died.

CHAPTER 3

1 Therefore the kingdom was strengthened in Solomon's hand, and he was joined by affinity to Pharaoh, king of Egypt. For he took Pharaoh's daughter and brought her into the City of David until he finished building his own house, the house of the Lord, and the wall of Jerusalem all around.

2 Nevertheless, the people sacrificed in the high places, for a temple had not been built for the name of the Lord until that day.

3 Solomon loved the Lord, walking in the precepts of David his father, except that he sacrificed and burned incense in the high places.

4 And so he went to Gibeon to sacrifice there, for that was the greatest high place. Solomon offered one thousand victims as a holocaust upon that altar in Gibeon.

5 The Lord appeared to Solomon in a dream by night, saying, "Ask what you desire, that I may give it to you."

6 Solomon said, "You showed great mercy to your servant David my father, just as he walked in your sight in truth, justice, and an upright heart with you. You guarded your great mercy for him and gave him a son sitting upon his throne, as it is today.

7 And now, O Lord God, you have made your servant reign in place of David my father. But I am a little boy, ignorant of my going out and my coming in.

8 Your servant is in the midst of the people you have chosen, an infinite people who cannot be numbered or counted because of their multitude.

9 Therefore you shall give your servant a docile heart, that he may be able to judge your people and discern between good and evil. For who will be able to judge this people, this great people of yours?"

10 Therefore the word was pleasing before the Lord, because Solomon had asked a thing of this kind.

11 The Lord said to Solomon, "Because you asked this word and did not ask for yourself many days, riches, or the souls of your enemies, but asked for yourself wisdom to discern judgment,

12 behold, I have done according to your words and have given you a wise and understanding heart, so much that no one like you was before you, nor shall anyone arise after you.

13 But I have also given you these things that you did not ask: namely, riches and glory, so that no one among all kings in past days shall have been like you.

14 But if you walk in my ways and keep my precepts and my commandments, just as your father walked, I shall make your days long."

15 Therefore Solomon awoke and understood that it was a dream. When he had come to Jerusalem, he stood before the ark of the covenant of the Lord, offered holocausts, made peace victims, and prepared a great feast for all his servants.

16 Then two women who were harlots came to the king and stood before him.

17 One of them said, "I beseech you, my lord: I and this woman lived in one house, and I gave birth beside her in the bedchamber.

18 On the third day after I gave birth, this woman also gave birth. We were together, and no one else was with us in the house except the two of us.

19 But this woman's son died in the night, for while sleeping she crushed him.

20 Rising in the silence of the untimely night, she took my son from my side while I, your handmaid, slept, and placed him in her bosom. But her own son, who was dead, she placed in my bosom.

21 When I arose in the morning to give milk to my son, he appeared dead. But looking at him more diligently in the clear light, I perceived that he was not mine whom I had borne."

22 The other woman answered, "It is not as you say. Your son is dead, but mine lives." On the contrary, the first woman said, "You lie! For my son lives, and your son is dead." And in this manner they disputed before the king.

23 Then the king said, "This woman says, 'My son lives, and your son is dead.' And that woman answers, 'No, but your son is dead, and mine lives.'"

24 Therefore the king said, "Bring me a sword." When they had brought a sword before the king,

25 he said, "Divide the living infant into two parts, and give half to one and half to the other."

26 But the woman whose son was living said to the king—for her bowels were moved over her son—"I beseech you, my lord, give the living infant to her, and do not kill him." On the contrary, the other said, "Let him be neither mine nor yours, but let him be divided."

27 The king answered and said, "Give the living infant to this woman, and let him not be killed, for she is his mother."

28 And so all Israel heard the judgment that the king had judged. They feared the king, seeing that the wisdom of God was in him to execute judgment.

CHAPTER 4

1 Now King Solomon reigned over all Israel.

2 These were the princes he had: Azariah son of Zadok the priest;

3 Elihoreph and Ahijah, sons of Shisha, scribes; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud, keeper of the records;

4 Benaiah son of Jehoiada over the army; and Zadok and Abiathar, priests;

5 Azariah son of Nathan over those who attended the king; Zabud son of Nathan, priest and friend of the king;

6 Ahishar, governor of the house; and Adoniram son of Abda over the tribute.

7 Solomon had twelve prefects over all Israel who provided provisions for the king and his house. Each one supplied what was necessary for one month of the year.

8 These are their names: Ben-hur in Mount Ephraim;

9 Ben-dekar in Makaz, Shaalbim, Beth-shemesh, Elon, and Beth-hanan;

10 Ben-hesed in Arubboth—Socoh and all the land of Hepher belonged to him;

11 Ben-abinadab, who had all Naphath-dor and had Taphath daughter of Solomon as wife;

12 Baanah son of Ahilud governed Taanach, Megiddo, and all Beth-shan, which is beside Zarethan beneath Jezreel, from Beth-shan as far as Abel-meholah opposite Jokmeam;

13 Ben-geber in Ramoth-gilead—he had the villages of Jair son of Manasseh in Gilead and presided over all the region of Argob, which is in Bashan: sixty great and walled cities that had bronze bars;

14 Ahinadab son of Iddo presided in Mahanaim;

15 Ahimaaz in Naphtali—he also had Basemath daughter of Solomon in marriage;

16 Baanah son of Hushai in Asher and Bealoth;

17 Jehoshaphat son of Paruah in Issachar;

18 Shimei son of Ela in Benjamin;

19 Geber son of Uri in the land of Gilead, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorite and Og king of Bashan, over everything that was in that land.

20 Judah and Israel were innumerable as the sand of the sea in multitude, eating, drinking, and rejoicing.

21 Solomon held in his dominion all the kingdoms from the river to the land of the Philistines and as far as the border of Egypt. They offered him gifts and served him all the days of his life.

22 Solomon’s food for each day was thirty cors of fine flour and sixty cors of flour,

23 ten fat oxen, twenty pasture-fed oxen, and one hundred rams, besides hunted deer, gazelles, buffaloes, and fattened birds.

24 For he possessed the entire region beyond the river, from Tiphsah as far as Gaza, and all the kings of those regions. He had peace on every side all around.

25 Judah and Israel dwelt without any fear, each one beneath his vine and beneath his fig tree, from Dan as far as Beersheba, all the days of Solomon.

26 Solomon had forty thousand stalls for chariot horses and twelve thousand horsemen.

27 The king’s prefects mentioned above nourished them. They also provided what was necessary for King Solomon’s table at their appointed time with immense care.

28 They also carried barley and straw for the horses and beasts of burden to the place where the king was, according to what had been appointed for them.

29 God also gave Solomon wisdom, exceedingly great prudence, and breadth of heart like the sand that is upon the seashore.

30 Solomon’s wisdom surpassed the wisdom of all the Eastern peoples and the Egyptians.

31 He was wiser than all men: wiser than Ethan the Ezrahite, Heman, Chalcol, and Darda, sons of Mahol. He was renowned among all the nations around him.

32 Solomon also spoke three thousand parables, and his songs were one thousand and five.

33 He discussed trees, from the cedar that is in Lebanon as far as the hyssop that comes out from the wall. He discoursed about beasts of burden, birds, reptiles, and fish.

34 People came from all nations to hear Solomon’s wisdom, and from all the kings of the earth who heard of his wisdom.

CHAPTER 5

1 Hiram king of Tyre also sent his servants to Solomon, for he had heard that they had anointed him king in place of his father, because Hiram had been David's friend at all times.

2 Solomon sent to Hiram, saying,

3 "You know the desire of David my father and that he was unable to build a house for the name of the Lord his God because of the wars pressing around him, until the Lord placed them beneath the sole of his feet.

4 But now the Lord my God has given me rest all around, and there is neither satan nor evil encounter.

5 For this reason I intend to build a temple for the name of the Lord my God, just as the Lord spoke to David my father, saying, 'Your son, whom I shall set upon your throne in your place, he shall build a house for my name.'

6 Therefore command your servants to cut cedars from Lebanon for me, and let my servants be with your servants. I shall give you whatever wages you ask for your servants, for you know that among my people there is no man who knows how to cut timber like the Sidonians."

7 When Hiram had heard Solomon's words, he rejoiced exceedingly and said, "Blessed is the Lord God today, who has given David a most wise son over this exceedingly great people."

8 Hiram sent to Solomon, saying, "I have heard everything you commanded me. I shall do all your desire concerning cedar and fir timber.

9 My servants shall bring it down from Lebanon to the sea, and I shall arrange it into rafts upon the sea as far as the place you designate to me. I shall land it there, and you shall take it away. You shall provide what is necessary for me, that food may be given to my house."

10 And so Hiram gave Solomon cedar timber and fir timber according to all his desire.

11 Solomon provided Hiram twenty thousand cors of wheat as food for his house and twenty cors of the purest oil. Solomon gave these things to Hiram each year.

12 The Lord also gave wisdom to Solomon, just as he had spoken to him. There was peace between Hiram and Solomon, and the two struck a covenant.

13 King Solomon chose laborers from all Israel, and the levy was thirty thousand men.

14 He sent them into Lebanon, ten thousand each month by turns, so that they were in their houses for two months. Adoniram was over this levy.

15 Solomon had seventy thousand who carried burdens and eighty thousand stonecutters in the mountain,

16 besides the overseers who presided over the individual works, three thousand three hundred in number, who commanded the people and those doing the work.

17 The king commanded them to take up great stones, precious stones for the temple's foundation, and square them.

18 Solomon's masons and Hiram's masons shaped them, while the Gebalites prepared the timber and stones to build the house.

CHAPTER 6

1 And it happened in the four hundred eightieth year after the children of Israel went out from the land of Egypt, in the fourth year, in the month of Ziv—which is the second month—of Solomon's reign over Israel, that the house began to be built for the Lord.

2 The house that King Solomon was building for the Lord was sixty cubits in length, twenty cubits in width, and thirty cubits in height.

3 The portico before the temple was twenty cubits long, according to the measure of the temple's width, and it was ten cubits wide before the face of the temple.

4 He made oblique windows in the temple.

5 He built floors upon the wall of the temple all around, upon the walls of the house around the temple and the oracle, and he made side chambers all around.

6 The floor beneath was five cubits wide, the middle floor six cubits wide, and the third floor seven cubits wide. He placed beams around the outside of the house so that they would not be fastened into the temple walls.

7 While the house was being built, it was built from stones shaped and perfected beforehand. Neither hammer, axe, nor any iron tool was heard in the house while it was being built.

8 The door of the middle side chamber was in the right part of the house. By a winding stair they ascended into the middle upper room, and from the middle into the third.

9 He built the house and completed it, and he covered the house with cedar-paneled ceilings.

10 He built a floor five cubits high over the entire house and covered the house with cedar timber.

11 And the word of the Lord came to Solomon, saying,

12 "Concerning this house that you are building: if you walk in my precepts, execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments, walking in them, I shall confirm for you my word that I spoke to David your father.

13 I shall dwell in the midst of the children of Israel and shall not forsake my people Israel."

14 Therefore Solomon built the house and completed it.

15 He built the walls inside the house with cedar panels. From the floor of the house to the summit of the walls and as far as the ceilings, he covered the interior with cedar timber, and he covered the house's floor with fir boards.

16 At the rear part of the temple he built cedar paneling twenty cubits long, from the floor as far as the upper parts, and he made the inner house of the oracle into the Holy of Holies.

17 The temple itself before the doors of the oracle was forty cubits long.

18 The whole house was clothed with cedar inside, having its crafted turnings and joints and projecting carvings. Everything was clothed with cedar panels, and no stone at all could appear in the wall.

19 He had made the oracle in the middle of the house, in the inner part, that he might place the ark of the covenant of the Lord there.

20 The oracle was twenty cubits long, twenty cubits wide, and twenty cubits high. He covered and clothed it with the purest gold, and he also clothed the altar with cedar.

21 He also covered the house before the oracle with the purest gold and fastened the plates with golden nails.

22 There was nothing in the temple that was not covered with gold. He also covered the entire altar of the oracle with gold.

23 In the oracle he made two cherubim from olive wood, ten cubits high.

24 One wing of a cherub was five cubits, and the cherub's other wing was five cubits; that is, they measured ten cubits from the end of one wing to the end of the other wing.

25 The second cherub was also ten cubits. The two cherubim were of equal measure and one workmanship.

26 That is, one cherub had a height of ten cubits, and likewise the second cherub.

27 He placed the cherubim in the middle of the inner temple. The cherubim extended their wings: one wing touched one wall, and a wing of the second cherub touched the other wall, while their other wings touched one another in the middle part of the temple.

28 He also covered the cherubim with gold.

29 He carved all the walls of the temple all around with various carvings and turned work. He made upon them cherubim, palms, and various images, as though projecting from and coming out of the wall.

30 He also covered the floor of the house with gold, inside and outside.

31 At the entrance of the oracle he made little doors of olive wood and five-sided doorposts.

32 He made two doors of olive wood and carved upon them an image of cherubim, forms of palms, and reliefs projecting greatly. He covered them with gold, covering the cherubim, the palms, and the rest with gold.

33 At the entrance of the temple he also made four-sided doorposts of olive wood,

34 and two doors of fir wood on either side. Each door was double and opened while holding to the other.

35 He carved cherubim, palms, and carvings projecting greatly, and he covered everything with golden plates, squared according to rule.

36 He built the inner court with three courses of polished stones and one course of cedar timber.

37 In the fourth year the house of the Lord was founded in the month of Ziv.

38 In the eleventh year, in the month of Bul—which is the eighth month—the house was completed in all its work and all its vessels. He built it in seven years.

CHAPTER 7

1 Solomon built his own house in thirteen years and brought it all the way to perfection.

2 He also built the House of the Forest of Lebanon, one hundred cubits long, fifty cubits wide, and thirty cubits high, with four walkways between cedar columns, for he had cut cedar timbers into columns.

3 He clothed the entire chamber with cedar panels. It was supported by forty-five columns, and one row had fifteen columns

4 set opposite one another,

5 facing one another with equal space between the columns. Above the columns were four-sided timbers, all equal.

6 He made a portico of columns fifty cubits long and thirty cubits wide, and another portico before the greater portico, with columns and architraves over the columns.

7 He also made the Portico of the Throne, in which the tribunal is, and he covered it with cedar timber from the floor to the summit.

8 The little house in which he sat to judge was in the middle of the portico and of similar workmanship. He also made a house for Pharaoh's daughter, whom Solomon had taken as wife, with workmanship like this portico.

9 Everything was of precious stones, which were sawn to a certain rule and measure, both inside and outside, from the foundation to the summit of the walls, and outside as far as the great court.

10 The foundations were of precious stones, great stones of ten or eight cubits.

11 Above were precious stones cut to equal measure, and cedar likewise.

12 The great round court had three courses of cut stones and one course of shaped cedar, as did the inner court of the house of the Lord and the portico of the house.

13 King Solomon also sent and brought Hiram from Tyre,

14 the son of a widowed woman from the tribe of Naphtali, whose father was a Tyrian, a bronze artisan, full of wisdom, understanding, and knowledge to do every work in bronze. When he had come to King Solomon, he did all his work.

15 He cast two bronze columns. One column was eighteen cubits high, and a line twelve cubits long encircled each column.

16 He also made two capitals to be placed upon the heads of the columns, cast from bronze. One capital was five cubits high, and the other capital was five cubits high.

17 They were made like a net and chains woven together with wondrous workmanship. Each cast capital of the columns had seven rows of network on one capital and seven networks on the other capital.

18 He completed the columns and made two rows around each network to cover the capitals that were upon the summit with pomegranates. He did the same with the second capital.

19 The capitals upon the heads of the columns were fashioned like lily-work in the portico, four cubits high.

20 And again there were other capitals upon the summit of the columns above, beside the measure of the column opposite the networks. There were two hundred rows of pomegranates around the second capital.

21 He set up the two columns in the temple's portico. When he had set up the right column, he called it by the name Jachin. Likewise, he raised the second column and called its name Boaz.

22 Upon the heads of the columns he placed work in the form of a lily, and the work of the columns was completed.

23 He also made a cast sea, ten cubits from rim to rim, round all around. Its height was five cubits, and a cord thirty cubits long encircled it all around.

24 Carving beneath the rim encircled it, surrounding the sea by ten cubits. There were two rows of grooved carvings, cast together.

25 It stood upon twelve oxen, of which three looked toward the north, three toward the west, three toward the south, and three toward the east. The sea was above them, and all their hind parts were hidden inward.

26 The basin's thickness was three inches. Its rim was like the rim of a cup and the leaf of an opening lily. It held two thousand baths.

27 He made ten bronze bases. Each base was four cubits long, four cubits wide, and three cubits high.

28 The workmanship of the bases themselves was engraved, with carvings between the joints.

29 Between the little crowns and interlacings were lions, oxen, and cherubim, and likewise above upon the joints. Beneath the lions and oxen were what appeared to be hanging bronze straps.

30 Each base had four wheels and bronze axles, and upon its four parts were what appeared to be little shoulders, cast beneath the basin and facing one another.

31 The mouth of the basin was inside at the summit of the capital. What appeared outside was one cubit, entirely round, and likewise it was a cubit and a half. At the corners of the columns were various carvings, and the spaces between the columns were square, not round.

32 The four wheels at the four corners of a base were joined together beneath the base. One wheel was a cubit and a half high.

33 The wheels were like those customarily made upon a chariot. Their axles, spokes, rims, and hubs were all cast.

34 Those four little shoulders at each corner of a single base were cast from and joined to the base itself.

35 At the summit of the base was a certain round form half a cubit high, fashioned so that the basin could be placed upon it, having its carvings and various sculptures from itself.

36 Upon those bronze panels and at the corners he also carved cherubim, lions, and palms, as though in the likeness of a standing man, so that they appeared not carved but applied all around.

37 In this manner he made ten bases, with one casting, measure, and similar carving.

38 He also made ten bronze basins. One basin held forty baths and was four cubits. He placed each basin upon each one of the ten bases.

39 He set ten bases, five at the right part of the temple and five at the left. But he placed the sea at the right part of the temple, toward the east, facing south.

40 Therefore Hiram made pots, bowls, and hooks and completed all King Solomon’s work in the temple of the Lord:

41 the two columns; the two cords of the capitals over the capitals of the columns; and the two networks to cover the two cords that were over the heads of the columns;

42 four hundred pomegranates upon the two networks, two rows of pomegranates upon each network, to cover the cords of the capitals that were over the heads of the columns;

43 the ten bases and the ten basins upon the bases;

44 the one sea and the twelve oxen beneath the sea;

45 and the pots, bowls, and hooks. All the vessels Hiram made for King Solomon in the house of the Lord were of brass.

46 The king cast them in the plain country of the Jordan, in the clay soil between Succoth and Zarethan.

47 Solomon set out all the vessels, but because of their exceedingly great multitude the weight of the bronze was not determined.

48 Solomon made all the vessels in the house of the Lord: the golden altar and the golden table upon which the bread of presentation was placed;

49 the golden lampstands, five at the right and five at the left opposite the oracle, of pure gold; forms like lily blossoms; golden lamps above; and golden tongs;

50 pitchers, forks, bowls, little mortars, and censers of the purest gold. The hinges of the doors of the inner house of the Holy of Holies and the doors of the temple house were of gold.

51 He completed all the work Solomon was doing in the house of the Lord. He brought in the things David his father had sanctified—silver, gold, and vessels—and placed them in the treasuries of the house of the Lord.

CHAPTER 8

1 Then all the elders of Israel gathered with the princes of the tribes and the leaders of the families of the children of Israel to King Solomon in Jerusalem, that they might carry the ark of the covenant of the Lord from the City of David, that is, from Zion.

2 All Israel assembled to King Solomon in the month of Ethanim, on the solemn day. This is the seventh month.

3 All the elders of Israel came, and the priests took up the ark.

4 They carried the ark of the Lord, the tabernacle of the covenant, and all the vessels of the sanctuary that were in the tabernacle. The priests and Levites carried them.

5 King Solomon and all the multitude of Israel who had assembled to him walked with him before the ark, and they sacrificed sheep and oxen beyond estimation and number.

6 The priests brought the ark of the covenant of the Lord into its place, into the temple's oracle, into the Holy of Holies, beneath the wings of the cherubim.

7 For the cherubim spread their wings over the place of the ark and covered the ark and its poles from above.

8 Since the poles projected and their ends appeared outside the sanctuary before the oracle, they did not appear farther outside. They have been there to the present day.

9 Nothing was in the ark except the two stone tablets that Moses had placed in it at Horeb, when the Lord struck a covenant with the children of Israel as they went out from the land of Egypt.

10 And it happened, when the priests had gone out from the sanctuary, that a cloud filled the house of the Lord.

11 The priests could not stand and minister because of the cloud, for the glory of the Lord had filled the house of the Lord.

12 Then Solomon said, "The Lord said that he would dwell in a cloud.

13 I have surely built a house for your habitation, your most firm throne forever."

14 The king turned his face and blessed the entire assembly of Israel, for the entire assembly of Israel was standing.

15 Solomon said, "Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, who spoke with his mouth to David my father and fulfilled it with his hands, saying,

16 'From the day I led my people Israel out of Egypt, I did not choose a city from all the tribes of Israel that a house might be built and my name might be there. But I chose David to be over my people Israel.'

17 David my father desired to build a house for the name of the Lord God of Israel.

18 The Lord said to David my father, 'Because you thought in your heart to build a house for my name, you did well in considering this very thing in your mind.

19 Nevertheless, you shall not build me a house. Instead, your son who shall come out from your loins—he shall build a house for my name.'

20 The Lord has confirmed his word that he spoke. I have stood in place of David my father and sat upon the throne of Israel, just as the Lord spoke, and I have built a house for the name of the Lord God of Israel.

21 There I established a place for the ark in which is the covenant of the Lord that he struck with our fathers when they went out from the land of Egypt."

22 Solomon stood before the altar of the Lord in the sight of the assembly of Israel and spread his hands toward heaven.

23 He said, "O Lord God of Israel, there is no god like you in heaven above or upon the earth below. You guard the pact and mercy for your servants who walk before you with all their heart.

24 You have kept for your servant David my father the things you spoke to him. You spoke with your mouth and fulfilled them with your hands, as this day proves.

25 Now, therefore, O Lord God of Israel, preserve for your servant David my father the things you spoke to him, saying, 'A man from you who sits upon the throne of Israel shall not be taken away before me, provided only that your sons guard their way and walk before me as you walked in my sight.'

26 And now, O Lord God of Israel, let your words that you spoke to your servant David my father be established.

27 Is it therefore to be thought that God truly dwells upon the earth? For if heaven and the heavens of heavens cannot contain you, how much less this house that I have built?

28 But look upon the prayer of your servant and upon his pleas, O Lord my God. Hear the hymn and prayer that your servant prays before you today,

29 that your eyes may be open over this house night and day, over the house concerning which you said, ‘My name shall be there,’ that you may hear the prayer your servant prays to you in this place.

30 May you hear the supplication of your servant and your people Israel, whatever they pray in this place. You shall hear in heaven, in the place of your habitation, and when you hear, you shall be gracious.

31 If a man sins against his neighbor and is bound by some oath under which he is constrained, and he comes because of the oath before your altar in your house,

32 you shall hear in heaven, act, and judge your servants, condemning the impious and returning his way upon his head, and justifying the just and repaying him according to his justice.

33 If your people Israel flee their enemies because they will have sinned against you, and, doing penance and confessing your name, they come, pray, and supplicate you in this house,

34 hear in heaven and forgive the sin of your people Israel, and you shall bring them back into the land you gave to their fathers.

35 If heaven is closed and it does not rain because of their sins, and, praying in this place, they do penance toward your name and turn away from their sins because of their affliction,

36 hear them in heaven and forgive the sins of your servants and your people Israel. Show them the good way by which they may walk, and give rain upon your land, which you gave to your people as a possession.

37 If famine arises in the land, or pestilence, corrupted air, blight, locust, or mildew, or if their enemy afflicts them by besieging their gates—every plague, every sickness,

38 every curse and imprecation that befalls any man from your people Israel—if anyone knows the plague of his own heart and spreads his hands in this house,

39 you shall hear in heaven, in the place of your habitation, be propitiated, and act so as to give each one according to all his ways, just as you see his heart—for you alone know the heart of all the children of men—

40 that they may fear you all the days they live upon the face of the land you gave to our fathers.

41 Moreover, when a foreigner who is not from your people Israel comes from a distant land because of your name—for your great name, your strong hand, and your arm

42 extended everywhere shall be heard of—when, therefore, he comes and prays in this place,

43 you shall hear in heaven, in the firmament of your habitation, and do everything for which the foreigner calls upon you, that all the peoples of the lands may learn to fear your name as your people Israel does and may prove that your name has been invoked over this house that I have built.

44 If your people go out to war against their enemies by whatever way you send them, they shall pray to you toward the way of the city you have chosen and toward the house I have built for your name.

45 You shall hear their prayers and pleas in heaven and execute their judgment.

46 But if they sin against you—for there is no man who does not sin—and in anger you deliver them to their enemies and they are led captive into the land of their enemies, far or near,

47 and they do penance in their heart in the place of captivity, and, being converted, supplicate you in their captivity, saying, ‘We have sinned; we have acted iniquitously; we have conducted ourselves impiously,’

48 and they return to you with all their heart and all their soul in the land of their enemies to which they were led captive, and pray to you toward the way of their land that you gave to their fathers, the city you chose, and the temple I built for your name,

49 you shall hear their prayers and pleas in heaven, in the firmament of your throne, and execute their judgment.

50 You shall be propitiated toward your people who sinned against you and toward all their iniquities by which they transgressed against you. You shall give them mercy before those who held them captive, that they may have mercy upon them.

51 For they are your people and your inheritance, whom you led out from the land of Egypt, from the midst of the iron furnace.

52 Let your eyes be open to the supplication of your servant and your people Israel, that you may hear them in everything for which they call upon you.

53 For you separated them for yourself as an inheritance from all the peoples of the earth, just as you spoke through Moses your servant when you led our fathers out of Egypt, O Lord God.”

54 And it happened, when Solomon had finished praying to the Lord all this prayer and supplication, that he arose from before the altar of the Lord, for he had fixed both knees upon the earth and spread his hands toward heaven.

55 Therefore he stood and blessed the entire assembly of Israel with a loud voice, saying,

56 “Blessed is the Lord, who has given rest to his people Israel according to everything he spoke. Not even one word has fallen from all the good things he spoke through Moses his servant.

57 May the Lord our God be with us as he was with our fathers, neither forsaking us nor casting us away.

58 Rather, may he incline our hearts to himself, that we may walk in all his ways and keep his commandments, his ceremonies, and his judgments, whatever he commanded our fathers.

59 And may these words of mine, by which I have supplicated before the Lord, draw near to the Lord our God day and night, that he may execute judgment for his servant and for his people Israel day by day,

60 that all the peoples of the earth may know that the Lord himself is God and there is no other besides him.

61 May our heart also be perfect with the Lord our God, that we may walk in his decrees and keep his commandments, as also today.”

62 Therefore the king and all Israel with him sacrificed victims before the Lord.

63 Solomon slaughtered peace victims, which he sacrificed to the Lord: twenty-two thousand oxen and one hundred twenty thousand sheep. And the king and the children of Israel dedicated the temple of the Lord.

64 On that day the king sanctified the middle of the court that was before the house of the Lord, for there he made the holocaust, the sacrifice, and the fat of the peace offerings, because the bronze altar that was before the Lord was too small and could not contain the holocaust, the sacrifice, and the fat of the peace offerings.

65 Therefore at that time Solomon held a celebrated solemnity, and all Israel with him, a great multitude from the entrance of Hamath as far as the brook of Egypt, before the Lord our God, for seven days and seven days, that is, fourteen days.

66 On the eighth day he sent the peoples away. Blessing the king, they departed to their tents rejoicing and with a cheerful heart over all the good things the Lord had done for David his servant and Israel his people.

CHAPTER 9

1 And it happened, when Solomon had completed the building of the house of the Lord, the king's house, and everything he had desired and willed to do,

2 that the Lord appeared to him a second time, just as he had appeared to him in Gibeon.

3 The Lord said to him, "I have heard your prayer and your supplication, which you supplicated before me. I have sanctified this house that you built, that I might place my name there forever, and my eyes and my heart shall be there all days.

4 And you, if you walk before me as your father walked, in simplicity of heart and equity, and do everything I commanded you and keep my statutes and my judgments,

5 I shall establish the throne of your kingdom over Israel forever, just as I spoke to David your father, saying, 'A man from your stock shall not be taken away from the throne of Israel.'

6 But if you and your sons turn completely away, not following me or keeping my commandments and ceremonies that I set before you, but go and worship foreign gods and adore them,

7 I shall take Israel away from the face of the land I gave them, and the temple I sanctified for my name I shall cast away from my sight. Israel shall become a proverb and a tale among all peoples.

8 This house shall become an example. Everyone who passes by it shall be astonished, shall hiss, and shall say, 'Why has the Lord done thus to this land and this house?'

9 They shall answer, 'Because they forsook the Lord their God, who led their fathers out from the land of Egypt, followed foreign gods, adored them, and worshiped them. For this reason the Lord brought all this evil upon them.'"

10 Now when twenty years had been completed after Solomon built the two houses, that is, the house of the Lord and the king's house—

11 Hiram king of Tyre having provided Solomon cedar and fir timber and gold according to everything for which he had need—then Solomon gave Hiram twenty towns in the land of Galilee.

12 Hiram went out from Tyre to see the towns Solomon had given him, and they did not please him.

13 He said, "Are these the cities you have given me, brother?" And he called them the land of Cabul to this day.

14 Hiram also sent King Solomon one hundred twenty talents of gold.

15 This is the sum of the expenses King Solomon raised to build the house of the Lord, his own house, Millo, the wall of Jerusalem, Hazor, Megiddo, and Gezer.

16 Pharaoh king of Egypt ascended, took Gezer, burned it with fire, and killed the Canaanite who dwelt in the city. He gave it as a dowry to his daughter, Solomon's wife.

17 Therefore Solomon built Gezer and Lower Beth-horon,

18 Baalath, and Palmyra in the land of the desert.

19 He fortified all the villages that belonged to him and were without walls, the cities of chariots, the cities of horsemen, and whatever pleased him to build in Jerusalem, Lebanon, and all the land of his dominion.

20 All the people who remained from the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, who were not of the children of Israel—

21 their sons who remained in the land, whom the children of Israel had not been able to exterminate—Solomon made tributaries to this day.

22 But Solomon did not appoint anyone from the children of Israel to serve. Instead, they were warriors, his ministers, princes, commanders, and prefects of chariots and horses.

23 There were five hundred fifty chief overseers over all Solomon's works, who had the people subjected to them and commanded the appointed works.

24 Pharaoh's daughter ascended from the City of David into her house, which Solomon had built for her. Then he built Millo.

25 Three times each year Solomon offered holocausts and peace victims upon the altar he had built for the Lord and burned incense before the Lord, and the temple was perfected.

26 King Solomon also made a fleet in Ezion-geber, which is beside Elath upon the shore of the Red Sea, in the land of Edom.

27 Hiram sent his servants with that fleet, seafaring men knowledgeable about the sea, with Solomon’s servants.

28 When they had come to Ophir, they took from there four hundred twenty talents of gold and carried it to King Solomon.

CHAPTER 10

1 The queen of Sheba also, having heard Solomon’s fame in the name of the Lord, came to test him with riddles.

2 She entered Jerusalem with a great company and riches, with camels bearing spices, exceedingly infinite gold, and precious gems. She came to King Solomon and spoke to him everything she had in her heart.

3 Solomon taught her all the words she had proposed. There was no word that could be hidden from the king and that he did not answer her.

4 When the queen of Sheba saw all Solomon’s wisdom and the house he had built,

5 the food of his table, the dwellings of his servants, the ranks of his ministers, their garments, his cupbearers, and the holocausts he offered in the house of the Lord, she had no spirit left.

6 She said to the king, “The word I heard in my land

7 concerning your words and your wisdom is true. I did not believe those who reported it to me until I myself came, saw with my own eyes, and proved that half the truth had not been reported to me. Your wisdom and works are greater than the report I heard.

8 Blessed are your men, and blessed are your servants who always stand before you and hear your wisdom.

9 Blessed be the Lord your God, to whom you were pleasing and who placed you upon the throne of Israel. Because the Lord loved Israel forever, he appointed you king to execute judgment and justice.”

10 Therefore she gave the king one hundred twenty talents of gold, exceedingly many spices, and precious gems. Spices so abundant as those the queen of Sheba gave King Solomon were never brought again.

11 Hiram’s fleet also, which carried gold from Ophir, brought from Ophir exceedingly much thyine wood and precious gems.

12 From the thyine wood the king made supports for the house of the Lord and the king’s house, and harps and lyres for singers. Thyine wood of this kind was not brought nor seen to the present day.

13 King Solomon gave the queen of Sheba everything she desired and asked from him, besides what he had offered her freely as a royal gift. She returned and went into her land with her servants.

14 The weight of gold brought to Solomon each year was six hundred sixty-six talents of gold,

15 besides what the men over the revenues, the merchants, all who sold wares, all the kings of Arabia, and the leaders of the land brought.

16 King Solomon also made two hundred shields from the purest gold. He gave six hundred shekels of gold for the plates of one shield.

17 And he made three hundred bucklers from refined gold. Three hundred minas of gold clothed one buckler. The king placed them in the House of the Forest of Lebanon.

18 King Solomon also made a great throne of ivory and clothed it with exceedingly yellow gold.

19 It had six steps, and the summit of the throne was round at the back. Two arms on either side held the seat, and two lions stood beside each arm.

20 Twelve little lions stood upon the six steps, on either side. Work of this kind was not made in any kingdom.

21 All the vessels from which King Solomon drank were also gold, and all the furnishings of the House of the Forest of Lebanon were of the purest gold. There was no silver, nor was it considered of any value in Solomon’s days,

22 because once every three years the king’s fleet went by sea with Hiram’s fleet to Tarshish, carrying back from there gold, silver, elephants’ teeth, apes, and peacocks.

23 Therefore King Solomon was magnified above all the kings of the earth in riches and wisdom.

24 All the earth desired Solomon’s face, that it might hear his wisdom, which God had given in his heart.

25 Each one brought him gifts every year: vessels of silver and gold, garments, weapons of war, spices, horses, and mules.

26 Solomon gathered chariots and horsemen. He had one thousand four hundred chariots and twelve thousand horsemen, and he stationed them throughout fortified cities and with the king in Jerusalem.

27 He made the abundance of silver in Jerusalem as great as that of stones, and he provided a multitude of cedars like the sycamores that grow in the plains.

28 Horses were brought out for Solomon from Egypt and from Coa. For the king's merchants bought them from Coa and brought them at an appointed price.

29 A four-horse chariot came out from Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver and a horse for one hundred fifty. In this manner all the kings of the Hittites and of Syria sold horses.

CHAPTER 11

1 But King Solomon loved many foreign women, including Pharaoh's daughter, Moabite, Ammonite, Edomite, Sidonian, and Hittite women,

2 from the nations concerning which the Lord had said to the children of Israel, "You shall not enter to them, nor shall any of them enter to yours, for they will most certainly turn away your hearts so that you follow their gods." And so Solomon was joined to these with most ardent love.

3 He had seven hundred wives who were like queens and three hundred concubines, and the women turned away his heart.

4 When he was already old, his heart was corrupted through women so that he followed foreign gods, and his heart was not perfect with the Lord his God as the heart of David his father had been.

5 Instead, Solomon worshiped Ashtoreth, goddess of the Sidonians, and Molech, idol of the Ammonites.

6 Solomon did what was not pleasing before the Lord and did not fulfill the following of the Lord as David his father had done.

7 Then Solomon built a shrine for Chemosh, idol of Moab, upon the mountain opposite Jerusalem, and for Molech, idol of the children of Ammon.

8 In this manner he acted for all his foreign wives, who burned incense and sacrificed to their gods.

9 Therefore the Lord became angry with Solomon because his mind had turned away from the Lord God of Israel, who had appeared to him a second time

10 and had commanded him concerning this word, that he should not follow foreign gods. But he did not keep what the Lord commanded him.

11 And so the Lord said to Solomon, "Because you have held this with you and have not kept my pact and my precepts that I commanded you, I shall surely tear apart your kingdom and give it to your servant.

12 Nevertheless, I shall not do this in your days because of David your father. From the hand of your son I shall tear it away.

13 Nor shall I take away the whole kingdom, but I shall give one tribe to your son because of David my servant and Jerusalem, which I chose."

14 But the Lord raised up an adversary against Solomon, Hadad the Edomite, from the royal seed that was in Edom.

15 For when David was in Edom and Joab, commander of the army, had ascended to bury those who had been killed and had killed every male in Edom—

16 for Joab and all Israel remained there six months until he destroyed every male in Edom—

17 Hadad himself fled, and Edomite men from his father's servants with him, that he might enter Egypt. Hadad was a little boy.

18 When they had arisen from Midian, they came into Paran, took men from Paran with them, and entered Egypt to Pharaoh king of Egypt. He gave Hadad a house, appointed food for him, and allotted land.

19 Hadad found exceedingly great grace before Pharaoh, so much that he gave him as wife the sister of his own wife, the natural sister of Queen Tahpenes.

20 The sister of Tahpenes bore him a son, Genubath, and Tahpenes nourished him in Pharaoh's house. Genubath dwelt with Pharaoh among his sons.

21 When Hadad had heard in Egypt that David had slept with his fathers and that Joab, commander of the army, was dead, he said to Pharaoh, "Send me away, that I may go into my own land."

22 Pharaoh said to him, "For what do you lack with me, that you seek to go into your own land?" He answered, "Nothing, but I beseech you to send me away."

23 God also raised up an adversary against him, Rezon son of Eliada, who had fled from Hadadezer king of Zobah, his lord.

24 He gathered men against him and became a prince of robbers when David killed them. They went to Damascus, dwelt there, and appointed him king in Damascus.

25 He was an adversary to Israel all the days of Solomon. And this is the evil of Hadad and the hatred against Israel: he reigned in Syria.

26 Jeroboam also, son of Nebat, an Ephraimite from Zeredah and Solomon's servant, whose mother was named Zeruah, a widowed woman, lifted his hand against the king.

27 This is the cause of his rebellion against him: Solomon built Millo and leveled the chasm of the City of David his father.

28 Now Jeroboam was a valiant and powerful man. Solomon, seeing that the young man was of good character and industrious, had appointed him prefect over the tribute of the entire house of Joseph.

29 Therefore it happened at that time, when Jeroboam went out from Jerusalem, that Ahijah the Shilonite prophet, covered with a new cloak, found him on the road. The two of them alone were in the field.

30 Taking hold of his new cloak with which he was covered, Ahijah tore it into twelve parts.

31 He said to Jeroboam, “Take ten torn pieces for yourself, for thus says the Lord God of Israel: ‘Behold, I shall tear the kingdom from Solomon’s hand and give you ten tribes.

32 But one tribe shall remain to him because of David my servant and Jerusalem, the city I chose from all the tribes of Israel,

33 because he forsook me and adored Ashtoreth, goddess of the Sidonians, Chemosh, god of Moab, and Molech, god of the children of Ammon. He did not walk in my ways, that he might execute justice before me and keep my precepts and judgments as David his father did.

34 Nor shall I take the entire kingdom from his hand. Instead, I shall appoint him leader all the days of his life because of David my servant, whom I chose, who kept my commandments and my precepts.

35 But I shall take the kingdom from his son’s hand and give you ten tribes.

36 To his son I shall give one tribe, that a lamp may remain for David my servant all days before me in Jerusalem, the city I chose that my name might be there.

37 But you I shall take, and you shall reign over everything your soul desires, and you shall be king over Israel.

38 Therefore, if you hear everything I command you, walk in my ways, and do what is upright before me, keeping my commandments and my precepts just as David my servant did, I shall be with you. I shall build you a faithful house, just as I built a house for David, and I shall deliver Israel to you.

39 I shall afflict David’s seed because of this, but not for all days.’”

40 Therefore Solomon desired to kill Jeroboam. But he arose and fled into Egypt to Shishak king of Egypt and was in Egypt until Solomon’s death.

41 Now the rest of Solomon’s words, everything he did, and his wisdom—behold, they are all written in the Book of the Words of the Days of Solomon.

42 The days Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel were forty years.

43 Solomon slept with his fathers and was buried in the City of David his father, and Rehoboam his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 12

1 Rehoboam came to Shechem, for all Israel had gathered there to appoint him king.

2 But Jeroboam son of Nebat, while he was still a fugitive in Egypt from the face of King Solomon, heard of his death and returned from Egypt.

3 They sent and called him. Therefore Jeroboam and all the multitude of Israel came and spoke to Rehoboam, saying,

4 “Your father placed an exceedingly hard yoke upon us. Therefore now lessen a little of your father’s exceedingly hard dominion and of the most grievous yoke he placed upon us, and we shall serve you.”

5 He said to them, “Go away until the third day, and return to me.” When the people had gone,

6 King Rehoboam entered into counsel with the elders who had stood before Solomon his father while he was still living. He said, “What counsel do you give me, that I may answer this people?”

7 They said to him, “If today you obey this people, serve them, yield to their petition, and speak gentle words to them, they shall be your servants all days.”

8 But he forsook the counsel the elders had given him and summoned the young men who had been raised with him and stood before him.

9 He said to them, “What counsel do you give me, that I may answer this people who said to me, ‘Make lighter the yoke your father placed upon us’?”

10 The young men who had been raised with him said to him, “Thus you shall speak to this people who spoke to you, saying, ‘Your father made our yoke heavy; you lighten us.’ Thus you shall speak to them: ‘My smallest finger is thicker than my father’s back.

11 And now my father placed a heavy yoke upon you, but I shall add to your yoke. My father cut you with whips, but I shall cut you with scorpions.’”

12 Therefore Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, just as the king had spoken, saying, “Return to me on the third day.”

13 The king answered the people harshly, forsaking the counsel the elders had given him.

14 He spoke to them according to the counsel of the young men, saying, “My father made your yoke heavy, but I shall add to your yoke. My father cut you with whips, but I shall cut you with scorpions.”

15 The king did not yield to the people, because the Lord had turned away from him, that he might raise up his word which he had spoken by the hand of Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam son of Nebat.

16 Therefore the people, seeing that the king was unwilling to hear them, answered him, saying, “What part do we have in David? Or what inheritance in the son of Jesse? Go to your tents, O Israel. Now see to your own house, David!” And Israel went to their tents.

17 But Rehoboam reigned over the children of Israel, whoever dwelt in the cities of Judah.

18 Therefore King Rehoboam sent Adoram, who was over the tribute, and all Israel stoned him, and he died. But King Rehoboam hastily mounted the chariot and fled into Jerusalem.

19 Israel withdrew from the house of David to the present day.

20 And it happened, when all Israel heard that Jeroboam had returned, that they sent and called him to the gathered assembly and appointed him king over all Israel. No one followed the house of David except the tribe of Judah alone.

21 Rehoboam came to Jerusalem and gathered all the house of Judah and the tribe of Benjamin, one hundred eighty thousand chosen fighting men, that they might fight against the house of Israel and restore the kingdom to Rehoboam son of Solomon.

22 But the word of the Lord came to Shemaiah, a man of God, saying,

23 “Speak to Rehoboam son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all the house of Judah and Benjamin and the rest of the people, saying,

24 ‘Thus says the Lord: You shall not ascend or fight against your brothers, the children of Israel. Let each man return to his house, for this word has been done by me.’” They heard the word of the Lord and returned from the journey, just as the Lord had commanded them.

25 Jeroboam built Shechem in Mount Ephraim and dwelt there. Going out from there, he built Penuel.

26 Jeroboam said in his heart, “Now the kingdom shall return to the house of David

27 if this people ascends to make sacrifices in the house of the Lord in Jerusalem. The heart of this people shall turn to their lord Rehoboam king of Judah, and they shall kill me and return to him."

28 Having devised counsel, he made two golden calves and said to them, "Do not ascend to Jerusalem any longer. Behold your gods, O Israel, who led you out from the land of Egypt."

29 He placed one in Bethel and the other in Dan.

30 This word became a sin, for the people went as far as Dan to adore the calf.

31 He made shrines in the high places and priests from the lowest of the people, who were not of the children of Levi.

32 He appointed a solemn day in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, in imitation of the solemnity celebrated in Judah. Ascending the altar, he acted likewise in Bethel, that he might sacrifice to the calves he had fashioned, and he appointed in Bethel priests of the high places he had made.

33 He ascended upon the altar he had built in Bethel, on the fifteenth day of the eighth month, which he had devised from his own heart. He made a solemnity for the children of Israel and ascended upon the altar to burn incense.

1 And behold, a man of God came from Judah in the word of the Lord to Bethel while Jeroboam stood upon the altar casting incense.

2 He cried out against the altar in the word of the Lord and said, “Altar, altar, thus says the Lord: ‘Behold, a son shall be born to the house of David, Josiah by name. Upon you he shall sacrifice the priests of the high places who now kindle incense upon you, and he shall burn human bones upon you.’”

3 He gave a sign that day, saying, “This shall be the sign that the Lord has spoken: behold, the altar shall be torn apart, and the ashes that are in it shall be poured out.”

4 When the king had heard the word of the man of God, which he had cried against the altar in Bethel, he extended his hand from the altar, saying, “Seize him!” The hand he had extended against him withered, and he was unable to draw it back to himself.

5 The altar also was torn apart, and the ashes were poured out from the altar according to the sign that the man of God had foretold in the word of the Lord.

6 The king said to the man of God, “Beseech the face of the Lord your God and pray for me, that my hand may be restored to me.” The man of God prayed before the face of the Lord, and the king’s hand returned to him and became as it had been before.

7 The king spoke to the man of God, “Come home with me that you may eat, and I shall give you gifts.”

8 The man of God answered the king, “If you give me half your house, I shall not come with you, nor shall I eat bread or drink water in this place.

9 For thus it was commanded to me in the word of the Lord, who ordered: ‘You shall not eat bread or drink water, nor shall you return by the way you came.’”

10 Therefore he departed by another way and did not return by the road on which he had come to Bethel.

11 Now a certain old prophet dwelt in Bethel. His sons came to him and told him all the works the man of God had done that day in Bethel. They told their father the words he had spoken to the king.

12 Their father said to them, “By what way did he depart?” His sons showed him the way by which the man of God who had come from Judah had departed.

13 He said to his sons, “Saddle the donkey for me.” When they had saddled it, he mounted

14 and departed after the man of God. He found him sitting beneath a terebinth and said to him, “Are you the man of God who came from Judah?” He answered, “I am.”

15 He said to him, “Come home with me, that you may eat bread.”

16 He said, “I cannot return or come with you, nor shall I eat bread or drink water in this place,

17 because the Lord spoke to me in the word of the Lord, saying, ‘You shall not eat bread or drink water there, nor shall you return by the way you went.’”

18 He said to him, “I also am a prophet like you, and an angel spoke to me in the word of the Lord, saying, ‘Lead him back with you into your house, that he may eat bread and drink water.’” He deceived him

19 and led him back with him. Therefore he ate bread in his house and drank water.

20 While they sat at the table, the word of the Lord came to the prophet who had led him back.

21 He cried out to the man of God who had come from Judah, saying, “Thus says the Lord: ‘Because you were not obedient to the mouth of the Lord and did not keep the commandment the Lord your God commanded you,

22 but returned and ate bread and drank water in the place where he commanded you not to eat bread or drink water, your corpse shall not be brought into the tomb of your fathers.’”

23 When he had eaten and drunk, the old prophet saddled his donkey for the prophet whom he had led back.

24 When the man had departed, a lion found him on the road and killed him. His corpse lay cast upon the road, while the donkey stood beside him and the lion stood beside the corpse.

25 And behold, men passing by saw the corpse cast upon the road and the lion standing beside the corpse. They came and spread the report in the city in which that old prophet dwelt.

26 When the prophet who had led him back from the road heard this, he said, “It is the man of God who was disobedient to the mouth of the Lord. The Lord delivered him to the lion, which broke him and killed him according to the word of the Lord that he spoke to him.”

27 He said to his sons, “Saddle the donkey for me.” When they had saddled it

28 and he had departed, he found the man’s corpse cast upon the road, with the donkey and the lion standing beside the corpse. The lion had not eaten from the corpse or harmed the donkey.

29 Therefore the prophet took the corpse of the man of God, placed it upon the donkey, returned, and brought it into the old prophet’s city that he might mourn him.

30 He placed the corpse in his own tomb, and they mourned him: “Alas, alas, my brother!”

31 When they had mourned him, he said to his sons, “When I am dead, bury me in the tomb in which the man of God is buried. Place my bones beside his bones.

32 For surely the word he foretold in the word of the Lord shall come against the altar that is in Bethel and against all the shrines of the high places that are in the cities of Samaria.”

33 After these words Jeroboam did not return from his most evil way. On the contrary, he made priests of the high places from the lowest of the people. Whoever desired it filled his own hand and became a priest of the high places.

34 Because of this cause the house of Jeroboam sinned and was overthrown and erased from the face of the earth.

CHAPTER 14

1 At that time Abijah son of Jeroboam became sick.

2 Jeroboam said to his wife, “Arise and change your appearance so that you are not recognized as Jeroboam’s wife, and go to Shiloh, where Ahijah the prophet is, who spoke to me that I would reign over this people.

3 Also take in your hand ten loaves, a little cake, and a vessel of honey, and go to him, for he shall tell you what will happen to this boy.”

4 Jeroboam’s wife did as he had said. Rising, she went to Shiloh and came to Ahijah’s house. But he was unable to see, because his eyes had grown dim from old age.

5 The Lord said to Ahijah, “Behold, Jeroboam’s wife enters to consult you concerning her son, who is sick. You shall speak this and this to her.” Therefore, when she entered and concealed that she was who she was,

6 Ahijah heard the sound of her feet entering through the door and said, “Enter, wife of Jeroboam. Why do you pretend to be another? But I have been sent to you as a harsh messenger.

7 Go and say to Jeroboam, ‘Thus says the Lord God of Israel: Because I exalted you from the midst of the people and gave you as leader over my people Israel,

8 tore the kingdom from the house of David and gave it to you, yet you were not like my servant David, who kept my commandments, followed me with all his heart, and did what was pleasing in my sight,

9 but you worked evil above all who were before you and made for yourself foreign gods and molten images, that you might provoke me to anger, and cast me behind your body,

10 therefore behold, I shall bring evil upon the house of Jeroboam. I shall strike from Jeroboam the one who pisses against the wall, the one shut up, and the last in Israel. I shall clean away the remnants of the house of Jeroboam just as dung is customarily cleaned away until all is pure.

11 Those of Jeroboam who die in the city, the dogs shall eat. But those who die in the field, the birds of heaven shall devour, for the Lord has spoken.’

12 You, therefore, arise and go into your house. At the very entrance of your feet into the city, the boy shall die.

13 All Israel shall mourn him and bury him, for he alone from Jeroboam shall be brought into the tomb, because in the house of Jeroboam a good word from the Lord God of Israel was found concerning him.

14 But the Lord shall appoint for himself a king over Israel who shall strike the house of Jeroboam on this day and at this time.

15 The Lord God shall strike Israel as a reed is accustomed to be moved in the water. He shall uproot Israel from this good land that he gave to their fathers and scatter them beyond the river, because they made groves for themselves to provoke the Lord.

16 The Lord shall deliver Israel because of Jeroboam’s sins, because he sinned and caused Israel to sin.”

17 Therefore Jeroboam’s wife arose, departed, and came to Tirzah. When she entered the threshold of the house, the boy died.

18 They buried him, and all Israel mourned him according to the word of the Lord, which he had spoken by the hand of his servant Ahijah the prophet.

19 Now the rest of Jeroboam’s words, how he fought and how he reigned—behold, they are written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Israel.

20 The days Jeroboam reigned were twenty-two years. He slept with his fathers, and Nadab his son reigned in his place.

21 Rehoboam son of Solomon reigned in Judah. Rehoboam was forty-one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city the Lord chose from all the tribes of Israel that he might place his name there. His mother’s name was Naamah the Ammonite.

22 Judah did evil before the Lord, and by the sins they committed they provoked him above everything their fathers had done.

23 For they also built for themselves altars, statues, and groves upon every high hill and beneath every leafy tree.

24 There were also effeminate men in the land, and they committed all the abominations of the nations whom the Lord had crushed before the face of the children of Israel.

25 Now in the fifth year of Rehoboam’s reign, Shishak king of Egypt ascended against Jerusalem.

26 He took the treasuries of the house of the Lord and the royal treasuries and plundered everything, including the golden shields Solomon had made.

27 In their place King Rehoboam made bronze shields and delivered them into the hands of the commanders of the shield-bearers and of those who kept watch before the door of the king's house.

28 When the king entered the house of the Lord, those whose office was to go before him carried them, and afterward they carried them back to the shield-bearers' armory.

29 Now the rest of Rehoboam's words and everything he did—behold, they are written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Judah.

30 There was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all days.

31 Rehoboam slept with his fathers and was buried with them in the City of David. His mother's name was Naamah the Ammonite, and Abijam his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 15

1 Therefore in the eighteenth year of the reign of Jeroboam son of Nebat, Abijam reigned over Judah.

2 He reigned three years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Maacah daughter of Absalom.

3 He walked in all the sins his father had committed before him, and his heart was not perfect with the Lord his God as the heart of David his father had been.

4 But because of David, the Lord his God gave him a lamp in Jerusalem, that he might raise up his son after him and establish Jerusalem,

5 because David had done what was upright in the eyes of the Lord and had not turned away from anything he commanded him all the days of his life, except in the matter of Uriah the Hittite.

6 Nevertheless, there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam throughout all the time of his life.

7 Now the rest of Abijam's words and everything he did—are these not written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Judah? There was also battle between Abijam and Jeroboam.

8 Abijam slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the City of David. Asa his son reigned in his place.

9 Therefore in the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel, Asa king of Judah began to reign.

10 He reigned forty-one years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Maacah daughter of Absalom.

11 Asa did what was upright before the Lord, as David his father had done.

12 He took the effeminate men away from the land and cleansed away all the filth of the idols his fathers had made.

13 Moreover, he removed Maacah his mother so that she would not be princess in the rites of Priapus and in the grove she had consecrated. He overturned its cave, shattered the most filthy image, and burned it at the brook Kidron.

14 But he did not take away the high places. Nevertheless, Asa's heart was perfect with the Lord all his days.

15 He brought into the house of the Lord the things his father had sanctified and vowed: silver, gold, and vessels.

16 There was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

17 Baasha king of Israel also ascended into Judah and built Ramah, that no one might be able to go out or enter from the side of Asa king of Judah.

18 Therefore Asa took all the silver and gold that remained in the treasuries of the house of the Lord and the treasuries of the royal house and gave it into the hands of his servants. He sent them to Ben-hadad son of Tabrimmon son of Hezion, king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying,

19 "There is a covenant between me and you and between my father and your father. Therefore I have sent you gifts of silver and gold, and I ask that you come and make void the covenant you have with Baasha king of Israel, that he may withdraw from me."

20 Ben-hadad yielded to King Asa and sent the commanders of his army against the cities of Israel. They struck Ijon, Dan, Abel-beth-maacah, all Chinneroth, and indeed all the land of Naphtali.

21 When Baasha heard this, he ceased building Ramah and returned to Tirzah.

22 King Asa sent a proclamation throughout all Judah, saying, "Let no one be excused." They took away the stones of Ramah and its timber with which Baasha had built, and from them King Asa built Geba of Benjamin and Mizpah.

23 Now the rest of all Asa's words, all his valiant deeds, everything he did, and the cities he built—are these not written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Judah? Nevertheless, in the time of his old age, his feet were in pain.

24 He slept with his fathers and was buried with them in the City of David his father. Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his place.

25 But Nadab son of Jeroboam reigned over Israel in the second year of Asa king of Judah, and he reigned over Israel two years.

26 He did what was evil in the sight of the Lord and walked in the ways of his father and in his sins by which he caused Israel to sin.

27 Baasha son of Ahijah, from the house of Issachar, laid an ambush for him and struck him at Gibbethon, which is a city of the Philistines, for Nadab and all Israel were besieging Gibbethon.

28 Therefore Baasha killed him in the third year of Asa king of Judah and reigned in his place.

29 When he had begun to reign, he struck the entire house of Jeroboam. He did not leave even one soul from his seed until he erased him, according to the word of the Lord which he had spoken by the hand of his servant Ahijah the Shilonite,

30 because of Jeroboam's sins, which he committed and by which he caused Israel to sin, and because of the offense by which he provoked the Lord God of Israel.

31 Now the rest of Nadab's words and everything he accomplished—are these not written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Israel?

32 There was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

33 In the third year of Asa king of Judah, Baasha son of Ahijah began to reign over all Israel in Tirzah, for twenty-four years.

34 He did evil before the Lord and walked in the way of Jeroboam and in his sin by which he caused Israel to sin.

CHAPTER 16

1 The word of the Lord came to Jehu son of Hanani against Baasha, saying,

2 “Because I exalted you from the dust and appointed you leader over my people Israel, but you walked in the way of Jeroboam and caused my people Israel to sin so that you provoked me through their sins,

3 behold, I shall mow down the posterity of Baasha and the posterity of his house, and I shall make your house like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat.

4 Whoever of Baasha dies in the city, the dogs shall eat him. Whoever of him dies in the countryside, the birds of heaven shall eat him.”

5 Now the rest of Baasha’s words, whatever he did, and his battles—are these not written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Israel?

6 Therefore Baasha slept with his fathers and was buried in Tirzah. Elah his son reigned in his place.

7 But when the word of the Lord had come by the hand of Jehu son of Hanani the prophet against Baasha and his house, and against all the evil he had done before the Lord to provoke him through the works of his hands, that he should become like the house of Jeroboam—for this cause he killed him; that is, Jehu son of Hanani the prophet.

8 In the twenty-sixth year of Asa king of Judah, Elah son of Baasha began to reign over Israel in Tirzah, for two years.

9 His servant Zimri, commander of half the horsemen, rebelled against him. Elah was in Tirzah, drinking and drunk in the house of Arza, governor of Tirzah.

10 Therefore Zimri rushed in, struck him, and killed him in the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah, and he reigned in his place.

11 When he had begun to reign and sat upon his throne, he struck the entire house of Baasha and left from it no one who pissed against the wall, neither his kindred nor his friends.

12 Zimri erased the entire house of Baasha according to the word of the Lord, which he had spoken to Baasha by the hand of Jehu the prophet,

13 because of all the sins of Baasha and the sins of Elah his son, who sinned and caused Israel to sin, provoking the Lord God of Israel with their vanities.

14 Now the rest of Elah’s words and everything he did—are these not written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Israel?

15 In the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah, Zimri reigned seven days in Tirzah. Now the army was besieging Gibbethon, a city of the Philistines.

16 When it heard that Zimri had rebelled and killed the king, all Israel in the camp that day made Omri, who was commander of the army, king over Israel.

17 Therefore Omri and all Israel with him ascended from Gibbethon and besieged Tirzah.

18 But Zimri, seeing that the city was about to be stormed, entered the palace and burned himself with the royal house, and he died

19 in his sins that he had committed, doing evil before the Lord, walking in Jeroboam’s way and in his sin by which he caused Israel to sin.

20 Now the rest of Zimri’s words, his ambush, and his tyranny—are these not written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Israel?

21 Then the people of Israel were divided into two parts. Half the people followed Tibni son of Ginath, that it might appoint him king, and half followed Omri.

22 But the people who were with Omri prevailed over the people who followed Tibni son of Ginath. Tibni died, and Omri reigned.

23 In the thirty-first year of Asa king of Judah, Omri began to reign over Israel for twelve years. He reigned in Tirzah six years.

24 He bought the mountain of Samaria from Shemer for two talents of silver. He built upon it and called the city he had built Samaria, after the name of Shemer, lord of the mountain.

25 Omri did evil in the sight of the Lord and acted wickedly above all who were before him.

26 He walked in all the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat and in his sins by which he caused Israel to sin, that he might provoke the Lord God of Israel through his vanities.

27 Now the rest of Omri's words and the battles he conducted—are these not written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Israel?

28 Omri slept with his fathers and was buried in Samaria. Ahab his son reigned in his place.

29 But Ahab son of Omri began to reign over Israel in the thirty-eighth year of Asa king of Judah. Ahab son of Omri reigned over Israel in Samaria for twenty-two years.

30 Ahab son of Omri did evil in the sight of the Lord above all who were before him.

31 Nor was it enough for him to walk in the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat. Moreover, he took as wife Jezebel daughter of Ethbaal, king of the Sidonians. He went, served Baal, and adored him.

32 He placed an altar to Baal in the temple of Baal that he had built in Samaria,

33 and he planted a grove. Ahab added by his work to provoke the Lord God of Israel above all the kings of Israel who were before him.

34 In his days Hiel of Bethel built Jericho. Upon Abiram his firstborn he founded it, and upon Segub his youngest he placed its gates, according to the word of the Lord that he had spoken by the hand of Joshua son of Nun.

CHAPTER 17

1 Elijah the Tishbite, from the inhabitants of Gilead, said to Ahab, “The Lord God of Israel lives, in whose sight I stand: there shall be neither dew nor rain in these years except according to the words of my mouth.”

2 The word of the Lord came to him, saying,

3 “Withdraw from here, go toward the east, and hide in the brook Cherith, which is opposite the Jordan.

4 There you shall drink from the brook, and I have commanded the ravens to feed you there.”

5 Therefore he departed and acted according to the word of the Lord. When he had gone, he sat by the brook Cherith, which is opposite the Jordan.

6 The ravens carried him bread and flesh in the morning, and likewise bread and flesh in the evening, and he drank from the brook.

7 But after some days the brook dried up, for it had not rained upon the land.

8 Therefore the word of the Lord came to him, saying,

9 “Arise and go to Zarephath of the Sidonians, and you shall remain there, for I have commanded a widowed woman there to feed you.”

10 He arose and went to Zarephath. When he had come to the city gate, a widowed woman appeared to him gathering wood. He called her and said to her, “Give me a little water in a vessel, that I may drink.”

11 When she went to bring it, he called after her back, saying, “Bring me also, I pray, a morsel of bread in your hand.”

12 She answered, “The Lord your God lives: I have no bread except as much flour as a handful can hold in a jar and a little oil in a flask. Behold, I am gathering two pieces of wood, that I may enter and make it for myself and my son, that we may eat and die.”

13 Elijah said to her, “Do not fear. Go and do as you have said. Nevertheless, first make for me from that little flour a small loaf baked beneath the ashes and bring it to me. Afterward you shall make some for yourself and your son.

14 For thus says the Lord God of Israel: ‘The jar of flour shall not fail, nor shall the flask of oil diminish, until the day when the Lord shall give rain upon the face of the earth.’”

15 She departed and acted according to Elijah’s word. He ate, and she and her house, and from that day

16 the jar of flour did not fail and the flask of oil was not diminished, according to the word of the Lord that he had spoken by the hand of Elijah.

17 Now it happened after these things that the son of the woman, the mistress of the house, became sick. His sickness was exceedingly strong, so that no breath remained in him.

18 Therefore she said to Elijah, “What is there between me and you, man of God? Have you entered to me that my iniquities might be remembered and that you might kill my son?”

19 Elijah said to her, “Give me your son.” He took him from her bosom, carried him into the upper room where he himself remained, and placed him upon his own little bed.

20 He cried to the Lord and said, “O Lord my God, have you even afflicted the widow by whom I am sustained, however meagerly, that you would kill her son?”

21 He stretched himself out and measured himself over the boy three times. He cried to the Lord and said, “O Lord my God, let the soul of this boy, I beseech you, return into his bowels.”

22 The Lord heard Elijah’s voice, and the boy’s soul returned within him, and he revived.

23 Elijah took the boy, brought him down from the upper room into the lower house, and delivered him to his mother. He said to her, “Behold, your son lives.”

24 The woman said to Elijah, “Now by this I know that you are a man of God and that the word of the Lord in your mouth is true.”

CHAPTER 18

1 After many days the word of the Lord came to Elijah in the third year, saying, “Go and show yourself to Ahab, that I may give rain upon the face of the earth.”

2 Therefore Elijah went to show himself to Ahab. Now the famine was severe in Samaria.

3 Ahab called Obadiah, steward of his house. Obadiah feared the Lord exceedingly.

4 For when Jezebel killed the prophets of the Lord, he took one hundred prophets, hid them fifty and fifty in caves, and fed them with bread and water.

5 Therefore Ahab said to Obadiah, “Go through the land to all the springs of water and into all the valleys, in hope that we may find grass and save the horses and mules, and that the beasts of burden may not utterly perish.”

6 They divided the regions between themselves that they might go around them. Ahab went by one road, and Obadiah went separately by another road.

7 While Obadiah was on the road, Elijah met him. When he recognized him, he fell upon his face and said, “Are you my lord Elijah?”

8 He answered him, “I am. Go and say to your lord, ‘Elijah is here.’”

9 He said, “What have I sinned, that you deliver me, your servant, into Ahab’s hand so that he may kill me?

10 The Lord your God lives: there is no nation or kingdom to which my lord has not sent in search of you. When all answered, ‘He is not here,’ he bound each kingdom and nation by oath because you were not found at all.

11 And now you say to me, ‘Go and say to your lord, “Elijah is here.”’

12 When I have withdrawn from you, the Spirit of the Lord shall carry you away to a place I do not know. I shall enter and report to Ahab, and when he does not find you, he shall kill me. Yet your servant has feared the Lord from his infancy.

13 Has it not been reported to you, my lord, what I did when Jezebel killed the prophets of the Lord—how I hid one hundred men from the prophets of the Lord, fifty and fifty in caves, and fed them with bread and water?

14 And now you say, ‘Go and say to your lord, “Elijah is here,”’ so that he may kill me?”

15 Elijah said, “The Lord of hosts lives, before whose face I stand: today I shall appear to him.”

16 Therefore Obadiah went to meet Ahab and informed him, and Ahab came to meet Elijah.

17 When he saw him, he said, “Are you the one who troubles Israel?”

18 He said, “I have not troubled Israel, but you and your father’s house have, because you forsook the commandments of the Lord and followed the Baals.

19 Nevertheless, now send and gather all Israel to me on Mount Carmel, with the four hundred fifty prophets of Baal and the four hundred prophets of the groves who eat from Jezebel’s table.”

20 Ahab sent to all the children of Israel and gathered the prophets on Mount Carmel.

21 Elijah approached all the people and said, “How long do you limp into two parts? If the Lord is God, follow him. But if Baal, follow him.” The people did not answer him a word.

22 Elijah again said to the people, “I alone remain a prophet of the Lord, but the prophets of Baal are four hundred fifty men.

23 Let two oxen be given to us. Let them choose one ox for themselves, cut it into pieces, and place it upon wood, but let them put no fire beneath it. I shall prepare the other ox and place it upon wood, but I shall put no fire beneath it.

24 Call upon the names of your gods, and I shall call upon the name of my Lord. Let the God who hears through fire be God.” All the people answered and said, “An excellent proposal.”

25 Therefore Elijah said to the prophets of Baal, “Choose one ox for yourselves and act first, because you are more numerous. Call upon the names of your gods, but put no fire beneath it.”

26 When they had taken the ox that he had given them, they prepared it and called upon Baal’s name from morning until midday, saying, “Baal, hear us!” There was no voice and no one who answered, and they leaped over the altar they had made.

27 When it was already midday, Elijah mocked them, saying, “Cry with a louder voice, for he is a god. Perhaps he is speaking, or is at an inn, or on a journey, or surely is sleeping, that he may be awakened.”

28 Therefore they cried with a loud voice and cut themselves according to their rite with knives and little lances until they were drenched in blood.

29 But after midday had passed, and while they prophesied, the time came when the sacrifice is customarily offered. No voice was heard, no one answered, and no one attended to those praying.

30 Elijah said to all the people, “Come to me.” When the people had approached him, he repaired the altar of the Lord that had been destroyed.

31 He took twelve stones according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, to whom the word of the Lord came, saying, “Israel shall be your name.”

32 From the stones he built an altar in the name of the Lord, and he made a channel like two little plowed furrows around the altar.

33 He arranged the wood, divided the ox by its members, and placed it upon the wood.

34 He said, “Fill four pitchers with water and pour it upon the holocaust and upon the wood.” Again he said, “Do this a second time also.” When they had done it a second time, he said, “Do the same a third time also.” They did it a third time, 35 and the waters ran around the altar, and the channel’s trench was filled with water.

36 When it was already time for the holocaust to be offered, Elijah the prophet approached and said, “O Lord God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, show today that you are the God of Israel, that I am your servant, and that according to your command I have done all these things.

37 Hear me, O Lord, hear me, that this people may learn that you are the Lord God and that you have converted their heart again.”

38 Then the fire of the Lord fell and devoured the holocaust, the wood, the stones, and the dust, licking up also the water that was in the channel.

39 When all the people saw this, they fell upon their faces and said, “The Lord himself is God! The Lord himself is God!”

40 Elijah said to them, “Seize the prophets of Baal, and let not even one of them escape.” When they had seized them, Elijah led them to the brook Kishon and killed them there.

41 Elijah said to Ahab, “Ascend, eat and drink, for there is the sound of much rain.”

42 Ahab ascended to eat and drink, but Elijah ascended to Carmel’s summit. Bowed to the earth, he placed his face between his knees.

43 He said to his servant, “Ascend and look toward the sea.” When he had ascended and looked, he said, “There is nothing.” Again Elijah said to him, “Return seven times.”

44 At the seventh time, behold, a little cloud like the footprint of a man ascended from the sea. Elijah said, “Ascend and say to Ahab, ‘Harness your chariot and descend, lest the rain overtake you.’”

45 While he turned himself here and there, behold, the heavens grew dark with clouds and wind, and a great rain came. Therefore Ahab mounted and went into Jezreel.

46 The hand of the Lord came upon Elijah. Girding his loins, he ran before Ahab until he came to Jezreel.

CHAPTER 19

1 Ahab reported to Jezebel everything Elijah had done and how he had killed all the prophets with the sword.

2 Jezebel sent a messenger to Elijah, saying, “May the gods do these things to me and add these also, unless by this hour tomorrow I make your soul like the soul of one of them.”

3 Therefore Elijah feared. Rising, he departed wherever his will carried him. He came to Beersheba of Judah and left his servant there.

4 He proceeded into the desert, one day’s journey. When he had come and sat beneath one juniper tree, he asked for his soul that he might die and said, “It is enough for me, O Lord. Take my soul, for I am no better than my fathers.”

5 He cast himself down and fell asleep in the shade of the juniper. And behold, an angel of the Lord touched him and said to him, “Arise and eat.”

6 He looked, and behold, at his head was a loaf baked beneath the ashes and a vessel of water. Therefore he ate and drank and again fell asleep.

7 The angel of the Lord returned a second time, touched him, and said to him, “Arise, eat, for a great journey remains for you.”

8 When he had arisen, he ate and drank. In the strength of that food he walked forty days and forty nights as far as Horeb, the mountain of God.

9 When he had come there, he remained in a cave. And behold, the word of the Lord came to him and said to him, “What are you doing here, Elijah?”

10 He answered, “With zeal I have been zealous for the Lord God of hosts, because the children of Israel have forsaken your pact. They have destroyed your altars and killed your prophets with the sword. I alone am left, and they seek my soul to take it away.”

11 He said to him, “Go out and stand upon the mountain before the Lord.” And behold, the Lord passed by. A great and strong wind, overturning mountains and crushing rocks, went before the Lord, but the Lord was not in the wind. After the wind came an earthquake, but the Lord was not in the earthquake.

12 After the earthquake came fire, but the Lord was not in the fire. After the fire came the whisper of a gentle breeze.

13 When Elijah had heard it, he covered his face with his cloak, went out, and stood at the door of the cave. And behold, a voice came to him, saying, “What are you doing here, Elijah?” He answered,

14 “With zeal I have been zealous for the Lord God of hosts, because the children of Israel have forsaken your pact. They have destroyed your altars and killed your prophets with the sword. I alone am left, and they seek my soul to take it away.”

15 The Lord said to him, “Go and return by your way through the desert to Damascus. When you have arrived there, you shall anoint Hazael king over Syria.

16 You shall anoint Jehu son of Nimshi king over Israel, and Elisha son of Shaphat, who is from Abel-meholah, you shall anoint as prophet in your place.

17 And it shall be: whoever flees Hazael’s sword, Jehu shall kill him, and whoever flees Jehu’s sword, Elisha shall kill him.

18 I shall leave for myself in Israel seven thousand men whose knees have not bowed before Baal and every mouth that has not adored him by kissing the hand.”

19 Therefore Elijah departed from there and found Elisha son of Shaphat plowing with twelve yokes of oxen. He himself was one of those plowing with the twelve yokes of oxen. When Elijah had come to him, he cast his cloak upon him.

20 Immediately leaving the oxen, Elisha ran after Elijah and said, “Let me kiss my father and my mother, I pray, and then I shall follow you.” He said to him, “Go and return, for what was mine I have done to you.”

21 Returning from him, Elisha took a pair of oxen and slaughtered it. Upon the oxen’s plow he cooked the flesh and gave it to the people, and they ate. Rising, he departed, followed Elijah, and ministered to him.

CHAPTER 20

1 Now Ben-hadad king of Syria gathered his entire army, with thirty-two kings, horses, and chariots. Ascending, he fought against Samaria and besieged it.

2 Sending messengers into the city to Ahab king of Israel,

3 he said, “Thus says Ben-hadad: ‘Your silver and your gold are mine, and your best wives and sons are mine.’”

4 The king of Israel answered, “According to your word, my lord the king, I and everything mine are yours.”

5 The messengers returned and said, “Thus says Ben-hadad, who sent us to you: ‘You shall give me your silver, your gold, your wives, and your sons.

6 Therefore tomorrow at this same hour I shall send my servants to you. They shall search your house and your servants’ houses, and everything that pleases them they shall place in their hands and take away.’”

7 The king of Israel called all the elders of the land and said, “Take notice and see that he seeks an occasion against us. For he sent to me for my wives, sons, silver, and gold, and I did not refuse.”

8 All the elders and all the people said to him, “Do not hear him or yield to him.”

9 Therefore he answered Ben-hadad’s messengers, “Say to my lord the king: ‘Everything for which you sent to me, your servant, at first, I shall do. But this thing I cannot do.’”

10 The messengers returned and reported it to him. He sent back and said, “May the gods do these things to me and add these also if the dust of Samaria is enough for the handfuls of all the people who follow me.”

11 The king of Israel answered and said, “Tell him: ‘Let not the one who is girded boast as the one who is ungirded.’”

12 And it happened, when Ben-hadad heard this word, that he and the kings were drinking in pavilions. He said to his servants, “Surround the city.” And they surrounded it.

13 And behold, one prophet approached Ahab king of Israel and said to him, “Thus says the Lord: ‘Surely you have seen all this exceedingly great multitude. Behold, I shall deliver it into your hand today, that you may know that I am the Lord.’”

14 Ahab said, “Through whom?” He said, “Thus says the Lord: ‘Through the foot attendants of the princes of the provinces.’” He said, “Who shall begin to fight?” The prophet said, “You.”

15 Therefore he counted the young men of the princes of the provinces and found their number to be two hundred thirty-two. After them he counted the people, all the children of Israel, seven thousand.

16 They went out at midday. But Ben-hadad was drinking drunk in his pavilion, and the thirty-two kings who had come to his aid were with him.

17 The young men of the princes of the provinces went out at the front. Therefore Ben-hadad sent, and they reported to him, saying, “Men have gone out from Samaria.”

18 He said, “Whether they come for peace, seize them alive, or whether to fight, take them alive.”

19 Therefore the young men of the princes of the provinces went out, and the rest of the army followed.

20 Each one struck the man who came against him. The Syrians fled, and Israel pursued them. Ben-hadad king of Syria also fled on horseback with his horsemen.

21 Moreover, the king of Israel went out, struck the horses and chariots, and struck Syria with a great slaughter.

22 The prophet approached the king of Israel and said to him, “Go, be strengthened, know, and see what you shall do, for in the following year the king of Syria shall ascend against you.”

23 The servants of the king of Syria said to him, “Their gods are gods of the mountains; therefore they overcame us. But it is better that we fight against them in the plains, and we shall overcome them.

24 Therefore do this thing: remove each of the kings from your army and put commanders in their place.

25 Restore the number of soldiers of yours who fell, horse for each former horse and chariot for each chariot you had before. We shall fight against them in the plains, and you shall see that we shall overcome them.” He believed their counsel and acted so.

26 Therefore after the year had passed, Ben-hadad counted the Syrians and ascended to Aphek to fight against Israel.

27 But the children of Israel were counted, and taking provisions, they set out opposite them. They encamped against them like two little flocks of goats, while the Syrians filled the land.

28 One man of God approached and said to the king of Israel, “Thus says the Lord: ‘Because the Syrians said, “The Lord is God of the mountains and is not God of the valleys,” I shall give all this great multitude into your hand, and you shall know that I am the Lord.’”

29 For seven days these and those arranged their battle lines opposite one another. On the seventh day battle was joined, and the children of Israel struck one hundred thousand Syrian footmen in one day.

30 Those who remained fled into the city of Aphek, and the wall fell upon twenty-seven thousand men who remained. But Ben-hadad fled, entered the city, and went into an inner chamber within a chamber.

31 His servants said to him, “Behold, we have heard that the kings of the house of Israel are merciful. Therefore let us put sackcloth upon our loins and ropes upon our heads and go out to the king of Israel. Perhaps he will save our souls.”

32 They girded their loins with sackcloth, placed ropes upon their heads, came to the king of Israel, and said to him, “Your servant Ben-hadad says, ‘Let my soul live, I pray.’” He said, “If he still lives, he is my brother.”

33 The men took this as an omen. Hastening, they seized the word from his mouth and said, “Your brother Ben-hadad.” He said to them, “Go and bring him to me.” Therefore Ben-hadad came out to him, and he lifted him into his chariot.

34 He said to him, “I shall restore the cities my father took from your father, and make streets for yourself in Damascus, just as my father made in Samaria. And I, having entered covenant, shall withdraw from you.” Therefore he struck a covenant and sent him away.

35 Then a certain man from the sons of the prophets said to his companion in the word of the Lord, “Strike me.” But he was unwilling to strike.

36 He said to him, “Because you were unwilling to hear the voice of the Lord, behold, you shall withdraw from me, and a lion shall strike you.” When he had withdrawn a little from him, a lion found him and struck him.

37 Finding another man, he said to him, “Strike me.” He struck him and wounded him.

38 Therefore the prophet departed and met the king on the road, and by sprinkling dust he changed his face and his eyes.

39 When the king passed, he cried to the king and said, “Your servant went out to fight at close quarters. When one man had fled, someone brought him to me and said, ‘Guard this man. If he slips away, your soul shall be for his soul, or you shall weigh out a talent of silver.’

40 But while I, troubled, turned here and there, suddenly he was gone.” The king of Israel said to him, “This is your judgment, which you yourself have decreed.”

41 But he immediately wiped the dust from his face, and the king of Israel recognized that he was from the prophets.

42 He said to him, “Thus says the Lord: ‘Because you sent away from your hand a man worthy of death, your soul shall be for his soul and your people for his people.’”

43 Therefore the king of Israel returned to his house, refusing to hear, and came furious into Samaria.

CHAPTER 21

1 After these words, at that time there was a vineyard belonging to Naboth the Jezreelite, which was in Jezreel beside the palace of Ahab king of Samaria.

2 Therefore Ahab spoke to Naboth, saying, “Give me your vineyard, that I may make for myself a garden of vegetables, because it is nearby and close to my house. I shall give you a better vineyard for it, or, if you think it more convenient, the price in silver for as much as it is worth.”

3 Naboth answered him, “May the Lord be gracious to me, lest I give you the inheritance of my fathers.”

4 Therefore Ahab came into his house indignant and gnashing his teeth over the word Naboth the Jezreelite had spoken to him, saying, “I shall not give you the inheritance of my fathers.” Casting himself upon his little bed, he turned his face toward the wall and did not eat bread.

5 Jezebel his wife entered to him and said, “What is this, that your soul is grieved? And why do you not eat bread?”

6 He answered her, “I spoke to Naboth the Jezreelite and said to him, ‘Give me your vineyard for money, or, if it pleases you, I shall give you a better vineyard for it.’ And he said, ‘I shall not give you my vineyard.’”

7 Therefore Jezebel his wife said to him, “You are of great authority and govern the kingdom of Israel well. Arise, eat bread, and be of an even spirit. I shall give you the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.”

8 And so she wrote letters in Ahab’s name, sealed them with his ring, and sent them to the elders and nobles who were in his city and dwelt with Naboth.

9 This was the sense of the letters: “Proclaim a fast and cause Naboth to sit among the foremost of the people.

10 Suborn two men, sons of Belial, against him, and let them bear false witness, saying, ‘He blessed God and the king.’ Lead him out and stone him, and so let him die.”

11 Therefore the elders and nobles who were his fellow citizens and dwelt with him in the city acted just as Jezebel had commanded them and as it was written in the letters she had sent to them.

12 They proclaimed a fast and caused Naboth to sit among the foremost of the people.

13 Two men, sons of the devil, were brought, and they caused them to sit against him. They, namely as devilish men, spoke testimony against him before the multitude: “Naboth blessed God and the king.” For this reason they led him outside the city and killed him with stones.

14 They sent to Jezebel, saying, “Naboth has been stoned and is dead.”

15 And it happened, when Jezebel heard that Naboth had been stoned and was dead, that she spoke to Ahab: “Arise and possess the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, who was unwilling to yield to you and give it for money, for Naboth does not live but is dead.”

16 When Ahab heard this, namely that Naboth was dead, he arose and descended into the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite to possess it.

17 Therefore the word of the Lord came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

18 “Arise and descend to meet Ahab king of Israel, who is in Samaria. Behold, he has descended to Naboth’s vineyard to possess it.

19 You shall speak to him, saying, ‘Thus says the Lord: You killed; moreover, you possessed.’ After these things you shall add, ‘Thus says the Lord: In this place where the dogs licked Naboth’s blood, they shall also lick your blood.’”

20 Ahab said to Elijah, “Have you found me your enemy?” He said, “I have found you, because you have been sold to do evil in the sight of the Lord.

21 Behold, I shall bring evil upon you, mow down your posterity, and kill from Ahab the one who pisses against the wall, the one shut up, and the last in Israel.

22 I shall make your house like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat and like the house of Baasha son of Ahijah, because you acted so as to provoke me to anger and caused Israel to sin.

23 The Lord also spoke concerning Jezebel, saying, ‘The dogs shall eat Jezebel in the field of Jezreel.’

24 If one of Ahab dies in the city, the dogs shall eat him. But if one dies in the field, the birds of heaven shall eat him.”

25 Therefore there was no other like Ahab, who was sold to do evil in the sight of the Lord, for Jezebel his wife incited him.

26 He became abominable, so much that he followed the idols the Amorites had made, whom the Lord consumed from the face of the children of Israel.

27 And so, when Ahab heard these words, he tore his garments, covered his flesh with sackcloth, fasted, slept in sackcloth, and walked with lowered head.

28 The word of the Lord came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

29 “Have you not seen Ahab humbled before me? Therefore, because he has been humbled for my sake, I shall not bring evil in his days, but in the days of his son I shall bring evil upon his house.”

CHAPTER 22

1 Therefore three years passed without war between Syria and Israel.

2 But in the third year, Jehoshaphat king of Judah descended to the king of Israel.

3 The king of Israel said to his servants, “Do you not know that Ramoth-gilead is ours, and we neglect to take it from the hand of the king of Syria?”

4 He said to Jehoshaphat, “Will you come with me to fight in Ramoth-gilead?”

5 Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, “As I am, so are you. My people and your people are one, and my horsemen are your horsemen.” Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, “Seek today, I pray, the word of the Lord.”

6 Therefore the king of Israel gathered the prophets, about four hundred men, and said to them, “Ought I go to Ramoth-gilead to fight, or remain at rest?” They answered, “Ascend, and the Lord shall give it into the king’s hand.”

7 But Jehoshaphat said, “Is there not some prophet of the Lord here, that we may inquire through him?”

8 The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, “One man remains through whom we can inquire of the Lord, but I hate him because he does not prophesy good to me, but evil: Micaiah son of Imlah.” Jehoshaphat said to him, “Do not speak so, O king.”

9 Therefore the king of Israel called a certain eunuch and said to him, “Hasten to bring Micaiah son of Imlah.”

10 The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah each sat upon his throne, clothed in royal attire, in the threshing floor beside the entrance of Samaria’s gate, while all the prophets prophesied in their sight.

11 Zedekiah son of Chenaanah also made iron horns for himself and said, “Thus says the Lord: ‘With these you shall winnow Syria until you erase it.’”

12 All the prophets prophesied likewise, saying, “Ascend to Ramoth-gilead and go prosperously, and the Lord shall deliver it into the king’s hands.”

13 But the messenger who had gone to call Micaiah spoke to him, saying, “Behold, the words of the prophets proclaim good to the king with one mouth. Therefore let your word be like theirs, and speak good.”

14 Micaiah said to him, “The Lord lives: whatever the Lord says to me, this I shall speak.”

15 Therefore he came to the king, and the king said to him, “Micaiah, ought we go to Ramoth-gilead to fight, or cease?” He answered him, “Ascend and go prosperously, and the Lord shall deliver it into the king’s hands.”

16 The king said to him, “Again and again I adjure you to speak to me nothing except what is true in the name of the Lord.”

17 He said, “I saw all Israel scattered upon the mountains like sheep having no shepherd. The Lord said, ‘These have no lord. Let each one return to his house in peace.’”

18 Therefore the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, “Did I not tell you that he does not prophesy good to me, but always evil?”

19 But Micaiah continued and said, “Therefore hear the word of the Lord. I saw the Lord sitting upon his throne and all the army of heaven standing beside him on his right and left.

20 The Lord said, ‘Who shall deceive Ahab king of Israel, that he may ascend and fall in Ramoth-gilead?’ One spoke words of this kind, and another otherwise.

21 Then a spirit went out, stood before the Lord, and said, ‘I shall deceive him.’ The Lord said to him, ‘By what?’

22 He said, ‘I shall go out and be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets.’ The Lord said, ‘You shall deceive him and prevail. Go out and do so.’

23 Now, therefore, behold, the Lord has given a spirit of lying in the mouth of all your prophets who are here, and the Lord has spoken evil against you.”

24 Zedekiah son of Chenaanah approached, struck Micaiah on the jaw, and said, “Did the Spirit of the Lord therefore leave me and speak to you?”

25 Micaiah said, “You shall see on that day when you enter an inner chamber within a chamber to hide yourself.”

26 The king of Israel said, “Take Micaiah, and let him remain with Amon, prince of the city, and with Joash son of Amelech.

27 Say to them, ‘Thus says the king: Put this man in prison and sustain him with bread of tribulation and water of distress until I return in peace.’”

28 Micaiah said, “If you return in peace, the Lord has not spoken in me.” And he said, “Hear, all peoples.”

29 Therefore the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah ascended into Ramoth-gilead.

30 The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, “Take armor and enter the battle, and put on your garments.” But the king of Israel changed his appearance and entered the war.

31 The king of Syria had commanded the thirty-two commanders of the chariots, saying, “You shall not fight against anyone small or great, but against the king of Israel alone.”

32 Therefore when the commanders of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, they supposed that he was the king of Israel. Making an assault, they fought against him, and Jehoshaphat cried out.

33 The commanders of the chariots understood that he was not the king of Israel, and they ceased from him.

34 But a certain man drew a bow and directed an arrow uncertainly, and by chance he struck the king of Israel between the lung and the stomach. The king said to his charioteer, “Turn your hand and cast me out from the army, for I am gravely wounded.”

35 Therefore battle was joined that day, and the king of Israel stood in his chariot against the Syrians. He died in the evening, and the blood of the wound flowed into the hollow of the chariot.

36 Before the sun set, a herald sounded throughout the entire army, saying, “Let each one return to his city and his land.”

37 The king died and was carried into Samaria, and they buried the king in Samaria.

38 They washed his chariot in the pool of Samaria, and the dogs licked his blood, and they washed the reins, according to the word of the Lord that he had spoken.

39 Now the rest of Ahab’s words, everything he did, the ivory house he built, and all the cities he constructed—are these not written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Israel?

40 Therefore Ahab slept with his fathers, and Ahaziah his son reigned in his place.

41 But Jehoshaphat son of Asa had begun to reign over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab king of Israel.

42 He was thirty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother’s name was Azubah daughter of Shilhi.

43 He walked in all the way of Asa his father and did not turn away from it. He did what was upright in the sight of the Lord.

44 Nevertheless, he did not take away the high places, for the people still sacrificed and burned incense in the high places.

45 Jehoshaphat had peace with the king of Israel.

46 Now the rest of Jehoshaphat’s words, the works he accomplished, and his battles—are these not written in the Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Judah?

47 He also took away from the land the remnants of the effeminate men who had remained in the days of Asa his father.

48 At that time no king had been appointed in Edom.

49 King Jehoshaphat had made fleets upon the sea that would sail to Ophir for gold, but they were unable to go because they were shattered in Ezion-geber.

50 Then Ahaziah son of Ahab said to Jehoshaphat, “Let my servants go with your servants in the ships.” But Jehoshaphat was unwilling.

51 Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers and was buried with them in the City of David his father. Jehoram his son reigned in his place.

52 Ahaziah son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and he reigned over Israel two years.

53 He did evil in the sight of the Lord and walked in the way of his father and his mother and in the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin.

54 He also served Baal and adored him, and he provoked the Lord God of Israel according to everything his father had done.

BOOK TWELVE: SECOND KINGS

CHAPTER 1

1 Now Moab transgressed against Israel after Ahab died.

2 Ahaziah fell through the lattice of his upper room, which he had in Samaria, and became ill. He sent messengers, saying to them, “Go, consult Beelzebub, the god of Ekron, as to whether I can survive this illness of mine.”

3 But the angel of the Lord (YHWH) spoke to Elijah the Tishbite, saying, “Rise and go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria, and say to them: ‘Is there no God in Israel, that you go to consult Beelzebub, the god of Ekron?

4 For this reason, thus says the Lord: From the bed upon which you have gone up, you shall not come down, but you shall surely die.’” And Elijah departed.

5 The messengers returned to Ahaziah, and he said to them, “Why have you returned?”

6 But they answered him, “A man met us and said to us: ‘Go and return to the king who sent you, and say to him: Thus says the Lord: Is it because there was no God in Israel that you send to consult Beelzebub, the god of Ekron? Therefore, from the bed upon which you have gone up, you shall not come down, but you shall surely die.’”

7 He said to them, “What was the appearance and dress of that man who met you and spoke these words?”

8 They said, “A hairy man, girded about his loins with a leather belt.” He said, “It is Elijah the Tishbite.”

9 He sent to him a captain of fifty and the fifty men under him. The captain went up to him, and as Elijah sat on the summit of the mountain, he said, “Man of God, the king commands that you come down.”

10 Elijah answered and said to the captain of fifty, “If I am a man of God, let fire descend from heaven and devour you and your fifty.” And so fire descended from heaven and devoured him and the fifty who were with him.

11 Again he sent to him another captain of fifty and fifty men with him. He spoke to him: “Man of God, thus says the king: Hurry, come down.”

12 Elijah answered and said, “If I am a man of God, let fire descend from heaven and devour you and your fifty.” Therefore fire descended from heaven and devoured him and his fifty.

13 Again he sent a third captain of fifty and the fifty who were with him. When he had come, he bent his knees before Elijah, implored him, and said, “Man of God, do not despise my soul or the souls of your servants who are with me.

14 Behold, fire descended from heaven and devoured the first two captains of fifty and the fifty men who were with each of them. But now I implore you to have mercy upon my soul.”

15 Then the angel of the Lord spoke to Elijah, saying, “Go down with him; do not fear.” Therefore he rose and went down with him to the king,

16 and spoke to him: “Thus says the Lord: Because you sent messengers to consult Beelzebub, the god of Ekron, as though there were no God in Israel from whom you could inquire a word, therefore, from the bed upon which you have gone up, you shall not come down, but you shall surely die.”

17 Therefore he died according to the word of the Lord that Elijah had spoken, and Joram his brother reigned in his place, in the second year of Joram son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, for he had no son.

18 But the rest of the acts of Ahaziah that he performed—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

CHAPTER 2

1 Now it happened, when the Lord intended to lift Elijah into heaven by a whirlwind, that Elijah and Elisha were going from Gilgal.

2 Elijah said to Elisha, “Remain here, for the Lord has sent me as far as Bethel.” Elisha said to him, “As the Lord lives, and as your soul lives, I shall not leave you.” And when they had gone down to Bethel,

3 the sons of the prophets who were in Bethel came out to Elisha and said to him, “Do you know that today the Lord will take your master away from you?” He answered, “I also know. Be silent.”

4 Then Elijah said to Elisha, “Remain here, for the Lord has sent me to Jericho.” And he said, “As the Lord lives, and as your soul lives, I shall not leave you.” And when they had come to Jericho,

5 the sons of the prophets who were in Jericho approached Elisha and said to him, “Do you know that today the Lord will take your master away from you?” He said, “I also know. Be silent.”

6 Then Elijah said to him, “Remain here, for the Lord has sent me as far as the Jordan.” He said, “As the Lord lives, and as your soul lives, I shall not leave you.” Therefore they both went on together,

7 and fifty men from the sons of the prophets followed them and stood opposite them at a distance, while the two of them stood upon the Jordan.

8 Elijah took his cloak, rolled it up, and struck the waters. They were divided to either side, and the two crossed over on dry ground.

9 When they had crossed over, Elijah said to Elisha, “Ask what you wish me to do for you before I am taken away from you.” Elisha said, “I implore you, let your spirit be doubled in me.”

10 He answered, “You have asked a difficult thing. Nevertheless, if you see me when I am taken away from you, you shall have what you asked; but if you do not see me, you shall not.”

11 And as they went on, walking and conversing, behold, a fiery chariot and fiery horses divided the two of them, and Elijah ascended into heaven by a whirlwind.

12 Elisha saw it and cried out, “My father, my father! The chariot of Israel and its charioteer!” And he saw him no more. He took hold of his garments and tore them into two pieces.

13 He lifted up Elijah’s cloak, which had fallen from him, and returning, he stood upon the bank of the Jordan.

14 With Elijah’s cloak, which had fallen from him, he struck the waters, but they were not divided. He said, “Where is the God of Elijah, even now?” Then he struck the waters, and they were divided this way and that, and Elisha crossed over.

15 When the sons of the prophets who were in Jericho opposite him saw this, they said, “Elijah’s spirit has rested upon Elisha.” Coming to meet him, they adored him, prostrate upon the ground,

16 and said to him, “Behold, with your servants are fifty strong men who can go and seek your master, lest perhaps the spirit of the Lord has taken him and cast him upon one of the mountains or into one of the valleys.” He said, “Do not send them.”

17 But they pressed him until he consented and said, “Send them.” They sent fifty men, who searched for three days but did not find him.

18 They returned to him while he was dwelling in Jericho, and he said to them, “Did I not say to you, ‘Do not send them’?”

19 The men of the city also said to Elisha, “Behold, the situation of this city is excellent, as you yourself, my lord, perceive, but the waters are very bad and the land is barren.”

20 He said, “Bring me a new vessel and put salt into it.” When they had brought it,

21 he went out to the spring of the waters, cast the salt into it, and said, “Thus says the Lord: I have healed these waters, and there shall no longer be death or barrenness in them.”

22 Therefore the waters were healed, even to this day, according to the word Elisha had spoken.

23 He went up from there to Bethel. As he was ascending along the way, little boys came out from the city and mocked him, saying, “Go up, baldhead! Go up, baldhead!”

24 When he looked back, he saw them and cursed them in the name of the Lord. Two bears came out from the forest and tore forty-two of the boys.

25 Then he departed from there to Mount Carmel, and from there he returned to Samaria.

CHAPTER 3

1 Now Joram son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, and he reigned twelve years.

2 He did evil before the Lord, but not as his father and mother had done, for he removed the statues of Baal that his father had made.

3 Nevertheless, he clung to the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin, and he did not depart from them.

4 Now Mesha, king of Moab, raised much livestock and paid the king of Israel one hundred thousand lambs and one hundred thousand rams with their fleeces.

5 But when Ahab died, he transgressed the covenant he had with the king of Israel.

6 Therefore King Joram went out from Samaria that day and mustered all Israel.

7 He sent to Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, saying, “The king of Moab has revolted from me. Come with me against him to battle.” He answered, “I shall go up. What is mine is yours; my people are your people, and my horses are your horses.”

8 He said, “By what way shall we go up?” He answered, “By the wilderness of Edom.”

9 Therefore the king of Israel, the king of Judah, and the king of Edom went on. They made a circuit by a seven-day journey, and there was no water for the army or the beasts that followed them.

10 The king of Israel said, “Alas, alas, alas! The Lord has gathered us three kings together to deliver us into the hands of Moab.”

11 Jehoshaphat said, “Is there a prophet of the Lord here, so that we may implore the Lord through him?” One of the king of Israel’s servants answered, “Elisha son of Shaphat is here, who poured water upon Elijah’s hands.”

12 Jehoshaphat said, “The word of the Lord is with him.” So the king of Israel, Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and the king of Edom went down to him.

13 Elisha said to the king of Israel, “What is there between me and you? Go to the prophets of your father and your mother.” The king of Israel said to him, “Why has the Lord gathered these three kings together to deliver them into the hands of Moab?”

14 Elisha said to him, “As the Lord of hosts lives, in whose sight I stand, if I did not have regard for the face of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, I would certainly neither attend to you nor look upon you.

15 But now bring me a harpist.” And when the harpist played, the hand of the Lord came upon him, and he said, 16 “Thus says the Lord: Make ditch after ditch in the bed of this torrent.

17 For thus says the Lord: You shall see neither wind nor rain, yet this channel shall be filled with waters, and you, your households, and your beasts shall drink.

18 This is a small thing in the sight of the Lord; moreover, he shall also deliver Moab into your hands.

19 You shall strike every fortified city and every choice town, cut down every fruit-bearing tree, stop up all the springs of water, and cover every excellent field with stones.”

20 Therefore in the morning, at the time when the sacrifice is usually offered, behold, waters came by the way of Edom, and the land was filled with waters.

21 Now all the Moabites, hearing that the kings had come up to fight against them, summoned everyone old enough to be girded with a belt, and they stood at the borders.

22 Rising early in the morning, when the sun had now risen opposite the waters, the Moabites saw the waters opposite them, red like blood,

23 and said, “It is blood from the sword! The kings have fought one another and have killed each other. Now go to the spoil, Moab!”

24 They went into Israel’s camp, but Israel rose and struck Moab, and they fled before them. Therefore the victors came and struck Moab.

25 They destroyed the cities; every man cast a stone into every excellent field until they filled it; they stopped up every spring of water and cut down every fruit-bearing tree, until only the earthen walls remained. The city was surrounded by slingers and struck for the greater part.

26 When the king of Moab saw that the enemies had prevailed, he took with him seven hundred men who drew the sword, so that they might break through to the king of Edom, but they could not.

27 Seizing his firstborn son, who would have reigned in his place, he offered him as a holocaust upon the wall. And there arose great indignation in Israel; immediately they withdrew from him and returned to their own land.

CHAPTER 4

1 Now a certain woman from among the wives of the prophets cried out to Elisha, saying, “Your servant, my husband, is dead, and you know that your servant feared the Lord. And behold, the creditor has come to take my two sons to serve him.”

2 Elisha said to her, “What do you want me to do for you? Tell me, what do you have in your house?” She answered, “Your maidservant has nothing in my house except a little oil with which I may anoint myself.”

3 He said to her, “Go, borrow from all your neighbors many empty vessels,

4 then enter and shut your door when you and your sons are inside. Pour from the oil into all these vessels, and when they are full, take them away.”

5 Therefore the woman went and shut the door upon herself and her sons. They presented the vessels, and she poured.

6 When the vessels were full, she said to her son, “Bring me another vessel.” He answered, “I have none.” And the oil stopped.

7 Then she came and told the man of God. He said, “Go, sell the oil and repay your creditor. Then you and your sons may live upon what remains.”

8 Now it happened one day that Elisha passed through Shunem. A great woman was there, and she detained him to eat bread. Because he passed that way frequently, he turned aside to her to eat bread.

9 She said to her husband, “I perceive that this is a holy man of God who passes by us frequently.

10 Therefore let us make a small upper room for him and place in it a little bed, a table, a chair, and a lampstand, so that when he comes to us, he may remain there.”

11 And it happened one day that, arriving, he turned aside into the upper room and rested there.

12 He said to Gehazi his servant, “Call this Shunammite woman.” When he had called her and she stood before him,

13 he said to his servant, “Say to her: ‘Behold, you have diligently ministered to us in all things. What do you want me to do for you? Do you have some matter, and do you want me to speak to the king or the commander of the army?’” She answered, “I dwell in the midst of my own people.”

14 He said, “Then what does she want me to do for her?” Gehazi said, “Do not ask: she has no son, and her husband is old.”

15 Therefore he commanded him to call her. When she had been called and stood before the door,

16 he said to her, “At this season, at this same hour, if life accompanies you, you shall have a son in your womb.” But she answered, “Please do not, my lord, man of God; do not lie to your maidservant.”

17 The woman conceived and bore a son at the season and the same hour that Elisha had declared.

18 Now the boy grew. One day he went out to his father and to the reapers,

19 and said to his father, “My head hurts! My head hurts!” But he said to a servant, “Take him and lead him to his mother.”

20 When he had taken him and brought him to his mother, she placed him upon her knees until midday, and he died.

21 She went up and laid him upon the man of God’s bed, shut the door, and went out.

22 She called her husband and said, “Send with me, I implore you, one of the servants and a donkey, so that I may hurry to the man of God and return.”

23 He said to her, “For what reason are you going to him? Today is neither the new moon nor the Sabbath.” She answered, “I shall go.”

24 She saddled the donkey and commanded the servant, “Drive and hurry. Do not delay me as I go; do as I command you.”

25 Therefore she departed and came to the man of God upon Mount Carmel. When the man of God saw her opposite him, he said to Gehazi his servant, “Behold, that Shunammite woman.

26 Go now to meet her and say to her, ‘Is all well with you, your husband, and your son?’” She answered, “All is well.”

27 When she had come to the man of God on the mountain, she grasped his feet. Gehazi approached to remove her, but the man of God said, “Let her be, for her soul is in bitterness, and the Lord has hidden it from me and has not told me.”

28 She said to him, “Did I ask my lord for a son? Did I not say to you, ‘Do not deceive me’?”

29 He said to Gehazi, “Gird your loins, take my staff in your hand, and go. If a man meets you, do not greet him; and if anyone greets you, do not answer him. Place my staff upon the boy’s face.”

30 But the boy’s mother said, “As the Lord lives, and as your soul lives, I shall not leave you.” Therefore he rose and followed her.

31 Gehazi had gone before them and placed the staff upon the boy’s face, but there was neither voice nor sensation. He returned to meet Elisha and reported to him, saying, “The boy did not arise.”

32 Therefore Elisha entered the house, and behold, the dead boy lay upon his bed.

33 Entering, he shut the door upon himself and the boy and prayed to the Lord.

34 He went up and lay upon the boy. He placed his mouth upon his mouth, his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands. He bent himself over him, and the boy’s flesh grew warm.

35 Then returning, he walked once through the house, here and there. He went up and lay upon him, and the boy yawned seven times and opened his eyes.

36 He called Gehazi and said to him, “Call this Shunammite woman.” When she had been called, she entered to him. He said, “Take your son.”

37 She came, fell at his feet, and adored upon the ground. Then she took her son and went out.

38 Elisha returned to Gilgal. Now there was a famine in the land, and the sons of the prophets dwelt before him. He said to one of his servants, “Set on the large pot and cook stew for the sons of the prophets.”

39 One went out into the field to gather wild herbs. He found what was like a wild vine, gathered wild gourds from it, and filled his cloak. Returning, he cut them into the pot of stew, for he did not know what they were.

40 Then they poured it out for their companions to eat. When they had tasted the cooked food, they cried out, saying, “Death is in the pot, man of God!” And they could not eat.

41 But he said, “Bring flour.” When they had brought it, he cast it into the pot and said, “Pour it out for the multitude, so that they may eat.” And there was no longer any bitterness in the pot.

42 A certain man came from Baal-shalisha, bringing the man of God bread of the firstfruits: twenty barley loaves and new grain in his sack. He said, “Give it to the people, so that they may eat.”

43 His servant answered him, “How much is this, that I should set it before one hundred men?” Again he said, “Give it to the people, so that they may eat, for thus says the Lord: They shall eat, and some shall remain.”

44 Therefore he set it before them. They ate, and some remained, according to the word of the Lord.

CHAPTER 5

1 Naaman, commander of the king of Syria's army, was a great and honored man before his lord, for through him the Lord had given salvation to Syria. He was a strong and wealthy man, but a leper.

2 Now raiders had gone out from Syria and had led away captive from the land of Israel a little girl, who waited upon Naaman's wife.

3 She said to her mistress, "If only my lord had been with the prophet who is in Samaria, he certainly would have healed him of the leprosy he has."

4 Therefore Naaman went in to his lord and reported to him, saying, "Thus and thus spoke the girl from the land of Israel."

5 The king of Syria said to him, "Go, and I shall send letters to the king of Israel." When he departed, he took with him ten talents of silver, six thousand gold pieces, and ten changes of garments.

6 He delivered the letter to the king of Israel in these words: "When you receive this letter, know that I have sent Naaman my servant to you so that you may heal him of his leprosy."

7 When the king of Israel read the letter, he tore his garments and said, "Am I God, able to kill and give life, that this man sends someone to me so that I may heal him of his leprosy? Mark this and see that he seeks occasions against me."

8 When Elisha the man of God heard that the king of Israel had torn his garments, he sent to him, saying, "Why have you torn your garments? Let him come to me, and let him know that there is a prophet in Israel."

9 Therefore Naaman came with horses and chariots and stood at the door of Elisha's house.

10 Elisha sent a messenger to him, saying, "Go and wash seven times in the Jordan, and your flesh shall recover health, and you shall be cleansed."

11 Naaman departed angry, saying, "I thought he would come out to me, stand and invoke the name of the Lord his God, touch the place of leprosy with his hand, and heal me.

12 Are not the Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel, so that I might wash in them and be cleansed?" Therefore he turned and departed indignantly.

13 His servants approached him and spoke to him: "Father, even if the prophet had told you some great thing, surely you ought to have done it. How much more, now that he has said to you, 'Wash, and you shall be cleansed'?"

14 He went down and washed seven times in the Jordan according to the word of the man of God. His flesh was restored like the flesh of a little child, and he was cleansed.

15 Returning to the man of God with his whole company, he came and stood before him and said, "Truly I know that there is no other God in all the earth except in Israel alone. Therefore I implore you to accept a blessing from your servant."

16 But he answered, "As the Lord lives, before whom I stand, I shall not accept it." And though Naaman pressed him, he would not consent at all.

17 Naaman said, "As you wish. But I implore you, grant to your servant that I may take away a load of earth for two mules, for your servant shall no longer offer holocaust or victim to foreign gods, but only to the Lord.

18 But this is the one thing for which you should implore the Lord on behalf of your servant: when my lord enters the temple of Rimmon to adore, and he leans upon my hand, if I adore in the temple of Rimmon while he adores in that same place, may the Lord forgive your servant for this matter."

19 He said to him, "Go in peace." Therefore he departed from him at the chosen time of the land.

20 But Gehazi, servant of the man of God, said, "My lord has spared this Syrian Naaman by not accepting from him what he brought. As the Lord lives, I shall run after him and accept something from him."

21 Gehazi followed behind Naaman. When Naaman saw him running toward him, he leaped down from the chariot to meet him and said, "Is all well?"

22 He said, "All is well. My lord sent me to you, saying, 'Just now two young men from the sons of the prophets have come to me from Mount Ephraim. Give them one talent of silver and two changes of garments.'"

23 Naaman said, "It is better that you accept two talents." He pressed him, bound two talents of silver in two sacks together with two changes of garments, and placed them upon two of his servants, who carried them before Gehazi.

24 When evening had now come, he took them from their hands, stored them in the house, and dismissed the men, and they departed.

25 Then he entered and stood before his lord. Elisha said, “Where have you come from, Gehazi?” He answered, “Your servant went nowhere.”

26 But he said, “Was not my heart present when the man turned back from his chariot to meet you? Now, then, you have accepted silver and garments so that you may buy olive groves, vineyards, sheep, oxen, menservants, and maidservants.

27 But Naaman’s leprosy shall also cling to you and to your seed forever.” And he went out from him a leper like snow.

CHAPTER 6

1 Now the sons of the prophets said to Elisha, “Behold, the place where we dwell before you is too narrow for us.

2 Let us go as far as the Jordan, and let each of us take one piece of timber from the forest, so that we may build a place there for ourselves to dwell.” He said, “Go.”

3 One of them said, “Then come with your servants as well.” He answered, “I shall come.”

4 And he went with them. When they came to the Jordan, they cut wood.

5 It happened that as one man cut timber, the iron of the axe fell into the water. He cried out and said, “Alas, alas, alas, my lord! And this very thing was borrowed.”

6 The man of God said, “Where did it fall?” He showed him the place. Therefore he cut off a piece of wood and cast it there, and the iron floated.

7 He said, “Take it.” The man extended his hand and took it.

8 Now the king of Syria was warring against Israel, and he took counsel with his servants, saying, “Let us set an ambush in such and such a place.”

9 Therefore the man of God sent to the king of Israel, saying, “Beware that you do not pass through that place, for the Syrians are there in ambush.”

10 And so the king of Israel sent to the place of which the man of God had told him, forestalled them, and guarded himself there not once or twice.

11 The heart of the king of Syria was troubled by this matter. Calling his servants together, he said, “Why do you not tell me who among us is betraying me to the king of Israel?”

12 One of his servants said, “By no means, my lord king. Rather, Elisha the prophet who is in Israel tells the king of Israel every word you speak in your bedchamber.”

13 He said to them, “Go and see where he is, so that I may send and seize him.” They reported to him, saying, “Behold, he is in Dothan.”

14 Therefore he sent horses, chariots, and the strength of the army there. When they arrived by night, they surrounded the city.

15 Rising at first light, the servant of the man of God went out and saw the army around the city, with horses and chariots. He reported to him, saying, “Alas, alas, alas, my lord! What shall we do?”

16 But he answered, “Do not fear, for there are more with us than with them.”

17 When Elisha had prayed, he said, “Lord, open this man’s eyes so that he may see.” The Lord opened the servant’s eyes, and he saw; and behold, the mountain was full of fiery horses and chariots around Elisha.

18 The enemies came down to him, but Elisha prayed to the Lord, saying, “Strike this nation, I implore you, with blindness.” And the Lord struck them so that they could not see, according to Elisha’s word.

19 Elisha said to them, “This is not the way, nor is this the city. Follow me, and I shall show you the man you seek.” Therefore he led them into Samaria.

20 When they had entered Samaria, Elisha said, “Lord, open these men’s eyes so that they may see.” The Lord opened their eyes, and they saw that they were in the midst of Samaria.

21 When the king of Israel saw them, he said to Elisha, “Shall I strike them, my father?”

22 But he said, “You shall not strike them, for you did not capture them with your sword and bow, so that you might strike them. Instead, set bread and water before them so that they may eat and drink and go to their lord.”

23 A great preparation of food was set before them, and they ate and drank. He dismissed them, and they went to their lord. After this, the Syrian raiders no longer came into the land of Israel.

24 Now after these things, Ben-hadad, king of Syria, gathered his entire army, went up, and besieged Samaria.

25 A great famine arose in Samaria, and it was besieged so long that a donkey’s head sold for eighty pieces of silver and a fourth part of a cab of doves’ dung for five pieces of silver.

26 As the king of Israel passed along the wall, a certain woman cried out to him, saying, “Save me, my lord king!”

27 He said, “The Lord does not save you; from where can I save you—from the threshing floor or the winepress?” Then the king said to her, “What do you want?” She answered,

28 “This woman said to me, ‘Give your son so that we may eat him today, and tomorrow we shall eat my son.’

29 Therefore we cooked my son and ate him. The next day I said to her, ‘Give your son so that we may eat him,’ but she hid her son.”

30 When the king heard this, he tore his garments as he passed along the wall, and all the people saw the sackcloth with which he was clothed against his flesh underneath.

31 He said, “May God do these things to me and add these things also if the head of Elisha son of Shaphat remains upon him today.”

32 Now Elisha sat in his house, and the elders sat with him. The king sent a man ahead, but before that messenger arrived, Elisha said to the elders, “Do you know that this son of a murderer has sent someone here to cut off my head? See, then: when the messenger comes, shut the door and do not permit him to enter, for behold, the sound of his lord’s feet is behind him.”

33 While he was still speaking to them, the messenger who was coming to him appeared. And he said, “Behold, such great evil is from the Lord. What more shall I await from the Lord?”

CHAPTER 7

1 Then Elisha said, “Hear the word of the Lord. Thus says the Lord: At this time tomorrow, a measure of fine flour shall be one stater, and two measures of barley one stater, at the gate of Samaria.”

2 One of the commanders upon whose hand the king leaned answered the man of God and said, “Even if the Lord made floodgates in heaven, could what you say possibly happen?” He said, “You shall see it with your eyes, but you shall not eat from it.”

3 Now there were four leprous men beside the entrance of the gate, and they said to one another, “Why do we wish to remain here until we die?

4 If we choose to enter the city, we shall die of famine; and if we remain here, we must die. Come, therefore, and let us desert to the Syrian camp. If they spare us, we shall live; but if they choose to kill us, we shall die nevertheless.”

5 Therefore they rose in the evening to go to the Syrian camp. When they came to the beginning of the Syrian camp, they found no one there.

6 For the Lord had caused the sound of chariots, horses, and a very great army to be heard in the Syrian camp. They said to one another, “Behold, the king of Israel has hired against us the kings of the Hittites and Egyptians, and they have come upon us.”

7 Therefore they rose and fled in the darkness. They abandoned their tents, horses, and donkeys in the camp and fled, desiring only to save their souls.

8 And so, when those lepers came to the beginning of the camp, they entered one tent and ate and drank. They took silver, gold, and garments from there, went away, and hid them. Again they returned to another tent and similarly took things from there and hid them.

9 They said to one another, “We are not doing right, for this is a day of good news. If we remain silent and refuse to report it until morning, we shall be accused of a crime. Come, let us go and report it in the king’s court.”

10 When they came to the city gate, they told those there, saying, “We went to the Syrian camp and found no man there, but only tethered horses and donkeys and tents standing.”

11 Therefore the gatekeepers went and reported it inside the king’s palace.

12 He rose in the night and said to his servants, “I shall tell you what the Syrians have done to us. They know that we suffer from famine, and therefore they have gone out from the camp and are hiding in the fields, saying, ‘When they come out from the city, we shall capture them alive, and then we shall be able to enter the city.’”

13 One of his servants answered, “Let us take five of the horses that remain in the city—for these alone remain from the whole multitude of Israel, since the others have been consumed—and send them, so that we may investigate.”

14 Therefore they brought two horses, and the king sent them toward the Syrian camp, saying, “Go and see.”

15 They went after them as far as the Jordan, and behold, the entire way was full of garments and vessels that the Syrians had cast away in their panic. The messengers returned and informed the king.

16 The people went out and plundered the Syrian camp. A measure of fine flour became one stater and two measures of barley one stater, according to the word of the Lord.

17 Now the king stationed at the gate that commander upon whose hand he leaned. The crowd trampled him at the entrance of the gate, and he died, according to what the man of God had spoken when the king came down to him.

18 It happened according to the word of the man of God that he had spoken to the king when he said, “Two measures of barley shall be one stater, and a measure of fine flour one stater, at this same time tomorrow at the gate of Samaria,”

19 when that commander had answered the man of God and said, “Even if the Lord made floodgates in heaven, could what you say possibly happen?” And he had said to him, “You shall see it with your eyes, but you shall not eat from it.”

20 Therefore it happened to him as had been foretold: the people trampled him at the gate, and he died.

CHAPTER 8

1 Now Elisha spoke to the woman whose son he had restored to life, saying, “Rise and go, you and your household, and sojourn wherever you find a place, for the Lord has called a famine, and it shall come upon the land for seven years.”

2 She rose and acted according to the word of the man of God. Going with her household, she sojourned in the land of the Philistines for many days.

3 When the seven years had ended, the woman returned from the land of the Philistines and went out to appeal to the king for her house and fields.

4 Now the king was speaking with Gehazi, servant of the man of God, saying, “Tell me all the great things Elisha has done.”

5 As he told the king how Elisha had raised the dead, the woman whose son he had restored to life appeared, crying out to the king for her house and fields. Gehazi said, “My lord king, this is the woman, and this is her son whom Elisha raised.”

6 The king questioned the woman, and she told him. The king assigned one eunuch to her, saying, “Restore to her everything that is hers and all the revenues of the fields from the day she left the land until the present.”

7 Elisha also came to Damascus, and Ben-hadad, king of Syria, was ill. They reported to him, saying, “The man of God has come here.”

8 The king said to Hazael, “Take gifts with you, go to meet the man of God, and consult the Lord through him, saying, ‘Shall I be able to escape this illness of mine?’”

9 Therefore Hazael went to meet him, having with him gifts and every good thing of Damascus, loads for forty camels. When he stood before him, he said, “Your son Ben-hadad, king of Syria, has sent me to you, saying, ‘Shall I be able to recover from this illness of mine?’”

10 Elisha said to him, “Go, say to him, ‘You shall recover.’ But the Lord has shown me that he shall surely die.”

11 He stood with him and became troubled until his face was suffused, and the man of God wept.

12 Hazael said to him, “Why does my lord weep?” He said, “Because I know the evils you shall do to the children of Israel. You shall burn their fortified cities with fire, kill their young men with the sword, dash their little children to pieces, and rip open their pregnant women.”

13 Hazael said, “For what is your servant, a dog, that I should do this great thing?” Elisha said, “The Lord has shown me that you shall be king of Syria.”

14 When he departed from Elisha, he came to his lord, who said to him, “What did Elisha say to you?” He answered, “He told me, ‘You shall recover.’”

15 When the next day came, he took a blanket, poured water upon it, and spread it over his face. When he died, Hazael reigned in his place.

16 In the fifth year of Joram son of Ahab, king of Israel, and of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, Joram son of Jehoshaphat began to reign as king of Judah.

17 He was thirty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

18 He walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had walked, for Ahab’s daughter was his wife. And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord.

19 Yet the Lord was unwilling to destroy Judah because of David his servant, as he had promised him that he would give a lamp to him and to his sons all their days.

20 In his days, Edom revolted so that it was no longer under Judah, and it appointed a king for itself.

21 Joram came to Seir with all the chariots with him. Rising by night, he struck the Edomites who surrounded him and the commanders of the chariots, but the people fled to their tents.

22 Therefore Edom revolted so that it was no longer under Judah, even to this day. Then Libnah also revolted at that time.

23 But the rest of the acts of Joram and everything he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

24 Joram slept with his fathers and was buried with them in the City of David, and Ahaziah his son reigned in his place.

25 In the twelfth year of Joram son of Ahab, king of Israel, Ahaziah son of Joram, king of Judah, began to reign.

26 Ahaziah was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Athaliah, daughter of Omri, king of Israel.

27 He walked in the ways of the house of Ahab and did what was evil before the Lord, like the house of Ahab, for he was a son-in-law of the house of Ahab.

28 He also went with Joram son of Ahab to fight against Hazael, king of Syria, at Ramoth-gilead, and the Syrians wounded Joram.

29 He returned to be healed at Jezreel because the Syrians had wounded him while he fought against Hazael, king of Syria, at Ramoth. Then Ahaziah son of Joram, king of Judah, went down to visit Joram son of Ahab at Jezreel because he lay ill there.

CHAPTER 9

1 Now Elisha the prophet called one of the sons of the prophets and said to him, “Gird your loins, take this little flask of oil in your hand, and go to Ramoth-gilead.

2 When you arrive there, you shall see Jehu son of Jehoshaphat son of Nimshi. Enter, raise him from among his brothers, and lead him into an inner chamber.

3 Taking the little flask of oil, pour it upon his head and say, ‘Thus says the Lord: I have anointed you king over Israel.’ Then open the door, flee, and do not remain there.”

4 Therefore the young man, the prophet’s servant, went to Ramoth-gilead.

5 He entered there, and behold, the commanders of the army were sitting. He said, “I have a word for you, O commander.” Jehu said, “For whom among all of us?” He said, “For you, O commander.”

6 He rose and entered the chamber. The young man poured the oil upon his head and said, “Thus says the Lord God of Israel: I have anointed you king over the people of the Lord, Israel.

7 You shall strike the house of Ahab your lord, and I shall avenge the blood of my servants the prophets and the blood of all the servants of the Lord from the hand of Jezebel.

8 I shall destroy the entire house of Ahab and kill from Ahab every one who pisses against the wall, both the confined and the last in Israel.

9 I shall make the house of Ahab like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat and like the house of Baasha son of Ahijah.

10 The dogs shall also eat Jezebel in the field of Jezreel, and there shall be no one to bury her.” Then he opened the door and fled.

11 Jehu went out to the servants of his lord, and they said to him, “Is all well? Why did this madman come to you?” He said to them, “You know the man and what he spoke.”

12 But they answered, “That is false. Rather, tell us.” He said to them, “Thus and thus he spoke to me, saying, ‘Thus says the Lord: I have anointed you king over Israel.’”

13 Therefore they hurried, and each man took his cloak and placed it beneath Jehu’s feet in the likeness of a tribunal. They sounded the trumpet and said, “Jehu has become king!”

14 And so Jehu son of Jehoshaphat son of Nimshi conspired against Joram. Now Joram and all Israel had besieged Ramoth-gilead against Hazael, king of Syria,

15 and he had returned to be healed at Jezreel because of the wounds the Syrians had inflicted upon him while he fought against Hazael, king of Syria. Jehu said, “If it pleases you, let no fugitive leave the city to go and report it in Jezreel.”

16 He mounted and departed for Jezreel, for Joram lay ill there, and Ahaziah, king of Judah, had gone down to visit Joram.

17 Therefore the watchman who stood upon the tower of Jezreel saw Jehu’s company coming and said, “I see a company.” Joram said, “Take a chariot and send it to meet them, and let the one who goes say, ‘Is all at peace?’”

18 Therefore the man who had mounted the chariot went to meet him and said, “Thus says the king: Is all at peace?” Jehu said, “What have you to do with peace? Pass behind me and follow.” The watchman also reported, saying, “The messenger came to them and does not return.”

19 He sent a second chariot of horses. It came to them, and the man said, “Thus says the king: Is there peace?” Jehu said, “What have you to do with peace? Pass behind me and follow.”

20 The watchman reported, saying, “He came as far as them and does not return. The driving is like the driving of Jehu son of Nimshi, for he drives headlong.”

21 Joram said, “Harness the chariot.” They harnessed his chariot, and Joram, king of Israel, and Ahaziah, king of Judah, went out, each in his own chariot. They went out to meet Jehu and found him in the field of Naboth the Jezreelite.

22 When Joram saw Jehu, he said, “Is there peace, Jehu?” But he answered, “What peace can there be while the fornications of Jezebel your mother and her many sorceries flourish?”

23 Joram turned his hand and fled, saying to Ahaziah, “Treachery, Ahaziah!”

24 But Jehu drew his bow with his hand and struck Joram between the shoulders. The arrow went out through his heart, and immediately he fell in his chariot.

25 Jehu said to Bidkar the commander, “Take him and cast him into the field of Naboth the Jezreelite. For I remember when you and I, sitting in a chariot, followed Ahab his father, that the Lord raised this burden upon him, saying,

26 ‘As surely as I saw yesterday the blood of Naboth and the blood of his sons, says the Lord, I shall repay you in this field, says the Lord.’ Now, therefore, take him and cast him into the field according to the word of the Lord.”

27 When Ahaziah, king of Judah, saw this, he fled by the way of the garden house. Jehu pursued him and said, “Strike this man also in his chariot.” They struck him on the ascent of Gur, which is beside Ibleam. He fled to Megiddo and died there.

28 His servants placed him upon his chariot and carried him to Jerusalem. They buried him in his sepulcher with his fathers in the City of David.

29 In the eleventh year of Joram son of Ahab, Ahaziah had begun to reign over Judah.

30 Jehu came to Jezreel. When Jezebel heard of his arrival, she painted her eyes with antimony, adorned her head, and looked out through the window

31 at Jehu entering through the gate, and said, “Can there be peace for Zimri, who killed his lord?”

32 Jehu lifted his face toward the window and said, “Who is this?” Two or three eunuchs leaned toward him.

33 He said to them, “Throw her down.” They threw her down, and the wall was spattered with her blood, and the horses’ hooves trampled her.

34 When he had entered to eat and drink, he said, “Go and see to that accursed woman, and bury her, for she is a king’s daughter.”

35 When they went to bury her, they found nothing except her skull, feet, and the ends of her hands.

36 Returning, they reported it to him. Jehu said, “This is the word of the Lord that he spoke through his servant Elijah the Tishbite, saying, ‘In the field of Jezreel, the dogs shall eat Jezebel’s flesh, 37 and Jezebel’s flesh shall be like dung upon the face of the earth in the field of Jezreel, so that those passing by shall say: Is this that Jezebel?’”

CHAPTER 10

1 Now Ahab had seventy sons in Samaria. Therefore Jehu wrote letters and sent them to Samaria, to the nobles of the city, the elders, and Ahab's guardians, saying,

2 "As soon as you receive these letters—you who have your lord's sons, chariots, horses, fortified cities, and weapons—

3 choose the best and the one who pleases you from among your lord's sons, place him upon his father's throne, and fight for your lord's house."

4 They feared exceedingly and said, "Behold, two kings could not stand before him, so how shall we be able to resist?"

5 Therefore those over the household, the prefects of the city, the elders, and the guardians sent to Jehu, saying, "We are your servants. Whatever you command, we shall do. We shall not appoint a king for ourselves. Do whatever pleases you."

6 He wrote them a second letter, saying, "If you are mine and obey me, take the heads of your lord's sons and come to me at this same hour tomorrow in Jezreel." Now the king's sons, seventy men, were being raised among the nobles of the city.

7 When the letters came to them, they took the king's sons and killed the seventy men. They placed their heads in baskets and sent them to him at Jezreel.

8 A messenger came and informed him, saying, "They have brought the heads of the king's sons." He answered, "Place them in two heaps beside the entrance of the gate until morning."

9 When day dawned, he went out, stood, and said to all the people, "You are just. If I conspired against my lord and killed him, who struck all these?

10 See now that none of the Lord's words that the Lord spoke against the house of Ahab has fallen to the ground. The Lord has done what he spoke by the hand of his servant Elijah."

11 Therefore Jehu struck everyone remaining from the house of Ahab in Jezreel, all his nobles, acquaintances, and priests, until no remnant of him remained.

12 He rose and went to Samaria. When he came to the Shepherds' Chamber along the way,

13 he found the brothers of Ahaziah, king of Judah, and said to them, "Who are you?" They answered, "We are Ahaziah's brothers, and we have come down to greet the king's sons and the queen's sons."

14 He said, "Seize them alive." When they had seized them alive, they slaughtered them at the cistern beside the Chamber—forty-two men—and he left none of them.

15 When he departed from there, he found Jehonadab son of Rechab coming to meet him, and he blessed him. He said to him, "Is your heart upright, as my heart is with your heart?" Jehonadab said, "It is." "If it is," he said, "give me your hand." He gave him his hand, and Jehu lifted him up to himself into the chariot.

16 He said to him, "Come with me and see my zeal for the Lord." And having placed him in his chariot,

17 he led him into Samaria. He struck everyone who remained of Ahab in Samaria, even to the last one, according to the word of the Lord that he had spoken through Elijah.

18 Therefore Jehu gathered all the people and said to them, "Ahab worshiped Baal a little, but I shall worship him more.

19 Now, therefore, summon to me all the prophets of Baal, all his servants, and all his priests. Let no one fail to come, for I have a great sacrifice for Baal. Whoever is absent shall not live." But Jehu did this deceitfully so that he might destroy Baal's worshipers.

20 He said, "Sanctify a solemn day for Baal." And he summoned them.

21 He sent throughout all the borders of Israel, and all Baal's servants came. Not even one remained who did not come. They entered the temple of Baal, and the house of Baal was filled from end to end.

22 He said to those who were over the garments, "Bring out garments for all Baal's servants." And they brought garments out for them.

23 Jehu and Jehonadab son of Rechab entered the temple of Baal. Jehu said to Baal's worshipers, "Search and see that none of the Lord's servants is among you, but Baal's servants alone."

24 Therefore they entered to make victims and holocausts. Jehu had prepared eighty men outside for himself and had said to them, "If anyone escapes from among these men whom I bring into your hands, your soul shall be for his soul."

25 Now when the holocaust was completed, Jehu commanded his soldiers and commanders, “Enter and strike them. Let no one escape.” The soldiers and commanders struck them with the edge of the sword and cast them out. Then they went into the city of the temple of Baal,

26 brought the statue out from Baal’s shrine, and burned it.

27 They crushed it, destroyed the temple of Baal, and made latrines in its place, even to this day.

28 Thus Jehu abolished Baal from Israel.

29 Nevertheless, he did not depart from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin, nor did he abandon the golden calves that were in Bethel and Dan.

30 The Lord said to Jehu, “Because you have diligently done what was right and pleasing in my eyes, and you have done against the house of Ahab everything that was in my heart, your sons shall sit upon the throne of Israel to the fourth generation.”

31 But Jehu did not take care to walk in the law of the Lord God of Israel with his whole heart, for he did not depart from the sins of Jeroboam, who had caused Israel to sin.

32 In those days the Lord began to grow weary of Israel, and Hazael struck them throughout all the borders of Israel,

33 from the Jordan toward the eastern region: all the land of Gilead, Gad, Reuben, and Manasseh, from Aroer, which is above the torrent Arnon, including Gilead and Bashan.

34 But the rest of Jehu’s acts, everything he did, and his might—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

35 Jehu slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria. Jehoahaz his son reigned in his place.

36 The days that Jehu reigned over Israel in Samaria were twenty-eight years.

CHAPTER 11

1 Now Athaliah, the mother of Ahaziah, seeing that her son was dead, rose and killed all the royal seed.

2 But Jehosheba, daughter of King Joram and sister of Ahaziah, took Joash son of Ahaziah and stole him away from among the king's sons who were being killed, together with his nurse, from the bedchamber. She hid him from Athaliah's face so that he would not be killed.

3 He remained secretly with her for six years in the house of the Lord, while Athaliah reigned over the land.

4 But in the seventh year, Jehoiada sent and took the centurions and soldiers and brought them to himself in the temple of the Lord. He struck a covenant with them and, putting them under oath in the house of the Lord, showed them the king's son.

5 He commanded them, saying, "This is the thing you must do:

6 Let one-third of you enter on the Sabbath and keep watch over the king's house. Let one-third be at the Gate of Sur, and one-third at the gate behind the dwelling of the shield-bearers, and you shall keep watch over the house of Messa.

7 But let the two divisions of you, all who go out on the Sabbath, keep watch over the house of the Lord around the king.

8 You shall surround him, having your weapons in your hands. If anyone enters the enclosure of the temple, let him be killed. You shall be with the king when he enters and when he goes out."

9 The centurions did according to everything Jehoiada the priest had commanded them. Each took his men, both those entering on the Sabbath and those going out on the Sabbath, and they came to Jehoiada the priest.

10 He gave them the spears and weapons of King David that were in the house of the Lord.

11 They stood, each man having his weapons in his hand, from the temple's right side to the altar and house's left side, around the king.

12 He brought out the king's son and placed upon him the diadem and the testimony. They made him king and anointed him. Clapping their hands, they said, "Long live the king!"

13 Athaliah heard the sound of the people running and entered among the crowds in the temple of the Lord.

14 She saw the king standing upon the tribunal according to custom, with the singers and trumpets near him, and all the people of the land rejoicing and sounding trumpets. She tore her garments and cried out, "Conspiracy! Conspiracy!"

15 Jehoiada commanded the centurions who were over the army and said to them, "Lead her outside the temple enclosure, and let whoever follows her be struck with the sword." For the priest had said, "Let her not be killed in the temple of the Lord."

16 They laid hands upon her and drove her by the way of the horses' entrance beside the palace, and she was killed there.

17 Therefore Jehoiada struck a covenant between the Lord, the king, and the people, that they should be the Lord's people, and between the king and the people.

18 All the people of the land entered the temple of Baal and destroyed its altars. They violently crushed its images and killed Mattan, the priest of Baal, before the altar. And the priest stationed guards in the house of the Lord.

19 He took the centurions, the companies of the Cherethites and Pelethites, and all the people of the land. They led the king down from the house of the Lord, came by the way of the shield-bearers' gate into the palace, and he sat upon the throne of the kings.

20 All the people of the land rejoiced, and the city became quiet. Athaliah was killed with the sword in the king's house.

21 Joash was seven years old when he began to reign.

CHAPTER 12

1 In the seventh year of Jehu, Joash began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zibiah of Beersheba.

2 Joash did what was right before the Lord all the days that Jehoiada the priest taught him.

3 Nevertheless, he did not remove the high places, for the people were still sacrificing and burning incense upon the high places.

4 Joash said to the priests, "Let the priests receive according to their order all the money for sacred things that is brought into the temple of the Lord by those passing through, what is offered for the price of a soul, and what people freely bring into the temple of the Lord according to the choice of their heart.

5 Let them repair the breaches of the house wherever they see that restoration is needed."

6 Yet even by the twenty-third year of King Joash, the priests had not repaired the temple's breaches.

7 King Joash called Jehoiada the high priest and the priests and said to them, "Why do you not repair the temple's breaches? Therefore no longer accept money according to your order, but return it for the temple's restoration."

8 The priests were forbidden to accept any more money from the people and to repair the breaches of the house.

9 Jehoiada the high priest took one treasury chest, opened a hole in its top, and placed it beside the altar at the right hand of those entering the house of the Lord. The priests who guarded the doors placed in it all the money brought to the temple of the Lord.

10 When they saw that there was a great amount of money in the treasury chest, the king's scribe and the high priest went up, poured out, and counted the money found in the house of the Lord.

11 They gave it by number and measure into the hands of those who oversaw the masons of the house of the Lord. They spent it on woodworkers and masons who worked in the house of the Lord,

12 on those repairing the breaches and those cutting stone, and to buy timber and hewn stones, so that the restoration of the house of the Lord might be completed in everything that required expense to strengthen the house.

13 Nevertheless, pitchers for the temple of the Lord, small forks, censers, trumpets, or any vessel of gold or silver were not made from the same money brought into the temple of the Lord.

14 For it was given to those doing the work so that the temple of the Lord might be restored.

15 No accounting was made with the men who received the money to distribute it to the craftsmen, for they handled it in good faith.

16 But the money for trespass and the money for sins were not brought into the temple of the Lord, because they belonged to the priests.

17 Then Hazael, king of Syria, went up and fought against Gath and captured it. He directed his face to go up against Jerusalem.

18 For this reason Joash, king of Judah, took all the consecrated things that Jehoshaphat, Joram, and Ahaziah—his fathers, the kings of Judah—had consecrated, and those he himself had offered, together with all the silver that could be found in the treasuries of the temple of the Lord and in the king's palace. He sent it to Hazael, king of Syria, and Hazael withdrew from Jerusalem.

19 But the rest of the acts of Joash and everything he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 His servants rose and conspired together, and they struck Joash in the house of Millo on the descent to Silla.

21 For Jozachar son of Shimeath and Jozabad son of Shomer, his servants, struck him, and he died. They buried him with his fathers in the City of David, and Amaziah his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 13

1 In the twenty-third year of Joash son of Ahaziah, king of Judah, Jehoahaz son of Jehu began to reign over Israel in Samaria for seventeen years.

2 He did evil before the Lord and followed the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin, and he did not turn away from them.

3 The Lord's fury became angry against Israel, and he delivered them into the hand of Hazael, king of Syria, and into the hand of Ben-hadad son of Hazael continually.

4 But Jehoahaz implored the face of the Lord, and the Lord heard him, for he saw Israel's anguish because the king of Syria had crushed them.

5 The Lord gave Israel a savior, and it was delivered from the hand of the king of Syria. The children of Israel dwelt in their tents as yesterday and the day before.

6 Nevertheless, they did not depart from the sins of the house of Jeroboam, who had caused Israel to sin, but walked in them. Indeed, the grove also remained in Samaria.

7 Nothing was left to Jehoahaz of the people except fifty horsemen, ten chariots, and ten thousand foot soldiers, for the king of Syria had killed them and reduced them like dust in the threshing of a floor.

8 But the rest of the acts of Jehoahaz, everything he did, and his might—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

9 Jehoahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria. Joash his son reigned in his place.

10 In the thirty-seventh year of Joash, king of Judah, Joash son of Jehoahaz began to reign over Israel in Samaria for sixteen years.

11 He did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. He did not turn away from all the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin, but walked in them.

12 But the rest of the acts of Joash, everything he did, his might, and how he fought against Amaziah, king of Judah—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

13 Joash slept with his fathers, and Jeroboam sat upon his throne. Joash was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

14 Now Elisha was ill with the illness from which he also died. Joash, king of Israel, went down to him, wept before him, and said, "My father, my father! The chariot of Israel and its charioteer!"

15 Elisha said to him, "Bring a bow and arrows." When he had brought him a bow and arrows,

16 he said to the king of Israel, "Place your hand upon the bow." When he had placed his hand, Elisha placed his own hands over the king's hands,

17 and said, "Open the eastern window." When he had opened it, Elisha said, "Shoot the arrow." He shot, and Elisha said, "The arrow of the Lord's salvation, the arrow of salvation against Syria. You shall strike Syria at Aphek until you consume it."

18 He said, "Take the arrows." When he had taken them, he again said to him, "Strike the ground with the arrow." When he had struck three times and stopped,

19 the man of God became angry against him and said, "If you had struck five, six, or seven times, you would have struck Syria to its destruction. But now you shall strike it three times."

20 Therefore Elisha died, and they buried him. Raiders from Moab came into the land in that same year.

21 Now certain men who were burying a man saw the raiders and cast the corpse into Elisha's sepulcher. When it touched Elisha's bones, the man revived and stood upon his feet.

22 And so Hazael, king of Syria, afflicted Israel all the days of Jehoahaz.

23 But the Lord had mercy upon them and returned to them because of his pact that he had with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. He was unwilling to destroy them or cast them away entirely, even to the present time.

24 Then Hazael, king of Syria, died, and Ben-hadad his son reigned in his place.

25 Joash son of Jehoahaz took from the hand of Ben-hadad son of Hazael the cities that he had taken by right of war from the hand of Jehoahaz his father. Joash struck him three times and restored the cities to Israel.

CHAPTER 14

1 In the second year of Joash son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, began to reign.

2 He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

3 He did what was right before the Lord, yet not as David his father had. He did according to everything Joash his father had done,

4 except this alone: he did not remove the high places, for the people were still sacrificing and burning incense upon the high places.

5 When he had secured the kingdom, he struck his servants who had killed the king his father.

6 But he did not kill the sons of those who had killed him, according to what is written in the book of the law of Moses, as the Lord commanded, saying, "Fathers shall not die for their sons, nor shall sons die for their fathers, but each one shall die in his own sin."

7 He struck ten thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt, seized the Rock in battle, and called its name Joktheel, even to the present day.

8 Then Amaziah sent messengers to Joash son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, "Come, and let us see one another."

9 Joash, king of Israel, sent back to Amaziah, king of Judah, saying, "The thistle of Lebanon sent to the cedar that is in Lebanon, saying, 'Give your daughter to my son as wife.' But the beasts of the forest that are in Lebanon passed by and trampled the thistle.

10 You have struck and prevailed over Edom, and your heart has lifted you up. Be content with glory and remain in your house. Why do you provoke evil, so that you fall and Judah with you?"

11 Amaziah would not consent. So Joash, king of Israel, went up, and he and Amaziah, king of Judah, saw one another at Beth-shemesh, a town of Judah.

12 Judah was struck before Israel, and each man fled to his tent.

13 Joash, king of Israel, captured Amaziah, king of Judah, son of Joash son of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh and brought him to Jerusalem. He broke through the wall of Jerusalem from the Gate of Ephraim to the Corner Gate, four hundred cubits.

14 He took all the gold and silver, all the vessels found in the house of the Lord and in the king's treasuries, and hostages, and returned to Samaria.

15 But the rest of the acts of Joash, his might, and how he fought against Amaziah, king of Judah—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

16 Joash slept with his fathers and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel. Jeroboam his son reigned in his place.

17 Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, lived fifteen years after Joash son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, died.

18 But the rest of the acts of Amaziah—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

19 A conspiracy was formed against him in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish. They sent after him to Lachish and killed him there.

20 They carried him away upon horses, and he was buried in Jerusalem with his fathers in the City of David.

21 Then all the people of Judah took Azariah, who was sixteen years old, and appointed him king in place of his father Amaziah.

22 He built Elath and restored it to Judah after the king slept with his fathers.

23 In the fifteenth year of Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, Jeroboam son of Joash, king of Israel, began to reign in Samaria for forty-one years.

24 He did what was evil before the Lord. He did not depart from all the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin.

25 He restored the borders of Israel from the entrance of Hamath as far as the Sea of the Wilderness, according to the word of the Lord God of Israel that he spoke through his servant Jonah son of Amittai, the prophet who was from Gath, which is in Opher.

26 For the Lord saw Israel's exceedingly bitter affliction and that they were consumed, even those confined in prison and the last, and that there was no one to help Israel.

27 The Lord had not spoken that he would erase Israel's name from beneath heaven, but he saved them by the hand of Jeroboam son of Joash.

28 But the rest of the acts of Jeroboam, everything he did, his might in battle, and how he restored Damascus and Hamath of Judah to Israel—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

29 Jeroboam slept with his fathers, the kings of Israel, and Zechariah his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 15

1 In the twenty-seventh year of Jeroboam, king of Israel, Azariah son of Amaziah, king of Judah, began to reign.

2 He was sixteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jecoliah of Jerusalem.

3 He did what was pleasing before the Lord, according to everything Amaziah his father had done.

4 Nevertheless, he did not demolish the high places. The people were still sacrificing and burning incense upon the high places.

5 But the Lord struck the king, and he was a leper until the day of his death and dwelt apart in a separate house. Jotham, the king's son, governed the palace and judged the people of the land.

6 But the rest of the acts of Azariah and everything he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

7 Azariah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his ancestors in the City of David. Jotham his son reigned in his place.

8 In the thirty-eighth year of Azariah, king of Judah, Zechariah son of Jeroboam reigned over Israel in Samaria for six months.

9 He did what was evil before the Lord, as his fathers had done. He did not depart from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin.

10 Shallum son of Jabesh conspired against him, struck him openly, and killed him, and he reigned in his place.

11 But the rest of the acts of Zechariah—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

12 This is the word of the Lord that he spoke to Jehu, saying, "Your sons shall sit upon the throne of Israel to the fourth generation." And so it happened.

13 Shallum son of Jabesh began to reign in the thirty-ninth year of Azariah, king of Judah, and he reigned one month in Samaria.

14 Menahem son of Gadi went up from Tirzah, came to Samaria, struck Shallum son of Jabesh in Samaria, and killed him, and he reigned in his place.

15 But the rest of the acts of Shallum and the conspiracy by which he laid an ambush—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

16 Then Menahem struck Tiphsah, everyone who was in it, and its borders from Tirzah, because they had refused to open to him. He killed all its pregnant women and ripped them open.

17 In the thirty-ninth year of Azariah, king of Judah, Menahem son of Gadi began to reign over Israel in Samaria for ten years.

18 He did what was evil before the Lord. He did not depart from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin, throughout all his days.

19 Pul, king of the Assyrians, came into the land, and Menahem gave Pul one thousand talents of silver so that he would help him and strengthen his kingdom.

20 Menahem levied the silver upon Israel, upon all the powerful and wealthy, to give the king of the Assyrians fifty shekels of silver from each one. The king of the Assyrians returned and did not remain in the land.

21 But the rest of the acts of Menahem and everything he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

22 Menahem slept with his fathers, and Pekahiah his son reigned in his place.

23 In the fiftieth year of Azariah, king of Judah, Pekahiah son of Menahem began to reign over Israel in Samaria for two years.

24 He did what was evil before the Lord. He did not depart from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin.

25 Pekah son of Remaliah, his commander, conspired against him and struck him in Samaria, in the tower of the king's house, beside Argob and beside Arieh, and with him fifty men from the sons of the Gileadites. He killed him and reigned in his place.

26 But the rest of the acts of Pekahiah and everything he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

27 In the fifty-second year of Azariah, king of Judah, Pekah son of Remaliah began to reign over Israel in Samaria for twenty years.

28 He did what was evil before the Lord. He did not depart from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin.

29 In the days of Pekah, king of Israel, Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, came and captured Ijon, Abel-beth-maacah, Janoah, Kedesh, Hazor, Gilead, Galilee, and all the land of Naphtali, and he transferred them into Assyria.

30 Hoshea son of Elah conspired and laid an ambush against Pekah son of Remaliah. He struck him and killed him, and he reigned in his place in the twentieth year of Jotham son of Uzziah.

31 But the rest of the acts of Pekah and everything he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

32 In the second year of Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel, Jotham son of Uzziah, king of Judah, began to reign.

33 He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jerusha daughter of Zadok.

34 He did what was pleasing before the Lord. He acted according to everything Uzziah his father had done.

35 Nevertheless, he did not remove the high places. The people were still sacrificing and burning incense upon the high places. He built the highest gate of the house of the Lord.

36 But the rest of the acts of Jotham and everything he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

37 In those days the Lord began to send Rezin, king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah against Judah.

38 Jotham slept with his fathers and was buried with them in the City of David his father. Ahaz his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 16

1 In the seventeenth year of Pekah son of Remaliah, Ahaz son of Jotham, king of Judah, began to reign.

2 Ahaz was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. He did not do what was pleasing in the sight of the Lord his God as David his father had done,

3 but walked in the way of the kings of Israel. Moreover, he consecrated his son, passing him through fire according to the idols of the nations that the Lord had scattered before the children of Israel.

4 He also sacrificed victims and burned incense upon the high places, upon the hills, and beneath every leafy tree.

5 Then Rezin, king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel, went up to Jerusalem to fight. Though they besieged Ahaz, they could not overcome him.

6 At that time Rezin, king of Syria, restored Elath to Syria and expelled the Jews from Elath. The Edomites came into Elath and dwelt there, even to this day.

7 Ahaz sent messengers to Tiglath-pileser, king of the Assyrians, saying, “I am your servant and your son. Come up and save me from the hand of the king of Syria and from the hand of the king of Israel, who have risen together against me.”

8 Gathering the silver and gold that could be found in the house of the Lord and in the king’s treasuries, he sent gifts to the king of the Assyrians.

9 He consented to Ahaz’s desire, for the king of the Assyrians went up against Damascus and devastated it, transferred its inhabitants to Cyrene, and killed Rezin.

10 King Ahaz went to Damascus to meet Tiglath-pileser, king of the Assyrians. When he saw the altar of Damascus, King Ahaz sent to Uriah the priest its pattern and likeness according to all its workmanship.

11 Uriah the priest built an altar. According to everything King Ahaz had commanded from Damascus, so Uriah the priest made it until King Ahaz returned from Damascus.

12 When the king came from Damascus, he saw the altar and venerated it. He went up and sacrificed his holocausts and his sacrifice, 13 poured his libations, and poured the blood of the peace offerings he had offered upon the altar.

14 But the bronze altar that was before the Lord he moved from the front of the temple, from between the altar and the temple of the Lord, and placed it at the side of the altar toward the north.

15 King Ahaz also commanded Uriah the priest, saying, “Upon the greater altar offer the morning holocaust, the evening sacrifice, the king’s holocaust and his sacrifice, the holocaust of all the people of the land, their sacrifices, and their libations. You shall pour upon it all the blood of the holocaust and all the blood of the victim. But the bronze altar shall be prepared for my will.”

16 Therefore Uriah the priest did according to everything King Ahaz commanded.

17 King Ahaz removed the engraved bases and the laver that was above them. He took down the sea from the bronze oxen that supported it and placed it upon a pavement laid with stone.

18 He also turned into the temple of the Lord the covered structure for the Sabbath that he had built in the temple and the king’s outer entrance, because of the king of the Assyrians.

19 But the rest of the acts of Ahaz that he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 Ahaz slept with his fathers and was buried with them in the City of David. Hezekiah his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 17

1 In the twelfth year of Ahaz, king of Judah, Hoshea son of Elah began to reign over Israel in Samaria for nine years.

2 He did evil before the Lord, but not as the kings of Israel who had been before him.

3 Shalmaneser, king of the Assyrians, came up against him, and Hoshea became his servant and paid him tribute.

4 When the king of the Assyrians discovered that Hoshea, attempting rebellion, had sent messengers to So, king of Egypt, so that he would not pay tribute to the king of the Assyrians as he had been accustomed to do each year, he besieged him and, having bound him, cast him into prison.

5 He traversed the entire land, went up against Samaria, and besieged it for three years.

6 In the ninth year of Hoshea, the king of the Assyrians captured Samaria and transferred Israel into Assyria. He placed them in Halah and in Habor beside the river Gozan, in the cities of the Medes.

7 For it happened that the children of Israel sinned against the Lord their God, who had led them out from the land of Egypt, from the hand of Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and they worshiped foreign gods.

8 They walked according to the rite of the nations that the Lord had consumed before the children of Israel, and of the kings of Israel, because they had acted likewise.

9 The children of Israel offended the Lord their God with unrighteous words. They built high places for themselves in all their cities, from the watchmen's tower to the fortified city.

10 They made statues and groves for themselves upon every high hill and beneath every leafy tree.

11 There they burned incense upon altars according to the custom of the nations that the Lord had transferred from before their face. They did the most evil things, provoking the Lord.

12 They worshiped impurities concerning which the Lord had commanded them not to do this thing.

13 The Lord testified in Israel and Judah by the hand of all the prophets and seers, saying, "Turn back from your most evil ways and keep my precepts and ceremonies according to all the law that I commanded your fathers and as I sent to you by the hand of my servants the prophets."

14 They did not hear but hardened their neck like the neck of their fathers, who were unwilling to obey the Lord their God.

15 They rejected his statutes, the pact he had struck with their fathers, and the testimonies by which he had testified against them. They followed vanities and acted vainly. They followed the nations that were around them, concerning whom the Lord had commanded them not to act as they acted.

16 They abandoned all the precepts of the Lord their God, made two molten calves and groves for themselves, adored the entire host of heaven, and served Baal.

17 They consecrated their sons and daughters through fire, devoted themselves to divinations and auguries, and surrendered themselves to doing evil before the Lord so that they might provoke him.

18 The Lord became exceedingly angry with Israel and removed them from his sight. Nothing remained except the tribe of Judah alone.

19 Yet Judah itself did not keep the commandments of the Lord its God but walked in the errors Israel had committed.

20 The Lord cast away all the seed of Israel, afflicted them, and delivered them into the hand of plunderers until he cast them away from his face.

21 This had continued from the time Israel was torn away from the house of David and they appointed Jeroboam son of Nebat king for themselves, for Jeroboam separated Israel from the Lord and caused them to commit a great sin.

22 The children of Israel walked in all the sins Jeroboam had committed and did not depart from them,

23 until the Lord removed Israel from his face, as he had spoken by the hand of all his servants the prophets. Israel was transferred from its own land into Assyria, even to this day.

24 The king of the Assyrians brought people from Babylon, Cuthah, Avah, Hamath, and Sepharvaim and settled them in the cities of Samaria in place of the children of Israel. They possessed Samaria and dwelt in its cities.

25 When they began to dwell there, they did not fear the Lord, and the Lord sent lions among them, which killed them.

26 It was reported to the king of the Assyrians and said, “The nations you transferred and caused to dwell in the cities of Samaria do not know the statutes of the God of the land. The Lord has sent lions among them, and behold, they kill them because they do not know the rite of the God of the land.”

27 Then the king of the Assyrians commanded, saying, “Lead there one of the priests whom you brought captive from there. Let him go and dwell with them and teach them the statutes of the God of the land.”

28 Therefore, when one of the priests who had been led captive from Samaria came, he dwelt in Bethel and taught them how they should worship the Lord.

29 Each nation fashioned its own god, and they placed them in the shrines of the high places the Samaritans had made, each nation in the cities where it dwelt.

30 For the men of Babylon made Succoth-benoth; the men of Cuthah made Nergal; and the men of Hamath made Ashima.

31 The Avvites made Nibhaz and Tartak. Those who were from Sepharvaim burned their sons with fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 Nevertheless, they also worshiped the Lord. They made priests of the high places for themselves from the least among them and placed them in the lofty shrines.

33 While they worshiped the Lord, they also served their own gods according to the custom of the nations from which they had been transferred to Samaria.

34 Even to the present day they follow the ancient custom. They do not fear the Lord, nor do they keep his ceremonies, judgments, law, and commandment that the Lord commanded the sons of Jacob, whom he named Israel.

35 He had struck a pact with them and commanded them, saying, “Do not fear foreign gods, do not adore them or worship them, and do not sacrifice to them.

36 But fear the Lord your God, who led you out from the land of Egypt with great strength and an outstretched arm; adore him, and sacrifice to him.

37 Keep the ceremonies, judgments, law, and commandment that he wrote for you, so that you may do them all your days, and do not fear foreign gods.

38 Do not forget the pact he struck with you, and do not worship foreign gods.

39 Rather, fear the Lord your God, and he shall rescue you from the hand of all your enemies.”

40 But they did not hear and continued acting according to their former custom.

41 Therefore these nations indeed feared the Lord, yet nevertheless served their idols as well. Their sons and grandsons do as their fathers did, even to the present day.

CHAPTER 18

1 In the third year of Hoshea son of Elah, king of Israel, Hezekiah son of Ahaz, king of Judah, began to reign.

2 He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Abi daughter of Zechariah.

3 He did what was good before the Lord, according to everything David his father had done.

4 He destroyed the high places, crushed the statues, cut down the groves, and broke apart the bronze serpent Moses had made, for even until that time the children of Israel burned incense to it. He called its name Nehushtan.

5 He hoped in the Lord God of Israel. Therefore after him there was no one like him among all the kings of Judah, nor among those who had been before him.

6 He clung to the Lord and did not depart from his footsteps. He kept his commandments, which the Lord had commanded Moses.

7 Therefore the Lord was with him, and in everything to which he went forth, he acted wisely. He also rebelled against the king of the Assyrians and did not serve him.

8 He struck the Philistines as far as Gaza and all their borders, from the watchmen's tower to the fortified city.

9 In the fourth year of King Hezekiah, which was the seventh year of Hoshea son of Elah, king of Israel, Shalmaneser, king of the Assyrians, went up against Samaria and assaulted it.

10 He captured it after three years, for Samaria was captured in Hezekiah's sixth year, that is, the ninth year of Hoshea, king of Israel.

11 The king of the Assyrians transferred Israel into Assyria and settled them in Halah and in Habor, rivers of Gozan, in the cities of the Medes,

12 because they did not hear the voice of the Lord their God but transgressed his pact. They neither heard nor did everything Moses, servant of the Lord, had commanded.

13 In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, Sennacherib, king of the Assyrians, went up against all the fortified cities of Judah and captured them.

14 Then Hezekiah, king of Judah, sent messengers to the king of the Assyrians at Lachish, saying, "I have sinned. Withdraw from me, and I shall bear whatever you impose upon me." Therefore the king of the Assyrians levied upon Hezekiah, king of Judah, three hundred talents of silver and thirty talents of gold.

15 Hezekiah gave all the silver found in the house of the Lord and in the king's treasuries.

16 At that time Hezekiah broke apart the doors of the temple of the Lord and the plates of gold he himself had fastened to them and gave them to the king of the Assyrians.

17 Then the king of the Assyrians sent the Tartan, Rabsaris, and Rabshakeh from Lachish to King Hezekiah with a powerful force at Jerusalem. When they went up, they came to Jerusalem and stood beside the aqueduct of the upper pool, which is on the way to the Fuller's Field.

18 They called for the king, but Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was over the house, Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder, came out to them.

19 The Rabshakeh said to them, "Speak to Hezekiah: Thus says the great king, the king of the Assyrians: What is this confidence upon which you rely?

20 Perhaps you have formed a plan to prepare yourself for battle. In whom do you trust, that you dare to rebel?

21 Do you hope in Egypt, that broken reed of a staff, upon which, if a man leans, it shatters, enters his hand, and pierces it? Such is Pharaoh, king of Egypt, to all who trust in him.

22 But if you say to me, 'We have confidence in the Lord our God,' is this not he whose high places and altars Hezekiah removed and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, 'You shall adore before this altar in Jerusalem'?

23 Now, therefore, pass over to my lord, the king of the Assyrians, and I shall give you two thousand horses. See whether you are able to provide riders for them.

24 How, then, can you resist even one satrap from among my lord's least servants? Do you have confidence in Egypt because of chariots and horsemen?

25 Have I gone up against this place to destroy it without the Lord's will? The Lord said to me, 'Go up against this land and destroy it.'"

26 Eliakim son of Hilkiah, Shebna, and Joah said to the Rabshakeh, "We implore you, speak to your servants in Aramaic, for we understand this language, and do not speak to us in Judean while the people upon the wall are listening."

27 The Rabshakeh answered them, saying, "Did my lord send me to your lord and to you to speak these words, and not rather to the men who sit upon the wall, so that they may eat their own dung and drink their own urine with you?"

28 Therefore the Rabshakeh stood and cried out with a great voice in Judean, saying, "Hear the words of the great king, the king of the Assyrians.

29 Thus says the king: Do not let Hezekiah deceive you, for he shall not be able to rescue you from my hand.

30 Nor let him give you confidence in the Lord, saying, 'The Lord shall surely deliver us, and this city shall not be given into the hand of the king of the Assyrians.'

31 Do not listen to Hezekiah. For thus says the king of the Assyrians: Do with me what is useful for you, and come out to me. Each one shall eat from his own vine and his own fig tree, and you shall drink waters from your own cisterns,

32 until I come and transfer you into a land like your own land, a fruitful land, fertile with wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of olive trees, oil, and honey. You shall live and not die. Do not listen to Hezekiah, who deceives you, saying, 'The Lord shall deliver us.'

33 Have the gods of the nations delivered their lands from the hand of the king of the Assyrians?

34 Where is the god of Hamath and Arpad? Where is the god of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Avah? Have they delivered Samaria from my hand?

35 Who are they among all the gods of the lands who have rescued their region from my hand, that the Lord should be able to rescue Jerusalem from my hand?"

36 Therefore the people remained silent and answered him nothing, for they had received the king's command that they should not answer him.

37 Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was over the house, Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder, came to Hezekiah with their garments torn and reported to him the Rabshakeh's words.

CHAPTER 19

1 When King Hezekiah heard these things, he tore his garments, covered himself with sackcloth, and entered the house of the Lord.

2 He sent Eliakim, who was over the house, Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz.

3 They said, “Thus says Hezekiah: This day is a day of tribulation, rebuke, and blasphemy. The children have come as far as birth, but she who labors has no strength.

4 Perhaps the Lord your God will hear all the words of the Rabshakeh, whom the king of the Assyrians his lord sent to reproach the living God, and will rebuke the words the Lord your God has heard. Therefore offer prayer for the remnants that have been found.”

5 So the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 Isaiah said to them, “Thus you shall say to your lord: Thus says the Lord: Do not fear because of the words you have heard, by which the servants of the king of the Assyrians blasphemed me.

7 Behold, I shall send a spirit into him. He shall hear a report and return to his own land, and I shall cast him down by the sword in his own land.”

8 Therefore the Rabshakeh returned and found the king of the Assyrians attacking Libnah, for he had heard that he had withdrawn from Lachish.

9 When he heard it said concerning Tirhakah, king of Ethiopia, “Behold, he has gone out to fight against you,” and went against him, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying,

10 “Thus you shall say to Hezekiah, king of Judah: Do not let your God, in whom you have confidence, deceive you, and do not say, ‘Jerusalem shall not be delivered into the hands of the king of the Assyrians.’

11 For you yourself have heard what the kings of the Assyrians have done to all lands and how they devastated them. Then shall you alone be able to be delivered?

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered any of those whom my fathers devastated—Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, and the sons of Eden who were in Telassar?

13 Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Avah?”

14 And so, when Hezekiah received the letters from the messengers’ hand and read them, he went up into the house of the Lord and spread them before the Lord.

15 He prayed in his sight, saying, “O Lord God of Israel, who sits above the cherubim, you alone are God of all the kingdoms of the earth. You made heaven and earth.

16 Incline your ear and hear. Open your eyes, O Lord, and see. Hear all the words of Sennacherib, who sent to reproach the living God before us.

17 Truly, O Lord, the kings of the Assyrians have destroyed the nations and all their lands.

18 They cast their gods into the fire, for they were not gods but works of human hands, made from wood and stone, and they destroyed them.

19 Now, therefore, O Lord our God, save us from his hand, so that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you alone are the Lord God.”

20 Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, “Thus says the Lord God of Israel: I have heard what you implored of me concerning Sennacherib, king of the Assyrians.

21 This is the word the Lord has spoken concerning him: The virgin daughter of Zion has despised you and mocked you. The daughter of Jerusalem has shaken her head behind your back.

22 Whom have you reproached, and whom have you blasphemed? Against whom have you exalted your voice and lifted your eyes on high? Against the Holy One of Israel.

23 By the hand of your servants you reproached the Lord and said: ‘With the multitude of my chariots I ascended the heights of the mountains, the summit of Lebanon. I cut down its lofty cedars and choice fir trees. I entered as far as its boundaries and its forest of Carmel.

24 I cut it down. I drank foreign waters and dried up all enclosed waters with the soles of my feet.’

25 Have you not heard what I have done from the beginning? From ancient days I formed it, and now I have brought it to pass: the fortified cities of fighting hills shall become ruins.

26 Those who dwell in them, weak in hand, trembled and were confounded. They became like grass of the field and the green herb of rooftops, which withered before it reached maturity.

27 I foreknew your dwelling, your going out, your coming in, your way, and your fury against me.

28 You have raged against me, and your pride has risen into my ears. Therefore I shall place a ring in your nostrils and a bit in your lips, and I shall lead you back by the way you came.

29 But for you, Hezekiah, this shall be the sign: eat this year what you find, and in the second year what grows of itself. But in the third year, sow and reap, plant vineyards, and eat their fruit.

30 Whatever remains from the house of Judah shall send a root downward and bear fruit upward.

31 For remnants shall go out from Jerusalem, and what is saved from Mount Zion. The zeal of the Lord of hosts shall do this.

32 For this reason, thus says the Lord concerning the king of the Assyrians: He shall not enter this city, shoot an arrow into it, occupy it with a shield, or surround it with a fortification.

33 By the way he came, he shall return, and he shall not enter this city, says the Lord.

34 I shall protect this city and save it for my own sake and for the sake of David my servant.”

35 Therefore it happened that night that the angel of the Lord came and struck one hundred eighty-five thousand in the camp of the Assyrians. When he rose at first light, he saw all the bodies of the dead, and he withdrew and departed.

36 Sennacherib, king of the Assyrians, returned and remained in Nineveh.

37 While he adored in the temple of Nisroch his god, Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons struck him with the sword and fled into the land of the Armenians. Esarhaddon his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 20

1 In those days Hezekiah became ill even to death. Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, came to him and said, “Thus says the Lord God: Set your house in order, for you shall die and not live.”

2 He turned his face toward the wall and prayed to the Lord, saying,

3 “I implore you, O Lord, remember, I pray, how I have walked before you in truth and with a perfect heart and have done what is pleasing before you.” Therefore Hezekiah wept with great weeping.

4 Before Isaiah had gone out through the middle part of the court, the word of the Lord came to him, saying,

5 “Return and say to Hezekiah, leader of my people: Thus says the Lord God of David your father: I have heard your prayer and seen your tears, and behold, I have healed you. On the third day you shall ascend to the temple of the Lord.

6 I shall add fifteen years to your days. I shall also deliver you and this city from the hand of the king of the Assyrians, and I shall protect this city for my own sake and for the sake of David my servant.”

7 Isaiah said, “Bring a mass of figs.” When they had brought it and placed it upon his ulcer, he was healed.

8 Now Hezekiah had said to Isaiah, “What shall be the sign that the Lord will heal me and that I shall ascend to the temple of the Lord on the third day?”

9 Isaiah said to him, “This shall be the sign from the Lord that the Lord will do the word he has spoken: do you wish the shadow to ascend ten lines, or to turn back the same number of steps?”

10 Hezekiah said, “It is easy for the shadow to increase ten lines. I do not want this to happen, but for it to turn backward ten steps.”

11 Therefore Isaiah the prophet invoked the Lord, and he led the shadow backward ten steps along the lines by which it had already descended upon the sundial of Ahaz.

12 At that time Merodach-baladan son of Baladan, king of the Babylonians, sent letters and gifts to Hezekiah, for he had heard that Hezekiah had been ill.

13 Hezekiah rejoiced at their arrival and showed them the house of spices, the gold and silver, the various pigments, the ointments, the house of his vessels, and everything he could have in his treasuries. There was nothing Hezekiah did not show them in his house and throughout all his dominion.

14 Then Isaiah the prophet came to King Hezekiah and said to him, “What did these men say, and from where did they come to you?” Hezekiah said to him, “They came to me from a distant land, from Babylon.”

15 He answered, “What did they see in your house?” Hezekiah said, “They saw everything in my house. There is nothing in my treasuries that I did not show them.”

16 Therefore Isaiah said to Hezekiah, “Hear the word of the Lord:

17 Behold, the days shall come when everything in your house and everything your fathers stored up to this day shall be carried away to Babylon. Nothing shall remain, says the Lord.

18 Some of your sons who shall come forth from you, whom you shall beget, shall also be taken away, and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.”

19 Hezekiah said to Isaiah, “The word of the Lord that you have spoken is good. Let there be peace and truth in my days.”

20 But the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, all his might, and how he made the pool and aqueduct and brought waters into the city—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

21 Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and Manasseh his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 21

1 Manasseh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hephzibah.

2 He did evil in the sight of the Lord according to the idols of the nations that the Lord had destroyed before the face of the children of Israel.

3 He turned back and built the high places Hezekiah his father had destroyed. He erected altars to Baal, made groves as Ahab, king of Israel, had done, adored the entire host of heaven, and worshiped it.

4 He also built altars in the house of the Lord, concerning which the Lord had said, "In Jerusalem I shall place my name."

5 He built altars to the entire host of heaven in the two courts of the temple of the Lord.

6 He passed his son through fire, practiced divination, observed auguries, made mediums, and multiplied soothsayers, so that he did evil before the Lord and provoked him.

7 He also placed the idol of the grove he had made in the temple of the Lord, concerning which the Lord had spoken to David and Solomon his son: "In this temple and in Jerusalem, which I chose from all the tribes of Israel, I shall place my name forever.

8 I shall no longer cause Israel's foot to be moved from the land I gave their fathers, if only they take care to do everything I commanded them and all the law my servant Moses commanded them."

9 But they did not hear. They were seduced by Manasseh into doing more evil than the nations the Lord had crushed before the face of the children of Israel.

10 The Lord spoke by the hand of his servants the prophets, saying,

11 "Because Manasseh, king of Judah, has committed these most evil abominations, beyond everything the Amorites before him did, and has also caused Judah to sin through his impurities,

12 for this reason, thus says the Lord God of Israel: Behold, I shall bring evils upon Jerusalem and Judah such that both ears of everyone who hears of it shall ring.

13 I shall extend over Jerusalem the measuring line of Samaria and the weight of the house of Ahab. I shall erase Jerusalem as writing tablets are usually erased; wiping it, I shall turn it over and repeatedly draw the stylus across its face.

14 I shall abandon the remnants of my inheritance and deliver them into the hands of their enemies. They shall become devastation and plunder to all their adversaries,

15 because they have done evil before me and persisted in provoking me from the day their fathers came out of Egypt even to this day."

16 Moreover, Manasseh shed exceedingly much innocent blood until he filled Jerusalem to the mouth, besides his sins by which he caused Judah to sin so that it did evil before the Lord.

17 But the rest of the acts of Manasseh, everything he did, and the sin he committed—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

18 Manasseh slept with his fathers and was buried in the garden of his house, in the garden of Uzza. Amon his son reigned in his place.

19 Amon was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Meshullemeth daughter of Haruz of Jotbah.

20 He did evil in the sight of the Lord, as Manasseh his father had done.

21 He walked in every way his father had walked, served the impurities his father had served, and adored them.

22 He abandoned the Lord God of his fathers and did not walk in the way of the Lord.

23 His servants laid an ambush against him and killed the king in his own house.

24 But the people of the land struck everyone who had conspired against King Amon and appointed Josiah his son king in his place.

25 But the rest of the acts of Amon that he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

26 They buried him in his sepulcher, in the garden of Uzza. Josiah his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 22

1 Josiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jedidah daughter of Adaiah of Bozkath.

2 He did what was pleasing before the Lord and walked in all the ways of David his father. He did not turn aside to the right or the left.

3 Now in the eighteenth year of King Josiah, the king sent Shaphan son of Azaliah son of Meshullam, the scribe of the temple of the Lord, saying to him,

4 "Go to Hilkiah the high priest, so that the money brought into the temple of the Lord, which the temple gatekeepers collected from the people, may be melted down.

5 Let it be given to the craftsmen through those overseeing the house of the Lord, who shall distribute it to those working in the temple of the Lord to repair the temple's breaches:

6 namely, to carpenters, masons, and those repairing what has been broken, and to buy timber and stone from the quarries to restore the temple of the Lord.

7 Nevertheless, let the silver they receive not be reckoned with them, but let them have it under their authority and in good faith."

8 Hilkiah the high priest said to Shaphan the scribe, "I have found the book of the law in the house of the Lord." Hilkiah gave the scroll to Shaphan, and he read it.

9 Shaphan the scribe also came to the king, reported what he had commanded, and said, "Your servants melted down the money found in the house of the Lord and gave it to be distributed to the craftsmen by those overseeing the work of the temple of the Lord."

10 Shaphan the scribe also told the king, saying, "Hilkiah the priest gave me a book." When Shaphan had read it before the king,

11 and the king heard the words of the book of the law of the Lord, he tore his garments.

12 He commanded Hilkiah the priest, Ahikam son of Shaphan, Achbor son of Micaiah, Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah the king's servant, saying,

13 "Go and consult the Lord concerning me, the people, and all Judah, about the words of this scroll that has been found. For the Lord's great wrath has been kindled against us because our fathers did not hear the words of this book so as to do everything written for us."

14 Therefore Hilkiah the priest, Ahikam, Achbor, Shaphan, and Asaiah went to Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tikvah son of Harhas, keeper of the garments, who dwelt in Jerusalem in the Second Quarter, and they spoke to her.

15 She answered them, "Thus says the Lord God of Israel: Say to the man who sent you to me:

16 Thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall bring evils upon this place and its inhabitants—all the words of the law that the king of Judah read—

17 because they abandoned me and sacrificed to foreign gods, provoking me through all the works of their hands. My indignation shall be kindled against this place and shall not be extinguished.

18 But to the king of Judah who sent you to consult the Lord, you shall say this: Thus says the Lord God of Israel: Because you heard the words of the scroll,

19 your heart was terrified, and you humbled yourself before the Lord when you heard the words against this place and its inhabitants, that they should become an astonishment and a curse. You tore your garments and wept before me, and I also heard, says the Lord.

20 Therefore I shall gather you to your fathers, and you shall be gathered to your sepulcher in peace, so that your eyes may not see all the evils I shall bring upon this place."

CHAPTER 23

1 They reported to the king what she had said. He sent, and all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem were gathered to him.

2 The king went up to the temple of the Lord, and with him all the men of Judah, all who dwelt in Jerusalem, the priests and prophets, and all the people, from the least to the greatest. With everyone listening, he read all the words of the book of the covenant that had been found in the house of the Lord.

3 The king stood upon the step and struck a covenant before the Lord, that they should walk after the Lord and keep his precepts, testimonies, and ceremonies with their whole heart and their whole soul and raise up the words of this covenant that were written in that book. The people consented to the pact.

4 The king commanded Hilkiah the high priest, the priests of the second order, and the gatekeepers to cast out from the temple of the Lord all the vessels that had been made for Baal, the grove, and the entire host of heaven. He burned them outside Jerusalem in the Kidron Valley and carried their dust to Bethel.

5 He destroyed the soothsayers whom the kings of Judah had appointed to sacrifice upon the high places throughout the cities of Judah and around Jerusalem, and those who burned incense to Baal, the sun, the moon, the twelve signs, and the entire host of heaven.

6 He caused the grove to be carried from the house of the Lord outside Jerusalem into the Kidron Valley. He burned it there, reduced it to dust, and cast it upon the sepulchers of the common people.

7 He also destroyed the little houses of the effeminate men that were in the house of the Lord, for which the women wove what were like little dwellings for the grove.

8 He gathered all the priests from the cities of Judah and defiled the high places where the priests sacrificed, from Geba to Beersheba. He destroyed the altars of the gates at the entrance of the door of Joshua, commander of the city, which was at the left of the city gate.

9 Nevertheless, the priests of the high places did not ascend to the altar of the Lord in Jerusalem but only ate unleavened bread among their brothers.

10 He also defiled Topheth, which is in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, so that no one would consecrate his son or daughter through fire to Molech.

11 He also removed the horses the kings of Judah had given to the sun at the entrance of the temple of the Lord, beside the chamber of Nathan-melech the eunuch, which was in Pharurim. He burned the chariots of the sun with fire.

12 The king also destroyed the altars upon the roof of Ahaz's upper room, which the kings of Judah had made, and the altars Manasseh had made in the two courts of the temple of the Lord. He ran from there and scattered their ashes into the torrent Kidron.

13 The king also polluted the high places that were in Jerusalem at the right side of the Mount of Offense, which Solomon, king of Israel, had built for Ashtoreth, idol of the Sidonians; Chemosh, offense of Moab; and Milcom, abomination of the children of Ammon.

14 He crushed the statues and cut down the groves, and he filled their places with the bones of the dead.

15 Moreover, he destroyed the altar that was in Bethel and the high place Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin, had made. He burned that altar and high place, crushed it to dust, and also burned the grove.

16 Josiah turned and saw the sepulchers there upon the mountain. He sent and took bones from the sepulchers, burned them upon the altar, and polluted it according to the word of the Lord that the man of God had spoken when he foretold these words.

17 He said, "What is that monument I see?" The citizens of that city answered him, "It is the sepulcher of the man of God who came from Judah and foretold these things that you have done upon the altar of Bethel."

18 He said, "Leave him. Let no one move his bones." And his bones remained untouched with the bones of the prophet who had come from Samaria.

19 Moreover, Josiah removed all the shrines of the high places that were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made to provoke the Lord, and he did to them according to all the works he had done in Bethel.

20 He killed all the priests of the high places who were there upon the altars and burned human bones upon them. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

21 He commanded all the people, saying, "Make the Passover to the Lord your God according to what is written in the book of this covenant."

22 For no such Passover had been made from the days of the judges who judged Israel or throughout all the days of the kings of Israel and the kings of Judah,

23 as this Passover was made to the Lord in Jerusalem in the eighteenth year of King Josiah.

24 Josiah also removed the mediums, soothsayers, figures of idols, impurities, and abominations that had been in the land of Judah and Jerusalem so that he might establish the words of the law written in the book Hilkiah the priest found in the temple of the Lord.

25 Before him there was no king like him who returned to the Lord with his whole heart, his whole soul, and all his strength according to all the law of Moses, nor did anyone like him arise after him.

26 Nevertheless, the Lord did not turn away from the wrath of his great fury, by which his fury had become angry against Judah because of the provocations with which Manasseh had provoked him.

27 Therefore the Lord said, “I shall also remove Judah from my face as I removed Israel. I shall cast away this city Jerusalem, which I chose, and the house concerning which I said, ‘My name shall be there.’”

28 But the rest of the acts of Josiah and everything he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

29 In his days, Pharaoh Necho, king of Egypt, went up against the king of the Assyrians at the river Euphrates. King Josiah went to meet him and was killed at Megiddo when he saw him.

30 His servants carried him dead from Megiddo, brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his sepulcher. The people of the land took Jehoahaz son of Josiah, anointed him, and appointed him king in place of his father.

31 Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. His mother’s name was Hamutal daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

32 He did evil before the Lord according to everything his fathers had done.

33 Pharaoh Necho bound him at Riblah, which is in the land of Hamath, so that he would not reign in Jerusalem. He imposed a fine upon the land of one hundred talents of silver and one talent of gold.

34 Pharaoh Necho appointed Eliakim son of Josiah king in place of Josiah his father and changed his name to Jehoiakim. But he took Jehoahaz, led him into Egypt, and he died there.

35 Jehoiakim gave the silver and gold to Pharaoh after he had levied each person in the land so that it might be collected according to Pharaoh’s command. He exacted both silver and gold from each of the people of the land according to his means, so that he might give it to Pharaoh Necho.

36 Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother’s name was Zebidah daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah.

37 He did evil before the Lord according to everything his fathers had done.

CHAPTER 24

1 In his days, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, went up, and Jehoiakim became his servant for three years. Then he rebelled against him again.

2 The Lord sent against him raiders of the Chaldeans, Syria, Moab, and the children of Ammon. He sent them into Judah to destroy it according to the word of the Lord that he had spoken through his servants the prophets.

3 This happened by the word of the Lord against Judah, so that he would remove it from before himself because of all the sins Manasseh had committed,

4 and because of the innocent blood he had shed, filling Jerusalem with the blood of the innocent. For this reason, the Lord was unwilling to be appeased.

5 But the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim and everything he did—are these not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? And Jehoiakim slept with his fathers,

6 and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his place.

7 The king of Egypt no longer continued to go out from his own land, for the king of Babylon had taken everything that belonged to the king of Egypt, from the torrent of Egypt as far as the river Euphrates.

8 Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Nehushta daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.

9 He did evil before the Lord according to everything his father had done.

10 At that time, the servants of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, went up against Jerusalem, and the city was surrounded with fortifications.

11 Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, came to the city with his servants to attack it.

12 Jehoiachin, king of Judah, went out to the king of Babylon—he, his mother, his servants, his princes, and his eunuchs—and the king of Babylon received him in the eighth year of his reign.

13 He brought out from there all the treasures of the house of the Lord and the treasures of the king's house. He cut apart all the golden vessels Solomon, king of Israel, had made in the temple of the Lord, according to the word of the Lord.

14 He transferred all Jerusalem, all the princes, and all the strong men of the army—ten thousand—into captivity, together with every craftsman and metalworker. Nothing remained except the poor among the people of the land.

15 He also transferred Jehoiachin to Babylon. He led the king's mother, the king's wives, his eunuchs, and the judges of the land into captivity from Jerusalem to Babylon.

16 The king of Babylon led captive into Babylon all the robust men—seven thousand—and one thousand craftsmen and metalworkers, all strong men and warriors.

17 He appointed Mattaniah, Jehoiachin's paternal uncle, in his place and gave him the name Zedekiah.

18 Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

19 He did evil before the Lord according to everything Jehoiakim had done.

20 For the Lord was angry against Jerusalem and Judah until he cast them away from his face. Then Zedekiah revolted from the king of Babylon.

CHAPTER 25

1 Now it happened in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, came against Jerusalem, he and all his army. They surrounded it and built fortifications around it.

2 The city was shut in and enclosed until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah.

3 On the ninth day of the month, the famine prevailed in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land.

4 The city was broken through, and all the fighting men fled by night through the way of the gate between the double wall beside the king's garden. The Chaldeans were besieging the city all around. Therefore Zedekiah fled by the way leading to the plains of the wilderness.

5 The Chaldean army pursued the king and captured him in the plain of Jericho. All the fighting men who were with him were scattered and abandoned him.

6 Therefore they seized the king and led him to the king of Babylon at Riblah, who pronounced judgment upon him.

7 He killed Zedekiah's sons before him, gouged out his eyes, bound him with chains, and brought him to Babylon.

8 In the fifth month, on the seventh day of the month, which was the nineteenth year of the king of Babylon, Nebuzaradan, commander of the army and servant of the king of Babylon, came to Jerusalem.

9 He burned the house of the Lord, the king's house, the houses of Jerusalem, and every house with fire.

10 The entire Chaldean army that was with the commander of the soldiers destroyed the walls around Jerusalem.

11 Nebuzaradan, commander of the army, transferred the remnant of the people who had remained in the city, the fugitives who had deserted to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the common people.

12 But he left some of the poor of the land as vine dressers and farmers.

13 The Chaldeans broke apart the bronze pillars that were in the temple of the Lord, the bases, and the bronze sea that was in the house of the Lord, and they transferred all the bronze to Babylon.

14 They also took the bronze pots, shovels, three-pronged forks, cups, little mortars, and all the bronze vessels in which they ministered.

15 The commander of the army also took the censers and bowls—whatever was gold as gold and whatever was silver as silver—

16 that is, the two pillars, one sea, and the bases Solomon had made in the temple of the Lord. There was no weight for the bronze of all these vessels.

17 One pillar was eighteen cubits high, and a bronze capital three cubits high was upon it. The network and pomegranates upon the capital of the pillar were all bronze. The second pillar had similar ornamentation.

18 The commander of the army also took Seraiah the chief priest, Zephaniah the second priest, and the three gatekeepers.

19 From the city he took one eunuch who was prefect over the fighting men; five men from among those who stood before the king, whom he found in the city; the Sopher, commander of the army, who examined recruits from the people of the land; and sixty men from the common people who were found in the city.

20 Nebuzaradan, commander of the soldiers, took them and led them to the king of Babylon at Riblah.

21 The king of Babylon struck and killed them at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and Judah was transferred from its own land.

22 Over the people who remained in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had left, he appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan.

23 When all the commanders of the soldiers and the men who were with them heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah, they came to Gedaliah at Mizpah: Ishmael son of Nethaniah; Johanan son of Kareah; Seraiah son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite; and Jaazaniah son of the Maacathite, they and their companions.

24 Gedaliah swore to them and their companions, saying, "Do not fear serving the Chaldeans. Remain in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you."

25 But it happened in the seventh month that Ishmael son of Nethaniah son of Elishama, from the royal seed, came with ten men. They struck Gedaliah, and he died, as did the Jews and Chaldeans who were with him at Mizpah.

26 All the people, from the least to the greatest, and the commanders of the soldiers rose and came into Egypt, fearing the Chaldeans.

27 Now it happened in the thirty-seventh year of the transfer of Jehoiachin, king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, that Evil-merodach, king of Babylon, in the year he began to reign, lifted up the head of Jehoiachin, king of Judah, from prison.

28 He spoke kindly to him and placed his throne above the thrones of the kings who were with him in Babylon.

29 He changed the garments he had worn in prison, and Jehoiachin always ate bread in his presence all the days of his life.

30 He also appointed him an allowance without interruption, which was given to him by the king each day, all the days of his life.

BOOK THIRTEEN: FIRST CHRONICLES

CHAPTER 1

1 Adam, Seth, Enosh,

2 Kenan, Mahalalel, Jared,

3 Enoch, Methuselah, Lamech,

4 Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

5 The sons of Japheth: Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, and Tiras.

6 The sons of Gomer: Ashkenaz, Riphath, and Togarmah.

7 The sons of Javan: Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim, and Dodanim.

8 The sons of Ham: Cush, Mizraim, Put, and Canaan.

9 The sons of Cush: Seba, Havilah, Sabta, Raamah, and Sabteca. The sons of Raamah: Sheba and Dedan.

10 Cush begot Nimrod; he began to be mighty upon the earth.

11 Mizraim begot Ludim, Anamim, Lehabim, Naphtuhim,

12 Pathrusim, and Casluhim, from whom the Philistines and Caphtorim came forth.

13 Canaan begot Sidon his firstborn, and also the Hittite,

14 the Jebusite, the Amorite, the Girgashite,

15 the Hivite, the Arkite, and the Sinite,

16 and also the Arvadite, the Zemarite, and the Hamathite.

17 The sons of Shem: Elam, Asshur, Arphaxad, Lud, Aram, Uz, Hul, Gether, and Meshech.

18 Arphaxad begot Shelah, who himself begot Eber.

19 Two sons were born to Eber. The name of one was Peleg, because in his days the earth was divided, and his brother’s name was Joktan.

20 Joktan begot Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah,

21 and also Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah,

22 and Ebal, Abimael, Sheba,

23 Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab. All these were sons of Joktan.

24 Shem, Arphaxad, Shelah,

25 Eber, Peleg, Reu,

26 Serug, Nahor, Terah,

27 Abram, who is Abraham.

28 The sons of Abraham: Isaac and Ishmael.

29 These are their generations. Ishmael’s firstborn was Nebaioth, then Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam,

30 Mishma, Dumah, Massa, Hadad, Tema,

31 Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. These are the sons of Ishmael.

32 The sons whom Keturah, Abraham’s concubine, bore were Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah. The sons of Jokshan: Sheba and Dedan. The sons of Dedan: Asshurim, Letushim, and Leummim.

33 The sons of Midian: Ephah, Epher, Enoch, Abida, and Eldaah. All these were sons of Keturah.

34 Abraham begot Isaac, whose sons were Esau and Israel.

35 The sons of Esau: Eliphaz, Reuel, Jeush, Jaalam, and Korah.

36 The sons of Eliphaz: Teman, Omar, Zephi, Gatam, Kenaz, Timna, and Amalek.

37 The sons of Reuel: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah.

38 The sons of Seir: Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, Dishon, Ezer, and Dishan.

39 The sons of Lotan: Hori and Homam. Lotan’s sister was Timna.

40 The sons of Shobal: Alian, Manahath, Ebal, Zephi, and Onam. The sons of Zibeon: Aiah and Anah. The son of Anah: Dishon.

41 The sons of Dishon: Hamran, Eshban, Ithran, and Cheran.

42 The sons of Ezer: Bilhan, Zaavan, and Jaakan. The sons of Dishan: Uz and Aran.

43 These are the kings who ruled in the land of Edom before there was a king over the children of Israel: Bela son of Beor, and the name of his city was Dinhabah.

44 Bela died, and Jobab son of Zerah from Bozrah reigned in his place.

45 When Jobab also died, Husham from the land of the Temanites reigned in his place.

46 Husham also died, and Hadad son of Bedad, who struck Midian in the land of Moab, reigned in his place. The name of his city was Avith.

47 When Hadad also died, Samlah from Masrekah reigned in his place.

48 Samlah also died, and Shaul from Rehoboth, which is situated beside the river, reigned in his place.

49 When Shaul also died, Baal-hanan son of Achbor reigned in his place.

50 He also died, and Hadad reigned in his place. The name of his city was Pau, and his wife was named Mehetabel daughter of Matred, daughter of Mezahab.

51 When Hadad died, chiefs began to be in Edom in place of kings: Chief Timna, Chief Alvah, Chief Jetheth,

52 Chief Oholibamah, Chief Elah, Chief Pinon,

53 Chief Kenaz, Chief Teman, Chief Mibzar,

54 Chief Magdiel, and Chief Iram. These were the chiefs of Edom.

CHAPTER 2

1 The sons of Israel: Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Zebulun,

2 Dan, Joseph, Benjamin, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.

3 The sons of Judah: Er, Onan, and Shelah. These three were born to him from the daughter of Shua the Canaanite. But Er, Judah's firstborn, was evil before the Lord (YHWH), and he killed him.

4 Tamar his daughter-in-law bore him Perez and Zerah. Therefore all the sons of Judah were five.

5 The sons of Perez: Hezron and Hamul.

6 The sons of Zerah: Zimri, Ethan, Heman, Calcol, and Dara—five together.

7 The son of Carmi: Achar, who troubled Israel and sinned by stealing what was anathema.

8 The son of Ethan: Azariah.

9 The sons born to Hezron: Jerahmeel, Ram, and Chelubai.

10 Ram begot Amminadab, and Amminadab begot Nahshon, leader of the sons of Judah.

11 Nahshon begot Salma, from whom Boaz arose.

12 Boaz begot Obed, who himself begot Jesse.

13 Jesse begot Eliab his firstborn, Abinadab second, Shimea third,

14 Nethanel fourth, Raddai fifth,

15 Ozem sixth, and David seventh.

16 Their sisters were Zeruiah and Abigail. The sons of Zeruiah: Abishai, Joab, and Asahel—three.

17 Abigail bore Amasa, whose father was Jether the Ishmaelite.

18 Caleb son of Hezron took a wife named Azubah, from whom he begot Jerioth. Her sons were Jesher, Shobab, and Ardon.

19 When Azubah died, Caleb took Ephrath as wife, and she bore him Hur.

20 Hur begot Uri, and Uri begot Bezalel.

21 After these things Hezron entered to the daughter of Machir, father of Gilead, and took her when he was sixty years old. She bore him Segub.

22 Segub begot Jair, who possessed twenty-three cities in the land of Gilead.

23 Geshur and Aram captured the towns of Jair, Kenath, and its villages—sixty cities. All these were sons of Machir, father of Gilead.

24 When Hezron died, Caleb entered to Ephrath. Hezron also had a wife named Abiah, who bore him Ashhur, father of Tekoa.

25 The sons born to Jerahmeel, Hezron's firstborn, were Ram his firstborn, Bunah, Oren, Ozem, and Ahijah.

26 Jerahmeel also took another wife named Atarah, who was the mother of Onam.

27 The sons of Ram, Jerahmeel's firstborn, were Maaz, Jamin, and Eker.

28 Onam had sons Shammai and Jada. The sons of Shammai: Nadab and Abishur.

29 The name of Abishur's wife was Abihail, and she bore him Ahban and Molid.

30 The sons of Nadab were Seled and Appaim. Seled died without children.

31 The son of Appaim was Ishi. Ishi begot Sheshan, and Sheshan begot Ahlai.

32 The sons of Jada, Shammai's brother: Jether and Jonathan. Jether also died without children.

33 Jonathan begot Peleth and Zaza. These were the sons of Jerahmeel.

34 Sheshan had no sons but daughters, and an Egyptian servant named Jarha.

35 He gave his daughter to him as wife, and she bore him Attai.

36 Attai begot Nathan, and Nathan begot Zabad.

37 Zabad begot Ephlal, and Ephlal begot Obed.

38 Obed begot Jehu, and Jehu begot Azariah.

39 Azariah begot Helez, and Helez begot Eleasah.

40 Eleasah begot Sismai, and Sismai begot Shallum.

41 Shallum begot Jekamiah, and Jekamiah begot Elishama.

42 The sons of Caleb, Jerahmeel's brother: Mesha his firstborn, who was the father of Ziph, and the sons of Mareshah, father of Hebron.

43 The sons of Hebron: Korah, Tappuah, Rekem, and Shema.

44 Shema begot Raham, father of Jorkeam, and Rekem begot Shammai.

45 The son of Shammai was Maon, and Maon was the father of Beth-zur.

46 Ephah, Caleb's concubine, bore Haran, Moza, and Gazez. Haran begot Gazez.

47 The sons of Jahdai: Regem, Jotham, Geshan, Pelet, Ephah, and Shaaph.

48 Maacah, Caleb's concubine, bore Sheber and Tirhanah.

49 Shaaph, father of Madmannah, begot Sheva, father of Machbenah and father of Gibeah. Caleb's daughter was Achsah.

50 These were the sons of Caleb. The sons of Hur, Ephrath's firstborn: Shobal, father of Kiriath-jearim;

51 Salma, father of Bethlehem; and Hareph, father of Beth-gader.

52 The sons of Shobal, father of Kiriath-jearim, were those who saw half of the resting places.

53 From the kindred of Kiriath-jearim came the Ithrites, Puthites, Shumathites, and Mishraites. From these came the Zorathites and Eshtaolites.

54 The sons of Salma: Bethlehem, the Netophathites, the crowns of the house of Joab, and half of the resting place of Zorah;

55 and also the kindreds of the scribes dwelling in Jabez, singing and resounding and remaining in tents. These are the Kenites who came from Heat, father of the house of Rechab.

CHAPTER 3

1 David had these sons, who were born to him in Hebron: Amnon his firstborn, from Ahinoam the Jezreelite; Daniel second, from Abigail the Carmelite;

2 Absalom third, son of Maacah daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur; Adonijah fourth, son of Haggith;

3 Shephatiah fifth, from Abital; and Ithream sixth, from Eglah his wife.

4 Therefore six were born to him in Hebron, where he reigned seven years and six months. He reigned thirty-three years in Jerusalem.

5 In Jerusalem these sons were born to him: Shimea, Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon—four from Bathsheba daughter of Ammiel—

6 and also Ibhar and Elishama,

7 Eliphelet, Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia,

8 and also Elishama, Eliada, and Eliphelet—nine.

9 All these were sons of David, besides the sons of the concubines, and they had a sister, Tamar.

10 Solomon's son was Rehoboam, whose son Abijah begot Asa. From him also was born Jehoshaphat, 11 father of Joram. Joram begot Ahaziah, from whom Joash arose.

12 Amaziah his son begot Azariah. Azariah's son Jotham

13 begot Ahaz, father of Hezekiah, from whom Manasseh was born.

14 Manasseh also begot Amon, father of Josiah.

15 The sons of Josiah were Johanan firstborn, Jehoiakim second, Zedekiah third, and Shallum fourth.

16 From Jehoiakim were born Jeconiah and Zedekiah.

17 The sons of Jeconiah were Assir, Shealtiel,

18 Malchiram, Pedaiah, Shenazzar, Jekamiah, Shama, and Nedabiah.

19 From Pedaiah arose Zerubbabel and Shimei. Zerubbabel begot Meshullam, Hananiah, and Shelomith their sister,

20 and also Hashubah, Ohel, Berechiah, Hasadiah, and Jushab-hesed—five.

21 The son of Hananiah was Pelatiah, father of Jeshaiah, whose son was Rephaiah. His son was Arnan, from whom Obadiah was born, whose son was Shecaniah.

22 The son of Shecaniah was Shemaiah, whose sons were Hattush, Igal, Bariah, Neariah, and Shaphat—six in number.

23 The sons of Neariah: Elioenai, Hezekiah, and Azrikam—three.

24 The sons of Elioenai: Hodaiah, Eliashib, Pelaiah, Akkub, Johanan, Delaiah, and Anani—seven.

CHAPTER 4

1 The sons of Judah: Perez, Hezron, Carmi, Hur, and Shobal.

2 Reaiah son of Shobal begot Jahath, from whom Ahumai and Lahad were born. These were the kindreds of the Zorathites.

3 This also was the stock of Etam: Jezreel, Ishma, and Idbash. Their sister's name was Hazzelelponi.

4 Penuel was the father of Gedor, and Ezer the father of Hushah. These were the sons of Hur, Ephrath's firstborn, father of Bethlehem.

5 Ashhur, father of Tekoa, had two wives, Helah and Naarah.

6 Naarah bore him Ahuzzam, Hepher, Temeni, and Haahashtari. These were the sons of Naarah.

7 The sons of Helah: Zereth, Izhar, and Ethnan.

8 Koz begot Anub, Zobebah, and the kindred of Aharhel son of Harum.

9 Jabez was renowned above his brothers, and his mother called his name Jabez, saying, "Because I bore him in sorrow."

10 Jabez invoked the God of Israel, saying, "If blessing, you will bless me, enlarge my borders, let your hand be with me, and cause me not to be oppressed by evil." And God granted what he prayed for.

11 Chelub, brother of Shuhah, begot Mehir, who was the father of Eshton.

12 Eshton begot Beth-rapha, Paseah, and Tehinnah, father of the city of Nahash. These were the men of Rechah.

13 The sons of Kenaz: Othniel and Seraiah. The sons of Othniel: Hathath and Meonothai.

14 Meonothai begot Ophrah, and Seraiah begot Joab, father of the Valley of Craftsmen, for craftsmen were there.

15 The sons of Caleb son of Jephunneh: Iru, Elah, and Naam. The son of Elah: Kenaz.

16 The sons of Jehallelel: Ziph, Ziphah, Tiria, and Asarel.

17 The sons of Ezrah: Jether, Mered, Epher, and Jalon. He begot Miriam, Shammai, and Ishbah, father of Eshtemoa.

18 His Judean wife bore Jered, father of Gedor; Heber, father of Soco; and Jekuthiel, father of Zanoah. These were the sons of Bithiah daughter of Pharaoh, whom Mered took.

19 The sons of Hodiah's wife, sister of Naham: father of Keilah the Garmite, and Eshtemoa the Maacathite.

20 The sons of Shimon: Amnon, Rinnah son of Hanan, and Tilon. The sons of Ishi: Zoheth and Ben-zoheth.

21 The sons of Shelah son of Judah: Er, father of Lecah; Laadah, father of Mareshah; and the kindreds of the house of those working fine linen in the House of the Oath.

22 And he who caused the sun to stand, the men of Falsehood, Secure, and Burning, who were princes in Moab, and those who returned to Lahem. These are ancient words.

23 These are the potters dwelling in plantations and hedges, with the king in his works. They remained there.

24 The sons of Simeon: Nemuel, Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, and Shaul.

25 Shallum his son, Mibsam his son, Mishma his son.

26 The sons of Mishma: Hammuel his son, Zaccur his son, Shimei his son.

27 Shimei had sixteen sons and six daughters, but his brothers did not have many sons, and the whole kindred could not equal the total of the sons of Judah.

28 They dwelt in Beersheba, Moladah, Hazar-shual,

29 Bilhah, Ezem, Tolad,

30 Bethuel, Hormah, Ziklag,

31 Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susim, Beth-biri, and Shaaraim. These were their cities until King David.

32 Their villages were Etam, Ain, Rimmon, Tochen, and Ashan—five cities—

33 and all their villages around these cities as far as Baal. This was their dwelling and the distribution of their seats.

34 And Meshobab, Jamlech, Joshah son of Amaziah,

35 Joel, Jehu son of Joshibiah son of Seraiah son of Asiel,

36 Elioenai, Jaakobah, Jeshohaiah, Asaiah, Adiel, Jesimiel, Benaiah,

37 and Ziza son of Shiphi son of Allon son of Jedaiah son of Shimri son of Shemaiah.

38 These were named as leaders in their kindreds, and they multiplied exceedingly in the house of their families.

39 They departed to enter Gedor as far as the valley's east side to seek pasture for their flocks.

40 They found rich and very good pastures and an exceedingly broad, quiet, and fertile land in which those from the stock of Ham had dwelt before.

41 Therefore these men, whom we have described above by name, came in the days of Hezekiah, king of Judah. They struck their tents and the inhabitants found there and destroyed them, even to the present day. They dwelt in their place because they found exceedingly rich pastures there.

42 From the sons of Simeon, five hundred men also went to Mount Seir, having as leaders Pelatiah, Neariah, Rephaiah, and Uzziel, sons of Ishi.

43 They struck the remnants of the Amalekites who had been able to escape and dwelt there in their place, even to this day.

CHAPTER 5

1 The sons of Reuben, Israel's firstborn. For he was his firstborn, but because he violated his father's bed, his firstborn rights were given to the sons of Joseph son of Israel, and he was not reckoned as firstborn.

2 Judah, who was strongest among his brothers, produced leaders from his stock, but the firstborn rights were reckoned to Joseph.

3 Therefore the sons of Reuben, Israel's firstborn: Enoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi.

4 The sons of Joel: Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son,

5 Micah his son, Reaiah his son, Baal his son,

6 and Beerah his son, whom Tiglath-pilneser, king of the Assyrians, led captive. He was a leader in the tribe of Reuben.

7 His brothers and his whole kindred, when they were numbered by their families, had as leaders Jeiel and Zechariah.

8 Bela son of Azaz son of Shema son of Joel dwelt in Aroer as far as Nebo and Baal-meon.

9 He also dwelt toward the eastern region as far as the entrance of the wilderness and the river Euphrates, for they possessed a great number of beasts in the land of Gilead.

10 In the days of Saul they fought against the Hagrites and killed them. They dwelt in their place in their tents throughout the whole region facing east from Gilead.

11 The sons of Gad dwelt opposite them in the land of Bashan as far as Salcah:

12 Joel at the head and Shapham second, with Janai and Shaphat in Bashan.

13 Their brothers according to the houses of their kindreds: Michael, Meshullam, Sheba, Jorai, Jachan, Zia, and Eber—seven.

14 These were sons of Abihail son of Huri son of Jaroah son of Gilead son of Michael son of Jeshishai son of Jahdo son of Buz.

15 Their brother, son of Abdiel son of Guni, was leader of the house among their families.

16 They dwelt in Gilead, Bashan and its villages, and all the pasturelands of Sharon as far as their borders.

17 All these were numbered in the days of Jotham, king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam, king of Israel.

18 The sons of Reuben and Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh—fighting men carrying shields and swords, drawing the bow, and trained for battle—numbered forty-four thousand seven hundred sixty who went out to fight.

19 They fought against the Hagrites, and the Itureans, Naphish, and Nodab

20 gave them aid. The Hagrites and all who had been with them were delivered into their hands because they invoked God while they fought, and he heard them because they believed in him.

21 They captured everything they possessed: fifty thousand camels, two hundred fifty thousand sheep, two thousand donkeys, and one hundred thousand human souls.

22 Many fell wounded, for it was the Lord's war. They dwelt in their place until the transfer.

23 The sons of the half-tribe of Manasseh possessed the land from the borders of Bashan as far as Baal, Hermon, Senir, and Mount Hermon, for their number was immense.

24 These were the leaders of the house of their kindred: Epher, Ishi, Eliel, Azriel, Jeremiah, Hodaviah, and Jahdiel, exceedingly strong and powerful men and renowned commanders in their families.

25 But they abandoned the God of their fathers and fornicated after the gods of the peoples of the land whom God had removed before them.

26 The God of Israel stirred up the spirit of Pul, king of the Assyrians, and the spirit of Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria. He transferred Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh and brought them into Halah, Habor, Hara, and the river Gozan, even to this day.

CHAPTER 6

1 The sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

2 The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel.

3 The sons of Amram: Aaron, Moses, and Miriam. The sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

4 Eleazar begot Phinehas, and Phinehas begot Abishua.

5 Abishua begot Bukki, and Bukki begot Uzzi.

6 Uzzi begot Zerahiah, and Zerahiah begot Meraioth.

7 Meraioth begot Amariah, and Amariah begot Ahitub.

8 Ahitub begot Zadok, and Zadok begot Ahimaaz.

9 Ahimaaz begot Azariah, and Azariah begot Johanan.

10 Johanan begot Azariah. He is the one who exercised the priesthood in the house Solomon built in Jerusalem.

11 Azariah begot Amariah, and Amariah begot Ahitub.

12 Ahitub begot Zadok, and Zadok begot Shallum.

13 Shallum begot Hilkiah, and Hilkiah begot Azariah.

14 Azariah begot Seraiah, and Seraiah begot Jehozadak.

15 Jehozadak went out when the Lord transferred Judah and Jerusalem by the hands of Nebuchadnezzar.

16 Therefore the sons of Levi: Gershom, Kohath, and Merari.

17 These are the names of the sons of Gershom: Libni and Shimei.

18 The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel.

19 The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. These were the kindreds of Levi according to their families.

20 Of Gershom: Libni his son, Jahath his son, Zimmah his son,

21 Joah his son, Iddo his son, Zerah his son, Jeatherai his son.

22 The sons of Kohath: Amminadab his son, Korah his son, Assir his son,

23 Elkanah his son, Ebiasaph his son, Assir his son,

24 Tahath his son, Uriel his son, Uzziah his son, Shaul his son.

25 The sons of Elkanah: Amasai, Ahimoth,

26 and Elkanah. The sons of Elkanah: Zophai his son, Nahath his son,

27 Eliab his son, Jeroham his son, Elkanah his son.

28 The sons of Samuel: Vashni the firstborn, and Abijah.

29 The sons of Merari: Mahli; Libni his son, Shimei his son, Uzza his son,

30 Shimea his son, Haggiah his son, Asaiah his son.

31 These are those whom David appointed over the singers of the house of the Lord after the ark was placed there.

32 They ministered before the tabernacle of the testimony, singing until Solomon built the house of the Lord in Jerusalem, and they stood in their ministry according to their order.

33 These are those who attended with their sons. From the sons of Kohath: Heman the singer, son of Joel, son of Samuel,

34 son of Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Eliel, son of Tohu,

35 son of Zuph, son of Elkanah, son of Mahath, son of Amasai,

36 son of Elkanah, son of Joel, son of Azariah, son of Zephaniah,

37 son of Tahath, son of Assir, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah,

38 son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi, son of Israel.

39 His brother Asaph stood at his right hand: Asaph son of Berechiah, son of Shimea,

40 son of Michael, son of Baaseiah, son of Malchijah,

41 son of Ethni, son of Zerah, son of Adaiah,

42 son of Ethan, son of Zimmah, son of Shimei,

43 son of Jahath, son of Gershom, son of Levi.

44 The sons of Merari, their brothers, stood at the left: Ethan son of Kishi, son of Abdi, son of Malluch,

45 son of Hashabiah, son of Amaziah, son of Hilkiah,

46 son of Amzi, son of Bani, son of Shemer,

47 son of Mahli, son of Mushi, son of Merari, son of Levi.

48 Their brothers the Levites were appointed for every ministry of the tabernacle of the house of the Lord.

49 Aaron and his sons burned incense upon the altar of holocaust and upon the altar of incense, for every work of the Holy of Holies and to pray for Israel according to everything Moses, servant of God, had commanded.

50 These are the sons of Aaron: Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son, Abishua his son,

51 Bukki his son, Uzzi his son, Zerahiah his son,

52 Meraioth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son,

53 Zadok his son, Ahimaaz his son.

54 These were their dwellings throughout their villages and borders, namely those of the sons of Aaron according to the kindreds of the Kohathites, for these had fallen to them by lot.

55 Therefore they gave them Hebron in the land of Judah and its pasturelands all around,

56 but the city’s fields and villages to Caleb son of Jephunneh.

57 To the sons of Aaron they gave Hebron, a city of refuge, Libnah and its pasturelands,

58 Jattir, Eshtemoa with its pasturelands, Hilen, and Debir with its pasturelands,

59 and also Ashan, Beth-shemesh, and their pasturelands.

60 From the tribe of Benjamin: Geba and its pasturelands, Alemeth with its pasturelands, and Anathoth with its pasturelands. All their cities throughout their kindreds were thirteen.

61 To the remaining sons of Kohath from their kindred they gave ten cities as a possession from the half-tribe of Manasseh.

62 To the sons of Gershom according to their kindreds, from the tribe of Issachar, the tribe of Asher, the tribe of Naphtali, and the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, they gave thirteen cities.

63 To the sons of Merari according to their kindreds, from the tribe of Reuben, the tribe of Gad, and the tribe of Zebulun, they gave twelve cities by lot.

64 The children of Israel also gave the Levites cities and their pasturelands.

65 They gave by lot, from the tribe of the sons of Judah, the tribe of the sons of Simeon, and the tribe of the sons of Benjamin, these cities, which they called by their own names.

66 Those who were from the kindred of the sons of Kohath also received cities within their borders from the tribe of Ephraim.

67 Therefore they gave them cities of refuge: Shechem with its pasturelands in Mount Ephraim, and Gezer with its pasturelands;

68 Jokmeam with its pasturelands, and likewise Beth-horon;

69 and also Aijalon with its pasturelands, and Gath-rimmon in the same manner.

70 From the half-tribe of Manasseh: Aner and its pasturelands, and Bileam and its pasturelands, namely for those who remained from the kindred of the sons of Kohath.

71 To the sons of Gershom, from the kindred of the half-tribe of Manasseh: Golan in Bashan and its pasturelands, and Ashtaroth with its pasturelands.

72 From the tribe of Issachar: Kedesh and its pasturelands, Daberath with its pasturelands, 73 Ramoth and its pasturelands, and Anem with its pasturelands.

74 From the tribe of Asher: Mashal with its pasturelands, and likewise Abdon;

75 Hukok and its pasturelands, and Rehob with its pasturelands.

76 From the tribe of Naphtali: Kedesh in Galilee and its pasturelands, Hammon with its pasturelands, and Kiriathaim and its pasturelands.

77 To the remaining sons of Merari, from the tribe of Zebulun: Rimmono and its pasturelands, and Tabor with its pasturelands;

78 and beyond the Jordan opposite Jericho, toward the east of the Jordan, from the tribe of Reuben: Bezer in the wilderness with its pasturelands, and Jahzah with its pasturelands;

79 Kedemoth and its pasturelands, and Mephaath with its pasturelands.

80 And also from the tribe of Gad: Ramoth in Gilead and its pasturelands, and Mahanaim with its pasturelands;

81 and also Heshbon with its pasturelands, and Jazer with its pasturelands.

CHAPTER 7

1 The sons of Issachar: Tola, Puah, Jashub, and Shimron—four.

2 The sons of Tola: Uzzi, Rephaiah, Jeriel, Jahmai, Jibsam, and Samuel, leaders through the houses of their kindreds. From the stock of Tola, twenty-two thousand six hundred exceedingly strong men were numbered in the days of David.

3 The son of Uzzi: Izrahiah, from whom were born Michael, Obadiah, Joel, and Isshiah—all five leaders.

4 With them, according to their families and peoples, were thirty-six thousand exceedingly strong men girded for battle, for they had many wives and sons.

5 Their brothers throughout the entire kindred of Issachar, exceedingly robust for fighting, numbered eighty-seven thousand.

6 The sons of Benjamin: Bela, Becher, and Jediael—three.

7 The sons of Bela: Ezbon, Uzzi, Uzziel, Jerimoth, and Iri—five leaders of families and exceedingly robust for fighting. Their number was twenty-two thousand thirty-four.

8 The sons of Becher: Zemirah, Joash, Eliezer, Elioenai, Omri, Jerimoth, Abijah, Anathoth, and Alemeth. All these were sons of Becher.

9 Numbered according to their families as leaders of their kindreds and exceedingly strong for battle, they were twenty thousand two hundred.

10 The son of Jediael: Bilhan. The sons of Bilhan: Jeush, Benjamin, Ehud, Chenaanah, Zethan, Tarshish, and Ahishahar.

11 All these were sons of Jediael, leaders of their kindreds and exceedingly strong men—seventeen thousand two hundred going out to battle.

12 Shuppim and Huppim were sons of Ir, and Hushim was a son of Aher.

13 The sons of Naphtali: Jahziel, Guni, Jezer, and Shallum, sons of Bilhah.

14 The son of Manasseh: Asriel. His Syrian concubine bore Machir, father of Gilead.

15 Machir took wives for his sons Huppim and Shuppim, and he had a sister named Maacah. The name of the second was Zelophehad, and daughters were born to Zelophehad.

16 Maacah, wife of Machir, bore a son and called his name Peresh. His brother’s name was Sheresh, and his sons were Ulam and Rakem.

17 The son of Ulam: Bedan. These were the sons of Gilead son of Machir son of Manasseh.

18 His sister the Queen bore a Handsome Man, Abiezer, and Mahlah.

19 The sons of Shemida were Ahian, Shechem, Likhi, and Aniam.

20 The sons of Ephraim: Shuthelah; Bered his son; Tahath his son; Eleadah his son; Tahath his son; Zabad his son;

21 Shuthelah his son; and Ezer and Elead his sons. The native men of Gath killed them because they had gone down to invade their possessions.

22 Therefore Ephraim their father mourned for many days, and his brothers came to console him.

23 He entered to his wife, and she conceived and bore a son. He called his name Beriah because he arose amid the evils of his house.

24 His daughter was Sheerah, who built Lower Beth-horon, Upper Beth-horon, and Uzzen-sheerah.

25 His son was Rephah, then Resheph and Telah, from whom Tahan was born.

26 Tahan begot Ladan, whose son Ammihud begot Elishama,

27 from whom Nun arose, who had Joshua as son.

28 Their possession and dwelling were Bethel and its daughters; toward the east Naaran; toward the west Gezer and its daughters; and Shechem and its daughters, as far as Gaza and its daughters.

29 Beside the sons of Manasseh were Beth-shean and its daughters, Taanach and its daughters, Megiddo and its daughters, and Dor and its daughters. In these dwelt the sons of Joseph son of Israel.

30 The sons of Asher: Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, Beriah, and Serah their sister.

31 The sons of Beriah: Heber and Malchiel, who was the father of Birzaith.

32 Heber begot Japhlet, Shomer, Hotham, and Shua their sister.

33 The sons of Japhlet: Pasach, Bimhal, and Ashvath. These were the sons of Japhlet.

34 The sons of Shomer: Ahi, Rohgah, Hubbah, and Aram.

35 The sons of Helem his brother: Zophah, Imna, Shelesh, and Amal.

36 The sons of Zophah: Suah, Harnepher, Shual, Beri, Imrah, 37 Bezer, Hod, Shamma, Shilshah, Ithran, and Beera.

38 The sons of Jether: Jephunneh, Pispa, and Ara.

39 The sons of Ulla: Arah, Hanniel, and Rizia.

40 All these were sons of Asher, leaders of kindreds, chosen and exceedingly strong commanders of commanders. The number of those of an age fit for war was twenty-six thousand.

CHAPTER 8

1 Benjamin begot Bela his firstborn, Ashbel second, Aharah third,

2 Nohah fourth, and Rapha fifth.

3 The sons of Bela were Addar, Gera, Abihud,

4 Abishua, Naaman, Ahoah,

5 Gera, Shephuphan, and Huram.

6 These are the sons of Ehud, leaders of the kindreds dwelling in Geba, who were transferred to Manahath.

7 Naaman, Ahijah, and Gera—he transferred them—and he begot Uzza and Ahihud.

8 Shaharaim begot children in the region of Moab after he dismissed Hushim and Baara his wives.

9 From Hodesh his wife he begot Jobab, Zibia, Mesha, Malcam,

10 Jeuz, Sachia, and Mirmah. These were his sons, leaders in their families.

11 From Hushim he begot Abitub and Elpaal.

12 The sons of Elpaal: Eber, Misham, and Shemed, who built Ono, Lod, and its daughters.

13 Beriah and Shema were leaders of the kindreds dwelling in Aijalon. These put the inhabitants of Gath to flight.

14 And Ahio, Shashak, Jerimoth,

15 Zebadiah, Arad, Eder,

16 Michael, Ishpah, and Joha were sons of Beriah.

17 Zebadiah, Meshullam, Hizki, Eber,

18 Ishmerai, Izliah, and Jobab were sons of Elpaal.

19 Jakim, Zichri, Zabdi,

20 Elioenai, Zillethai, Eliel,

21 Adaiah, Beraiah, and Shimrath were sons of Shimei.

22 Ishpan, Eber, Eliel,

23 Abdon, Zichri, Hanan,

24 Hananiah, Elam, Anthothijah,

25 Iphdeiah, and Penuel were sons of Shashak.

26 Shamsherai, Shehariah, Athaliah,

27 Jaareshiah, Elijah, and Zichri were sons of Jeroham.

28 These were patriarchs and leaders of kindreds who dwelt in Jerusalem.

29 At Gibeon dwelt Abi-gibeon, and his wife’s name was Maacah.

30 His firstborn son was Abdon, then Zur, Kish, Baal, Nadab, 31 Gedor, Ahio, Zecher, and Mikloth.

32 Mikloth begot Shimeah. They dwelt opposite their brothers in Jerusalem, with their brothers.

33 Ner begot Kish, and Kish begot Saul. Saul begot Jonathan, Malchi-shua, Abinadab, and Esh-baal.

34 Jonathan’s son was Merib-baal, and Merib-baal begot Micah.

35 The sons of Micah: Pithon, Melech, Tarea, and Ahaz.

36 Ahaz begot Jehoaddah, and Jehoaddah begot Alemeth, Azmaveth, and Zimri. Zimri begot Moza, 37 and Moza begot Binea, whose son was Rapha, from whom Eleasah arose, who begot Azel.

38 Azel had six sons with these names: Azrikam, Bocheru, Ishmael, Sheariah, Obadiah, and Hanan. All these were sons of Azel.

39 The sons of Eshek his brother: Ulam firstborn, Jeush second, and Eliphelet third.

40 The sons of Ulam were exceedingly robust men, drawing the bow with great strength, and they had many sons and grandsons, as many as one hundred fifty. All these were sons of Benjamin.

CHAPTER 9

1 Therefore all Israel was numbered, and their total was written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah. They were transferred to Babylon because of their trespass.

2 The first to dwell in their possessions and cities were Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the Nethinim.

3 In Jerusalem dwelt some from the sons of Judah, the sons of Benjamin, and also the sons of Ephraim and Manasseh.

4 Uthai son of Ammihud son of Omri son of Imri son of Bani, from the sons of Perez son of Judah.

5 From the Shilonites: Asaiah the firstborn and his sons.

6 From the sons of Zerah: Jeuel and their brothers—six hundred ninety.

7 From the sons of Benjamin: Sallu son of Meshullam son of Hodaviah son of Hassenuah;

8 Ibneiah son of Jeroham; Elah son of Uzzi son of Michri; and Meshullam son of Shephatiah son of Reuel son of Ibnijah.

9 Their brothers according to their families were nine hundred fifty-six. All these were leaders of kindreds through the houses of their fathers.

10 From the priests: Jedaiah, Jehoiarib, and Jachin;

11 also Azariah son of Hilkiah son of Meshullam son of Zadok son of Meraioth son of Ahitub, high priest of the house of God;

12 Adaiah son of Jeroham son of Pashhur son of Malchijah; and Maasai son of Adiel son of Jahzerah son of Meshullam son of Meshillemith son of Immer.

13 Their brothers, leaders throughout their families, were one thousand seven hundred sixty, exceedingly strong for doing the work of ministry in the house of God.

14 From the Levites: Shemaiah son of Hasshub son of Azrikam son of Hashabiah, from the sons of Merari;

15 also Bakbakkar the carpenter, Galal, Mattaniah son of Mica son of Zichri son of Asaph;

16 Obadiah son of Shemaiah son of Galal son of Jeduthun; and Berechiah son of Asa son of Elkanah, who dwelt in the courts of the Netophathites.

17 The gatekeepers: Shallum, Akkub, Talmon, and Ahiman. Their brother Shallum was leader.

18 Until that time they kept watch by their divisions at the King’s Gate toward the east, among the sons of Levi.

19 Shallum son of Kore son of Ebiasaph son of Korah, with his brothers and the house of his father—these Korahites were over the works of ministry, guardians of the tabernacle’s vestibules. Their families, by the divisions of the Lord’s camp, guarded the entrance.

20 Phinehas son of Eleazar was their leader before the Lord.

21 Zechariah son of Meshelemiah was gatekeeper of the gate of the tabernacle of the testimony.

22 All these chosen as gatekeepers at the gates were two hundred twelve. They were registered in their own villages, and David and Samuel the seer appointed them in their trust, 23 both them and their sons, at the doors of the house of the Lord and in the tabernacle according to their divisions.

24 The gatekeepers were at the four winds, that is, toward the east, west, north, and south.

25 Their brothers remained in the villages and came on their Sabbaths from time to time.

26 To these four Levites was entrusted the entire number of gatekeepers, and they were over the chambers and treasuries of the house of the Lord.

27 They also remained in their watches around the temple of the Lord so that, when the time came, they themselves would open the doors in the morning.

28 Some of their line were over the vessels of ministry, for the vessels were brought in and carried out by number.

29 Some of them were entrusted with the utensils of the sanctuary and were over the fine flour, wine, oil, frankincense, and spices.

30 The sons of the priests made ointments from the spices.

31 Mattithiah the Levite, firstborn of Shallum the Korahite, was prefect over the things fried in a pan.

32 Some of the sons of Kohath, their brothers, were over the bread of the Presence so that they would always prepare it fresh each Sabbath.

33 These are the leaders of the singers throughout the families of the Levites, who remained in the chambers so that they might serve continually in their ministry by day and night.

34 The heads of the Levites, leaders throughout their families, remained in Jerusalem.

35 In Gibeon dwelt Jeiel, father of Gibeon, and his wife's name was Maacah.

36 His firstborn son was Abdon, then Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner, Nadab, 37 Gedor, Ahio, Zechariah, and Mikloth.

38 Mikloth begot Shimeam. These dwelt opposite their brothers in Jerusalem, with their brothers.

39 Ner begot Kish, Kish begot Saul, and Saul begot Jonathan, Malchi-shua, Abinadab, and Esh-baal.

40 Jonathan's son was Merib-baal, and Merib-baal begot Micah.

41 The sons of Micah: Pithon, Melech, Tarea, and Ahaz.

42 Ahaz begot Jarah, and Jarah begot Alemeth, Azmaveth, and Zimri. Zimri begot Moza.

43 Moza begot Binea, whose son Rephaiah begot Eleasah, from whom Azel arose.

44 Azel had six sons with these names: Azrikam, Bocheru, Ishmael, Sheariah, Obadiah, and Hanan. These were the sons of Azel.

CHAPTER 10

1 The Philistines fought against Israel, and the men of Israel fled before the Philistines and fell wounded upon Mount Gilboa.

2 When the Philistines drew near, pursuing Saul and his sons, they struck Jonathan, Abinadab, and Malchi-shua, the sons of Saul.

3 The battle grew heavy against Saul. The archers found him and wounded him with arrows.

4 Saul said to his armor-bearer, “Draw your sword and kill me, lest these uncircumcised men come and mock me.” But his armor-bearer, terrified by fear, was unwilling to do this. Therefore Saul seized his sword and fell upon it.

5 When his armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he also fell upon his own sword and died.

6 Therefore Saul died, and his three sons, and his entire house fell together.

7 When the men of Israel who dwelt in the plains saw this, they fled. With Saul and his sons dead, they abandoned their cities and were scattered here and there. The Philistines came and dwelt in them.

8 Therefore on the next day, when the Philistines stripped the spoil from the slain, they found Saul and his sons lying upon Mount Gilboa.

9 When they had stripped him, cut off his head, and removed his armor, they sent it into their land to be carried around and displayed in the temples of the idols and before the peoples.

10 They consecrated his armor in the shrine of their god and fastened his head in the temple of Dagon.

11 When the men of Jabesh-gilead heard this—namely, everything the Philistines had done to Saul—

12 each of the valiant men rose, took the corpses of Saul and his sons, and brought them to Jabesh. They buried their bones beneath the oak that was in Jabesh and fasted seven days.

13 Therefore Saul died because of his iniquities: because he transgressed the commandment of the Lord that he had commanded and did not keep it, and moreover even consulted a woman with a spirit,

14 and did not hope in the Lord. Because of this, he killed him and transferred his kingdom to David son of Jesse.

CHAPTER 11

1 Therefore all Israel gathered to David at Hebron, saying, “We are your bone and your flesh.

2 Yesterday and the day before, even while Saul still reigned, you were the one who led Israel out and brought it in. For the Lord your God said to you, ‘You shall pasture my people Israel, and you shall be leader over them.’”

3 Therefore all the elders of Israel came to the king at Hebron, and David entered into a covenant with them before the Lord. They anointed him king over Israel according to the word of the Lord that he spoke by the hand of Samuel.

4 David and all Israel also went to Jerusalem, which is Jebus, where the Jebusites were inhabitants of the land.

5 Those who dwelt in Jebus said to David, “You shall not enter here.” But David captured the stronghold of Zion, which is the City of David.

6 He said, “Whoever strikes a Jebusite first shall be prince and commander.” Therefore Joab son of Zeruiah went up first and became prince.

7 David dwelt in the stronghold, and for this reason it was called the City of David.

8 He built the city all around, from Millo to the circuit, while Joab built the rest of the city.

9 David continued advancing and increasing, and the Lord of hosts was with him.

10 These are the leaders of David’s mighty men who helped him become king over all Israel, according to the word of the Lord that he spoke to Israel.

11 This is the number of David’s strong men: Jashobeam son of Hachmoni, leader among the thirty. He raised his spear against three hundred wounded at one time.

12 After him was Eleazar, son of his paternal uncle, the Ahohite, who was among the three mighty men.

13 He was with David at Pas-dammim when the Philistines gathered at that place for battle. A field in that region was full of barley, and the people had fled before the Philistines.

14 These men stood in the middle of the field and defended it. When they had struck the Philistines, the Lord gave great salvation to his people.

15 Three of the thirty leaders went down to the rock where David was, at the cave of Adullam, when the Philistines were encamped in the Valley of Rephaim.

16 David was in the stronghold, and a Philistine garrison was in Bethlehem.

17 David desired water and said, “O that someone would give me water from the cistern of Bethlehem that is at the gate!”

18 Therefore these three passed through the middle of the Philistine camp, drew water from the cistern of Bethlehem that was at the gate, and brought it to David to drink. He was unwilling, but instead poured it out as a libation to the Lord,

19 saying, “Far be it from me in the sight of my God that I should do this and drink the blood of these men, for they brought me water at the peril of their souls.” For this reason he was unwilling to drink. These things the three strongest men did.

20 Abishai, Joab’s brother, was leader of the three. He raised his spear against three hundred wounded and was the most renowned among the three.

21 He was renowned among the second three and their leader, yet he did not reach the first three.

22 Benaiah son of Jehoiada was the son of an exceedingly strong man from Kabzeel who had performed many deeds. He struck two ariels of Moab, and he went down and killed a lion in the middle of a cistern in the time of snow.

23 He also struck an Egyptian man whose stature was five cubits and who had a spear like a weaver’s beam. Benaiah went down to him with a staff, seized the spear he held in his hand, and killed him with his own spear.

24 These things Benaiah son of Jehoiada did, and he was most renowned among the three strong men.

25 He was first among the thirty, yet did not reach the three. David placed him at his ear.

26 The strongest men in the army: Asahel brother of Joab; Elhanan, son of his paternal uncle, from Bethlehem;

27 Shammoth the Harorite; Helez the Pelonite;

28 Ira son of Ikkesh the Tekoite; Abiezer the Anathothite;

29 Sibbecai the Hushathite; Ilai the Ahohite;

30 Maharai the Netophathite; Heled son of Baanah the Netophathite;

31 Ithai son of Ribai from Gibeah of the sons of Benjamin; Benaiah the Pirathonite;

32 Hurai from the torrent Gaash; Abiel the Arbathite; Azmaveth the Baharumite; Eliaba the Shaalbonite;

33 the sons of Hashem the Gizonite; Jonathan son of Shagee the Hararite;

34 Ahiam son of Sachar the Hararite;

35 Eliphal son of Ur;

36 Hepher the Mecherathite; Ahijah the Pelonite;

37 Hezro the Carmelite; Naarai son of Ezbai;

38 Joel brother of Nathan; Mibhar son of Hagri;

39 Zelek the Ammonite; Naharai the Berothite, armor-bearer of Joab son of Zeruiah;

40 Ira the Ithrite; Gareb the Ithrite;

41 Uriah the Hittite; Zabad son of Ahlai;

42 Adina son of Shiza the Reubenite, leader of the Reubenites, and thirty with him;

43 Hanan son of Maacah; Jehoshaphat the Mithnite;

44 Uzzia the Ashterathite; Shama and Jeiel, sons of Hotham the Aroerite;

45 Jediael son of Shimri, and Joha his brother, the Tizite;

46 Eliel the Mahavite; Jeribai and Joshaviah, sons of Elnaam; Ithmah the Moabite; Eliel, Obed, and Jaasiel from Mezoba.

CHAPTER 12

1 These also came to David at Ziklag while he was still fleeing from Saul son of Kish. They were exceedingly strong and excellent fighters,

2 drawing the bow, casting stones with slings using either hand, and directing arrows. They were from Saul's brothers in Benjamin.

3 Ahiezer the leader and Joash, sons of Shemaah the Gibeathite; Jeziel and Pelet, sons of Azmaveth; Beracah; and Jehu the Anathothite.

4 Also Ishmaiah the Gibeonite, exceedingly strong among the thirty and over the thirty; Jeremiah; Jahaziel; Johanan; and Jozabad the Gederathite;

5 Eluzai; Jerimoth; Bealiah; Shemariah; and Shephatiah the Haruphite;

6 Elkanah; Isshiah; Azarel; Joezer; and Jashobeam from the Korahites;

7 and Joelah and Zebadiah, sons of Jeroham from Gedor.

8 Some Gadites also deserted to David when he hid in the wilderness: exceedingly robust men and excellent fighters, holding shield and spear. Their faces were like the faces of lions, and they were swift like gazelles upon the mountains:

9 Ezer the leader, Obadiah second, Eliab third,

10 Mishmannah fourth, Jeremiah fifth,

11 Attai sixth, Eliel seventh,

12 Johanan eighth, Elzabad ninth,

13 Jeremiah tenth, and Machbannai eleventh.

14 These from the sons of Gad were commanders of the army. The least presided over one hundred soldiers, and the greatest over one thousand.

15 These are the ones who crossed the Jordan in the first month, when it is accustomed to overflow its banks, and put to flight everyone dwelling in the valleys toward the east and west.

16 Some from Benjamin and Judah also came to the stronghold where David remained.

17 David went out to meet them and said, "If you have come peacefully to me to help me, let my heart be joined to you. But if you lay an ambush against me for my adversaries while I have no iniquity in my hands, may the God of our fathers see and judge."

18 Then the spirit clothed Amasai, leader among the thirty, and he said, "We are yours, O David, and with you, son of Jesse. Peace, peace to you, and peace to your helpers, for your God helps you." Therefore David received them and appointed them leaders of the band.

19 Some from Manasseh also deserted to David when he came with the Philistines against Saul to fight, though he did not fight with them because the Philistine leaders, after taking counsel, sent him away, saying, "At the peril of our heads, he will return to Saul his lord."

20 Therefore when he returned to Ziklag, these deserted to him from Manasseh: Adnah, Jozabad, Jediael, Michael, Adnah, Jozabad, Elihu, and Zillethai, commanders of thousands in Manasseh.

21 These gave aid to David against the raiders, for they were all exceedingly strong men and became commanders in the army.

22 Indeed, each day men came to David to help him until there was a great number, like the army of God.

23 This also is the number of commanders of the army who came to David when he was at Hebron to transfer Saul's kingdom to him according to the word of the Lord.

24 The sons of Judah carrying shield and spear: six thousand eight hundred equipped for battle.

25 From the sons of Simeon, exceedingly strong men for fighting: seven thousand one hundred.

26 From the sons of Levi: four thousand six hundred.

27 Also Jehoiada, leader from the stock of Aaron, and with him three thousand seven hundred.

28 Zadok also, a young man of excellent character, and twenty-two leaders from his father's house.

29 From the sons of Benjamin, Saul's brothers: three thousand, for a great part of them still followed the house of Saul.

30 From the sons of Ephraim: twenty thousand eight hundred, exceedingly strong in might, men renowned in their kindreds.

31 From the half-tribe of Manasseh: eighteen thousand, each designated by his own name, came to appoint David king.

32 From the sons of Issachar: learned men who knew the individual times so as to command what Israel ought to do, two hundred leaders. All the remainder of their tribe followed their counsel.

33 From Zebulun, those who went out to battle and stood in battle line, equipped with weapons of war: fifty thousand came to help, not with a double heart.

34 From Naphtali: one thousand leaders, and with them thirty-seven thousand equipped with shield and spear.

35 From Dan also, prepared for battle: twenty-eight thousand six hundred.

36 From Asher, going out to fight and challenging in battle line: forty thousand.

37 Beyond the Jordan, from the sons of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, equipped with weapons of war: one hundred twenty thousand.

38 All these fighting men, equipped for battle, came to Hebron with a perfect heart to appoint David king over all Israel. All the remainder of Israel also had one heart that David should become king.

39 They were there with David for three days, eating and drinking, for their brothers had prepared for them.

40 Those who were near them, as far as Issachar, Zebulun, and Naphtali, also brought bread upon donkeys, camels, mules, and oxen for them to eat, together with flour, cakes of pressed figs, raisins, wine, oil, oxen, and rams in all abundance, for there was joy in Israel.

1 David took counsel with the tribunes, centurions, and all the leaders.

2 He said to the whole assembly of Israel, “If it pleases you, and if the word I speak goes forth from the Lord our God, let us send to our remaining brothers throughout all the regions of Israel and to the priests and Levites dwelling in the pasturelands of the cities, so that they may gather to us.

3 Let us bring the ark of our God back to us, for we did not seek it in the days of Saul.”

4 The entire multitude answered that it should be done, for the word pleased all the people.

5 Therefore David gathered all Israel, from the Shihor of Egypt as far as the entrance of Hamath, to bring the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim.

6 David and every man of Israel went up to the hill of Kiriath-jearim, which is in Judah, to bring from there the ark of the Lord God who sits above the cherubim, where his name was invoked.

7 They placed the ark of God upon a new cart from the house of Abinadab, and Uzza and his brother drove the cart.

8 David and all Israel played before God with all their strength, with songs, lyres, harps, timbrels, cymbals, and trumpets.

9 When they reached the threshing floor of Chidon, Uzza extended his hand to support the ark, for the unruly ox had tilted it a little.

10 Therefore the Lord became angry against Uzza and struck him because he had touched the ark, and he died there before the Lord.

11 David was grieved because the Lord had made a breach against Uzza, and he called that place the Breach of Uzza, even to the present day.

12 He feared God at that time, saying, “How can I bring the ark of God to myself?”

13 For this reason he did not bring it to himself, that is, into the City of David, but turned it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite.

14 Therefore the ark of God remained in the house of Obed-edom for three months, and the Lord blessed his house and everything he had.

CHAPTER 14

1 Hiram, king of Tyre, also sent messengers to David, with cedar timbers and craftsmen of walls and wood, so that they might build him a house.

2 David knew that the Lord had confirmed him as king over Israel and that his kingdom had been lifted up over his people Israel.

3 David also took other wives in Jerusalem and begot sons and daughters.

4 These are the names of those born to him in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab, Nathan, Solomon,

5 Ibhar, Elishua, Elpelet,

6 Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia,

7 Elishama, Beeliada, and Eliphelet.

8 When the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all Israel, they all went up to seek him. When David heard this, he went out to meet them.

9 The Philistines came and spread themselves through the Valley of Rephaim.

10 David consulted the Lord, saying, “Shall I go up against the Philistines, and will you deliver them into my hand?” The Lord said to him, “Go up, and I shall deliver them into your hand.”

11 When they went up to Baal-perazim, David struck them there and said, “God has made a breach against my enemies by my hand, as waters are divided.” For this reason the name of that place was called Baal-perazim.

12 They abandoned their gods there, and David commanded them to be burned.

13 Again the Philistines rushed in and spread themselves through the valley.

14 David again consulted God, and God said to him, “Do not go up after them. Withdraw from them and come against them opposite the pear trees.

15 When you hear the sound of one walking in the tops of the pear trees, then go out to battle, for God has gone out before you to strike the Philistine camp.”

16 Therefore David did as God had commanded him and struck the Philistine camp from Gibeon as far as Gezer.

17 David’s name was proclaimed throughout all the regions, and the Lord placed the fear of him upon all the nations.

CHAPTER 15

1 David also made houses for himself in the City of David. He built a place for the ark of God and stretched out a tabernacle for it.

2 Then David said, “It is unlawful for the ark of God to be carried by anyone except the Levites, whom the Lord chose to carry it and minister to him forever.”

3 He gathered all Israel in Jerusalem so that the ark of God might be brought to its place, which he had prepared for it,

4 and also the sons of Aaron and the Levites.

5 From the sons of Kohath, Uriel was leader, and his brothers were one hundred twenty.

6 From the sons of Merari, Asaiah was leader, and his brothers were two hundred twenty.

7 From the sons of Gershom, Joel was leader, and his brothers were one hundred thirty.

8 From the sons of Elizaphan, Shemaiah was leader, and his brothers were two hundred.

9 From the sons of Hebron, Eliel was leader, and his brothers were eighty.

10 From the sons of Uzziel, Amminadab was leader, and his brothers were one hundred twelve.

11 David called the priests Zadok and Abiathar and the Levites Uriel, Asaiah, Joel, Shemaiah, Eliel, and Amminadab.

12 He said to them, “You who are leaders of the Levitical families, sanctify yourselves with your brothers and bring the ark of the Lord God of Israel to the place prepared for it,

13 lest, as at the beginning, because you were not present, the Lord struck us, so it happen now when we do something unlawful.”

14 Therefore the priests and Levites were sanctified so that they might carry the ark of the Lord God of Israel.

15 The sons of Levi carried the ark of God upon their shoulders with poles, as Moses had commanded according to the word of the Lord.

16 David told the leaders of the Levites to appoint singers from their brothers with musical instruments—harps, lyres, and cymbals—so that the sound of joy might resound on high.

17 They appointed the Levites Heman son of Joel and, from his brothers, Asaph son of Berechiah; and from the sons of Merari, their brothers, Ethan son of Kushaiah.

18 With them were their brothers in the second order: Zechariah, Ben, Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom, and Jeiel, the gatekeepers.

19 The singers Heman, Asaph, and Ethan sounded together upon bronze cymbals.

20 Zechariah, Uzziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maaseiah, and Benaiah sang mysteries upon harps.

21 Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel, and Azaziah sang a victory song upon lyres for the octave.

22 Chenaniah, leader of the Levites, presided over prophecy to lead the melody, for he was exceedingly wise.

23 Berechiah and Elkanah were gatekeepers of the ark.

24 The priests Shebaniah, Jehoshaphat, Nethanel, Amasai, Zechariah, Benaiah, and Eliezer sounded trumpets before the ark of God. Obed-edom and Jehiah were gatekeepers of the ark.

25 Therefore David, all the elders of Israel, and the tribunes went to carry away the ark of the Lord’s covenant from the house of Obed-edom with joy.

26 Because God helped the Levites who carried the ark of the Lord’s covenant, seven bulls and seven rams were sacrificed.

27 David was clothed in a fine-linen robe, as were all the Levites who carried the ark, the singers, and Chenaniah, leader of prophecy among the singers. David was also clothed in a linen ephod.

28 All Israel led the ark of the Lord’s covenant with jubilation and the sound of the horn, sounding together with trumpets, cymbals, harps, and lyres.

29 When the ark of the Lord’s covenant reached the City of David, Michal daughter of Saul looked through a window, saw King David dancing and playing, and despised him in her heart.

CHAPTER 16

1 Therefore they brought the ark of God and placed it in the middle of the tabernacle David had stretched out for it, and they offered holocausts and peace offerings before God.

2 When David finished offering holocausts and peace offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the Lord.

3 He distributed to everyone individually, from man to woman, a loaf of bread, a portion of roasted buffalo meat, and fine flour fried in oil.

4 He appointed some of the Levites before the ark of the Lord to minister, to remember his works, and to glorify and praise the Lord God of Israel:

5 Asaph the leader, with Zechariah second to him; then Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Mattithiah, Eliab, Benaiah, and Obed-edom. Jehiel was over the instruments of harp and lyres, while Asaph sounded the cymbals.

6 The priests Benaiah and Jahaziel continually sounded the trumpet before the ark of the Lord's covenant.

7 On that day David first appointed Asaph and his brothers to confess to the Lord:

8 Give praise to the Lord and invoke his name; make his inventions known among the peoples.

9 Sing to him and make melody to him; recount all his wonders.

10 Praise his holy name; let the heart of those seeking the Lord rejoice.

11 Seek the Lord and his strength; seek his face always.

12 Remember his wonders that he has done, his signs, and the judgments of his mouth,

13 O seed of Israel his servant, sons of Jacob his chosen one.

14 He is the Lord our God; his judgments are in all the earth.

15 Remember his pact forever, the word he commanded for one thousand generations,

16 which he struck with Abraham, and his oath with Isaac.

17 He established it for Jacob as a precept, and for Israel as an everlasting pact,

18 saying, "To you I shall give the land of Canaan, the measuring line of your inheritance," 19 when they were few in number, little and sojourners within it.

20 They passed from nation to nation and from one kingdom to another people.

21 He permitted no one to oppress them but rebuked kings for their sake:

22 "Do not touch my christs, and do not act wickedly against my prophets."

23 Sing to the Lord, all the earth; announce his salvation from day to day.

24 Recount his glory among the nations, his wonders among all peoples.

25 For the Lord is great and exceedingly worthy of praise, and terrible above all gods.

26 For all the gods of the peoples are idols, but the Lord made the heavens.

27 Confession and magnificence are before him; strength and joy are in his place.

28 Bring to the Lord, O families of the peoples; bring to the Lord glory and dominion.

29 Give glory to the Lord. Lift up sacrifice to his name and come into his sight; adore the Lord in holy beauty.

30 Let all the earth be moved before his face, for he founded the world immovable.

31 Let the heavens rejoice and the earth exult, and let them say among the nations, "The Lord has reigned."

32 Let the sea and its fullness thunder; let the fields exult and everything in them.

33 Then the trees of the forest shall praise before the Lord, for he comes to judge the earth.

34 Give praise to the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is forever.

35 And say, “Save us, O God our savior; gather us and rescue us from the nations, so that we may confess your holy name and exult in your songs.

36 Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, from eternity to eternity.” And let all the people say, “Amen,” and a hymn to the Lord.

37 Therefore he left Asaph and his brothers there before the ark of the Lord’s covenant so that they might minister in the sight of the ark continually, each day and according to their divisions.

38 He appointed Obed-edom and his sixty-eight brothers, Obed-edom son of Jeduthun, and Hosah as gatekeepers.

39 He appointed Zadok the priest and his brothers the priests before the tabernacle of the Lord at the high place that was in Gibeon,

40 so that they might offer holocausts to the Lord continually upon the altar of holocaust, morning and evening, according to everything written in the law of the Lord that he commanded Israel.

41 After him were Heman, Jeduthun, and the remaining chosen men, each called by his own name to confess to the Lord, for his mercy is forever.

42 Heman and Jeduthun sang with trumpets, struck cymbals and every musical instrument to sing to God, while he made the sons of Jeduthun gatekeepers.

43 All the people returned to their own houses, and David returned to bless his own house also.

CHAPTER 17

1 Now when David dwelt in his house, he said to Nathan the prophet, “Behold, I dwell in a house of cedar, but the ark of the Lord’s covenant is beneath skins.”

2 Nathan said to David, “Do everything that is in your heart, for God is with you.”

3 Therefore that night the word of God came to Nathan, saying,

4 “Go and speak to David my servant: Thus says the Lord: You shall not build me a house to dwell in.

5 For I have not remained in a house from the time I led Israel out to this day, but I was always changing places of the tabernacle and remaining in a tent

6 with all Israel. Did I ever speak to even one of the judges of Israel, whom I commanded to pasture my people, and say, ‘Why have you not built me a house of cedar?’

7 Now, therefore, you shall speak thus to my servant David: Thus says the Lord of hosts: I took you when you followed the flock in the pastures, so that you would be leader of my people Israel.

8 I was with you wherever you went, killed all your enemies before you, and made for you a name like that of one of the great men celebrated upon the earth.

9 I gave a place to my people Israel. It shall be planted and shall dwell there and shall no longer be moved, nor shall the sons of iniquity crush them as at the beginning,

10 from the days when I gave judges to my people Israel and humbled all your enemies. Therefore I announce to you that the Lord shall build a house for you.

11 When you have fulfilled your days and gone to your fathers, I shall raise up your seed after you, who shall be from your sons, and I shall establish his kingdom.

12 He shall build me a house, and I shall establish his throne forever.

13 I shall be a father to him, and he shall be a son to me. I shall not take my mercy away from him as I took it away from the one who was before you.

14 I shall establish him in my house and in my kingdom forever, and his throne shall be most firm perpetually.”

15 According to all these words and according to this entire vision, so Nathan spoke to David.

16 When King David came and sat before the Lord, he said, “Who am I, O Lord God, and what is my house, that you should grant me such things?

17 But even this seemed little in your sight, and therefore you spoke concerning the house of your servant even into the future, and you made me remarkable above all men, O Lord God.

18 What more can David add, when you have thus glorified your servant and known him?

19 O Lord, for the sake of your servant, according to your heart, you have done all this magnificence and willed that all these great things be known.

20 O Lord, there is no one like you, and there is no other God besides you among all those of whom we have heard with our ears.

21 For what other nation upon the earth is like your people Israel, to whom God went to deliver and make a people for himself, and by his greatness and terrors cast out nations before the face of the one whom he had delivered from Egypt?

22 You established your people Israel as your people forever, and you, O Lord, became their God.

23 Now, therefore, O Lord, let the word you spoke to your servant and concerning his house be confirmed perpetually, and do as you have spoken.

24 Let your name remain and be magnified forever, and let it be said, ‘The Lord of hosts is the God of Israel, and the house of David his servant remains before him.’

25 For you, O Lord my God, revealed to the ear of your servant that you would build him a house. For this reason your servant has found confidence to pray before you.

26 Now, therefore, O Lord, you are God, and you have spoken such great benefits to your servant.

27 You have begun to bless the house of your servant so that it may always be before you, for when you, O Lord, bless it, it shall be blessed forever.”

CHAPTER 18

1 After these things, David struck the Philistines and humbled them, and he took Gath and its daughters from the hand of the Philistines.

2 He also struck Moab, and the Moabites became David's servants, offering him gifts.

3 At that time David also struck Hadadezer, king of Zobah in the region of Hamath, when he went to extend his dominion as far as the river Euphrates.

4 Therefore David captured one thousand of his chariots, seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand foot soldiers. He hamstrung all the chariot horses except those for one hundred chariots, which he reserved for himself.

5 The Syrian of Damascus also came to give aid to Hadadezer, king of Zobah, but David struck twenty-two thousand of his men as well.

6 He placed soldiers in Damascus so that Syria would also serve him and offer gifts. The Lord helped him in everything to which he went.

7 David also took the golden quivers that Hadadezer's servants had and brought them to Jerusalem.

8 From Hadadezer's cities Tibhath and Cun he also took exceedingly much bronze, from which Solomon made the bronze sea, the pillars, and the bronze vessels.

9 When Tou, king of Hamath, heard that David had struck the entire army of Hadadezer, king of Zobah,

10 he sent Hadoram his son to King David to ask peace from him and congratulate him because he had struck and defeated Hadadezer, for Hadadezer was Tou's adversary.

11 King David also consecrated to the Lord all the vessels of gold, silver, and bronze, together with the silver and gold he had taken from all the nations: from Edom, Moab, the children of Ammon, the Philistines, and Amalek.

12 Abishai son of Zeruiah struck eighteen thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt.

13 He established a garrison in Edom so that Edom would serve David, and the Lord saved David in everything to which he went.

14 Therefore David reigned over all Israel and did judgment and justice for all his people.

15 Joab son of Zeruiah was over the army, and Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud was the recorder.

16 Zadok son of Ahitub and Ahimelech son of Abiathar were priests, and Shavsha was scribe.

17 Benaiah son of Jehoiada was over the companies of Cherethites and Pelethites, while David's sons were first at the king's hand.

CHAPTER 19

1 Now it happened that Nahash, king of the children of Ammon, died, and his son reigned in his place.

2 David said, “I shall show mercy to Hanun son of Nahash, for his father granted me favor.” David sent messengers to console him concerning his father’s death. When they reached the land of the children of Ammon to console Hanun,

3 the leaders of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, “Perhaps you think David sent men to console you for the sake of honoring your father. Do you not perceive that his servants have come to you to explore, investigate, and search your land?”

4 Therefore Hanun made David’s servants bald, shaved them, cut their tunics from the buttocks to the feet, and sent them away.

5 When they departed and sent word of this to David, he sent to meet them, for they had endured great disgrace, and commanded them to remain in Jericho until their beards grew and then return.

6 When the children of Ammon saw that they had injured David, Hanun and the remaining people sent one thousand talents of silver to hire chariots and horsemen for themselves from Mesopotamia, Syria-maacah, and Zobah.

7 They hired thirty-two thousand chariots and the king of Maacah with his people. When they came, they encamped opposite Medeba. The children of Ammon also gathered from their cities and came to battle.

8 When David heard this, he sent Joab and the entire army of strong men.

9 The children of Ammon went out and formed a battle line beside the city gate, while the kings who had come to their aid stood separately in the field.

10 Therefore Joab, understanding that battle was against him both in front and behind, chose the strongest men from all Israel and went against the Syrian.

11 He placed the remaining part of the people under the hand of Abishai his brother, and they went against the children of Ammon.

12 He said, “If the Syrian overcomes me, you shall be my help. But if the children of Ammon overpower you, I shall be your protection.

13 Be strengthened, and let us act manfully for our people and for the cities of our God. But the Lord shall do what is good in his sight.”

14 Therefore Joab and the people with him went against the Syrian in battle and put them to flight.

15 When the children of Ammon saw that the Syrian had fled, they also fled from Abishai his brother and entered the city. Joab then returned to Jerusalem.

16 When the Syrian saw that he had fallen before Israel, he sent messengers and brought the Syrian who was beyond the river. Shophach, commander of Hadadezer’s army, was their leader.

17 When this was reported to David, he gathered all Israel, crossed the Jordan, rushed upon them, and formed a battle line opposite them as they fought against him.

18 The Syrian fled from Israel, and David killed from the Syrians seven thousand chariots and forty thousand foot soldiers, as well as Shophach, commander of the army.

19 When Hadadezer’s servants saw that they had been overcome by Israel, they deserted to David and served him. Syria was no longer willing to give aid to the children of Ammon.

CHAPTER 20

1 After the year's cycle, at the time when kings are accustomed to go out to war, Joab gathered the army and the strength of the military and devastated the land of the children of Ammon. He went and besieged Rabbah. David remained in Jerusalem when Joab struck Rabbah and destroyed it.

2 David took the crown of Milcom from his head and found in it a talent's weight of gold and exceedingly precious gems, from which he made a diadem for himself. He also took exceedingly great spoils from the city.

3 He brought out the people who were in it and caused threshing sledges, drags, and iron-shod carts to pass over them so that they were cut apart and crushed. So David did to all the cities of the children of Ammon, and he returned with all his people to Jerusalem.

4 After these things, battle was begun against the Philistines at Gezer. In it Sibbecai the Hushathite struck Sippai from the stock of Rephaim and humbled them.

5 Another battle was waged against the Philistines, in which Adeodatus son of Saltus the Bethlehemite struck the brother of Goliath the Gittite, whose spear shaft was like a weaver's beam.

6 Yet another battle happened at Gath, in which there was an exceedingly tall man having six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, twenty-four together. He also had been born from the stock of Rapha.

7 He blasphemed Israel, and Jonathan son of Shimea, David's brother, struck him. These are the sons of Rapha in Gath who fell by the hand of David and his servants.

CHAPTER 21

1 Satan rose against Israel and incited David to number Israel.

2 David said to Joab and the leaders of the people, “Go and number Israel from Beersheba as far as Dan. Bring me the number so that I may know it.”

3 Joab answered, “May the Lord increase his people one hundred times beyond what they are. Are not all of them your servants, my lord king? Why does my lord seek this, which may be reckoned as sin to Israel?”

4 But the king’s word prevailed. Joab went out, traveled around all Israel, and returned to Jerusalem.

5 He gave David the number of those among whom he had traveled. The entire number of Israel was found to be one million one hundred thousand men drawing the sword, while from Judah there were four hundred seventy thousand warriors.

6 But he did not number Levi and Benjamin, because Joab executed the king’s command unwillingly.

7 What had been commanded displeased God, and he struck Israel.

8 David said to God, “I have sinned exceedingly by doing this. I implore you, take away your servant’s iniquity, for I have acted foolishly.”

9 The Lord spoke to Gad, David’s seer, saying,

10 “Go and speak to David, and say to him: Thus says the Lord: I give you a choice of three things. Choose the one you wish, and I shall do it to you.”

11 When Gad came to David, he said to him, “Thus says the Lord: Choose what you wish:

12 either famine for three years; or for three months to flee your enemies and be unable to escape their sword; or for three days the sword of the Lord and pestilence raging through the land, with the angel of the Lord killing throughout all the borders of Israel. Now, therefore, see what I should answer the one who sent me.”

13 David said to Gad, “Distress presses me on every side. But it is better for me to fall into the hands of the Lord, because his compassions are many, than into human hands.”

14 Therefore the Lord sent pestilence into Israel, and seventy thousand men from Israel fell.

15 He also sent an angel into Jerusalem to strike it. As it was being struck, the Lord saw and had mercy because of the magnitude of the evil. He commanded the angel who was striking, “It is enough. Now let your hand cease.” The angel of the Lord stood beside the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

16 David lifted his eyes and saw the angel of the Lord standing between heaven and earth, with a drawn sword in his hand turned against Jerusalem. He and the elders, clothed in sackcloth, fell prostrate upon the ground.

17 David said to God, “Was it not I who commanded that the people be numbered? I am the one who sinned; I am the one who did evil. What has this flock deserved? O Lord my God, I implore you, let your hand be turned against me and my father’s house, but let your people not be struck.”

18 The angel of the Lord commanded Gad to tell David to go up and build an altar to the Lord God on the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

19 Therefore David went up according to the word of Gad that he had spoken to him in the name of the Lord.

20 When Ornan looked up and saw the angel, he and his four sons hid themselves, for at that time he was threshing wheat upon the floor.

21 When David came to Ornan, Ornan saw him, went out from the threshing floor to meet him, and adored him, prostrate upon the ground.

22 David said to him, “Give me the place of your threshing floor so that I may build an altar to the Lord upon it. Receive as much silver as it is worth, so that the plague may cease from the people.”

23 Ornan said to David, “Take it, and let my lord king do whatever pleases him. I also give oxen for a holocaust, the threshing sledges for wood, and wheat for sacrifice. I shall freely provide everything.”

24 King David said to him, “By no means shall it be so, but I shall give as much silver as it is worth, for I ought neither to take what is yours nor thus offer to the Lord gratuitous holocausts.”

25 Therefore David gave Ornan six hundred shekels of gold of the most just weight for the place.

26 He built an altar to the Lord there, offered holocausts and peace offerings, and invoked the Lord. The Lord heard him with fire from heaven upon the altar of holocaust.

27 The Lord commanded the angel, and he returned his sword into its sheath.

28 Therefore immediately, when David saw that the Lord had heard him upon the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite, he sacrificed victims there.

29 But the tabernacle of the Lord that Moses had made in the wilderness and the altar of holocausts were at that time upon the high place at Gibeon.

30 David was unable to go to the altar to implore God there, for he had been terrified with exceedingly great fear when he saw the sword of the angel of the Lord.

CHAPTER 22

1 David said, “This is the house of God, and this is the altar for Israel’s holocaust.”

2 He commanded that all the proselytes from the land of Israel be gathered, and from among them he appointed stonecutters to hew and polish stones, so that the house of God might be built.

3 David also prepared iron in great abundance for the nails of the doors and for their fastenings and joints, and bronze beyond weighing.

4 The cedar timbers could not be valued, for the Sidonians and Tyrians had brought them to David.

5 David said, “My son Solomon is a young and tender boy, but the house that I desire to have built for the Lord ought to be such that it will be renowned in every region. Therefore I shall prepare what he needs.” And for this reason, before his death, he prepared all the expenditures.

6 He called Solomon his son and commanded him to build a house for the Lord God of Israel.

7 David said to Solomon, “My son, it was my will to build a house for the name of the Lord my God,

8 but the word of the Lord came to me, saying: ‘You have shed much blood and fought very many wars. You will not be able to build a house for my name, because so much blood has been shed before me.

9 A son who will be born to you shall be a most peaceful man, for I shall cause him to rest from all his enemies round about. For this reason he shall be called Peaceful, and I shall give peace and repose in Israel throughout all his days.

10 He shall build a house for my name. He shall be a son to me, and I shall be a father to him; and I shall establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel forever.’

11 Now therefore, my son, may the Lord be with you. Prosper, and build the house for the Lord your God, just as he has spoken concerning you.

12 May the Lord also give you prudence and understanding, so that you may be able to govern Israel and keep the law of the Lord your God.

13 For then you will be able to prosper, if you keep the commandments and judgments that the Lord commanded Moses to teach Israel. Be strengthened and act manfully. Do not fear, and do not be dismayed.

14 Behold, in my poverty I have prepared the expenditures for the house of the Lord: one hundred thousand talents of gold and one million talents of silver. Of bronze and iron there is no weight, for their number is overcome by their magnitude. I have prepared timber and stones for every expenditure.

15 You also have very many craftsmen: stonecutters, masons, woodworkers, and men most skilled in every craft for accomplishing the work,

16 in gold and silver and bronze and iron, of which there is no number. Arise, therefore, and act, and the Lord will be with you.”

17 David also commanded all the princes of Israel to help Solomon his son,

18 saying, “You perceive that the Lord your God is with you, that he has given you rest round about, that he has delivered all your enemies into your hands, and that the land has been subjected before the Lord and before his people.

19 Therefore give your hearts and your souls to seeking the Lord your God. Arise and build a sanctuary for the Lord God, so that the ark of the covenant of the Lord and the vessels consecrated to the Lord may be brought into the house that is being built for the name of the Lord.”

CHAPTER 23

1 Therefore David, old and full of days, appointed Solomon his son king over Israel.

2 He gathered all the princes of Israel, the priests, and the Levites.

3 The Levites from thirty years old and upward were numbered, and thirty-eight thousand men were found.

4 From these, twenty-four thousand were chosen and distributed for the ministry of the house of the Lord, while six thousand were overseers and judges.

5 Moreover, four thousand were gatekeepers, and the same number were psalmists, singing to the Lord with the instruments that David had made for singing.

6 David distributed them by divisions among the sons of Levi, namely Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

7 The sons of Gershon: Laadan and Shimei.

8 The sons of Laadan: Jehiel the chief, Zethan, and Joel—three.

9 The sons of Shimei: Shelomith, Hosiel, and Haran—three. These were the chiefs of the families of Laadan.

10 Moreover, the sons of Shimei: Jahath, Ziza, Jeush, and Beriah. These were the four sons of Shimei.

11 Jahath was the first, and Ziza the second. But Jeush and Beriah did not have many sons, and therefore they were counted as one family and one house.

12 The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel—four.

13 The sons of Amram: Aaron and Moses. Aaron was set apart so that he and his sons might minister in the Holy of Holies forever, burn incense to the Lord according to his rite, and bless his name perpetually.

14 The sons of Moses, the man of God, were also numbered in the tribe of Levi.

15 The sons of Moses: Gershom and Eliezer.

16 The sons of Gershom: Shebuel the first.

17 The sons of Eliezer: Rehabiah the first. Eliezer had no other sons, but the sons of Rehabiah multiplied exceedingly.

18 The sons of Izhar: Shelomith the first.

19 The sons of Hebron: Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth.

20 The sons of Uzziel: Micah the first and Isshiah the second.

21 The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli: Eleazar and Kish.

22 Eleazar died and had no sons, but only daughters; and the sons of Kish, their brothers, took them as wives.

23 The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jeremoth—three.

24 These were the sons of Levi according to their kindreds and families, chiefs by their divisions and the number of individual heads who performed the works of the ministry of the house of the Lord, from twenty years old and upward.

25 For David said, “The Lord God of Israel has given rest to his people and a dwelling in Jerusalem forever.

26 Nor shall it any longer be the duty of the Levites to carry the tabernacle and all its vessels for ministry.”

27 According to David’s last commands, therefore, the sons of Levi were to be numbered from twenty years old and upward.

28 They were to be under the hand of the sons of Aaron for the service of the house of the Lord: in the vestibules, in the chambers, in the place of purification, in the sanctuary, and in all the works of the ministry of the temple of the Lord.

29 The priests, however, were over the bread of proposition, the sacrifice of fine flour, the unleavened cakes, the frying pan, the roasting, and every weight and measure.

30 The Levites were to stand in the morning to confess and sing to the Lord, and likewise in the evening,

31 both at the offering of the Lord’s holocausts and on Sabbaths, new moons, and the remaining solemnities, according to the number and ceremonies of each observance, continually before the Lord.

32 They were to keep the observances of the tabernacle of the covenant, the rite of the sanctuary, and the observance of the sons of Aaron their brothers, so that they might minister in the house of the Lord.

CHAPTER 24

1 Now these were the divisions of the sons of Aaron. The sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

2 Nadab and Abihu died before their father without children, and Eleazar and Ithamar exercised the priesthood.

3 David divided them—that is, Zadok from the sons of Eleazar and Ahimelech from the sons of Ithamar—according to their divisions and ministry.

4 Many more chief men were found among the sons of Eleazar than among the sons of Ithamar. Therefore he divided them: for the sons of Eleazar, sixteen chiefs by their families; and for the sons of Ithamar, eight by their families and houses.

5 He divided both families among themselves by lots, for there were princes of the sanctuary and princes of God both from the sons of Eleazar and from the sons of Ithamar.

6 Shemaiah son of Nethanel, the Levite scribe, recorded them before the king and the princes, Zadok the priest, Ahimelech son of Abiathar, and the chiefs of the priestly and Levitical families: one house of Eleazar, which presided over the others, and another house of Ithamar, which had the others under it.

7 The first lot came out for Jehoiarib; the second, for Jedaiah;

8 the third, for Harim; the fourth, for Seorim;

9 the fifth, for Malchijah; the sixth, for Mijamin;

10 the seventh, for Hakkoz; the eighth, for Abijah;

11 the ninth, for Jeshua; the tenth, for Shecaniah;

12 the eleventh, for Eliashib; the twelfth, for Jakim;

13 the thirteenth, for Huppah; the fourteenth, for Jeshebeab;

14 the fifteenth, for Bilgah; the sixteenth, for Immer;

15 the seventeenth, for Hezir; the eighteenth, for Happizzez;

16 the nineteenth, for Pethahiah; the twentieth, for Jehezkel;

17 the twenty-first, for Jachin; the twenty-second, for Gamul;

18 the twenty-third, for Delaiah; the twenty-fourth, for Maaziah.

19 These were their divisions according to their ministries, so that they might enter the house of the Lord according to their rite under the hand of Aaron their father, just as the Lord God of Israel had commanded.

20 Now of the remaining sons of Levi: from the sons of Amram was Shubael, and from the sons of Shubael, Jehdeiah.

21 From the sons of Rehabiah, the chief was Isshiah.

22 The son of Izhar was Shelomoth, and the son of Shelomoth was Jahath.

23 His sons: Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth.

24 The son of Uzziel was Micah; the son of Micah, Shamir.

25 Micah’s brother was Isshiah, and the son of Isshiah was Zechariah.

26 The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. The son of Uzziah: Beno.

27 Also the sons of Merari: Uzziah, Shoham, Zaccur, and Ibri.

28 The son of Mahli was Eleazar, who had no children.

29 The son of Kish was Jerahmeel.

30 The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jeremoth. These were the sons of Levi according to the houses of their families.

31 They also cast lots over against their brothers, the sons of Aaron, before King David, Zadok, Ahimelech, and the chiefs of the priestly and Levitical families. The lot divided all equally, the greater as well as the lesser.

CHAPTER 25

1 Therefore David and the commanders of the army set apart for the ministry the sons of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, who were to prophesy with harps, psalteries, and cymbals, serving in the office appointed to them according to their number.

2 From the sons of Asaph: Zaccur, Joseph, Nethaniah, and Asarelah, sons of Asaph, under the hand of Asaph, who prophesied according to the king.

3 Of Jeduthun: the sons of Jeduthun, Gedaliah, Zeri, Jeshaiah, Hashabiah, and Mattithiah—six—under the hand of their father Jeduthun, who prophesied with the harp over those confessing and praising the Lord.

4 Of Heman: the sons of Heman, Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shubael, Jeremoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, Romamti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth.

5 All these were sons of Heman, the king's seer in the words of God, to exalt the horn. God gave Heman fourteen sons and three daughters.

6 All these were distributed under the hand of their father to sing in the temple of the Lord with cymbals, psalteries, and harps, for the ministries of the house of the Lord, according to the king—namely Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman.

7 Their number, together with their brothers who taught the song of the Lord—all teachers—was two hundred eighty-eight.

8 They cast lots for their divisions equally, the greater as well as the lesser, the learned together with the unlearned.

9 The first lot came out for Joseph, who was of Asaph. The second, for Gedaliah, he and his sons and his brothers—twelve.

10 The third, for Zaccur, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

11 The fourth, for Izri, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

12 The fifth, for Nethaniah, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

13 The sixth, for Bukkiah, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

14 The seventh, for Jesharelah, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

15 The eighth, for Jeshaiah, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

16 The ninth, for Mattaniah, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

17 The tenth, for Shimei, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

18 The eleventh, for Azarel, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

19 The twelfth, for Hashabiah, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

20 The thirteenth, for Shubael, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

21 The fourteenth, for Mattithiah, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

22 The fifteenth, for Jeremoth, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

23 The sixteenth, for Hananiah, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

24 The seventeenth, for Joshbekashah, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

25 The eighteenth, for Hanani, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

26 The nineteenth, for Mallothi, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

27 The twentieth, for Eliathah, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

28 The twenty-first, for Hothir, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

29 The twenty-second, for Giddalti, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

30 The twenty-third, for Mahazioth, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

31 The twenty-fourth, for Romamti-ezer, his sons and his brothers—twelve.

CHAPTER 26

1 Now the divisions of the gatekeepers: from the Korahites, Meshelemiah son of Kore, from the sons of Asaph.

2 The sons of Meshelemiah: Zechariah the firstborn, Jediael the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth,

3 Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, and Eliehoenai the seventh.

4 The sons of Obed-edom: Shemaiah the firstborn, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, Sachar the fourth, Nethanel the fifth,

5 Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, and Peullethai the eighth, because the Lord had blessed him.

6 Sons were also born to his son Shemaiah, governors of their families, for they were exceedingly valiant men.

7 The sons of Shemaiah: Othni, Raphael, Obed, and Elzabad; his brothers Elihu and Semachiah were also exceedingly valiant men.

8 All these were from the sons of Obed-edom. They, their sons, and their brothers were exceedingly strong for ministry—sixty-two from Obed-edom.

9 Meshelemiah's sons and their brothers, who were exceptionally strong, were eighteen.

10 From Hosah—that is, from the sons of Merari—Shimri was the chief. Although he had not been the firstborn, his father had therefore appointed him chief.

11 Hilkiah was the second, Tebaliah the third, and Zechariah the fourth. All these sons and brothers of Hosah were thirteen.

12 These were divided as gatekeepers, so that the chiefs of the watches, like their brothers, might minister continually in the house of the Lord.

13 Lots were therefore cast equally for small and great, according to their families, for each one of the gates.

14 The eastern lot fell to Shelemiah. For his son Zechariah, a most prudent and learned man, the northern quarter came out by lot.

15 For Obed-edom and his sons, the south, in which quarter was the house of the council of elders.

16 For Shuppim and Hosah, the west, beside the gate that leads to the ascending road, watch opposite watch.

17 On the east there were six Levites; on the north, four each day; and on the south, likewise four each day; and where the council was, two and two.

18 At the gatekeepers' cells on the west, four on the road and two at each cell.

19 These were the divisions of the gatekeepers from the sons of Kore and Merari.

20 Now Ahijah was over the treasuries of the house of God and the sacred vessels.

21 The sons of Laadan, the sons of Gershon: from Laadan, the chiefs of the families of Laadan and Gershon were the Jehielites.

22 The sons of Jehiel: Zetham and Joel his brother, over the treasuries of the house of the Lord.

23 Of the Amramites, Izharites, Hebronites, and Uzzielites,

24 Shubael son of Gershom, son of Moses, was governor over the treasuries.

25 His brothers descended from Eliezer, whose son was Rehabiah, whose son was Jeshaiah, whose son was Joram, whose son was Zichri, whose son was Shelomith.

26 This Shelomith and his brothers were over the treasuries of the sacred things that King David, the chiefs of the families, the commanders of thousands and hundreds, and the commanders of the army had consecrated 27 from the wars and the spoils of battles, which they had dedicated for the restoration and furnishing of the temple of the Lord.

28 Samuel the seer, Saul son of Kish, Abner son of Ner, and Joab son of Zeruiah had consecrated all these things. Everything anyone had consecrated was under the hand of Shelomith and his brothers.

29 Chenaniah was over the Izharites, and he and his sons were appointed to the external works over Israel, to teach and judge them.

30 From the Hebronites, Hashabiah and his brothers—one thousand seven hundred exceedingly valiant men—were over Israel beyond the Jordan toward the west, in all the works of the Lord and in the ministry of the king.

31 Jeriah was the chief of the Hebronites according to their families and kindreds. In the fortieth year of David's reign they were reviewed, and exceedingly valiant men were found at Jazer of Gilead.

32 His brothers of more mature age, two thousand seven hundred chiefs of families, were strong men. King David appointed them over the Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh for every ministry of God and the king.

CHAPTER 27

1 Now the sons of Israel according to their number—the chiefs of families, commanders of thousands and hundreds, and officers who ministered to the king according to their companies, entering and departing month by month throughout the year—each governed twenty-four thousand.

2 Jashobeam son of Zabdiel was over the first company in the first month, and under him were twenty-four thousand.

3 He was from the sons of Perez, the chief of all the commanders in the army for the first month.

4 Dodai the Ahohite had the company of the second month, and after him was another named Mikloth, who governed a portion of the army of twenty-four thousand.

5 The commander of the third company in the third month was Benaiah son of Jehoiada the priest, and in his division were twenty-four thousand.

6 This is the Benaiah who was most valiant among the Thirty and over the Thirty; but his son Ammizabad presided over his company.

7 The fourth, for the fourth month, was Asahel brother of Joab, and after him his son Zebadiah; in his company were twenty-four thousand.

8 The fifth, for the fifth month, was the commander Shamhuth the Izrahite; in his company were twenty-four thousand.

9 The sixth, for the sixth month, was Ira son of Ikkesh the Tekoite; in his company were twenty-four thousand.

10 The seventh, for the seventh month, was Helez the Pelonite from the sons of Ephraim; in his company were twenty-four thousand.

11 The eighth, for the eighth month, was Sibbecai the Hushathite from the stock of the Zerahites; in his company were twenty-four thousand.

12 The ninth, for the ninth month, was Abiezer the Anathothite from the sons of Benjamin; in his company were twenty-four thousand.

13 The tenth, for the tenth month, was Maharai the Netophathite from the stock of the Zerahites; in his company were twenty-four thousand.

14 The eleventh, for the eleventh month, was Benaiah the Pirathonite from the sons of Ephraim; in his company were twenty-four thousand.

15 The twelfth, for the twelfth month, was Heldai the Netophathite from the stock of Othniel; in his company were twenty-four thousand.

16 Now over the tribes of Israel: over the Reubenites, Eliezer son of Zichri was commander; over the Simeonites, Shephatiah son of Maacah;

17 over the Levites, Hashabiah son of Kemuel; over the Aaronites, Zadok;

18 over Judah, Elihu brother of David; over Issachar, Omri son of Michael;

19 over the Zebulunites, Ishmaiah son of Obadiah; over the Naphtalites, Jeremoth son of Azriel;

20 over the sons of Ephraim, Hoshea son of Azaziah; over the half-tribe of Manasseh, Joel son of Pedaiah;

21 over the half-tribe of Manasseh in Gilead, Iddo son of Zechariah; over Benjamin, Jaasiel son of Abner;

22 and over Dan, Azarel son of Jeroham. These were the chiefs of the sons of Israel.

23 But David was unwilling to number those from twenty years old and under, because the Lord had said that he would multiply Israel like the stars of heaven.

24 Joab son of Zeruiah had begun to number them but did not finish, because wrath had fallen upon Israel over this. Therefore the number of those who had been counted was not entered in the chronicles of King David.

25 Over the king’s treasuries was Azmaveth son of Adiel. Jonathan son of Uzziah presided over the treasuries that were in the cities, villages, and towers.

26 Ezri son of Chelub was over the rural work and the farmers who cultivated the land.

27 Shimei the Ramathite was over the cultivators of the vineyards, and Zabdi the Shiphmite was over the wine cellars.

28 Baal-hanan the Gederite was over the olive groves and fig groves in the plains, and Joash was over the storehouses of oil.

29 Shitrai the Sharonite was appointed over the herds pastured in Sharon, and Shaphat son of Adli was over the oxen in the valleys.

30 Obil the Ishmaelite was over the camels, and Jehdeiah the Meronothite was over the donkeys.

31 Jaziz the Hagarite was also over the sheep. All these were chiefs over King David’s substance.

32 Jonathan, David’s paternal uncle, was a counselor, a prudent and learned man. He and Jehiel son of Hachmoni were with the king’s sons.

33 Ahithophel was also the king’s counselor, and Hushai the Archite was the king’s friend.

34 After Ahithophel were Jehoiada son of Benaiah and Abiathar. Joab was the commander of the king’s army.

CHAPTER 28

1 Therefore David summoned all the princes of Israel, the leaders of the tribes, the officers of the companies who ministered to the king, the commanders of thousands and hundreds, those who were over the king's substance and possessions, his sons with the eunuchs, and every mighty and exceptionally strong man in the army at Jerusalem.

2 When the king had risen and stood, he said, "Hear me, my brothers and my people. I considered building a house in which the ark of the covenant of the Lord might rest, and which would be the footstool of our God; and I prepared everything for building it.

3 But God said to me, 'You shall not build a house for my name, because you are a man of war and have shed blood.'

4 Yet the Lord God of Israel chose me from all my father's house to be king over Israel forever. For from Judah he chose the princes; from the house of Judah, my father's house; and from among my father's sons, it pleased him to choose me as king over all Israel.

5 And from among my sons—for the Lord has given me many sons—he chose Solomon my son to sit upon the throne of the kingdom of the Lord over Israel.

6 He said to me, 'Solomon your son shall build my house and my courts, for I have chosen him to be my son, and I shall be a father to him.

7 I shall establish his kingdom forever, if he perseveres in carrying out my commandments and judgments, as he does today.'

8 Now therefore, before the whole assembly of Israel and in the hearing of our God, keep and diligently search all the commandments of the Lord our God, so that you may possess the good land and leave it to your children after you forever.

9 And you, Solomon my son, know the God of your father and serve him with a perfect heart and a willing soul, for the Lord searches all hearts and understands every thought of the mind. If you seek him, you will find him; but if you forsake him, he will cast you away forever.

10 Now therefore, because the Lord has chosen you to build the house of the sanctuary, be strengthened and complete it."

11 David gave Solomon his son the description of the portico, the temple, the storerooms, the upper chamber, the inner rooms, and the house of propitiation,

12 as well as of everything he had conceived for the courts and the chambers round about, for the treasuries of the house of the Lord and the treasuries of the sacred things,

13 for the priestly and Levitical divisions, for all the works of the house of the Lord, and for every vessel of the ministry of the temple of the Lord.

14 He gave gold by weight for every vessel of ministry, and likewise a weight of silver according to the diversity of the vessels and works.

15 For the golden lampstands and their lamps, he gave gold according to the measure of each lampstand and its lamps. Likewise, for the silver lampstands and their lamps, he gave a weight of silver according to their differing measure.

16 He also gave gold for the tables of proposition according to the diversity of the tables, and likewise silver for the other silver tables.

17 For the forks, bowls, and censers of purest gold, he apportioned a weight according to the measure of each golden little lion; likewise, he set apart a differing weight of silver for each silver lion.

18 For the altar upon which incense was burned, he gave purest gold, so that from it might be made the likeness of the chariot of the cherubim extending their wings and veiling the ark of the covenant of the Lord.

19 "All these things," he said, "came to me written by the hand of the Lord, so that I might understand all the works of the pattern."

20 David also said to Solomon his son, "Act manfully, be strengthened, and do it. Do not fear and do not be dismayed, for the Lord my God will be with you. He will neither dismiss nor forsake you until you complete every work for the ministry of the house of the Lord.

21 Behold, the divisions of the priests and Levites stand ready for every ministry of the house of the Lord. Both the princes and the people are prepared and know how to carry out all your commands."

CHAPTER 29

1 King David spoke to the whole assembly: “God has chosen Solomon my son alone, while he is still a young and tender boy. Yet the work is great, for a habitation is being prepared not for a human being, but for God.

2 With all my strength I have prepared the expenditures for the house of my God: gold for things of gold, silver for things of silver, bronze for things of bronze, iron for things of iron, timber for things of timber, onyx stones, stones like antimony, stones of diverse colors, every precious stone, and Parian marble in great abundance.

3 Beyond these things that I have offered for the house of my God, I give from my own property gold and silver for the temple of my God, apart from what I prepared for the holy house:

4 three thousand talents of gold from the gold of Ophir and seven thousand talents of the most refined silver for gilding the walls of the temple.

5 Wherever gold is needed, let the work be made of gold; wherever silver is needed, of silver, by the hands of the craftsmen. And if anyone offers willingly, let him fill his hand today and offer whatever he desires to the Lord.”

6 Therefore the chiefs of the families, the nobles of the tribes of Israel, the commanders of thousands and hundreds, and the officers over the king’s possessions made pledges.

7 They gave for the works of the house of God five thousand talents of gold and ten thousand gold coins, ten thousand talents of silver, eighteen thousand talents of bronze, and one hundred thousand talents of iron.

8 Whoever had stones gave them into the treasuries of the house of the Lord through the hand of Jehiel the Gershonite.

9 The people rejoiced when they willingly made their pledges, because with their whole heart they offered them to the Lord. King David also rejoiced with great joy.

10 He blessed the Lord before the whole multitude and said, “Blessed are you, O Lord God of Israel our father, from eternity to eternity.

11 Yours, O Lord, are magnificence, power, glory, and victory, and to you belongs praise. For all things in heaven and on earth are yours. Yours, O Lord, is the kingdom, and you are above all princes.

12 Yours are riches, and yours is glory. You rule over all. In your hand are strength and power; in your hand are greatness and dominion over all.

13 Now therefore, our God, we confess to you and praise your illustrious name.

14 Who am I, and who are my people, that we should be able to pledge all these things to you? All things are yours, and what we have received from your hand we have given to you.

15 For we are pilgrims before you and sojourners, as were all our fathers. Our days are like a shadow upon the earth, and there is no abiding.

16 O Lord our God, all this abundance that we have prepared so that a house might be built for your holy name is from your hand, and all things are yours.

17 I know, my God, that you test hearts and love simplicity. Therefore, in the simplicity of my heart, I also offered all these things joyfully; and with immense joy I have seen your people who are found here offering gifts to you.

18 O Lord, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel our fathers, preserve this desire of their hearts forever, and let this mind remain always in reverence for you.

19 Also give Solomon my son a perfect heart, so that he may keep your commandments, your testimonies, and your ceremonies, and accomplish all things; and may he build the house whose expenditures I have prepared.”

20 David commanded the whole assembly, “Bless the Lord our God.” The whole assembly blessed the Lord, the God of their fathers; and they bowed themselves and adored God, and then the king.

21 They sacrificed victims to the Lord and offered holocausts on the following day: one thousand bulls, one thousand rams, and one thousand lambs with their libations and every rite in the greatest abundance for all Israel.

22 They ate and drank before the Lord on that day with great joy. They anointed Solomon son of David a second time. They anointed him to the Lord as prince and Zadok as high priest.

23 Solomon sat upon the throne of the Lord as king in place of David his father, and he pleased everyone; and all Israel obeyed him.

24 Moreover, all the princes, the mighty men, and all the sons of King David gave their hand and were subject to King Solomon.

25 Therefore the Lord magnified Solomon over all Israel and gave him a glory of kingship such as no king of Israel had possessed before him.

26 Thus David son of Jesse reigned over all Israel.

27 The days during which he reigned over Israel were forty years: he reigned seven years in Hebron and thirty-three years in Jerusalem.

28 He died in a good old age, full of days, riches, and glory; and Solomon his son reigned in his place.

29 The former and latter acts of King David are written in the book of Samuel the seer, the book of Nathan the prophet, and the volume of Gad the seer,

30 together with all his reign and his might, and the times that passed under him, whether in Israel or in all the kingdoms of the lands.

BOOK FOURTEEN: SECOND CHRONICLES

CHAPTER 1

1 Therefore Solomon son of David was strengthened in his kingdom, and the Lord (YHWH) his God was with him and magnified him exceedingly.

2 Solomon commanded all Israel—the commanders of thousands and hundreds, the leaders and judges of all Israel, and the chiefs of the families—

3 and he went with the whole multitude to the high place at Gibeon, where the tabernacle of the covenant of God was, which Moses, servant of God, had made in the wilderness.

4 But David had brought the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim to the place he had prepared for it, where he had pitched a tabernacle for it—that is, in Jerusalem.

5 The bronze altar that Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, had made was also there before the tabernacle of the Lord. Solomon and the whole assembly sought it.

6 Solomon went up to the bronze altar before the tabernacle of the covenant of the Lord and offered one thousand victims upon it.

7 And behold, during that very night God appeared to him, saying, “Ask what you desire, that I may give it to you.”

8 Solomon said to God, “You showed great mercy to David my father and appointed me king in his place.

9 Now therefore, O Lord God, let your word that you promised to David my father be fulfilled, for you have made me king over your numerous people, who are as innumerable as the dust of the earth.

10 Give me wisdom and understanding, so that I may enter and depart before your people. For who can worthily judge this people of yours, who are so great?”

11 God said to Solomon, “Because this pleased your heart more, and you did not ask for riches, substance, or glory, nor the souls of those who hated you, nor even very many days of life, but instead asked for wisdom and knowledge so that you might be able to judge my people over whom I appointed you king,

12 wisdom and knowledge are given to you. I shall also give you riches, substance, and glory, so that no one among the kings before you or after you will have been like you.”

13 Therefore Solomon came from the high place at Gibeon to Jerusalem, before the tabernacle of the covenant, and reigned over Israel.

14 He gathered chariots and horsemen for himself, and he had one thousand four hundred chariots and twelve thousand horsemen. He stationed them in the chariot cities and with the king in Jerusalem.

15 The king made silver and gold as plentiful in Jerusalem as stones, and cedars as plentiful as sycamores that grow in the plains.

16 Horses were brought to him from Egypt and from Coa by the king’s merchants, who went and purchased them for a price:

17 a chariot of horses for six hundred pieces of silver and a horse for one hundred fifty. Purchases were made in the same way from all the kingdoms of the Hittites and from the kings of Syria.

CHAPTER 2

1 Solomon resolved to build a house for the name of the Lord and a palace for himself.

2 He numbered seventy thousand men to carry loads upon their shoulders, eighty thousand to cut stones in the mountains, and three thousand six hundred overseers over them.

3 He also sent to Hiram king of Tyre, saying, “As you dealt with David my father and sent him cedar timber so that he might build himself a house in which he dwelt,

4 deal likewise with me, so that I may build a house for the name of the Lord my God and consecrate it for burning incense before him, for perfuming with aromatics, for the perpetual proposition of the bread, and for holocausts in the morning and evening, on Sabbaths, new moons, and the solemnities of the Lord our God perpetually, which have been commanded to Israel.

5 For the house that I desire to build is great, because our God is great above all gods.

6 Who, therefore, will be able to prevail so as to build him a worthy house? If heaven and the heavens of heavens cannot contain him, who am I that I should be able to build him a house, except only so that incense may be burned before him?

7 Therefore send me a learned man who knows how to work in gold, silver, bronze, iron, purple, scarlet, and violet, and who knows how to carve engravings with the craftsmen I have with me in Judah and Jerusalem, whom David my father prepared.

8 Also send me cedar, juniper, and pine timber from Lebanon, for I know that your servants know how to cut timber from Lebanon. My servants will be with your servants,

9 so that a great abundance of timber may be prepared for me. For the house that I desire to build is exceedingly great and illustrious.

10 Moreover, I shall give your servants, the laborers who will cut the timber, twenty thousand cors of wheat for food, the same number of cors of barley, twenty thousand measures of wine, and twenty thousand sata of oil.”

11 Hiram king of Tyre said in the letter he sent to Solomon, “Because the Lord loved his people, he therefore caused you to reign over them.”

12 He added, saying, “Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, who made heaven and earth and gave King David a wise, learned, sensible, and prudent son, so that he might build a house for the Lord and a palace for himself.

13 Therefore I have sent you a prudent and most knowledgeable man, Hiram my father,

14 the son of a woman from the daughters of Dan, whose father was a Tyrian. He knows how to work in gold, silver, bronze, iron, marble, timber, purple, violet, fine linen, and scarlet. He knows how to carve every engraving and prudently devise whatever is necessary for the work, together with your craftsmen and the craftsmen of my lord David your father.

15 Therefore, my lord, send your servants the wheat, barley, oil, and wine that you promised.

16 We shall cut as much timber from Lebanon as you require and bring it by rafts over the sea to Joppa; but it will be yours to transport it to Jerusalem.”

17 Therefore Solomon numbered all the proselyte men who were in the land of Israel, after the census by which David his father had numbered them, and one hundred fifty-three thousand six hundred were found.

18 From these he made seventy thousand carry burdens upon their shoulders and eighty thousand cut stones in the mountains, while three thousand six hundred were overseers of the people’s works.

CHAPTER 3

1 Solomon began to build the house of the Lord in Jerusalem upon Mount Moriah, which had been shown to David his father, at the place David had prepared on the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

2 He began to build in the second month, in the fourth year of his reign.

3 These are the foundations Solomon laid for building the house of God: sixty cubits in length by the former measure and twenty cubits in width.

4 The portico before the front, extending in length according to the measure of the house's width, was twenty cubits; but its height was one hundred twenty cubits. He gilded its interior with the purest gold.

5 He also paneled the greater house with fir boards and fastened plates of refined gold throughout it; and he carved palms and what appeared to be interlocking chains upon it.

6 He also paved the floor of the temple with exceedingly precious marble, of great beauty.

7 The gold was most refined. With plates made from it he covered the house, its beams, posts, walls, and doors; and he engraved cherubim upon the walls.

8 He also made the house of the Holy of Holies. Its length, corresponding to the width of the house, was twenty cubits, and its width likewise twenty cubits. He covered it with gold plates amounting to about six hundred talents.

9 He also made golden nails, so that each nail weighed fifty shekels; and he covered the upper chambers with gold.

10 In the house of the Holy of Holies he also made two cherubim as sculptured work and covered them with gold.

11 The wings of the cherubim extended twenty cubits: one wing, measuring five cubits, touched the wall of the house, and the other, likewise measuring five cubits, touched the wing of the other cherub.

12 Similarly, one wing of the other cherub measured five cubits and touched the wall, while its other wing, measuring five cubits, touched the wing of the other cherub.

13 Therefore the outspread wings of both cherubim extended twenty cubits. They themselves stood upon their feet, and their faces were turned toward the outer house.

14 He also made the veil from violet, purple, scarlet, and fine linen, and wove cherubim into it.

15 Before the doors of the temple he also made two pillars thirty-five cubits high, while their capitals were five cubits.

16 He also made what appeared to be chains in the oracle and placed them upon the capitals of the pillars, together with one hundred pomegranates that he interspersed among the chains.

17 He placed the pillars in the vestibule of the temple, one on the right and the other on the left. He called the one on the right Jachin and the one on the left Boaz.

CHAPTER 4

1 He also made a bronze altar twenty cubits long, twenty cubits wide, and ten cubits high.

2 He also made a cast sea, circular all around, ten cubits from brim to brim and five cubits high; a cord thirty cubits long encircled its circumference.

3 Beneath it was the likeness of oxen, and certain engravings on its exterior, ten to a cubit, encircled the belly of the sea as though in two rows. The oxen were cast with it.

4 The sea itself was set upon twelve oxen: three faced north, three others west, another three south, and the remaining three east, with the sea set above them. The hindquarters of the oxen were turned inward beneath the sea.

5 Its thickness measured a palm, and its brim was like the brim of a cup or of a curved lily. It held three thousand measures.

6 He also made ten basins and placed five on the right and five on the left, so that everything they were to offer as a holocaust might be washed in them; but the priests washed in the sea.

7 He also made ten golden lampstands according to the form in which they had been commanded to be made and placed them in the temple, five on the right and five on the left.

8 He likewise made ten tables and placed them in the temple, five on the right and five on the left, and also one hundred golden bowls.

9 He also made the court of the priests and the great court, and doors for the court, which he covered with bronze.

10 He placed the sea on the right side, toward the east and facing south.

11 Hiram made cauldrons, fleshhooks, and bowls, and completed all the king’s work in the house of God:

12 namely, the two pillars, the entablatures, the capitals, and what appeared to be nets covering the capitals above the entablatures;

13 also four hundred pomegranates and two nets, so that two rows of pomegranates were joined to each net that covered the entablatures and capitals of the pillars.

14 He also made the bases and the basins that he set upon the bases;

15 the one sea and the twelve oxen beneath the sea;

16 and the cauldrons, fleshhooks, and bowls. Hiram his father made all the vessels for Solomon in the house of the Lord from the purest bronze.

17 The king cast them in the region of the Jordan, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zeredathah.

18 The multitude of vessels was innumerable, so that the weight of the bronze was unknown.

19 Solomon made all the vessels of the house of God: the golden altar; the tables, with the bread of proposition upon them;

20 the lampstands with their lamps, to shine before the oracle according to the rite, made from the purest gold;

21 certain flower ornaments, the lamps, and the golden tongs—all were made from the purest gold;

22 also the censers, incense vessels, bowls, and little mortars of the purest gold. He engraved the doors of the inner temple—that is, of the Holy of Holies—and the outer doors of the temple were golden. Thus all the work Solomon made in the house of the Lord was completed.

CHAPTER 5

1 Therefore Solomon brought in everything David his father had vowed. He placed the silver, gold, and all the vessels in the treasuries of the house of God.

2 After this he gathered the elders of Israel, all the princes of the tribes, and the heads of the families from the sons of Israel in Jerusalem, so that they might bring the ark of the covenant of the Lord from the city of David, which is Zion.

3 Therefore all the men of Israel came to the king on the solemn day of the seventh month.

4 When all the elders of Israel had come, the Levites carried the ark

5 and brought it in, together with all the furnishings of the tabernacle. The priests with the Levites carried the vessels of the sanctuary that were in the tabernacle.

6 King Solomon, the whole assembly of Israel, and all who had gathered before the ark sacrificed rams and oxen beyond all numbering, for the multitude of victims was so great.

7 The priests brought the ark of the covenant of the Lord into its place—that is, into the oracle of the temple, in the Holy of Holies, beneath the wings of the cherubim—

8 so that the cherubim spread their wings over the place where the ark had been set and covered the ark itself and its poles.

9 Because the poles by which the ark was carried were somewhat longer, their ends could be seen before the oracle; but if anyone stood a little way outside, he could not see them. And so the ark remained there to the present day.

10 Nothing else was in the ark except the two tablets that Moses had placed in it at Horeb, when the Lord gave the law to the sons of Israel as they departed from Egypt.

11 When the priests came out from the sanctuary—for all the priests who could be found there had been sanctified, and at that time the divisions and order of ministries had not yet been distributed among them—

12 the Levites and singers, both those under Asaph and those under Heman and Jeduthun, together with their sons and brothers, were clothed in fine linen. Standing on the eastern side of the altar, they resounded with cymbals, psalteries, and harps; and with them were one hundred twenty priests sounding trumpets.

13 Therefore, as all sounded together with trumpets, voice, cymbals, instruments, and diverse kinds of music, lifting their voices on high, the sound was heard from far away. When they began to praise the Lord and say, “Confess to the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is eternal,” the house of God was filled with a cloud,

14 and the priests could not stand and minister because of the darkness, for the glory of the Lord had filled the house of God.

CHAPTER 6

1 Then Solomon said, “The Lord promised that he would dwell in darkness,

2 but I have built a house for his name, so that he might dwell there perpetually.”

3 The king turned his face and blessed the whole multitude of Israel—for the entire assembly stood attentive—and said,

4 “Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, who fulfilled by his work what he spoke to David my father, saying:

5 ‘From the day when I brought my people out from the land of Egypt, I chose no city from all the tribes of Israel in which a house might be built for my name, nor did I choose any other man to be leader over my people Israel.

6 But I chose Jerusalem so that my name might be there, and I chose David to appoint him over my people Israel.’

7 When it had been the will of David my father to build a house for the name of the Lord God of Israel,

8 the Lord said to him, ‘Because it was your will to build a house for my name, you indeed did well to have such a will.

9 Nevertheless, you shall not build the house. Instead, your son who will come forth from your loins—he shall build a house for my name.’

10 Therefore the Lord fulfilled the word he had spoken. I arose in place of David my father and sat upon the throne of Israel, just as the Lord had spoken, and I built a house for the name of the Lord God of Israel.

11 I placed within it the ark in which is the pact of the Lord that he struck with the sons of Israel.”

12 Therefore he stood before the altar of the Lord, facing the whole multitude of Israel, and extended his hands.

13 For Solomon had made a bronze platform and placed it in the middle of the great court. It was five cubits long, five cubits wide, and three cubits high. He stood upon it; then, kneeling before the whole multitude of Israel and lifting his palms toward heaven,

14 he said, “O Lord God of Israel, there is no god like you in heaven or on earth. You keep the pact and mercy with your servants who walk before you with their whole heart.

15 You fulfilled for your servant David my father whatever you had spoken to him. What you promised with your mouth, you fulfilled by your work, as the present time proves.

16 Now therefore, O Lord God of Israel, fulfill for your servant David my father whatever you spoke, saying, ‘There shall not fail from you a man before me to sit upon the throne of Israel, provided only that your sons keep their ways and walk in my law, just as you walked before me.’

17 And now, O Lord God of Israel, let your word that you spoke to your servant David be established.

18 Is it therefore credible that God should dwell with human beings upon the earth? If heaven and the heavens of heavens cannot contain you, how much less this house that I have built!

19 Yet it was made only for this: that you may regard the prayer of your servant and his supplication, O Lord my God, and hear the prayers your servant pours out before you;

20 that you may open your eyes over this house by day and by night, over the place where you promised that your name would be invoked;

21 and that you may hear the prayer your servant prays in it. Hear the prayers of your servant and of your people Israel. Whoever prays in this place, hear from your dwelling—that is, from heaven—and be propitious.

22 If anyone sins against his neighbor and comes prepared to swear against him, binding himself with a curse before the altar in this house,

23 you will hear from heaven and execute judgment upon your servants, repaying the iniquitous man by returning his way upon his own head, and avenging the just man by rewarding him according to his justice.

24 If your people Israel are overcome by enemies—for they will sin against you—and, being converted, do penance, implore your name, and pray in this place,

25 you will hear from heaven. Be propitious to the sin of your people Israel, and lead them back into the land you gave them and their fathers.

26 If heaven is closed and rain does not flow because of the people’s sins, and they pray to you in this place, confess to your name, and turn from their sins when you afflict them,

27 hear from heaven, O Lord, and forgive the sins of your servants and of your people Israel. Teach them the good way by which they should walk, and give rain to the land you gave your people to possess.

28 If famine arises in the land, or pestilence, rust, blight, locust, or caterpillar; if enemies lay waste the regions and besiege the city's gates; or if any plague or infirmity presses upon them—

29 if anyone from your people Israel prays, knowing his own plague and infirmity, and extends his hands in this house,

30 you will hear from heaven, from your sublime dwelling, and be propitious. Repay each one according to his ways, which you know he has in his heart—for you alone know the hearts of the sons of men—

31 so that they may fear you and walk in your ways all the days they live upon the face of the land you gave our fathers.

32 Also, if a foreigner who is not from your people Israel comes from a distant land because of your great name, your mighty hand, and your outstretched arm, and adores in this place,

33 you will hear from heaven, your most firm dwelling, and accomplish everything for which that foreigner invokes you, so that all the peoples of the earth may know your name and fear you as your people Israel do, and may know that your name has been invoked over this house that I have built.

34 If your people go out to war against their adversaries by the way on which you send them, they will adore you facing the way where this city that you chose stands and the house I built for your name.

35 You will hear their prayers and supplication from heaven, and you will avenge them.

36 But if they sin against you—for there is no human being who does not sin—and you become angry with them and deliver them to their enemies, and their captors lead them into a distant land or one that is near,

37 and if, being converted in their heart in the land to which they were led captive, they do penance and pray to you in the land of their captivity, saying, 'We have sinned; we have acted iniquitously; we have acted unjustly,'

38 and if they return to you with their whole heart and their whole soul in the land of their captivity to which they were led, they will adore you facing the way toward their land that you gave their fathers, the city you chose, and the house I built for your name.

39 You will hear their prayers from heaven—that is, from your firm dwelling—and execute judgment, and forgive your people, although they are sinners.

40 For you are my God. Let your eyes, I implore you, be open, and let your ears be attentive to the prayer made in this place.

41 Now therefore arise, O Lord God, into your rest, you and the ark of your strength. Let your priests, O Lord God, be clothed with salvation, and let your saints rejoice in good things.

42 O Lord God, do not turn away the face of your christ. Remember the mercies of David your servant."

CHAPTER 7

1 When Solomon had finished pouring out his prayers, fire descended from heaven and devoured the holocausts and victims, and the majesty of the Lord filled the house.

2 The priests could not enter the temple of the Lord, because the majesty of the Lord had filled the temple of the Lord.

3 All the sons of Israel saw the fire descending and the glory of the Lord upon the house. Falling prostrate upon the stone-paved floor, they adored and praised the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is eternal.

4 The king and all the people sacrificed victims before the Lord.

5 King Solomon slaughtered as offerings twenty-two thousand oxen and one hundred twenty thousand rams; and the king and all the people dedicated the house of God.

6 The priests stood in their offices, and the Levites with the instruments for the songs of the Lord that King David had made for praising the Lord—"For his mercy is eternal"—sang David's hymns with their own hands. The priests sounded trumpets before them, and all Israel stood.

7 Solomon also sanctified the middle of the court before the temple of the Lord, for he had offered the holocausts and the fat of the peace offerings there, because the bronze altar he had made could not hold the holocausts, sacrifices, and fat.

8 Therefore Solomon celebrated the solemnity at that time for seven days, and all Israel with him—a very great assembly, from the entrance of Hamath to the torrent of Egypt.

9 On the eighth day he held a gathering, because he had dedicated the altar for seven days and celebrated the solemnity for seven days.

10 Therefore on the twenty-third day of the seventh month he dismissed the peoples to their tents, rejoicing and glad over the good the Lord had done for David, Solomon, and Israel his people.

11 Solomon completed the house of the Lord, the king's house, and everything he had resolved in his heart to accomplish in the house of the Lord and in his own house; and he prospered.

12 The Lord appeared to him by night and said, "I have heard your prayer and chosen this place for myself as a house of sacrifice.

13 If I close heaven so that rain does not flow, if I command and order the locust to devour the land, or if I send pestilence among my people,

14 and my people over whom my name has been invoked are converted, pray to me, seek my face, and do penance from their most wicked ways, then I shall hear from heaven, be propitious to their sins, and heal their land.

15 My eyes will also be open and my ears attentive to the prayer of whoever prays in this place.

16 For I have chosen and sanctified this place, so that my name may be there forever and my eyes and my heart may remain there all days.

17 As for you, if you walk before me as David your father walked, act according to everything I commanded you, and keep my justices and judgments,

18 I shall establish the throne of your kingdom, just as I promised David your father, saying, 'A man from your stock who is prince in Israel shall not be taken away.'

19 But if you turn away, forsake my justices and commandments that I set before you, and go and serve foreign gods and adore them,

20 I shall uproot you from my land that I gave you. This house, which I sanctified for my name, I shall cast away from my face and deliver as a parable and an example to all peoples.

21 This house will become a proverb to all who pass by, and they will say in astonishment, 'Why has the Lord dealt thus with this land and this house?'

22 They will answer, 'Because they forsook the Lord, the God of their fathers, who brought them out from the land of Egypt; they took hold of foreign gods, adored them, and worshiped them. Therefore all these evils came upon them.'"

CHAPTER 8

1 When twenty years had been completed after Solomon built the house of the Lord and his own house,

2 he rebuilt the cities Hiram had given him and caused the sons of Israel to dwell there.

3 He also went to Hamath-zobah and took possession of it.

4 He built Palmyra in the wilderness and other exceedingly fortified cities in Hamath.

5 He built Upper Beth-horon and Lower Beth-horon, walled cities having gates, bars, and locks,

6 as well as Baalath and all the exceedingly strong cities that belonged to Solomon, all the chariot cities, and the cities of the horsemen. Solomon built everything he desired and resolved to build in Jerusalem, Lebanon, and all the land of his dominion.

7 All the people who remained from the Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, who were not from the stock of Israel—

8 their sons and descendants whom the sons of Israel had not killed—Solomon subjected as tributaries to this day.

9 But he did not appoint any of the sons of Israel to serve in the king's works, for they were warriors, foremost commanders, and princes of his chariots and horsemen.

10 All the chiefs of King Solomon's army were two hundred fifty, who trained the people.

11 He transferred Pharaoh's daughter from the city of David to the house he had built for her. For the king said, "My wife shall not dwell in the house of David king of Israel, because it is sanctified, for the ark of the Lord entered it."

12 Then Solomon offered holocausts to the Lord upon the altar of the Lord that he had built before the portico,

13 so that offerings might be made upon it day by day according to Moses' command: on Sabbaths, new moons, and feast days three times a year—that is, on the solemnity of Unleavened Bread, the solemnity of Weeks, and the solemnity of Tabernacles.

14 According to the arrangement of David his father, he appointed the offices of the priests in their ministries and the Levites in their order, so that they might praise and minister before the priests according to the rite of each day. He also appointed the gatekeepers in their divisions, gate by gate, for David the man of God had so commanded.

15 Neither the priests nor the Levites transgressed any of the king's commands concerning everything he had commanded or the keeping of the treasuries.

16 Solomon had all the expenditures prepared from the day when he founded the house of the Lord until the day when he completed it.

17 Then Solomon went to Ezion-geber and Elath on the shore of the Red Sea, which is in the land of Edom.

18 Hiram sent him ships by the hands of his servants and sailors skilled in the sea. They went with Solomon's servants to Ophir, took from there four hundred fifty talents of gold, and brought them to King Solomon.

CHAPTER 9

1 When the Queen of Sheba heard of Solomon's fame, she came to Jerusalem to test him with riddles, bringing great wealth and camels carrying aromatics, a great abundance of gold, and precious stones. When she came to Solomon, she spoke to him about everything that was in her heart.

2 Solomon explained to her everything she had proposed, and there was nothing that he did not make clear to her.

3 After she saw Solomon's wisdom and the house he had built,

4 as well as the food of his table, the dwellings of his servants, the offices of his ministers and their garments, his cupbearers and their garments, and the victims he sacrificed in the house of the Lord, there was no longer any spirit in her because of her astonishment.

5 She said to the king, "The word I heard in my land about your works and wisdom is true.

6 I did not believe those who told me until I came myself, saw with my own eyes, and discovered that scarcely half your wisdom had been recounted to me. You have surpassed your fame by your works.

7 Blessed are your men, and blessed are your servants who stand before you at all times and hear your wisdom.

8 Blessed be the Lord your God, who desired to appoint you upon his throne as king for the Lord your God. Because God loves Israel and desires to preserve him forever, he therefore appointed you king over him, so that you might execute judgment and justice."

9 She gave the king one hundred twenty talents of gold, an exceedingly great abundance of aromatics, and most precious stones. There were never aromatics such as those the Queen of Sheba gave King Solomon.

10 The servants of Hiram with Solomon's servants also brought gold from Ophir, algum timber, and most precious stones.

11 From the algum timber the king made steps in the house of the Lord and the royal house, as well as harps and psalteries for the singers. Timber such as this had never been seen in the land of Judah.

12 King Solomon gave the Queen of Sheba everything she desired and requested, and much more than she had brought to him. She returned and went to her own land with her servants.

13 The weight of gold brought to Solomon each year was six hundred sixty-six talents of gold,

14 apart from the amount that envoys of diverse nations and merchants customarily brought, and that all the kings of Arabia and satraps of the lands carried to Solomon in gold and silver.

15 Therefore King Solomon made two hundred golden spears, six hundred pieces of gold being expended upon each spear,

16 and three hundred golden shields, three hundred pieces of gold covering each shield. The king placed them in the armory that was planted with a grove.

17 The king also made a great ivory throne and overlaid it with the purest gold.

18 There were six steps by which one ascended to the throne, a golden footstool, two armrests on either side, and two lions standing beside the armrests,

19 as well as twelve other little lions standing upon the six steps, one on each side. There was no throne like it in all the kingdoms.

20 All the vessels of the king's feasts were golden, and the vessels of the house of the Forest of Lebanon were of the purest gold. For silver was considered as nothing in those days.

21 Indeed, the king's ships went to Tarshish with Hiram's servants once every three years, and they brought from there gold, silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks.

22 Therefore Solomon was magnified above all the kings of the earth in riches and glory.

23 All the kings of the lands desired to see Solomon's face so that they might hear the wisdom God had given in his heart,

24 and each year they brought him gifts: vessels of silver and gold, garments, weapons, aromatics, horses, and mules.

25 Solomon also had forty thousand horses in stables and twelve thousand chariots and horsemen. He stationed them in the chariot cities and wherever the king was in Jerusalem.

26 He also exercised dominion over all the kings from the Euphrates River to the land of the Philistines and the borders of Egypt.

27 He made silver as plentiful in Jerusalem as stones, and cedars as abundant as sycamores that grow in the plains.

28 Horses were brought to him from Egypt and every region.

29 The rest of Solomon's former and latter works are written in the words of Nathan the prophet, in the books of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the vision of Iddo the seer against Jeroboam son of Nebat.

30 Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel for forty years.

31 He slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David. Rehoboam his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 10

1 Rehoboam went to Shechem, for all Israel had assembled there to appoint him king.

2 When Jeroboam son of Nebat, who was in Egypt, heard this—for he had fled there from Solomon—he immediately returned.

3 They called him, and he came with all Israel. They spoke to Rehoboam, saying,

4 “Your father pressed us with an exceedingly harsh yoke. Command things lighter than your father did, who imposed heavy servitude upon us, and lighten our burden a little, and we shall serve you.”

5 He said, “Return to me after three days.” When the people had departed,

6 he took counsel with the elders who had stood before his father Solomon while he was still alive, saying, “What counsel do you give me for answering the people?”

7 They said to him, “If you please this people and soothe them with merciful words, they will serve you at all times.”

8 But he abandoned the counsel of the elders and began to deliberate with the young men who had been raised with him and belonged to his company.

9 He said to them, “What is your judgment? What should I answer this people, who said to me, ‘Lighten the yoke your father imposed upon us’?”

10 They answered as young men raised with him in luxury, saying, “Thus shall you speak to the people who said to you, ‘Your father made our yoke heavy; you must lighten it.’ Thus shall you answer them: ‘My smallest finger is thicker than my father’s loins.

11 My father imposed a heavy yoke upon you, and I shall add a greater weight. My father struck you with scourges, but I shall strike you with scorpions.’”

12 Therefore Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, as he had commanded them.

13 Abandoning the counsel of the elders, the king answered harshly

14 and spoke according to the young men’s will: “My father imposed a heavy yoke upon you, and I shall make it heavier. My father struck you with scourges, but I shall strike you with scorpions.”

15 He did not yield to the people’s petitions, for it was God’s will that his word might be fulfilled, which he had spoken by the hand of Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam son of Nebat.

16 When the king spoke harsher things, all the people said to him, “We have no portion in David, nor any inheritance in the son of Jesse. Return to your tents, O Israel! But you, O David, feed your own house.” And Israel went to their tents.

17 But Rehoboam reigned over the sons of Israel who dwelt in the cities of Judah.

18 King Rehoboam sent Hadoram, who was over the tributes, but the sons of Israel stoned him, and he died. King Rehoboam then hastened to mount his chariot and fled to Jerusalem.

19 Thus Israel withdrew from the house of David to this day.

CHAPTER 11

1 Rehoboam came to Jerusalem and summoned the whole house of Judah and Benjamin—one hundred eighty thousand chosen fighting men—to battle against Israel and turn his kingdom back to himself.

2 The word of the Lord came to Shemaiah the man of God, saying,

3 “Speak to Rehoboam son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all Israel who are in Judah and Benjamin:

4 Thus says the Lord: You shall not go up or fight against your brothers. Let each one return to his own house, for this has been done by my will.” When they heard the word of the Lord, they returned and did not proceed against Jeroboam.

5 Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem and built walled cities in Judah.

6 He built Bethlehem, Etam, Tekoa,

7 Beth-zur, Soco, Adullam,

8 Gath, Mareshah, Ziph,

9 Adoram, Lachish, Azekah,

10 Zorah, Aijalon, and Hebron, which were exceedingly fortified cities in Judah and Benjamin.

11 When he had enclosed them with walls, he appointed chiefs within them and storehouses of food—that is, of oil and wine.

12 In every city he also made an armory of shields and spears. He fortified them with the greatest diligence and ruled over Judah and Benjamin.

13 The priests and Levites who were throughout all Israel came to him from all their dwelling places,

14 abandoning their suburbs and possessions and crossing into Judah and Jerusalem, because Jeroboam and his descendants had cast them aside so that they could not exercise the priesthood of the Lord.

15 Jeroboam appointed priests for himself for the high places, demons, and calves he had made.

16 Moreover, from all the tribes of Israel, whoever had given their heart to seeking the Lord God of Israel came to Jerusalem to sacrifice their victims before the Lord, the God of their fathers.

17 They strengthened the kingdom of Judah and confirmed Rehoboam son of Solomon for three years, for they walked in the ways of David and Solomon—but only for three years.

18 Rehoboam took as wife Mahalath daughter of Jerimoth, son of David, and also Abihail daughter of Eliab, son of Jesse.

19 She bore him sons: Jeush, Shemariah, and Zaham.

20 After her he also took Maacah daughter of Absalom, who bore him Abijah, Attai, Ziza, and Shelomith.

21 Rehoboam loved Maacah daughter of Absalom above all his wives and concubines. For he had taken eighteen wives and sixty concubines, and he begot twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters.

22 He appointed Abijah son of Maacah as chief and leader over all his brothers, for he intended to make him king.

23 He acted more wisely and powerfully concerning all his sons throughout all the borders of Judah and Benjamin and in all the walled cities. He gave them abundant food and sought many wives.

CHAPTER 12

1 When Rehoboam’s kingdom had been strengthened and fortified, he forsook the law of the Lord, and all Israel with him.

2 In the fifth year of Rehoboam’s reign, Shishak king of Egypt went up against Jerusalem, because they had sinned against the Lord,

3 with one thousand two hundred chariots and sixty thousand horsemen. There was no number to the common multitude who came with him from Egypt—namely, Libyans, Troglodytes, and Ethiopians.

4 He seized the exceedingly fortified cities in Judah and came as far as Jerusalem.

5 Shemaiah the prophet came to Rehoboam and the princes of Judah who had gathered in Jerusalem while fleeing from Shishak. He said to them, “Thus says the Lord: You have forsaken me, and I have forsaken you into the hand of Shishak.”

6 The princes of Israel and the king were dismayed and said, “The Lord is just.”

7 When the Lord saw that they had humbled themselves, the word of the Lord came to Shemaiah, saying, “Because they have humbled themselves, I shall not destroy them. I shall give them a little help, and my wrath shall not drip upon Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak.

8 Nevertheless, they shall serve him, so that they may know the difference between my service and the service of the kingdoms of the lands.”

9 Therefore Shishak king of Egypt withdrew from Jerusalem after taking away the treasuries of the house of the Lord and of the king’s house. He took everything with him, including the golden shields Solomon had made.

10 In their place the king made bronze shields and delivered them to the chiefs of the shield-bearers who guarded the vestibule of the palace.

11 Whenever the king entered the house of the Lord, the shield-bearers came and carried them, and afterward returned them to their armory.

12 Nevertheless, because they had humbled themselves, the wrath of the Lord turned away from them, and they were not utterly destroyed. Indeed, good works were also found in Judah.

13 Therefore King Rehoboam was strengthened in Jerusalem and reigned. He was forty-one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city the Lord chose from all the tribes of Israel to establish his name there. His mother’s name was Naamah the Ammonite.

14 But he did evil and did not prepare his heart to seek the Lord.

15 The former and latter works of Rehoboam are written and diligently explained in the books of Shemaiah the prophet and Iddo the seer. Rehoboam and Jeroboam fought against one another throughout all their days.

16 Rehoboam slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of David. Abijah his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 13

1 In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam, Abijah began to reign over Judah.

2 He reigned three years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Micaiah daughter of Uriel from Gibeah. There was war between Abijah and Jeroboam.

3 When Abijah entered the contest, he had four hundred thousand exceedingly warlike and chosen men. Opposite him Jeroboam arrayed a battle line of eight hundred thousand men, who were themselves chosen and exceedingly valiant for war.

4 Therefore Abijah stood upon Mount Zemaraim, which was in Ephraim, and said, "Hear me, Jeroboam and all Israel.

5 Do you not know that the Lord God of Israel gave David the kingdom over Israel forever—to him and his sons—by a pact of salt?

6 Yet Jeroboam son of Nebat, servant of Solomon son of David, arose and rebelled against his lord.

7 Most worthless men and sons of Belial gathered to him and prevailed against Rehoboam son of Solomon. Rehoboam was inexperienced and timid of heart and could not resist them.

8 Now, therefore, you say that you can resist the kingdom of the Lord, which he possesses through the sons of David, because you have a great multitude of people and the golden calves Jeroboam made as gods for you.

9 You expelled the priests of the Lord, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, and made priests for yourselves like all the peoples of the lands. Whoever comes and fills his hand with a bull from the herd and seven rams becomes a priest of those who are not gods.

10 But the Lord is our God, and we have not forsaken him. Priests from the sons of Aaron minister to the Lord, and the Levites remain in their order.

11 They offer holocausts to the Lord day by day, morning and evening, together with incense compounded according to the commandments of the law. The bread is set forth upon the most pure table, and we have the golden lampstand and its lamps to be kindled continually in the evening. For we keep the commandments of the Lord our God, whom you have forsaken.

12 Therefore God is the commander of our army, together with his priests who sound trumpets and resound against you. Sons of Israel, do not fight against the Lord, the God of your fathers, for it will not prosper for you."

13 While he was speaking these things, Jeroboam was preparing an ambush behind them. As he stood opposite the enemy, he encircled unsuspecting Judah with his army.

14 When Judah looked back, they saw battle pressing upon them from the front and behind. They cried out to the Lord, and the priests began to sound the trumpets.

15 All the men of Judah shouted. And behold, as they cried out, God terrified Jeroboam and all Israel who stood opposite Abijah and Judah.

16 The sons of Israel fled from Judah, and God delivered them into their hand.

17 Therefore Abijah and his people struck them with a great slaughter, and five hundred thousand valiant men from Israel fell wounded.

18 The sons of Israel were humbled at that time, while the sons of Judah were strengthened exceedingly because they had hoped in the Lord, the God of their fathers.

19 Abijah pursued the fleeing Jeroboam and seized his cities: Bethel and its daughters, Jeshanah with its daughters, and Ephron with its daughters.

20 Jeroboam could no longer resist during the days of Abijah. The Lord struck him, and he died.

21 Therefore Abijah, his dominion strengthened, took fourteen wives and begot twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters.

22 The rest of Abijah's words, ways, and works are written most diligently in the book of Iddo the prophet.

CHAPTER 14

1 Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David. Asa his son reigned in his place, and in his days the land rested for ten years.

2 Asa did what was good and pleasing in the sight of his God and overturned the altars of foreign worship and the high places.

3 He broke the statues and cut down the groves.

4 He commanded Judah to seek the Lord, the God of their fathers, and to keep the law and all the commandments.

5 He removed the altars and shrines from all the cities of Judah and reigned in peace.

6 He also built fortified cities in Judah, because he had rest and no wars arose in his times, for the Lord granted peace.

7 He said to Judah, “Let us build these cities, surround them with walls, and strengthen them with towers, gates, and locks while everything is at rest from wars, because we sought the Lord, the God of our fathers, and he gave us peace round about.” Therefore they built, and there was no impediment to the construction.

8 Asa had in his army three hundred thousand from Judah who carried shields and spears, and two hundred eighty thousand shield-bearers and archers from Benjamin. All these were exceedingly valiant men.

9 Zerah the Ethiopian went out against them with his army of one million and three hundred chariots, and he came as far as Mareshah.

10 Asa went to meet him and arrayed the battle line in the Valley of Zephathah, which is beside Mareshah.

11 He invoked the Lord God and said, “O Lord, it makes no difference to you whether you help with few or with many. Help us, O Lord our God, for trusting in you and in your name, we have come against this multitude. O Lord, you are our God. Do not let a human being prevail against you.”

12 Therefore the Lord terrified the Ethiopians before Asa and Judah, and the Ethiopians fled.

13 Asa and the people who were with him pursued them as far as Gerar. The Ethiopians fell even to destruction, because they were crushed by the Lord striking and his army battling. Therefore they took abundant spoils.

14 They struck all the cities round about Gerar, for immense terror had seized everyone. They plundered the cities and carried away abundant spoil.

15 They also destroyed the sheepfolds and took an infinite multitude of livestock and camels; then they returned to Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 15

1 The Spirit of God came upon Azariah son of Oded.

2 He went out to meet Asa and said to him, “Hear me, Asa and all Judah and Benjamin. The Lord is with you because you have been with him. If you seek him, you will find him; but if you forsake him, he will forsake you.

3 Many days shall pass in Israel without the true God, without a teaching priest, and without the law.

4 When in their distress they return to the Lord God of Israel and seek him, they will find him.

5 At that time there will be no peace for the one departing or entering, but terrors on every side among all the inhabitants of the lands.

6 For nation will fight against nation and city against city, because the Lord will confound them in every distress.

7 As for you, therefore, be strengthened, and do not let your hands be weakened, for there will be a reward for your work.”

8 When Asa heard these words and the prophecy of Azariah son of Oded the prophet, he was strengthened. He removed the idols from all the land of Judah and Benjamin and from the cities he had seized in Mount Ephraim, and he dedicated the altar of the Lord that stood before the portico of the Lord.

9 He gathered all Judah and Benjamin, together with the sojourners among them from Ephraim, Manasseh, and Simeon. For many had fled to him from Israel when they saw that the Lord his God was with him.

10 They came to Jerusalem in the third month, in the fifteenth year of Asa’s reign.

11 On that day they sacrificed to the Lord from the spoils and plunder they had brought: seven hundred oxen and seven thousand rams.

12 According to custom, they entered into strengthening the covenant that they would seek the Lord, the God of their fathers, with their whole heart and their whole soul.

13 “But if anyone,” he said, “does not seek the Lord God of Israel, let him die, from the least to the greatest, from man even to woman.”

14 They swore to the Lord with a great voice, with jubilation, with the blast of the trumpet, and with the sound of horns.

15 All who were in Judah swore with an execration, for they swore with their whole heart and sought him with their entire will; and they found him. The Lord gave them rest round about.

16 He also deposed Maacah, the mother of King Asa, from royal dignity because she had made an image of Priapus in a grove. He utterly shattered it, crushed it into fragments, and burned it at the torrent Kidron.

17 But the high places were left in Israel. Nevertheless, Asa’s heart was perfect throughout all his days.

18 He brought into the house of the Lord the things his father and he himself had vowed: silver, gold, and diverse furnishings of vessels.

19 There was no war until the thirty-fifth year of Asa’s reign.

CHAPTER 16

1 In the thirty-sixth year of Asa's reign, Baasha king of Israel went up into Judah and surrounded Ramah with a wall, so that no one could safely depart or enter from Asa's kingdom.

2 Therefore Asa brought out silver and gold from the treasuries of the house of the Lord and from the king's treasuries, and he sent them to Ben-hadad king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying,

3 "There is a covenant between me and you; my father and your father also had an agreement. Therefore I have sent you silver and gold, so that you may break the covenant you have with Baasha king of Israel and cause him to withdraw from me."

4 When Ben-hadad learned this, he sent the princes of his armies against the cities of Israel. They struck Ijon, Dan, Abel-maim, and all the walled cities of Naphtali.

5 When Baasha heard this, he ceased building Ramah and left his work unfinished.

6 King Asa gathered all Judah, and they carried away from Ramah the stones and timber Baasha had prepared for building. From them he built Geba and Mizpah.

7 At that time Hanani the prophet came to Asa king of Judah and said to him, "Because you trusted in the king of Syria and not in the Lord your God, the army of the king of Syria therefore escaped from your hand.

8 Were not the Ethiopians and Libyans far more numerous in chariots, horsemen, and an exceedingly great multitude? Yet because you believed in the Lord, he delivered them into your hand.

9 For the eyes of the Lord contemplate the whole earth and give strength to those who believe in him with a perfect heart. Therefore you have acted foolishly, and because of this wars shall rise against you from the present time."

10 Asa became angry with the seer and commanded that he be put in the stocks, for he had been exceedingly indignant over this. At that time he also killed many from among the people.

11 The former and latter works of Asa are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

12 In the thirty-ninth year of his reign, Asa also became ill with an exceedingly severe pain in his feet. Even in his infirmity he did not seek the Lord, but trusted instead in the art of physicians.

13 He slept with his fathers and died in the forty-first year of his reign.

14 They buried him in his own sepulcher, which he had dug for himself in the city of David. They laid him upon his bed filled with aromatics and harlots' ointments compounded by the art of perfumers, and they burned them over him with exceedingly great extravagance.

CHAPTER 17

1 Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his place and grew strong against Israel.

2 He appointed forces of soldiers in all the cities of Judah that were surrounded with walls. He also stationed garrisons in the land of Judah and in the cities of Ephraim that Asa his father had seized.

3 The Lord was with Jehoshaphat because he walked in the first ways of David his father and did not hope in the Baals,

4 but in the God of his father. He proceeded in his commandments and not according to the sins of Israel.

5 The Lord established the kingdom in his hand, and all Judah gave gifts to Jehoshaphat. He acquired infinite riches and great glory.

6 When his heart had taken courage because of the ways of the Lord, he also removed the high places and groves from Judah.

7 In the third year of his reign, he sent Ben-hail, Obadiah, Zechariah, Nethanel, and Micaiah from among his princes to teach in the cities of Judah.

8 With them he sent the Levites Shemaiah, Nethaniah, Zebadiah, Asahel, Shemiramoth, Jonathan, Adonijah, Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, and with them the priests Elishama and Jehoram.

9 They taught the people in Judah, having the book of the law of the Lord. They went around all the cities of Judah and instructed the people.

10 Therefore the fear of the Lord came upon all the kingdoms of the lands round about Judah, and they did not dare to wage war against Jehoshaphat.

11 The Philistines also brought Jehoshaphat gifts and tribute of silver. The Arabs likewise brought livestock: seven thousand seven hundred rams and the same number of male goats.

12 Therefore Jehoshaphat increased and was magnified exceedingly. He built houses like towers and walled cities in Judah.

13 He prepared many works in the cities of Judah. There were also fighting men of great strength in Jerusalem,

14 whose number according to each house and family was this: from Judah, the commanders of the army included Adnah the commander, and with him three hundred thousand exceedingly strong men;

15 after him, Jehohanan the prince, and with him two hundred eighty thousand;

16 after him, Amasiah son of Zichri, consecrated to the Lord, and with him two hundred thousand valiant men;

17 following him, Eliada, strong for battle, and with him two hundred thousand who held bow and shield;

18 and after him, Jehozabad, and with him one hundred eighty thousand soldiers prepared for battle.

19 All these were at the king’s hand, apart from the others whom he had placed in the walled cities throughout all Judah.

CHAPTER 18

1 Therefore Jehoshaphat was exceedingly rich and renowned, and he was joined by affinity to Ahab.

2 After some years he went down to him in Samaria. At his arrival Ahab slaughtered very many rams and oxen for him and for the people who had come with him, and persuaded him to go up against Ramoth-gilead.

3 Ahab king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat king of Judah, “Come with me to Ramoth-gilead.” He answered him, “As I am, so are you; as your people, so are my people. We shall be with you in war.”

4 Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, “Consult, I implore you, the word of the Lord at the present time.”

5 Therefore the king of Israel gathered four hundred men from among the prophets and said to them, “Should we go to Ramoth-gilead to fight, or should we remain at rest?” They said, “Go up, and God will deliver it into the hand of the king.”

6 Jehoshaphat said, “Is there not a prophet of the Lord here, so that we may also inquire from him?”

7 The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, “There is one man from whom we can seek the Lord’s will, but I hate him because he never prophesies good to me, but evil at all times. He is Micaiah son of Imlah.” Jehoshaphat said, “Let not the king speak in this manner.”

8 Therefore the king of Israel called one of the eunuchs and said to him, “Call Micaiah son of Imlah quickly.”

9 The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah each sat upon his throne, clothed in royal attire. They sat on the threshing floor beside the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets prophesied before them.

10 Zedekiah son of Chenaanah made iron horns for himself and said, “Thus says the Lord: With these you shall winnow Syria until you crush it.”

11 All the prophets prophesied likewise, saying, “Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and you shall prosper, for the Lord will deliver them into the hand of the king.”

12 The messenger who had gone to call Micaiah said to him, “Behold, the words of all the prophets with one mouth announce good things to the king. Therefore, I implore you, let your word not dissent from theirs, and speak prosperity.”

13 Micaiah answered him, “As the Lord lives, whatever my God says to me, that I shall speak.”

14 Therefore he came to the king. The king said to him, “Micaiah, should we go to Ramoth-gilead to fight, or should we remain at rest?” He answered, “Go up, for all things will happen prosperously, and the enemies will be delivered into your hands.”

15 The king said, “Again and again I adjure you to speak to me nothing except what is true in the name of the Lord.”

16 He said, “I saw all Israel scattered upon the mountains like sheep without a shepherd. The Lord said, ‘These have no lords. Let each one return to his own house in peace.’”

17 The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, “Did I not tell you that this man would prophesy nothing good to me, but only evil things?”

18 But Micaiah said, “Therefore hear the word of the Lord. I saw the Lord sitting upon his throne and the whole army of heaven standing beside him on his right and his left.

19 The Lord said, ‘Who will deceive Ahab king of Israel so that he will go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead?’ One spoke in one manner and another in another.

20 Then a spirit came forward, stood before the Lord, and said, ‘I shall deceive him.’ The Lord said to him, ‘By what means will you deceive him?’

21 He answered, ‘I shall go out and become a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets.’ The Lord said, ‘You shall deceive him and prevail. Go out and do so.’

22 Now therefore, behold, the Lord has given a spirit of falsehood in the mouth of all your prophets, and the Lord has spoken evil concerning you.”

23 Zedekiah son of Chenaanah approached and struck Micaiah on the jaw, saying, “By what way did the Spirit of the Lord pass from me to speak to you?”

24 Micaiah said, “You yourself will see on that day when you enter a room within a room to hide yourself.”

25 The king of Israel commanded, saying, “Take Micaiah and lead him to Amon the prince of the city and to Joash son of Amelech.

26 You shall say, ‘Thus says the king: Put this man in prison and give him a little bread and a little water until I return in peace.’”

27 Micaiah said, “If you return in peace, the Lord has not spoken in me.” Then he said, “Hear, all peoples.”

28 Therefore the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

29 The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, “I shall change my appearance and go into battle in this way, but you shall put on your own garments.” The king of Israel changed his appearance and came to the battle.

30 The king of Syria had commanded the leaders of his cavalry, saying, “Do not fight against small or great, but against the king of Israel alone.”

31 Therefore when the leaders of the cavalry saw Jehoshaphat, they said, “This is the king of Israel.” They surrounded him and fought, but he cried out to the Lord, who helped him and turned them away from him.

32 When the cavalry commanders saw that he was not the king of Israel, they left him.

33 It happened that one of the people shot an arrow without certainty and struck the king of Israel between the neck and the shoulders. He said to his charioteer, “Turn your hand and carry me out from the battle line, for I am wounded.”

34 The battle ended on that day. The king of Israel remained standing in his chariot against the Syrians until evening, and he died as the sun was setting.

CHAPTER 19

1 Jehoshaphat king of Judah returned peacefully to his house in Jerusalem.

2 Jehu son of Hanani the seer went out to meet him and said, “You provide help to the impious and are joined in friendship to those who hate the Lord. For this reason you indeed deserved the wrath of the Lord.

3 Nevertheless, good works have been found in you, because you removed the groves from the land of Judah and prepared your heart to seek the Lord, the God of your fathers.”

4 Therefore Jehoshaphat dwelt in Jerusalem. He went out again to the people from Beersheba to Mount Ephraim and called them back to the Lord, the God of their fathers.

5 He appointed judges of the land in all the fortified cities of Judah, place by place,

6 and commanded the judges, saying, “Consider what you are doing. For you do not exercise human judgment, but the Lord’s, and whatever you judge will return upon you.

7 Let the fear of the Lord be with you, and do everything with diligence, for there is no iniquity with the Lord our God, no acceptance of persons, and no desire for gifts.”

8 In Jerusalem Jehoshaphat also appointed Levites, priests, and chiefs of Israel’s families to judge the judgment and cause of the Lord for its inhabitants.

9 He commanded them, saying, “Thus shall you act in the fear of the Lord, faithfully and with a perfect heart.

10 In every case that comes to you from your brothers who dwell in their cities—between kindred and kindred, wherever there is a question concerning the law, a commandment, ceremonies, or justifications—instruct them, so that they may not sin against the Lord and wrath may not come upon you and your brothers. Acting in this way, therefore, you will not sin.

11 Amariah, your priest and high priest, shall preside over the things that pertain to God. Zebadiah son of Ishmael, who is commander in the house of Judah, shall be over the works that pertain to the king’s office. You also have the Levites as teachers before you. Be strengthened and act diligently, and the Lord will be with you in good things.”

CHAPTER 20

1 After these things, the sons of Moab and the sons of Ammon, and with them some from the Ammonites, gathered against Jehoshaphat to fight him.

2 Messengers came and informed Jehoshaphat, saying, “A great multitude is coming against you from the regions beyond the sea and from Syria. Behold, they are stationed at Hazazon-tamar, which is En-gedi.”

3 Terrified with fear, Jehoshaphat gave himself wholly to imploring the Lord and proclaimed a fast throughout all Judah.

4 Judah gathered to pray to the Lord, and everyone came from their cities to implore him.

5 Jehoshaphat stood in the midst of the assembly of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of the Lord before the new court,

6 and said, “O Lord, God of our fathers, you are God in heaven and rule over all the kingdoms of the nations. In your hand are strength and power, and no one can resist you.

7 Did you not, our God, kill all the inhabitants of this land before your people Israel and give it forever to the seed of Abraham your friend?

8 They dwelt in it and built within it a sanctuary for your name, saying,

9 ‘If evils fall upon us—the sword of judgment, pestilence, or famine—we shall stand before this house in your sight, in which your name has been invoked. We shall cry out to you in our tribulations, and you will hear and save us.’

10 Now therefore, behold, the sons of Ammon and Moab and Mount Seir, through whose lands you did not permit Israel to pass when they departed from Egypt, but they turned away from them and did not kill them—

11 they act to the contrary and strive to cast us out from the possession you delivered to us.

12 Our God, will you therefore not judge them? There is not strength enough in us to resist this multitude that rushes upon us. Since we do not know what we should do, this alone remains to us: that we direct our eyes toward you.”

13 All Judah stood before the Lord with their little children, wives, and sons.

14 Then the Spirit of the Lord came upon Jahaziel son of Zechariah, son of Benaiah, son of Jehiel, son of Mattaniah, a Levite from the sons of Asaph, in the midst of the multitude.

15 He said, “Attend, all Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem, and you, King Jehoshaphat. Thus says the Lord to you: Do not fear or be dismayed by this multitude, for the battle is not yours, but God’s.

16 Tomorrow you shall descend against them. For they will ascend by the slope called Ziz, and you will find them at the head of the torrent that faces the wilderness of Jeruel.

17 You will not be the ones to fight. Only stand confidently, and you will see the help of the Lord upon you, O Judah and Jerusalem. Do not fear and do not be dismayed. Tomorrow you shall go out against them, and the Lord will be with you.”

18 Therefore Jehoshaphat, Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell prostrate upon the ground before the Lord and adored him.

19 The Levites from the sons of Kohath and the sons of Kore praised the Lord God of Israel with a great voice on high.

20 When they arose in the morning, they went out through the wilderness of Tekoa. As they set out, Jehoshaphat stood in their midst and said, “Hear me, men of Judah and all inhabitants of Jerusalem. Believe in the Lord your God, and you will be secure. Believe his prophets, and all things will prosper.”

21 He gave counsel to the people and appointed singers of the Lord to praise him in their companies and go before the army, saying with one voice, “Confess to the Lord, for his mercy is eternal.”

22 When they began to sing praises, the Lord turned their ambushes against themselves—namely, those of the sons of Ammon and Moab and Mount Seir, who had gone out to fight against Judah—and they were struck.

23 For the sons of Ammon and Moab rose against the inhabitants of Mount Seir to kill and destroy them. When they had accomplished this work, they also turned against one another and fell by mutual wounds.

24 When Judah came to the watchtower overlooking the wilderness, they saw from afar the whole broad region filled with corpses, with no one remaining who had been able to escape death.

25 Therefore Jehoshaphat and all the people with him came to strip the spoils from the dead. Among the corpses they found diverse furnishings, garments, and exceedingly precious vessels. They plundered so much that they could not carry everything, nor could they remove the spoil in three days because of the magnitude of the plunder.

26 On the fourth day they gathered in the Valley of Blessing. Indeed, because they had blessed the Lord there, they called that place the Valley of Blessing to the present day.

27 Every man of Judah, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and Jehoshaphat before them returned to Jerusalem with great gladness because the Lord had given them joy over their enemies.

28 They entered Jerusalem with psalteries, harps, and trumpets, into the house of the Lord.

29 The fear of the Lord fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands when they heard that the Lord had fought against Israel's enemies.

30 Jehoshaphat's kingdom rested, and God gave him peace round about.

31 Therefore Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah. He was thirty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Azubah daughter of Shilhi.

32 He walked in the way of Asa his father and did not turn aside from it, doing what was pleasing before the Lord.

33 Nevertheless, he did not remove the high places, and the people had not yet directed their heart to the Lord, the God of their fathers.

34 The rest of Jehoshaphat's former and latter deeds are written in the words of Jehu son of Hanani, which he arranged in the books of the kings of Israel.

35 After these things, Jehoshaphat king of Judah entered into friendship with Ahaziah king of Israel, whose works were exceedingly impious.

36 He became his partner so that they might make ships to go to Tarshish, and they made the fleet at Ezion-geber.

37 Eliezer son of Dodavahu from Mareshah prophesied to Jehoshaphat, saying, "Because you entered into a covenant with Ahaziah, the Lord has struck your works." The ships were shattered and could not go to Tarshish.

CHAPTER 21

1 Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers and was buried with them in the city of David. Jehoram his son reigned in his place.

2 He had brothers, the sons of Jehoshaphat: Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Azariah, Michael, and Shephatiah. All these were sons of Jehoshaphat king of Judah.

3 Their father gave them many gifts of silver and gold, revenues, and exceedingly fortified cities in Judah, but he delivered the kingdom to Jehoram because he was the firstborn.

4 Therefore Jehoram arose over his father's kingdom. When he had established himself, he killed all his brothers with the sword, as well as some of the princes of Israel.

5 Jehoram was thirty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

6 He walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had done, for Ahab's daughter was his wife. He did evil in the sight of the Lord.

7 Yet the Lord was unwilling to destroy the house of David because of the pact he had entered into with him and because he had promised to give a lamp to him and his sons at all times.

8 In those days Edom rebelled from being subject to Judah and appointed a king for itself.

9 Jehoram crossed over with his princes and all the cavalry with him. Rising by night, he struck Edom, who had surrounded him, and all its cavalry commanders.

10 Nevertheless, Edom rebelled from being under Judah's dominion to this day. At that time Libnah also withdrew from being under his hand, for he had forsaken the Lord, the God of his fathers.

11 Moreover, he built high places in the cities of Judah, caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to fornicate, and made Judah transgress.

12 A letter was brought to him from Elijah the prophet, in which it was written: "Thus says the Lord, the God of David your father: Because you did not walk in the ways of Jehoshaphat your father or the ways of Asa king of Judah,

13 but proceeded in the way of the kings of Israel, caused Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to fornicate in imitation of the fornication of Ahab's house, and moreover killed your brothers, your father's house, who were better than you,

14 behold, the Lord will strike you with a great plague, together with your people, sons, wives, and all your substance.

15 You shall become ill with a most severe disease of your belly until your vital organs gradually come out, day after day."

16 Therefore the Lord stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines and the Arabs who border the Ethiopians.

17 They went up into the land of Judah and devastated it. They plundered all the substance found in the king's house, as well as his sons and wives. No son remained to him except Jehoahaz, who was the youngest by birth.

18 Beyond all these things, the Lord struck him with an incurable disease of the bowels.

19 As day followed day and the spans of time revolved, the cycle of two years was completed. Thus, consumed by a long wasting illness, he even expelled his own intestines and was deprived alike of health and life. He died in a most severe infirmity, and the people did not perform funeral burnings for him according to custom, as they had done for his ancestors.

20 He was thirty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. He did not walk rightly, and they buried him in the city of David, but not in the sepulcher of the kings.

CHAPTER 22

1 The inhabitants of Jerusalem appointed Ahaziah, his youngest son, as king in his place. For the Arab raiders who had rushed upon the camp had killed all those older than he. Thus Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah reigned.

2 Ahaziah was forty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Athaliah daughter of Omri.

3 He also entered into the ways of Ahab's house, for his mother impelled him to act impiously.

4 Therefore he did evil in the sight of the Lord, as Ahab's house had done, for they were his counselors after his father's death, to his destruction.

5 He walked in their counsels and went with Jehoram son of Ahab, king of Israel, to war against Hazael king of Syria at Ramoth-gilead. The Syrians wounded Jehoram,

6 who returned to Jezreel to be healed, for he had received many wounds in the aforementioned battle. Therefore Ahaziah son of Jehoram, king of Judah, went down to visit Jehoram son of Ahab while he was ill in Jezreel.

7 Indeed, it was God's will against Ahaziah that he should come to Jehoram. When he had come, he went out with him against Jehu son of Nimshi, whom the Lord had anointed to destroy Ahab's house.

8 Therefore when Jehu overthrew Ahab's house, he found the princes of Judah and the sons of Ahaziah's brothers who ministered to him, and he killed them.

9 Seeking Ahaziah himself, he captured him while he was hiding in Samaria. They brought him to Jehu, who killed him; and they buried him because he was the son of Jehoshaphat, who had sought the Lord with his whole heart. There was no longer any hope that anyone from Ahaziah's stock might reign.

10 For Athaliah his mother, seeing that her son was dead, arose and killed all the royal stock of Jehoram's house.

11 But Jehosheba daughter of the king took Joash son of Ahaziah and stole him away from among the king's sons as they were being killed. She hid him with his nurse in a bedchamber. Jehosheba, who hid him, was the daughter of King Jehoram, wife of Jehoiada the high priest, and sister of Ahaziah. Therefore Athaliah did not kill him.

12 Thus he was hidden with them in the house of God for the six years during which Athaliah reigned over the land.

CHAPTER 23

1 In the seventh year, Jehoiada was strengthened and took the commanders of hundreds—namely, Azariah son of Jeroham, Ishmael son of Jehohanan, Azariah son of Obed, Maaseiah son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat son of Zichri—and entered into a covenant with them.

2 They went around Judah and gathered the Levites from all the cities of Judah and the chiefs of Israel's families, and they came to Jerusalem.

3 Therefore the whole multitude entered into a pact with the king in the house of God. Jehoiada said to them, "Behold, the king's son shall reign, as the Lord spoke concerning the sons of David.

4 Therefore this is the word you shall carry out:

5 one-third of you priests, Levites, and gatekeepers who come for the Sabbath shall be at the gates; one-third at the king's house; and one-third at the gate called the Foundation. Let all the remaining common people be in the courts of the house of the Lord.

6 Let no one else enter the house of the Lord except the priests and those Levites who minister. They alone may enter, because they are sanctified. Let all the remaining common people keep the watches of the Lord.

7 Let the Levites surround the king, each one having his weapons. If anyone else enters the temple, let him be killed. Be with the king as he enters and departs."

8 Therefore the Levites and all Judah acted according to everything Jehoiada the high priest had commanded. Each one took the men under him who came in the order of the Sabbath, together with those who had completed the Sabbath and were to depart, for Jehoiada the high priest had not permitted the companies that customarily succeeded one another each week to leave.

9 Jehoiada the priest gave the commanders of hundreds the spears, shields, and bucklers of King David that he had consecrated in the house of the Lord.

10 He stationed all the people holding daggers from the right side of the temple to the left side, before the altar and the temple, round about the king.

11 They brought out the king's son and placed the diadem and the testimony upon him. They gave him the law to hold in his hand and appointed him king. Jehoiada the high priest and his sons anointed him; they invoked blessing upon him and said, "Long live the king!"

12 When Athaliah heard the voice of those running and praising the king, she entered among the people in the temple of the Lord.

13 She saw the king standing upon the step at the entrance, the princes and companies around him, all the people of the land rejoicing and sounding trumpets, diverse kinds of instruments sounding together, and the voice of those praising. She tore her garments and said, "Treason! Treason!"

14 Jehoiada the high priest went out to the commanders of hundreds and the leaders of the army and said to them, "Lead her outside the temple enclosure, and let her be killed outside with the sword." For the priest had commanded that she not be killed in the house of the Lord.

15 They laid hands upon her neck, and when she entered the Horse Gate of the king's house, they killed her there.

16 Jehoiada struck a covenant between himself, all the people, and the king, so that they would be the people of the Lord.

17 Therefore all the people entered the house of Baal and destroyed it. They shattered its altars and images, and they killed Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars.

18 Jehoiada appointed overseers in the house of the Lord under the hands of the priests and Levites whom David had distributed in the house of the Lord, so that they might offer holocausts to the Lord as it is written in the law of Moses, with gladness and songs according to David's arrangement.

19 He also appointed gatekeepers at the gates of the house of the Lord, so that no one unclean in any matter might enter it.

20 He took the commanders of hundreds, the strongest men, the princes of the people, and all the common people of the land. They brought the king down from the house of the Lord, led him through the middle of the upper gate into the king's house, and seated him upon the royal throne.

21 All the people of the land rejoiced, and the city became quiet. Athaliah was killed with the sword.

CHAPTER 24

1 Joash was seven years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zibiah from Beersheba.

2 He did what was good before the Lord throughout all the days of Jehoiada the priest.

3 Jehoiada took two wives for him, from whom he begot sons and daughters.

4 After these things, it pleased Joash to restore the house of the Lord.

5 He gathered the priests and Levites and said to them, "Go out to the cities of Judah and collect money from all Israel each year to repair the breaches of the temple of your God. Do this quickly." But the Levites acted too negligently.

6 The king called Jehoiada the chief and said to him, "Why was it not your concern to compel the Levites to bring in from Judah and Jerusalem the money Moses servant of the Lord appointed the whole multitude of Israel to bring into the tabernacle of the testimony?

7 For the most impious Athaliah and her sons destroyed the house of God, and from all the things sanctified in the temple of the Lord they adorned the shrine of the Baals."

8 Therefore the king commanded, and they made a chest and placed it outside beside the gate of the house of the Lord.

9 It was proclaimed in Judah and Jerusalem that each person should bring to the Lord the price that Moses servant of God appointed over all Israel in the wilderness.

10 All the princes and all the people rejoiced. They entered and contributed to the chest of the Lord, putting money into it until it was filled.

11 Whenever it was time for the chest to be brought before the king by the hands of the Levites—for they saw that there was much money—the king's scribe and the one appointed by the chief priest entered. They poured out the money that was in the chest and carried the chest back to its place. They did this day by day, and an infinite amount of money was gathered.

12 The king and Jehoiada gave it to those who were over the works of the house of the Lord. From it they hired stonecutters and craftsmen of every work to restore the house of the Lord, as well as workers in iron and bronze, so that what had begun to fall might be supported.

13 Those who labored worked industriously. The scar in the walls was covered over by their hands, and they raised the house of the Lord to its former condition and caused it to stand firmly.

14 When they had completed all the works, they brought the remaining portion of the money before the king and Jehoiada. From it they made vessels for the ministry of the temple and for holocausts, as well as bowls and other vessels of gold and silver. Holocausts were offered continually in the house of the Lord throughout all the days of Jehoiada.

15 Jehoiada grew old and full of days, and he died when he was one hundred thirty years old.

16 They buried him in the city of David with the kings because he had done good with Israel and with his house.

17 After Jehoiada died, the princes of Judah entered and adored the king. Soothed by their acts of obedience, he yielded to them.

18 They forsook the temple of the Lord, the God of their fathers, and served groves and carved images. Wrath came against Judah and Jerusalem because of this sin.

19 He sent prophets to them so that they might return to the Lord, but they were unwilling to hear them as they bore witness.

20 Therefore the Spirit of God clothed Zechariah son of Jehoiada the priest. He stood in the sight of the people and said to them, "Thus says the Lord God: Why do you transgress the commandment of the Lord, which will not prosper for you? You have forsaken the Lord so that he would forsake you."

21 They gathered against him and, by the king's command, cast stones at him in the court of the house of the Lord.

22 King Joash did not remember the mercy Jehoiada his father had shown him, but killed his son. As Zechariah was dying, he said, "May the Lord see and require it."

23 When the year had revolved, the Syrian army went up against him. It came into Judah and Jerusalem, killed all the princes of the people, and sent all the plunder to the king in Damascus.

24 Although an exceedingly small number of Syrians had come, the Lord delivered an infinite multitude into their hands because they had forsaken the Lord, the God of their fathers. They also executed ignominious judgments upon Joash.

25 When they departed, they left him in great infirmities. His servants then rose against him in vengeance for the blood of the son of Jehoiada the priest and killed him upon his bed, and he died. They buried him in the city of David, but not in the sepulchers of the kings.

26 Those who conspired against him were Zabad son of Shimeath the Ammonite woman and Jehozabad son of Shimrith the Moabite woman.

27 His sons, the sum of money that had been gathered under him, and the restoration of the house of God are written more diligently in the book of the kings. Amaziah his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 25

1 Amaziah was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jehoaddan from Jerusalem.

2 He did what was good in the sight of the Lord, but not with a perfect heart.

3 When he saw that his dominion had been strengthened for him, he slaughtered the servants who had killed his father the king.

4 But he did not kill their sons, according to what is written in the book of the law of Moses, where the Lord commanded, saying, "Fathers shall not be killed for their sons, nor sons for their fathers, but each one shall die in his own sin."

5 Therefore Amaziah gathered Judah and appointed them by families, with commanders of thousands and hundreds throughout all Judah and Benjamin. He reviewed those from twenty years old and upward and found three hundred thousand young men who could go out to battle and hold spear and shield.

6 He also hired one hundred thousand strong men from Israel for one hundred talents of silver.

7 But a man of God came to him and said, "O king, do not let the army of Israel go out with you, for the Lord is not with Israel or any of the sons of Ephraim.

8 But if you think wars depend upon the strength of an army, God will cause you to be overcome by the enemies. For it belongs to God both to help and to turn to flight."

9 Amaziah said to the man of God, "What, then, will become of the one hundred talents I gave the soldiers of Israel?" The man of God answered him, "The Lord has the means to give you much more than these."

10 Therefore Amaziah separated the army that had come to him from Ephraim so that it might return to its own place. They became exceedingly angry against Judah and returned to their region.

11 Amaziah confidently led out his people and went to the Valley of Salt, where he struck ten thousand of the sons of Seir.

12 The sons of Judah captured another ten thousand men and brought them to the precipice of a certain rock. They cast them down headlong from the summit, and they all burst apart.

13 But the army Amaziah had dismissed from going with him to battle spread throughout the cities of Judah from Samaria to Beth-horon. They killed three thousand and plundered abundant spoil.

14 After the slaughter of the Edomites, Amaziah brought back the gods of the sons of Seir, appointed them as gods for himself, adored them, and burned incense to them.

15 Therefore the Lord became angry against Amaziah and sent a prophet to him, who said, "Why have you adored gods who did not deliver their own people from your hand?"

16 As he spoke these things, Amaziah answered him, "Are you the king's counselor? Be silent, lest I kill you." The prophet withdrew and said, "I know that God has resolved to kill you because you have done this evil and, moreover, have not yielded to my counsel."

17 Therefore Amaziah king of Judah, having entered into the worst counsel, sent to Joash son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, "Come, let us see one another face to face."

18 But Joash sent messengers back, saying, "The thistle that is in Lebanon sent to the cedar of Lebanon, saying, 'Give your daughter to my son as wife.' And behold, the beasts that were in the forest of Lebanon passed by and trampled the thistle.

19 You have said, 'I struck Edom,' and therefore your heart is lifted up in pride. Remain in your own house. Why do you provoke evil against yourself, so that you and Judah with you may fall?"

20 Amaziah was unwilling to listen, because it was the Lord's will that he be delivered into the hands of the enemies because of the gods of Edom.

21 Therefore Joash king of Israel went up, and he and Amaziah king of Judah faced one another at Beth-shemesh of Judah.

22 Judah fell before Israel and fled to their tents.

23 Joash king of Israel captured Amaziah king of Judah, son of Joash, son of Jehoahaz, at Beth-shemesh and brought him to Jerusalem. He destroyed four hundred cubits of its wall, from the Gate of Ephraim to the Corner Gate.

24 He took back to Samaria all the gold, silver, and every vessel he found in the house of God, what was with Obed-edom, the treasuries of the king's house, and the sons of hostages.

25 Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, lived fifteen years after Joash son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, died.

26 The rest of Amaziah's former and latter words are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

27 After he withdrew from the Lord, they prepared an ambush against him in Jerusalem. When he fled to Lachish, they sent men and killed him there.

28 They carried him back upon horses and buried him with his fathers in the city of David.

CHAPTER 26

1 All the people of Judah appointed his son Uzziah, who was sixteen years old, as king in place of Amaziah his father.

2 He built Elath and restored it to Judah's dominion after the king slept with his fathers.

3 Uzziah was sixteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jecoliah from Jerusalem.

4 He did what was right in the eyes of the Lord, according to everything Amaziah his father had done.

5 He sought the Lord in the days of Zechariah, who understood and saw God. As long as he sought the Lord, the Lord directed him in all things.

6 Finally, he went out and fought against the Philistines. He destroyed the wall of Gath, the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Ashdod. He also built towns in Ashdod and among the Philistines.

7 God helped him against the Philistines, against the Arabs who dwelt in Gur-baal, and against the Ammonites.

8 The Ammonites weighed out gifts to Uzziah, and his name was spread as far as the entrance of Egypt because of his frequent victories.

9 Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem over the Corner Gate and the Valley Gate, and others along the same side of the wall, and he fortified them.

10 He also built towers in the wilderness and dug very many cisterns because he had much livestock both in the plains and in the wasteland of the wilderness. He also had vineyards and vinedressers in the mountains and in Carmel, for he was a man devoted to agriculture.

11 His army of fighting men went out to battles under the hand of Jehiel the scribe and Maaseiah the teacher, and under the hand of Hananiah, who was from the king's commanders.

12 The whole number of the chiefs by families was two thousand six hundred valiant men.

13 Under them was the entire army of three hundred seven thousand five hundred, who were fit for war and fought for the king against adversaries.

14 Uzziah also prepared for them—that is, for the whole army—shields, spears, helmets, breastplates, bows, and slings for casting stones.

15 In Jerusalem he made machines of diverse kinds, which he placed in the towers and at the corners of the walls to shoot arrows and great stones. His name went out far away because the Lord helped him and strengthened him.

16 But when he had been strengthened, his heart was lifted up to his own destruction, and he neglected the Lord his God. He entered the temple of the Lord and desired to burn incense upon the altar of incense.

17 Azariah the priest immediately entered after him, and with him were eighty priests of the Lord, exceedingly valiant men.

18 They resisted the king and said, "It is not your office, Uzziah, to burn incense to the Lord, but the priests'—that is, the sons of Aaron, who are consecrated for this ministry. Depart from the sanctuary, lest you show contempt, for this will not be accounted to you as glory by the Lord God."

19 Uzziah became angry. Holding a censer in his hand to burn incense, he threatened the priests. Immediately leprosy arose upon his forehead before the priests in the house of the Lord, above the altar of incense.

20 When Azariah the high priest and all the remaining priests looked upon him, they saw the leprosy on his forehead and hastened to drive him out. He himself, terrified, hurried to depart because he immediately perceived the plague of the Lord.

21 Therefore King Uzziah was a leper until the day of his death and dwelt in a separate house, full of leprosy, because of which he had been cast out from the house of the Lord. Jotham his son governed the king's house and judged the people of the land.

22 Isaiah son of Amoz the prophet wrote the rest of Uzziah's former and latter words.

23 Uzziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the field of the royal sepulchers because he was a leper. Jotham his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 27

1 Jotham was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother’s name was Jerushah daughter of Zadok.

2 He did what was right before the Lord, according to everything Uzziah his father had done, except that he did not enter the temple of the Lord; yet the people still acted sinfully.

3 He built the high gate of the house of the Lord and constructed many things upon the wall of Ophel.

4 He also built cities in the mountains of Judah and fortresses and towers in the forests.

5 He fought against the king of the sons of Ammon and overcame them. At that time the sons of Ammon gave him one hundred talents of silver, ten thousand cors of wheat, and the same number of cors of barley. The sons of Ammon provided these things to him in the second and third years also.

6 Jotham was strengthened because he had directed his ways before the Lord his God.

7 The rest of Jotham’s words, all his battles, and his works are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah.

8 He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem.

9 Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David. Ahaz his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 28

1 Ahaz was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. He did not do what was right in the sight of the Lord as David his father had done,

2 but walked in the ways of the kings of Israel and even cast statues for the Baals.

3 He is the one who burned incense in the Valley of Ben-hinnom and purified his sons in fire according to the rite of the nations whom the Lord killed at the coming of the sons of Israel.

4 He also sacrificed and burned incense on the high places, upon the hills, and under every leafy tree.

5 The Lord his God delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria, who struck him, took great spoil from his dominion, and brought it to Damascus. He was also delivered into the hands of the king of Israel and struck with a great slaughter.

6 Pekah son of Remaliah killed one hundred twenty thousand from Judah in one day, all fighting men, because they had forsaken the Lord, the God of their fathers.

7 At the same time, Zichri, a mighty man from Ephraim, killed Maaseiah the king's son, Azrikam the commander of his house, and Elkanah, who was second to the king.

8 The sons of Israel captured from their brothers two hundred thousand women, boys, and girls, as well as infinite spoil, and carried it to Samaria.

9 At that time a prophet of the Lord named Oded was there. He went out to meet the army coming to Samaria and said to them, "Behold, the Lord, the God of your fathers, was angry against Judah and delivered them into your hands. But you killed them atrociously, so that your cruelty reached heaven.

10 Moreover, you desire to subject the sons of Judah and Jerusalem to yourselves as male and female servants. This must by no means be done, for in this matter you have sinned against the Lord your God.

11 But hear my counsel and return the captives you brought from your brothers, for the great fury of the Lord hangs over you."

12 Therefore men from the princes of the sons of Ephraim—Azariah son of Jehohanan, Berechiah son of Meshillemoth, Hezekiah son of Shallum, and Amasa son of Hadlai—stood against those who were coming from battle.

13 They said to them, "You shall not bring the captives here, lest we sin against the Lord. Why do you desire to add to our sins and heap up our former offenses? For the sin is great, and the wrath of the Lord's fury hangs over Israel."

14 The fighting men released the spoil and everything they had captured before the princes and the whole multitude.

15 The men mentioned above arose and took the captives. They clothed all who were naked from the spoils. After clothing and shoeing them, refreshing them with food and drink, anointing them because of their weariness, and providing them care, they placed upon beasts everyone who could not walk and was weak in body. They brought them to their brothers at Jericho, the City of Palms, and then returned to Samaria.

16 At that time King Ahaz sent to the king of the Assyrians, asking for help.

17 The Edomites came, struck many from Judah, and captured great spoil.

18 The Philistines also spread through the cities of the plains and the south of Judah. They seized Beth-shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, Soco, Timnah, and Gimzo with their villages, and they dwelt in them.

19 For the Lord had humbled Judah because of Ahaz king of Judah, because he had stripped it of help and held the Lord in contempt.

20 He brought against him Tiglath-pileser king of the Assyrians, who afflicted him and devastated without resistance.

21 Therefore Ahaz plundered the house of the Lord and the houses of the kings and princes and gave gifts to the king of the Assyrians, yet it profited him nothing.

22 Moreover, in the time of his distress, that same King Ahaz himself increased his contempt against the Lord.

23 He sacrificed victims to the gods of Damascus, who had struck him, and said, "The gods of the kings of Syria help them. I shall appease them with offerings, and they will be present with me." But on the contrary, they were the ruin of him and all Israel.

24 Therefore Ahaz plundered all the vessels of the house of God and shattered them. He closed the doors of the temple of God and made altars for himself at every corner of Jerusalem.

25 In all the cities of Judah he also built altars for burning incense and provoked the Lord, the God of his fathers, to anger.

26 The rest of his words and all his former and latter works are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

27 Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of Jerusalem, for they did not receive him into the sepulchers of the kings of Israel. Hezekiah his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 29

1 Therefore Hezekiah began to reign when he was twenty-five years old, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Abijah daughter of Zechariah.

2 He did what was pleasing in the sight of the Lord, according to everything David his father had done.

3 In the first year and first month of his reign, he opened the doors of the house of the Lord and restored them.

4 He brought the priests and Levites and gathered them in the eastern square.

5 He said to them, "Hear me, Levites. Be sanctified, cleanse the house of the Lord, the God of your fathers, and remove every impurity from the sanctuary.

6 Our fathers sinned and did evil in the sight of the Lord our God, forsaking him. They turned their faces away from the tabernacle of the Lord and presented their backs.

7 They closed the doors in the portico, extinguished the lamps, did not burn incense, and did not offer holocausts in the sanctuary to the God of Israel.

8 Therefore the fury of the Lord was stirred against Judah and Jerusalem. He delivered them into commotion, destruction, and hissing, as you yourselves see with your own eyes.

9 Behold, our fathers fell by swords, and our sons, daughters, and wives were led captive because of this crime.

10 Now therefore it pleases me that we enter into a covenant with the Lord God of Israel, and he will turn the fury of his anger away from us.

11 My sons, do not be negligent. The Lord has chosen you to stand before him, minister to him, worship him, and burn incense to him."

12 Therefore the Levites arose: from the sons of Kohath, Mahath son of Amasai and Joel son of Azariah; from the sons of Merari, Kish son of Abdi and Azariah son of Jehallelel; and from the sons of Gershon, Joah son of Zimmah and Eden son of Joah.

13 From the sons of Elizaphan: Shimri and Jehiel; from the sons of Asaph: Zechariah and Mattaniah;

14 from the sons of Heman: Jehiel and Shimei; and from the sons of Jeduthun: Shemaiah and Uzziel.

15 They gathered their brothers, were sanctified, and entered according to the king's command and the Lord's decree to cleanse the house of God.

16 The priests also entered the temple of the Lord to sanctify it. They brought every impurity they found within out to the vestibule of the house of the Lord. The Levites took it and carried it outside to the torrent Kidron.

17 They began cleansing on the first day of the first month. On the eighth day of that month they entered the portico of the temple of the Lord. They cleansed the temple for eight days, and on the sixteenth day of that same month they completed what they had begun.

18 They went in to King Hezekiah and said to him, "We have sanctified the whole house of the Lord, the altar of holocaust and its vessels, and the table of proposition with all its vessels,

19 as well as all the furnishings of the temple that King Ahaz polluted during his reign after he transgressed. Behold, everything is displayed before the altar of the Lord."

20 King Hezekiah arose at daybreak, gathered all the princes of the city, and went up into the house of the Lord.

21 Together they offered seven bulls, seven rams, seven lambs, and seven male goats for sin—for the kingdom, the sanctuary, and Judah. He commanded the priests, the sons of Aaron, to offer them upon the altar of the Lord.

22 Therefore they slaughtered the bulls, and the priests received the blood and poured it upon the altar. They also slaughtered the rams and poured their blood upon the altar. They sacrificed the lambs and poured the blood upon the altar.

23 They brought the male goats for sin before the king and the whole multitude, and they laid their hands upon them.

24 The priests sacrificed them and sprinkled their blood before the altar as an expiation for all Israel. For the king had commanded that a holocaust and a sin offering be made for all Israel.

25 He also appointed the Levites in the house of the Lord with cymbals, psalteries, and harps according to the arrangement of King David, Gad the seer, and Nathan the prophet, for it was the Lord's command by the hand of his prophets.

26 The Levites stood holding David's instruments, and the priests held the trumpets.

27 Hezekiah commanded that holocausts be offered upon the altar. When the holocausts were offered, they began to sing praises to the Lord, sound the trumpets, and resound upon the diverse instruments King David of Israel had prepared.

28 While the whole multitude adored, the singers and those holding the trumpets remained in their office until the holocaust was completed.

29 When the offering was finished, the king and all who were with him bowed down and adored.

30 Hezekiah and the princes commanded the Levites to praise the Lord with the words of David and Asaph the seer. They praised him with great gladness and, bowing the knee, adored.

31 Hezekiah added these words: “You have filled your hands to the Lord. Draw near and offer victims and praises in the house of the Lord.” Therefore the whole multitude offered sacrifices, praises, and holocausts with a devoted mind.

32 This was the number of holocausts the multitude offered: seventy bulls, one hundred rams, and two hundred lambs.

33 They sanctified to the Lord six hundred oxen and three thousand sheep.

34 But the priests were few and could not suffice to strip the skins from the holocausts. Therefore their brothers the Levites helped them until the work was completed and the priests were sanctified, for the Levites are sanctified by an easier rite than the priests.

35 Thus there were very many holocausts, the fat of peace offerings, and libations of the holocausts; and the worship of the house of the Lord was completed.

36 Hezekiah and all the people rejoiced because the ministry of the Lord had been fulfilled, for it had pleased them that this be done suddenly.

CHAPTER 30

1 Hezekiah also sent to all Israel and Judah and wrote letters to Ephraim and Manasseh, so that they might come to the house of the Lord in Jerusalem and celebrate the Passover to the Lord God of Israel.

2 Therefore, after the king, the princes, and the whole assembly of Jerusalem had taken counsel, they resolved to celebrate the Passover in the second month.

3 For they had not been able to celebrate it at its appointed time because a sufficient number of priests had not been sanctified, and the people had not yet gathered in Jerusalem.

4 The word pleased the king and the whole multitude.

5 They resolved to send messengers throughout all Israel, from Beersheba to Dan, so that they might come and celebrate the Passover to the Lord God of Israel in Jerusalem, for many had not done so as prescribed by the law.

6 The couriers went with letters by command of the king and his princes throughout all Israel and Judah, according to what the king had ordered, proclaiming, “Sons of Israel, return to the Lord, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, and he will return to the remnant who escaped the hand of the king of the Assyrians.

7 Do not become like your fathers and brothers, who withdrew from the Lord, the God of their fathers, and whom he delivered to destruction, as you yourselves see.

8 Do not harden your necks as your fathers did. Give your hands to the Lord and come to his sanctuary, which he sanctified forever. Serve the Lord, the God of your fathers, and the anger of his fury will turn away from you.

9 For if you return to the Lord, your brothers and sons will receive mercy before their lords who led them captive, and they will return to this land. For the Lord your God is pious and merciful and will not turn his face away from you if you return to him.”

10 Therefore the couriers passed swiftly from city to city through the land of Ephraim and Manasseh as far as Zebulun, while the people mocked and scorned them.

11 Nevertheless, some men from Asher, Manasseh, and Zebulun yielded to the counsel and came to Jerusalem.

12 But in Judah the hand of the Lord came to give them one heart, so that they would carry out the word of the Lord according to the command of the king and the princes.

13 Many peoples gathered in Jerusalem to celebrate the solemnity of Unleavened Bread in the second month.

14 They arose and destroyed the altars that were in Jerusalem. Overturning all the places where incense had been burned to idols, they cast them into the torrent Kidron.

15 They sacrificed the Passover on the fourteenth day of the second month. The priests and Levites, finally sanctified, offered holocausts in the house of the Lord.

16 They stood in their order according to the arrangement and law of Moses the man of God. The priests received from the hands of the Levites the blood that was to be poured out,

17 because a great portion of the multitude had not been sanctified. Therefore the Levites sacrificed the Passover for those who had not managed to be sanctified to the Lord.

18 A great part of the people from Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun, who had not been sanctified, ate the Passover contrary to what is written. Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, “May the good Lord be propitious

19 to everyone who seeks the Lord, the God of their fathers, with their whole heart, and may he not impute to them that they are less fully sanctified.”

20 The Lord heard him and was placated toward the people.

21 The sons of Israel who were found in Jerusalem celebrated the solemnity of Unleavened Bread for seven days with great gladness, praising the Lord day by day, while the Levites and priests played the instruments suited to their office.

22 Hezekiah spoke to the heart of all the Levites who had good understanding concerning the Lord. They ate throughout the seven days of the solemnity, sacrificing peace offerings and praising the Lord, the God of their fathers.

23 It pleased the whole multitude to celebrate another seven days, which they did with immense joy.

24 For Hezekiah king of Judah had provided the multitude with one thousand bulls and seven thousand sheep, while the princes gave the people one thousand bulls and ten thousand sheep. Therefore a very great multitude of priests was sanctified.

25 Gladness poured over the whole assembly of Judah: the priests and Levites, the entire gathering that had come from Israel, the proselytes from the land of Israel, and those dwelling in Judah.

26 There was a great celebration in Jerusalem, such as had not been in that city since the days of Solomon son of David, king of Israel.

27 The priests and Levites arose and blessed the people. Their voice was heard, and their prayer reached the holy dwelling of heaven.

CHAPTER 31

1 When these things had been duly celebrated, all Israel who were present went out into the cities of Judah. They broke the images, cut down the groves, demolished the high places, and destroyed the altars—not only throughout Judah and Benjamin, but also in Ephraim and Manasseh—until they had utterly overthrown them. Then all the sons of Israel returned to their possessions and cities.

2 Hezekiah appointed the priestly and Levitical companies according to their divisions, each one in his proper office—both priests and Levites—for holocausts and peace offerings, so that they might minister, confess, and sing at the gates of the camp of the Lord.

3 The king's portion from his own substance was for the continual holocaust in the morning and evening, on Sabbaths, new moons, and the other solemnities, as it is written in the law of Moses.

4 He also commanded the people dwelling in Jerusalem to give portions to the priests and Levites, so that they might be free for the law of the Lord.

5 When this resounded in the ears of the multitude, the sons of Israel offered abundant firstfruits of grain, wine, and oil, as well as honey and everything the ground produces; and they offered tithes.

6 The sons of Israel and Judah who dwelt in the cities of Judah also offered tithes of oxen and sheep and tithes of the sacred things they had vowed to the Lord their God. Carrying everything in, they made very many heaps.

7 In the third month they began to lay the foundations of the heaps, and in the seventh month they completed them.

8 When Hezekiah and his princes entered, they saw the heaps and blessed the Lord and the people of Israel.

9 Hezekiah asked the priests and Levites why the heaps lay in this manner.

10 Azariah, the chief priest from the stock of Zadok, answered him, saying, "From the time the firstfruits began to be offered in the house of the Lord, we have eaten and been satisfied, and very much remains, because the Lord has blessed his people. This abundance that you see is what remains."

11 Therefore Hezekiah commanded that storerooms be prepared in the house of the Lord. When they had done this,

12 they faithfully brought in the firstfruits, tithes, and everything they had vowed. Chenaniah the Levite was their governor, and Shimei his brother was second.

13 After him, Jehiel, Azariah, Nahath, Asahel, Jeremoth, Jehozabad, Eliel, Ismachiah, Mahath, and Benaiah were overseers under the hands of Chenaniah and Shimei his brother, by the command of King Hezekiah and Azariah the high priest of the house of God, to whom all these things pertained.

14 Kore son of Imnah the Levite, gatekeeper of the eastern gate, was over the things offered willingly to the Lord, the firstfruits, and the things consecrated in the Holy of Holies.

15 Under his care were Eden, Benjamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah in the cities of the priests, so that they might faithfully distribute portions to their brothers, to the lesser as well as the greater,

16 apart from the males three years old and upward, to all who entered the temple of the Lord, and whatever each day required in the ministry and observances according to their divisions;

17 to the priests according to their families, and to the Levites from twenty years old and upward according to their orders and companies;

18 and to the whole multitude, including their wives and children of both sexes. Food from the things that had been sanctified was faithfully provided.

19 For the sons of Aaron in the fields and suburbs of every city, men were appointed to distribute portions to every male among the priests and Levites.

20 Therefore Hezekiah did all the things we have described throughout Judah. He worked what was good, right, and true before the Lord his God.

21 In all the worship and ministry of the house of the Lord, according to the law and ceremonies, he desired to seek his God with his whole heart. He acted and prospered.

CHAPTER 32

1 After these things and this faithfulness, Sennacherib king of the Assyrians came and entered Judah. He besieged the fortified cities, desiring to seize them.

2 When Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib had come and that the whole force of the war was turning against Jerusalem,

3 he took counsel with the princes and exceedingly valiant men to stop the sources of the fountains that were outside the city, and everyone agreed with this judgment.

4 He gathered a very great multitude, and they stopped all the fountains and the stream that flowed through the middle of the land, saying, “Lest the kings of the Assyrians come and find an abundance of water.”

5 He also acted industriously, rebuilt the entire wall that had been broken down, erected towers upon it, and built another wall outside. He restored the Millo in the city of David and made armor and shields of every kind.

6 He appointed commanders of the fighting men in the army, summoned everyone to the square at the city gate, and spoke to their heart, saying,

7 “Act manfully and be strengthened. Do not fear or be dismayed by the king of the Assyrians and the whole multitude with him, for there are many more with us than with him.

8 With him is an arm of flesh; with us is the Lord our God, who is our helper and fights for us.” The people were strengthened by words of this kind from Hezekiah king of Judah.

9 After these things had been done, Sennacherib king of the Assyrians sent his servants to Jerusalem—while he himself with his whole army besieged Lachish—to Hezekiah king of Judah and to all the people who were in the city, saying,

10 “Thus says Sennacherib king of the Assyrians: In what do you trust that you remain besieged in Jerusalem?

11 Does Hezekiah not deceive you, delivering you to death by famine and thirst when he affirms that the Lord your God will deliver you from the hand of the king of the Assyrians?

12 Is this not the Hezekiah who destroyed his high places and altars and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, saying, ‘You shall adore before one altar, and upon it you shall burn incense’?

13 Do you not know what I and my fathers have done to all the peoples of the lands? Were the gods of the nations and of all the lands able to deliver their own region from my hand?

14 Who among all the gods of the nations my fathers devastated was able to rescue his people from my hand, so that your God should also be able to rescue you from this hand?

15 Therefore do not let Hezekiah deceive you or delude you with vain persuasion, and do not believe him. For if no god of all the nations and kingdoms was able to deliver his people from my hand or the hand of my fathers, consequently your God will not be able to rescue you from my hand.”

16 His servants also spoke many other things against the Lord God and against Hezekiah his servant.

17 He also wrote letters full of blasphemy against the Lord God of Israel and spoke against him: “Just as the gods of the other nations could not deliver their people from my hand, so the God of Hezekiah will not be able to rescue his people from this hand.”

18 Moreover, with a great shout in the language of Judah, he resounded against the people sitting upon the walls of Jerusalem, so that he might terrify them and seize the city.

19 He spoke against the God of Jerusalem as against the gods of the peoples of the earth, the works of human hands.

20 Therefore King Hezekiah and Isaiah son of Amoz the prophet prayed against this blasphemy and cried out as far as heaven.

21 The Lord sent an angel who struck every strong man, fighting man, and commander in the army of the king of the Assyrians. He returned with disgrace to his own land, and when he entered the house of his god, the sons who had come forth from his own womb killed him with the sword.

22 The Lord saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib king of the Assyrians and from the hand of all others, and he gave them rest round about.

23 Many also brought offerings and sacrifices to the Lord in Jerusalem and gifts to Hezekiah king of Judah, who after these things was exalted before all the nations.

24 In those days Hezekiah became ill unto death and prayed to the Lord. The Lord heard him and gave him a sign.

25 But he did not repay according to the benefits he had received, because his heart was lifted up. Therefore wrath came against him and against Judah and Jerusalem.

26 Afterward he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem were humbled because his heart had been exalted. Therefore the wrath of the Lord did not come upon them in the days of Hezekiah.

27 Hezekiah was exceedingly rich and renowned. He gathered for himself very many treasuries of silver, gold, precious stone, aromatics, every kind of weapon, and vessels of great price;

28 also storehouses of grain, wine, and oil, stalls for every beast of burden, and sheepfolds;

29 and he built cities for himself. For he had innumerable flocks of sheep and herds, because the Lord had given him exceedingly great substance.

30 This is the Hezekiah who stopped the upper fountain of the waters of Gihon and diverted them underground to the west of the city of David. In all his works he prosperously accomplished what he desired.

31 Nevertheless, during the embassy of the princes of Babylon who had been sent to him to inquire about the wonder that had happened upon the land, God forsook him so that he might be tested and everything in his heart might be made known.

32 The rest of Hezekiah's words and his mercies are written in the vision of Isaiah son of Amoz the prophet and in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

33 Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him above the sepulchers of the sons of David. All Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem celebrated his funeral rites. Manasseh his son reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 33

1 Manasseh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem.

2 He did evil before the Lord according to the abominations of the nations whom the Lord had overthrown before the sons of Israel.

3 Turning back, he restored the high places Hezekiah his father had demolished. He built altars for the Baals, made groves, adored the whole army of heaven, and worshiped it.

4 He also built altars in the house of the Lord, concerning which the Lord had said, “My name shall be in Jerusalem forever.”

5 He built them for the whole army of heaven in the two courts of the house of the Lord.

6 He caused his sons to pass through fire in the Valley of Ben-hinnom. He observed dreams, pursued auguries, served malefic arts, and kept magicians and enchanters with him. He worked many evils before the Lord to provoke him.

7 He also placed a sculpted and cast image in the house of God, concerning which God had spoken to David and Solomon his son, saying, “In this house and in Jerusalem, which I chose from all the tribes of Israel, I shall place my name forever.

8 I shall not cause Israel’s foot to move from the land I delivered to their fathers, provided only that they keep and carry out what I commanded them—the whole law, ceremonies, and judgments by the hand of Moses.”

9 Therefore Manasseh seduced Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem into doing evil beyond all the nations the Lord had overthrown before the face of the sons of Israel.

10 The Lord spoke to him and his people, but they were unwilling to attend.

11 Therefore he brought upon them the commanders of the army of the king of the Assyrians. They captured Manasseh, bound him with chains and fetters, and led him to Babylon.

12 After he was brought into distress, he prayed to the Lord his God and did very great penance before the God of his fathers.

13 He prayed to him and implored him earnestly. God heard his prayer and brought him back to Jerusalem into his kingdom, and Manasseh knew that the Lord himself was God.

14 After these things, he built a wall outside the city of David, west of Gihon in the valley, from the entrance of the Fish Gate round about as far as Ophel, and he raised it exceedingly high. He also appointed army commanders in all the fortified cities of Judah.

15 He removed the foreign gods and the image from the house of the Lord, as well as the altars he had made upon the mountain of the house of the Lord and in Jerusalem, and he cast everything outside the city.

16 He restored the altar of the Lord and sacrificed upon it victims, peace offerings, and praise. He commanded Judah to serve the Lord God of Israel.

17 Nevertheless, the people still sacrificed upon the high places to the Lord their God.

18 The rest of Manasseh’s deeds, his supplication to his God, and the words of the seers who spoke to him in the name of the Lord God of Israel are contained in the words of the kings of Israel.

19 His prayer and its hearing, all his sins and contempt, and the places where he built high places and made groves and statues before he did penance are written in the words of Hozai.

20 Therefore Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his own house. Amon his son reigned in his place.

21 Amon was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem.

22 He did evil in the sight of the Lord as Manasseh his father had done. He sacrificed to and served all the idols Manasseh had fashioned.

23 He did not revere the face of the Lord as Manasseh his father had revered it, and he transgressed far more greatly.

24 His servants conspired against him and killed him in his own house.

25 But the remaining multitude of the people killed those who had struck Amon and appointed Josiah his son as king in his place.

CHAPTER 34

1 Josiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem.

2 He did what was right in the sight of the Lord and walked in the ways of David his father. He turned aside neither to the right nor to the left.

3 In the eighth year of his reign, while he was still a boy, he began to seek the God of David his father. In the twelfth year after he began to reign, he cleansed Judah and Jerusalem from the high places, groves, images, and carved figures.

4 They destroyed the altars of the Baals before him and demolished the images that had been placed upon them. He cut down and crushed the groves and carved figures and scattered their fragments over the tombs of those who had customarily sacrificed to them.

5 Moreover, he burned the bones of the priests upon the altars of the idols and cleansed Judah and Jerusalem.

6 In the cities of Manasseh, Ephraim, and Simeon, as far as Naphtali, he also overturned everything.

7 When he had scattered the altars, crushed the groves and carved figures into fragments, and demolished all the shrines throughout the whole land of Israel, he returned to Jerusalem.

8 Therefore in the eighteenth year of his reign, when the land and the temple of the Lord had already been cleansed, he sent Shaphan son of Azaliah, Maaseiah prince of the city, and Joah son of Jehoahaz the recorder to restore the house of the Lord his God.

9 They came to Hilkiah the high priest and received from him the money that had been brought into the house of the Lord, which the Levites and gatekeepers had gathered from Manasseh, Ephraim, all the remnant of Israel, all Judah and Benjamin, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

10 They delivered it into the hands of those who were over the laborers in the house of the Lord, so that they might restore the temple and repair everything weak.

11 They gave it to the craftsmen and masons so that they might purchase stone from the quarries, timber for the joints of the building, and flooring for the houses the kings of Judah had destroyed.

12 They did everything faithfully. The overseers of the laborers were Jahath and Obadiah from the sons of Merari, and Zechariah and Meshullam from the sons of Kohath, who pressed the work forward. All were Levites skilled in playing instruments.

13 Over those who carried burdens for diverse uses were scribes and teachers from the Levites, as well as gatekeepers.

14 When they brought out the money that had been carried into the temple of the Lord, Hilkiah the priest found the book of the law of the Lord by the hand of Moses.

15 He said to Shaphan the scribe, “I have found the book of the law in the house of the Lord,” and he delivered it to him.

16 Shaphan carried the volume to the king and reported to him, saying, “Behold, everything you delivered into the hand of your servants is being completed.

17 They melted down the silver found in the house of the Lord, and it has been given to the overseers of the craftsmen and the makers of diverse works.

18 Moreover, Hilkiah the priest gave me this book.” He read it in the king’s presence.

19 When the king heard the words of the law, he tore his garments.

20 He commanded Hilkiah, Ahikam son of Shaphan, Abdon son of Micah, Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah the king’s servant, saying,

21 “Go and pray to the Lord for me and for the remnant of Israel and Judah concerning all the words of this book that has been found. For the great fury of the Lord has dripped upon us because our fathers did not keep the words of the Lord by doing everything written in this volume.”

22 Therefore Hilkiah and those who had been sent with him by the king went to Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tokhath, son of Hasrah, keeper of the garments, who dwelt in the Second Quarter of Jerusalem. They spoke to her the words recounted above.

23 She answered them, “Thus says the Lord God of Israel: Tell the man who sent you to me,

24 ‘Thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall bring evils upon this place and its inhabitants, together with all the curses written in this book that they read before the king of Judah.

25 Because they forsook me and sacrificed to foreign gods so that they might provoke me to anger with all the works of their hands, my fury shall therefore drip upon this place and shall not be extinguished.’

26 But to the king of Judah who sent you to pray to the Lord, speak in this manner: ‘Thus says the Lord God of Israel: Because you heard the words of the volume,

27 your heart was softened, and you humbled yourself in the sight of God concerning the things spoken against this place and the inhabitants of Jerusalem; because you revered my face, tore your garments, and wept before me, I also have heard you, says the Lord.

28 For now I shall gather you to your fathers, and you shall be carried into your sepulcher in peace. Your eyes shall not see all the evil that I shall bring upon this place and its inhabitants.’” Therefore they reported to the king everything she had said.

29 The king summoned all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem.

30 He went up into the house of the Lord, and with him went all the men of Judah, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the priests and Levites, and all the people from the least to the greatest. As they listened in the house of the Lord, the king read all the words of the volume.

31 Standing upon his tribunal, he struck a covenant before the Lord to walk after him, keep his commandments, testimonies, and justifications with his whole heart and his whole soul, and carry out the things written in the volume he had read.

32 He also adjured concerning this all who were found in Jerusalem and Benjamin, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem acted according to the pact of the Lord, the God of their fathers.

33 Therefore Josiah removed all the abominations from all the regions of the sons of Israel and caused everyone who remained in Israel to serve the Lord their God. Throughout all his days they did not withdraw from the Lord, the God of their fathers.

CHAPTER 35

1 Josiah celebrated the Passover to the Lord in Jerusalem, and it was sacrificed on the fourteenth day of the first month.

2 He appointed the priests in their offices and exhorted them to minister in the house of the Lord.

3 He also spoke to the Levites, by whose instruction all Israel was sanctified to the Lord: “Place the ark in the sanctuary of the temple that Solomon son of David, king of Israel, built, for you shall no longer carry it. Now minister to the Lord your God and to his people Israel.

4 Prepare yourselves according to your houses and kindreds, in each one’s divisions, as David king of Israel commanded and Solomon his son described.

5 Minister in the sanctuary according to the Levitical families and companies,

6 and, being sanctified, sacrifice the Passover. Prepare your brothers also so that they may act according to the words the Lord spoke by the hand of Moses.”

7 Moreover, for all the people found there at the solemnity of the Passover, Josiah gave thirty thousand lambs and kids from the flocks and other livestock, together with three thousand oxen. These were from the king’s entire substance.

8 His commanders also willingly offered what they had vowed, both to the people and to the priests and Levites. Hilkiah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, princes of the house of the Lord, gave the priests two thousand six hundred animals of mixed kinds and three hundred oxen for celebrating the Passover.

9 Chenaniah, Shemaiah, and Nethanel his brothers, and Hashabiah, Jehiel, and Jehozabad, princes of the Levites, gave the remaining Levites five thousand animals and five hundred oxen for celebrating the Passover.

10 The ministry was prepared, and the priests stood in their office and the Levites in their companies according to the king’s command.

11 The Passover was sacrificed. The priests sprinkled the blood with their own hand, and the Levites stripped the skins from the holocausts.

12 They separated them so that they might distribute them according to each house and family and they might be offered to the Lord as it is written in the book of Moses. They did likewise with the oxen.

13 They roasted the Passover over fire according to what is written in the law, but they cooked the peace offerings in cauldrons, pans, and pots and distributed them quickly to all the common people.

14 Afterward they prepared food for themselves and the priests, for the priests were occupied with offering the holocausts and fat until night. Therefore the Levites prepared food last for themselves and for the priests, the sons of Aaron.

15 The singers, the sons of Asaph, stood in their order according to the command of David, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, the king’s prophets. The gatekeepers watched at each gate so that they did not depart from their ministry even for a moment; therefore their brothers the Levites prepared food for them.

16 Thus all the worship of the Lord was duly completed on that day, so that they celebrated the Passover and offered holocausts upon the altar of the Lord according to King Josiah’s command.

17 The sons of Israel who were found there celebrated the Passover at that time and the solemnity of Unleavened Bread for seven days.

18 There had been no Passover like this in Israel since the days of Samuel the prophet. Nor did any king from all the kings of Israel celebrate a Passover as Josiah did, with the priests, the Levites, all Judah and Israel who were found there, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

19 This Passover was celebrated in the eighteenth year of Josiah’s reign.

20 After Josiah had restored the temple, Necho king of Egypt went up to fight at Carchemish beside the Euphrates, and Josiah went out to meet him.

21 Necho sent messengers to him, saying, “What is there between me and you, king of Judah? I am not coming against you today, but I am fighting against another house to which God commanded me to go quickly. Cease acting against God, who is with me, lest he kill you.”

22 Josiah was unwilling to return but prepared war against him. He did not yield to Necho’s words from the mouth of God, but proceeded to fight in the field of Megiddo.

23 There he was wounded by archers and said to his servants, “Carry me out from the battle, for I am severely wounded.”

24 They transferred him from his chariot into another chariot that followed him according to royal custom and carried him to Jerusalem. He died and was buried in the mausoleum of his fathers, and all Judah and Jerusalem mourned him.

25 Jeremiah mourned especially. All the male and female singers repeat lamentations over Josiah to the present day, and it has prevailed as though a law in Israel. Behold, it is said to be written in the Lamentations.

26 The rest of Josiah’s words and his mercies, which are commanded by the law of the Lord, 27 as well as his former and latter works, are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

CHAPTER 36

1 Therefore the people of the land took Jehoahaz son of Josiah and appointed him king in place of his father in Jerusalem.

2 Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem.

3 The king of Egypt removed him when he came to Jerusalem and condemned the land to one hundred talents of silver and one talent of gold.

4 He appointed Eliakim, Jehoahaz's brother, as king over Judah and Jerusalem in his place and changed his name to Jehoiakim. But he took Jehoahaz with him and led him away into Egypt.

5 Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. He did evil before the Lord his God.

6 Nebuchadnezzar king of the Chaldeans went up against him, bound him with chains, and led him to Babylon.

7 He also transferred the vessels of the Lord there and placed them in his own temple.

8 The rest of Jehoiakim's words, the abominations he committed, and the things found in him are contained in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel. Jehoiachin his son reigned in his place.

9 Jehoiachin was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months and ten days in Jerusalem. He did evil in the sight of the Lord.

10 When the cycle of the year had revolved, King Nebuchadnezzar sent men who brought him to Babylon, carrying away at the same time the most precious vessels of the house of the Lord. He appointed Zedekiah, Jehoiachin's paternal uncle, as king over Judah and Jerusalem.

11 Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem.

12 He did evil in the eyes of the Lord his God and did not blush before the face of Jeremiah the prophet, who spoke to him from the mouth of the Lord.

13 He also withdrew from King Nebuchadnezzar, who had adjured him by God. He hardened his neck and his heart so that he would not return to the Lord God of Israel.

14 All the princes of the priests and the people also transgressed iniquitously according to all the abominations of the nations, and they polluted the house of the Lord that he had sanctified for himself in Jerusalem.

15 The Lord, the God of their fathers, sent to them by the hand of his messengers, rising by night and admonishing them day by day, because he spared his people and his dwelling.

16 But they scorned the messengers of God, esteemed his words as little, and mocked the prophets until the fury of the Lord rose against his people and there was no healing.

17 For he brought the king of the Chaldeans upon them, and he killed their young men with the sword in the house of his sanctuary. He had no mercy upon young man, maiden, old man, or even the decrepit, but delivered everyone into his hands.

18 He transferred to Babylon all the vessels of the house of the Lord, both greater and lesser, and the treasuries of the temple, the king, and the princes.

19 The enemies burned the house of God and destroyed the wall of Jerusalem. They burned all its towers and demolished everything that had been precious.

20 Whoever escaped the sword was led to Babylon and served the king and his sons until the king of the Persians ruled,

21 so that the word of the Lord from the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled and the land might celebrate its Sabbaths. For throughout all the days of desolation it kept Sabbath until seventy years were completed.

22 In the first year of Cyrus king of the Persians, to fulfill the word of the Lord that he had spoken by the mouth of Jeremiah, the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of the Persians. He commanded a proclamation to be made throughout his entire kingdom, even in writing, saying,

23 "Thus says Cyrus king of the Persians: The Lord God of heaven has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he has commanded me to build him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judea. Who among you is from all his people? May the Lord his God be with him, and let him ascend."

BOOK FIFTEEN: EZRA

CHAPTER 1

1 In the first year of Cyrus king of the Persians, that the word of the Lord (YHWH) from the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the Lord stirred the spirit of Cyrus king of the Persians. He caused a proclamation to pass throughout his whole kingdom, also in writing, saying:

2 “Thus says Cyrus king of the Persians: The Lord God of heaven has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he himself has commanded me to build him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judea.

3 Who among you is from all his people? May his God be with him. Let him ascend to Jerusalem, which is in Judea, and build the house of the Lord God of Israel. He is the God who is in Jerusalem.

4 And let all the others, in every place wherever they dwell, be helped by the men of their place with silver and gold, goods and livestock, besides what they offer voluntarily to the temple of God that is in Jerusalem.”

5 Then the chiefs of the fathers of Judah and Benjamin arose, with the priests and Levites and everyone whose spirit God had stirred, to ascend and build the temple of the Lord that was in Jerusalem.

6 And all who were around them strengthened their hands with vessels of silver and gold, goods, pack animals, and furnishings, besides what they had offered freely.

7 King Cyrus also brought out the vessels of the temple of the Lord that Nebuchadnezzar had taken from Jerusalem and placed in the temple of his god.

8 Cyrus king of the Persians brought them out by the hand of Mithridates son of Gazabar, who counted them out to Sheshbazzar, prince of Judah.

9 This is their number: thirty golden bowls, one thousand silver bowls, twenty-nine knives, thirty golden cups,

10 four hundred ten silver cups of a second kind, and one thousand other vessels.

11 All the vessels of gold and silver numbered five thousand four hundred. Sheshbazzar carried them all up with those ascending from the transmigration of Babylon to Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 2

1 Now these are the sons of the province who ascended from the captivity, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had carried away to Babylon, and who returned to Jerusalem and Judah, each to his own city.

2 They came with Zerubbabel, Joshua, Nehemiah, Saraiah, Rahelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum, and Baanah. The number of the men of the people of Israel:

3 the sons of Parosh, two thousand one hundred seventy-two.

4 The sons of Shephatiah, three hundred seventy-two.

5 The sons of Arah, seven hundred seventy-five.

6 The sons of Pahath-moab, of the sons of Joshua and Joab, two thousand eight hundred twelve.

7 The sons of Elam, one thousand two hundred fifty-four.

8 The sons of Zattu, nine hundred forty-five.

9 The sons of Zaccai, seven hundred sixty.

10 The sons of Bani, six hundred forty-two.

11 The sons of Bebai, six hundred twenty-three.

12 The sons of Azgad, one thousand two hundred twenty-two.

13 The sons of Adonikam, six hundred sixty-six.

14 The sons of Bigvai, two thousand fifty-six.

15 The sons of Adin, four hundred fifty-four.

16 The sons of Ater, who were of Hezekiah, ninety-eight.

17 The sons of Bezai, three hundred twenty-three.

18 The sons of Jorah, one hundred twelve.

19 The sons of Hashum, two hundred twenty-three.

20 The sons of Gibbar, ninety-five.

21 The sons of Bethlehem, one hundred twenty-three.

22 The men of Netophah, fifty-six.

23 The men of Anathoth, one hundred twenty-eight.

24 The sons of Azmaveth, forty-two.

25 The sons of Kiriath-jearim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, seven hundred forty-three.

26 The sons of Ramah and Geba, six hundred twenty-one.

27 The men of Michmash, one hundred twenty-two.

28 The men of Bethel and Ai, two hundred twenty-three.

29 The sons of Nebo, fifty-two.

30 The sons of Magbish, one hundred fifty-six.

31 The sons of the other Elam, one thousand two hundred fifty-four.

32 The sons of Harim, three hundred twenty.

33 The sons of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, seven hundred twenty-five.

34 The sons of Jericho, three hundred forty-five.

35 The sons of Senaah, three thousand six hundred thirty.

36 The priests: the sons of Jedaiah in the house of Joshua, nine hundred seventy-three.

37 The sons of Immer, one thousand fifty-two.

38 The sons of Pashhur, one thousand two hundred forty-seven.

39 The sons of Harim, one thousand seventeen.

40 The Levites: the sons of Joshua and Kadmiel, of the sons of Hodaviah, seventy-four.

41 The singers: the sons of Asaph, one hundred twenty-eight.

42 The sons of the gatekeepers: the sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of Hatita, and the sons of Shobai—in all, one hundred thirty-nine.

43 The Nathinim: the sons of Ziha, the sons of Hasupha, the sons of Tabbaoth,

44 the sons of Keros, the sons of Siaha, the sons of Padon,

45 the sons of Lebanah, the sons of Hagabah, the sons of Akkub,

46 the sons of Hagab, the sons of Shamlai, the sons of Hanan,

47 the sons of Giddel, the sons of Gahar, the sons of Reaiah,

48 the sons of Rezin, the sons of Nekoda, the sons of Gazzam,

49 the sons of Uzza, the sons of Paseah, the sons of Besai,

50 the sons of Asnah, the sons of Meunim, the sons of Nephusim,

51 the sons of Bakbuk, the sons of Hakupha, the sons of Harhur,

52 the sons of Bazluth, the sons of Mehida, the sons of Harsha,

53 the sons of Barkos, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah,

54 the sons of Neziah, the sons of Hatipha,

55 the sons of Solomon’s servants: the sons of Sotai, the sons of Sophereth, the sons of Peruda,

56 the sons of Jaalah, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel,

57 the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth, who were of Asebaim, and the sons of Ami.

58 All the Nathinim and the sons of Solomon’s servants numbered three hundred ninety-two.

59 And these were those who ascended from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addan, and Immer, but they could not indicate their fathers’ house and their seed—whether they were of Israel:

60 the sons of Delaiah, the sons of Tobiah, and the sons of Nekoda, six hundred fifty-two.

61 And from the sons of the priests: the sons of Habaiah, the sons of Hakkoz, and the sons of Barzillai, who took a wife from the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite and was called by their name.

62 These sought the writing of their genealogy and did not find it, and they were cast out of the priesthood.

63 And the Tirshatha told them not to eat from the Holy of Holies until a learned and perfect priest should arise.

64 The whole multitude, as one, numbered forty-two thousand three hundred sixty,

65 besides their male and female servants, who numbered seven thousand three hundred thirty-seven; and among them were two hundred male and female singers.

66 Their horses numbered seven hundred thirty-six, their mules two hundred forty-five,

67 their camels four hundred thirty-five, and their donkeys six thousand seven hundred twenty.

68 And some of the chiefs of the fathers, when they entered the temple of the Lord that is in Jerusalem, freely offered to the house of God for rebuilding it upon its own site.

69 According to their strength, they gave toward the expenses of the work sixty-one thousand gold solidi, five thousand silver minas, and one hundred priestly garments.

70 Therefore the priests, the Levites, some of the people, the singers, the gatekeepers, and the Nathinim dwelt in their cities, and all Israel in their cities.

CHAPTER 3

1 And now the seventh month had come, and the sons of Israel were in their cities. The people therefore assembled as one man in Jerusalem.

2 Joshua son of Jozadak arose, with his brothers the priests, and Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, with his brothers; and they built the altar of the God of Israel, that they might offer holocausts upon it, as it is written in the law of Moses, the man of God.

3 They set the altar of God upon its bases, while the peoples of the surrounding lands terrified them; and upon it they offered a holocaust to the Lord morning and evening.

4 They celebrated the solemnity of Tabernacles as it is written, and offered the daily holocausts in order, according to the commandment—the work of each day upon its day.

5 And afterward they offered the perpetual holocaust, both at the new moons and at all the consecrated solemnities of the Lord, and whenever anyone freely offered a gift to the Lord.

6 From the first day of the seventh month they began to offer holocausts to the Lord, although the temple of God had not yet been founded.

7 They gave money to the stonecutters and masons, and food, drink, and oil to the Sidonians and Tyrians, that they might bring cedar wood from Lebanon by sea to Joppa, according to what Cyrus king of the Persians had commanded them.

8 In the second year after their arrival at the temple of God in Jerusalem, in the second month, Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Joshua son of Jozadak began the work, together with the rest of their brothers—the priests and Levites—and all who had come from captivity to Jerusalem. They appointed Levites from twenty years old and upward to press forward the work of the Lord.

9 Joshua and his sons and brothers, Kadmiel and his sons, and the sons of Judah stood as one man to oversee those doing the work in the temple of God, together with the sons of Henadad and their sons and brothers, the Levites.

10 When the masons had founded the temple of the Lord, the priests stood in their vestments with trumpets, and the Levites, sons of Asaph, with cymbals, to praise God according to the direction of David king of Israel.

11 They sang together in hymns and confession to the Lord: “For he is good, for his mercy is forever upon Israel.” And all the people shouted with a great cry in praising the Lord, because the temple of the Lord had been founded.

12 Many of the priests and Levites, the chiefs of the fathers, and the elders who had seen the former temple when it stood founded—and now saw this temple before their eyes—wept with a loud voice; while many, shouting for joy, lifted up their voice.

13 No one could distinguish the sound of the joyful shouting from the sound of the people’s weeping, for the people shouted together with a great cry, and the sound was heard far away.

CHAPTER 4

1 Now the enemies of Judah and Benjamin heard that the sons of the captivity were building a temple to the Lord God of Israel.

2 Approaching Zerubbabel and the chiefs of the fathers, they said to them, “Let us build with you, for we seek your God just as you do. Behold, we have offered victims from the days of Esarhaddon king of Assyria, who brought us here.”

3 Zerubbabel, Joshua, and the rest of the chiefs of the fathers of Israel said to them, “It is not for you and us together to build a house to our God; rather, we alone shall build it to the Lord our God, as Cyrus king of the Persians commanded us.”

4 Therefore it came about that the people of the land hindered the hands of the people of Judah and troubled them in building.

5 They hired counselors against them to destroy their counsel throughout all the days of Cyrus king of the Persians and until the reign of Darius king of the Persians.

6 And in the reign of Ahasuerus, at the beginning of his reign, they wrote an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

7 In the days of Artaxerxes, Bishlam, Mithridates, Tabeel, and the rest who belonged to their council wrote to Artaxerxes king of the Persians. The letter of accusation was written in Syriac and read in the Syrian language.

8 Rehum Beelteem and Shimshai the scribe wrote one letter from Jerusalem to King Artaxerxes, of this kind:

9 “Rehum Beelteem, Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their counselors—the Dinites, Apharsathchites, Tarpelites, Apharsites, Archevites, Babylonians, Susanechites, Dehavites, and Elamites,

10 and the rest of the nations whom the great and glorious Asenaphar transferred and caused to dwell in the cities of Samaria and in the other regions beyond the River—in peace.”

11 This is the copy of the letter they sent to him: “To King Artaxerxes, from your servants, the men who are beyond the River: greeting.

12 Let it be known to the king that the Jews who ascended from you to us have come to Jerusalem, a rebellious and most wicked city, which they are building, erecting its walls and joining its masonry.

13 Now therefore let it be known to the king that if this city is built and its walls restored, they will not pay tribute, tax, or annual revenues, and this injury will reach even to the kings.

14 But we, mindful of the salt we eat in the palace, and because we deem it unlawful to behold injuries done to the king, have therefore sent and reported this to the king,

15 that you may search in the books of the histories of your fathers. You will find it written in the records, and you will know that this city is a rebellious city, harmful to kings and provinces, and that wars have been stirred up in it from ancient days. For this reason the city itself was destroyed.

16 We report to the king that if this city is built and its walls restored, you will have no possession beyond the River.”

17 The king sent word to Rehum Beelteem, Shimshai the scribe, the rest of their counselors who dwelt in Samaria, and the others beyond the River, saying: “Greeting and peace.

18 The accusation you sent to us has been read clearly before me.

19 I gave a command, and they searched and found that from ancient days this city has rebelled against kings, and seditions and battles have been stirred up in it.

20 For there were also mighty kings in Jerusalem who ruled the whole region beyond the River and received tribute, tax, and revenues.

21 Now therefore hear the judgment: prohibit those men, so that the city may not be built until perhaps it is commanded by me.

22 See that you do not fulfill this negligently, lest the evil gradually increase against the kings.”

23 Therefore, when the copy of King Artaxerxes’ edict was read before Rehum Beelteem, Shimshai the scribe, and their counselors, they went in haste to Jerusalem, to the Jews, and prohibited them with arm and strength.

24 Then the work of the house of the Lord in Jerusalem ceased and was not done until the second year of the reign of Darius king of the Persians.

CHAPTER 5

1 Now Haggai the prophet and Zechariah son of Iddo prophesied to the Jews who were in Judea and Jerusalem, in the name of the God of Israel.

2 Then Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Joshua son of Jozadak arose and began to build the temple of God in Jerusalem, and with them were the prophets of God helping them.

3 At that same time Tattenai, governor beyond the River, came to them with Shethar-bozenai and their counselors, and they spoke to them thus: “Who gave you counsel to build this house and restore its walls?”

4 To this we answered them with the names of the men who were the authors of that building.

5 But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews, and they could not restrain them. It was agreed that the matter should be referred to Darius, and then they would answer concerning that accusation.

6 A copy of the letter that Tattenai, governor of the region beyond the River, and Shethar-bozenai and his Apharsachite counselors beyond the River sent to King Darius.

7 The message they sent him was written thus: “To King Darius, all peace.

8 Let it be known to the king that we went into the province of Judea, to the house of the great God. It is being built with unpolished stone, and timbers are being laid in the walls. That work is being built diligently and grows in their hands.

9 Therefore we questioned those elders and said to them, ‘Who gave you authority to build this house and restore these walls?’

10 We also asked them their names so that we might report them to you, and we wrote the names of the men who are chiefs among them.

11 They answered us with a message of this kind: ‘We are servants of the God of heaven and earth, and we are building the temple that was erected many years ago, which a great king of Israel built and constructed.

12 But after our fathers provoked the God of heaven to wrath, he delivered them into the hands of Nebuchadnezzar the Chaldean, king of Babylon. He also destroyed this house and transferred its people to Babylon.

13 But in the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon, King Cyrus issued an edict that this house of God should be built.

14 King Cyrus also brought out from the temple of Babylon the golden and silver vessels of the temple of God, which Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the temple in Jerusalem and carried to the temple of Babylon. They were given to one named Sheshbazzar, whom he also appointed prince,

15 and he said to him: “Take these vessels, go, and place them in the temple that is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be built in its place.”

16 Then this Sheshbazzar came and laid the foundations of the temple of God in Jerusalem. From that time until now it has been under construction and is not yet completed.’

17 Now therefore, if it seems good to the king, let him search in the king’s library that is in Babylon to learn whether King Cyrus commanded that the house of God in Jerusalem be built, and let him send us the king’s will concerning this matter.”

CHAPTER 6

1 Then King Darius gave the command, and they searched in the library of books that were deposited in Babylon.

2 And at Ecbatana, which is a fortress in the province of Media, one scroll was found, and in it a record was written thus:

3 “In the first year of King Cyrus, King Cyrus decreed that the house of God in Jerusalem should be built in the place where they offer victims, and that they should lay foundations supporting a height of sixty cubits and a width of sixty cubits,

4 with three courses of unpolished stones and then courses of new timber; and the expenses shall be given from the king’s house.

5 Moreover, let the golden and silver vessels of the temple of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took from the temple of Jerusalem and brought to Babylon, be restored and carried back to the temple in Jerusalem, to their place; and let them be placed in the temple of God.”

6 “Now therefore, Tattenai, governor of the region beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and your Apharsachite counselors beyond the River: withdraw far from them,

7 and permit that temple of God to be built by the governor of the Jews and their elders, that they may build that house of God in its place.

8 I have also commanded what ought to be done by those elders of the Jews so that the house of God may be built: from the king’s treasury—that is, from the tribute given by the region beyond the River—let expenses be diligently given to those men, lest the work be hindered.

9 And if there is need for calves, lambs, and kids as a holocaust to the God of heaven, or for wheat, salt, wine, and oil according to the rite of the priests in Jerusalem, let these be given them day by day, so that there may be no complaint in anything.

10 And let them offer oblations to the God of heaven and pray for the life of the king and his sons.

11 I therefore establish this decree: if any man alters this command, let a timber be taken from his house and erected, and let him be fastened upon it; and let his house be confiscated.

12 And may the God who caused his name to dwell there destroy every kingdom and people that stretches out its hand to fight against and destroy that house of God in Jerusalem. I, Darius, have established the decree, which I will to be fulfilled diligently.”

13 Therefore Tattenai, governor of the region beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and his counselors diligently carried it out just as King Darius had commanded.

14 And the elders of the Jews built and prospered according to the prophecy of Haggai the prophet and Zechariah son of Iddo. They built and completed it at the command of the God of Israel and at the command of Cyrus, Darius, and Artaxerxes, kings of the Persians.

15 They completed this house of God by the third day of the month Adar, which was the sixth year of the reign of King Darius.

16 And the sons of Israel—the priests, Levites, and the rest of the sons of the transmigration—celebrated the dedication of the house of God with joy.

17 At the dedication of the house of God they offered one hundred calves, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs, and twelve he-goats for the sin of all Israel, according to the number of the tribes of Israel.

18 They appointed the priests in their orders and the Levites in their courses over the works of God in Jerusalem, as it is written in the book of Moses.

19 And the sons of Israel of the transmigration celebrated the Passover on the fourteenth day of the first month.

20 For the priests and Levites had been purified as one; all were clean to slaughter the Passover for all the sons of the transmigration, for their brothers the priests, and for themselves.

21 The sons of Israel who had returned from the transmigration ate it, together with all who had separated themselves from the defilement of the nations of the land to join them and seek the Lord God of Israel.

22 They celebrated the solemnity of Unleavened Bread for seven days with joy, because the Lord had made them joyful and had turned the heart of the king of Assyria toward them, that he might strengthen their hands in the work of the house of the Lord God of Israel.

CHAPTER 7

1 Now after these events, in the reign of Artaxerxes king of the Persians, Ezra son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah,

2 son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub,

3 son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraioth,

4 son of Zerahiah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki,

5 son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron, priest from the beginning—

6 this Ezra ascended from Babylon. He was a swift scribe in the law of Moses that the Lord God gave to Israel, and the king granted him every request, according to the hand of the Lord his God upon him.

7 Some of the sons of Israel, the sons of the priests, the sons of the Levites, the singers, the gatekeepers, and the Nathinim ascended to Jerusalem in the seventh year of King Artaxerxes.

8 They came to Jerusalem in the fifth month, which was the king's seventh year.

9 For on the first day of the first month he began to ascend from Babylon, and on the first day of the fifth month he came to Jerusalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him.

10 For Ezra had prepared his heart to investigate the law of the Lord, to do it, and to teach commandment and judgment in Israel.

11 Now this is the copy of the letter of the edict that King Artaxerxes gave to Ezra the priest, a scribe learned in the words and commandments of the Lord and in his ceremonies in Israel:

12 "Artaxerxes, king of kings, to Ezra the priest, most learned scribe of the law of the God of heaven: greeting.

13 It is decreed by me that whoever in my kingdom is willing to go to Jerusalem from the people of Israel, their priests, and the Levites may go with you.

14 For you are sent from the presence of the king and his seven counselors to visit Judea and Jerusalem according to the law of your God that is in your hand,

15 and to carry the silver and gold that the king and his counselors have freely offered to the God of Israel, whose tabernacle is in Jerusalem,

16 together with all the silver and gold you may find in the whole province of Babylon, and whatever the people and priests may wish freely to offer to the house of their God in Jerusalem.

17 Freely receive it, and diligently buy with this money calves, rams, lambs, and their sacrifices and libations, and offer them upon the altar of the temple of your God in Jerusalem.

18 And whatever it pleases you and your brothers to do with the remaining silver and gold, do according to the will of your God.

19 Also deliver before God in Jerusalem the vessels that are given to you for the ministry of the house of your God.

20 And whatever else may be needed for the house of your God, however much it is necessary for you to spend, shall be given from the treasury and the royal fisc,

21 and from me. I, King Artaxerxes, have established and decreed for all the keepers of the public treasury beyond the River that whatever Ezra the priest, scribe of the law of the God of heaven, asks of you, you shall give without delay,

22 up to one hundred talents of silver, one hundred cors of wheat, one hundred baths of wine, and one hundred baths of oil; but salt without measure.

23 Let everything pertaining to the rite of the God of heaven be supplied diligently in the house of the God of heaven, lest perhaps he become angry against the kingdom of the king and his sons.

24 We also make it known to you concerning all the priests, Levites, singers, gatekeepers, Nathinim, and ministers of this house of God that you have no authority to impose tax, tribute, or provisions upon them.

25 But you, Ezra, according to the wisdom of your God that is in your hand, appoint judges and governors to judge all the people beyond the River—that is, those who know the law of your God—and freely teach those who are ignorant.

26 Everyone who does not diligently observe the law of your God and the law of the king shall be judged, whether to death, exile, confiscation of his goods, or certainly imprisonment."

27 Blessed be the Lord God of our fathers, who placed this in the king's heart, that he might glorify the house of the Lord in Jerusalem,

28 and who inclined his mercy toward me before the king, his counselors, and all the mighty princes of the king. And I, strengthened by the hand of the Lord my God that was upon me, gathered chiefs from Israel to ascend with me.

CHAPTER 8

1 These, therefore, are the chiefs of the families and their genealogy who ascended with me from Babylon in the reign of King Artaxerxes.

2 From the sons of Phinehas, Gershom; from the sons of Ithamar, Daniel; from the sons of David, Hattush.

3 From the sons of Shecaniah, of the sons of Parosh, Zechariah; and with him one hundred fifty men were numbered.

4 From the sons of Pahath-moab, Elihoenai son of Zerahiah, and with him two hundred men.

5 From the sons of Shecaniah, the son of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred men.

6 From the sons of Adin, Ebed son of Jonathan, and with him fifty men.

7 From the sons of Elam, Isaiah son of Athaliah, and with him seventy men.

8 From the sons of Shephatiah, Zebadiah son of Michael, and with him eighty men.

9 From the sons of Joab, Obadiah son of Jehiel, and with him two hundred eighteen men.

10 From the sons of Shelomith, the son of Josiphiah, and with him one hundred sixty men.

11 From the sons of Bebai, Zechariah son of Bebai, and with him twenty-eight men.

12 From the sons of Azgad, Johanan son of Hakkatan, and with him one hundred ten men.

13 From the sons of Adonikam, who were the last—and these are their names—Eliphelet, Jehiel, and Shemaiah, and with them sixty men.

14 From the sons of Bigvai, Uthai and Zaccur, and with them seventy men.

15 I gathered them at the river that flows to Ahava, and we remained there three days. I sought among the people and priests for sons of Levi, and I found none there.

16 Therefore I sent Eliezer, Ariel, Shemaiah, Elnathan, Jarib, another Elnathan, Nathan, Zechariah, and Meshullam—the chiefs—and Joiarib and Elnathan—the wise men.

17 I sent them to Iddo, who was first in the place of Casiphia, and placed in their mouths the words they were to speak to Iddo and his brothers, the Nathinim in Casiphia, that they might bring us ministers for the house of our God.

18 And according to the good hand of our God upon us, they brought us a most learned man from the sons of Mahli, son of Levi, son of Israel, with Sherebiah and his sons and brothers—eighteen;

19 and Hashabiah, and with him Isaiah from the sons of Merari, with his brothers and their sons—twenty;

20 and from the Nathinim, whom David and the princes had given for the ministries of the Levites, two hundred twenty Nathinim. All these were called by their names.

21 I proclaimed a fast there beside the river Ahava, that we might afflict ourselves before the Lord our God and ask of him a straight way for us, our children, and all our substance.

22 For I was ashamed to ask the king for help and horsemen to defend us from the enemy on the way, because we had told the king, “The hand of our God is upon all who seek him in goodness; but his dominion, his strength, and his fury are upon all who forsake him.”

23 Therefore we fasted and entreated our God concerning this, and it turned out prosperously for us.

24 I separated twelve of the chiefs of the priests, with Sherebiah and Hashabiah and ten of their brothers with them.

25 I weighed out to them the silver and gold and the consecrated vessels of the house of our God that the king, his counselors, his princes, and all the Israelites who were present had offered.

26 Into their hands I weighed six hundred fifty talents of silver, one hundred silver vessels, and one hundred talents of gold,

27 twenty golden bowls worth one thousand solidi apiece, and two vessels of the finest gleaming bronze, beautiful as gold.

28 I said to them, “You are holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, as are the silver and gold freely offered to the Lord God of our fathers.

29 Watch and guard them until you weigh them before the chiefs of the priests and Levites and the leaders of the families of Israel in Jerusalem, into the treasury of the house of the Lord.”

30 Then the priests and Levites received the weight of silver, gold, and vessels to carry to Jerusalem, to the house of our God.

31 We departed from the river Ahava on the twelfth day of the first month to journey to Jerusalem. The hand of our God was upon us, and he delivered us from the hand of the enemy and the ambusher on the way.

32 We came to Jerusalem and remained there three days.

33 On the fourth day the silver, gold, and vessels were weighed in the house of our God by the hand of Meremoth son of Uriah the priest. With him was Eleazar son of Phinehas, and with them were Jozabad son of Joshua and Noadiah son of Binnui, the Levites.

34 Everything was counted and weighed, and the whole weight was recorded at that time.

35 Moreover, the sons of the transmigration who had come from captivity offered holocausts to the God of Israel: twelve calves for all the people of Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, and twelve he-goats for sin—all as a holocaust to the Lord.

36 They delivered the king's edicts to the satraps who attended the king and to the governors beyond the River, and they elevated the people and the house of God.

CHAPTER 9

1 After these things had been completed, the princes approached me, saying, “The people of Israel, the priests, and the Levites have not separated themselves from the peoples of the lands and their abominations—namely, those of the Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians, and Amorites.

2 For they have taken some of their daughters for themselves and their sons, and have mingled the holy seed with the peoples of the lands. Indeed, the hand of the princes and magistrates was first in this transgression.”

3 When I heard this word, I tore my mantle and tunic, pulled hair from my head and beard, and sat mourning.

4 Then all who feared the word of the God of Israel assembled around me because of the transgression of those who had come from captivity, and I sat sorrowful until the evening sacrifice.

5 At the evening sacrifice I rose from my affliction and, with my mantle and tunic torn, bent my knees and spread out my hands to the Lord my God.

6 I said, “My God, I am confounded and ashamed to lift my face to you, because our iniquities have multiplied above our heads and our offenses have grown even to heaven,

7 from the days of our fathers. And we ourselves have sinned grievously even to this day. In our iniquities we, our kings, and our priests have been delivered into the hands of the kings of the lands—to the sword, captivity, plunder, and confusion of face—as also on this day.

8 And now, as though for a little while and a moment, our supplication has come before the Lord our God, that a remnant might be left to us, that he might give us a peg in his holy place, that our God might enlighten our eyes, and that he might give us a little life in our servitude.

9 For we are servants, yet in our servitude our God has not forsaken us, but has inclined mercy upon us before the king of the Persians, that he might give us life, raise up the house of our God, rebuild its desolations, and give us a hedge in Judah and Jerusalem.

10 And now, our God, what shall we say after these things? For we have forsaken your commandments,

11 which you commanded by the hand of your servants the prophets, saying: ‘The land you are entering to possess is an unclean land, according to the uncleanness of its peoples and of the other lands, because of the abominations of those who have filled it from mouth to mouth with their defilement.

12 Now therefore do not give your daughters to their sons, and do not take their daughters for your sons; and do not seek their peace or their prosperity forever, that you may be strengthened, eat the good things of the land, and leave it to your sons as an inheritance forever.’

13 And after all that has come upon us for our most wicked works and our great offense—because you, our God, have delivered us from our iniquity and given us salvation as it is today—

14 should we turn back and make your commandments void and join in marriages with the peoples of these abominations? Have you not been angry with us even to consummation, so as to leave us no remnant for salvation?

15 Lord God of Israel, you are just, for we have been left who might be saved, as on this day. Behold, we are before you in our offense, for no one can stand before you because of this.”

CHAPTER 10

1 Thus, while Ezra prayed and implored, weeping and lying before the temple of God, an exceedingly great assembly of men, women, and children from Israel gathered to him, and the people wept with much weeping.

2 Shecaniah son of Jehiel, from the sons of Elam, answered and said to Ezra, “We have transgressed against our God and have taken foreign wives from the peoples of the land. And now, if there is penance in Israel concerning this,

3 let us strike a covenant with the Lord our God, that we may cast out all the wives and those born from them, according to the will of the Lord and of those who fear the commandment of the Lord our God. Let it be done according to the law.

4 Arise; it is yours to decide, and we shall be with you. Be strengthened, and act.”

5 Then Ezra arose and adjured the chiefs of the priests and Levites and all Israel to act according to this word, and they swore.

6 Ezra rose from before the house of God and went to the chamber of Johanan son of Eliashib. He entered there but ate no bread and drank no water, for he mourned the transgression of those who had come from captivity.

7 A proclamation was sent throughout Judah and Jerusalem to all the sons of the transmigration, that they should assemble in Jerusalem.

8 Whoever did not come within three days, according to the counsel of the princes and elders, would have all his substance taken away, and he himself would be cast out of the assembly of the transmigration.

9 Therefore all the men of Judah and Benjamin assembled in Jerusalem within three days. It was the ninth month, on the twentieth day of the month. All the people sat in the square of the house of God, trembling because of the sin and the rains.

10 Ezra the priest arose and said to them, “You have transgressed and taken foreign wives, adding to the offense of Israel.

11 And now give confession to the Lord God of your fathers and do what pleases him. Separate yourselves from the peoples of the land and from the foreign wives.”

12 The whole multitude answered and said with a loud voice, “According to your word to us, so let it be done.

13 Nevertheless, because the people are many, it is the season of rain, and we cannot endure standing outside. Nor is this a work of one or two days, for we have sinned vehemently in this matter.

14 Let princes be appointed over the whole multitude, and let all in our cities who have taken foreign wives come at appointed times, and with them the elders and judges of each city, until the wrath of our God is turned away from us concerning this sin.”

15 Therefore Jonathan son of Asahel and Jahzeiah son of Tikvah stood over this matter, and Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levites helped them.

16 The sons of the transmigration did so. Ezra the priest and the men who were chiefs of the families went into the houses of their fathers, each according to his name, and on the first day of the tenth month they sat to investigate the matter.

17 They completed the examination of all the men who had taken foreign wives by the first day of the first month.

18 Among the sons of the priests, some were found who had taken foreign wives: from the sons of Joshua son of Jozadak and his brothers, Maaseiah, Eliezer, Jarib, and Gedaliah.

19 They gave their hands that they would cast out their wives and offer a ram from the flock for their offense.

20 From the sons of Immer: Hanani and Zebadiah.

21 From the sons of Harim: Maaseiah, Elijah, Shemaiah, Jehiel, and Uzziah.

22 From the sons of Pashhur: Elihoenai, Maaseiah, Ishmael, Nethanel, Jozabad, and Elasah.

23 From the sons of the Levites: Jozabad, Shimei, Kelaiah—who is Kelita—Pethahiah, Judah, and Eliezer.

24 From the singers: Eliashib. And from the gatekeepers: Shallum, Telem, and Uri.

25 And from Israel, from the sons of Parosh: Ramiah, Izziah, Malchijah, Mijamin, Eliezer, Malchijah, and Benaiah.

26 From the sons of Elam: Mattaniah, Zechariah, Jehiel, Abdi, Jeremoth, and Elijah.

27 From the sons of Zattu: Elihoenai, Eliashib, Mattaniah, Jeremoth, Zabad, and Aziza.

28 From the sons of Bebai: Johanan, Hananiah, Zabbai, and Athlai.

29 From the sons of Bani: Meshullam, Malluch, Adaiah, Jashub, Sheal, and Ramoth.

30 From the sons of Pahath-moab: Adna, Chelal, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattaniah, Bezalel, Binnui, and Manasseh.

31 From the sons of Harim: Eliezer, Joshua, Malchijah, Shemaiah, Simeon, 32 Benjamin, Malluch, and Shemariah.

33 From the sons of Hashum: Mattenai, Mattattah, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jeremai, Manasseh, and Shimei.

34 From the sons of Bani: Maadai, Amram, and Uel,

35 Benaiah, Bedeiah, Cheluh,

36 Vaniah, Meremoth, and Eliashib,

37 Mattaniah, Mattenai, and Jaasai,

38 Bani, Binnui, Shimei,

39 Shelemiah, Nathan, Adaiah,

40 Machnadebai, Shashai, Sharai,

41 Azarel, Shelemiah, Shemariah,

42 Shallum, Amariah, and Joseph.

43 From the sons of Nebo: Jehiel, Mattithiah, Zabad, Zebina, Jaddai, Joel, and Benaiah.

44 All these had taken foreign wives, and among them were women who had borne children.

BOOK SIXTEEN: NEHEMIAH

CHAPTER 1

1 The words of Nehemiah son of Helkiah. It happened in the month Chislev, in the twentieth year, while I was in the fortress of Susa.

2 Hanani, one of my brothers, came with men from Judah; and I questioned them about the Jews who remained and had survived the captivity, and about Jerusalem.

3 They said to me, “Those who remain and have been left from the captivity there in the province are in great affliction and reproach. The wall of Jerusalem has been broken down, and its gates have been burned with fire.”

4 When I heard words of this kind, I sat and wept and mourned for many days. I fasted and prayed before the face of the God of heaven,

5 and said, “I beseech you, the Lord (YHWH), God of heaven, strong, great, and terrible, who keep pact and mercy with those who love you and keep your commandments:

6 let your ears be attentive and your eyes open, that you may hear the prayer of your servant, which I pray before you today, night and day, for the sons of Israel your servants. I confess the sins of the sons of Israel by which they have sinned against you; I and my father’s house have sinned.

7 We have been led astray by vanity and have not kept your commandment, ceremonies, and judgments that you commanded Moses your servant.

8 Remember the word you commanded Moses your servant, saying, ‘When you transgress, I shall scatter you among the peoples;

9 but if you return to me, keep my precepts, and do them—even if you have been carried away to the extremities of heaven—I shall gather you from there and bring you back to the place I chose, that my name might dwell there.’

10 And these are your servants and your people, whom you redeemed by your great strength and your mighty hand.

11 I beseech you, Lord, let your ear attend to the prayer of your servant and the prayer of your servants who desire to fear your name. Direct your servant today and grant him mercy before this man.” For I was the king’s cupbearer.

CHAPTER 2

1 It happened in the month Nisan, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes, that wine was before him. I lifted the wine and gave it to the king, and I appeared faint before his face.

2 The king said to me, “Why is your face sad when I do not see that you are sick? This is not without cause; some evil—I know not what—is in your heart.” And I feared exceedingly much.

3 I said to the king, “May the king live forever. Why should my face not mourn, when the city of the house of my father’s sepulchers is desolate and its gates have been consumed by fire?”

4 The king said to me, “For what do you ask?” And I prayed to the God of heaven,

5 and said to the king, “If it seems good to the king, and if your servant is pleasing before your face, send me into Judea, to the city of my father’s sepulcher, and I shall build it.”

6 The king said to me, with the queen sitting beside him, “How long will your journey be, and when will you return?” It was pleasing before the king’s face, and he sent me; and I appointed him a time.

7 I said to the king, “If it seems good to the king, let letters be given me for the governors of the region beyond the River, that they may conduct me until I come into Judea,

8 and a letter to Asaph, keeper of the king’s forest, that he may give me timber to roof the gates of the tower of the house, the city walls, and the house I shall enter.” And the king gave them to me according to the good hand of my God with me.

9 I came to the governors of the region beyond the River and gave them the king’s letters. The king had also sent commanders of soldiers and horsemen with me.

10 Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite servant heard of it, and they were afflicted with great affliction because a man had come who sought the prosperity of the sons of Israel.

11 I came to Jerusalem and was there three days.

12 I arose at night, I and a few men with me, and told no one what God had placed in my heart to do in Jerusalem. There was no pack animal with me except the animal upon which I sat.

13 I went out by the Valley Gate at night, before the Dragon Spring and to the Dung Gate, and I examined Jerusalem’s broken wall and its gates consumed by fire.

14 I passed to the Fountain Gate and the king’s aqueduct, but there was no place for the animal upon which I sat to pass.

15 I ascended by the torrent at night and examined the wall; and returning, I came to the Valley Gate and went back.

16 The magistrates did not know where I had gone or what I was doing. Until then I had disclosed nothing to the Jews, priests, nobles, magistrates, or the rest who were doing the work.

17 I said to them, “You know the affliction in which we are: Jerusalem is desolate, and its gates have been consumed by fire. Come, let us build the walls of Jerusalem, and let us no longer be a reproach.”

18 I told them that the hand of my God was good with me and recounted the king’s words to me. And I said, “Let us arise and build.” Their hands were strengthened in good.

19 But Sanballat the Horonite, Tobiah the Ammonite servant, and Geshem the Arab heard. They mocked and despised us, saying, “What is this thing you are doing? Are you rebelling against the king?”

20 I returned an answer to them and said, “The God of heaven himself helps us, and we are his servants. Let us arise and build. But you have no portion, justice, or memorial in Jerusalem.”

CHAPTER 3

1 Eliashib the high priest arose with his brothers the priests, and they built the Sheep Gate. They sanctified it and set up its doors; and they sanctified it as far as the Hundred-Cubit Tower, as far as the Tower of Hananel.

2 Beside him the men of Jericho built, and beside him Zaccur son of Imri built.

3 The sons of Hassenaah built the Fish Gate. They roofed it and set up its doors, locks, and bars. Beside them Meremoth son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz, built.

4 Beside him Meshullam son of Berechiah, son of Meshezabel, built; and beside them Zadok son of Baanah built.

5 Beside them the Tekoites built, but their nobles did not submit their necks to the work of their Lord.

6 Joiada son of Paseah and Meshullam son of Besodeiah built the Old Gate. They roofed it and set up its doors, locks, and bars.

7 Beside them Melatiah the Gibeonite and Jadon the Meronothite, men of Gibeon and Mizpah, built for the governor who was in the region beyond the River.

8 Beside him Uzziel son of Harhaiah, a goldsmith, built; and beside him Hananiah, son of a perfumer, built. They left Jerusalem as far as the wall of the broader street.

9 Beside him Rephaiah son of Hur, prince of a district of Jerusalem, built.

10 Beside him Jedaiah son of Harumaph built opposite his house; and beside him Hattush son of Hashabniah built.

11 Malchijah son of Harim and Hashub son of Pahath-moab built half of a district and the Tower of the Ovens.

12 Beside him Shallum son of Hallohesh, prince of half a district of Jerusalem, built—he and his daughters.

13 Hanun and the inhabitants of Zanoah built the Valley Gate. They built it and set up its doors, locks, and bars, and built one thousand cubits of the wall as far as the Dung Gate.

14 Malchijah son of Rechab, prince of the district of Beth-haccerem, built the Dung Gate. He built it and set up its doors, locks, and bars.

15 Shallum son of Col-hozeh, prince of the district of Mizpah, built the Fountain Gate. He built and roofed it, set up its doors, locks, and bars, and built the walls of the Pool of Siloam beside the king's garden, as far as the steps descending from the City of David.

16 After him Nehemiah son of Azbuk, prince of half the district of Beth-zur, built as far as opposite David's sepulcher, as far as the pool constructed with great work, and as far as the house of the mighty.

17 After him the Levites built, including Rehum son of Bani. After him Hashabiah, prince of half the district of Keilah, built within his district.

18 After him their brothers built: Bavvai son of Henadad, prince of half of Keilah;

19 and beside him Ezer son of Joshua, prince of Mizpah, built a second section opposite the ascent of the strongest angle.

20 After him Baruch son of Zaccai earnestly built a second section, from the angle to the door of the house of Eliashib the high priest.

21 After him Meremoth son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz, built a second section, from the door of Eliashib's house as far as Eliashib's house extended.

22 After him the priests, men from the plains of the Jordan, built.

23 After him Benjamin and Hashub built opposite their house; and after him Azariah son of Maaseiah, son of Hananiah, built opposite his house.

24 After him Binnui son of Henadad built a second section, from Azariah's house to the bend and as far as the angle.

25 Palal son of Uzai built opposite the bend and the tower projecting from the high house of the king—that is, in the court of the prison. After him Pedaiah son of Parosh built.

26 The Nathinim dwelt in Ophel as far as opposite the Water Gate toward the east and the projecting tower.

27 After him the Tekoites built a second section opposite it, from the great projecting tower to the wall of the temple.

28 Upward from the Horse Gate, the priests built, each opposite his own house.

29 After them Zadok son of Immer built opposite his house. After him Shemaiah son of Shecaniah, keeper of the East Gate, built.

30 After him Hananiah son of Shelemiah and Hanun, sixth son of Zalaph, built a second section. After him Meshullam son of Berechiah built opposite his treasury. After him Malchijah son of the goldsmith built as far as the house of the Nathinim and the sellers of secondhand goods, opposite the Judgment Gate and as far as the upper room of the angle.

31 Between the upper room of the angle and the Sheep Gate, the goldsmiths and merchants built.

CHAPTER 4

1 It happened that when Sanballat heard we were building the wall, he became exceedingly angry; and greatly moved, he mocked the Jews.

2 He said before his brothers and a crowd of Samaritans, “What are the feeble Jews doing? Will the nations permit them? Will they sacrifice and complete it in one day? Can they build with stones from heaps of dust that have been burned?”

3 Tobiah the Ammonite, who was beside him, said, “Let them build. If a fox goes up, it will leap over their stone wall.”

4 Hear, our God, for we have become an object of contempt. Turn their reproach upon their own heads and give them over to contempt in the land of captivity.

5 Do not cover their iniquity, and let their sin not be erased before your face, because they mocked the builders.

6 And so we built the wall and joined the whole of it to half its height, and the heart of the people was stirred to work.

7 It happened that when Sanballat, Tobiah, the Arabs, Ammonites, and Ashdodites heard that the scar of Jerusalem’s wall had been drawn closed and that the breaches had begun to be sealed, they became exceedingly angry.

8 They all assembled together to come and fight against Jerusalem and devise ambushes.

9 We prayed to our God and placed guards upon the wall against them day and night.

10 But Judah said, “The strength of the burden bearer has weakened, and the rubble is abundant; we shall not be able to build the wall.”

11 Our enemies said, “Let them neither know nor understand until we come into their midst, kill them, and cause the work to cease.”

12 It happened that the Jews who dwelt near them came and warned us ten times, from all the places through which they had come to us.

13 So I stationed the people in order around the place behind the wall, with their swords, spears, and bows.

14 I looked, arose, and said to the nobles, magistrates, and the rest of the people, “Do not fear before their face. Remember the great and terrible Lord, and fight for your brothers, your sons and daughters, your wives, and your houses.”

15 When our enemies heard that word had been reported to us, God destroyed their counsel. And we all returned to the walls, each to his own work.

16 From that day, half of their young men did the work, and half were prepared for war. Spears, shields, bows, and breastplates were ready, and the princes stood behind them throughout the whole house of Judah.

17 Those building upon the wall, carrying loads, and placing them did the work with one hand and held a sword with the other.

18 For each builder was girded with a sword at his waist. They built, and the one sounding the trumpet stood beside me.

19 I said to the nobles, magistrates, and the rest of the people, “The work is great and broad, and we are separated upon the wall, far from one another.

20 Wherever you hear the sound of the trumpet, run together to us there. Our God will fight for us.”

21 So let us do the work, while half of us hold spears from the rising of dawn until the stars come out.

22 At that time I also said to the people, “Let each man and his servant remain within Jerusalem, that they may take turns for us by night and work by day.”

23 But I, my brothers, my servants, and the guards who followed me did not take off our clothes; each one stripped only for washing.

CHAPTER 5

1 And there arose a great cry of the people and their wives against their Jewish brothers.

2 Some were saying, “Our sons and daughters are exceedingly many. Let us receive grain for their price, that we may eat and live.”

3 Others were saying, “Let us pledge our fields, vineyards, and houses, and receive grain in the famine.”

4 Still others said, “Let us borrow money for the king’s tribute and give up our fields and vineyards.

5 And now our flesh is like the flesh of our brothers, and our sons like their sons. Behold, we subject our sons and daughters to servitude, and some of our daughters are bondwomen; nor do we have the means by which they may be redeemed, while others possess our fields and vineyards.”

6 I became exceedingly angry when I heard their cry according to these words.

7 My heart considered within me, and I rebuked the nobles and magistrates and said to them, “Are you each exacting usury from your brothers?” And I assembled a great gathering against them.

8 I said to them, “As you know, according to our ability we redeemed our Jewish brothers who had been sold to the nations. Will you therefore sell your brothers, and shall we redeem them?” They were silent and found nothing to answer.

9 I said to them, “The thing you are doing is not good. Why have you not walked in the fear of our God, lest we be reproached by the nations, our enemies?

10 I, my brothers, and my servants have lent money and grain to many. Let us not demand this together; let us forgive the debt owed to us.

11 Restore to them today their fields, vineyards, olive groves, and houses. Indeed, give up for their sake the hundredth part of the money, grain, wine, and oil that you usually exact from them.”

12 They said, “We shall restore it and seek nothing from them. We shall do as you say.” I called the priests and adjured them to do according to what I had said.

13 Moreover, I shook out my bosom and said, “Thus may God shake out every man who does not fulfill this word, from his house and from his labors. Thus may he be shaken out and made empty.” The whole multitude said, “Amen,” and praised God. Therefore the people did as had been said.

14 From the day the king commanded me to be governor in the land of Judah—from the twentieth year until the thirty-second year of King Artaxerxes, twelve years—I and my brothers did not eat the provisions owed to governors.

15 But the former governors who were before me burdened the people and took from them bread, wine, and forty shekels of money each day. Even their ministers oppressed the people. But I did not do so because of the fear of God.

16 Rather, I built in the work of the wall, I bought no field, and all my servants were gathered to the work.

17 The Jews and magistrates—one hundred fifty men—and those who came to us from the surrounding nations were at my table.

18 Each day one ox and six choice rams were prepared for me, besides birds; and every ten days I distributed various wines and many other things. Moreover, I did not seek the provisions of my governorship, for the people were greatly impoverished.

19 Remember me, my God, for good, according to all I have done for this people.

CHAPTER 6

1 It happened that when Sanballat, Tobiah, Geshem the Arab, and the rest of our enemies heard that I had built the wall and that no breach remained in it—although until that time I had not set doors in the gates—

2 Sanballat and Geshem sent to me, saying, “Come, and let us strike a pact together in the villages on the plain of Ono.” But they were planning to do me harm.

3 Therefore I sent messengers to them, saying, “I am doing a great work and cannot descend, lest it be neglected when I come down and go to you.”

4 They sent to me according to this word four times, and I answered them according to the former message.

5 Then Sanballat sent his servant to me a fifth time according to the former word, with a letter in his hand written in this manner:

6 “It has been heard among the nations, and Geshem has said, that you and the Jews are planning to rebel, and that for this reason you are building the wall and wish to raise yourself as king over them. For this cause,

7 you have also appointed prophets to proclaim about you in Jerusalem, saying, ‘There is a king in Judea.’ The king will hear these words. Therefore come now, that we may enter into counsel together.”

8 I sent to them, saying, “Nothing has been done according to these words you speak; you devise them from your own heart.”

9 For all these frightened us, thinking our hands would cease from the work and we would rest. For this reason I strengthened my hands all the more.

10 I secretly entered the house of Shemaiah son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabel. He said, “Let us confer together in the house of God, in the midst of the temple, and let us close the doors of the sanctuary, for they are coming to kill you; they are coming by night to murder you.”

11 I said, “Does anyone like me flee? And who like me would enter the temple and live? I shall not enter.”

12 I understood that God had not sent him, but he had spoken to me as though prophesying because Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him.

13 For he had received payment so that I, being terrified, would act and sin, and they would have evil with which to reproach me.

14 Remember me, Lord, concerning Tobiah and Sanballat, according to such works of theirs, and also Noadiah the prophetess and the rest of the prophets who terrified me.

15 The wall was completed on the twenty-fifth day of the month Elul, in fifty-two days.

16 When all our enemies heard, all the nations around us became afraid and fell within themselves, and they knew this work had been done by God.

17 But in those days many letters from the nobles of Judah were being sent to Tobiah, and letters from Tobiah came to them.

18 For many in Judea were bound to him by oath because he was son-in-law of Shecaniah son of Arah, and his son Johanan had taken the daughter of Meshullam son of Berechiah.

19 They also praised him before me and reported my words to him, and Tobiah sent letters to terrify me.

CHAPTER 7

1 After the wall was built, I set up the doors and enrolled the gatekeepers, singers, and Levites.

2 I commanded Hanani my brother and Hananiah, prince of the house of Jerusalem—for he appeared to be a truthful man who feared God more than others—

3 and said to them, “Let the gates of Jerusalem not be opened until the heat of the sun. While they are still standing by, let the gates be closed and barred. And I appointed guards from the inhabitants of Jerusalem, each in his turn and each opposite his own house.”

4 The city was exceedingly broad and great, but the people within it were few, and the houses had not been built.

5 God placed it in my heart to gather the nobles, magistrates, and people, that I might enroll them. I found the book of the census of those who had first ascended, and it was found written in it:

6 These are the sons of the province who ascended from the captivity of the migrants, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had transferred, and who returned to Jerusalem and Judea, each to his own city.

7 They came with Zerubbabel, Joshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, Nahum, and Baanah. The number of the men of the people of Israel:

8 the sons of Parosh, two thousand one hundred seventy-two;

9 the sons of Shephatiah, three hundred seventy-two;

10 the sons of Arah, six hundred fifty-two;

11 the sons of Pahath-moab, of the sons of Joshua and Joab, two thousand eight hundred eighteen;

12 the sons of Elam, one thousand two hundred fifty-four;

13 the sons of Zattu, eight hundred forty-five;

14 the sons of Zaccai, seven hundred sixty;

15 the sons of Binnui, six hundred forty-eight;

16 the sons of Bebai, six hundred twenty-eight;

17 the sons of Azgad, two thousand three hundred twenty-two;

18 the sons of Adonikam, six hundred sixty-seven;

19 the sons of Bigvai, two thousand sixty-seven;

20 the sons of Adin, six hundred fifty-five;

21 the sons of Ater, of Hezekiah, ninety-eight;

22 the sons of Hashum, three hundred twenty-eight;

23 the sons of Bezai, three hundred twenty-four;

24 the sons of Hariph, one hundred twelve;

25 the sons of Gibeon, ninety-five;

26 the sons of Bethlehem and Netophah, one hundred eighty-eight.

27 The men of Anathoth, one hundred twenty-eight.

28 The men of Beth-azmaveth, forty-two.

29 The men of Kiriath-jearim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, seven hundred forty-three.

30 The men of Ramah and Geba, six hundred twenty-one.

31 The men of Michmash, one hundred twenty-two.

32 The men of Bethel and Ai, one hundred twenty-three.

33 The men of the other Nebo, fifty-two.

34 The men of the other Elam, one thousand two hundred fifty-four.

35 The sons of Harim, three hundred twenty.

36 The sons of Jericho, three hundred forty-five.

37 The sons of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, seven hundred twenty-one.

38 The sons of Senaah, three thousand nine hundred thirty.

39 The priests: the sons of Jedaiah in the house of Joshua, nine hundred seventy-three.

40 The sons of Immer, one thousand fifty-two.

41 The sons of Pashhur, one thousand two hundred forty-seven.

42 The sons of Harim, one thousand seventeen. The Levites:

43 the sons of Joshua and Kadmiel, of the sons

44 of Hodaviah, seventy-four. The singers:

45 the sons of Asaph, one hundred forty-eight.

46 The gatekeepers: the sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of Hatita, and the sons of Shobai—one hundred thirty-eight.

47 The Nathinim: the sons of Ziha, the sons of Hasupha, the sons of Tabbaoth,

48 the sons of Keros, the sons of Siaha, the sons of Padon, the sons of Lebanah, the sons of Hagabah, the sons of Shamlai,

49 the sons of Hanan, the sons of Giddel, the sons of Gahar,

50 the sons of Reaiah, the sons of Rezin, the sons of Nekoda,

51 the sons of Gazzam, the sons of Uzza, the sons of Paseah,

52 the sons of Besai, the sons of Meunim, the sons of Nephusim,

53 the sons of Bakbuk, the sons of Hakupha, the sons of Harhur,

54 the sons of Bazluth, the sons of Mehida, the sons of Harsha,

55 the sons of Barkos, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah,

56 the sons of Neziah, the sons of Hatipha,

57 the sons of Solomon’s servants: the sons of Sotai, the sons of Sophereth, the sons of Perida,

58 the sons of Jaalah, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel,

59 the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth, who was born from Sabaim son of Amon.

60 All the Nathinim and the sons of Solomon’s servants numbered three hundred ninety-two.

61 These were those who ascended from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer, but could not indicate their fathers’ house and their seed—whether they were of Israel:

62 the sons of Delaiah, the sons of Tobiah, and the sons of Nekoda, six hundred forty-two.

63 And from the priests: the sons of Habaiah, the sons of Hakkoz, and the sons of Barzillai, who took a wife from the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite and was called by their name.

64 These sought their writing in the census and did not find it, and they were cast out of the priesthood.

65 The Tirshatha told them not to eat from the Holy of Holies until a learned and instructed priest should stand.

66 The whole multitude, as one man, numbered forty-two thousand three hundred sixty,

67 besides their male and female servants, who numbered seven thousand three hundred thirty-seven; and among them were two hundred forty-five male and female singers.

68 Their horses numbered seven hundred thirty-six; their mules, two hundred forty-five;

69 their camels, four hundred thirty-five; their donkeys, six thousand seven hundred twenty.

70 Some of the chiefs of the families gave to the work. The Tirshatha gave to the treasury one thousand gold drachmas, fifty bowls, and five hundred thirty priestly tunics.

71 Some chiefs of the families gave to the treasury of the work twenty thousand gold drachmas and two thousand two hundred silver minas.

72 The rest of the people gave twenty thousand gold drachmas, two thousand silver minas, and sixty-seven priestly tunics.

73 The priests, Levites, gatekeepers, singers, the rest of the people, the Nathinim, and all Israel dwelt in their cities.

CHAPTER 8

1 The seventh month had come, and the sons of Israel were in their cities. All the people assembled as one man in the square before the Water Gate, and they told Ezra the scribe to bring the book of the law of Moses that the Lord had commanded Israel.

2 Therefore Ezra the priest brought the law before the multitude of men and women and all who could understand, on the first day of the seventh month.

3 He read from it clearly in the square before the Water Gate, from morning until midday, before the men, women, and wise; and the ears of all the people were raised toward the book.

4 Ezra the scribe stood upon a wooden step they had made for speaking. Beside him on his right stood Mattithiah, Shemaiah, Anaiah, Uriah, Hilkiah, and Maaseiah; and on his left, Pedaiah, Mishael, Malchijah, Hashum, Hashbaddanah, Zechariah, and Meshullam.

5 Ezra opened the book before all the people, for he stood above all the people; and when he opened it, all the people stood.

6 Ezra blessed the Lord, the great God, and all the people answered, “Amen, amen,” lifting up their hands. They bowed and adored God, prone upon the ground.

7 Joshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, and Pelaiah—the Levites—made silence among the people for hearing the law, while the people stood in their place.

8 They read distinctly and clearly from the book of the law of God, so that it could be understood; and they understood as it was read.

9 Nehemiah—he is the Tirshatha—and Ezra the priest and scribe, and the Levites interpreting for all the people, said, “This day is sanctified to the Lord our God. Do not mourn and do not weep.” For all the people wept when they heard the words of the law.

10 He said to them, “Go, eat fat things and drink sweet wine, and send portions to those who have prepared nothing for themselves, because this day is holy to the Lord. Do not be sorrowful, for the joy of the Lord is our strength.”

11 The Levites made silence throughout the people, saying, “Be still, for the day is holy, and do not grieve.”

12 Therefore all the people went to eat and drink, to send portions, and to make great rejoicing, because they understood the words he had taught them.

13 On the second day, the chiefs of the families of all the people, the priests, and the Levites assembled before Ezra the scribe, that he might interpret the words of the law to them.

14 They found it written in the law that the Lord had commanded by the hand of Moses that the sons of Israel should dwell in tabernacles on the solemn day in the seventh month,

15 and that they should proclaim and spread the word in all their cities and in Jerusalem, saying, “Go out to the mountain and bring branches of olive, branches of the most beautiful tree, branches of myrtle, palm branches, and branches of a leafy tree, that tabernacles may be made, as it is written.”

16 The people went out and brought them. Each made tabernacles for himself upon his roof, in their courts, in the courts of the house of God, in the square of the Water Gate, and in the square of the Ephraim Gate.

17 The whole assembly of those who had returned from captivity made tabernacles and dwelt in them. For from the days of Joshua son of Nun until that day, the sons of Israel had not done so. And there was exceedingly great joy.

18 He read from the book of the law of God each day, from the first day to the last. They celebrated the solemnity seven days, and on the eighth day held an assembly according to the rite.

CHAPTER 9

1 On the twenty-fourth day of this month, the sons of Israel assembled in fasting and sackcloth, with earth upon them.

2 The seed of the sons of Israel was separated from every foreign son. They stood and confessed their sins and the iniquities of their fathers.

3 They rose to stand and read from the volume of the law of the Lord their God four times in the day, and four times they confessed and adored the Lord their God.

4 Joshua, Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani arose upon the Levites' step and cried with a loud voice to the Lord their God.

5 And the Levites Joshua, Kadmiel, Bunni, Hashabniah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah said, "Arise, bless the Lord your God from eternity to eternity, and let the exalted name of your glory be blessed above every blessing and praise.

6 You yourself alone are the Lord. You made heaven and the heaven of heavens and all their host, the earth and everything in it, the seas and everything in them. You give life to all these, and the host of heaven adores you.

7 You yourself are the Lord God who chose Abram, brought him out of the fire of the Chaldeans, and set his name as Abraham.

8 You found his heart faithful before you and struck a covenant with him, that you would give him the land of the Canaanite, Hittite, Amorite, Perizzite, Jebusite, and Girgashite, giving it to his seed. And you fulfilled your words, because you are just.

9 You saw the affliction of our fathers in Egypt and heard their cry beside the Red Sea.

10 You gave signs and wonders against Pharaoh, all his servants, and all the people of that land, for you knew they had acted proudly against them. You made a name for yourself, as on this day.

11 You divided the sea before them, and they passed through the midst of the sea on dry ground; but you cast their pursuers into the depth like a stone into mighty waters.

12 In a pillar of cloud you were their leader by day, and in a pillar of fire by night, that the way by which they were to go might appear to them.

13 You also descended upon Mount Sinai and spoke with them from heaven, and you gave them right judgments, a law of truth, ceremonies, and good precepts.

14 You showed them your sanctified Sabbath, and commanded them commandments, ceremonies, and law by the hand of Moses your servant.

15 You gave them bread from heaven in their hunger and brought water from the rock for them in their thirst. You told them to enter and possess the land over which you had lifted your hand to give them.

16 But they and our fathers acted proudly, hardened their necks, and did not hear your commandments.

17 They refused to hear and did not remember your wonders that you had done for them. They hardened their necks and appointed a head to return to their servitude, as though through contention. But you are a forgiving God, gracious and merciful, longsuffering and abundant in compassion, and you did not forsake them,

18 even when they had made themselves a molten calf and said, 'This is your god who brought you out of Egypt,' and had committed great blasphemies.

19 Yet in your many mercies you did not abandon them in the desert. The pillar of cloud did not withdraw from them by day, to lead them on the way, nor the pillar of fire by night, to show them the path by which they were to go.

20 You gave your good Spirit to teach them; you did not withhold your manna from their mouth, and you gave them water in their thirst.

21 For forty years you fed them in the desert, and nothing was lacking to them. Their garments did not grow old, and their feet were not worn away.

22 You gave them kingdoms and peoples and divided lots for them. They possessed the land of Sihon, the land of the king of Heshbon, and the land of Og king of Bashan.

23 You multiplied their sons like the stars of heaven and brought them to the land of which you had told their fathers that they should enter and possess it.

24 The sons came and possessed the land. You humbled before them the Canaanite inhabitants of the land and delivered them into their hands, with their kings and the peoples of the land, that they might do to them as it pleased them.

25 Therefore they captured fortified cities and a fat land, and possessed houses full of every good thing, cisterns made by others, vineyards, olive groves, and many fruit trees. They ate, were filled, grew fat, and abounded in delights through your great goodness.

26 But they provoked you to wrath and withdrew from you. They cast your law behind their backs and killed your prophets, who testified to them that they should return to you; and they committed great blasphemies.

27 You delivered them into the hands of their enemies, who afflicted them. In the time of their tribulation they cried to you, and you heard from heaven; and according to your many compassions, you gave them saviors who saved them from the hands of their enemies.

28 When they had rest, they returned to do evil in your sight, and you abandoned them into the hands of their enemies, who possessed them. They turned back and cried to you, and you heard from heaven and delivered them in your mercies many times.

29 You testified to them that they should return to your law. But they acted proudly and did not hear your commandments, and they sinned against your judgments—which if a man does, he shall live in them. They gave a withdrawing shoulder, hardened their neck, and did not hear.

30 You prolonged many years over them and testified to them by your Spirit through the hand of your prophets. They did not hear, and you delivered them into the hands of the peoples of the lands.

31 Yet in your very many mercies you did not bring them to consumption or forsake them, for you are a gracious God of compassions.

32 Now therefore, our God, great, strong, and terrible, keeping pact and mercy, do not turn away from your face all the labor that has found us, our kings, princes, priests, prophets, fathers, and all your people from the days of the king of Assyria until this day.

33 You are just in all that has come upon us, because you have acted in truth, but we have acted impiously.

34 Our kings, princes, priests, and fathers did not do your law and did not attend to your commandments and testimonies by which you testified among them.

35 They, in their kingdoms and in your great goodness that you had given them, and in the exceedingly broad and fat land you delivered before them, did not serve you or return from their most wicked pursuits.

36 Behold, we ourselves are servants today; and in the land you gave our fathers that they might eat its bread and its good things, we ourselves are servants.

37 Its fruits multiply for the kings whom you set over us because of our sins. They rule over our bodies and our pack animals according to their will, and we are in great tribulation.

38 Therefore, concerning all these things, we ourselves strike a covenant and write it, and our princes, Levites, and priests sign it.”

CHAPTER 10

1 Those who signed were Nehemiah the Tirshatha, son of Hacaliah, and Zedekiah,

2 Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah,

3 Pashhur, Amariah, Malchijah,

4 Hattush, Shebaniah, Malluch,

5 Harim, Meremoth, Obadiah,

6 Daniel, Ginnethon, Baruch,

7 Meshullam, Abijah, Mijamin,

8 Maaziah, Bilgai, and Shemaiah. These were the priests.

9 The Levites were Joshua son of Azaniah, Binnui from the sons of Henadad, Kadmiel,

10 and their brothers: Shebaniah, Hodiah, Kelita, Pelaiah, Hanan,

11 Mica, Rehob, Hashabiah,

12 Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah,

13 Hodiah, Bani, and Beninu.

14 The heads of the people were Parosh, Pahath-moab, Elam, Zattu, Bani,

15 Bunni, Azgad, Bebai,

16 Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin,

17 Ater, Hezekiah, Azzur,

18 Hodiah, Hashum, Bezai,

19 Hariph, Anathoth, Nebai,

20 Magpiash, Meshullam, Hezir,

21 Meshezabel, Zadok, Jaddua,

22 Pelatiah, Hanan, Anaiah,

23 Hoshea, Hananiah, Hashub,

24 Hallohesh, Pilha, Shobek,

25 Rehum, Hashabnah, Maaseiah,

26 Ahiah, Hanan, Anan,

27 Malluch, Harim, and Baanah.

28 The rest of the people—the priests, Levites, gatekeepers, singers, Nathinim, and all who separated themselves from the peoples of the lands to the law of God, with their wives, sons, and daughters—

29 all who could understand, pledged for their brothers, their nobles, and came to promise and swear that they would walk in the law of God, which he gave by the hand of Moses the servant of God, and would do and keep all the commandments of the Lord our God, his judgments, and his ceremonies;

30 that we would not give our daughters to the people of the land or take their daughters for our sons;

31 and that when the peoples of the land bring wares and everything for use to sell on the Sabbath day, we would not receive them on the Sabbath or sanctified day. We would release the seventh year and every exaction of the hand.

32 We established precepts upon ourselves to give the third part of a shekel each year for the work of the house of our God:

33 for the bread of proposition, the perpetual sacrifice, the perpetual holocaust on Sabbaths, new moons, solemnities, and sanctified days, and for sin, that expiation might be made for Israel, and for every use of the house of our God.

34 Therefore we cast lots among the priests, Levites, and people for the oblation of wood, that it might be brought into the house of our God by our fathers' houses at appointed times, year after year, to burn upon the altar of the Lord our God, as it is written in the law of Moses;

35 and that we would bring the firstborn things of our land and the firstfruits of every fruit of every tree, year after year, into the house of the Lord;

36 and the firstfruits of our sons and livestock, as it is written in the law, and the firstfruits of our oxen and sheep, to be offered in the house of our God to the priests who minister in the house of our God;

37 and that we would bring the firstfruits of our food, libations, fruit of every tree, vintage, and oil to the priests at the treasury of our God, and the tenth part of our land to the Levites. The Levites themselves shall receive the tithes from all the cities of our works.

38 A priest, son of Aaron, shall be with the Levites in the Levites' tithes, and the Levites shall offer the tenth part of their tithe in the house of our God, at the treasury in the house of the treasure.

39 For the sons of Israel and the sons of Levi shall carry the firstfruits of grain, wine, and oil to the treasury; and there shall be the sanctified vessels, priests, singers, gatekeepers, and ministers. We shall not forsake the house of our God.

CHAPTER 11

1 The princes of the people dwelt in Jerusalem, while the rest of the people cast lots to take one part out of ten to dwell in Jerusalem, the holy city, and nine parts in the cities.

2 The people blessed all the men who freely offered themselves to dwell in Jerusalem.

3 These, therefore, are the chiefs of the province who dwelt in Jerusalem and in the cities of Judah. Each dwelt in his own possession, in his own city: Israel, the priests, Levites, Nathinim, and sons of Solomon's servants.

4 In Jerusalem dwelt some of the sons of Judah and sons of Benjamin. From the sons of Judah: Athaiah son of Uzziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahalalel, from the sons of Perez;

5 Maaseiah son of Baruch, son of Col-hozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, son of the Shilonite.

6 All these sons of Perez who dwelt in Jerusalem were four hundred sixty-eight strong men.

7 These are the sons of Benjamin: Shallum son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Isaiah,

8 and after him Gabbai and Sallai—nine hundred twenty-eight.

9 Joel son of Zichri was their overseer, and Judah son of Senuah was second over the city.

10 From the priests: Jedaiah son of Joiarib, Jachin,

11 Seraiah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, prince of the house of God,

12 and their brothers doing the works of the temple—eight hundred twenty-two; and Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah,

13 and his brothers, chiefs of fathers—two hundred forty-two; and Amashsai son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer,

14 and their exceedingly mighty brothers—one hundred twenty-eight. Their overseer was Zabdiel, son of mighty men.

15 From the Levites: Shemaiah son of Hashub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni;

16 and Shabbethai and Jozabad, from the chiefs of the Levites, were over all the works outside the house of God.

17 Mattaniah son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, was chief for praise and confession in prayer; Bakbukiah was second among his brothers; and Abda son of Shammua, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun.

18 All the Levites in the holy city numbered two hundred eighty-four.

19 The gatekeepers Akkub, Talmon, and their brothers who guarded the doors numbered one hundred seventy-two.

20 The rest of Israel, the priests, and the Levites were in all the cities of Judah, each in his own possession.

21 The Nathinim dwelt in Ophel, and Ziha and Gishpa were over the Nathinim.

22 The overseer of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica, from the sons of Asaph—the singers in the ministry of the house of God.

23 For the king's commandment concerning them established an order among the singers for each day.

24 Pethahiah son of Meshezabel, from the sons of Zerah son of Judah, was at the king's hand concerning every matter of the people.

25 As for the houses throughout all their regions, some sons of Judah dwelt in Kiriath-arba and its daughter towns, in Dibon and its daughter towns, in Kabzeel and its villages,

26 in Jeshua, Moladah, Beth-pelet,

27 Hazar-shual, Beersheba and its daughter towns,

28 Ziklag, Meconah and its daughter towns,

29 En-rimmon, Zorah, Jarmuth,

30 Zanoah, Adullam and their villages, Lachish and its regions, and Azekah and its daughter towns. They remained from Beersheba to the Valley of Hinnom.

31 The sons of Benjamin dwelt from Geba, Michmash, Ai, Bethel and its daughter towns,

32 Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah,

33 Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim,

34 Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat, Lod,

35 and Ono, the Valley of Craftsmen.

36 And portions of the Levites were in Judah and Benjamin.

CHAPTER 12

1 These are the priests and Levites who ascended with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Joshua: Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra,

2 Amariah, Malluch, Hattush,

3 Shebaniah, Rehum, Meremoth,

4 Iddo, Ginnethon, Abijah,

5 Mijamin, Maadiah, Bilgah,

6 Shemaiah, Joiarib, Jedaiah, Shallum, Amok, Hilkiah,

7 and Jedaiah. These were the chiefs of the priests and their brothers in the days of Joshua.

8 The Levites were Joshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, and Mattaniah, who with his brothers was over the hymns;

9 and Bakbukiah, Unni, and their brothers, each in his own office.

10 Joshua begot Joiakim, Joiakim begot Eliashib, and Eliashib begot Joiada;

11 Joiada begot Jonathan, and Jonathan begot Jaddua.

12 In the days of Joiakim, these were priests and chiefs of families: for Seraiah, Meraiah; for Jeremiah, Hananiah;

13 for Ezra, Meshullam; for Amariah, Johanan;

14 for Melichu, Jonathan; for Shebaniah, Joseph;

15 for Harim, Adna; for Meraioth, Helkai;

16 for Adaiah, Zechariah; for Ginnethon, Meshullam;

17 for Abijah, Zichri; for Mijamin and Moadiah, Piltai;

18 for Bilgah, Shammua; for Shemaiah, Jonathan;

19 for Joiarib, Mattenai; for Jedaiah, Uzzi;

20 for Sallai, Kallai; for Amok, Eber;

21 for Hilkiah, Hashabiah; for Jedaiah, Nethanel.

22 The Levites in the days of Eliashib, Joiada, Johanan, and Jaddua were recorded as chiefs of families, and the priests during the reign of Darius the Persian.

23 The sons of Levi who were chiefs of families were recorded in the book of the words of days, even to the days of Jonathan son of Eliashib.

24 The chiefs of the Levites were Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Joshua son of Kadmiel, with their brothers in their courses, to praise and confess according to the commandment of David the man of God, keeping equally in order.

25 Mattaniah, Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon, and Akkub were keepers of the gates and vestibules before the gates.

26 These lived in the days of Joiakim son of Joshua, son of Jozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah the governor and Ezra the priest and scribe.

27 At the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem, they sought the Levites from all their places to bring them to Jerusalem and celebrate the dedication and rejoicing with thanksgiving and song, with cymbals, psalteries, and harps.

28 The sons of the singers assembled from the plains around Jerusalem, from the villages of the Netophathites,

29 from the house of Gilgal, and from the regions of Geba and Azmaveth, for the singers had built villages for themselves around Jerusalem.

30 The priests and Levites were purified, and they purified the people, the gates, and the wall.

31 I caused the princes of Judah to ascend upon the wall and appointed two great choirs of those giving praise. They went to the right upon the wall toward the Dung Gate.

32 Hoshaiah and half the princes of Judah went after them,

33 with Azariah, Ezra, Meshullam, Judah, Benjamin, Shemaiah, and Jeremiah.

34 From the sons of the priests with trumpets was Zechariah son of Jonathan, son of Shemaiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph,

35 and his brothers Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah, and Hanani, with the instruments of song of David the man of God. Ezra the scribe went before them at the Fountain Gate.

36 Opposite them they ascended by the steps of the City of David, at the ascent of the wall above the house of David, and as far as the Water Gate toward the east.

37 The second choir of those giving thanks went opposite them, and I after it, with half the people upon the wall and above the Tower of the Ovens, as far as the broadest wall,

38 and above the Ephraim Gate, the Old Gate, the Fish Gate, the Tower of Hananel, and the Tower of Hamath, as far as the Sheep Gate; and they stood at the Watch Gate.

39 The two choirs of those giving praise stood in the house of God, and I and half the magistrates with me.

40 The priests Eliakim, Maaseiah, Mijamin, Micaiah, Elihoenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah were with trumpets, 41 and Maaseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar, Uzzi, Johanan, Malchijah, Elam, and Ezer. The singers sang loudly, with Jezrahiah as overseer.

42 On that day they offered great victims and rejoiced, for God had made them joyful with great joy. Their wives and children also rejoiced, and the joy of Jerusalem was heard far away.

43 On that day they also enrolled men over the treasuries of the treasure for libations, firstfruits, and tithes, that through them the princes of the city might bring these in with the splendor of thanksgiving for the priests and Levites; for Judah rejoiced in the priests and Levites who stood attending.

44 They kept the observance of their God and the observance of expiation, as did the singers and gatekeepers, according to the commandment of David and Solomon his son.

45 For in the days of David and Asaph, from the beginning, chiefs of the singers were appointed in the song of those praising and confessing God.

46 And all Israel in the days of Zerubbabel and the days of Nehemiah gave portions to the singers and gatekeepers each day; and they sanctified the Levites, and the Levites sanctified the sons of Aaron.

CHAPTER 13

1 On that day the volume of Moses was read in the hearing of the people, and it was found written in it that the Ammonite and Moabite ought not enter the assembly of God forever,

2 because they had not met the sons of Israel with bread and water, but hired Balaam against them to curse them; and our God turned the curse into blessing.

3 It happened that when they heard the law, they separated every foreigner from Israel.

4 Now over this matter was Eliashib the priest, who had been appointed over the treasury of the house of our God and was near to Tobiah.

5 He therefore made for himself a great treasury, where previously they had deposited the gifts, incense, vessels, the tithe of grain, wine, and oil, the portions of the Levites, singers, and gatekeepers, and the priestly firstfruits.

6 But during all these things I was not in Jerusalem, because in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon I went to the king, and after the end of some days I petitioned the king.

7 I came to Jerusalem and understood the evil Eliashib had done for Tobiah by making him a treasury in the vestibules of the house of God.

8 It appeared exceedingly evil to me, and I cast all the vessels of Tobiah’s house outside the treasury.

9 I commanded, and they cleansed the treasuries; and I brought back there the vessels of the house of God, the sacrifice, and the incense.

10 I learned that the portions of the Levites had not been given, and that each of the Levites, singers, and ministers had fled to his own region.

11 I pleaded the case against the magistrates and said, “Why have we forsaken the house of God?” I gathered them and caused them to stand in their stations.

12 And all Judah brought the tithe of grain, wine, and oil into the storehouses.

13 We appointed over the storehouses Shelemiah the priest, Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah from the Levites; and beside them Hanan son of Zaccur, son of Mattaniah, because they were proven faithful, and the portions of their brothers were entrusted to them.

14 Remember me, my God, for this, and do not erase the mercies I performed in the house of my God and in its ceremonies.

15 In those days I saw men in Judah treading winepresses on the Sabbath, carrying heaps, and loading upon donkeys wine, grapes, figs, and every burden, and bringing them into Jerusalem on the Sabbath day. I testified to them that they should sell on a day when selling was lawful.

16 Tyrians also dwelt in it, bringing fish and all kinds of wares, and they sold them on the Sabbaths to the sons of Judah in Jerusalem.

17 I rebuked the nobles of Judah and said to them, “What is this evil thing you are doing, profaning the Sabbath day?

18 Did not our fathers do these things, and did not our God bring all this evil upon us and upon this city? And you add wrath upon Israel by violating the Sabbath.”

19 It happened that when the gates of Jerusalem came to rest on the Sabbath day, I gave the word, and they closed the doors. I commanded that they not open them until after the Sabbath, and I stationed some of my servants over the gates so that no one would bring in a burden on the Sabbath day.

20 The merchants and sellers of every kind of ware remained outside Jerusalem once and twice.

21 I testified to them and said, “Why do you remain opposite the wall? If you do this a second time, I shall lay hands upon you.” Therefore from that time they did not come on the Sabbath.

22 I also told the Levites to be purified and come to guard the gates and sanctify the Sabbath day. Therefore for this also remember me, my God, and spare me according to the multitude of your mercies.

23 But in those days I also saw Jews taking Ashdodite, Ammonite, and Moabite wives.

24 Half of their sons spoke in the language of Ashdod and did not know how to speak the Jewish language; they spoke according to the language of one people and another.

25 I rebuked them and cursed them. I struck some of the men and made them bald, and adjured them by God that they should not give their daughters to their sons or take their daughters for their sons or for themselves, saying:

26 “Did not Solomon king of Israel sin in a matter of this kind? Certainly among many nations there was no king like him, and he was beloved by his God, and God made him king over all Israel; yet foreign women led even him into sin.

27 Shall we also act disobediently, doing all this great evil, transgressing against our God and taking foreign wives?”

28 One of the sons of Joiada son of Eliashib the high priest was son-in-law to Sanballat the Horonite, and I drove him away from me.

29 Remember, Lord my God, against those who defile the priesthood and the priestly and Levitical right.

30 Therefore I cleansed them from all foreigners and established the orders of the priests and Levites, each in his own ministry,

31 and for the oblation of wood at appointed times and for the firstfruits. Remember me, my God, for good. Amen.

BOOK SEVENTEEN: ESTHER

CHAPTER 1

1 In the days of Ahasuerus, who reigned from India to Ethiopia over one hundred twenty-seven provinces,

2 when he sat upon the throne of his kingdom, the city of Susa was the beginning of his kingdom.

3 In the third year of his rule, he made a great banquet for all his princes and servants, the strongest of the Persians, the renowned of the Medes, and the governors of the provinces before him,

4 that he might display the riches of the glory of his kingdom and the greatness and boasting of his power for a long time—namely, one hundred eighty days.

5 When the days of the banquet were completed, he invited all the people found in Susa, from greatest to least, and commanded a seven-day banquet to be prepared in the vestibule of the garden and grove planted by royal cultivation and hand.

6 On every side hung canopies of sky-blue, fine linen, and violet, supported by cords of linen and purple inserted into ivory rings and upheld by marble columns. Golden and silver couches were arranged upon pavement laid with emerald and Parian stone, which painting adorned with marvelous variety.

7 Those invited drank from golden cups, and foods were brought in vessels differing one from another. Wine also was set forth abundantly and excellently, as was worthy of royal magnificence.

8 No one compelled those unwilling to drink; rather, as the king had established, he placed one of his princes over each table so that everyone might take what he wished.

9 Queen Vashti also made a banquet for the women in the palace where King Ahasuerus was accustomed to dwell.

10 On the seventh day, when the king was more cheerful and had grown hot with unmixed wine after excessive drinking, he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagtha, Zethar, and Carkas—the seven eunuchs who ministered in his presence—

11 to bring Queen Vashti before the king with the diadem set upon her head, that he might show all the peoples and princes her beauty, for she was exceedingly beautiful.

12 She refused and scorned to come at the king’s command delivered through the eunuchs. Therefore the king became angry and was inflamed with exceeding fury.

13 He questioned the wise men who, according to royal custom, were always near him and by whose counsel he did everything, men who knew the laws and ancestral rights.

14 The first and nearest were Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan, seven princes of the Persians and Medes who saw the king’s face and customarily sat first after him.

15 He asked what sentence Queen Vashti should undergo because she had refused to carry out King Ahasuerus’s command delivered through the eunuchs.

16 Memucan answered in the hearing of the king and princes: “Queen Vashti has injured not only the king but also all the peoples and princes in all King Ahasuerus’s provinces.

17 For the queen’s word will go out to all women, so that they despise their husbands and say, ‘King Ahasuerus commanded Queen Vashti to enter before him, and she refused.’

18 By this example, all the wives of the princes of the Persians and Medes will make light of their husbands’ commands. Therefore the king’s indignation is just.

19 If it pleases you, let an edict go out from your face and be written according to the law of the Persians and Medes, which it is unlawful to transgress: Vashti shall never again enter before the king, and let another who is better than she receive her kingdom.

20 Let this be published throughout the whole dominion of your provinces, which is exceedingly broad, and let all wives, of great and small alike, render honor to their husbands.”

21 His counsel pleased the king and princes, and the king acted according to Memucan’s counsel.

22 He sent letters to all the provinces of his kingdom, in differing languages and scripts that every nation could hear and read, declaring that husbands were princes and superiors in their houses; and this was published among all the peoples.

CHAPTER 2

1 After these things had been done and King Ahasuerus's indignation had cooled, he remembered Vashti, what she had done, and what she had suffered.

2 The king's servants and ministers said, "Let virgin and beautiful young women be sought for the king.

3 Let men be sent throughout all the provinces to examine beautiful virgins and bring them to the city of Susa. Let them deliver them into the house of the women under the hand of Hegai the eunuch, overseer and keeper of the royal women, and let them receive women's adornment and the other necessities for their use.

4 Whichever among them pleases the king's eyes shall reign in place of Vashti." The word pleased the king, and he commanded it to be done as they suggested.

5 There was a Jewish man in the city of Susa named Mordecai, son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, from the stock of Jemini.

6 He had been transferred from Jerusalem at the time Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon transferred Jeconiah king of Judah.

7 He was the foster father of his brother's daughter Hadassah, who by another name was called Esther, and who had lost both parents. She was exceedingly beautiful and fair of face. When her father and mother had died, Mordecai adopted her as his daughter.

8 When the king's command became widely known and, according to it, many beautiful virgins were brought to Susa and delivered to Hegai the eunuch, Esther also was delivered to him among the other young women, to be kept among the women.

9 She pleased him and found favor in his sight. He commanded that her women's adornment be hastened, that her portions be delivered to her, and that seven of the most beautiful young women from the king's house be given her; and he adorned and cultivated both her and her attendants.

10 She would not disclose her people and homeland, for Mordecai had commanded her to remain entirely silent about this matter.

11 He walked every day before the vestibule of the house where the chosen virgins were kept, caring for Esther's welfare and wishing to know what happened to her.

12 When each young woman's time came in order to enter before the king, after everything pertaining to women's cultivation had been completed, the twelfth month had arrived: for six months they were anointed with oil of myrrh, and for another six they used certain pigments and aromatics.

13 When entering before the king, they received whatever they requested pertaining to adornment; and, arrayed as they pleased, they passed from the women's banquet room to the king's chamber.

14 She who entered in the evening went out in the morning and from there was led into the second house, under the hand of Shaashgaz the eunuch who presided over the king's concubines. She had no power to return to the king unless the king wished it and commanded her to come by name.

15 When the time came in order for Esther daughter of Abihail, Mordecai's brother, whom he had adopted as his daughter, to enter before the king, she did not seek women's cultivation. Instead, Hegai the eunuch, keeper of the virgins, gave her for adornment whatever he wished. For she was exceedingly shapely and of incredible beauty; she appeared gracious and lovable in everyone's eyes.

16 Therefore she was led to the chamber of King Ahasuerus in the tenth month, which is called Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign.

17 The king loved her more than all the women, and she had favor and mercy before him above all women. He set the royal diadem upon her head and made her reign in Vashti's place.

18 He commanded a most magnificent banquet to be prepared for all his princes and servants because of Esther's union and wedding. He granted rest to all the provinces and bestowed gifts according to princely magnificence.

19 When virgins were sought and gathered a second time, Mordecai remained at the king's gate.

20 Esther had not yet disclosed her homeland and people, according to his command. For Esther observed whatever he commanded and did everything as she had been accustomed when he raised her as a little girl.

21 At that time, while Mordecai remained at the king's gate, Bigthan and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs who were gatekeepers and presided at the first threshold of the palace, became angry and wished to rise against the king and kill him.

22 This did not escape Mordecai, and he immediately reported it to Queen Esther; and she told the king in Mordecai's name, who had brought the matter to her.

23 It was investigated and found true, and both of them were hanged upon a gibbet. The matter was commanded to the histories and handed down in the annals before the king.

CHAPTER 3

1 After these things King Ahasuerus exalted Haman son of Hammedatha, who was of the stock of Agag, and set his throne above all the princes he had.

2 All the king's servants who remained at the palace doors bent their knees and adored Haman, for so the emperor had commanded them. Mordecai alone did not bend his knee or adore him.

3 The king's servants who presided at the palace doors said to him, "Why, unlike the others, do you not observe the king's command?"

4 When they had said this frequently and he refused to listen, they reported it to Haman, wishing to know whether he would persevere in his decision, for he had told them he was a Jew.

5 When Haman heard and proved by experience that Mordecai did not bend his knee or adore him, he became exceedingly angry.

6 He considered it nothing to lay hands on Mordecai alone, for he had heard that he was of the Jewish nation; rather, he wished to destroy the whole nation of the Jews throughout Ahasuerus's kingdom.

7 In the first month, whose name is Nisan, in the twelfth year of Ahasuerus's reign, a lot was cast into the urn—which in Hebrew is called phur—before Haman, to determine on what day and in what month the Jewish nation should be killed. The twelfth month came out, which is called Adar.

8 Haman said to King Ahasuerus, "There is a people scattered throughout all the provinces of your kingdom and separated from one another, using new laws and ceremonies and moreover despising the king's decrees. You know very well that it does not benefit your kingdom for them to grow insolent through license.

9 If it pleases you, decree that they perish, and I shall weigh ten thousand talents into the hands of the keepers of your treasury."

10 Therefore the king removed from his hand the ring he used and gave it to Haman son of Hammedatha, of the progeny of Agag, enemy of the Jews.

11 He said to him, "Let the silver you promise be yours; deal with the people as it pleases you."

12 The king's scribes were summoned in the first month, Nisan, on its thirteenth day, and according to Haman's command they wrote to all the king's satraps, provincial judges, and diverse nations, in the differing languages that every nation could read and hear, in the name of King Ahasuerus; and the letters were sealed with his ring.

13 They were sent by the king's couriers to all the provinces, that they should kill and destroy all the Jews, from boy to old man, little children and women, on one day—the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is called Adar—and plunder their goods.

14 The substance of the letters was that all the provinces should know and prepare themselves for the appointed day.

15 The couriers hastened to fulfill the king's command. Immediately the edict was hung in Susa, while the king and Haman celebrated a banquet and all the Jews in the city wept.

CHAPTER 4

1 When Mordecai heard these things, he tore his garments, put on sackcloth, and scattered ashes upon his head. In the square in the middle of the city he cried with a loud voice, showing the bitterness of his soul,

2 and with this wailing he went as far as the palace doors, for it was not lawful for one clothed in sackcloth to enter the king's court.

3 In every province, town, and place to which the king's cruel decree came, there was great mourning among the Jews, fasting, howling, and weeping, with many using sackcloth and ashes as their bed.

4 Esther's young women and eunuchs entered and told her. Hearing it, she was dismayed and sent a garment so that, with the sackcloth removed, they might clothe him; but he refused to receive it.

5 She summoned Hathach the eunuch, whom the king had given her as minister, and commanded him to go to Mordecai and learn from him why he did this.

6 Hathach went out to Mordecai, who stood in the city square before the palace entrance.

7 He told him everything that had happened and how Haman had promised to bring silver into the king's treasuries for the slaughter of the Jews.

8 He also gave him a copy of the edict that hung in Susa, that he might show it to the queen and warn her to enter before the king and beseech him for her people.

9 Hathach returned and told Esther everything Mordecai had said.

10 She answered him and commanded him to tell Mordecai:

11 "All the king's servants and all the provinces under his dominion know that if any man or woman enters the king's inner court uncalled, he is immediately killed without any delay—unless perhaps the king extends the golden rod to that person as a sign of clemency, and thus he may live. How, then, can I enter before the king, when for thirty days now I have not been called to him?"

12 When Mordecai heard this,

13 he again sent word to Esther, saying, "Do not think you alone will deliver your soul because you are in the king's house, unlike all the Jews.

14 For if you are silent now, the Jews will be delivered by another occasion; but you and your father's house will perish. And who knows whether you came to the kingdom for this very reason, that you might be prepared for such a time?"

15 Esther again sent these words to Mordecai:

16 "Go and gather all the Jews you find in Susa, and pray for me. Do not eat or drink for three days and three nights. I and my attendants shall fast likewise, and then I shall enter before the king, acting against the law, uncalled, and handing myself over to death and danger."

17 Therefore Mordecai went and did everything Esther had commanded him.

CHAPTER 5

1 On the third day Esther put on royal garments and stood in the inner court of the king's house, opposite the king's hall. He was sitting upon his throne in the council chamber of the palace, opposite the entrance of the house.

2 When he saw Queen Esther standing there, she pleased his eyes, and he extended toward her the golden rod he held in his hand. She approached and kissed the tip of his rod.

3 The king said to her, "What do you wish, Queen Esther? What is your petition? Even if you ask for half of the kingdom, it shall be given to you."

4 She answered, "If it pleases the king, I beseech you to come to me today, and Haman with you, to the banquet I have prepared."

5 Immediately the king said, "Call Haman quickly, that he may obey Esther's will." Therefore the king and Haman came to the banquet the queen had prepared for them.

6 After he had drunk wine abundantly, the king said to her, "What do you ask, that it may be given to you? And for what do you petition? Even if you ask for half of my kingdom, you shall obtain it."

7 Esther answered him, "My petition and prayers are these:

8 if I have found favor in the king's sight, and if it pleases the king to give what I ask and fulfill my petition, let the king and Haman come to the banquet I have prepared for them, and tomorrow I shall disclose my will to the king."

9 Haman went out that day joyful and cheerful. But when he saw Mordecai sitting before the palace doors—and that he not only did not rise before him but did not even move from the place where he sat—he became exceedingly indignant.

10 Concealing his anger, he returned to his house and summoned his friends and Zeresh his wife.

11 He explained to them the greatness of his riches, the multitude of his sons, and how greatly the king had elevated him in glory above all his princes and servants.

12 After these things he said, "Queen Esther also invited no one else to the banquet with the king except me; and tomorrow also I shall dine with the king at her table.

13 Yet although I have all these things, I think I have nothing so long as I see Mordecai the Jew sitting before the royal doors."

14 Zeresh his wife and his other friends answered him, "Command a high timber to be prepared, fifty cubits in height, and in the morning tell the king that Mordecai should be hanged upon it. Then you will go joyfully with the king to the banquet." The counsel pleased him, and he commanded a high cross to be prepared.

CHAPTER 6

1 The king passed that night without sleep and commanded that the histories and annals of former times be brought to him. As they were read in his presence,

2 they came to the place where it was written how Mordecai had reported the plot of Bigthan and Teresh, the eunuchs who wished to cut the throat of King Ahasuerus.

3 When the king heard this, he said, “What honor and reward did Mordecai receive for this fidelity?” His servants and ministers told him, “He received no reward at all.”

4 Immediately the king said, “Who is in the court?” For Haman had entered the inner court of the king’s house to suggest to the king that he command Mordecai to be fastened to the gibbet prepared for him.

5 The servants answered, “Haman stands in the court.” And the king said, “Let him enter.”

6 When he had entered, the king said to him, “What ought to be done for the man whom the king desires to honor?” But Haman thought in his heart and reckoned that the king wished to honor no one other than himself.

7 He answered, “The man whom the king desires to honor

8 ought to be clothed in royal garments, mounted upon a horse from the king’s saddle, and receive the royal diadem upon his head.

9 Let the first of the king’s princes and tyrants hold his horse and, walking through the city square, cry and say, ‘Thus shall anyone be honored whom the king wishes to honor.’”

10 The king said to him, “Hurry, take the robe and horse, and do as you have spoken for Mordecai the Jew, who sits before the palace doors. Take care that you omit nothing of what you have spoken.”

11 Therefore Haman took the robe and horse, clothed Mordecai, and set him upon the horse. He went before him in the city square and cried, “This honor is fitting for anyone whom the king wishes to honor.”

12 Mordecai returned to the palace gate, but Haman hurried to his house, mourning and with his head covered.

13 He told Zeresh his wife and his friends everything that had happened to him. The wise men he had in his counsel and his wife answered him, “If Mordecai, before whom you have begun to fall, is of the seed of the Jews, you will not be able to resist him, but will fall before him.”

14 While they were still speaking, the king’s eunuchs came and compelled him to proceed quickly to the banquet the queen had prepared.

CHAPTER 7

1 Therefore the king and Haman entered to drink with the queen.

2 On the second day also, after he had grown warm with wine, the king said to her, “What is your petition, Esther, that it may be given to you? And what do you wish to be done? Even if you ask for half of my kingdom, you shall obtain it.”

3 She answered him, “If I have found favor in your eyes, O king, and if it pleases you, give me my soul, for which I ask, and my people, for whom I beseech.

4 For I and my people have been delivered over to be crushed, slaughtered, and destroyed. If only we were being sold as male and female servants, the evil would be bearable and I would groan in silence; but now our enemy is one whose cruelty overflows upon the king.”

5 King Ahasuerus answered and said, “Who is this, and of what power is he, that he dares to do these things?”

6 Esther said, “This most wicked Haman is our adversary and enemy.” Hearing it, he was immediately stupefied, unable to bear the face of the king and queen.

7 The king arose angrily from the place of the banquet and entered the garden planted with trees. Haman also arose to beseech Queen Esther for his soul, for he understood that evil had been prepared for him by the king.

8 When the king returned from the wooded garden and entered the place of the banquet, he found Haman fallen upon the couch where Esther lay. He said, “Does he even wish to oppress the queen in my presence, in my house?” The word had not yet left the king’s mouth when they immediately covered Haman’s face.

9 Harbona, one of the eunuchs standing in the king’s service, said, “Behold, the timber Haman prepared for Mordecai, who spoke for the king, stands at Haman’s house, fifty cubits high.” The king said to him, “Hang him upon it.”

10 Therefore Haman was hanged upon the gibbet he had prepared for Mordecai, and the king’s wrath rested.

CHAPTER 8

1 On that day King Ahasuerus gave Queen Esther the house of Haman, adversary of the Jews, and Mordecai entered before the king's face; for Esther confessed to him that Mordecai was her paternal uncle.

2 The king took the ring he had commanded to be taken back from Haman and delivered it to Mordecai. Esther appointed Mordecai over her house.

3 Not content with these things, she fell at the king's feet and wept. Speaking to him, she prayed that he would command the malice of Haman the Agagite and his most wicked schemes devised against the Jews to be made void.

4 As was the custom, he extended in his hand the golden scepter by which a sign of clemency was shown. She arose and stood before him,

5 and said, "If it pleases the king, if I have found favor in his eyes, and if my supplication does not seem contrary to him, I beseech that new letters correct the former letters of Haman, plotter and enemy of the Jews, by which he commanded them to perish throughout all the king's provinces.

6 For how shall I be able to endure the slaughter and killing of my people?"

7 King Ahasuerus answered Queen Esther and Mordecai the Jew, "I granted Haman's house to Esther and commanded him to be fastened to the cross because he dared to lay his hand upon the Jews.

8 Therefore write to the Jews as it pleases you, in the king's name, sealing the letters with my ring. For this was the custom: no one dared contradict letters sent in the king's name and sealed with his ring."

9 The king's scribes and copyists were summoned—it was the twenty-third day of the third month, which is called Sivan—and letters were written as Mordecai wished to the Jews and to the princes, governors, and judges who presided over the one hundred twenty-seven provinces from India to Ethiopia: to each province and each people according to their languages and scripts, and to the Jews according to what they could read and hear.

10 The letters sent in the king's name were sealed with his ring and sent by mounted couriers, who were to run through all the provinces and forestall the old letters with the new message.

11 By them the king commanded that the Jews in every city should meet and be ordered to gather as one, to stand for their souls, kill and destroy all their enemies with their wives, children, and entire households, and plunder their spoils.

12 One day of vengeance was appointed throughout all the provinces—the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar.

13 The substance of the letter was that throughout all lands and peoples subject to King Ahasuerus's rule, it should be made known that the Jews were prepared to take vengeance upon their enemies.

14 The swift mounted couriers went out bearing the message, and the king's edict was hung in Susa.

15 Mordecai went out from the palace and the king's presence shining in royal garments—violet and sky-blue—wearing a golden crown upon his head and clothed in a silken and purple mantle. The whole city exulted and rejoiced.

16 For the Jews a new light seemed to arise: joy, honor, and dancing.

17 Among all peoples, cities, and provinces, wherever the king's commands came, there was marvelous exultation, feasting, banquets, and a festal day, so much so that many of another nation and sect joined themselves to their religion and ceremonies. For a great terror of the Jewish name had invaded them all.

CHAPTER 9

1 Therefore, on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month—which we have already said is called Adar—when slaughter was being prepared for all the Jews and their enemies thirsted for their blood, the situation was reversed: the Jews began to prevail and avenge themselves upon their adversaries.

2 They assembled in every city, town, and place to extend their hand against their enemies and persecutors. No one dared resist, because dread of their greatness had penetrated all the peoples.

3 Indeed, the provincial judges, governors, administrators, and every dignitary presiding over particular places and works exalted the Jews because of fear of Mordecai,

4 whom they knew to be prince of the palace and to possess very great power. The fame of his name also grew daily and flew through everyone's mouths.

5 Therefore the Jews struck their enemies with a great blow and killed them, repaying them what they had prepared to do to them.

6 In Susa they killed five hundred men, besides the ten sons of Haman the Agagite, enemy of the Jews, whose names are these:

7 Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha,

8 Poratha, Adalia, Aridatha,

9 Parmashta, Arisai, Aridai, and Vaizatha.

10 When they had killed them, they refused to touch the plunder of their substance.

11 Immediately the number of those killed in Susa was reported to the king.

12 He said to the queen, "In the city of Susa the Jews have killed five hundred men and the ten sons of Haman besides. How great a slaughter do you think they have carried out throughout all the provinces? What more do you ask, and what do you wish me to command?"

13 She answered, "If it pleases the king, let power be given to the Jews to do tomorrow in Susa as they have done today, and let the ten sons of Haman be hung upon gibbets."

14 The king commanded it to be done. Immediately an edict was hung in Susa, and the ten sons of Haman were hung.

15 When the Jews assembled on the fourteenth day of the month Adar, three hundred men were killed in Susa; but their substance was not plundered by them.

16 Throughout all the provinces subject to the king's dominion, the Jews stood for their souls and killed their enemies and persecutors, so that the number of the slain reached seventy-five thousand; and no one touched anything from their substance.

17 The thirteenth day of the month Adar was the first day of slaughter among all, and on the fourteenth day they ceased killing. They established it as a solemn day, that from then on they might always be free for feasting, joy, and banquets upon it.

18 But those in the city of Susa had carried out the slaughter on the thirteenth and fourteenth days of the same month; on the fifteenth day they ceased striking. Therefore they established that same day as a solemn day of feasting and rejoicing.

19 But the Jews who dwelt in unwalled towns and villages decreed the fourteenth day of the month Adar for banquets and joy, so that they might exult upon it and send one another portions of feasts and food.

20 Therefore Mordecai wrote all these things and, having gathered them into letters, sent them to the Jews dwelling in all the king's provinces, both near and far,

21 that they should receive the fourteenth and fifteenth days of the month Adar as festivals and celebrate them with solemn honor as the year always returned,

22 because on those days the Jews avenged themselves upon their enemies, and mourning and sorrow were turned into cheerfulness and joy. These were to be days of feasting and rejoicing, when they would send one another portions of food and bestow little gifts upon the poor.

23 The Jews received as a solemn rite everything they had begun to do at that time and that Mordecai had commanded by letters.

24 For Haman son of Hammedatha, of the stock of Agag, enemy and adversary of the Jews, devised evil against them to kill and destroy them, and he cast phur, which in our language is translated "lot."

25 Afterward Esther entered before the king, beseeching that by the king's letters his attempt should be made void and that the evil he had devised against the Jews should return upon his own head. Finally, they fastened both him and his sons to the cross.

26 From that time these days were called Purim—that is, “of lots”—because phur, that is, a lot, had been cast into the urn. Everything that happened is contained in the letter, that is, in the volume of this book.

27 The Jews received upon themselves, their seed, and all who wished to be joined to their religion both what they had endured and what was afterward changed, so that no one would be permitted to pass these two days without solemnity—days attested by Scripture and required by fixed times as years continually succeed one another.

28 These are days no oblivion shall ever erase, and every province throughout the whole world shall celebrate them in every generation. There is no city in which the days of Purim—that is, of lots—are not observed by the Jews and by their progeny bound to these ceremonies.

29 Queen Esther daughter of Abihail and Mordecai the Jew also wrote a second letter, that with all diligence this solemn day might be sanctioned for posterity.

30 They sent it to all the Jews who lived in the one hundred twenty-seven provinces of King Ahasuerus, that they might have peace and receive truth,

31 observing the days of lots and celebrating them in their time with joy, as Mordecai and Esther had established. They received for themselves and their seed the observance of fasts, cries, and the days of lots, 32 and everything contained in the history of this book, which is called Esther.

CHAPTER 10

1 King Ahasuerus made all the land and all the islands of the sea tributary.

2 His strength and dominion, and the dignity and sublimity by which he exalted Mordecai, are written in the books of the Medes and Persians,

3 together with how Mordecai, of Jewish stock, was second after King Ahasuerus, great among the Jews and acceptable to the people of his brothers, seeking good for his people and speaking those things that pertained to the peace of his seed.

4 Mordecai said, “These things were done by God.

5 I remembered the dream I had seen, which signified these same things, and nothing from it was made void.

6 The little spring that grew into a river, was turned into light and sun, and overflowed into many waters is Esther, whom the king received as wife and willed to be queen.

7 The two dragons are I and Haman.

8 The nations that assembled are those who attempted to erase the name of the Jews.

9 But my nation is Israel, which cried to the Lord (YHWH), and the Lord saved his people. He delivered us from all evils and performed great signs and wonders among the nations.

10 He commanded that there be two lots, one for the people of God and the other for all the nations.

11 Both lots came before God at the appointed day already established from that time for all nations.

12 The Lord remembered his people and had mercy upon his inheritance.

13 These days shall be observed in the month Adar, on the fourteenth and fifteenth days of that month, with all diligence and joy, the people gathered into one assembly, throughout all future generations of the people of Israel.”

CHAPTER 11

1 In the fourth year of the reign of Ptolemy and Cleopatra, Dositheus, who claimed to be a priest and of Levitical stock, and Ptolemy his son brought this letter of Purim, which they said Lysimachus son of Ptolemy had translated in Jerusalem.

2 In the second year of the reign of the greatest Artaxerxes, on the first day of the month Nisan, Mordecai son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, from the tribe of Benjamin, saw a dream.

3 He was a Jewish man dwelling in the city of Susa, a great man and among the first of the royal court.

4 He was among the number of captives whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had transferred from Jerusalem with Jeconiah king of Judah.

5 This was his dream: voices appeared, and tumult, thunder, earthquakes, and disturbance upon the earth.

6 And behold, two great dragons appeared, prepared for battle against one another.

7 At their cry all nations were stirred up to fight against the nation of the just.

8 That day was a day of darkness and danger, tribulation and anguish, and there was immense dread upon the earth.

9 The nation of the just was troubled, fearing its own evils, and was prepared for death.

10 They cried to God, and while they cried aloud, a little spring grew into a very great river and overflowed into many waters.

11 Light and the sun arose, the humble were exalted, and they devoured the renowned.

12 When Mordecai had seen this and arisen from his bed, he considered what God wished to do. He kept it fixed in his mind, desiring to know what the dream signified.

CHAPTER 12

1 At that time he remained in the king’s court with Bagatha and Thara, the king’s eunuchs who were gatekeepers of the palace.

2 When he understood their thoughts and examined their concerns more diligently, he learned that they attempted to lay hands upon King Artaxerxes, and he reported this to the king.

3 After questioning both of them, the king commanded that, having confessed, they be led to death.

4 The king wrote what had happened in the records, and Mordecai also handed down the memory of the event in writing.

5 The king commanded him to remain in the palace court and gave him gifts for the report.

6 But Haman son of Hammedatha the Bugean was most glorious before the king and wished to harm Mordecai and his people because of the two king’s eunuchs who had been killed. And they plundered their goods or substance. Now the copy of the letter was this:

CHAPTER 13

1 “The greatest King Artaxerxes, from India to Ethiopia, to the princes and governors of the one hundred twenty-seven provinces subject to his dominion: greeting.

2 Though I ruled over many nations and subjected the whole world to my dominion, I wished in no way to abuse the greatness of my power, but to govern my subjects with clemency and gentleness, that they might pass their lives quietly without any terror and enjoy the peace desired by all mortals.

3 When I asked my counselors how this might be fulfilled, one named Haman, who excelled the others in wisdom and fidelity and was second after the king,

4 informed me that throughout the whole world there was a scattered people who used new laws and, acting contrary to the custom of all nations, despised the commands of kings and violated the concord of all nations by their dissension.

5 When we learned this and saw that one rebellious nation, using perverse laws against the whole human race, opposed our commands and disturbed the peace and concord of the provinces subject to us,

6 we commanded that whoever Haman—who is appointed over all the provinces, is second after the king, and whom we honor in the place of a father—should identify, be erased by their enemies with their wives and children, and that no one have mercy upon them, on the fourteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, of the present year,

7 so that these wicked men, descending to the lower regions in one day, may restore to our dominion the peace they had disturbed.” And Mordecai went and did everything Esther had commanded him.

8 Mordecai prayed to the Lord, remembering all his works,

9 and said, “Lord, Lord, almighty King, all things are placed under your dominion, and there is no one who can resist your will if you decree to save Israel.

10 You made heaven and earth and whatever is contained within the compass of heaven.

11 You are Lord of all, and there is no one who resists your majesty.

12 You know all things, and you know that it was not from pride, contempt, or any desire for glory that I did this—that I would not adore the most proud Haman.

13 For I would gladly have been prepared even to kiss the traces of his feet for the salvation of Israel,

14 but I feared lest I transfer the honor of my God to a man and adore anyone except my God.

15 And now, Lord King, God of Abraham, have mercy upon your people, because our enemies wish to destroy us and erase your inheritance.

16 Do not despise your portion, which you redeemed for yourself from Egypt.

17 Hear my supplication, be gracious to your lot and your cord, and turn our mourning into joy, that living we may praise your name, Lord; and do not close the mouths of those who sing to you.”

18 All Israel likewise cried to the Lord with one mind and supplication, because certain death hung over them.

CHAPTER 14

1 Queen Esther also fled for refuge to the Lord, fearing the danger that threatened.

2 When she had laid aside her royal garments, she took up clothing suitable for weeping and mourning; instead of varied ointments she filled her head with ashes and dung, humbled her body with fasts, and filled every place where she had formerly been accustomed to rejoice with torn hair.

3 She prayed to the Lord God of Israel, saying, “My Lord, who alone are our King, help me in my solitude, for I have no other helper besides you.

4 My danger is in my hands.

5 I heard from my father that you, Lord, took Israel from all nations and our fathers from all their ancestors before them, that you might possess an everlasting inheritance, and you did for them as you had spoken.

6 We have sinned in your sight, and therefore you delivered us into the hands of our enemies,

7 for we worshiped their gods. You are just, Lord.

8 And now it is not enough for them that they oppress us with most bitter servitude; attributing the strength of their hands to the power of idols,

9 they wish to alter your promises, erase your inheritance, close the mouths of those who praise you, and extinguish the glory of your temple and altar,

10 that they may open the mouths of the nations, praise the strength of idols, and proclaim a carnal king forever.

11 Do not deliver your scepter, Lord, to those who do not exist, lest they laugh at our ruin. Instead, turn their counsel upon them and destroy the one who began to rage against us.

12 Remember, Lord, and show yourself to us in the time of our tribulation. Give me confidence, Lord, King of gods and of all power.

13 Grant a well-ordered word in my mouth before the lion, and turn his heart to hatred of our enemy, that he may perish together with the others who consent to him.

14 But deliver us by your hand, and help me, who have no other help except you, Lord, who possess the knowledge of all things.

15 You know that I hate the glory of the wicked and detest the bed of the uncircumcised and of every foreigner.

16 You know my necessity: that I abhor the sign of my pride and glory that is upon my head in the days of my display, detest it like the rag of a menstruating woman, and do not wear it in the days of my silence;

17 that I have not eaten at Haman’s table, that the king’s banquet has not pleased me, and that I have not drunk the wine of libations;

18 and that your servant has never rejoiced from the time I was transferred here until the present day except in you, Lord God of Abraham.

19 God, strong above all, hear the voice of those who have no other hope; deliver us from the hand of the wicked, and rescue me from my fear.”

CHAPTER 15

1 And he commanded her—there is no doubt that it was Mordecai—to enter before the king and plead for her people and her homeland.

2 He said, “Remember the days of your humility and how you were raised in my hand, because Haman, second after the king, has spoken against us unto death.

3 Invoke the Lord, speak to the king for us, and deliver us from death.”

4 On the third day she laid aside the garments of her adornment and was clothed with her glory.

5 Shining in royal attire and having invoked God, ruler and savior of all, she took two attendants.

6 She leaned upon one of them, as though because of delights and excessive tenderness she could not bear her own body,

7 while the other attendant followed her mistress, supporting her garments as they flowed upon the ground.

8 Her face was suffused with rosy color and her eyes were gracious and shining, but she concealed a sorrowful soul contracted by exceeding fear.

9 Passing through every doorway in order, she stood before the king, where he sat upon the throne of his kingdom clothed in royal garments, shining with gold and precious stones; and he was terrible in appearance.

10 When he lifted his face and showed the fury of his breast with burning eyes, the queen collapsed; her color changed to pallor, and she rested her weary head upon her attendant.

11 God turned the king’s spirit to gentleness, and he quickly and fearfully sprang from the throne and supported her in his arms until she returned to herself, comforting her with these words:

12 “What troubles you, Esther? I am your brother. Do not fear.

13 You shall not die, for this law was established not for you but for everyone.

14 Therefore approach and touch the scepter.”

15 When she remained silent, he took the golden rod, placed it upon her neck, kissed her, and said, “Why do you not speak to me?”

16 She answered, “I saw you, my lord, like an angel of God, and my heart was troubled for fear of your glory.

17 For you are exceedingly marvelous, my lord, and your face is full of graces.”

18 While she was speaking, she collapsed again and was nearly lifeless.

19 The king was troubled, and all his ministers comforted her.

CHAPTER 16

1 “The great King Artaxerxes, from India to Ethiopia, to the governors and princes of the one hundred twenty-seven provinces who obey our command: greeting.

2 Many have abused the goodness of princes and the honor conferred upon them, turning it into pride.

3 Not only do they strive to oppress those subject to kings, but, unable to bear the glory given them, they devise plots against those who gave it.

4 Nor are they content not to return thanks for benefits and to violate the rights of humanity shown them; they also suppose they can escape the judgment of God, who sees all things.

5 They have broken forth into such madness that they attempt, through tunnels of lies, to overthrow those who diligently observe the offices entrusted to them and conduct everything so as to be worthy of everyone’s praise,

6 while by cunning deceit they mislead the simple ears of princes, who judge others according to their own nature.

7 This is proven both from ancient histories and from what occurs daily: how the purposes of kings are corrupted by the evil suggestions of certain men.

8 Therefore we must provide for the peace of all the provinces.

9 You ought not suppose that if we command differing things, this comes from fickleness of our mind; rather, we issue judgment according to the quality and necessity of the times, as the benefit of the commonwealth requires.

10 That you may understand more clearly what we say: Haman son of Hammedatha, a Macedonian both in soul and nation, foreign to Persian blood and staining our kindness with his cruelty, was received by us as a stranger.

11 He experienced such great humanity from us that he was called our father, adored by all as second after the king.

12 But he was lifted into such swelling arrogance that he attempted to deprive us of both kingdom and life.

13 For by certain new and unheard-of schemes he sought the death of Mordecai, by whose fidelity and benefits we live, and Esther, partner of our kingdom, together with all her nation.

14 He devised this so that, after they had been killed, he might plot against our solitude and transfer the kingdom of the Persians to the Macedonians.

15 But we found the Jews, destined for death by the worst of mortals, entirely free of fault and, on the contrary, using just laws,

16 and sons of the highest, greatest, and ever-living God, by whose benefit the kingdom was handed down both to our fathers and to us and is preserved to this day.

17 Therefore know that the letters he sent under our name are void.

18 For this crime, before the gates of this city—that is, Susa—both he who devised it and all his kin hang upon gibbets, not we but God repaying him what he deserved.

19 Let this edict we now send be displayed in all cities, that the Jews may be permitted to use their laws.

20 You ought to assist them so that on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is called Adar, they may kill those who prepared themselves for their slaughter.

21 For almighty God turned this day for them from sorrow and mourning into joy.

22 Therefore you also shall hold this day among the other festal days and celebrate it with all rejoicing, that henceforth it may be known

23 that all who faithfully obey the Persians receive a reward worthy of their fidelity, but those who plot against their kingdom perish for their crime.

24 But every province and city that refuses to participate in this solemnity shall perish by sword and fire and be so erased that it will be impassable forever not only to men but even to beasts, as an example of contempt and disobedience.”

BOOK EIGHTEEN: JOB

CHAPTER 1

1 There was a man in the land of Uz named Job. That man was simple and upright, fearing God and withdrawing from evil.

2 Seven sons and three daughters were born to him.

3 His possession was seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, five hundred female donkeys, and an exceedingly great household. That man was great among all the people of the East.

4 His sons went and made a banquet in their houses, each on his own day. They sent and called their three sisters to eat and drink with them.

5 When the days of the banquet had gone around their cycle, Job sent for them and sanctified them. Rising at dawn, he offered holocausts for each one, for he said, “Perhaps my sons have sinned and blessed God in their hearts.” Thus Job did every day.

6 Now on a certain day, when the sons of God came to stand before the Lord (YHWH), Satan also was among them.

7 The Lord said to him, “From where do you come?” He answered, “I have gone around the earth and walked through it.”

8 The Lord said to him, “Have you considered my servant Job, that there is no one like him upon the earth—a simple and upright man, fearing God and withdrawing from evil?”

9 Satan answered him, “Does Job fear God for nothing?

10 Have you not fenced him in, with his house and all his substance on every side? You have blessed the works of his hands, and his possession has increased upon the earth.

11 But extend your hand a little and touch everything he possesses, and see whether he will not bless you to your face.”

12 Therefore the Lord said to Satan, “Behold, everything he has is in your hand; only do not extend your hand against him.” And Satan went out from the face of the Lord.

13 On a certain day, while his sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their firstborn brother,

14 a messenger came to Job and said, “The oxen were plowing, and the female donkeys were grazing beside them,

15 when the Sabeans rushed in, took everything, and struck the servants with the sword. I alone escaped to tell you.”

16 While he was still speaking, another came and said, “The fire of God fell from heaven and, touching the sheep and servants, consumed them. I alone escaped to tell you.”

17 While he too was still speaking, another came and said, “The Chaldeans formed three companies, invaded the camels, and took them. They also struck the servants with the sword. I alone fled to tell you.”

18 While he was still speaking, behold, another entered and said, “Your sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their firstborn brother,

19 when suddenly a violent wind rushed in from the region of the desert and struck the four corners of the house. It collapsed and crushed your children, and they died. I alone escaped to tell you.”

20 Then Job arose and tore his garments. Having shaved his head, he fell to the ground and adored,

21 and said, “Naked I came from my mother’s womb, and naked I shall return there. The Lord gave; the Lord took away. As it pleased the Lord, so it was done. Blessed be the name of the Lord.”

22 In all these things Job did not sin with his lips or speak anything foolish against God.

CHAPTER 2

1 It happened on a certain day, when the sons of God came and stood before the Lord, that Satan also came among them and stood in his presence.

2 The Lord said to Satan, “From where do you come?” He answered, “I have gone around the earth and walked through it.”

3 The Lord said to Satan, “Have you considered my servant Job, that there is no one like him upon the earth—a simple and upright man, fearing God and withdrawing from evil, and still holding fast his innocence? Yet you moved me against him, that I might afflict him for nothing.”

4 Satan answered him, “Skin for skin, and everything a man has he will give for his soul.

5 But send forth your hand and touch his bone and flesh, and then you will see that he blesses you to your face.”

6 Therefore the Lord said to Satan, “Behold, he is in your hand; nevertheless, preserve his soul.”

7 Satan went out from the face of the Lord and struck Job with the worst ulcer, from the sole of his foot to the crown of his head.

8 Sitting upon a dung heap, he scraped the discharge with a potsherd.

9 His wife said to him, “Do you still remain in your simplicity? Bless God and die.”

10 He said to her, “You have spoken like one of the foolish women. If we have received good things from the hand of God, why should we not receive evil things?” In all these things Job did not sin with his lips.

11 Now Job’s three friends heard of all the evil that had happened to him, and each came from his own place: Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite. They had agreed to come together to visit and console him.

12 When they raised their eyes from far away, they did not recognize him. Crying aloud, they wept, tore their garments, and scattered dust upon their heads toward heaven.

13 They sat with him upon the ground for seven days and seven nights, and no one spoke a word to him, for they saw that his pain was vehement.

CHAPTER 3

1 After this Job opened his mouth and cursed his day.

2 He spoke:

3 “May the day perish on which I was born, and the night in which it was said, ‘A man has been conceived.’

4 May that day be turned into darkness. May God not seek it from above, and may it not be illuminated with light.

5 May darkness and the shadow of death obscure it. May a mist seize it, and may it be enveloped in bitterness.

6 May a dark whirlwind possess that night. May it not be counted among the days of the year or numbered among the months.

7 May that night be solitary and unworthy of praise.

8 May those who curse the day curse it—those who are prepared to awaken Leviathan.

9 May its stars be darkened by gloom. May it await light and not see it, nor the rising of the ascending dawn,

10 because it did not close the doors of the womb that bore me or remove evils from my eyes.

11 Why did I not die in the womb? Having come out from the womb, why did I not immediately perish?

12 Why was I received upon knees? Why was I nursed at breasts?

13 For now I would lie sleeping in silence and rest in my sleep

14 with kings and consuls of the earth, who build desolate places for themselves,

15 or with princes who possess gold and fill their houses with silver,

16 or, like a hidden miscarriage, I would not have continued to exist, like those conceived who did not see light.

17 There the impious have ceased from tumult, and there those wearied of strength have rested.

18 Those once bound together are without disturbance; they have not heard the voice of the exactor.

19 Small and great are there, and the servant is free from his master.

20 Why has light been given to the wretched, and life to those who are in bitterness of soul,

21 who await death and it does not come, like those digging for treasure,

22 and who rejoice exceedingly when they find the grave?

23 Why is it given to a man whose way is hidden and whom God has surrounded with darkness?

24 Before I eat, I sigh; and like inundating waters, so is my roaring.

25 For the fear I feared has come upon me, and what I dreaded has happened.

26 Did I not conceal myself? Did I not remain silent? Did I not rest? Yet indignation came upon me.”

CHAPTER 4

1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

2 “If we begin to speak to you, perhaps you will take it painfully; but who can hold back a word once conceived?

3 Behold, you have taught many and strengthened weary hands.

4 Your words confirmed those who were wavering, and you strengthened trembling knees.

5 But now a blow has come upon you, and you have failed; it touched you, and you are troubled.

6 Where is your fear, your strength, your patience, and the perfection of your ways?

7 Remember, I beseech you: what innocent man ever perished? Or when were the upright erased?

8 Rather, I have seen those who work iniquity and sow sorrows reap them,

9 perishing when God blew, consumed by the spirit of his wrath.

10 The roaring of the lion, the voice of the lioness, and the teeth of the lion cubs have been broken.

11 The tiger perished because it had no prey, and the lion’s cubs were scattered.

12 Now a hidden word was spoken to me, and my ear received as though by stealth the veins of its whisper.

13 In the horror of a vision by night, when sleep is accustomed to seize men, 14 dread and trembling held me, and all my bones were terrified.

15 When a spirit passed in my presence, the hairs of my flesh bristled.

16 Someone stood there whose face I did not recognize, an image before my eyes; and I heard a voice like a gentle breeze:

17 ‘Shall man be justified in comparison with God? Or shall a man be purer than his Maker?

18 Behold, those who serve him are not stable, and in his angels he found depravity.

19 How much more shall those who dwell in houses of clay, who have an earthly foundation, be consumed like by a moth?

20 From morning until evening they shall be cut down; and because no one understands, they shall perish forever.

21 Those who remain shall be taken away from them; they shall die, and not in wisdom.’”

CHAPTER 5

1 “Call, therefore, if there is anyone who will answer you, and turn to one of the holy ones.

2 Truly, wrath kills the foolish man, and envy slays the little one.

3 I saw the foolish man with a firm root, and immediately I cursed his beauty.

4 His sons shall be far from salvation; they shall be crushed in the gate, and there shall be no one to deliver them.

5 The hungry shall eat his harvest; the armed man shall seize him, and the thirsty shall drink his riches.

6 Nothing happens upon the earth without cause, and sorrow does not arise from the ground.

7 Man is born to labor, and the bird to flight.

8 Therefore I shall beseech the Lord, and to God I shall set my speech—

9 he who does great and unsearchable things, and wonders without number;

10 who gives rain upon the face of the earth and waters everything with waters;

11 who sets the humble on high and raises the mournful to safety;

12 who destroys the thoughts of the malicious, so that their hands cannot fulfill what they began;

13 who catches the wise in their cunning and scatters the counsel of the perverse.

14 By day they shall encounter darkness, and as in night they shall grope at midday.

15 But he shall save the needy from the sword of their mouth and the poor from the hand of the violent.

16 There shall be hope for the needy, but iniquity shall contract its mouth.

17 Blessed is the man whom God corrects; therefore do not reject the Lord’s rebuke.

18 For he wounds and heals; he strikes, and his hands shall make whole.

19 In six tribulations he shall deliver you, and in the seventh evil shall not touch you.

20 In famine he shall rescue you from death, and in war from the hand of the sword.

21 You shall be hidden from the scourge of the tongue, and you shall not fear calamity when it comes.

22 In devastation and famine you shall laugh, and you shall not fear the beasts of the earth.

23 Rather, your pact shall be with the stones of the regions, and the beasts of the earth shall be peaceful toward you.

24 You shall know that your tabernacle has peace; and visiting your appearance, you shall not sin.

25 You shall also know that your seed will be manifold and your progeny like the grass of the earth.

26 You shall enter the grave in abundance, as a heap of wheat is brought in at its proper time.

27 Behold, as we have investigated, so it is. Having heard it, consider it in your mind.”

CHAPTER 6

1 Job answered and said:

2 “If only my sins, by which I merited wrath, and the calamity I suffer were weighed in a balance!

3 They would appear heavier than the sand of the sea; therefore my words also are full of sorrow.

4 For the arrows of the Lord are in me; their indignation drinks up my spirit, and the terrors of the Lord wage war against me.

5 Does the wild donkey bray when it has grass? Or does the ox low when it stands before a full manger?

6 Can an unsavory thing be eaten when it has not been seasoned with salt? Or can anyone taste what, once tasted, brings death?

7 The things my soul previously refused to touch are now, because of anguish, my food.

8 Who will grant that my petition may come and that God may give me what I await?

9 May he who began crush me; may he loosen his hand and cut me down.

10 And may this be my consolation: that while afflicting me with pain he does not spare, and I shall not contradict the words of the Holy One.

11 For what is my strength, that I should endure? Or what is my end, that I should act patiently?

12 My strength is not the strength of stones, nor is my flesh bronze.

13 Behold, there is no help for me in myself, and even those necessary to me have withdrawn from me.

14 He who takes mercy away from his friend forsakes the fear of the Lord.

15 My brothers have passed by me like a torrent rushing swiftly through valleys.

16 Those who fear frost—the snow shall rush upon them.

17 When they have been scattered, they shall perish; and as it grows warm, they shall dissolve from their place.

18 The paths of their steps are entangled; they shall walk into emptiness and perish.

19 Consider the paths of Tema, the journeys of Sheba, and wait a little.

20 They were confounded because I hoped; they came even to me and were covered with shame.

21 Now you have come, and at once, seeing my blow, you fear.

22 Did I say, ‘Bring to me, and give me from your substance’?

23 Or, ‘Deliver me from the hand of the enemy, and rescue me from the hand of the strong’?

24 Teach me, and I shall be silent; and if perhaps I have been ignorant of anything, instruct me.

25 Why have you disparaged words of truth, when there is no one among you who can convict me?

26 You compose speeches only to rebuke and bring forth words into the wind.

27 You rush upon the orphan and strive to overthrow your friend.

28 Nevertheless, complete what you began. Give ear and see whether I lie.

29 Answer, I beseech you, without contention; and speaking what is just, judge.

30 You shall not find iniquity upon my tongue, nor shall foolishness resound in my throat.”

CHAPTER 7

1 “The life of man upon earth is warfare, and his days are like the days of a hired man.

2 Like a servant who desires the shade, and like a hired man who waits for the end of his work,

3 so I have had empty months and numbered laborious nights for myself.

4 If I lie down, I say, ‘When shall I arise?’ And again I await evening and am filled with pains until darkness.

5 My flesh is clothed with putrefaction; my skin, with the filth of dust, has withered and contracted.

6 My days have passed more swiftly than cloth is cut by a weaver, and they are consumed without any hope.

7 Remember that my life is wind, and my eye shall not return to see good things.

8 The sight of man shall not behold me; your eyes shall be upon me, and I shall not continue.

9 As a cloud is consumed and passes away, so he who descends to the lower regions shall not ascend.

10 He shall return no more to his house, nor shall his place know him any longer.

11 Therefore I also shall not spare my mouth. I shall speak in the tribulation of my spirit; I shall converse with the bitterness of my soul.

12 Am I the sea or a whale, that you have surrounded me with a prison?

13 If I say, ‘My bed shall console me, and I shall be relieved while speaking with myself upon my couch,’

14 you terrify me through dreams and shake me with horror through visions.

15 Therefore my soul has chosen hanging, and my bones death.

16 I have despaired; I shall no longer live. Spare me, for my days are nothing.

17 What is man, that you magnify him? Or why do you set your heart toward him?

18 You visit him at dawn and suddenly test him.

19 How long will you not spare me or release me so that I may swallow my saliva?

20 I have sinned; what shall I do to you, O keeper of men? Why have you set me contrary to you, so that I have become burdensome to myself?

21 Why do you not remove my sin, and why do you not take away my iniquity? Behold, now I shall sleep in the dust, and if you seek me in the morning, I shall not continue.”

CHAPTER 8

1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

2 “How long will you speak such things, and the manifold spirit be the words of your mouth?

3 Does God supplant judgment? Or does the Almighty overthrow what is just?

4 Even if your sons sinned against him and he released them into the hand of their iniquity,

5 nevertheless, if you rise at dawn to God and beseech the Almighty,

6 if you walk pure and upright, he will immediately awaken toward you and make peaceful the dwelling of your justice,

7 so that even if your former things were small, your latter things would be multiplied exceedingly.

8 For question the former generation and diligently investigate the memory of the fathers—

9 for we are of yesterday and know nothing, because our days upon earth are like a shadow—

10 and they themselves shall teach you, speak to you, and bring forth words from their heart.

11 Can the bulrush grow green without moisture? Or can sedge grow without water?

12 While it is still in flower and has not been plucked by hand, it withers before every other plant.

13 So are the ways of all who forget God, and the hypocrite’s hope shall perish.

14 His folly shall not please him, and his confidence shall be like a spider’s web.

15 He shall lean upon his house, and it shall not stand; he shall prop it up, and it shall not rise.

16 He appears moist before the sun comes, and at its rising his shoot goes forth.

17 His roots shall thicken over a heap of rocks, and he shall dwell among stones.

18 If it swallows him from his place, it shall deny him and say, ‘I do not know you.’

19 For this is the joy of his way: that others may spring again from the earth.

20 God will not cast away the simple, nor will he extend his hand to the malicious, 21 until your mouth is filled with laughter and your lips with jubilation.

22 Those who hate you shall be clothed with confusion, and the tabernacle of the impious shall not continue.”

CHAPTER 9

1 Job answered and said:

2 “Truly I know that it is so, and that man shall not be justified when compared with God.

3 If he wishes to contend with him, he will not be able to answer him once in a thousand.

4 He is wise in heart and strong in might. Who resisted him and had peace?

5 He transferred mountains, and those whom he overturned in his fury did not know it.

6 He moves the earth from its place, and its pillars are shaken.

7 He commands the sun, and it does not rise, and he closes the stars as though under a seal.

8 He alone stretches out the heavens and walks upon the waves of the sea.

9 He makes Arcturus and Orion, the Hyades and the inner regions of the south.

10 He does great and incomprehensible things, and wonders of which there is no number.

11 If he comes to me, I shall not see him; if he departs, I shall not understand.

12 If he suddenly questions, who will answer him? Or who can say, ‘Why do you do this?’

13 He is God, whose wrath no one can resist, under whom those who carry the world are bowed.

14 How great, then, am I, that I should answer him and speak my words with him?

15 Even if I had something just, I would not answer, but would beseech my judge.

16 And if he heard me invoking him, I would not believe that he had heard my voice.

17 For he shall crush me in a whirlwind and multiply my wounds, even without cause.

18 He does not permit my spirit to rest and fills me with bitterness.

19 If strength is sought, he is the strongest; if equity of judgment, no one dares bear witness for me.

20 If I wish to justify myself, my mouth shall condemn me; if I show myself innocent, it shall prove me perverse.

21 Even if I were simple, my soul itself would not know it, and my life would weary me.

22 It is one thing that I have spoken: he consumes both the innocent and the impious.

23 If he scourges, let him kill at once, and let him not laugh at the punishments of the innocent.

24 The earth has been given into the hand of the impious; he covers the face of its judges. If it is not he, who then is it?

25 My days have been swifter than a runner; they have fled and have not seen good.

26 They have passed like ships carrying fruit, like an eagle flying to food.

27 When I say, ‘I shall no longer speak so,’ I change my face and am tormented with sorrow.

28 I feared all my works, knowing that you would not spare the offender.

29 But if even so I am impious, why have I labored in vain?

30 If I were washed as with waters of snow and my hands shone as the cleanest,

31 nevertheless you would dip me in filth, and my garments would abhor me.

32 For I shall not answer a man like myself, nor one who can be heard equally with me in judgment.

33 There is no one able to convict us both and place his hand upon us both.

34 Let him take his rod away from me, and let his dread not terrify me.

35 I shall speak and not fear him, for I cannot answer while afraid.”

CHAPTER 10

1 “My soul is weary of my life. I shall release my speech against myself; I shall speak in the bitterness of my soul.

2 I shall say to God, ‘Do not condemn me. Show me why you judge me thus.

3 Does it seem good to you that you should accuse me falsely and oppress me, the work of your hands, and assist the counsel of the impious?

4 Do you have eyes of flesh? Or will you see as man sees?

5 Are your days like the days of man, and your years like human times,

6 that you should seek my iniquity and search out my sin,

7 and know that I have done nothing impious, when there is no one who can deliver from your hand?

8 Your hands made me and formed me wholly on every side; and do you thus suddenly cast me down?

9 Remember, I beseech you, that you made me like clay and shall return me to dust.

10 Did you not milk me like milk and curdle me like cheese?

11 You clothed me with skin and flesh and joined me together with bones and sinews.

12 You granted me life and mercy, and your visitation guarded my spirit.

13 Though you conceal these things in your heart, nevertheless I know that you remember everything.

14 If I sinned and you spared me for an hour, why do you not permit me to be clean from my iniquity?

15 If I am impious, woe is me; and if just, I shall not lift my head, being filled with affliction and misery.

16 Because of pride you shall seize me like a lioness, and returning, you torment me wondrously.

17 You renew your witnesses against me and multiply your wrath toward me, and punishments wage war within me.

18 Why did you bring me out from the womb? If only I had been consumed, so that no eye saw me.

19 I would have been as though I had not been, transferred from the womb to the tomb.

20 Shall not the fewness of my days be ended soon? Release me, therefore, that I may lament my sorrow a little

21 before I go and do not return, to the dark land covered with the gloom of death,

22 the land of misery and darkness, where the shadow of death and no order—but everlasting horror—dwells.’”

CHAPTER 11

1 Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:

2 “Shall one who speaks many things not also hear? Or shall a verbose man be justified?

3 Shall men be silent for you alone? And when you mock the others, shall no one refute you?

4 For you have said, ‘My speech is pure, and I am clean in your sight.’

5 If only God would speak with you and open his lips to you,

6 that he might show you the secrets of wisdom and that his law is manifold; then you would understand that he exacts far less from you than your iniquity deserves.

7 Perhaps you will comprehend the traces of God and discover the Almighty even to perfection?

8 He is higher than heaven—what will you do? Deeper than the lower regions—from where will you know?

9 His measure is longer than the earth and broader than the sea.

10 If he overturns everything or contracts it into one, who will contradict him?

11 For he knows the vanity of men; and seeing iniquity, does he not consider it?

12 A vain man is raised up into pride and thinks himself born free like the colt of a wild donkey.

13 But you have strengthened your heart and spread out your hands to him.

14 If you remove from yourself the iniquity that is in your hand and injustice does not remain in your tabernacle,

15 then you shall be able to lift up your face without stain; you shall be stable and shall not fear.

16 You shall also forget misery and remember it like waters that have passed.

17 At evening a brightness like midday shall arise for you, and when you think yourself consumed, you shall rise like the morning star.

18 You shall have confidence because hope has been set before you; and, buried, you shall sleep secure.

19 You shall rest, and there shall be no one to terrify you; and many shall beseech your face.

20 But the eyes of the impious shall fail, escape shall perish from them, and their hope shall be the abomination of the soul.”

CHAPTER 12

1 Job answered and said:

2 “Therefore you alone are men, and wisdom shall die with you?

3 I also have a heart as you do, nor am I inferior to you. For who is ignorant of these things you know?

4 He who is mocked by his friend, as I am, shall invoke God, and he shall hear him; for the simplicity of the just is mocked.

5 A lamp despised in the thoughts of the rich is prepared for the appointed time.

6 The tabernacles of robbers abound, and they boldly provoke God, although he himself gave everything into their hands.

7 But question the pack animals, and they shall teach you; the birds of heaven, and they shall tell you.

8 Speak to the earth, and it shall answer you, and the fish of the sea shall recount it.

9 Who is ignorant that the hand of the Lord has made all these things?

10 In his hand is the soul of every living thing and the spirit of all human flesh.

11 Does not the ear judge words, and the throat of one eating, taste?

12 In the ancients there is wisdom, and in much time prudence.

13 With him are wisdom and strength; he possesses counsel and understanding.

14 If he destroys, there is no one who builds; if he shuts a man in, there is no one who opens.

15 If he withholds the waters, everything shall dry up; and if he sends them out, they shall overturn the earth.

16 With him are strength and wisdom; he knows both the deceiver and the one deceived.

17 He leads counselors to a foolish end and judges into stupefaction.

18 He loosens the belt of kings and girds their waist with a cord.

19 He leads priests away inglorious and supplants nobles,

20 changing the lip of the truthful and taking away the learning of elders.

21 He pours contempt upon princes and relieves those who had been oppressed.

22 He reveals deep things from darkness and brings the shadow of death into light.

23 He multiplies nations and destroys them, and when they have been overturned he restores them whole.

24 He changes the heart of the princes of the people of the earth and deceives them so that they walk vainly through a trackless place.

25 They shall grope as though in darkness and not in light, and he shall make them wander like drunkards.”

CHAPTER 13

1 “Behold, my eye has seen all these things, my ear has heard them, and I have understood each one.

2 According to your knowledge, I also know; nor am I inferior to you.

3 Yet I shall speak to the Almighty and desire to dispute with God,

4 first showing you to be fabricators of lies and cultivators of perverse doctrines.

5 If only you would be silent, that you might be thought wise.

6 Hear, therefore, my correction, and attend to the judgment of my lips.

7 Does God need your lie, that you should speak deceits for him?

8 Do you accept his face and strive to judge for God?

9 Or will he be pleased—he from whom nothing can be concealed? Or will he be deceived by your frauds as a man would be?

10 He himself shall convict you, because in secret you accept his face.

11 As soon as he moves himself, he shall trouble you, and his terror shall rush upon you.

12 Your memory shall be compared to ashes, and your necks shall be reduced to clay.

13 Be silent a little while, that I may speak whatever my mind suggests to me.

14 Why do I tear my flesh with my teeth and carry my soul in my hands?

15 Even if he kills me, I shall hope in him; nevertheless, I shall argue my ways in his sight.

16 He himself shall be my savior, for no hypocrite shall come into his presence.

17 Hear my speech and perceive my riddles with your ears.

18 If I am judged, I know that I shall be found just.

19 Who is there to be judged with me? Let him come. Why am I consumed while silent?

20 Only do not do two things to me, and then I shall not hide from your face:

21 make your hand far from me, and let your dread not terrify me.

22 Call me, and I shall answer you; or surely I shall speak, and you answer me.

23 How many iniquities and sins do I have? Show me my crimes and offenses.

24 Why do you hide your face and regard me as your enemy?

25 Do you display your power against a leaf carried by the wind and persecute dry stubble?

26 For you write bitter things against me and wish to consume me for the sins of my youth.

27 You have placed my foot in the stocks, observed all my paths, and considered the traces of my feet—

28 I who am to be consumed like putrefaction and like a garment eaten by a moth.”

CHAPTER 14

1 “Man born of woman, living for a short time, is filled with many miseries.

2 He comes forth like a flower and is crushed; he flees like a shadow and never remains in the same state.

3 And do you deem it worthy to open your eyes upon one such as this and bring him with you into judgment?

4 Who can make clean one conceived from unclean seed? Is it not you, who alone are?

5 The days of man are short; the number of his months is with you. You have established his boundaries, which cannot be passed.

6 Withdraw a little from him, that he may rest until his desired day comes, like that of a hired man.

7 A tree has hope: if it is cut down, it grows green again, and its branches sprout.

8 If its root grows old in the earth and its trunk dies in the dust,

9 at the scent of water it shall sprout and produce foliage as when it was first planted.

10 But when man has died, been stripped, and consumed, where, I beseech you, is he?

11 As when waters withdraw from the sea and a river, emptied, dries up,

12 so when man sleeps, he shall not rise. Until heaven is worn away, he shall not awaken or arise from his sleep.

13 Who will grant me this: that you protect me in the lower regions and hide me until your fury passes, and appoint for me a time in which you will remember me?

14 Do you think a dead man shall live again? Throughout all the days in which I now serve as a soldier, I wait until my transformation comes.

15 You shall call me, and I shall answer you; you shall extend your right hand to the work of your hands.

16 You indeed have numbered my steps, but spare my sins.

17 You sealed my offenses as though in a little bag, yet you cured my iniquity.

18 A falling mountain flows away, and a rock is transferred from its place.

19 Waters hollow out stones, and by alluvial washing the earth is gradually consumed; therefore you shall likewise destroy man.

20 You strengthened him a little, that he might pass away forever; you shall change his face and send him out.

21 Whether his sons become noble or ignoble, he shall not understand.

22 Nevertheless, while he lives, his flesh shall grieve, and his soul shall mourn over himself.”

CHAPTER 15

1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

2 “Shall a wise man answer as though speaking into the wind and fill his stomach with heat?

3 You rebuke with words one who is not equal to you and speak what does not benefit you.

4 As much as lies within you, you have emptied fear and taken away prayers before God.

5 For your iniquity has taught your mouth, and you imitate the tongue of blasphemers.

6 Your own mouth shall condemn you, and not I; your lips shall answer you.

7 Were you born the first man and formed before the hills?

8 Have you heard the counsel of God, and shall his wisdom be lower than you?

9 What do you know that we do not? What do you understand that we do not know?

10 Both elders and ancients are among us, much older than your fathers.

11 Is it a great thing that God should console you? But your perverse words prohibit it.

12 Why does your heart raise you up, and why, as though thinking great things, are your eyes astonished?

13 Why does your spirit swell against God, so that you bring forth words of this kind from your mouth?

14 What is man, that he should be immaculate, or one born of woman, that he should appear just?

15 Behold, among his holy ones no one is unchangeable, and the heavens are not clean in his sight.

16 How much more abominable and useless is man, who drinks iniquity like water?

17 I shall show you; hear me. What I have seen I shall recount to you.

18 The wise confess and do not conceal their fathers,

19 to whom alone the land was given, and no foreigner passed through them.

20 Throughout all his days the impious man acts proudly, and the number of the years of his tyranny is uncertain.

21 The sound of terror is always in his ears; even when there is peace, he always suspects ambushes.

22 He does not believe he can return from darkness to light, looking around on every side for the sword.

23 When he moves to seek bread, he knows that the day of darkness is prepared in his hand.

24 Tribulation shall terrify him, and anguish shall surround him like a king prepared for battle.

25 For he extended his hand against God and was strengthened against the Almighty.

26 He ran against him with an erect neck and was armed with a fat nape.

27 Fatness covered his face, and grease hangs from his sides.

28 He dwelt in desolate cities and deserted houses that had been reduced to heaps.

29 He shall not become rich, nor shall his substance continue, nor shall he send his root into the earth.

30 He shall not withdraw from darkness. Flame shall dry his branches, and he shall be taken away by the spirit of his own mouth.

31 Deceived by error in vain, he shall not believe that he can be redeemed at any price.

32 Before his days are fulfilled he shall perish, and his hands shall wither.

33 His cluster shall be injured like a vine in its first flower and like an olive tree casting off its blossom.

34 For the congregation of the hypocrite is barren, and fire shall devour the tabernacles of those who gladly receive gifts.

35 He conceived sorrow and gave birth to iniquity, and his womb prepares deceits.”

CHAPTER 16

1 Job answered and said:

2 “I have frequently heard such things. You are all burdensome consolers.

3 Shall windy words have an end? Or is something troublesome to you if you speak?

4 I also could speak things like yours, if only your soul were in place of my soul.

5 I too would console you with words and move my head over you.

6 I would strengthen you with my mouth and move my lips as though sparing you.

7 But what shall I do? If I speak, my sorrow shall not rest; and if I am silent, it shall not withdraw from me.

8 But now my sorrow has oppressed me, and all my limbs have been reduced to nothing.

9 My wrinkles bear witness against me, and a false speaker rises against my face, contradicting me.

10 He gathered his fury against me and, threatening me, gnashed his teeth against me; my enemy looked upon me with terrible eyes.

11 They opened their mouths against me and struck my cheek with reproach; they were filled with my punishments.

12 God has shut me up with the unjust and delivered me into the hands of the impious.

13 I, who was once wealthy, was suddenly crushed. He seized my neck, broke me, and set me up as a mark for himself.

14 He surrounded me with his spears and wounded my loins; he did not spare, but poured out my entrails upon the earth.

15 He cut me down with wound upon wound; he rushed upon me like a giant.

16 I sewed sackcloth over my skin and covered my flesh with ashes.

17 My face swelled from weeping, and my eyelids grew dark.

18 I suffered these things without iniquity in my hand, while I had pure prayers toward God.

19 Earth, do not cover my blood, and let my cry find no place of hiding in you.

20 For behold, my witness is in heaven, and the one who knows me is on high.

21 My friends are verbose; my eye drips toward God.

22 If only a man were judged with God as a son of man is judged with his colleague.

23 For behold, the short years pass, and I walk the path by which I shall not return.”

CHAPTER 17

1 “My spirit shall grow thin; my days shall be shortened, and only the grave remains for me.

2 I have not sinned, and my eye remains in bitterness.

3 Deliver me, Lord, and set me beside you, and let the hand of anyone fight against me.

4 You have made their heart far from discipline; therefore they shall not be exalted.

5 He promises prey to his companions, but the eyes of his sons shall fail.

6 He has set me as a proverb of the people, and I am an example before them.

7 My eye has grown dark from indignation, and my limbs have been reduced as though to nothing.

8 The just shall be stupefied at this, and the innocent shall rise against the hypocrite.

9 The just shall hold to his way, and he who has clean hands shall add strength.

10 Therefore all of you, turn and come, and I shall not find any wise man among you.

11 My days have passed; my thoughts are scattered, tormenting my heart.

12 They have turned night into day, and again after darkness I hope for light.

13 If I endure, the lower regions are my house, and in darkness I have spread my bed.

14 I have said to putrefaction, ‘You are my father,’ and to worms, ‘My mother and my sister.’

15 Where, then, is my expectation now? And who considers my patience?

16 All that is mine shall descend into the deepest lower regions. Do you think that at least there shall be rest for me there?”

CHAPTER 18

1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

2 “To what end will you cast about words? First understand, and then let us speak.

3 Why have we been regarded as pack animals and become filthy before you?

4 You who destroy your soul in your fury—shall the earth be forsaken because of you, and shall rocks be transferred from their place?

5 Shall not the light of the impious be extinguished, and the flame of his fire not shine?

6 Light shall grow dark in his tabernacle, and the lamp above him shall be extinguished.

7 The steps of his strength shall be constrained, and his own counsel shall cast him down.

8 For he has sent his feet into the net and walks in its meshes.

9 His sole shall be held by a snare, and thirst shall burn against him.

10 His trap is hidden in the earth, and his deception is upon the path.

11 Dreads shall terrify him on every side and entangle his feet.

12 May his strength be thinned by hunger, and may starvation invade his ribs.

13 May it devour the beauty of his skin; may firstborn death consume his arms.

14 May his confidence be torn from his tabernacle, and may destruction tread upon him like a king.

15 May the companions of him who is no more dwell in his tabernacle; may sulfur be scattered in his dwelling.

16 Below, may his roots dry up; above, may his harvest be worn away.

17 May his memory perish from the earth, and may his name not be celebrated in the streets.

18 He shall drive him from light into darkness and transfer him from the world.

19 There shall be no seed or progeny of his among his people, nor any remnant in his regions.

20 Those who come last shall be stupefied at his day, and horror shall invade those who came first.

21 These, therefore, are the tabernacles of the unjust and the place of him who does not know God.”

CHAPTER 19

1 Then Job answered and said:

2 “How long will you afflict my soul and grind me down with words?

3 Behold, ten times you confound me, and you are not ashamed to oppress me.

4 Indeed, even if I have been ignorant, my ignorance shall remain with me.

5 But you rise up against me and accuse me with my reproaches.

6 At least understand now that God has afflicted me with no equal judgment and has girded me with his scourges.

7 Behold, I shall cry out while suffering violence, and no one will hear; I shall shout aloud, and there is no one to judge.

8 He has fenced in my path, and I cannot pass; and he has set darkness in my way.

9 He has stripped me of my glory and taken the crown from my head.

10 He has destroyed me on every side, and I perish; and like an uprooted tree, he has taken away my hope.

11 His fury has been angered against me, and he has regarded me as his enemy.

12 His robbers have come together; they have made themselves a way through me and have besieged my tabernacle all around.

13 He has put my brothers far from me, and my acquaintances have withdrawn from me like strangers.

14 My relatives have abandoned me, and those who knew me have forgotten me.

15 The sojourners of my house and my maidservants have regarded me as a stranger, and I have been like a foreigner in their eyes.

16 I called my servant, and he did not answer; with my own mouth I pleaded with him.

17 My wife has abhorred my breath, and I pleaded with the sons of my womb.

18 Fools also despised me, and when I withdrew from them, they spoke against me.

19 Those who once were my counselors have abhorred me, and he whom I loved most has turned away from me.

20 My bone has clung to my skin, my flesh having been consumed, and only the lips around my teeth have been left.

21 Have mercy on me, have mercy on me, at least you, my friends, because the hand of the Lord has touched me.

22 Why do you persecute me like God and sate yourselves with my flesh?

23 Who would grant me that my words might be written? Who would give me that they might be engraved in a book, 24 with an iron stylus and a plate of lead, or be carved with a chisel in flint?

25 For I know that my Redeemer lives, and on the last day I shall rise from the earth;

26 and I shall again be clothed with my skin, and in my flesh I shall see my God,

27 whom I myself shall see, and my eyes shall behold, and not another. This hope has been laid up in my bosom.

28 Why, then, do you now say, ‘Let us persecute him, and let us find the root of a word against him’?

29 Flee, therefore, from the face of the sword, because the sword is the avenger of iniquities; and know that there is judgment.”

CHAPTER 20

1 Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:

2 “Therefore my varied thoughts succeed one another, and my mind is swept in different directions.

3 I shall hear the teaching by which you rebuke me, and the spirit of my understanding shall answer me.

4 This I know from the beginning, from the time man was placed upon the earth:

5 the praise of the impious is brief, and the joy of the hypocrite is like a point of time.

6 Though his pride ascend even to heaven and his head touch the clouds,

7 in the end he shall be lost like a dunghill, and those who had seen him shall say, ‘Where is he?’

8 Like a dream flying away, he shall not be found; he shall pass like a vision of the night.

9 The eye that had seen him shall see him no more, nor shall his place behold him any longer.

10 His sons shall be ground down by poverty, and his own hands shall render his sorrow to him.

11 His bones shall be filled with the vices of his youth, and they shall sleep with him in the dust.

12 For when evil is sweet in his mouth, he hides it beneath his tongue.

13 He spares it and does not forsake it, but conceals it in his throat.

14 His bread shall be turned within his belly into the gall of asps.

15 The riches he devoured he shall vomit up, and God shall draw them out of his belly.

16 He shall suck the head of asps, and the tongue of the viper shall kill him.

17 (May he not see the streams of the river, the torrents of honey and butter.)

18 He shall pay for everything he has done, yet he shall not be consumed; according to the multitude of his inventions, so shall he also endure.

19 For by crushing, he stripped the poor bare; he seized a house and did not build it.

20 His belly was not satisfied; and though he possessed what he desired, he shall not be able to keep it.

21 Nothing remained of his food, and therefore nothing of his goods shall endure.

22 When he has been sated, he shall be constricted; he shall burn, and every sorrow shall rush upon him.

23 May his belly be filled, that God may send upon him the wrath of his fury and rain his war upon him.

24 He shall flee weapons of iron and rush upon a bow of bronze.

25 It is drawn and comes forth from its sheath, flashing in its bitterness; horrors shall go and come upon him.

26 All darkness is hidden in his secret places; a fire that is not kindled shall devour him, and he who is left in his tabernacle shall be afflicted.

27 The heavens shall reveal his iniquity, and the earth shall rise against him.

28 The offspring of his house shall be exposed; it shall be dragged away in the day of God’s fury.

29 This is the portion of an impious man from God and the inheritance of his words from the Lord.”

CHAPTER 21

1 Then Job answered and said:

2 “Hear, I beseech you, my words, and do penance.

3 Bear with me, and I shall speak; and after my words, if it seems good, laugh.

4 Is my dispute against man, that I should not rightly be grieved?

5 Attend to me and be stupefied, and place your finger over your mouth.

6 Even I, when I remember, am afraid, and trembling shakes my flesh.

7 Why, then, do the impious live, become exalted, and grow strong in riches?

8 Their seed remains before them, a multitude of relatives and grandchildren in their sight.

9 Their houses are secure and peaceful, and the rod of God is not upon them.

10 Their ox has conceived and has not miscarried; their cow has given birth and has not been deprived of her offspring.

11 Their little ones go out like flocks, and their children exult in play.

12 They hold the timbrel and the harp and rejoice at the sound of the organ.

13 They spend their days amid good things and in a moment descend into the lower regions.

14 They have said to God, ‘Withdraw from us, for we do not desire knowledge of your ways.

15 Who is the Almighty, that we should serve him? And what does it profit us if we pray to him?’

16 Nevertheless, because their good things are not in their own hand, may the counsel of the impious be far from me.

17 How often shall the lamp of the impious be extinguished, and an inundation come upon them, and God distribute the sorrows of his fury?

18 They shall be like chaff before the face of the wind and like ash that the whirlwind scatters.

19 God shall preserve the father’s sorrow for his sons; and when he repays him, then he shall know.

20 His eyes shall see his own destruction, and he shall drink from the fury of the Almighty.

21 For what concern has he for his house after him, even if the number of his months be cut in half?

22 Shall anyone teach God knowledge, he who judges those on high?

23 One man dies robust and healthy, rich and happy;

24 his inward parts are full of fat, and his bones are moistened with marrow.

25 But another dies in bitterness of soul, without any riches;

26 and yet together they shall sleep in the dust, and worms shall cover them.

27 Surely I know your thoughts and your unjust judgments against me.

28 For you say, ‘Where is the house of the prince? And where are the tabernacles of the impious?’

29 Ask anyone among the travelers, and you will know that he understands these same things:

30 that the evil man is preserved for the day of destruction and shall be led to the day of fury.

31 Who shall rebuke his way before his face? And who shall repay him for what he has done?

32 He shall be led to the sepulchers, and he shall keep watch among the heap of the dead.

33 He was sweet to the gravel of Cocytus, and he shall draw every man after him, and before him are innumerable ones.

34 How, then, do you console me in vain, when your answer has been shown to oppose the truth?”

CHAPTER 22

1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

2 “Can man be compared with God, even when he is of perfect knowledge?

3 What does it profit God if you are just? Or what do you confer upon him if your way is immaculate?

4 Will he rebuke you because he fears you and enter into judgment with you,

5 and not because of your very great malice and your infinite iniquities?

6 For you took away the pledge of your brothers without cause and stripped the naked of their garments.

7 You gave no water to the weary and withdrew bread from the hungry.

8 By the strength of your arm you possessed the land, and being most powerful, you held it.

9 You sent widows away empty and crushed the arms of orphans.

10 Therefore you are surrounded by snares, and sudden dread troubles you.

11 And did you think that you would not see darkness or be overwhelmed by the force of inundating waters?

12 Do you not consider that God is higher than heaven and is exalted above the summit of the stars?

13 And you say, ‘For what does God know? He judges as though through darkness.

14 The clouds are his hiding place, and he does not consider our affairs; he walks about the hinges of heaven.’

15 Do you desire to keep the path of the ages, which unjust men have trodden, 16 who were taken away before their time, and a river overthrew their foundation?

17 They said to God, ‘Withdraw from us,’ and esteemed the Almighty as though he could do nothing,

18 although he had filled their houses with good things. May their judgment be far from me.

19 The just shall see and rejoice, and the innocent shall mock them:

20 ‘Has not their exaltation been cut down, and has not fire devoured their remnants?’

21 Submit, therefore, to him and have peace, and through these things you shall have the best fruits.

22 Receive the law from his mouth and place his words in your heart.

23 If you return to the Almighty, you shall be built up, and you shall put iniquity far from your tabernacle.

24 He shall give flint for earth and torrents of gold for flint.

25 And the Almighty shall stand against your enemies, and silver shall be heaped up for you.

26 Then you shall overflow with delights in the Almighty and lift up your face to God.

27 You shall beseech him, and he shall hear you, and you shall fulfill your vows.

28 You shall decree a thing, and it shall come to you, and light shall shine upon your ways.

29 For he who has been humbled shall be in glory, and he who lowers his eyes shall himself be saved.

30 The innocent shall be saved; and he shall be saved through the cleanness of his hands.”

CHAPTER 23

1 Then Job answered and said:

2 “Now also my speech is in bitterness, and the hand of my scourge is heavy upon my groaning.

3 Who would grant me that I might know and find him and come even to his throne?

4 I would set judgment before him and fill my mouth with rebukes,

5 that I might know the words he would answer me and understand what he would say to me.

6 I do not desire that he contend with me by great strength or press me down with the weight of his greatness.

7 Let him set equity against me, and my judgment shall attain victory.

8 If I go toward the east, he does not appear; if toward the west, I shall not perceive him.

9 If toward the left, what shall I do? I shall not apprehend him; if I turn toward the right, I shall not see him.

10 But he knows my way, and he has proved me like gold that passes through fire.

11 My foot has followed his footsteps; I have kept his way and have not turned aside from it.

12 I have not withdrawn from the commandments of his lips, and I have hidden the words of his mouth in my bosom.

13 For he alone is, and no one can turn away his thought; and whatever his soul willed, this he has done.

14 When he has fulfilled his will in me, many other things like these are ready at his command.

15 Therefore I am troubled before his face, and when I consider him, I am anxious with fear.

16 God has softened my heart, and the Almighty has troubled me.

17 For I have not perished because of the darkness that hangs over me, nor has darkness covered my face.”

CHAPTER 24

1 “Times are not hidden from the Almighty; but those who know him are ignorant of his days.

2 Some have moved boundaries; they have plundered flocks and pastured them.

3 They have driven away the donkey of orphans and taken the widow’s ox as a pledge.

4 They have overturned the way of the poor and together oppressed the meek of the earth.

5 Others, like wild asses in the desert, go out to their work; keeping watch for prey, they prepare bread for their children.

6 They reap a field not their own and harvest the vineyard of the man whom they have violently oppressed.

7 They send men away naked, taking away the garments of those who have no covering in the cold;

8 the mountain rains drench them, and having no covering, they embrace the rocks.

9 They have committed violence by plundering orphans and have stripped the poor common people.

10 From the naked, who walk without clothing, and from the hungry, they have taken ears of grain.

11 Among their heaps, those who have trodden the winepresses rest at midday and thirst.

12 From the cities they have made men groan, and the soul of the wounded has cried out; and God does not allow it to pass unavenged.

13 They have rebelled against the light; they did not know its ways, nor did they return by its paths.

14 At first light the murderer rises; he kills the needy and the poor, but by night he shall be like a thief.

15 The eye of the adulterer watches for darkness, saying, ‘No eye shall see me,’ and he covers his face.

16 In darkness he digs through houses, as they had appointed for themselves by day, and they have not known the light.

17 If dawn suddenly appears, they reckon it the shadow of death, and so they walk in darkness as though in light.

18 He is light upon the face of the water; cursed be his portion upon the earth, and may he not walk by the way of the vineyards.

19 May he pass from the waters of snow into excessive heat, and may his sin descend even to the lower regions.

20 May mercy forget him; worms are his sweetness. May he not be remembered, but be broken like an unfruitful tree.

21 For he fed the barren woman who does not bear and did no good to the widow.

22 He dragged down the strong by his strength, and when he stands, he shall not trust his life.

23 God gave him a place of penance, and he abuses it unto pride; but God’s eyes are upon his ways.

24 They are lifted up for a little while and shall not endure; they shall be humbled like all things and be taken away, and like the tops of ears of grain they shall be crushed.

25 But if it is not so, who can prove that I have lied and set my words before God?”

CHAPTER 25

1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

2 “Power and terror are with him who makes concord in his heights.

3 Is there any number to his soldiers? And upon whom does his light not rise?

4 Can man be justified when compared with God? Or can one born of woman appear clean?

5 Behold, even the moon does not shine, and the stars are not clean in his sight;

6 how much more is man putrefaction, and the son of man a worm?”

CHAPTER 26

1 Then Job answered and said:

2 “Whose helper are you? Is it the weak? And do you sustain the arm of him who is not strong?

3 To whom have you given counsel? Perhaps to him who has no wisdom? And you have displayed your very great prudence.

4 Whom did you wish to teach? Was it not him who made breath?

5 Behold, the giants groan beneath the waters, and those who dwell with them.

6 The lower regions are naked before him, and there is no covering for perdition.

7 He stretches the north over the void and hangs the earth upon nothing.

8 He binds the waters in his clouds so that they do not burst downward together.

9 He holds back the face of his throne and spreads his cloud over it.

10 He has drawn a boundary around the waters, until light and darkness come to an end.

11 The pillars of heaven tremble and are terrified at his nod.

12 By his strength the seas were suddenly gathered together, and his wisdom struck the proud one.

13 His spirit adorned the heavens, and by the midwifery of his hand the winding serpent was brought forth.

14 Behold, these things have been spoken of only as part of his ways; and when we have scarcely heard a little drop of his word, who shall be able to behold the thunder of his greatness?”

CHAPTER 27

1 Job also continued, taking up his parable, and said:

2 “God lives, who has taken away my judgment, and the Almighty, who has brought my soul into bitterness.

3 For as long as breath remains in me and the spirit of God in my nostrils,

4 my lips shall not speak iniquity, nor shall my tongue meditate a lie.

5 Far be it from me to judge you just; until I fail, I shall not withdraw from my innocence.

6 I shall not forsake my justification, which I have begun to hold, for my heart does not reproach me in all my life.

7 Let my enemy be as the impious and my adversary as the unjust.

8 For what is the hope of the hypocrite if he greedily seizes and God does not deliver his soul?

9 Will God hear his cry when anguish comes upon him?

10 Or shall he be able to delight in the Almighty and invoke God at all times?

11 I shall teach you by the hand of God what the Almighty possesses, and I shall not conceal it.

12 Behold, you all know; then why do you speak vain things without cause?

13 This is the portion of the impious man with God and the inheritance that the violent shall receive from the Almighty.

14 If his sons are multiplied, they shall be for the sword, and his grandchildren shall not be satisfied with bread.

15 Those remaining of him shall be buried in destruction, and his widows shall not weep.

16 If he heaps up silver like earth and prepares garments like clay,

17 he shall indeed prepare them, but the just shall be clothed with them, and the innocent shall divide the silver.

18 He has built his house like a moth and made a shelter like a watchman.

19 When the rich man sleeps, he shall take nothing with him; he shall open his eyes and find nothing.

20 Poverty shall seize him like water; a tempest shall oppress him by night.

21 A burning wind shall lift him and carry him away, and like a whirlwind it shall seize him from his place.

22 It shall cast itself upon him and shall not spare; fleeing from its hand, he shall flee.

23 It shall clasp its hands over him and hiss over him while looking upon his place.”

CHAPTER 28

1 “Silver has the beginnings of its veins, and gold has a place where it is refined.

2 Iron is taken from the earth, and stone dissolved by heat is turned into bronze.

3 He has set a time for darkness, and he considers the end of all things—the stone also of darkness and the shadow of death.

4 A torrent divides from a wandering people those whom the foot of the needy man has forgotten, those without a path.

5 The earth from which bread arose has been overturned by fire in its place.

6 Its stones are the place of sapphire, and its clods are gold.

7 The bird has not known the path, nor has the eye of the vulture beheld it.

8 The sons of merchants have not trodden it, nor has the lioness passed through it.

9 He has stretched out his hand to the flint; he has overturned mountains from their roots.

10 He has cut channels in the rocks, and his eye has seen every precious thing.

11 He has also searched the depths of rivers and brought hidden things into the light.

12 But where shall wisdom be found? And what is the place of understanding?

13 Man does not know its price, nor is it found in the land of those who live pleasantly.

14 The abyss says, ‘It is not in me,’ and the sea declares, ‘It is not with me.’

15 The finest gold shall not be given for it, nor shall silver be weighed in exchange for it.

16 It shall not be compared with the dyed colors of India, nor with the most precious sardonyx or sapphire.

17 Gold or glass shall not equal it, nor shall vessels of gold be exchanged for it.

18 High and eminent things shall not be remembered in comparison with it, for wisdom is drawn out from hidden places.

19 The topaz of Ethiopia shall not equal it, nor shall the purest dyes be compared with it.

20 From where, then, does wisdom come? And what is the place of understanding?

21 It is hidden from the eyes of all the living; it is concealed even from the birds of heaven.

22 Perdition and death have said, ‘With our ears we have heard its fame.’

23 God understands its way, and he knows its place.

24 For he beholds the ends of the world and sees all things beneath heaven.

25 He made a weight for the winds and weighed the waters by measure.

26 When he set a law for the rains and a path for the sounding storms,

27 then he saw wisdom and declared it, and prepared it, and searched it out.

28 And he said to man: ‘Behold, the fear of the Lord—that is wisdom; and to withdraw from evil is understanding.’”

CHAPTER 29

1 Job also continued, taking up his parable, and said:

2 “Who would grant me to be as in former months, according to the days when God kept me?

3 Then his lamp shone over my head, and by his light I walked through darkness,

4 as I was in the days of my youth, when God was secretly in my tabernacle,

5 when the Almighty was with me and my children were around me,

6 when I washed my feet with butter and the rock poured out rivers of oil for me,

7 when I went forth to the gate of the city and they prepared a chair for me in the street.

8 Young men saw me and hid themselves, and elders rose and stood.

9 Princes ceased speaking and placed a finger over their mouths.

10 Leaders restrained their voices, and their tongues clung to their throats.

11 The ear that heard blessed me, and the eye that saw bore witness to me,

12 because I had delivered the poor man crying aloud and the orphan who had no helper.

13 The blessing of him who was perishing came upon me, and I consoled the widow’s heart.

14 I was clothed with justice, and I clothed myself with my judgment as with a garment and a diadem.

15 I was an eye to the blind and a foot to the lame.

16 I was a father to the poor, and I investigated most diligently the cause I did not know.

17 I broke the jaws of the unjust and took the prey from his teeth.

18 And I said, ‘I shall die in my little nest, and like a palm tree I shall multiply my days.

19 My root is open beside the waters, and dew shall remain upon my harvest.

20 My glory shall always be renewed, and my bow shall be restored in my hand.’

21 Those who heard me awaited my judgment and remained attentive and silent for my counsel.

22 They dared add nothing to my words, and my eloquence dropped upon them.

23 They awaited me as rain and opened their mouths as for the latter rain.

24 If ever I smiled upon them, they could not believe it, and the light of my countenance did not fall to the earth.

25 If I wished to go among them, I sat first; and when I sat like a king with an army standing around me, I was nevertheless the consoler of those who mourned.”

CHAPTER 30

1 “But now those younger than I in years deride me, whose fathers I did not deem worthy to place with the dogs of my flock;

2 the strength of their hands was nothing to me, and they were considered unworthy even of life;

3 barren through want and hunger, they gnawed in the wilderness, disfigured by calamity and misery.

4 They ate herbs and the bark of trees, and the root of junipers was their food.

5 Snatching these things from the valleys, whenever they found any one of them, they ran to it with a cry.

6 They dwelt in the deserts of torrents and in caverns of the earth or upon gravel.

7 Among such things they rejoiced, and they counted it a delight to be beneath thorns—

8 sons of fools and of the ignoble, who did not appear at all upon the earth.

9 But now I have been turned into their song and have become a proverb to them.

10 They abhor me and flee far from me, and they do not fear to spit in my face.

11 For he has opened his quiver and afflicted me, and he has put a bridle into my mouth.

12 At the right hand of the rising, my calamities immediately rose; they overturned my feet and oppressed me with their paths as with waves.

13 They scattered my ways; they lay in wait for me and prevailed, and there was no one to bring help.

14 As through a broken wall and an open gate, they rushed upon me and rolled down into my miseries.

15 I have been reduced to nothing; you have taken away my desire like the wind, and my salvation has passed like a cloud.

16 But now my soul withers within me, and the days of affliction possess me.

17 By night my bone is pierced with pains, and those who devour me do not sleep.

18 By their multitude my garment is consumed, and they have girded me like the collar of a tunic.

19 I have been compared to mud and made like ash and cinders.

20 I cry to you, and you do not hear me; I stand, and you do not regard me.

21 You have changed toward me into one cruel, and in the hardness of your hand you oppose me.

22 You lifted me up and, setting me as though upon the wind, dashed me down mightily.

23 I know that you shall hand me over to death, where a house has been appointed for every living one.

24 Nevertheless, you do not send forth your hand for their consumption; and if they fall, you yourself shall save them.

25 I once wept over him who was afflicted, and my soul had compassion on the poor.

26 I awaited good things, and evils came to me; I looked for light, and darkness burst forth.

27 My inward parts boiled without any rest; the days of affliction came upon me beforehand.

28 Mourning, I walked without fury; rising, I cried aloud in the multitude.

29 I was a brother of dragons and a companion of ostriches.

30 My skin has blackened upon me, and my bones have dried from the heat.

31 My harp has been turned into mourning and my organ into the voice of those who weep.”

CHAPTER 31

1 “I made a pact with my eyes that I would not even think upon a virgin.

2 For what portion would God from above have in me, and what inheritance would the Almighty have from the heights?

3 Is not perdition for the unjust and estrangement for those who work injustice?

4 Does he not consider my ways and number all my steps?

5 If I have walked in vanity and my foot has hastened in deceit,

6 let him weigh me in a just balance, and let God know my simplicity.

7 If my step has turned aside from the way, if my heart has followed my eyes, or if a stain has clung to my hands,

8 then let me sow and another eat, and let my offspring be rooted out.

9 If my heart has been deceived concerning a woman, or if I have lain in wait at my friend’s door,

10 let my wife be the harlot of another, and let others bend themselves over her.

11 For this is an abomination and the greatest iniquity.

12 It is a fire devouring even unto perdition and rooting out every offspring.

13 If I despised entering into judgment with my manservant or my maidservant when they disputed against me,

14 then what shall I do when God rises to judge? And when he questions, what shall I answer him?

15 Did not he who made me in the womb also fashion him, and did not one form me in the womb?

16 If I denied the poor what they desired or made the widow’s eyes wait;

17 if I ate my morsel alone and the orphan did not eat from it

18 (because compassion grew with me from my infancy and came forth with me from my mother’s womb);

19 if I despised him who was perishing because he had no garment, or the poor man without a covering;

20 if his sides did not bless me and he was not warmed by the fleeces of my sheep;

21 if I lifted my hand against the orphan, even when I saw myself superior at the gate,

22 then let my shoulder fall from its joint and my arm be broken with its bones.

23 For I always feared God as waves swelling over me, and I could not bear his weight.

24 If I regarded gold as my strength or said to the finest gold, ‘You are my confidence’;

25 if I rejoiced over my many riches and because my hand had found very much;

26 if I saw the sun when it shone and the moon proceeding brightly,

27 and my heart rejoiced in secret and I kissed my hand with my mouth—

28 this is the greatest iniquity and a denial against God Most High.

29 If I rejoiced at the ruin of him who hated me or exulted because evil had found him—

30 for I did not give my throat over to sin by cursing and seeking his soul.

31 If the men of my tabernacle did not say, ‘Who will give us of his flesh, that we may be sated?’

32 The stranger did not remain outside; my door was open to the traveler.

33 If I concealed my sin as a man does and hid my iniquity in my bosom;

34 if I was terrified by an exceedingly great multitude or the contempt of relatives frightened me, so that I kept silent rather than going out through the door.

35 Who would grant me a hearer, that the Almighty might hear my desire, and that he who judges might himself write a book,

36 so that I might carry it upon my shoulder and place it around me like a crown?

37 At every one of my steps I shall proclaim it and offer it to him as to a prince.

38 If my land cries out against me and its furrows weep with it;

39 if I ate its fruit without money and afflicted the soul of its farmers,

40 then let thistles spring up for me instead of wheat and thorns instead of barley.” The words of Job are ended.

CHAPTER 32

1 But these three men ceased answering Job because he appeared just to himself.

2 And Elihu son of Barachel the Buzite, of the kindred of Ram, became angry and indignant. He was angry against Job because Job said that he was just before God.

3 Moreover, he was indignant against Job's friends because they had not found a reasonable answer but had only condemned Job.

4 Therefore Elihu waited while Job spoke because those speaking were his elders.

5 But when he saw that the three could not answer, he became exceedingly angry.

6 And Elihu son of Barachel the Buzite answered and said: "I am younger in years, but you are older; therefore, with head lowered, I feared to disclose my judgment to you.

7 For I hoped that greater age would speak and that a multitude of years would teach wisdom.

8 But as I see, there is a spirit in men, and the inspiration of the Almighty gives understanding.

9 The long-lived are not necessarily wise, nor do elders understand judgment.

10 Therefore I shall say: Hear me; I also shall show you my wisdom.

11 For I awaited your words; I heard your prudence while you contended with words.

12 And while I thought you might say something, I considered you; but as I see, there is no one among you who can rebuke Job and answer his words.

13 Do not perhaps say, 'We have found wisdom; God has cast him down, not man.'

14 He has spoken nothing to me, and I shall not answer him according to your words.

15 They were terrified and answered no more, and they took speech away from themselves.

16 Therefore, because I waited and they did not speak—they stood and answered no more—

17 I also shall answer my part and show my knowledge.

18 For I am full of words, and the spirit of my belly constrains me.

19 Behold, my belly is like new wine without a vent, which bursts new wineskins.

20 I shall speak and breathe a little; I shall open my lips and answer.

21 I shall not accept the person of a man, nor shall I equate God with man.

22 For I do not know how long I shall remain, or whether after a little while my Maker may take me away."

CHAPTER 33

1 “Hear, therefore, Job, my eloquence, and listen to all my words.

2 Behold, I have opened my mouth; let my tongue speak in my throat.

3 My words are from my simple heart, and my lips shall speak a pure judgment.

4 The spirit of God made me, and the breath of the Almighty gave me life.

5 If you can, answer me and stand before my face.

6 Behold, God made me as he also made you, and I too was formed from the same clay.

7 Nevertheless, let my wonder not terrify you, and let my eloquence not be burdensome to you.

8 You spoke, therefore, in my ears, and I heard the voice of your words:

9 ‘I am clean and without offense, immaculate, and there is no iniquity in me.

10 Because he found complaints against me, therefore he regarded me as his enemy.

11 He placed my feet in the stocks; he watched all my paths.’

12 This, therefore, is where you are not justified. I shall answer you: God is greater than man.

13 Do you contend against him because he has not answered you concerning all your words?

14 God speaks once, and he does not repeat the same thing a second time.

15 Through a dream, in a vision of the night, when sleep rushes upon men and they sleep in their bed,

16 then he opens the ears of men and, instructing them, teaches discipline,

17 that he may turn man away from the things he does and deliver him from pride,

18 rescuing his soul from corruption and his life, so that it does not pass into the sword.

19 He also rebukes through pain upon the bed and causes all his bones to wither.

20 In his life, bread becomes abominable to him, and food once desirable to his soul.

21 His flesh shall waste away, and the bones that had been covered shall be laid bare.

22 His soul has drawn near to corruption and his life to death-bearing powers.

23 If there is an angel speaking for him, one among thousands, to declare the equity of man,

24 he shall have mercy on him and say, ‘Deliver him, that he may not descend into corruption; I have found that by which I may be propitious to him.’

25 His flesh has been consumed by torments; let him return to the days of his youth.

26 He shall beseech God, and God shall be favorable to him; he shall see God’s face with jubilation, and God shall restore to man his justice.

27 He shall look upon men and say, ‘I have sinned and truly offended, and I did not receive what I deserved.’

28 He has delivered his soul so that it should not proceed into destruction but, living, should see the light.

29 Behold, God works all these things three times for each one,

30 that he may recall their souls from corruption and illuminate them with the light of the living.

31 Attend, Job, and hear me; and be silent while I speak.

32 But if you have anything to say, answer me. Speak, for I desire you to appear just.

33 But if you have nothing, hear me; be silent, and I shall teach you wisdom.”

CHAPTER 34

1 Then Elihu, continuing his declaration, also spoke these things:

2 “Hear my words, you wise men, and you learned, listen to me.

3 For the ear proves words, and the throat judges food by taste.

4 Let us choose judgment for ourselves, and among ourselves let us see what is better.

5 For Job has said, ‘I am just, and God has overthrown my judgment.

6 For in judging me there is falsehood; my arrow is violent without any sin.’

7 What man is like Job, who drinks mockery like water,

8 who goes with those who work iniquity and walks with impious men?

9 For he has said, ‘Man shall not please God, even if he runs with him.’

10 Therefore, men of heart, hear me: far be impiety from God and iniquity from the Almighty.

11 For he shall render to man his work and restore to each according to his ways.

12 For truly God shall not condemn without cause, nor shall the Almighty overthrow judgment.

13 Whom else did he appoint over the earth? Or whom did he set over the world that he fashioned?

14 If he directs his heart toward man, he shall draw man’s spirit and breath to himself.

15 All flesh shall fail together, and man shall return to ashes.

16 If, therefore, you have understanding, hear what is said and listen to the voice of my eloquence.

17 Can he who does not love judgment be healed? And how do you condemn so greatly him who is just?

18 He says to a king, ‘Apostate,’ and calls leaders impious.

19 He does not accept the persons of princes, nor does he acknowledge the tyrant when he contends against the poor, for they are all the work of his hands.

20 They shall die suddenly, and at midnight peoples shall be troubled; they shall pass away, and the violent man shall be taken without a hand.

21 For his eyes are upon the ways of men, and he considers all their steps.

22 There is no darkness and no shadow of death where those who work iniquity may be hidden,

23 for it is no longer within man’s power to come before God in judgment.

24 He shall crush many—even innumerable men—and make others stand in their place.

25 For he knows their works, and therefore he shall bring in the night, and they shall be crushed.

26 He struck them as impious men in the place of those who see,

27 because they deliberately withdrew from him and refused to understand all his ways,

28 so that they caused the cry of the needy to reach him, and he heard the voice of the poor.

29 For when he grants peace, who is there who can condemn? When he hides his face, who is there who can behold him, whether over nations or over all men?

30 He causes a hypocritical man to reign because of the sins of the people.

31 Because I have spoken to God, therefore I shall not prohibit you either.

32 If I have erred, teach me; if I have spoken iniquity, I shall add no more.

33 Does God demand it from you because it displeased you? For you began to speak, and not I. But if you know anything better, speak.

34 Let men of understanding speak to me, and let a wise man hear me.

35 But Job has spoken foolishly, and his words do not sound of discipline.

36 My Father, let Job be proved even to the end; do not cease from a man of iniquity,

37 because he adds blasphemy upon his sins. Meanwhile, let him be constrained among us, and then let him provoke God to judgment with his words.”

CHAPTER 35

1 Then Elihu spoke these things again:

2 “Does your thought seem equitable to you, that you should say, ‘I am more just than God’?

3 For you have said, ‘What is right does not please you,’ or, ‘What shall it profit you if I have sinned?’

4 Therefore I shall answer your words and your friends with you.

5 Look up to heaven and behold, and contemplate the sky, that it is higher than you.

6 If you sin, what harm shall you do to him? And if your iniquities are multiplied, what shall you do against him?

7 Moreover, if you act justly, what shall you give him? Or what shall he receive from your hand?

8 Your impiety shall harm a man who is like you, and your justice shall help a son of man.

9 Because of the multitude of oppressors, they shall cry out, and they shall wail because of the force of the tyrants’ arm.

10 Yet no one has said, ‘Where is God who made me, who has given songs in the night,

11 who teaches us above the beasts of the earth and instructs us above the birds of heaven?’

12 There they shall cry, and he shall not hear because of the pride of evil men.

13 Therefore God shall not hear in vain, and the Almighty shall behold the causes of each one.

14 Even when you say, ‘He does not consider,’ be judged before him and await him.

15 For now he does not bring in his fury, nor does he greatly avenge wickedness.

16 Therefore Job opens his mouth in vain and multiplies words without knowledge.”

CHAPTER 36

1 Elihu also continued and spoke these things:

2 “Bear with me a little, and I shall show you, for I still have something to speak on God’s behalf.

3 I shall take up my knowledge from the beginning and prove my Maker just.

4 For truly my words are without falsehood, and perfect knowledge shall be proved to you.

5 God does not cast away the powerful, since he himself also is powerful;

6 but he does not save the impious, and he grants judgment to the poor.

7 He shall not take his eyes away from the just; he places kings upon the throne forever, and they are exalted.

8 And if they are in chains and bound with the cords of poverty,

9 he shall show them their works and their crimes, because they were violent.

10 He shall also uncover their ear to correct them and shall speak so that they may return from iniquity.

11 If they hear and observe, they shall complete their days in good and their years in glory;

12 but if they do not hear, they shall pass through the sword and be consumed in foolishness.

13 Pretenders and the crafty provoke the wrath of God, nor shall they cry out when they are bound.

14 Their soul shall die in a tempest and their life among the effeminate.

15 He shall rescue the poor from his anguish and uncover his ear in tribulation.

16 Therefore he shall save you most broadly from the narrow mouth, which has no foundation beneath it; and the rest of your table shall be full of fatness.

17 Your cause has been judged like that of the impious; you shall receive cause and judgment.

18 Therefore let not wrath overcome you so that you oppress anyone, nor let a multitude of gifts incline you.

19 Lay down your greatness without tribulation and all those robust in strength.

20 Do not prolong the night so that peoples may rise in their place.

21 Beware lest you turn aside to iniquity, for you began to follow this after misery.

22 Behold, God is exalted in his strength, and none is like him among lawgivers.

23 Who shall be able to search out his ways? Or who can say to him, ‘You have worked iniquity’?

24 Remember that you do not comprehend his work, of which men have sung.

25 All men see him; each one beholds from afar.

26 Behold, God is great, surpassing our knowledge; the number of his years is beyond estimation.

27 He takes away the drops of rain and pours out showers like whirlpools,

28 which flow from the clouds that cover all things from above.

29 If he wills to stretch out the clouds as his tent

30 and flash with his light from above, he shall also cover the hinges of the sea.

31 For through these things he judges peoples and gives food to many mortals.

32 In his hands he hides the light and commands it to come again.

33 He announces concerning it to his friend that it is his possession and that he may ascend to it.”

CHAPTER 37

1 “At this my heart was terrified and moved from its place.

2 Hear with terror the hearing of his voice and the sound proceeding from his mouth.

3 He considers beneath all the heavens, and his light is upon the ends of the earth.

4 After him the sound shall roar; he shall thunder with the voice of his greatness, and it shall not be traced out when his voice has been heard.

5 God shall thunder wondrously with his voice, he who does great and unsearchable things;

6 who commands the snow to descend upon the earth, and the rains of winter, and the shower of his strength;

7 who seals in the hand of all men so that each may know his works.

8 The beast shall enter its hiding place and remain in its den.

9 The tempest shall come forth from the inner regions and cold from Arcturus.

10 When God blows, ice congeals, and again the broadest waters are poured forth.

11 The cloud desires grain, and the clouds scatter their light.

12 They range around wherever the will of the governor leads them, toward everything he commands them upon the face of the whole earth,

13 whether in one tribe, or in his own land, or in whatever place of his mercy he commands them to be found.

14 Listen to these things, Job; stand and consider the wonders of God.

15 Do you know when God commands the rains to display the light of his clouds?

16 Do you know the great paths of the clouds and perfect knowledge?

17 Are not your garments warm when the land is blown upon by the south wind?

18 Did you perhaps fashion with him the heavens, which are most solid as though cast in bronze?

19 Show us what we should say to him, for we are wrapped in darkness.

20 Who shall tell him what I speak? Even if a man speaks, he shall be devoured.

21 But now they do not see the light; suddenly the air shall be driven into clouds, and a passing wind shall chase them away.

22 Gold comes from the north, and toward God is fearful praise.

23 We cannot worthily find him. He is great in strength and judgment and justice, and he cannot be declared.

24 Therefore men shall fear him, and none who seem wise to themselves shall dare behold him.”

CHAPTER 38

1 Then the Lord answered Job from the whirlwind and said:

2 “Who is this who wraps judgments in unskilled words?

3 Gird your loins like a man. I shall question you, and answer me.

4 Where were you when I laid the foundations of the earth? Tell me, if you have understanding.

5 Who set its measures, if you know? Or who stretched a line over it?

6 Upon what were its bases made firm? Or who lowered its cornerstone,

7 when the morning stars praised me together and all the sons of God jubilated?

8 Who enclosed the sea with doors when it burst forth as though proceeding from the womb,

9 when I made the cloud its garment and wrapped it in darkness as in swaddling cloths?

10 I surrounded it with my boundaries and set a bar and doors,

11 and I said, ‘You shall come this far and proceed no farther, and here you shall break your swelling waves.’

12 Have you, since your birth, commanded the dawn and shown the morning its place?

13 And have you grasped and shaken the ends of the earth and shaken the impious out of it?

14 The seal shall be restored like clay, and it shall stand like a garment.

15 Their light shall be taken from the impious, and the exalted arm shall be broken.

16 Have you entered the depths of the sea and walked in the farthest parts of the abyss?

17 Have the gates of death been opened to you, and have you seen the dark doors?

18 Have you considered the breadth of the earth? Tell me, if you know all things:

19 in what way light dwells, and what the place of darkness is,

20 so that you may lead each one to its boundaries and understand the paths of its house.

21 Did you know then that you would be born, and did you know the number of your days?

22 Have you entered the treasuries of snow or beheld the treasuries of hail,

23 which I prepared for the time of the enemy, for the day of battle and war?

24 By what way is light scattered and heat divided over the earth?

25 Who gave a course to the most vehement rain and a way to the sounding thunder,

26 that it might rain upon a land without man, in the desert where no mortal dwells,

27 that it might fill the pathless and desolate land and bring forth green herbs?

28 Who is the father of rain? Or who begot the drops of dew?

29 From whose womb did the ice come forth? And who begot the frost from heaven?

30 The waters are hardened into the likeness of stone, and the surface of the abyss is bound together.

31 Shall you be able to join the glittering stars of the Pleiades or scatter the circuit of Arcturus?

32 Do you bring forth the morning star in its time and cause the evening star to rise over the sons of the earth?

33 Do you know the order of heaven, and shall you set its reason upon the earth?

34 Shall you lift up your voice in the cloud, and shall the force of the waters cover you?

35 Shall you send lightning bolts, and shall they go and, returning, say to you, ‘Here we are’?

36 Who placed wisdom in the inward parts of man? Or who gave understanding to the rooster?

37 Who shall declare the reason of the heavens? And who shall cause the harmony of heaven to sleep?

38 When was the dust poured upon the earth, and when were the clods bound together?

39 Shall you capture prey for the lioness and fill the soul of her cubs,

40 when they lie in their dens and lie in wait in caves?

41 Who prepares his food for the raven when his young cry to God, wandering because they have no food?”

CHAPTER 39

1 “Do you know the time when the ibexes give birth among the rocks, or have you observed the hinds in labor?

2 Have you numbered the months of their conception and known the time of their birth?

3 They bend down for the offspring, give birth, and send forth roars.

4 Their young are separated and proceed to pasture; they go forth and do not return to them.

5 Who sent the wild ass free, and who loosed his bonds?

6 I gave him a house in the wilderness and his tabernacles in the land of salt.

7 He despises the multitude of the city; he does not hear the cry of the taskmaster.

8 He surveys the mountains of his pasture and searches after every green thing.

9 Will the rhinoceros desire to serve you, or will he remain at your manger?

10 Will you bind the rhinoceros with your cord to plow, or will he break the clods of the valleys after you?

11 Will you trust in his great strength and leave your labors to him?

12 Will you trust him to return your seed and gather it into your threshing floor?

13 The wing of the ostrich is like the wings of the heron and the hawk.

14 When she leaves her eggs in the earth, will you perhaps warm them in the dust?

15 She forgets that a foot may trample them or a beast of the field crush them.

16 She is hardened toward her young as though they were not her own; she labored in vain, with no fear compelling her.

17 For God deprived her of wisdom and did not give her understanding.

18 When the time comes, she raises her wings on high; she derides the horse and his rider.

19 Will you give strength to the horse or surround his neck with neighing?

20 Will you rouse him like locusts? The glory of his nostrils is terror.

21 He digs the earth with his hoof; he exults boldly and proceeds to meet armed men.

22 He despises fear and does not yield to the sword.

23 The quiver shall sound over him; the spear and shield shall flash.

24 Burning and snorting, he swallows the earth and does not reckon that the trumpet’s blast is sounding.

25 When he hears the trumpet, he says, ‘Ha!’ From afar he smells the war—the exhortation of the leaders and the howling of the army.

26 Does the hawk feather itself through your wisdom, spreading its wings toward the south?

27 Will the eagle be lifted up at your command and set her nest in the heights?

28 She remains among the rocks and dwells upon broken flints and inaccessible crags.

29 From there she beholds food, and her eyes look out from afar.

30 Her young shall lick blood, and wherever a carcass is, she is immediately present.”

31 And the Lord continued and spoke to Job:

32 “Does he who contends with God rest so easily? Surely he who rebukes God ought to answer him.”

33 Then Job answered the Lord and said:

34 “I who have spoken lightly—what can I answer? I shall place my hand over my mouth.

35 I have spoken one thing, which I wish I had not said, and another, to which I shall add no more.”

CHAPTER 40

1 Then the Lord answered Job from the whirlwind and said:

2 “Gird your loins like a man. I shall question you, and declare to me.

3 Will you make my judgment void and condemn me so that you may be justified?

4 And do you have an arm like God? And do you thunder with a similar voice?

5 Clothe yourself with splendor, lift yourself on high, be glorious, and put on beautiful garments.

6 Scatter the proud in your fury, and looking upon every arrogant one, humble him.

7 Look upon all the proud and confound them, and crush the impious in their place.

8 Hide them together in the dust, and plunge their faces into the pit.

9 Then I shall confess that your right hand can save you.

10 Behold Behemoth, whom I made with you; he shall eat grass like an ox.

11 His strength is in his loins, and his power is in the navel of his belly.

12 He draws his tail tight like a cedar; the sinews of his testicles are intertwined.

13 His bones are like pipes of bronze; his cartilage is like plates of iron.

14 He is the beginning of the ways of God; he who made him shall apply his sword.

15 For him the mountains bear grass; all the beasts of the field shall play there.

16 He sleeps beneath the shade in the secret place of reeds and in moist places.

17 Shadows protect his shadow; the willows of the torrent shall surround him.

18 Behold, he shall swallow a river and not wonder, and he trusts that the Jordan may flow into his mouth.

19 Before his eyes, one shall take him as with a hook and pierce his nostrils with stakes.

20 Can you draw out Leviathan with a hook and bind his tongue with a cord?

21 Will you put a ring in his nostrils or pierce his jaw with a bracelet?

22 Will he multiply pleas to you or speak soft things to you?

23 Will he make a pact with you, and will you take him as an everlasting servant?

24 Will you play with him as with a bird or bind him for your maidservants?

25 Shall friends cut him apart? Shall merchants divide him?

26 Will you fill nets with his skin and a fish basket with his head?

27 Put your hand upon him; remember the battle, and add no more speech.

28 Behold, his hope shall frustrate him, and in the sight of all he shall be cast down.”

CHAPTER 41

1 “I shall not rouse him as though I were cruel, for who can resist my face?

2 Who first gave to me, that I should repay him? Everything beneath heaven is mine.

3 I shall not spare him, nor his powerful words composed for pleading.

4 Who shall uncover the face of his garment? And who shall enter into the midst of his mouth?

5 Who shall open the gates of his face? Terror is around the circuit of his teeth.

6 His body is like cast shields, compacted with scales pressing against one another.

7 One is joined to another, and not even a breath passes through them.

8 One shall adhere to another; holding one another, they shall never be separated.

9 His sneezing is the splendor of fire, and his eyes are like the eyelids of dawn.

10 Lamps proceed from his mouth like torches of kindled fire.

11 Smoke proceeds from his nostrils like a kindled and boiling pot.

12 His breath causes coals to burn, and flame comes forth from his mouth.

13 Strength shall remain in his neck, and want goes before his face.

14 The members of his flesh cling to one another; God shall cast thunderbolts against him, and they shall not be carried elsewhere.

15 His heart shall be hardened like stone and tightened like the anvil of a hammerer.

16 When he is raised up, the angels shall fear, and being terrified, they shall be purified.

17 When the sword seizes him, neither it, nor the spear, nor the breastplate shall be able to stand.

18 For he shall regard iron as chaff and bronze as rotten wood.

19 The archer shall not put him to flight; slingstones have been turned into stubble for him.

20 He shall regard the hammer as stubble and deride the brandished spear.

21 Beneath him shall be rays of the sun, and he shall spread gold beneath himself like mud.

22 He shall make the deep sea boil like a pot and make it as when ointments bubble.

23 A path shall shine after him; he shall regard the abyss as growing old.

24 There is no power upon the earth that may be compared with him, who was made to fear no one.

25 He beholds every lofty thing; he is king over all the sons of pride.”

CHAPTER 42

1 Then Job answered the Lord and said:

2 “I know that you can do all things, and no thought is hidden from you.

3 Who is this who conceals counsel without knowledge? Therefore I have spoken foolishly about things that exceeded my knowledge beyond measure.

4 Hear, and I shall speak; I shall question you, and answer me.

5 By the hearing of the ear I heard you, but now my eye sees you.

6 Therefore I reproach myself and do penance in ash and cinders.”

7 And after the Lord had spoken these words to Job, he said to Eliphaz the Temanite: “My fury is angry against you and against your two friends because you have not spoken what is right before me, as my servant Job has.

8 Therefore take for yourselves seven bulls and seven rams, go to my servant Job, and offer a holocaust for yourselves. And my servant Job shall pray for you. I shall receive his face so that foolishness may not be imputed to you, for you have not spoken right things to me, as my servant Job has.”

9 Therefore Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite went and did as the Lord had spoken to them, and the Lord received the face of Job.

10 The Lord also turned toward the penance of Job when he prayed for his friends, and the Lord added twofold all things that Job had possessed.

11 And all his brothers, all his sisters, and all who had known him before came to him and ate bread with him in his house. They shook their heads over him and consoled him concerning all the evil that the Lord had brought upon him, and each one gave him one ewe and one gold earring.

12 But the Lord blessed the latter things of Job more than his beginning; and he had fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, one thousand yoke of oxen, and one thousand female donkeys.

13 And he had seven sons and three daughters.

14 He called the name of the first Day, the name of the second Cassia, and the name of the third Horn of Eye-Paint.

15 And no women were found as beautiful as the daughters of Job in all the land, and their father gave them an inheritance among their brothers.

16 And Job lived one hundred forty years after these things, and he saw his sons and his sons’ sons to the fourth generation; and he died old and full of days.

BOOK NINETEEN: PSALMS

PSALM 1

1 Blessed is the man who has not gone away in the counsel of the impious, nor stood in the way of sinners, nor sat in the chair of pestilence;

2 but his will is in the law of the Lord (YHWH), and upon his law he shall meditate day and night.

3 And he shall be like a tree planted beside the courses of waters, which shall give its fruit in its season; its leaf shall not fall away, and everything whatsoever he does shall prosper.

4 Not so the impious, not so; but they are like dust that the wind casts from the face of the earth.

5 Therefore the impious shall not rise in judgment, nor sinners in the council of the just,

6 because the Lord knows the way of the just, and the path of the impious shall perish.

PSALM 2

1 Why have the nations raged, and the peoples meditated vain things?

2 The kings of the earth have stood up, and the princes have assembled as one against the Lord and against his Christ.

3 “Let us break their bonds and cast away their yoke from us.”

4 He who dwells in the heavens shall laugh at them, and the Lord shall mock them.

5 Then he shall speak to them in his anger and trouble them in his fury.

6 “But I have been appointed king by him over Zion, his holy mountain, proclaiming his commandment.”

7 The Lord said to me: “You are my Son; today I have begotten you.

8 Ask of me, and I shall give you the nations as your inheritance and the ends of the earth as your possession.

9 You shall rule them with a rod of iron, and like a potter’s vessel you shall break them.”

10 And now, kings, understand; be instructed, you who judge the earth.

11 Serve the Lord in fear and exult in him with trembling.

12 Embrace discipline, lest at any time the Lord become angry and you perish from the just way.

13 When his anger blazes up in a short time, blessed are all who trust in him.

PSALM 3

1 A Psalm of David, when he fled from the face of his son Absalom.

2 O Lord, why have those who trouble me been multiplied? Many rise against me;

3 many say to my soul, “There is no salvation for him in his God.”

4 But you, O Lord, are my protector, my glory, and the one who exalts my head.

5 With my voice I cried to the Lord, and he heard me from his holy mountain.

6 I slept and was overcome by sleep, and I arose because the Lord upheld me.

7 I shall not fear thousands of people surrounding me. Arise, O Lord; save me, my God.

8 For you have struck all who oppose me without cause; you have crushed the teeth of sinners.

9 Salvation belongs to the Lord, and your blessing is upon your people.

PSALM 4

1 Unto the end, in songs. A Psalm of David.

2 When I invoked him, the God of my justice heard me; in tribulation you enlarged a place for me. Have mercy on me and hear my prayer.

3 Sons of men, how long will you be heavy of heart? Why do you love vanity and seek a lie?

4 And know that the Lord has made his holy one wondrous; the Lord shall hear me when I cry to him.

5 Be angry and do not sin; be pierced with sorrow upon your beds over the things you say in your hearts.

6 Sacrifice a sacrifice of justice and hope in the Lord. Many say, “Who will show us good things?”

7 The light of your countenance has been signed upon us, O Lord; you have given gladness in my heart.

8 They have been multiplied by the fruit of their grain, wine, and oil.

9 In peace, in the selfsame place, I shall sleep and rest,

10 because you alone, O Lord, have established me in hope.

PSALM 5

1 Unto the end, for her who receives the inheritance. A Psalm of David.

2 Receive my words with your ears, O Lord; understand my cry.

3 Attend to the voice of my prayer, my King and my God.

4 For to you I shall pray, O Lord; in the morning you shall hear my voice.

5 In the morning I shall stand before you and shall see, because you are not a God who wills iniquity.

6 Neither shall the malicious dwell beside you, nor shall the unjust remain before your eyes.

7 You hate all who work iniquity; you shall destroy all who speak a lie. The Lord shall abhor the man of blood and deceit.

8 But I, in the multitude of your mercy, shall enter your house; I shall adore toward your holy temple in your fear.

9 O Lord, lead me in your justice; because of my enemies, direct my way in your sight.

10 For there is no truth in their mouth; their heart is vain.

11 Their throat is an open sepulcher; they dealt deceitfully with their tongues. Judge them, O God. Let them fall from their own thoughts; according to the multitude of their impieties, cast them out, because they have provoked you, O Lord.

12 And let all who hope in you be glad; they shall exult forever, and you shall dwell in them. And all who love your name shall glory in you,

13 because you shall bless the just. O Lord, you have crowned us as with the shield of your good will.

PSALM 6

1 Unto the end, in songs. A Psalm of David. For the octave.

2 O Lord, do not rebuke me in your fury, nor correct me in your anger.

3 Have mercy on me, O Lord, because I am weak; heal me, O Lord, because my bones are troubled.

4 And my soul is exceedingly troubled; but you, O Lord—how long?

5 Turn, O Lord, and rescue my soul; save me because of your mercy.

6 For there is no one in death who remembers you; but in the lower regions, who shall confess to you?

7 I have labored in my groaning; every night I shall wash my bed and drench my couch with my tears.

8 My eye is troubled by fury; I have grown old among all my enemies.

9 Depart from me, all you who work iniquity, because the Lord has heard the voice of my weeping.

10 The Lord has heard my supplication; the Lord has received my prayer.

11 Let all my enemies be ashamed and exceedingly troubled; let them turn back and be ashamed very swiftly.

PSALM 7

1 A Psalm of David, which he sang to the Lord because of the words of Chusi, son of Jemini.

2 O Lord my God, in you I have hoped; save me from all who persecute me, and deliver me,

3 lest at any time he seize my soul like a lion, while there is no one to redeem and no one to save.

4 O Lord my God, if I have done this, if there is iniquity in my hands,

5 if I have repaid evils to those who repaid me, let me deservedly fall empty before my enemies.

6 Let the enemy pursue my soul and seize it; let him trample my life into the earth and bring my glory down into the dust.

7 Arise, O Lord, in your anger, and be exalted within the borders of my enemies; and arise, O Lord my God, in the commandment that you have commanded,

8 and the synagogue of peoples shall surround you; and because of this, return on high.

9 The Lord judges peoples. Judge me, O Lord, according to my justice and according to my innocence within me.

10 Let the wickedness of sinners be consumed, and you shall direct the just, O God, who searches hearts and reins.

11 My just help is from the Lord, who saves the upright of heart.

12 God is a just judge, strong and patient; is he angry every day?

13 Unless you are converted, he shall brandish his sword; he has bent his bow and prepared it.

14 And in it he has prepared vessels of death; he has made his arrows for those who burn.

15 Behold, he has labored with injustice; he conceived sorrow and brought forth iniquity.

16 He opened a pit and dug it, and he fell into the hole that he made.

17 His sorrow shall return upon his own head, and his iniquity shall descend upon his crown.

18 I shall confess to the Lord according to his justice, and I shall sing a psalm to the name of the Lord Most High.

PSALM 8

1 Unto the end, for the winepresses. A Psalm of David.

2 O Lord, our Lord, how wonderful is your name in all the earth! For your magnificence is exalted above the heavens.

3 From the mouths of infants and nursing children you have perfected praise because of your enemies, that you may destroy the enemy and the avenger.

4 For I shall behold your heavens, the works of your fingers, the moon and the stars that you founded.

5 What is man, that you remember him? Or the son of man, that you visit him?

6 You have diminished him a little less than the angels; with glory and honor you have crowned him,

7 and you have appointed him over the works of your hands.

8 You have subjected all things beneath his feet: all sheep and oxen, and moreover the beasts of the field,

9 the birds of heaven, and the fishes of the sea that pass through the paths of the sea.

10 O Lord, our Lord, how wonderful is your name in all the earth!

PSALM 9

1 Unto the end, for the hidden things of the son. A Psalm of David.

2 I shall confess to you, O Lord, with my whole heart; I shall recount all your wonders.

3 I shall be glad and exult in you; I shall sing a psalm to your name, O Most High.

4 When my enemy is turned backward, they shall be weakened and perish before your face.

5 For you have executed my judgment and my cause; you have sat upon the throne, you who judge justice.

6 You rebuked the nations, and the impious man perished; you erased their name forever and unto the age of ages.

7 The swords of the enemy have failed unto the end, and you have destroyed their cities. Their memory has perished with a sound,

8 but the Lord remains forever. He has prepared his throne in judgment,

9 and he shall judge the whole world in equity; he shall judge the peoples in justice.

10 And the Lord has become a refuge for the poor, a helper in due seasons, in tribulation.

11 And let those who know your name hope in you, because you have not abandoned those who seek you, O Lord.

12 Sing psalms to the Lord who dwells in Zion; announce his pursuits among the nations,

13 because he who requires their blood has remembered them; he has not forgotten the cry of the poor.

14 Have mercy on me, O Lord; see my humiliation from my enemies,

15 you who exalt me from the gates of death, that I may announce all your praises in the gates of the daughter of Zion.

16 I shall exult in your salvation. The nations are fixed in the destruction they made; their foot has been caught in this snare that they hid.

17 The Lord shall be known when he executes judgments; the sinner has been caught in the works of his own hands.

18 Let sinners be turned into the lower regions, all the nations that forget God.

19 For the poor shall not be forgotten unto the end; the patience of the poor shall not perish unto the end.

20 Arise, O Lord; let man not be strengthened. Let the nations be judged in your sight.

21 Appoint a lawgiver over them, O Lord, that the nations may know that they are men.

22 Why, O Lord, have you withdrawn far away? Why do you disregard us in due seasons, in tribulation?

23 While the impious man acts proudly, the poor man is set aflame; they are caught in the counsels that they devise.

24 For the sinner is praised in the desires of his soul, and the unjust man is blessed.

25 The sinner has provoked the Lord; according to the multitude of his anger, he shall not seek him.

26 God is not before his sight; his ways are defiled at all times. Your judgments are removed from his face; he shall rule over all his enemies.

27 For he has said in his heart, “I shall not be moved from generation to generation, without evil.”

28 His mouth is full of cursing, bitterness, and deceit; beneath his tongue are labor and sorrow.

29 He sits in ambush with the rich in hidden places so that he may kill the innocent.

30 His eyes look upon the poor; he lies in ambush in secret like a lion in his den. He lies in ambush to seize the poor man—to seize the poor man as he draws him in.

31 In his snare he shall humble him; he shall bow himself down and fall when he has gained dominion over the poor.

32 For he has said in his heart, “God has forgotten; he has turned away his face so that he may never see.”

33 Arise, O Lord God; let your hand be exalted. Do not forget the poor.

34 Why has the impious man provoked God? For he has said in his heart, “He shall not require it.”

35 You see, because you consider labor and sorrow so that you may deliver them into your hands. The poor man has been abandoned to you; you shall be a helper to the orphan.

36 Break the arm of the sinner and the malicious; his sin shall be sought and shall not be found.

37 The Lord shall reign forever and unto the age of ages; you nations shall perish from his land.

38 The Lord has heard the desire of the poor; your ear has heard the preparation of their heart,

39 to judge for the orphan and the humble, so that man may no longer magnify himself upon the earth.

PSALM 10

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David.

2 In the Lord I trust; how do you say to my soul, “Migrate to the mountain like a sparrow”?

3 For behold, sinners have bent the bow; they have prepared their arrows in the quiver so that they may shoot in darkness at the upright of heart.

4 For they have destroyed the things you perfected; but the just man—what has he done?

5 The Lord is in his holy temple; the Lord’s seat is in heaven. His eyes look upon the poor; his eyelids question the sons of men.

6 The Lord questions the just and the impious; but he who loves iniquity hates his own soul.

7 He shall rain snares upon sinners; fire and sulfur and the spirit of tempests are the portion of their cup.

8 For the Lord is just and has loved justices; his countenance has beheld equity.

PSALM 11

1 Unto the end, for the octave. A Psalm of David.

2 Save me, O Lord, because the holy one has failed, because truths have been diminished among the sons of men.

3 Each has spoken vain things to his neighbor; with deceitful lips, with heart and heart, they have spoken.

4 May the Lord destroy all deceitful lips and the boastful tongue.

5 They have said, “We shall magnify our tongue; our lips belong to us. Who is our lord?”

6 “Because of the misery of the needy and the groaning of the poor, now I shall arise,” says the Lord. “I shall place him in salvation; I shall act confidently in him.”

7 The words of the Lord are chaste words, silver examined by fire, proved in the earth, purified sevenfold.

8 You, O Lord, shall preserve us and guard us from this generation forever.

9 The impious walk in a circuit; according to your height, you have multiplied the sons of men.

PSALM 12

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David. How long, O Lord, will you forget me unto the end? How long will you turn your face away from me?

2 How long shall I set counsels in my soul and sorrow in my heart by day?

3 How long shall my enemy be exalted over me?

4 Look upon me and hear me, O Lord my God. Enlighten my eyes, lest I ever fall asleep in death,

5 lest at any time my enemy say, “I have prevailed against him.” Those who trouble me shall exult if I am moved;

6 but I have hoped in your mercy. My heart shall exult in your salvation. I shall sing to the Lord, who bestows good things upon me, and I shall sing a psalm to the name of the Lord Most High.

PSALM 13

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David. The fool has said in his heart, “There is no God.” They are corrupted and have become abominable in their pursuits; there is no one who does good—there is not even one.

2 The Lord looked down from heaven upon the sons of men to see whether there is one who understands or seeks God.

3 All have turned aside; together they have become useless. There is no one who does good—there is not even one. Their throat is an open sepulcher; with their tongues they dealt deceitfully. The venom of asps is beneath their lips; their mouth is full of cursing and bitterness. Their feet are swift to shed blood. Destruction and unhappiness are in their ways, and they have not known the way of peace; there is no fear of God before their eyes.

4 Shall all who work iniquity not understand, those who devour my people like food of bread?

5 They have not invoked the Lord; there they trembled with fear where there was no fear.

6 For the Lord is in the just generation. You have confounded the counsel of the needy because the Lord is his hope.

7 Who shall give salvation to Israel from Zion? When the Lord turns away the captivity of his people, Jacob shall exult, and Israel shall be glad.

PSALM 14

1 A Psalm of David. O Lord, who shall dwell in your tabernacle? Or who shall rest upon your holy mountain?

2 He who enters without stain and works justice;

3 he who speaks truth in his heart, who has not practiced deceit with his tongue, nor done evil to his neighbor, nor received a reproach against his neighbors.

4 The malicious man has been reduced to nothing in his sight, but he glorifies those who fear the Lord. He who swears to his neighbor and does not deceive;

5 he who has not given his money at usury nor accepted gifts against the innocent—he who does these things shall not be moved forever.

PSALM 15

1 The inscription of a title, for David himself. Preserve me, O Lord, because I have hoped in you.

2 I have said to the Lord, “You are my God, because you have no need of my good things.”

3 To the holy ones who are in his land, he has made all my desires wondrous in them.

4 Their infirmities have been multiplied; afterward they hastened. I shall not gather their assemblies of blood, nor shall I remember their names through my lips.

5 The Lord is the portion of my inheritance and of my cup; you are he who shall restore my inheritance to me.

6 The cords have fallen for me in excellent places; indeed, my inheritance is excellent to me.

7 I shall bless the Lord, who has given me understanding; moreover, even into the night my reins have rebuked me.

8 I beheld the Lord always before my sight; because he is at my right hand, I shall not be moved.

9 Because of this, my heart was glad and my tongue exulted; moreover, my flesh also shall rest in hope.

10 For you shall not abandon my soul in the lower regions, nor shall you permit your holy one to see corruption. You have made known to me the ways of life; you shall fill me with gladness before your countenance, with delights at your right hand unto the end.

PSALM 16

1 A prayer of David. Hear my justice, O Lord; attend to my supplication. Receive my prayer with your ears, not from deceitful lips.

2 Let my judgment proceed from your countenance; let your eyes behold equities.

3 You have proved my heart and visited it by night; you have examined me by fire, and no iniquity has been found in me.

4 That my mouth may not speak the works of men, because of the words of your lips I have kept hard ways.

5 Perfect my steps in your paths, that my footprints may not be moved.

6 I have cried because you have heard me, O God; incline your ear to me and hear my words.

7 Make your mercies wondrous, you who save those who hope in you.

8 From those who resist your right hand, guard me like the pupil of the eye. Beneath the shadow of your wings protect me

9 from the face of the impious who have afflicted me. My enemies have surrounded my soul;

10 they have enclosed their fat; their mouth has spoken pride.

11 Casting me out, they have now surrounded me; they have fixed their eyes downward toward the earth.

12 They have received me like a lion prepared for prey and like a lion’s cub dwelling in hidden places.

13 Arise, O Lord; go before him and supplant him. Rescue my soul from the impious man—your sword

14 from the enemies of your hand. O Lord, divide them from the few of the earth in their life; their belly has been filled from your hidden things. They have been sated with sons and have left their remnants to their little ones.

15 But I shall appear before your countenance in justice; I shall be satisfied when your glory appears. # Psalms — JNV Draft Translation

PSALM 17

1 Unto the end. For David, the servant of the Lord, who spoke to the Lord the words of this song on the day when the Lord rescued him from the hand of all his enemies and from the hand of Saul. And he said:

2 “I shall love you, O Lord, my strength.

3 The Lord is my firmament, my refuge, and my deliverer. My God is my helper, and I shall hope in him; he is my protector, the horn of my salvation, and my upholder.

4 Praising, I shall invoke the Lord, and I shall be saved from my enemies.

5 The sorrows of death surrounded me, and torrents of iniquity troubled me.

6 The sorrows of the lower regions surrounded me; the snares of death came upon me beforehand.

7 In my tribulation I invoked the Lord, and I cried to my God. From his holy temple he heard my voice, and my cry before him entered into his ears.

8 The earth was moved and trembled; the foundations of the mountains were troubled and moved because he was angry with them.

9 Smoke ascended in his anger, and fire blazed from his face; coals were kindled by him.

10 He bowed the heavens and descended, and darkness was beneath his feet.

11 And he ascended upon the cherubim and flew; he flew upon the wings of the winds.

12 And he made darkness his hiding place; his tabernacle was around him, dark water in the clouds of the air.

13 Before the brightness in his sight, the clouds passed—hail and coals of fire.

14 And the Lord thundered from heaven, and the Most High gave forth his voice—hail and coals of fire.

15 And he sent his arrows and scattered them; he multiplied lightning bolts and troubled them.

16 And the springs of waters appeared, and the foundations of the whole world were revealed at your rebuke, O Lord, at the breathing of the spirit of your anger.

17 He sent from on high and took me; he drew me out of many waters.

18 He rescued me from my most powerful enemies and from those who hated me, because they were strengthened over me.

19 They came upon me beforehand in the day of my affliction, and the Lord became my protector.

20 And he led me out into a broad place; he saved me because he willed me,

21 and the Lord shall repay me according to my justice, and according to the purity of my hands he shall repay me,

22 because I have kept the ways of the Lord and have not acted impiously against my God;

23 because all his judgments are before my sight, and I have not cast his justices away from me.

24 And I shall be immaculate with him, and I shall guard myself from my iniquity.

25 And the Lord shall repay me according to my justice and according to the purity of my hands before his eyes.

26 With the holy, you shall be holy; and with the innocent man, you shall be innocent;

27 and with the elect, you shall be elect; and with the perverse, you shall be perverse.

28 For you shall save the humble people and humble the eyes of the proud.

29 For you illuminate my lamp, O Lord; my God, illuminate my darkness.

30 For in you I shall be rescued from temptation, and in my God I shall pass over a wall.

31 My God—his way is undefiled; the words of the Lord are examined by fire. He is the protector of all who hope in him.

32 For who is God besides the Lord? Or who is God besides our God?

33 God has girded me with strength and made my way immaculate;

34 he has perfected my feet like those of deer, setting me upon high places;

35 he teaches my hands for battle. And you have made my arms like a bow of bronze,

36 and you have given me the protection of your salvation. Your right hand has upheld me, and your discipline has corrected me unto the end, and your discipline itself shall teach me.

37 You have enlarged my steps beneath me, and my footprints have not been weakened.

38 I shall pursue my enemies and seize them, and I shall not turn back until they fail.

39 I shall break them, and they shall not be able to stand; they shall fall beneath my feet.

40 And you have girded me with strength for war and supplanted beneath me those who rise against me.

41 And you have given me the backs of my enemies and destroyed those who hate me.

42 They cried, and there was no one to save them; they cried to the Lord, and he did not hear them.

43 And I shall crush them like dust before the face of the wind; like the mud of the streets I shall erase them.

44 You shall rescue me from the contradictions of the people; you shall appoint me as head of the nations.

45 A people whom I did not know has served me; at the hearing of the ear, they obeyed me.

46 Foreign sons lied to me; foreign sons grew old and limped from their paths.

47 The Lord lives, and blessed is my God, and exalted be the God of my salvation.

48 O God, you give vindications to me and subject peoples beneath me; you are my deliverer from my angry enemies.

49 And you shall exalt me above those who rise against me; you shall rescue me from the unjust man.

50 Therefore I shall confess to you among the nations, O Lord, and shall sing a psalm to your name,

51 magnifying the salvations of his king and showing mercy to his Christ David and to his seed forever.”

PSALM 18

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David.

2 The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament announces the works of his hands.

3 Day pours forth the word to day, and night reveals knowledge to night.

4 There are no speeches or words whose voices are not heard.

5 Their sound has gone forth into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the whole world.

6 He has placed his tabernacle in the sun, and he is like a bridegroom proceeding from his chamber. He has exulted like a giant to run the way;

7 his going forth is from the summit of heaven, and his course reaches even to its summit; there is no one who hides himself from his heat.

8 The law of the Lord is immaculate, converting souls; the testimony of the Lord is faithful, giving wisdom to little ones.

9 The justices of the Lord are right, gladdening hearts; the commandment of the Lord is radiant, enlightening the eyes.

10 The fear of the Lord is holy, remaining unto the age of ages; the judgments of the Lord are true, justified in themselves, 11 more desirable than gold and many precious stones, and sweeter than honey and the honeycomb.

12 For indeed your servant keeps them; in keeping them there is great reward.

13 Who understands offenses? Cleanse me from my hidden ones,

14 and spare your servant from those of others. If they do not gain dominion over me, then I shall be immaculate and shall be cleansed from the greatest offense.

15 And the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart shall be made pleasing before you always, O Lord, my helper and my Redeemer.

PSALM 19

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David.

2 May the Lord hear you in the day of tribulation; may the name of the God of Jacob protect you.

3 May he send you help from the holy place and guard you from Zion.

4 May he remember your every sacrifice, and may your holocaust become fat.

5 May he grant you according to your heart and confirm all your counsel.

6 We shall rejoice in your salvation, and in the name of our God we shall be magnified.

7 May the Lord fulfill all your petitions. Now I know that the Lord has saved his Christ. He shall hear him from his holy heaven; salvation is in the powers of his right hand.

8 Some trust in chariots and some in horses, but we shall invoke the name of the Lord our God.

9 They have been bound and have fallen, but we have arisen and stand upright.

10 O Lord, save the king and hear us on the day when we invoke you.

PSALM 20

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David.

2 O Lord, the king shall rejoice in your strength and exult exceedingly in your salvation.

3 You have granted him the desire of his heart and have not defrauded him of the will of his lips.

4 For you have gone before him with blessings of sweetness; you have placed a crown of precious stone upon his head.

5 He asked life from you, and you granted him length of days forever and unto the age of ages.

6 Great is his glory in your salvation; glory and great beauty you shall place upon him.

7 For you shall make him a blessing unto the age of ages; you shall gladden him with joy before your countenance.

8 For the king hopes in the Lord, and in the mercy of the Most High he shall not be moved.

9 May your hand be found by all your enemies; may your right hand find all who hate you.

10 You shall make them like a furnace of fire in the time of your countenance; the Lord shall trouble them in his anger, and fire shall devour them.

11 You shall destroy their fruit from the earth and their seed from among the sons of men,

12 because they have turned evils against you; they have devised counsels that they could not establish.

13 For you shall make them turn their back; among your remnants you shall prepare their face.

14 Be exalted, O Lord, in your strength; we shall sing and chant psalms of your mighty works.

PSALM 21

1 Unto the end, for the morning protection. A Psalm of David.

2 O God, my God, look upon me; why have you abandoned me? Far from my salvation are the words of my offenses.

3 My God, I shall cry by day, and you shall not hear; and by night, and it shall not be reckoned foolishness in me.

4 But you dwell in the holy place, O praise of Israel.

5 In you our fathers hoped; they hoped, and you delivered them.

6 To you they cried and were saved; in you they hoped and were not confounded.

7 But I am a worm and not a man, a reproach of men and an outcast of the people.

8 All who saw me mocked me; they spoke with their lips and shook the head:

9 “He hoped in the Lord; let him rescue him. Let him save him, because he wills him.”

10 For you are he who drew me from the womb, my hope from my mother’s breasts.

11 Upon you I was cast from the womb; from my mother’s belly you are my God.

12 Do not withdraw from me, because tribulation is near, because there is no one to help.

13 Many calves have surrounded me; fat bulls have besieged me.

14 They have opened their mouth over me like a lion seizing and roaring.

15 I have been poured out like water, and all my bones have been scattered; my heart has become like wax melting within my belly.

16 My strength has dried like a potsherd, and my tongue has clung to my jaws; and you have led me down into the dust of death.

17 For many dogs have surrounded me; the council of the malicious has besieged me. They dug my hands and my feet;

18 they numbered all my bones. But they considered me and gazed upon me.

19 They divided my garments among themselves, and over my garment they cast a lot.

20 But you, O Lord, do not distance your help from me; look toward my defense.

21 Rescue my soul from the sword, O God, and my only one from the hand of the dog.

22 Save me from the mouth of the lion and my humility from the horns of unicorns.

23 I shall announce your name to my brothers; in the midst of the church I shall praise you.

24 You who fear the Lord, praise him; all the seed of Jacob, glorify him.

25 Let all the seed of Israel fear him, because he has not scorned nor despised the supplication of the poor, nor turned his face away from me; and when I cried to him, he heard me.

26 From you is my praise in the great church; I shall fulfill my vows in the sight of those who fear him.

27 The poor shall eat and be satisfied, and those who seek the Lord shall praise him; their hearts shall live unto the age of ages.

28 All the ends of the earth shall remember and be converted to the Lord, and all the families of the nations shall adore before him,

29 because the kingdom belongs to the Lord, and he shall rule the nations.

30 All the fat ones of the earth have eaten and adored; before him shall fall all who descend into the earth.

31 And my soul shall live for him, and my seed shall serve him.

32 The coming generation shall be announced to the Lord, and the heavens shall announce his justice to a people who shall be born, whom the Lord has made.

PSALM 22

1 A Psalm of David. The Lord governs me, and nothing shall be lacking to me.

2 In a place of pasture, there he has settled me. Beside the water of refreshment he has led me;

3 he has converted my soul. He has led me upon the paths of justice because of his name.

4 For even if I walk in the midst of the shadow of death, I shall fear no evils, because you are with me. Your rod and your staff—they have consoled me.

5 You have prepared a table before me against those who trouble me; you have fattened my head with oil, and my intoxicating cup—how excellent it is!

6 And your mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, that I may dwell in the house of the Lord for length of days.

PSALM 23

1 On the first day of the week. A Psalm of David. The earth is the Lord’s, and its fullness; the whole world, and all who dwell in it.

2 For he founded it upon the seas and prepared it upon the rivers.

3 Who shall ascend the mountain of the Lord? Or who shall stand in his holy place?

4 He who is innocent in hands and clean of heart, who has not received his soul in vain nor sworn deceitfully to his neighbor.

5 He shall receive a blessing from the Lord and mercy from God his Savior.

6 This is the generation of those who seek him, of those who seek the face of the God of Jacob.

7 Lift up your gates, O princes, and be lifted up, eternal gates, and the King of glory shall enter.

8 Who is this King of glory? The Lord, strong and powerful; the Lord, powerful in battle.

9 Lift up your gates, O princes, and be lifted up, eternal gates, and the King of glory shall enter.

10 Who is this King of glory? The Lord of hosts—he is the King of glory.

PSALM 24

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David. To you, O Lord, I have lifted up my soul.

2 My God, in you I trust; I shall not be ashamed.

3 Neither let my enemies mock me, for all who await you shall not be confounded.

4 Let all who act unjustly without cause be confounded. Show me your ways, O Lord, and teach me your paths.

5 Direct me in your truth and teach me, because you are God my Savior, and I have awaited you all day.

6 Remember your compassions, O Lord, and your mercies, which are from of old.

7 Do not remember the offenses of my youth and my ignorances. According to your mercy, remember me because of your goodness, O Lord.

8 The Lord is sweet and upright; therefore he shall give a law to those who offend in the way.

9 He shall direct the meek in judgment; he shall teach the gentle his ways.

10 All the ways of the Lord are mercy and truth to those who seek his testament and his testimonies.

11 Because of your name, O Lord, you shall be propitious to my sin, for it is great.

12 Who is the man who fears the Lord? He has established a law for him in the way that he chose.

13 His soul shall dwell among good things, and his seed shall inherit the earth.

14 The Lord is a firmament to those who fear him, and his testament shall be manifested to them.

15 My eyes are always toward the Lord, because he shall pull my feet from the snare.

16 Look upon me and have mercy on me, because I am alone and poor.

17 The tribulations of my heart have been multiplied; rescue me from my necessities.

18 See my humiliation and my labor, and forgive all my offenses.

19 Look upon my enemies, because they have been multiplied and have hated me with an unjust hatred.

20 Guard my soul and rescue me; I shall not be ashamed, because I have hoped in you.

21 The innocent and upright have adhered to me because I have awaited you.

22 Deliver Israel, O God, from all his tribulations.

PSALM 25

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David. Judge me, O Lord, because I have entered in my innocence, and hoping in the Lord, I shall not be weakened.

2 Prove me, O Lord, and test me; burn my reins and my heart.

3 For your mercy is before my eyes, and I have been pleasing in your truth.

4 I have not sat with the council of vanity, and I shall not enter with those who act unjustly.

5 I have hated the church of the malicious, and I shall not sit with the impious.

6 I shall wash my hands among the innocent and shall go around your altar, O Lord,

7 that I may hear the voice of praise and recount all your wonders.

8 O Lord, I have loved the beauty of your house and the place where your glory dwells.

9 Do not destroy my soul with the impious, O God, nor my life with men of blood,

10 in whose hands are iniquities; their right hand is filled with gifts.

11 But I have entered in my innocence; redeem me and have mercy on me.

12 My foot has stood in the direct way; in the churches I shall bless you, O Lord.

PSALM 26

1 A Psalm of David, before he was anointed. The Lord is my illumination and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the protector of my life; before whom shall I tremble?

2 When those who harm me draw near to eat my flesh—those who trouble me, my enemies—they themselves have been weakened and have fallen.

3 If armies stand together against me, my heart shall not fear; if battle rises against me, in this I shall hope.

4 One thing I have asked of the Lord; this I shall seek: that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, that I may see the delight of the Lord and visit his temple.

5 For he has hidden me in his tabernacle; in the day of evils he protected me in the hidden place of his tabernacle.

6 He exalted me upon a rock, and now he has exalted my head above my enemies. I went around and sacrificed in his tabernacle a victim of jubilation; I shall sing and chant a psalm to the Lord.

7 Hear my voice, O Lord, with which I have cried to you; have mercy on me and hear me.

8 My heart has said to you, “My face has sought you; your face, O Lord, I shall seek.”

9 Do not turn your face away from me; do not turn aside in anger from your servant. Be my helper; do not abandon me or despise me, O God my Savior.

10 For my father and my mother have abandoned me, but the Lord has taken me up.

11 Set a law for me in your way, O Lord, and direct me in the upright path because of my enemies.

12 Do not hand me over to the souls of those who trouble me, because unjust witnesses have risen against me, and iniquity has lied to itself.

13 I believe that I shall see the good things of the Lord in the land of the living.

14 Await the Lord; act manfully, and let your heart be strengthened, and await the Lord.

PSALM 27

1 A Psalm for David himself. To you, O Lord, I shall cry; my God, do not be silent toward me, lest at any time you remain silent toward me and I become like those who descend into the pit.

2 Hear, O Lord, the voice of my supplication while I pray to you, while I lift up my hands toward your holy temple.

3 Do not draw me away together with sinners, nor destroy me with those who work iniquity, who speak peace with their neighbor while evils are in their hearts.

4 Give them according to their works and according to the wickedness of their inventions. Grant them according to the works of their hands; render their recompense to them.

5 Because they have not understood the works of the Lord and the works of his hands, you shall destroy them and shall not build them up.

6 Blessed is the Lord, because he has heard the voice of my supplication.

7 The Lord is my helper and my protector; in him my heart has hoped, and I was helped. My flesh has flowered again, and from my will I shall confess to him.

8 The Lord is the strength of his people and the protector of the salvations of his Christ.

9 Save your people, O Lord, and bless your inheritance; govern them and lift them up forever.

PSALM 28

1 A Psalm of David, at the completion of the tabernacle. Bring to the Lord, sons of God; bring to the Lord the sons of rams.

2 Bring glory and honor to the Lord; bring glory to the name of the Lord; adore the Lord in his holy court.

3 The voice of the Lord is over the waters; the God of majesty has thundered—the Lord over many waters.

4 The voice of the Lord is in strength; the voice of the Lord is in magnificence.

5 The voice of the Lord breaks cedars, and the Lord shall break the cedars of Lebanon.

6 And he shall crush them like a calf of Lebanon, and the beloved like a son of unicorns.

7 The voice of the Lord divides the flame of fire.

8 The voice of the Lord shakes the desert, and the Lord shall move the desert of Kadesh.

9 The voice of the Lord prepares the deer and shall reveal the dense places, and in his temple all shall speak glory.

10 The Lord causes the flood to dwell, and the Lord shall sit as King forever.

11 The Lord shall give strength to his people; the Lord shall bless his people in peace.

PSALM 29

1 A Psalm of song, at the dedication of the house of David.

2 I shall exalt you, O Lord, because you have upheld me and have not delighted my enemies over me.

3 O Lord my God, I cried to you, and you healed me.

4 O Lord, you led my soul out from the lower regions; you saved me from those who descend into the pit.

5 Sing psalms to the Lord, you his holy ones, and confess to the memory of his holiness.

6 For anger is in his indignation, and life is in his will; weeping shall remain in the evening, and gladness in the morning.

7 But I said in my abundance, “I shall not be moved forever.”

8 O Lord, in your will you granted strength to my beauty; you turned your face away from me, and I became troubled.

9 To you, O Lord, I shall cry, and to my God I shall make supplication.

10 What profit is there in my blood while I descend into corruption? Shall dust confess to you or announce your truth?

11 The Lord has heard and had mercy on me; the Lord has become my helper.

12 You have turned my mourning into joy for me; you tore my sackcloth and surrounded me with gladness,

13 that my glory may sing to you and I may not be pierced with sorrow. O Lord my God, I shall confess to you forever. # Psalms — JNV Draft Translation

PSALM 30

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David, for ecstasy.

2 In you, O Lord, I have hoped; I shall not be confounded forever. In your justice, deliver me.

3 Incline your ear to me; hasten to rescue me. Be to me a protecting God and a house of refuge, that you may save me,

4 because you are my strength and my refuge; and because of your name, you shall lead me and nourish me.

5 You shall lead me out of this snare that they hid for me, because you are my protector.

6 Into your hands I commend my spirit; you have redeemed me, O Lord God of truth.

7 You have hated those who observe vanities without cause, but I have hoped in the Lord.

8 I shall exult and be glad in your mercy, because you have looked upon my humiliation; you have saved my soul from necessities.

9 Nor have you enclosed me in the hands of the enemy; you have set my feet in a spacious place.

10 Have mercy on me, O Lord, because I am troubled; my eye, my soul, and my belly are troubled in anger.

11 For my life has failed in sorrow and my years in groanings. My strength has been weakened in poverty, and my bones are troubled.

12 Above all my enemies I have become a reproach, exceedingly so to my neighbors, and a fear to my acquaintances; those who saw me outside fled from me.

13 I have been given over to oblivion like one dead from the heart; I have become like a lost vessel.

14 For I heard the reproach of many dwelling around me. While they assembled together against me, they took counsel to seize my soul.

15 But I have hoped in you, O Lord; I have said, “You are my God.”

16 My lots are in your hands; rescue me from the hand of my enemies and from those who persecute me.

17 Illuminate your face over your servant; save me in your mercy.

18 O Lord, I shall not be confounded, because I have invoked you. Let the impious be ashamed and led down into the lower regions.

19 Let deceitful lips become mute, those that speak iniquity against the just in pride and abuse.

20 How great is the multitude of your sweetness, O Lord, which you have hidden for those who fear you and perfected for those who hope in you before the sons of men!

21 You shall hide them in the hidden place of your face from the disturbance of men; you shall protect them in your tabernacle from the contradiction of tongues.

22 Blessed is the Lord, because he has made his mercy wondrous to me in a fortified city.

23 But I said in the departure of my mind, “I have been cast away from before your eyes.” Therefore you heard the voice of my prayer when I cried to you.

24 Love the Lord, all you his holy ones, because the Lord shall require truth and abundantly repay those who act in pride.

25 Act manfully, and let your heart be strengthened, all you who hope in the Lord.

PSALM 31

1 Understanding, for David himself. Blessed are those whose iniquities are forgiven and whose sins are covered.

2 Blessed is the man to whom the Lord has not imputed sin, and in whose spirit there is no deceit.

3 Because I kept silent, my bones grew old while I cried all day.

4 For day and night your hand was heavy upon me; I was turned in my anguish while the thorn was fastened.

5 I made my offense known to you, and I did not hide my injustice. I said, “I shall confess my injustice against myself to the Lord,” and you forgave the impiety of my sin.

6 For this every holy one shall pray to you in a due season. Nevertheless, in a flood of many waters they shall not draw near to him.

7 You are my refuge from the tribulation that has surrounded me; my exultation, rescue me from those who surround me.

8 I shall give you understanding and instruct you in this way in which you shall walk; I shall fix my eyes upon you.

9 Do not become like the horse and mule, which have no understanding. Constrain with bit and bridle the jaws of those who do not draw near to you.

10 Many are the scourges of the sinner, but mercy shall surround him who hopes in the Lord.

11 Be glad in the Lord and exult, you just; and glory, all you upright of heart.

PSALM 32

1 A Psalm of David. Exult in the Lord, you just; praise becomes the upright.

2 Confess to the Lord with the harp; sing psalms to him upon the psaltery of ten strings.

3 Sing to him a new song; sing psalms well to him with jubilation.

4 Because the word of the Lord is upright, and all his works are in faith.

5 He loves mercy and judgment; the earth is full of the mercy of the Lord.

6 By the word of the Lord the heavens were made firm, and by the spirit of his mouth all their power.

7 He gathers the waters of the sea as in a wineskin and sets the abysses in treasuries.

8 Let all the earth fear the Lord; and let all who dwell in the world be moved before him.

9 For he spoke, and they were made; he commanded, and they were created.

10 The Lord scatters the counsels of the nations; he rejects the thoughts of peoples and rejects the counsels of princes.

11 But the counsel of the Lord remains forever, the thoughts of his heart from generation to generation.

12 Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord, the people whom he has chosen as an inheritance for himself.

13 From heaven the Lord has looked; he has seen all the sons of men.

14 From his prepared dwelling place he has looked upon all who dwell on the earth,

15 he who fashioned each of their hearts, who understands all their works.

16 A king is not saved by great power, and a giant shall not be saved by the multitude of his strength.

17 The horse is deceitful for salvation, and in the abundance of his strength he shall not be saved.

18 Behold, the eyes of the Lord are upon those who fear him and upon those who hope in his mercy, 19 that he may rescue their souls from death and feed them in famine.

20 Our soul awaits the Lord, because he is our helper and protector.

21 For in him our heart shall be glad, and in his holy name we have hoped.

22 Let your mercy be upon us, O Lord, just as we have hoped in you.

PSALM 33

1 For David, when he changed his countenance before Achimelech, and he dismissed him, and he went away.

2 I shall bless the Lord at all times; his praise shall always be in my mouth.

3 In the Lord my soul shall be praised; let the meek hear and be glad.

4 Magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name in the selfsame place.

5 I sought the Lord, and he heard me and rescued me from all my tribulations.

6 Draw near to him and be illuminated, and your faces shall not be confounded.

7 This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him and saved him from all his tribulations.

8 The angel of the Lord shall be sent around those who fear him and shall rescue them.

9 Taste and see that the Lord is sweet; blessed is the man who hopes in him.

10 Fear the Lord, all you his holy ones, because there is no want among those who fear him.

11 The rich have been in want and have hungered, but those who seek the Lord shall not be diminished in any good thing.

12 Come, sons; hear me. I shall teach you the fear of the Lord.

13 Who is the man who wills life and loves to see good days?

14 Restrain your tongue from evil and your lips from speaking deceit.

15 Turn away from evil and do good; seek peace and pursue it.

16 The eyes of the Lord are upon the just, and his ears toward their prayers.

17 But the countenance of the Lord is against those who do evils, that he may destroy their memory from the earth.

18 The just cried, and the Lord heard them and delivered them from all their tribulations.

19 The Lord is near to those who are troubled in heart, and he shall save the humble in spirit.

20 Many are the tribulations of the just, and from all these the Lord shall deliver them.

21 The Lord guards all their bones; not one of them shall be broken.

22 The death of sinners is exceedingly evil, and those who hate the just shall offend.

23 The Lord shall redeem the souls of his servants, and none who hope in him shall offend.

PSALM 34

1 For David himself. Judge those who harm me, O Lord; conquer those who attack me.

2 Take up weapons and shield, and arise to help me.

3 Draw out the sword and close the way against those who persecute me; say to my soul, “I am your salvation.”

4 Let those who seek my soul be confounded and ashamed; let those who devise evils against me be turned backward and confounded.

5 Let them become like dust before the face of the wind, with the angel of the Lord constraining them.

6 Let their way become darkness and slippery ground, with the angel of the Lord pursuing them.

7 For without cause they hid for me the destruction of their snare; without cause they reproached my soul.

8 Let a snare unknown to him come upon him; let the capture he hid seize him, and let him fall into that very snare.

9 But my soul shall exult in the Lord and delight in his salvation.

10 All my bones shall say, “O Lord, who is like you, rescuing the needy from the hand of those stronger than he, the destitute and poor from those who plunder him?”

11 Unjust witnesses arose and questioned me about things I did not know.

12 They repaid me evils for good, barrenness for my soul.

13 But when they were troublesome to me, I was clothed in sackcloth; I humbled my soul in fasting, and my prayer shall return into my bosom.

14 As though pleasing a neighbor and as though our brother, so I acted; as one mourning and sorrowful, so I was humbled.

15 And they rejoiced against me and assembled; scourges were gathered over me, and I did not know it.

16 They were scattered and were not pierced with sorrow; they tested me, they mocked me with mockery, and they gnashed their teeth over me.

17 O Lord, when will you look upon me? Restore my soul from their malice, my only one from lions.

18 I shall confess to you in the great church; among a weighty people I shall praise you.

19 Let those who unjustly oppose me not rejoice over me, those who hate me without cause and wink with their eyes.

20 For they indeed spoke peacefully to me, and speaking in the anger of the earth, they devised deceits.

21 And they opened their mouth wide over me; they said, “Well done! Well done! Our eyes have seen it.”

22 You have seen, O Lord; do not be silent. O Lord, do not withdraw from me.

23 Arise and attend to my judgment, my God and my Lord, to my cause.

24 Judge me according to your justice, O Lord my God, and let them not rejoice over me.

25 Let them not say in their hearts, “Well done! Well done, our soul!” Nor let them say, “We have devoured him.”

26 Let those who congratulate themselves over my evils be ashamed and confounded together; let those who speak great things over me be clothed with confusion and shame.

27 Let those who desire my justice exult and be glad, and let those who desire the peace of his servant always say, “Let the Lord be magnified.”

28 And my tongue shall meditate upon your justice and your praise all day.

PSALM 35

1 Unto the end. For David himself, the servant of the Lord.

2 The unjust man has said within himself that he will offend; there is no fear of God before his eyes.

3 For he has acted deceitfully in God’s sight, so that his iniquity may be found unto hatred.

4 The words of his mouth are iniquity and deceit; he refused to understand so that he might act well.

5 He meditated iniquity upon his bed; he stood in every way that is not good, but he did not hate malice.

6 O Lord, your mercy is in heaven, and your truth reaches even to the clouds.

7 Your justice is like the mountains of God; your judgments are a great abyss. Men and beasts you shall save, O Lord,

8 as you have multiplied your mercy, O God. But the sons of men shall hope beneath the covering of your wings.

9 They shall be intoxicated from the abundance of your house, and you shall give them drink from the torrent of your delight,

10 because with you is the fountain of life, and in your light we shall see light.

11 Extend your mercy to those who know you, and your justice to those who are upright of heart.

12 Let the foot of pride not come to me, and let the hand of the sinner not move me.

13 There those who work iniquity have fallen; they were cast out and were unable to stand.

PSALM 36

1 A Psalm for David himself. Do not emulate the malicious, nor be zealous for those who work iniquity,

2 because they shall quickly wither like grass and swiftly fall like the green plants of herbs.

3 Hope in the Lord and do goodness; dwell in the land, and you shall be fed from its riches.

4 Delight in the Lord, and he shall give you the petitions of your heart.

5 Reveal your way to the Lord and hope in him, and he shall act.

6 And he shall bring forth your justice like light and your judgment like midday.

7 Be subject to the Lord and pray to him. Do not emulate the one who prospers in his way, the man who commits injustices.

8 Cease from anger and abandon fury; do not emulate so that you become malicious.

9 For those who act maliciously shall be exterminated, but those who await the Lord shall inherit the earth.

10 Yet a little while, and the sinner shall not be; you shall seek his place and shall not find it.

11 But the meek shall inherit the earth and delight in the multitude of peace.

12 The sinner shall watch the just and gnash his teeth over him.

13 But the Lord shall laugh at him, because he foresees that his day shall come.

14 Sinners have drawn the sword; they have bent their bow to cast down the poor and needy and slaughter the upright of heart.

15 Let their sword enter their own hearts, and let their bow be broken.

16 A little belonging to the just is better than the many riches of sinners,

17 because the arms of sinners shall be broken, but the Lord confirms the just.

18 The Lord knows the days of the immaculate, and their inheritance shall be forever.

19 They shall not be confounded in the evil time, and in the days of famine they shall be satisfied,

20 because sinners shall perish. But the enemies of the Lord, as soon as they have been honored and exalted, shall fail; like smoke, they shall fail.

21 The sinner shall borrow and not repay, but the just man has mercy and gives,

22 because those who bless him shall inherit the earth, but those who curse him shall perish.

23 Before the Lord, the steps of man shall be directed, and he shall desire his way.

24 When he falls, he shall not be dashed down, because the Lord places his hand beneath him.

25 I was young, and indeed I have grown old; and I have not seen the just abandoned, nor his seed seeking bread.

26 All day he has mercy and lends, and his seed shall be in blessing.

27 Turn away from evil and do good, and dwell unto the age of ages,

28 because the Lord loves judgment and shall not abandon his holy ones; they shall be preserved forever. The unjust shall be punished, and the seed of the impious shall perish.

29 But the just shall inherit the earth and dwell upon it unto the age of ages.

30 The mouth of the just shall meditate wisdom, and his tongue shall speak judgment.

31 The law of his God is in his heart, and his steps shall not be supplanted.

32 The sinner watches the just and seeks to put him to death.

33 But the Lord shall not abandon him in his hands, nor condemn him when judgment is passed upon him.

34 Await the Lord and keep his way, and he shall exalt you so that you may take the earth as an inheritance; when sinners perish, you shall see it.

35 I saw the impious man super-exalted and lifted up like the cedars of Lebanon,

36 and I passed by, and behold, he was not; I sought him, and his place was not found.

37 Keep innocence and behold equity, because there are remnants for the peaceful man.

38 But the unjust shall perish together; the remnants of the impious shall be destroyed.

39 But the salvation of the just is from the Lord, and he is their protector in the time of tribulation.

40 And the Lord shall help them and deliver them; he shall rescue them from sinners and save them because they have hoped in him.

PSALM 37

1 A Psalm of David, in remembrance of the Sabbath.

2 O Lord, do not rebuke me in your fury, nor correct me in your anger,

3 because your arrows are fixed in me, and you have made your hand firm over me.

4 There is no health in my flesh before your anger; there is no peace for my bones before my sins,

5 because my iniquities have passed over my head, and like a heavy burden they weigh upon me.

6 My scars have putrefied and been corrupted before my foolishness.

7 I have become miserable and am bent down unto the end; all day I walked sorrowfully.

8 For my loins are filled with illusions, and there is no health in my flesh.

9 I have been afflicted and humbled exceedingly; I roared from the groaning of my heart.

10 O Lord, all my desire is before you, and my groaning is not hidden from you.

11 My heart is troubled; my strength has abandoned me, and the light of my eyes—it also is not with me.

12 My friends and my neighbors drew near and stood against me, and those who were beside me stood far away; and those who sought my soul committed violence.

13 And those who sought evils for me spoke vanities and meditated deceits all day.

14 But I, like one deaf, did not hear, and like one mute, I did not open my mouth.

15 And I became like a man who does not hear and has no rebukes in his mouth.

16 For in you, O Lord, I have hoped; you shall hear me, O Lord my God.

17 For I said, “Let my enemies not rejoice over me”; and when my feet are moved, they have spoken great things against me.

18 For I am prepared for scourges, and my sorrow is always before my sight.

19 For I shall announce my iniquity and think upon my sin.

20 But my enemies live and have been strengthened over me, and those who hate me unjustly have been multiplied.

21 Those who repay evils for good spoke against me because I followed goodness.

22 Do not abandon me, O Lord my God; do not withdraw from me.

23 Attend to my help, O Lord God of my salvation.

PSALM 38

1 Unto the end, for Idithun himself. A Song of David.

2 I said, “I shall guard my ways so that I do not offend with my tongue.” I set a guard over my mouth when the sinner stood against me.

3 I became mute and was humbled, and I kept silent even from good things; and my sorrow was renewed.

4 My heart grew hot within me, and in my meditation fire shall blaze.

5 I spoke with my tongue: Make my end known to me, O Lord, and what the number of my days is, that I may know what is lacking to me.

6 Behold, you have made my days measurable, and my substance is like nothing before you. Nevertheless, every living man is complete vanity.

7 Nevertheless, man passes by in an image; yet he is troubled in vain. He treasures up and does not know for whom he shall gather these things.

8 And now, what is my expectation? Is it not the Lord? And my substance is with you.

9 Rescue me from all my iniquities; you have made me a reproach to the fool.

10 I became mute and did not open my mouth, because you have done it.

11 Remove your scourges from me.

12 I have failed beneath the strength of your hand in rebukes; because of iniquity you have corrected man. And you have caused his soul to waste away like a spider; nevertheless, every man is troubled in vain.

13 Hear my prayer, O Lord, and my supplication; receive my tears with your ears. Do not be silent, because I am a stranger with you and a sojourner like all my fathers.

14 Forgive me, that I may be refreshed before I depart and shall be no more.

PSALM 39

1 Unto the end. A Psalm for David himself.

2 Awaiting, I awaited the Lord, and he attended to me.

3 And he heard my prayers and led me out of the pit of misery and the mud of dregs. He set my feet upon a rock and directed my steps.

4 And he sent a new song into my mouth, a hymn to our God. Many shall see and fear and hope in the Lord.

5 Blessed is the man whose hope is the name of the Lord and who has not looked toward vanities and false insanities.

6 You have done many things, O Lord my God—your wonders—and there is no one like you in your thoughts. I announced and spoke of them; they have been multiplied beyond number.

7 Sacrifice and oblation you did not desire, but you have perfected ears for me. Holocaust and sacrifice for sin you did not require;

8 then I said, “Behold, I come. At the head of the book it is written of me

9 that I should do your will. My God, I have willed it, and your law is in the midst of my heart.”

10 I have announced your justice in the great church; behold, I shall not restrain my lips. O Lord, you have known it.

11 I have not hidden your justice in my heart; I have spoken your truth and your salvation. I have not hidden your mercy and your truth from the great council.

12 But you, O Lord, do not make your compassions far from me; your mercy and your truth have always upheld me.

13 For evils without number have surrounded me; my iniquities have seized me, and I was unable to see. They have been multiplied beyond the hairs of my head, and my heart has abandoned me.

14 May it please you, O Lord, to rescue me; O Lord, look toward helping me.

15 Let those who seek my soul to take it away be confounded and ashamed together; let those who desire evils for me be turned backward and ashamed.

16 Let those who say to me, “Well done! Well done!” immediately bear their confusion.

17 Let all who seek you exult and be glad in you, and let those who love your salvation always say, “Let the Lord be magnified.”

18 But I am a beggar and poor; the Lord is concerned for me. You are my helper and my protector; my God, do not delay. # Psalms — JNV Draft Translation

PSALM 40

1 Unto the end. A Psalm for David himself.

2 Blessed is he who understands concerning the needy and the poor; in the evil day the Lord shall deliver him.

3 May the Lord preserve him and give him life and make him blessed in the land, and may he not hand him over to the soul of his enemies.

4 May the Lord bring him help upon his bed of sorrow; you have turned all his bedding in his infirmity.

5 I said, “O Lord, have mercy on me; heal my soul, because I have sinned against you.”

6 My enemies have spoken evils against me: “When shall he die and his name perish?”

7 And if one entered to see, he spoke vain things; his heart gathered iniquity to itself. He went outside and spoke.

8 All my enemies whispered together against me; against me they devised evils for me.

9 They established an unjust word against me: “Surely he who sleeps shall not add that he may rise again?”

10 For even the man of my peace in whom I hoped, who ate my breads, has magnified supplantation over me.

11 But you, O Lord, have mercy on me and raise me up, and I shall repay them.

12 By this I have known that you have willed me, because my enemy shall not rejoice over me.

13 But because of my innocence you have upheld me and confirmed me before you forever.

14 Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, from age and unto age. Let it be; let it be.

PSALM 41

1 Unto the end. Understanding for the sons of Korah.

2 As the deer longs for springs of waters, so my soul longs for you, O God.

3 My soul has thirsted for the strong, living God; when shall I come and appear before the face of God?

4 My tears have become my breads day and night while it is said to me each day, “Where is your God?”

5 I have remembered these things and poured out my soul within me, because I shall pass into the place of the wondrous tabernacle, even to the house of God, with the voice of exultation and confession, the sound of one feasting.

6 Why are you sorrowful, my soul? And why do you trouble me? Hope in God, because I shall yet confess to him, the salvation of my countenance,

7 and my God. My soul is troubled within myself; therefore I shall remember you from the land of the Jordan and the Hermonites, from the little mountain.

8 Abyss invokes abyss at the voice of your floodgates; all your heights and your waves have passed over me.

9 By day the Lord commanded his mercy, and by night his song; with me is prayer to the God of my life.

10 I shall say to God, “You are my upholder. Why have you forgotten me? And why do I walk sorrowfully while the enemy afflicts me?”

11 While my bones are being broken, my enemies who trouble me have reproached me, while they say to me every day, “Where is your God?”

12 Why are you sorrowful, my soul? And why do you trouble me? Hope in God, because I shall yet confess to him, the salvation of my countenance and my God.

PSALM 42

1 A Psalm of David. Judge me, O God, and distinguish my cause from the nation that is not holy; rescue me from the unjust and deceitful man.

2 Because you are God, my strength, why have you rejected me? And why do I walk sorrowfully while the enemy afflicts me?

3 Send forth your light and your truth; they have led me and brought me to your holy mountain and into your tabernacles.

4 And I shall enter to the altar of God, to God who gladdens my youth. I shall confess to you with the harp, O God, my God.

5 Why are you sorrowful, my soul? And why do you trouble me? Hope in God, because I shall yet confess to him, the salvation of my countenance and my God.

PSALM 43

1 Unto the end. For the sons of Korah, unto understanding.

2 O God, with our ears we have heard; our fathers have announced to us the work you worked in their days and in ancient days.

3 Your hand destroyed the nations, and you planted them; you afflicted peoples and cast them out.

4 For they did not possess the land by their own sword, nor did their arm save them; but your right hand and your arm and the illumination of your countenance saved them, because you were pleased in them.

5 You yourself are my King and my God, who commands the salvations of Jacob.

6 In you we shall winnow our enemies with the horn, and in your name we shall despise those who rise against us.

7 For I shall not hope in my bow, and my sword shall not save me,

8 because you have saved us from those who afflict us and have confounded those who hate us.

9 In God we shall be praised all day, and in your name we shall confess forever.

10 But now you have rejected and confounded us, and you shall not go forth, O God, with our armies.

11 You have turned us backward after our enemies, and those who hate us plundered for themselves.

12 You have given us like sheep for food and scattered us among the nations.

13 You have sold your people without a price, and there was no multitude in their exchanges.

14 You have made us a reproach to our neighbors, a mockery and derision to those around us.

15 You have made us a likeness among the nations, a shaking of the head among the peoples.

16 All day my shame is against me, and the confusion of my face has covered me,

17 before the voice of him who reproaches and speaks against me, before the face of the enemy and persecutor.

18 All these things have come upon us, yet we have not forgotten you or acted unjustly in your testament.

19 And our heart has not turned backward, but you have turned our paths away from your way,

20 because you have humbled us in the place of affliction, and the shadow of death has covered us.

21 If we have forgotten the name of our God or spread out our hands to a foreign god,

22 shall God not require these things? For he knows the hidden things of the heart. Because of you we are put to death all day; we have been regarded as sheep for slaughter.

23 Arise; why do you sleep, O Lord? Arise, and do not reject us unto the end.

24 Why do you turn away your face? Do you forget our need and our tribulation?

25 For our soul has been humbled into the dust; our belly has been glued to the earth.

26 Arise, O Lord; help us and redeem us because of your name.

PSALM 44

1 Unto the end, for those who shall be changed. For the sons of Korah, unto understanding. A song for the beloved.

2 My heart has poured forth a good word; I speak my works to the King. My tongue is the pen of a scribe who writes swiftly.

3 You are beautiful in form above the sons of men; grace has been poured upon your lips. Therefore God has blessed you forever.

4 Gird your sword upon your thigh, O most powerful one.

5 In your form and your beauty, attend; proceed prosperously and reign because of truth and meekness and justice, and your right hand shall lead you wondrously.

6 Your arrows are sharp; peoples shall fall beneath you, into the hearts of the King's enemies.

7 Your throne, O God, is unto the age of ages; a rod of direction is the rod of your kingdom.

8 You have loved justice and hated iniquity; therefore God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness above your companions.

9 Myrrh and stacte and cassia breathe from your garments, from houses of ivory; from these they have delighted you—

10 daughters of kings in your honor. The queen stood at your right hand in gilded clothing, surrounded with variety.

11 Hear, daughter, and see, and incline your ear; forget your people and your father's house.

12 And the King shall desire your beauty, because he is the Lord your God, and they shall adore him.

13 And the daughters of Tyre shall entreat your countenance with gifts, all the rich among the people.

14 All the glory of the King's daughter is within, in golden fringes,

15 clothed all around with varieties. Virgins shall be led to the King after her; her neighbors shall be brought to you.

16 They shall be brought with gladness and exultation; they shall be led into the temple of the King.

17 Sons have been born to you in place of your fathers; you shall appoint them as princes over all the earth.

18 They shall remember your name in every generation and generation; therefore peoples shall confess to you forever and unto the age of ages.

PSALM 45

1 Unto the end, for the sons of Korah, for secret things. A Psalm.

2 Our God is refuge and strength, a helper in the tribulations that have found us exceedingly.

3 Therefore we shall not fear when the earth is troubled and the mountains are transferred into the heart of the sea.

4 Their waters have sounded and been troubled; the mountains were troubled by his strength.

5 The force of the river gladdens the city of God; the Most High has sanctified his tabernacle.

6 God is in its midst; it shall not be moved. God shall help it early in the morning.

7 The nations were troubled, and kingdoms bowed down; he gave forth his voice, and the earth was moved.

8 The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our upholder.

9 Come and see the works of the Lord, the wonders he has set upon the earth,

10 taking away wars even to the end of the earth. He shall break the bow, shatter weapons, and burn shields with fire.

11 Be still and see that I am God; I shall be exalted among the nations, and I shall be exalted in the earth.

12 The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our upholder.

PSALM 46

1 Unto the end, for the sons of Korah. A Psalm.

2 All nations, clap your hands; jubilate to God with the voice of exultation,

3 because the Lord Most High is terrible, a great King over all the earth.

4 He has subjected peoples to us and nations beneath our feet.

5 He has chosen his inheritance for us, the beauty of Jacob that he loved.

6 God has ascended in jubilation, and the Lord with the voice of the trumpet.

7 Sing psalms to our God, sing psalms; sing psalms to our King, sing psalms,

8 because God is King of all the earth; sing psalms wisely.

9 God shall reign over the nations; God sits upon his holy throne.

10 The princes of peoples have been gathered with the God of Abraham, because the strong gods of the earth have been exceedingly exalted.

PSALM 47

1 A Psalm of song. For the sons of Korah, on the second day of the week.

2 Great is the Lord and exceedingly worthy of praise in the city of our God, upon his holy mountain.

3 Mount Zion is founded for the exultation of the whole earth; the sides of the north, the city of the great King.

4 God shall be known in its houses when he upholds it.

5 For behold, the kings of the earth were gathered; they assembled as one.

6 Seeing it, they wondered; they were troubled and moved.

7 Trembling seized them; there were pains as of one giving birth.

8 With a vehement spirit you shall break the ships of Tarshish.

9 As we have heard, so we have seen in the city of the Lord of hosts, in the city of our God; God has founded it forever.

10 We have received your mercy, O God, in the midst of your temple.

11 According to your name, O God, so also is your praise unto the ends of the earth; your right hand is full of justice.

12 Let Mount Zion be glad and the daughters of Judah exult because of your judgments, O Lord.

13 Surround Zion and embrace it; recount these things in its towers.

14 Set your hearts upon its strength and distribute its houses, that you may recount it to another generation.

15 For this is God, our God, forever and unto the age of ages; he shall govern us through the ages.

PSALM 48

1 Unto the end, for the sons of Korah. A Psalm.

2 Hear these things, all nations; receive them with your ears, all who dwell in the world,

3 both earthborn and sons of men, rich and poor together as one.

4 My mouth shall speak wisdom, and the meditation of my heart, prudence.

5 I shall incline my ear to a parable; I shall open my proposition upon the psaltery.

6 Why shall I fear in the evil day? The iniquity of my heel shall surround me.

7 Those who trust in their own strength glory in the multitude of their riches.

8 A brother does not redeem; shall man redeem? He shall not give God his placation

9 and the price of the redemption of his soul. And he shall labor forever

10 and shall live still unto the end.

11 He shall not see destruction when he sees the wise dying; the fool and the senseless shall perish together. And they shall leave their riches to strangers,

12 and their sepulchers shall be their houses forever, their tabernacles from generation to generation; they have called their names upon their lands.

13 And man, when he was in honor, did not understand. He has been compared with senseless beasts and made like them.

14 This way of theirs is a scandal to them, and afterward they shall be pleased in their own mouth.

15 Like sheep they have been placed in the lower regions; death shall feed upon them. And the just shall rule over them in the morning, and their help shall grow old in the lower regions, away from their glory.

16 Nevertheless, God shall redeem my soul from the hand of the lower regions when he receives me.

17 Do not fear when man becomes rich and when the glory of his house is multiplied,

18 because when he perishes, he shall not take everything, nor shall his glory descend with him.

19 For his soul shall be blessed in his life; he shall confess to you when you do good to him.

20 He shall enter even into the generations of his fathers, and forever he shall not see light.

21 Man, when he was in honor, did not understand. He has been compared with senseless beasts and made like them.

PSALM 49

1 A Psalm of Asaph. The Lord, the God of gods, has spoken and called the earth from the rising of the sun to its setting.

2 From Zion is the form of his beauty.

3 God shall come manifestly; our God, and he shall not be silent. Fire shall blaze in his sight, and a mighty tempest shall be around him.

4 He shall call heaven from above and the earth to distinguish his people.

5 “Gather to him his holy ones, who order his testament above sacrifices.”

6 And the heavens shall announce his justice, because God is judge.

7 “Hear, my people, and I shall speak; Israel, and I shall testify to you. I am God, your God.

8 I shall not rebuke you concerning your sacrifices, but your holocausts are always before my sight.

9 I shall not take calves from your house or goats from your flocks,

10 because all the wild beasts of the forests are mine, the beasts upon the mountains, and the oxen.

11 I have known all the birds of heaven, and the beauty of the field is with me.

12 If I hunger, I shall not tell you, for the whole world and its fullness are mine.

13 Shall I eat the flesh of bulls or drink the blood of goats?

14 Sacrifice to God a sacrifice of praise and fulfill your vows to the Most High.

15 And invoke me in the day of tribulation; I shall rescue you, and you shall honor me.”

16 But to the sinner God has said: “Why do you recount my justices and take up my testament through your mouth?

17 Yet you have hated discipline and cast my words behind you.

18 If you saw a thief, you ran with him, and you set your portion with adulterers.

19 Your mouth abounded in malice, and your tongue composed deceits.

20 Sitting, you spoke against your brother, and against your mother’s son you set a scandal.

21 These things you did, and I was silent. You unjustly thought that I would be like you; I shall rebuke you and set them before your face.

22 Understand these things, you who forget God, lest at any time he seize you and there be no one to rescue.

23 A sacrifice of praise shall honor me, and there is the way by which I shall show him the salvation of God.”

PSALM 50

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David,

2 when Nathan the prophet came to him after he had entered to Bathsheba.

3 Have mercy on me, O God, according to your great mercy; and according to the multitude of your compassions, erase my iniquity.

4 Wash me yet more from my iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin.

5 For I know my iniquity, and my sin is always against me.

6 Against you alone have I sinned, and I have done evil before you, that you may be justified in your words and may prevail when you are judged.

7 For behold, I was conceived in iniquities, and in sins my mother conceived me.

8 For behold, you have loved truth; you have manifested to me the uncertain and hidden things of your wisdom.

9 You shall sprinkle me with hyssop, and I shall be cleansed; you shall wash me, and I shall be made whiter than snow.

10 You shall give joy and gladness to my hearing, and the humbled bones shall exult.

11 Turn your face away from my sins and erase all my iniquities.

12 Create a clean heart in me, O God, and renew an upright spirit within my inward parts.

13 Do not cast me away from your face, and do not take your Holy Spirit from me.

14 Restore to me the gladness of your salvation, and confirm me with a principal spirit.

15 I shall teach the unjust your ways, and the impious shall be converted to you.

16 Deliver me from bloods, O God, God of my salvation, and my tongue shall exult in your justice.

17 O Lord, you shall open my lips, and my mouth shall announce your praise.

18 For if you had willed sacrifice, I would indeed have given it; in holocausts you shall not delight.

19 A sacrifice to God is a spirit pierced with sorrow; a contrite and humbled heart, O God, you shall not despise.

20 Deal kindly, O Lord, in your good will toward Zion, that the walls of Jerusalem may be built.

21 Then you shall accept a sacrifice of justice, oblations, and holocausts; then they shall place calves upon your altar.

PSALM 51

1 Unto the end. Understanding of David,

2 when Doeg the Edomite came and announced to Saul, “David has come into the house of Achimelech.”

3 Why do you glory in malice, you who are powerful in iniquity?

4 All day your tongue has devised injustice; like a sharp razor you have wrought deceit.

5 You have loved malice above kindness, iniquity more than speaking equity.

6 You have loved every word of precipitation, O deceitful tongue.

7 Therefore God shall destroy you unto the end; he shall pull you out and remove you from your tabernacle, and your root from the land of the living.

8 The just shall see and fear, and they shall laugh over him and say:

9 “Behold the man who did not make God his helper but hoped in the multitude of his riches and prevailed in his vanity.”

10 But I am like a fruitful olive tree in the house of God; I have hoped in the mercy of God forever and unto the age of ages.

11 I shall confess to you forever because you have acted, and I shall await your name because it is good before your holy ones.

PSALM 52

1 Unto the end, for Maeleth. The understanding of David. The fool has said in his heart, “There is no God.”

2 They are corrupted and have become abominable in iniquities; there is no one who does good.

3 God looked down from heaven upon the sons of men to see whether there is one who understands or seeks God.

4 All have turned aside; together they have become useless. There is no one who does good—there is not even one.

5 Shall all who work iniquity not know, those who devour my people like food of bread?

6 They have not invoked God; there they trembled with fear where there was no fear. For God has scattered the bones of those who please men; they have been confounded because God has despised them.

7 Who shall give salvation to Israel from Zion? When God turns the captivity of his people, Jacob shall exult, and Israel shall be glad.

PSALM 53

1 Unto the end, in songs. The understanding of David,

2 when the Ziphites came and said to Saul, “Is not David hidden among us?”

3 O God, save me in your name, and judge me in your strength.

4 O God, hear my prayer; receive the words of my mouth with your ears.

5 For foreigners have risen against me, and the strong have sought my soul, and they have not set God before their sight.

6 For behold, God helps me, and the Lord is the upholder of my soul.

7 Turn evils against my enemies, and in your truth destroy them.

8 Willingly I shall sacrifice to you and confess to your name, O Lord, because it is good.

9 For you have rescued me from every tribulation, and my eye has looked down upon my enemies.

PSALM 54

1 Unto the end, in songs. The understanding of David.

2 Hear my prayer, O God, and do not despise my supplication.

3 Attend to me and hear me. I have been made sorrowful in my exercise and have been troubled

4 by the voice of the enemy and by the tribulation of the sinner. For they have turned iniquities upon me, and in anger they were troublesome to me.

5 My heart is troubled within me, and the dread of death has fallen upon me.

6 Fear and trembling have come upon me, and darkness has covered me.

7 And I said, “Who will give me wings like a dove, that I may fly and rest?”

8 Behold, fleeing, I have gone far away and remained in solitude.

9 I awaited him who saved me from faintheartedness of spirit and from the tempest.

10 Cast them down, O Lord; divide their tongues, because I have seen iniquity and contradiction in the city.

11 Day and night iniquity shall surround it upon its walls, and labor is in its midst,

12 and injustice; and usury and deceit have not failed from its streets.

13 For if my enemy had cursed me, I would indeed have borne it; and if he who hated me had spoken great things against me, perhaps I would have hidden myself from him.

14 But you, a man of one mind with me, my leader and my acquaintance,

15 who together with me took sweet foods; in the house of God we walked in agreement.

16 Let death come upon them, and let them descend alive into the lower regions, because wickedness is in their dwellings, in their midst.

17 But I have cried to God, and the Lord shall save me.

18 Evening and morning and midday, I shall recount and announce, and he shall hear my voice.

19 He shall redeem my soul in peace from those who draw near to me, because among many they were with me.

20 God shall hear and humble them, he who is before the ages. For there is no change in them, and they have not feared God.

21 He has extended his hand in repaying; they have defiled his testament.

22 They were divided by the anger of his countenance, and his heart drew near. His words were softened beyond oil, and they themselves are darts.

23 Cast your care upon the Lord, and he shall nourish you; he shall not permit the just to waver forever.

24 But you, O God, shall lead them down into the pit of destruction. Men of blood and deceit shall not divide their days in half, but I shall hope in you, O Lord. # Psalms — JNV Draft Translation

PSALM 55

1 Unto the end, for the people who were made far from the holy ones. For David, as an inscription of a title, when the Philistines held him in Gath.

2 Have mercy on me, O God, because man has trampled me; attacking all day, he has troubled me.

3 My enemies have trampled me all day, because many wage war against me.

4 From the height of day I shall fear, but I shall hope in you.

5 In God I shall praise my words; in God I have hoped. I shall not fear what flesh may do to me.

6 All day they cursed my words; all their thoughts are against me for evil.

7 They shall dwell and hide; they shall watch my heel. As they have awaited my soul,

8 for nothing shall you save them; in anger you shall crush peoples.

9 O God, I have announced my life to you; you have placed my tears before your sight, as also in your promise.

10 Then my enemies shall be turned backward. On whatever day I invoke you, behold, I have known that you are my God.

11 In God I shall praise the word; in the Lord I shall praise the speech. In God I have hoped; I shall not fear what man may do to me.

12 Your vows are upon me, O God; I shall fulfill them as praises to you,

13 because you have rescued my soul from death and my feet from falling, that I may be pleasing before God in the light of the living.

PSALM 56

1 Unto the end, do not destroy. For David, as an inscription of a title, when he fled from the face of Saul into the cave.

2 Have mercy on me, O God, have mercy on me, because my soul trusts in you. And beneath the shadow of your wings I shall hope until iniquity passes.

3 I shall cry to God Most High, to God who has dealt well with me.

4 He sent from heaven and delivered me; he gave those who trample me over to reproach. God sent his mercy and his truth,

5 and he rescued my soul from the midst of lion cubs. I slept troubled. The teeth of the sons of men are weapons and arrows, and their tongue is a sharp sword.

6 Be exalted above the heavens, O God, and your glory over all the earth.

7 They prepared a snare for my feet and bowed down my soul. They dug a pit before my face and fell into it.

8 My heart is prepared, O God, my heart is prepared; I shall sing and chant a psalm.

9 Arise, my glory; arise, psaltery and harp. I shall arise at dawn.

10 I shall confess to you among the peoples, O Lord, and shall sing a psalm to you among the nations, 11 because your mercy has been magnified even to the heavens and your truth even to the clouds.

12 Be exalted above the heavens, O God, and your glory over all the earth.

PSALM 57

1 Unto the end, do not destroy. For David, as an inscription of a title.

2 If indeed you speak justice, judge uprightly, sons of men.

3 For even in your heart you work iniquities; in the earth your hands compose injustices.

4 Sinners have been estranged from the womb; they have wandered from the womb and spoken false things.

5 Their fury is like that of a serpent, like a deaf asp that closes its ears,

6 which shall not hear the voice of charmers or of the enchanter who enchants wisely.

7 God shall crush their teeth in their own mouth; the Lord shall break the molars of lions.

8 They shall come to nothing like water running away; he has bent his bow until they are weakened.

9 Like wax that flows, they shall be taken away; fire fell upon them, and they did not see the sun.

10 Before your thorns understand the buckthorn, he shall swallow them in anger as though living.

11 The just shall be glad when he sees vindication; he shall wash his hands in the blood of the sinner.

12 And man shall say, “If indeed there is fruit for the just, indeed there is a God who judges them upon the earth.”

PSALM 58

1 Unto the end, do not destroy. For David, as an inscription of a title, when Saul sent and watched his house to kill him.

2 Rescue me from my enemies, my God, and deliver me from those who rise against me.

3 Rescue me from those who work iniquity and save me from men of blood.

4 For behold, they have seized my soul; the strong have rushed upon me.

5 Neither my iniquity nor my sin, O Lord; without iniquity I have run and directed my way.

6 Arise to meet me and see; and you, O Lord God of hosts, God of Israel, attend to visit all nations. Have no mercy on any who work iniquity.

7 They shall return at evening and suffer hunger like dogs, and they shall go around the city.

8 Behold, they shall speak with their mouth, and a sword is in their lips, because who has heard?

9 And you, O Lord, shall laugh at them; you shall reduce all nations to nothing.

10 I shall guard my strength for you, because you, O God, are my upholder.

11 My God—his mercy shall go before me.

12 God shall show me over my enemies. Do not kill them, lest at any time my people forget. Scatter them by your strength and cast them down, O Lord, my protector,

13 for the offense of their mouth, the speech of their lips; and let them be caught in their pride. And they shall be announced because of cursing and falsehood

14 at the consummation; in the anger of consummation, and they shall be no more. And they shall know that God shall rule Jacob and the ends of the earth.

15 They shall return at evening and suffer hunger like dogs, and they shall go around the city.

16 They shall be scattered to eat; but if they are not satisfied, they shall murmur.

17 But I shall sing of your strength and exult in your mercy in the morning, because you have become my upholder and my refuge in the day of my tribulation.

18 My helper, I shall sing psalms to you, because you, O God, are my upholder; my God, my mercy.

PSALM 59

1 Unto the end, for those who shall be changed, as an inscription of a title for David himself, for doctrine,

2 when he burned Mesopotamia of Syria and Sobal, and Joab returned and struck twelve thousand of Edom in the Valley of Salt Pits.

3 O God, you have rejected us and destroyed us; you were angry and had mercy on us.

4 You moved the earth and troubled it; heal its fractures, because it has been moved.

5 You have shown hard things to your people; you have given us wine of piercing sorrow to drink.

6 You have given a sign to those who fear you so that they may flee from before the bow, that your beloved may be delivered.

7 Save with your right hand and hear me.

8 God has spoken in his holy place: “I shall be glad and shall divide Shechem; I shall measure the Valley of Tabernacles.

9 Gilead is mine, and Manasseh is mine; and Ephraim is the strength of my head. Judah is my King;

10 Moab is the pot of my hope. Into Edom I shall extend my shoe; foreigners have been subjected to me.”

11 Who shall lead me into the fortified city? Who shall lead me even into Edom?

12 Will it not be you, O God, who rejected us? And will you not go forth, O God, with our armies?

13 Give us help from tribulation, because the salvation of man is vain.

14 In God we shall work strength, and he shall reduce those who trouble us to nothing.

PSALM 60

1 Unto the end. Among the hymns of David.

2 Hear my supplication, O God; attend to my prayer.

3 From the ends of the earth I have cried to you while my heart was anguished. Upon a rock you exalted me; you led me,

4 because you have become my hope, a tower of strength before the face of the enemy.

5 I shall dwell in your tabernacle through the ages; I shall be protected beneath the covering of your wings.

6 For you, my God, have heard my prayer; you have given an inheritance to those who fear your name.

7 You shall add days upon the days of the King, his years even to the day of generation and generation.

8 He remains forever before the sight of God; who shall require his mercy and truth?

9 Thus I shall sing a psalm to your name unto the age of ages, that I may fulfill my vows from day to day.

PSALM 61

1 Unto the end, for Idithun. A Psalm of David.

2 Shall not my soul be subject to God? For from him is my salvation.

3 For he himself is my God and my Savior, my upholder; I shall be moved no more.

4 How long do you rush upon a man? All of you kill as though against a leaning wall and a fence that has been driven down.

5 Nevertheless, they devised to cast away my price; I ran in thirst. With their mouth they blessed, but with their heart they cursed.

6 Nevertheless, be subject to God, my soul, because from him is my patience,

7 because he is my God and my Savior, my helper; I shall not migrate.

8 In God is my salvation and my glory; the God of my help, and my hope is in God.

9 Hope in him, every congregation of the people; pour out your hearts before him. God is our helper forever.

10 Nevertheless, the sons of men are vain, the sons of men are deceitful in balances, so that they themselves deceive from vanity in the selfsame thing.

11 Do not hope in iniquity, and do not desire robberies; if riches abound, do not set your heart upon them.

12 God has spoken once; these two things I have heard: that power belongs to God,

13 and mercy to you, O Lord, because you shall repay each one according to his works.

PSALM 62

1 A Psalm of David, when he was in the desert of Edom.

2 O God, my God, from the dawn I keep watch for you. My soul has thirsted for you; how manifoldly my flesh longs for you!

3 In a desert land, pathless and without water, so I appeared before you in the holy place, that I might see your power and your glory.

4 Because your mercy is better than lives, my lips shall praise you.

5 Thus I shall bless you in my life, and in your name I shall lift up my hands.

6 Let my soul be filled as with fat and richness, and my mouth shall praise you with lips of exultation.

7 If I have remembered you upon my bed, in the morning watches I shall meditate upon you.

8 Because you have been my helper, and beneath the covering of your wings I shall exult.

9 My soul has adhered after you; your right hand has upheld me.

10 But they have sought my soul in vain; they shall enter into the lower parts of the earth.

11 They shall be handed over into the hands of the sword; they shall be portions for foxes.

12 But the King shall be glad in God; all who swear by him shall be praised, because the mouth of those who speak unjust things has been obstructed.

PSALM 63

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David.

2 Hear my prayer, O God, when I make supplication; rescue my soul from fear of the enemy.

3 You have protected me from the assembly of the malicious, from the multitude of those who work iniquity.

4 For they have sharpened their tongues like a sword; they have bent the bow, a bitter thing,

5 that they may shoot the immaculate one in hidden places.

6 Suddenly they shall shoot him and shall not fear; they have strengthened an evil word for themselves. They spoke of hiding snares; they said, “Who shall see them?”

7 They have searched out iniquities; those who searched failed in their scrutiny. Man shall draw near to a deep heart,

8 and God shall be exalted. The arrows of little ones have become their wounds,

9 and their tongues have been weakened against them. All who saw them were troubled,

10 and every man feared. And they announced the works of God and understood his deeds.

11 The just shall be glad in the Lord and shall hope in him, and all the upright of heart shall be praised.

PSALM 64

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David, a song of Jeremiah and Ezekiel for the people of the transmigration, when they began to go forth.

2 A hymn becomes you, O God, in Zion, and a vow shall be fulfilled to you in Jerusalem.

3 Hear my prayer; to you all flesh shall come.

4 The words of the unjust have prevailed over us, and you shall be propitious to our impieties.

5 Blessed is he whom you have chosen and taken up; he shall dwell in your courts. We shall be filled with the good things of your house; holy is your temple,

6 wondrous in equity. Hear us, O God our Savior, the hope of all the ends of the earth and far away in the sea.

7 You prepare the mountains in your strength, girded with power;

8 you trouble the depth of the sea, the sound of its waves. The nations shall be troubled,

9 and those who dwell at the ends shall fear before your signs; you shall delight the departures of morning and evening.

10 You have visited the earth and intoxicated it; you have multiplied its enrichment. The river of God is filled with waters; you have prepared their food, because so is its preparation.

11 Intoxicate its streams; multiply its offspring. Sprouting, it shall rejoice in its drops.

12 You shall bless the crown of the year of your kindness, and your fields shall be filled with abundance.

13 The beautiful places of the desert shall grow fat, and the hills shall be girded with exultation.

14 The rams of the sheep have been clothed, and the valleys shall abound with grain; they shall cry aloud, for indeed they shall sing a hymn.

PSALM 65

1 Unto the end. A song of a psalm of the resurrection. Jubilate to God, all the earth;

2 sing a psalm to his name; give glory to his praise.

3 Say to God, “How terrible are your works, O Lord! In the multitude of your strength, your enemies shall lie to you.

4 Let all the earth adore you and sing psalms to you; let it sing a psalm to your name.”

5 Come and see the works of God, terrible in counsels over the sons of men.

6 He turns the sea into dry land; they shall pass through the river on foot. There we shall be glad in him.

7 He rules in his strength forever; his eyes look upon the nations. Let those who provoke him not be exalted in themselves.

8 Bless our God, you nations, and cause the voice of his praise to be heard.

9 He has set my soul unto life and has not permitted my feet to be moved.

10 For you have proved us, O God; you have examined us by fire as silver is examined.

11 You led us into a snare; you placed tribulations upon our back.

12 You placed men over our heads. We passed through fire and water, and you led us out into refreshment.

13 I shall enter your house with holocausts; I shall fulfill to you my vows, 14 which my lips distinguished and my mouth spoke in my tribulation.

15 I shall offer you marrow-filled holocausts with the incense of rams; I shall offer you oxen with goats.

16 Come and hear, all you who fear God, and I shall recount how great are the things he has done for my soul.

17 To him I cried with my mouth, and I exalted him beneath my tongue.

18 If I have regarded iniquity in my heart, the Lord shall not hear.

19 Therefore God has heard and attended to the voice of my supplication.

20 Blessed is God, who has not removed my prayer or his mercy from me.

PSALM 66

1 Unto the end, among hymns. A Psalm of a song of David.

2 May God have mercy on us and bless us; may he illuminate his face over us and have mercy on us,

3 that we may know your way upon the earth, your salvation among all nations.

4 Let the peoples confess to you, O God; let all the peoples confess to you.

5 Let the nations be glad and exult, because you judge the peoples in equity and direct the nations upon the earth.

6 Let the peoples confess to you, O God; let all the peoples confess to you.

7 The earth has given its fruit; may God, our God, bless us.

8 May God bless us, and let all the ends of the earth fear him.

PSALM 67

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of a song for David himself.

2 Let God arise, and let his enemies be scattered; and let those who hate him flee from his face.

3 As smoke fails, let them fail; as wax flows before the face of fire, so let sinners perish before the face of God.

4 And let the just feast and exult before the sight of God and delight in gladness.

5 Sing to God; sing a psalm to his name. Make a way for him who ascends over the setting sun. The Lord is his name; exult before his sight. They shall be troubled before his face,

6 the Father of orphans and the judge of widows, God in his holy place.

7 God causes those of one manner to dwell in a house; he leads out those bound in strength, and likewise those who provoke him, who dwell in sepulchers.

8 O God, when you went forth before your people, when you passed through the desert,

9 the earth was moved, and indeed the heavens dropped rain before the face of the God of Sinai, before the face of the God of Israel.

10 You shall set apart a voluntary rain, O God, for your inheritance; it was weakened, but you perfected it.

11 Your animals shall dwell in it; in your sweetness, O God, you have prepared for the poor.

12 The Lord shall give the word to those who evangelize with great power.

13 The King of hosts belongs to the beloved, to the beloved; and to the beauty of the house belongs the dividing of spoils.

14 If you sleep among the midst of the lots, the wings of the dove are silvered, and the rear of her back is in the pallor of gold.

15 While the heavenly one distinguishes kings over her, they shall be whitened with snow upon Zalmon.

16 The mountain of God is a fat mountain, a curdled mountain, a fat mountain.

17 Why do you suspect curdled mountains? This is the mountain in which God is pleased to dwell; indeed, the Lord shall dwell there unto the end.

18 The chariot of God is manifold, with ten thousand, thousands rejoicing; the Lord is among them in Sinai, in the holy place.

19 You have ascended on high; you have taken captivity captive; you have received gifts among men, even those who do not believe that the Lord God dwells there.

20 Blessed is the Lord day by day; the God of our salvations shall make a prosperous journey for us.

21 Our God is the God of making salvation, and to the Lord, the Lord, belong the exits from death.

22 Nevertheless, God shall break the heads of his enemies, the crown of the hair of those who walk about in their offenses.

23 The Lord has said, “From Bashan I shall turn them; I shall turn them into the depth of the sea, 24 that your foot may be dipped in blood, the tongue of your dogs in the enemies, from him.”

25 They have seen your processions, O God, the processions of my God, my King, who is in the holy place.

26 Princes joined with those singing psalms went before, in the midst of young women playing timbrels.

27 In the churches, bless God the Lord from the fountains of Israel.

28 There is Benjamin, a youth in departure of mind; the princes of Judah, their leaders; the princes of Zebulun, the princes of Naphtali.

29 Command your strength, O God; confirm this, O God, which you have worked in us.

30 From your temple in Jerusalem, kings shall offer gifts to you.

31 Rebuke the wild beasts of the reeds, the congregation of bulls among the cows of the peoples, that they may exclude those who have been proved by silver. Scatter the nations that desire wars.

32 Envoys shall come from Egypt; Ethiopia shall hasten her hands to God.

33 Kingdoms of the earth, sing to God; sing psalms to the Lord; sing psalms to God,

34 who ascends above the heaven of heaven toward the east. Behold, he shall give to his voice a voice of power.

35 Give glory to God over Israel; his magnificence and his strength are in the clouds.

36 Wondrous is God in his holy ones; the God of Israel himself shall give power and strength to his people. Blessed is God!

PSALM 68

1 Unto the end, for those who shall be changed. David.

2 Save me, O God, because waters have entered even to my soul.

3 I have been fixed in the mud of the deep, and there is no substance. I have come into the height of the sea, and the tempest has submerged me.

4 I have labored crying; my jaws have become hoarse. My eyes have failed while I hope in my God.

5 Those who hate me without cause have been multiplied beyond the hairs of my head. Those who unjustly persecuted me, my enemies, have been strengthened; then I repaid what I did not seize.
