6 O God, you know my foolishness, and my offenses are not hidden from you.

7 Let those who await you not be ashamed in me, O Lord, Lord of hosts; let those who seek you not be confounded over me, O God of Israel.

8 Because for you I have borne reproach; confusion has covered my face.

9 I have become a stranger to my brothers and a foreigner to my mother's sons.

10 Because zeal for your house has consumed me, and the reproaches of those who reproached you have fallen upon me.

11 And I covered my soul in fasting, and it became a reproach to me.

12 And I made sackcloth my garment, and I became a parable to them.

13 Those who sat at the gate spoke against me, and those who drank wine sang psalms against me.

14 But I direct my prayer to you, O Lord; it is the time of good pleasure, O God. In the multitude of your mercy, hear me in the truth of your salvation.

15 Rescue me from the mud so that I may not be fixed in it; deliver me from those who hate me and from the depths of waters.

16 Let not the tempest of water submerge me, nor the deep swallow me, nor the pit press its mouth over me.

17 Hear me, O Lord, because your mercy is kind; according to the multitude of your compassions, look upon me.

18 And do not turn your face away from your servant; because I am troubled, hear me swiftly.

19 Attend to my soul and deliver it; because of my enemies, rescue me.

20 You know my reproach and my confusion and my shame;

21 before your sight are all who trouble me. My heart awaited reproach and misery; and I awaited one who would sorrow together with me, but there was no one, and one who would console me, but I found none.

22 And they gave gall for my food, and in my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink.

23 Let their table become a snare before them, and unto retributions and a scandal.

24 Let their eyes be darkened so that they do not see, and bow down their back always.

25 Pour out your anger upon them, and let the fury of your anger seize them.

26 Let their dwelling become desolate, and let there be no one who dwells in their tabernacles.

27 Because they persecuted him whom you struck, and they added to the sorrow of my wounds.

28 Add iniquity upon their iniquity, and let them not enter into your justice.

29 Let them be erased from the book of the living and not be written with the just.

30 I am poor and sorrowful; your salvation, O God, has upheld me.

31 I shall praise the name of God with a song and magnify him with praise,

32 and it shall please God more than a young calf bringing forth horns and hooves.

33 Let the poor see and be glad; seek God, and your soul shall live, 34 because the Lord has heard the poor and has not despised his bound ones.

35 Let heaven and earth praise him, the sea and all creeping things in them.

36 Because God shall save Zion, and the cities of Judah shall be built; and they shall dwell there and acquire it by inheritance.

37 And the seed of his servants shall possess it, and those who love his name shall dwell in it. # Psalms — JNV Draft Translation

PSALM 69

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David in remembrance that the Lord saved him.

2 O God, attend to my help; O Lord, hasten to help me.

3 Let those who seek my soul be confounded and ashamed.

4 Let those who desire evils for me be turned backward and ashamed; let those who say to me, “Well done! Well done!” be immediately turned away in shame.

5 Let all who seek you exult and be glad in you, and let those who love your salvation always say, “Let the Lord be magnified.”

6 But I am needy and poor; O God, help me. You are my helper and my deliverer; O Lord, do not delay.

PSALM 70

1 A Psalm of David, of the sons of Jonadab and the former captives. In you, O Lord, I have hoped; I shall not be confounded forever.

2 In your justice, deliver me and rescue me; incline your ear to me and save me.

3 Be to me a protecting God and a fortified place, that you may save me, because you are my firmament and my refuge.

4 My God, rescue me from the hand of the sinner and from the hand of him who acts against the law and is unjust,

5 because you are my patience, O Lord; O Lord, my hope from my youth.

6 In you I have been confirmed from the womb; from my mother's belly you are my protector. My singing is always in you.

7 I have become a wonder to many, but you are a strong helper.

8 Let my mouth be filled with praise, that I may sing your glory, your greatness all day.

9 Do not cast me away in the time of old age; when my strength fails, do not abandon me.

10 For my enemies spoke against me, and those who watched my soul took counsel together as one,

11 saying, "God has abandoned him. Pursue and seize him, because there is no one to rescue him."

12 O God, do not go far from me; my God, look toward my help.

13 Let those who speak against my soul be confounded and fail; let those who seek evils for me be covered with confusion and shame.

14 But I shall always hope and shall add to all your praise.

15 My mouth shall announce your justice, your salvation all day, because I have not known letters.

16 I shall enter into the powers of the Lord; O Lord, I shall remember your justice alone.

17 O God, you have taught me from my youth, and even now I shall declare your wonders.

18 And even into old age and gray hairs, O God, do not abandon me until I announce your arm to every generation that shall come, your power

19 and your justice, O God, even to the highest things. O God, you have done great things; who is like you?

20 How many great and evil tribulations you have shown me! And turning, you gave me life and led me back again from the abysses of the earth.

21 You have multiplied your magnificence; and turning, you have consoled me.

22 For I also shall confess your truth to you with the instruments of the psalm, O God; I shall sing psalms to you with the harp, O Holy One of Israel.

23 My lips shall exult when I sing to you, and my soul, which you have redeemed.

24 And my tongue also shall meditate upon your justice all day when those who seek evils for me have been confounded and ashamed.

PSALM 71

1 A Psalm concerning Solomon.

2 O God, give your judgment to the King and your justice to the King’s son, to judge your people in justice and your poor in judgment.

3 Let the mountains receive peace for the people, and the hills, justice.

4 He shall judge the poor of the people, save the sons of the poor, and humble the oppressor.

5 And he shall remain with the sun and before the moon, from generation to generation.

6 He shall descend like rain upon a fleece and like drops falling upon the earth.

7 In his days justice shall arise, and abundance of peace until the moon is taken away.

8 And he shall rule from sea to sea and from the river even to the ends of the whole world.

9 Before him the Ethiopians shall fall down, and his enemies shall lick the earth.

10 The kings of Tarshish and the islands shall offer gifts; the kings of the Arabians and of Sheba shall bring gifts.

11 And all the kings of the earth shall adore him; all nations shall serve him.

12 Because he shall deliver the poor from the powerful and the poor man who had no helper.

13 He shall spare the poor and needy and save the souls of the poor.

14 From usuries and iniquity he shall redeem their souls, and their name shall be honorable before him.

15 And he shall live, and from the gold of Arabia there shall be given to him; and they shall always adore because of him, and all day they shall bless him.

16 And there shall be a firmament in the earth upon the summits of the mountains; its fruit shall be super-exalted above Lebanon, and they shall flourish from the city like the grass of the earth.

17 May his name be blessed through the ages; before the sun his name remains. And all the tribes of the earth shall be blessed in him; all nations shall magnify him.

18 Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, who alone does wonders.

19 And blessed is the name of his majesty forever, and all the earth shall be filled with his majesty. Let it be; let it be.

20 The praises of David, son of Jesse, have come to an end.

PSALM 72

1 A Psalm of Asaph. How good is the God of Israel to those who are upright of heart!

2 But my feet were almost moved; my steps were almost poured away,

3 because I was zealous over the unjust when I saw the peace of sinners.

4 For there is no regard for their death, and there is a firmament in their scourge.

5 They are not in the labor of men, nor shall they be scourged with men.

6 Therefore pride has held them; they are covered with their iniquity and impiety.

7 Their iniquity has come forth as though from fatness; they have passed into the affection of the heart.

8 They have thought and spoken wickedness; they have spoken iniquity on high.

9 They have set their mouth in heaven, and their tongue has passed over the earth.

10 Therefore my people shall return here, and full days shall be found in them.

11 And they have said, “How does God know? And is there knowledge on high?”

12 Behold, these sinners, abounding in the age, have obtained riches.

13 And I said, “Therefore without cause I have justified my heart and washed my hands among the innocent,

14 and I have been scourged all day, and my chastisement has been in the mornings.”

15 If I said, “I shall recount it thus,” behold, I would have rejected the nation of your sons.

16 I thought that I might know this; it is labor before me,

17 until I enter the sanctuary of God and understand their final things.

18 Nevertheless, because of deceits you have set these things for them; you cast them down while they were being lifted up.

19 How have they been made desolate? Suddenly they have failed; they have perished because of their iniquity.

20 Like the dream of those who arise, O Lord, in your city you shall reduce their image to nothing.

21 Because my heart was inflamed and my reins were changed,

22 and I was reduced to nothing and did not know,

23 so that I became like a beast before you; and I am always with you.

24 You have held my right hand, and in your will you have led me, and with glory you have taken me up.

25 For what is there for me in heaven? And apart from you, what have I desired upon the earth?

26 My flesh and my heart have failed; O God of my heart and my portion, O God forever.

27 For behold, those who distance themselves from you shall perish; you have destroyed all who fornicate away from you.

28 But for me it is good to adhere to God, to place my hope in the Lord God, that I may announce all your proclamations in the gates of the daughter of Zion.

PSALM 73

1 The understanding of Asaph. Why, O God, have you rejected us unto the end? Why has your fury become angry against the sheep of your pasture?

2 Remember your congregation, which you possessed from the beginning. You redeemed the rod of your inheritance, Mount Zion, in which you dwelt.

3 Lift up your hands against their pride unto the end; how greatly the enemy has acted maliciously in the holy place!

4 And those who hate you have gloried in the midst of your solemnity; they have set their signs as signs.

5 And they did not know, as at an exit above the summit. Like axes in a forest of trees,

6 together they cut down its doors; with ax and adze they cast it down.

7 They burned your sanctuary with fire; upon the earth they polluted the tabernacle of your name.

8 Their whole kindred said together in their heart, “Let us cause all the feast days of God to cease from the earth.”

9 We have not seen our signs; there is no longer a prophet, and he shall know us no more.

10 How long, O God, shall the enemy reproach? Shall the adversary provoke your name unto the end?

11 Why do you turn away your hand and your right hand from the midst of your bosom unto the end?

12 But God is our King before the ages; he has worked salvation in the midst of the earth.

13 You made the sea firm by your strength; you crushed the heads of dragons in the waters.

14 You broke the heads of the dragon; you gave him as food to the peoples of Ethiopia.

15 You burst open springs and torrents; you dried the rivers of Ethan.

16 The day is yours, and the night is yours; you fashioned the dawn and the sun.

17 You made all the boundaries of the earth; summer and spring—you formed them.

18 Remember this: the enemy has reproached the Lord, and a foolish people has provoked your name.

19 Do not hand over to beasts the souls that confess to you, and do not forget the souls of your poor unto the end.

20 Look upon your testament, because those darkened upon the earth have been filled with houses of iniquities.

21 Let not the humbled one be turned away confounded; the poor and needy shall praise your name.

22 Arise, O God; judge your cause. Remember your reproaches, those that come from the fool all day.

23 Do not forget the voices of your enemies; the pride of those who hate you ascends always.

PSALM 74

1 Unto the end, do not corrupt. A Psalm of a song of Asaph.

2 We shall confess to you, O God, we shall confess and invoke your name; we shall recount your wonders.

3 When I receive the time, I shall judge justices.

4 The earth and all who dwell in it have melted; I have made its pillars firm.

5 I said to the unjust, “Do not act unjustly,” and to those who offend, “Do not exalt the horn.

6 Do not lift your horn on high; do not speak iniquity against God.”

7 For neither from the east, nor from the west, nor from the desert mountains comes judgment,

8 because God is judge. This one he humbles, and this one he exalts,

9 because in the hand of the Lord is a cup of pure wine, full of mixture. And he has tilted it from this one to that; nevertheless, its dregs have not been emptied. All the sinners of the earth shall drink.

10 But I shall announce forever; I shall sing to the God of Jacob.

11 And I shall break all the horns of sinners, and the horns of the just shall be exalted.

PSALM 75

1 Unto the end, among praises. A Psalm of Asaph, a song to the Assyrians.

2 God is known in Judea; in Israel his name is great.

3 And his place has been made in peace, and his dwelling in Zion.

4 There he broke the powers of bows, the shield, the sword, and war.

5 You illuminate wondrously from the eternal mountains.

6 All the foolish of heart were troubled. They slept their sleep, and all the men of riches found nothing in their hands.

7 At your rebuke, O God of Jacob, those who mounted horses fell asleep.

8 You are terrible; and who shall resist you? From that time is your anger.

9 From heaven you caused judgment to be heard; the earth trembled and rested

10 when God arose for judgment, that he might save all the meek of the earth.

11 For the thought of man shall confess to you, and the remnants of thought shall keep a feast day to you.

12 Vow and fulfill to the Lord your God, all you around him who bring gifts—to the terrible one, 13 to him who takes away the spirit of princes, terrible among the kings of the earth.

PSALM 76

1 Unto the end, for Idithun. A Psalm of Asaph.

2 With my voice I cried to the Lord; with my voice to God, and he attended to me.

3 In the day of my tribulation I sought God; with my hands toward him in the night, and I was not deceived. My soul refused to be consoled.

4 I remembered God and was delighted, and I exercised myself, and my spirit failed.

5 My eyes anticipated the watches; I was troubled and did not speak.

6 I considered the ancient days and held the eternal years in mind.

7 And I meditated by night with my heart, and I exercised myself and swept through my spirit.

8 Will God cast away forever? Or will he not add that he may still be more favorable?

9 Or will he cut off his mercy unto the end, from generation to generation?

10 Or will God forget to have mercy? Or will he restrain his mercies in his anger?

11 And I said, “Now I have begun; this is the change of the right hand of the Most High.”

12 I remembered the works of the Lord, because I shall remember your wonders from the beginning.

13 And I shall meditate upon all your works and exercise myself in your inventions.

14 O God, your way is in the holy place; what god is great like our God?

15 You are God who does wonders; you have made your power known among the peoples.

16 With your arm you redeemed your people, the sons of Jacob and Joseph.

17 The waters saw you, O God; the waters saw you and were afraid, and the abysses were troubled.

18 Great was the sound of waters; the clouds gave forth their voice. For indeed your arrows pass through.

19 The voice of your thunder was in the wheel. Your lightning flashes illuminated the whole world; the earth was moved and trembled.

20 Your way is in the sea, and your paths in many waters, and your footprints shall not be known.

21 You led your people like sheep by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

PSALM 77

1 The understanding of Asaph. Attend to my law, my people; incline your ear to the words of my mouth.

2 I shall open my mouth in parables; I shall speak propositions from the beginning.

3 How great are the things we have heard and known, and our fathers have recounted them to us.

4 They have not been hidden from their sons in another generation, recounting the praises of the Lord and his powers and the wonders he has done.

5 And he raised up a testimony in Jacob and set a law in Israel, the great things he commanded our fathers to make known to their sons,

6 that another generation might know—the sons who shall be born and arise—and they shall recount them to their sons,

7 that they may place their hope in God and not forget the works of God, and that they may seek his commandments,

8 lest they become like their fathers, a perverse and provoking generation, a generation that did not direct its heart and whose spirit was not trusted with God.

9 The sons of Ephraim, bending and shooting the bow, turned back in the day of battle.

10 They did not keep the testament of God and refused to walk in his law.

11 And they forgot his benefactions and his wonders that he showed them.

12 Before their fathers he did wonders in the land of Egypt, in the field of Tanis.

13 He divided the sea and led them through, and he made the waters stand as though in a wineskin.

14 And he led them in the cloud by day and all night in the illumination of fire.

15 He split the rock in the wilderness and gave them water as from a great abyss.

16 And he brought water from the rock and led the waters down like rivers.

17 And they added still more sin against him; they provoked the Most High to anger in the waterless place.

18 And they tested God in their hearts by seeking food for their souls.

19 And they spoke evil of God; they said, “Can God prepare a table in the desert?

20 For he struck the rock, and waters flowed and torrents overflowed. Can he also give bread or prepare a table for his people?”

21 Therefore the Lord heard and delayed, and fire was kindled in Jacob, and anger ascended against Israel,

22 because they did not believe in God or hope in his salvation.

23 And he commanded the clouds from above and opened the doors of heaven.

24 And he rained manna upon them to eat and gave them the bread of heaven.

25 Man ate the bread of angels; he sent them provisions in abundance.

26 He transferred the south wind from heaven and brought in the southwest wind by his strength.

27 And he rained flesh upon them like dust, and feathered birds like the sand of the sea.

28 And they fell in the midst of their camp, around their tabernacles.

29 And they ate and were exceedingly satisfied, and he brought their desire to them.

30 They were not defrauded of their desire. Their food was still in their mouth,

31 and the anger of God ascended upon them; and he killed their fat ones and hindered the elect of Israel.

32 In all these things they still sinned and did not believe in his wonders.

33 And their days failed in vanity and their years with haste.

34 When he killed them, they sought him and returned and came to him at dawn.

35 And they remembered that God is their helper and God Most High their Redeemer.

36 And they loved him with their mouth, and with their tongue they lied to him,

37 but their heart was not upright with him, nor were they held faithful in his testament.

38 But he is merciful and shall become propitious to their sins, and he shall not destroy them. And he abounded in turning away his anger and did not kindle all his anger.

39 And he remembered that they are flesh, a spirit going and not returning.

40 How often they provoked him in the desert and stirred him to anger in the waterless place!

41 And they turned back and tested God and provoked the Holy One of Israel.

42 They did not remember his hand on the day when he redeemed them from the hand of him who troubled them,

43 how he set his signs in Egypt and his wonders in the field of Tanis, 44 and turned their rivers into blood and their rains so that they could not drink.

45 He sent the dogfly among them, and it devoured them, and the frog, and it destroyed them.

46 And he gave their fruits to blight and their labors to the locust.

47 And he killed their vines with hail and their mulberry trees with frost.

48 And he handed their beasts over to hail and their possession to fire.

49 He sent upon them the anger of his indignation—indignation and anger and tribulation—missions through evil angels.

50 He made a way for the path of his anger; he did not spare their souls from death, and he enclosed their beasts in death.

51 And he struck every firstborn in the land of Egypt, the firstfruits of all their labor in the tabernacles of Ham.

52 And he took away his people like sheep and led them like a flock in the desert.

53 And he led them in hope, and they did not fear, and the sea covered their enemies.

54 And he led them into the mountain of his sanctification, the mountain his right hand acquired; and he cast the nations out before their face and divided the land to them by lot with a cord of distribution.

55 And he caused the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tabernacles.

56 And they tested and provoked God Most High and did not keep his testimonies.

57 And they turned away and did not keep the pact; like their fathers, they were turned into a perverse bow.

58 They stirred him to anger upon their hills and provoked him to jealousy with their carved images.

59 God heard and despised them, and he exceedingly reduced Israel to nothing.

60 And he rejected the tabernacle of Shiloh, his tabernacle where he dwelt among men.

61 And he handed their strength into captivity and their beauty into the hands of the enemy.

62 And he enclosed his people in the sword and despised his inheritance.

63 Fire consumed their young men, and their virgins were not lamented.

64 Their priests fell by the sword, and their widows were not mourned.

65 And the Lord was aroused like one sleeping, like a powerful man overcome with wine.

66 And he struck his enemies on their backs; he gave them an everlasting reproach.

67 And he rejected the tabernacle of Joseph and did not choose the tribe of Ephraim, 68 but he chose the tribe of Judah, Mount Zion, which he loved.

69 And he built his sanctuary like unicorns, in the land that he founded through the ages.

70 And he chose David his servant and took him from the flocks of sheep; from behind those giving birth, he received him

71 to feed Jacob his servant and Israel his inheritance.

72 And he fed them in the innocence of his heart and led them by the understandings of his hands. # Psalms — JNV Draft Translation

PSALM 78

1 A Psalm of Asaph. O God, the nations have come into your inheritance; they have polluted your holy temple; they have made Jerusalem like an apple watch.

2 They have made the corpses of your servants food for the birds of heaven, the flesh of your holy ones for the beasts of the earth.

3 They have poured out their blood like water around Jerusalem, and there was no one to bury them.

4 We have become a reproach to our neighbors, a mockery and derision to those around us.

5 How long, O Lord, will you be angry unto the end? Shall your zeal be kindled like fire?

6 Pour out your anger upon the nations that have not known you and upon the kingdoms that have not invoked your name,

7 because they have devoured Jacob and desolated his place.

8 Do not remember our ancient iniquities; let your mercies swiftly come before us, because we have become exceedingly poor.

9 Help us, O God our Savior, and because of the glory of your name, O Lord, deliver us; and be propitious to our sins because of your name.

10 Lest perhaps they say among the nations, “Where is their God?” Let the vindication of the blood of your servants that was poured out become known among the nations before our eyes.

11 Let the groaning of those in fetters enter before your sight; according to the greatness of your arm, possess the sons of those put to death.

12 And repay our neighbors sevenfold into their bosom, their reproach with which they reproached you, O Lord.

13 But we are your people and the sheep of your pasture; we shall confess to you forever; from generation to generation we shall announce your praise.

PSALM 79

1 Unto the end, for those who shall be changed. A testimony of Asaph, a Psalm.

2 You who govern Israel, attend; you who lead Joseph like a sheep, who sit upon the cherubim, be manifested

3 before Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh. Awaken your power and come, that you may save us.

4 O God, convert us and show your face, and we shall be saved.

5 O Lord God of hosts, how long will you be angry against the prayer of your servant?

6 Will you feed us the bread of tears and give us tears to drink by measure?

7 You have made us a contradiction to our neighbors, and our enemies have mocked us.

8 O God of hosts, convert us and show your face, and we shall be saved.

9 You transferred a vine from Egypt; you cast out the nations and planted it.

10 You were the leader of the journey before it; you planted its roots, and it filled the earth.

11 Its shadow covered the mountains, and its branches, the cedars of God.

12 It extended its branches even to the sea, and its shoots even to the river.

13 Why have you destroyed its wall, so that all who pass along the way harvest it?

14 The boar from the forest has exterminated it, and a singular wild beast has fed upon it.

15 O God of hosts, turn; look from heaven and see, and visit this vine.

16 And perfect what your right hand planted, and look upon the son of man whom you confirmed for yourself.

17 Burned with fire and dug up, they shall perish at the rebuke of your countenance.

18 Let your hand be upon the man of your right hand and upon the son of man whom you confirmed for yourself.

19 And we shall not withdraw from you; you shall give us life, and we shall invoke your name.

20 O Lord God of hosts, convert us and show your face, and we shall be saved.

PSALM 80

1 Unto the end, for the winepresses. A Psalm for Asaph himself.

2 Exult in God our helper; jubilate to the God of Jacob.

3 Take up a psalm and give forth the timbrel, the pleasant psaltery with the harp.

4 Sound the trumpet at the new moon, on the distinguished day of your solemnity,

5 because it is a commandment in Israel and a judgment for the God of Jacob.

6 He set it as a testimony in Joseph when he went out from the land of Egypt; he heard a tongue that he did not know.

7 He turned his back away from burdens; his hands served in the basket.

8 In tribulation you invoked me, and I delivered you. I heard you in the hidden place of the tempest; I proved you at the water of contradiction.

9 Hear, my people, and I shall testify to you. Israel, if you hear me,

10 there shall be no new god in you, nor shall you adore a foreign god.

11 For I am the Lord your God, who led you out of the land of Egypt. Enlarge your mouth, and I shall fill it.

12 And my people did not hear my voice, and Israel did not attend to me.

13 And I dismissed them according to the desires of their heart; they shall go in their inventions.

14 If my people had heard me, if Israel had walked in my ways,

15 perhaps for nothing I would have humbled their enemies and sent my hand upon those who troubled them.

16 The enemies of the Lord lied to him, and their time shall be through the ages.

17 And he fed them from the fat of grain and satisfied them with honey from the rock.

PSALM 81

1 A Psalm of Asaph. God has stood in the synagogue of gods, and in their midst he judges gods.

2 How long do you judge iniquity and accept the faces of sinners?

3 Judge for the needy and the orphan; justify the humble and the poor.

4 Rescue the poor, and deliver the needy from the hand of the sinner.

5 They have not known or understood; they walk in darkness. All the foundations of the earth shall be moved.

6 I have said, “You are gods, and all of you are sons of the Most High.”

7 But you shall die like men, and like one of the princes you shall fall.

8 Arise, O God; judge the earth, because you shall inherit among all nations.

PSALM 82

1 A song of a Psalm of Asaph.

2 O God, who shall be like you? Do not be silent or restrained, O God,

3 because behold, your enemies have sounded, and those who hate you have lifted up their head.

4 They have devised a malicious counsel against your people and thought against your holy ones.

5 They have said, “Come, and let us destroy them from being a nation, and let the name of Israel be remembered no more.”

6 For they have devised counsel with one mind; together they have ordered a testament against you:

7 the tabernacles of the Edomites and the Ishmaelites, Moab and the Hagarenes,

8 Gebal and Ammon and Amalek, the foreigners with those who dwell in Tyre.

9 For even Assyria has come with them; they have become a help to the sons of Lot.

10 Do to them as to Midian and Sisera, as to Jabin at the torrent Kishon.

11 They perished at Endor; they became like dung of the earth.

12 Make their princes like Oreb and Zeb, and Zebee and Zalmunna—all their princes,

13 who have said, “Let us possess the sanctuary of God by inheritance.”

14 My God, make them like a wheel and like stubble before the face of the wind.

15 Like fire that burns a forest and like a flame burning mountains,

16 so you shall pursue them in your tempest and trouble them in your anger.

17 Fill their faces with disgrace, and they shall seek your name, O Lord.

18 Let them be ashamed and troubled unto the age of ages, and let them be confounded and perish.

19 And let them know that your name is the Lord; you alone are the Most High over all the earth.

PSALM 83

1 Unto the end, for the winepresses, for the sons of Core. A Psalm.

2 How beloved are your tabernacles, O Lord of hosts!

3 My soul longs and faints for the courts of the Lord; my heart and my flesh have rejoiced in the living God.

4 For even the sparrow has found herself a house, and the turtledove a nest for herself, where she may place her young: your altars, O Lord of hosts, my King and my God.

5 Blessed are those who dwell in your house, O Lord; unto the ages of ages they shall praise you.

6 Blessed is the man whose help is from you; he has arranged ascents in his heart,

7 in the valley of tears, in the place that he has appointed.

8 For the lawgiver shall give a blessing; they shall go from strength to strength: the God of gods shall be seen in Sion.

9 O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer; give ear, O God of Jacob.

10 Behold, O God, our protector, and look upon the face of your Christ.

11 For one day in your courts is better than thousands; I have chosen to be cast down in the house of my God rather than to dwell in the tabernacles of sinners.

12 For God loves mercy and truth; the Lord shall give grace and glory.

13 He shall not deprive those who walk in innocence of good things. O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man who hopes in you.

PSALM 84

1 Unto the end, for the sons of Core. A Psalm.

2 You have blessed your land, O Lord; you have turned away the captivity of Jacob.

3 You have forgiven the iniquity of your people; you have covered all their sins.

4 You have softened all your anger; you have turned away from the anger of your indignation.

5 Turn us, O God our savior, and turn your anger away from us.

6 Will you be angry with us forever? Or will you extend your anger from generation to generation?

7 O God, turning again, you shall give us life, and your people shall rejoice in you.

8 Show us your mercy, O Lord, and grant us your salvation.

9 I will hear what the Lord God speaks within me, for he shall speak peace to his people, and upon his saints, and to those who turn toward the heart.

10 Nevertheless, his salvation is near those who fear him, that glory may dwell in our land.

11 Mercy and truth have met each other; justice and peace have kissed.

12 Truth has sprung from the earth, and justice has looked down from heaven.

13 For the Lord shall give goodness, and our land shall give its fruit.

14 Justice shall walk before him and shall set his steps upon the way.

PSALM 85

1 A prayer of David himself. Incline your ear, O Lord, and hear me, for I am needy and poor.

2 Guard my soul, for I am holy; save your servant, my God, who hopes in you.

3 Have mercy on me, O Lord, for I have cried to you all the day.

4 Gladden the soul of your servant, for to you, O Lord, I have lifted up my soul.

5 For you, O Lord, are sweet and gentle, and abundant in mercy to all who call upon you.

6 Give ear, O Lord, to my prayer, and attend to the voice of my supplication.

7 In the day of my tribulation I have cried to you, because you have heard me.

8 There is none like you among the gods, O Lord, and there is nothing according to your works.

9 All the nations, whatsoever you have made, shall come and adore before you, O Lord, and they shall glorify your name.

10 For you are great and work wonders; you alone are God.

11 Lead me, O Lord, in your way, and I shall enter in your truth; let my heart rejoice, that it may fear your name.

12 I will confess to you, O Lord my God, with my whole heart, and I will glorify your name forever,

13 because your mercy is great over me, and you have delivered my soul from the lower regions beneath.

14 O God, the iniquitous have risen against me, and the synagogue of the mighty have sought my soul, and they have not set you before their sight.

15 But you, O Lord God, are compassionate and merciful, patient and abundant in mercy and true.

16 Look upon me and have mercy on me; give your dominion to your servant, and save the son of your handmaid.

17 Work with me a sign for good, that those who hate me may see and be confounded, because you, O Lord, have helped me and comforted me.

PSALM 86

1 For the sons of Core. A Psalm of a canticle. His foundations are in the holy mountains;

2 the Lord loves the gates of Sion above all the tabernacles of Jacob.

3 Glorious things have been spoken of you, O city of God!

4 I shall remember Rahab and Babylon among those who know me; behold, the foreigners, and Tyre, and the people of the Ethiopians—these were there.

5 Shall it not be said of Sion, “Man and man were born in her, and the Most High himself founded her”?

6 The Lord shall recount in the writings of peoples and of princes those who were in her.

7 As the habitation of all who rejoice is in you.

PSALM 87

1 A Canticle of a Psalm, for the sons of Core, unto the end, for Maheleth, to respond. The understanding of Eman the Ezrahite.

2 O Lord, God of my salvation, by day I have cried and by night before you.

3 Let my prayer enter before your sight; incline your ear to my supplication.

4 For my soul is filled with evils, and my life has drawn near to the lower regions.

5 I have been reckoned with those who descend into the pit; I have become like a man without help,

6 free among the dead, like the wounded sleeping in sepulchers, whom you remember no more, and they are cast away from your hand.

7 They have placed me in the lower pit, in dark places and in the shadow of death.

8 Your fury has been made firm upon me, and you have brought all your waves over me.

9 You have put my acquaintances far from me; they have made me an abomination to themselves. I was handed over, and I did not go forth;

10 my eyes grew weak through want. I cried to you, O Lord, all the day; I stretched out my hands to you.

11 Will you work wonders for the dead? Or shall physicians raise them up, and shall they confess to you?

12 Shall anyone recount your mercy in the sepulcher, and your truth in destruction?

13 Shall your wonders be known in darkness, and your justice in the land of forgetfulness?

14 But I have cried to you, O Lord, and in the morning my prayer shall come before you.

15 Why, O Lord, do you reject my prayer? Why do you turn your face away from me?

16 I am poor and in labors from my youth; but having been exalted, I was humbled and troubled.

17 Your angers have passed over me, and your terrors have troubled me.

18 They surrounded me like water all the day; they surrounded me together.

19 You have put friend and neighbor far from me, and my acquaintances because of misery.

PSALM 88

1 The understanding of Ethan the Ezrahite.

2 I shall sing the mercies of the Lord forever; from generation to generation I shall proclaim your truth with my mouth.

3 For you have said, “Mercy shall be built forever in the heavens; your truth shall be prepared in them.”

4 “I have established a testament with my elect; I have sworn to David my servant:

5 ‘Forever I shall prepare your seed, and from generation to generation I shall build your throne.’”

6 The heavens shall confess your wonders, O Lord, and indeed your truth in the church of the saints.

7 For who in the clouds shall be equaled to the Lord? Who among the sons of God shall be like God?

8 God, who is glorified in the council of the saints, is great and terrible above all who are around him.

9 O Lord God of hosts, who is like you? You are mighty, O Lord, and your truth is all around you.

10 You rule the power of the sea, and you still the motion of its waves.

11 You have humbled the proud one like a wounded man; with the arm of your strength you have scattered your enemies.

12 Yours are the heavens, and yours is the earth; you founded the world and its fullness.

13 You created the north and the sea. Thabor and Hermon shall rejoice in your name;

14 yours is the arm with might. Let your hand be made firm, and let your right hand be exalted.

15 Justice and judgment are the preparation of your throne; mercy and truth shall go before your face.

16 Blessed is the people who know jubilation; O Lord, they shall walk in the light of your countenance,

17 and in your name they shall rejoice all the day, and in your justice they shall be exalted.

18 For you are the glory of their strength, and in your good pleasure our horn shall be exalted.

19 For our taking-up belongs to the Lord, and our king to the Holy One of Israel.

20 Then you spoke in a vision to your saints and said, “I have placed help in one who is mighty, and I have exalted one chosen from my people.

21 I have found David my servant; with my holy oil I have anointed him.

22 For my hand shall help him, and my arm shall strengthen him.

23 The enemy shall profit nothing against him, and the son of iniquity shall not add to harming him.

24 And I shall cut down his enemies before his face, and I shall turn those who hate him to flight.

25 And my truth and my mercy shall be with him, and in my name his horn shall be exalted.

26 And I shall place his hand upon the sea, and his right hand upon the rivers.

27 He shall call upon me: ‘You are my Father, my God, and the upholder of my salvation.’

28 And I shall make him my firstborn, exalted above the kings of the earth.

29 Forever I shall preserve my mercy for him, and my testament shall be faithful to him.

30 And I shall establish his seed unto the age of ages, and his throne like the days of heaven.

31 But if his sons forsake my law and do not walk in my judgments,

32 if they profane my justices and do not keep my commandments,

33 I shall visit their iniquities with a rod and their sins with blows;

34 but I shall not scatter my mercy from him, nor shall I harm my truth,

35 nor shall I profane my testament, and I shall not make void the things that proceed from my lips.

36 Once I have sworn by my holiness: I shall not lie to David;

37 his seed shall remain forever.

38 And his throne shall be like the sun before me, and like the moon perfected forever, and a faithful witness in heaven.”

39 But you have rejected and despised; you have deferred your Christ.

40 You have overthrown the testament of your servant; you have profaned his sanctuary upon the earth.

41 You have destroyed all his hedges; you have made his firmament a terror.

42 All who passed along the way have plundered him; he has become a reproach to his neighbors.

43 You have exalted the right hand of those who oppress him; you have gladdened all his enemies.

44 You have turned away the help of his sword, and you have not aided him in battle.

45 You have destroyed him from cleansing, and you have dashed his throne to the earth.

46 You have shortened the days of his time; you have drenched him with confusion.

47 How long, O Lord? Will you turn away unto the end? Shall your anger burn like fire?

48 Remember what my substance is. For have you established all the sons of men in vain?

49 Who is the man who shall live and not see death? Shall he deliver his soul from the hand of the lower regions?

50 Where are your mercies of old, O Lord, as you swore to David in your truth?

51 Remember, O Lord, the reproach of your servants, which I have held in my bosom—the reproach of many nations—

52 with which your enemies have reproached, O Lord, with which they have reproached the changing of your Christ.

53 Blessed be the Lord forever. Let it be; let it be.

PSALM 89

1 A prayer of Moses, the man of God. O Lord, you have become our refuge from generation to generation.

2 Before the mountains were made, or the earth and the world were formed, from age and unto age, you are God.

3 Do not turn man away into humiliation; for you have said, “Turn back, sons of men.”

4 For a thousand years before your eyes are like yesterday, which has passed, and like a watch in the night,

5 which are accounted as nothing; so shall their years be.

6 In the morning he shall pass away like grass; in the morning he shall flower and pass away; in the evening he shall fall, grow hard, and wither.

7 For we have failed in your anger, and in your fury we have been troubled.

8 You have set our iniquities before your sight, our age in the illumination of your countenance.

9 For all our days have failed, and in your anger we have failed. Our years shall meditate like a spider;

10 the days of our years in themselves are seventy years. But if among the mighty, eighty years, and what is beyond them is labor and sorrow; for gentleness has come upon us, and we shall be corrected.

11 Who knows the power of your anger and, before fear of you, how to number your wrath?

12 Make your right hand known in this way, and those instructed in heart, in wisdom.

13 Turn back, O Lord; how long? And be entreated concerning your servants.

14 In the morning we have been filled with your mercy; and we have rejoiced and delighted all our days.

15 We have rejoiced for the days in which you humbled us, for the years in which we saw evils.

16 Look upon your servants and upon your works, and direct their sons.

17 And let the splendor of the Lord our God be upon us, and direct the works of our hands over us; and direct the work of our hands.

PSALM 90

1 A praise of a canticle of David. He who dwells in the help of the Most High shall abide under the protection of the God of heaven.

2 He shall say to the Lord, “You are my upholder and my refuge; my God, I shall hope in him.”

3 For he has delivered me from the snare of hunters and from the harsh word.

4 With his shoulders he shall overshadow you, and under his wings you shall hope.

5 His truth shall surround you with a shield; you shall not fear the terror of night,

6 the arrow flying by day, the business walking about in darkness, the assault, or the noonday demon.

7 A thousand shall fall at your side and ten thousand at your right hand, but it shall not draw near to you.

8 Nevertheless, you shall consider with your eyes, and you shall see the retribution of sinners.

9 For you, O Lord, are my hope; you have made the Most High your refuge.

10 Evil shall not approach you, and the scourge shall not draw near to your tabernacle.

11 For he has commanded his angels concerning you, that they guard you in all your ways.

12 In their hands they shall bear you up, lest perhaps you strike your foot against a stone.

13 You shall walk upon the asp and the basilisk, and you shall trample the lion and the dragon.

14 “Because he has hoped in me, I shall deliver him; I shall protect him, because he has known my name.

15 He shall cry to me, and I shall hear him; I am with him in tribulation. I shall rescue him and glorify him.

16 I shall fill him with length of days, and I shall show him my salvation.”

PSALM 91

1 A Psalm of a canticle, on the sabbath day.

2 It is good to confess to the Lord and to sing psalms to your name, O Most High:

3 to proclaim your mercy in the morning and your truth throughout the night,

4 upon the ten-stringed instrument, the psaltery, with a canticle upon the harp.

5 For you have delighted me, O Lord, in your workmanship, and I shall rejoice in the works of your hands.

6 How magnificent are your works, O Lord! Your thoughts have been made exceedingly deep.

7 The senseless man shall not know, and the fool shall not understand these things.

8 When sinners have sprung up like grass and all who work iniquity have appeared, it is that they may perish unto the age of ages;

9 but you, O Lord, are the Most High forever.

10 For behold your enemies, O Lord—for behold, your enemies shall perish, and all who work iniquity shall be scattered.

11 And my horn shall be exalted like that of the unicorn, and my old age in abundant mercy.

12 And my eye has looked down upon my enemies, and my ear shall hear of the malignant who rise against me.

13 The just shall flower like the palm tree; like the cedar of Lebanon he shall be multiplied.

14 Planted in the house of the Lord, they shall flower in the courts of the house of our God.

15 They shall still be multiplied in abundant old age, and they shall be well-enduring,

16 that they may proclaim that the Lord our God is upright, and there is no iniquity in him.

PSALM 92

1 A praise of a canticle of David himself, on the day before the sabbath, when the earth was founded. The Lord has reigned; he is clothed with beauty. The Lord is clothed with strength and has girded himself. For he has made firm the world, which shall not be moved.

2 Your throne was prepared from then; you are from eternity.

3 The rivers have lifted up, O Lord; the rivers have lifted up their voice; the rivers have lifted up their waves,

4 above the voices of many waters. Wonderful are the surges of the sea; wonderful is the Lord on high.

5 Your testimonies have been made exceedingly credible; holiness befits your house, O Lord, unto length of days.

PSALM 93

1 A Psalm of David himself, on the fourth day of the sabbath. The Lord is the God of vengeance; the God of vengeance has acted freely.

2 Be exalted, you who judge the earth; repay the proud their retribution.

3 How long shall sinners, O Lord—how long shall sinners glory?

4 Shall they utter and speak iniquity? Shall all who work injustice speak?

5 They have humbled your people, O Lord, and afflicted your inheritance.

6 They have killed the widow and the stranger, and they have slain the fatherless.

7 And they have said, “The Lord shall not see, nor shall the God of Jacob understand.”

8 Understand, you senseless among the people; and you fools, at last become wise.

9 Shall he who planted the ear not hear? Or does he who fashioned the eye not see?

10 Shall he who corrects nations not rebuke—he who teaches man knowledge?

11 The Lord knows the thoughts of men, that they are vain.

12 Blessed is the man whom you shall instruct, O Lord, and whom you shall teach from your law,

13 that you may grant him gentleness from evil days, until a pit is dug for the sinner.

14 For the Lord shall not reject his people, and he shall not forsake his inheritance, 15 until justice is turned into judgment, and all who are upright of heart are beside it.

16 Who shall rise for me against the malignant? Or who shall stand with me against those who work iniquity?

17 Unless the Lord had helped me, my soul would very nearly have dwelt in the lower regions.

18 If I said, “My foot has been moved,” your mercy, O Lord, helped me.

19 According to the multitude of my sorrows within my heart, your consolations have gladdened my soul.

20 Does the throne of iniquity cling to you—you who fashion labor within a commandment?

21 They shall hunt for the soul of the just and shall condemn innocent blood.

22 And the Lord has become my refuge, and my God the help of my hope.

23 And he shall repay them their own iniquity, and in their malice he shall destroy them; the Lord our God shall destroy them.

PSALM 94

1 A praise of a canticle of David himself. Come, let us rejoice in the Lord; let us jubilate to God our savior.

2 Let us come before his face with confession, and with psalms let us jubilate to him,

3 for the Lord is a great God and a great King above all gods.

4 For in his hand are all the ends of the earth, and the heights of the mountains are his.

5 For the sea is his, and he made it, and his hands formed the dry land.

6 Come, let us adore and fall down and weep before the Lord who made us,

7 for he is the Lord our God, and we are the people of his pasture and the sheep of his hand.

8 Today, if you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts,

9 as in the provocation, according to the day of temptation in the desert, where your fathers tempted me; they proved me and saw my works.

10 For forty years I was offended with that generation, and I said, “These always err in heart.”

11 And they did not know my ways; so I swore in my anger: “They shall not enter into my rest.”

PSALM 95

1 A canticle of David himself, when the house was built after the captivity. Sing a new canticle to the Lord; sing to the Lord, all the earth.

2 Sing to the Lord and bless his name; proclaim his salvation from day to day.

3 Proclaim his glory among the nations, his wonders among all peoples.

4 For the Lord is great and exceedingly praiseworthy; he is terrible above all gods.

5 For all the gods of the nations are demons, but the Lord made the heavens.

6 Confession and beauty are before his sight; holiness and magnificence are in his sanctification.

7 Bring to the Lord, kindreds of the nations; bring to the Lord glory and honor.

8 Bring to the Lord glory for his name. Take up sacrifices and enter his courts;

9 adore the Lord in his holy court. Let the whole earth be moved before his face.

10 Say among the nations that the Lord has reigned. For he has set right the world, which shall not be moved; he shall judge the peoples in equity.

11 Let the heavens rejoice and the earth exult; let the sea and its fullness be moved.

12 The fields and all that are in them shall rejoice. Then all the trees of the forests shall exult

13 before the face of the Lord, because he comes, because he comes to judge the earth. He shall judge the world in equity and the peoples in his truth.

PSALM 96

1 For this David, when his land was restored. The Lord has reigned; let the earth exult; let the many islands rejoice.

2 Clouds and darkness are all around him; justice and judgment are the setting-right of his throne.

3 Fire shall go before him and shall set his enemies ablaze all around.

4 His lightning has shone upon the world; the earth saw and was moved.

5 The mountains flowed like wax before the face of the Lord, before the face of the Lord of all the earth.

6 The heavens have proclaimed his justice, and all peoples have seen his glory.

7 Let all who adore carved images and who glory in their idols be confounded. Adore him, all his angels.

8 Sion heard and rejoiced, and the daughters of Judah exulted because of your judgments, O Lord.

9 For you are the Lord Most High over all the earth; you are exceedingly exalted above all gods.

10 You who love the Lord, hate evil. The Lord guards the souls of his saints; from the hand of the sinner he shall deliver them.

11 Light has arisen for the just, and gladness for the upright of heart.

12 Rejoice, you just, in the Lord, and confess to the memory of his sanctification.

PSALM 97

1 A Psalm of David himself. Sing a new canticle to the Lord, because he has worked wonders. His right hand and his holy arm have wrought salvation for him.

2 The Lord has made his salvation known; in the sight of the nations he has revealed his justice.

3 He has remembered his mercy and his truth toward the house of Israel. All the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God.

4 Jubilate to God, all the earth; sing, and exult, and sing psalms.

5 Sing psalms to the Lord upon the harp, upon the harp and with the voice of a psalm,

6 with hammered trumpets and the voice of the horn trumpet. Jubilate before the King, the Lord.

7 Let the sea and its fullness be moved, the world and those who dwell in it.

8 The rivers shall clap their hands; together the mountains shall exult

9 before the face of the Lord, because he comes to judge the earth. He shall judge the world in justice and the peoples in equity.

PSALM 98

1 A Psalm of David himself. The Lord has reigned; let the peoples be angry. He sits above the cherubim; let the earth be moved.

2 The Lord is great in Sion and exalted above all peoples.

3 Let them confess to your great name, for it is terrible and holy,

4 and the king’s honor loves judgment. You have prepared right ways; you have wrought judgment and justice in Jacob.

5 Exalt the Lord our God, and adore his footstool, for it is holy.

6 Moses and Aaron are among his priests, and Samuel among those who call upon his name. They called upon the Lord, and he heard them;

7 in the pillar of cloud he spoke to them. They kept his testimonies and the commandment that he gave them.

8 O Lord our God, you heard them; O God, you were gracious to them, while taking vengeance upon all their inventions.

9 Exalt the Lord our God, and adore upon his holy mountain, for the Lord our God is holy.

PSALM 99

1 A Psalm in confession.

2 Jubilate to God, all the earth; serve the Lord in gladness. Enter before his sight in exultation.

3 Know that the Lord himself is God; he made us, and we did not make ourselves: we are his people and the sheep of his pasture.

4 Enter his gates in confession, his courts in hymns; confess to him. Praise his name,

5 for the Lord is sweet; his mercy is forever, and his truth unto generation and generation.

PSALM 100

1 A Psalm of David himself. I shall sing mercy and judgment to you, O Lord; I shall sing psalms,

2 and I shall understand in the immaculate way: when will you come to me? I walked in the innocence of my heart, in the midst of my house.

3 I did not set an unjust thing before my eyes; I hated those who worked transgressions; it did not cling to me.

4 A depraved heart—I did not know the malignant one turning away from me.

5 The one who secretly slandered his neighbor, him I pursued; with the proud of eye and the insatiable of heart, I did not eat.

6 My eyes were toward the faithful of the earth, that they might sit with me; he who walked in the immaculate way, he ministered to me.

7 He who works pride shall not dwell in the midst of my house; he who speaks iniquitous things was not directed before the sight of my eyes.

8 In the morning I slew all the sinners of the earth, that I might destroy from the city of the Lord all who work iniquity.

PSALM 101

1 A prayer of the poor man, when he is anxious and pours out his supplication before the Lord.

2 O Lord, hear my prayer, and let my cry come to you.

3 Do not turn your face away from me; on whatever day I am troubled, incline your ear to me; on whatever day I call upon you, hear me swiftly.

4 For my days have failed like smoke, and my bones have dried up like kindling.

5 I have been struck like grass, and my heart has withered, for I forgot to eat my bread.

6 At the voice of my groaning, my bone has clung to my flesh.

7 I have become like the pelican of the wilderness; I have become like the night raven in a dwelling.

8 I kept watch and became like a solitary sparrow upon a rooftop.

9 All the day my enemies reproached me, and those who praised me swore against me,

10 for I ate ashes like bread and mingled my drink with weeping,

11 before the face of your anger and indignation, for lifting me up, you dashed me down.

12 My days have declined like a shadow, and I have withered like grass.

13 But you, O Lord, remain forever, and your memorial unto generation and generation.

14 You, arising, shall have mercy on Sion, for it is time to have mercy on her, for the time has come.

15 For her stones have pleased your servants, and they shall have mercy upon her earth.

16 And the nations shall fear your name, O Lord, and all the kings of the earth your glory,

17 for the Lord has built Sion, and he shall be seen in his glory.

18 He has looked upon the prayer of the humble and has not despised their supplication.

19 Let these things be written for another generation, and the people who shall be created shall praise the Lord.

20 For he has looked down from his holy height; the Lord has looked from heaven upon the earth,

21 that he might hear the groaning of the fettered, that he might release the sons of those who were slain,

22 that they may proclaim the name of the Lord in Sion and his praise in Jerusalem,

23 when the peoples assemble as one, and kings, that they may serve the Lord.

24 He answered him in the way of his strength: “Declare to me the fewness of my days.

25 Do not call me back in the midst of my days; your years are unto generation and generation.

26 In the beginning, O Lord, you founded the earth, and the heavens are the works of your hands.

27 They shall perish, but you remain; and all of them shall grow old like a garment. And like a covering you shall change them, and they shall be changed;

28 but you are the very same, and your years shall not fail.

29 The sons of your servants shall dwell, and their seed shall be directed forever.”

PSALM 102

1 Of David himself. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name.

2 Bless the Lord, O my soul, and do not forget all his recompenses.

3 He is gracious toward all your iniquities; he heals all your infirmities.

4 He redeems your life from destruction; he crowns you with mercy and compassions.

5 He fills your desire with good things; your youth shall be renewed like the eagle’s.

6 The Lord works mercies and judgment for all who suffer injury.

7 He made his ways known to Moses, his wills to the sons of Israel.

8 The Lord is compassionate and merciful, long-suffering and greatly merciful.

9 He shall not be angry perpetually, nor shall he threaten forever.

10 He has not dealt with us according to our sins, nor repaid us according to our iniquities.

11 For according to the height of heaven above the earth, he has strengthened his mercy upon those who fear him.

12 As far as the east is distant from the west, he has put our iniquities far from us.

13 As a father has mercy on his sons, so the Lord has had mercy on those who fear him.

14 For he has known our formation; he has remembered that we are dust.

15 Man—his days are like grass; like a flower of the field, so shall he flower.

16 For the spirit shall pass through him, and he shall not remain, and his place shall know him no more.

17 But the mercy of the Lord is from eternity and unto eternity upon those who fear him, and his justice upon sons’ sons, 18 upon those who keep his testament and remember his commandments to do them.

19 The Lord has prepared his throne in heaven, and his kingdom shall rule over all.

20 Bless the Lord, all his angels, mighty in strength, who do his word, to hear the voice of his sayings.

21 Bless the Lord, all his hosts, his ministers who do his will.

22 Bless the Lord, all his works, in every place of his dominion. Bless the Lord, O my soul.

PSALM 103

1 Of David himself. Bless the Lord, O my soul. O Lord my God, you have been magnified exceedingly. You have clothed yourself with confession and beauty,

2 wrapped in light as in a garment. You stretch out heaven like a skin;

3 you cover its upper regions with waters. You make the cloud your ascent; you walk upon the wings of the winds.

4 You make your angels spirits and your ministers a burning fire.

5 You founded the earth upon its stability; it shall not be inclined unto the age of ages.

6 The deep, like a garment, is its covering; the waters shall stand above the mountains.

7 At your rebuke they shall flee; at the voice of your thunder they shall be afraid.

8 The mountains ascend and the plains descend, into the place that you founded for them.

9 You have set a boundary that they shall not cross, nor shall they return to cover the earth.

10 You send forth springs into the valleys; the waters shall pass through the midst of the mountains.

11 All the beasts of the field shall drink; the wild asses shall wait in their thirst.

12 Above them the birds of heaven shall dwell; from the midst of the rocks they shall give voice.

13 You water the mountains from your upper regions; from the fruit of your works the earth shall be satisfied,

14 bringing forth grass for cattle and herbage for the service of men, that you may bring forth bread from the earth,

15 and that wine may gladden the heart of man, that he may brighten the face with oil, and that bread may strengthen the heart of man.

16 The trees of the field shall be satisfied, and the cedars of Lebanon that he planted.

17 There the sparrows shall nest; the house of the heron is their leader.

18 The high mountains are for the deer; the rock is a refuge for the hedgehogs.

19 He made the moon for seasons; the sun has known its setting.

20 You appointed darkness, and night was made; in it all the beasts of the forest shall pass through:

21 the young lions roaring that they may seize, and seeking their food from God.

22 The sun has risen, and they are gathered together, and they shall lie down in their dens.

23 Man shall go forth to his work and to his labor until evening.

24 How magnificent are your works, O Lord! You have made all things in wisdom; the earth is filled with your possession.

25 This great and broad-handed sea—there are creeping things without number, small animals with the great.

26 There ships shall pass; this dragon that you formed to play with it.

27 All wait upon you, that you may give them food in due season.

28 When you give to them, they shall gather; when you open your hand, all shall be filled with goodness.

29 But when you turn away your face, they shall be troubled; you shall take away their spirit, and they shall fail and return to their dust.

30 You shall send forth your spirit, and they shall be created, and you shall renew the face of the earth.

31 Let the glory of the Lord be forever; the Lord shall rejoice in his works.

32 He looks upon the earth and makes it tremble; he touches the mountains, and they smoke.

33 I shall sing to the Lord in my life; I shall sing psalms to my God as long as I am.

34 Let my speech be delightful to him; but I shall delight in the Lord.

35 Let sinners fail from the earth, and the iniquitous, so that they are no more. Bless the Lord, O my soul.

PSALM 104

1 Alleluia. Confess to the Lord and call upon his name; proclaim his works among the nations.

2 Sing to him and sing psalms to him; recount all his wonders.

3 Be praised in his holy name; let the heart of those who seek the Lord rejoice.

4 Seek the Lord and be strengthened; seek his face always.

5 Remember his wonders that he has wrought, his prodigies and the judgments of his mouth:

6 seed of Abraham his servant, sons of Jacob his elect.

7 He is the Lord our God; his judgments are in all the earth.

8 He has remembered his testament forever, the word that he commanded unto a thousand generations,

9 which he established with Abraham, and his oath to Isaac.

10 And he appointed it to Jacob as a commandment, and to Israel as an eternal testament,

11 saying, “To you I shall give the land of Chanaan, the cord of your inheritance,” 12 when they were few in number, exceedingly few and sojourners in it.

13 And they passed from nation to nation and from one kingdom to another people.

14 He did not permit a man to harm them, and he rebuked kings for their sake:

15 “Do not touch my christs, and do not act malignantly against my prophets.”

16 And he called a famine upon the land and broke every firmament of bread.

17 He sent a man before them: Joseph was sold as a servant.

18 They humbled his feet in fetters; iron passed through his soul,

19 until his word came. The saying of the Lord inflamed him.

20 The king sent and released him; the prince of the peoples set him free.

21 He appointed him lord of his house and prince over all his possession, 22 that he might instruct his princes as himself and teach his elders prudence.

23 And Israel entered into Egypt, and Jacob was a sojourner in the land of Cham.

24 And he increased his people exceedingly and strengthened them above their enemies.

25 He turned their heart, that they might hate his people and deal deceitfully with his servants.

26 He sent Moses his servant, Aaron whom he himself chose.

27 He placed among them the words of his signs and of his prodigies in the land of Cham.

28 He sent darkness and made it dark, and he did not embitter his words.

29 He turned their waters into blood and killed their fish.

30 Their land brought forth frogs in the inner chambers of their kings.

31 He spoke, and the dogfly came, and gnats within all their borders.

32 He made their rains hail, a burning fire in their land.

33 And he struck their vineyards and their fig trees, and he shattered the trees of their borders.

34 He spoke, and the locust came, and the bruchus without number;

35 and it ate all the grass in their land and ate all the fruit of their land.

36 And he struck every firstborn in their land, the firstfruits of all their labor.

37 And he led them out with silver and gold, and there was no infirm one among their tribes.

38 Egypt rejoiced at their departure, for fear of them had fallen upon them.

39 He spread out a cloud for their protection and fire to shine for them through the night.

40 They asked, and the quail came, and he satisfied them with the bread of heaven.

41 He split the rock, and waters flowed; rivers went forth in the dry land.

42 For he remembered his holy word that he had with Abraham his servant.

43 And he led forth his people in exultation and his elect in gladness.

44 And he gave them the regions of the nations, and they possessed the labors of peoples, 45 that they might keep his justifications and seek his law.

PSALM 105

1 Alleluia. Confess to the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is forever.

2 Who shall speak the mighty deeds of the Lord? Who shall make all his praises heard?

3 Blessed are those who keep judgment and do justice at every time.

4 Remember us, O Lord, in the good pleasure of your people; visit us in your salvation,

5 that we may see the goodness of your elect, that we may rejoice in the gladness of your nation, that you may be praised with your inheritance.

6 We have sinned with our fathers; we have acted unjustly; we have wrought iniquity.

7 Our fathers in Egypt did not understand your wonders; they did not remember the multitude of your mercy. And as they went up into the sea, the Red Sea, they provoked you.

8 Yet he saved them for his name's sake, that he might make his power known.

9 And he rebuked the Red Sea, and it was dried up; and he led them through the depths as through a desert.

10 And he saved them from the hand of those who hated them and redeemed them from the hand of the enemy.

11 And the water covered those who troubled them; not one of them remained.

12 And they believed his words, and they sang his praise.

13 They acted quickly; they forgot his works and did not await his counsel.

14 And they lusted with lust in the desert and tempted God in the waterless place.

15 And he gave them their petition and sent fullness into their souls.

16 And they provoked Moses in the camp, and Aaron, the holy one of the Lord.

17 The earth opened and swallowed Dathan, and covered over the congregation of Abiron.

18 And fire blazed in their synagogue; flame burned the sinners.

19 And they made a calf in Horeb and adored a carved image.

20 And they exchanged their glory for the likeness of a calf that eats grass.

21 They forgot God, who saved them, who wrought great things in Egypt,

22 wonders in the land of Cham, terrible things in the Red Sea.

23 And he said that he would destroy them, had not Moses, his elect, stood in the breach before his sight to turn away his anger, lest he destroy them.

24 And they accounted the desirable land as nothing; they did not believe his word.

25 And they murmured in their tabernacles; they did not hear the voice of the Lord.

26 And he lifted up his hand over them, that he might cast them down in the desert,

27 and cast down their seed among the nations and scatter them through the regions.

28 And they were initiated into Beelphegor, and they ate the sacrifices of the dead.

29 And they provoked him by their inventions, and ruin was multiplied among them.

30 And Phinees stood and appeased him, and the shaking ceased.

31 And it was accounted to him as justice, from generation to generation forever.

32 And they provoked him at the waters of contradiction, and Moses was afflicted because of them, 33 for they embittered his spirit, and he made a distinction with his lips.

34 They did not destroy the nations that the Lord had told them to destroy,

35 but they mingled among the nations and learned their works,

36 and served their carved images, and it became a scandal to them.

37 And they immolated their sons and their daughters to demons.

38 And they poured out innocent blood, the blood of their sons and daughters, whom they sacrificed to the carved images of Chanaan. And the land was infected with bloods, 39 and was contaminated by their works; and they fornicated in their inventions.

40 And the Lord was angered with fury against his people, and he abominated his inheritance.

41 And he handed them into the hands of the nations, and those who hated them ruled over them.

42 And their enemies troubled them, and they were humbled beneath their hands.

43 Many times he delivered them. But they provoked him in their counsel and were humbled in their iniquities.

44 And he saw when they were troubled, and he heard their prayer.

45 And he remembered his testament, and he repented according to the multitude of his mercy.

46 And he gave them unto mercies in the sight of all who had taken them captive.

47 Save us, O Lord our God, and gather us from the nations, that we may confess your holy name and glory in your praise.

48 Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel, from age and unto age; and all the people shall say: Let it be; let it be.

PSALM 106

1 Alleluia. Confess to the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is forever.

2 Let those who have been redeemed by the Lord say so—those whom he redeemed from the hand of the enemy and gathered from the regions,

3 from the rising of the sun and its setting, from the north and the sea.

4 They wandered in the wilderness, in the waterless place; they did not find the way to a city of habitation.

5 Hungry and thirsty, their soul failed within them.

6 And they cried to the Lord when they were troubled, and he rescued them from their necessities.

7 And he led them into the right way, that they might go into a city of habitation.

8 Let his mercies confess to the Lord, and his wonders to the sons of men,

9 for he has satisfied the empty soul and has satisfied the hungry soul with good things.

10 Those sitting in darkness and the shadow of death, bound in poverty and iron,

11 because they had embittered the sayings of God and provoked the counsel of the Most High.

12 And their heart was humbled in labors; they grew weak, and there was no one to help.

13 And they cried to the Lord when they were troubled, and he delivered them from their necessities.

14 And he led them out of darkness and the shadow of death, and he broke their bonds apart.

15 Let his mercies confess to the Lord, and his wonders to the sons of men, 16 for he has shattered gates of bronze and broken bars of iron.

17 He received them from the way of their iniquity, for because of their injustices they were humbled.

18 Their soul abominated every food, and they drew near even to the gates of death.

19 And they cried to the Lord when they were troubled, and he delivered them from their necessities.

20 He sent his word and healed them, and he rescued them from their destructions.

21 Let his mercies confess to the Lord, and his wonders to the sons of men.

22 And let them sacrifice a sacrifice of praise and proclaim his works in exultation.

23 Those who descend to the sea in ships, carrying out their work upon many waters—

24 they have seen the works of the Lord and his wonders in the deep.

25 He spoke, and the spirit of the storm stood, and its waves were exalted.

26 They ascend even to the heavens and descend even to the depths; their soul wasted away amid evils.

27 They were troubled and staggered like a drunken man, and all their wisdom was swallowed up.

28 And they cried to the Lord when they were troubled, and he led them out of their necessities.

29 And he made its storm into a breeze, and its waves became silent.

30 And they rejoiced because they became silent, and he led them into the harbor of their desire.

31 Let his mercies confess to the Lord, and his wonders to the sons of men.

32 And let them exalt him in the church of the people and praise him in the chair of the elders.

33 He has made rivers into a desert and the outlets of waters into thirst, 34 a fruitful land into salt barrenness, because of the malice of those who dwell in it.

35 He has made the desert into pools of water and the waterless land into outlets of waters.

36 And there he settled the hungry, and they established a city of habitation.

37 And they sowed fields and planted vineyards, and they made fruit of birth.

38 And he blessed them, and they were multiplied exceedingly; and he did not diminish their cattle.

39 And they were made few and were afflicted by the tribulation of evils and sorrow.

40 Contempt was poured upon princes, and he made them wander in a trackless place and not in a way.

41 And he helped the poor man out of poverty and made families like sheep.

42 The upright shall see and rejoice, and all iniquity shall stop its mouth.

43 Who is wise and shall keep these things, and shall understand the mercies of the Lord?

PSALM 107

1 A Canticle of a Psalm, of David himself.

2 My heart is ready, O God, my heart is ready; I shall sing and sing psalms in my glory.

3 Arise, my glory; arise, psaltery and harp; I shall arise at dawn.

4 I shall confess to you among the peoples, O Lord, and I shall sing psalms to you among the nations,

5 for your mercy is great above the heavens, and your truth even to the clouds.

6 Be exalted above the heavens, O God, and your glory above all the earth,

7 that your beloved may be delivered. Save with your right hand and hear me.

8 God has spoken in his holy one: “I shall exult and divide Sichem; I shall measure out the valley of tabernacles.

9 Galaad is mine, and Manasses is mine, and Ephraim is the upholding of my head. Judah is my king;

10 Moab is the cauldron of my hope. Into Idumea I shall extend my shoe; the foreigners have become my friends.”

11 Who shall lead me into the fortified city? Who shall lead me even into Idumea?

12 Is it not you, O God, who rejected us? And will you not go forth, O God, with our hosts?

13 Give us help from tribulation, for the salvation of man is vain.

14 In God we shall work strength, and he shall bring our enemies to nothing.

PSALM 108

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David.

2 O God, do not be silent concerning my praise, for the mouth of the sinner and the mouth of the deceitful have been opened against me.

3 They have spoken against me with a deceitful tongue, and with words of hatred they have surrounded me; and they have fought against me without cause.

4 In return for loving me, they slandered me; but I prayed.

5 And they set evils against me in return for good things, and hatred in return for my love.

6 Appoint a sinner over him, and let the devil stand at his right hand.

7 When he is judged, let him go forth condemned, and let his prayer become sin.

8 Let his days be few, and let another receive his episcopate.

9 Let his sons become orphans and his wife a widow.

10 Let his sons be carried away wandering and beg; and let them be cast out of their dwellings.

11 Let the moneylender search out all his substance, and let strangers plunder his labors.

12 Let there be no helper for him, nor anyone to have mercy on his fatherless children.

13 Let his offspring be unto destruction; in one generation let his name be blotted out.

14 Let the iniquity of his fathers return to memory before the Lord, and let the sin of his mother not be blotted out.

15 Let them be before the Lord always, and let their memory perish from the earth,

16 because he did not remember to work mercy,

17 but persecuted the needy and poor man, and the one pierced in heart, to put him to death.

18 And he loved cursing, and it shall come upon him; and he did not desire blessing, and it shall be put far from him. And he clothed himself with cursing like a garment; and it entered his inward parts like water and his bones like oil.

19 Let it become for him like the garment with which he is covered, and like the girdle with which he is always girded.

20 This is the work before the Lord of those who slander me and who speak evils against my soul.

21 But you, O Lord, Lord, deal with me for your name’s sake, for your mercy is sweet.

22 Deliver me, for I am needy and poor, and my heart is troubled within me.

23 Like a shadow when it declines, I have been taken away, and I have been shaken off like locusts.

24 My knees have weakened from fasting, and my flesh has been changed for lack of oil.

25 And I have become a reproach to them; they saw me and shook their heads.

26 Help me, O Lord my God; save me according to your mercy.

27 And let them know that this is your hand and that you, O Lord, have done it.

28 They shall curse, but you shall bless. Let those who rise against me be confounded, but your servant shall rejoice.

29 Let those who slander me be clothed with shame, and let them be covered with their confusion as with a double cloak.

30 I shall confess exceedingly to the Lord with my mouth, and in the midst of many I shall praise him, 31 for he has stood at the right hand of the poor man, that he might save my soul from its persecutors.

PSALM 109

1 A Psalm of David. The Lord said to my Lord, “Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies the footstool of your feet.”

2 The Lord shall send forth the rod of your strength from Sion: rule in the midst of your enemies.

3 With you is the principality in the day of your strength, amid the splendors of the saints; from the womb, before the daystar, I begot you.

4 The Lord has sworn, and it shall not repent him: “You are a priest forever according to the order of Melchisedech.”

5 The Lord at your right hand has shattered kings in the day of his anger.

6 He shall judge among the nations; he shall fill ruins; he shall shatter heads in the land of many.

7 He shall drink from the torrent on the way; therefore he shall exalt the head.

PSALM 110

1 Alleluia. I shall confess to you, O Lord, with my whole heart, in the council of the just and in the congregation.

2 Great are the works of the Lord, exquisite according to all his wills.

3 Confession and magnificence are his work, and his justice remains unto the age of ages.

4 He has made a memorial of his wonders; merciful and compassionate is the Lord.

5 He has given food to those who fear him; he shall remember his testament forever.

6 He shall proclaim the strength of his works to his people,

7 that he may give them the inheritance of the nations. The works of his hands are truth and judgment.

8 Faithful are all his commandments, confirmed unto the age of ages, wrought in truth and equity.

9 He has sent redemption to his people; he has commanded his testament forever. Holy and terrible is his name.

10 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; good understanding belongs to all who do it. His praise remains unto the age of ages.

PSALM 111

1 Alleluia, of the return of Aggeus and Zacharias. Blessed is the man who fears the Lord; he shall delight exceedingly in his commandments.

2 His seed shall be mighty upon the earth; the generation of the upright shall be blessed.

3 Glory and riches are in his house, and his justice remains unto the age of ages.

4 Light has arisen in darkness for the upright: merciful, compassionate, and just.

5 Delightful is the man who has mercy and lends; he shall order his words in judgment,

6 for he shall not be moved forever.

7 The just shall be in eternal memory; he shall not fear an evil report. His heart is ready to hope in the Lord;

8 his heart has been strengthened. He shall not be moved until he looks down upon his enemies.

9 He has dispersed; he has given to the poor. His justice remains unto the age of ages; his horn shall be exalted in glory.

10 The sinner shall see and be angry; he shall gnash with his teeth and waste away. The desire of sinners shall perish.

PSALM 112

1 Alleluia. Praise the Lord, you servants; praise the name of the Lord.

2 Let the name of the Lord be blessed from this moment and forever.

3 From the rising of the sun even to its setting, the name of the Lord is praiseworthy.

4 The Lord is exalted above all nations, and his glory above the heavens.

5 Who is like the Lord our God, who dwells on high

6 and beholds the lowly things in heaven and on earth?

7 He raises the needy from the earth and lifts the poor from the dung,

8 that he may place him with princes, with the princes of his people.

9 He makes the barren woman dwell in a house, a mother rejoicing in her sons.

PSALM 113

1 Alleluia. At Israel’s departure from Egypt, the house of Jacob from a barbarous people,

2 Judea became his sanctification, Israel his dominion.

3 The sea saw and fled; the Jordan was turned backward.

4 The mountains exulted like rams, and the hills like lambs of sheep.

5 What is it with you, O sea, that you fled? And with you, O Jordan, that you were turned backward?

6 O mountains, that you exulted like rams? And hills, like lambs of sheep?

7 Before the face of the Lord the earth was moved, before the face of the God of Jacob,

8 who turned the rock into pools of water and the crag into fountains of waters.

9 Not to us, O Lord, not to us, but to your name give glory,

10 for your mercy and your truth, lest at any time the nations say, “Where is their God?”

11 But our God is in heaven; whatsoever he has willed, he has done.

12 The idols of the nations are silver and gold, the works of human hands.

13 They have a mouth and shall not speak; they have eyes and shall not see.

14 They have ears and shall not hear; they have nostrils and shall not smell.

15 They have hands and shall not feel; they have feet and shall not walk; they shall not cry out with their throat.

16 Let those who make them become like them, and all who trust in them.

17 The house of Israel has hoped in the Lord; he is their helper and their protector.

18 The house of Aaron has hoped in the Lord; he is their helper and their protector.

19 Those who fear the Lord have hoped in the Lord; he is their helper and their protector.

20 The Lord has remembered us and has blessed us. He has blessed the house of Israel; he has blessed the house of Aaron.

21 He has blessed all who fear the Lord, the little with the great.

22 May the Lord add blessings upon you, upon you and upon your sons.

23 Blessed are you by the Lord, who made heaven and earth.

24 The heaven of heaven belongs to the Lord, but the earth he has given to the sons of men.

25 The dead shall not praise you, O Lord, nor all who descend into the lower regions;

26 but we who live bless the Lord, from this moment and forever.

PSALM 114

1 Alleluia. I have loved, because the Lord shall hear the voice of my prayer.

2 Because he has inclined his ear to me, I shall call upon him in my days.

3 The sorrows of death surrounded me, and the dangers of the lower regions found me. I found tribulation and sorrow,

4 and I called upon the name of the Lord: O Lord, deliver my soul.

5 The Lord is merciful and just, and our God has compassion.

6 The Lord guards the little ones; I was humbled, and he delivered me.

7 Return, O my soul, into your rest, for the Lord has dealt well with you,

8 for he has rescued my soul from death, my eyes from tears, my feet from falling.

9 I shall please the Lord in the region of the living.

PSALM 115

1 Alleluia. I believed; therefore I spoke. But I was exceedingly humbled.

2 I said in my excess, “Every man is a liar.”

3 What shall I repay to the Lord for all that he has repaid to me?

4 I shall receive the chalice of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord.

5 I shall render my vows to the Lord before all his people.

6 Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints.

7 O Lord, for I am your servant; I am your servant and the son of your handmaid. You have broken my bonds apart.

8 To you I shall sacrifice a sacrifice of praise, and I shall call upon the name of the Lord.

9 I shall render my vows to the Lord in the sight of all his people,

10 in the courts of the house of the Lord, in the midst of you, O Jerusalem.

PSALM 116

1 Alleluia. Praise the Lord, all nations; praise him, all peoples.

2 For his mercy has been strengthened over us, and the truth of the Lord remains forever.

PSALM 117

1 Alleluia. Confess to the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is forever.

2 Let Israel now say: For he is good, for his mercy is forever.

3 Let the house of Aaron now say: For his mercy is forever.

4 Let those who fear the Lord now say: For his mercy is forever.

5 From tribulation I called upon the Lord, and the Lord heard me in a broad place.

6 The Lord is my helper; I shall not fear what man may do to me.

7 The Lord is my helper, and I shall look down upon my enemies.

8 It is good to trust in the Lord rather than to trust in man.

9 It is good to hope in the Lord rather than to hope in princes.

10 All nations surrounded me, and in the name of the Lord, for I have taken vengeance upon them.

11 Surrounding, they surrounded me, and in the name of the Lord, for I have taken vengeance upon them.

12 They surrounded me like bees and blazed like fire among thorns; and in the name of the Lord, for I have taken vengeance upon them.

13 Having been pushed, I was overturned so that I might fall, but the Lord upheld me.

14 The Lord is my strength and my praise, and he has become my salvation.

15 The voice of exultation and salvation is in the tabernacles of the just.

16 The right hand of the Lord has wrought strength; the right hand of the Lord has exalted me; the right hand of the Lord has wrought strength.

17 I shall not die, but I shall live and recount the works of the Lord.

18 Chastening, the Lord has chastened me, but he has not handed me over to death.

19 Open to me the gates of justice; entering into them, I shall confess to the Lord.

20 This is the gate of the Lord; the just shall enter through it.

21 I shall confess to you because you have heard me, and you have become my salvation.

22 The stone that the builders rejected, this has become the head of the corner.

23 This was done by the Lord, and it is wonderful in our eyes.

24 This is the day that the Lord has made; let us exult and rejoice in it.

25 O Lord, save me; O Lord, grant good prosperity.

26 Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord. We have blessed you from the house of the Lord.

27 God is the Lord, and he has shone upon us. Appoint the solemn day amid the dense branches, even to the horn of the altar.

28 You are my God, and I shall confess to you; you are my God, and I shall exalt you. I shall confess to you because you have heard me, and you have become my salvation.

29 Confess to the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is forever.

PSALM 118

1 Alleluia. Aleph. Blessed are the immaculate in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord.

2 Blessed are those who search his testimonies; with their whole heart they seek him.

3 For those who work iniquity have not walked in his ways.

4 You have commanded your commandments to be kept exceedingly.

5 O that my ways may be directed to keep your justifications.

6 Then I shall not be confounded, when I look intently upon all your commandments.

7 I shall confess to you in uprightness of heart, because I have learned the judgments of your justice.

8 I shall keep your justifications; do not forsake me utterly.

9 Beth. By what does a young man correct his way? By keeping your words.

10 With my whole heart I have sought you; do not cast me away from your commandments.

11 In my heart I have hidden your sayings, that I may not sin against you.

12 Blessed are you, O Lord; teach me your justifications.

13 With my lips I have proclaimed all the judgments of your mouth.

14 I have delighted in the way of your testimonies, as in all riches.

15 I shall be exercised in your commandments, and I shall consider your ways.

16 I shall meditate upon your justifications; I shall not forget your words.

17 Ghimel. Repay your servant; give me life, and I shall keep your words.

18 Unveil my eyes, and I shall consider wondrous things from your law.

19 I am a sojourner upon the earth; do not hide your commandments from me.

20 My soul has longed to desire your justifications at every time.

21 You have rebuked the proud; cursed are those who turn away from your commandments.

22 Take reproach and contempt away from me, for I have sought your testimonies.

23 For princes sat and spoke against me, but your servant was exercised in your justifications.

24 For your testimonies are also my meditation, and your justifications my counsel.

25 Daleth. My soul has clung to the pavement; give me life according to your word.

26 I proclaimed my ways, and you heard me; teach me your justifications.

27 Instruct me in the way of your justifications, and I shall be exercised in your wonders.

28 My soul has slumbered from weariness; strengthen me in your words.

29 Remove the way of iniquity from me, and have mercy on me from your law.

30 I have chosen the way of truth; I have not forgotten your judgments.

31 I have clung to your testimonies, O Lord; do not confound me.

32 I ran the way of your commandments when you enlarged my heart.

33 He. Set before me as law, O Lord, the way of your justifications, and I shall seek it always.

34 Give me understanding, and I shall search your law and keep it with my whole heart.

35 Lead me into the path of your commandments, for I have willed it.

36 Incline my heart toward your testimonies and not toward avarice.

37 Turn away my eyes, lest they see vanity; give me life in your way.

38 Establish your saying for your servant in your fear.

39 Cut away my reproach, which I have suspected, for your judgments are delightful.

40 Behold, I have longed for your commandments; give me life in your equity.

41 Vau. And let your mercy come upon me, O Lord—your salvation according to your saying.

42 And I shall answer a word to those who reproach me, for I have hoped in your words.

43 And do not take the word of truth utterly from my mouth, for I have hoped beyond hope in your judgments.

44 And I shall keep your law always, forever and unto the age of ages.

45 And I walked in breadth, for I have sought your commandments.

46 And I spoke of your testimonies in the sight of kings, and I was not confounded.

47 And I meditated upon your commandments, which I have loved.

48 And I lifted up my hands toward your commandments, which I have loved, and I was exercised in your justifications.

49 Zain. Remember your word to your servant, in which you have given me hope.

50 This has comforted me in my humiliation, for your saying has given me life.

51 The proud acted iniquitously beyond measure, but I did not turn away from your law.

52 I remembered your judgments from of old, O Lord, and I was comforted.

53 Faintness has seized me because of sinners who forsake your law.

54 Your justifications were songs to me in the place of my pilgrimage.

55 By night I remembered your name, O Lord, and I kept your law.

56 This became mine, because I sought your justifications.

57 Heth. My portion, O Lord—I have said that I shall keep your law.

58 I entreated your face with my whole heart; have mercy on me according to your saying.

59 I considered my ways and turned my feet toward your testimonies.

60 I am ready and have not been troubled, that I may keep your commandments.

61 The cords of sinners have encircled me, and I have not forgotten your law.

62 At midnight I arose to confess to you because of the judgments of your justice.

63 I am a partaker with all who fear you and keep your commandments.

64 The earth is full of your mercy, O Lord; teach me your justifications.

65 Teth. You have wrought goodness with your servant, O Lord, according to your word.

66 Teach me goodness and discipline and knowledge, for I have believed your commandments.

67 Before I was humbled, I transgressed; therefore I have kept your saying.

68 You are good; and in your goodness teach me your justifications.

69 The iniquity of the proud has been multiplied against me, but with my whole heart I shall search your commandments.

70 Their heart has curdled like milk; but I have meditated upon your law.

71 It is good for me that you have humbled me, that I may learn your justifications.

72 The law of your mouth is good for me, above thousands of gold and silver.

73 Jod. Your hands made me and formed me; give me understanding, and I shall learn your commandments.

74 Those who fear you shall see me and rejoice, for I have hoped beyond hope in your words.

75 I have known, O Lord, that your judgments are equity, and in your truth you have humbled me.

76 Let your mercy be for my consolation, according to your saying to your servant.

77 Let your compassions come to me, and I shall live, for your law is my meditation.

78 Let the proud be confounded, for they have unjustly wrought iniquity against me; but I shall be exercised in your commandments.

79 Let those who fear you turn to me, and those who know your testimonies.

80 Let my heart become immaculate in your justifications, that I may not be confounded.

81 Caph. My soul has failed for your salvation, and in your word I have hoped beyond hope.

82 My eyes have failed for your saying, saying, “When will you comfort me?”

83 For I have become like a wineskin in the frost; I have not forgotten your justifications.

84 How many are the days of your servant? When will you work judgment upon those who persecute me?

85 The iniquitous have told me fables, but not as your law.

86 All your commandments are truth. They have persecuted me iniquitously; help me.

87 They very nearly brought me to an end upon the earth, but I did not forsake your commandments.

88 Give me life according to your mercy, and I shall keep the testimonies of your mouth.

89 Lamed. Forever, O Lord, your word remains in heaven.

90 Unto generation and generation is your truth; you founded the earth, and it remains.

91 By your ordinance the day perseveres, for all things serve you.

92 Had your law not been my meditation, then perhaps I would have perished in my humiliation.

93 Forever I shall not forget your justifications, for in them you have given me life.

94 I am yours; save me, for I have sought your justifications.

95 Sinners waited for me, that they might destroy me; I understood your testimonies.

96 I have seen the end of every consummation; your commandment is exceedingly broad.

97 Mem. How I have loved your law, O Lord! All the day it is my meditation.

98 By your commandment you have made me prudent above my enemies, for it is mine forever.

99 I have understood above all who teach me, for your testimonies are my meditation.

100 I have understood above the elders, for I have sought your commandments.

101 I have restrained my feet from every evil way, that I may keep your words.

102 I have not turned away from your judgments, for you have set a law for me.

103 How sweet are your sayings to my palate—above honey to my mouth!

104 From your commandments I have understood; therefore I have hated every way of iniquity.

105 Nun. Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my paths.

106 I have sworn and determined to keep the judgments of your justice.

107 I have been humbled beyond measure, O Lord; give me life according to your word.

108 Make the voluntary offerings of my mouth well-pleasing, O Lord, and teach me your judgments.

109 My soul is always in my hands, and I have not forgotten your law.

110 Sinners have set a snare for me, and I have not strayed from your commandments.

111 I have acquired your testimonies as an inheritance forever, for they are the exultation of my heart.

112 I have inclined my heart to do your justifications forever, because of the recompense.

113 Samech. I have hated the iniquitous and loved your law.

114 You are my helper and my upholder, and in your word I have hoped beyond hope.

115 Turn away from me, you malignant, and I shall search the commandments of my God.

116 Uphold me according to your saying, and I shall live; and do not confound me in my expectation.

117 Help me, and I shall be saved, and I shall meditate upon your justifications always.

118 You have despised all who depart from your judgments, for their thought is unjust.

119 I have accounted all the sinners of the earth transgressors; therefore I have loved your testimonies.

120 Pierce my flesh with your fear, for I have feared your judgments.

121 Ain. I have wrought judgment and justice; do not hand me over to those who calumniate me.

122 Uphold your servant unto good; let the proud not calumniate me.

123 My eyes have failed for your salvation and for the saying of your justice.

124 Deal with your servant according to your mercy, and teach me your justifications.

125 I am your servant; give me understanding, that I may know your testimonies.

126 It is time to act, O Lord; they have dissipated your law.

127 Therefore I have loved your commandments above gold and topaz.

128 Therefore I was directed toward all your commandments; I have hated every iniquitous way.

129 Phe. Wonderful are your testimonies; therefore my soul has searched them.

130 The declaration of your words gives light and grants understanding to the little ones.

131 I opened my mouth and drew in the spirit, for I longed for your commandments.

132 Look upon me and have mercy on me, according to the judgment of those who love your name.

133 Direct my steps according to your saying, and let no injustice rule over me.

134 Redeem me from the calumnies of men, that I may keep your commandments.

135 Illuminate your face upon your servant, and teach me your justifications.

136 My eyes have led down outlets of waters, because they have not kept your law.

137 Sade. You are just, O Lord, and your judgment is upright.

138 You have commanded your testimonies as justice, and your truth exceedingly.

139 My zeal has made me waste away, because my enemies have forgotten your words.

140 Your saying is exceedingly ignited, and your servant has loved it.

141 I am very young and despised; I have not forgotten your justifications.

142 Your justice is justice forever, and your law is truth.

143 Tribulation and anguish have found me; your commandments are my meditation.

144 Your testimonies are equity forever; give me understanding, and I shall live.

145 Coph. I cried with my whole heart: hear me, O Lord; I shall seek your justifications.

146 I cried to you; save me, that I may keep your commandments.

147 I came before the dawn and cried, for in your words I have hoped beyond hope.

148 My eyes came before you at daybreak, that I might meditate upon your sayings.

149 Hear my voice according to your mercy, O Lord, and according to your judgment give me life.

150 Those who persecute me have drawn near to iniquity, but they have been made far from your law.

151 You are near, O Lord, and all your ways are truth.

152 From the beginning I have known concerning your testimonies that you founded them forever.

153 Res. See my humiliation and rescue me, for I have not forgotten your law.

154 Judge my judgment and redeem me; because of your saying, give me life.

155 Salvation is far from sinners, for they have not sought your justifications.

156 Many are your mercies, O Lord; according to your judgment give me life.

157 Many are those who persecute me and trouble me; I have not turned away from your testimonies.

158 I saw transgressors and wasted away, because they did not keep your sayings.

159 See that I have loved your commandments, O Lord; in your mercy give me life.

160 The beginning of your words is truth; all the judgments of your justice are forever.

161 Sin. Princes have persecuted me without cause, and my heart has feared your words.

162 I shall rejoice over your sayings, like one who finds many spoils.

163 I have hated and abominated iniquity, but I have loved your law.

164 Seven times in the day I have spoken praise to you because of the judgments of your justice.

165 Great peace belongs to those who love your law, and there is no scandal for them.

166 I awaited your salvation, O Lord, and I have loved your commandments.

167 My soul has kept your testimonies and loved them exceedingly.

168 I have preserved your commandments and your testimonies, for all my ways are before your sight.

169 Tau. Let my supplication draw near before your sight, O Lord; according to your saying, give me understanding.

170 Let my petition enter before your sight; according to your saying, rescue me.

171 My lips shall pour forth a hymn when you teach me your justifications.

172 My tongue shall proclaim your saying, for all your commandments are equity.

173 Let your hand be to save me, for I have chosen your commandments.

174 I have longed for your salvation, O Lord, and your law is my meditation.

175 My soul shall live and praise you, and your judgments shall help me.

176 I have strayed like a sheep that has perished; seek your servant, for I have not forgotten your commandments.

PSALM 119

1 A Canticle of Degrees. To the Lord I cried when I was troubled, and he heard me.

2 O Lord, deliver my soul from iniquitous lips and from a deceitful tongue.

3 What shall be given to you, or what shall be added to you, for a deceitful tongue?

4 The sharp arrows of the mighty, with desolating coals.

5 Woe to me, for my sojourning has been prolonged! I have dwelt with the inhabitants of Cedar;

6 my soul has been a sojourner for a long time.

7 With those who hated peace I was peaceful; when I spoke to them, they fought against me without cause.

PSALM 120

1 A Canticle of Degrees. I have lifted up my eyes to the mountains, from where help shall come to me.

2 My help is from the Lord, who made heaven and earth.

3 May he not give your foot over to movement, nor may he who guards you slumber.

4 Behold, he who guards Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep.

5 The Lord guards you; the Lord is your protection above your right hand.

6 By day the sun shall not burn you, nor the moon by night.

7 The Lord guards you from every evil; may the Lord guard your soul.

8 May the Lord guard your entrance and your departure, from this moment and forever.

PSALM 121

1 A Canticle of Degrees. I rejoiced in the things that were said to me: “We shall go into the house of the Lord.”

2 Our feet were standing in your courts, O Jerusalem.

3 Jerusalem, which is built as a city, whose participation is in the selfsame.

4 For there the tribes ascended, the tribes of the Lord, the testimony of Israel, to confess to the name of the Lord.

5 For there thrones have sat in judgment, thrones over the house of David.

6 Ask for the things that are for the peace of Jerusalem, and abundance for those who love you.

7 Let peace be in your strength and abundance in your towers.

8 For the sake of my brothers and my neighbors, I spoke peace concerning you.

9 For the sake of the house of the Lord our God, I sought good things for you.

PSALM 122

1 A Canticle of Degrees. To you I have lifted up my eyes, you who dwell in the heavens.

2 Behold, as the eyes of servants are upon the hands of their lords, as the eyes of the handmaid are upon the hands of her mistress, so are our eyes toward the Lord our God, until he has mercy on us.

3 Have mercy on us, O Lord, have mercy on us, for we are greatly filled with contempt,

4 for our soul is greatly filled: reproach for those who abound, and contempt for the proud.

PSALM 123

1 A Canticle of Degrees. Unless the Lord had been within us—let Israel now say—

2 unless the Lord had been within us, when men rose against us,

3 perhaps they would have swallowed us alive, when their fury was angered against us.

4 Perhaps the water would have engulfed us;

5 our soul passed through the torrent; perhaps our soul would have passed through intolerable water.

6 Blessed be the Lord, who did not give us as prey to their teeth.

7 Our soul, like a sparrow, has been rescued from the snare of hunters; the snare has been shattered, and we have been delivered.

8 Our help is in the name of the Lord, who made heaven and earth.

PSALM 124

1 A Canticle of Degrees. Those who trust in the Lord are like Mount Sion: he who dwells

2 in Jerusalem shall not be moved forever. Mountains surround it, and the Lord surrounds his people, from this moment and forever.

3 For the Lord shall not leave the rod of sinners over the lot of the just, lest the just extend their hands toward iniquity.

4 Deal well, O Lord, with the good and with the upright of heart.

5 But those who turn aside into obligations, the Lord shall lead away with those who work iniquity. Peace upon Israel!

PSALM 125

1 A Canticle of Degrees. When the Lord turned the captivity of Sion, we became like those who are comforted.

2 Then our mouth was filled with joy, and our tongue with exultation. Then they shall say among the nations, “The Lord has magnified his dealing with them.”

3 The Lord has magnified his dealing with us; we have become joyful.

4 Turn our captivity, O Lord, like a torrent in the south.

5 Those who sow in tears shall reap in exultation.

6 Going, they went and wept, casting their seeds. But coming, they shall come with exultation, bearing their sheaves.

PSALM 126

1 A Canticle of Degrees of Solomon. Unless the Lord builds the house, those who build it have labored in vain. Unless the Lord guards the city, he who guards it watches in vain.

2 It is vain for you to rise before the light; rise after you have sat down, you who eat the bread of sorrow. When he gives sleep to his beloved,

3 behold, sons are the inheritance of the Lord, the fruit of the womb a reward.

4 Like arrows in the hand of the mighty, so are the sons of those who have been shaken out.

5 Blessed is the man who has fulfilled his desire from them; he shall not be confounded when he speaks with his enemies at the gate.

PSALM 127

1 A Canticle of Degrees. Blessed are all who fear the Lord, who walk in his ways.

2 For you shall eat the labors of your hands; blessed are you, and it shall be well with you.

3 Your wife shall be like an abundant vine along the sides of your house; your sons like young olive trees around your table.

4 Behold, thus shall the man who fears the Lord be blessed.

5 May the Lord bless you from Sion, and may you see the good things of Jerusalem all the days of your life.

6 And may you see the sons of your sons: peace upon Israel.

PSALM 128

1 A Canticle of Degrees. Often they have fought against me from my youth—let Israel now say—

2 often they have fought against me from my youth, yet they could not prevail against me.

3 Upon my back sinners have wrought; they have prolonged their iniquity.

4 The just Lord has cut down the necks of sinners.

5 Let all who hate Sion be confounded and turned backward.

6 Let them become like the grass of rooftops, which withers before it is plucked,

7 from which the reaper has not filled his hand, nor he who gathers sheaves his bosom.

8 And those passing by have not said, “The blessing of the Lord be upon you. We have blessed you in the name of the Lord.”

PSALM 129

1 A Canticle of Degrees. From the depths I have cried to you, O Lord.

2 O Lord, hear my voice. Let your ears be attentive to the voice of my supplication.

3 If you observe iniquities, O Lord, Lord, who shall endure?

4 For with you there is propitiation; and because of your law I have sustained you, O Lord. My soul has sustained itself in his word;

5 my soul has hoped in the Lord.

6 From the morning watch even until night, let Israel hope in the Lord.

7 For with the Lord there is mercy, and with him abundant redemption.

8 And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

PSALM 130

1 A Canticle of Degrees of David. O Lord, my heart has not been exalted, nor have my eyes been lifted high, nor have I walked in great things or in wonders above me.

2 If I was not humbly minded but exalted my soul, then as a child is weaned upon his mother, so let recompense be upon my soul.

3 Let Israel hope in the Lord, from this moment and forever.

PSALM 131

1 A Canticle of Degrees. Remember David, O Lord, and all his gentleness,

2 how he swore to the Lord; he vowed a vow to the God of Jacob:

3 “If I enter into the tabernacle of my house, if I ascend upon the bed of my couch,

4 if I give sleep to my eyes or slumber to my eyelids,

5 or rest to my temples, until I find a place for the Lord, a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.”

6 Behold, we heard of it in Ephrata; we found it in the fields of the forest.

7 We shall enter his tabernacle; we shall adore in the place where his feet stood.

8 Arise, O Lord, into your rest, you and the ark of your sanctification.

9 Let your priests be clothed with justice, and let your saints exult.

10 For the sake of David your servant, do not turn away the face of your Christ.

11 The Lord swore truth to David, and he shall not frustrate it: “From the fruit of your womb I shall place one upon your throne.

12 If your sons keep my testament and these testimonies of mine that I shall teach them, their sons also shall sit upon your throne forever.”

13 For the Lord has chosen Sion; he has chosen her as a habitation for himself.

14 “This is my rest unto the age of ages; here I shall dwell, for I have chosen her.

15 Blessing, I shall bless her widow; I shall satisfy her poor with breads.

16 I shall clothe her priests with salvation, and her saints shall exult with exultation.

17 There I shall bring forth the horn of David; I have prepared a lamp for my Christ.

18 I shall clothe his enemies with confusion, but upon him my sanctification shall flower.”

PSALM 132

1 A Canticle of Degrees of David. Behold, how good and how delightful it is for brothers to dwell as one!

2 Like ointment upon the head, which descended upon the beard, the beard of Aaron, which descended upon the border of his garment;

3 like the dew of Hermon, which descends upon Mount Sion. For there the Lord commanded blessing and life forever.

PSALM 133

1 A Canticle of Degrees. Behold, now bless the Lord, all you servants of the Lord who stand in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of our God.

2 In the nights lift up your hands toward the holy places and bless the Lord.

3 May the Lord bless you from Sion, he who made heaven and earth.

PSALM 134

1 Alleluia. Praise the name of the Lord; praise the Lord, you servants,

2 who stand in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of our God.

3 Praise the Lord, for the Lord is good; sing psalms to his name, for it is sweet.

4 For the Lord has chosen Jacob for himself, Israel as his possession.

5 For I have known that the Lord is great, and our God above all gods.

6 Whatsoever the Lord has willed, he has done—in heaven, on earth, in the sea, and in all the depths.

7 He brings forth clouds from the end of the earth; he has made lightning into rain; he brings forth winds from his treasuries.

8 He struck the firstborn of Egypt, from man even to beast.

9 And he sent signs and prodigies into your midst, O Egypt, upon Pharaoh and upon all his servants.

10 He struck many nations and slew mighty kings:

11 Sehon, king of the Amorrhites, and Og, king of Basan, and all the kingdoms of Chanaan.

12 And he gave their land as an inheritance, an inheritance to Israel his people.

13 O Lord, your name is forever; O Lord, your memorial is unto generation and generation.

14 For the Lord shall judge his people, and he shall be entreated concerning his servants.

15 The idols of the nations are silver and gold, works of human hands.

16 They have a mouth and shall not speak; they have eyes and shall not see.

17 They have ears and shall not hear, for neither is there spirit in their mouth.

18 Let those who make them become like them, and all who trust in them.

19 House of Israel, bless the Lord; house of Aaron, bless the Lord.

20 House of Levi, bless the Lord; you who fear the Lord, bless the Lord.

21 Blessed be the Lord from Sion, who dwells in Jerusalem.

PSALM 135

1 Alleluia. Confess to the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is eternal.

2 Confess to the God of gods, for his mercy is eternal.

3 Confess to the Lord of lords, for his mercy is eternal.

4 To him who alone works great wonders, for his mercy is eternal.

5 To him who made the heavens in understanding, for his mercy is eternal.

6 To him who made the earth firm above the waters, for his mercy is eternal.

7 To him who made the great lights, for his mercy is eternal:

8 the sun for dominion of the day, for his mercy is eternal;

9 the moon and the stars for dominion of the night, for his mercy is eternal.

10 To him who struck Egypt with their firstborn, for his mercy is eternal.

11 To him who led Israel out of their midst, for his mercy is eternal, 12 with a mighty hand and an exalted arm, for his mercy is eternal.

13 To him who divided the Red Sea into divisions, for his mercy is eternal,

14 and led Israel through its midst, for his mercy is eternal,

15 and shook Pharaoh and his host into the Red Sea, for his mercy is eternal.

16 To him who led his people through the desert, for his mercy is eternal.

17 To him who struck great kings, for his mercy is eternal,

18 and slew mighty kings, for his mercy is eternal:

19 Sehon, king of the Amorrhites, for his mercy is eternal,

20 and Og, king of Basan, for his mercy is eternal,

21 and gave their land as an inheritance, for his mercy is eternal,

22 an inheritance to Israel his servant, for his mercy is eternal.

23 For in our humiliation he remembered us, for his mercy is eternal,

24 and redeemed us from our enemies, for his mercy is eternal.

25 He gives food to all flesh, for his mercy is eternal.

26 Confess to the God of heaven, for his mercy is eternal. Confess to the Lord of lords, for his mercy is eternal.

PSALM 136

1 A Psalm of David, of Jeremias. Upon the rivers of Babylon, there we sat and wept when we remembered Sion.

2 Upon the willows in its midst we hung our instruments,

3 for there those who led us captive asked us for the words of songs, and those who carried us away said, “Sing us a hymn from the canticles of Sion.”

4 How shall we sing the canticle of the Lord in a foreign land?

5 If I forget you, O Jerusalem, let my right hand be given over to forgetfulness.

6 Let my tongue cling to my palate if I do not remember you, if I do not set Jerusalem at the beginning of my gladness.

7 Remember, O Lord, the sons of Edom on the day of Jerusalem, who say, “Empty it, empty it, even to its foundation.”

8 Wretched daughter of Babylon! Blessed is he who shall repay you the recompense that you repaid us.

9 Blessed is he who shall seize your little ones and dash them against the rock.

PSALM 137

1 Of David himself. I shall confess to you, O Lord, with my whole heart, for you have heard the words of my mouth. In the sight of the angels I shall sing psalms to you.

2 I shall adore toward your holy temple and confess your name, because of your mercy and your truth, for you have magnified your holy name above all.

3 On whatever day I call upon you, hear me; you shall multiply strength in my soul.

4 Let all the kings of the earth confess to you, O Lord, for they have heard all the words of your mouth.

5 And let them sing in the ways of the Lord, for great is the glory of the Lord.

6 For the Lord is exalted and beholds the lowly, and he knows the lofty from afar.

7 If I walk in the midst of tribulation, you shall give me life; and you have stretched forth your hand against the anger of my enemies, and your right hand has saved me.

8 The Lord shall repay for me. O Lord, your mercy is forever; do not despise the works of your hands.

PSALM 138

1 Unto the end, a Psalm of David. O Lord, you have proved me and known me;

2 you have known my sitting down and my rising up.

3 You have understood my thoughts from afar; you have searched out my path and my cord,

4 and you have foreseen all my ways, for there is no word upon my tongue.

5 Behold, O Lord, you have known all things, the last and the ancient. You formed me and placed your hand upon me.

6 Your knowledge has become wonderful from me; it has been strengthened, and I shall not be able to attain it.

7 Where shall I go from your spirit? And where shall I flee from your face?

8 If I ascend into heaven, you are there; if I descend into the lower regions, you are present.

9 If I take up my wings at dawn and dwell at the farthest reaches of the sea,

10 even there your hand shall lead me, and your right hand shall hold me.

11 And I said, “Perhaps darkness shall trample me, and night shall be my illumination amid my delights.”

12 For darkness shall not be darkened by you, and night shall be illuminated like day; as its darkness is, so also is its light.

13 For you possessed my reins; you upheld me from my mother’s womb.

14 I shall confess to you, for you have been terribly magnified; wonderful are your works, and my soul knows exceedingly.

15 My bone was not hidden from you, which you made in secret, nor my substance in the lower parts of the earth.

16 Your eyes saw my imperfection, and all shall be written in your book. Days shall be formed, and no one is in them.

17 But your friends have been exceedingly honored by me, O God; their principality has been exceedingly strengthened.

18 I shall number them, and they shall be multiplied beyond the sand. I arose, and still I am with you.

19 If you shall slay sinners, O God, you men of bloods, turn away from me,

20 for you say in thought, “They shall receive your cities in vanity.”

21 Did I not hate those who hate you, O Lord, and waste away because of your enemies?

22 With perfect hatred I hated them, and they became enemies to me.

23 Prove me, O God, and know my heart; question me and know my paths.

24 And see whether the way of iniquity is in me, and lead me in the eternal way.

PSALM 139

1 Unto the end. A Psalm of David.

2 Rescue me, O Lord, from the evil man; rescue me from the iniquitous man.

3 They have devised iniquities in their heart; all the day they appointed battles.

4 They have sharpened their tongues like a serpent; the venom of asps is beneath their lips.

5 Guard me, O Lord, from the hand of the sinner, and rescue me from iniquitous men, who have devised how to supplant my steps.

6 The proud have hidden a snare for me. And they stretched cords into a snare; beside the way they placed a scandal for me.

7 I said to the Lord, “You are my God; hear, O Lord, the voice of my supplication.”

8 O Lord, Lord, the strength of my salvation, you overshadowed my head on the day of battle.

9 Do not hand me over, O Lord, from my desire to the sinner. They have devised against me; do not forsake me, lest perhaps they be exalted.

10 The head of those who surround me—the labor of their own lips shall cover them.

11 Coals shall fall upon them; you shall cast them into fire. Amid miseries they shall not stand.

12 A talkative man shall not be directed upon the earth; evils shall seize the unjust man unto destruction.

13 I have known that the Lord shall work judgment for the needy and vengeance for the poor.

14 Nevertheless, the just shall confess your name, and the upright shall dwell with your countenance.

PSALM 140

1 A Psalm of David. O Lord, I have cried to you; hear me. Attend to my voice when I cry to you.

2 Let my prayer be directed like incense before your sight; let the lifting up of my hands be an evening sacrifice.

3 Set a guard, O Lord, upon my mouth, and a door of enclosure around my lips.

4 Do not incline my heart toward words of malice, to make excuses as excuses in sins, with men who work iniquity; and I shall not partake with their elect.

5 The just man shall correct me in mercy and rebuke me, but let the oil of the sinner not enrich my head. For my prayer is still amid their good pleasures.

6 Their judges have been swallowed up, joined to the rock. They shall hear my words, for they have prevailed.

7 As the thickness of earth is broken forth upon the earth, our bones have been scattered beside the lower regions.

8 For my eyes are toward you, O Lord, Lord; in you I have hoped. Do not take away my soul.

9 Guard me from the snare that they have appointed for me and from the scandals of those who work iniquity.

10 Sinners shall fall into his net; I am alone until I pass over.

PSALM 141

1 The understanding of David, when he was in the cave. A prayer.

2 With my voice I cried to the Lord; with my voice I made supplication to the Lord.

3 I pour out my prayer before his sight, and I proclaim my tribulation before him.

4 When my spirit fails from me, you have known my paths. In this way in which I walked, they hid a snare for me.

5 I considered toward the right and saw, and there was no one who knew me. Flight has perished from me, and there is no one who seeks my soul.

6 I cried to you, O Lord; I said, “You are my hope, my portion in the land of the living.”

7 Attend to my supplication, for I have been exceedingly humbled. Deliver me from those who persecute me, for they have been strengthened over me.

8 Lead my soul out of custody, that I may confess your name; the just await me until you repay me.

PSALM 142

1 A Psalm of David, when Absalom his son persecuted him. O Lord, hear my prayer; give ear to my entreaty in your truth; hear me in your justice.

2 And do not enter into judgment with your servant, for no one living shall be justified before your sight.

3 For the enemy has persecuted my soul; he has humbled my life upon the earth; he has placed me in dark places, like the dead of the age.

4 And my spirit has been anxious over me; my heart has been troubled within me.

5 I remembered the ancient days; I meditated upon all your works; I meditated upon the deeds of your hands.

6 I stretched forth my hands to you; my soul is like a waterless land before you.

7 Hear me swiftly, O Lord; my spirit has failed. Do not turn your face away from me, or I shall be like those who descend into the pit.

8 Make me hear your mercy in the morning, for I have hoped in you. Make known to me the way in which I should walk, for to you I have lifted up my soul.

9 Rescue me from my enemies, O Lord; I have fled to you.

10 Teach me to do your will, for you are my God. Your good spirit shall lead me into the right land.

11 For your name’s sake, O Lord, you shall give me life; in your equity you shall lead my soul out of tribulation,

12 and in your mercy you shall destroy my enemies and ruin all who trouble my soul, for I am your servant.

PSALM 143

1 A Psalm of David. Against Goliath. Blessed be the Lord my God, who teaches my hands for battle and my fingers for war.

2 My mercy and my refuge, my upholder and my deliverer, my protector—and in him I have hoped—who subjects my people beneath me.

3 O Lord, what is man, that you have made yourself known to him? Or the son of man, that you account him?

4 Man has become like vanity; his days pass like a shadow.

5 O Lord, incline your heavens and descend; touch the mountains, and they shall smoke.

6 Flash forth lightning, and you shall scatter them; send forth your arrows, and you shall trouble them.

7 Send forth your hand from on high; rescue me and deliver me from many waters, from the hand of foreign sons,

8 whose mouth has spoken vanity and whose right hand is a right hand of iniquity.

9 O God, I shall sing a new canticle to you; upon the ten-stringed psaltery I shall sing psalms to you.

10 You give salvation to kings; you redeemed David your servant from the malignant sword.

11 Rescue me and deliver me from the hand of foreign sons, whose mouth has spoken vanity and whose right hand is a right hand of iniquity.

12 Their sons are like young plantings in their youth; their daughters are composed and adorned all around like the likeness of a temple.

13 Their storehouses are full, pouring forth from this into that; their sheep are fruitful, abundant in their goings forth.

14 Their oxen are fat. There is no ruin of a wall, no passage, and no cry in their streets.

15 They have called the people who possess these things blessed; blessed is the people whose God is the Lord.

PSALM 144

1 A praise of David himself. I shall exalt you, my God the King, and I shall bless your name forever and unto the age of ages.

2 On every single day I shall bless you, and I shall praise your name forever and unto the age of ages.

3 Great is the Lord and exceedingly praiseworthy, and there is no end to his greatness.

4 Generation and generation shall praise your works, and they shall proclaim your power.

5 They shall speak the magnificence of the glory of your holiness, and they shall recount your wonders.

6 And they shall tell the strength of your terrible deeds, and they shall recount your greatness.

7 They shall pour forth the memorial of the abundance of your sweetness, and they shall exult in your justice.

8 The Lord is compassionate and merciful, patient and greatly merciful.

9 The Lord is sweet to all, and his compassions are over all his works.

10 Let all your works confess to you, O Lord, and let your saints bless you.

11 They shall tell the glory of your kingdom and speak your power,

12 that they may make your power known to the sons of men, and the glory of the magnificence of your kingdom.

13 Your kingdom is a kingdom of all ages, and your dominion is through every generation and generation. The Lord is faithful in all his words and holy in all his works.

14 The Lord lifts up all who fall and raises all who have been dashed down.

15 The eyes of all hope in you, O Lord, and you give them food in due season.

16 You open your hand and fill every living thing with blessing.

17 The Lord is just in all his ways and holy in all his works.

18 The Lord is near to all who call upon him, to all who call upon him in truth.

19 He shall do the will of those who fear him, and he shall hear their supplication and save them.

20 The Lord guards all who love him, and he shall destroy all sinners.

21 My mouth shall speak the praise of the Lord; and let all flesh bless his holy name forever and unto the age of ages.

PSALM 145

1 Alleluia, of Aggeus and Zacharias.

2 Praise the Lord, O my soul. I shall praise the Lord in my life; I shall sing psalms to my God as long as I shall be. Do not trust in princes,

3 in the sons of men, in whom there is no salvation.

4 His spirit shall go forth, and he shall return to his earth; on that day all their thoughts shall perish.

5 Blessed is he whose helper is the God of Jacob, whose hope is in the Lord his God,

6 who made heaven and earth, the sea and all things that are in them.

7 He keeps truth forever; he works judgment for those who suffer injury; he gives food to the hungry. The Lord releases the fettered.

8 The Lord illuminates the blind. The Lord raises those who have been dashed down; the Lord loves the just.

9 The Lord guards strangers; he shall uphold the fatherless and the widow, and he shall destroy the ways of sinners.

10 The Lord shall reign unto the ages; your God, O Sion, unto generation and generation.

PSALM 146

1 Alleluia. Praise the Lord, for a psalm is good; let praise be delightful and beautiful to our God.

2 The Lord builds Jerusalem; he shall gather the dispersions of Israel.

3 He heals those crushed in heart and binds up their fractures.

4 He numbers the multitude of stars and calls them all by names.

5 Great is our Lord, and great is his strength, and there is no number to his wisdom.

6 The Lord upholds the gentle, but he humbles sinners even to the earth.

7 Sing beforehand to the Lord in confession; sing psalms to our God upon the harp.

8 He covers heaven with clouds and prepares rain for the earth; he brings forth grass upon the mountains and herbage for the service of men.

9 He gives their food to cattle and to the young ravens that call upon him.

10 He shall not take pleasure in the strength of a horse, nor shall he be well pleased in the legs of a man.

11 The Lord is well pleased in those who fear him and in those who hope upon his mercy.

PSALM 147

1 Alleluia. Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem; praise your God, O Sion.

2 For he has strengthened the bars of your gates; he has blessed your sons within you.

3 He has made your borders peace, and he satisfies you with the fat of wheat.

4 He sends forth his saying to the earth; his word runs swiftly.

5 He gives snow like wool; he scatters mist like ashes.

6 He sends his crystal like morsels; before the face of his cold, who shall endure?

7 He shall send forth his word and melt them; his spirit shall breathe, and the waters shall flow.

8 He proclaims his word to Jacob, his justices and his judgments to Israel.

9 He has not dealt in this way with every nation, and he has not manifested his judgments to them. Alleluia.

PSALM 148

1 Alleluia. Praise the Lord from the heavens; praise him in the heights.

2 Praise him, all his angels; praise him, all his hosts.

3 Praise him, sun and moon; praise him, all stars and light.

4 Praise him, heavens of heavens, and all waters that are above the heavens.

5 Let them praise the name of the Lord. For he spoke, and they were made; he commanded, and they were created.

6 He established them forever and unto the age of ages; he appointed a commandment, and it shall not pass away.

7 Praise the Lord from the earth, dragons and all depths;

8 fire, hail, snow, ice, spirits of storms that do his word;

9 mountains and all hills, fruitful trees and all cedars;

10 beasts and all cattle, serpents and winged birds;

11 kings of the earth and all peoples, princes and all judges of the earth;

12 young men and virgins, elders with the younger—let them praise the name of the Lord,

13 for his name alone is exalted.

14 His confession is above heaven and earth, and he has exalted the horn of his people. A hymn for all his saints, for the sons of Israel, a people drawing near to him. Alleluia.

PSALM 149

1 Alleluia. Sing a new canticle to the Lord; his praise is in the church of the saints.

2 Let Israel rejoice in him who made him, and let the sons of Sion exult in their King.

3 Let them praise his name in the choir; with timbrel and psaltery let them sing psalms to him.

4 For the Lord is well pleased in his people, and he shall exalt the gentle unto salvation.

5 The saints shall exult in glory; they shall rejoice in their beds.

6 The exaltations of God are in their throats, and two-edged swords in their hands,

7 to work vengeance among the nations, rebukes among the peoples,

8 to bind their kings in fetters and their nobles in iron manacles,

9 that they may execute upon them the judgment that is written. This glory belongs to all his saints. Alleluia.

PSALM 150

1 Alleluia. Praise the Lord in his saints; praise him in the firmament of his strength.

2 Praise him in his mighty deeds; praise him according to the multitude of his greatness.

3 Praise him with the sound of the trumpet; praise him with psaltery and harp.

4 Praise him with timbrel and choir; praise him with strings and organ.

5 Praise him with well-sounding cymbals; praise him with cymbals of jubilation.

6 Let every spirit praise the Lord! Alleluia.

BOOK TWENTY: PROVERBS

CHAPTER 1

1 The Proverbs of Solomon, son of David, king of Israel,

2 for knowing wisdom and discipline,

3 for understanding words of prudence and receiving the instruction of doctrine, justice, judgment, and equity,

4 that shrewdness may be given to little ones, and knowledge and understanding to a young man.

5 A wise man, hearing, shall become wiser, and one who understands shall possess steerage.

6 He shall attend to a proverb and its interpretation, to the words of the wise and their enigmas.

7 The fear of the Lord (YHWH) is the beginning of wisdom; fools despise wisdom and doctrine.

8 Hear, my son, the discipline of your father, and do not forsake the law of your mother, 9 that grace may be added to your head and a chain to your neck.

10 My son, if sinners entice you, do not consent to them.

11 If they say, “Come with us; let us lie in wait for blood; let us hide snares against the innocent without cause.

12 Let us swallow him alive like the lower regions, and whole, like one descending into the pit.

13 We shall find every precious substance; we shall fill our houses with spoils.

14 Cast your lot with us; let there be one purse for us all.”

15 My son, do not walk with them; restrain your foot from their paths,

16 for their feet run toward evil, and they hasten to pour out blood.

17 But a net is cast in vain before the eyes of winged creatures.

18 They also lie in wait against their own blood and devise deceits against their own souls.

19 So are the paths of everyone who is avaricious: they seize the souls of those who possess.

20 Wisdom preaches outside; in the streets she gives her voice.

21 At the head of the crowds she cries out; at the doors of the city gates she brings forth her words, saying:

22 “How long, little ones, will you love infancy? And fools shall desire the things that are harmful to themselves, and the imprudent shall hate knowledge?

23 Turn back at my correction. Behold, I shall bring forth my spirit to you, and I shall show you my words.

24 Because I called and you refused, I stretched forth my hand and there was no one who looked;

25 you despised all my counsel and neglected my rebukes.

26 I also shall laugh at your destruction and mock when that which you feared comes upon you,

27 when sudden calamity rushes in and destruction surges like a tempest, when tribulation and anguish come upon you.

28 Then they shall call upon me, and I shall not hear; in the morning they shall arise and shall not find me,

29 because they held discipline in hatred and did not receive the fear of the Lord, 30 nor consent to my counsel, but disparaged all my correction.

31 Therefore they shall eat the fruit of their way and shall be filled with their own counsels.

32 The turning away of little ones shall kill them, and the prosperity of fools shall destroy them.

33 But he who hears me shall rest without terror and shall enjoy abundance, the fear of evils having been removed.”

CHAPTER 2

1 My son, if you receive my words and hide my commandments with you,

2 that your ear may hear wisdom, incline your heart to know prudence.

3 For if you call upon wisdom and incline your heart toward prudence,

4 if you seek her like money and dig her out like treasures,

5 then you shall understand the fear of the Lord and shall find the knowledge of God,

6 because the Lord gives wisdom, and from his mouth come prudence and knowledge.

7 He shall guard the salvation of the upright and protect those who walk in simplicity,

8 preserving the paths of justice and guarding the ways of the saints.

9 Then you shall understand justice and judgment and equity and every good path.

10 If wisdom enters your heart and knowledge pleases your soul,

11 counsel shall guard you and prudence shall preserve you,

12 that you may be rescued from the evil way and from the man who speaks perverse things,

13 from those who forsake the upright road and walk through dark ways,

14 who rejoice when they have done evil and exult in the worst things,

15 whose ways are perverse and whose steps are infamous;

16 that you may be rescued from the foreign woman and from the stranger who softens her words,

17 who forsakes the leader of her youth

18 and has forgotten the pact of her God. For her house is inclined toward death, and her paths toward the lower regions.

19 All who enter to her shall not return, nor shall they take hold of the paths of life, 20 that you may walk in the good way and guard the tracks of the just.

21 For those who are upright shall dwell in the land, and the simple shall remain in it,

22 but the impious shall be destroyed from the land, and those who act iniquitously shall be taken away from it.

CHAPTER 3

1 My son, do not forget my law, and let your heart guard my precepts,

2 for they shall add to you length of days, years of life, and peace.

3 Let mercy and truth not forsake you; bind them around your throat and inscribe them upon the tablets of your heart,

4 and you shall find grace and good discipline before God and men.

5 Have confidence in the Lord with your whole heart, and do not lean upon your own prudence.

6 In all your ways, consider him, and he shall direct your steps.

7 Do not be wise with yourself; fear God and withdraw from evil,

8 for it shall be health to your navel and watering to your bones.

9 Honor the Lord from your substance, and give to him from the firstfruits of all your crops,

10 and your storehouses shall be filled with abundance, and your winepresses shall overflow with wine.

11 My son, do not cast away the discipline of the Lord, nor fail when you are corrected by him,

12 for the Lord corrects him whom he loves, and like a father in a son, he is well pleased in him.

13 Blessed is the man who finds wisdom and who abounds in prudence.

14 Her acquisition is better than the commerce of silver, and her fruit better than the first and purest gold.

15 She is more precious than all riches, and all things that are desired cannot be compared with her.

16 Length of days is in her right hand, and in her left hand are riches and glory.

17 Her ways are beautiful ways, and all her paths are peaceful.

18 She is a tree of life to those who take hold of her, and blessed is he who holds her.

19 The Lord founded the earth by wisdom; he established the heavens by prudence.

20 By his wisdom the depths broke forth, and the clouds grow together with dew.

21 My son, let these things not flow away from your eyes. Guard law and counsel, 22 and there shall be life for your soul and grace for your throat.

23 Then you shall walk confidently in your way, and your foot shall not stumble.

24 If you sleep, you shall not fear; you shall rest, and your sleep shall be sweet.

25 Do not be afraid of sudden terror or of the powers of the impious rushing upon you,

26 for the Lord shall be at your side and shall guard your foot, lest you be captured.

27 Do not prevent him who can from doing good; if you are able, you also do good.

28 Do not say to your friend, “Go and return; tomorrow I shall give to you,” when you are able to give at once.

29 Do not devise evil against your friend when he has confidence in you.

30 Do not contend against a man without cause when he has done nothing evil to you.

31 Do not envy an unjust man, nor imitate his ways,

32 for every mocker is an abomination to the Lord, and his conversation is with the simple.

33 Poverty from the Lord is in the house of the impious, but the habitations of the just shall be blessed.

34 He shall mock the mockers, and to the gentle he shall give grace.

35 The wise shall possess glory; the exaltation of fools is ignominy.

CHAPTER 4

1 Hear, sons, the discipline of a father, and attend, that you may know prudence.

2 I shall bestow a good gift upon you; do not forsake my law.

3 For I also was a son of my father, tender and an only-begotten before my mother.

4 And he taught me and said, “Let your heart receive my words; guard my precepts, and you shall live.

5 Possess wisdom; possess prudence. Do not forget, nor turn away from the words of my mouth.

6 Do not forsake her, and she shall guard you; love her, and she shall preserve you.

7 The beginning of wisdom is this: possess wisdom, and with all your possession acquire prudence.

8 Seize her, and she shall exalt you; you shall be glorified by her when you have embraced her.

9 She shall give increases of graces to your head, and a glorious crown shall protect you.”

10 Hear, my son, and receive my words, that years of life may be multiplied for you.

11 I shall show you the way of wisdom; I shall lead you through the paths of equity.

12 When you have entered them, your steps shall not be constricted, and as you run, you shall have no stumbling block.

13 Hold discipline; do not forsake her. Guard her, for she is your life.

14 Do not delight in the paths of the impious, nor let the way of evil men please you.

15 Flee from it; do not pass through it. Turn away and forsake it.

16 For they do not sleep unless they have done evil, and sleep is seized from them unless they have supplanted someone.

17 They eat the bread of impiety and drink the wine of iniquity.

18 But the path of the just advances like shining light and grows even to the perfect day.

19 The way of the impious is dark; they do not know where they may fall.

20 My son, listen to my words and incline your ear to my sayings.

21 Let them not withdraw from your eyes; guard them in the midst of your heart,

22 for they are life to those who find them and health to all flesh.

23 With every guard, preserve your heart, for from it life proceeds.

24 Remove a depraved mouth from you, and let slandering lips be far from you.

25 Let your eyes see upright things, and let your eyelids go before your steps.

26 Direct the path for your feet, and all your ways shall be established.

27 Do not turn aside to the right or to the left; turn your foot away from evil. For the Lord knows the ways that are on the right, but those on the left are perverse. Yet he shall make your courses upright and shall lead your journeys forth in peace.

CHAPTER 5

1 My son, attend to my wisdom, and incline your ear to my prudence,

2 that you may guard thoughts and that your lips may preserve discipline. Do not attend to the deceit of a woman,

3 for the lips of a harlot are a dripping honeycomb, and her throat is smoother than oil,

4 but her last things are bitter like wormwood and sharp like a two-edged sword.

5 Her feet descend into death, and her steps penetrate to the lower regions.

6 They do not walk along the path of life; her steps are wandering and unsearchable.

7 Now therefore, my son, hear me, and do not withdraw from the words of my mouth.

8 Make your way far from her, and do not draw near to the doors of her house,

9 lest you give your honor to strangers and your years to the cruel one,

10 lest foreigners perhaps be filled with your strength and your labors be in a stranger’s house,

11 and you groan in your last days, when you have consumed your flesh and your body, and say:

12 “Why did I detest discipline, and why did my heart not consent to rebukes?

13 I did not hear the voice of those who taught me, nor incline my ear to my masters.

14 I was almost in every evil, in the midst of the church and the synagogue.”

15 Drink water from your own cistern and streams from your own well.

16 Let your fountains be channeled outside, and divide your waters in the streets.

17 Have them for yourself alone, and let strangers not be your partakers.

18 Let your vein be blessed, and rejoice with the woman of your youth,

19 a most beloved hind and a most pleasing fawn. Let her breasts intoxicate you at every time; delight continually in her love.

20 Why are you seduced, my son, by a foreign woman and cherished in the bosom of another?

21 The Lord beholds the ways of man and considers all his steps.

22 His own iniquities capture the impious man, and he is bound by the cords of his sins.

23 He shall die because he had no discipline, and in the multitude of his foolishness he shall be deceived.

CHAPTER 6

1 My son, if you have pledged for your friend, you have fixed your hand with a stranger.

2 You are ensnared by the words of your mouth and captured by your own sayings.

3 Therefore do what I say, my son, and free yourself, for you have fallen into the hand of your neighbor. Run about; hasten; awaken your friend.

4 Do not give sleep to your eyes, nor let your eyelids slumber.

5 Rescue yourself like a doe from the hand, and like a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 Go to the ant, O sluggard, and consider her ways, and learn wisdom.

7 Though she has no leader, instructor, or prince,

8 she prepares food for herself in summer and gathers at harvest what she may eat.

9 How long, O sluggard, will you sleep? When will you arise from your sleep?

10 You shall sleep a little, slumber a little, fold your hands a little that you may sleep,

11 and poverty shall come upon you like a traveler, and need like an armed man. But if you are diligent, your harvest shall come like a fountain, and poverty shall flee far from you.

12 An apostate man, a useless man, walks with a perverse mouth.

13 He signals with his eyes, rubs with his foot, and speaks with his finger.

14 With a depraved heart he devises evil and at every time sows quarrels.

15 His destruction shall come upon him immediately, and suddenly he shall be shattered, and he shall have no further remedy.

16 Six things there are that the Lord hates, and the seventh his soul detests:

17 lofty eyes, a lying tongue, hands pouring out innocent blood,

18 a heart devising the worst thoughts, feet swift to run into evil,

19 a deceitful witness bringing forth lies, and him who sows discord among brothers.

20 Preserve, my son, the precepts of your father, and do not forsake the law of your mother.

21 Bind them continually in your heart, and wrap them around your throat.

22 When you walk, let them go with you; when you sleep, let them guard you; and when you awaken, speak with them.

23 For the commandment is a lamp, and the law is light, and the rebuke of discipline is the way of life,

24 that they may guard you from an evil woman and from the flattering tongue of a stranger.

25 Let your heart not desire her beauty, nor let yourself be captured by her glances,

26 for the price of a harlot is scarcely one loaf, but the woman captures the precious soul of a man.

27 Can a man hide fire in his bosom so that his garments do not burn?

28 Or can he walk upon coals so that the soles of his feet are not burned?

29 So he who enters to the wife of his neighbor shall not be clean when he touches her.

30 The guilt is not great when someone has stolen, for he steals to fill his hungry soul;

31 yet when caught, he shall repay sevenfold and shall hand over all the substance of his house.

32 But he who is an adulterer shall destroy his own soul through poverty of heart.

33 He gathers disgrace and ignominy for himself, and his reproach shall not be blotted out,

34 for the jealousy and fury of the husband shall not spare on the day of vengeance,

35 nor shall he consent to anyone’s pleas, nor receive many gifts for redemption.

CHAPTER 7

1 My son, guard my words and store my precepts within you. Son,

2 preserve my commandments, and you shall live, and guard my law like the pupil of your eye.

3 Bind it upon your fingers; write it upon the tablets of your heart.

4 Say to wisdom, “You are my sister,” and call prudence your friend,

5 that they may guard you from the foreign woman and from the stranger who makes her words sweet.

6 For from the window of my house I looked out through the lattice,

7 and I see little ones; I consider a senseless young man

8 who passes through the street beside a corner and walks near the way of her house,

9 in obscurity, as the day grows toward evening, in the darkness and gloom of night.

10 And behold, a woman meets him, adorned as a harlot, prepared to capture souls, talkative and wandering,

11 impatient of quiet and unable to remain in the house with her feet,

12 now outside, now in the streets, now lying in wait beside the corners.

13 And seizing the young man, she kisses him and flatters him with a brazen countenance, saying:

14 “I vowed sacrifices for salvation; today I have rendered my vows.

15 Therefore I came out to meet you, desiring to see you, and I found you.

16 I have woven my bed with cords; I have spread it with painted tapestries from Egypt.

17 I have sprinkled my bedchamber with myrrh and aloes and cinnamon.

18 Come, let us be intoxicated with breasts and enjoy desired embraces until the day grows light.

19 For the man is not in his house; he has gone away on a very long journey.

20 He took a bag of money with him; on the day of the full moon he shall return to his house.”

21 She ensnared him with many words and drew him on with the flatteries of her lips.

22 At once he follows her like an ox led to sacrifice, and like a frolicking lamb, not knowing, as a fool, that he is being drawn to bonds,

23 until an arrow pierces his liver, like a bird hastening into a snare and not knowing that the peril concerns his soul.

24 Now therefore, my son, hear me and attend to the words of my mouth.

25 Let your mind not be drawn away into her ways, nor let yourself be deceived by her paths,

26 for she has cast down many wounded, and all the strongest have been slain by her.

27 Her house is the ways of the lower regions, penetrating into the inner chambers of death.

CHAPTER 8

1 Does not Wisdom cry out, and prudence give her voice?

2 Upon the highest and most exalted summits above the way, standing in the midst of the paths,

3 beside the gates of the city, at the very doors, she speaks, saying:

4 “O men, to you I cry out, and my voice is to the sons of men.

5 Understand shrewdness, little ones; and you senseless, attend.

6 Hear, for I am about to speak of great things, and my lips shall be opened to proclaim upright things.

7 My throat shall meditate truth, and my lips shall detest the impious.

8 All my words are just; there is nothing depraved or perverse in them.

9 They are upright to those who understand and equitable to those who find knowledge.

10 Receive my discipline and not money; choose doctrine more than gold,

11 for wisdom is better than all most precious things, and everything desirable cannot be compared with her.

12 I, Wisdom, dwell in counsel and am present amid learned thoughts.

13 The fear of the Lord hates evil. I detest arrogance and pride, the depraved way, and the double-tongued mouth.

14 Counsel and equity are mine; prudence is mine; strength is mine.

15 Through me kings reign, and founders of laws decree just things.

16 Through me princes command, and the mighty decree justice.

17 I love those who love me, and those who keep watch for me in the morning shall find me.

18 With me are riches and glory, proud wealth and justice.

19 For my fruit is better than gold and precious stone, and my offspring better than chosen silver.

20 I walk in the ways of justice, in the midst of the paths of judgment,

21 that I may enrich those who love me and fill their treasuries.

22 The Lord possessed me in the beginning of his ways, before he made anything from the beginning.

23 From eternity I was ordained, and from ancient times, before the earth was made.

24 The depths did not yet exist, and I was already conceived; the fountains of waters had not yet broken forth.

25 The mountains had not yet stood with their heavy mass; before the hills, I was being brought forth.

26 He had not yet made the earth and the rivers and the hinges of the world.

27 When he prepared the heavens, I was present; when by fixed law and circuit he enclosed the depths;

28 when he made the upper air firm above and balanced the fountains of waters;

29 when he surrounded the sea with its boundary and set a law for the waters, lest they pass beyond their limits; when he suspended the foundations of the earth,

30 I was with him, composing all things. And I delighted through every single day, playing before him at every time,

31 playing in the world of the earth; and my delights were to be with the sons of men.

32 Now therefore, sons, hear me. Blessed are those who guard my ways.

33 Hear discipline and be wise, and do not cast it away.

34 Blessed is the man who hears me, who watches daily at my doors and observes at the posts of my entrance.

35 He who finds me shall find life and shall draw salvation from the Lord.

36 But he who sins against me shall harm his own soul; all who hate me love death.”

CHAPTER 9

1 Wisdom has built herself a house; she has hewn out seven pillars.

2 She has immolated her sacrifices, mingled wine, and set forth her table.

3 She sent her handmaids to call to the citadel and the walls of the city:

4 “If anyone is a little one, let him come to me.” And to the senseless she has spoken:

5 “Come, eat my bread, and drink the wine that I have mingled for you.

6 Forsake infancy and live, and walk through the ways of prudence.”

7 He who instructs a mocker does injury to himself, and he who rebukes the impious produces a stain for himself.

8 Do not rebuke a mocker, lest he hate you; rebuke a wise man, and he shall love you.

9 Give an occasion to the wise, and wisdom shall be added to him; teach the just, and he shall hasten to receive.

10 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and the knowledge of the saints is prudence.

11 For through me your days shall be multiplied, and years of life shall be added to you.

12 If you are wise, you shall be for yourself; but if you are a mocker, you alone shall bear the evil.

13 A foolish and clamorous woman, full of enticements and knowing absolutely nothing,

14 sat at the doors of her house, upon a chair in a high place of the city,

15 that she might call those passing along the way and proceeding on their journey:

16 “He who is a little one, let him turn aside to me.” And to the senseless she has spoken:

17 “Stolen waters are sweeter, and hidden bread is more delightful.”

18 And he did not know that giants are there, and that her guests are in the depths of the lower regions.

CHAPTER 10

1 A wise son gladdens his father, but a foolish son is the sorrow of his mother.

2 Treasures of impiety shall profit nothing, but justice shall deliver from death.

3 The Lord shall not afflict the soul of the just with hunger, and he shall overthrow the snares of the impious.

4 A slack hand has wrought poverty, but the hand of the strong prepares riches. He who leans upon lies feeds winds, and the very same man follows flying birds.

5 He who gathers at harvest is a wise son, but he who snores in summer is a son of confusion.

6 The blessing of the Lord is upon the head of the just, but iniquity covers the mouth of the impious.

7 The memory of the just is with praises, but the name of the impious shall putrefy.

8 The wise of heart receives precepts; the fool is struck by his lips.

9 He who walks in simplicity walks confidently, but he who depraves his ways shall be made manifest.

10 He who signals with the eye shall give sorrow, and the fool shall be beaten by his lips.

11 The mouth of the just is a vein of life, but iniquity covers the mouth of the impious.

12 Hatred stirs up quarrels, and charity covers all offenses.

13 Wisdom is found upon the lips of the wise, and a rod upon the back of him who lacks heart.

14 The wise hide knowledge, but the mouth of the fool is near to confusion.

15 The substance of the rich man is the city of his strength; the fear of the poor is their poverty.

16 The work of the just is unto life, but the fruit of the impious is unto sin.

17 The way of life belongs to him who guards discipline, but he who forsakes rebukes goes astray.

18 Lying lips hide hatred; he who brings forth abuse is senseless.

19 In much speaking, sin shall not be lacking, but he who governs his lips is most prudent.

20 The tongue of the just is chosen silver, but the heart of the impious is as nothing.

21 The lips of the just instruct very many, but those who are unlearned shall die in poverty of heart.

22 The blessing of the Lord makes rich, nor shall affliction be joined to them.

23 A fool works wickedness as though through laughter, but wisdom is prudence to a man.

24 That which the impious fears shall come upon him; the desire of the just shall be granted.

25 Like a passing tempest, the impious shall be no more, but the just is like an everlasting foundation.

26 Like vinegar to the teeth and smoke to the eyes, so is the sluggard to those who sent him.

27 The fear of the Lord shall add days, but the years of the impious shall be shortened.

28 The expectation of the just is gladness, but the hope of the impious shall perish.

29 The way of the Lord is the strength of the simple and a terror to those who work evil.

30 The just shall not be moved forever, but the impious shall not dwell upon the earth.

31 The mouth of the just shall bring forth wisdom, but the tongue of the depraved shall perish.

32 The lips of the just consider pleasing things, and the mouth of the impious perverse things.

CHAPTER 11

1 A deceitful balance is an abomination before the Lord, and an equal weight is his will.

2 Where pride shall be, there also shall be abuse; but where humility is, there also is wisdom.

3 The simplicity of the just shall direct them, and the supplanting of the perverse shall devastate them.

4 Riches shall not profit on the day of vengeance, but justice shall deliver from death.

5 The justice of the simple shall direct his way, and the impious shall fall in his own impiety.

6 The justice of the upright shall deliver them, and the iniquitous shall be captured in their own snares.

7 When the impious man is dead, there shall be no further hope, and the expectation of the anxious shall perish.

8 The just has been delivered from anguish, and the impious shall be handed over in his place.

9 The pretender deceives his friend with his mouth, but the just shall be delivered by knowledge.

10 In the good things of the just, the city shall exult, and at the destruction of the impious there shall be praise.

11 By the blessing of the just the city shall be exalted, and by the mouth of the impious it shall be overthrown.

12 He who despises his friend lacks heart, but the prudent man shall be silent.

13 He who walks deceitfully reveals secrets, but he who is faithful in soul conceals what was entrusted by a friend.

14 Where there is no governor, the people shall fall, but where there are many counsels, there is salvation.

15 He who gives his faith for a stranger shall be afflicted with evil, but he who guards against snares shall be secure.

16 A gracious woman shall find glory, and the strong shall possess riches.

17 A merciful man does good to his own soul, but he who is cruel casts away even his kindred.

18 The impious works an unstable work, but a faithful reward belongs to him who sows justice.

19 Clemency prepares life, and the pursuit of evils, death.

20 A depraved heart is an abomination to the Lord, and his will is in those who walk in simplicity.

21 Hand in hand, the evil man shall not be innocent, but the seed of the just shall be saved.

22 A golden ring in the nostrils of a sow is a beautiful and foolish woman.

23 The desire of the just is every good thing; the expectation of the impious is fury.

24 Some divide their own possessions and become richer; others seize what is not theirs and are always in poverty.

25 The soul that blesses shall be enriched, and he who intoxicates shall himself also be intoxicated.

26 He who hides grain shall be cursed among the peoples, but blessing is upon the head of those who sell it.

27 He who seeks good things arises well at dawn, but he who is an investigator of evils shall be oppressed by them.

28 He who trusts in his riches shall fall, but the just shall sprout like a flourishing leaf.

29 He who troubles his own house shall possess winds, and he who is foolish shall serve the wise.

30 The fruit of the just is a tree of life, and he who receives souls is wise.

31 If the just receives upon the earth, how much more the impious and the sinner!

CHAPTER 12

1 He who loves discipline loves knowledge, but he who hates rebukes is senseless.

2 He who is good shall draw grace from the Lord, but he who trusts in his own thoughts acts impiously.

3 Man shall not be strengthened by impiety, and the root of the just shall not be moved.

4 A diligent woman is a crown to her husband, but she who carries out things worthy of confusion is rottenness in his bones.

5 The thoughts of the just are judgments, and the counsels of the impious are deceitful.

6 The words of the impious lie in wait for blood; the mouth of the just shall deliver them.

7 Turn the impious over, and they shall be no more, but the house of the just shall remain.

8 A man shall be known by his doctrine, but he who is vain and without heart shall lie open to contempt.

9 Better is a poor man sufficient for himself than a glorious man lacking bread.

10 The just knows the souls of his cattle, but the inward parts of the impious are cruel.

11 He who works his land shall be satisfied with breads, but he who pursues idleness is most foolish. He who is sweet in lingering over wine leaves abuse within his fortifications.

12 The desire of the impious is the fortification of the worst, but the root of the just shall advance.

13 Because of the sins of the lips, ruin draws near to the evil man, but the just shall escape from anguish.

14 From the fruit of his mouth each one shall be filled with good things, and according to the works of his hands it shall be repaid to him.

15 The way of the fool is upright in his own eyes, but he who is wise hears counsels.

16 A fool immediately reveals his anger, but he who disguises an injury is shrewd.

17 He who speaks what he knows is an indicator of justice, but he who lies is a deceitful witness.

18 There is one who promises and is pierced in conscience as though by a sword, but the tongue of the wise is health.

19 The lip of truth shall be firm forever, but he who is a sudden witness fashions a tongue of lying.

20 Deceit is in the heart of those who devise evils, but joy follows those who enter counsels of peace.

21 Whatever happens to the just shall not sadden him, but the impious shall be filled with evil.

22 Lying lips are an abomination to the Lord, but those who act faithfully please him.

23 An experienced man conceals knowledge, but the heart of the senseless provokes foolishness.

24 The hand of the strong shall rule, but the slack hand shall serve under tribute.

25 Sorrow in the heart of a man shall humble him, and by a good word he shall be gladdened.

26 He who disregards loss for the sake of a friend is just, but the road of the impious shall deceive them.

27 The deceitful man shall not find gain, and the substance of a man shall be the price of gold.

28 In the path of justice is life, but a deviant road leads to death.

CHAPTER 13

1 A wise son is the doctrine of his father, but he who is a mocker does not hear when he is rebuked.

2 From the fruit of his mouth a man shall be satisfied with good things, but the soul of transgressors is iniquitous.

3 He who guards his mouth guards his soul, but he who is inconsiderate in speaking shall experience evils.

4 The sluggard wills and does not will, but the soul of those who work shall be enriched.

5 The just shall detest a lying word, but the impious confounds and shall be confounded.

6 Justice guards the way of the innocent, but impiety supplants the sinner.

7 There is one who is as though rich when he has nothing, and there is one who is as though poor when he is amid many riches.

8 The redemption of a man’s soul is his riches, but he who is poor does not endure rebuke.

9 The light of the just gladdens, but the lamp of the impious shall be extinguished.

10 Among the proud there are always quarrels, but those who conduct all things with counsel are governed by wisdom.

11 Substance acquired in haste shall be diminished, but that which is gathered little by little by hand shall be multiplied.

12 Hope that is deferred afflicts the soul; desire that comes is a tree of life.

13 He who disparages something binds himself for the future, but he who fears the precept shall abide in peace. Deceitful souls go astray in sins, but the just are merciful and have compassion.

14 The law of the wise is a fountain of life, that he may turn away from the ruin of death.

15 Good doctrine shall give grace; on the journey of the contemptuous there is a chasm.

16 The shrewd conducts all things with counsel, but he who is foolish lays open foolishness.

17 The messenger of the impious shall fall into evil, but a faithful ambassador is health.

18 Poverty and ignominy belong to him who forsakes discipline, but he who consents to one rebuking him shall be glorified.

19 Desire, if it is fulfilled, delights the soul; fools detest those who flee evils.

20 He who walks with the wise shall be wise; the friend of fools shall be made like them.

21 Evil pursues sinners, and good things shall be repaid to the just.

22 The good man has left sons and grandsons as heirs, and the substance of the sinner is guarded for the just.

23 There is much food in the fallow lands of the fathers, and for others it is gathered without judgment.

24 He who spares the rod hates his son, but he who loves him instructs him earnestly.

25 The just eats and fills his soul, but the belly of the impious is insatiable.

CHAPTER 14

1 A wise woman builds her house, but the senseless woman destroys with her hands even what has been built.

2 He who walks on the upright road and fears God is despised by him who walks upon an infamous way.

3 In the mouth of the fool is the rod of pride, but the lips of the wise guard them.

4 Where there are no oxen, the manger is empty, but where there are abundant crops, there the strength of the ox is manifest.

5 A faithful witness does not lie, but a deceitful witness brings forth a lie.

6 The mocker seeks wisdom and does not find it; doctrine is easy to the prudent.

7 Go against a foolish man, and he does not know the lips of prudence.

8 The wisdom of the shrewd is to understand his way, and the imprudence of fools is wandering.

9 The fool shall mock sin, and grace shall abide among the just.

10 The heart that knows the bitterness of its own soul—a stranger shall not mingle in its joy.

11 The house of the impious shall be blotted out, but the tabernacles of the just shall sprout.

12 There is a way that seems just to a man, but its last things lead down to death.

13 Laughter shall be mingled with sorrow, and mourning takes possession of the ends of joy.

14 The fool shall be filled with his own ways, and the good man shall be above him.

15 The innocent believes every word, but the shrewd considers his steps. Nothing good shall belong to a deceitful son, but the deeds of a wise servant shall prosper, and his way shall be directed.

16 The wise man fears and turns away from evil; the fool leaps over and trusts.

17 The impatient man shall work foolishness, and the crafty man is hateful.

18 Little ones shall possess foolishness, and the shrewd shall await knowledge.

19 The evil shall lie before the good, and the impious before the gates of the just.

20 The poor man shall be hateful even to his neighbor, but the friends of the rich are many.

21 He who despises his neighbor sins, but he who has mercy on the poor shall be blessed. He who believes in the Lord loves mercy.

22 Those who work evil go astray, but mercy and truth prepare good things.

23 In every work there shall be abundance, but where words are many, there poverty is frequent.

24 The riches of the wise are their crown; the folly of fools is imprudence.

25 A faithful witness delivers souls, but the double-dealer brings forth lies.

26 In the fear of the Lord is confidence of strength, and there shall be hope for his sons.

27 The fear of the Lord is a fountain of life, that they may turn away from the ruin of death.

28 In the multitude of the people is the dignity of the king, and in the fewness of the populace is the ignominy of the prince.

29 He who is patient is governed by much prudence, but he who is impatient exalts his own foolishness.

30 Health of heart is the life of the flesh, but envy is rottenness of the bones.

31 He who calumniates the needy reproaches his Maker, but he who has mercy on the poor honors him.

32 The impious shall be expelled in his malice, but the just hopes in his death.

33 Wisdom rests in the heart of the prudent and shall instruct all the unlearned.

34 Justice elevates a nation, but sin makes peoples miserable.

35 An understanding minister is acceptable to the king; the useless shall endure his wrath.

CHAPTER 15

1 A gentle answer breaks anger, but a harsh word stirs up fury.

2 The tongue of the wise adorns knowledge; the mouth of fools bubbles forth foolishness.

3 In every place the eyes of the Lord behold the good and the evil.

4 A peaceable tongue is a tree of life, but one that is immoderate shall shatter the spirit.

5 The fool mocks the discipline of his father, but he who guards rebukes shall become more shrewd. In abundant justice there is the greatest strength, but the thoughts of the impious shall be uprooted.

6 The house of the just is abundant strength, and in the fruits of the impious there is trouble.

7 The lips of the wise shall scatter knowledge, but the heart of fools shall be unlike them.

8 The sacrifices of the impious are abominable to the Lord; the vows of the just are pleasing.

9 The way of the impious is an abomination to the Lord; he who follows justice is loved by him.

10 Evil doctrine belongs to him who forsakes the way of life; he who hates rebukes shall die.

11 The lower regions and perdition are before the Lord; how much more the hearts of the sons of men!

12 The pestilent man does not love him who corrects him, nor does he walk toward the wise.

13 A rejoicing heart brightens the face; in sorrow of soul, the spirit is cast down.

14 The heart of the wise seeks doctrine, and the mouth of fools feeds upon ignorance.

15 All the days of the poor are evil; a secure mind is like a continual banquet.

16 Better is a little with the fear of the Lord than great and insatiable treasures.

17 Better is it to be invited to herbs with charity than to a fattened calf with hatred.

18 An irascible man provokes quarrels, but he who is patient softens those that have been stirred up.

19 The road of the sluggard is like a hedge of thorns; the way of the just is without stumbling block.

20 A wise son gladdens his father, and a foolish man despises his mother.

21 Foolishness is joy to the fool, but the prudent man directs his steps.

22 Thoughts are dissipated where there is no counsel, but where there are many counselors, they are confirmed.

23 A man rejoices in the sentence of his mouth, and a timely word is best.

24 The path of life is above the instructed man, that he may turn away from the lowest lower regions.

25 The Lord shall demolish the house of the proud and shall make firm the boundaries of the widow.

26 Evil thoughts are an abomination to the Lord, and the pure word, most beautiful, shall be made firm by him.

27 He who pursues avarice troubles his own house, but he who hates gifts shall live. Through mercy and faith sins are cleansed, but through fear of the Lord everyone turns away from evil.

28 The mind of the just meditates obedience, but the mouth of the impious overflows with evils.

29 The Lord is far from the impious, but he shall hear the prayers of the just.

30 The light of the eyes gladdens the soul; a good report enriches the bones.

31 The ear that hears the rebukes of life shall abide in the midst of the wise.

32 He who casts away discipline despises his own soul, but he who consents to rebukes is a possessor of heart.

33 The fear of the Lord is the discipline of wisdom, and humility precedes glory.

CHAPTER 16

1 It belongs to man to prepare the soul, and to the Lord to govern the tongue.

2 All the ways of a man lie open to his eyes; the Lord is the weigher of spirits.

3 Reveal your works to the Lord, and your thoughts shall be directed.

4 The Lord has wrought all things for himself, even the impious for the evil day.

5 Everyone arrogant is an abomination to the Lord; even if hand is joined to hand, he is not innocent. The beginning of a good way is to do justice, and it is more acceptable before God than to immolate sacrifices.

6 By mercy and truth iniquity is redeemed, and in the fear of the Lord one turns away from evil.

7 When the ways of a man please the Lord, he shall also turn his enemies toward peace.

8 Better is a little with justice than many fruits with iniquity.

9 The heart of man orders his way, but it belongs to the Lord to direct his steps.

10 Divination is upon the lips of the king; in judgment his mouth shall not err.

11 Weight and balance are the judgments of the Lord, and all the stones of the purse are his works.

12 Those who act impiously are abominable to the king, for the throne is made firm by justice.

13 Just lips are the will of kings; he who speaks upright things shall be loved.

14 The indignation of the king is a messenger of death, and a wise man shall appease it.

15 In the cheerfulness of the king’s countenance is life, and his clemency is like the latter rain.

16 Possess wisdom, for she is better than gold, and acquire prudence, for she is more precious than silver.

17 The path of the just turns away from evils; the guardian of his soul preserves his way.

18 Pride precedes destruction, and the spirit is exalted before ruin.

19 Better is it to be humbled with the gentle than to divide spoils with the proud.

20 He who is instructed in the word shall find good things, and blessed is he who hopes in the Lord.

21 He who is wise in heart shall be called prudent, and he who is sweet in speech shall perceive greater things.

22 Instruction is a fountain of life to him who possesses it; the doctrine of fools is folly.

23 The heart of the wise shall instruct his mouth and shall add grace to his lips.

24 Well-ordered words are a honeycomb, sweetness to the soul and health to the bones.

25 There is a way that seems upright to a man, but its last things lead to death.

26 The soul of him who labors labors for himself, for his mouth has compelled him.

27 The impious man digs out evil, and fire blazes upon his lips.

28 A perverse man stirs up disputes, and the verbose man separates princes.

29 The iniquitous man entices his friend and leads him through a way that is not good.

30 He who devises depraved things with astonished eyes, biting his lips, perfects evil.

31 Old age is a crown of dignity, which shall be found in the ways of justice.

32 The patient man is better than a mighty man, and he who rules his own soul better than a conqueror of cities.

33 Lots are cast into the bosom, but they are governed by the Lord.

CHAPTER 17

1 Better is a dry morsel with joy than a house full of sacrifices with quarreling.

2 A wise servant shall rule over foolish sons and shall divide the inheritance among brothers.

3 As silver is proved by fire and gold in the furnace, so the Lord proves hearts.

4 The evil man obeys an iniquitous tongue, and the deceitful man heeds lying lips.

5 He who despises the poor reproaches his Maker, and he who rejoices at another's ruin shall not be unpunished.

6 The sons of sons are the crown of old men, and their fathers are the glory of sons.

7 Well-ordered words do not befit a fool, nor a lying lip a prince.

8 The expectation of him who awaits is a most pleasing jewel; wherever he turns, he understands prudently.

9 He who conceals an offense seeks friendships; he who repeats it in another word separates those joined by pact.

10 A rebuke profits more with the prudent than a hundred blows with the fool.

11 The evil man always seeks quarrels, but a cruel angel shall be sent against him.

12 It is more expedient to meet a she-bear robbed of her cubs than a fool trusting in his own foolishness.

13 He who repays evils for good things—evil shall not withdraw from his house.

14 He who releases water is the head of quarrels, and before he suffers abuse, he forsakes judgment.

15 He who justifies the impious and he who condemns the just—both are abominable before God.

16 What does it profit the fool to possess riches when he cannot buy wisdom? He who makes his house high seeks ruin, and he who avoids learning shall fall into evils.

17 He who is a friend loves at every time, and a brother is proved in anguish.

18 A foolish man shall clap his hands when he has pledged for his friend.

19 He who meditates upon discords loves quarrels, and he who exalts his entrance seeks ruin.

20 He who is of a perverse heart shall not find good, and he who turns his tongue shall fall into evil.

21 A fool has been born unto his own ignominy, and even the father shall not rejoice in a foolish son.

22 A rejoicing soul makes a flourishing age; a sorrowful spirit dries the bones.

23 The impious receives gifts from the bosom, that he may pervert the paths of judgment.

24 Wisdom shines in the face of the prudent; the eyes of fools are at the ends of the earth.

25 A foolish son is the anger of his father and the sorrow of the mother who bore him.

26 It is not good to bring loss upon the just, nor to strike the prince who judges upright things.

27 He who governs his words is learned and prudent, and the instructed man is of a precious spirit.

28 Even a fool, if he is silent, shall be accounted wise, and if he restrains his lips, understanding.

CHAPTER 18

1 He who wishes to withdraw from a friend seeks occasions; at every time he shall be reproachable.

2 The fool does not receive words of prudence unless you say the things that revolve in his heart.

3 When the impious has come into the depth of sins, he shows contempt, but ignominy and reproach follow him.

4 The words from the mouth of a man are deep water, and the fountain of wisdom an overflowing torrent.

5 It is not good to receive the person of the impious, that you may turn away from the truth of judgment.

6 The lips of the fool mingle themselves in quarrels, and his mouth provokes disputes.

7 The mouth of the fool is his destruction, and his lips are the ruin of his soul.

8 The words of the double-tongued are as though simple, and they themselves reach even to the inner parts of the belly. Fear casts down the sluggard, but the souls of the effeminate shall hunger.

9 He who is soft and dissolute in his work is a brother to him who dissipates his own works.

10 The name of the Lord is the strongest tower; the just runs to it and shall be exalted.

11 The substance of the rich man is the city of his strength and like a mighty wall surrounding him.

12 Before he is shattered, the heart of man is exalted, and before he is glorified, it is humbled.

13 He who answers before he hears demonstrates himself to be a fool and worthy of confusion.

14 The spirit of a man sustains his weakness, but who shall be able to sustain a spirit easily provoked to anger?

15 A prudent heart shall possess knowledge, and the ear of the wise seeks doctrine.

16 The gift of a man enlarges his way and makes room for him before princes.

17 The just is first the accuser of himself; his friend comes and shall investigate him.

18 The lot restrains contradictions and judges even between the mighty.

19 A brother who is helped by a brother is like a firm city, and judgments are like the bars of cities.

20 From the fruit of a man’s mouth his belly shall be filled, and the offspring of his lips shall satisfy him.

21 Death and life are in the hand of the tongue; those who love it shall eat its fruits.

22 He who finds a good woman finds good and shall draw delight from the Lord. He who casts out a good woman casts out good, but he who holds an adulteress is foolish and impious.

23 The poor man shall speak with entreaties, and the rich man shall speak harshly.

24 A lovable man shall be a friend to companionship more than a brother.

CHAPTER 19

1 Better is a poor man who walks in his simplicity than a rich man twisting his lips and senseless.

2 Where there is no knowledge of the soul, there is no good, and he who is hasty with his feet shall stumble.

3 The foolishness of a man supplants his steps, and in his soul he seethes against God.

4 Riches add very many friends, but from the poor man even those whom he had are separated.

5 A false witness shall not be unpunished, and he who speaks lies shall not escape.

6 Many cultivate the person of the mighty, and they are friends of him who bestows gifts.

7 The brothers of a poor man hate him; moreover, even his friends have withdrawn far from him. He who pursues words only shall have nothing.

8 But he who is a possessor of mind loves his own soul, and the guardian of prudence shall find good things.

9 A false witness shall not be unpunished, and he who speaks lies shall perish.

10 Delights do not befit a fool, nor does ruling over princes befit a servant.

11 The doctrine of a man is known through patience, and it is his glory to pass beyond iniquitous things.

12 Like the roar of a lion, so also is the anger of the king, and like dew upon grass, so is his cheerfulness.

13 A foolish son is the sorrow of his father, and a contentious woman is a roof continually dripping.

14 House and riches are given by parents, but a prudent wife is properly from the Lord.

15 Sloth sends in sleep, and the dissolute soul shall hunger.

16 He who guards the commandment guards his soul, but he who neglects his way shall be put to death.

17 He who has mercy on the poor lends to the Lord, and he shall repay him his recompense.

18 Instruct your son; do not despair, but do not set your soul toward killing him.

19 He who is impatient shall endure loss, and when he has seized something, he shall add another.

20 Hear counsel and receive discipline, that you may be wise in your last things.

21 Many thoughts are in the heart of a man, but the will of the Lord shall remain.

22 A needy man is merciful, and better is a poor man than a lying man.

23 The fear of the Lord is unto life, and he shall abide in fullness without the worst visitation.

24 The sluggard hides his hand beneath his armpit and does not apply it to his mouth.

25 When the pestilent man has been scourged, the fool shall become wiser; but if you correct the wise, he shall understand discipline.

26 He who afflicts his father and drives away his mother is ignominious and unhappy.

27 Do not cease, my son, to hear doctrine, nor be ignorant of words of knowledge.

28 An iniquitous witness mocks judgment, and the mouth of the impious devours iniquity.

29 Judgments are prepared for mockers, and hammers striking the bodies of fools.

CHAPTER 20

1 Wine is a luxurious thing, and drunkenness tumultuous; whoever delights in these shall not be wise.

2 Like the roar of a lion, so also is the terror of the king; he who provokes him sins against his own soul.

3 It is an honor for a man to separate himself from contentions, but all fools mingle themselves in abuses.

4 Because of the cold, the sluggard did not wish to plow; therefore he shall beg in summer, and it shall not be given to him.

5 Like deep water, so is counsel in the heart of a man, but a wise man shall draw it out.

6 Many men are called merciful, but who shall find a faithful man?

7 The just who walks in his simplicity shall leave blessed sons after him.

8 The king who sits upon the throne of judgment dissipates every evil with his gaze.

9 Who can say, “My heart is clean; I am pure from sin”?

10 Weight and weight, measure and measure: both are abominable before God.

11 A boy is understood from his pursuits, whether his works are clean and upright.

12 The hearing ear and the seeing eye—the Lord has made them both.

13 Do not love sleep, lest poverty oppress you; open your eyes and be satisfied with breads.

14 “It is bad, it is bad,” says every buyer; and when he has withdrawn, then he shall glory.

15 There is gold and a multitude of jewels, but the lips of knowledge are a precious vessel.

16 Take away the garment of him who stood as surety for a stranger, and for foreigners take a pledge from him.

17 The bread of lying is sweet to a man, and afterward his mouth shall be filled with gravel.

18 Thoughts are strengthened by counsels, and wars are to be conducted by steerage.

19 Do not mingle with him who reveals mysteries, walks deceitfully, and enlarges his lips.

20 He who curses his father and mother—his lamp shall be extinguished in the midst of darkness.

21 An inheritance toward which one hastens in the beginning shall lack blessing in the end.

22 Do not say, “I shall repay evil.” Await the Lord, and he shall deliver you.

23 Weight and weight are an abomination before the Lord; a deceitful balance is not good.

24 The steps of a man are directed by the Lord, but who among men can understand his own way?

25 It is ruin for a man to devour holy things and to reconsider after vows.

26 A wise king dissipates the impious and bends an arch over them.

27 The breathing-place of a man is the lamp of the Lord, which investigates all the secrets of the belly.

28 Mercy and truth guard the king, and his throne is strengthened by clemency.

29 The exultation of young men is their strength, and gray hair is the dignity of old men.

30 The bruising of a wound shall wipe away evils, and blows in the more secret parts of the belly.

CHAPTER 21

1 Like divisions of waters, so is the heart of the king in the hand of the Lord; wherever he wills, he shall incline it.

2 Every way of a man seems upright to himself, but the Lord weighs hearts.

3 To work mercy and judgment pleases the Lord more than sacrifices.

4 The exaltation of the eyes is the enlargement of the heart; the lamp of the impious is sin.

5 The thoughts of the strong are always in abundance, but every sluggard is always in poverty.

6 He who gathers treasures with a lying tongue is vain and without heart, and he shall stumble into the snares of death.

7 The robberies of the impious shall drag them down, for they were unwilling to work judgment.

8 The perverse way of a man is foreign, but the work of him who is clean is upright.

9 Better is it to sit in a corner of the roof than with a contentious woman in a shared house.

10 The soul of the impious desires evil; he shall not have mercy on his neighbor.

11 When the pestilent man is punished, the little one shall become wiser; and if he follows the wise, he shall receive knowledge.

12 The just considers the house of the impious, that he may draw the impious away from evil.

13 He who stops his ear against the cry of the poor shall himself also cry and shall not be heard.

14 A hidden offering extinguishes angers, and a gift in the bosom the greatest indignation.

15 To work judgment is joy to the just and terror to those who work iniquity.

16 The man who strays from the way of doctrine shall abide in the assembly of giants.

17 He who loves feasts shall be in poverty; he who loves wine and fat things shall not be enriched.

18 The impious is given for the just, and the iniquitous for the upright.

19 Better is it to dwell in a desert land than with a quarrelsome and irascible woman.

20 A desirable treasure and oil are in the habitation of the just, but the imprudent man shall dissipate it.

21 He who follows justice and mercy shall find life, justice, and glory.

22 The wise man has ascended the city of the mighty and destroyed the strength of its confidence.

23 He who guards his mouth and his tongue guards his soul from anguish.

24 The proud and arrogant man is called unlearned, he who works pride in anger.

25 Desires kill the sluggard, for his hands were unwilling to work anything.

26 All the day he covets and desires, but he who is just shall give and shall not cease.

27 The sacrifices of the impious are abominable, for they are offered from wickedness.

28 A lying witness shall perish, but the obedient man shall speak victory.

29 The impious man brazenly hardens his countenance, but he who is upright corrects his way.

30 There is no wisdom, there is no prudence, there is no counsel against the Lord.

31 The horse is prepared for the day of battle, but the Lord bestows salvation.

CHAPTER 22

1 A good name is better than many riches; good grace is above silver and gold.

2 The rich and the poor have met each other; the Lord is the maker of both.

3 The shrewd saw evil and hid himself; the innocent passed through and was afflicted with loss.

4 The end of modesty is the fear of the Lord, riches and glory and life.

5 Weapons and swords are in the way of the perverse, but the guardian of his soul withdraws far from them.

6 It is a proverb: a young man according to his way—even when he grows old, he shall not withdraw from it.

7 The rich commands the poor, and he who receives a loan is the servant of the lender.

8 He who sows iniquity shall reap evils, and the rod of his anger shall be brought to an end.

9 He who is inclined toward mercy shall be blessed, for he has given from his breads to the poor. He who gives gifts shall acquire victory and honor, but he takes away the soul of those who receive.

10 Cast out the mocker, and quarreling shall go out with him, and disputes and abuses shall cease.

11 He who loves purity of heart shall have the king as a friend because of the grace of his lips.

12 The eyes of the Lord guard knowledge, and the words of the iniquitous are supplanted.

13 The sluggard says, “A lion is outside; I shall be slain in the midst of the streets.”

14 The mouth of a foreign woman is a deep pit; he with whom the Lord is angry shall fall into it.

15 Foolishness is bound within the heart of a boy, and the rod of discipline shall drive it away.

16 He who calumniates the poor that he may increase his own riches shall himself give to one richer and shall be in need.

17 Incline your ear and hear the words of the wise, but apply your heart to my doctrine,

18 which shall be beautiful to you when you preserve it in your belly, and it shall overflow upon your lips,

19 that your confidence may be in the Lord; therefore I have also shown it to you today.

20 Behold, I have described it to you threefold, in thoughts and knowledge,

21 that I might show you the firmness and sayings of truth, so that from these you may answer those who sent you.

22 Do not do violence to the poor because he is poor, nor crush the needy at the gate,

23 for the Lord shall judge his cause and shall pierce those who pierced his soul.

24 Do not be a friend to an irascible man, nor walk with a furious man, 25 lest perhaps you learn his paths and take up a scandal for your soul.

26 Do not be with those who fix their hands and offer themselves as sureties for debts,

27 for if you do not have from where to restore, what cause is there that he should take the covering from your bed?

28 Do not cross the ancient boundaries that your fathers established.

29 Have you seen a man swift in his work? He shall stand before kings and shall not be before the ignoble.

CHAPTER 23

1 When you sit to eat with a prince, attend diligently to the things set before your face.

2 And set a knife at your throat, if indeed you have your soul in your power.

3 Do not desire his foods, in which there is the bread of lying.

4 Do not labor that you may be enriched, but set a limit to your prudence.

5 Do not lift up your eyes toward riches that you cannot possess, for they shall make themselves wings like an eagle and shall fly into heaven.

6 Do not eat with an envious man, and do not desire his foods,

7 for in the likeness of a diviner and conjecturer, he estimates what he does not know. “Eat and drink,” he shall say to you, but his mind is not with you.

8 You shall vomit the foods that you ate and shall lose your beautiful words.

9 Do not speak in the ears of the senseless, who shall despise the doctrine of your speech.

10 Do not touch the boundaries of little ones, and do not enter the field of the fatherless,

11 for their kinsman is mighty, and he himself shall judge their cause against you.

12 Let your heart enter into doctrine and your ears into words of knowledge.

13 Do not withdraw discipline from a boy, for if you strike him with a rod, he shall not die.

14 You shall strike him with the rod and shall deliver his soul from the lower regions.

15 My son, if your soul becomes wise, my heart shall rejoice with you,

16 and my reins shall exult when your lips have spoken what is upright.

17 Let your heart not envy sinners, but be in the fear of the Lord all the day, 18 for you shall have hope in your last things, and your expectation shall not be taken away.

19 Hear, my son, and be wise, and direct your soul in the way.

20 Do not be at the banquets of drinkers, nor at the feasts of those who bring together flesh for eating, 21 for those who give themselves to drink and who contribute shares shall be consumed, and slumber shall be clothed with rags.

22 Hear your father, who begot you, and do not despise your mother when she has grown old.

23 Buy truth, and do not sell wisdom and doctrine and understanding.

24 The father of the just exults with joy; he who begot a wise son shall rejoice in him.

25 Let your father and your mother rejoice, and let her who bore you exult.

26 Offer your heart to me, my son, and let your eyes guard my ways.

27 For the harlot is a deep pit, and the foreign woman a narrow well.

28 She lies in wait upon the way like a robber and shall slay those whom she sees unwary.

29 For whom is woe? For whose father is woe? For whom are quarrels? For whom are pits? For whom are wounds without cause? For whom is suffusion of the eyes?

30 Is it not for those who abide in wine and devote themselves to draining chalices?

31 Do not gaze upon wine when it grows golden, when its color shines in the glass. It enters smoothly, 32 but in the end it shall bite like a snake and spread poisons like a basilisk.

33 Your eyes shall see foreign women, and your heart shall speak perverse things.

34 And you shall be like one sleeping in the midst of the sea, and like a helmsman lulled to sleep when the tiller is lost.

35 And you shall say, “They struck me, but I did not suffer pain; they dragged me, and I did not feel it. When shall I awaken and find wines again?”

CHAPTER 24

1 Do not envy evil men, nor desire to be with them,

2 for their mind meditates robberies, and their lips speak deceits.

3 By wisdom a house shall be built, and by prudence it shall be strengthened.

4 By doctrine the storerooms shall be filled with every precious and most beautiful substance.

5 A wise man is mighty, and a learned man robust and strong,

6 for war is entered with ordered disposition, and there shall be salvation where there are many counsels.

7 Wisdom is lofty to the fool; at the gate he shall not open his mouth.

8 He who thinks of doing evils shall be called a fool.

9 The thought of the fool is sin, and the slanderer is an abomination to men.

10 If, weary, you despair on the day of anguish, your strength shall be diminished.

11 Rescue those who are being led to death, and do not cease to deliver those who are being dragged to destruction.

12 If you say, “Strength is not sufficient,” he who inspects the heart himself understands, and nothing deceives the savior of your soul; and he shall repay man according to his works.

13 Eat honey, my son, for it is good, and the honeycomb most sweet to your throat.

14 So also is the doctrine of wisdom to your soul; when you have found it, you shall have hope in your last things, and your hope shall not perish.

15 Do not lie in wait or seek impiety in the house of the just, nor devastate his rest.

16 For seven times the just shall fall and shall rise again, but the impious shall fall into evil.

17 When your enemy falls, do not rejoice, and let your heart not exult in his ruin,

18 lest perhaps the Lord see and it displease him, and he take his anger away from him.

19 Do not contend with the worst men, nor envy the impious,

20 for evil men have no hope of future things, and the lamp of the impious shall be extinguished.

21 Fear the Lord, my son, and the king, and do not mingle with slanderers, 22 for their destruction shall suddenly arise, and who knows the ruin of them both?

23 These things also belong to the wise. To know a person in judgment is not good.

24 Those who say to the impious, “You are just,” the peoples shall curse them, and the tribes shall detest them.

25 Those who rebuke him shall be praised, and blessing shall come upon them.

26 He who answers upright words shall kiss the lips.

27 Prepare your work outside and diligently cultivate your field, that afterward you may build your house.

28 Do not be a witness without cause against your neighbor, nor entice anyone with your lips.

29 Do not say, “As he did to me, so shall I do to him; I shall repay each one according to his work.”

30 I passed through the field of a slothful man and through the vineyard of a foolish man,

31 and behold, nettles had filled the whole, thorns had covered its surface, and the wall of stones was destroyed.

32 When I saw this, I placed it in my heart, and by the example I learned discipline.

33 “A little,” I say, “you shall sleep; a little you shall slumber; you shall fold your hands a very little, that you may rest,”

34 and poverty shall come upon you like a runner, and beggary like an armed man.

CHAPTER 25

1 These also are the Proverbs of Solomon, which the men of Ezechias, king of Judah, transferred.

2 It is the glory of God to conceal a word, and the glory of kings to investigate a saying.

3 Heaven above, and earth below, and the heart of kings are unsearchable.

4 Remove rust from silver, and a most pure vessel shall go forth.

5 Remove impiety from the countenance of the king, and his throne shall be made firm by justice.

6 Do not appear glorious before the king, and do not stand in the place of the great.

7 For it is better that it be said to you, “Ascend here,” than that you be humbled before the prince.

8 Do not swiftly bring forth in a quarrel the things that your eyes have seen, lest afterward you be unable to amend it when you have dishonored your friend.

9 Conduct your cause with your friend, and do not reveal a secret to a stranger,

10 lest perhaps he insult you when he hears it and not cease to reproach you. Grace and friendship deliver; preserve them for yourself, lest you become reproachable.

11 Golden apples upon silver beds is he who speaks a word in its proper time.

12 A golden earring and a shining pearl is he who rebukes the wise and the obedient ear.

13 Like the cold of snow on the day of harvest, so is a faithful ambassador to him who sent him; he makes his soul rest.

14 Clouds and wind and rains that do not follow is a glorious man who does not fulfill promises.

15 By patience the prince shall be softened, and a gentle tongue shall break hardness.

16 Have you found honey? Eat what is sufficient for you, lest perhaps, being satisfied, you vomit it.

17 Withdraw your foot from the house of your neighbor, lest at any time, being satisfied, he hate you.

18 A dart and a sword and a sharp arrow is a man who speaks false testimony against his neighbor.

19 A putrid tooth and a weary foot is he who hopes upon the unfaithful on the day of anguish,

20 and loses his cloak on the day of cold. Vinegar upon nitre is he who sings canticles to the worst heart. Like a moth to a garment and a worm to wood, so the sorrow of a man harms the heart.

21 If your enemy hungers, feed him; if he thirsts, give him water to drink,

22 for you shall gather coals upon his head, and the Lord shall repay you.

23 The north wind dissipates rains, and a sorrowful countenance a slandering tongue.

24 Better is it to sit in a corner of the roof than with a contentious woman in a shared house.

25 Cold water to a thirsty soul is a good messenger from a distant land.

26 A fountain troubled by the foot and a corrupted vein is the just falling before the impious.

27 As it is not good for him who eats much honey, so he who searches majesty shall be oppressed by glory.

28 Like a city lying open and without the circuit of walls, so is the man who cannot restrain his spirit in speaking.

CHAPTER 26

1 As snow in summer and rains in harvest, so glory is unbecoming to a fool.

2 As a bird flying elsewhere and a sparrow going wherever it will, so a curse uttered without cause shall come upon someone.

3 A whip for a horse, a bridle for an ass, and a rod for the back of the imprudent.

4 Do not answer a fool according to his folly, lest you become like him.

5 Answer a fool according to his folly, lest he seem wise to himself.

6 Lame in his feet and drinking iniquity is he who sends words by a foolish messenger.

7 As the lame man has beautiful legs in vain, so a parable is unbecoming in the mouth of fools.

8 As one who casts a stone upon a heap of Mercury, so is he who gives honor to the senseless.

9 As if a thorn should grow in the hand of a drunkard, so is a parable in the mouth of fools.

10 Judgment determines causes, and he who imposes silence on a fool mitigates angers.

11 As a dog that returns to its vomit, so is the imprudent man who repeats his folly.

12 Have you seen a man who seems wise to himself? The senseless shall have more hope than he.

13 The sluggard says, “There is a lion in the road, and a lioness in the pathways.”

14 As a door turns upon its hinge, so does the sluggard upon his bed.

15 The sluggard hides his hand beneath his armpit, and it wearies him to return it to his mouth.

16 The sluggard seems wiser to himself than seven men speaking judgments.

17 As one who takes a dog by the ears, so is the passerby who impatiently mingles in another’s quarrel.

18 As harmful as one who casts arrows and spears unto death,

19 so is the man who fraudulently harms his friend and, when discovered, says, “I did it in play.”

20 When the wood fails, the fire shall be extinguished; and when the whisperer is removed, quarrels shall cease.

21 As coals to embers and wood to fire, so an irascible man stirs up quarrels.

22 The words of a whisperer seem simple, yet they reach the innermost parts of the belly.

23 As though you wished to adorn an earthen vessel with impure silver, so are swelling lips joined to a most wicked heart.

24 An enemy is known by his lips when he has devised deceits in his heart.

25 When he lowers his voice, do not believe him, for seven wickednesses are in his heart.

26 He who fraudulently covers hatred—his malice shall be revealed in the council.

27 He who digs a pit shall fall into it, and he who rolls a stone—it shall return upon him.

28 A deceitful tongue does not love truth, and a slippery mouth works ruin.

CHAPTER 27

1 Do not glory in tomorrow, not knowing what the coming day may bring forth.

2 Let another praise you, and not your own mouth; a stranger, and not your own lips.

3 A stone is heavy and sand burdensome, but the anger of a fool is heavier than both.

4 Anger has no mercy, nor does fury when it bursts forth; and who can bear the violence of one enraged?

5 Manifest correction is better than hidden love.

6 Better are the wounds of one who loves than the deceitful kisses of one who hates.

7 A satisfied soul shall tread upon the honeycomb, but a hungry soul shall take even what is bitter for sweet.

8 As a bird migrating from its nest, so is a man who forsakes his place.

9 The heart delights in ointment and varied fragrances, and the soul is sweetened by the good counsels of a friend.

10 Do not forsake your friend or your father's friend, and do not enter your brother's house in the day of your affliction. Better is a neighbor nearby than a brother far away.

11 Apply yourself to Wisdom, my son, and gladden my heart, that you may be able to answer him who reproaches.

12 The shrewd man, seeing evil, hid himself; the innocent passed through and suffered losses.

13 Take away the garment of him who became surety for a stranger, and take a pledge from him for foreigners.

14 He who blesses his neighbor with a loud voice, rising in the night, shall be like one who curses.

15 A dripping roof on a cold day and a contentious woman are alike.

16 He who restrains her is as one who restrains the wind, and he shall call for the oil of his right hand.

17 Iron is sharpened by iron, and a man sharpens the countenance of his friend.

18 He who keeps the fig tree shall eat its fruit, and he who is the keeper of his master shall be glorified.

19 As the faces of those who look into them shine in the waters, so the hearts of men are manifest to the prudent.

20 The lower regions and destruction are never filled; likewise, the eyes of men are insatiable.

21 As silver is proved in the crucible and gold in the furnace, so a man is proved by the mouth of him who praises. The heart of the iniquitous seeks evils, but the upright heart seeks knowledge.

22 Though you pound a fool in a mortar, as hulled grain is struck from above with a pestle, his folly shall not be taken from him.

23 Diligently know the countenance of your livestock, and consider your flocks, 24 for you shall not have power continually, but the crown shall be bestowed from generation to generation.

25 The meadows are opened, the green herbs have appeared, and the hay has been gathered from the mountains.

26 The lambs are for your clothing, and the kids for the price of a field.

27 Let the milk of goats suffice for your food, for the necessities of your house, and for the sustenance of your maidservants.

CHAPTER 28

1 The impious flees when no one pursues, but the just, confident as a lion, shall be without terror.

2 Because of the sins of a land, its princes are many; but because of a man’s wisdom and knowledge of the things that are spoken, the life of its ruler shall be longer.

3 A poor man who oppresses the poor is like a violent rain by which famine is prepared.

4 Those who forsake the law praise the impious; those who keep it are kindled against him.

5 Evil men do not consider judgment, but those who seek the Lord understand all things.

6 Better is the poor man who walks in his simplicity than the rich man upon perverse paths.

7 He who keeps the law is a wise son, but he who feeds revelers confounds his father.

8 He who heaps up riches by usury and interest gathers them for one who shall be generous to the poor.

9 He who turns away his ears so as not to hear the law—his prayer shall be execrable.

10 He who deceives the just into an evil way shall fall in his own destruction, and the simple shall possess his goods.

11 The rich man seems wise to himself, but the prudent poor man shall search him out.

12 In the exultation of the just there is great glory; when the impious reign, men fall into ruin.

13 He who hides his crimes shall not be directed, but he who confesses and forsakes them shall obtain mercy.

14 Blessed is the man who is always fearful, but he who is hardened in mind shall fall into evil.

15 A roaring lion and a hungry bear is an impious prince over a poor people.

16 A ruler lacking prudence shall oppress many by false accusation, but he who hates avarice—his days shall be made long.

17 A man who falsely accuses another concerning the blood of a soul—even if he flees as far as the pit, no one shall sustain him.

18 He who walks simply shall be saved; he who proceeds by perverse ways shall fall all at once.

19 He who works his land shall be satisfied with bread, but he who pursues idleness shall be filled with poverty.

20 A faithful man shall be greatly praised, but he who hastens to become rich shall not be innocent.

21 He who shows partiality in judgment does not do well; such a man forsakes truth even for a morsel of bread.

22 A man who hastens to become rich and envies others does not know that poverty shall come upon him.

23 He who corrects a man shall afterward find more favor with him than one who deceives through flatteries of the tongue.

24 He who takes something from his father and mother and says that this is no sin is the accomplice of a murderer.

25 He who boasts and enlarges himself stirs up quarrels, but he who hopes in the Lord shall be healed.

26 He who trusts in his own heart is a fool, but he who walks wisely shall be saved.

27 He who gives to the poor shall not be in need; he who despises the one who pleads shall endure poverty.

28 When the impious rise, men shall hide; when they perish, the just shall be multiplied.

CHAPTER 29

1 A man who stiffens his neck and despises the one correcting him—sudden destruction shall come upon him, and healing shall not follow him.

2 In the multiplication of the just, the common people shall rejoice; when the impious take dominion, the people shall groan.

3 A man who loves Wisdom gladdens his father, but he who maintains harlots shall lose his substance.

4 A just king raises up the land; an avaricious man shall destroy it.

5 A man who speaks flattering and feigned words to his friend spreads a net for his steps.

6 A snare shall entangle the iniquitous man who sins, but the just shall praise and rejoice.

7 The just knows the cause of the poor; the impious is ignorant of knowledge.

8 Pestilent men dissipate a city, but the wise turn away fury.

9 If a wise man contends with a fool, whether he is angry or laughs, he shall find no rest.

10 Men of blood hate the simple man, but the just seek his soul.

11 A fool pours forth all his spirit; the wise man defers and reserves it for afterward.

12 A prince who willingly hears lying words has all his servants impious.

13 The poor man and the creditor have met each other; the Lord is the illuminator of both.

14 The king who judges the poor in truth—his throne shall be established forever.

15 The rod and correction bestow wisdom, but the child who is left to his own will confounds his mother.

16 In the multiplication of the impious, crimes shall be multiplied, and the just shall see their ruin.

17 Instruct your son, and he shall refresh you and give delights to your soul.

18 When prophecy fails, the people shall be scattered; but he who keeps the law is blessed.

19 A servant cannot be instructed by words, because he understands what you say and scorns to answer.

20 Have you seen a man swift to speak? Folly is more to be hoped for than his correction.

21 He who delicately nurtures his servant from childhood shall afterward find him defiant.

22 An irascible man provokes quarrels, and he who is easily indignant shall be more prone to sin.

23 Humiliation follows the proud, and glory shall uphold the humble in spirit.

24 He who shares with a thief hates his own soul; he hears the adjuration and does not disclose it.

25 He who fears man shall quickly fall; he who hopes in the Lord shall be lifted up.

26 Many seek the face of the prince, but the judgment of each proceeds from the Lord.

27 The just abominate an impious man, and the impious abominate those who are in the upright way. A son who keeps the word shall be beyond destruction.

CHAPTER 30

1 The words of the Gatherer, the son of the Vomiter. The vision spoken by the man with whom God is, and who, strengthened by God dwelling with him, said:

2 “I am the most foolish of men, and the wisdom of men is not with me.

3 I have not learned Wisdom, and I have not known the knowledge of the holy ones.

4 Who has ascended into heaven and descended? Who has held the spirit in his hands? Who has bound the waters as in a garment? Who has raised up all the boundaries of the earth? What is his name, and what is the name of his Son, if you know?

5 Every word of God is fire-tried; he is a shield to those who hope in him.

6 Add nothing to his words, lest you be reproved and found a liar.

7 Two things I have asked of you; do not deny them to me before I die:

8 Remove vanity and lying words far from me; give me neither beggary nor riches—bestow only the necessities of my sustenance,

9 lest perhaps, being filled, I be enticed to deny and say, ‘Who is the Lord?’ or, compelled by poverty, I steal and perjure the name of my God.

10 Do not accuse a servant to his master, lest perhaps he curse you and you fall.”

11 A generation that curses its father and does not bless its mother;

12 a generation that seems clean to itself and yet is not washed from its filth;

13 a generation whose eyes are lofty and whose eyelids are raised on high;

14 a generation that has swords for teeth and chews with its molars, that it may devour the helpless from the earth and the poor from among men.

15 The leech has two daughters, saying, “Bring, bring.” Three things are insatiable, and a fourth never says, “Enough”:

16 the lower regions, the mouth of the womb, and the earth that is not satisfied with water; and fire never says, “Enough.”

17 The eye that mocks a father and despises the travail of its mother—let the ravens of the torrents pluck it out, and let the young of the eagle eat it!

18 Three things are difficult for me, and a fourth I know not at all:

19 the way of an eagle in heaven, the way of a serpent upon a rock, the way of a ship in the midst of the sea, and the way of a man in youth.

20 Such also is the way of an adulterous woman, who eats and, wiping her mouth, says, “I have done no evil.”

21 By three things the earth is moved, and a fourth it cannot bear:

22 by a servant when he reigns; by a fool when he is filled with food;

23 by a hateful woman when she is taken in marriage; and by a maidservant when she becomes heir to her mistress.

24 Four things are least upon the earth, and they are wiser than the wise:

25 the ants, a weak people who prepare their food in the harvest;

26 the little hare, a feeble people who place their lair in the rock;

27 the locust has no king, yet they all go forth by their companies;

28 the lizard supports itself on its hands and dwells in the palaces of kings.

29 Three things walk well, and a fourth proceeds prosperously:

30 the lion, strongest of beasts, shall fear no encounter;

31 the cock girded about the loins, and the ram; and there is no king who can resist him.

32 There is one who appeared a fool after being exalted on high; for if he had understood, he would have laid his hand upon his mouth.

33 He who presses the udders forcefully to draw out milk brings forth butter; he who blows the nose violently draws forth blood; and he who provokes angers produces discord.

CHAPTER 31

1 The words of King Lamuel. The vision by which his mother instructed him.

2 “What, my beloved? What, beloved of my womb? What, beloved of my vows?

3 Do not give your substance to women, nor your riches to the destruction of kings.

4 Do not give wine to kings, O Lamuel—do not give wine to kings, for there is no secret where drunkenness reigns;

5 lest perhaps they drink and forget judgments, and alter the cause of the children of the poor.

6 Give strong drink to those who mourn, and wine to those who are bitter in soul.

7 Let them drink and forget their poverty, and remember their sorrow no more.

8 Open your mouth for the mute and for the causes of all the children who pass away.

9 Open your mouth, decree what is just, and judge the helpless and the poor.”

10 Who shall find a valiant woman? Her worth is from afar and from the uttermost boundaries.

11 The heart of her husband trusts in her, and he shall have no need of spoils.

12 She shall render him good and not evil all the days of her life.

13 She has sought wool and flax and worked by the counsel of her hands.

14 She has become like the merchant’s ship, bringing her bread from afar.

15 She has risen in the night, given prey to her household, and food to her maidservants.

16 She considered a field and bought it; from the fruit of her hands she planted a vineyard.

17 She girded her loins with strength and fortified her arm.

18 She tasted and saw that her commerce was good; her lamp shall not be extinguished in the night.

19 She put her hand to strong things, and her fingers took hold of the spindle.

20 She opened her hand to the helpless and extended her palms to the poor.

21 She shall not fear the snows for her house, for all her household are clothed in double garments.

22 She made herself a tapestry garment; fine linen and purple are her clothing.

23 Her husband is noble in the gates when he sits with the senators of the land.

24 She made fine linen and sold it, and delivered a girdle to the Canaanite.

25 Strength and beauty are her clothing, and she shall laugh on the last day.

26 She opened her mouth to Wisdom, and the law of clemency is upon her tongue.

27 She considered the paths of her house and did not eat the bread of idleness.

28 Her children arose and proclaimed her most blessed; her husband also, and he praised her:

29 “Many daughters have gathered riches; you have surpassed them all.”

30 Grace is deceitful and beauty is vain; the woman who fears the Lord—she shall be praised.

31 Give her of the fruit of her hands, and let her works praise her in the gates.

BOOK TWENTY-ONE: ECCLESIASTES

CHAPTER 1

1 The words of Ecclesiastes, son of David, king of Jerusalem.

2 Vanity of vanities, said Ecclesiastes; vanity of vanities, and all is vanity.

3 What more does a man have from all his labor by which he labors under the sun?

4 A generation passes away, and a generation comes; but the earth stands forever.

5 The sun rises and sets, and returns to its place; and there, being born anew,

6 it circles through the south and bends toward the north. The spirit proceeds, surveying all things round about, and returns to its circuits.

7 All rivers enter the sea, and the sea does not overflow; to the place from which the rivers come forth they return, that they may flow again.

8 All things are difficult; man cannot explain them in speech. The eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor is the ear filled with hearing.

9 What is it that has been? The very thing that shall be. What is it that has been done? The very thing that shall be done.

10 Nothing under the sun is new, nor can anyone say, “Behold, this is recent,” for it has already gone before in the ages that were before us.

11 There is no memory of former things; neither shall there be remembrance among those who shall be in the last time of the things that shall come afterward.

12 I, Ecclesiastes, was king of Israel in Jerusalem,

13 and I resolved in my mind to seek and wisely investigate all things that are done under the sun. God has given this most grievous occupation to the children of men, that they may be occupied in it.

14 I saw all things that are done under the sun, and behold, all is vanity and affliction of spirit.

15 The perverse are corrected with difficulty, and the number of fools is infinite.

16 I spoke in my heart, saying, “Behold, I have become great, and I have surpassed in Wisdom all who were before me in Jerusalem”; and my mind contemplated many things wisely, and I learned.

17 And I gave my heart to know prudence and doctrine, and errors and folly; and I recognized that in these also there was labor and affliction of spirit,

18 because in much Wisdom there is much indignation, and he who adds knowledge also adds labor.

CHAPTER 2

1 I said in my heart, “I shall go and abound in delights and enjoy good things”; and I saw that this also was vanity.

2 I accounted laughter an error, and to joy I said, “Why are you deceived in vain?”

3 I considered in my heart withdrawing my flesh from wine, that I might direct my soul toward Wisdom and avoid folly, until I should see what was useful for the children of men, what work must be done under the sun during the numbered days of their life.

4 I magnified my works; I built houses for myself and planted vineyards.

5 I made gardens and orchards and planted them with trees of every kind.

6 And I constructed pools of water for myself, that I might irrigate a forest of growing trees.

7 I possessed male and female servants and had a numerous household; I also had herds and great flocks of sheep, beyond all who were before me in Jerusalem.

8 I heaped up silver and gold for myself, and the substance of kings and provinces; I made for myself male and female singers, and the delights of the children of men: cups and pitchers for service in pouring wines.

9 And I surpassed in riches all who were before me in Jerusalem; Wisdom also remained with me.

10 And whatever my eyes desired I did not deny them, nor did I restrain my heart from enjoying every pleasure and delighting itself in the things I had prepared; and I considered this my portion, if I made use of my labor.

11 And when I turned toward all the works my hands had made and toward the labors in which I had sweated in vain, I saw vanity and affliction of soul in all things, and that nothing endures under the sun.

12 I passed on to contemplate Wisdom, and errors, and folly. (What is man, I said, that he should be able to follow the king, his Maker?)

13 And I saw that Wisdom surpasses folly as greatly as light differs from darkness.

14 The eyes of the wise man are in his head; the fool walks in darkness. Yet I learned that one destruction awaits them both.

15 And I said in my heart, “If one fall shall befall both the fool and me, what does it profit me that I devoted myself more fully to Wisdom?” And speaking with my own mind, I perceived that this also was vanity.

16 For there shall be no perpetual memory of the wise man any more than of the fool, and future times shall equally cover all things with oblivion: the learned dies in the same way as the unlearned.

17 And therefore I became weary of my life, seeing that all things under the sun are evil, and all is vanity and affliction of spirit.

18 Again I detested all my industry, by which I labored most earnestly under the sun, since I must have an heir after me, 19 whom I do not know whether he shall be wise or foolish; yet he shall rule over my labors, for which I sweated and was anxious. And is anything so vain?

20 Therefore I ceased, and my heart renounced laboring any further under the sun.

21 For when one man labors in Wisdom, doctrine, and solicitude, he leaves what he has acquired to an idle man; this also is vanity and a great evil.

22 For what shall profit a man from all his labor and affliction of spirit, by which he has been tormented under the sun?

23 All his days are full of sorrows and miseries, nor does his mind rest even by night. Is this not also vanity?

24 Is it not better to eat and drink and show his soul good things from his labors? And this is from the hand of God.

25 Who shall devour and abound in delights as I have?

26 To the man who is good in his sight, God has given Wisdom, knowledge, and joy; but to the sinner he has given affliction and superfluous care, that he may add and gather and deliver it to the one who has pleased God. But this also is vanity and an empty solicitude of mind.

CHAPTER 3

1 All things have their time, and everything under heaven passes through its appointed intervals.

2 A time to be born and a time to die; a time to plant and a time to uproot what was planted.

3 A time to kill and a time to heal; a time to destroy and a time to build.

4 A time to weep and a time to laugh; a time to mourn and a time to dance.

5 A time to scatter stones and a time to gather them; a time to embrace and a time to withdraw far from embraces.

6 A time to acquire and a time to lose; a time to keep and a time to cast away.

7 A time to tear and a time to sew; a time to be silent and a time to speak.

8 A time of love and a time of hatred; a time of war and a time of peace.

9 What more does a man have from his labor?

10 I have seen the affliction that God has given to the children of men, that they may be occupied in it.

11 He has made all things good in their time, and has delivered the world to their consideration, yet so that man cannot discover the work God has wrought from beginning to end.

12 And I knew that there was nothing better than to rejoice and to do well in one's life,

13 for every man who eats and drinks and sees good from his labor—this is the gift of God.

14 I learned that all the works God has made endure forever. We can add nothing to them, nor take anything away from the things God has made, that he may be feared.

15 What has been made remains; things that shall be have already been, and God restores what has passed away.

16 I saw under the sun impiety in the place of judgment, and iniquity in the place of justice.

17 And I said in my heart, "God shall judge the just and the impious, and then shall be the time of every matter."

18 I said in my heart concerning the children of men that God would test them and show them to be like beasts.

19 Therefore one destruction belongs to man and beasts, and the condition of both is equal. As man dies, so they also die. All breathe alike, and man has nothing more than the beast; all are subject to vanity,

20 and all proceed to one place. They were made from the earth, and together they return to the earth.

21 Who knows whether the spirit of the children of Adam ascends upward, and whether the spirit of beasts descends downward?

22 And I discovered nothing better than for a man to rejoice in his work, and that this is his portion. For who shall bring him to know the things that shall be after him?

CHAPTER 4

1 I turned to other things and saw the oppressions committed under the sun, and the tears of the innocent, and no comforter; nor were they able to resist the violence of those who deprived them of all aid.

2 And I praised the dead more than the living,

3 and judged happier than both the one who has not yet been born and has not seen the evils that are done under the sun.

4 Again I contemplated all the labors of men, and perceived that their industries lie open to the envy of a neighbor; in this also there is vanity and superfluous care.

5 The fool folds his hands and consumes his own flesh, saying,

6 “Better is a handful with rest than both hands full with labor and affliction of soul.”

7 Considering, I also found another vanity under the sun.

8 There is one alone, and he has no second—neither son nor brother—and yet he does not cease to labor, nor are his eyes satisfied with riches; neither does he reflect, saying, “For whom do I labor and deprive my soul of good things?” In this also is vanity and a most grievous affliction.

9 Therefore it is better for two to be together than one, for they have the advantage of their companionship.

10 If one falls, he shall be supported by the other. Woe to him who is alone, for when he falls he has no one to lift him up.

11 And if two sleep, they shall warm one another; how shall one alone become warm?

12 And if someone prevails against one, two withstand him; a threefold cord is broken with difficulty.

13 Better is a poor and wise child than an old and foolish king who does not know how to foresee what is to come.

14 For sometimes one comes forth from prison and chains to a kingdom, while another, born in a kingdom, is consumed by poverty.

15 I saw all the living who walk under the sun with the second young man, who shall arise in his place.

16 Infinite is the number of all the people who were before him, and those who shall come afterward shall not rejoice in him; but this also is vanity and affliction of spirit.

17 Guard your foot when entering the house of God, and draw near that you may hear. For obedience is far better than the sacrifices of fools, who do not know what evil they do.

CHAPTER 5

1 Do not speak anything rashly, nor let your heart be swift to bring forth a word before God. For God is in heaven, and you upon earth; therefore let your words be few.

2 Dreams follow many cares, and folly shall be found in many words.

3 If you have vowed anything to God, do not delay to render it, for an unfaithful and foolish promise displeases him; but whatever you have vowed, render it.

4 And it is far better not to vow than, after a vow, not to render the things promised.

5 Do not give your mouth leave to cause your flesh to sin, nor say before the angel, “There is no providence,” lest perhaps God, angered against your words, dissipate all the works of your hands.

6 Where there are many dreams, there are very many vanities and innumerable words; but you, fear God.

7 If you see the oppression of the poor, violent judgments, and justice overthrown in a province, do not wonder at this matter; for another is higher than the high, and over these also are others more eminent.

8 And moreover, the king of the whole earth commands the one who serves.

9 The avaricious man shall not be filled with money, and he who loves riches shall take no fruit from them; this also is vanity.

10 Where there are many riches, there are also many who consume them. And what does it profit the possessor, except that he sees the riches with his eyes?

11 Sweet is the sleep of him who works, whether he eats little or much; but the fullness of the rich man does not permit him to sleep.

12 There is also another most grievous infirmity that I have seen under the sun: riches preserved to the harm of their owner.

13 For they perish in a most grievous affliction; he has begotten a son who shall be in utmost poverty.

14 As he came naked from his mother’s womb, so shall he return, and he shall take nothing with him from his labor.

15 An altogether miserable infirmity: as he came, so shall he return. What then does it profit him that he labored for the wind?

16 All the days of his life he eats in darkness, and in many cares, and in misery and sadness.

17 This, then, seemed good to me: that one should eat and drink and enjoy gladness from the labor by which he has labored under the sun, during the numbered days of his life that God has given him; for this is his portion.

18 And to every man to whom God has given riches and substance, and has bestowed power to eat from them, enjoy his portion, and rejoice in his labor—this is the gift of God.

19 For he shall not greatly remember the days of his life, because God occupies his heart with delights.

CHAPTER 6

1 There is also another evil that I have seen under the sun, and indeed one frequent among men:

2 a man to whom God has given riches, substance, and honor, and whose soul lacks nothing of all it desires; yet God does not grant him power to eat from it, but a stranger shall devour it. This is vanity and great misery.

3 If a man should beget a hundred children and live many years and have many days of age, yet his soul does not enjoy the goods of his substance and he lacks burial, I declare concerning him that a stillborn child is better than he.

4 For it came in vain and proceeds into darkness, and its name shall be blotted out by oblivion.

5 It has not seen the sun, nor known the distinction between good and evil.

6 Even if he had lived two thousand years and had not fully enjoyed good things, do not all things hasten to one place?

7 All the labor of man is for his mouth, yet his soul shall not be filled.

8 What more has the wise man than the fool? And what has the poor man, except that he should proceed there where life is?

9 Better is it to see what you desire than to desire what you do not know. But this also is vanity and presumption of spirit.

10 He who shall be has already had his name called, and it is known that he is man and cannot contend in judgment against one stronger than himself.

11 There are very many words, having much vanity in disputation.

CHAPTER 7

1 What need is there for a man to seek things greater than himself, when he does not know what is expedient for him in his life, during the numbered days of his pilgrimage and the time that passes like a shadow? Or who shall be able to show him what shall be after him under the sun?

2 A good name is better than precious ointments, and the day of death than the day of birth.

3 It is better to go to the house of mourning than to the house of feasting, for in the former the end of all men is recalled, and the living man considers what shall be.

4 Anger is better than laughter, because through sadness of countenance the soul of the offender is corrected.

5 The heart of the wise is where sadness is, and the heart of fools where gladness is.

6 It is better to be corrected by a wise man than to be deceived by the flattery of fools,

7 for as the sound of thorns burning beneath a pot, so is the laughter of a fool. But this also is vanity.

8 Oppression troubles the wise man and shall destroy the strength of his heart.

9 Better is the end of a discourse than its beginning. Better is the patient man than the arrogant.

10 Do not be swift to anger, for anger rests in the bosom of a fool.

11 Do not say, “What do you think is the reason that former times were better than they are now?” For such a question is foolish.

12 Wisdom with riches is more useful and profits those who see the sun more greatly.

13 For as Wisdom protects, so does money protect; but doctrine and Wisdom have this greater thing: they give life to their possessor.

14 Consider the works of God, for no one can correct the one whom he has despised.

15 In a good day enjoy good things, and guard against an evil day; for God has made the one as well as the other, so that man may find no just complaints against him.

16 I also saw this in the days of my vanity: the just man perishes in his justice, and the impious man lives a long time in his malice.

17 Do not be just to excess, nor be wiser than is necessary, lest you become stupefied.

18 Do not act with excessive impiety, and do not be foolish, lest you die before your time.

19 It is good for you to sustain the just man; but do not withdraw your hand from the other either, for he who fears God neglects nothing.

20 Wisdom has strengthened the wise man above ten princes of a city,

21 for there is no just man upon earth who does good and does not sin.

22 Do not apply your heart to all the words that are spoken, lest perhaps you hear your servant cursing you,

23 for your conscience knows that you also have frequently cursed others.

24 I tested all things in Wisdom. I said, “I shall become wise,” and she withdrew farther from me,

25 much farther than she had been. It is a profound depth; who shall find her?

26 I surveyed all things in my mind, that I might know, consider, and seek Wisdom and reason, and that I might know the impiety of the fool and the error of the imprudent.

27 And I found a woman more bitter than death: she is the snare of hunters, her heart is a dragnet, and her hands are bonds. He who pleases God shall escape her, but the sinner shall be captured by her.

28 Behold, I found this, said Ecclesiastes, taking one thing after another that I might find the reason,

29 which my soul still seeks, and I have not found. One man among a thousand I found; a woman among them all I did not find.

30 This alone I found: that God made man upright, but he has entangled himself in infinite questions. Who is such as the wise man? And who has known the solution of the word?

CHAPTER 8

1 The Wisdom of a man shines in his countenance, and the Most Powerful shall change his face.

2 I observe the mouth of the king and the commandments of the oath of God.

3 Do not hasten to depart from his face, nor persist in an evil work, for he shall do all that he wills.

4 And his word is full of power, nor can anyone say to him, “Why do you do so?”

5 He who keeps the commandment shall experience no evil. The heart of the wise understands the time and the answer.

6 For every matter there is a time and an opportunity, and the affliction of man is great,

7 because he is ignorant of the past, and by no messenger can he know the future.

8 It is not in man’s power to restrain the spirit, nor does he have power in the day of death; neither is he permitted to rest when war presses upon him, nor shall impiety save the impious.

9 I considered all these things and gave my heart to all the works that are done under the sun. Sometimes a man rules over another man to his own harm.

10 I saw impious men buried who, even while they lived, were in the holy place and were praised in the city as though their works were just. But this also is vanity.

11 For because sentence against the evil is not swiftly pronounced, the children of men perpetrate evils without any fear.

12 Yet although the sinner does evil a hundred times and is sustained through patience, I know that it shall be well with those who fear God, who revere his face.

13 Let it not be well with the impious, nor let his days be prolonged; but let those who do not fear the face of the Lord (YHWH) pass like a shadow.

14 There is also another vanity that takes place upon the earth: there are just men to whom evils come as though they had done the works of the impious, and there are impious men who are as secure as though they had the deeds of the just. But I judge this also most vain.

15 Therefore I praised gladness, because there is no good for a man under the sun except to eat, drink, and rejoice, and to take this alone with him from his labor during the days of his life that God has given him under the sun.

16 And I applied my heart to know Wisdom and to understand the occupation that is carried on upon the earth. There is a man who takes no sleep into his eyes by day or by night.

17 And I understood that man can discover no reason for all the works of God that are done under the sun; and the more he labors to seek it, the less he finds. Even if the wise man says that he knows, he shall not be able to discover it.

CHAPTER 9

1 I examined all these things in my heart, that I might understand carefully. The just and the wise, and their works, are in the hand of God; and yet man does not know whether he is worthy of love or hatred.

2 But all things are kept uncertain for the future, because all things happen equally to the just and the impious, to the good and the evil, to the clean and the unclean, to him who offers sacrifices and him who despises them. As is the good man, so also the sinner; as is the perjurer, so also he who swears the truth.

3 This is the worst among all things that are done under the sun: that the same things happen to all. Therefore the hearts of the children of men are filled with malice and contempt in their life, and after these things they shall be led down to the lower regions.

4 There is no one who lives forever or has confidence concerning this thing; a living dog is better than a dead lion.

5 For the living know that they shall die; but the dead know nothing more, nor do they have any further reward, for their memory has been delivered to oblivion.

6 Their love also, and hatred, and envies have all perished; neither do they have a portion in this age or in the work that is done under the sun.

7 Go, therefore, and eat your bread in gladness, and drink your wine with joy, for your works please God.

8 At all times let your garments be white, and let oil not fail from your head.

9 Enjoy life with the wife whom you love, all the days of your unstable life that have been given to you under the sun, throughout all the time of your vanity; for this is your portion in life and in your labor by which you labor under the sun.

10 Whatever your hand is able to do, work earnestly, for neither work, nor reason, nor Wisdom, nor knowledge shall be in the lower regions, toward which you hasten.

11 I turned to another thing and saw under the sun that the race does not belong to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor bread to the wise, nor riches to the learned, nor favor to craftsmen; but time and chance are in all things.

12 Man does not know his end; but as fishes are caught with a hook and birds seized in a snare, so men are caught in an evil time when it comes upon them suddenly.

13 I also saw this Wisdom under the sun, and I proved it to be very great:

14 there was a small city with few men in it; a great king came against it, surrounded it, and built fortifications all around it, and the siege was completed.

15 And there was found in it a poor and wise man, and he delivered the city through his Wisdom; yet afterward no one remembered that poor man.

16 And I said that Wisdom is better than strength. How, then, is the Wisdom of the poor man despised, and his words not heard?

17 The words of the wise are heard in silence more than the cry of a prince among fools.

18 Wisdom is better than weapons of war, and he who sins in one thing shall lose many good things.

CHAPTER 10

1 Dying flies destroy the sweetness of ointment. Wisdom and glory are more precious than a little folly lasting only a time.

2 The heart of the wise man is at his right hand, and the heart of the fool at his left.

3 Yet even when a fool walks along the way, though he himself is senseless, he considers everyone foolish.

4 If the spirit of one who has power rises against you, do not leave your place, for healing shall cause the greatest sins to cease.

5 There is an evil I have seen under the sun, as though proceeding by error from the face of the prince:

6 a fool placed in exalted dignity, and the rich sitting below.

7 I have seen servants upon horses and princes walking upon the ground like servants.

8 He who digs a pit shall fall into it, and he who tears down a hedge shall be bitten by a serpent.

9 He who moves stones shall be afflicted by them, and he who splits wood shall be wounded by it.

10 If the iron has become blunt and is not as before but has grown dull, it shall be sharpened with much labor, and Wisdom shall follow after industry.

11 If a serpent bites in silence, he who secretly detracts has nothing less than it.

12 The words of the wise man’s mouth are grace, but the lips of the senseless shall cast him down.

13 The beginning of his words is folly, and the end of his mouth is a most grievous error.

14 The fool multiplies words. Man does not know what was before him, and who shall be able to show him what shall be after him?

15 The labor of fools shall afflict those who do not know how to proceed into the city.

16 Woe to you, O land, whose king is a child and whose princes eat in the morning.

17 Blessed is the land whose king is noble and whose princes eat at their proper time, for refreshment and not for luxury.

18 Through slothfulness the framework shall be brought low, and through the weakness of hands the house shall drip.

19 They make bread for laughter and wine that the living may feast; and all things obey money.

20 Do not detract from the king in your thought, and do not curse the rich man in the secrecy of your chamber, for even the birds of heaven shall carry your voice, and that which has wings shall announce the sentence.

CHAPTER 11

1 Cast your bread upon the passing waters, for after many times you shall find it.

2 Give a portion to seven and also to eight, for you do not know what evil shall be upon the earth.

3 If the clouds are filled, they shall pour rain upon the earth. If a tree falls toward the south or toward the north, in whatever place it falls, there it shall be.

4 He who observes the wind does not sow, and he who considers the clouds shall never reap.

5 As you do not know the way of the spirit, nor by what reason bones are joined together in the womb of a pregnant woman, so you do not know the works of God, who is the Maker of all things.

6 In the morning sow your seed, and in the evening let not your hand cease, for you do not know which shall spring forth more, this or that; and if both together, it shall be better.

7 Light is sweet, and it is delightful for the eyes to see the sun.

8 If a man lives many years and rejoices in them all, he ought to remember the time of darkness and the many days which, when they come, shall convict the things past of vanity.

9 Rejoice, therefore, young man, in your youth, and let your heart be in good things in the days of your youth; and walk in the ways of your heart and in the sight of your eyes, but know that for all these things God shall bring you into judgment.

10 Remove anger from your heart and put malice away from your flesh, for youth and pleasure are vain.

CHAPTER 12

1 Remember your Creator in the days of your youth, before the time of affliction comes and the years draw near of which you shall say, “They do not please me”;

2 before the sun and the light and the moon and the stars are darkened, and the clouds return after the rain;

3 when the keepers of the house shall be shaken, and the strongest men shall stagger, and the grinders shall be idle because they are few, and those who see through the openings shall grow dark;

4 and the doors in the street shall be closed, when the voice of the grinding is lowered, and they shall rise at the voice of the bird, and all the daughters of song shall grow deaf.

5 They shall also fear heights and dread the road. The almond tree shall blossom, the locust shall grow fat, and the caper shall be scattered, because man shall go into the house of his eternity, and mourners shall go round about in the street.

6 Before the silver cord is broken, and the golden fillet draws back, and the pitcher is shattered at the fountain, and the wheel is broken at the cistern,

7 and the dust returns to its earth from which it came, and the spirit returns to God who gave it.

8 Vanity of vanities, said Ecclesiastes, and all is vanity.

9 And because Ecclesiastes was most wise, he taught the people and narrated the things he had done; and searching, he composed many parables.

10 He sought useful words and wrote most upright sayings full of truth.

11 The words of the wise are like goads and like nails driven deeply, which were given through the counsel of masters by one shepherd.

12 Beyond these, my son, seek nothing more. Of making many books there is no end, and frequent meditation is an affliction of the flesh.

13 Let us all hear together the conclusion of the discourse: Fear God and keep his commandments, for this is the whole of man;

14 and God shall bring all things that are done into judgment for every error, whether it is good or evil.

BOOK TWENTY-TWO: SONG OF SONGS

CHAPTER 1

1 Bride: Let him kiss me with the kiss of his mouth, for your breasts are better than wine,

2 fragrant with the finest ointments. Your name is oil poured forth; therefore the young maidens have loved you.

3 Chorus of Young Maidens: Draw me; after you we shall run in the fragrance of your ointments. The king has brought me into his storerooms; we shall exult and rejoice in you, remembering your breasts above wine. The upright love you.

4 Bride: I am black but beautiful, O daughters of Jerusalem, like the tabernacles of Cedar, like the skins of Solomon.

5 Do not regard me because I am dark, for the sun has discolored me. The sons of my mother fought against me; they made me keeper in the vineyards. My own vineyard I have not kept.

6 Tell me, you whom my soul loves, where you feed, where you lie at midday, lest I begin to wander after the flocks of your companions.

7 Bridegroom: If you do not know yourself, O most beautiful among women, go forth and follow the footsteps of the flocks, and feed your kids beside the tabernacles of the shepherds.

8 To my company of horses among Pharaoh’s chariots I have likened you, my beloved.

9 Beautiful are your cheeks like those of a turtledove; your neck is like necklaces.

10 We shall make you chains of gold, inlaid with silver.

11 Bride: While the king was at his repose, my nard gave forth its fragrance.

12 My beloved is to me a bundle of myrrh; he shall abide between my breasts.

13 My beloved is to me a cluster of henna in the vineyards of Engaddi.

14 Bridegroom: Behold, you are beautiful, my beloved! Behold, you are beautiful! Your eyes are those of doves.

15 Bride: Behold, you are beautiful, my beloved, and comely! Our little bed is flowering.

16 The beams of our houses are cedar, and our ceilings are cypress.

CHAPTER 2

1 I am the flower of the field and the lily of the valleys.

2 Bridegroom: As a lily among thorns, so is my beloved among daughters.

3 Bride: As the apple tree among the trees of the forests, so is my beloved among sons. Beneath the shadow of him whom I desired I sat, and his fruit was sweet to my palate.

4 He brought me into the wine cellar; he ordered charity within me.

5 Sustain me with flowers, surround me with apples, for I languish with love.

6 His left hand is beneath my head, and his right hand shall embrace me.

7 Bridegroom: I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes and the harts of the fields, that you do not awaken or cause the beloved to awake until she wills.

8 Bride: The voice of my beloved! Behold, he comes, leaping upon the mountains, bounding over the hills.

9 My beloved is like a roe or a young hart. Behold, he stands behind our wall, looking through the windows, gazing through the lattices.

10 Behold, my beloved speaks to me. Bridegroom: Arise, make haste, my beloved, my dove, my beautiful one, and come;

11 for now the winter has passed; the rain has gone and withdrawn.

12 Flowers have appeared in our land; the time of pruning has come, and the voice of the turtledove has been heard in our land.

13 The fig tree has brought forth its green figs; the flowering vineyards have given their fragrance. Arise, my beloved, my beautiful one, and come;

14 my dove in the clefts of the rock, in the hollow of the wall, show me your face; let your voice sound in my ears, for your voice is sweet and your face beautiful.

15 Bride: Catch for us the little foxes that destroy the vineyards, for our vineyard has flowered.

16 My beloved is mine, and I am his—he who feeds among the lilies—

17 until the day breathes and the shadows incline. Return; be like the roe, my beloved, or the young hart upon the mountains of Bether.

CHAPTER 3

1 On my little bed, through the nights, I sought him whom my soul loves. I sought him and did not find him.

2 I shall arise and circle the city; through the streets and squares I shall seek him whom my soul loves. I sought him and did not find him.

3 The watchmen who guard the city found me. “Have you seen him whom my soul loves?”

4 When I had passed them only a little, I found him whom my soul loves. I held him and shall not let him go until I bring him into my mother’s house and into the chamber of her who bore me.

5 Bridegroom: I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes and the harts of the fields, that you do not awaken or cause the beloved to awake until she wills.

6 Chorus: Who is she who ascends through the desert like a column of smoke from the spices of myrrh and frankincense and every powder of the perfumer?

7 Behold, sixty of the strongest men of Israel surround Solomon’s little bed,

8 all holding swords and most skilled in war, each man’s sword upon his thigh because of fears in the night.

9 King Solomon made himself a litter from the woods of Lebanon.

10 He made its pillars of silver, its reclining place of gold, its ascent of purple; its midst he paved with charity for the daughters of Jerusalem.

11 Go forth and see, O daughters of Zion, King Solomon in the diadem with which his mother crowned him on the day of his betrothal and on the day of the gladness of his heart.

CHAPTER 4

1 Bridegroom: How beautiful you are, my beloved! How beautiful you are! Your eyes are those of doves, apart from what lies hidden within. Your hair is like flocks of goats that have ascended from Mount Galaad.

2 Your teeth are like flocks of shorn sheep that have ascended from the washing; all bear twins, and none among them is barren.

3 Your lips are like a scarlet ribbon, and your speech is sweet. Your cheeks are like a fragment of pomegranate, apart from what lies hidden within.

4 Your neck is like the tower of David, which was built with bulwarks; a thousand shields hang from it, all the armor of mighty men.

5 Your two breasts are like two young roes, twins of a doe, that feed among lilies.

6 Until the day breathes and the shadows incline, I shall go to the mountain of myrrh and the hill of frankincense.

7 You are wholly beautiful, my beloved, and there is no blemish in you.

8 Come from Lebanon, my bride; come from Lebanon, come—you shall be crowned—from the summit of Amana, from the peaks of Sanir and Hermon, from the dens of lions, from the mountains of leopards.

9 You have wounded my heart, my sister, my bride; you have wounded my heart with one of your eyes and with one hair of your neck.

10 How beautiful are your breasts, my sister, my bride! Your breasts are more beautiful than wine, and the fragrance of your ointments above all spices.

11 Your lips are a dripping honeycomb, my bride; honey and milk are beneath your tongue, and the fragrance of your garments is like the fragrance of frankincense.

12 A garden enclosed is my sister, my bride—a garden enclosed, a fountain sealed.

13 Your shoots are a paradise of pomegranates with the fruits of apples, henna with nard,

14 nard and saffron, sweet cane and cinnamon, with all the trees of Lebanon; myrrh and aloe, with all the finest ointments.

15 A fountain of gardens, a well of living waters that flow with force from Lebanon.

16 Bride: Arise, north wind, and come, south wind; breathe through my garden, and let its spices flow.

CHAPTER 5

1 Let my beloved come into his garden and eat the fruit of his apples. Bridegroom: I have come into my garden, my sister, my bride; I have harvested my myrrh with my spices; I have eaten the honeycomb with my honey; I have drunk my wine with my milk. Eat, friends, and drink, and become inebriated, dearly beloved.

2 Bride: I sleep, but my heart keeps watch. The voice of my beloved knocking: Bridegroom: Open to me, my sister, my beloved, my dove, my immaculate one, for my head is full of dew and my locks with the drops of the nights.

3 Bride: I have taken off my tunic; how shall I put it on? I have washed my feet; how shall I soil them?

4 My beloved put his hand through the opening, and my belly trembled at his touch.

5 I arose to open to my beloved; my hands dripped with myrrh and my fingers were full of the choicest myrrh.

6 I opened the bolt of my door to my beloved, but he had turned aside and passed away. My soul melted when he spoke. I sought him and did not find him; I called, and he did not answer me.

7 The watchmen who go about the city found me; they struck me and wounded me. The keepers of the walls took my mantle from me.

8 I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem, if you find my beloved, that you tell him I languish with love.

9 Chorus: What is your beloved beyond another beloved, O most beautiful of women? What is your beloved beyond another beloved, that you have so adjured us?

10 Bride: My beloved is radiant white and ruddy, chosen from thousands.

11 His head is finest gold; his locks are like lofty palms, black as a raven.

12 His eyes are like doves beside streams of waters, washed with milk and resting beside the fullest currents.

13 His cheeks are like beds of spices planted by perfumers. His lips are lilies dripping the finest myrrh.

14 His hands are rounded, golden, full of hyacinths. His belly is ivory adorned with sapphires.

15 His legs are pillars of marble founded upon bases of gold. His appearance is like Lebanon, chosen as the cedars.

16 His throat is most sweet, and he is altogether desirable. Such is my beloved, and he is my friend, O daughters of Jerusalem.

17 Chorus: Where has your beloved gone, O most beautiful of women? Where has your beloved turned aside? And we shall seek him with you.

CHAPTER 6

1 Bride: My beloved has descended into his garden, to the bed of spices, that he may feed in the gardens and gather lilies.

2 I am my beloved’s, and my beloved is mine—he who feeds among the lilies.

3 Bridegroom: You are beautiful, my beloved, sweet and comely as Jerusalem, terrible as an army set in array.

4 Turn your eyes away from me, for they have made me fly away. Your hair is like a flock of goats that appeared from Galaad.

5 Your teeth are like a flock of sheep that ascended from the washing; all bear twins, and none among them is barren.

6 Your cheeks are like the rind of a pomegranate, apart from your hidden things.

7 There are sixty queens and eighty concubines, and of young maidens there is no number.

8 One is my dove, my perfect one; she is the only one of her mother, chosen by her who bore her. The daughters saw her and proclaimed her most blessed; the queens and concubines also praised her.

9 Who is she who comes forth like the rising dawn, beautiful as the moon, chosen as the sun, terrible as an army set in array?

10 Bride: I descended into the garden of nuts to see the fruits of the valleys and to behold whether the vineyard had flowered and the pomegranates had budded.

11 I did not know; my soul troubled me because of the chariots of Aminadab.

12 Chorus: Return, return, O Sulamitess! Return, return, that we may behold you.

CHAPTER 7

1 Bride: What shall you see in the Sulamitess except the dances of armies? Chorus: How beautiful are your steps in sandals, O daughter of a prince! The joints of your thighs are like necklaces fashioned by the hand of an artisan.

2 Your navel is a rounded bowl, never lacking cups. Your belly is like a heap of wheat surrounded by lilies.

3 Your two breasts are like two young roes, twins of a doe.

4 Your neck is like an ivory tower; your eyes are like the pools in Hesebon, which are at the gate of the daughter of the multitude. Your nose is like the tower of Lebanon, looking toward Damascus.

5 Your head is like Carmel, and the hair of your head like royal purple bound in channels.

6 Bridegroom: How beautiful you are, and how comely, dearest one, amid delights!

7 Your stature is likened to the palm tree, and your breasts to clusters.

8 I said, “I shall ascend the palm tree and take hold of its fruits”; and your breasts shall be like clusters of the vine, and the fragrance of your mouth like apples.

9 Your throat is like the finest wine, worthy for my beloved to drink and for his lips and teeth to savor.

10 Bride: I am my beloved’s, and his turning is toward me.

11 Come, my beloved, let us go forth into the field; let us abide in the villages.

12 Let us arise early to the vineyards; let us see whether the vineyard has flowered, whether the flowers bring forth fruit, whether the pomegranates have blossomed. There I shall give you my breasts.

13 The mandrakes have given their fragrance. At our gates are all fruits, new and old, my beloved, which I have kept for you.

CHAPTER 8

1 Who shall give you to me as my brother, nursing at my mother’s breasts, that I might find you outside and kiss you, and now no one would despise me?

2 I shall take hold of you and lead you into my mother’s house; there you shall teach me, and I shall give you a cup of spiced wine and the new wine of my pomegranates.

3 His left hand is beneath my head, and his right hand shall embrace me.

4 Bridegroom: I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem, that you do not awaken or cause the beloved to awake until she wills.

5 Chorus: Who is she who ascends from the desert, abounding in delights, leaning upon her beloved? Bridegroom: Beneath the apple tree I awakened you; there your mother was corrupted, there she who bore you was violated.

6 Bride: Set me as a seal upon your heart, as a seal upon your arm, for love is strong as death, jealousy hard as the lower regions; its lamps are lamps of fire and flames.

7 Many waters could not extinguish charity, nor shall rivers overwhelm it. If a man should give all the substance of his house for love, he shall despise it as nothing.

8 Chorus of Brothers: Our sister is little and has no breasts; what shall we do for our sister on the day when she is spoken for?

9 If she is a wall, let us build upon it silver bulwarks; if she is a door, let us join it together with boards of cedar.

10 Bride: I am a wall, and my breasts are like a tower; from that time I became before him as one finding peace.

11 Chorus of Brothers: The Peaceful One had a vineyard in her who has peoples; he delivered it to keepers. A man brings a thousand pieces of silver for its fruit.

12 Bride: My vineyard is before me. A thousand are yours, O Peaceful One, and two hundred for those who keep its fruit.

13 Bridegroom: You who dwell in the gardens, the friends listen; cause me to hear your voice.

14 Bride: Flee, my beloved, and be like the roe or the young hart upon the mountains of spices.

BOOK TWENTY-THREE: ISAIAH

CHAPTER 1

1 The vision of Isaiah, son of Amos, which he saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the days of Uzziah, Joatham, Achaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah.

2 Hear, O heavens, and give ear, O earth, for the Lord (YHWH) has spoken: “I have nourished and exalted sons, but they have despised me.

3 The ox knows his owner, and the ass the manger of its master; but Israel has not known me, and my people have not understood.”

4 Woe to the sinful nation, a people heavy with iniquity, a wicked seed, criminal sons! They have forsaken the Lord; they have blasphemed the Holy One of Israel; they have become estranged backward.

5 Where shall I strike you any further, you who add transgression? Every head is faint, and every heart mourns.

6 From the sole of the foot even to the crown there is no soundness in it: wound and bruise and swelling sore, not bound up, nor treated with medicine, nor soothed with oil.

7 Your land is desolate; your cities are burned with fire. Strangers devour your region before you, and it shall be desolated as in the devastation of enemies.

8 And the daughter of Zion shall be left as a shelter in a vineyard, and as a hut in a cucumber field, and as a city laid waste.

9 Unless the Lord of hosts had left us a seed, we would have been as Sodom and become like Gomorrah.

10 Hear the word of the Lord, princes of Sodom; give ear to the law of our God, people of Gomorrah.

11 “Of what use to me is the multitude of your victims?” says the Lord. “I am full. I have not desired holocausts of rams, the fat of fatlings, or the blood of calves and lambs and goats.

12 When you came before my sight, who required these things from your hands, that you should walk in my courts?

13 Offer sacrifice in vain no more; incense is an abomination to me. The new moon and Sabbath and other festivities I shall not endure; your assemblies are iniquitous.

14 My soul has hated your calends and solemnities; they have become burdensome to me; I have labored to bear them.

15 And when you stretch forth your hands, I shall turn my eyes away from you; and when you multiply prayer, I shall not hear, for your hands are full of blood.

16 Wash yourselves; be clean. Remove the evil of your thoughts from before my eyes. Cease to act perversely;

17 learn to do good; seek judgment; assist the oppressed; judge for the orphan; defend the widow.”

18 “And come and accuse me,” says the Lord. “If your sins are as scarlet, they shall be made white as snow; and if they are red as crimson, they shall be white as wool.

19 If you are willing and hear me, you shall eat the good things of the land.

20 But if you are unwilling and provoke me to anger, the sword shall devour you, for the mouth of the Lord has spoken.”

21 How has the faithful city, full of judgment, become a harlot? Justice dwelt in her, but now murderers.

22 Your silver has turned into dross; your wine is mixed with water.

23 Your princes are unfaithful, companions of thieves. All love gifts and pursue rewards. They do not judge for the orphan, and the cause of the widow does not come before them.

24 Therefore the Lord, the God of hosts, the Mighty One of Israel, says: “Ah! I shall console myself over my enemies and be avenged upon my adversaries.

25 And I shall turn my hand upon you, smelt your dross to purity, and remove all your tin.

26 And I shall restore your judges as they were before, and your counselors as of old. After these things you shall be called the city of the just, the faithful city.

27 Zion shall be redeemed in judgment, and they shall lead her back in justice.

28 And he shall crush the wicked and sinners together, and those who have forsaken the Lord shall be consumed.

29 For they shall be confounded by the idols to which they sacrificed, and you shall be ashamed of the gardens you chose,

30 when you shall be like an oak whose leaves fall, and like a garden without water.

31 And your strength shall be like the ash of tow, and your work like a spark; both shall burn together, and there shall be no one to extinguish them.”

CHAPTER 2

1 The word that Isaiah, son of Amos, saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

2 And in the last days, the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be prepared upon the summit of mountains and shall be exalted above the hills, and all nations shall flow to it.

3 And many peoples shall go and say, “Come, and let us ascend to the mountain of the Lord and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he shall teach us his ways, and we shall walk in his paths.” For the law shall go forth from Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem.

4 And he shall judge the nations and rebuke many peoples; and they shall forge their swords into plowshares and their spears into sickles. Nation shall not lift sword against nation, nor shall they be trained for battle any more.

5 O house of Jacob, come, and let us walk in the light of the Lord.

6 For you have cast away your people, the house of Jacob, because they are filled as in former times, have had soothsayers like the Philistines, and have adhered to foreign children.

7 Their land is filled with silver and gold, and there is no end to their treasures.

8 And their land is filled with horses, and their chariots are innumerable. Their land is also filled with idols; they have adored the work of their own hands, which their fingers made.

9 And man has bowed himself, and the man has been humbled; therefore do not forgive them.

10 Enter into the rock and hide in a pit in the ground from the face of the fear of the Lord and from the glory of his majesty.

11 The lofty eyes of man have been humbled, and the height of men shall bow down; but the Lord alone shall be exalted on that day.

12 For the day of the Lord of hosts shall be upon everyone proud and lofty, and upon everyone arrogant, and he shall be humbled;

13 and upon all the lofty and erect cedars of Lebanon, and upon all the oaks of Basan;

14 and upon all the high mountains, and upon all the elevated hills;

15 and upon every lofty tower, and upon every fortified wall;

16 and upon all the ships of Tharsis, and upon everything beautiful to behold.

17 And the loftiness of men shall bow down, and the height of men shall be humbled, and the Lord alone shall be exalted on that day.

18 And the idols shall be utterly crushed.

19 And they shall enter the caves of the rocks and the chasms of the earth, from the face of the dread of the Lord and from the glory of his majesty, when he arises to strike the earth.

20 On that day man shall cast away his idols of silver and his images of gold, which he had made for himself to adore, to the moles and the bats.

21 And he shall enter the clefts of rocks and the caverns of stones, from the face of the dread of the Lord and from the glory of his majesty, when he arises to strike the earth.

22 Cease, therefore, from man, whose spirit is in his nostrils, for he has been reputed exalted.

CHAPTER 3

1 For behold, the Sovereign, the Lord of hosts, shall take away from Jerusalem and Judah the strong and the mighty, every strength of bread and every strength of water;

2 the mighty man and the man of war, the judge and the prophet, the diviner and the elder;

3 the prince over fifty, the honorable in countenance and the counselor, the wise among architects, and the prudent in mystical speech.

4 “And I shall give them children as their princes, and the effeminate shall rule over them.

5 And the people shall rush upon one another, man against man and each against his neighbor; the child shall rise tumultuously against the elder, and the ignoble against the noble.

6 For a man shall seize his brother, one of his father’s household: ‘You have a garment; be our prince, and let this ruin be beneath your hand.’

7 He shall answer on that day, saying, ‘I am no physician, and in my house there is neither bread nor garment. Do not appoint me prince of the people.’”

8 For Jerusalem has fallen and Judah has collapsed, because their tongue and their inventions are against the Lord, to provoke the eyes of his majesty.

9 The recognition of their countenance has answered against them; they have proclaimed their sin like Sodom and have not hidden it. Woe to their soul, for evils have been rendered to them!

10 Say to the just man that it is well, for he shall eat the fruit of his inventions.

11 Woe to the impious man unto evil, for the retribution of his hands shall be done to him.

12 Their exactors have despoiled my people, and women have ruled over them. O my people, those who call you blessed are themselves deceiving you and destroying the way of your steps.

13 The Lord stands to judge; he stands to judge the peoples.

14 The Lord shall enter into judgment with the elders of his people and its princes: “For you have devoured the vineyard, and the plunder of the poor is in your house.

15 Why do you grind down my people and crush the faces of the poor?” says the Lord God of hosts.

16 And the Lord said: “Because the daughters of Zion are exalted, have walked with outstretched neck, gone with gestures of the eyes, clapped as they walked with their feet, and proceeded with affected step,

17 the Lord shall make bald the crown of the daughters of Zion, and the Lord shall uncover their hair.”

18 On that day the Lord shall take away their ornamental shoes,

19 and little moons, necklaces, jeweled chains, bracelets, and miters;

20 hair ornaments, anklets, little chains, perfume vessels, and earrings;

21 rings and jewels hanging upon the forehead;

22 changes of garments, little mantles, linens, and pins;

23 mirrors, fine linens, ribbons, and veils.

24 And instead of sweet fragrance there shall be stench, and instead of a girdle a cord, and instead of curled hair baldness, and instead of a breastband sackcloth.

25 Your most beautiful men also shall fall by the sword, and your mighty men in battle.

26 And her gates shall mourn and lament, and she shall sit desolate upon the ground.

CHAPTER 4

1 And seven women shall take hold of one man on that day, saying, “We shall eat our own bread and be covered with our own garments; only let your name be called upon us. Take away our reproach.”

2 On that day the Branch of the Lord shall be in magnificence and glory, and the fruit of the earth shall be exalted, and an exultation to those who shall have been saved from Israel.

3 And it shall be: everyone left in Zion and remaining in Jerusalem shall be called holy—everyone written in life in Jerusalem.

4 If the Lord shall wash away the filth of the daughters of Zion and cleanse the blood of Jerusalem from its midst, in the spirit of judgment and the spirit of burning.

5 And the Lord shall create over every place of Mount Zion, and wherever he is invoked, a cloud by day and smoke, and the brightness of flaming fire by night; for over all glory there shall be protection.

6 And the tabernacle shall be a shelter from the heat by day, and a security and hiding place from whirlwind and rain.

CHAPTER 5

1 I shall sing to my beloved the song of my kinsman concerning his vineyard. A vineyard was made for my beloved upon a horn, the son of oil.

2 And he fenced it, chose stones out of it, and planted it with a choice vine; he built a tower in its midst and constructed a winepress within it. And he expected it to bring forth grapes, but it brought forth wild grapes.

3 “Now therefore, inhabitants of Jerusalem and men of Judah, judge between me and my vineyard.

4 What more ought I to have done for my vineyard that I did not do for it? Was it that I expected it to bring forth grapes, and it brought forth wild grapes?

5 And now I shall show you what I shall do to my vineyard: I shall remove its hedge, and it shall be plundered; I shall tear down its wall, and it shall be trampled.

6 And I shall make it desolate; it shall not be pruned, and it shall not be dug; briars and thorns shall rise up, and I shall command the clouds not to rain upon it.”

7 For the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel, and the man of Judah his delightful shoot. And he expected it to produce judgment, but behold iniquity; and justice, but behold an outcry.

8 Woe to you who join house to house and unite field to field even to the boundary of the place! Shall you alone dwell in the midst of the earth?

9 These things are in my ears, says the Lord of hosts: surely many houses shall become desolate—great and beautiful, without inhabitant.

10 For ten acres of vineyards shall make one small bottle, and thirty measures of seed shall make three measures.

11 Woe to you who rise in the morning to pursue drunkenness and drink until evening, that you may burn with wine!

12 Harp and lyre and timbrel and pipe and wine are at your feasts, but you do not regard the work of the Lord or consider the works of his hands.

13 Therefore my people have been led captive because they had no knowledge, and their nobles have perished with hunger, and their multitude has withered from thirst.

14 Therefore the lower regions have enlarged their soul and opened their mouth without any limit; and their mighty, their people, and their exalted and glorious shall descend into them.

15 And man shall bow down, and the man shall be humbled, and the eyes of the lofty shall be brought low.

16 And the Lord of hosts shall be exalted in judgment, and the holy God shall be sanctified in justice.

17 And lambs shall feed according to their order, and strangers shall eat the deserts turned to abundance.

18 Woe to you who draw iniquity with cords of vanity, and sin as with the rope of a cart;

19 who say, “Let his work hasten and come quickly, that we may see it; and let the counsel of the Holy One of Israel draw near and come, and we shall know it!”

20 Woe to you who call evil good and good evil, putting darkness for light and light for darkness, putting bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter!

21 Woe to you who are wise in your own eyes and prudent before yourselves.

22 Woe to you who are mighty at drinking wine, and strong men at mixing drunkenness;

23 who justify the impious for gifts and take away the justice of the just from him!

24 Therefore, as the tongue of fire devours stubble and the heat of flame burns it up, so their root shall be like ash and their shoot shall rise like dust; for they have rejected the law of the Lord of hosts and blasphemed the word of the Holy One of Israel.

25 Therefore the fury of the Lord was angered against his people, and he stretched out his hand over them and struck them. The mountains were troubled, and their carcasses became like dung in the midst of the streets. In all these things his fury is not turned away, but his hand is still stretched forth.

26 And he shall raise a standard among nations far away and whistle to one from the ends of the earth; and behold, he shall come swiftly with haste.

27 There is no one failing or weary among them; he shall neither slumber nor sleep; neither shall the girdle of his loins be loosened nor the strap of his shoe broken.

28 His arrows are sharp, and all his bows are bent. The hooves of his horses are like flint, and his wheels like the force of a tempest.

29 His roaring is like a lion’s; he shall roar like young lions. He shall gnash and seize the prey and embrace it, and there shall be no one to rescue it.

30 And on that day he shall resound over it like the sound of the sea. We shall look upon the land, and behold, the darkness of tribulation, and the light is darkened by its gloom.

CHAPTER 6

1 In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and elevated, and the things beneath him filled the temple.

2 Seraphim stood above it; one had six wings, and another had six wings. With two they covered his face, with two they covered his feet, and with two they flew.

3 And they cried to one another and said, “Holy, holy, holy, the Lord, God of hosts; the whole earth is full of his glory.”

4 And the lintels of the hinges were moved at the voice of the one crying, and the house was filled with smoke.

5 And I said, “Woe is me, for I have been silent, because I am a man of polluted lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people having polluted lips; and my eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts.”

6 And one of the seraphim flew to me, and in his hand was a coal which he had taken with tongs from the altar.

7 And he touched my mouth and said, “Behold, this has touched your lips, and your iniquity shall be taken away, and your sin shall be cleansed.”

8 And I heard the voice of the Lord saying, “Whom shall I send? And who shall go for us?” And I said, “Behold me; send me.”

9 And he said, “Go, and you shall say to this people: ‘Hear while hearing, and do not understand; and see the vision, and do not know.

10 Blind the heart of this people, make their ears heavy, and close their eyes, lest perhaps they see with their eyes, hear with their ears, understand with their heart, be converted, and I heal them.’”

11 And I said, “How long, O Lord?” And he said, “Until the cities are desolated without inhabitant, the houses without man, and the land is left deserted.

12 And the Lord shall remove men far away, and she who was forsaken in the midst of the land shall be multiplied.

13 And still there shall be a tithe in her, and she shall be converted and shall stand as a display, like a terebinth and an oak that spreads its branches; the holy seed shall be that which stands in her.”

CHAPTER 7

1 And it came to pass in the days of Achaz, son of Joatham, son of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Rasin, king of Syria, and Phacee, son of Romelia, king of Israel, went up to Jerusalem to fight against it, but they were unable to overcome it.

2 And they reported to the house of David, saying, “Syria has rested upon Ephraim.” And his heart and the heart of his people were moved as the trees of the forests are moved before the wind.

3 And the Lord said to Isaiah, “Go forth to meet Achaz, you and Jasub your son, he who is left, at the end of the aqueduct of the upper pool, on the road to the Fuller’s Field.

4 And you shall say to him: ‘See that you remain silent. Do not fear, and let not your heart dread these two tails of smoking firebrands, the furious anger of Rasin, king of Syria, and the son of Romelia,

5 because Syria, Ephraim, and the son of Romelia have undertaken evil counsel against you, saying,

6 “Let us go up to Judah, rouse it, tear it away to ourselves, and appoint the son of Tabeel as king in its midst.”

7 Thus says the Lord God: It shall not stand, and this shall not be.

8 For the head of Syria is Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rasin; and within sixty-five years Ephraim shall cease to be a people.

9 And the head of Ephraim is Samaria, and the head of Samaria is the son of Romelia. If you do not believe, you shall not endure.’”

10 And the Lord continued speaking to Achaz, saying,

11 “Ask a sign for yourself from the Lord your God, whether in the depth of the lower regions or in the height above.”

12 And Achaz said, “I shall not ask, and I shall not tempt the Lord.”

13 And he said: “Hear, therefore, O house of David. Is it a small thing for you to be troublesome to men, that you are also troublesome to my God?

14 Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign: behold, a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and his name shall be called Emmanuel.

15 He shall eat butter and honey, that he may know to reject evil and choose good.

16 For before the child knows to reject evil and choose good, the land you detest shall be forsaken before the face of its two kings.

17 The Lord shall bring upon you, your people, and your father’s house days that have not come since the days of Ephraim’s separation from Judah, together with the king of the Assyrians.

18 And on that day the Lord shall whistle to the fly that is at the farthest rivers of Egypt, and to the bee that is in the land of Assur.

19 And they shall all come and rest in the torrents of the valleys, in the caverns of rocks, in every thicket, and in every opening.

20 On that day the Lord shall shave with a hired razor among those who are beyond the river—with the king of the Assyrians—the head and the hair of the feet, and the whole beard.

21 And on that day a man shall nourish one cow and two sheep.

22 And because of the abundance of milk he shall eat butter; for everyone left in the midst of the land shall eat butter and honey.

23 And on that day every place where there were a thousand vines worth a thousand pieces of silver shall become thorns and briars.

24 They shall enter there with arrows and bow, for briars and thorns shall be throughout the land.

25 And all the mountains that are weeded with the hoe—the terror of thorns and briars shall not come there; and they shall become pasture for oxen and a trampling place for cattle.”

CHAPTER 8

1 And the Lord said to me, “Take for yourself a large book and write in it with the pen of a man: ‘Swiftly take away the spoils; quickly seize the prey.’”

2 And I took for myself faithful witnesses: Urias the priest and Zacharias, son of Barachias.

3 And I went to the prophetess, and she conceived and bore a son. And the Lord said to me, “Call his name: Hasten to Take Away the Spoils; Hurry to Seize the Prey.

4 For before the child knows how to call his father and his mother, the strength of Damascus and the spoils of Samaria shall be taken away before the king of the Assyrians.”

5 And the Lord continued speaking to me, saying:

6 “Because this people has cast away the waters of Siloe, which flow in silence, and has chosen Rasin and the son of Romelia instead,

7 therefore behold, the Lord shall bring upon them the strong and many waters of the river—the king of the Assyrians and all his glory—and it shall rise above all its channels and flow over all its banks.

8 And it shall pass through Judah, flooding and crossing over; it shall reach even to the neck. And the extension of its wings shall fill the breadth of your land, O Emmanuel!

9 Gather together, O peoples, and be conquered; and hear, all distant lands. Take courage, and be conquered; gird yourselves, and be conquered.

10 Undertake counsel, and it shall be dissipated; speak a word, and it shall not be done, because God is with us.

11 For thus said the Lord to me, as with a strong hand he instructed me not to walk in the way of this people, saying:

12 ‘Do not say, “Conspiracy,” for everything this people speaks is conspiracy. Do not fear their fear, nor be afraid.

13 Sanctify the Lord of hosts himself; let him be your dread, and let him be your terror.

14 And he shall be a sanctification to you, but a stone of stumbling and a rock of scandal to the two houses of Israel, and a snare and ruin to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

15 And many of them shall stumble and fall and be broken and ensnared and captured.

16 Bind the testimony; seal the law among my disciples.’

17 And I shall await the Lord, who hides his face from the house of Jacob, and I shall wait for him.

18 Behold, I and my children whom the Lord has given me are for a sign and a portent in Israel from the Lord of hosts, who dwells upon Mount Zion.

19 And when they say to you, ‘Seek from those possessed by spirits and from diviners who hiss in their incantations,’ should not a people seek from their God? Should they seek from the dead on behalf of the living?

20 To the law rather, and to the testimony. But if they do not speak according to this word, there shall be no morning light for them.

21 And he shall pass through it, fall, and hunger; and when he hungers, he shall become angry. And he shall curse his king and his God and look upward,

22 and he shall look toward the earth; and behold, tribulation and darkness, dissolution and anguish, and pursuing gloom, and he shall not be able to fly away from his anguish.”

CHAPTER 9

1 At the first time the land of Zabulon and the land of Nephthali were relieved; and at the last time the way of the sea beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations, was burdened.

2 The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light; upon those dwelling in the region of the shadow of death, light has arisen.

3 You have multiplied the nation but have not magnified the joy. They shall rejoice before you as those who rejoice in the harvest, as victors exult after taking prey when they divide the spoils.

4 For you have overcome the yoke of his burden, the rod of his shoulder, and the scepter of his exactor, as on the day of Madian.

5 For every violent plundering with tumult and every garment mixed with blood shall be burned and become food for fire.

6 For a Child is born to us, and a Son is given to us, and the principality is placed upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, God, Mighty, Father of the Age to Come, Prince of Peace.

7 His dominion shall be multiplied, and of peace there shall be no end. He shall sit upon the throne of David and over his kingdom, to establish and strengthen it in judgment and justice, from now and forever. The zeal of the Lord of hosts shall accomplish this.

8 The Lord sent a word into Jacob, and it fell in Israel.

9 And all the people of Ephraim and the inhabitants of Samaria shall know, who in pride and greatness of heart say:

10 “The bricks have fallen, but we shall build with squared stones; they have cut down the sycamores, but we shall replace them with cedars.”

11 And the Lord shall raise the enemies of Rasin over him and turn his adversaries into tumult:

12 Syria from the east and the Philistines from the west; and they shall devour Israel with the whole mouth. In all these things his fury is not turned away, but his hand is still stretched forth.

13 And the people have not returned to him who strikes them, and they have not sought the Lord of hosts.

14 And the Lord shall destroy from Israel the head and tail, the one who bows down and the one who restrains, in one day.

15 The aged and honorable man is the head, and the prophet who teaches falsehood is the tail.

16 And those who call this people blessed shall be seducers, and those who are called blessed shall be cast down.

17 Therefore the Lord shall not rejoice over their young men, and he shall not have mercy upon their orphans and widows, for everyone is a hypocrite and wicked, and every mouth has spoken folly. In all these things his fury is not turned away, but his hand is still stretched forth.

18 For impiety has been kindled like fire; it shall devour briar and thorn, and it shall burn in the thickness of the forest, and the pride of smoke shall be rolled upward.

19 In the anger of the Lord of hosts the land has been troubled, and the people shall be like food for fire; a man shall not spare his brother.

20 And he shall turn to the right and hunger, and eat on the left and not be satisfied; each shall devour the flesh of his own arm: Manasses against Ephraim and Ephraim against Manasses, and together they against Judah.

21 In all these things his fury is not turned away, but his hand is still stretched forth.

CHAPTER 10

1 Woe to those who establish iniquitous laws, and who, writing, have written injustice,

2 to oppress the poor in judgment and do violence to the cause of the humble of my people, that widows might be their prey and that they might plunder orphans.

3 What shall you do on the day of visitation and of calamity coming from afar? To whose aid shall you flee, and where shall you leave your glory,

4 lest you bow beneath the chain and fall with the slain? In all these things his fury is not turned away, but his hand is still stretched forth.

5 Woe to Assur! He is the rod of my fury, and the staff itself; in their hand is my indignation.

6 I shall send him to a deceitful nation, and against the people of my fury I shall command him to take away spoils, plunder prey, and place it underfoot like the mud of the streets.

7 But he shall not think it so, and his heart shall not consider it thus; rather, his heart shall be set upon crushing and upon the destruction of not a few nations.

8 For he shall say:

9 “Are not my princes kings together? Is not Calano as Charcamis, and Emath as Arphad? Is not Samaria as Damascus?

10 As my hand has found the kingdoms of the idol, so also their images from Jerusalem and Samaria.

11 Shall I not do to Jerusalem and her images as I have done to Samaria and her idols?”

12 And it shall be, when the Lord has fulfilled all his works upon Mount Zion and in Jerusalem: “I shall visit the fruit of the magnificent heart of the king of Assur and the glory of the loftiness of his eyes.”

13 For he has said: “By the strength of my hand I have done it, and by my Wisdom I have understood. I removed the boundaries of peoples, plundered their princes, and as one mighty brought down those dwelling on high.

14 And my hand found the strength of the peoples like a nest; and as abandoned eggs are gathered, so I gathered the whole earth, and there was no one to move a wing, open a mouth, or make a cry.”

15 Shall the ax glory against him who cuts with it? Or shall the saw exalt itself against him by whom it is drawn? It would be as though the rod should raise itself against him who lifts it, and the staff exalt itself, though it is wood.

16 Therefore the Sovereign, the Lord of hosts, shall send leanness among his fat ones; and beneath his glory a burning shall blaze like the combustion of fire.

17 And the light of Israel shall become a fire, and his Holy One a flame; and his thorn and briar shall be kindled and devoured in one day.

18 And the glory of his forest and his Carmel shall be consumed from soul even to flesh, and he shall flee in terror.

19 And the remnant of the trees of his forest shall be so few that a child may write them down.

20 And on that day the remnant of Israel and those who escaped from the house of Jacob shall no longer lean upon him who strikes them, but shall lean upon the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, in truth.

21 The remnant shall be converted—the remnant, I say, of Jacob—to the mighty God.

22 For though your people, O Israel, should be like the sand of the sea, a remnant of them shall be converted; a shortened consummation shall overflow with justice.

23 For the Lord God of hosts shall accomplish consummation and abbreviation in the midst of all the earth.

24 Therefore thus says the Lord God of hosts: “Do not fear Assur, O my people who dwell in Zion. He shall strike you with the rod and lift his staff over you, in the way of Egypt.

25 For yet a very little while, and my indignation shall be completed, and my fury shall be upon their crime.

26 And the Lord of hosts shall raise a scourge over him, like the plague of Madian at the rock of Oreb; and he shall raise his rod over the sea, in the way of Egypt.

27 And on that day his burden shall be taken from your shoulder and his yoke from your neck, and the yoke shall rot before the oil.”

28 He shall come into Aiath and pass into Magron; at Machmas he shall entrust his vessels.

29 They passed swiftly: “Gaba is our seat.” Rama was astonished; Gabaath of Saul fled.

30 Neigh with your voice, daughter of Gallim; attend, Laisa, poor little Anathoth.

31 Medemena has migrated; inhabitants of Gabim, take courage.

32 It is still day for him to stand at Nobe; he shall shake his hand over the mountain of the daughter of Zion, the hill of Jerusalem.

33 Behold, the Sovereign, the Lord of hosts, shall shatter the little vessel with terror; those lofty in stature shall be cut down, and the exalted shall be humbled.

34 And the dense forest shall be overturned with iron, and Lebanon with its lofty ones shall fall.

CHAPTER 11

1 And a rod shall come forth from the root of Jesse, and a flower shall ascend from his root.

2 And the Spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him: the Spirit of Wisdom and understanding, the Spirit of counsel and fortitude, the Spirit of knowledge and piety;

3 and the Spirit of the fear of the Lord shall fill him. He shall not judge according to the sight of the eyes, nor rebuke according to the hearing of the ears,

4 but he shall judge the poor in justice and rebuke with equity for the meek of the earth. He shall strike the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the Spirit of his lips he shall slay the impious.

5 And justice shall be the girdle of his loins, and faith the belt of his waist.

6 The wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; the calf and the lion and the sheep shall abide together, and a little child shall lead them.

7 The calf and the bear shall feed; their young shall rest together, and the lion shall eat straw like the ox.

8 And the nursing infant shall delight over the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand into the den of the basilisk.

9 They shall not harm, and they shall not kill upon all my holy mountain, for the earth is filled with the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea.

10 On that day the root of Jesse, who stands as a sign of the peoples—him the nations shall beseech, and his sepulcher shall be glorious.

11 And on that day the Lord shall extend his hand a second time to possess the remnant of his people that shall be left from the Assyrians, Egypt, Phetros, Ethiopia, Elam, Sennaar, Emath, and the islands of the sea.

12 And he shall raise a sign among the nations, gather the fugitives of Israel, and collect the dispersed of Judah from the four regions of the earth.

13 And the jealousy of Ephraim shall be removed, and the enemies of Judah shall perish; Ephraim shall not envy Judah, and Judah shall not fight against Ephraim.

14 And they shall fly upon the shoulders of the Philistines by the sea; together they shall plunder the children of the east. Idumea and Moab shall be under the command of their hand, and the children of Ammon shall be obedient.

15 And the Lord shall desolate the tongue of the sea of Egypt and lift his hand over the river in the strength of his Spirit; and he shall strike it into seven streams, so that they may pass through it wearing shoes.

16 And there shall be a way for the remnant of my people that shall be left from the Assyrians, as there was for Israel on the day when he ascended from the land of Egypt.

CHAPTER 12

1 And you shall say on that day: “I shall confess to you, O Lord, for you were angry with me; your fury has turned away, and you have consoled me.

2 Behold, God is my Savior; I shall act with confidence and shall not fear, for the Lord is my strength and my praise, and he has become salvation for me.

3 You shall draw waters with joy from the fountains of the Savior.

4 And you shall say on that day: “Confess to the Lord and invoke his name; make his works known among the peoples; remember that his name is exalted.

5 Sing to the Lord, for he has done magnificently; announce this throughout all the earth.

6 Exult and praise, O habitation of Zion, for great in your midst is the Holy One of Israel.”

CHAPTER 13

1 The burden of Babylon, which Isaiah, son of Amos, saw.

2 Raise a sign upon the dark mountain; lift up the voice, raise the hand, and let the rulers enter the gates.

3 I have commanded my sanctified ones and called my mighty ones in my anger, those who exult in my glory.

4 The voice of a multitude upon the mountains, like that of many peoples; the voice of the sound of kings, of nations gathered together. The Lord of hosts has commanded the army of battle,

5 those coming from a distant land, from the summit of heaven—the Lord and the vessels of his fury—to destroy the whole earth.

6 Howl, for the day of the Lord is near; it shall come like devastation from the Lord.

7 Therefore every hand shall be dissolved, and every heart of man shall waste away

8 and be crushed. Torments and pains shall seize them; they shall suffer like a woman giving birth. Each shall be astonished at his neighbor; their countenances shall be faces burned.

9 Behold, the day of the Lord shall come, cruel and full of indignation and anger and fury, to make the land a wilderness and crush its sinners from it.

10 For the stars of heaven and their splendor shall not spread forth their light; the sun is darkened in its rising, and the moon shall not shine with its light.

11 And I shall visit the evils of the world, and upon the impious their iniquity; I shall make the pride of the unfaithful cease and humble the arrogance of the mighty.

12 A man shall be more precious than gold, and mankind than pure refined gold.

13 For this I shall trouble heaven, and the earth shall be moved from its place, because of the indignation of the Lord of hosts and because of the day of the anger of his fury.

14 And it shall be like a doe fleeing, and like a sheep with no one to gather it. Each shall turn to his own people, and every one shall flee to his own land.

15 Everyone found shall be killed, and everyone who comes upon them shall fall by the sword.

16 Their infants shall be dashed before their eyes, their houses plundered, and their wives violated.

17 Behold, I shall raise up the Medes against them, who do not seek silver or desire gold, 18 but with arrows they shall kill the little ones; they shall have no mercy upon wombs nursing infants, and their eye shall not spare the children.

19 And Babylon, glorious among kingdoms, the renowned pride of the Chaldeans, shall be as when the Lord overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah.

20 It shall not be inhabited to the end, nor founded from generation to generation; the Arab shall not pitch his tents there, nor shall shepherds rest there.

21 But beasts shall rest there, their houses shall be filled with dragons, ostriches shall dwell there, and hairy creatures shall dance there.

22 And owls shall answer one another in its houses, and sirens in its temples of pleasure.

CHAPTER 14

1 Its time is near to come, and its days shall not be prolonged. For the Lord shall have mercy upon Jacob and shall yet choose from Israel, and he shall make them rest upon their own ground; the stranger shall be joined to them and shall adhere to the house of Jacob.

2 And the peoples shall take them and lead them to their place; and the house of Israel shall possess them upon the land of the Lord as male and female servants. They shall capture those who had captured them and subject their exactors.

3 And on that day, when God has given you rest from your labor, your agitation, and the hard servitude in which you formerly served,

4 you shall take up this parable against the king of Babylon and say: “How has the exactor ceased; how has the tribute rested?

5 The Lord has broken the staff of the impious, the rod of rulers,

6 which struck peoples in indignation with an incurable wound, subjected nations in fury, and pursued them cruelly.

7 The whole earth has become quiet and silent; it has rejoiced and exulted.

8 The fir trees also have rejoiced over you, and the cedars of Lebanon: ‘Since you have slept, no one has ascended to cut us down.’

9 The lower regions beneath were troubled to meet you at your coming; they awakened the giants for you. All the princes of the earth have risen from their thrones, all the rulers of the nations.

10 All shall answer and say to you: ‘You also have been wounded as we were; you have become like us.

11 Your pride has been drawn down to the lower regions; your corpse has fallen. The moth shall be spread beneath you, and worms shall be your covering.

12 How have you fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, who rose in the morning? You have fallen to the earth, you who wounded the nations, 13 who said in your heart: “I shall ascend into heaven; above the stars of God I shall exalt my throne. I shall sit upon the mountain of the covenant, upon the sides of the north.

14 I shall ascend above the height of the clouds; I shall be like the Most High.”

15 Yet truly you shall be drawn down to the lower regions, into the depth of the pit.

16 Those who see you shall bend toward you and gaze upon you: “Is this the man who troubled the earth, who shook kingdoms,

17 who made the world a wilderness, destroyed its cities, and did not open the prison for his captives?”

18 All the kings of the nations have all slept in glory, each man in his own house;

19 but you have been cast out of your tomb like a useless, defiled shoot, wrapped with those slain by the sword who descended to the foundations of the pit, like a putrid corpse.

20 You shall have no fellowship with them, not even in burial, for you destroyed your land and killed your people. The seed of the most wicked shall not be named forever.

21 Prepare his sons for slaughter because of the iniquity of their fathers; they shall not arise or inherit the land, nor fill the face of the world with cities.

22 And I shall rise against them, says the Lord of hosts, and I shall destroy the name of Babylon, its remnants, its shoot, and its progeny, says the Lord.

23 And I shall make it a possession of the hedgehog and pools of water, and I shall sweep it away with a wearing broom, says the Lord of hosts.”

24 The Lord of hosts has sworn, saying: “Surely, as I have thought, so shall it be; and as I have considered in my mind,

25 so shall it come to pass: that I crush the Assyrian in my land and trample him upon my mountains. His yoke shall be taken from them, and his burden removed from their shoulder.

26 This is the counsel I have considered concerning all the earth, and this is the hand stretched forth over all nations.

27 For the Lord of hosts has decreed, and who can weaken it? His hand is stretched forth, and who shall turn it away?”

28 In the year that King Achaz died, this burden was given:

29 “Do not rejoice, all Philistia, because the rod of him who struck you has been broken; for from the root of the serpent shall come forth a basilisk, and his seed shall swallow the bird.

30 And the firstborn of the poor shall feed, and the poor shall rest in confidence; and I shall cause your root to perish by famine, and I shall kill your remnant.

31 Howl, O gate; cry out, O city. All Philistia is cast down, for smoke shall come from the north, and there is no one who shall escape his troop.

32 And what answer shall be given to the messengers of the nation? That the Lord has founded Zion, and in him the poor of his people shall hope.”

CHAPTER 15

1 The burden of Moab. Because Ar of Moab was devastated in the night, it became silent; because the wall of Moab was devastated in the night, it became silent.

2 The house and Dibon ascended to the high places to mourn over Nabo; and over Medaba Moab howled. Baldness is upon all its heads, and every beard shall be shaved.

3 In its crossroads they are girded with sackcloth; upon its roofs and in its streets all howl, descending into weeping.

4 Hesebon and Eleale shall cry out; their voice was heard even to Jasa. Therefore the armed men of Moab shall howl; its soul shall howl for itself.

5 My heart shall cry out for Moab; its bars reach even to Segor, a heifer of three years. For they shall ascend the ascent of Luith weeping, and upon the way of Oronaim they shall raise a cry of destruction.

6 For the waters of Nemrim shall be desolate, because the grass has withered, the shoot has failed, and all greenness has perished.

7 According to the greatness of their work, so also shall be their visitation; they shall lead them to the torrent of the Willows.

8 For the cry has circled the boundary of Moab; its howling reaches even to Gallim, and its cry even to the well of Elim.

9 For the waters of Dibon are filled with blood; and I shall place further things upon Dibon: a lion upon those who flee from Moab and upon the remnant of the land.

CHAPTER 16

1 Send forth the Lamb, O Lord, the ruler of the earth, from the rock of the desert to the mountain of the daughter of Zion.

2 And it shall be: as a fleeing bird and young ones flying from the nest, so shall the daughters of Moab be at the crossing of the Arnon.

3 Undertake counsel; gather a council. Make your shadow like night at midday; hide those who flee, and do not betray the wanderers.

4 My fugitives shall dwell with you. O Moab, be their hiding place from the face of the devastator, for the dust has ended, the wretched one is consumed, and he who trampled the earth has failed.

5 And a throne shall be prepared in mercy, and upon it one shall sit in truth in the tabernacle of David, judging and seeking judgment and swiftly rendering what is just.

6 We have heard the pride of Moab; he is exceedingly proud. His pride and arrogance and indignation are greater than his strength.

7 Therefore Moab shall howl to Moab; all shall howl. Speak of their wounds to those who rejoice upon the walls of baked brick.

8 For the suburbs of Hesebon are deserted, and the lords of the nations have cut down the vineyard of Sabama. Its branches reached even to Jazer; they wandered in the desert. Its shoots were left; they crossed the sea.

9 Therefore I shall weep with the weeping of Jazer for the vineyard of Sabama. I shall drench you with my tears, Hesebon and Eleale, for the voice of those who tread has rushed upon your vintage and your harvest.

10 Gladness and exultation shall be taken from Carmel; no one shall exult or rejoice in the vineyards. He who was accustomed to tread shall not tread wine in the press; I have taken away the voice of those who tread.

11 Therefore my belly shall resound for Moab like a harp, and my inner parts for the wall of baked brick.

12 And it shall be: when it appears that Moab has labored upon his high places, he shall enter his sanctuaries to supplicate, but he shall not prevail.

13 This is the word that the Lord spoke concerning Moab from that time.

14 And now the Lord has spoken, saying: “In three years, like the years of a hired servant, the glory of Moab shall be taken away from all its great multitude, and a small and feeble remnant shall be left, by no means many.”

CHAPTER 17

1 The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus shall cease to be a city and shall become like a heap of stones in ruin.

2 The abandoned cities of Aroer shall belong to flocks; they shall rest there, and there shall be no one to terrify them.

3 Aid shall cease from Ephraim and the kingdom from Damascus; and the remnant of Syria shall be like the glory of the children of Israel, says the Lord of hosts.

4 And on that day the glory of Jacob shall be made thin, and the fatness of his flesh shall wither.

5 And it shall be like one gathering at harvest what remains, and his arm shall glean ears of grain; and it shall be like one seeking ears in the valley of Raphaim.

6 And there shall be left in him as a cluster, and as when an olive tree is shaken: two or three olives at the top of a branch, or four or five fruits at its summit, says the Lord God of Israel.

7 On that day man shall incline himself toward his Maker, and his eyes shall look toward the Holy One of Israel.

8 He shall not incline himself toward the altars his hands made, nor regard what his fingers fashioned—the groves and shrines.

9 On that day the cities of his strength shall be abandoned like plows and crops left before the children of Israel, and you shall be desolate.

10 Because you have forgotten God your Savior and have not remembered your mighty Helper, therefore you shall plant a faithful plantation but sow a foreign shoot.

11 On the day of your planting there shall be a wild grape, and in the morning your seed shall flower; the harvest is taken away on the day of inheritance, and it shall grieve exceedingly.

12 Woe to the multitude of many peoples, like the multitude of the sounding sea, and to the tumult of crowds, like the sound of many waters.

13 The peoples shall resound like the sound of overflowing waters, and he shall rebuke him, and he shall flee far away. He shall be swept away like mountain dust before the wind and like a whirlwind before a tempest.

14 At evening time, behold disturbance; in the morning, he shall not remain. This is the portion of those who devastated us and the lot of those who plundered us.

CHAPTER 18

1 Woe to the land of the cymbal of wings, which is beyond the rivers of Ethiopia,

2 which sends ambassadors upon the sea and in vessels of papyrus upon the waters. Go, swift angels, to a nation convulsed and torn apart; to a terrible people after whom there is no other; to a nation awaiting and trampled down, whose rivers have plundered its land.

3 All inhabitants of the world who dwell upon the earth: when the sign is raised upon the mountains, you shall see, and you shall hear the blast of the trumpet.

4 For thus says the Lord to me: “I shall rest and consider in my place, as the midday light is clear, and as a cloud of dew on the day of harvest.”

5 For before the harvest it all flowered, and an unripe completion shall bud; its little branches shall be cut off with sickles, and what is left shall be cut away and shaken off.

6 And they shall be left together to the birds of the mountains and the beasts of the earth; birds shall remain upon them throughout the summer, and all the beasts of the earth shall winter upon them.

7 At that time a gift shall be brought to the Lord of hosts from a people divided and torn apart, from a terrible people after whom there was no other; from a nation awaiting, awaiting and trampled down, whose rivers have plundered its land—to the place of the name of the Lord of hosts, Mount Zion.

CHAPTER 19

1 The burden of Egypt. Behold, the Lord shall ascend upon a swift cloud and enter Egypt; the images of Egypt shall be moved before his face, and the heart of Egypt shall melt within it.

2 And I shall make Egyptians rush against Egyptians; man shall fight against his brother and man against his friend, city against city and kingdom against kingdom.

3 The spirit of Egypt shall be broken within it, and I shall cast down its counsel; and they shall inquire of their images, diviners, those possessed by spirits, and soothsayers.

4 And I shall deliver Egypt into the hand of cruel masters, and a mighty king shall rule over them, says the Lord God of hosts.

5 The water of the sea shall dry up, and the river shall be desolated and dried.

6 The rivers shall fail; the streams of the embankments shall diminish and dry up; reed and rush shall wither.

7 The channel of the stream shall be laid bare from its source, and every irrigated crop shall dry, wither, and be no more.

8 The fishermen shall mourn, and all who cast a hook into the river shall lament; those who spread a net upon the face of the waters shall wither away.

9 Those who worked flax, combing and weaving fine cloth, shall be confounded.

10 Its irrigated places shall grow faint, all who made pools to catch fish.

11 The princes of Tanis are fools; the wise counselors of Pharaoh have given senseless counsel. How shall you say to Pharaoh, “I am a son of the wise, a son of ancient kings”?

12 Where now are your wise men? Let them announce to you and reveal what the Lord of hosts has considered concerning Egypt.

13 The princes of Tanis have become fools; the princes of Memphis have withered; they have deceived Egypt, the corner of its peoples.

14 The Lord has mingled in its midst a spirit of dizziness, and they have made Egypt wander in all its work, as a drunken and vomiting man wanders.

15 And there shall be no work for Egypt that head or tail, the one who bows down or the one who restrains, may do.

16 On that day Egypt shall be like women; they shall be astonished and afraid before the movement of the hand of the Lord of hosts, which he shall move over it.

17 And the land of Judah shall be a terror to Egypt; everyone who remembers it shall dread before the counsel of the Lord of hosts, which he has considered concerning it.

18 On that day there shall be five cities in the land of Egypt speaking the tongue of Canaan and swearing by the Lord of hosts; one shall be called the City of the Sun.

19 On that day there shall be an altar of the Lord in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a monument of the Lord beside its boundary.

20 It shall be a sign and testimony to the Lord of hosts in the land of Egypt; for they shall cry to the Lord before tribulation, and he shall send them a Savior and defender who shall deliver them.

21 And the Lord shall be known by Egypt, and the Egyptians shall know the Lord on that day; they shall worship him with victims and gifts, vow vows to the Lord, and fulfill them.

22 And the Lord shall strike Egypt with a plague and heal it; they shall return to the Lord, and he shall be appeased toward them and heal them.

23 On that day there shall be a road from Egypt to the Assyrians; the Assyrian shall enter Egypt and the Egyptian among the Assyrians, and the Egyptians shall serve Assur.

24 On that day Israel shall be third with Egypt and Assyria, a blessing in the midst of the earth,

25 which the Lord of hosts has blessed, saying: “Blessed is my people of Egypt, and the Assyrian the work of my hands; but Israel is my inheritance.”

CHAPTER 20

1 In the year that Tharthan entered Azotus, when Sargon, king of the Assyrians, sent him, and he fought against Azotus and captured it,

2 at that time the Lord spoke by the hand of Isaiah, son of Amos, saying: “Go, loosen the sackcloth from your loins, and take your shoes from your feet.” And he did so, walking naked and barefoot.

3 And the Lord said: “As my servant Isaiah has walked naked and barefoot, it shall be a sign and portent of three years concerning Egypt and Ethiopia.

4 So shall the king of the Assyrians lead the captivity of Egypt and the removal of Ethiopia, young and old, naked and barefoot, with buttocks uncovered, to the shame of Egypt.

5 And they shall fear and be confounded by Ethiopia their hope and Egypt their glory.

6 And the inhabitant of this island shall say on that day: ‘Behold, this was our hope, to whom we fled for aid, that they might deliver us from the face of the king of the Assyrians; and how shall we be able to escape?’”

CHAPTER 21

1 The burden of the desert of the sea. As whirlwinds come from the southwest, it comes from the desert, from a terrible land.

2 A hard vision has been announced to me: he who is unbelieving acts unfaithfully, and he who is a devastator lays waste. Ascend, O Elam; besiege, O Mede. I have made all its groaning cease.

3 Therefore my loins are filled with pain; anguish has possessed me like the anguish of a woman giving birth. I collapsed when I heard; I was troubled when I saw.

4 My heart withered; darkness astonished me. Babylon, my beloved, has become a wonder to me.

5 Set the table; watch in the watchtower those eating and drinking. Arise, princes; seize the shield.

6 For thus the Lord said to me: “Go and appoint a watchman, and let him announce whatever he sees.”

7 And he saw a chariot of two horsemen, a rider upon an ass, and a rider upon a camel; and he watched diligently with intense gaze.

8 And the lion cried: “I stand continually by day upon the watchtower of the Lord, and I stand throughout the nights upon my guard.

9 Behold, this rider comes, a man in a chariot of horsemen.” And he answered and said: “Fallen, fallen is Babylon, and all the graven images of her gods have been crushed to the ground.”

10 O my threshing and children of my threshing floor, what I have heard from the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, I have announced to you.

11 The burden of Duma. One cries to me from Seir: “Watchman, what of the night? Watchman, what of the night?”

12 The watchman said: “Morning comes, and night. If you seek, seek; be converted and come.”

13 The burden in Arabia. In the forest at evening you shall sleep, in the paths of Dedanim.

14 Bring water to meet the thirsty, you who inhabit the land of the south; meet the fugitive with bread.

15 For they have fled before swords, before the sword hanging over them, before the bent bow, and before grievous battle.

16 For thus says the Lord to me: “Yet within one year, like the year of a hired servant, all the glory of Cedar shall be taken away.

17 And the remnant of the number of mighty archers from the sons of Cedar shall be diminished, for the Lord God of Israel has spoken.”

CHAPTER 22

1 The burden of the Valley of Vision. What also is the matter with you, that you too have all ascended to the roofs?

2 Full of clamor, a crowded city, an exulting city—your slain were not slain by the sword, nor did they die in battle.

3 All your princes fled together and were harshly bound; all who were found were bound together; they fled far away.

4 Therefore I said: “Depart from me; I shall weep bitterly. Do not press upon me to console me over the devastation of the daughter of my people.”

5 For it is a day of slaughter and trampling and weeping from the Lord God of hosts in the Valley of Vision, searching the wall and magnificent upon the mountain.

6 And Elam took the quiver, the chariot of the mounted man, and the shield laid bare the wall.

7 And your chosen valleys shall be filled with chariots, and horsemen shall place their seats at the gate.

8 And the covering of Judah shall be revealed, and on that day you shall see the armory of the house of the forest.

9 And you shall see the breaches of the city of David, for they are multiplied; and you gathered the waters of the lower pool.

10 You numbered the houses of Jerusalem and destroyed houses to fortify the wall.

11 And you made a reservoir between the two walls for the water of the old pool, but you did not look up to him who made it, nor see from afar its Maker.

12 And on that day the Lord God of hosts shall call to weeping and mourning, to baldness and the girding of sackcloth.

13 But behold joy and gladness, killing calves and slaughtering rams, eating flesh and drinking wine: “Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we shall die.”

14 And the voice of the Lord of hosts was revealed in my ears: “This iniquity shall not be forgiven you until you die,” says the Lord God of hosts.

15 Thus says the Lord God of hosts: “Go, enter to him who dwells in the tabernacle—to Sobna, the prefect of the temple—and say to him:

16 ‘What are you here, or as whom are you here, that you have cut out a tomb for yourself here, diligently cut a memorial on high, a tabernacle for yourself in the rock?

17 Behold, the Lord shall cause you to be carried away as a rooster is carried, and shall lift you up as a garment.

18 Crowning, he shall crown you with tribulation; he shall cast you like a ball into a broad and spacious land. There you shall die, and there shall be the chariot of your glory, the shame of your master’s house.

19 And I shall expel you from your station and depose you from your ministry.

20 And on that day I shall call my servant Eliacim, son of Helcias.

21 I shall clothe him with your tunic, strengthen him with your girdle, and give your authority into his hand; and he shall be like a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and to the house of Judah.

22 And I shall place the key of the house of David upon his shoulder; he shall open, and there shall be no one to close; he shall close, and there shall be no one to open.

23 And I shall fasten him as a peg in a faithful place, and he shall become a throne of glory to his father’s house.

24 And upon him they shall hang all the glory of his father’s house: diverse kinds of vessels, every little vessel, from vessels of bowls even to every vessel of musicians.

25 On that day, says the Lord of hosts, the peg fastened in the faithful place shall be removed, broken, and fall; and that which hung upon it shall perish, for the Lord has spoken.’”

CHAPTER 23

1 The burden of Tyre. Howl, O ships of the sea, for the house from which they were accustomed to come has been devastated; from the land of Cethim it has been revealed to them.

2 Be silent, you who inhabit the island; the merchants of Sidon crossing the sea have filled you.

3 Upon many waters is the seed of the Nile; the harvest of the river is its produce, and it became the commerce of nations.

4 Be ashamed, O Sidon, for the sea, the strength of the sea, has spoken: “I have not travailed or given birth; I have not nourished young men or brought virgins to maturity.”

5 When it is heard in Egypt, they shall grieve when they hear of Tyre.

6 Cross the seas; howl, you who inhabit the island!

7 Is this not yours, she who gloried from former days in her antiquity? Her feet shall lead her far away to sojourn.

8 Who has considered this against Tyre, once crowned, whose merchants were princes and whose traders were renowned upon the earth?

9 The Lord of hosts considered this, that he might draw down the pride of all glory and lead all the renowned of the earth into shame.

10 Pass through your land like a river, O daughter of the sea; you have no girdle any longer.

11 He stretched his hand over the sea; he troubled kingdoms. The Lord commanded against Canaan, that he might crush its mighty ones.

12 And he said: “You shall no longer continue to glory, O virgin daughter of Sidon who endures oppression. Arise and cross over to Cethim; there also shall be no rest for you.”

13 Behold the land of the Chaldeans—there was no such people. Assur founded it; they led its mighty ones into captivity, undermined its houses, and made it a ruin.

14 Howl, O ships of the sea, for your strength has been devastated.

15 And on that day you shall be forgotten, O Tyre, for seventy years, like the days of one king. But after seventy years Tyre shall be like the song of a harlot:

16 “Take a harp, circle the city, O harlot delivered to oblivion. Sing well; repeat the song, that there may be memory of you.”

17 And after seventy years the Lord shall visit Tyre and bring her back to her wages, and she shall fornicate again with all the kingdoms of the earth upon the face of the earth.

18 And her commerce and wages shall be sanctified to the Lord. They shall not be stored or laid away, for her commerce shall belong to those who dwell before the Lord, that they may eat to fullness and be clothed even to old age.

CHAPTER 24

1 Behold, the Lord shall dissipate the earth, lay it bare, afflict its face, and scatter its inhabitants.

2 And as with the people, so with the priest; as with the servant, so with his master; as with the maidservant, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with him who demands repayment, so with him who owes.

3 With dissipation the earth shall be dissipated, and with plundering it shall be plundered, for the Lord has spoken this word.

4 The earth has mourned and flowed away and become weak; the world has flowed away, and the height of the people of the earth has become weak.

5 And the earth has been infected by its inhabitants, because they transgressed the laws, changed the right, and broken the everlasting covenant.

6 Therefore a curse shall devour the earth, and its inhabitants shall sin; therefore its cultivators shall become mad, and few men shall be left.

7 The vintage has mourned, the vine has become weak, and all who rejoiced in heart have groaned.

8 The joy of timbrels has ceased, the sound of those rejoicing has rested, and the sweetness of the harp has become silent.

9 They shall not drink wine with song; the drink shall be bitter to those who drink it.

10 The city of vanity has been broken down; every house is closed, with no one entering.

11 There shall be a cry over wine in the streets; all gladness is deserted; the joy of the earth has been taken away.

12 Solitude is left in the city, and calamity shall oppress the gates.

13 For thus it shall be in the midst of the earth, in the midst of the peoples, as when the few olives remaining are shaken from the olive tree, and as clusters when the vintage is ended.

14 These shall lift their voice and praise; when the Lord is glorified, they shall neigh from the sea.

15 Therefore glorify the Lord in doctrines; in the islands of the sea, the name of the Lord God of Israel.

16 From the ends of the earth we have heard praises—the glory of the Just One. And I said: “My secret is for me, my secret is for me. Woe is me! The transgressors have transgressed, and with the transgression of betrayers they have transgressed.”

17 Dread and pit and snare are upon you, O inhabitant of the earth.

18 And it shall be: he who flees from the voice of dread shall fall into the pit, and he who frees himself from the pit shall be held by the snare; for the floodgates from on high have been opened, and the foundations of the earth shall be shaken.

19 With breaking the earth shall be broken; with crushing the earth shall be crushed; with shaking the earth shall be shaken.

20 With agitation the earth shall be agitated like a drunken man, and it shall be taken away like the tabernacle of one night. Its iniquity shall weigh upon it, and it shall fall and not rise again.

21 And on that day the Lord shall visit the host of heaven on high and the kings of the earth who are upon the earth.

22 And they shall be gathered in the gathering of one bundle into the pit, and they shall be shut there in prison; and after many days they shall be visited.

23 And the moon shall blush and the sun be confounded, when the Lord of hosts reigns upon Mount Zion and in Jerusalem and is glorified in the sight of his elders.

CHAPTER 25

1 O Lord, you are my God; I shall exalt you and confess your name, for you have done wonders, faithful thoughts from of old. Amen.

2 For you have made the city a tomb, the strong city a ruin, the house of strangers, that it should not be a city and should never be built forever.

3 Therefore a mighty people shall praise you; the city of powerful nations shall fear you.

4 For you have become strength to the poor, strength to the needy in his tribulation, hope from the whirlwind, and shelter from the heat; for the spirit of the mighty is like a whirlwind driving against a wall.

5 As heat in thirst, you shall humble the tumult of strangers; and as heat beneath a burning cloud, you shall cause the shoot of the mighty to wither.

6 And the Lord of hosts shall make for all peoples upon this mountain a feast of fat things, a feast of vintage, of fat things full of marrow, of clarified vintage.

7 And upon this mountain he shall cast down the face of the bond bound over all peoples, and the web he wove over all nations.

8 He shall cast down death forever; and the Lord God shall remove the tear from every face and take away the reproach of his people from the whole earth, for the Lord has spoken.

9 And on that day they shall say: “Behold, this is our God; we have awaited him, and he shall save us. This is the Lord; we have waited for him. We shall exult and rejoice in his salvation.”

10 For the hand of the Lord shall rest upon this mountain, and Moab shall be threshed beneath him as straw is ground beneath a wagon.

11 And he shall stretch forth his hands beneath him as a swimmer stretches them to swim; and he shall humble his glory with the striking of his hands.

12 And the fortifications of your lofty walls shall fall, be humbled, and be drawn down to the ground, even to the dust.

CHAPTER 26

1 On that day this song shall be sung in the land of Judah: “Zion is the city of our strength; the Savior shall be placed within her as wall and bulwark.

2 Open the gates, and let the just nation that keeps truth enter.

3 The old error has departed; you shall preserve peace—peace, because we have hoped in you.

4 You have hoped in the Lord throughout everlasting ages, in the Lord, the mighty God forever.

5 For he shall bow down those who dwell on high; he shall humble the lofty city, humble it even to the ground, draw it down even to the dust.

6 The foot shall tread it, the feet of the poor, the steps of the needy.

7 The path of the just is upright; upright is the track of the just for walking.

8 And in the path of your judgments, O Lord, we have waited for you; your name and your memorial are in the desire of the soul.

9 My soul has desired you in the night, and with my spirit in my innermost parts I shall watch for you in the morning. When you accomplish your judgments upon the earth, the inhabitants of the world shall learn justice.

10 Let us have mercy upon the impious, and he shall not learn justice; in the land of the saints he has acted iniquitously, and he shall not see the glory of the Lord.

11 O Lord, let your hand be exalted, and let them not see; let the jealous people see and be confounded, and let fire devour your enemies.

12 O Lord, you shall give us peace, for you have wrought all our works for us.

13 O Lord our God, masters apart from you have possessed us; let us remember your name only in you.

14 Let the dying not live; let the giants not rise again. Therefore you have visited and crushed them and destroyed all memory of them.

15 You have been indulgent to the nation, O Lord; you have been indulgent to the nation. Have you been glorified? You have extended all the boundaries of the earth.

16 O Lord, in anguish they sought you; in the tribulation of murmuring, your doctrine was with them.

17 As a woman who has conceived, when she draws near to birth, cries out in pain in her pangs, so have we become before your face, O Lord.

18 We conceived and were as though in labor, and we brought forth spirit. We have not wrought salvations upon the earth; therefore the inhabitants of the earth have not fallen.

19 Your dead shall live; my slain shall rise again. Awake and praise, you who dwell in the dust, for your dew is the dew of light, and you shall draw the land of giants down into ruin.

20 Go, my people; enter your chambers. Close your doors over you; hide for a little moment until the indignation passes.

21 For behold, the Lord shall go forth from his place to visit the iniquity of the inhabitant of the earth against him; and the earth shall reveal its blood and shall no longer cover its slain.

CHAPTER 27

1 On that day the Lord shall visit with his hard and great and strong sword Leviathan, the bar-serpent, and Leviathan, the winding serpent; and he shall kill the whale that is in the sea.

2 On that day the vineyard of pure wine shall sing to him.

3 “I am the Lord who keeps her; suddenly I shall give her drink. Lest visitation come against her, I keep her night and day.

4 There is no indignation in me. Who shall give me thorn and briar in battle? I shall march upon them and burn them together.

5 Or rather, shall he take hold of my strength? He shall make peace with me; peace he shall make with me.

6 Those who enter violently toward Jacob—Israel shall flower and bud, and they shall fill the face of the world with seed.

7 Has he struck him according to the blow of the one who struck him? Or was he slain as he slew those slain by him?

8 Measure against measure: when she is cast away, you shall judge her. He has considered in his harsh spirit on the day of heat.

9 Therefore by this the iniquity of the house of Jacob shall be forgiven; and this is all its fruit: that his sin be taken away, when he makes all the stones of the altar like crushed stones of ashes. Groves and shrines shall not stand.

10 For the fortified city shall be desolate; the beautiful one shall be abandoned and left like a desert. There the calf shall feed and lie down and consume its summits.

11 In drought its harvests shall be crushed. Women shall come and teach it, for it is not a wise people; therefore he who made it shall not have mercy upon it, and he who formed it shall not spare it.

12 And on that day the Lord shall strike from the channel of the river even to the torrent of Egypt; and you shall be gathered one by one, O children of Israel.

13 And on that day a great trumpet shall sound; and those who were lost from the land of the Assyrians and those cast out in the land of Egypt shall come and adore the Lord upon the holy mountain in Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 28

1 Woe to the crown of pride, to the drunkards of Ephraim, and to the falling flower of the glory of his exultation, who were at the summit of the richest valley, wandering from wine.

2 Behold, the Lord is mighty and strong, like the force of hail, a shattering whirlwind, like the force of many overflowing waters released upon a spacious land.

3 The crown of pride of the drunkards of Ephraim shall be trampled underfoot.

4 And the falling flower of the glory of his exultation, which is upon the summit of the valley of the fat, shall be like an early fruit before the ripeness of autumn; when the one who sees it beholds it, as soon as he holds it in his hand, he shall devour it.

5 On that day the Lord of hosts shall be a crown of glory and a garland of exultation to the remnant of his people,

6 and a Spirit of judgment to him who sits in judgment, and fortitude to those who return from battle to the gate.

7 But these also have not known because of wine and have wandered because of drunkenness. Priest and prophet have not known because of drunkenness; they have been swallowed by wine, wandered in drunkenness, not known the seer, and been ignorant of judgment.

8 For all tables are filled with vomit and filth, so that there is no place left.

9 Whom shall he teach knowledge, and whom shall he make understand what is heard? Those weaned from milk, torn away from the breasts.

10 For: command, command again; command, command again; wait, wait again; wait, wait again; a little there, a little there.

11 For with the speech of a lip and another tongue he shall speak to this people,

12 to whom he said: “This is my rest; refresh the weary. And this is my place of refreshment.” But they were unwilling to hear.

13 And the word of the Lord shall be to them: “Command, command again; command, command again; wait, wait again; wait, wait again; a little there, a little there,” that they may go and fall backward and be broken and ensnared and captured.

14 Therefore hear the word of the Lord, mocking men who rule over my people who are in Jerusalem.

15 For you have said: “We have struck a covenant with death, and with the lower regions we have made a pact. When the overflowing scourge passes, it shall not come upon us, for we have made falsehood our hope and are protected by a lie.”

16 Therefore thus says the Lord God: “Behold, I shall place in the foundations of Zion a stone, a tested stone, a precious cornerstone, founded in the foundation; he who believes, let him not hasten.

17 And I shall place judgment in the weight and justice in the measure; hail shall overturn the hope of falsehood, and waters shall flood the protection.

18 Your covenant with death shall be erased, and your pact with the lower regions shall not stand. When the overflowing scourge passes, you shall be trampled by it.

19 Whenever it passes through, it shall take you away, for morning after morning it shall pass by day and by night; and vexation alone shall give understanding to what is heard.

20 For the bed has been narrowed so that one falls out, and the short cloak cannot cover both.

21 For the Lord shall stand as upon the mountain of divisions; he shall be angry as in the valley at Gabaon, that he may do his work—his work is foreign—that he may accomplish his work—it is strange to him.

22 And now do not mock, lest perhaps your bonds be tightened; for I have heard from the Lord God of hosts a consummation and abbreviation upon the whole earth.”

23 Give ear and hear my voice; attend and hear my speech.

24 Does the plowman plow all day so that he may sow? Does he break up and hoe his ground?

25 When he has leveled its face, does he not sow black cumin and scatter cumin, and place wheat in order, and barley, and millet, and vetch within their boundaries?

26 And he shall instruct him in judgment; his God shall teach him.

27 For black cumin shall not be threshed with saws, nor shall the wheel of a cart turn upon cumin; but black cumin shall be beaten out with a rod, and cumin with a staff.

28 Bread grain shall be crushed, but the thresher shall not thresh it forever, nor trouble it with the wheel of the cart, nor crush it with his hooves.

29 And this also has gone forth from the Lord God of hosts, that he might make counsel wonderful and magnify justice.

CHAPTER 29

1 Woe to Ariel, Ariel, the city David conquered! Year has been added to year; the solemnities have revolved.

2 And I shall surround Ariel, and it shall be sorrowful and mourning, and it shall be to me like Ariel.

3 And I shall surround you like a sphere, cast up a rampart against you, and place fortifications for your siege.

4 You shall be humbled; you shall speak from the earth, and your speech shall be heard from the ground. Your voice shall be like that of one possessed by a spirit from the earth, and your speech shall mutter from the ground.

5 And the multitude of those who winnow you shall be like fine dust, and the multitude of those who prevailed against you like passing ash.

6 And this shall happen suddenly, at once. She shall be visited by the Lord of hosts with thunder and earthquake and the great voice of whirlwind and tempest and a flame of devouring fire.

7 And like the dream of a vision by night shall be the multitude of all the nations that fought against Ariel, and all who warred, besieged, and prevailed against her.

8 And as a hungry man dreams and eats, but when he awakens his soul is empty; and as a thirsty man dreams and drinks, but after he awakens he is still weary with thirst and his soul is empty—so shall be the multitude of all nations that fought against Mount Zion.

9 Be astonished and wonder; waver and stagger; become drunk, but not with wine; be moved, but not by drunkenness.

10 For the Lord has mingled for you a spirit of slumber. He shall close your eyes; he shall cover your prophets and your princes who see visions.

11 And the vision of all shall be to you like the words of a sealed book. When they give it to one who knows letters, they shall say, “Read this,” and he shall answer, “I cannot, for it is sealed.”

12 And the book shall be given to one who does not know letters, and they shall say to him, “Read,” and he shall answer, “I do not know letters.”

13 And the Lord said: “Because this people draws near with its mouth and glorifies me with its lips, but its heart is far from me, and they have feared me by the commandment and doctrines of men,

14 therefore behold, I shall continue to cause wonder among this people with a great and astonishing miracle; for Wisdom shall perish from its wise, and the understanding of its prudent shall be hidden.”

15 Woe to you who are deep in heart, that you may hide counsel from the Lord; whose works are in darkness, and who say, “Who sees us, and who knows us?”

16 This thought of yours is perverse, as though clay should think against the potter, and the work say to its Maker, “You did not make me,” or the thing formed say to its Fashioner, “You do not understand.”

17 Is it not yet a very little while, and Lebanon shall be turned into Carmel, and Carmel shall be reckoned as a forest?

18 And on that day the deaf shall hear the words of the book, and from darkness and gloom the eyes of the blind shall see.

19 And the meek shall increase gladness in the Lord, and poor men shall exult in the Holy One of Israel.

20 For he who prevailed has failed, the mocker has been consumed, and all who watched over iniquity have been cut down;

21 those who caused men to sin in a word, supplanted him who reproved at the gate, and turned away from the just in vain.

22 Therefore thus says the Lord to the house of Jacob, he who redeemed Abraham: “Jacob shall not now be confounded, nor shall his countenance now be ashamed.

23 But when he sees his children, the works of my hands in his midst sanctifying my name, they shall sanctify the Holy One of Jacob and proclaim the God of Israel.

24 And those who erred in spirit shall know understanding, and those who murmured shall learn the law.”

CHAPTER 30

1 Woe to the deserting children, says the Lord, who make counsel, but not from me, and weave a web, but not by my Spirit, that you may add sin upon sin;

2 who walk to descend into Egypt and have not asked my mouth, hoping for aid in the strength of Pharaoh and having confidence in the shadow of Egypt.

3 And the strength of Pharaoh shall become confusion to you, and confidence in the shadow of Egypt a disgrace.

4 For your princes were at Tanis, and your messengers reached even to Hanes.

5 They were all confounded over a people unable to profit them; they were neither an aid nor of any usefulness, but a confusion and reproach.

6 The burden of the beasts of the south. In the land of tribulation and anguish are the lioness and lion, the viper and flying basilisk. They carry their riches upon the shoulders of beasts and their treasures upon the humps of camels to a people unable to profit them.

7 For Egypt shall help in vain and emptiness. Therefore I cried concerning this: “It is pride only; be still.”

8 Now therefore enter and write it for him upon boxwood, and diligently engrave it in a book, and it shall be on the last day a testimony forever.

9 For this is a people provoking anger, lying children, children unwilling to hear the law of God,

10 who say to the seers, “Do not see,” and to those who behold, “Do not behold for us the things that are upright. Speak pleasing things to us; see errors for us.

11 Remove the way from me; turn the path away from me; let the Holy One of Israel cease from before our face.”

12 Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel: “Because you have rejected this word, hoped in oppression and tumult, and leaned upon it,

13 therefore this iniquity shall be to you like a falling breach sought out in a high wall, whose destruction shall come suddenly when it is not expected.

14 And it shall be crushed as a potter’s vessel is broken with an exceedingly mighty breaking, and among its fragments there shall not be found a shard in which to carry a little fire from the burning or draw a little water from the pit.”

15 For thus says the Lord God, the Holy One of Israel: “If you return and rest, you shall be saved; in silence and hope shall be your strength.” But you were unwilling,

16 and you said, “By no means; rather, we shall flee upon horses.” Therefore you shall flee. And, “We shall mount swift ones.” Therefore those who pursue you shall be swifter.

17 A thousand men shall flee before the terror of one; before the terror of five you shall flee, until you are left like the mast of a ship upon the summit of a mountain and like a sign upon a hill.

18 Therefore the Lord waits that he may have mercy upon you; and therefore, sparing you, he shall be exalted, for the Lord is a God of judgment. Blessed are all who wait for him.

19 For the people of Zion shall dwell in Jerusalem. Weeping, you shall weep no more. Having mercy, he shall have mercy upon you at the voice of your cry; as soon as he hears, he shall answer you.

20 And the Lord shall give you scant bread and little water; and he shall no longer cause your teacher to fly away from you, and your eyes shall see your instructor.

21 And your ears shall hear the word of one warning behind your back: “This is the way; walk in it, and turn aside neither to the right nor to the left.”

22 And you shall defile the plates of your graven images of silver and the garment of your molten image of gold, and scatter them like the uncleanness of a menstruous woman. “Go forth,” you shall say to it.

23 And rain shall be given to your seed wherever you sow in the land, and the bread of the produce of the earth shall be most abundant and rich; on that day the lamb shall feed spaciously in your possession.

24 And your bulls and the young asses that work the land shall eat mixed grain as it was winnowed upon the threshing floor.

25 And upon every high mountain and every elevated hill there shall be streams of running waters on the day of the slaughter of many, when the towers fall.

26 And the light of the moon shall be like the light of the sun, and the light of the sun shall be sevenfold, like the light of seven days, on the day when the Lord binds the wound of his people and heals the blow of their plague.

27 Behold, the name of the Lord comes from afar; his fury burns and is heavy to bear. His lips are filled with indignation, and his tongue is like a devouring fire.

28 His Spirit is like an overflowing torrent reaching even to the middle of the neck, to destroy nations into nothingness, and like the bridle of error that was in the jaws of the peoples.

29 A song shall be yours like the night of a sanctified solemnity, and gladness of heart like one who proceeds with a pipe to enter the mountain of the Lord, to the Mighty One of Israel.

30 And the Lord shall cause the glory of his voice to be heard and show the terror of his arm in the threat of fury and the flame of devouring fire. He shall shatter with whirlwind and hailstone.

31 For at the voice of the Lord Assur shall fear, struck with the rod.

32 And the passage of the founded rod, which the Lord shall cause to rest upon him, shall be with timbrels and harps; and in great battles he shall conquer them.

33 For Topheth has been prepared since yesterday, prepared by the king, deep and wide. Its nourishment is fire and much wood; the breath of the Lord, like a torrent of brimstone, kindles it.

CHAPTER 31

1 Woe to those who descend into Egypt for aid, hoping in horses and trusting in chariots because they are many, and in horsemen because they are exceedingly strong; but they have not trusted in the Holy One of Israel and have not sought the Lord.

2 Yet he is wise and has brought evil, and he has not withdrawn his words. He shall rise against the house of the most wicked and against the aid of those who work iniquity.

3 Egypt is man and not God; their horses are flesh and not spirit. The Lord shall incline his hand, and the helper shall fall, and he who is helped shall collapse, and all together shall be consumed.

4 For thus says the Lord to me: “As when a lion or young lion roars over its prey, and a multitude of shepherds encounters it, it shall not fear their voice or dread their multitude, so shall the Lord of hosts descend to battle over Mount Zion and over its hill.

5 Like birds flying, so shall the Lord of hosts protect Jerusalem, protecting and delivering, passing over and saving.”

6 Be converted, as deeply as you had withdrawn, O children of Israel.

7 For on that day a man shall cast away his idols of silver and idols of gold, which your hands made for you unto sin.

8 And Assur shall fall by the sword of no man, and a sword not of mankind shall devour him. He shall flee, but not before the face of the sword, and his young men shall become tributaries.

9 His strength shall pass away from terror, and his princes, fleeing, shall be afraid, says the Lord, whose fire is in Zion and whose furnace is in Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 32

1 Behold, a king shall reign in justice, and princes shall rule in judgment.

2 And a man shall be like one hidden from the wind and concealing himself from a tempest, like streams of waters in thirst and the shadow of a projecting rock in a desert land.

3 The eyes of those who see shall not grow dim, and the ears of those who hear shall listen diligently.

4 The heart of fools shall understand knowledge, and the tongue of stammerers shall speak swiftly and plainly.

5 He who is senseless shall no longer be called a prince, nor shall the deceitful be called great.

6 For the fool shall speak foolish things, and his heart shall work iniquity, that he may perfect hypocrisy, speak deceitfully to the Lord, empty the soul of the hungry, and take drink away from the thirsty.

7 The vessels of the deceitful are most wicked, for he has fashioned thoughts to destroy the meek by lying speech when the poor man spoke judgment.

8 But the prince shall consider things worthy of a prince, and he shall stand above rulers.

9 Arise, wealthy women, and hear my voice; confident daughters, give ear to my speech.

10 For after days and a year, you who are confident shall be troubled; for the vintage is ended, and the gathering shall come no more.

11 Be astonished, wealthy women; be troubled, you who are confident. Strip yourselves and be confounded; gird your loins.

12 Mourn over the breasts, over the desirable region, over the fruitful vineyard.

13 Thorns and briars shall rise upon the soil of my people—how much more upon all the houses of joy of the exulting city!

14 For the house is abandoned, the multitude of the city forsaken; darkness and groping have come upon the caves forever, a joy of wild asses, a pasture of flocks,

15 until the Spirit is poured upon us from on high, and the desert becomes Carmel, and Carmel is reckoned as a forest.

16 And judgment shall dwell in the wilderness, and justice shall sit in Carmel.

17 And the work of justice shall be peace, and the service of justice silence and security forever.

18 And my people shall sit in the beauty of peace, in tabernacles of confidence and in abundant rest.

19 But hail shall descend upon the forest, and with humiliation the city shall be humbled.

20 Blessed are you who sow upon all waters, sending forth the foot of ox and ass.

CHAPTER 33

1 Woe to you who plunder! Shall you not also be plundered? And you who despise, shall you not also be despised? When you have completed your plundering, you shall be plundered; when, wearied, you cease to despise, you shall be despised.

2 O Lord, have mercy upon us, for we have awaited you. Be our arm in the morning and our salvation in the time of tribulation.

3 At the voice of the angel the peoples fled; at your exaltation the nations were scattered.

4 And your spoils shall be gathered as the locust is gathered, as when pits are filled with them.

5 The Lord is magnified, for he dwells on high; he has filled Zion with judgment and justice.

6 And there shall be faith in your times: the riches of salvation, Wisdom, and knowledge; the fear of the Lord is his treasure.

7 Behold, those who see shall cry outside; the angels of peace shall weep bitterly.

8 The roads are dissipated; he who passed through the path has ceased. The pact has become void; he has cast away cities and regarded no men.

9 The land has mourned and languished; Lebanon is confounded and has become foul; Saron has become like a desert, and Basan and Carmel are shaken.

10 “Now I shall arise,” says the Lord. “Now I shall be exalted; now I shall be lifted up.

11 You shall conceive heat and bring forth stubble; your spirit, like fire, shall devour you.

12 And the peoples shall be like ashes from a burning; thorns gathered together shall be burned with fire.”

13 Hear, you who are far away, what I have done; and know, you who are near, my fortitude.

14 Sinners in Zion are terrified; trembling has possessed the hypocrites. Who among you can dwell with devouring fire? Who among you shall dwell with everlasting burnings?

15 He who walks in justice and speaks truth, who casts away avarice from oppression and shakes his hands free from every gift, who stops his ears lest he hear blood and closes his eyes lest he see evil.

16 He shall dwell on high; the fortifications of rocks shall be his exaltation. Bread is given to him; his waters are faithful.

17 His eyes shall see the King in his beauty; they shall behold the land from afar.

18 Your heart shall meditate upon fear: Where is the learned man? Where is he who weighs the words of the law? Where is the teacher of little ones?

19 You shall not see a shameless people, a people of lofty speech whose eloquence of tongue you cannot understand, in whom there is no Wisdom.

20 Look upon Zion, the city of our solemnity. Your eyes shall see Jerusalem, an abundant habitation, a tabernacle that can never be transferred. Its pegs shall not be removed forever, and none of its cords shall be broken.

21 For there alone our Lord is magnificent, a place of rivers, of exceedingly broad and open streams. No ship of oars shall pass through it, nor shall a great trireme cross it.

22 For the Lord is our judge, the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our King; he himself shall save us.

23 Your cords have been loosened and shall not prevail; your mast shall be such that you cannot spread the sign. Then the spoils of much plunder shall be divided; the lame shall seize the prey.

24 Nor shall a neighbor say, “I have languished.” The iniquity of the people who dwell in her shall be taken away.

CHAPTER 34

1 Draw near, O nations, and hear; and you peoples, attend. Let the earth and its fullness hear, the world and all its offspring.

2 For the indignation of the Lord is upon all nations, and his fury upon all their host. He has slain them and delivered them to slaughter.

3 Their slain shall be cast out, and stench shall rise from their corpses; the mountains shall melt from their blood.

4 And all the host of the heavens shall melt away, and the heavens shall be folded like a book; all their host shall fall as a leaf falls from the vine and the fig tree.

5 For my sword is inebriated in heaven; behold, it shall descend upon Idumea and upon the people of my slaughter, unto judgment.

6 The sword of the Lord is filled with blood and made fat with fatness, with the blood of lambs and goats, with the blood of rams full of marrow; for the Lord has a victim in Bosra and a great slaughter in the land of Edom.

7 And unicorns shall descend with them, and bulls with the mighty; their land shall be inebriated with blood, and their soil with the fat of fatlings.

8 For it is the day of the vengeance of the Lord, the year of recompenses for the judgment of Zion.

9 Its torrents shall be turned into pitch and its soil into sulfur, and its land shall become burning pitch.

10 It shall not be extinguished by night or day; its smoke shall ascend forever. From generation to generation it shall be desolate; for ages of ages no one shall pass through it.

11 The pelican and hedgehog shall possess it; the ibis and raven shall dwell in it. A measuring line shall be stretched over it, that it may be reduced to nothing, and a plumb line unto desolation.

12 Its nobles shall not be there; rather, they shall call upon a king, and all its princes shall become nothing.

13 Thorns and nettles shall rise in its houses, and the buckthorn in its fortifications; it shall become a lair of dragons and a pasture of ostriches.

14 Demons shall meet onocentaurs, and the hairy creature shall cry to another; there the lamia has lain down and found rest for herself.

15 There the hedgehog had its den and nourished its young, dug round about and cherished them in its shadow; there the kites were gathered, one to another.

16 Search diligently in the book of the Lord and read: not one of these was missing; one did not seek another, for what proceeds from my mouth he has commanded, and his Spirit himself has gathered them.

17 And he himself cast the lot for them, and his hand divided it to them by measure. They shall possess it forever; from generation to generation they shall dwell in it.

CHAPTER 35

1 The desert and impassable land shall rejoice, and the wilderness shall exult and flower like the lily.

2 Budding, it shall bud; it shall exult, rejoicing and praising. The glory of Lebanon is given to it, the beauty of Carmel and Saron. They themselves shall see the glory of the Lord and the beauty of our God.

3 Strengthen the loosened hands and fortify the feeble knees.

4 Say to the fainthearted: “Take courage and do not fear. Behold, your God shall bring the vengeance of recompense; God himself shall come and save you.”

5 Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unsealed.

6 Then the lame man shall leap like a hart, and the tongue of the mute shall be opened; for waters have broken forth in the desert and torrents in the wilderness.

7 And that which was dry shall become a pool, and the thirsty land fountains of waters. In the lairs where dragons formerly dwelt, the greenness of reed and rush shall arise.

8 And there shall be a path and a way there, and it shall be called the holy way. The polluted shall not pass through it, and this shall be a direct way for you, so that fools shall not wander upon it.

9 There shall be no lion there, and no evil beast shall ascend upon it or be found there; but those who have been delivered shall walk upon it.

10 And those redeemed by the Lord shall be converted and come into Zion with praise, and everlasting gladness shall be upon their heads. They shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and groaning shall flee away.

CHAPTER 36

1 And it came to pass in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah that Sennacherib, king of the Assyrians, ascended against all the fortified cities of Judah and captured them.

2 And the king of the Assyrians sent Rabsaces from Lachis to Jerusalem, to King Hezekiah, with a heavy force; and he stood at the aqueduct of the upper pool on the road to the Fuller's Field.

3 And Eliacim, son of Helcias, who was over the house, went out to him, with Sobna the scribe and Joahe, son of Asaph, the recorder.

4 And Rabsaces said to them: "Say to Hezekiah: Thus says the great king, the king of the Assyrians: What is this confidence in which you trust?

5 Or by what counsel or strength do you plan to rebel? In whom do you trust, that you have withdrawn from me?

6 Behold, you trust upon this broken staff of reed, upon Egypt; if a man leans upon it, it shall enter his hand and pierce it. So is Pharaoh, king of Egypt, to all who trust in him.

7 But if you answer me, 'We trust in the Lord our God,' is he not the one whose high places and altars Hezekiah removed, saying to Judah and Jerusalem, 'You shall adore before this altar'?

8 And now deliver yourself to my master, the king of the Assyrians, and I shall give you two thousand horses, though you shall be unable of yourself to provide riders for them.

9 And how shall you withstand the face of one governor from among my master's least servants? But if you trust in Egypt, in chariots and horsemen,

10 have I now ascended without the Lord against this land to destroy it? The Lord said to me, 'Ascend against this land and destroy it.'"

11 And Eliacim and Sobna and Joahe said to Rabsaces: "Speak to your servants in the Syrian tongue, for we understand; do not speak to us in the Jewish tongue in the ears of the people who are upon the wall."

12 And Rabsaces said to them: "Has my master sent me to your master and to you to speak all these words, and not rather to the men who sit upon the wall, that they may eat their own dung and drink the urine of their feet with you?"

13 And Rabsaces stood and cried with a loud voice in the Jewish tongue, saying: "Hear the words of the great king, the king of the Assyrians!

14 Thus says the king: Let not Hezekiah seduce you, for he shall not be able to rescue you.

15 And let not Hezekiah give you confidence in the Lord, saying, 'Delivering, the Lord shall deliver us; this city shall not be given into the hand of the king of the Assyrians.'

16 Do not listen to Hezekiah, for thus says the king of the Assyrians: Make a blessing with me and come out to me; and let each one eat of his own vine and his own fig tree and drink the water of his own cistern,

17 until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of grain and wine, a land of bread and vineyards.

18 Let not Hezekiah trouble you, saying, 'The Lord shall deliver us.' Has each of the gods of the nations delivered his land from the hand of the king of the Assyrians?

19 Where is the god of Emath and Arphad? Where is the god of Sepharvaim? Have they delivered Samaria from my hand?

20 Who among all the gods of these lands has rescued his land from my hand, that the Lord should rescue Jerusalem from my hand?"

21 And they were silent and answered him not a word, for the king had commanded, saying, "Do not answer him."

22 And Eliacim, son of Helcias, who was over the house, and Sobna the scribe, and Joahe, son of Asaph, the recorder, entered to Hezekiah with their garments torn and reported to him the words of Rabsaces.

CHAPTER 37

1 And it came to pass, when King Hezekiah heard, that he tore his garments, wrapped himself in sackcloth, and entered the house of the Lord.

2 And he sent Eliacim, who was over the house, Sobna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to Isaiah, son of Amos, the prophet.

3 And they said to him: “Thus says Hezekiah: This day is a day of tribulation, correction, and blasphemy, for the children have come even to birth, but there is no strength to give birth.

4 Perhaps the Lord your God shall hear the words of Rabsaces, whom his master the king of the Assyrians sent to blaspheme the living God and reproach him with words that the Lord your God has heard. Therefore lift up prayer for the remnant that has been found.”

5 And the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 And Isaiah said to them: “Thus you shall say to your master: Thus says the Lord: Do not fear before the words you have heard, by which the servants of the king of the Assyrians have blasphemed me.

7 Behold, I shall give him a spirit, and he shall hear a report and return to his own land; and I shall cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.”

8 But Rabsaces returned and found the king of the Assyrians fighting against Lobna, for he had heard that he had departed from Lachis.

9 And he heard concerning Tharaca, king of Ethiopia, saying, “He has gone forth to fight against you.” When he heard this, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying:

10 “Thus you shall speak to Hezekiah, king of Judah: Let not your God in whom you trust deceive you, saying, ‘Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the king of the Assyrians.’

11 Behold, you have heard all that the kings of the Assyrians have done to every land, which they overturned; and shall you be able to be delivered?

12 Did the gods of the nations whom my fathers overthrew deliver them—Gozan and Haram and Reseph and the sons of Eden who were in Thalassar?

13 Where is the king of Emath, the king of Arphad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, Ana, and Ava?”

14 And Hezekiah took the letters from the hand of the messengers and read them; and Hezekiah ascended to the house of the Lord and spread them before the Lord.

15 And Hezekiah prayed to the Lord, saying:

16 “O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, who sits above the cherubim, you alone are God of all the kingdoms of the earth; you made heaven and earth.

17 Incline your ear, O Lord, and hear; open your eyes, O Lord, and see; and hear all the words of Sennacherib that he sent to blaspheme the living God.

18 For truly, O Lord, the kings of the Assyrians have made lands and their regions desolate,

19 and they gave their gods to the fire; for they were not gods, but works of men’s hands, wood and stone, and they crushed them.

20 And now, O Lord our God, save us from his hand, and let all the kingdoms of the earth know that you alone are the Lord.”

21 And Isaiah, son of Amos, sent to Hezekiah, saying: “Thus says the Lord God of Israel: Concerning the things for which you prayed to me about Sennacherib, king of the Assyrians,

22 this is the word the Lord has spoken concerning him: ‘The virgin daughter of Zion has despised and mocked you; the daughter of Jerusalem has shaken her head behind you.

23 Whom have you reproached, and whom have you blasphemed? Against whom have you exalted your voice and lifted the height of your eyes? Against the Holy One of Israel.

24 By the hand of your servants you reproached the Lord and said: “With the multitude of my chariots I ascended the height of the mountains, the ridges of Lebanon; I shall cut down its lofty cedars and its choicest fir trees, and I shall enter the height of its summit, the forest of its Carmel.

25 I dug and drank water, and with the tread of my foot I dried all the streams of the embankments.”

26 Have you not heard what I did to it of old? From ancient days I formed it, and now I have brought it to pass, that hills fighting together and fortified cities should be rooted out.

27 Their inhabitants, their hand shortened, trembled and were confounded. They became like grass of the field and pasture, and like grass upon roofs that withered before it ripened.

28 I have known your dwelling, your going out, your coming in, and your madness against me.

29 When you raged against me, your pride ascended into my ears. Therefore I shall put a ring in your nostrils and a bridle in your lips, and I shall lead you back by the way you came.’

30 But this shall be a sign to you: eat this year what springs forth of itself, and in the second year eat fruits; but in the third year sow and reap, plant vineyards, and eat their fruit.

31 And that which is saved and remains from the house of Judah shall send root downward and make fruit upward.

32 For a remnant shall go forth from Jerusalem, and salvation from Mount Zion; the zeal of the Lord of hosts shall accomplish this.

33 Therefore thus says the Lord concerning the king of the Assyrians: ‘He shall not enter this city, nor cast an arrow there, nor shall a shield occupy it, nor shall he cast a rampart around it.

34 By the way he came, by the same he shall return, and he shall not enter this city, says the Lord.

35 And I shall protect this city and save it for my own sake and for the sake of David my servant.’”

36 And the angel of the Lord went forth and struck in the camp of the Assyrians one hundred eighty-five thousand. And they arose in the morning, and behold, all were corpses of the dead.

37 And Sennacherib, king of the Assyrians, departed and went away and returned and dwelt in Nineveh.

38 And it came to pass, while he adored in the temple of Nesroch his god, that Adramelech and Sarasar, his sons, struck him with the sword and fled into the land of Ararat; and Asarhaddon, his son, reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 38

1 In those days Hezekiah became sick unto death; and Isaiah, son of Amos, the prophet, entered to him and said: “Thus says the Lord: Set your house in order, for you shall die and shall not live.”

2 And Hezekiah turned his face toward the wall and prayed to the Lord,

3 and said: “I beseech you, O Lord, remember, I pray, how I have walked before you in truth and with a perfect heart and have done what is good in your eyes.” And Hezekiah wept with great weeping.

4 And the word of the Lord came to Isaiah, saying:

5 “Go and say to Hezekiah: Thus says the Lord, the God of David your father: I have heard your prayer and seen your tears. Behold, I shall add fifteen years to your days,

6 and I shall rescue you and this city from the hand of the king of the Assyrians, and I shall protect it.

7 And this shall be a sign to you from the Lord that the Lord shall accomplish this word he has spoken:

8 behold, I shall cause the shadow of the lines by which it descended upon the sundial of Achaz with the sun to return backward ten lines.” And the sun returned ten lines by the steps it had descended.

9 The writing of Hezekiah, king of Judah, when he had become sick and recovered from his infirmity.

10 I said: “In the midst of my days I shall go to the gates of the lower regions; I sought the remainder of my years.

11 I said: I shall not see the Lord God in the land of the living; I shall behold man no more, nor the inhabitant of repose.

12 My generation has been taken away and rolled up from me like the tabernacle of shepherds. My life has been cut off as by a weaver; while I was still beginning, he cut me down. From morning even to evening you shall finish me.

13 I hoped until morning; like a lion, so he crushed all my bones. From morning even to evening you shall finish me.

14 Like a young swallow, so shall I cry; I shall moan like a dove. My eyes have grown weak looking toward the heights. O Lord, I suffer violence; answer for me.

15 What shall I say, or what shall he answer me, since he himself has done it? I shall recall to you all my years in the bitterness of my soul.

16 O Lord, if life is lived in this way, and in such things is the life of my spirit, you shall correct me and make me live.

17 Behold, in peace is my most bitter bitterness. But you have rescued my soul so that it should not perish; you have cast all my sins behind your back.

18 For the lower regions shall not confess to you, nor shall death praise you; those who descend into the pit shall not await your truth.

19 The living, the living man himself shall confess to you, as I do today; the father shall make your truth known to his sons.

20 O Lord, save me! And we shall sing our psalms all the days of our life in the house of the Lord.”

21 And Isaiah commanded that they take a mass of figs and apply it as a poultice upon the wound, and he would be healed.

22 And Hezekiah said, “What shall be the sign that I shall ascend to the house of the Lord?”

CHAPTER 39

1 At that time Merodach Baladan, son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and gifts to Hezekiah, for he had heard that he had been sick and had recovered.

2 And Hezekiah rejoiced over them and showed them the storeroom of spices, silver, gold, fragrances, the finest ointment, all the storehouses of his furnishings, and everything found in his treasuries. There was nothing in his house or throughout his dominion that Hezekiah did not show them.

3 Then Isaiah the prophet entered to King Hezekiah and said to him, “What did these men say, and from where did they come to you?” And Hezekiah said, “They came to me from a distant land, from Babylon.”

4 And he said, “What did they see in your house?” And Hezekiah said, “They saw everything in my house; there was nothing in my treasuries that I did not show them.”

5 And Isaiah said to Hezekiah, “Hear the word of the Lord of hosts.

6 Behold, days shall come, and everything in your house and all that your fathers treasured even to this day shall be carried away to Babylon; nothing shall be left, says the Lord.

7 And they shall take some of your sons who shall come forth from you, whom you shall beget, and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.”

8 And Hezekiah said to Isaiah, “The word of the Lord that he has spoken is good.” And he said, “Only let there be peace and truth in my days!”

CHAPTER 40

1 “Be consoled, be consoled, my people,” says your God.

2 “Speak to the heart of Jerusalem and call to her, for her malice is completed, her iniquity forgiven; she has received double from the hand of the Lord for all her sins.”

3 The voice of one crying in the desert: “Prepare the way of the Lord; make straight in the wilderness the paths of our God.

4 Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be humbled; crooked things shall become straight, and rough places level ways.

5 And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh together shall see that the mouth of the Lord has spoken.”

6 A voice saying, “Cry out.” And I said, “What shall I cry?” All flesh is grass, and all its glory like the flower of the field.

7 The grass has dried, and the flower has fallen, because the Spirit of the Lord has breathed upon it. Truly the people is grass.

8 The grass has dried, and the flower has fallen; but the word of our Lord endures forever.

9 Ascend upon a high mountain, you who evangelize Zion; lift your voice in strength, you who evangelize Jerusalem. Lift it up; do not fear. Say to the cities of Judah: “Behold your God!”

10 Behold, the Lord God shall come in strength, and his arm shall rule. Behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him.

11 Like a shepherd he shall feed his flock; in his arm he shall gather the lambs, lift them in his bosom, and himself carry those with young.

12 Who has measured the waters in his fist and weighed the heavens with his palm? Who has suspended the mass of the earth with three fingers and balanced the mountains in a weight and the hills in scales?

13 Who has assisted the Spirit of the Lord? Or who was his counselor and showed him?

14 With whom did he undertake counsel, and who instructed him, taught him the path of justice, educated him in knowledge, and showed him the way of prudence?

15 Behold, the nations are reckoned like a drop from a bucket and like the slightest movement of scales; behold, the islands like a little dust.

16 And Lebanon shall not suffice for kindling, and its animals shall not suffice for a holocaust.

17 All nations are before him as though they were not; they are reckoned by him as nothingness and emptiness.

18 To whom, therefore, have you likened God? Or what image shall you set before him?

19 Has the craftsman cast a graven image? Or has the goldsmith fashioned it with gold, and the silversmith with plates of silver?

20 Perhaps he has chosen strong and incorruptible wood; the wise artisan seeks how to establish an image that shall not be moved.

21 Do you not know? Have you not heard? Has it not been announced to you from the beginning? Have you not understood the foundations of the earth?

22 He who sits above the circle of the earth, whose inhabitants are like locusts; who stretches out the heavens like nothingness and spreads them like a tabernacle for dwelling;

23 who makes those who search secrets as though they were not, and has made the judges of the earth like emptiness.

24 Indeed, their trunk was neither planted nor sown nor rooted in the earth; suddenly he breathed upon them, and they withered, and the whirlwind shall take them away like stubble.

25 “And to whom have you likened me and made me equal?” says the Holy One.

26 Lift your eyes on high and see who created these things: he who leads forth their host by number and calls them all by name. Because of the multitude of his strength and might and power, not one was left behind.

27 Why do you say, O Jacob, and speak, O Israel, “My way is hidden from the Lord, and my judgment has passed away from my God”?

28 Do you not know, or have you not heard? The Lord is the everlasting God who created the boundaries of the earth. He shall not fail or labor, nor is there any searching of his Wisdom.

29 He gives power to the weary and multiplies strength and might to those who are not.

30 Children shall fail and labor, and young men shall fall in weakness;

31 but those who hope in the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall take wings like eagles, run and not labor, walk and not fail.

CHAPTER 41

1 Let the islands be silent before me, and let the nations renew their strength. Let them draw near and then speak; together let us approach judgment.

2 Who has raised up the Just One from the east and called him to follow him? He shall give nations before his face and obtain kings; he shall give them like dust to his sword, like stubble swept by the wind to his bow.

3 He shall pursue them and pass in peace; no path shall appear beneath his feet.

4 Who has wrought and done these things, calling the generations from the beginning? I, the Lord: I am the first and the last.

5 The islands saw and feared; the ends of the earth were astonished. They drew near and came.

6 Each shall help his neighbor and say to his brother, “Take courage.”

7 The bronze worker strengthened him who struck with the hammer, who forged at that time, saying, “The solder is good”; and he strengthened it with nails so that it should not move.

8 But you, Israel, my servant, Jacob whom I have chosen, seed of Abraham my friend,

9 in whom I took hold of you from the ends of the earth and called you from its distant places, and said to you: “You are my servant; I have chosen you and have not cast you away.

10 Do not fear, for I am with you. Do not turn aside, for I am your God. I have strengthened you and helped you, and the right hand of my Just One has upheld you.

11 Behold, all who fight against you shall be confounded and ashamed; the men who contradict you shall become as though they were not and shall perish.

12 You shall seek them and not find them, the men who rebel against you. Those who war against you shall become as though they were not and like a thing consumed.

13 For I am the Lord your God, taking hold of your hand and saying to you: Do not fear; I have helped you.

14 Do not fear, worm of Jacob, you who are dead from Israel. I have helped you, says the Lord, and your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel.

15 I have made you like a new threshing wagon having serrated blades; you shall thresh and crush the mountains and make the hills like dust.

16 You shall winnow them, and the wind shall take them away, and the whirlwind shall scatter them; but you shall exult in the Lord and rejoice in the Holy One of Israel.

17 The needy and poor seek waters, and there are none; their tongue has dried from thirst. I, the Lord, shall hear them; I, the God of Israel, shall not forsake them.

18 I shall open rivers upon bare hills and fountains in the midst of plains; I shall make the desert into pools of waters and the impassable land into streams of waters.

19 I shall give cedar and thorn and myrtle and olive wood in the wilderness; I shall place fir and elm and boxwood together in the desert,

20 that they may see and know and consider and understand together that the hand of the Lord has done this and the Holy One of Israel has created it.

21 Bring your judgment near, says the Lord; bring forth anything you may have, says the King of Jacob.

22 Let them draw near and announce to us whatever shall come. Announce the former things that were, and we shall set our heart and know their latter end; and reveal to us the things that shall come.

23 Announce the things that shall come in the future, and we shall know that you are gods. Do good or evil also, if you can, and let us speak and see together.

24 Behold, you are from nothing, and your work from that which does not exist; he who chose you is an abomination.

25 I have raised one from the north, and he shall come from the rising of the sun. He shall invoke my name and bring rulers like mud and like a potter trampling clay.

26 Who announced it from the beginning that we might know, and from the start that we might say, “You are just”? There is no one announcing or foretelling or hearing your words.

27 The first shall say to Zion, “Behold, they are present,” and I shall give an evangelist to Jerusalem.

28 And I looked, and there was no one among them who would undertake counsel or, when questioned, answer a word.

29 Behold, they are all unjust, and their works are vain; their images are wind and emptiness.

CHAPTER 42

1 Behold my servant; I shall uphold him. My elect, my soul has delighted in him. I have placed my Spirit upon him; he shall bring forth judgment to the nations.

2 He shall not cry out, nor show partiality, nor shall his voice be heard outside.

3 He shall not crush the bruised reed, and he shall not extinguish the smoking flax; he shall bring forth judgment in truth.

4 He shall not be sorrowful or turbulent until he establishes judgment upon the earth, and the islands shall await his law.

5 Thus says the Lord God, who creates the heavens and stretches them forth, who establishes the earth and the things that spring from it, who gives breath to the people upon it and spirit to those who tread it:

6 "I, the Lord, have called you in justice, taken hold of your hand, and preserved you. I have given you as a covenant of the people, as a light of the nations,

7 that you might open the eyes of the blind and bring the bound man from confinement, and those sitting in darkness from the prison house.

8 I am the Lord; this is my name. I shall not give my glory to another, nor my praise to graven images.

9 The former things, behold, have come; I also announce new things. Before they arise, I shall make them heard by you."

10 Sing to the Lord a new song, his praise from the ends of the earth—you who descend into the sea and its fullness, the islands and their inhabitants.

11 Let the desert and its cities be lifted up. Cedar shall dwell in houses; praise, inhabitants of the rock; they shall cry out from the summit of the mountains.

12 They shall give glory to the Lord and announce his praise in the islands.

13 The Lord shall go forth like a mighty man; like a man of battle he shall stir up zeal. He shall raise his voice and cry out; he shall be strengthened against his enemies.

14 "I have always been silent; I have kept still and been patient. Like a woman giving birth I shall speak; I shall dissipate and swallow up together.

15 I shall make mountains and hills desolate and dry all their grass; I shall make rivers into islands and dry the pools.

16 And I shall lead the blind by a way they do not know and cause them to walk in paths of which they were ignorant. I shall make darkness before them into light and crooked things into straight. These words I have done for them, and I have not forsaken them."

17 They have turned backward; let those who trust in a graven image and say to a molten image, "You are our gods," be confounded with confusion.

18 Deaf ones, hear; and blind ones, look that you may see.

19 Who is blind except my servant, and deaf except him to whom I have sent my messengers? Who is blind except he who has been sold? And who is blind except the servant of the Lord?

20 You who see many things, shall you not keep them? You who have open ears, shall you not hear?

21 And the Lord willed to sanctify him, magnify the law, and exalt it.

22 But this very people has been plundered and devastated. All their young men are a snare, and they are hidden in prison houses. They have become plunder, and there is no one to rescue; spoil, and there is no one to say, "Restore."

23 Who among you shall hear this, attend, and listen to future things?

24 Who gave Jacob to plunder and Israel to devastators? Was it not the Lord himself, against whom we sinned? And they were unwilling to walk in his ways and did not hear his law.

25 And he poured upon him the indignation of his fury and mighty war; it burned him round about, and he did not know; it kindled him, and he did not understand.

CHAPTER 43

1 And now thus says the Lord, who created you, O Jacob, and formed you, O Israel: “Do not fear, for I have redeemed you and called you by your name. You are mine.

2 When you pass through waters, I shall be with you, and rivers shall not cover you. When you walk in fire, you shall not be burned, and the flame shall not burn within you.

3 For I am the Lord your God, the Holy One of Israel, your Savior. I gave Egypt as your propitiation, Ethiopia and Saba for you.

4 Since you became honorable and glorious in my eyes, I have loved you; and I shall give men for you and peoples for your soul.

5 Do not fear, for I am with you. I shall bring your seed from the east and gather you from the west.

6 I shall say to the north, ‘Give,’ and to the south, ‘Do not prohibit. Bring my sons from afar and my daughters from the ends of the earth,

7 and everyone who invokes my name. I created him for my glory; I formed him and made him.’”

8 Bring forth the blind people who have eyes, and the deaf who have ears.

9 All the nations are gathered together, and the tribes are assembled. Who among you shall announce this and cause us to hear the former things? Let them give their witnesses and be justified; and let them hear and say, “It is true.”

10 “You are my witnesses,” says the Lord, “and my servant whom I have chosen, that you may know and believe me and understand that I myself am. Before me no God was formed, and after me there shall be none.

11 I am, I am the Lord, and apart from me there is no Savior.

12 I announced and saved; I made it heard, and there was no stranger among you. You are my witnesses, says the Lord, and I am God.

13 And from the beginning I am the same, and there is no one who can rescue from my hand. I shall work, and who shall turn it away?”

14 Thus says the Lord, your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: “For your sake I sent to Babylon and drew down all its bars, and the Chaldeans who glory in their ships.

15 I am the Lord, your Holy One, the Creator of Israel, your King.”

16 Thus says the Lord, who gave a way in the sea and a path in the torrent waters,

17 who led forth chariot and horse, army and mighty one: “Together they fell asleep and shall not rise; they were crushed like flax and extinguished.

18 Do not remember former things or look upon ancient things.

19 Behold, I make new things, and now they shall arise; surely you shall know them. I shall place a way in the desert and rivers in the impassable land.

20 The beast of the field shall glorify me, the dragons and ostriches, because I have given waters in the desert and rivers in the impassable land, that I might give drink to my people, my elect.

21 I formed this people for myself; they shall recount my praise.

22 You have not invoked me, O Jacob, nor labored in me, O Israel.

23 You did not offer me the ram of your holocaust, nor glorify me with your victims. I did not make you serve in offering or give you labor in incense.

24 You did not buy sweet cane for me with silver or inebriate me with the fat of your victims. Yet you made me serve in your sins and gave me labor in your iniquities.

25 I am, I myself am he who blots out your iniquities for my own sake, and I shall not remember your sins.

26 Bring me into remembrance, and let us be judged together. Recount anything you have, that you may be justified.

27 Your first father sinned, and your interpreters transgressed against me.

28 And I defiled the holy princes; I gave Jacob to destruction and Israel to blasphemy.”

CHAPTER 44

1 And now hear, O Jacob my servant, and Israel whom I have chosen.

2 Thus says the Lord, who makes and forms you, your helper from the womb: “Do not fear, Jacob my servant, and most upright one whom I have chosen.

3 For I shall pour waters upon the thirsty and streams upon the dry land; I shall pour my Spirit upon your seed and my blessing upon your offspring.

4 And they shall spring up among the grasses like willows beside flowing waters.

5 This one shall say, ‘I am the Lord’s’; another shall call himself by the name of Jacob; and this one shall write with his hand, ‘For the Lord,’ and shall be likened in the name of Israel.”

6 Thus says the Lord, the King of Israel and his Redeemer, the Lord of hosts: “I am the first, and I am the last, and apart from me there is no god.

7 Who is like me? Let him call and announce, and let him set forth the order before me, since I established the ancient people. Let them announce to them the things to come and those that shall be.

8 Do not fear or be troubled. From that time I caused you to hear and announced it; you are my witnesses. Is there any God apart from me, or any Fashioner whom I have not known?

9 All makers of an idol are nothing, and their most beloved things shall not profit them. They themselves are witnesses that they do not see or understand, that they may be confounded.

10 Who has formed a god and cast a graven image useful for nothing?

11 Behold, all his companions shall be confounded, for the craftsmen are from men. They shall all assemble, stand, and be afraid, and together they shall be confounded.

12 The ironworker has worked with the file; in coals and with hammers he formed it and worked with the arm of his strength. He shall hunger and fail; he shall not drink water and shall grow weary.

13 The woodworker stretched out the rule, formed it with the plane, made it with squares, and turned it with the compass; and he made the image of a man, like a beautiful man dwelling in a house.

14 He cut down cedars and took the holm oak and the oak that had stood among the trees of the forest; he planted a pine that the rain nourished.

15 And it became fuel for men. He took from them and warmed himself; he kindled a fire and baked bread. But from the remainder he made a god and adored it; he made a graven image and bowed before it.

16 He burned half of it with fire, and from half he ate flesh; he cooked food and was satisfied and warmed himself and said, ‘Ah! I am warm; I have seen the fire.’

17 But from its remainder he made a god and a graven image for himself. He bows before it, adores it, and supplicates, saying, ‘Deliver me, for you are my god!’

18 They have not known or understood, for their eyes have forgotten how to see and their heart how to understand.

19 They do not reconsider in their mind, nor know or perceive, that they might say: ‘I burned half of it with fire and baked bread upon its coals; I cooked flesh and ate. And shall I make an idol from its remainder? Shall I fall down before a block of wood?’

20 Part of it is ashes. A senseless heart has adored it, and he shall not deliver his soul; neither shall he say, ‘Perhaps there is a lie in my right hand.’

21 Remember these things, O Jacob and Israel, for you are my servant. I formed you; you are my servant, O Israel. Do not forget me.

22 I have blotted out your iniquities like a cloud and your sins like mist. Return to me, for I have redeemed you.”

23 Praise, O heavens, for the Lord has wrought mercy; rejoice, ends of the earth. Resound with praise, O mountains, forest, and every tree within it, for the Lord has redeemed Jacob, and Israel shall glory.

24 Thus says the Lord, your Redeemer and your Fashioner from the womb: “I am the Lord who makes all things, who alone stretches out the heavens, who establishes the earth—and no one is with me;

25 who makes the signs of diviners void and turns soothsayers into madness; who turns the wise backward and makes their knowledge foolish;

26 who raises up the word of his servant and fulfills the counsel of his messengers; who says to Jerusalem, ‘You shall be inhabited,’ and to the cities of Judah, ‘You shall be built,’ and I shall raise up its deserts;

27 who says to the deep, ‘Be desolate, and I shall dry your rivers’;

28 who says to Cyrus, ‘You are my shepherd, and you shall fulfill all my will’; who says to Jerusalem, ‘You shall be built,’ and to the temple, ‘You shall be founded.’”

CHAPTER 45

1 Thus says the Lord to Cyrus, my christ, whose right hand I have taken, that I may subject nations before his face, turn the backs of kings, and open doors before him, and the gates shall not be closed:

2 “I shall go before you and humble the glorious of the earth; I shall crush gates of bronze and break bars of iron.

3 And I shall give you hidden treasures and the secrets of mysteries, that you may know that I am the Lord, the God of Israel, who calls your name,

4 for the sake of Jacob my servant and Israel my elect. I called you by your name; I likened you, and you did not know me.

5 I am the Lord, and there is no more; apart from me there is no god. I girded you, and you did not know me,

6 that those from the rising of the sun and those from the west may know that there is none apart from me. I am the Lord, and there is no other.

7 I form light and create darkness; I make peace and create evil. I, the Lord, do all these things.

8 Drop down dew, O heavens, from above, and let the clouds rain the Just One; let the earth be opened and bud forth the Savior, and let justice arise together. I, the Lord, have created him.”

9 Woe to him who contradicts his Fashioner, a potsherd from the earthen pots! Shall clay say to its potter, “What are you making?” or, “Your work is without hands”?

10 Woe to him who says to his father, “What do you beget?” and to the woman, “What do you bring forth?”

11 Thus says the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, his Fashioner: “Ask me concerning the things to come; command me concerning my sons and the work of my hands.

12 I made the earth and created man upon it. My hands stretched forth the heavens, and I commanded all their host.

13 I raised him up unto justice and shall direct all his ways. He shall build my city and release my captivity, not for a price or gifts,” says the Lord God of hosts.

14 Thus says the Lord: “The labor of Egypt, the commerce of Ethiopia, and the tall men of Saba shall pass to you and shall be yours. They shall walk after you and proceed bound with manacles; they shall adore you and beseech you: ‘God is only in you, and there is no god apart from you.’

15 Truly you are a hidden God, the God of Israel, the Savior.

16 They are all confounded and ashamed; the makers of errors have gone together into confusion.

17 Israel is saved in the Lord with everlasting salvation; you shall not be confounded or ashamed unto the age of ages.”

18 For thus says the Lord, who creates the heavens, God himself who forms and makes the earth, its Fashioner: “He did not create it in vain; he formed it to be inhabited. I am the Lord, and there is no other.

19 I have not spoken in secret, in a dark place of the earth. I did not say to the seed of Jacob in vain, ‘Seek me.’ I am the Lord, speaking justice and announcing upright things.

20 Assemble and come and draw near together, you who have been saved from the nations. Those who lift up the wood of their graven image and pray to a god unable to save have not known.

21 Announce and come and take counsel together. Who made this heard from the beginning or foretold it from that time? Was it not I, the Lord? And there is no god besides me; there is no just and saving God apart from me.

22 Be converted to me, and you shall be saved, all ends of the earth, for I am God, and there is no other.

23 I have sworn by myself; a word of justice shall go forth from my mouth and shall not return: every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall swear.

24 Therefore he shall say, ‘In the Lord are my justices and dominion.’ To him they shall come, and all who resist him shall be confounded.

25 In the Lord all the seed of Israel shall be justified and praised.”

CHAPTER 46

1 Bel has been broken; Nabo has been crushed. Their images have been placed upon beasts and cattle, your burdens of heavy weight even to weariness.

2 They have withered and been crushed together; they were unable to save the one carrying them, and their soul shall go into captivity.

3 “Hear me, O house of Jacob and all the remnant of the house of Israel, you who are carried from my womb, who are borne from my belly.

4 Even to old age I am the same, and even to gray hairs I shall carry. I made you, and I shall bear; I shall carry and save.

5 To whom have you likened me, made me equal, compared me, and made me similar?

6 You who contribute gold from a bag and weigh silver in scales, hiring a goldsmith to make a god, and they fall down and adore.

7 They carry it upon their shoulders, bearing it and setting it in its place; and it shall stand and not move from its place. But even when they cry to it, it shall not hear or save them from tribulation.

8 Remember this and be confounded; return to the heart, O transgressors.

9 Remember the former age, for I am God, and there is no god besides me, nor is there one like me.

10 I announce the last thing from the beginning, and from the start things not yet done, saying: ‘My counsel shall stand, and all my will shall be done.’

11 I call a bird from the east, and from a distant land the man of my will. I have spoken and shall bring it; I created and shall do it.

12 Hear me, hardhearted ones, who are far from justice.

13 I have brought my justice near; it shall not be distant, and my salvation shall not delay. I shall give salvation in Zion and my glory in Israel.”

CHAPTER 47

1 Descend and sit in the dust, O virgin daughter of Babylon. Sit upon the ground; there is no throne for the daughter of the Chaldeans, for you shall no longer be called soft and tender.

2 Take the millstone and grind flour; uncover your shame, bare your shoulder, reveal your legs, and cross the rivers.

3 Your disgrace shall be revealed, and your reproach shall be seen. I shall take vengeance, and no man shall resist me.

4 Our Redeemer—the Lord of hosts is his name, the Holy One of Israel.

5 Sit silently and enter darkness, daughter of the Chaldeans, for you shall no longer be called mistress of kingdoms.

6 I was angry against my people; I defiled my inheritance and gave them into your hand. You placed no mercies upon them; upon the aged you made your yoke exceedingly heavy.

7 And you said, “I shall be mistress forever.” You did not place these things upon your heart or remember your latter end.

8 And now hear these things, you delicate one who dwells confidently, who says in your heart: “I am, and there is none besides me. I shall not sit as a widow or know barrenness.”

9 These two things shall come upon you suddenly in one day: barrenness and widowhood. All have come upon you because of the multitude of your sorceries and the exceedingly great hardness of your enchantments.

10 And you trusted in your malice and said, “There is no one who sees me.” Your Wisdom and knowledge—these deceived you. And you said in your heart, “I am, and there is no other besides me.”

11 Evil shall come upon you, and you shall not know its rising; calamity that you cannot expiate shall rush upon you; misery that you do not know shall come upon you suddenly.

12 Stand with your enchanters and with the multitude of your sorceries in which you have labored from your youth, if perhaps it may profit you, or if you can become stronger.

13 You have failed in the multitude of your counsels. Let the astrologers of heaven stand and save you, those who contemplated the stars and calculated the months, that from them they might announce the things to come upon you.

14 Behold, they have become like stubble; fire has burned them. They shall not deliver their soul from the hand of the flame. These are not coals by which they may be warmed, nor a hearth beside which they may sit.

15 So have all the things in which you labored become to you. Your merchants from your youth have wandered, each in his own way; there is no one to save you.

CHAPTER 48

1 Hear these things, O house of Jacob, you who are called by the name of Israel and came forth from the waters of Judah; who swear by the name of the Lord and remember the God of Israel, but not in truth or justice.

2 For they are called from the holy city and established upon the God of Israel; the Lord of hosts is his name.

3 “I announced the former things from that time; they went forth from my mouth, and I caused them to be heard. Suddenly I acted, and they came.

4 For I knew that you are hard, that your neck is an iron sinew and your forehead bronze.

5 I foretold them to you from that time; before they came, I revealed them to you, lest perhaps you should say, ‘My idols did these things, and my graven and molten images commanded them.’

6 See all the things you have heard. But have you announced them? From that time I caused you to hear new things, and things you do not know have been preserved.

7 They are created now and not from that time, and before the day you had not heard them, lest perhaps you should say, ‘Behold, I knew them.’

8 You neither heard nor knew, nor from that time was your ear opened; for I know that transgressing you shall transgress, and from the womb I called you a transgressor.

9 For my name’s sake I shall remove my fury far away, and by my praise I shall bridle you, lest you perish.

10 Behold, I have smelted you, but not like silver; I chose you in the furnace of poverty.

11 For my own sake, for my own sake, I shall act, that I may not be blasphemed; and I shall not give my glory to another.

12 Hear me, O Jacob and Israel whom I call: I am he; I am the first, and I am the last.

13 My hand also founded the earth, and my right hand measured the heavens. I shall call them, and they shall stand together.

14 Assemble, all of you, and hear: who among them announced these things? The Lord has loved him; he shall do his will in Babylon and his arm among the Chaldeans.

15 I, I have spoken and called him; I brought him, and his way was directed.

16 Draw near to me and hear this: I have not spoken in secret from the beginning. From the time before it came to pass, I was there; and now the Lord God has sent me, and his Spirit.

17 Thus says the Lord, your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: “I am the Lord your God, teaching you useful things and governing you in the way you walk.

18 If only you had attended to my commandments, your peace would have become like a river and your justice like the waves of the sea.

19 Your seed would have been like sand and the offspring of your womb like its little stones; his name would not have perished or been worn away from before my face.

20 Go forth from Babylon; flee from the Chaldeans. Announce with a voice of exultation; make this heard and carry it even to the ends of the earth. Say: ‘The Lord has redeemed Jacob his servant.’

21 They did not thirst in the desert when he led them forth; he brought water from the rock for them, split the rock, and waters flowed.

22 There is no peace for the impious, says the Lord.”

CHAPTER 49

1 Hear, O islands, and attend, peoples from afar: the Lord called me from the womb; from my mother's belly he remembered my name.

2 And he made my mouth like a sharp sword; in the shadow of his hand he protected me. He made me like a chosen arrow; in his quiver he hid me.

3 And he said to me, "You are my servant Israel, for in you I shall glory."

4 And I said: "I have labored in emptiness; without cause and in vain I have consumed my strength. Therefore my judgment is with the Lord, and my work with my God."

5 And now says the Lord, who formed me from the womb as a servant for himself, that I might bring Jacob back to him, though Israel shall not be gathered; and I am glorified in the eyes of the Lord, and my God has become my strength.

6 And he said: "It is a small thing that you should be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob and convert the dregs of Israel. Behold, I have given you as a light of the nations, that you may be my salvation even to the end of the earth."

7 Thus says the Lord, the Redeemer of Israel, his Holy One, to the contemptible soul, to the abominated nation, to the servant of masters: "Kings shall see and princes shall arise and adore, because of the Lord, for he is faithful, and because of the Holy One of Israel, who has chosen you."

8 Thus says the Lord: "At an acceptable time I heard you, and on the day of salvation I helped you. I preserved you and gave you as a covenant of the people, that you might raise up the land and possess the dissipated inheritances;

9 that you might say to those who are bound, 'Go forth,' and to those in darkness, 'Be revealed.' They shall feed upon the roads, and their pastures shall be in every plain.

10 They shall not hunger or thirst, and heat and sun shall not strike them, for he who has mercy upon them shall rule them and give them drink at fountains of waters.

11 And I shall make all my mountains into a way, and my paths shall be exalted.

12 Behold, these shall come from afar; behold, those from the north and the sea, and these from the southern land."

13 Praise, O heavens, and exult, O earth; resound with praise, O mountains, for the Lord has consoled his people and shall have mercy upon his poor.

14 And Zion said, "The Lord has forsaken me, and the Lord has forgotten me."

15 Can a woman forget her infant, so as not to have mercy upon the son of her womb? Even if she should forget, yet I shall not forget you.

16 Behold, I have inscribed you upon my hands; your walls are always before my eyes.

17 Your builders have come; those destroying and dissipating you shall depart from you.

18 Lift your eyes round about and see: all these have gathered and come to you. As I live, says the Lord, you shall be clothed with all these as with an ornament, and you shall surround yourself with them like a bride.

19 For your deserts and solitudes and the land of your ruin shall now be too narrow for the inhabitants, and those who swallowed you shall be driven far away.

20 The children of your barrenness shall still say in your ears, "The place is too narrow for me; make space for me to dwell."

21 And you shall say in your heart: "Who has begotten these for me? I was barren and did not give birth, removed and captive. And who nourished these? I was destitute and alone; and where were these?"

22 Thus says the Lord God: "Behold, I shall lift my hand to the nations and exalt my sign to the peoples; they shall bring your sons in their arms and carry your daughters upon their shoulders.

23 Kings shall be your foster fathers and queens your nurses; with countenance lowered to the ground they shall adore you and lick the dust of your feet. And you shall know that I am the Lord, upon whom those who await him shall not be confounded.

24 Shall prey be taken from the mighty, or can that which was captured by the strong be saved?

25 For thus says the Lord: Even captivity shall be taken from the mighty, and that which was carried away by the strong shall be saved. I shall judge those who judged you, and I shall save your sons.

26 And I shall feed your enemies with their own flesh, and they shall be inebriated with their own blood as with new wine; and all flesh shall know that I am the Lord who saves you, and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.”

CHAPTER 50

1 Thus says the Lord: “What is this bill of divorce of your mother by which I dismissed her? Or who is my creditor to whom I sold you? Behold, you were sold in your iniquities, and in your crimes I dismissed your mother.

2 For I came, and there was no man; I called, and there was no one to hear. Has my hand been shortened and made little, so that I cannot redeem? Or is there no power in me to deliver? Behold, at my rebuke I shall make the sea a desert and rivers dry; their fish shall rot without water and die of thirst.

3 I shall clothe the heavens with darkness and make sackcloth their covering.”

4 The Lord has given me a learned tongue, that I may know how to sustain with a word him who is weary. He raises me in the morning; in the morning he raises my ear, that I may hear as a master.

5 The Lord God has opened my ear, and I do not contradict; I have not turned backward.

6 I gave my body to those who struck me and my cheeks to those who plucked them; I did not turn my face away from those who rebuked me and spat upon me.

7 The Lord God is my helper; therefore I am not confounded. Therefore I have set my face like the hardest rock, and I know that I shall not be confounded.

8 He who justifies me is near. Who shall contradict me? Let us stand together. Who is my adversary? Let him draw near to me.

9 Behold, the Lord God is my helper. Who is he who shall condemn me? Behold, they shall all be worn away like a garment; the moth shall eat them.

10 Who among you fears the Lord and hears the voice of his servant? He who has walked in darkness and has no light, let him hope in the name of the Lord and lean upon his God.

11 Behold, all of you who kindle fire, girded with flames: walk in the light of your fire and in the flames you have kindled. This has been done to you by my hand; you shall sleep in sorrows.

CHAPTER 51

1 Hear me, you who follow what is just and seek the Lord. Attend to the rock from which you were hewn and to the cavern of the pit from which you were cut.

2 Attend to Abraham your father and to Sarah who bore you, for I called him when he was one, blessed him, and multiplied him.

3 Therefore the Lord shall console Zion and console all her ruins. He shall make her desert like delights and her wilderness like the garden of the Lord. Joy and gladness shall be found in her, thanksgiving and the voice of praise.

4 Attend to me, my people, and hear me, my tribe, for a law shall go forth from me, and my judgment shall rest as a light of the peoples.

5 My Just One is near; my Savior has gone forth, and my arms shall judge the peoples. The islands shall await me and sustain my arm.

6 Lift your eyes to heaven and look beneath upon the earth, for the heavens shall melt like smoke, the earth shall be worn away like a garment, and its inhabitants shall perish like these; but my salvation shall be forever, and my justice shall not fail.

7 Hear me, you who know what is just, my people, in whose heart is my law. Do not fear the reproach of men or dread their blasphemies.

8 For the worm shall eat them like a garment, and the moth shall devour them like wool; but my salvation shall be forever, and my justice from generation to generation.

9 Arise, arise; put on strength, O arm of the Lord! Arise as in ancient days, in the generations of ages. Was it not you who struck the proud one and wounded the dragon?

10 Was it not you who dried the sea, the water of the mighty abyss, who made the depth of the sea a way so that those delivered might cross?

11 And now those redeemed by the Lord shall return and come into Zion praising, and everlasting gladness shall be upon their heads. They shall hold joy and gladness; sorrow and groaning shall flee.

12 I, I myself shall console you. Who are you, that you should fear mortal man and the son of man who shall wither like grass?

13 And you have forgotten the Lord your Maker, who stretched out the heavens and founded the earth; and you feared continually all day before the fury of him who troubled you and prepared to destroy. Where now is the fury of him who troubled you?

14 He who walks shall come quickly to open; he shall not kill unto destruction, nor shall his bread fail.

15 But I am the Lord your God, who troubles the sea so that its waves swell; the Lord of hosts is my name.

16 I have placed my words in your mouth and protected you in the shadow of my hand, that you may plant the heavens, found the earth, and say to Zion, “You are my people.”

17 Be lifted up, be lifted up; arise, O Jerusalem, who drank from the hand of the Lord the cup of his anger. You drank the cup of slumber to its bottom and drank even to the dregs.

18 There is no one to sustain her from all the sons she bore, and no one to take her hand from all the sons she nourished.

19 Two things have met you; who shall grieve over you? Devastation and destruction, famine and sword—who shall console you?

20 Your sons have been cast down; they have slept at the head of every road like an oryx ensnared, full of the indignation of the Lord, the rebuke of your God.

21 Therefore hear this, poor little one, drunk but not with wine.

22 Thus says your Sovereign, the Lord, and your God, who shall fight for his people: “Behold, I have taken from your hand the cup of slumber, the bottom of the cup of my indignation; you shall not continue to drink it any more.

23 And I shall place it in the hand of those who humbled you and said to your soul, ‘Bow down, that we may pass’; and you made your body like the ground and like a road for those passing.”

CHAPTER 52

1 Arise, arise; put on your strength, O Zion! Put on the garments of your glory, O Jerusalem, city of the Holy One, for the uncircumcised and unclean shall no longer continue to pass through you.

2 Shake yourself from the dust; arise and sit, O Jerusalem. Loosen the bonds from your neck, captive daughter of Zion.

3 For thus says the Lord: “You were sold for nothing, and without silver you shall be redeemed.”

4 For thus says the Lord God: “My people descended into Egypt at the beginning to sojourn there, and Assur oppressed him without any cause.

5 And now what have I here, says the Lord, since my people have been taken away for nothing? Their rulers act iniquitously, says the Lord, and continually all day my name is blasphemed.

6 Therefore my people shall know my name on that day, for I myself who spoke—behold, I am present.”

7 How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him who announces and preaches peace, who announces good, preaches salvation, and says to Zion, “Your God shall reign!”

8 The voice of your watchmen: they have lifted their voice and shall praise together, for eye to eye they shall see when the Lord converts Zion.

9 Rejoice and praise together, deserts of Jerusalem, for the Lord has consoled his people; he has redeemed Jerusalem.

10 The Lord has prepared his holy arm in the eyes of all nations, and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.

11 Depart, depart; go forth from there. Do not touch what is polluted; go forth from its midst. Be cleansed, you who carry the vessels of the Lord.

12 For you shall not go forth in tumult or hurry in flight; the Lord shall precede you, and the God of Israel shall gather you.

13 Behold, my servant shall understand; he shall be exalted and elevated and shall be exceedingly sublime.

14 As many were astonished over you, so his appearance shall be without glory among men, and his form among the sons of men.

15 He shall sprinkle many nations; kings shall close their mouth before him, for those to whom it was not recounted concerning him have seen, and those who did not hear have contemplated.

CHAPTER 53

1 Who has believed what we have heard? And to whom has the arm of the Lord been revealed?

2 And he shall ascend like a shoot before him and like a root from thirsty ground. There is no appearance or beauty in him; and we saw him, and there was no form, and we desired him—

3 despised and the last of men, a man of sorrows and acquainted with infirmity; and his face was as though hidden and despised, wherefore we did not esteem him.

4 Truly he himself has borne our infirmities and carried our sorrows; and we regarded him as though a leper, struck by God and humbled.

5 But he was wounded because of our iniquities; he was crushed because of our crimes. The discipline of our peace was upon him, and by his bruise we are healed.

6 All of us have wandered like sheep; each has turned aside into his own way. And the Lord placed upon him the iniquity of us all.

7 He was offered because he himself willed it, and he did not open his mouth. He shall be led like a sheep to slaughter, and like a lamb before his shearer he shall be silent and shall not open his mouth.

8 He was taken away from anguish and judgment. Who shall recount his generation? For he was cut off from the land of the living; because of the crime of my people I struck him.

9 And he shall give the impious for his burial and the rich for his death, because he committed no iniquity, nor was deceit in his mouth.

10 And the Lord willed to crush him in infirmity. If he shall place his soul for sin, he shall see a long-lived seed, and the will of the Lord shall be directed in his hand.

11 Because his soul has labored, he shall see and be satisfied. By his knowledge my just servant himself shall justify many, and he himself shall bear their iniquities.

12 Therefore I shall distribute very many to him, and he shall divide the spoils of the mighty, because he delivered his soul unto death and was reckoned with the wicked; and he himself bore the sins of many and prayed for the transgressors.

CHAPTER 54

1 Praise, O barren woman who does not bear; break forth in praise and neigh, you who did not give birth, for the children of the desolate woman are more numerous than those of her who has a husband, says the Lord.

2 Enlarge the place of your tent and stretch out the skins of your tabernacles; do not spare. Lengthen your cords and strengthen your stakes.

3 For you shall penetrate to the right and to the left; your seed shall inherit the nations and inhabit the desolate cities.

4 Do not fear, for you shall not be confounded, nor shall you blush; you shall not be ashamed, for you shall forget the confusion of your youth and remember no more the reproach of your widowhood.

5 For he who made you shall rule over you—the Lord of hosts is his name—and your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel, shall be called the God of all the earth.

6 For the Lord has called you like a woman forsaken and mourning in spirit, and like a wife cast off from her youth, says your God.

7 For a point, for a little while, I forsook you; but with great mercies I shall gather you.

8 In a moment of indignation I hid my face from you for a little while; but with everlasting mercy I have had mercy on you, says your Redeemer, the Lord.

9 This is to me as in the days of Noah, to whom I swore that I would no longer bring the waters of Noah upon the earth; so I have sworn that I shall not be angry with you and shall not rebuke you.

10 For the mountains shall be moved and the hills shall tremble; but my mercy shall not depart from you, and the covenant of my peace shall not be moved, says the Lord, who has mercy on you.

11 Poor little one, convulsed by the tempest, without any consolation: behold, I shall lay your stones in order and found you upon sapphires.

12 I shall make your ramparts of jasper, your gates of sculpted stones, and all your borders of desirable stones;

13 all your sons shall be taught by the Lord, and great shall be the peace of your sons.

14 You shall be founded in justice. Withdraw far from oppression, for you shall not fear, and from terror, for it shall not approach you.

15 Behold, an inhabitant shall come who was not with me; he who was once your stranger shall be joined to you.

16 Behold, I created the smith who blows the coals in the fire and brings forth a vessel for his work; and I created the slayer to destroy.

17 Every vessel fashioned against you shall not prosper, and every tongue resisting you in judgment you shall judge. This is the inheritance of the servants of the Lord, and their justice is with me, says the Lord.

CHAPTER 55

1 All you who thirst, come to the waters; and you who have no silver, hasten, buy, and eat. Come, buy wine and milk without silver and without any exchange.

2 Why do you weigh out silver for what is not bread, and your labor for what does not satisfy? Hear me attentively, and eat what is good, and your soul shall delight in richness.

3 Incline your ear and come to me; hear, and your soul shall live. I shall make an everlasting covenant with you: the faithful mercies of David.

4 Behold, I have given him as a witness to the peoples, a leader and teacher to the nations.

5 Behold, you shall call a nation you did not know, and nations that did not know you shall run to you, because of the Lord your God and the Holy One of Israel, for he has glorified you.

6 Seek the Lord while he may be found; call upon him while he is near.

7 Let the impious forsake his way and the iniquitous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, and he shall have mercy on him, and to our God, for he is abundant in forgiveness.

8 For my thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways my ways, says the Lord.

9 For as the heavens are exalted above the earth, so are my ways exalted above your ways and my thoughts above your thoughts.

10 And as rain and snow descend from heaven and do not return there again, but drench the earth, soak it, and cause it to germinate, giving seed to the sower and bread to the eater,

11 so shall my word be that goes forth from my mouth. It shall not return to me empty, but shall accomplish whatever I willed and prosper in those things for which I sent it.

12 For you shall go forth in gladness and be led in peace; the mountains and hills shall sing praise before you, and all the trees of the countryside shall clap their hands.

13 In place of the low shrub the fir shall rise, and in place of the nettle the myrtle shall grow; and the Lord shall be named as an everlasting sign that shall not be taken away.

CHAPTER 56

1 Thus says the Lord: Keep judgment and do justice, for my salvation is near at hand to come and my justice to be revealed.

2 Blessed is the man who does this and the son of man who holds fast to it, keeping the sabbath so as not to profane it and keeping his hands from doing any evil.

3 Let not the son of the stranger who adheres to the Lord say, “The Lord shall utterly separate me from his people”; and let not the eunuch say, “Behold, I am a dry tree.”

4 For thus says the Lord to the eunuchs who keep my sabbaths, choose the things I have willed, and hold fast to my covenant:

5 I shall give them a place in my house and within my walls, and a name better than sons and daughters; I shall give them an everlasting name that shall not perish.

6 And the sons of the stranger who adhere to the Lord, to worship him and love his name, to be his servants—everyone who keeps the sabbath so as not to profane it and holds fast to my covenant—

7 I shall bring them to my holy mountain and make them joyful in my house of prayer. Their holocausts and their victims shall please me upon my altar, for my house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples.

8 The Lord God, who gathers the dispersed of Israel, says: “I shall still gather others to him, to those already gathered to him.”

9 All beasts of the field, come to devour, all beasts of the forest!

10 All his watchmen are blind; they are all ignorant. They are mute dogs unable to bark, seeing vain things, sleeping, and loving dreams.

11 And these most imprudent dogs have never known satisfaction. The shepherds themselves have known no understanding; they have all turned aside into their own way, each to his own avarice, from the highest to the last.

12 “Come, let us take wine and be filled with drunkenness; and as it is today, so shall it be tomorrow and far more.”

CHAPTER 57

1 The just man perishes, and there is no one who reflects upon it in his heart; men of mercy are gathered away, for there is no one who understands that the just man has been gathered away from the face of wickedness.

2 Let peace come; let him who walked in his uprightness rest upon his bed.

3 But you, draw near here, sons of the diviner, seed of the adulterer and the prostitute.

4 Whom have you mocked? Against whom have you opened your mouth wide and thrust out your tongue? Are you not wicked children, a lying seed,

5 who console yourselves in gods beneath every leafy tree, sacrificing little children in the torrents beneath the projecting rocks?

6 Your portion is among the parts of the torrent; this is your lot. To these too you poured out a libation and offered sacrifice. Shall I not be indignant over these things?

7 Upon a high and lofty mountain you placed your bed, and there you ascended to sacrifice victims.

8 Behind the door and beyond the doorpost you placed your memorial. For beside me you uncovered yourself and received the adulterer; you enlarged your bed and made a covenant with them; you loved their bed with an open hand.

9 You adorned yourself for the king with ointment and multiplied your perfumes. You sent your envoys far away and were humbled even to the lower regions.

10 You labored in the multitude of your ways; you did not say, “I shall rest.” You found life for your hand; therefore you did not plead.

11 For whom were you anxiously afraid, that you lied and did not remember me or ponder me in your heart? Because I was silent and as though not seeing, you forgot me.

12 I shall announce your justice, and your works shall not profit you.

13 When you cry out, let those you have gathered deliver you; but the wind shall carry all of them away, and a breeze shall take them. But he who trusts in me shall inherit the land and possess my holy mountain.

14 And I shall say: “Make a way; provide a path. Turn aside from the track; remove the stumbling blocks from the way of my people.”

15 For thus says the High and Sublime One, who inhabits eternity, and holy is his name: “I dwell in the high and holy place, and with the contrite and humble in spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble and revive the heart of the contrite.

16 For I shall not contend forever, nor shall I be angry unto the end, because the spirit shall go forth from my face, and I shall make breath.

17 Because of the iniquity of his avarice I was angry and struck him. I hid my face from you and was indignant; and he went wandering in the way of his heart.

18 I saw his ways and healed him; I led him back and restored consolations to him and to those who mourn for him.

19 I created the fruit of the lips: peace, peace to him who is far away and to him who is near, says the Lord; and I healed him.

20 But the impious are like the raging sea, which cannot rest, and its waves overflow into trampling and mire.

21 There is no peace for the impious, says the Lord God.”

CHAPTER 58

1 Cry out; do not cease. Exalt your voice like a trumpet, and announce to my people their wicked deeds and to the house of Jacob their sins.

2 For they seek me day after day and desire to know my ways, as though they were a nation that had done justice and had not forsaken the judgment of their God. They ask me for judgments of justice; they desire to draw near to God.

3 “Why have we fasted, and you have not looked? We have humbled our souls, and you have not known it.” Behold, on the day of your fast your own will is found, and you exact payment from all your debtors.

4 Behold, you fast for quarrels and disputes and strike impiously with the fist. Do not fast as you have until this day, if your cry is to be heard on high.

5 Is this the fast I have chosen: for a man to afflict his soul for a day? Is it to twist his head like a circle and spread sackcloth and ashes beneath him? Shall you call this a fast and a day acceptable to the Lord?

6 Is this not rather the fast I have chosen? Loose the bonds of impiety, undo the bundles that oppress, set free those who are broken, and break every burden.

7 Break your bread for the hungry, and bring the needy and the wanderers into your house. When you see the naked, cover him, and do not despise your own flesh.

8 Then your light shall break forth like the morning, and your healing shall arise quickly; your justice shall go before your face, and the glory of the Lord shall gather you.

9 Then you shall call, and the Lord shall hear; you shall cry out, and he shall say, “Behold, I am here.” If you remove the chain from your midst, cease pointing the finger, and cease speaking what does not profit;

10 when you pour out your soul to the hungry and fill the afflicted soul, your light shall arise in darkness, and your darkness shall be like midday.

11 And the Lord shall give you rest always; he shall fill your soul with splendors and deliver your bones. You shall be like a watered garden and like a spring of waters whose waters do not fail.

12 The deserts of the ages shall be built in you; you shall raise up the foundations of generation after generation. You shall be called the builder of hedges, turning paths toward rest.

13 If you turn your foot away from the sabbath, from doing your own will on my holy day; if you call the sabbath delightful and the holy day of the Lord glorious, and glorify him by not following your own ways, while your own will is not found so as to speak a word—

14 then you shall delight in the Lord, and I shall lift you above the heights of the earth and feed you with the inheritance of Jacob your father, for the mouth of the Lord has spoken.

CHAPTER 59

1 Behold, the hand of the Lord is not shortened so that it cannot save, nor is his ear burdened so that it cannot hear.

2 But your iniquities have made a division between you and your God, and your sins have hidden his face from you so that he would not hear.

3 For your hands are polluted with blood and your fingers with iniquity; your lips have spoken lies, and your tongue utters iniquity.

4 There is no one who calls upon justice, nor anyone who judges truly; but they trust in nothing and speak vanities. They have conceived labor and given birth to iniquity.

5 They have broken open the eggs of asps and woven spiders' webs. Whoever eats of their eggs shall die, and what has been brooded shall hatch into a basilisk.

6 Their webs shall not become a garment, nor shall they be covered by their works. Their works are useless works, and a work of iniquity is in their hands.

7 Their feet run to evil, and they hasten to shed innocent blood. Their thoughts are useless thoughts; devastation and destruction are in their ways.

8 They have not known the way of peace, and there is no judgment in their steps. Their paths have become crooked for them; everyone who treads upon them knows no peace.

9 Therefore judgment has been drawn far from us, and justice shall not overtake us. We awaited light, and behold, darkness; brightness, and we walked in darkness.

10 We groped for the wall like the blind and felt our way as though without eyes. We stumbled at midday as though in darkness; in shadowed places, as though dead.

11 We shall all roar like bears, and moaning we shall groan like doves. We awaited judgment, and there is none; salvation, and it has been drawn far from us.

12 For our iniquities have multiplied before you, and our sins have answered against us, because our crimes are with us and we have known our iniquities:

13 sinning and lying against the Lord, and turning away so that we would not follow after our God; speaking oppression and transgression; conceiving and uttering words of falsehood from the heart.

14 Judgment has been turned backward, and justice has stood far away, because truth has fallen in the street and equity could not enter.

15 Truth has been given over to oblivion, and he who withdrew from evil lay open to plunder. The Lord saw, and it appeared evil in his eyes that there was no judgment.

16 He saw that there was no man, and he was astonished that there was no one to intervene; then his own arm brought salvation for him, and his own justice sustained him.

17 He put on justice as a breastplate and the helmet of salvation upon his head; he put on garments of vengeance and was covered with zeal as with a cloak,

18 as for vengeance, as for the repayment of indignation to his enemies and requital to his adversaries; he shall repay the islands.

19 Those from the west shall fear the name of the Lord, and those from the rising of the sun his glory, when he comes like a violent river driven by the Spirit of the Lord,

20 and the Redeemer comes to Zion and to those in Jacob who return from iniquity, says the Lord.

21 "This is my covenant with them," says the Lord. "My Spirit who is in you, and my words which I have placed in your mouth, shall not depart from your mouth, or from the mouth of your seed, or from the mouth of your seed's seed," says the Lord, "from now and forever."

CHAPTER 60

1 Arise, be illuminated, O Jerusalem, for your light has come, and the glory of the Lord has risen upon you.

2 For behold, darkness shall cover the earth and gloom the peoples; but the Lord shall rise upon you, and his glory shall be seen in you.

3 Nations shall walk in your light, and kings in the brightness of your rising.

4 Lift your eyes all around and see: all these have been gathered and have come to you. Your sons shall come from afar, and your daughters shall rise from your side.

5 Then you shall see and abound; your heart shall marvel and be enlarged, when the multitude of the sea is turned toward you and the strength of the nations comes to you.

6 A flood of camels shall cover you, dromedaries of Madian and Epha. All from Saba shall come, carrying gold and frankincense and announcing praise to the Lord.

7 Every flock of Cedar shall be gathered to you; the rams of Nabaioth shall minister to you. They shall be offered upon my acceptable altar, and I shall glorify the house of my majesty.

8 Who are these who fly like clouds and like doves to their windows?

9 For the islands await me, and the ships of the sea from the beginning, that I may bring your sons from afar, their silver and their gold with them, for the name of the Lord your God and for the Holy One of Israel, because he has glorified you.

10 The sons of foreigners shall build your walls, and their kings shall minister to you; for in my indignation I struck you, and in my reconciliation I had mercy on you.

11 Your gates shall be open continually; they shall not be closed day or night, so that the strength of the nations may be brought to you and their kings may be led in.

12 For the nation and kingdom that will not serve you shall perish, and the nations shall be devastated into solitude.

13 The glory of Lebanon shall come to you—the fir, the box tree, and the pine together—to adorn the place of my sanctuary; and I shall glorify the place of my feet.

14 The sons of those who humbled you shall come bowed down before you, and all who slandered you shall adore at the footsteps of your feet. They shall call you the City of the Lord, Zion of the Holy One of Israel.

15 Because you were forsaken and hated, with no one passing through you, I shall make you the pride of the ages, a joy from generation to generation.

16 You shall suck the milk of the nations and be nursed at the breast of kings; and you shall know that I am the Lord who saves you, and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

17 In place of bronze I shall bring gold, in place of iron silver, in place of wood bronze, and in place of stones iron. I shall make your visitation peace and your overseers justice.

18 Iniquity shall no longer be heard in your land, nor devastation and destruction within your borders; salvation shall occupy your walls and praise your gates.

19 The sun shall no longer be your light by day, nor shall the brightness of the moon illuminate you; but the Lord shall be your everlasting light and your God your glory.

20 Your sun shall no longer set, and your moon shall not diminish, for the Lord shall be your everlasting light, and the days of your mourning shall be completed.

21 Your people shall all be just; they shall inherit the land forever—the shoot of my planting, the work of my hand, for glorification.

22 The least shall become a thousand, and the little one a most powerful nation. I, the Lord, shall suddenly accomplish this in its time.

CHAPTER 61

1 The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because the Lord has anointed me. He has sent me to announce good tidings to the meek, to heal the contrite of heart, to proclaim release to captives and opening to those who are shut in;

2 to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord and the day of vengeance of our God; to console all who mourn;

3 to provide for those who mourn in Zion and give them a crown in place of ashes, the oil of gladness in place of mourning, and a mantle of praise in place of the spirit of sorrow. They shall be called mighty ones of justice, the planting of the Lord, for glorification.

4 They shall build the places deserted from of old, raise up the ancient ruins, and restore the desolate cities laid waste from generation to generation.

5 Strangers shall stand and pasture your flocks, and the sons of foreigners shall be your farmers and vine-dressers.

6 But you shall be called priests of the Lord; you shall be named ministers of our God. You shall eat the strength of the nations and glory in their glory.

7 In place of your double confusion and shame, they shall praise their portion; therefore they shall possess double things in their land, and everlasting gladness shall be theirs.

8 For I am the Lord, who loves judgment and hates robbery in a holocaust; I shall give their work in truth and make an everlasting covenant with them.

9 Their seed shall be known among the nations and their offspring in the midst of the peoples. All who see them shall recognize them, because these are the seed whom the Lord has blessed.

10 Rejoicing, I shall rejoice in the Lord, and my soul shall exult in my God, for he has clothed me in garments of salvation and surrounded me with a robe of justice, like a bridegroom adorned with a crown and like a bride ornamented with her jewels.

11 For as the earth brings forth its shoot and as a garden germinates its seed, so the Lord God shall cause justice and praise to spring forth before all the nations.

CHAPTER 62

1 For Zion’s sake I shall not be silent, and for Jerusalem’s sake I shall not rest, until her Just One goes forth like brightness and her Savior is kindled like a lamp.

2 The nations shall see your Just One and all kings your Glorious One; and you shall be called by a new name, which the mouth of the Lord shall name.

3 You shall be a crown of glory in the hand of the Lord and a royal diadem in the hand of your God.

4 You shall no longer be called Forsaken, and your land shall no longer be called Desolate; but you shall be called My Will Is in Her, and your land Inhabited, because the Lord has been pleased with you, and your land shall be inhabited.

5 For the young man shall dwell with the virgin, and your sons shall dwell in you; as the bridegroom rejoices over the bride, so shall your God rejoice over you.

6 Upon your walls, O Jerusalem, I have appointed watchmen; all day and all night, forever, they shall not be silent. You who remember the Lord, do not be silent,

7 and give him no silence until he establishes Jerusalem and makes her a praise upon the earth.

8 The Lord has sworn by his right hand and by the arm of his strength: “I shall no longer give your wheat as food to your enemies, nor shall the sons of strangers drink your wine for which you labored.

9 For those who gather it shall eat and praise the Lord, and those who bring it together shall drink in my holy courts.”

10 Pass through, pass through the gates; prepare the way for the people. Make the road level, choose out the stones, and raise a standard for the peoples.

11 Behold, the Lord has made it heard to the ends of the earth: “Say to the daughter of Zion: Behold, your Savior comes; behold, his reward is with him and his work before him.”

12 They shall call them the Holy People, the Redeemed of the Lord; but you shall be called the Sought-After City, and Not Forsaken.

CHAPTER 63

1 Who is this who comes from Edom, with dyed garments from Bosra? This one, beautiful in his robe, advancing in the multitude of his strength? “I, who speak justice and am a defender mighty to save.”

2 Why then is your garment red, and your clothing like that of those who tread in the winepress?

3 “I have trodden the winepress alone, and from the nations no man was with me. I trod them in my fury and trampled them in my wrath; their blood was sprinkled upon my garments, and I stained all my clothing.

4 For the day of vengeance is in my heart; the year of my redemption has come.

5 I looked around, and there was no helper; I sought, and there was no one to aid. My own arm brought salvation for me, and my own indignation aided me.

6 I trampled the peoples in my fury, made them drunk in my indignation, and brought down their strength to the earth.”

7 I shall remember the mercies of the Lord, the praise of the Lord for all that the Lord has rendered to us, and for the multitude of good things he bestowed upon the house of Israel according to his kindness and the multitude of his mercies.

8 He said, “Surely they are my people, children who will not deny me”; and he became their Savior.

9 In all their tribulation he was not troubled, and the angel of his presence saved them. In his love and his kindness he himself redeemed them; he carried them and lifted them up throughout all the days of the age.

10 But they provoked wrath and afflicted his Holy Spirit; and he was turned into their enemy, and he himself fought against them.

11 Then he remembered the days of old, of Moses and his people. Where is he who brought them up from the sea with the shepherds of his flock? Where is he who placed his Holy Spirit in their midst,

12 who led Moses by the right hand with the arm of his majesty, who divided the waters before them to make for himself an everlasting name,

13 who led them through the abysses like a horse in the desert that does not stumble?

14 Like an animal descending into the field, the Spirit of the Lord was their guide. Thus you led your people, to make for yourself a glorious name.

15 Look down from heaven and see from your holy and glorious habitation. Where are your zeal and your strength, the multitude of your inward compassions and your mercies? They have restrained themselves from me.

16 For you are our Father; Abraham did not know us, and Israel was ignorant of us. You, O Lord, are our Father, our Redeemer; from eternity is your name.

17 Why have you caused us to wander, O Lord, from your ways, and hardened our heart so that we would not fear you? Return for the sake of your servants, the tribes of your inheritance.

18 They possessed your holy people as though it were nothing; our enemies trampled your sanctuary.

19 We have become as in the beginning, when you did not rule over us and your name was not invoked upon us.

CHAPTER 64

1 Would that you would rend the heavens and descend; the mountains would melt away before your face,

2 as they would dissolve in the burning of fire and waters would burn with fire, so that your name might become known to your enemies and the nations might be troubled before your face.

3 When you perform wonders, we shall not endure them. You descended, and the mountains melted away before your face.

4 From of old they have not heard or perceived with the ears; no eye has seen, O God, besides you, what you have prepared for those who await you.

5 You met him who rejoices and practices justice; in your ways they shall remember you. Behold, you were angry, and we sinned; in them we have always been, and we shall be saved.

6 We have all become like one unclean, and all our justices like the cloth of a menstruating woman. We have all fallen like a leaf, and our iniquities have carried us away like the wind.

7 There is no one who calls upon your name, who rises and takes hold of you. You have hidden your face from us and crushed us in the hand of our iniquity.

8 And now, O Lord, you are our Father; we are clay, and you are our Fashioner, and we are all the works of your hands.

9 Do not be exceedingly angry, O Lord, and no longer remember our iniquity. Behold, look upon us: we are all your people.

10 The city of your Holy One has become a desert; Zion has become a desert; Jerusalem is desolate.

11 The house of our sanctification and our glory, where our fathers praised you, has been consumed by fire, and all our desirable things have been turned into ruins.

12 Shall you restrain yourself over these things, O Lord? Shall you be silent and afflict us exceedingly?

CHAPTER 65

1 Those who did not ask for me before have sought me; those who did not seek me have found me. I said, “Behold me, behold me,” to a nation that did not invoke my name.

2 All day long I stretched out my hands to an unbelieving people, who walk in a way that is not good, after their own thoughts;

3 a people who continually provoke me to wrath before my face, who sacrifice in gardens and offer sacrifice upon bricks;

4 who dwell in tombs and sleep in shrines of idols, who eat swine’s flesh and have profane broth in their vessels;

5 who say, “Withdraw from me; do not approach me, for you are unclean.” These shall be smoke in my fury, a fire burning all day.

6 Behold, it is written before me: I shall not be silent, but I shall repay and render into their bosom

7 your iniquities and the iniquities of your fathers together, says the Lord, who sacrificed upon the mountains and reproached me upon the hills; and I shall measure back their first work into their bosom.

8 Thus says the Lord: “As when a grain is found in a cluster and it is said, ‘Do not destroy it, for it is a blessing,’ so shall I do for the sake of my servants, that I may not destroy the whole.

9 I shall bring forth a seed from Jacob and from Juda one who shall possess my mountains; my elect shall inherit it, and my servants shall dwell there.

10 The plains shall become folds for flocks, and the valley of Achor a resting place for herds, for my people who sought me.

11 But you who have forsaken the Lord, who have forgotten my holy mountain, who set a table for Fortune and pour libations upon it:

12 I shall number you for the sword, and you shall all fall in slaughter, because I called and you did not answer; I spoke and you did not hear. You did evil in my eyes and chose the things I did not will.”

13 Therefore thus says the Lord God: “Behold, my servants shall eat, and you shall hunger; behold, my servants shall drink, and you shall thirst.

14 Behold, my servants shall rejoice, and you shall be confounded; behold, my servants shall praise from exultation of heart, and you shall cry out from sorrow of heart and howl from contrition of spirit.

15 You shall leave your name as an oath to my elect; the Lord God shall put you to death, and he shall call his servants by another name.

16 In that name, whoever is blessed upon the earth shall be blessed in the God of Amen, and whoever swears upon the earth shall swear by the God of Amen, because the former distresses have been given over to oblivion and hidden from my eyes.

17 For behold, I create new heavens and a new earth; the former things shall not be remembered, nor shall they rise upon the heart.

18 But you shall rejoice and exult forever in the things I create, for behold, I create Jerusalem as exultation and her people as joy.

19 I shall exult in Jerusalem and rejoice in my people, and the voice of weeping and the voice of crying shall no longer be heard in her.

20 There shall no longer be there an infant of days or an old man who does not fulfill his days, for the child shall die at a hundred years, and the sinner of a hundred years shall be accursed.

21 They shall build houses and inhabit them; they shall plant vineyards and eat their fruit.

22 They shall not build and another inhabit; they shall not plant and another eat. For according to the days of a tree shall be the days of my people, and the works of their hands shall grow old.

23 My elect shall not labor in vain or beget children amid disturbance, for they are the seed of those blessed by the Lord, and their descendants with them.

24 And it shall be that before they cry out, I shall hear; while they are still speaking, I shall hear.

25 The wolf and the lamb shall feed together; the lion and the ox shall eat straw, and dust shall be the serpent’s bread. They shall not harm or kill in all my holy mountain, says the Lord.”

CHAPTER 66

1 Thus says the Lord: “Heaven is my throne, and the earth the footstool of my feet. What is this house that you shall build for me? And what is this place of my rest?

2 My hand made all these things, and all these things came to be, says the Lord. But upon whom shall I look, except the poor little one, the contrite in spirit, and the one who trembles at my words?

3 He who sacrifices an ox is as one who kills a man; he who slaughters a sheep, as one who dashes out the brains of a dog; he who offers an oblation, as one who offers swine’s blood; he who remembers incense, as one who blesses an idol. They have chosen all these things in their own ways, and their soul has delighted in their abominations.

4 Therefore I too shall choose their delusions and bring upon them the things they feared, because I called and there was no one who answered; I spoke and they did not hear. They did evil in my eyes and chose the things I did not will.”

5 Hear the word of the Lord, you who tremble at his word. Your brothers who hate you and cast you out because of my name have said, “Let the Lord be glorified, and we shall see in your gladness”; but they themselves shall be confounded.

6 A voice of the people from the city, a voice from the temple, the voice of the Lord rendering repayment to his enemies.

7 Before she was in labor, she gave birth; before the time of her delivery came, she gave birth to a male child.

8 Who has ever heard such a thing, and who has seen anything like it? Shall the earth give birth in one day, or shall a nation be born all at once, because Zion has labored and given birth to her sons?

9 Shall I, who cause others to give birth, not myself bring forth? says the Lord. Shall I, who grant generation to others, be barren? says the Lord your God.

10 Rejoice with Jerusalem and exult in her, all you who love her; rejoice with her in joy, all you who mourn over her,

11 that you may suck and be filled from the breast of her consolation, that you may draw milk and overflow with delights from every kind of her glory.

12 For thus says the Lord: “Behold, I shall turn upon her a river of peace and an overflowing torrent of the glory of the nations, which you shall suck. You shall be carried at the breasts and caressed upon the knees.

13 As a mother caresses someone, so shall I console you; and in Jerusalem you shall be consoled.”

14 You shall see, and your heart shall rejoice, and your bones shall spring up like grass; the hand of the Lord shall be known to his servants, and he shall be indignant with his enemies.

15 For behold, the Lord shall come in fire, and his chariots like a whirlwind, to render his fury in indignation and his rebuke in a flame of fire.

16 For by fire the Lord shall judge, and by his sword, all flesh; and those slain by the Lord shall be multiplied—

17 those who were sanctified and thought themselves clean in the gardens, behind the inner gate, who ate swine’s flesh, the abomination, and the mouse. Together they shall be consumed, says the Lord.

18 But I come to gather their works and their thoughts, with all nations and tongues; and they shall come and see my glory.

19 I shall set a sign among them, and I shall send those of them who have been saved to the nations: to the sea, to Africa and Lydia, those who draw the bow; to Italy and Greece, to the islands far away, to those who have not heard of me and have not seen my glory. They shall announce my glory to the nations,

20 and they shall bring all your brothers from all nations as a gift to the Lord, upon horses and in chariots, in litters, upon mules, and in coaches, to my holy mountain Jerusalem, says the Lord, as when the sons of Israel bring a gift in a clean vessel into the house of the Lord.

21 And I shall take some of them as priests and Levites, says the Lord.

22 For as the new heavens and the new earth, which I make stand before me, says the Lord, so shall your seed and your name stand.

23 And it shall be month after month and sabbath after sabbath: all flesh shall come to adore before my face, says the Lord.

24 They shall go forth and see the corpses of the men who transgressed against me. Their worm shall not die, and their fire shall not be extinguished; and they shall be a spectacle unto satiety for all flesh.

BOOK TWENTY-FOUR: JEREMIAH

CHAPTER 1

1 The words of Jeremiah son of Helcias, of the priests who were in Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin.

2 The word of the Lord came to him in the days of Josias son of Amon, king of Juda, in the thirteenth year of his reign.

3 And it came in the days of Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda, until the completion of the eleventh year of Sedecias son of Josias, king of Juda, until the migration of Jerusalem in the fifth month.

4 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

5 “Before I formed you in the womb, I knew you; and before you came forth from the vulva, I sanctified you and appointed you a prophet among the nations.”

6 And I said, “Ah, ah, ah, O Lord God! Behold, I do not know how to speak, for I am a child.”

7 And the Lord said to me, “Do not say, ‘I am a child,’ for you shall go to all to whom I send you, and you shall speak everything whatsoever I command you.

8 Do not fear before their face, for I am with you to deliver you, says the Lord.”

9 And the Lord put forth his hand and touched my mouth; and the Lord said to me, “Behold, I have placed my words in your mouth.

10 Behold, today I have appointed you over nations and over kingdoms, to uproot and destroy, to ruin and scatter, to build and to plant.”

11 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, “What do you see, Jeremiah?” And I said, “I see a watchful rod.”

12 And the Lord said to me, “You have seen well, for I shall keep watch over my word to accomplish it.”

13 And the word of the Lord came to me a second time, saying, “What do you see?” And I said, “I see a boiling pot, and its face is from the face of the north.”

14 And the Lord said to me, “From the north evil shall be opened upon all the inhabitants of the land.

15 For behold, I shall summon all the families of the kingdoms of the north, says the Lord; and they shall come, and each shall place his throne at the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem, against all her walls round about, and against all the cities of Juda.

16 I shall speak my judgments with them concerning all the wickedness of those who forsook me, poured libations to strange gods, and adored the work of their own hands.

17 Therefore gird your loins, arise, and speak to them everything I command you. Do not tremble before their face, lest I make you fear their countenance.

18 For behold, today I have made you a fortified city, an iron pillar, and a wall of bronze against the whole land: against the kings of Juda, its princes, its priests, and the people of the land.

19 They shall fight against you, but they shall not prevail, for I am with you, says the Lord, to deliver you.”

CHAPTER 2

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Go and cry in the ears of Jerusalem, saying: Thus says the Lord: I have remembered you, taking pity upon your youth and the love of your betrothal, when you followed me in the desert, in a land that is not sown.

3 Israel was holy to the Lord, the firstfruits of his produce. All who devour him commit an offense; evils shall come upon them, says the Lord.

4 Hear the word of the Lord, O house of Jacob and all the kindreds of the house of Israel.

5 Thus says the Lord: What iniquity did your fathers find in me, that they went far from me, walked after vanity, and became vain?

6 They did not say, ‘Where is the Lord who caused us to ascend from the land of Egypt, who led us through the desert, through an uninhabitable and trackless land, through a land of thirst and the image of death, through a land in which no man walked and no human being dwelt?’

7 And I brought you into the land of Carmel, that you might eat its fruit and its finest things; but when you entered, you defiled my land and made my inheritance an abomination.

8 The priests did not say, ‘Where is the Lord?’ Those who held the law did not know me; the shepherds transgressed against me; the prophets prophesied in Baal and followed idols.

9 Therefore I shall still contend with you in judgment, says the Lord, and I shall dispute with your sons.

10 Cross over to the islands of Cethim and see; send to Cedar and consider diligently, and see whether anything like this has been done:

11 whether a nation has changed its gods—and truly they are not gods—yet my people have exchanged their glory for an idol.

12 Be astonished, O heavens, over this, and let your gates be utterly desolate, says the Lord.

13 For my people have done two evils: they have forsaken me, the fountain of living water, and have dug out cisterns for themselves—broken cisterns that cannot hold water.

14 Is Israel a servant or one born in the household? Why then has he become prey?

15 Lions have roared over him and raised their voice; they have made his land a solitude. His cities have been burned, and there is no one dwelling in them.

16 The sons of Memphis and Taphnes have also violated you to the crown of the head.

17 Has this not happened to you because you forsook the Lord your God at the time when he was leading you along the way?

18 And now, what do you desire on the way to Egypt, that you may drink turbid water? And what have you to do with the way of the Assyrians, that you may drink the water of the river?

19 Your wickedness shall convict you, and your turning away shall rebuke you. Know and see that it is evil and bitter for you to have forsaken the Lord your God and for the fear of me not to be within you, says the Lord God of hosts.

20 From of old you broke my yoke; you burst my bonds and said, ‘I shall not serve.’ For upon every lofty hill and beneath every leafy tree you prostrated yourself as a prostitute.

21 But I planted you as a choice vineyard, every seed true. How then have you turned away from me into what is perverse, O foreign vineyard?

22 Even if you wash yourself with natron and multiply the herb borith for yourself, you are stained in your iniquity before me, says the Lord God.

23 How can you say, ‘I am not polluted; I have not walked after the Baals’? See your ways in the valley; know what you have done—a swift runner spreading out her ways,

24 a wild ass accustomed to the wilderness, who in the desire of her soul drew in the wind of her love. No one shall turn her away; all who seek her shall not fail—in her menstrual time they shall find her.

25 Keep your foot from nakedness and your throat from thirst. But you said, ‘I have despaired; I shall by no means do so. For I have loved strangers, and I shall walk after them.’

26 As a thief is confounded when he is caught, so the house of Israel has been confounded—they and their kings, their princes, their priests, and their prophets,

27 who say to wood, ‘You are my father,’ and to stone, ‘You gave birth to me.’ They have turned their back to me and not their face; yet in the time of their affliction they shall say, ‘Arise and deliver us.’

28 Where are your gods whom you made for yourself? Let them arise and deliver you in the time of your affliction; for according to the number of your cities were your gods, O Juda.

29 Why do you desire to contend with me in judgment? You have all forsaken me, says the Lord.

30 In vain I struck your children; they did not receive discipline. Your sword devoured your prophets like a ravaging lion,

31 O your generation! See the word of the Lord. Have I become a wilderness to Israel or a late-bearing land? Why then have my people said, ‘We have withdrawn; we shall come to you no more’?

32 Shall a virgin forget her ornament, or a bride the band across her breast? Yet my people have forgotten me for days without number.

33 Why do you strive to display your way as good in order to seek love, when moreover you have taught your ways your own wicked deeds?

34 And in your wings has been found the blood of the souls of the poor and innocent. I did not find them in pits, but in all the things I have recalled above.

35 And you said, ‘I am without sin and innocent; therefore let your fury be turned away from me.’ Behold, I shall contend with you in judgment because you said, ‘I have not sinned.’

36 How exceedingly vile you have become, repeating your ways! You shall be confounded by Egypt just as you were confounded by Assur.

37 For you shall go forth from that one also, with your hands upon your head, because the Lord has crushed your confidence, and you shall have no prosperity in it.”

CHAPTER 3

1 “It is commonly said: If a man dismisses his wife and she departs from him and takes another man, shall he return to her again? Shall not that woman be polluted and defiled? But you have committed fornication with many lovers; nevertheless, return to me, says the Lord, and I shall receive you.

2 Lift your eyes straight ahead and see where you have not been prostrated. You sat along the roads awaiting them like a robber in the wilderness, and you polluted the land with your fornications and your wicked deeds.

3 For this reason the drops of rain were withheld, and there was no latter rain. The forehead of a prostitute has become yours; you refused to blush.

4 Therefore, at least from this moment call to me: ‘My Father, you are the guide of my virginity.

5 Shall you be angry forever, or shall you persevere unto the end?’ Behold, you have spoken and have done evil, and you were able to do it.”

6 And the Lord said to me in the days of King Josias: “Have you seen what apostate Israel has done? She went by herself upon every high mountain and beneath every leafy tree, and there she committed fornication.

7 And after she had done all these things, I said, ‘Return to me’; but she did not return. And her transgressing sister Juda saw

8 that because apostate Israel had committed adultery, I had dismissed her and given her a bill of divorce; yet her transgressing sister Juda was not afraid, but went and herself committed fornication also.

9 By the ease of her fornication she defiled the land and committed adultery with stone and wood.

10 And in all these things her transgressing sister Juda did not return to me with her whole heart, but in falsehood, says the Lord.”

11 And the Lord said to me, “Apostate Israel has justified her soul in comparison with transgressing Juda.

12 Go and proclaim these words toward the north, and you shall say: ‘Return, O apostate Israel, says the Lord, and I shall not turn my face away from you, for I am holy, says the Lord, and I shall not be angry forever.

13 Nevertheless, know your iniquity, for you have transgressed against the Lord your God and scattered your ways to strangers beneath every leafy tree, and you have not heard my voice, says the Lord.

14 Return, O returning children, says the Lord, for I am your husband. I shall take you, one from a city and two from a kindred, and shall bring you into Zion.

15 And I shall give you shepherds according to my heart, and they shall feed you with knowledge and doctrine.

16 And when you have multiplied and increased in the land in those days, says the Lord, they shall no longer say, “The ark of the covenant of the Lord.” It shall not rise upon the heart, nor shall they remember it; it shall not be visited, nor shall it be made any more.

17 At that time they shall call Jerusalem the throne of the Lord, and all nations shall be gathered to her in the name of the Lord, in Jerusalem; and they shall no longer walk after the perversity of their most wicked heart.

18 In those days the house of Juda shall go to the house of Israel, and they shall come together from the land of the north to the land that I gave to your fathers.

19 But I said, “How shall I place you among the sons and give you a desirable land, a splendid inheritance of the hosts of nations?” And I said, “You shall call me Father and shall not cease to walk after me.”

20 But as a woman disdains her lover, so the house of Israel has disdained me, says the Lord.

21 A voice has been heard upon the roads, the weeping and wailing of the children of Israel, because they made their way iniquitous; they forgot the Lord their God.

22 Return, O returning children, and I shall heal your apostasies. “Behold, we come to you, for you are the Lord our God.

23 Truly the hills and the multitude of the mountains were lying; truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel.

24 Confusion has devoured the labor of our fathers from our youth—their flocks and their herds, their sons and their daughters.

25 We shall sleep in our confusion, and our disgrace shall cover us, because we and our fathers have sinned against the Lord our God, from our youth even to this day, and we have not heard the voice of the Lord our God.”

CHAPTER 4

1 “If you return, O Israel, says the Lord, return to me. If you remove your stumbling blocks from before my face, you shall not be moved.

2 And you shall swear, ‘The Lord lives,’ in truth and in judgment and in justice; and the nations shall bless him and shall praise him.

3 For thus says the Lord to the man of Juda and to Jerusalem: Break up new ground for yourselves, and do not sow upon thorns.

4 Be circumcised to the Lord, and remove the foreskins of your hearts, O men of Juda and inhabitants of Jerusalem, lest perhaps my indignation go forth like fire and be kindled, with no one to extinguish it, because of the wickedness of your thoughts.

5 Announce it in Juda and make it heard in Jerusalem. Speak and sound the trumpet in the land; cry out mightily and say, ‘Gather together, and let us enter the fortified cities.’

6 Raise a standard in Zion; take courage; do not stand still, for I am bringing evil from the north and a great destruction.

7 The lion has ascended from his lair, and the plunderer of nations has raised himself up. He has gone forth from his place to make your land a solitude; your cities shall be laid waste, remaining without an inhabitant.

8 Over this, gird yourselves with haircloth; mourn and wail, for the wrath of the fury of the Lord has not been turned away from us.

9 And it shall be on that day, says the Lord, that the heart of the king and the heart of the princes shall perish; the priests shall be astonished, and the prophets shall be confounded.”

10 And I said, “Alas, alas, alas, O Lord God! Have you then deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying, ‘Peace shall be yours,’ when behold, the sword has reached even to the soul?”

11 “At that time it shall be said to this people and to Jerusalem: A burning wind is upon the roads that are in the desert, upon the way of the daughter of my people—not for winnowing and not for cleansing.

12 A wind full from these places shall come for me, and now I shall speak my judgments with them.

13 Behold, he shall ascend like a cloud, and his chariots like a tempest; his horses are swifter than eagles. Woe to us, for we have been devastated!

14 Wash your heart from wickedness, O Jerusalem, that you may be saved. How long shall harmful thoughts remain within you?

15 For a voice announces from Dan and makes the idol known from Mount Ephraim.

16 Say to the nations: ‘Behold, it has been heard in Jerusalem that watchmen are coming from a distant land and raising their voice against the cities of Juda.

17 They have become like keepers of fields against her all around, because she provoked me to wrath, says the Lord.’

18 Your ways and your thoughts have done these things to you. This is your wickedness; because it is bitter, it has touched your heart.

19 My belly, my belly! I am in pain; the senses of my heart are troubled within me. I shall not be silent, for my soul has heard the sound of the trumpet, the cry of battle.

20 Destruction upon destruction has been called forth, and the whole land has been devastated. Suddenly my tabernacles have been laid waste, my skins in an instant.

21 How long shall I see one fleeing and hear the sound of the trumpet?

22 For my people are foolish and have not known me. They are senseless and witless children; they are wise in doing evil, but they have not known how to do good.

23 I looked upon the earth, and behold, it was empty and nothing; and upon the heavens, and there was no light in them.

24 I saw the mountains, and behold, they were moving, and all the hills were shaken.

25 I looked, and there was no man, and every bird of heaven had departed.

26 I looked, and behold, Carmel was a desert, and all its cities were destroyed before the face of the Lord and before the face of the wrath of his fury.

27 For thus says the Lord: The whole land shall be desolate, yet I shall not bring it to complete consummation.

28 The earth shall mourn, and the heavens above shall grieve, because I have spoken. I have purposed, and I have not repented, nor have I turned away from it.

29 At the sound of the horseman and the one who shoots the arrow, every city has fled. They have entered steep places and ascended the rocks; all the cities have been forsaken, and no man dwells in them.

30 But you, devastated one, what shall you do? Though you clothe yourself in scarlet, though you are adorned with a necklace of gold and paint your eyes with antimony, in vain shall you beautify yourself. Your lovers have despised you; they shall seek your soul.

31 For I have heard a voice like that of a woman in labor, anguish like that of a woman giving birth: the voice of the daughter of Zion, dying away and spreading out her hands: ‘Woe to me, for my soul has fainted because of the slain!’”

CHAPTER 5

1 “Go around the streets of Jerusalem; look, consider, and search in her public squares whether you can find a man who practices judgment and seeks faith, and I shall be merciful to her.

2 Even if they say, ‘The Lord lives,’ they shall swear this falsely.

3 O Lord, your eyes look upon faith. You struck them, and they did not grieve; you crushed them, and they refused to receive discipline. They hardened their faces beyond rock and refused to return.

4 But I said, ‘Perhaps they are poor and foolish, ignorant of the way of the Lord and the judgment of their God.

5 Therefore I shall go to the nobles and speak to them, for they have known the way of the Lord and the judgment of their God.’ And behold, these all the more broke the yoke together and burst the bonds.

6 Therefore a lion from the forest has struck them; a wolf toward evening has devastated them; a leopard keeps watch over their cities. Everyone who goes forth from them shall be taken, because their transgressions have multiplied and their apostasies have grown strong.

7 Over what shall I be able to show you mercy? Your sons have forsaken me and swear by those who are not gods. I filled them, and they committed adultery and reveled in the house of a prostitute.

8 They became lustful stallions sent loose; each neighed after the wife of his neighbor.

9 Shall I not visit over these things, says the Lord, and shall not my soul take vengeance upon such a nation?

10 Ascend her walls and scatter them, but do not bring them to complete consummation. Take away her branches, for they are not the Lord’s.

11 For the house of Israel and the house of Juda have transgressed grievously against me, says the Lord.

12 They denied the Lord and said, ‘It is not he; evil shall not come upon us; we shall not see sword or famine.

13 The prophets have spoken into the wind, and there was no answer in them; therefore these things shall happen to them.’

14 Thus says the Lord God of hosts: Because you have spoken this word, behold, I make my words in your mouth a fire and this people wood, and it shall devour them.

15 Behold, I shall bring upon you a nation from afar, O house of Israel, says the Lord—a robust nation, an ancient nation, a nation whose language you shall not know, nor shall you understand what it speaks.

16 Its quiver is like an open sepulcher; they are all mighty.

17 It shall eat your harvest and your bread; it shall devour your sons and your daughters; it shall eat your flock and your herds; it shall eat your vineyard and your fig tree; and with the sword it shall crush your fortified cities in which you trust.

18 Nevertheless, in those days, says the Lord, I shall not bring you to complete consummation.

19 And if you say, ‘Why has the Lord our God done all these things to us?’ you shall say to them: ‘As you forsook me and served a foreign god in your own land, so shall you serve foreigners in a land not your own.’

20 Announce this to the house of Jacob and make it heard in Juda, saying:

21 Hear, O foolish people who have no heart, who have eyes and do not see, and ears and do not hear.

22 Will you therefore not fear me, says the Lord, and will you not grieve before my face? I placed the sand as a boundary for the sea, an everlasting command that it shall not pass beyond. Its waves shall be moved but shall not prevail; they shall swell but shall not cross it.

23 But this people has acquired an unbelieving and exasperating heart; they withdrew and went away.

24 They did not say in their heart, ‘Let us fear the Lord our God, who gives us the early and latter rain in its season and preserves for us the fullness of the annual harvest.’

25 Your iniquities have turned these things aside, and your sins have withheld good from you.

26 For among my people have been found impious men lying in wait like fowlers, setting snares and traps to catch men.

27 As a snare is full of birds, so their houses are full of deceit; therefore they have become great and rich.

28 They have grown fat and sleek, and they have transgressed my words most wickedly. They have not judged the cause of the widow; they have not directed the cause of the orphan; and they have not judged the judgment of the poor.

29 Shall I not visit over these things, says the Lord, or shall not my soul take vengeance upon a nation such as this?

30 Astonishment and wonders have been done in the land:

31 the prophets prophesied falsehood, and the priests applauded with their hands, and my people loved such things. What then shall be done at its end?”

CHAPTER 6

1 “Take courage, sons of Benjamin, in the midst of Jerusalem; sound the trumpet in Thecua and raise a standard over Bethacarem, for evil has appeared from the north and a great destruction.

2 I have likened the daughter of Zion to one beautiful and delicate.

3 Shepherds and their flocks shall come to her; they have pitched their tents against her all around; each shall pasture those under his hand.

4 Sanctify war against her. Arise, and let us ascend at midday! Woe to us, for the day has declined, for the shadows of evening have grown longer.

5 Arise, and let us ascend by night and scatter her houses.

6 For thus says the Lord of hosts: Cut down her wood and cast up a mound around Jerusalem. This is the city of visitation; every oppression is in her midst.

7 As a cistern makes its water cold, so she has made her wickedness cold. Iniquity and devastation shall be heard within her; infirmity and the wound are always before me.

8 Be instructed, O Jerusalem, lest perhaps my soul withdraw from you, lest perhaps I make you a desert, an uninhabitable land.

9 Thus says the Lord of hosts: They shall gather the remnant of Israel even to the last cluster, as in a vineyard. Turn your hand again like a grape-gatherer to the basket.

10 To whom shall I speak, and whom shall I call to witness, that he may hear? Behold, their ears are uncircumcised, and they cannot hear. Behold, the word of the Lord has become a reproach to them, and they shall not receive it.

11 Therefore I am filled with the fury of the Lord; I have labored to contain it. Pour it out upon the little child outside and upon the assembly of young men together, for man shall be taken with woman, the old man with him who is full of days.

12 Their houses shall pass to others, their fields and wives alike, for I shall stretch out my hand over the inhabitants of the land, says the Lord.

13 For from the least even to the greatest, all pursue avarice; and from prophet even to priest, all practice deceit.

14 They healed the destruction of the daughter of my people with disgrace, saying, ‘Peace, peace,’ when there was no peace.

15 They were confounded because they committed abomination; or rather, they were not confounded with confusion and did not know how to blush. Therefore they shall fall among those who fall; at the time of their visitation they shall collapse, says the Lord.

16 Thus says the Lord: Stand upon the roads and see; ask concerning the ancient paths which is the good way, and walk in it, and you shall find refreshment for your souls. But they said, ‘We shall not walk.’

17 And I appointed watchmen over you: ‘Hear the sound of the trumpet.’ But they said, ‘We shall not hear.’

18 Therefore hear, O nations, and know, O assembly, how great are the things I shall do to them.

19 Hear, O earth: Behold, I shall bring evils upon this people, the fruit of its thoughts, because they did not hear my words and cast away my law.

20 Why do you bring me frankincense from Saba and sweet-smelling cane from a distant land? Your holocausts are not acceptable, and your victims have not pleased me.

21 Therefore thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall place ruins before this people, and fathers and sons together shall fall upon them; neighbor and companion shall perish.

22 Thus says the Lord: Behold, a people comes from the land of the north, and a great nation shall arise from the ends of the earth.

23 It shall seize arrow and shield; it is cruel and shall have no mercy. Its voice shall resound like the sea; they shall mount horses, prepared like a man for battle against you, O daughter of Zion.

24 We have heard its report; our hands have become feeble. Tribulation has seized us, pains like those of a woman in labor.

25 Do not go out to the fields or walk upon the road, for the sword of the enemy and terror are all around.

26 O daughter of my people, gird yourself with haircloth and sprinkle yourself with ashes. Make for yourself mourning as for an only-begotten son, a bitter lamentation, for the devastator shall suddenly come upon us.

27 I have made you a strong assayer among my people, and you shall know and test their way.

28 All these princes turn aside and walk deceitfully; they are bronze and iron; they are all corrupted.

29 The bellows have failed; the lead has been consumed in the fire. In vain has the refiner refined, for their wicked deeds have not been consumed.

30 Call them rejected silver, for the Lord has rejected them.”

CHAPTER 7

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying:

2 Stand at the gate of the house of the Lord, proclaim this word there, and say: “Hear the word of the Lord, all Juda, you who enter through these gates to adore the Lord.

3 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Make your ways and your pursuits good, and I shall dwell with you in this place.

4 Do not trust in words of falsehood, saying, ‘The temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord it is!’

5 For if you direct your ways and your pursuits well; if you practice judgment between a man and his neighbor;

6 if you do not oppress the stranger, the orphan, and the widow, or shed innocent blood in this place, and if you do not walk after strange gods to your own harm,

7 I shall dwell with you in this place, in the land that I gave to your fathers from age unto age.

8 Behold, you trust for yourselves in words of falsehood that shall not profit you:

9 to steal, kill, commit adultery, swear falsely, pour libations to the Baals, and go after strange gods whom you do not know;

10 and then you came and stood before me in this house, upon which my name has been invoked, and said, ‘We have been delivered because we have done all these abominations.’

11 Has this house, upon which my name has been invoked, therefore become a den of robbers in your eyes? I, I myself—I have seen it, says the Lord.

12 Go to my place in Silo, where my name dwelt from the beginning, and see what I did to it because of the wickedness of my people Israel.

13 And now, because you have done all these works, says the Lord, and I spoke to you, rising early and speaking, but you did not hear; and I called you, but you did not answer;

14 I shall do to this house, upon which my name has been invoked and in which you trust, and to the place that I gave to you and your fathers, as I did to Silo.

15 And I shall cast you away from my face, as I cast away all your brothers, the whole seed of Ephraim.

16 Therefore do not pray for this people, nor take up praise and prayer for them; and do not oppose me, for I shall not hear you.

17 Do you not see what they are doing in the cities of Juda and in the public squares of Jerusalem?

18 The sons gather wood, the fathers kindle the fire, and the women knead the fat to make cakes for the queen of heaven and pour libations to strange gods, provoking me to wrath.

19 Do they provoke me to wrath? says the Lord. Do they not provoke themselves, to the confusion of their own countenance?

20 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, my fury and my indignation are poured out upon this place—upon men, upon beasts, upon the trees of the countryside, and upon the fruits of the earth. It shall be kindled and shall not be extinguished.

21 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Add your holocausts to your victims and eat the flesh.

22 For I did not speak with your fathers or command them concerning the matter of holocausts and victims on the day when I brought them out of the land of Egypt.

23 But this word I commanded them, saying: ‘Hear my voice, and I shall be your God, and you shall be my people. Walk in every way that I have commanded you, that it may be well with you.’

24 But they did not hear or incline their ear; instead, they went away in their own wills and in the perversity of their evil heart, and they became backward and not forward,

25 from the day their fathers went forth from the land of Egypt even to this day. And I sent to you all my servants the prophets day after day, rising at dawn and sending them.

26 But they did not hear me or incline their ear; instead, they hardened their neck and acted worse than their fathers.”

27 You shall speak all these words to them, but they shall not hear you; you shall call them, but they shall not answer you.

28 And you shall say to them: “This is the nation that did not hear the voice of the Lord its God or receive discipline. Faith has perished and has been taken away from their mouth.

29 Cut off your hair and cast it away; take up a lamentation straight before you, for the Lord has cast away and forsaken the generation of his fury.

30 For the sons of Juda have done evil in my eyes, says the Lord. They placed their stumbling blocks in the house upon which my name has been invoked, that they might pollute it.

31 And they built the high places of Topheth, which is in the valley of the son of Ennom, to burn their sons and their daughters with fire—things I did not command or conceive in my heart.

32 Therefore behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when it shall no longer be called Topheth and the valley of the son of Ennom, but the Valley of Slaughter; and they shall bury in Topheth because there shall be no other place.

33 The corpses of this people shall become food for the birds of heaven and the beasts of the earth, and there shall be no one to drive them away.

34 And from the cities of Juda and the public squares of Jerusalem I shall cause to cease the voice of joy and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, for the land shall become a desolation.”

CHAPTER 8

1 “At that time, says the Lord, they shall cast the bones of the kings of Juda, the bones of its princes, the bones of the priests, the bones of the prophets, and the bones of those who inhabited Jerusalem out of their sepulchers.

2 They shall spread them out before the sun and the moon and all the host of heaven, which they loved, served, followed, sought, and adored. They shall not be gathered and shall not be buried; they shall become dung upon the face of the earth.

3 And all who remain of this most wicked kindred, in every place left to which I have cast them, shall choose death rather than life, says the Lord of hosts.”

4 And you shall say to them: “Thus says the Lord: Shall he who falls not rise again? And shall he who has turned away not return?

5 Why then has this people in Jerusalem turned away with a contentious apostasy? They have taken hold of falsehood and have refused to return.

6 I attended and listened: no one speaks what is good; there is no one who repents of his sin, saying, ‘What have I done?’ They have all turned to their own course like a horse charging headlong into battle.

7 The kite in heaven has known its season; the turtledove, the swallow, and the stork have observed the time of their coming, but my people have not known the judgment of the Lord.

8 How do you say, ‘We are wise, and the law of the Lord is with us’? Truly the lying pen of the scribes has wrought falsehood!

9 The wise have been confounded; they have been terrified and captured. For they have cast away the word of the Lord, and there is no Wisdom in them.

10 Therefore I shall give their women to strangers and their fields to heirs, because from the least to the greatest they all follow avarice; from prophet even to priest, they all practice falsehood.

11 They healed the destruction of the daughter of my people unto disgrace, saying, ‘Peace, peace,’ when there was no peace.

12 They were confounded because they committed abomination; or rather, they were not confounded with confusion and did not know how to blush. Therefore they shall fall among those who fall; at the time of their visitation they shall collapse, says the Lord.

13 Gathering, I shall gather them, says the Lord. There is no grape upon the vines and no figs upon the fig tree; the leaf has fallen, and I have given them the things that have passed them by.

14 Why do we sit still? Come together, and let us enter the fortified city and be silent there, because the Lord our God has made us silent and given us gall-water to drink, for we have sinned against the Lord.

15 We awaited peace, and there was no good; a time of healing, and behold, terror.

16 From Dan the snorting of his horses has been heard; at the sound of the neighing of his warriors the whole land was moved. They came and devoured the land and its fullness, the city and its inhabitants.

17 For behold, I shall send among you basilisk-serpents against which there is no enchantment, and they shall bite you, says the Lord.

18 My sorrow is upon sorrow; my heart mourns within me.

19 Behold, the voice of the cry of the daughter of my people from a distant land: ‘Is the Lord not in Zion, or is her King not within her?’ Why then have they stirred me to wrath with their graven things and foreign vanities?

20 The harvest has passed; the summer has ended; and we have not been saved.

21 Over the destruction of the daughter of my people I have been crushed and made sorrowful; astonishment has seized me.

22 Is there no resin in Galaad, or is there no physician there? Why then has the scar of the daughter of my people not closed?”

CHAPTER 9

1 “Who shall give water to my head and a fountain of tears to my eyes, that I may weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people?

2 Who shall give me a travelers’ lodging in the wilderness, that I may forsake my people and withdraw from them? For they are all adulterers, an assembly of transgressors.

3 They have stretched out their tongue like a bow of falsehood and not of truth. They have grown strong in the land, for they have gone forth from evil to evil and have not known me, says the Lord.

4 Let everyone guard himself against his neighbor and place no trust in any brother, for every brother shall utterly supplant, and every friend shall walk deceitfully.

5 A man shall mock his brother, and they shall not speak truth. For they have taught their tongue to speak falsehood; they have labored to act iniquitously.

6 Your habitation is in the midst of deceit; through deceit they have refused to know me, says the Lord.

7 Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts: Behold, I shall melt and test them, for what else shall I do before the face of the daughter of my people?

8 Their tongue is a wounding arrow; it has spoken deceit. With his mouth a man speaks peace with his friend, while secretly he sets an ambush for him.

9 Shall I not visit over these things, says the Lord, or shall not my soul take vengeance upon a nation such as this?

10 Over the mountains I shall take up weeping and lamentation, and over the beautiful places of the wilderness a dirge, because they have been burned so that no man passes through, and they have not heard the voice of an owner. From the bird of heaven even to the beasts, all have migrated and withdrawn.

11 I shall make Jerusalem heaps of sand and dens of dragons; and I shall make the cities of Juda a desolation, without an inhabitant.

12 Who is the wise man who may understand this, and to whom has the word of the mouth of the Lord come, that he may announce why the land has perished and been burned like a desert, so that no one passes through?

13 And the Lord said: Because they forsook my law, which I gave them, and did not hear my voice or walk in it,

14 but went after the perversity of their own heart and after the Baals, which they learned from their fathers,

15 therefore thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I shall feed this people with wormwood and give them gall-water to drink.

16 I shall scatter them among nations that neither they nor their fathers knew, and I shall send the sword after them until they are consumed.

17 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Consider, summon the mourning women, and let them come; send for those who are wise, and let them hasten.

18 Let them hurry and take up a lamentation over us; let our eyes bring down tears and our eyelids flow with waters.

19 For a voice of lamentation has been heard from Zion: ‘How have we been devastated and exceedingly confounded? For we have forsaken the land, because our tabernacles have been cast down.’

20 Therefore hear, O women, the word of the Lord, and let your ears receive the word of his mouth. Teach your daughters lamentation and each woman her neighbor a dirge,

21 for death has ascended through our windows; it has entered our houses to destroy the little children outside and the young men from the public squares.”

22 Speak: “Thus says the Lord: The corpse of man shall fall like dung upon the face of the countryside and like hay behind the reaper, and there shall be no one to gather it.

23 Thus says the Lord: Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom; let not the mighty man glory in his might; and let not the rich man glory in his riches.

24 But let him who glories glory in this: to understand and know me, for I am the Lord who practices mercy and judgment and justice upon the earth; for these things please me, says the Lord.

25 Behold, days are coming, says the Lord, and I shall visit every one who has a circumcised foreskin:

26 Egypt, Juda, Edom, the sons of Ammon, Moab, and all who have their hair cut round and inhabit the desert; for all the nations have a foreskin, but the whole house of Israel is uncircumcised in heart.”

CHAPTER 10

1 Hear the word that the Lord has spoken concerning you, O house of Israel.

2 Thus says the Lord: Do not learn according to the ways of the nations, and do not fear the signs of heaven that the nations fear,

3 for the laws of the peoples are vain. For the work of an artisan's hands has cut a tree from the forest with an axe.

4 He has adorned it with silver and gold; he has fastened it with nails and hammers so that it will not come apart.

5 They have been fashioned in the likeness of a palm tree and shall not speak. They must be lifted and carried, for they cannot walk. Therefore do not fear them, for they can do neither evil nor good.

6 There is none like you, O Lord. You are great, and your name is great in might.

7 Who shall not fear you, O King of nations? For honor is yours. Among all the wise of the nations and in all their kingdoms there is none like you.

8 Together they shall be proven senseless and foolish; the doctrine of their vanity is wood.

9 Wrapped silver is brought from Tharsis and gold from Ophaz—the work of the artisan and the hands of the metalworker. Violet and purple are their clothing; all these are the work of artisans.

10 But the Lord is the true God; he is the living God and the everlasting King. At his indignation the earth shall be moved, and the nations shall not endure his threat.

11 Therefore you shall say this to them: "Let the gods who did not make heaven and earth perish from the earth and from the things beneath heaven!"

12 He makes the earth by his strength, prepares the world by his Wisdom, and stretches out the heavens by his prudence.

13 At his voice he gives a multitude of waters in heaven and raises clouds from the ends of the earth. He makes lightning into rain and brings forth the wind from his treasuries.

14 Every man has become foolish through knowledge; every artisan has been confounded by the graven thing, for what he cast is false, and there is no spirit in them.

15 They are vain and a work worthy of laughter; at the time of their visitation they shall perish.

16 The Portion of Jacob is not like these, for he is the one who formed all things, and Israel is the rod of his inheritance; the Lord of hosts is his name.

17 Gather your confusion from the land, you who dwell under siege,

18 for thus says the Lord: Behold, this time I shall cast the inhabitants of the land far away and shall trouble them so that they may be found.

19 Woe to me because of my destruction; my wound is exceedingly grievous. But I said, "Plainly this is my infirmity, and I shall bear it."

20 My tabernacle has been devastated; all my cords have been broken. My sons have gone forth from me and do not remain. There is no one to stretch out my tent any longer and raise up my skins.

21 For the shepherds have acted foolishly and have not sought the Lord; therefore they did not understand, and their whole flock has been scattered.

22 Behold, the voice of a report comes, and a great commotion from the land of the north, to make the cities of Juda a solitude and a habitation of dragons.

23 I know, O Lord, that a man's way is not his own, nor is it for a man to walk and direct his own steps.

24 Correct me, O Lord, nevertheless in judgment and not in your fury, lest perhaps you reduce me to nothing.

25 Pour out your indignation upon the nations that have not known you and upon the provinces that have not invoked your name, for they have eaten Jacob, devoured him, consumed him, and scattered his beauty.

CHAPTER 11

1 The word that came from the Lord to Jeremiah, saying:

2 “Hear the words of this covenant, and speak to the men of Juda and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

3 And you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord God of Israel: Accursed is the man who does not hear the words of this covenant,

4 which I commanded your fathers on the day when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, from the iron furnace, saying: ‘Hear my voice and do everything I command you; and you shall be my people, and I shall be your God,’

5 that I may raise up the oath I swore to your fathers, that I would give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as it is this day.” And I answered and said, “Amen, O Lord.”

6 And the Lord said to me: “Proclaim all these words in the cities of Juda and outside Jerusalem, saying: Hear the words of this covenant and do them.

7 For testifying, I testified to your fathers from the day I brought them out of the land of Egypt even to this day; rising early, I testified and said, ‘Hear my voice.’

8 But they did not hear or incline their ear; instead, each went away in the perversity of his own evil heart. And I brought upon them all the words of this covenant that I commanded them to do, but they did not do.”

9 And the Lord said to me: “A conspiracy has been found among the men of Juda and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

10 They have returned to the former iniquities of their fathers, who refused to hear my words; these also have gone after strange gods to serve them. The house of Israel and the house of Juda have made void my covenant that I made with their fathers.

11 Therefore thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall bring evils upon them from which they shall not be able to escape. They shall cry out to me, and I shall not hear them.

12 The cities of Juda and the inhabitants of Jerusalem shall go and cry out to the gods to whom they pour libations, but they shall not save them in the time of their affliction.

13 For according to the number of your cities were your gods, O Juda; and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem, you set up altars of confusion, altars for pouring libations to the Baals.

14 Therefore do not pray for this people, and do not take up praise and prayer for them, for I shall not hear in the time of their cry to me, in the time of their affliction.

15 Why has my beloved committed many wicked deeds in my house? Shall holy flesh take your wicked deeds away from you, in which you have gloried?

16 The Lord called your name a fruitful olive tree, beautiful, fruit-bearing, and lovely. At the sound of a word, a great fire blazed within her, and her shrubs were burned.

17 And the Lord of hosts, who planted you, has spoken evil concerning you because of the evils that the house of Israel and the house of Juda did for themselves to provoke me, pouring libations to the Baals.”

18 “But you, O Lord, showed me, and I knew; then you revealed their pursuits to me.

19 And I was like a meek lamb carried to be a victim; I did not know that they had devised plans against me, saying, ‘Let us put wood into his bread and eradicate him from the land of the living, and let his name be remembered no more.’

20 But you, O Lord of hosts, who judge justly and test the reins and hearts, let me see your vengeance upon them, for to you I have revealed my cause.

21 Therefore thus says the Lord concerning the men of Anathoth who seek your soul and say, ‘You shall not prophesy in the name of the Lord, and you shall not die by our hands’—

22 therefore thus says the Lord of hosts: Behold, I shall visit them. Their young men shall die by the sword; their sons and their daughters shall die by famine.

23 No remnant shall remain of them, for I shall bring evil upon the men of Anathoth, the year of their visitation.”

CHAPTER 12

1 “You indeed are just, O Lord, if I dispute with you; nevertheless, I shall speak just things to you. Why does the way of the impious prosper? Why is it well with all who transgress and act iniquitously?

2 You planted them, and they sent forth roots; they advance and bear fruit. You are near to their mouth and far from their reins.

3 But you, O Lord, have known me, seen me, and tested my heart with you. Gather them like a flock for the victim and sanctify them for the day of slaughter.

4 How long shall the land mourn and every plant of the countryside dry up because of the wickedness of those who inhabit it? Beast and bird have been consumed because they said, ‘He shall not see our last things.’

5 If you have grown weary running with footmen, how shall you be able to contend with horses? And if you have been secure in a land of peace, what shall you do amid the swelling of the Jordan?

6 For even your brothers and the house of your father—even they have fought against you and cried out after you with a full voice. Do not trust them when they speak good things to you.”

7 “I have forsaken my house; I have dismissed my inheritance; I have given the beloved of my soul into the hand of her enemies.

8 My inheritance has become to me like a lion in the forest; she has raised her voice against me, and therefore I have hated her.

9 Is my inheritance to me a multicolored bird? Is she a bird dyed throughout? Come, gather together, all beasts of the earth; hasten to devour.

10 Many shepherds have demolished my vineyard; they have trampled my portion and made my desirable portion a desert of solitude.

11 They have made it a devastation, and it has mourned before me. The whole land has been utterly desolated because there is no one who reflects in his heart.

12 Devastators have come upon all the roads of the desert, for the sword of the Lord shall devour from one end of the land even to its other end; there is no peace for any flesh.

13 They sowed wheat and reaped thorns; they received an inheritance, and it shall not profit them. You shall be confounded by your fruits because of the wrath of the fury of the Lord.

14 Thus says the Lord against all my most wicked neighbors, who touch the inheritance that I distributed to my people Israel: Behold, I shall uproot them from their land, and I shall uproot the house of Juda from their midst.

15 And when I have uprooted them, I shall return and have mercy on them; I shall lead them back, each man to his inheritance and each man to his land.

16 And it shall be that if, being instructed, they learn the ways of my people, so as to swear in my name, ‘The Lord lives,’ just as they taught my people to swear by Baal, they shall be built up in the midst of my people.

17 But if they will not hear, I shall uproot that nation with uprooting and destruction, says the Lord.”

CHAPTER 13

1 Thus says the Lord to me: “Go and acquire for yourself a linen loincloth; place it upon your loins, and do not put it into water.”

2 And I acquired a loincloth according to the word of the Lord and placed it around my loins.

3 And the word of the Lord came to me a second time, saying:

4 “Take the loincloth you acquired, which is around your loins; arise, go to the Euphrates, and hide it there in a cleft of the rock.”

5 And I went and hid it by the Euphrates, as the Lord had commanded me.

6 And after many days, the Lord said to me: “Arise, go to the Euphrates, and take from there the loincloth that I commanded you to hide there.”

7 And I went to the Euphrates, dug, and took the loincloth from the place where I had hidden it; and behold, the loincloth had rotted so that it was fit for no use.

8 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

9 “Thus says the Lord: In this way I shall cause the pride of Juda and the great pride of Jerusalem to rot—

10 this most wicked people, who refuse to hear my words and walk in the perversity of their own heart, and who have gone after strange gods to serve and adore them. They shall be like this loincloth, which is fit for no use.

11 For as a loincloth adheres to the loins of a man, so I bound the whole house of Israel and the whole house of Juda to myself, says the Lord, that they might be my people and a name and a praise and a glory for me; but they did not hear.

12 Therefore you shall speak this word to them: ‘Thus says the Lord God of Israel: Every flask shall be filled with wine.’ And they shall say to you, ‘Do we not know that every flask shall be filled with wine?’

13 And you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall fill all the inhabitants of this land with drunkenness—the kings of the stock of David who sit upon his throne, the priests, the prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

14 I shall scatter them, a man from his brother, and fathers and sons alike, says the Lord. I shall not spare, yield, or have mercy so as not to destroy them.

15 Hear and perceive with your ears; do not be lifted up, for the Lord has spoken.

16 Give glory to the Lord your God before it grows dark and before your feet stumble upon the shadowed mountains. You shall await light, but he shall make it the shadow of death and gloom.

17 But if you will not hear this, my soul shall weep in secret before the face of pride; weeping, it shall weep, and my eye shall bring down a tear, because the flock of the Lord has been captured.

18 Say to the king and to the queen: ‘Humble yourselves; sit down, for the crown of your glory has descended from your head.’

19 The cities of the south have been closed, and there is no one to open them. All Juda has been carried away in a complete migration.

20 Lift up your eyes and see, you who come from the north. Where is the flock that was given to you, your glorious livestock?

21 What shall you say when he visits you? For you yourself taught them against you and instructed them to be over your head. Shall not pains seize you like a woman in labor?

22 And if you say in your heart, ‘Why have these things come upon me?’—because of the multitude of your iniquity, your shameful parts have been uncovered and the soles of your feet polluted.

23 If the Ethiopian can change his skin or the leopard his spots, then you also shall be able to do good when you have learned evil.

24 I shall scatter them like stubble carried away by the wind in the desert.

25 This is your lot and the portion measured to you by me, says the Lord, because you forgot me and trusted in falsehood.

26 Therefore I too have bared your thighs before your face, and your disgrace has appeared—

27 your adulteries, your neighing, and the wickedness of your fornication. Upon the hills in the field I have seen your abominations. Woe to you, O Jerusalem! Will you not be cleansed after me? How much longer?”

CHAPTER 14

1 The word of the Lord that came to Jeremiah concerning the words of the drought.

2 “Judea has mourned, and her gates have fallen and grown dark upon the ground, and the cry of Jerusalem has ascended.

3 The great sent their little ones for water. They came to draw, but found no water; they carried their vessels back empty. They were confounded and afflicted, and they covered their heads.

4 Because of the devastation of the land, because no rain came upon the earth, the farmers were confounded; they covered their heads.

5 For even the doe gave birth in the field and abandoned her young because there was no grass.

6 The wild asses stood upon the rocks; they drew in the wind like dragons. Their eyes failed because there was no grass.

7 If our iniquities answer against us, O Lord, act for the sake of your name, for our apostasies are many; against you we have sinned.

8 O Expectation of Israel, his Savior in the time of tribulation, why shall you be like a settler in the land and like a traveler turning aside to lodge?

9 Why shall you be like a wandering man, like a mighty one unable to save? Yet you are in our midst, O Lord, and your name has been invoked upon us; do not forsake us.

10 Thus says the Lord to this people, who have loved to move their feet and have not rested, and who did not please the Lord: Now he shall remember their iniquities and visit their sins.

11 And the Lord said to me: Do not pray for good for this people.

12 When they fast, I shall not hear their prayers; and if they offer holocausts and victims, I shall not receive them, for I shall consume them by sword and famine and pestilence.”

13 And I said, “Ah, ah, ah, O Lord God! The prophets say to them, ‘You shall not see the sword, and there shall be no famine among you; instead, he shall give you true peace in this place.’”

14 And the Lord said to me: “The prophets prophesy falsely in my name. I did not send them, command them, or speak to them. They prophesy to you a lying vision, divination, fraud, and the seduction of their own heart.

15 Therefore thus says the Lord concerning the prophets who prophesy in my name, whom I did not send, saying, ‘Sword and famine shall not be in this land’: By sword and famine those prophets shall be consumed.

16 And the peoples to whom they prophesy shall be cast into the streets of Jerusalem because of famine and sword, and there shall be no one to bury them—they and their wives, their sons and their daughters. And I shall pour their own evil upon them.

17 You shall say this word to them: ‘Let my eyes bring down tears night and day and not be silent, for the virgin daughter of my people has been crushed with a great destruction, with an exceedingly grievous wound.

18 If I go forth into the fields, behold, those slain by the sword; and if I enter the city, behold, those wasted by famine. Prophet and priest also have gone into a land they did not know.

19 In casting away, have you utterly cast away Juda? Or has your soul abominated Zion? Why then have you struck us so that there is no healing? We awaited peace, and there is no good; a time of healing, and behold, disturbance.

20 We have known, O Lord, our impieties and the iniquities of our fathers, for we have sinned against you.

21 Do not give us over to reproach, for the sake of your name; do not bring insult upon the throne of your glory. Remember; do not make void your covenant with us.

22 Are there any among the graven things of the nations who give rain? Or can the heavens give showers? Are you not the Lord our God, whom we have awaited? For you have made all these things.’”

CHAPTER 15

1 And the Lord said to me: “Even if Moses and Samuel stood before me, my soul would not be toward this people. Cast them away from my face, and let them go forth.

2 And if they say to you, ‘Where shall we go?’ you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord: Those for death, to death; those for the sword, to the sword; those for famine, to famine; and those for captivity, to captivity.

3 I shall visit four kinds upon them, says the Lord: the sword to kill, dogs to tear, the birds of heaven and the beasts of the earth to devour and scatter.

4 And I shall give them over to agitation among all the kingdoms of the earth because of Manasses son of Ezechias, king of Juda, for all the things he did in Jerusalem.

5 For who shall have mercy upon you, O Jerusalem, or who shall grieve for you? Or who shall go to ask concerning your peace?

6 You have forsaken me, says the Lord; you have gone backward. I shall stretch out my hand over you and kill you; I have grown weary of pleading.

7 I shall scatter them with a winnowing fan at the gates of the land. I killed and destroyed my people, yet they did not return from their ways.

8 Her widows have multiplied before me beyond the sand of the sea. At midday I brought the devastator upon the mother of the young man; suddenly I sent terror upon the cities.

9 She who bore seven has grown weak; her soul has failed. Her sun set while it was still day; she was confounded and blushed. And I shall give her remnant to the sword before the face of their enemies, says the Lord.”

10 “Woe to me, my mother! Why did you give birth to me, a man of quarrel, a man of discord throughout the whole land? I did not lend at interest, nor did anyone lend to me at interest, yet everyone curses me.

11 The Lord says: Surely your remnant shall be for good; surely I shall meet you in the time of affliction and in the time of tribulation against the enemy.

12 Shall iron be joined in covenant with iron from the north, and with bronze?

13 I shall give your riches and your treasures as plunder without payment, because of all your sins and throughout all your borders.

14 And I shall bring your enemies from a land you do not know, for a fire has been kindled in my fury; it shall burn over you.

15 You know, O Lord; remember me, visit me, and protect me from those who persecute me. Do not take me away in your patience; know that I have endured reproach for your sake.

16 Your words were found, and I ate them; and your word became joy and gladness to my heart, for your name has been invoked upon me, O Lord God of hosts.

17 I did not sit in the council of those who make sport, nor did I glory. Before the face of your hand I sat alone, because you filled me with threatening.

18 Why has my sorrow become perpetual and my wound desperate, refusing to be healed? It has become to me like the falsehood of unfaithful waters.

19 Therefore thus says the Lord: If you return, I shall turn you back, and you shall stand before my face. If you separate what is precious from what is vile, you shall be like my mouth. They shall turn to you, but you shall not turn to them.

20 I shall make you a strong wall of bronze against this people. They shall fight against you, but they shall not prevail, for I am with you to save and deliver you, says the Lord.

21 And I shall deliver you from the hand of the most wicked and redeem you from the hand of the mighty.”

CHAPTER 16

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “You shall not take a wife, and you shall have no sons or daughters in this place.

3 For thus says the Lord concerning the sons and daughters who are born in this place, concerning their mothers who bore them, and concerning their fathers from whose stock they were born in this land:

4 They shall die by deaths of sickness. They shall not be mourned and shall not be buried; they shall become dung upon the face of the earth. By sword and famine they shall be consumed, and their corpse shall become food for the birds of heaven and the beasts of the earth.

5 For thus says the Lord: Do not enter the house of feasting; do not go to mourn or console them, for I have taken my peace from this people, says the Lord, along with mercy and compassions.

6 Great and small shall die in this land. They shall not be buried or mourned; men shall not cut themselves, nor shall baldness be made for them.

7 They shall not break bread among them for one who mourns, to console him over the dead; and they shall not give them the cup to drink, to console them over father and mother.

8 And you shall not enter the house of feasting to sit with them and eat and drink.

9 For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, before your eyes and in your days, I shall take away from this place the voice of joy and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride.

10 And when you announce all these words to this people and they say to you, ‘Why has the Lord spoken all this great evil against us? What is our iniquity, and what is our sin that we have sinned against the Lord our God?’

11 you shall say to them: Because your fathers forsook me, says the Lord, and went after strange gods, served and adored them, and forsook me and did not keep my law.

12 But you also have acted worse than your fathers; for behold, each walks after the perversity of his own evil heart, so that he does not hear me.

13 And I shall cast you out of this land into a land that neither you nor your fathers knew; and there you shall serve strange gods day and night, who shall give you no rest.

14 Therefore behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when it shall no longer be said, ‘The Lord lives, who brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt,’

15 but, ‘The Lord lives, who brought the children of Israel out of the land of the north and out of all the lands to which I cast them.’ And I shall lead them back into their own land, which I gave to their fathers.

16 Behold, I shall send many fishermen, says the Lord, and they shall fish for them; and after these things I shall send them many hunters, and they shall hunt them from every mountain and every hill and from the clefts of the rocks.

17 For my eyes are upon all their ways. They are not hidden from my face, nor has their iniquity been concealed from my eyes.

18 And first I shall repay their iniquities and their sins twofold, because they polluted my land with the corpses of their idols and filled my inheritance with their abominations.

19 O Lord, my strength and my might and my refuge in the day of tribulation, to you the nations shall come from the ends of the earth and shall say, ‘Truly our fathers possessed falsehood, a vanity that did not profit them.

20 Shall a man make gods for himself when they are not gods?’

21 Therefore behold, this time I shall show them; I shall show them my hand and my power, and they shall know that my name is the Lord.”

CHAPTER 17

1 “The sin of Juda is written with an iron pen, engraved with a diamond point upon the breadth of their heart and upon the horns of their altars.

2 Their sons remember their altars and their groves and the leafy trees upon the high mountains,

3 sacrificing in the field. I shall give your strength and all your treasures over to plunder, along with your high places, because of the sins throughout all your borders.

4 And you shall be left alone without your inheritance, which I gave you; and I shall cause you to serve your enemies in a land you do not know, for you have kindled a fire in my fury; it shall burn forever.

5 Thus says the Lord: Accursed is the man who trusts in man, makes flesh his arm, and whose heart withdraws from the Lord.

6 For he shall be like a tamarisk in the desert and shall not see when good comes, but shall dwell in dryness in the wilderness, in a salt and uninhabitable land.

7 Blessed is the man who trusts in the Lord, and the Lord shall be his confidence.

8 He shall be like a tree transplanted beside waters, which sends its roots toward moisture and shall not fear when heat comes. Its leaf shall be green, and in the time of drought it shall not be anxious, nor shall it ever cease to bear fruit.

9 The heart of all is perverse and inscrutable; who shall know it?

10 I, the Lord, search the heart and test the reins, giving to each according to his way and according to the fruit of his inventions.

11 A partridge brooded over what she did not lay. He made riches, but not in judgment; in the midst of his days he shall forsake them, and at his end he shall be foolish.

12 A throne of glory on high from the beginning is the place of our sanctuary.

13 O Lord, Expectation of Israel, all who forsake you shall be confounded. Those who withdraw from you shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken the Lord, the vein of living waters.

14 Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved, for you are my praise.

15 Behold, they say to me, ‘Where is the word of the Lord? Let it come.’

16 But I have not been troubled, following you as Shepherd; and I have not desired the day of man—you know. What went forth from my lips was upright in your sight.

17 Do not become a terror to me; you are my hope in the day of affliction.

18 Let those who persecute me be confounded, but let me not be confounded. Let them be terrified, but let me not be terrified. Bring the day of affliction upon them, and crush them with a double destruction.”

19 Thus says the Lord to me: Go and stand at the gate of the sons of the people, through which the kings of Juda enter and depart, and at all the gates of Jerusalem.

20 And you shall say to them: “Hear the word of the Lord, kings of Juda, all Juda, and all inhabitants of Jerusalem who enter through these gates.

21 Thus says the Lord: Guard your souls, and do not carry burdens on the sabbath day or bring them through the gates of Jerusalem.

22 Do not carry loads out of your houses on the sabbath day, and do no work; sanctify the sabbath day as I commanded your fathers.

23 But they did not hear or incline their ear; instead, they hardened their neck so that they would not hear me or receive discipline.

24 And it shall be, says the Lord, that if you hear me and do not bring burdens through the gates of this city on the sabbath day, and if you sanctify the sabbath day by doing no work upon it,

25 kings and princes sitting upon the throne of David shall enter through the gates of this city, riding in chariots and upon horses—they and their princes, the men of Juda, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem—and this city shall be inhabited forever.

26 They shall come from the cities of Juda, from around Jerusalem, from the land of Benjamin, from the plains, from the mountains, and from the south, carrying holocaust, victim, sacrifice, and frankincense, and they shall bring an oblation into the house of the Lord.

27 But if you will not hear me, to sanctify the sabbath day and not carry a burden or bring it through the gates of Jerusalem on the sabbath day, I shall kindle a fire in her gates, and it shall devour the houses of Jerusalem and shall not be extinguished.”

CHAPTER 18

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying:

2 “Arise and descend into the potter’s house, and there you shall hear my words.”

3 And I descended into the potter’s house, and behold, he was making a work upon the wheel.

4 And the vessel he was making from clay was ruined in his hands; and turning, he made it into another vessel, as it pleased his eyes to make it.

5 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

6 “Can I not do to you as this potter, O house of Israel? says the Lord. Behold, as clay is in the hand of the potter, so are you in my hand, O house of Israel.

7 Suddenly I shall speak against a nation and against a kingdom, to uproot, destroy, and ruin it.

8 If that nation repents of the evil against which I spoke, I too shall repent of the evil I purposed to do to it.

9 And suddenly I shall speak concerning a nation and a kingdom, to build and plant it.

10 If it does evil in my eyes by not hearing my voice, I shall repent of the good that I said I would do to it.

11 Now therefore say to the man of Juda and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem: Thus says the Lord: Behold, I am fashioning evil against you and devising a purpose against you. Let each return from his evil way, and direct your ways and your pursuits.

12 But they said, ‘We have despaired. For we shall go after our own thoughts, and each of us shall practice the perversity of his own evil heart.’

13 Therefore thus says the Lord: Ask the nations, ‘Who has heard such horrible things as the virgin Israel has exceedingly done?’

14 Shall the snow of Lebanon fail from the rock of the field? Or can the cold, bursting, flowing waters be torn away?

15 For my people have forgotten me, pouring libations in vain and stumbling in their ways, in the paths of the age, that they might walk through them upon an untrodden road,

16 so that their land should become a desolation and an everlasting hissing. Everyone who passes through it shall be astonished and shake his head.

17 Like a burning wind I shall scatter them before the enemy. I shall show them my back and not my face on the day of their destruction.”

18 And they said, “Come, and let us devise plans against Jeremiah, for the law shall not perish from the priest, counsel from the wise, or the word from the prophet. Come, and let us strike him with the tongue, and let us pay no attention to any of his words.”

19 “Attend to me, O Lord, and hear the voice of my adversaries.

20 Shall evil be rendered for good, because they dug a pit for my soul? Remember that I stood before you to speak good for them and turn your indignation away from them.

21 Therefore give their sons over to famine and lead them into the hands of the sword. Let their wives become childless and widows; let their husbands be slain by death, and let their young men be pierced by the sword in battle.

22 Let a cry be heard from their houses, for you shall suddenly bring the robber upon them, because they dug a pit to capture me and hid snares for my feet.

23 But you, O Lord, know all their counsel against me unto death. Do not show mercy to their iniquity, and let their sin not be blotted out from before your face. Let them fall in your sight; in the time of your fury, deal with them.”

CHAPTER 19

1 Thus says the Lord: Go and take an earthenware flask from the potter, with some of the elders of the people and some of the elders of the priests.

2 Go forth to the valley of the son of Ennom, which is beside the entrance of the Earthenware Gate, and there proclaim the words that I shall speak to you.

3 And you shall say: “Hear the word of the Lord, kings of Juda and inhabitants of Jerusalem. Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I shall bring an affliction upon this place such that the ears of everyone who hears of it shall ring,

4 because they forsook me, made this place foreign, and poured libations in it to strange gods whom neither they nor their fathers nor the kings of Juda knew; and they filled this place with the blood of innocents.

5 They built the high places of the Baals to burn their sons with fire as holocausts to the Baals—things I did not command or speak, nor did they rise into my heart.

6 Therefore behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when this place shall no longer be called Topheth and the valley of the son of Ennom, but the Valley of Slaughter.

7 I shall scatter the counsel of Juda and Jerusalem in this place, and I shall overthrow them by the sword before their enemies and by the hand of those who seek their souls; and I shall give their corpses as food for the birds of heaven and the beasts of the earth.

8 I shall make this city an astonishment and a hissing. Everyone who passes through it shall be astonished and hiss over all its wounds.

9 I shall feed them with the flesh of their sons and the flesh of their daughters; and each shall eat the flesh of his friend in the siege and anguish with which their enemies and those who seek their souls shall enclose them.”

10 And you shall break the flask before the eyes of the men who go with you.

11 And you shall say to them: “Thus says the Lord of hosts: So shall I break this people and this city, as a potter’s vessel is broken and can no longer be restored; and they shall be buried in Topheth because there is no other place for burial.

12 Thus shall I do to this place, says the Lord, and to its inhabitants; and I shall make this city like Topheth.

13 The houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Juda shall be unclean like the place of Topheth—all the houses upon whose rooftops they sacrificed to all the host of heaven and poured libations to strange gods.”

14 Then Jeremiah came from Topheth, where the Lord had sent him to prophesy; and he stood in the court of the house of the Lord and said to all the people:

15 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: “Behold, I shall bring upon this city and upon all its towns every evil that I have spoken against it, because they hardened their neck so that they would not hear my words.”

CHAPTER 20

1 And Phassur son of Emmer, the priest who had been appointed prince in the house of the Lord, heard Jeremiah prophesying these words.

2 And Phassur struck Jeremiah the prophet and put him in the stocks that were at the upper gate of Benjamin, in the house of the Lord.

3 And when morning dawned the next day, Phassur brought Jeremiah out of the stocks; and Jeremiah said to him, “The Lord has not called your name Phassur, but Terror All Around.

4 For thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall give you over to terror, you and all your friends. They shall fall by the sword of their enemies, and your eyes shall see it. I shall give all Juda into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall lead them into Babylon and strike them with the sword.

5 And I shall give all the substance of this city, all its labor and every precious thing, and all the treasures of the kings of Juda into the hand of their enemies. They shall plunder them, take them, and carry them into Babylon.

6 But you, Phassur, and all the inhabitants of your house shall go into captivity. You shall come to Babylon, and there you shall die; there you shall be buried, you and all your friends to whom you prophesied falsehood.”

7 “You seduced me, O Lord, and I was seduced. You were stronger than I, and you prevailed. I have become a derision all day; everyone mocks me.

8 For long now I have spoken, crying out against iniquity and proclaiming devastation; and the word of the Lord has become a reproach and a derision to me all day.

9 And I said, ‘I shall not remember him, nor shall I speak any longer in his name.’ But it became in my heart like a raging fire shut up in my bones; and I fainted, unable to bear it.

10 For I heard the insults of many and terror all around: ‘Persecute him, and let us persecute him,’ from all the men who had been at peace with me and guarded at my side. ‘Perhaps he may be deceived, and we shall prevail against him and take vengeance upon him.’

11 But the Lord is with me like a mighty warrior; therefore those who persecute me shall fall and be powerless. They shall be exceedingly confounded because they did not understand—an everlasting reproach that shall never be blotted out.

12 And you, O Lord of hosts, tester of the just, who see the reins and the heart, let me, I pray, see your vengeance upon them, for to you I have revealed my cause.

13 Sing to the Lord; praise the Lord, for he has delivered the soul of the poor from the hand of the wicked.

14 Accursed be the day on which I was born! Let the day on which my mother bore me not be blessed!

15 Accursed be the man who announced to my father, saying, ‘A male child has been born to you,’ and made him rejoice as with gladness!

16 Let that man be like the cities the Lord overthrew and did not repent. Let him hear a cry in the morning and wailing at midday,

17 because he did not kill me from the womb, so that my mother would have become my sepulcher and her womb an everlasting conception.

18 Why did I come forth from the womb, that I should see labor and sorrow and my days be consumed in confusion?”

CHAPTER 21

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord when King Sedecias sent to him Phassur son of Melchias and the priest Sophonias son of Maasias, saying:

2 “Inquire of the Lord for us, for Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, is waging war against us. Perhaps the Lord may act with us according to all his wonders, and he may withdraw from us.”

3 And Jeremiah said to them: “Thus you shall say to Sedecias:

4 Thus says the Lord God of Israel: Behold, I shall turn back the weapons of war that are in your hands, with which you fight against the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans who besiege you around the walls; and I shall gather them into the midst of this city.

5 And I myself shall fight against you with outstretched hand and mighty arm, in fury and indignation and great wrath.

6 I shall strike the inhabitants of this city; men and beasts shall die by a great pestilence.

7 And after these things, says the Lord, I shall give Sedecias king of Juda, his servants, his people, and those left in this city from pestilence and sword and famine into the hand of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, into the hand of their enemies and the hand of those who seek their soul. He shall strike them with the edge of the sword and shall not be moved, spare, or have mercy.

8 And to this people you shall say: Thus says the Lord: Behold, I place before you the way of life and the way of death.

9 Whoever remains in this city shall die by sword and famine and pestilence; but whoever goes forth and flees to the Chaldeans who besiege you shall live, and his soul shall be to him like spoil.

10 For I have set my face upon this city for evil and not for good, says the Lord. It shall be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire.

11 And to the house of the king of Juda: Hear the words of the Lord,

12 O house of David. Thus says the Lord: Judge judgment in the morning and deliver him who is violently oppressed from the hand of the oppressor, lest perhaps my indignation go forth like fire and be kindled, with no one to extinguish it, because of the wickedness of your pursuits.

13 Behold, I am against you, inhabitant of the solid and level valley, says the Lord—you who say, ‘Who shall strike us, and who shall enter our houses?’

14 I shall visit you according to the fruit of your pursuits, says the Lord; and I shall kindle a fire in its forest, and it shall devour everything around it.”

CHAPTER 22

1 Thus says the Lord: Descend into the house of the king of Juda, and there you shall speak this word.

2 And you shall say: “Hear the word of the Lord, O king of Juda who sits upon the throne of David—you and your servants and your people who enter through these gates.

3 Thus says the Lord: Practice judgment and justice; deliver him who is violently oppressed from the hand of the oppressor. Do not grieve or iniquitously oppress the stranger, the orphan, or the widow; and do not shed innocent blood in this place.

4 For if, doing, you do this word, kings of the lineage of David who sit upon his throne shall enter through the gates of this house, riding in chariots and upon horses—they and their servants and their people.

5 But if you will not hear these words, I have sworn by myself, says the Lord, that this house shall become a solitude.

6 For thus says the Lord concerning the house of the king of Juda: You are Galaad to me, the head of Lebanon; surely I shall make you a solitude, uninhabitable cities.

7 And I shall sanctify against you a man who destroys, along with his weapons; they shall cut down your choice cedars and cast them headlong into the fire.

8 Many nations shall pass through this city, and each shall say to his neighbor, ‘Why has the Lord done this to this great city?’

9 And they shall answer, ‘Because they forsook the covenant of the Lord their God, adored strange gods, and served them.’

10 Do not weep for the dead or mourn over him with weeping; lament for him who goes forth, for he shall return no more and shall not see the land of his birth.

11 For thus says the Lord concerning Sellum son of Josias, king of Juda, who reigned in place of his father Josias and who went forth from this place: He shall return here no more,

12 but in the place to which I carried him away, there he shall die, and he shall see this land no more.

13 Woe to him who builds his house in injustice and his upper rooms not in judgment, who oppresses his friend without cause and does not render him his wages,

14 who says, ‘I shall build for myself a broad house and spacious upper rooms,’ who opens windows for himself, makes cedar paneling, and paints it with red pigment.

15 Shall you reign because you compare yourself to cedar? Did your father not eat and drink and practice judgment and justice, when it was well with him?

16 He judged the cause of the poor and needy for his good. Was this not because he knew me? says the Lord.

17 But your eyes and your heart are toward avarice, toward shedding innocent blood, toward oppression, and toward the course of evil work.

18 Therefore thus says the Lord concerning Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda: They shall not lament for him, ‘Alas, brother!’ and ‘Alas, sister!’ They shall not cry out for him, ‘Alas, lord!’ and ‘Alas, glorious one!’

19 He shall be buried with the burial of an ass, rotted and cast outside the gates of Jerusalem.

20 Ascend Lebanon and cry out; give your voice in Basan and cry to those passing by, for all your lovers have been crushed.

21 I spoke to you in your abundance, and you said, ‘I shall not hear.’ This has been your way from your youth, for you did not hear my voice.

22 The wind shall pasture all your shepherds, and your lovers shall go into captivity; then you shall be confounded and blush because of all your wickedness.

23 You who sit in Lebanon and nest in the cedars, how you have groaned when pains came upon you, like the pains of a woman in labor!

24 As I live, says the Lord, even if Jechonias son of Joakim, king of Juda, were a ring upon my right hand, from there I would tear him away.

25 I shall give you into the hand of those who seek your soul, into the hand of those whose face you fear, into the hand of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and into the hand of the Chaldeans.

26 I shall cast you and your mother who bore you into a foreign land in which you were not born, and there you shall die.

27 And to the land to which they lift up their soul to return, there they shall not return.

28 Is this man Jechonias an earthenware vessel, broken? Is he a vessel without any delight? Why have he and his seed been cast away and thrown into a land they did not know?

29 O earth, earth, earth, hear the word of the Lord.

30 Thus says the Lord: Write this man as sterile, a man who shall not prosper in his days; for there shall not be a man from his seed who sits upon the throne of David and holds power any longer in Juda.”

CHAPTER 23

1 “Woe to the shepherds who destroy and tear apart the flock of my pasture! says the Lord.

2 Therefore thus says the Lord God of Israel to the shepherds who pasture my people: You have scattered my flock and cast them out, and you did not visit them. Behold, I shall visit upon you the wickedness of your pursuits, says the Lord.

3 And I shall gather the remnant of my flock from all the lands to which I cast them; I shall return them to their fields, and they shall grow and multiply.

4 I shall raise up shepherds over them, and they shall pasture them. They shall fear no more and shall not be terrified, and none shall be sought from their number, says the Lord.

5 Behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when I shall raise up for David a just Branch. A King shall reign and shall be wise, and he shall practice judgment and justice in the land.

6 In those days Juda shall be saved, and Israel shall dwell confidently; and this is the name by which they shall call him: The Lord Our Just One.

7 Therefore behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when they shall no longer say, ‘The Lord lives, who brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt,’

8 but, ‘The Lord lives, who brought out and led back the seed of the house of Israel from the land of the north and from all the lands to which I had cast them’; and they shall dwell in their own land.

9 Concerning the prophets: My heart has been crushed within me; all my bones have trembled. I have become like a drunken man and like a man soaked with wine, before the face of the Lord and before the face of his holy words.

10 For the land is filled with adulterers; because of the curse the land has mourned, and the fields of the desert have dried up. Their course has become evil, and their strength unlike what is right.

11 For prophet and priest are polluted, and even in my house I have found their evil, says the Lord.

12 Therefore their way shall be like a slippery place in darkness; they shall be driven and shall fall within it, for I shall bring evils upon them, the year of their visitation, says the Lord.

13 And among the prophets of Samaria I saw foolishness: they prophesied in Baal and deceived my people Israel.

14 And among the prophets of Jerusalem I saw the likeness of adulterers and the path of falsehood. They strengthened the hands of the most wicked so that no one would return from his wickedness. They have all become to me like Sodom, and its inhabitants like Gomorrha.

15 Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts concerning the prophets: Behold, I shall feed them wormwood and give them gall to drink, for pollution has gone forth from the prophets of Jerusalem over the whole land.

16 Thus says the Lord of hosts: Do not hear the words of the prophets who prophesy to you and deceive you. They speak a vision of their own heart, not from the mouth of the Lord.

17 They say to those who blaspheme me, ‘The Lord has spoken: Peace shall be yours’; and to everyone who walks in the perversity of his own heart they have said, ‘Evil shall not come upon you.’

18 For who has stood in the counsel of the Lord and seen and heard his word? Who has considered his word and heard it?

19 Behold, a whirlwind of the Lord’s indignation shall go forth, and a bursting tempest shall come upon the head of the impious.

20 The fury of the Lord shall not return until he acts and until he fulfills the purpose of his heart. In the last days you shall understand his counsel.

21 I did not send the prophets, yet they ran; I did not speak to them, yet they prophesied.

22 If they had stood in my counsel and made my words known to my people, I surely would have turned them from their evil way and from their most wicked thoughts.

23 Do you think I am God only nearby, says the Lord, and not God from afar?

24 If a man hides in secret places, shall I not see him? says the Lord. Do I not fill heaven and earth? says the Lord.

25 I have heard what the prophets said, prophesying falsehood in my name and saying, ‘I dreamed, I dreamed.’

26 How long shall this be in the heart of the prophets who foretell falsehood and prophesy the seductions of their own heart?

27 They desire to make my people forget my name through the dreams that each recounts to his neighbor, just as their fathers forgot my name because of Baal.

28 Let the prophet who has a dream recount the dream; and let him who has my word speak my word truly. What has chaff to do with wheat? says the Lord.

29 Are not my words like fire, says the Lord, and like a hammer crushing rock?

30 Therefore behold, I am against the prophets, says the Lord, who steal my words, each from his neighbor.

31 Behold, I am against the prophets, says the Lord, who take up their tongues and say, ‘The Lord says.’

32 Behold, I am against the prophets who dream falsehood, says the Lord, who recounted these things and seduced my people by their falsehood and their wonders, though I did not send or command them. They have profited this people nothing, says the Lord.

33 Therefore if this people, or a prophet, or a priest asks you, saying, ‘What is the burden of the Lord?’ you shall say to them, ‘You are the burden, for I shall cast you away, says the Lord.’

34 And the prophet and the priest and the people who say, ‘The burden of the Lord’—I shall visit that man and his house.

35 Thus shall each of you say to his neighbor and to his brother: ‘What has the Lord answered?’ and ‘What has the Lord spoken?’

36 And ‘the burden of the Lord’ shall no longer be remembered, for each man’s own word shall be his burden, and you have perverted the words of the living God, the Lord of hosts, our God.

37 Thus you shall say to the prophet: ‘What has the Lord answered you?’ and ‘What has the Lord spoken?’

38 But if you say, ‘The burden of the Lord,’ therefore thus says the Lord: Because you have said this expression, ‘The burden of the Lord,’ though I sent to you, saying, ‘Do not say, “The burden of the Lord,”’

39 therefore behold, I shall take you up and carry you away; and I shall forsake you and the city that I gave to you and your fathers, casting you away from my face.

40 And I shall give you over to everlasting reproach and eternal disgrace, which shall never be blotted out by oblivion.”

CHAPTER 24

1 The Lord showed me, and behold, two baskets full of figs had been placed before the temple of the Lord, after Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon had carried away Jechonias son of Joakim, king of Juda, along with his princes, the artisan, and the enclosure-builder from Jerusalem and brought them into Babylon.

2 One basket held exceedingly good figs, like figs of the first season are accustomed to be; and one basket held exceedingly bad figs, which could not be eaten because they were bad.

3 And the Lord said to me, “What do you see, Jeremiah?” And I said, “Figs: the good figs are very good, and the bad are very bad, which cannot be eaten because they are bad.”

4 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

5 “Thus says the Lord God of Israel: As these figs are good, so shall I acknowledge for good the migration of Juda, whom I sent from this place into the land of the Chaldeans.

6 I shall set my eyes upon them to be appeased, and I shall lead them back into this land. I shall build them and not destroy; I shall plant them and not uproot.

7 I shall give them a heart to know me, that I am the Lord; they shall be my people, and I shall be their God, for they shall return to me with their whole heart.

8 And as the exceedingly bad figs cannot be eaten because they are bad, thus says the Lord: So shall I give up Sedecias king of Juda, his princes, the remnant of Jerusalem who have remained in this city, and those who dwell in the land of Egypt.

9 I shall give them over to vexation and affliction among all the kingdoms of the earth, as a reproach, a parable, a proverb, and a curse in all the places to which I have cast them.

10 And I shall send among them sword and famine and pestilence until they are consumed from the land that I gave to them and their fathers.”

CHAPTER 25

1 The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Juda in the fourth year of Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda—which was the first year of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon—

2 which Jeremiah the prophet spoke to all the people of Juda and to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying:

3 From the thirteenth year of Josias son of Amon, king of Juda, even to this day—this is the twenty-third year—the word of the Lord has come to me; and I spoke to you, rising in the night and speaking, but you did not hear.

4 And the Lord sent to you all his servants the prophets, rising at dawn and sending them, but you did not hear or incline your ears to listen,

5 when he said: “Let each return from his evil way and from your most wicked thoughts, and you shall dwell in the land that the Lord gave to you and your fathers, from age unto age.

6 Do not go after strange gods to serve and adore them; do not provoke me to wrath with the works of your hands, and I shall not afflict you.”

7 But you did not hear me, says the Lord; instead, you provoked me to wrath with the works of your hands, to your own evil.

8 Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts: Because you did not hear my words,

9 behold, I shall send and take all the kindreds of the north, says the Lord, and Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, my servant; and I shall bring them upon this land and its inhabitants and upon all the nations around it. I shall kill them and make them an astonishment, a hissing, and everlasting solitudes.

10 I shall destroy from among them the voice of joy and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voice of the millstone and the light of the lamp.

11 This whole land shall become a solitude and an astonishment, and all these nations shall serve the king of Babylon for seventy years.

12 And when the seventy years have been fulfilled, I shall visit their iniquity upon the king of Babylon and upon that nation, says the Lord, and upon the land of the Chaldeans; and I shall make it everlasting solitudes.

13 I shall bring upon that land all my words that I spoke against it, everything written in this book, all that Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations,

14 because they served them, though they were many nations and great kings; and I shall repay them according to their works and according to the deeds of their hands.

15 For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Take from my hand the cup of the wine of this fury, and you shall give it to drink to all the nations to which I shall send you.

16 They shall drink, be troubled, and become mad before the face of the sword that I shall send among them.

17 And I took the cup from the hand of the Lord and gave it to drink to all the nations to which the Lord sent me:

18 to Jerusalem and the cities of Juda, its kings and its princes, to make them a solitude, an astonishment, a hissing, and a curse, as it is this day;

19 to Pharaoh king of Egypt, his servants, his princes, and all his people;

20 and universally to all: all the kings of the land of Ausitis, all the kings of the land of the Philistines, Ascalon, Gaza, Accaron, and the remnant of Azotus;

21 and Idumea, Moab, and the sons of Ammon;

22 and all the kings of Tyre, all the kings of Sidon, and the kings of the land of the islands beyond the sea;

23 and Dedan, Thema, Buz, and all who have their hair cut round;

24 and all the kings of Arabia and all the kings of the west who dwell in the desert;

25 and all the kings of Zambri, all the kings of Elam, and all the kings of the Medes;

26 and all the kings of the north, near and far, each against his brother; and all the kingdoms of the earth that are upon its face. And the king of Sesach shall drink after them.

27 And you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Drink, become drunk, vomit, fall, and do not rise before the face of the sword that I shall send among you.

28 And when they refuse to receive the cup from your hand to drink, you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord of hosts: Drinking, you shall drink.

29 For behold, I shall begin to afflict the city upon which my name has been invoked; and shall you be as innocent and exempt? You shall not be exempt, for I am calling the sword upon all the inhabitants of the earth, says the Lord of hosts.

30 And you shall prophesy all these words to them and say: “The Lord shall roar from on high and give his voice from his holy habitation. Roaring, he shall roar over his beauty; a shout like that of those treading the winepress shall be sung against all the inhabitants of the earth.

31 The sound has reached even to the ends of the earth, for the Lord has judgment with the nations; he himself enters judgment with all flesh. I have delivered the impious to the sword, says the Lord.

32 Thus says the Lord of hosts: Behold, affliction shall go forth from nation to nation, and a great whirlwind shall go forth from the extremities of the earth.

33 On that day those slain by the Lord shall lie from one end of the earth even to its other end. They shall not be mourned, gathered, or buried; they shall lie as dung upon the face of the earth.

34 Wail, O shepherds, and cry out; sprinkle yourselves with ashes, O nobles of the flock, for your days have been fulfilled for slaughter and your scatterings, and you shall fall like precious vessels.

35 Flight shall perish from the shepherds and salvation from the nobles of the flock.

36 A voice of the cry of the shepherds and the wailing of the nobles of the flock, because the Lord has devastated their pastures.

37 The fields of peace have become silent before the face of the wrath of the fury of the Lord.

38 Like a lion he has forsaken his shelter, for their land has become a desolation before the face of the wrath of the dove and before the face of the wrath of the fury of the Lord.”

CHAPTER 26

1 At the beginning of the reign of Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda, this word came from the Lord, saying:

2 Thus says the Lord: “Stand in the court of the house of the Lord and speak to all the cities of Juda, from which they come to adore in the house of the Lord, all the words I commanded you to speak to them. Do not withhold a word,

3 if perhaps they may hear and each may return from his evil way, and I may repent of the evil I purpose to do to them because of the wickedness of their pursuits.

4 And you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord: If you will not hear me, to walk in my law that I gave you,

5 and to hear the words of my servants the prophets whom I sent to you, rising in the night and directing them, though you did not hear,

6 I shall make this house like Silo, and I shall make this city a curse to all the nations of the earth.”

7 And the priests and the prophets and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of the Lord.

8 And when Jeremiah had finished speaking everything the Lord had commanded him to speak to all the people, the priests and the prophets and all the people seized him, saying, “Dying, you shall die.

9 Why has he prophesied in the name of the Lord, saying, ‘This house shall be like Silo, and this city shall be desolated so that there is no inhabitant’?” And all the people gathered against Jeremiah in the house of the Lord.

10 And the princes of Juda heard these words and ascended from the king’s house to the house of the Lord; and they sat at the entrance of the new gate of the house of the Lord.

11 And the priests and the prophets spoke to the princes and to all the people, saying, “The judgment of death is for this man, for he prophesied against this city, as you have heard with your ears.”

12 And Jeremiah said to all the princes and to all the people: “The Lord sent me to prophesy against this house and this city all the words you have heard.

13 Now therefore make your ways and pursuits good, and hear the voice of the Lord your God; and the Lord shall repent of the evil he spoke against you.

14 But as for me, behold, I am in your hands. Do to me what is good and right in your eyes.

15 Nevertheless, know and understand that if you kill me, you shall deliver innocent blood against yourselves, against this city, and against its inhabitants; for in truth the Lord sent me to you to speak all these words in your ears.”

16 And the princes and all the people said to the priests and the prophets: “There is no judgment of death for this man, for he has spoken to us in the name of the Lord our God.”

17 Then men from the elders of the land arose and spoke to the whole assembly of the people, saying:

18 “Micheas of Morasthi was a prophet in the days of Ezechias king of Juda, and he said to all the people of Juda: ‘Thus says the Lord of hosts: Zion shall be plowed like a field, Jerusalem shall become a heap of stones, and the mountain of the house like the high places of forests.’

19 Did Ezechias king of Juda and all Juda condemn him to death? Did they not fear the Lord and entreat the face of the Lord, and the Lord repented of the evil he had spoken against them? Therefore we are committing a great evil against our own souls.”

20 There was also a man prophesying in the name of the Lord, Urias son of Semei from Cariathiarim; and he prophesied against this city and against this land according to all the words of Jeremiah.

21 King Joakim and all his mighty men and princes heard these words, and the king sought to kill him. Urias heard and was afraid; he fled and entered Egypt.

22 And King Joakim sent men into Egypt—Elnathan son of Achobor and men with him—into Egypt.

23 They brought Urias out of Egypt and led him to King Joakim; and he struck him with the sword and cast his corpse into the sepulchers of the ignoble common people.

24 Therefore the hand of Ahicam son of Saphan was with Jeremiah, so that he would not be delivered into the hands of the people and they would not kill him.

CHAPTER 27

1 At the beginning of the reign of Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda, this word came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying:

2 Thus says the Lord to me: “Make bonds and chains for yourself, and place them upon your neck.

3 Send them to the king of Edom, the king of Moab, the king of the sons of Ammon, the king of Tyre, and the king of Sidon, by the hand of the messengers who have come to Jerusalem to Sedecias king of Juda.

4 And you shall command them to speak to their lords: Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Thus shall you say to your lords:

5 I made the earth and the men and beasts that are upon the face of the earth by my great strength and outstretched arm, and I gave it to him who was pleasing in my eyes.

6 And now therefore I have given all these lands into the hand of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, my servant; moreover, I have given him the beasts of the field to serve him.

7 All nations shall serve him, his son, and his son’s son, until the time of his land and of himself comes; and many nations and great kings shall serve him.

8 But the nation and kingdom that will not serve Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and whoever will not bend his neck beneath the yoke of the king of Babylon, I shall visit that nation with sword and famine and pestilence, says the Lord, until I consume them by his hand.

9 Therefore do not hear your prophets, diviners, dreamers, soothsayers, and sorcerers, who say to you, ‘You shall not serve the king of Babylon.’

10 For they prophesy falsehood to you, to make you far from your land and to cast you out so that you perish.

11 But the nation that subjects its neck beneath the yoke of the king of Babylon and serves him, I shall leave in its own land, says the Lord, and it shall cultivate and dwell in it.

12 And I spoke to Sedecias king of Juda according to all these words, saying: Subject your necks beneath the yoke of the king of Babylon; serve him and his people, and you shall live.

13 Why shall you and your people die by sword and famine and pestilence, as the Lord has spoken concerning the nation that refuses to serve the king of Babylon?

14 Do not hear the words of the prophets who say to you, ‘You shall not serve the king of Babylon,’ for they themselves speak falsehood to you.

15 For I did not send them, says the Lord; and they prophesy falsely in my name so that they may cast you out and you may perish, both you and the prophets who foretell to you.

16 And to the priests and to this people I spoke, saying: Thus says the Lord: Do not hear the words of your prophets who prophesy to you, saying, ‘Behold, the vessels of the Lord shall now return quickly from Babylon,’ for they prophesy falsehood to you.

17 Therefore do not hear them; instead, serve the king of Babylon so that you may live. Why should this city be given over to solitude?

18 And if they are prophets and the word of the Lord is within them, let them meet the Lord of hosts so that the vessels left in the house of the Lord, in the house of the king of Juda, and in Jerusalem may not go into Babylon.

19 For thus says the Lord of hosts concerning the pillars, the sea, the bases, and the remainder of the vessels that remain in this city,

20 which Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon did not take when he carried Jechonias son of Joakim, king of Juda, from Jerusalem into Babylon, along with all the nobles of Juda and Jerusalem.

21 For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning the vessels left in the house of the Lord, in the house of the king of Juda, and in Jerusalem:

22 They shall be carried into Babylon, and there they shall remain until the day of their visitation, says the Lord. Then I shall cause them to be brought back and restored to this place.”

CHAPTER 28

1 And it happened in that year, at the beginning of the reign of Sedecias king of Juda, in the fourth year, in the fifth month, that Hananias son of Azur, a prophet from Gabaon, spoke to me in the house of the Lord, before the priests and all the people, saying:

2 “Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: I have crushed the yoke of the king of Babylon.

3 Yet two years of days, and I shall cause all the vessels of the house of the Lord that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon took from this place and carried into Babylon to be brought back to this place.

4 And Jechonias son of Joakim, king of Juda, and all the migration of Juda who entered Babylon, I shall return to this place, says the Lord, for I shall crush the yoke of the king of Babylon.”

5 And Jeremiah the prophet spoke to Hananias the prophet before the eyes of the priests and before the eyes of all the people who stood in the house of the Lord.

6 And Jeremiah the prophet said: “Amen! So may the Lord do. May the Lord raise up your words that you have prophesied, that the vessels may be brought back into the house of the Lord and the whole migration from Babylon to this place.

7 Nevertheless, hear this word that I speak in your ears and in the ears of all the people:

8 The prophets who were before me and before you from the beginning prophesied concerning many lands and great kingdoms, concerning battle and affliction and famine.

9 The prophet who has foretold peace—when his word comes to pass, the prophet whom the Lord truly sent shall be known.”

10 And Hananias the prophet took the chain from the neck of Jeremiah the prophet and broke it.

11 And Hananias spoke before all the people, saying: “Thus says the Lord: In this way, after two years of days, I shall break the yoke of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon from the neck of all nations.”

12 And Jeremiah the prophet went on his way. Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah after Hananias the prophet had broken the chain from the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, saying:

13 “Go, and you shall say to Hananias: Thus says the Lord: You have crushed chains of wood, and you shall make chains of iron in their place.

14 For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: I have placed an iron yoke upon the neck of all these nations, that they may serve Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and they shall serve him; moreover, I have given him the beasts of the earth.”

15 And Jeremiah the prophet said to Hananias the prophet: “Hear, Hananias. The Lord did not send you, and you have caused this people to trust in falsehood.

16 Therefore thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall send you away from the face of the earth. This year you shall die, for you have spoken against the Lord.”

17 And Hananias the prophet died in that year, in the seventh month.

CHAPTER 29

1 And these are the words of the letter that Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem to the remnant of the elders of the migration, to the priests, to the prophets, and to all the people whom Nabuchodonosor had carried from Jerusalem into Babylon,

2 after King Jechonias and the queen and the eunuchs and the princes of Juda and Jerusalem and the artisan and the enclosure-builder had gone forth from Jerusalem.

3 It was sent by the hand of Elasa son of Saphan and Gamarias son of Helcias, whom Sedecias king of Juda sent to Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon in Babylon, saying:

4 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, to the whole migration whom I carried from Jerusalem into Babylon:

5 Build houses and inhabit them; plant gardens and eat their fruit.

6 Take wives and beget sons and daughters. Give wives to your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, that they may bear sons and daughters. Multiply there, and do not become few in number.

7 Seek the peace of the city to which I caused you to migrate, and pray for it to the Lord, for in its peace shall be peace for you.

8 For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Let not your prophets who are in your midst and your diviners seduce you, and do not attend to your dreams that you dream,

9 for they prophesy falsely to you in my name, and I did not send them, says the Lord.

10 For thus says the Lord: When seventy years begin to be fulfilled in Babylon, I shall visit you and raise up my good word over you, that I may lead you back to this place.

11 For I know the thoughts that I think concerning you, says the Lord—thoughts of peace and not of affliction, that I may give you an end and patience.

12 You shall invoke me and go; you shall pray to me, and I shall hear you.

13 You shall seek me and find me when you seek me with your whole heart.

14 And I shall be found by you, says the Lord. I shall lead back your captivity and gather you from all nations and from all the places to which I expelled you, says the Lord; and I shall cause you to return from the place to which I caused you to migrate.

15 Because you said, ‘The Lord has raised up prophets for us in Babylon’—

16 for thus says the Lord concerning the king who sits upon the throne of David and concerning all the people who inhabit this city, your brothers who did not go forth with you in the migration:

17 thus says the Lord of hosts: Behold, I shall send among them sword and famine and pestilence, and I shall make them like bad figs that cannot be eaten because they are exceedingly bad.

18 I shall pursue them with sword and famine and pestilence; and I shall give them over to vexation among all the kingdoms of the earth, as a curse and an astonishment and a hissing and a reproach to all the nations to which I cast them,

19 because they did not hear my words, says the Lord, which I sent to them through my servants the prophets, rising in the night and sending them; and you did not hear, says the Lord.

20 Therefore hear the word of the Lord, all you of the migration whom I sent from Jerusalem into Babylon.

21 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning Achab son of Colias and Sedecias son of Maasias, who prophesy falsely to you in my name: Behold, I shall deliver them into the hands of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and he shall strike them before your eyes.

22 And from them a curse shall be taken up by all the migration of Juda in Babylon, saying, ‘May the Lord make you like Sedecias and like Achab, whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire,’

23 because they committed foolishness in Israel, committed adultery with the wives of their friends, and falsely spoke a word in my name that I did not command them. I am Judge and Witness, says the Lord.

24 And to Semeias the Nehelamite you shall say:

25 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Because you sent letters in your own name to all the people who are in Jerusalem, to Sophonias son of Maasias the priest, and to all the priests, saying:

26 ‘The Lord made you priest in place of Jojada the priest, that you might be prince in the house of the Lord over every frenzied and prophesying man, to put him in the stocks and in prison.

27 And now why have you not rebuked Jeremiah the Anathothite, who prophesies to you?

28 For concerning this he sent to us in Babylon, saying: “It shall be long. Build houses and inhabit them; plant gardens and eat their fruit.”’

29 Therefore Sophonias the priest read this letter in the ears of Jeremiah the prophet.

30 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying:

31 “Send to the whole migration, saying: Thus says the Lord concerning Semeias the Nehelamite: Because Semeias prophesied to you though I did not send him, and he caused you to trust in falsehood, 32 therefore thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall visit Semeias the Nehelamite and his seed. He shall have no man dwelling in the midst of this people, and he shall not see the good that I shall do for my people, says the Lord, because he spoke transgression against the Lord.”

CHAPTER 30

1 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying:

2 Thus says the Lord God of Israel: “Write for yourself in a book all the words that I have spoken to you.

3 For behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when I shall turn the captivity of my people Israel and Juda, says the Lord; and I shall return them to the land that I gave their fathers, and they shall possess it.”

4 And these are the words that the Lord spoke to Israel and to Juda:

5 “For thus says the Lord: We have heard a voice of terror—fear, and there is no peace.

6 Ask and see whether a male gives birth. Why then have I seen every man’s hand upon his loins like a woman in labor, and all faces turned yellow-green?

7 Woe! For that day is great, and there is none like it; it is the time of Jacob’s tribulation, yet from it he shall be saved.

8 And it shall be on that day, says the Lord of hosts, that I shall crush his yoke from your neck and burst his bonds; and strangers shall rule over him no more.

9 Instead, they shall serve the Lord their God and David their king, whom I shall raise up for them.

10 Therefore do not fear, Jacob my servant, says the Lord, and do not be terrified, O Israel. For behold, I shall save you from a distant land and your seed from the land of their captivity. Jacob shall return and rest and abound in every good thing, and there shall be no one whom he fears.

11 For I am with you, says the Lord, to save you. I shall bring complete consummation upon all the nations among which I scattered you, but I shall not bring you to complete consummation. I shall chastise you in judgment, so that you do not appear innocent to yourself.

12 For thus says the Lord: Your fracture is incurable; your wound is exceedingly grievous.

13 There is no one to judge your judgment so as to bind it; there is no benefit of healings for you.

14 All your lovers have forgotten you and shall not seek you. For I struck you with the wound of an enemy, with cruel chastisement; because of the multitude of your iniquity, your sins have become hard.

15 Why do you cry over your destruction? Your pain is incurable. Because of the multitude of your iniquity and because of your hardened sins, I did these things to you.

16 Therefore all who eat you shall be devoured, and all your enemies shall be led into captivity. Those who devastate you shall be devastated, and I shall give all your plunderers over to plunder.

17 For I shall close your scar and heal you from your wounds, says the Lord, because they called you the Outcast: ‘This is Zion, who had no one seeking her.’

18 Thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall turn the captivity of Jacob’s tabernacles and have mercy upon his roofs. The city shall be built upon its height, and the temple shall be founded according to its order.

19 Praise and the voice of those making merry shall go forth from them. I shall multiply them, and they shall not be diminished; I shall glorify them, and they shall not be weakened.

20 His sons shall be as at the beginning, and his assembly shall remain before me; and I shall visit against all who trouble him.

21 His leader shall be from him, and a prince shall be brought forth from his midst. I shall draw him near, and he shall approach me. For who is this who applies his heart to approach me? says the Lord.

22 And you shall be my people, and I shall be your God.

23 Behold, the whirlwind of the Lord, fury going forth, a rushing tempest; it shall rest upon the head of the impious.

24 The Lord shall not turn away the wrath of his indignation until he acts and fulfills the purpose of his heart. In the last days you shall understand these things.”

CHAPTER 31

1 “At that time, says the Lord, I shall be God to all the kindreds of Israel, and they shall be my people.

2 Thus says the Lord: The people who remained from the sword found grace in the desert; Israel shall go to his rest.

3 From afar the Lord appeared to me. ‘And with everlasting love I have loved you; therefore, taking pity, I drew you.

4 Again I shall build you, and you shall be built, O virgin Israel. You shall still be adorned with your timbrels and go forth in the dance of those making merry.

5 You shall still plant vineyards upon the mountains of Samaria. The planters shall plant, and until the time comes they shall not gather the vintage.

6 For there shall be a day when watchmen cry out upon Mount Ephraim: “Arise, and let us ascend to Zion, to the Lord our God.”

7 For thus says the Lord: Exult in gladness, O Jacob, and neigh before the head of the nations. Resound, sing, and say, “Save your people, O Lord, the remnant of Israel.”

8 Behold, I shall bring them from the land of the north and gather them from the ends of the earth. Among them shall be the blind and the lame, the pregnant woman and the woman giving birth together—a great assembly returning here.

9 They shall come in weeping, and in mercy I shall lead them back. I shall lead them by torrents of waters upon a straight way, and they shall not stumble upon it, for I have become a Father to Israel, and Ephraim is my firstborn.

10 Hear the word of the Lord, O nations, and announce it in the islands far away, and say: “He who scattered Israel shall gather him and guard him as a shepherd guards his flock.”

11 For the Lord has redeemed Jacob and delivered him from the hand of one more powerful.

12 They shall come and praise upon Mount Zion, and they shall flow together toward the good things of the Lord—to wheat and wine and oil, and to the offspring of flocks and herds. Their soul shall be like a watered garden, and they shall hunger no more.

13 Then the virgin shall rejoice in the dance, young men and old together. I shall turn their mourning into joy, console them, and make them joyful after their sorrow.

14 I shall inebriate the soul of the priests with richness, and my people shall be filled with my good things, says the Lord.

15 Thus says the Lord: A voice of lamentation has been heard on high—mourning and weeping, Rachel weeping for her sons and refusing to be consoled over them, because they are not.

16 Thus says the Lord: Let your voice rest from weeping and your eyes from tears, for there is a reward for your work, says the Lord, and they shall return from the land of the enemy.

17 And there is hope for your last things, says the Lord, and the sons shall return to their borders.

18 Hearing, I have heard Ephraim migrating: “You chastised me, and I was instructed like an untamed young bull. Turn me, and I shall be turned, for you are the Lord my God.

19 For after you turned me, I repented; and after you showed me, I struck my thigh. I was confounded and blushed because I bore the reproach of my youth.”

20 Is Ephraim an honorable son to me? Is he a delightful child? For from the time I spoke concerning him, I shall still remember him. Therefore my inward parts have been troubled over him; taking pity, I shall have mercy on him, says the Lord.

21 Set up a watchtower for yourself; place bitter signs for yourself; direct your heart toward the straight way upon which you walked. Return, O virgin Israel; return to these your cities.

22 How long shall you be dissolved in delights, O wandering daughter? For the Lord has created a new thing upon the earth: a woman shall encompass a man.

23 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: They shall still say this word in the land of Juda and in its cities when I turn their captivity: “May the Lord bless you, O Beauty of Justice, O holy mountain.”

24 Juda and all its cities shall dwell within it together, the farmers and those driving the flocks.

25 For I have inebriated the weary soul and satisfied every hungry soul.

26 Therefore I was awakened as though from sleep; and I saw, and my sleep was sweet to me.

27 Behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when I shall sow the house of Israel and the house of Juda with the seed of men and the seed of beasts.

28 And as I kept watch over them to uproot and demolish and scatter and destroy and afflict, so shall I keep watch over them to build and plant, says the Lord.

29 In those days they shall no longer say, ‘The fathers ate a sour grape, and the teeth of the sons were set on edge.’

30 Instead, each shall die in his own iniquity; every man who eats a sour grape, his own teeth shall be set on edge.

31 Behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when I shall make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Juda,

32 not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when I took their hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt—a covenant they made void, and I ruled over them, says the Lord.

33 But this shall be the covenant that I shall make with the house of Israel after those days, says the Lord: I shall place my law within their inward parts and write it upon their heart; I shall be their God, and they shall be my people.

34 And a man shall no longer teach his neighbor and a man his brother, saying, ‘Know the Lord,’ for they shall all know me, from their least even to their greatest, says the Lord; for I shall be merciful to their iniquity, and I shall remember their sin no more.

35 Thus says the Lord, who gives the sun for the light of day, the order of the moon and stars for the light of night, who troubles the sea so that its waves resound—the Lord of hosts is his name:

36 If these laws fail before me, says the Lord, then also the seed of Israel shall fail, so that it is no longer a nation before me all days.

37 Thus says the Lord: If the heavens above can be measured and the foundations of the earth below searched out, then I too shall cast away all the seed of Israel because of everything they have done, says the Lord.

38 Behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when the city shall be built for the Lord, from the tower of Hananeel even to the Corner Gate.

39 And the measuring line shall go forth farther in his sight over the hill Gareb and circle Goatha,

40 and the whole valley of corpses and ashes and the entire region of death, even to the torrent Cedron and to the corner of the eastern Horse Gate, shall be Holy to the Lord. It shall not be uprooted or destroyed any more forever.”

CHAPTER 32

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord in the tenth year of Sedecias king of Juda, which was the eighteenth year of Nabuchodonosor.

2 At that time the army of the king of Babylon was besieging Jerusalem, and Jeremiah the prophet was confined in the court of the prison that was in the house of the king of Juda.

3 For Sedecias king of Juda had confined him, saying: “Why do you foretell, saying: ‘Thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall give this city into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall capture it;

4 and Sedecias king of Juda shall not escape from the hand of the Chaldeans, but shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon. His mouth shall speak with that king’s mouth, and his eyes shall see that king’s eyes;

5 and he shall lead Sedecias into Babylon, and there he shall remain until I visit him, says the Lord. But if you fight against the Chaldeans, you shall have no prosperity’?”

6 And Jeremiah said: The word of the Lord came to me, saying:

7 “Behold, Hanameel son of Sellum, your cousin, shall come to you, saying, ‘Buy for yourself my field that is in Anathoth, for the right of kinship belongs to you to buy it.’”

8 And Hanameel, my uncle’s son, came to me according to the word of the Lord, to the vestibule of the prison, and said to me: “Possess my field that is in Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin, for the inheritance belongs to you and you are the kinsman who may possess it.” Then I understood that it was the word of the Lord.

9 And I bought the field that is in Anathoth from Hanameel, my uncle’s son, and weighed out the silver for him: seven staters and ten silver pieces.

10 And I wrote it in a book and sealed it; I summoned witnesses and weighed the silver upon the scale.

11 And I received the deed of possession, sealed with the stipulations and ratifications, and with the signs outside.

12 And I gave the deed of possession to Baruch son of Neri son of Maasias, before the eyes of Hanameel my cousin, before the eyes of the witnesses written in the book of purchase, and before the eyes of all the Jews who sat in the court of the prison.

13 And I commanded Baruch before them, saying:

14 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: “Take these books—this sealed book of purchase and this open book—and place them in an earthenware vessel so that they may remain for many days.

15 For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Houses and fields and vineyards shall still be possessed in this land.”

16 And after I delivered the deed of possession to Baruch son of Neri, I prayed to the Lord, saying:

17 “Alas, alas, alas, O Lord God! Behold, you made heaven and earth by your great strength and outstretched arm; no word shall be difficult for you.

18 You practice mercy toward thousands and repay the iniquity of the fathers into the bosom of their sons after them. Most mighty, great, and powerful—the Lord of hosts is your name.

19 Great in counsel and incomprehensible in thought, your eyes are open upon all the ways of the sons of Adam, to render to each according to his ways and according to the fruit of his inventions.

20 You placed signs and wonders in the land of Egypt even to this day, and in Israel and among men; and you made for yourself a name, as it is this day.

21 You brought your people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and outstretched arm, and with great terror.

22 And you gave them this land, which you swore to their fathers that you would give them, a land flowing with milk and honey.

23 They entered and possessed it, but they did not obey your voice or walk in your law. They did not do all the things you commanded them to do, and all these evils came upon them.

24 Behold, fortifications have been built against the city to capture it, and the city has been given into the hands of the Chaldeans who fight against it, before the face of sword and famine and pestilence. Everything you spoke has happened, as you yourself see.

25 And you say to me, O Lord God, ‘Buy the field with silver and summon witnesses,’ though the city has been given into the hands of the Chaldeans?”

26 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying:

27 “Behold, I am the Lord God of all flesh. Shall any word be difficult for me?

28 Therefore thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall deliver this city into the hands of the Chaldeans and into the hands of the king of Babylon, and they shall capture it.

29 The Chaldeans who fight against this city shall come, kindle it with fire, and burn it, along with the houses upon whose rooftops they sacrificed to Baal and poured libations to strange gods to provoke me.

30 For the children of Israel and the children of Juda have continually done evil in my eyes from their youth. The children of Israel even until now exasperate me with the work of their hands, says the Lord.

31 For this city has been a cause of fury and indignation to me from the day they built it even to this day, when it shall be taken away from my sight,

32 because of the wickedness of the children of Israel and the children of Juda, which they committed to provoke me to wrath—they and their kings, their princes, their priests, their prophets, the men of Juda, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

33 They turned their backs to me and not their faces, though I taught them at dawn and instructed them; and they refused to hear so as to receive discipline.

34 They placed their idols in the house upon which my name has been invoked, that they might pollute it.

35 And they built the high places of Baal that are in the valley of the son of Ennom, to initiate their sons and daughters to Moloch—something I did not command them, nor did it rise into my heart that they should commit this abomination and lead Juda into sin.

36 And now, because of these things, thus says the Lord God of Israel concerning this city, of which you say that it shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon by sword and famine and pestilence:

37 Behold, I shall gather them from all the lands to which I cast them in my fury and my wrath and my great indignation. I shall lead them back to this place and cause them to dwell confidently.

38 They shall be my people, and I shall be their God.

39 I shall give them one heart and one way, that they may fear me all days and that it may be well with them and with their sons after them.

40 I shall make an everlasting covenant with them and shall not cease doing good to them. I shall place the fear of me in their heart so that they do not withdraw from me.

41 I shall rejoice over them when I do good to them, and in truth I shall plant them in this land with my whole heart and my whole soul.

42 For thus says the Lord: As I brought all this great evil upon this people, so shall I bring upon them all the good that I speak concerning them.

43 Fields shall be possessed in this land, of which you say that it is desolate because no man or beast remains and it has been given into the hands of the Chaldeans.

44 Fields shall be bought with money, written in a book, impressed with a seal, and attested by a witness, in the land of Benjamin and around Jerusalem, in the cities of Juda, in the mountain cities, in the cities of the plains, and in the cities toward the south, for I shall turn their captivity, says the Lord.”

CHAPTER 33

1 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah a second time while he was still confined in the court of the prison, saying:

2 “Thus says the Lord, who shall do it and form it and prepare it—the Lord is his name:

3 Cry to me, and I shall hear you; and I shall announce to you great and firm things that you do not know.

4 For thus says the Lord God of Israel concerning the houses of this city and the houses of the king of Juda, which have been destroyed, and concerning the fortifications and the sword

5 of those coming to fight with the Chaldeans and to fill them with the corpses of the men whom I struck in my fury and indignation, hiding my face from this city because of all their wickedness:

6 Behold, I shall close their scar and give health; I shall heal them and reveal to them the supplication of peace and truth.

7 I shall turn the captivity of Juda and the captivity of Jerusalem, and I shall build them as at the beginning.

8 I shall cleanse them from all their iniquity in which they sinned against me, and I shall be merciful to all their iniquities by which they forsook and despised me.

9 And it shall become for me a name and a joy and a praise and an exultation among all the nations of the earth who hear of all the good things I shall do for them; and they shall fear and be troubled over all the good and all the peace that I shall make for them.

10 Thus says the Lord: In this place, which you say is deserted because there is neither man nor beast, in the cities of Juda and outside Jerusalem, which are desolated without man, inhabitant, or livestock, there shall still be heard

11 the voice of joy and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voice of those saying, ‘Confess to the Lord of hosts, for the Lord is good, for his mercy is forever,’ and the voice of those carrying vows into the house of the Lord. For I shall turn the captivity of the land as at the beginning, says the Lord.

12 Thus says the Lord of hosts: In this deserted place, without man or beast, and in all its cities, there shall still be a habitation of shepherds causing their flocks to lie down.

13 In the mountain cities, the cities of the plains, the cities toward the south, the land of Benjamin, the places around Jerusalem, and the cities of Juda, flocks shall still pass beneath the hand of him who counts them, says the Lord.

14 Behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when I shall raise up the good word that I spoke to the house of Israel and to the house of Juda.

15 In those days and at that time I shall cause a Branch of Justice to germinate for David, and he shall practice judgment and justice in the land.

16 In those days Juda shall be saved, and Jerusalem shall dwell confidently; and this is the name by which they shall call him: The Lord Our Just One.

17 For thus says the Lord: There shall not perish from David a man who sits upon the throne of the house of Israel.

18 And from the priests and Levites there shall not perish before my face a man who offers holocausts, burns sacrifice, and slaughters victims all days.”

19 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying:

20 “Thus says the Lord: If my covenant with the day and my covenant with the night can be made void, so that there is no day and night at their appointed time,

21 then my covenant with David my servant can also be made void, so that there is no son from him who reigns upon his throne, and likewise with the Levites and priests, my ministers.

22 As the stars of heaven cannot be numbered and the sand of the sea cannot be measured, so shall I multiply the seed of David my servant and the Levites my ministers.”

23 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying:

24 “Have you not seen what this people has spoken, saying, ‘The two kindreds whom the Lord chose have been cast away’? And they have despised my people, so that it is no longer a nation before them.

25 Thus says the Lord: If I did not establish my covenant between day and night and the laws for heaven and earth,

26 then indeed I shall cast away the seed of Jacob and David my servant, so that I take no princes from his seed over the seed of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. For I shall turn their captivity and have mercy on them.”

CHAPTER 34

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord when Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon and all his army, all the kingdoms of the earth that were beneath the power of his hand, and all the peoples were fighting against Jerusalem and all its cities, saying:

2 Thus says the Lord God of Israel: “Go and speak to Sedecias king of Juda, and you shall say to him: Thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall deliver this city into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire.

3 And you shall not escape from his hand, but shall certainly be captured and delivered into his hand. Your eyes shall see the eyes of the king of Babylon, his mouth shall speak with your mouth, and you shall enter Babylon.

4 Nevertheless, hear the word of the Lord, Sedecias king of Juda. Thus says the Lord to you: You shall not die by the sword,

5 but shall die in peace. As they made burnings for your fathers, the former kings who were before you, so shall they burn for you; and they shall lament for you, ‘Alas, lord!’ For I have spoken the word, says the Lord.”

6 And Jeremiah the prophet spoke all these words to Sedecias king of Juda in Jerusalem.

7 And the army of the king of Babylon was fighting against Jerusalem and against all the cities of Juda that remained, against Lachis and against Azecha; for these fortified cities remained among the cities of Juda.

8 The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord after King Sedecias made a covenant with all the people in Jerusalem, proclaiming

9 that each should set free his male servant and each his female servant, Hebrew man and Hebrew woman, and that they should no longer rule over them—that is, over a Jew and his brother.

10 Therefore all the princes and all the people who had entered the covenant heard that each should set free his male servant and each his female servant and no longer rule over them; therefore they heard and released them.

11 But afterward they turned back and brought back their male and female servants whom they had set free, and subjected them again as male and female servants.

12 And the word of the Lord came from the Lord to Jeremiah, saying:

13 Thus says the Lord God of Israel: “I made a covenant with your fathers on the day I brought them out of the land of Egypt, from the house of servitude, saying:

14 ‘When seven years have been fulfilled, let each release his Hebrew brother who was sold to him. He shall serve you six years, and you shall release him from you as free.’ But your fathers did not hear me or incline their ear.

15 And today you turned and did what is right in my eyes, proclaiming liberty, each to his friend; and you entered a covenant in my sight in the house upon which my name has been invoked.

16 But you turned back and defiled my name; each brought back his male servant and each his female servant, whom you had released to be free and under their own power, and you subjected them to be your male and female servants.

17 Therefore thus says the Lord: You did not hear me, to proclaim liberty, each to his brother and each to his friend. Behold, I proclaim liberty for you, says the Lord—to sword, pestilence, and famine; and I shall give you over to commotion among all the kingdoms of the earth.

18 And I shall give up the men who transgress my covenant and did not observe the words of the covenant to which they assented in my sight—the calf they cut into two parts and passed between its divisions—

19 the princes of Juda and the princes of Jerusalem, the eunuchs and priests, and all the people of the land who passed between the divisions of the calf.

20 I shall give them into the hands of their enemies and into the hands of those who seek their soul, and their corpse shall become food for the birds of heaven and the beasts of the earth.

21 And Sedecias king of Juda and his princes I shall give into the hands of their enemies, into the hands of those who seek their souls, and into the hands of the armies of the king of Babylon who withdrew from you.

22 Behold, I command, says the Lord, and I shall lead them back to this city. They shall fight against it, capture it, and burn it with fire; and I shall make the cities of Juda a solitude without an inhabitant.”

CHAPTER 35

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord in the days of Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda, saying:

2 “Go to the house of the Rechabites and speak to them. Bring them into the house of the Lord, into one chamber of the treasuries, and give them wine to drink.”

3 And I took Jezonias son of Jeremias son of Habsanias, his brothers, all his sons, and the whole house of the Rechabites.

4 And I brought them into the house of the Lord, to the treasury of the sons of Hanan son of Jegedelias, a man of God, which was beside the treasury of the princes, above the treasury of Maasias son of Sellum, who was keeper of the vestibule.

5 And I placed before the sons of the house of the Rechabites bowls full of wine and cups, and I said to them, “Drink wine.”

6 They answered, “We shall not drink wine, for Jonadab son of Rechab, our father, commanded us, saying, ‘You and your sons shall not drink wine forever.

7 You shall not build a house, sow seed, plant vineyards, or possess them; instead, you shall dwell in tabernacles all your days, that you may live many days upon the face of the land in which you sojourn.’

8 Therefore we obeyed the voice of Jonadab son of Rechab, our father, in all the things he commanded us, so that we have not drunk wine all our days—we, our wives, our sons, and our daughters.

9 We did not build houses to inhabit, and we possessed no vineyard or field or seed.

10 Instead, we dwelt in tabernacles and were obedient according to everything Jonadab our father commanded us.

11 But when Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon ascended against our land, we said, ‘Come, and let us enter Jerusalem before the face of the army of the Chaldeans and before the face of the army of Syria’; and we remained in Jerusalem.”

12 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying:

13 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: “Go and say to the men of Juda and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: Will you not receive discipline, that you may obey my words? says the Lord.

14 The words of Jonadab son of Rechab, which he commanded his sons that they should not drink wine, have prevailed; and they have not drunk even to this day, because they obeyed the command of their father. But I spoke to you, rising in the morning and speaking, and you did not obey me.

15 And I sent to you all my servants the prophets, rising at dawn and sending them, and saying: ‘Let each return from his most wicked way, make your pursuits good, and do not follow or worship strange gods; and you shall dwell in the land that I gave to you and your fathers.’ But you did not incline your ear or hear me.

16 Therefore the sons of Jonadab son of Rechab firmly upheld the command of their father that he commanded them, but this people did not obey me.

17 Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I shall bring upon Juda and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem every affliction that I spoke against them, because I spoke to them and they did not hear; I called them and they did not answer me.”

18 But to the house of the Rechabites Jeremiah said: “Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Because you obeyed the command of Jonadab your father, kept all his commandments, and did everything he commanded you,

19 therefore thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: A man from the stock of Jonadab son of Rechab, standing in my sight, shall not fail all days.”

CHAPTER 36

1 And it happened in the fourth year of Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda, that this word came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying:

2 “Take a scroll of a book and write in it all the words that I have spoken to you against Israel and Juda and against all the nations, from the day I spoke to you in the days of Josias even to this day.

3 Perhaps, when the house of Juda hears all the evils I purpose to do to them, each may return from his most wicked way, and I shall be merciful to their iniquity and sin.”

4 Therefore Jeremiah called Baruch son of Nerias, and Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord that he had spoken to him, in the scroll of a book.

5 And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying: “I am confined and cannot enter the house of the Lord.

6 Therefore you enter and read from the scroll in which you wrote from my mouth the words of the Lord, while the people hear in the house of the Lord on the day of fasting. Moreover, you shall read them while all Juda who come from their cities hear.

7 Perhaps their prayer may fall in the sight of the Lord, and each may return from his most wicked way, for great is the fury and indignation that the Lord has spoken against this people.”

8 And Baruch son of Nerias did according to everything Jeremiah the prophet had commanded him, reading from the scroll the words of the Lord in the house of the Lord.

9 And it happened in the fifth year of Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda, in the ninth month, that they proclaimed a fast before the Lord for all the people in Jerusalem and for the whole multitude that had flowed from the cities of Juda into Jerusalem.

10 And Baruch read from the scroll the words of Jeremiah in the house of the Lord, in the treasury of Gamarias son of Saphan the scribe, in the upper vestibule at the entrance of the new gate of the house of the Lord, while all the people heard.

11 When Micheas son of Gamarias son of Saphan heard all the words of the Lord from the book,

12 he descended into the king’s house, to the treasury of the scribe; and behold, all the princes were sitting there: Elisama the scribe, Dalaias son of Semeias, Elnathan son of Achobor, Gamarias son of Saphan, Sedecias son of Hananias, and all the princes.

13 And Micheas announced to them all the words that he had heard while Baruch read from the scroll in the ears of the people.

14 Therefore all the princes sent Judi son of Nathanias son of Selemias son of Chusi to Baruch, saying, “Take in your hand the scroll from which you read while the people heard, and come.” Therefore Baruch son of Nerias took the scroll in his hand and came to them.

15 And they said to him, “Sit and read these things in our ears.” And Baruch read in their ears.

16 Therefore when they had heard all the words, each was astonished toward his neighbor, and they said to Baruch, “We must announce all these words to the king.”

17 And they questioned him, saying, “Tell us how you wrote all these words from his mouth.”

18 And Baruch said to them, “From his mouth he spoke all these words to me as though reading, and I wrote them in the scroll with ink.”

19 And the princes said to Baruch, “Go and hide, you and Jeremiah, and let no one know where you are.”

20 And they entered to the king in the court; but they entrusted the scroll in the treasury of Elisama the scribe, and they announced all the words while the king heard.

21 And the king sent Judi to take the scroll. Taking it from the treasury of Elisama the scribe, he read while the king and all the princes standing around the king heard.

22 The king was sitting in the winter house in the ninth month, and a brazier full of coals was placed before him.

23 And when Judi had read three or four pages, the king cut it with the scribe’s knife and cast it into the fire upon the brazier until the whole scroll was consumed by the fire in the brazier.

24 The king and all his servants who heard all these words did not fear or tear their garments.

25 Nevertheless, Elnathan, Dalaias, and Gamarias contradicted the king so that he would not burn the book, but he did not hear them.

26 And the king commanded Jeremiel son of Amelech, Saraias son of Ezriel, and Selemias son of Abdeel to seize Baruch the scribe and Jeremiah the prophet; but the Lord hid them.

27 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the prophet after the king had burned the scroll and the words Baruch wrote from Jeremiah's mouth, saying:

28 "Again take another scroll and write in it all the former words that were in the first scroll, which Joakim king of Juda burned.

29 And to Joakim king of Juda you shall say: Thus says the Lord: You burned that scroll, saying, 'Why did you write in it, announcing, "The king of Babylon shall come swiftly, devastate this land, and cause man and beast to cease from it"?'

30 Therefore thus says the Lord against Joakim king of Juda: There shall not be from him one who sits upon the throne of David, and his corpse shall be cast out to the heat by day and the frost by night.

31 I shall visit upon him, his seed, and his servants their iniquities; and I shall bring upon them, upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and upon the men of Juda all the evil I spoke against them, but they did not hear."

32 Then Jeremiah took another scroll and gave it to Baruch son of Nerias the scribe, who wrote in it from Jeremiah's mouth all the words of the book that Joakim king of Juda had burned with fire; and moreover, many more words than had been there before were added.

CHAPTER 37

1 And King Sedecias son of Josias reigned in place of Jechonias son of Joakim, whom Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon appointed king in the land of Juda.

2 But neither he nor his servants nor the people of the land obeyed the words of the Lord that he spoke by the hand of Jeremiah the prophet.

3 And King Sedecias sent Juchal son of Selemias and Sophonias son of Maasias the priest to Jeremiah the prophet, saying, “Pray for us to the Lord our God.”

4 But Jeremiah walked freely in the midst of the people, for they had not yet put him under guard in the prison. Then Pharaoh’s army went forth from Egypt; and the Chaldeans who were besieging Jerusalem heard this report and withdrew from Jerusalem.

5 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the prophet, saying:

6 Thus says the Lord God of Israel: “Thus shall you say to the king of Juda who sent you to inquire of me: Behold, Pharaoh’s army, which went forth to help you, shall return to its own land in Egypt.

7 And the Chaldeans shall return, fight against this city, capture it, and burn it with fire.

8 Thus says the Lord: Do not deceive your souls, saying, ‘Going, the Chaldeans shall depart and withdraw from us,’ for they shall not depart.

9 But even if you struck the whole army of the Chaldeans who fight against you and only some wounded men remained among them, each would rise from his tent and burn this city with fire.”

10 Therefore when the army of the Chaldeans had withdrawn from Jerusalem because of Pharaoh’s army,

11 Jeremiah went forth from Jerusalem to go into the land of Benjamin and divide a possession there before the citizens.

12 And when he came to the gate of Benjamin, a gatekeeper on duty was there named Jerias son of Selemias son of Hananias; and he seized Jeremiah the prophet, saying, “You are fleeing to the Chaldeans.”

13 And Jeremiah answered, “It is false; I am not fleeing to the Chaldeans.” But he did not hear him; instead, Jerias seized Jeremiah and brought him to the princes.

14 Therefore the princes were angry with Jeremiah; and after beating him, they sent him into the prison that was in the house of Jonathan the scribe, for he was appointed over the prison.

15 And so Jeremiah entered the house of the pit and the dungeon, and Jeremiah sat there many days.

16 Then King Sedecias sent and took him, and he questioned him secretly in his house and said, “Do you think there is a word from the Lord?” And Jeremiah said, “There is”; and he said, “You shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon.”

17 And Jeremiah said to King Sedecias, “What have I sinned against you, your servants, or your people, that you sent me into the prison house?

18 Where are your prophets who prophesied to you and said, ‘The king of Babylon shall not come upon you and upon this land’?

19 Now therefore hear, I beseech you, my lord the king. Let my supplication prevail in your sight, and do not send me back into the house of Jonathan the scribe, lest I die there.”

20 Therefore King Sedecias commanded that Jeremiah be delivered into the vestibule of the prison and that a twisted loaf of bread be given to him daily, besides cooked food, until all the bread in the city was consumed; and Jeremiah remained in the vestibule of the prison.

CHAPTER 38

1 Then Saphatias son of Mathan, Gedelias son of Phassur, Juchal son of Selemias, and Phassur son of Melchias heard the words that Jeremiah was speaking to all the people, saying:

2 “Thus says the Lord: Whoever remains in this city shall die by sword and famine and pestilence; but whoever flees to the Chaldeans shall live, and his soul shall be safe and living.

3 Thus says the Lord: Being delivered, this city shall be delivered into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon, and he shall capture it.”

4 And the princes said to the king, “We ask that this man be put to death, for deliberately he weakens the hands of the fighting men who remain in this city and the hands of all the people by speaking these words to them. Indeed, this man does not seek peace for this people, but evil.”

5 And King Sedecias said, “Behold, he is in your hands, for it is not permitted for the king to deny you anything.”

6 Therefore they took Jeremiah and cast him into the cistern of Melchias son of Amelech, which was in the vestibule of the prison; and they lowered Jeremiah by ropes into the cistern, in which there was no water but mud. And so Jeremiah sank into the mire.

7 But Abdemelech the Ethiopian, a eunuch who was in the king’s house, heard that they had put Jeremiah into the cistern. Now the king was sitting at the gate of Benjamin.

8 And Abdemelech went forth from the king’s house and spoke to the king, saying:

9 “My lord the king, these men have acted wickedly in everything they have perpetrated against Jeremiah the prophet, casting him into the cistern to die there of famine, for there is no more bread in the city.”

10 Therefore the king commanded Abdemelech the Ethiopian, saying, “Take thirty men with you from here and lift Jeremiah the prophet from the cistern before he dies.”

11 Therefore Abdemelech took the men with him, entered the king’s house beneath the storeroom, and took from there old rags and old things that had rotted; and he lowered them to Jeremiah in the cistern by cords.

12 And Abdemelech the Ethiopian said to Jeremiah, “Place the old rags and these torn and rotten things beneath the elbows of your arms and over the ropes.” Therefore Jeremiah did so.

13 And they drew Jeremiah up by the ropes and brought him out of the cistern; but Jeremiah remained in the vestibule of the prison.

14 And King Sedecias sent and took Jeremiah the prophet to himself at the third entrance that was in the house of the Lord; and the king said to Jeremiah, “I shall ask you a word; hide nothing from me.”

15 But Jeremiah said to Sedecias, “If I announce it to you, shall you not kill me? And if I give you counsel, you shall not hear me.”

16 Therefore King Sedecias swore secretly to Jeremiah, saying, “As the Lord lives, who made this soul for us, I shall not kill you or deliver you into the hands of those men who seek your soul.”

17 And Jeremiah said to Sedecias: “Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: If, going forth, you go out to the princes of the king of Babylon, your soul shall live, this city shall not be burned with fire, and you and your house shall be saved.

18 But if you do not go out to the princes of the king of Babylon, this city shall be delivered into the hands of the Chaldeans, and they shall burn it with fire; and you shall not escape from their hand.”

19 And King Sedecias said to Jeremiah, “I am anxious because of the Jews who have fled to the Chaldeans, lest perhaps I be delivered into their hands and they mock me.”

20 But Jeremiah answered, “They shall not deliver you. Hear, I pray, the voice of the Lord that I speak to you, and it shall be well with you, and your soul shall live.

21 But if you refuse to go forth, this is the word the Lord has shown me:

22 Behold, all the women who remain in the house of the king of Juda shall be brought out to the princes of the king of Babylon, and they themselves shall say, ‘Your men of peace seduced you and prevailed against you; they plunged your feet into mire and a slippery place, and they withdrew from you.’

23 All your wives and your sons shall be brought out to the Chaldeans. You shall not escape their hands but shall be captured by the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn this city with fire.”

24 Therefore Sedecias said to Jeremiah, “Let no one know these words, and you shall not die.

25 But if the princes hear that I spoke with you and come to you and say, ‘Tell us what you spoke with the king; do not conceal it from us, and we shall not kill you; and what did the king speak with you?’

26 you shall say to them, ‘I prostrated my prayers before the king that he would not order me to be taken back to the house of Jonathan, to die there.’”

27 Therefore all the princes came to Jeremiah and questioned him, and he spoke to them according to all the words the king had commanded him; and they ceased from him, for nothing had been heard.

28 But Jeremiah remained in the vestibule of the prison until the day Jerusalem was captured; and it happened that Jerusalem was captured.

CHAPTER 39

1 In the ninth year of Sedecias king of Juda, in the tenth month, Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon and all his army came to Jerusalem and besieged it.

2 And in the eleventh year of Sedecias, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, the city was opened.

3 And all the princes of the king of Babylon entered and sat at the Middle Gate: Neregel, Sereser, Semegarnabu, Sarsachim, Rabsares, Neregel, Sereser, Rebmag, and all the remaining princes of the king of Babylon.

4 And when Sedecias king of Juda and all the fighting men saw them, they fled and went forth from the city by night, by the way of the king's garden and through the gate between the two walls; and they went forth toward the way of the desert.

5 But the army of the Chaldeans pursued them and captured Sedecias in the plain of the wilderness of Jericho; and when they had captured him, they brought him to Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon at Reblatha, which is in the land of Emath; and he spoke judgments against him.

6 And the king of Babylon killed the sons of Sedecias at Reblatha before his eyes; and the king of Babylon killed all the nobles of Juda.

7 He also tore out the eyes of Sedecias and bound him with fetters to be led into Babylon.

8 The Chaldeans burned the king's house and the house of the common people with fire, and they overthrew the wall of Jerusalem.

9 And Nabuzardan, master of the soldiers, carried into Babylon the remnant of the people who remained in the city, the fugitives who had fled to him, and the remainder of the common people who remained.

10 But Nabuzardan, master of the soldiers, left some of the poor common people, who had absolutely nothing, in the land of Juda; and on that day he gave them vineyards and cisterns.

11 Now Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon had commanded Nabuzardan, master of the soldiers, concerning Jeremiah, saying:

12 "Take him and set your eyes upon him; do nothing evil to him, but do to him as he wills."

13 Therefore Nabuzardan prince of the army, Nabusezban, Rabsares, Neregel, Sereser, Rebmag, and all the nobles of the king of Babylon sent,

14 and they took Jeremiah from the vestibule of the prison and delivered him to Godolias son of Ahicam son of Saphan, that he might enter the house and dwell among the people.

15 But the word of the Lord had come to Jeremiah while he was confined in the vestibule of the prison, saying:

16 "Go and say to Abdemelech the Ethiopian: Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I shall bring my words upon this city for evil and not for good, and they shall be before your sight on that day.

17 But I shall deliver you on that day, says the Lord, and you shall not be delivered into the hands of the men whom you fear.

18 For delivering, I shall deliver you; you shall not fall by the sword, but your soul shall be yours for salvation, because you trusted in me, says the Lord."

CHAPTER 40

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord after he was released by Nabuzardan, master of the soldiers, from Rama, when he had taken him bound with chains among all those migrating from Jerusalem and Juda who were being led into Babylon.

2 Therefore the prince of the army took Jeremiah and said to him: “The Lord your God spoke this evil concerning this place.

3 And the Lord brought it and did as he spoke, because you sinned against the Lord and did not hear his voice; and this word happened to you.

4 Now therefore behold, today I have loosed you from the chains upon your hands. If it pleases you to come with me into Babylon, come, and I shall set my eyes upon you. But if it displeases you to come with me into Babylon, remain. Behold, the whole land is before your sight; go wherever you choose and wherever it pleases you to go.

5 And do not come with me, but dwell with Godolias son of Ahicam son of Saphan, whom the king of Babylon appointed over the cities of Juda. Therefore dwell with him in the midst of the people; or go wherever it pleases you to go.” The master of the soldiers also gave him provisions and little gifts and released him.

6 And Jeremiah came to Godolias son of Ahicam in Masphath and dwelt with him in the midst of the people who had been left in the land.

7 And when all the princes of the army who had been scattered through the regions, they and their companions, heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Godolias son of Ahicam over the land and had entrusted to him the men and women and little children and some of the poor of the land who had not been carried into Babylon,

8 they came to Godolias in Masphath: Ismahel son of Nathanias; Johanan and Jonathan sons of Caree; Saraias son of Thanehumeth; the sons of Ophi, who were from Netophath; and Jezonias son of Maachath, they and their men.

9 And Godolias son of Ahicam son of Saphan swore to them and their companions, saying: “Do not fear to serve the Chaldeans. Dwell in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you.

10 Behold, I dwell in Masphath to answer the command of the Chaldeans who are sent to us. But you, gather the vintage and harvest and oil, store them in your vessels, and remain in the cities you hold.”

11 And all the Jews who were in Moab, among the sons of Ammon, in Idumea, and in all the regions heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant in Judea and had appointed Godolias son of Ahicam son of Saphan over them.

12 All the Jews, I say, returned from all the places to which they had fled, came into the land of Juda to Godolias in Masphath, and gathered exceedingly much wine and harvest.

13 But Johanan son of Caree and all the princes of the army who had been scattered in the regions came to Godolias in Masphath.

14 And they said to him, “Know that Baalis, king of the sons of Ammon, has sent Ismahel son of Nathanias to strike your soul.” But Godolias son of Ahicam did not believe them.

15 And Johanan son of Caree spoke privately to Godolias in Masphath, saying: “I shall go and strike Ismahel son of Nathanias without anyone knowing, lest he kill your soul and all the Jews gathered to you be scattered and the remnant of Juda perish.”

16 And Godolias son of Ahicam said to Johanan son of Caree, “Do not do this thing, for you speak falsely concerning Ismahel.”

CHAPTER 41

1 And it happened in the seventh month that Ismahel son of Nathanias son of Elisama, of the royal seed, came with nobles of the king and ten men to Godolias son of Ahicam in Masphath; and there they ate bread together in Masphath.

2 But Ismahel son of Nathanias and the ten men who were with him arose and struck Godolias son of Ahicam son of Saphan with the sword; and they killed the one whom the king of Babylon had appointed over the land.

3 Ismahel also struck all the Jews who were with Godolias in Masphath, the Chaldeans who were found there, and the fighting men.

4 And on the second day after he had killed Godolias, while no one yet knew,

5 eighty men came from Sichem, Silo, and Samaria, with shaved beards and torn garments, disfigured with mourning; and they had gifts and frankincense in their hand to offer in the house of the Lord.

6 Therefore Ismahel son of Nathanias went forth from Masphath to meet them, walking and weeping as he went; and when he met them, he said to them, “Come to Godolias son of Ahicam.”

7 And when they came to the midst of the city, Ismahel son of Nathanias killed them around the middle of the cistern, he and the men who were with him.

8 But ten men were found among them who said to Ismahel, “Do not kill us, for we have treasures in the field—wheat, barley, oil, and honey.” And he ceased and did not kill them with their brothers.

9 Now the cistern into which Ismahel cast all the corpses of the men he struck because of Godolias was the one King Asa had made because of Baasa king of Israel; Ismahel son of Nathanias filled it with the slain.

10 And Ismahel led captive all the remnant of the people who were in Masphath, the daughters of the king and all the people who remained in Masphath, whom Nabuzardan prince of the army had entrusted to Godolias son of Ahicam. Ismahel son of Nathanias seized them and departed to cross over to the sons of Ammon.

11 But Johanan son of Caree and all the princes of the warriors who were with him heard of all the evil that Ismahel son of Nathanias had done.

12 And taking all the men, they set out to fight against Ismahel son of Nathanias; and they found him at the great waters that are in Gabaon.

13 And when all the people who were with Ismahel saw Johanan son of Caree and all the princes of the warriors who were with him, they rejoiced.

14 And all the people whom Ismahel had seized in Masphath turned back and went to Johanan son of Caree.

15 But Ismahel son of Nathanias fled with eight men from the face of Johanan and went to the sons of Ammon.

16 Therefore Johanan son of Caree and all the princes of the warriors who were with him took all the remnant of the common people whom he had recovered from Ismahel son of Nathanias out of Masphath, after he had struck Godolias son of Ahicam: mighty fighting men, women, children, and eunuchs whom he had brought back from Gabaon.

17 And they departed and remained as sojourners in Chamaam, which is beside Bethlehem, intending to proceed and enter Egypt

18 before the face of the Chaldeans; for they feared them because Ismahel son of Nathanias had struck Godolias son of Ahicam, whom the king of Babylon had appointed over the land of Juda.

CHAPTER 42

1 And all the princes of the warriors, Johanan son of Caree, Jezonias son of Osaias, and the remainder of the common people, from the little even to the great, approached.

2 And they said to Jeremiah the prophet: “Let our prayer fall in your sight, and pray for us to the Lord your God, for all this remnant; for we have been left few from many, as your eyes behold us.

3 And may the Lord your God announce to us the way by which we should proceed and the thing we should do.”

4 And Jeremiah the prophet said to them: “I have heard. Behold, I shall pray to the Lord your God according to your words. I shall declare to you every word whatsoever he answers me, and I shall conceal nothing from you.”

5 And they said to Jeremiah: “May the Lord be between us as a witness of truth and faith if we do not act according to every word with which the Lord your God sends you to us.

6 Whether it is good or evil, we shall obey the voice of the Lord our God, to whom we send you, that it may be well with us when we hear the voice of the Lord our God.”

7 And when ten days were completed, the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah.

8 And he called Johanan son of Caree, all the princes of the warriors who were with him, and all the people, from the least even to the great.

9 And he said to them: “Thus says the Lord God of Israel, to whom you sent me to prostrate your prayers in his sight:

10 If, resting, you remain in this land, I shall build you and not destroy; I shall plant and not uproot, for I have now been appeased concerning the evil I did to you.

11 Do not fear before the face of the king of Babylon, whom you fear in terror. Do not fear him, says the Lord, for I am with you to save you and deliver you from his hand.

12 And I shall give you mercies and have mercy on you, and I shall cause you to dwell in your own land.

13 But if you say, ‘We shall not dwell in this land,’ and do not hear the voice of the Lord our God,

14 saying, ‘By no means; instead, we shall proceed to the land of Egypt, where we shall not see war, hear the sound of the trumpet, or endure famine, and there we shall dwell,’

15 because of this, now hear the word of the Lord, O remnant of Juda. Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: If you set your face to enter Egypt and enter to dwell there,

16 the sword that you fear shall overtake you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine about which you are anxious shall cling to you in Egypt, and there you shall die.

17 All the men who set their face to enter Egypt to dwell there shall die by sword and famine and pestilence; none of them shall remain or escape before the face of the evil I shall bring upon them.

18 For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: As my fury and my indignation were poured out upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so shall my indignation be poured out upon you when you enter Egypt. You shall become an oath and an astonishment and a curse and a reproach, and you shall never see this place again.

19 The word of the Lord is upon you, O remnant of Juda: Do not enter Egypt. Knowing, you shall know that I have called you to witness today,

20 because you deceived your own souls. For you sent me to the Lord our God, saying, ‘Pray for us to the Lord our God; and according to everything whatsoever the Lord our God says to you, so announce to us, and we shall do it.’

21 And I announced it to you today, but you did not hear the voice of the Lord your God concerning all the things for which he sent me to you.

22 Now therefore, knowing, you shall know that you shall die by sword and famine and pestilence in the place that you desired to enter to dwell there.”

CHAPTER 43

1 And it happened when Jeremiah had finished speaking to the people all the words of the Lord their God, for which the Lord their God had sent him to them—all these words—

2 that Azarias son of Osaias, Johanan son of Caree, and all the proud men spoke to Jeremiah, saying: “You speak falsehood. The Lord our God did not send you to say, ‘Do not enter Egypt to dwell there.’

3 Instead, Baruch son of Nerias incites you against us, to deliver us into the hands of the Chaldeans, that he may kill us and cause us to be carried into Babylon.”

4 And Johanan son of Caree, all the princes of the warriors, and all the people did not hear the voice of the Lord, to remain in the land of Juda.

5 Instead, Johanan son of Caree and all the princes of the warriors took all the remnant of Juda who had returned from all the nations to which they had previously been scattered, to dwell in the land of Juda:

6 the men and women and little children, the king’s daughters, every soul Nabuzardan prince of the army had left with Godolias son of Ahicam son of Saphan, Jeremiah the prophet, and Baruch son of Nerias.

7 And they entered the land of Egypt, because they did not obey the voice of the Lord; and they came as far as Taphnis.

8 And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah in Taphnis, saying:

9 “Take great stones in your hand and hide them in the crypt beneath the brick wall at the gate of Pharaoh’s house in Taphnis, while the Jewish men see.

10 And you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I shall send and take Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, my servant; and I shall place his throne upon these stones that I have hidden, and he shall establish his seat over them.

11 Coming, he shall strike the land of Egypt: those for death, to death; those for captivity, to captivity; and those for the sword, to the sword.

12 He shall kindle fire in the shrines of the gods of Egypt, burn them, and lead them captive. He shall clothe himself with the land of Egypt as a shepherd clothes himself with his cloak, and he shall go forth from there in peace.

13 And he shall crush the statues of the House of the Sun that are in the land of Egypt, and he shall burn the shrines of the gods of Egypt with fire.”

CHAPTER 44

1 The word that came through Jeremiah to all the Jews dwelling in the land of Egypt—those dwelling in Magdalo, Taphnis, Memphis, and the land of Phatures—saying:

2 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: “You have seen all this evil that I brought upon Jerusalem and upon all the cities of Juda; and behold, they are deserted today, and there is no inhabitant within them,

3 because of the wickedness they committed to provoke me to wrath, going to sacrifice and worship strange gods whom neither they nor you nor your fathers knew.

4 And I sent to you all my servants the prophets, rising in the night and sending them and saying, ‘Do not commit a word of abomination such as this, which I have hated.’

5 But they did not hear or incline their ear, to turn from their evils and not sacrifice to strange gods.

6 And my indignation and fury were poured out and kindled in the cities of Juda and the public squares of Jerusalem; and they were turned into a solitude and devastation, as it is this day.

7 And now thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Why do you commit this great evil against your own souls, that man and woman, little child and nursing infant should perish from among you, from the midst of Juda, and no remnant be left to you,

8 provoking me with the works of your hands by sacrificing to strange gods in the land of Egypt, into which you entered to dwell there, so that you may perish and become a curse and a reproach to all the nations of the earth?

9 Have you forgotten the evils of your fathers, the evils of the kings of Juda, the evils of his wives, your evils, and the evils of your wives, which they committed in the land of Juda and the regions of Jerusalem?

10 They have not been cleansed even to this day; they have not feared or walked in the law of the Lord and in my commandments that I gave before you and before your fathers.

11 Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I shall set my face against you for evil, and I shall destroy all Juda.

12 I shall take the remnant of Juda who set their faces to enter the land of Egypt and dwell there, and all shall be consumed in the land of Egypt. They shall fall by sword and famine and shall be consumed, from the least even to the greatest. By sword and famine they shall die, and they shall become an oath and a wonder and a curse and a reproach.

13 I shall visit the inhabitants of the land of Egypt as I visited Jerusalem, with sword and famine and pestilence.

14 There shall be no one who escapes and remains from the remnant of the Jews who go to sojourn in the land of Egypt and return to the land of Juda, to which they lift up their souls to return and dwell there. They shall not return except those who flee.”

15 Then all the men who knew that their wives sacrificed to strange gods, all the women who stood in a great multitude, and all the people dwelling in the land of Egypt in Phatures answered Jeremiah, saying:

16 “The word you have spoken to us in the name of the Lord, we shall not hear from you.

17 Instead, doing, we shall do every word that goes forth from our own mouth, to sacrifice to the queen of heaven and pour libations to her, as we and our fathers, our kings and our princes did in the cities of Juda and the public squares of Jerusalem. We were filled with bread, it was well with us, and we saw no evil.

18 But from the time we ceased sacrificing to the queen of heaven and pouring libations to her, we have lacked everything and have been consumed by sword and famine.

19 And if we sacrifice to the queen of heaven and pour libations to her, did we make cakes for her to worship her and pour libations to her without our husbands?”

20 And Jeremiah spoke to all the people—against the men and against the women and against all the common people who had answered him this word—saying:

21 “Did not the Lord remember the sacrifice that you and your fathers, your kings and your princes, and the people of the land sacrificed in the cities of Juda and the public squares of Jerusalem? Did it not rise upon his heart?

22 And the Lord could no longer bear the wickedness of your pursuits and the abominations you committed; and your land became a desolation and an astonishment and a curse, without an inhabitant, as it is this day.

23 Because you sacrificed to idols and sinned against the Lord, did not hear the voice of the Lord, and did not walk in his law and commandments and testimonies, therefore these evils happened to you, as it is this day.”

24 And Jeremiah said to all the people and to all the women: “Hear the word of the Lord, all Juda who are in the land of Egypt.

25 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: You and your wives have spoken with your mouth and fulfilled with your hands, saying, ‘Let us perform our vows that we vowed, to sacrifice to the queen of heaven and pour libations to her.’ You have fulfilled your vows and accomplished them in deed.

26 Therefore hear the word of the Lord, all Juda who dwell in the land of Egypt. Behold, I have sworn by my great name, says the Lord, that my name shall no longer be invoked by the mouth of any Jewish man saying, ‘The Lord God lives,’ throughout all the land of Egypt.

27 Behold, I shall watch over them for evil and not for good; and all the men of Juda who are in the land of Egypt shall be consumed by sword and famine until they are utterly consumed.

28 And those who flee the sword shall return from the land of Egypt to the land of Juda, few men; and all the remnant of Juda who entered the land of Egypt to dwell there shall know whose word shall be fulfilled—mine or theirs.

29 And this shall be the sign for you, says the Lord, that I shall visit you in this place, so that you may know that my words against you shall truly be fulfilled for evil:

30 Thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall deliver Pharaoh Ephree, king of Egypt, into the hands of his enemies and into the hands of those who seek his soul, as I delivered Sedecias king of Juda into the hands of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, his enemy who sought his soul.”

CHAPTER 45

1 The word that Jeremiah the prophet spoke to Baruch son of Nerias, when he had written these words in a book from the mouth of Jeremiah in the fourth year of Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda, saying:

2 Thus says the Lord God of Israel to you, Baruch:

3 “You said, ‘Woe to me in my misery, for the Lord has added sorrow to my sorrow. I have labored in my groaning and found no rest.’

4 Thus says the Lord: You shall say this to him: Behold, what I built I am destroying, and what I planted I am uprooting—even this whole land.

5 And do you seek great things for yourself? Do not seek them, for behold, I shall bring evil upon all flesh, says the Lord; but I shall give you your soul for salvation in all the places wherever you go.”

CHAPTER 46

1 The word of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the prophet against the nations.

2 Concerning Egypt, against the army of Pharaoh Nechao, king of Egypt, which was beside the river Euphrates in Charcamis, whom Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon struck in the fourth year of Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda.

3 “Prepare shield and buckler, and advance to battle.

4 Harness the horses and mount, O horsemen. Stand in helmets; polish the spears; clothe yourselves with breastplates.

5 What then? I saw them terrified and turning their backs, their mighty men slain. They fled headlong and did not look back. Terror all around, says the Lord.

6 Let not the swift flee, nor let the mighty think himself saved. Toward the north, beside the river Euphrates, they were conquered and fell.

7 Who is this who ascends like a river, whose pools swell like the floods?

8 Egypt ascends like a river, and its waves shall be moved like floods; and it shall say, ‘Ascending, I shall cover the earth; I shall destroy the city and its inhabitants.’

9 Mount the horses; exult in the chariots; and let the mighty advance—Ethiopia and the Libyans holding the shield, and the Lydians seizing and shooting arrows.

10 But that day of the Lord God of hosts is a day of vengeance, that he may take vengeance upon his enemies. The sword shall devour and be satisfied and inebriated with their blood, for there is a victim of the Lord God of hosts in the land of the north beside the river Euphrates.

11 Ascend into Galaad and take resin, O virgin daughter of Egypt. In vain you multiply medicines; there shall be no healing for you.

12 The nations have heard your disgrace, and your wailing has filled the earth, for the mighty stumbled against the mighty, and both fell together.”

13 The word that the Lord spoke to Jeremiah the prophet concerning the coming of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon to strike the land of Egypt:

14 “Announce it to Egypt and make it heard in Magdalo; let it resound in Memphis and Taphnis. Say, ‘Stand and prepare yourself, for the sword shall devour the things around you.’

15 Why has your mighty one rotted? He did not stand, because the Lord overthrew him.

16 He multiplied those who fell, and a man fell against his neighbor; and they shall say, ‘Arise, and let us return to our people and to the land of our birth, before the face of the sword of the dove.’

17 Call the name of Pharaoh king of Egypt: ‘Tumult has brought the time.’

18 As I live, says the King—the Lord of hosts is his name—as Thabor among the mountains and as Carmel by the sea, he shall come.

19 Make for yourself vessels of migration, O inhabitant daughter of Egypt, for Memphis shall become a solitude; it shall be forsaken and uninhabitable.

20 Egypt is a choice and beautiful heifer; a driver from the north shall come to her.

21 Her hired men also, who lived in her midst like fattened calves, have turned and fled together; they could not stand, for the day of their slaughter has come upon them, the time of their visitation.

22 Her voice shall resound like bronze, for they shall hasten with an army and come against her with axes like men cutting wood.

23 They have cut down her forest, says the Lord, which cannot be counted; they have multiplied beyond locusts, and there is no number for them.

24 The daughter of Egypt has been confounded and delivered into the hand of the people of the north.

25 The Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, has said: Behold, I shall visit the tumult of Alexandria, Pharaoh, Egypt, its gods and its kings—Pharaoh and those who trust in him.

26 I shall give them into the hand of those who seek their soul, into the hand of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and into the hand of his servants; and after these things it shall be inhabited as in former days, says the Lord.

27 But you, Jacob my servant, do not fear; do not be terrified, O Israel. For behold, I shall save you from afar and your seed from the land of your captivity. Jacob shall return and rest and prosper, and there shall be no one to terrify him.

28 And you, Jacob my servant, do not fear, says the Lord, for I am with you. I shall consume all the nations to which I cast you, but you I shall not consume. I shall chastise you in judgment and shall not spare you as though you were innocent."

CHAPTER 47

1 The word of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the prophet against the Palestinians, before Pharaoh struck Gaza.

2 “Thus says the Lord: Behold, waters ascend from the north and shall become like an overflowing torrent; they shall cover the land and its fullness, the city and its inhabitants. Men shall cry out, and all the inhabitants of the land shall wail,

3 at the noise of the display of his weapons and his warriors, at the commotion of his chariots and the multitude of his wheels. The fathers did not look back toward their sons, their hands having become feeble,

4 because of the coming of the day when all the Philistines shall be devastated, and Tyre and Sidon shall be scattered with all their remaining helpers. For the Lord has depopulated the Palestinians, the remnant of the island of Cappadocia.

5 Baldness has come upon Gaza; Ascalon and the remnant of their valley have become silent. How long shall you cut yourself?

6 O blade of the Lord, how long shall you not rest? Enter your sheath; be refreshed and silent.

7 How shall it rest, when the Lord has commanded it against Ascalon and against its maritime regions and has appointed it there?”

CHAPTER 48

1 Concerning Moab. “Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Woe upon Nabo, for it has been devastated and confounded! Cariathaim has been captured; the stronghold has been confounded and trembled.

2 There is no longer exultation in Moab against Hesebon. They have devised evil: ‘Come, and let us destroy her from being a nation.’ Therefore, being silent, you shall become silent, and the sword shall follow you.

3 A voice of crying from Oronaim—devastation and great destruction.

4 Moab has been crushed; announce the cry to its little ones.

5 For by the ascent of Luith, the weeping one shall ascend in tears, because at the descent of Oronaim the enemies heard the wailing of destruction.

6 Flee; save your souls; and you shall be like tamarisks in the desert.

7 For because you trusted in your fortifications and your treasures, you also shall be captured. Chamos shall go into migration, his priests and his princes together.

8 The plunderer shall come to every city, and no city shall be saved. The valleys shall perish, and the plains shall be scattered, for the Lord has spoken.

9 Give a flower to Moab, for flowering she shall go forth; and her cities shall be deserted and uninhabitable.

10 Accursed is he who does the work of the Lord fraudulently, and accursed is he who withholds his sword from blood.

11 Moab was fertile from his youth and rested upon his dregs. He was not poured from vessel into vessel and did not go into migration; therefore his taste remained within him, and his scent was not changed.

12 Therefore behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when I shall send arrangers and layers-out of flasks to him. They shall lay him out, drain his vessels, and shatter their flasks.

13 Moab shall be confounded by Chamos, as the house of Israel was confounded by Bethel, in which it trusted.

14 How do you say, ‘We are mighty and robust men for battle’?

15 Moab has been devastated, and they have cut down his cities; his chosen young men have descended into slaughter, says the King—the Lord of hosts is his name.

16 The destruction of Moab is near to come, and his evil shall run exceedingly swiftly.

17 Console him, all you who are around him; and all who know his name, say, ‘How has the mighty rod, the glorious staff, been broken?’

18 Descend from glory and sit in thirst, O inhabitant daughter of Dibon, for the devastator of Moab has ascended against you; he has scattered your fortifications.

19 Stand upon the road and watch, O inhabitant of Aroer. Question him who flees, and say to her who escaped, ‘What has happened?’

20 Moab has been confounded, for he has been conquered. Wail and cry out; announce at Arnon that Moab has been devastated,

21 and judgment has come to the land of the plain: upon Helon, Jasa, Mephaath,

22 Dibon, Nabo, the house of Deblathaim,

23 Cariathaim, Bethgamul, Bethmaon,

24 Carioth, Bosra, and all the cities of the land of Moab, both far and near.

25 The horn of Moab has been cut off, and his arm has been crushed, says the Lord.

26 Inebriate him, for he has risen up against the Lord. Moab shall strike his hand in his own vomit, and he too shall become a derision.

27 For Israel was a derision to you, as though you had found him among thieves. Therefore, because of the words you spoke against him, you shall be led captive.

28 Forsake the cities and dwell in the rock, O inhabitants of Moab; and be like a dove nesting at the highest edge of a cleft.

29 We have heard the pride of Moab; he is exceedingly proud—his loftiness and arrogance and pride and the height of his heart.

30 I know his boasting, says the Lord, and that his power is not equal to it, nor has he attempted to do according to what he was able.

31 Therefore I shall wail over Moab and cry out to all Moab, lamenting for the men of the Earthen Wall.

32 With the lamentation of Jazer I shall weep for you, O vineyard of Sabama. Your shoots crossed the sea; they reached even to the sea of Jazer. The plunderer rushed upon your harvest and your vintage.

33 Gladness and exultation have been taken from Carmel and from the land of Moab, and I have taken wine from the winepresses. The treader of grapes shall no longer sing his customary shout.

34 From the cry of Hesebon even to Eleale and Jasa, they raised their voice; from Segor even to Oronaim, a three-year-old heifer. The waters of Nemrim also shall become exceedingly evil.

35 And I shall take away from Moab, says the Lord, him who offers upon the high places and sacrifices to his gods.

36 Therefore my heart shall resound like pipes for Moab, and my heart shall sound like pipes for the men of the Earthen Wall; because he did more than he could, therefore they have perished.

37 For every head shall be bald and every beard shaven; upon all hands shall be a binding, and upon every back haircloth.

38 Upon all the rooftops of Moab and in his public squares there shall be universal lamentation, for I have crushed Moab like a useless vessel, says the Lord.

39 How he has been conquered, and they wailed! How Moab bent his neck and was confounded! Moab shall become a derision and an example to all around him.

40 Thus says the Lord: Behold, he shall fly like an eagle and spread his wings over Moab.

41 Carioth has been captured, and the fortifications have been seized; and on that day the heart of the mighty of Moab shall be like the heart of a woman in labor.

42 Moab shall cease to be a people because he gloried against the Lord.

43 Terror and the pit and the snare are upon you, O inhabitant of Moab, says the Lord.

44 He who flees from the face of terror shall fall into the pit, and he who climbs out of the pit shall be caught in the snare; for I shall bring upon Moab the year of their visitation, says the Lord.

45 Those fleeing the snare stood in the shadow of Hesebon, for fire went forth from Hesebon and flame from the midst of Seon; and it shall devour the portion of Moab and the crown of the sons of tumult.

46 Woe to you, Moab! You have perished, O people of Chamos, for your sons and your daughters have been taken into captivity.

47 And I shall turn the captivity of Moab in the last days, says the Lord.” Thus far the judgments of Moab.

CHAPTER 49

1 Concerning the sons of Ammon. “Thus says the Lord: Does Israel have no sons, or has he no heir? Why then has Melchom possessed Gad as an inheritance, and why has his people dwelt in its cities?

2 Therefore behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when I shall cause the roar of battle to be heard over Rabbath of the sons of Ammon. It shall be scattered into tumult, and its daughters shall be kindled with fire; and Israel shall possess those who possessed him, says the Lord.

3 Wail, O Hesebon, for Hai has been devastated. Cry out, daughters of Rabbath; gird yourselves with haircloth, lament, and circle through the hedges, for Melchom shall be led into migration, his priests and his princes together.

4 Why do you glory in the valleys? Your valley has flowed away, O delicate daughter who trusted in your treasures and said, ‘Who shall come to me?’

5 Behold, I shall bring terror upon you, says the Lord God of hosts, from all who are around you. Each of you shall be scattered from before his own face, and there shall be no one to gather those who flee.

6 And after these things I shall cause the captives of the sons of Ammon to return, says the Lord.”

7 Concerning Idumea. “Thus says the Lord of hosts: Is there no longer Wisdom in Theman? Has counsel perished from the sons? Has their Wisdom become useless?

8 Flee and turn your backs; descend into the abyss, inhabitants of Dedan, for I have brought the destruction of Esau upon him, the time of his visitation.

9 If grape-gatherers had come upon you, would they not have left a cluster? If thieves came in the night, they would have seized only what was sufficient for themselves.

10 But I have uncovered Esau; I have revealed his hidden things, and he shall not be able to conceal himself. His seed has been devastated, along with his brothers and his neighbors, and he shall not be.

11 Leave your orphans; I shall cause them to live, and your widows shall hope in me.

12 For thus says the Lord: Behold, those for whom there was no judgment that they should drink the cup shall drink, drinking; and shall you be left as though innocent? You shall not be innocent, but drinking, you shall drink.

13 For I have sworn by myself, says the Lord, that Bosra shall become a solitude and a reproach and a desert and a curse; and all its cities shall become everlasting solitudes.

14 Hearing, I have heard from the Lord, and an envoy has been sent to the nations: ‘Gather together and come against her, and let us arise to battle.’

15 For behold, I have made you little among the nations, contemptible among men.

16 Your arrogance and the pride of your heart have deceived you, you who dwell in clefts of the rock and strive to seize the height of the hill. Though you exalt your nest like the eagle, from there I shall draw you down, says the Lord.

17 Idumea shall become a desert. Everyone who passes through it shall be astonished and hiss over all its wounds.

18 As Sodom and Gomorrha and their neighbors were overthrown, says the Lord, no man shall dwell there, and no son of man shall inhabit it.

19 Behold, like a lion he shall ascend from the swelling of the Jordan to the robust beauty, for suddenly I shall cause him to run toward her. And who is the chosen one whom I shall appoint over her? For who is like me? Who shall endure me? And who is this shepherd who shall withstand my countenance?

20 Therefore hear the counsel of the Lord that he has entered concerning Edom and the purposes he has devised concerning the inhabitants of Theman: Surely the little ones of the flock shall cast them down; surely they shall scatter their habitation with them.

21 At the sound of their ruin the earth has been moved; the cry of his voice has been heard at the Red Sea.

22 Behold, like an eagle he shall ascend and fly, and he shall spread his wings over Bosra; and on that day the heart of the mighty of Idumea shall be like the heart of a woman in labor.”

23 Concerning Damascus. “Emath and Arphad have been confounded because they heard an exceedingly evil report. They were troubled in the sea; because of anxiety it could not rest.

24 Damascus has become feeble and turned to flight; trembling seized her, and anguish and pains held her like a woman in labor.

25 How have they forsaken the praiseworthy city, the city of gladness?

26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her public squares, and all the men of battle shall become silent on that day, says the Lord of hosts.

27 And I shall kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus, and it shall devour the walls of Benadad.”

28 Concerning Cedar and the kingdoms of Asor, which Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon struck. “Thus says the Lord: Arise and ascend against Cedar, and devastate the sons of the east.

29 They shall seize their tabernacles and their flocks; they shall take for themselves their skins and all their vessels and their camels, and they shall call terror all around upon them.

30 Flee; depart swiftly; sit in the abysses, you who inhabit Asor, says the Lord, for Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon has entered counsel against you and devised purposes against you.

31 Arise and ascend against a quiet nation dwelling confidently, says the Lord. They have neither doors nor bars; they dwell alone.

32 Their camels shall become plunder and the multitude of their livestock spoil. I shall scatter to every wind those whose hair is cut round, and from all their borders I shall bring destruction upon them, says the Lord.

33 Asor shall become a habitation of dragons, deserted forever. No man shall remain there, and no son of man shall inhabit it.”

34 The word of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the prophet against Elam at the beginning of the reign of Sedecias king of Juda, saying:

35 “Thus says the Lord of hosts: Behold, I shall break the bow of Elam and the summit of their strength.

36 I shall bring upon Elam the four winds from the four regions of heaven and winnow them into all these winds; and there shall be no nation to which the fugitives of Elam do not come.

37 I shall cause Elam to fear before their enemies and before the sight of those who seek their soul. I shall bring evil upon them, the wrath of my fury, says the Lord, and I shall send the sword after them until I consume them.

38 I shall place my throne in Elam and destroy kings and princes from there, says the Lord.

39 But in the last days I shall cause the captives of Elam to return, says the Lord.”

CHAPTER 50

1 The word that the Lord spoke concerning Babylon and the land of the Chaldeans by the hand of Jeremiah the prophet.

2 “Announce among the nations and make it heard. Raise a standard; proclaim and do not conceal. Say: ‘Babylon has been captured; Bel has been confounded; Merodach has been conquered; her graven things have been confounded; their idols have been overcome.’

3 For a nation has ascended against her from the north, which shall make her land a solitude; and there shall be no one dwelling within it, from man even to beast. They have moved and departed.

4 In those days and at that time, says the Lord, the children of Israel and the children of Juda shall come together. Walking and weeping, they shall hasten and seek the Lord their God.

5 They shall ask the way to Zion, their faces directed here. They shall come and be joined to the Lord by an everlasting covenant that shall be blotted out by no oblivion.

6 My people have become a lost flock. Their shepherds seduced them and caused them to wander upon the mountains; they passed from mountain to hill and forgot their resting place.

7 All who found them ate them, and their enemies said, ‘We have not sinned, because they sinned against the Lord, the Beauty of Justice, and against the Lord, the Expectation of their fathers.’

8 Withdraw from the midst of Babylon and go forth from the land of the Chaldeans; be like young goats before the flock.

9 For behold, I shall raise up and bring against Babylon an assembly of great nations from the land of the north. They shall be prepared against her, and from there she shall be captured. His arrow shall be like that of a mighty slayer; it shall not return empty.

10 Chaldea shall become plunder; all who devastate her shall be filled, says the Lord.

11 For you exult and speak great things, plundering my inheritance; for you have spread yourselves like calves upon the grass and bellowed like bulls.

12 Your mother has been exceedingly confounded and made equal with dust, she who bore you. Behold, she shall be last among the nations, deserted, trackless, and dry.

13 Because of the wrath of the Lord she shall not be inhabited but shall be reduced entirely to solitude. Everyone who passes through Babylon shall be astonished and hiss over all her wounds.

14 Prepare against Babylon all around, all you who bend the bow. Fight against her; do not spare arrows, for she has sinned against the Lord.

15 Cry out against her; on every side she has given her hand. Her foundations have fallen; her walls have been destroyed, for this is the vengeance of the Lord. Take vengeance upon her; as she did, do to her.

16 Destroy the sower from Babylon and him who holds the sickle in the time of harvest. Before the face of the sword of the dove, each shall turn to his own people, and each shall flee to his own land.

17 Israel is a scattered flock; lions cast him out. First the king of Assur ate him; this last one, Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, stripped his bones.

18 Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I shall visit the king of Babylon and his land as I visited the king of Assur.

19 And I shall lead Israel back to his habitation; he shall pasture Carmel and Basan, and upon Mount Ephraim and Galaad his soul shall be satisfied.

20 In those days and at that time, says the Lord, the iniquity of Israel shall be sought, and it shall not be; and the sin of Juda, and it shall not be found, for I shall be merciful to those whom I leave.

21 Ascend against the land of the rulers and visit its inhabitants. Scatter and kill those who are after them, says the Lord, and do according to everything I commanded you.

22 A voice of war is in the land, and great destruction.

23 How has the hammer of the whole earth been broken and crushed? How has Babylon been turned into a desert among the nations?

24 I ensnared you, and you were captured, O Babylon, and you did not know it. You were found and seized because you provoked the Lord.

25 The Lord opened his treasury and brought forth the vessels of his wrath, for there is a work for the Lord God of hosts in the land of the Chaldeans.

26 Come against her from the furthest borders. Open the way so that those who trample her may go forth. Remove the stones from the road and reduce them to heaps. Kill her, and let nothing remain.

27 Scatter all her mighty men; let them descend into slaughter. Woe to them, for their day has come, the time of their visitation!

28 A voice of those fleeing and of those who escaped from the land of Babylon, to announce in Zion the vengeance of the Lord our God, the vengeance of his temple.

29 Announce to many against Babylon, to all who bend the bow. Stand against her all around, and let no one escape. Repay her according to her work; according to everything she did, do to her, for she rose up against the Lord, against the Holy One of Israel.

30 Therefore her young men shall fall in her public squares, and all her fighting men shall become silent on that day, says the Lord.

31 Behold, I am against you, O proud one, says the Lord God of hosts, for your day has come, the time of your visitation.

32 The proud one shall fall and collapse, and there shall be no one to raise him. I shall kindle a fire in his cities, and it shall devour everything around him.

33 Thus says the Lord of hosts: The children of Israel and the children of Juda endure oppression together. All who captured them hold them and refuse to release them.

34 Their Redeemer is mighty; the Lord of hosts is his name. In judgment he shall defend their cause, that he may terrify the earth and move the inhabitants of Babylon.

35 A sword against the Chaldeans, says the Lord, and against the inhabitants of Babylon and her princes and her wise men.

36 A sword against her diviners, and they shall become foolish; a sword against her mighty men, and they shall fear.

37 A sword against her horses and her chariots and all the common people in her midst, and they shall become like women; a sword against her treasures, and they shall be plundered.

38 Drought shall be upon her waters, and they shall dry up, for it is a land of graven things, and they glory in portents.

39 Therefore dragons shall dwell with fig-fauns, and ostriches shall dwell within her. She shall no longer be inhabited forever, nor shall she be built from generation to generation.

40 As the Lord overthrew Sodom and Gomorrha and their neighbors, says the Lord, no man shall dwell there, and no son of man shall inhabit her.

41 Behold, a people comes from the north; a great nation and many kings shall arise from the ends of the earth.

42 They shall seize bow and shield. They are cruel and merciless; their voice shall resound like the sea, and they shall mount horses like a man prepared for battle against you, O daughter of Babylon.

43 The king of Babylon has heard their report, and his hands have become feeble. Anguish has seized him, pain like that of a woman in labor.

44 Behold, like a lion he shall ascend from the swelling of the Jordan to the robust beauty, for suddenly I shall cause him to run toward her. And who is the chosen one whom I shall appoint over her? For who is like me? Who shall endure me? And who is this shepherd who shall withstand my countenance?

45 Therefore hear the counsel of the Lord that he conceived in his mind against Babylon, and the purposes he devised concerning the land of the Chaldeans: Surely the little ones of the flocks shall drag them away; surely their habitation shall be scattered with them.

46 At the sound of the captivity of Babylon, the earth has been moved, and a cry has been heard among the nations.”

CHAPTER 51

1 “Thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall raise up against Babylon and against its inhabitants, who lifted up their heart against me, something like a pestilential wind.

2 And I shall send winnowers into Babylon; they shall winnow her and demolish her land, for they have come against her from every side on the day of her affliction.

3 Let not him who bends his bow bend it, and let not the armored man ascend. Do not spare her young men; kill all her army.

4 The slain shall fall in the land of the Chaldeans, and the wounded in its regions.

5 For Israel and Juda have not been widowed of their God, the Lord of hosts, but their land has been filled with offense against the Holy One of Israel.

6 Flee from the midst of Babylon, and let each save his own soul. Do not be silent over her iniquity, for it is the time of vengeance from the Lord; he himself shall repay her requital.

7 Babylon was a golden cup in the hand of the Lord, inebriating the whole earth. The nations drank of her wine, and therefore they were moved.

8 Suddenly Babylon has fallen and been crushed. Wail over her; take resin for her pain, if perhaps she may be healed.

9 We healed Babylon, but she was not healed. Let us forsake her and go each to his own land, for her judgment has reached even to the heavens and been lifted even to the clouds.

10 The Lord has brought forth our justices. Come, and let us recount in Zion the work of the Lord our God.

11 Sharpen the arrows; fill the quivers. The Lord has raised the spirit of the kings of the Medes, and his purpose is against Babylon to destroy her, for this is the vengeance of the Lord, the vengeance of his temple.

12 Raise a standard upon the walls of Babylon; increase the guard; raise up watchmen; prepare ambushes. For the Lord has purposed and done everything he spoke against the inhabitants of Babylon.

13 You who dwell upon many waters, rich in treasures, your end has come, the foot-length of your cutting off.

14 The Lord of hosts has sworn by his own soul: Surely I shall fill you with men like the bruchus-locust, and a shout shall be sung over you.

15 He made the earth by his strength, prepared the world by his Wisdom, and stretched out the heavens by his prudence.

16 When he gives his voice, waters are multiplied in heaven. He raises clouds from the end of the earth, makes lightning into rain, and brings forth the wind from his treasuries.

17 Every man has become foolish through knowledge; every metalworker has been confounded by the graven thing, for their casting is false, and there is no spirit in them.

18 Their works are vain and worthy of laughter; at the time of their visitation they shall perish.

19 The Portion of Jacob is not like these, for he is the one who made all things, and Israel is the scepter of his inheritance; the Lord of hosts is his name.

20 You crush the weapons of war for me, and with you I shall crush nations and destroy kingdoms.

21 With you I shall crush horse and his rider; with you I shall crush chariot and its rider.

22 With you I shall crush man and woman; with you I shall crush old man and child; with you I shall crush young man and virgin.

23 With you I shall crush shepherd and his flock; with you I shall crush farmer and his yoked animals; with you I shall crush leaders and magistrates.

24 And before your eyes I shall repay Babylon and all the inhabitants of Chaldea for all the evil they did in Zion, says the Lord.

25 Behold, I am against you, O pestilential mountain, says the Lord, you who corrupt the whole earth. I shall stretch out my hand over you, roll you down from the rocks, and make you a mountain of burning.

26 They shall not take from you a stone for a corner or a stone for foundations, but you shall be destroyed forever, says the Lord.

27 Raise a standard in the land; sound the trumpet among the nations. Sanctify nations against her; announce against her the kings of Ararat, Menni, and Ascenez. Number Taphsar against her; bring the horse like a bruchus-locust armed with a sting.

28 Sanctify nations against her—the kings of Media, its leaders and all its magistrates, and the whole land of his power.

29 The earth shall be moved and troubled, for the purpose of the Lord shall awaken against Babylon, to make the land of Babylon deserted and uninhabitable.

30 The mighty of Babylon have ceased from battle; they have dwelt in fortresses. Their strength has been devoured, and they have become like women. Her tabernacles have been burned; her bars have been crushed.

31 Runner shall come to meet runner, and messenger to meet messenger, to announce to the king of Babylon that his city has been captured from end to end.

32 The fords have been seized, the marshes burned with fire, and the fighting men troubled.

33 For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: The daughter of Babylon is like a threshing floor; this is the time of her threshing. Yet a little while, and the time of her harvest shall come.

34 Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon has eaten me and devoured me; he has made me like an empty vessel. He swallowed me like a dragon, filled his belly with my tenderness, and cast me out.

35 ‘May the iniquity against me and my flesh be upon Babylon,’ says the inhabitant of Zion; ‘and my blood upon the inhabitants of Chaldea,’ says Jerusalem.

36 Therefore thus says the Lord: Behold, I shall judge your cause and avenge your vengeance. I shall make her sea a desert and dry up her vein.

37 Babylon shall become heaps, a habitation of dragons, an astonishment and a hissing, without an inhabitant.

38 Together they shall roar like lions; they shall shake their manes like young lions.

39 In their heat I shall set their drinks and inebriate them so that they become drowsy and sleep an everlasting sleep and do not rise, says the Lord.

40 I shall lead them down like lambs to the victim and like rams with young goats.

41 How has Sesach been captured, and the glorious one of the whole earth seized! How has Babylon become an astonishment among the nations!

42 The sea has ascended over Babylon; she has been covered by the multitude of its waves.

43 Her cities have become an astonishment, an uninhabitable and deserted land, a land in which no one dwells and through which no son of man passes.

44 I shall visit Bel in Babylon and cast from his mouth what he swallowed. Nations shall no longer flow together to him, for even the wall of Babylon shall fall.

45 Go forth from her midst, my people, that each may save his soul from the wrath of the fury of the Lord.

46 Let not your heart perhaps become soft, and do not fear the report that shall be heard in the land. A report shall come in one year, and after that year another report; iniquity shall be in the land, and ruler against ruler.

47 Therefore behold, days are coming when I shall visit the graven things of Babylon. Her whole land shall be confounded, and all her slain shall fall in her midst.

48 Heaven and earth and everything within them shall praise over Babylon, for plunderers shall come against her from the north, says the Lord.

49 And as Babylon caused the slain to fall in Israel, so from Babylon the slain shall fall throughout the whole earth.

50 You who have fled the sword, come; do not stand still. Remember the Lord from afar, and let Jerusalem rise upon your heart.

51 We have been confounded because we heard reproach; disgrace covered our faces because strangers came upon the sanctuary of the house of the Lord.

52 Therefore behold, days are coming, says the Lord, when I shall visit her graven things, and throughout her land the wounded shall groan.

53 Even if Babylon ascends into heaven and establishes her strength on high, from me her devastators shall come, says the Lord.

54 A voice of crying from Babylon and great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans,

55 because the Lord has devastated Babylon and destroyed her great voice. Their waves shall resound like many waters; their voice has given a sound.

56 For the plunderer has come upon her—that is, upon Babylon—and her mighty men have been seized, and their bow has withered, for the Lord is a mighty avenger who, repaying, shall repay.

57 I shall inebriate her princes and her wise men, her leaders and her magistrates and her mighty men; they shall sleep an everlasting sleep and shall not awaken, says the King—the Lord of hosts is his name.

58 Thus says the Lord of hosts: That exceedingly broad wall of Babylon shall be utterly undermined, and her high gates shall be burned with fire. The labors of the peoples shall come to nothing and those of the nations to fire, and they shall perish."

59 The word that Jeremiah the prophet commanded Saraias son of Nerias son of Maasias when he went with King Sedecias into Babylon in the fourth year of his reign. Now Saraias was prince of prophecy.

60 And Jeremiah wrote in one book all the evil that was to come upon Babylon—all these words that are written against Babylon.

61 And Jeremiah said to Saraias: "When you come to Babylon and see it, you shall read all these words.

62 And you shall say, 'O Lord, you have spoken against this place to destroy it, so that no one dwells within it, from man even to beast, and that it may be a perpetual solitude.'

63 And when you have finished reading this book, you shall bind a stone to it and cast it into the midst of the Euphrates.

64 And you shall say, 'Thus shall Babylon sink and not rise before the face of the affliction that I shall bring upon her, and she shall be dissolved.'" Thus far the words of Jeremiah.

CHAPTER 52

1 Sedecias was a son of twenty-one years when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Amital daughter of Jeremias of Lobna.

2 And he did evil in the eyes of the Lord according to everything Joakim had done.

3 For the fury of the Lord was upon Jerusalem and Juda until he cast them away from his face; and Sedecias withdrew from the king of Babylon.

4 And it happened in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon came—he and all his army—against Jerusalem. They besieged it and built fortifications against it all around.

5 And the city was besieged until the eleventh year of King Sedecias.

6 But in the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, famine possessed the city, and there was no food for the people of the land.

7 And the city was broken open, and all its fighting men fled. They went forth from the city by night, by the way of the gate between the two walls that leads to the king's garden, while the Chaldeans besieged the city all around; and they departed by the way that leads into the desert.

8 But the army of the Chaldeans pursued the king and seized Sedecias in the desert beside Jericho; and all his company fled away from him.

9 And when they had captured the king, they brought him to the king of Babylon at Reblatha, which is in the land of Emath; and he spoke judgments against him.

10 And the king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Sedecias before his eyes; he also killed all the princes of Juda at Reblatha.

11 And he tore out the eyes of Sedecias and bound him with fetters. The king of Babylon brought him into Babylon and placed him in the prison house until the day of his death.

12 And in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month—which was the nineteenth year of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon—Nabuzardan prince of the army, who stood before the king of Babylon, came into Jerusalem.

13 And he burned the house of the Lord, the king's house, and all the houses of Jerusalem; he burned every great house with fire.

14 And the whole army of the Chaldeans that was with the master of the soldiers destroyed the entire wall of Jerusalem all around.

15 And Nabuzardan prince of the army carried away some of the poor of the people, the remainder of the common people who remained in the city, the fugitives who had fled to the king of Babylon, and the others from the multitude.

16 But Nabuzardan prince of the army left some of the poor of the land as vine-dressers and farmers.

17 The Chaldeans also broke the bronze pillars that were in the house of the Lord, the bases, and the bronze sea that was in the house of the Lord; and they took all their bronze into Babylon.

18 They took the cauldrons, flesh-hooks, psalteries, bowls, mortars, and all the bronze vessels that had been used in ministry.

19 And the master of the soldiers took the water jars, censers, pitchers, basins, lampstands, mortars, and cups—whatever was gold, as gold, and whatever was silver, as silver.

20 The two pillars, the one sea, and the twelve bronze calves beneath the bases that King Solomon had made in the house of the Lord—the bronze of all these vessels had no weight.

21 Concerning the pillars: one pillar was eighteen cubits in height, and a cord of twelve cubits encircled it; its thickness was four fingers, and it was hollow inside.

22 And there were bronze capitals upon both. The height of one capital was five cubits, and the network and pomegranates upon the crown all around were all bronze; the second pillar and its pomegranates were similar.

23 There were ninety-six pomegranates hanging down, and all the pomegranates surrounding the network were one hundred.

24 And the master of the soldiers took Saraias the first priest, Sophonias the second priest, and the three keepers of the vestibule.

25 And from the city he took one eunuch who had been appointed over the fighting men, seven men among those who saw the king's face who were found in the city, the scribe who was prince of the soldiers and tested the recruits, and sixty men of the people of the land who were found in the midst of the city.

26 And Nabuzardan, master of the soldiers, took them and led them to the king of Babylon at Reblatha.

27 And the king of Babylon struck and killed them at Reblatha in the land of Emath; and Juda was carried away from his own land.

28 This is the people whom Nabuchodonosor carried away: in the seventh year, three thousand twenty-three Jews;

29 in the eighteenth year of Nabuchodonosor, eight hundred thirty-two souls from Jerusalem;

30 in the twenty-third year of Nabuchodonosor, Nabuzardan, master of the soldiers, carried away seven hundred forty-five souls of the Jews. Therefore all the souls were four thousand six hundred.

31 And it happened in the thirty-seventh year of the migration of Joachin king of Juda, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-fifth day of the month, that Evilmerodach king of Babylon, in the year of his reign, lifted up the head of Joachin king of Juda and brought him out of the prison house.

32 And he spoke good things with him and placed his throne above the thrones of the kings who were after him in Babylon.

33 And he changed his prison garments, and Joachin always ate bread before him all the days of his life.

34 And his provisions—perpetual provisions—were given to him by the king, appointed for each day, until the day of his death, all the days of his life.

BOOK TWENTY-FIVE: LAMENTATIONS

CHAPTER 1

1 Prologue: And it came to pass, after Israel had been led into captivity and Jerusalem was deserted, that Jeremiah the prophet sat weeping and lamented with this lamentation over Jerusalem; and sighing with a bitter spirit and wailing, he said: ALEPH. How does the city, once full of people, sit alone! The mistress of the nations has become like a widow; the princess of provinces has been placed under tribute.

2 BETH. Weeping, she has wept in the night, and her tears are upon her cheeks. Of all who were dear to her, there is no one to console her; all her friends have despised her and become her enemies.

3 GHIMEL. Juda has migrated because of affliction and the multitude of servitude. She has dwelt among the nations and found no rest; all her persecutors overtook her amid her straits.

4 DALETH. The ways of Sion mourn because none come to the solemn feast. All her gates are destroyed, her priests groan, her virgins are squalid, and she herself is oppressed with bitterness.

5 HE. Her enemies have become the head; her adversaries have grown rich, because the Lord (YHWH) has spoken against her for the multitude of her iniquities. Her little ones have been led into captivity before the face of the oppressor.

6 VAU. And all her beauty has departed from the daughter of Sion. Her princes have become like rams finding no pasture, and they have gone without strength before the face of the pursuer.

7 ZAIN. Jerusalem remembered the days of her affliction and transgression, and all her precious things that she had possessed from ancient days, when her people fell into the enemy's hand and there was no helper. Her enemies saw her and mocked her sabbaths.

8 HETH. Jerusalem has sinned a sin; therefore she has become unstable. All who glorified her have despised her because they saw her shame; but she, groaning, has turned backward.

9 TETH. Her filth is upon her feet, and she did not remember her end. She has been cast down violently, having no consoler. See, O Lord, my affliction, for the enemy has lifted himself up.

10 JOD. The enemy has stretched out his hand to all her precious things, for she saw the nations enter her sanctuary—those concerning whom you had commanded that they should not enter your assembly.

11 CAPH. All her people groan and seek bread. They have given every precious thing for food to revive the soul. See, O Lord, and consider, for I have become vile!

12 LAMED. O all you who pass by the way, attend and see whether there is any sorrow like my sorrow! For the Lord has harvested me, as he spoke, in the day of the wrath of his fury.

13 MEM. From on high he sent fire into my bones and instructed me. He spread a net for my feet; he turned me backward. He made me desolate, consumed with sorrow all the day.

14 NUN. The yoke of my iniquities has kept watch; they are folded together in his hand and laid upon my neck. My strength has been weakened; the Lord has given me into a hand from which I cannot rise.

15 SAMECH. The Lord has taken away all my mighty ones from my midst. He summoned a time against me to crush my chosen men. The Lord has trodden the winepress for the virgin daughter of Juda.

16 AIN. Therefore I weep, and my eye runs down with waters, because the consoler who would restore my soul has gone far from me. My children have been lost, because the enemy has prevailed.

17 PHE. Sion has stretched out her hands; there is no one to console her. The Lord has commanded enemies against Jacob round about him; Jerusalem has become among them like a woman polluted by menstruation.

18 SADE. The Lord is just, for I have provoked his mouth to wrath. Hear, I beseech you, all peoples, and see my sorrow: my virgins and my young men have gone into captivity.

19 COPH. I called my friends, but they deceived me. My priests and my elders were consumed in the city, for they sought food for themselves to revive their souls.

20 RES. See, O Lord, for I am in distress; my inward parts are troubled, my heart is overturned within me, for I am full of bitterness. Outside the sword has slain, and at home there is a death like it.

21 SIN. They have heard that I groan, and there is no one to console me. All my enemies have heard of my calamity; they rejoiced because you have done it. You have brought the day of consolation, and they shall become like me.

22 THAU. Let all their evil enter before you, and harvest them as you have harvested me for all my iniquities; for my groans are many, and my heart is sorrowful.

CHAPTER 2

1 ALEPH. How has the Lord covered the daughter of Sion with darkness in his fury! He has cast the glory of Israel from heaven to earth, and has not remembered his footstool in the day of his fury.

2 BETH. The Lord has cast down without sparing all the beautiful things of Jacob. In his fury he has destroyed the fortifications of the virgin of Juda and thrown them to the ground; he has profaned the kingdom and its princes.

3 GHIMEL. In the wrath of his fury he has broken every horn of Israel. He has turned his right hand backward from before the enemy, and has kindled in Jacob like a flaming fire devouring round about.

4 DALETH. He has bent his bow like an enemy; he has made firm his right hand like an adversary, and in the tabernacle of the daughter of Sion he has slain all that was beautiful to the eye. He has poured out his indignation like fire.

5 HE. The Lord has become like an enemy; he has cast down Israel. He has cast down all her walls, destroyed her fortifications, and filled the daughter of Juda with the humbled man and the humbled woman.

6 VAU. He has destroyed his tent like a garden; he has demolished his tabernacle. The Lord has delivered feast day and sabbath to oblivion in Sion, and king and priest to reproach and to the indignation of his fury.

7 ZAIN. The Lord has rejected his altar; he has cursed his sanctuary. He has delivered the walls of her towers into the enemy's hand. They raised their voice in the house of the Lord as on a solemn day.

8 HETH. The Lord resolved to destroy the wall of the daughter of Sion. He stretched out his measuring line and did not turn his hand away from destruction; the outer wall mourned, and the wall was destroyed together with it.

9 TETH. Her gates are sunk into the ground; he has destroyed and shattered her bars. Her king and her princes are among the nations. There is no law, and her prophets have found no vision from the Lord.

10 JOD. The elders of the daughter of Sion have sat upon the ground in silence. They have sprinkled ashes upon their heads and girded themselves with sackcloth; the virgins of Jerusalem have cast their heads down to the ground.

11 CAPH. My eyes have failed from tears; my inward parts are troubled. My liver has been poured upon the ground over the destruction of the daughter of my people, as child and suckling fainted in the streets of the town.

12 LAMED. They said to their mothers, "Where is grain and wine?" as they fainted like the wounded in the streets of the city, as they breathed out their souls in their mothers' bosoms.

13 MEM. To what shall I compare you, or to what shall I liken you, O daughter of Jerusalem? To what shall I make you equal, that I may console you, O virgin daughter of Sion? For your destruction is as great as the sea; who shall heal you?

14 NUN. Your prophets saw false and foolish things for you; they did not uncover your iniquity so as to provoke you to repentance, but they saw for you false assumptions and expulsions.

15 SAMECH. All who passed by the way clapped their hands over you; they hissed and shook their heads over the daughter of Jerusalem, saying, "Is this the city of perfect beauty, the joy of all the earth?"

16 PHE. All your enemies opened their mouths against you; they hissed and gnashed their teeth and said, "We shall devour her! Behold, this is the day we awaited; we have found it, we have seen it."

17 AIN. The Lord has done what he resolved; he has fulfilled his word, which he commanded from ancient days. He has destroyed and has not spared; he has made the enemy rejoice over you and has exalted the horn of your adversaries.

18 SADE. Their heart cried to the Lord upon the walls of the daughter of Sion: Let your tears run down like a torrent by day and by night. Give yourself no rest, and let not the pupil of your eye be silent.

19 COPH. Arise, give praise in the night, at the beginning of the watches. Pour out your heart like water before the face of the Lord. Lift your hands to him for the souls of your little ones, who have fainted from hunger at the head of every crossroads.

20 RES. See, O Lord, and consider whom you have harvested in this manner. Shall women, then, eat their own fruit, little ones the measure of a palm? Shall priest and prophet be slain in the sanctuary of the Lord?

21 SIN. Boy and old man lie on the ground outside; my virgins and my young men have fallen by the sword. You slew them in the day of your fury; you struck and did not show mercy.

22 THAU. As on a solemn day, you summoned those who would terrify me round about. In the day of the Lord's fury there was no one who escaped or was left; those whom I brought forth and nourished, my enemy consumed.

CHAPTER 3

1 ALEPH. I am the man who sees my poverty beneath the rod of his indignation.

2 ALEPH. He has driven me and brought me into darkness, and not into light.

3 ALEPH. Only against me he has turned and turned again his hand all the day.

4 BETH. He has made my skin and my flesh grow old; he has broken my bones.

5 BETH. He has built round about me and encompassed me with gall and labor.

6 BETH. He has placed me in dark places, like the everlasting dead.

7 GHIMEL. He has built round about against me so that I cannot go out; he has made my fetter heavy.

8 GHIMEL. Even when I cry out and plead, he has shut out my prayer.

9 GHIMEL. He has enclosed my ways with hewn stones; he has overturned my paths.

10 DALETH. He has become to me a bear lying in wait, a lion in hidden places.

11 DALETH. He has overturned my paths and broken me; he has made me desolate.

12 DALETH. He has bent his bow and set me like a target for the arrow.

13 HE. He has sent the daughters of his quiver into my inward parts.

14 HE. I have become a derision to all my people, their song all the day.

15 HE. He has filled me with bitterness; he has made me drunk with wormwood.

16 VAU. And he has broken my teeth one by one; he has fed me with ashes.

17 VAU. And my soul has been cast away from peace; I have forgotten good things.

18 VAU. And I said, “My end has perished, and my hope from the Lord.”

19 ZAIN. Remember my poverty and my transgression, the wormwood and the gall.

20 ZAIN. Remembering, I shall remember, and my soul shall waste away within me.

21 ZAIN. Recalling this in my heart, therefore I shall hope.

22 HETH. By the mercies of the Lord we have not been consumed, because his tender mercies have not failed.

23 HETH. They are new at dawn; great is your faithfulness.

24 HETH. “The Lord is my portion,” said my soul; therefore I shall wait for him.

25 TETH. The Lord is good to those who hope in him, to the soul that seeks him.

26 TETH. It is good to wait in silence for the salvation of God.

27 TETH. It is good for a man when he has borne the yoke from his youth.

28 JOD. He shall sit alone and be silent, because he has lifted it upon himself.

29 JOD. He shall place his mouth in the dust, if perhaps there may be hope.

30 JOD. He shall give his cheek to the one who strikes him; he shall be filled with reproaches.

31 CAPH. For the Lord will not reject forever.

32 CAPH. For if he has cast away, he will also have mercy according to the multitude of his mercies.

33 CAPH. For he has not humbled from his heart or cast away the children of men.

34 LAMED. To crush beneath his feet all the prisoners of the earth,

35 LAMED. to turn aside the judgment of a man before the face of the Most High,

36 LAMED. to pervert a man in his judgment—the Lord has not known this.

37 MEM. Who is he that spoke, and it came to pass, when the Lord did not command it?

38 MEM. Shall not both evils and good things go forth from the mouth of the Most High?

39 MEM. Why has a living man murmured—a man because of his sins?

40 NUN. Let us examine our ways and seek, and let us return to the Lord.

41 NUN. Let us lift our hearts with our hands to the Lord in the heavens.

42 NUN. We have acted wickedly and provoked you to wrath; therefore you are inexorable.

43 SAMECH. You have covered us in fury and struck us; you have slain and have not spared.

44 SAMECH. You have placed a cloud before yourself so that prayer may not pass through.

45 SAMECH. You have made me an uprooting and a castaway in the midst of the peoples.

46 PHE. All our enemies have opened their mouths against us.

47 PHE. Prophecy has become for us dread and a snare, and destruction.

48 PHE. My eye has poured down streams of water over the destruction of the daughter of my people.

49 AIN. My eye is afflicted and has not been silent, because there was no rest, 50 AIN. until the Lord looked down and saw from heaven.

51 AIN. My eye has plundered my soul because of all the daughters of my city.

52 SADE. My enemies hunted and captured me like a bird, without cause.

53 SADE. My life slipped into the pit, and they placed a stone over me.

54 SADE. Waters overflowed above my head; I said, “I have perished.”

55 COPH. I invoked your name, O Lord, from the lowest pit.

56 COPH. You heard my voice; do not turn your ear away from my sobbing and my cries.

57 COPH. You drew near on the day when I invoked you; you said, “Do not fear.”

58 RES. You have judged, O Lord, the cause of my soul, O Redeemer of my life.

59 RES. You have seen, O Lord, their iniquity against me; judge my judgment.

60 RES. You have seen all their fury, all their designs against me.

61 SIN. You have heard their reproach, O Lord, all their designs against me,

62 SIN. the lips of those rising against me, and their meditations against me all the day.

63 SIN. Behold their sitting and their rising; I am their psalm.

64 THAU. You shall repay them, O Lord, according to the works of their hands.

65 THAU. You shall give them a shield over the heart—your labor.

66 THAU. You shall pursue them in fury and crush them from beneath the heavens, O Lord.

CHAPTER 4

1 ALEPH. How has the gold grown dim; how has the finest color changed! The stones of the sanctuary are scattered at the head of every street.

2 BETH. The illustrious sons of Sion, clothed in finest gold—how have they been reckoned as earthen vessels, the work of a potter's hands!

3 GHIMEL. Even the lamias have bared the breast and nursed their young; the daughter of my people is cruel, like the ostrich in the desert.

4 DALETH. The suckling's tongue has clung to his palate in thirst. The little ones asked for bread, and there was no one to break it for them.

5 HE. Those who fed luxuriously perished in the ways; those reared in saffron garments embraced dung.

6 VAU. And the iniquity of the daughter of my people has become greater than the sin of Sodom, which was overthrown in a moment, and no hands took hold in her.

7 ZAIN. Her Nazarites were whiter than snow, more radiant than milk, ruddier than ancient ivory, more beautiful than sapphire.

8 HETH. Their faces have become blacker than coals, and they are not recognized in the streets. Their skin has clung to their bones; it has withered and become like wood.

9 TETH. Better were those slain by the sword than those killed by famine, for these wasted away, consumed by the barrenness of the earth.

10 JOD. The hands of compassionate women cooked their own children; they became their food in the destruction of the daughter of my people.

11 CAPH. The Lord has fulfilled his fury; he has poured out the wrath of his indignation. He has kindled a fire in Sion, and it has devoured her foundations.

12 LAMED. The kings of the earth and all the inhabitants of the world did not believe that adversary and enemy would enter through the gates of Jerusalem.

13 MEM. It was because of the sins of her prophets and the iniquities of her priests, who shed the blood of the just in her midst.

14 NUN. They wandered blind through the streets; they were polluted with blood, and when they could not avoid it, they held up the hems of their garments.

15 SAMECH. "Depart, you polluted!" they cried to them. "Depart, go away, do not touch!" For they quarreled and were driven away; they said among the nations, "He will no longer allow them to dwell there."

16 PHE. The face of the Lord has divided them; he will no longer look upon them. They did not blush before the faces of the priests, nor did they have mercy on the elders.

17 AIN. While we still stood, our eyes failed as we looked for our vain help, watching intently for a nation that could not save.

18 SADE. Our footsteps slipped along the course of our streets. Our end drew near; our days were fulfilled, for our end had come.

19 COPH. Our persecutors were swifter than the eagles of heaven. They pursued us upon the mountains; they lay in wait for us in the desert.

20 RES. The breath of our mouth, Christ the Lord, was captured in our sins—he of whom we said, "In your shadow we shall live among the nations."

21 SIN. Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Edom, who dwell in the land of Hus! The cup shall come also to you; you shall become drunk and be stripped bare.

22 THAU. Your iniquity is completed, O daughter of Sion; he will no longer cause you to migrate. He has visited your iniquity, O daughter of Edom; he has uncovered your sins.

CHAPTER 5

1 Prayer of Jeremiah the Prophet. Remember, O Lord, what has befallen us; behold and look upon our reproach.

2 Our inheritance has been turned over to strangers, our houses to foreigners.

3 We have become orphans without a father; our mothers are like widows.

4 We have drunk our own water for money; we have bought our own wood for a price.

5 We were driven by our necks; no rest was given to the weary.

6 We gave our hand to Egypt and to the Assyrians, that we might be satisfied with bread.

7 Our fathers sinned and are no more, and we have borne their iniquities.

8 Servants have ruled over us; there was no one to redeem us from their hand.

9 At the peril of our souls we brought bread for ourselves, before the face of the sword in the desert.

10 Our skin was burned like an oven before the face of the storms of famine.

11 They violated the women in Sion and the virgins in the cities of Juda.

12 Princes were hanged by the hand; they did not blush before the faces of the elders.

13 They shamefully abused the young men, and the boys fell beneath the wood.

14 The elders have vanished from the gates, the young men from the choir of singers.

15 The joy of our heart has failed; our dance has been turned into mourning.

16 The crown has fallen from our head. Woe to us, for we have sinned!

17 Because of this our heart has become sorrowful; therefore our eyes have grown dark,

18 because Mount Sion has been laid waste; foxes have walked upon it.

19 But you, O Lord, shall remain forever, your throne from generation to generation.

20 Why will you forget us forever and forsake us for length of days?

21 Turn us, O Lord, to you, and we shall be turned; renew our days as from the beginning.

22 But casting us away, you have rejected us; you are exceedingly angry against us.

BOOK TWENTY-SIX: EZEKIEL

CHAPTER 1

1 And it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth of the month, while I was in the midst of the captives beside the river Chobar, that the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God.

2 On the fifth of the month—it was the fifth year of the migration of King Joachin—

3 the word of the Lord (YHWH) came to Ezekiel son of Buzi, the priest, in the land of the Chaldeans beside the river Chobar; and the hand of the Lord came upon him there.

4 And I saw, and behold, a whirlwind came from the north: a great cloud, fire enfolding itself, and brightness round about it; and from its midst, from the midst of the fire, there was as it were the appearance of electrum.

5 And in its midst was the likeness of four living creatures. And this was their appearance: the likeness of a man was in them.

6 Each one had four faces, and each one had four wings.

7 Their feet were straight feet, and the sole of their foot was like the sole of a calf's foot; and they sparkled like the appearance of glowing bronze.

8 And they had the hands of a man beneath their wings on their four sides; and the four had faces and wings.

9 Their wings were joined one to another. They did not turn back when they went, but each one advanced before his own face.

10 And the likeness of their countenances was the face of a man; all four had the face of a lion on their right, all four had the face of an ox on their left, and all four had the face of an eagle above.

11 Their faces and their wings were spread out above: two wings of each were joined, and two covered their bodies.

12 And each one walked before his own face. Wherever the impulse of the spirit was, there they advanced; they did not turn back when they walked.

13 And as for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was like burning coals of fire and like the appearance of lamps. This was the vision coursing through the midst of the living creatures: the brightness of fire, and lightning going forth from the fire.

14 And the living creatures went and returned like the flashing of lightning.

15 And as I looked upon the living creatures, one wheel appeared upon the earth beside the living creatures, having four faces.

16 And the appearance of the wheels and their workmanship was like the vision of the sea. The four had one likeness, and their appearance and workmanship were as though a wheel were in the midst of a wheel.

17 Going, they went toward their four sides, and they did not turn back when they walked.

18 The wheels also had stature and height, and a dreadful appearance; and the whole body of all four was full of eyes round about.

19 And when the living creatures walked, the wheels likewise walked beside them; and when the living creatures were lifted from the earth, the wheels were lifted up together.

20 Wherever the spirit went, there, as the spirit went, the wheels also were lifted up together, following it; for the spirit of life was in the wheels.

21 When those went, these went; and when those stood, these stood. And when they were lifted from the earth, the wheels also were lifted up together, following them, because the spirit of life was in the wheels.

22 And above the heads of the living creatures was the likeness of a firmament, like the appearance of dreadful crystal, stretched out above their heads.

23 And beneath the firmament their wings were straight, one toward another. Each one covered his body with two wings, and the other was covered in like manner.

24 And I heard the sound of their wings like the sound of many waters, like the sound of the Most High God. When they walked, it was like the sound of a multitude, like the sound of an army; and when they stood, their wings were lowered.

25 For when a voice came from above the firmament that was over their heads, they stood and lowered their wings.

26 And above the firmament that hung over their heads was the likeness of a throne, like the appearance of a sapphire stone; and above the likeness of the throne was a likeness like the appearance of a man above it.

27 And I saw something like the appearance of electrum, like the appearance of fire within it round about. From his loins and upward, and from his loins downward, I saw something like the appearance of fire shining round about,

28 like the appearance of the bow when it is in a cloud on a rainy day. This was the appearance of the brightness round about.

CHAPTER 2

1 This was the vision of the likeness of the glory of the Lord. And I saw, and I fell upon my face, and I heard the voice of one speaking; and he said to me, “Son of man, stand upon your feet, and I shall speak with you.”

2 And after he spoke to me, the spirit entered into me and set me upon my feet; and I heard him speaking to me

3 and saying, “Son of man, I am sending you to the children of Israel, to apostate nations that have departed from me. They and their fathers have transgressed my pact even to this day.

4 And the children are hard of face and untamable of heart, to whom I send you. And you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord God:

5 If perhaps even they will hear, and if perhaps they will cease—for they are a provoking house—they shall know that there has been a prophet in their midst.

6 Therefore you, son of man, do not fear them, nor dread their words, for unbelievers and destroyers are with you, and you dwell with scorpions. Do not fear their words, nor dread their countenances, for they are a provoking house.

7 Therefore you shall speak my words to them, if perhaps they will hear and cease, for they are provocateurs.

8 But you, son of man, hear all that I speak to you, and do not be provoking as that provoking house is. Open your mouth and eat whatsoever I give you.”

9 And I saw, and behold, a hand was extended to me, in which was a rolled book. And he spread it out before me; it was written within and without, and lamentations, a song, and woe were written in it.

CHAPTER 3

1 And he said to me, “Son of man, eat whatsoever you find. Eat this scroll, and go and speak to the children of Israel.”

2 And I opened my mouth, and he fed me that scroll.

3 And he said to me, “Son of man, your belly shall eat, and your inward parts shall be filled with this scroll that I give you.” And I ate it, and in my mouth it became sweet as honey.

4 And he said to me, “Son of man, go to the house of Israel, and you shall speak my words to them.

5 For you are not being sent to a people of profound speech and an unknown tongue, but to the house of Israel;

6 nor to many peoples of profound speech and an unknown tongue, whose words you cannot understand. And if you were sent to them, they would hear you.

7 But the house of Israel is unwilling to hear you, because they are unwilling to hear me; for the whole house of Israel is worn of forehead and hard of heart.

8 Behold, I have made your face stronger than their faces and your forehead harder than their foreheads.

9 I have made your face like adamant and like flint. Do not fear them, nor be afraid before their face, for they are a provoking house.”

10 And he said to me, “Son of man, take into your heart all my words that I speak to you, and hear them with your ears.

11 And go, enter among the exiles, among the children of your people, and speak to them. And you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord God—if perhaps they will hear and cease.”

12 And the spirit took me up, and I heard behind me the sound of a great commotion: “Blessed be the glory of the Lord from his place!”

13 And I heard the sound of the wings of the living creatures striking one against another, and the sound of the wheels following the living creatures, and the sound of a great commotion.

14 The spirit also lifted me up and took me away; and I went away bitter in the indignation of my spirit, for the hand of the Lord was with me, strengthening me.

15 And I came to the exiles, to the Heap of New Grain, to those who dwelt beside the river Chobar; and I sat where they sat, and remained there seven days, mourning in their midst.

16 And when seven days had passed, the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

17 “Son of man, I have appointed you a watchman for the house of Israel. You shall hear the word from my mouth and proclaim it to them from me.

18 If, when I say to the wicked man, ‘Dying, you shall die,’ you do not proclaim it to him or speak so that he may turn away from his wicked way and live, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity, but I shall require his blood from your hand.

19 But if you proclaim it to the wicked man, and he is not turned from his wickedness and from his wicked way, he indeed shall die in his iniquity, but you have delivered your soul.

20 Moreover, if a just man turns away from his justice and commits iniquity, I shall place a stumbling block before him. He shall die because you did not proclaim it to him. He shall die in his sin, and the acts of justice he performed shall not be remembered; but I shall require his blood from your hand.

21 But if you warn the just man so that the just man does not sin, and he does not sin, living, he shall live because you warned him; and you have delivered your soul.”

22 And the hand of the Lord came upon me, and he said to me, “Arise, go out into the plain, and there I shall speak with you.”

23 And rising, I went out into the plain; and behold, the glory of the Lord stood there, like the glory I had seen beside the river Chobar. And I fell upon my face.

24 And the spirit entered into me and set me upon my feet, and he spoke to me and said, “Go in, and shut yourself within your house.

25 And you, son of man, behold, bonds have been placed upon you; they shall bind you with them, and you shall not go out from their midst.

26 And I shall make your tongue cling to your palate, and you shall be mute and not as a man who rebukes, for they are a provoking house.

27 But when I have spoken to you, I shall open your mouth, and you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord God: He who hears, let him hear; and he who ceases, let him cease, for they are a provoking house.”

CHAPTER 4

1 “And you, son of man, take a brick for yourself, place it before you, and inscribe upon it the city of Jerusalem.

2 And arrange a siege against it; build fortifications, heap up a rampart, set camps against it, and place battering rams round about.

3 And take for yourself an iron pan, and place it as an iron wall between you and the city. Set your face firmly against it, and it shall be under siege, and you shall surround it. This is a sign to the house of Israel.

4 And you shall lie upon your left side and place the iniquities of the house of Israel upon it. According to the number of days during which you lie upon it, you shall bear their iniquity.

5 And I have given you the years of their iniquity according to the number of days: three hundred and ninety days. And you shall bear the iniquity of the house of Israel.

6 And when you have completed these, you shall lie upon your right side a second time, and you shall bear the iniquity of the house of Juda forty days. A day for a year—a day, I say, for a year—I have given you.

7 And you shall turn your face toward the siege of Jerusalem, and your arm shall be outstretched; and you shall prophesy against it.

8 Behold, I have surrounded you with bonds, and you shall not turn from your side to the other side until you complete the days of your siege.

9 And take for yourself wheat, barley, beans, lentils, millet, and spelt; put them into one vessel and make bread for yourself according to the number of days during which you lie upon your side. For three hundred and ninety days you shall eat it.

10 And your food that you eat shall be by weight: twenty staters a day. From time to time you shall eat it.

11 And you shall drink water by measure, a sixth part of a hin. From time to time you shall drink it.

12 And you shall eat it like barley bread baked under ashes; and before their eyes you shall cover it with the dung that comes out of a man.”

13 And the Lord said, “Thus shall the children of Israel eat their polluted bread among the nations to which I shall cast them out.” And I said:

14 “Ah, ah, ah, O Lord God! Behold, my soul has not been polluted. From my infancy even until now, I have not eaten anything that died of itself or was torn by beasts, and no unclean flesh has entered my mouth.”

15 And he said to me, “Behold, I have given you cattle dung in place of human dung, and you shall make your bread with it.”

16 And he said to me, “Son of man, behold, I shall break the staff of bread in Jerusalem; and they shall eat bread by weight and in anxiety, and drink water by measure and in anguish,

17 so that, as bread and water fail, each one may collapse against his brother, and they may waste away in their iniquities.”

CHAPTER 5

1 “And you, son of man, take for yourself a sharp sword that shaves hair. Take it and draw it over your head and your beard; then take for yourself a weighing scale and divide the hair.

2 You shall burn a third part with fire in the midst of the city when the days of the siege are completed. You shall take a third part and cut it with the sword round about the city; but the other third you shall scatter to the wind, and I shall unsheathe the sword after them.

3 And from it you shall take a small number and bind them in the edge of your mantle.

4 And from these you shall take some again, cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them with fire; and from it fire shall go forth into all the house of Israel.

5 Thus says the Lord God: This is Jerusalem. I have placed her in the midst of the nations, and the lands round about her.

6 And she has despised my judgments, so that she was more wicked than the nations, and my commandments more than the lands round about her; for they have cast away my judgments and have not walked in my commandments.

7 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you have surpassed the nations round about you, have not walked in my commandments, have not performed my judgments, and have not acted according to the judgments of the nations round about you,

8 therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, and I myself shall execute judgments in your midst in the sight of the nations.

9 And because of all your abominations, I shall do in you what I have not done and the like of which I shall do no more.

10 Therefore fathers shall eat their sons in your midst, and sons shall eat their fathers. And I shall execute judgments in you, and winnow all your remnants into every wind.

11 Therefore, as I live, says the Lord God, because you have violated my holy place with all your offenses and all your abominations, I also shall break you. My eye shall not spare, and I shall not show mercy.

12 A third part of you shall die by pestilence and be consumed by famine in your midst; a third part of you shall fall by the sword round about you; but your other third part I shall scatter into every wind, and I shall draw the sword after them.

13 And I shall fulfill my fury and cause my indignation to rest upon them, and I shall be consoled. And they shall know that I, the Lord, have spoken in my zeal, when I have fulfilled my indignation upon them.

14 And I shall make you a desert and a reproach to the nations round about you, in the sight of everyone who passes by.

15 And you shall be a reproach and a blasphemy, an example and an astonishment among the nations round about you, when I execute judgments in you in fury, indignation, and rebukes of wrath.

16 I, the Lord, have spoken: when I send the most grievous arrows of famine upon them, which shall be deadly and which I shall send to destroy you, I shall gather famine upon you and break among you the staff of bread.

17 And I shall send upon you famine and the most savage beasts, even to destruction; and pestilence and blood shall pass through you, and I shall bring the sword upon you. I, the Lord, have spoken.”

CHAPTER 6

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, set your face toward the mountains of Israel and prophesy to them,

3 and say: Mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God. Thus says the Lord God to the mountains and hills, the rocks and valleys: Behold, I shall bring the sword upon you and destroy your high places.

4 And I shall demolish your altars, and your idols shall be broken; and I shall cast down your slain before your idols.

5 And I shall place the corpses of the children of Israel before the faces of your idols, and I shall scatter your bones round about your altars.

6 In all your dwelling places the cities shall be deserted, and the high places shall be demolished and destroyed. Your altars shall perish and be broken; your idols shall cease, your shrines shall be crushed, and your works shall be erased.

7 And the slain shall fall in your midst, and you shall know that I am the Lord.

8 And I shall leave among you those who escape the sword among the nations, when I scatter you through the lands.

9 And those of you who are delivered shall remember me among the nations to which they were led captive, because I broke their fornicating heart that departed from me and their eyes that fornicated after their idols. And they shall be displeased with themselves over the evils they committed in all their abominations.

10 And they shall know that I, the Lord, did not speak in vain when I said I would do this evil to them.

11 Thus says the Lord God: Strike your hand and stamp your foot, and say: Alas for all the evil abominations of the house of Israel! For they shall fall by sword, famine, and pestilence.

12 He who is far away shall die by pestilence; he who is near shall fall by the sword; and he who is left and besieged shall die by famine. And I shall fulfill my indignation upon them.

13 And you shall know that I am the Lord when your slain lie among your idols, round about your altars, upon every high hill, upon all the summits of the mountains, beneath every leafy tree, and beneath every thickly foliaged oak—the place where they burned fragrant incense to all their idols.

14 And I shall stretch out my hand over them and make the land desolate and destitute, from the desert of Deblatha, in all their dwelling places; and they shall know that I am the Lord.”

CHAPTER 7

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “And you, son of man, thus says the Lord God to the land of Israel: The end has come! The end has come upon the four quarters of the land.

3 Now the end is upon you, and I shall send my fury into you. I shall judge you according to your ways and set all your abominations against you.

4 And my eye shall not spare you, nor shall I show mercy; but I shall place your ways upon you, and your abominations shall be in your midst. And you shall know that I am the Lord.

5 Thus says the Lord God: One affliction—behold, the affliction comes.

6 The end has come; the end has come. It has awakened against you; behold, it comes.

7 Destruction has come upon you who dwell in the land. The time has come; the day of slaughter is near, and not the glory of the mountains.

8 Now, from close at hand, I shall pour out my wrath upon you and fulfill my fury in you. I shall judge you according to your ways and lay all your crimes upon you.

9 And my eye shall not spare, nor shall I show mercy; but I shall lay your ways upon you, and your abominations shall be in your midst. And you shall know that I am the Lord who strikes.

10 Behold the day; behold, it comes. Destruction has gone forth, the rod has blossomed, pride has budded.

11 Iniquity has risen upon the rod of wickedness. Nothing shall remain of them, nor of the people, nor of their tumult; and there shall be no rest among them.

12 The time has come; the day has drawn near. Let him who buys not rejoice, and him who sells not mourn, for wrath is upon all its people.

13 For he who sells shall not return to what he sold, though their life is still among the living. For the vision concerning all its multitude shall not turn back, and a man shall not be strengthened in the iniquity of his life.

14 Sound the trumpet; let all be prepared. Yet there is no one who goes to battle, for my wrath is upon all its people.

15 The sword is outside, and pestilence and famine within. He who is in the field shall die by the sword, and those in the city shall be devoured by pestilence and famine.

16 And those among them who flee shall be saved; they shall be in the mountains like doves of the valleys, all of them trembling, each one in his iniquity.

17 All hands shall be loosened, and all knees shall flow with water.

18 And they shall gird themselves with sackcloth, and dread shall cover them. Confusion shall be upon every face, and baldness upon all their heads.

19 Their silver shall be cast outside, and their gold shall become a dunghill. Their silver and gold shall not be able to deliver them in the day of the Lord’s fury. They shall not satisfy their souls or fill their bellies, because it has become the stumbling block of their iniquity.

20 And they turned the ornament of their jewels into pride and made from it images of their abominations and idols; therefore I have given it to them as uncleanness.

21 And I shall give it into the hands of foreigners to plunder, and to the wicked of the earth for spoil; and they shall defile it.

22 And I shall turn my face away from them, and they shall violate my secret place; marauders shall enter it and defile it.

23 Make a chain, for the land is full of judgments of blood, and the city is full of iniquity.

24 And I shall bring the worst of the nations, and they shall possess their houses. I shall cause the pride of the mighty to cease, and they shall possess their sanctuaries.

25 When anguish comes upon them, they shall seek peace, and there shall be none.

26 Turmoil shall come upon turmoil, and report upon report. They shall seek a vision from the prophet; the law shall perish from the priest, and counsel from the elders.

27 The king shall mourn, the prince shall be clothed with sorrow, and the hands of the people of the land shall be troubled. I shall deal with them according to their way, and according to their judgments I shall judge them; and they shall know that I am the Lord.”

CHAPTER 8

1 And it came to pass in the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth of the month, that I was sitting in my house, and the elders of Juda were sitting before me; and the hand of the Lord God fell upon me there.

2 And I saw, and behold, a likeness like the appearance of fire: from the appearance of his loins downward, fire; and from his loins upward, like the appearance of brightness, as the vision of electrum.

3 And the likeness of a hand was extended and took me by a lock of my head; and the spirit lifted me up between earth and heaven and brought me to Jerusalem, in a vision of God, beside the inner gate that looked toward the north, where the idol of jealousy was placed to provoke jealousy.

4 And behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there, according to the vision I had seen in the plain.

5 And he said to me, “Son of man, lift your eyes toward the way of the north.” And I lifted my eyes toward the way of the north; and behold, north of the altar gate, the idol of jealousy was in the very entrance.

6 And he said to me, “Son of man, do you think you see what these are doing—the great abominations that the house of Israel commits here, so that I should withdraw far from my sanctuary? And turning again, you shall see greater abominations.”

7 And he brought me to the entrance of the court, and I saw, and behold, there was one opening in the wall.

8 And he said to me, “Son of man, dig through the wall.” And when I had dug through the wall, one doorway appeared.

9 And he said to me, “Enter, and see the most wicked abominations that these commit here.”

10 And entering, I saw; and behold, every likeness of creeping things and animals—an abomination—and all the idols of the house of Israel were painted upon the wall, round about, throughout the whole place.

11 And seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel stood before the paintings, with Jezonias son of Saphan standing in their midst. Each one had a censer in his hand, and a vaporous cloud of incense ascended.

12 And he said to me, “Surely you see, son of man, what the elders of the house of Israel do in darkness, each one in the hidden chamber of his own room. For they say, ‘The Lord does not see us; the Lord has forsaken the land.’”

13 And he said to me, “Turning again, you shall see still greater abominations that these commit.”

14 And he brought me through the entrance of the gate of the house of the Lord that looked toward the north; and behold, women were sitting there, mourning for Adonis.

15 And he said to me, “Surely you have seen, son of man. Turning again, you shall see still greater abominations than these.”

16 And he brought me into the inner court of the house of the Lord; and behold, at the entrance of the temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty-five men with their backs toward the temple of the Lord and their faces toward the east; and they adored toward the rising sun.

17 And he said to me, “Surely you have seen, son of man. Is it a light thing for the house of Juda to commit these abominations that they have committed here? For having filled the land with iniquity, they have turned again to provoke me. And behold, they put a branch to their noses.

18 Therefore I also shall act in fury. My eye shall not spare, nor shall I show mercy; and when they cry to my ears with a loud voice, I shall not hear them.”

CHAPTER 9

1 And he cried in my ears with a loud voice, saying, “The visitations of the city have drawn near, and each one has an instrument of slaughter in his hand.”

2 And behold, six men came from the way of the upper gate that looks toward the north, each one with an instrument of destruction in his hand. And one man in their midst was clothed in linen, with a writer’s inkhorn at his loins. They entered and stood beside the bronze altar.

3 And the glory of the Lord of Israel was taken up from the cherub over which it had been, toward the threshold of the house. And he called to the man who was clothed in linen and had the writer’s inkhorn at his loins.

4 And the Lord said to him, “Pass through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem, and mark a Thau upon the foreheads of the men who groan and grieve over all the abominations committed in its midst.”

5 And to the others he said in my hearing, “Pass through the city following him, and strike. Let your eye not spare, and do not show mercy.

6 Slay old man, young man, virgin, little one, and women, even to destruction; but do not kill anyone upon whom you see the Thau. And begin at my sanctuary.” Therefore they began with the elder men who were before the face of the house.

7 And he said to them, “Defile the house and fill the courts with the slain; go out.” And they went out and struck those who were in the city.

8 And when the slaughter was completed, I remained; and I fell upon my face and cried out, saying, “Ah, ah, ah, O Lord God! Will you then destroy all the remnants of Israel, pouring out your fury upon Jerusalem?”

9 And he said to me, “The iniquity of the house of Israel and Juda is exceedingly, exceedingly great; the land is filled with blood, and the city is filled with turning away. For they have said, ‘The Lord has forsaken the land, and the Lord does not see.’

10 Therefore my eye also shall not spare, nor shall I show mercy. I shall repay their way upon their head.”

11 And behold, the man clothed in linen, who had the inkhorn at his back, returned word, saying, “I have done as you commanded me.”

CHAPTER 10

1 And I saw, and behold, in the firmament above the head of the cherubim, something like a sapphire stone, like the appearance of the likeness of a throne, appeared above them.

2 And he spoke to the man clothed in linen and said, “Enter into the midst of the wheels beneath the cherubim, fill your hand with coals of fire from between the cherubim, and pour them over the city.” And he entered in my sight.

3 Now the cherubim stood on the right side of the house when the man entered, and the cloud filled the inner court.

4 And the glory of the Lord was lifted from above the cherub to the threshold of the house; and the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was filled with the brightness of the glory of the Lord.

5 And the sound of the wings of the cherubim was heard even to the outer court, like the voice of Almighty God speaking.

6 And when he had commanded the man clothed in linen, saying, “Take fire from the midst of the wheels that are between the cherubim,” he entered and stood beside a wheel.

7 And one cherub stretched out his hand from the midst of the cherubim to the fire that was between the cherubim, took it, and gave it into the hands of the man clothed in linen; and receiving it, he went out.

8 And there appeared among the cherubim the likeness of a man’s hand beneath their wings.

9 And I saw, and behold, four wheels beside the cherubim: one wheel beside one cherub and another wheel beside another cherub. And the appearance of the wheels was like the vision of a chrysolite stone.

10 And the four had one likeness in their appearance, as though a wheel were in the midst of a wheel.

11 And when they walked, they advanced toward their four sides and did not turn back as they walked; but to the place toward which the first inclined to go, the others followed, and they did not turn.

12 And their whole body, their necks, their hands, their wings, and their circles were full of eyes round about the four wheels.

13 And in my hearing he called these wheels “the Whirling Ones.”

14 And each one had four faces: one face was the face of a cherub, the second face the face of a man, the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.

15 And the cherubim were lifted up. This was the living creature I had seen beside the river Chobar.

16 And when the cherubim walked, the wheels likewise went beside them; and when the cherubim lifted their wings to rise from the earth, the wheels did not remain behind but were themselves beside them.

17 When they stood, these stood; and when they were lifted up, these were lifted up, for the spirit of life was in them.

18 And the glory of the Lord went out from the threshold of the temple and stood above the cherubim.

19 And the cherubim lifted their wings and rose from the earth before me. As they went out, the wheels also followed; and they stood at the entrance of the eastern gate of the house of the Lord, and the glory of the God of Israel was above them.

20 This was the living creature I had seen beneath the God of Israel beside the river Chobar, and I understood that they were cherubim.

21 Each one had four countenances and each one four wings, and beneath their wings was the likeness of a man’s hand.

22 And the likeness of their countenances was the same countenance I had seen beside the river Chobar—their gaze and the impulse of each one to advance before his own face.

CHAPTER 11

1 And the spirit lifted me up and brought me to the eastern gate of the house of the Lord, which looks toward the sunrise; and behold, at the entrance of the gate were twenty-five men. And in their midst I saw Jezonias son of Azur and Pheltias son of Banaias, princes of the people.

2 And he said to me, “Son of man, these are the men who devise iniquity and frame the most wicked counsel in this city,

3 saying, ‘Were not houses built long ago? This is the pot, and we are the flesh.’

4 Therefore prophesy concerning them; prophesy, son of man.”

5 And the spirit of the Lord rushed upon me and said to me, “Speak: Thus says the Lord: You have spoken in this manner, O house of Israel, and I know the thoughts of your heart.

6 You have killed very many in this city and filled its streets with the slain.

7 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Your slain, whom you placed in its midst, are the flesh, and this city is the pot; but I shall bring you out of its midst.

8 You have feared the sword, and I shall bring the sword upon you, says the Lord God.

9 And I shall cast you out of its midst, give you into the enemy’s hand, and execute judgments upon you.

10 You shall fall by the sword. At the borders of Israel I shall judge you, and you shall know that I am the Lord.

11 This city shall not be a pot for you, nor shall you be flesh in its midst. At the borders of Israel I shall judge you,

12 and you shall know that I am the Lord, because you have not walked in my commandments or performed my judgments, but have acted according to the judgments of the nations round about you.”

13 And it came to pass while I prophesied that Pheltias son of Banaias died. And I fell upon my face, crying with a loud voice, and said, “Ah, ah, ah, O Lord God! Are you making a complete end of the remnants of Israel?”

14 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

15 “Son of man, your brothers, your brothers, your kinsmen, and all the house of Israel—all those to whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, ‘Withdraw far from the Lord; the land has been given to us as a possession’—

16 therefore thus says the Lord God: Though I have sent them far away among the nations and scattered them through the lands, I shall be a little sanctuary for them in the lands to which they have come.

17 Therefore speak: Thus says the Lord God: I shall gather you from the peoples and assemble you from the lands in which you have been scattered, and I shall give you the soil of Israel.

18 And they shall enter there and remove from it all its offenses and all its abominations.

19 And I shall give them one heart and bestow a new spirit within their inward parts. I shall remove the stony heart from their flesh and give them a heart of flesh,

20 so that they may walk in my commandments, keep my judgments, and perform them; and they shall be my people, and I shall be their God.

21 But as for those whose heart walks after their offenses and abominations, I shall place their way upon their own head, says the Lord God.”

22 And the cherubim lifted their wings, with the wheels beside them, and the glory of the God of Israel was above them.

23 And the glory of the Lord ascended from the midst of the city and stood above the mountain east of the city.

24 And the spirit lifted me up and brought me into Chaldea to the exiles, in a vision, by the spirit of God; and the vision I had seen was taken up from me.

25 And I spoke to the exiles all the words of the Lord that he had shown me.

CHAPTER 12

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, you dwell in the midst of a provoking house, who have eyes to see and do not see, and ears to hear and do not hear, for they are a provoking house.

3 Therefore you, son of man, prepare for yourself the vessels of migration, and migrate by day before their eyes. You shall migrate from your place to another place in their sight, if perhaps they will look, for they are a provoking house.

4 And by day, in their sight, you shall carry your vessels outside like the vessels of one migrating; but in the evening you shall go out before them as one who migrates goes out.

5 Before their eyes, dig through the wall for yourself and go out through it.

6 In their sight you shall be carried upon shoulders; you shall be carried out in darkness. You shall cover your face and not see the land, for I have made you a portent to the house of Israel.”

7 Therefore I did as the Lord had commanded me. By day I brought out my vessels like the vessels of one migrating, and in the evening I dug through the wall for myself by hand. I went out in darkness, carried upon shoulders in their sight.

8 And the word of the Lord came to me in the morning, saying:

9 “Son of man, has not the house of Israel, that provoking house, said to you, ‘What are you doing?’

10 Say to them: Thus says the Lord God: This burden concerns the prince who is in Jerusalem and all the house of Israel who are in their midst.

11 Say: I am your portent. As I have done, so shall it be done to them. They shall go into migration and captivity.

12 And the prince who is in their midst shall be carried upon shoulders; he shall go out in darkness. They shall dig through the wall to bring him out. His face shall be covered so that his eye does not see the land.

13 And I shall spread my net over him, and he shall be caught in my dragnet. I shall bring him to Babylon, into the land of the Chaldeans, yet he shall not see it; and there he shall die.

14 And all who are round about him—his guard and his companies—I shall scatter into every wind, and I shall unsheathe the sword after them.

15 And they shall know that I am the Lord when I scatter them among the nations and disperse them through the lands.

16 And I shall leave a few men among them from sword, famine, and pestilence, so that they may recount all their crimes among the nations to which they shall enter; and they shall know that I am the Lord.”

17 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

18 “Son of man, eat your bread in trembling, and drink your water in haste and sorrow.

19 And you shall say to the people of the land: Thus says the Lord God to those who dwell in Jerusalem, in the land of Israel: They shall eat their bread in anxiety and drink their water in desolation, so that the land may be desolated from its multitude because of the iniquity of all who dwell in it.

20 And the cities that are now inhabited shall become desolate, and the land deserted; and you shall know that I am the Lord.”

21 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

22 “Son of man, what is this proverb among you in the land of Israel, those who say, ‘The days shall be prolonged, and every vision shall perish’?

23 Therefore say to them: Thus says the Lord God: I shall cause this proverb to cease, and it shall no longer be spoken commonly in Israel. And speak to them that the days and the word of every vision have drawn near.

24 For there shall no longer be any empty vision or ambiguous divination in the midst of the children of Israel.

25 For I, the Lord, shall speak, and whatsoever word I speak shall come to pass and shall no longer be prolonged. But in your days, O provoking house, I shall speak the word and perform it, says the Lord God.”

26 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

27 “Son of man, behold, the house of Israel says, ‘The vision that this man sees is for many days, and he prophesies for distant times.’

28 Therefore say to them: Thus says the Lord God: No word of mine shall be prolonged any longer. The word that I speak shall be fulfilled, says the Lord God.”

CHAPTER 13

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 Son of man, prophesy to the prophets of Israel who prophesy. Say to those who prophesy from their own heart, Hear the word of the Lord.

3 The Lord God says: Alas for the foolish prophets who follow their own spirit and see nothing!

4 Your prophets, O Israel, were like foxes in the deserts.

5 You did not rise against the enemy or set up a wall for the house of Israel, that you might stand in battle in the day of the Lord.

6 They see empty things and divine falsehood, saying, The Lord says, although the Lord did not send them; and they persisted in confirming the word.

7 Have you not seen an empty vision and spoken a lying divination? You say, The Lord says, though I have not spoken.

8 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you have spoken empty things and seen falsehood, behold, I am against you, says the Lord God.

9 And my hand shall be upon the prophets who see empty things and divine falsehood. They shall not be in the council of my people, nor shall they be written in the record of the house of Israel, nor shall they enter the land of Israel; and you shall know that I am the Lord God.

10 For they have deceived my people, saying, Peace, when there is no peace. One built a wall, and they coated it with mortar without straw.

11 Say to those who coat it without tempering that it shall fall. For there shall be an inundating rain; and I shall send enormous stones crashing down from above and a storm wind that scatters.

12 Behold, when the wall has fallen, shall it not be said to you, Where is the coating with which you coated it?

13 Therefore thus says the Lord God: I shall make the spirit of storms break forth in my indignation; an inundating rain shall come in my fury, and great stones in wrath, for destruction.

14 And I shall destroy the wall you coated without tempering and level it to the ground; its foundation shall be revealed. It shall fall, and it shall be consumed in its midst; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

15 And I shall fulfill my indignation upon the wall and upon those who coat it without tempering; and I shall say to you, The wall is no more, nor are those who coated it—

16 the prophets of Israel who prophesy to Jerusalem and see for her a vision of peace when there is no peace, says the Lord God.

17 And you, son of man, set your face against the daughters of your people who prophesy from their own heart, and prophesy against them.

18 And say: Thus says the Lord God: Woe to those who sew cushions beneath every elbow and make pillows beneath the head of every age in order to capture souls! And when they captured the souls of my people, they kept their own souls alive.

19 And they violated me before my people for a handful of barley and a fragment of bread, putting to death souls that should not die and keeping alive souls that should not live, lying to my people who believe falsehoods.

20 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against your cushions with which you capture flying souls. I shall tear them from your arms and release the souls you capture, the souls that they may fly.

21 And I shall tear apart your pillows and deliver my people from your hand. They shall no longer be in your hands as prey; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

22 Because you have falsely made sorrowful the heart of the just man, whom I did not grieve, and strengthened the hands of the wicked man so that he would not turn back from his evil way and live,

23 therefore you shall no longer see empty things or divine divinations. I shall rescue my people from your hand, and you shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAPTER 14

1 And men from among the elders of Israel came to me and sat before me.

2 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

3 Son of man, these men have placed their uncleannesses in their hearts and set the stumbling block of their iniquity before their face. Shall I answer when they inquire of me?

4 Therefore speak to them and say: Thus says the Lord God: Every man of the house of Israel who places his uncleannesses in his heart, sets the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and comes to the prophet to inquire of me through him—I, the Lord, shall answer him according to the multitude of his uncleannesses,

5 so that the house of Israel may be captured in its own heart, by which they have withdrawn from me through all their idols.

6 Therefore say to the house of Israel: Thus says the Lord God: Be converted and withdraw from your idols, and turn your faces away from all your defilements.

7 For every man of the house of Israel, and every proselyte who is a stranger in Israel, if he becomes alienated from me, places his idols in his heart, sets the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and comes to the prophet to inquire of me through him—I, the Lord, shall answer him by myself.

8 And I shall set my face against that man, make him an example and a proverb, and destroy him from the midst of my people; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

9 And when a prophet errs and speaks a word, I, the Lord, have deceived that prophet; and I shall stretch out my hand over him and erase him from the midst of my people Israel.

10 And they shall bear their iniquity. As the iniquity of the one who inquires is, so shall the iniquity of the prophet be,

11 so that the house of Israel may no longer stray from me or be polluted in all their transgressions, but may be my people, and I may be their God, says the Lord of hosts.

12 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

13 Son of man, when a land sins against me by transgressing as a transgressor, I shall stretch out my hand over it, break its staff of bread, send famine into it, and slay man and beast from it.

14 And if these three men, Noe, Daniel, and Job, were in its midst, they would deliver their own souls by their justice, says the Lord of hosts.

15 Or if I bring the most savage beasts upon the land to lay it waste, and it becomes impassable so that no one passes through because of the beasts,

16 if these three men were in it, as I live, says the Lord God, they would deliver neither sons nor daughters. They alone would be delivered, but the land would be desolated.

17 Or if I bring the sword upon that land and say to the sword, Pass through the land, and I slay man and beast from it,

18 and these three men were in its midst, as I live, says the Lord God, they would not deliver sons or daughters, but they alone would be delivered.

19 Or if I send pestilence upon that land and pour out my indignation upon it in blood, to remove man and beast from it,

20 and Noe, Daniel, and Job were in its midst, as I live, says the Lord God, they would deliver neither son nor daughter, but by their justice they would deliver their own souls.

21 For thus says the Lord God: Even if I send my four most grievous judgments—sword, famine, savage beasts, and pestilence—into Jerusalem, to slay man and beast from it,

22 nevertheless a salvation shall be left in it, those who bring out sons and daughters. Behold, they shall come to you; and you shall see their way and their inventions, and you shall be consoled concerning the evil I brought upon Jerusalem, concerning all that I carried in upon her.

23 And they shall console you when you see their way and their inventions; and you shall know that I did not do without cause all that I did in her, says the Lord God.

CHAPTER 15

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 Son of man, what shall become of the wood of the vine among all the woods of the groves that are among the trees of the forests?

3 Shall wood be taken from it to fashion a work, or shall a peg be made from it upon which any vessel may hang?

4 Behold, it has been given to the fire for food. The fire has consumed both its ends, and its middle has been reduced to ashes. Shall it be useful for any work?

5 Even when it was whole, it was not fit for work. How much less, when fire has devoured and burned it, shall any work be made from it?

6 Therefore thus says the Lord God: As the wood of the vine among the trees of the forests, which I have given to the fire to be devoured, so shall I deliver the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

7 And I shall set my face against them. They shall go out from one fire, and another fire shall consume them; and you shall know that I am the Lord when I set my face against them

8 and make the land impassable and desolate because they have stood forth as transgressors, says the Lord God.

CHAPTER 16

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, make known to Jerusalem her abominations.

3 And you shall say: Thus says the Lord God to Jerusalem: Your root and your birth are from the land of Chanaan. Your father was an Amorrhite, and your mother a Hethite.

4 And when you were born, on the day of your birth your navel was not cut; you were not washed with water for health, nor salted with salt, nor wrapped in cloths.

5 No eye spared you so as to do one of these things for you out of pity; but you were cast upon the face of the earth in the rejection of your soul on the day you were born.

6 And passing by you, I saw you trampled in your blood; and while you were in your blood I said to you, ‘Live.’ Yes, I said to you: ‘In your blood, live.’

7 I caused you to multiply like the growth of the field. And you multiplied and grew great; you came in and reached womanly maturity. Your breasts swelled, and your hair grew; yet you were naked and full of shame.

8 And I passed by you and saw you; and behold, your time was the time of lovers. I spread my garment over you and covered your shame. I swore to you and entered into a pact with you, says the Lord God, and you became mine.

9 And I washed you with water, cleansed your blood from you, and anointed you with oil.

10 And I clothed you in many colors, shod you in violet, girded you with fine linen, and clothed you in fine fabrics.

11 And I adorned you with ornaments, placed bracelets upon your hands and a necklace around your neck.

12 And I placed a ring upon your mouth, earrings upon your ears, and a crown of beauty upon your head.

13 And you were adorned with gold and silver and clothed in fine linen, woven work, and many colors. You ate fine flour, honey, and oil; and you became exceedingly, exceedingly beautiful and advanced into a kingdom.

14 And your name went forth among the nations because of your beauty, for you were perfect in my beauty, which I had placed upon you, says the Lord God.

15 But trusting in your beauty, you fornicated in your name and exposed your fornication to everyone who passed by, that you might become his.

16 And taking from your garments, you made for yourself high places sewn together here and there, and you fornicated upon them, as has never been done and shall never be.

17 And you took the vessels of your beauty made from my gold and my silver, which I had given you, and made for yourself male images, and you fornicated with them.

18 And you took your many-colored garments and covered them; and you placed my oil and my incense before them.

19 And my bread, which I gave you—the fine flour, oil, and honey with which I nourished you—you placed before them as an odor of sweetness. And so it came to pass, says the Lord God.

20 And you took your sons and your daughters, whom you bore to me, and sacrificed them to those idols to be devoured. Is your fornication a small thing?

21 You sacrificed my sons and gave them over, consecrating them to those idols.

22 And after all your abominations and fornications, you did not remember the days of your youth, when you were naked and full of shame, trampled in your blood.

23 And it came to pass after all your wickedness—woe, woe to you, says the Lord God—

24 that you built a brothel for yourself and made a place of prostitution for yourself in every street.

25 At every head of the way you built a sign of your prostitution and made your beauty abominable. You spread your feet to everyone who passed by and multiplied your fornications.

26 And you fornicated with the sons of Egypt, your neighbors of great flesh; and you multiplied your fornication to provoke me.

27 Behold, I shall stretch out my hand over you, remove your justification, and give you over to the souls of the daughters of the Philistines who hate you, who blush at your criminal way.

28 And you fornicated with the sons of the Assyrians because you were not yet satisfied; and after you fornicated, even so you were not satiated.

29 And you multiplied your fornication in the land of Chanaan with the Chaldeans, and even so you were not satiated.

30 With what shall I cleanse your heart, says the Lord God, when you perform all these works of a woman who is a harlot and brazen?

31 For you built your brothel at the head of every way and made your high place in every street. Yet you did not become like a harlot who increases her price out of disdain, 32 but like an adulterous woman who brings in strangers over her husband.

33 Payment is given to every harlot, but you gave payments to all your lovers and bestowed gifts upon them, that they might enter to you from every side to fornicate with you.

34 And in your fornications there was in you the reverse of the custom of women, and after you there shall be no such fornication; for because you gave payments and did not receive payments, the reverse was done in you.

35 Therefore, O harlot, hear the word of the Lord.

36 Thus says the Lord God: Because your bronze was poured out and your shame was uncovered in your fornications with your lovers and with the idols of your abominations, and in the blood of your sons whom you gave to them,

37 behold, I shall gather all your lovers with whom you were joined, all whom you loved together with all whom you hated. I shall gather them against you from every side, uncover your shame before them, and they shall see all your nakedness.

38 And I shall judge you with the judgments of adulteresses and of those who shed blood, and I shall give you over to the blood of fury and jealousy.

39 And I shall give you into their hands; and they shall destroy your brothel and demolish your place of prostitution. They shall strip you of your garments, take away the vessels of your beauty, and leave you naked and full of shame.

40 And they shall bring a multitude upon you, stone you with stones, and slaughter you with their swords.

41 And they shall burn your houses with fire and execute judgments upon you in the eyes of many women. And you shall cease from fornication and no longer give payments.

42 And my indignation shall rest in you, and my jealousy shall be taken away from you. I shall be quiet and no longer be angry.

43 Because you did not remember the days of your youth and provoked me in all these things, therefore I also have placed your ways upon your head, says the Lord God. Yet I did not act according to your crimes in all your abominations.

44 Behold, everyone who commonly speaks a proverb shall take it up against you, saying, ‘As the mother is, so is her daughter.’

45 You are the daughter of your mother, who cast away her husband and her sons; and you are the sister of your sisters, who cast away their husbands and their sons. Your mother was a Hethite, and your father an Amorrhite.

46 And your elder sister is Samaria, she and her daughters who dwell at your left; but your sister younger than you, who dwells at your right, is Sodom and her daughters.

47 Yet you did not merely walk in their ways or do only a little less than their crimes; you acted almost more criminally than they in all your ways.

48 As I live, says the Lord God, your sister Sodom, she and her daughters, did not do as you and your daughters have done.

49 Behold, this was the iniquity of your sister Sodom: pride, fullness of bread, abundance, and the idleness of her and her daughters; and they did not extend a hand to the needy and the poor.

50 And they were lifted up and committed abominations before me; and I took them away, as you have seen.

51 And Samaria did not commit half your sins; but you surpassed them in your crimes and justified your sisters by all the abominations you performed.

52 Therefore you also bear your shame, you who surpassed your sisters by your sins, acting more criminally than they. For they have been justified by you. Therefore be confounded also, and bear your shame, you who have justified your sisters.

53 And I shall turn them back, restoring the restoration of Sodom and her daughters and the restoration of Samaria and her daughters; and I shall turn your restoration in their midst, 54 so that you may bear your shame and be confounded in all that you have done, consoling them.

55 And your sister Sodom and her daughters shall return to their ancient state; and Samaria and her daughters shall return to their ancient state; and you and your daughters shall return to your ancient state.

56 Yet your sister Sodom was not heard upon your lips in the day of your pride,

57 before your wickedness was revealed, as at this time, to the reproach of the daughters of Syria and all the daughters of the Philistines round about you who surround you on every side.

58 You have borne your crime and your shame, says the Lord God.

59 For thus says the Lord God: I shall also deal with you as you despised the oath and made the pact void.

60 And I shall remember my pact with you in the days of your youth, and I shall establish for you an everlasting pact.

61 And you shall remember your ways and be confounded when you receive your sisters, those older and those younger than you. And I shall give them to you as daughters, but not by your pact.

62 And I shall establish my pact with you, and you shall know that I am the Lord,

63 so that you may remember and be confounded, and may no longer open your mouth because of your shame, when I have been appeased toward you concerning all that you have done, says the Lord God.”

CHAPTER 17

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, propose a riddle and tell a parable to the house of Israel.

3 And you shall say: Thus says the Lord God: A great eagle with great wings, long-reaching limbs, full of feathers and variety, came to Lebanon and took the marrow of the cedar.

4 It plucked off the summit of its branches and carried it into the land of Chanaan; it placed it in a city of merchants.

5 And it took from the seed of the land and placed it in the earth as seed, that it might establish a root over many waters; it placed it upon the surface.

6 And when it had sprouted, it grew into a spreading vine of low stature, its branches looking toward the eagle and its roots beneath it. Thus it became a vine, bore branches, and sent forth shoots.

7 And there was another great eagle, with great wings and many feathers; and behold, this vine, as though sending its roots toward that eagle, stretched its branches toward it, that the eagle might water it from the beds where it had sprouted.

8 It was planted in good soil over many waters, that it might produce foliage, bear fruit, and become a great vine.

9 Say: Thus says the Lord God: Shall it then prosper? Shall he not pull up its roots, strip off its fruit, and dry up all the branches of its growth? It shall wither, and not by a great arm or many people, when he pulls it up by the roots.

10 Behold, it has been planted. Shall it then prosper? Shall it not wither when the burning wind touches it and dry up in the beds where it grew?

11 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

12 Say to the provoking house: Do you not know what these things signify? Say: Behold, the king of Babylon came to Jerusalem; he shall take its king and princes and bring them to himself in Babylon.

13 And he shall take one from the seed of the kingdom, strike a covenant with him, and receive an oath from him. He shall also take away the strong men of the land,

14 so that the kingdom may be humble and not lift itself up, but keep his pact and preserve it.

15 But he, withdrawing from him, sent messengers to Egypt that it might give him horses and many people. Shall the one who did these things prosper or attain salvation? Shall the one who dissolves the pact escape?

16 As I live, says the Lord God, he shall die in the midst of Babylon, in the place of the king who appointed him king, whose oath he made void and whose pact with him he broke.

17 And Pharaoh shall not wage battle for him with a great army or many people, when the rampart is cast up and fortifications built to slay many souls.

18 For he despised the oath so as to break the covenant; and behold, he had given his hand. Because he has done all these things, he shall not escape.

19 Therefore thus says the Lord God: As I live, I shall place upon his head the oath he despised and the covenant he transgressed.

20 And I shall spread my net over him, and he shall be caught in my dragnet. I shall bring him to Babylon and judge him there for the transgression by which he despised me.

21 And all his fugitives with all his company shall fall by the sword; but the remainder shall be scattered into every wind. And you shall know that I, the Lord, have spoken.

22 Thus says the Lord God: I myself shall take from the marrow of the lofty cedar and set it in place. From the summit of its branches I shall pluck a tender shoot and plant it upon a high and eminent mountain.

23 Upon the lofty mountain of Israel I shall plant it. It shall burst forth into growth, bear fruit, and become a great cedar; and every bird shall dwell beneath it, and every winged creature shall nest beneath the shadow of its foliage.

24 And all the trees of the region shall know that I, the Lord, have humbled the lofty tree and exalted the low tree; I have dried up the green tree and made the dry tree flourish. I, the Lord, have spoken and acted.”

CHAPTER 18

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Why do you turn this parable into a proverb among you in the land of Israel, saying, ‘The fathers have eaten a sour grape, and the children’s teeth are set on edge’?

3 As I live, says the Lord God, this parable shall no longer be a proverb among you in Israel.

4 Behold, all souls are mine. As the soul of the father is mine, so also is the soul of the son. The soul that sins, that soul shall die.

5 And if a man is just and performs judgment and justice;

6 if he has not eaten upon the mountains or lifted his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel; if he has not violated his neighbor’s wife or approached a menstruating woman;

7 if he has not grieved a man, has returned the pledge to his debtor, has taken nothing by violence, has given his bread to the hungry, and has covered the naked with a garment;

8 if he has not lent at usury or received anything more; if he has turned his hand away from iniquity and rendered true judgment between man and man;

9 if he has walked in my commandments and kept my judgments so as to perform truth—this man is just; living, he shall live, says the Lord God.

10 But if he begets a son who is a robber, sheds blood, and commits any one of these things,

11 though he does none of all those good things, but eats upon the mountains, pollutes his neighbor’s wife,

12 grieves the needy and the poor, seizes plunder, does not return the pledge, lifts his eyes to idols, commits abomination,

13 lends at usury, and receives more—shall he live? He shall not live. Because he has committed all these detestable things, dying, he shall die; his blood shall be upon himself.

14 But if this man begets a son who sees all the sins his father committed, fears, and does nothing like them;

15 if he has not eaten upon the mountains, has not lifted his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, has not violated his neighbor’s wife,

16 has not grieved a man, has not retained a pledge or seized plunder, has given his bread to the hungry, and has covered the naked with a garment;

17 if he has turned his hand away from injuring the poor, has not received usury or increase, has performed my judgments and walked in my commandments—this man shall not die in the iniquity of his father, but living, he shall live.

18 His father, because he practiced oppression, did violence to his brother, and worked evil in the midst of his people—behold, he has died in his own iniquity.

19 And you say, ‘Why has the son not borne the iniquity of the father?’ Clearly, because the son performed judgment and justice, kept all my commandments, and performed them, living, he shall live.

20 The soul that sins, that soul shall die. The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, and the father shall not bear the iniquity of the son. The justice of the just man shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked man shall be upon him.

21 But if the wicked man does penance for all the sins he committed, keeps all my commandments, and performs judgment and justice, living, he shall live and shall not die.

22 I shall not remember any of the iniquities he committed. He shall live in the justice he has performed.

23 Is the death of the wicked man my will, says the Lord God, and not that he should be converted from his ways and live?

24 But if the just man turns away from his justice and commits iniquity according to all the abominations that the wicked man is accustomed to commit, shall he live? None of the acts of justice he performed shall be remembered. In the transgression by which he transgressed and in the sin he committed, in these he shall die.

25 And you have said, ‘The way of the Lord is not equitable!’ Therefore hear, O house of Israel: Is my way not equitable, and are not your ways rather perverse?

26 For when the just man turns away from his justice and commits iniquity, he shall die in them; in the injustice he has committed, he shall die.

27 And when the wicked man turns away from the wickedness he committed and performs judgment and justice, he shall give life to his own soul.

28 For considering and turning away from all the iniquities he committed, living, he shall live and shall not die.

29 And the children of Israel say, ‘The way of the Lord is not equitable!’ Are my ways not equitable, O house of Israel, and are not your ways rather perverse?

30 Therefore I shall judge each one according to his ways, O house of Israel, says the Lord God. Be converted and do penance for all your iniquities, and iniquity shall not be your ruin.

31 Cast away from yourselves all your transgressions by which you have transgressed, and make for yourselves a new heart and a new spirit. And why will you die, O house of Israel?

32 For I do not desire the death of the one who dies, says the Lord God. Return and live.”

CHAPTER 19

1 “And you, take up a lamentation over the princes of Israel,

2 and say: Why did your mother, a lioness among lions, lie down? Why did she nourish her cubs in the midst of young lions?

3 And she brought out one of her cubs, and he became a lion. He learned to seize prey and to devour men.

4 And the nations heard of him; they captured him, though not without receiving wounds, and brought him in chains into the land of Egypt.

5 And when she saw that she was weakened and her expectation had perished, she took one of her cubs and appointed him as a lion.

6 He walked among the lions and became a lion. He learned to seize prey and devour men.

7 He learned to make widows and to bring their cities into a desert; and the land and its fullness were desolated by the sound of his roaring.

8 And the nations from the provinces round about assembled against him and spread their net over him; he was captured amid their wounds.

9 And they put him into a cage and brought him in chains to the king of Babylon. They cast him into prison, that his voice might no longer be heard upon the mountains of Israel.

10 Your mother was like a vine in your blood, planted beside water; her fruit and her branches grew because of many waters.

11 And she had strong rods for the scepters of rulers; her stature was exalted among the foliage, and she saw her own height in the multitude of her branches.

12 But she was uprooted in wrath and cast upon the ground; the burning wind dried up her fruit. The rods of her strength withered and dried up; fire devoured her.

13 And now she has been transplanted into the desert, into an impassable and thirsty land.

14 And fire went forth from a rod of her branches and devoured her fruit; and there was no strong rod in her, no scepter of rulers. This is a lamentation, and it shall be for a lamentation.”

CHAPTER 20

1 And it came to pass in the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth of the month, that men from among the elders of Israel came to inquire of the Lord and sat before me.

2 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

3 “Son of man, speak to the elders of Israel and say to them: Thus says the Lord God: Have you come to inquire of me? As I live, I shall not answer you, says the Lord God.

4 If you judge them—if you judge, son of man—show them the abominations of their fathers.

5 And say to them: Thus says the Lord God: On the day when I chose Israel, lifted my hand for the stock of the house of Jacob, appeared to them in the land of Egypt, and lifted my hand for them, saying, ‘I am the Lord your God,’

6 on that day I lifted my hand for them, that I might bring them out of the land of Egypt into a land I had provided for them, flowing with milk and honey, which is excellent among all lands.

7 And I said to them, ‘Let each one cast away the offenses of his eyes, and do not be polluted by the idols of Egypt. I am the Lord your God.’

8 But they provoked me and were unwilling to hear me. Each one did not cast away the abominations of his eyes, nor did they forsake the idols of Egypt. And I said that I would pour out my indignation upon them and fulfill my wrath in them, in the midst of the land of Egypt.

9 But I acted for the sake of my name, that it might not be violated before the nations in whose midst they were, and among whom I appeared to them to bring them out of the land of Egypt.

10 Therefore I cast them out of the land of Egypt and led them into the desert.

11 And I gave them my commandments and showed them my judgments, which, if a man performs them, he shall live in them.

12 Moreover, I also gave them my sabbaths, that they might be a sign between me and them, and that they might know that I am the Lord who sanctifies them.

13 But the house of Israel provoked me in the desert. They did not walk in my commandments and cast away my judgments, which, if a man performs them, he shall live in them; and they violated my sabbaths exceedingly. Therefore I said that I would pour out my fury upon them in the desert and consume them.

14 But I acted for the sake of my name, that it might not be violated before the nations in whose sight I had brought them out.

15 Therefore I lifted my hand over them in the desert, that I would not bring them into the land I had given them, flowing with milk and honey, the chief of all lands,

16 because they cast away my judgments, did not walk in my commandments, and violated my sabbaths, for their heart walked after idols.

17 Yet my eye spared them so that I did not slay them, and I did not consume them in the desert.

18 And I said to their children in the wilderness, ‘Do not walk in the commandments of your fathers, do not keep their judgments, and do not be polluted by their idols.

19 I am the Lord your God. Walk in my commandments, keep my judgments, and perform them.

20 And sanctify my sabbaths, that they may be a sign between me and you, and that you may know that I am the Lord your God.’

21 But the children embittered me. They did not walk in my commandments or keep my judgments to perform them, which, if a man performs them, he shall live in them; and they violated my sabbaths. And I threatened to pour out my fury upon them and fulfill my wrath in them in the desert.

22 Yet I turned away my hand and acted for the sake of my name, that it might not be violated before the nations in whose sight I had brought them out.

23 Again I lifted my hand against them in the wilderness, that I would scatter them among the nations and winnow them through the lands,

24 because they did not perform my judgments, rejected my commandments, violated my sabbaths, and fixed their eyes upon the idols of their fathers.

25 Therefore I also gave them commandments that were not good and judgments in which they should not live.

26 And I polluted them in their gifts when they offered everything that opens the womb, because of their offenses; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

27 For this reason, son of man, speak to the house of Israel and say to them: Thus says the Lord God: Your fathers blasphemed me even in this, when they despised me with contempt.

28 For after I brought them into the land over which I had lifted my hand to give it to them, they saw every high hill and every leafy tree, and there they sacrificed their victims, presented the provocation of their offering, placed their odor of sweetness, and poured out their libations.

29 And I said to them, 'What is the high place to which you enter?' And its name has been called High Place even to this day.

30 Therefore say to the house of Israel: Thus says the Lord God: Surely you are polluted in the way of your fathers, and you fornicate after their offenses.

31 And in the offering of your gifts, when you make your sons pass through the fire, you are polluted by all your idols even to this day. And shall I answer you, O house of Israel? As I live, says the Lord God, I shall not answer you.

32 Nor shall the thought of your mind come to pass, when you say, 'We shall be like the nations and like the kindreds of the earth, worshiping wood and stones.'

33 As I live, says the Lord God, with a strong hand, an outstretched arm, and fury poured out, I shall reign over you.

34 And I shall bring you out from the peoples and gather you from the lands in which you were scattered. With a mighty hand, an outstretched arm, and fury poured out, I shall reign over you.

35 And I shall bring you into the desert of the peoples, and there I shall enter into judgment with you face to face.

36 As I contended in judgment against your fathers in the desert of the land of Egypt, so shall I judge you, says the Lord God.

37 And I shall subject you to my scepter and bring you into the bonds of the covenant.

38 And I shall choose out from among you the transgressors and the wicked. I shall bring them out of the land of their sojourn, but they shall not enter the land of Israel; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

39 And as for you, O house of Israel, thus says the Lord God: Let each one walk after his idols and serve them. But if in this also you will not hear me and continue to pollute my holy name with your gifts and your idols,

40 then upon my holy mountain, upon the high mountain of Israel, says the Lord God, there all the house of Israel shall serve me—all of them, I say, in the land in which they shall please me. There I shall require your firstfruits and the beginning of your tithes, in all your sanctifications.

41 I shall receive you as an odor of sweetness when I bring you out from the peoples and gather you from the lands into which you were scattered; and I shall be sanctified in you in the sight of the nations.

42 And you shall know that I am the Lord when I bring you into the land of Israel, into the land for which I lifted my hand to give it to your fathers.

43 And there you shall remember your ways and all your crimes by which you were polluted; and you shall be displeased with yourselves in your own sight because of all the evils you committed.

44 And you shall know that I am the Lord when I have dealt well with you for the sake of my name, and not according to your evil ways or according to your most wicked crimes, O house of Israel, says the Lord God.

45 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

46 Son of man, set your face against the way of the south, let your words drip toward the south, and prophesy to the forest of the southern field.

47 And you shall say to the southern forest: Hear the word of the Lord. Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall kindle a fire in you, and I shall burn in you every green tree and every dry tree. The flame of the burning shall not be extinguished, and every face from the south even to the north shall be burned in it.

48 And all flesh shall see that I, the Lord, kindled it, and it shall not be extinguished.

49 And I said, "Ah, ah, ah, O Lord God! They say of me, 'Does this man not speak in parables?'"

CHAPTER 21

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, set your face toward Jerusalem, let your words drip toward the sanctuaries, and prophesy against the soil of Israel.

3 And you shall say to the land of Israel: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you. I shall cast my sword out of its sheath and slay in you the just and the wicked.

4 And because I have slain in you the just and the wicked, therefore my sword shall go out from its sheath against all flesh, from the south even to the north,

5 so that all flesh may know that I, the Lord, have brought my sword out of its sheath, not to be recalled.

6 And you, son of man, groan with the breaking of your loins; groan in bitterness before them.

7 And when they say to you, ‘Why do you groan?’ you shall say, ‘Because of the report, for it comes. Every heart shall waste away, all hands shall be loosened, every spirit shall grow weak, and waters shall flow over every knee. Behold, it comes, and it shall be done, says the Lord God.’”

8 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

9 “Son of man, prophesy and say: Thus says the Lord God: Speak: A sword, a sword has been sharpened and polished.

10 It has been sharpened to slay victims; it has been polished to shine. You who move the scepter of my son, you have cut down every tree.

11 And I gave it to be smoothed so that it might be held in the hand. This sword has been sharpened, and this one has been polished, that it may be in the hand of the slayer.

12 Cry out and wail, son of man, for this has come upon my people; this has come upon all the leaders of Israel who had fled. They have been delivered to the sword with my people. Therefore strike your thigh,

13 for it has been tested. And what if it overturns the scepter, and the scepter shall be no more? says the Lord God.

14 Therefore you, son of man, prophesy and strike hand against hand. Let the sword be doubled and tripled—the sword of the slain. This is the sword of the great slaughter, which makes them stand astonished,

15 makes the heart waste away, and multiplies ruins. At all their gates I have placed the confusion of the sharp sword, polished to flash and clothed for slaughter.

16 Be sharpened! Go to the right or to the left, wherever the desire of your face leads.

17 And I also shall strike hand against hand and fulfill my indignation. I, the Lord, have spoken.”

18 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

19 “And you, son of man, set before yourself two ways by which the sword of the king of Babylon may come. Both shall go forth from one land. He shall take a conjecture in his hand; at the head of the way to the city he shall make a conjecture.

20 You shall set a way by which the sword may come to Rabbath of the children of Ammon and to Juda, to Jerusalem, the most fortified city.

21 For the king of Babylon has stood at the fork, at the head of the two ways, seeking divination, mingling arrows. He has questioned the idols and consulted entrails.

22 At his right hand the divination concerning Jerusalem has been made: that he may place battering rams, open his mouth for slaughter, lift his voice in wailing, place battering rams against the gates, heap up a rampart, and build fortifications.

23 And in their eyes he shall appear as one consulting an oracle in vain and imitating the rest of sabbaths; but he shall remember the iniquity, in order to capture them.

24 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you have remembered your iniquity, revealed your transgressions, and caused your sins to appear in all your thoughts—because, I say, you have been remembered—you shall be captured by the hand.

25 But you, profane and wicked prince of Israel, whose day has come at the time of iniquity predetermined,

26 thus says the Lord God: Remove the diadem; take away the crown. Is this not the one that exalted the lowly and humbled the exalted?

27 Iniquity, iniquity, iniquity—I shall make it so. And this has not been done until he comes whose judgment it is, and I shall deliver it to him.

28 And you, son of man, prophesy and say: Thus says the Lord God concerning the children of Ammon and concerning their reproach. And you shall say: A blade, a blade, unsheathed to kill; polished that you may slay and flash,

29 while empty things were seen for you and falsehoods divined for you, that you might be laid upon the necks of the wounded wicked, whose day has come at the time of iniquity predetermined.

30 Return to your sheath. In the place where you were created, in the land of your birth, I shall judge you.

31 And I shall pour out my indignation upon you; in the fire of my fury I shall blow upon you. I shall give you into the hands of foolish men who fashion destruction.

32 You shall be food for fire; your blood shall be in the midst of the land; you shall be delivered to oblivion, for I, the Lord, have spoken.”

CHAPTER 22

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “And you, son of man, will you not judge—will you not judge—the city of blood?

3 And you shall show her all her abominations and say: Thus says the Lord God: This is the city that sheds blood in its own midst, so that its time may come, and that has made idols against itself, that it might be polluted.

4 By your blood, which has been shed by you, you have sinned; and by your idols, which you made, you have been polluted. You have caused your days to draw near and brought the time of your years. Therefore I have made you a reproach to the nations and a mockery to all lands.

5 Those near and those far from you shall triumph over you, O filthy one, renowned and great in destruction.

6 Behold, each of the princes of Israel was in you with his own arm, in order to shed blood.

7 They treated father and mother with insults. In you they oppressed the stranger in your midst; among you they grieved the orphan and the widow.

8 You despised my sanctuaries and polluted my sabbaths.

9 Slanderous men were in you in order to shed blood, and in you they ate upon the mountains. They worked crime in your midst.

10 In you they uncovered the shame of the father; in you they violated the uncleanness of a menstruating woman.

11 Each one committed abomination with his neighbor’s wife; a father-in-law wickedly polluted his daughter-in-law; a brother oppressed his sister, the daughter of his father, in you.

12 In you they received gifts to shed blood. You received usury and increase, and greedily oppressed your neighbors. And you have forgotten me, says the Lord God.

13 Behold, I have struck my hands together over the greed you practiced and over the blood shed in your midst.

14 Shall your heart endure, or shall your hands prevail, in the days that I shall bring upon you? I, the Lord, have spoken and shall act.

15 And I shall scatter you among the nations, winnow you through the lands, and cause your uncleanness to cease from you.

16 And I shall possess you in the sight of the nations; and you shall know that I am the Lord.”

17 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

18 “Son of man, the house of Israel has become dross to me. All these are bronze, tin, iron, and lead in the midst of the furnace; they have become the dross of silver.

19 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you have all become dross, behold, I shall gather you into the midst of Jerusalem,

20 as silver, bronze, tin, iron, and lead are gathered in the midst of a furnace so that I may kindle a fire in it for melting. So shall I gather you in my fury and my wrath; and I shall rest and melt you.

21 And I shall gather you and kindle you in the fire of my fury, and you shall be melted in its midst.

22 As silver is melted in the midst of the furnace, so shall you be in its midst; and you shall know that I am the Lord when I have poured out my indignation upon you.”

23 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

24 “Son of man, say to her: You are an unclean land, not rained upon in the day of fury.

25 There is a conspiracy of prophets in her midst. Like a roaring lion seizing prey, they have devoured souls, received riches and payment, and multiplied her widows in her midst.

26 Her priests have despised my law and polluted my sanctuaries. They made no distinction between holy and profane, did not understand the difference between polluted and clean, and turned their eyes away from my sabbaths; and I was defiled in their midst.

27 Her princes in her midst are like wolves seizing prey, shedding blood and destroying souls, greedily pursuing gain.

28 But her prophets coated them without tempering, seeing empty things and divining falsehood for them, saying, ‘Thus says the Lord God,’ when the Lord had not spoken.

29 The people of the land practiced oppression and seized by violence. They afflicted the needy and the poor and oppressed the stranger by false accusation without judgment.

30 And I sought among them for a man who would place a hedge between and stand opposed before me for the land, that I might not destroy it; and I found none.

31 And I poured out my indignation upon them; in the fire of my wrath I consumed them. I repaid their way upon their head, says the Lord God.”

CHAPTER 23

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, there were two women, daughters of one mother.

3 And they fornicated in Egypt; in their youth they fornicated. There their breasts were pressed, and the breasts of their virginity were broken.

4 Now their names were Oolla, the elder, and Ooliba, her younger sister. And I possessed them, and they bore sons and daughters. As for their names: Samaria is Oolla, and Jerusalem is Ooliba.

5 Therefore Oolla fornicated against me and became mad for her lovers, for the Assyrians who came near,

6 clothed in violet, princes and magistrates, young men of desire, all of them horsemen riding upon horses.

7 And she bestowed her fornications upon all those chosen sons of the Assyrians; and by all those for whom she became mad, she was polluted in their uncleannesses.

8 Moreover, she did not forsake the fornications she had practiced in Egypt. For they too had slept with her in her youth; they had broken the breasts of her virginity and poured their fornication upon her.

9 Therefore I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, into the hands of the sons of Assur, for whom she had become mad with lust.

10 They uncovered her shame, took her sons and daughters, and slew her with the sword. And they became notorious women, and those men executed judgments upon her.

11 And when her sister Ooliba saw this, she became mad with lust more than the other, and multiplied her fornication beyond the fornication of her sister.

12 She shamelessly offered herself to the sons of the Assyrians, to leaders and magistrates who came to her, clothed in varied garments, horsemen carried upon horses, and young men all of excellent form.

13 And I saw that she was polluted, and that both had one way.

14 And she increased her fornications. When she saw men painted upon the wall, images of the Chaldeans depicted in colors,

15 with belts girding their loins and dyed tiaras upon their heads, all having the form of commanders, the likeness of the sons of Babylon and of the land of the Chaldeans in which they were born,

16 she became mad for them through the concupiscence of her eyes and sent messengers to them in Chaldea.

17 And when the sons of Babylon came to her, to the bed of breasts, they polluted her with their fornications. She was polluted by them, and her soul was satiated with them.

18 She also laid bare her fornications and uncovered her shame; and my soul withdrew from her, as my soul had withdrawn from her sister.

19 For she multiplied her fornications, remembering the days of her youth in which she had fornicated in the land of Egypt.

20 And she became mad with lust for intercourse with those whose flesh is like the flesh of asses and whose emission is like the emission of horses.

21 And you revisited the crime of your youth, when your breasts were pressed in Egypt and the breasts of your virginity were broken.

22 Therefore, Ooliba, thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall raise up against you all your lovers with whom your soul was satiated, and I shall gather them against you round about:

23 the sons of Babylon and all the Chaldeans, the nobles, tyrants, and princes, all the sons of the Assyrians, young men of excellent form, all the leaders and magistrates, princes of princes, and renowned riders upon horses.

24 And they shall come against you equipped with chariot and wheel, a multitude of peoples. They shall be armed against you on every side with breastplate, shield, and helmet. And I shall place judgment before them, and they shall judge you by their judgments.

25 And I shall set my jealousy against you, which they shall exercise against you in fury. They shall cut off your nose and your ears, and those who remain shall be cut down by the sword. They shall seize your sons and daughters, and your last remnant shall be devoured by fire.

26 And they shall strip you of your garments and take away the vessels of your glory.

27 And I shall cause your crime and your fornication from the land of Egypt to cease from you. You shall no longer lift your eyes to them, and you shall remember Egypt no more.

28 For thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall deliver you into the hands of those whom you hate, into the hands of those with whom your soul was satiated.

29 And they shall deal with you in hatred, take away all your labors, and leave you naked and full of shame. The shame of your fornications shall be revealed—your crime and your fornications.

30 They have done these things to you because you fornicated after the nations among whom you were polluted by their idols.

31 You have walked in the way of your sister, and I shall give her cup into your hand.

32 Thus says the Lord God: You shall drink your sister's deep and broad cup. You shall become a derision and a mockery, for it holds exceedingly much.

33 You shall be filled with drunkenness and sorrow, with the cup of mourning and sadness, the cup of your sister Samaria.

34 And you shall drink it and drain it even to the dregs; you shall devour its fragments and tear your breasts, for I have spoken, says the Lord God.

35 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you have forgotten me and cast me behind your body, you also shall bear your crime and your fornications.

36 And the Lord said to me: Son of man, will you judge Oolla and Ooliba and declare their crimes to them?

37 For they have committed adultery, and blood is in their hands; they have fornicated with their idols. Moreover, they offered to them their sons whom they bore to me, to be devoured.

38 But they also did this to me: they polluted my sanctuary on that day and profaned my sabbaths.

39 And when they sacrificed their sons to their idols, they entered my sanctuary on that same day to pollute it. Even these things they did in the midst of my house.

40 They sent for men coming from afar, to whom they had sent a messenger. And behold, they came—men for whom you washed yourself, painted your eyes with antimony, and adorned yourself with a woman's finery.

41 You sat upon a most beautiful bed, and a table was adorned before you. You placed my incense and my ointment upon it.

42 And the voice of a rejoicing multitude was in her. And upon the men who were brought from a multitude of mankind and who came from the desert, they placed bracelets upon their hands and beautiful crowns upon their heads.

43 And I said to her who is worn out in adulteries: Even now this one shall fornicate in her fornication.

44 And they entered to her as one enters to a woman who is a harlot. Thus they entered to Oolla and Ooliba, the wicked women.

45 Therefore just men shall judge them with the judgment of adulteresses and the judgment of those who shed blood, for they are adulteresses, and blood is in their hands.

46 For thus says the Lord God: Bring a multitude against them, and deliver them to tumult and plunder.

47 And let them be stoned with the stones of peoples and pierced through with their swords. They shall slay their sons and daughters and burn their houses with fire.

48 And I shall remove crime from the land, and all women shall learn not to act according to their crime.

49 And they shall place your crime upon you, and you shall bear the sins of your idols; and you shall know that I am the Lord God.

CHAPTER 24

1 And the word of the Lord came to me in the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, saying:

2 “Son of man, write down for yourself the name of this day, on which the king of Babylon has been confirmed against Jerusalem today.

3 And you shall speak a parable as a proverb to the provoking house and say to them: Thus says the Lord God: Set on the pot; set it on, I say, and pour water into it.

4 Gather its pieces into it, every good portion, the thigh and the shoulder, chosen pieces full of bones.

5 Take the fattest animal and arrange piles of bones beneath it. Its boiling has seethed, and its bones have been thoroughly cooked in its midst.

6 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Woe to the city of blood, the pot whose rust is in it and whose rust has not gone out from it! Cast it out piece by piece; no lot has fallen upon it.

7 For her blood is in her midst; she poured it upon the clearest rock. She did not pour it upon the earth so that it might be covered with dust.

8 That I might bring my indignation upon her and avenge myself with vengeance, I placed her blood upon the clearest rock so that it would not be covered.

9 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Woe to the city of blood, for which I shall make a great pyre!

10 Heap up the bones, which I shall kindle with fire. The flesh shall be consumed, the whole composition shall be cooked, and the bones shall waste away.

11 Then place the pot empty upon the coals, that it may grow hot and its bronze may melt, that its defilement may be smelted in its midst and its rust consumed.

12 It has sweated with great labor, yet its excessive rust has not gone out from it, not even by fire.

13 Your uncleanness is execrable. Because I desired to cleanse you, and you were not cleansed from your filth, neither shall you be cleansed until I cause my indignation to rest upon you.

14 I, the Lord, have spoken. It shall come, and I shall act. I shall not pass over, nor spare, nor be appeased. According to your ways and according to your inventions I shall judge you, says the Lord.”

15 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

16 “Son of man, behold, I shall take from you the desire of your eyes by a stroke; and you shall not lament or weep, nor shall your tears flow.

17 Groan in silence. You shall not make mourning for the dead. Let your crown be bound around your head, and your shoes be upon your feet. You shall not cover your face with a garment or eat the food of mourners.”

18 Therefore I spoke to the people in the morning, and my wife died in the evening. And in the morning I did as he had commanded me.

19 And the people said to me, “Why do you not tell us what these things you are doing signify for us?”

20 And I said to them, “The word of the Lord came to me, saying:

21 Speak to the house of Israel: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall pollute my sanctuary, the pride of your dominion, the desire of your eyes, and that over which your soul trembles. Your sons and daughters whom you left behind shall fall by the sword.

22 And you shall do as I have done. You shall not cover your faces with a garment or eat the food of mourners.

23 You shall have crowns upon your heads and shoes upon your feet. You shall not lament or weep, but you shall waste away in your iniquities, and each one shall groan to his brother.

24 And Ezekiel shall be a portent to you. According to all that he has done, you shall do when this comes; and you shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 And you, son of man, behold, on the day when I take from them their strength, the joy of their dignity, the desire of their eyes, that upon which their souls rest, and their sons and daughters—

26 on that day, when one who has fled comes to you to announce it to you,

27 on that day, I say, your mouth shall be opened with him who fled, and you shall speak and no longer be silent. You shall be a portent to them, and you shall know that I am the Lord.”

CHAPTER 25

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, set your face against the children of Ammon and prophesy concerning them.

3 And you shall say to the children of Ammon: Hear the word of the Lord God. Thus says the Lord God: Because you said, ‘Well done, well done!’ over my sanctuary because it was polluted, over the land of Israel because it was desolated, and over the house of Juda because they were led into captivity,

4 therefore I shall deliver you to the children of the east as an inheritance. They shall place their sheepfolds in you and pitch their tents in you. They shall eat your crops and drink your milk.

5 And I shall make Rabbath a dwelling place for camels and the children of Ammon a resting place for flocks; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

6 For thus says the Lord God: Because you clapped your hand and struck with your foot and rejoiced with all your affection over the land of Israel,

7 therefore behold, I shall stretch out my hand over you and deliver you to the nations for plunder. I shall slay you from among the peoples, destroy you from the lands, and crush you; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

8 Thus says the Lord God: Because Moab and Seir have said, ‘Behold, the house of Juda is like all the nations,’

9 therefore behold, I shall open the shoulder of Moab from its cities—from its cities, I say—and from its borders, the renowned cities of the land: Bethiesimoth, Beelmeon, and Cariathaim,

10 to the children of the east, together with the children of Ammon. I shall give it as an inheritance, so that there may no longer be remembrance of the children of Ammon among the nations.

11 And I shall execute judgments in Moab; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

12 Thus says the Lord God: Because Idumea took vengeance so as to avenge itself upon the children of Juda, sinned by transgression, and sought vengeance upon them,

13 therefore thus says the Lord God: I shall stretch out my hand over Idumea, remove man and beast from it, and make it a desert from the south; and those who are in Dedan shall fall by the sword.

14 And I shall place my vengeance upon Idumea by the hand of my people Israel. They shall act in Edom according to my wrath and my fury, and they shall know my vengeance, says the Lord God.

15 Thus says the Lord God: Because the Philistines took vengeance and avenged themselves with all their soul, slaying and fulfilling ancient enmities,

16 therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall stretch out my hand over the Philistines, slay the slayers, and destroy the remnants of the maritime region.

17 And I shall execute great vengeance upon them, rebuking them in fury; and they shall know that I am the Lord when I place my vengeance upon them.”

CHAPTER 26

1 And it came to pass in the eleventh year, on the first of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, because Tyre said of Jerusalem, ‘Well done! The gates of the peoples have been broken; she has turned to me. I shall be filled; she has been deserted,’

3 therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, O Tyre, and I shall cause many nations to rise against you as the surging sea rises.

4 And they shall destroy the walls of Tyre and tear down her towers. I shall scrape her dust from her and make her the clearest rock.

5 She shall become a drying place for nets in the midst of the sea, for I have spoken, says the Lord God; and she shall become plunder for the nations.

6 Her daughters who are in the field shall also be slain by the sword; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 For thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall bring Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, king of kings, from the north against Tyre, with horses, chariots, horsemen, an assembly, and a great people.

8 He shall slay your daughters who are in the field with the sword, surround you with fortifications, heap up a rampart round about, and raise a shield against you.

9 And he shall direct his engines and battering rams against your walls and destroy your towers with his armor.

10 By the inundation of his horses, their dust shall cover you. At the sound of the horsemen, wheels, and chariots, your walls shall be shaken when he enters your gates as through the entrance of a breached city.

11 With the hoofs of his horses he shall trample all your streets. He shall slay your people with the sword, and your noble statues shall fall to the ground.

12 They shall lay waste your riches, plunder your merchandise, destroy your walls, and overthrow your splendid houses. They shall place your stones, your timber, and your dust in the midst of the waters.

13 And I shall cause the multitude of your songs to cease; the sound of your harps shall no longer be heard.

14 And I shall make you the clearest rock; you shall be a drying place for nets and shall no longer be built, for I have spoken, says the Lord God.

15 Thus says the Lord God to Tyre: Shall the islands not be shaken at the sound of your ruin and the groaning of your slain when they are killed in your midst?

16 And all the princes of the sea shall descend from their thrones, remove their robes, and cast away their varied garments. They shall be clothed with astonishment; they shall sit upon the ground and, struck with wonder at your sudden fall, marvel.

17 And taking up a lamentation over you, they shall say to you: How have you perished, you who dwell in the sea, the renowned city that was mighty in the sea with your inhabitants, whom all feared?

18 Now the ships shall stand astonished in the day of your terror, and the islands in the sea shall be troubled because no one goes out from you.

19 For thus says the Lord God: When I make you a desolate city like cities that are not inhabited, bring the abyss upon you, and many waters cover you;

20 when I drag you down with those who descend into the pit, to the everlasting people, and place you in the lowest land, like the ancient desolations, with those who are led down into the pit, so that you are not inhabited, while I place glory in the land of the living,

21 I shall reduce you to nothing, and you shall be no more. Though you are sought, you shall never be found again forever, says the Lord God.”

CHAPTER 27

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Therefore you, son of man, take up a lamentation over Tyre.

3 And you shall say to Tyre, who dwells at the entrance of the sea, the marketplace of the peoples for many islands: Thus says the Lord God: O Tyre, you have said, ‘I am perfect in beauty,’

4 and you are situated in the heart of the sea. Your neighbors who built you filled up your beauty.

5 With fir trees from Sanir they constructed you with all the planking of the sea. They took a cedar from Lebanon to make a mast for you.

6 They hewed oaks from Basan into your oars; they made your benches from Indian ivory and your cabins from the islands of Italy.

7 Variegated fine linen from Egypt was woven for you as a sail, to be placed upon the mast; violet and purple from the islands of Elisa became your covering.

8 The inhabitants of Sidon and Arad were your rowers; your wise men, O Tyre, became your pilots.

9 The elders of Gebal and its prudent men had sailors for the service of your varied furnishings. All the ships of the sea and their sailors were among the people of your commerce.

10 Persians, Lydians, and Libyans were in your army as your warriors; they hung shield and helmet in you for your adornment.

11 The sons of Arad were upon your walls round about with your army. The Pygmies also, who were in your towers, hung their quivers upon your walls all around; they completed your beauty.

12 The Carthaginians were your merchants because of the multitude of every kind of riches; with silver, iron, tin, and lead they filled your markets.

13 Greece, Thubal, and Mosoch were your traders. They brought slaves and vessels of bronze to your people.

14 From the house of Thogorma they brought horses, horsemen, and mules to your marketplace.

15 The sons of Dedan were your merchants. Many islands were the commerce of your hand; they exchanged ivory tusks and ebony for your price.

16 The Syrian was your merchant because of the multitude of your works. They displayed gems, purple, patterned cloth, fine linen, silk, and chodchod in your market.

17 Juda and the land of Israel were your traders in the finest wheat. They displayed balsam, honey, oil, and resin in your markets.

18 The Damascene was your merchant in the multitude of your works, in the multitude of varied riches, in rich wine, and in wool of the finest color.

19 Dan, Greece, and Mosel displayed wrought iron in your markets; stacte and sweet cane were in your commerce.

20 Dedan were your traders in carpets for sitting.

21 Arabia and all the princes of Cedar were the merchants of your hand. Your merchants came to you with lambs, rams, and young goats.

22 The sellers of Saba and Reema were your merchants. They displayed in your market every finest spice, precious stone, and gold.

23 Haran, Chene, and Eden were your merchants; Saba, Assur, and Chelmad were your sellers.

24 They were your merchants in many kinds: wrappings of violet and woven work, precious treasuries wrapped and bound with cords. They also had cedars among your merchandise.

25 The ships of the sea were your princes in your commerce; and you were filled and exceedingly glorified in the heart of the sea.

26 Your rowers brought you into many waters; the south wind broke you in the heart of the sea.

27 Your riches, your treasures, and your manifold equipment; your sailors and your pilots, those who held your furnishings and ruled your people; your warriors also who were in you, together with all your multitude in your midst—all shall fall in the heart of the sea on the day of your ruin.

28 At the sound of the cry of your pilots, the fleets shall be troubled.

29 And all who held the oar shall descend from their ships; the sailors and all the pilots of the sea shall stand upon the land.

30 And they shall wail over you with a loud voice and cry bitterly. They shall cast dust upon their heads and be sprinkled with ashes.

31 And they shall shave themselves bald over you and gird themselves with sackcloth; and they shall weep for you in bitterness of soul, with most bitter weeping.

32 And they shall take up a mournful song over you and lament you: Who is like Tyre, who has become silent in the midst of the sea?

33 When your merchandise went forth from the sea, you filled many peoples; by the multitude of your riches and your peoples, you enriched the kings of the earth.

34 Now you have been broken by the sea. In the depths of the waters your riches and all your multitude that was in your midst have fallen.

35 All the inhabitants of the islands have stood astonished over you; and all their kings, struck by the tempest, have changed their countenances.

36 The merchants of the peoples have hissed over you. You have been reduced to nothing and shall be no more forever.”

CHAPTER 28

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre: Thus says the Lord God: Because your heart has been lifted up and you have said, ‘I am God, and I have sat in the throne of God in the heart of the sea,’ although you are a man and not God, and you have made your heart like the heart of God—

3 behold, you are wiser than Daniel; no secret is hidden from you.

4 By your wisdom and prudence you have made strength for yourself and acquired gold and silver in your treasuries.

5 By the multitude of your wisdom and by your commerce you have multiplied strength for yourself, and your heart has been lifted up in your might.

6 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because your heart has been lifted up like the heart of a god,

7 therefore behold, I shall bring foreigners upon you, the strongest of the nations. They shall draw their swords against the beauty of your wisdom and pollute your splendor.

8 They shall slay and drag you down, and you shall die by the destruction of the slain in the heart of the sea.

9 Will you still say, ‘I am God,’ before those who slay you, though you are a man and not God in the hand of those who kill you?

10 You shall die the death of the uncircumcised by the hand of foreigners, for I have spoken, says the Lord God.”

11 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying: “Son of man, lift up a lamentation over the king of Tyre,

12 and say to him: Thus says the Lord God: You were the seal of likeness, full of wisdom and perfect in beauty.

13 You were amid the delights of the paradise of God. Every precious stone was your covering: sardius, topaz, jasper, chrysolite, onyx, beryl, sapphire, carbuncle, and emerald. Gold was the work of your beauty, and your openings were prepared on the day you were created.

14 You were the outstretched and protecting cherub, and I placed you upon the holy mountain of God. You walked in the midst of stones of fire.

15 You were perfect in your ways from the day of your creation, until iniquity was found in you.

16 By the multitude of your commerce, your inward parts were filled with iniquity, and you sinned. And I cast you out from the mountain of God and destroyed you, O protecting cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire.

17 And your heart was lifted up in your beauty; you destroyed your wisdom in your beauty. I cast you to the ground; I placed you before the face of kings, that they might behold you.

18 By the multitude of your iniquities and the iniquity of your commerce, you polluted your sanctification. Therefore I shall bring forth fire from your midst to devour you, and I shall make you ashes upon the earth in the sight of all who see you.

19 All who see you among the nations shall stand astonished over you. You have become nothing and shall be no more forever.”

20 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

21 “Son of man, set your face against Sidon and prophesy concerning her.

22 And you shall say: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, O Sidon, and I shall be glorified in your midst. And they shall know that I am the Lord when I execute judgments in her and am sanctified in her.

23 And I shall send pestilence into her and blood into her streets; the slain shall fall in her midst by the sword round about, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

24 And there shall no longer be for the house of Israel a stumbling block of bitterness or a thorn inflicting pain from all round about among those who oppose them; and they shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Thus says the Lord God: When I gather the house of Israel from the peoples among whom they were scattered, I shall be sanctified in them before the nations. And they shall dwell in their own land, which I gave to my servant Jacob.

26 And they shall dwell securely in it, build houses, plant vineyards, and dwell in confidence when I execute judgments upon all who oppose them round about; and they shall know that I am the Lord their God.”

CHAPTER 29

1 In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the eleventh day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, set your face against Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and prophesy concerning him and concerning all Egypt.

3 Speak and say: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, Pharaoh king of Egypt, great dragon who lies in the midst of your rivers and says, ‘My river is mine, and I made myself.’

4 And I shall place a bridle in your jaws, make the fish of your rivers cling to your scales, and draw you out from the midst of your rivers; and all your fish shall cling to your scales.

5 And I shall cast you into the desert, with all the fish of your river. You shall fall upon the face of the earth; you shall not be gathered or assembled. I have given you to the beasts of the earth and the birds of heaven to be devoured.

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I am the Lord, because you were a staff of reed to the house of Israel.

7 When they grasped you by the hand, you broke and tore every shoulder of theirs; and when they leaned upon you, you were shattered and loosened all their loins.

8 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall bring the sword upon you and slay man and beast from you.

9 And the land of Egypt shall become a desert and a wilderness; and they shall know that I am the Lord, because you said, ‘The river is mine, and I made it.’

10 Therefore behold, I am against you and against your rivers. I shall make the land of Egypt a sword-ravaged wilderness, from the tower of Syene even to the borders of Ethiopia.

11 No foot of man shall pass through it, nor shall the foot of beast walk in it, and it shall not be inhabited for forty years.

12 And I shall make the land of Egypt desolate in the midst of desolate lands, and its cities desolate for forty years in the midst of overthrown cities. I shall scatter the Egyptians among the nations and winnow them through the lands.

13 For thus says the Lord God: At the end of forty years I shall gather Egypt from the peoples among whom they had been scattered.

14 And I shall turn back the captivity of Egypt and place them in the land of Phathures, in the land of their birth; and there they shall become a humble kingdom.

15 It shall be the humblest among the other kingdoms and shall no longer lift itself up above the nations. I shall diminish them so that they do not rule over the nations.

16 And they shall no longer be a confidence to the house of Israel, teaching iniquity, so that they flee and follow them; and they shall know that I am the Lord God.”

17 And it came to pass in the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

18 “Son of man, Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon made his army serve a great service against Tyre. Every head was made bald, and every shoulder was stripped of hair; yet no wages were repaid to him or to his army from Tyre for the service by which he served me against her.

19 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall give the land of Egypt to Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon. He shall take its multitude, plunder its spoils, and seize its booty; and it shall be wages for his army

20 and for the work by which he served against her. I have given him the land of Egypt because he labored for me, says the Lord God.

21 On that day a horn shall bud forth for the house of Israel, and I shall give you an opened mouth in their midst; and they shall know that I am the Lord.”

CHAPTER 30

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, prophesy and say: Thus says the Lord God: Wail: Woe, woe to the day!

3 For the day is near; the day of the Lord draws near, a day of cloud. It shall be the time of the nations.

4 And the sword shall come into Egypt, and there shall be terror in Ethiopia when the wounded fall in Egypt, its multitude is taken away, and its foundations are destroyed.

5 Ethiopia, Libya, the Lydians, all the remaining common people, Chub, and the children of the land of the covenant shall fall with them by the sword.

6 Thus says the Lord God: Those who support Egypt shall also fall, and the pride of its dominion shall be destroyed. From the tower of Syene they shall fall in it by the sword, says the Lord God of hosts.

7 And they shall be destroyed in the midst of desolate lands, and its cities shall be in the midst of deserted cities.

8 And they shall know that I am the Lord when I set fire in Egypt and all its helpers are broken.

9 On that day messengers shall go out from before my face in triremes to crush the confidence of Ethiopia. And terror shall be among them on the day of Egypt, for it shall come without doubt.

10 Thus says the Lord God: I shall cause the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon.

11 He and his people with him, the strongest of the nations, shall be brought to destroy the land. They shall unsheathe their swords against Egypt and fill the land with the slain.

12 And I shall make the channels of the rivers dry and deliver the land into the hands of the most wicked. I shall destroy the land and its fullness by the hand of foreigners. I, the Lord, have spoken.

13 Thus says the Lord God: I shall destroy the statues and cause the idols of Memphis to cease. There shall no longer be a leader from the land of Egypt, and I shall place terror in the land of Egypt.

14 And I shall destroy the land of Phathures, set fire in Taphnis, and execute judgments in Alexandria.

15 And I shall pour out my indignation upon Pelusium, the strength of Egypt, and slay the multitude of Alexandria.

16 And I shall set fire in Egypt. Pelusium shall suffer like a woman in labor, Alexandria shall be destroyed, and in Memphis there shall be daily anguish.

17 The young men of Heliopolis and Bubastus shall fall by the sword, and the women themselves shall be led into captivity.

18 And in Taphnis the day shall grow black when I break the scepters of Egypt there and the pride of her power fails in her. A cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall be led into captivity.

19 And I shall execute judgments in Egypt; and they shall know that I am the Lord.”

20 And it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

21 “Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt; and behold, it has not been wrapped so that health might be restored to it, bound with cloths and bandaged with linen, so that, recovering strength, it might be able to hold the sword.

22 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against Pharaoh king of Egypt. I shall shatter his strong arm and the arm already broken, and I shall cast the sword from his hand.

23 And I shall scatter Egypt among the nations and winnow them through the lands.

24 And I shall strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon and place my sword in his hand. I shall break the arms of Pharaoh, and before his face they shall groan with the groanings of the slain.

25 And I shall strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, while the arms of Pharaoh shall fall. And they shall know that I am the Lord when I place my sword in the hand of the king of Babylon and he stretches it over the land of Egypt.

26 And I shall scatter Egypt among the nations and winnow them through the lands; and they shall know that I am the Lord.”

CHAPTER 31

1 And it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt and to his people: To whom have you become like in your greatness?

3 Behold, the Assyrian was like a cedar in Lebanon, beautiful in branches, thick with foliage, and exalted in height; and its summit was lifted up among dense foliage.

4 The waters nourished it; the abyss exalted it. Its rivers flowed round about its roots, and it sent its streams to all the trees of the region.

5 Therefore its height was exalted above all the trees of the region, its groves were multiplied, and its branches were lifted up because of many waters.

6 And when it extended its shadow, all the birds of heaven made their nests in its branches; all the beasts of the forests brought forth beneath its foliage; and the assembly of many nations dwelt beneath its shelter.

7 And it was most beautiful in its greatness and in the spreading of its groves, for its root was beside many waters.

8 The cedars in the paradise of God were not higher than it; the fir trees did not equal its summit, and the plane trees were not equal to its foliage. No tree in the paradise of God was like it in its beauty.

9 For I made it beautiful and thick with abundant foliage; and all the trees of delight that were in the paradise of God envied it.

10 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because it was exalted in height, made its summit green and dense, and its heart was lifted up in its height,

11 I delivered it into the hand of the strongest of the nations. Dealing, he shall deal with it; according to its wickedness I cast it out.

12 And foreigners, the cruelest of the nations, shall cut it down and cast it upon the mountains. Its branches shall fall in every valley, and its groves shall be broken upon all the rocks of the earth. All the peoples of the earth shall withdraw from its shelter and abandon it.

13 All the birds of heaven dwelt upon its ruin, and all the beasts of the region were among its branches,

14 so that none of the trees beside the waters may be exalted in their height, set their summit among thick and leafy growth, or stand in their loftiness—all those watered by the waters. For they all have been delivered to death, to the lowest land, in the midst of the children of men, to those who descend into the pit.

15 Thus says the Lord God: On the day when it descended to the realm of the dead, I brought in mourning. I covered it with the abyss, restrained its rivers, and held back the many waters. Lebanon grieved over it, and all the trees of the field were shaken.

16 At the sound of its ruin I moved the nations, when I led it down to the realm of the dead with those who descended into the pit. And in the lowest land all the trees of delight, excellent and splendid in Lebanon, all that were watered by waters, were consoled.

17 For they also shall descend with it to the realm of the dead, to those slain by the sword; and the arm of each one shall sit beneath its shelter in the midst of the nations.

18 To whom have you been likened, O renowned and exalted one among the trees of delight? Behold, you have been led down with the trees of delight to the lowest land. You shall sleep in the midst of the uncircumcised, with those slain by the sword. This is Pharaoh and all his multitude, says the Lord God.”

CHAPTER 32

1 And it came to pass in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, take up a lamentation over Pharaoh king of Egypt and say to him: You have been likened to the lion of the nations and to the dragon that is in the sea. You tossed your horn in your rivers, troubled the waters with your feet, and trampled their streams.

3 Therefore thus says the Lord God: I shall spread my net over you in the multitude of many peoples, and I shall draw you out in my dragnet.

4 And I shall cast you upon the earth and throw you upon the face of the field. I shall cause all the birds of heaven to dwell upon you and satisfy the beasts of the whole earth with you.

5 And I shall place your flesh upon the mountains and fill your hills with your corruption.

6 And I shall irrigate the land upon the mountains with the stench of your blood, and the valleys shall be filled from you.

7 And when you have been extinguished, I shall cover heaven and make its stars grow black. I shall cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give its light.

8 I shall cause all the lights of heaven to mourn over you and place darkness upon your land, says the Lord God, when your wounded fall in the midst of the land, says the Lord God.

9 And I shall provoke the heart of many peoples when I bring your destruction among the nations, over lands you do not know.

10 And I shall make many peoples stand astonished over you; their kings shall fear with exceeding horror over you when my sword begins to fly before their faces. And on the day of your ruin, each one shall suddenly stand astonished for his own soul.

11 For thus says the Lord God: The sword of the king of Babylon shall come to you.

12 By the swords of the mighty I shall cast down your multitude. All these nations are unconquerable; they shall lay waste the pride of Egypt, and its multitude shall be destroyed.

13 And I shall destroy all its beasts that were beside the many waters. The foot of man shall no longer trouble them, nor shall the hoof of beasts disturb them.

14 Then I shall make their waters most pure and cause their rivers to flow like oil, says the Lord God,

15 when I make the land of Egypt desolate. The land shall be forsaken by its fullness when I strike all its inhabitants; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

16 This is a lamentation, and they shall lament it. The daughters of the nations shall lament it; over Egypt and over its multitude they shall lament it, says the Lord God.”

17 And it came to pass in the twelfth year, on the fifteenth of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

18 “Son of man, sing a dirge over the multitude of Egypt. Drag her and the daughters of mighty nations down to the lowest land, with those who descend into the pit.

19 Whom do you surpass in beauty? Descend and sleep with the uncircumcised.

20 They shall fall in the midst of those slain by the sword. The sword has been given; they have drawn her and all her peoples away.

21 The mightiest of the strong shall speak to him from the midst of the realm of the dead, those who descended with his helpers and slept uncircumcised, slain by the sword.

22 Assur is there, and all his multitude. His graves are round about him, all the slain and those who fell by the sword.

23 Their graves were placed in the lowest parts of the pit, and his multitude was set round about his grave—all the slain and those who fell by the sword, who once placed dread in the land of the living.

24 Elam is there, and all his multitude round about his grave—all these slain and fallen by the sword, who descended uncircumcised to the lowest land, who placed their terror in the land of the living and bore their shame with those who descend into the pit.

25 In the midst of the slain they placed his bed among all his peoples; his grave is round about him. All these were uncircumcised and slain by the sword. For they placed their terror in the land of the living and bore their shame with those who descend into the pit; they were placed in the midst of the slain.

26 Mosoch and Thubal are there, and all his multitude. His graves are round about him. All these were uncircumcised, slain and fallen by the sword, because they placed their dread in the land of the living.

27 And they shall not sleep with the mighty, fallen and uncircumcised, who descended to the realm of the dead with their weapons, placed their swords beneath their heads, and had their iniquities in their bones, because they became the terror of the mighty in the land of the living.

28 Therefore you also shall be broken in the midst of the uncircumcised and shall sleep with those slain by the sword.

29 Idumea is there, and her kings and all her leaders, who were delivered with their army among those slain by the sword, who slept with the uncircumcised and with those who descend into the pit.

30 All the princes of the north are there, and all the hunters, who were led down with the slain, afraid and confounded in their strength. They slept uncircumcised with those slain by the sword and bore their shame with those who descend into the pit.

31 Pharaoh saw them and was consoled concerning all his multitude that was slain by the sword—Pharaoh and all his army, says the Lord God.

32 For I placed my terror in the land of the living, and he slept in the midst of the uncircumcised with those slain by the sword—Pharaoh and all his multitude, says the Lord God.”

CHAPTER 33

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, speak to the children of your people and say to them: When I bring the sword upon a land, and the people of the land take one man from among their least and appoint him over themselves as a watchman,

3 and he sees the sword coming upon the land, sounds the trumpet, and warns the people,

4 then whoever hears the sound of the trumpet and does not watch over himself, if the sword comes and takes him, his blood shall be upon his own head.

5 He heard the sound of the trumpet and did not watch over himself; his blood shall be upon himself. But if he watches over himself, he shall save his soul.

6 But if the watchman sees the sword coming and does not sound the trumpet, and the people do not watch over themselves, and the sword comes and takes a soul from among them, that one indeed has been taken in his own iniquity; but I shall require his blood from the hand of the watchman.

7 And you, son of man, I have appointed as a watchman for the house of Israel. Therefore, hearing the word from my mouth, you shall warn them from me.

8 If, when I say to the wicked man, ‘O wicked man, dying, you shall die,’ you do not speak so that the wicked man may watch over himself from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but I shall require his blood from your hand.

9 But if, when you warn the wicked man to be converted from his ways, he is not converted from his way, he shall die in his iniquity, but you have delivered your soul.

10 Therefore you, son of man, say to the house of Israel: Thus you have spoken, saying, ‘Our iniquities and our sins are upon us, and in them we waste away. How then can we live?’

11 Say to them: As I live, says the Lord God, I do not desire the death of the wicked man, but that the wicked man should be converted from his way and live. Be converted, be converted from your most wicked ways; and why will you die, O house of Israel?

12 Therefore you, son of man, say to the children of your people: The justice of the just man shall not deliver him on whatever day he sins, and the wickedness of the wicked man shall not harm him on whatever day he is converted from his wickedness; and the just man shall not be able to live in his justice on whatever day he sins.

13 Even if I say to the just man that living, he shall live, and he trusts in his justice and commits iniquity, all his acts of justice shall be delivered to oblivion; and in the iniquity he committed, in that he shall die.

14 But if I say to the wicked man, ‘Dying, you shall die,’ and he does penance for his sin and performs judgment and justice,

15 and that wicked man restores the pledge, returns what he seized, walks in the commandments of life, and does nothing unjust, living, he shall live and shall not die.

16 None of the sins he committed shall be imputed to him. He has performed judgment and justice; living, he shall live.

17 And the children of your people have said, ‘The way of the Lord is not of equal weight,’ though their own way is unjust.

18 For when the just man withdraws from his justice and commits iniquities, he shall die in them.

19 And when the wicked man withdraws from his wickedness and performs judgment and justice, he shall live in them.

20 And you say, ‘The way of the Lord is not right.’ I shall judge each one of you according to his ways, O house of Israel.”

21 And it came to pass in the twelfth year of our migration, in the tenth month, on the fifth of the month, that one who had fled from Jerusalem came to me, saying, “The city has been laid waste.”

22 Now the hand of the Lord had come upon me in the evening before the fugitive arrived, and he opened my mouth until the man came to me in the morning. And when my mouth was opened, I was silent no longer.

23 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

24 “Son of man, those who dwell among these ruins upon the soil of Israel speak, saying, ‘Abraham was one man, and he possessed the land by inheritance; but we are many. The land has been given to us as a possession.’

25 Therefore you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord God: You who eat with blood, lift your eyes to your uncleannesses, and shed blood—shall you possess the land by inheritance?

26 You have stood upon your swords, committed abominations, and each one has polluted his neighbor's wife—and shall you possess the land by inheritance?

27 You shall say these things to them: Thus says the Lord God: As I live, those who dwell among the ruins shall fall by the sword; he who is in the field shall be delivered to the beasts to be devoured; and those in strongholds and caves shall die by pestilence.

28 And I shall make the land a wilderness and a desert, and its proud strength shall fail. The mountains of Israel shall be desolated because there is no one to pass through them.

29 And they shall know that I am the Lord when I make their land desolate and deserted because of all the abominations they committed.

30 And you, son of man, the children of your people who speak about you beside the walls and at the entrances of houses say one to another, each man to his neighbor, 'Come, and let us hear what word is going forth from the Lord.'

31 And they come to you as though a people were entering, and my people sit before you. They hear your words and do not perform them, for they turn them into a song upon their lips, while their heart follows their greed.

32 And you are to them like a musical song sung with a pleasant and sweet sound. They hear your words and do not perform them.

33 And when what was foretold comes—for behold, it comes—then they shall know that there has been a prophet in their midst.

CHAPTER 34

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, prophesy concerning the shepherds of Israel. Prophesy and say to the shepherds: Thus says the Lord God: Woe to the shepherds of Israel who fed themselves! Are not the flocks fed by the shepherds?

3 You ate the milk, clothed yourselves with the wool, and slew what was fat, but you did not feed my flock.

4 You did not strengthen what was weak, heal what was sick, bind up what was broken, bring back what was cast away, or seek what had perished; but you ruled them with severity and power.

5 And my sheep were scattered because there was no shepherd. They became food for all the beasts of the field and were scattered.

6 My flocks wandered upon all the mountains and every high hill. My flocks were scattered over the whole face of the earth, and there was no one to seek them—there was no one, I say, to seek them.

7 Therefore, O shepherds, hear the word of the Lord.

8 As I live, says the Lord God, because my flocks became plunder and my sheep food for all the beasts of the field because there was no shepherd—for my shepherds did not seek my flock, but the shepherds fed themselves and did not feed my flocks—

9 therefore, O shepherds, hear the word of the Lord.

10 Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I myself am against the shepherds. I shall require my flock from their hand and cause them to cease from feeding the flock. The shepherds shall no longer feed themselves, and I shall deliver my flock from their mouth, and it shall no longer be food for them.

11 For thus says the Lord God: Behold, I myself shall seek my sheep and visit them.

12 As a shepherd visits his flock on the day when he is in the midst of his scattered sheep, so shall I visit my sheep and deliver them from all the places in which they were scattered on the day of cloud and darkness.

13 And I shall bring them out from the peoples, gather them from the lands, bring them into their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel, beside the streams and in all the habitations of the land.

14 I shall feed them in the richest pastures, and their pasture shall be upon the high mountains of Israel. There they shall rest in green grass, and upon the mountains of Israel they shall feed in fat pastures.

15 I shall feed my sheep, and I shall cause them to lie down, says the Lord God.

16 I shall seek what had perished, bring back what was cast away, bind up what had been broken, strengthen what had been weak, and preserve what is fat and strong. I shall feed them in judgment.

17 But as for you, my flocks, thus says the Lord God: Behold, I judge between animal and animal, between rams and he-goats.

18 Was it not enough for you to graze upon the good pasture? Moreover, you trampled the remnants of your pastures with your feet. And when you drank the purest water, you troubled the remainder with your feet.

19 And my sheep fed upon what your feet had trampled, and they drank what your feet had troubled.

20 Therefore thus says the Lord God to you: Behold, I myself judge between the fat animal and the lean.

21 Because you struck with sides and shoulders and scattered all the weak animals with your horns until they were dispersed outside,

22 I shall save my flock, and it shall no longer be plunder; and I shall judge between animal and animal.

23 And I shall raise up over them one shepherd to feed them, my servant David. He shall feed them, and he shall be their shepherd.

24 And I, the Lord, shall be their God, and my servant David shall be prince in their midst. I, the Lord, have spoken.

25 And I shall make a pact of peace with them and cause the most savage beasts to cease from the land. Those who dwell in the desert shall sleep securely in the forests.

26 And I shall make them and the places round about my hill a blessing, and I shall cause the rain to descend in its season; they shall be rains of blessing.

27 And the tree of the field shall give its fruit, and the earth shall give its growth. They shall be in their land without fear; and they shall know that I am the Lord when I have broken the chains of their yoke and rescued them from the hand of those who ruled over them.

28 And they shall no longer be plunder among the nations, nor shall the beasts of the earth devour them; but they shall dwell confidently, without any terror.

29 And I shall raise up for them a renowned shoot. They shall no longer be diminished by famine in the land or bear the reproach of the nations any more.

30 And they shall know that I, the Lord their God, am with them, and that they are my people, the house of Israel, says the Lord God.

31 But you, my flocks, the flocks of my pasture, are men; and I am the Lord your God, says the Lord God.”

CHAPTER 35

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, set your face against Mount Seir, prophesy concerning it, and say to it:

3 Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, Mount Seir. I shall stretch out my hand over you and make you desolate and deserted.

4 I shall demolish your cities, and you shall become a desert; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

5 Because you were an everlasting enemy and shut the children of Israel into the hands of the sword in the time of their affliction, in the time of final iniquity,

6 therefore, as I live, says the Lord God, I shall deliver you to blood, and blood shall pursue you. And because you have hated blood, blood shall pursue you.

7 And I shall make Mount Seir desolate and deserted and remove from it the one who goes and the one who returns.

8 And I shall fill its mountains with its slain. Upon your hills, in your valleys, and in your torrents, those slain by the sword shall fall.

9 I shall deliver you to everlasting desolations, and your cities shall not be inhabited; and you shall know that I am the Lord God.

10 Because you said, ‘The two nations and the two lands shall be mine, and I shall possess them by inheritance,’ though the Lord was there,

11 therefore, as I live, says the Lord God, I shall act according to your wrath and according to your jealousy, which you practiced in hatred of them. And I shall become known through them when I have judged you.

12 And you shall know that I, the Lord, have heard all your reproaches that you spoke concerning the mountains of Israel, saying, ‘They are deserted and have been given to us to devour.’

13 And you rose up against me with your mouth and spoke your words in disparagement against me. I have heard.

14 Thus says the Lord God: While the whole earth rejoices, I shall reduce you to a wilderness.

15 As you rejoiced over the inheritance of the house of Israel because it was destroyed, so shall I do to you. You shall be destroyed, Mount Seir and all Idumea; and they shall know that I am the Lord.”

CHAPTER 36

1 “But you, son of man, prophesy concerning the mountains of Israel and say: Mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord.

2 Thus says the Lord God: Because the enemy has said of you, ‘Well done! The everlasting heights have been given to us as an inheritance,’

3 therefore prophesy and say: Thus says the Lord God: Because you were desolated and trampled round about, became an inheritance to the remaining nations, and rose upon the lip of the tongue and the reproach of the people,

4 therefore, mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God. Thus says the Lord God to the mountains and hills, the torrents and valleys, the deserts and ruins, and the abandoned cities, which have been depopulated and mocked by the remaining nations round about.

5 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because I have spoken in the fire of my jealousy concerning the remaining nations and all Idumea, who gave my land to themselves as an inheritance with joy, with all their heart and soul, and cast it out to lay it waste,

6 therefore prophesy concerning the soil of Israel and say to the mountains and hills, the ridges and valleys: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I have spoken in my jealousy and my fury because you have borne the shame of the nations.

7 Therefore thus says the Lord God: I have lifted my hand, that the nations round about you may themselves bear their shame.

8 But you, mountains of Israel, put forth your branches and bring forth your fruit for my people Israel, for it is near to come.

9 For behold, I am for you, and I shall turn toward you. You shall be plowed and receive seed.

10 And I shall multiply men upon you, even all the house of Israel. The cities shall be inhabited, and the ruins restored.

11 And I shall fill you with men and beasts; they shall multiply and increase. I shall cause you to be inhabited as from the beginning and bestow upon you greater good things than you had from the beginning; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

12 And I shall bring men upon you, my people Israel, and they shall possess you by inheritance. You shall be an inheritance to them, and you shall no longer be without them.

13 Thus says the Lord God: Because they say of you, ‘You are a devourer of men and a strangler of your nation,’

14 therefore you shall no longer devour men or slay your nation, says the Lord God.

15 Nor shall I cause the shame of the nations to be heard in you any more. You shall no longer bear the reproach of the peoples or lose your nation any more, says the Lord God.”

16 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

17 “Son of man, the house of Israel dwelt upon their own soil and polluted it in their ways and pursuits. Their way before me became like the uncleanness of a menstruating woman.

18 And I poured out my indignation upon them because of the blood they shed upon the land and because they polluted it with their idols.

19 And I scattered them among the nations, and they were winnowed through the lands. I judged them according to their ways and their inventions.

20 And they entered among the nations to which they went, and they polluted my holy name when it was said of them, ‘These are the people of the Lord, and they have gone out from his land.’

21 And I spared my holy name, which the house of Israel had polluted among the nations to which they entered.

22 Therefore you shall say to the house of Israel: Thus says the Lord God: I shall act not for your sake, O house of Israel, but for the sake of my holy name, which you polluted among the nations to which you entered.

23 And I shall sanctify my great name, which was polluted among the nations, which you polluted in their midst, so that the nations may know that I am the Lord, says the Lord of hosts, when I am sanctified in you before them.

24 For I shall take you from the nations, gather you from all the lands, and bring you into your own land.

25 And I shall pour clean water over you, and you shall be cleansed from all your defilements; and I shall cleanse you from all your idols.

26 And I shall give you a new heart and place a new spirit in your midst. I shall remove the stony heart from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh.

27 And I shall place my spirit in your midst and cause you to walk in my commandments, keep my judgments, and perform them.

28 And you shall dwell in the land I gave to your fathers. You shall be my people, and I shall be your God.

29 And I shall save you from all your defilements. I shall call for the grain and multiply it, and I shall not place famine upon you.

30 And I shall multiply the fruit of the tree and the growth of the field, so that you may no longer bear the reproach of famine among the nations.

31 And you shall remember your most wicked ways and your pursuits that were not good; and you shall be displeased with yourselves because of your iniquities and your crimes.

32 I shall not act for your sake, says the Lord God; let this be known to you. Be confounded and ashamed over your ways, O house of Israel.

33 Thus says the Lord God: On the day when I cleanse you from all your iniquities, cause the cities to be inhabited, and restore the ruins,

34 and the deserted land is cultivated, which was once desolate in the eyes of every traveler,

35 they shall say, ‘That uncultivated land has become like the garden of delight, and the deserted, destitute, and undermined cities sit fortified.’

36 And whatever nations remain round about you shall know that I, the Lord, built what was destroyed and planted what was uncultivated. I, the Lord, have spoken and acted.

37 Thus says the Lord God: In this also the house of Israel shall find me, that I may act for them. I shall multiply them like a flock of men,

38 like a holy flock, like the flock of Jerusalem in her solemn feasts. Thus the deserted cities shall be filled with flocks of men; and they shall know that I am the Lord.”

CHAPTER 37

1 The hand of the Lord came upon me and led me out in the spirit of the Lord and set me down in the midst of a plain that was full of bones.

2 And he led me round about through them. Now they were exceedingly many upon the face of the plain, and exceedingly dry.

3 And he said to me, “Son of man, do you think these bones shall live?” And I said, “O Lord God, you know.”

4 And he said to me, “Prophesy concerning these bones and say to them: Dry bones, hear the word of the Lord.

5 Thus says the Lord God to these bones: Behold, I shall send spirit into you, and you shall live.

6 And I shall place sinews upon you, cause flesh to grow upon you, stretch skin over you, and give you spirit; and you shall live, and you shall know that I am the Lord.”

7 And I prophesied as he had commanded me. And while I prophesied, a sound arose, and behold, a commotion; and bone drew near to bone, each one to its joint.

8 And I saw, and behold, sinews and flesh came up upon them, and skin was stretched over them from above; but they had no spirit.

9 And he said to me, “Prophesy to the spirit; prophesy, son of man, and say to the spirit: Thus says the Lord God: Come from the four winds, O spirit, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live again.”

10 And I prophesied as he had commanded me; and spirit entered into them, and they lived. And they stood upon their feet, an exceedingly, exceedingly great army.

11 And he said to me, “Son of man, all these bones are the house of Israel. They say, ‘Our bones are dried up, our hope has perished, and we are cut off.’

12 Therefore prophesy and say to them: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall open your tombs and bring you out from your sepulchers, O my people, and lead you into the land of Israel.

13 And you shall know that I am the Lord when I open your sepulchers and bring you out from your tombs, O my people,

14 and place my spirit in you, and you live. I shall cause you to rest upon your own soil, and you shall know that I, the Lord, have spoken and acted, says the Lord God.”

15 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

16 “And you, son of man, take one piece of wood for yourself and write upon it, ‘For Juda and the children of Israel, his companions.’ And take another piece of wood and write upon it, ‘For Joseph, the wood of Ephraim, and all the house of Israel and his companions.’

17 And join them one to the other for yourself into one piece of wood, and they shall become a union in your hand.

18 And when the children of your people speak to you, saying, ‘Will you not tell us what you mean by these things?’

19 you shall speak to them: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall take the wood of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel joined to him; and I shall place them together with the wood of Juda and make them into one piece of wood. They shall be one in his hand.

20 And the pieces of wood upon which you have written shall be in your hand before their eyes.

21 And you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I shall take the children of Israel from the midst of the nations to which they went. I shall gather them from every side and bring them to their own soil.

22 And I shall make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel, and one king shall rule over them all. They shall no longer be two nations, nor shall they be divided any more into two kingdoms.

23 Nor shall they be polluted any longer by their idols, their abominations, and all their iniquities. I shall save them from all the dwelling places in which they sinned and shall cleanse them. They shall be my people, and I shall be their God.

24 And my servant David shall be king over them, and there shall be one shepherd for them all. They shall walk in my judgments, keep my commandments, and perform them.

25 And they shall dwell upon the land I gave to my servant Jacob, in which your fathers dwelt. They and their sons and their sons’ sons shall dwell upon it forever, and my servant David shall be their prince forever.

26 And I shall strike a covenant of peace with them; it shall be an everlasting pact for them. I shall establish them and multiply them, and I shall place my sanctuary in their midst forever.

27 And my tabernacle shall be among them. I shall be their God, and they shall be my people.

28 And the nations shall know that I am the Lord who sanctifies Israel, when my sanctuary is in their midst forever.”

CHAPTER 38

1 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 “Son of man, set your face against Gog, the land of Magog, the chief prince of Mosoch and Thubal, and prophesy concerning him.

3 And you shall say to him: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, Gog, chief prince of Mosoch and Thubal.

4 And I shall turn you round and place a bridle in your jaws. I shall bring you out with all your army—horses and horsemen, all clothed in breastplates, a great multitude taking up spear, shield, and sword.

5 Persians, Ethiopians, and Libyans are with them, all bearing shields and wearing helmets;

6 Gomer and all his companies; the house of Thogorma, the sides of the north, and all his strength; and many peoples with you.

7 Prepare and equip yourself, you and all your multitude assembled to you, and be a commander to them.

8 After many days you shall be visited. In the latter years you shall come to the land that has returned from the sword and has been gathered from many peoples to the mountains of Israel, which were continually deserted. This people was brought out from the peoples, and they shall all dwell confidently in it.

9 And rising like a tempest, you shall come like a cloud to cover the land—you and all your companies, and many peoples with you.

10 Thus says the Lord God: On that day words shall rise upon your heart, and you shall devise a most wicked design.

11 And you shall say, ‘I shall ascend to the land without a wall. I shall come to those who rest and dwell securely. All these dwell without a wall; they have neither bars nor gates.’

12 You shall come to seize spoil and invade prey, to lay your hand upon those who had been deserted and afterward restored, and upon the people gathered from the nations, who began to possess and inhabit the navel of the earth.

13 Saba, Dedan, the merchants of Tharsis, and all its lions shall say to you, ‘Have you come to take spoil? Behold, you have gathered your multitude to seize prey, to take silver and gold, carry away furnishings and substance, and plunder infinite spoils.’

14 Therefore prophesy, son of man, and say to Gog: Thus says the Lord God: Surely on that day, when my people Israel dwell confidently, you shall know.

15 And you shall come from your place, from the sides of the north, you and many peoples with you, all riding upon horses—a great assembly and a mighty army.

16 And you shall ascend against my people Israel like a cloud to cover the land. You shall be in the latter days, and I shall bring you upon my land so that the nations may know me when I am sanctified in you before their eyes, O Gog.

17 Thus says the Lord God: Are you then the one concerning whom I spoke in ancient days by the hand of my servants, the prophets of Israel, who prophesied in the days of those times that I would bring you upon them?

18 And it shall be on that day, on the day of Gog’s coming upon the land of Israel, says the Lord God, that my indignation shall rise in my fury.

19 And in my jealousy, in the fire of my wrath, I have spoken: On that day there shall be a great commotion upon the land of Israel.

20 Before my face the fish of the sea, the birds of heaven, the beasts of the field, every creeping thing that moves upon the soil, and all men upon the face of the earth shall be shaken. The mountains shall be overturned, the hedges shall fall, and every wall shall collapse to the earth.

21 And I shall summon the sword against him upon all my mountains, says the Lord God. The sword of each one shall be directed against his brother.

22 And I shall judge him with pestilence, blood, vehement rain, and immense stones. I shall rain fire and brimstone upon him, upon his army, and upon the many peoples with him.

23 And I shall be magnified and sanctified and known in the eyes of many nations; and they shall know that I am the Lord.”

CHAPTER 39

1 “But you, son of man, prophesy against Gog and say: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against you, Gog, chief prince of Mosoch and Thubal.

2 And I shall turn you round and bring you out. I shall cause you to ascend from the sides of the north and bring you upon the mountains of Israel.

3 And I shall strike your bow from your left hand and cast your arrows from your right hand.

4 You shall fall upon the mountains of Israel, you and all your companies and your peoples with you. I have given you to the wild beasts, the birds, every winged creature, and the beasts of the earth to be devoured.

5 You shall fall upon the face of the field, for I have spoken, says the Lord God.

6 And I shall send fire into Magog and among those who dwell confidently in the islands; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 And I shall make my holy name known in the midst of my people Israel, and I shall no longer pollute my holy name. The nations shall know that I am the Lord, the Holy One of Israel.

8 Behold, it comes and has been done, says the Lord God. This is the day concerning which I spoke.

9 And the inhabitants of the cities of Israel shall go out and kindle and burn the weapons—shield and spears, bow and arrows, hand-staffs and lances. They shall kindle them with fire for seven years.

10 And they shall not carry wood from the regions or cut it from the forests, for they shall kindle the weapons with fire. They shall plunder those who had plundered them and seize spoil from those who had laid them waste, says the Lord God.

11 And it shall be on that day: I shall give Gog a renowned place as a sepulcher in Israel, the valley of travelers east of the sea, which shall cause those who pass by to stand astonished. There they shall bury Gog and all his multitude, and it shall be called the Valley of the Multitude of Gog.

12 And the house of Israel shall bury them for seven months, that they may cleanse the land.

13 And all the people of the land shall bury him, and the day on which I am glorified shall be renowned among them, says the Lord God.

14 And they shall continually appoint men to survey the land, to bury and seek those who remained upon the face of the earth, that they may cleanse it. After seven months they shall begin to search.

15 And those who travel through the land shall go round about; and when they see a human bone, they shall set a marker beside it until the buriers inter it in the Valley of the Multitude of Gog.

16 And the name of the city shall be Amona; and they shall cleanse the land.

17 But you, son of man, thus says the Lord God: Say to every winged creature, to all birds, and to all the beasts of the field: Assemble, hasten, and run together from every side to my victim, which I sacrifice for you—a great victim upon the mountains of Israel—that you may eat flesh and drink blood.

18 You shall eat the flesh of the mighty and drink the blood of the princes of the earth—of rams, lambs, he-goats, bulls, fattened animals, and all that is fat.

19 And you shall eat fat to satiety and drink blood to drunkenness from the victim I shall sacrifice for you.

20 And at my table you shall be satisfied with horse, mighty horseman, and all the men of war, says the Lord God.

21 And I shall place my glory among the nations. All the nations shall see my judgment that I executed and my hand that I placed upon them.

22 And the house of Israel shall know that I am the Lord their God from that day and thereafter.

23 And the nations shall know that the house of Israel was taken captive in its own iniquity, because they forsook me, and I hid my face from them, delivered them into the hands of their enemies, and they all fell by the sword.

24 According to their uncleanness and crime I dealt with them and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus says the Lord God: Now I shall turn back the captivity of Jacob, have mercy upon all the house of Israel, and take up zeal for my holy name.

26 And they shall bear their shame and every transgression by which they transgressed against me, when they dwell confidently in their land, fearing no one,

27 and when I have brought them back from the peoples, gathered them from the lands of their enemies, and been sanctified in them in the sight of very many nations.

28 And they shall know that I am the Lord their God, because I carried them away among the nations and gathered them upon their own land, leaving none of them there.

29 And I shall no longer hide my face from them, because I have poured out my spirit upon all the house of Israel, says the Lord God."

CHAPTER 40

1 In the twenty-fifth year of our migration, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth of the month, in the fourteenth year after the city was struck, on that very day the hand of the Lord came upon me and brought me there.

2 In visions of God he brought me into the land of Israel and set me upon an exceedingly high mountain, upon which there was something like the building of a city inclining toward the south.

3 And he brought me there; and behold, there was a man whose appearance was like the appearance of bronze, with a linen cord in his hand and a measuring reed in his hand. And he stood in the gate.

4 And the same man spoke to me: “Son of man, see with your eyes, hear with your ears, and set your heart upon all that I shall show you, for you were brought here that these things might be shown to you. Declare all that you see to the house of Israel.”

5 And behold, there was an outer wall round about the house on every side. In the man’s hand was a measuring reed of six cubits and a palm. And he measured the width of the structure as one reed, and its height as one reed.

6 And he came to the gate that looked toward the eastern way and ascended by its steps. He measured the threshold of the gate as one reed in width—that is, one threshold, one reed in width.

7 And each chamber was one reed long and one reed wide; and between the chambers were five cubits.

8 And the threshold of the gate beside the vestibule of the gate within was one reed.

9 And he measured the vestibule of the gate as eight cubits and its front as two cubits. The vestibule of the gate was within.

10 Now the chambers of the gate toward the eastern way were three on this side and three on that side. The three had one measure, and the fronts on both sides had one measure.

11 And he measured the width of the threshold of the gate as ten cubits and the length of the gate as thirteen cubits.

12 And the border before the chambers was one cubit, and the boundary on both sides was one cubit. The chambers were six cubits on this side and on that side.

13 And he measured the gate from the roof of one chamber to its opposite roof: twenty-five cubits in width, door against door.

14 And he made the fronts sixty cubits, and at the front was the court of the gate round about on every side.

15 And from the face of the outer gate to the face of the vestibule of the inner gate was fifty cubits.

16 And there were slanting windows in the chambers and in their fronts, which were within the gate round about on every side. Likewise there were windows in the vestibules round about within, and before the fronts was a representation of palm trees.

17 And he led me out to the outer court; and behold, there were treasuries and a pavement laid with stone round about the court—thirty treasuries round about the pavement.

18 And the pavement at the front of the gates, according to the length of the gates, was lower.

19 And he measured the width from the face of the lower gate to the outer face of the inner court: one hundred cubits toward the east and toward the north.

20 He also measured the gate of the outer court that looked toward the northern way, both its length and its width.

21 And its chambers were three on this side and three on that side. Its front and its vestibule were according to the measure of the former gate: fifty cubits in length and twenty-five cubits in width.

22 Its windows, vestibule, and sculptures were according to the measure of the gate that looked toward the east. Its ascent had seven steps, and a vestibule was before it.

23 And the gate of the inner court was opposite the northern and eastern gate; and he measured from gate to gate one hundred cubits.

24 And he led me toward the southern way; and behold, there was a gate that looked toward the south. He measured its front and its vestibule according to the former measures.

25 And it had windows, and vestibules round about, like the other windows: fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide.

26 And it was ascended by seven steps, and the vestibule was before its doors. Carved palm trees were on its front, one on this side and another on that side.

27 And there was a gate of the inner court on the southern way; and he measured from gate to gate on the southern way one hundred cubits.

28 And he brought me into the inner court through the southern gate; and he measured the gate according to the former measures.

29 Its chamber, its front, and its vestibule were of the same measures, as were its windows and its vestibule round about: fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide.

30 And the vestibule round about was twenty-five cubits long and five cubits wide.

31 And its vestibule faced the outer court, with palm trees upon its front; and its ascent had eight steps.

32 And he brought me into the inner court by the eastern way; and he measured the gate according to the former measures.

33 Its chamber, its front, and its vestibule were as above, as were its windows and its vestibules round about: fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide.

34 And its vestibule—that is, the vestibule of the outer court—and carved palm trees upon its front on this side and on that side; and its ascent had eight steps.

35 And he brought me to the gate that looked toward the north and measured it according to the former measures.

36 Its chamber, its front, its vestibule, and its windows round about were fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide.

37 And its vestibule looked toward the outer court, with carved palm trees upon its front on this side and on that side; and its ascent had eight steps.

38 And at every treasury there was a doorway in the fronts of the gates. There they washed the holocaust.

39 And in the vestibule of the gate were two tables on this side and two tables on that side, that upon them the holocaust, the offering for sin, and the offering for transgression might be sacrificed.

40 And on the outer side that ascends to the entrance of the gate going toward the north were two tables; and on the other side before the vestibule of the gate were two tables.

41 Four tables were on this side and four tables on that side, along the sides of the gate—eight tables upon which they sacrificed.

42 And four tables for the holocaust were built of squared stones, one and a half cubits long, one and a half cubits wide, and one cubit high. Upon them they placed the vessels in which the holocaust and the victim were sacrificed.

43 And their rims, one palm wide, were bent inward round about; and upon the tables was the flesh of the offering.

44 And outside the inner gate were treasuries for the singers in the inner court, which was beside the gate looking toward the north; and their faces were toward the southern way. One was beside the eastern gate, looking toward the northern way.

45 And he said to me, “This treasury that looks toward the southern way shall be for the priests who keep watch over the temple.

46 But the treasury that looks toward the northern way shall be for the priests who keep watch over the ministry of the altar. These are the sons of Sadoc, who among the sons of Levi draw near to the Lord to minister to him.”

47 And he measured the court as a square, one hundred cubits long and one hundred cubits wide; and the altar was before the face of the temple.

48 And he brought me into the vestibule of the temple. He measured the vestibule as five cubits on this side and five cubits on that side; and the width of the gate was three cubits on this side and three cubits on that side.

49 And the length of the vestibule was twenty cubits, and its width eleven cubits; and it was ascended by eight steps. There were columns at the fronts, one on this side and another on that side.

CHAPTER 41

1 And he brought me into the temple and measured the fronts: six cubits wide on this side and six cubits wide on that side, the width of the tabernacle.

2 And the width of the gate was ten cubits; and the sides of the gate were five cubits on this side and five cubits on that side. He measured its length as forty cubits and its width as twenty cubits.

3 And going within, he measured two cubits at the front of the gate, the gate as six cubits, and the width of the gate as seven cubits.

4 And he measured its length as twenty cubits and its width as twenty cubits before the face of the temple. And he said to me, “This is the Holy of Holies.”

5 And he measured the wall of the house as six cubits, and the width of the side structure as four cubits round about the house on every side.

6 Now the side structures, side beside side, were twice thirty-three. And there were projections that entered through the wall of the house into the side structures round about, to support them without touching the wall of the temple.

7 And there was a walkway round about, ascending upward by a spiral and leading to the upper chamber of the temple round about. Therefore the temple was wider in its upper parts; and thus one ascended from the lower parts through the middle to the upper parts.

8 And I saw the height of the house round about, the side structures founded to the measure of a reed, a space of six cubits;

9 and the width of the outer wall of the side structure was five cubits. And the inner house was within the side structures of the house.

10 And between the treasuries there was a width of twenty cubits round about the house on every side.

11 And the entrance of the side structure was toward the place of prayer: one entrance toward the northern way and one entrance toward the southern way. And the width of the place of prayer was five cubits round about.

12 And the building that was separated and turned toward the way looking to the sea was seventy cubits wide. The wall of the building was five cubits wide round about, and its length ninety cubits.

13 And he measured the length of the house as one hundred cubits; and the separate building and its walls were one hundred cubits long.

14 And the width before the face of the house and of the separate building toward the east was one hundred cubits.

15 And he measured the length of the building opposite the face of the separate building at the rear, and the galleries on both sides, as one hundred cubits; and the inner temple and the vestibules of the court.

16 The thresholds, the slanting windows, and the galleries round about on three sides opposite each threshold were covered with wood round about. The floor reached to the windows, and the windows above the doors were closed.

17 And as far as the inner house and outside, upon every wall round about, within and without, all was according to measure.

18 And cherubim and palm trees were fashioned, with a palm tree between cherub and cherub; and each cherub had two faces:

19 the face of a man beside the palm tree on this side, and the face of a lion beside the palm tree on the other side. They were depicted throughout the whole house round about.

20 From the floor to the upper part of the gate, cherubim and palm trees were carved upon the wall of the temple.

21 The threshold was quadrangular; and the face of the sanctuary had one appearance facing another.

22 The wooden altar was three cubits high and two cubits long; its corners, its length, and its walls were of wood. And he spoke to me: “This is the table before the Lord.”

23 And there were two doors in the temple and in the sanctuary.

24 And in the two doors, on both sides, there were two little doors that folded into one another; for there were two doors on each side of the doorways.

25 And upon the doors of the temple were carved cherubim and sculptures of palm trees, as they were depicted upon the walls. Therefore the timbers at the front of the vestibule outside were thicker.

26 Above them were slanting windows and the likeness of palm trees on this side and on that side upon the shoulders of the vestibule, according to the sides of the house and the width of the walls.

CHAPTER 42

1 And he led me out into the outer court by the way leading north and brought me into the treasury that was opposite the separate building and opposite the structure inclining toward the north.

2 Before the length of one hundred cubits was the northern entrance, and the width was fifty cubits,

3 opposite the twenty cubits of the inner court and opposite the stone-laid pavement of the outer court, where there was a portico joined to a triple portico.

4 And before the treasuries was a walkway ten cubits wide, looking inward toward a way of one cubit. Their entrances were toward the north,

5 where the upper treasuries were lower, because the porticoes that projected from them were supported by the lower and middle parts of the building.

6 For they were three stories and did not have columns like the columns of the courts. Therefore they projected fifty cubits from the lower and middle stories above the ground.

7 And the outer enclosure beside the treasuries, which were along the way of the outer court before the treasuries, was fifty cubits long,

8 because the length of the treasuries of the outer court was fifty cubits, while the length before the face of the temple was one hundred cubits.

9 And beneath these treasuries was an entrance from the east for those entering them from the outer court.

10 Within the width of the enclosure of the court that was opposite the eastern way, before the face of the separate building, there were treasuries before the building.

11 And the way before their face was like the treasuries that were along the northern way. As their length was, so also was their width, and so were all their entrances, likenesses, and doors.

12 According to the entrances of the treasuries that were along the way looking toward the south, there was an entrance at the head of the way, which was before the separate vestibule for those entering by the eastern way.

13 And he said to me, “The northern treasuries and the southern treasuries that are before the separate building are holy treasuries, in which the priests who draw near to the Lord eat the Holy of Holies. There they shall place the Holy of Holies and the offering for sin and for transgression, for the place is holy.

14 And when the priests have entered, they shall not go out from the holy places into the outer court. There they shall lay aside the garments in which they minister, for they are holy; and they shall clothe themselves with other garments, and thus go forth to the people.”

15 And when he had completed the measurements of the inner house, he led me out by the way of the gate that looked toward the eastern way and measured it round about on every side.

16 He measured toward the east wind with the measuring reed: five hundred reeds by the measuring reed round about.

17 And he measured toward the north wind: five hundred reeds by the measuring reed round about.

18 And toward the south wind he measured five hundred reeds by the measuring reed round about.

19 And toward the west wind he measured five hundred reeds.

20 Toward the four winds he measured its wall round about on every side: five hundred cubits in length and five hundred cubits in width, dividing the sanctuary from the place of the common people.

CHAPTER 43

1 And he led me to the gate that looked toward the eastern way.

2 And behold, the glory of the God of Israel entered by the eastern way. His voice was like the voice of many waters, and the earth shone from his majesty.

3 And I saw a vision according to the appearance I had seen when he came to destroy the city, and an appearance according to the vision I had seen beside the river Chobar. And I fell upon my face.

4 And the majesty of the Lord entered the temple by the way of the gate that looked toward the east.

5 And the spirit lifted me up and brought me into the inner court; and behold, the house was filled with the glory of the Lord.

6 And I heard one speaking to me from the house, while the man who stood beside me

7 said to me: “Son of man, this is the place of my throne and the place of the footsteps of my feet, where I dwell in the midst of the children of Israel forever. And the house of Israel shall no longer pollute my holy name, they and their kings, by their fornications, by the ruins of their kings, and by their high places.

8 They built their threshold beside my threshold and their doorposts beside my doorposts, with only a wall between me and them; and they polluted my holy name by the abominations they committed. Therefore I consumed them in my wrath.

9 Now, therefore, let them remove their fornication and the ruins of their kings far from me, and I shall dwell in their midst always.

10 But you, son of man, show the temple to the house of Israel, that they may be confounded by their iniquities and measure the structure.

11 And let them be ashamed of all they have done. Show them the form of the house and its structure, its exits and entrances, its whole description, all its commandments, its entire order, and all its laws. And write these things before their eyes, that they may keep all its descriptions and commandments and perform them.

12 This is the law of the house upon the summit of the mountain: all its boundary round about is the Holy of Holies. This, therefore, is the law of the house.

13 Now these are the measurements of the altar according to the truest cubit, which was a cubit and a palm. Its hollow was one cubit, its width one cubit, and its boundary to its rim one palm round about. This also was the trench of the altar.

14 From the hollow at the ground to the lowest ledge were two cubits, and the width one cubit. From the smaller ledge to the larger ledge were four cubits, and the width one cubit.

15 The Ariel itself was four cubits, and from the Ariel upward were four horns.

16 And the Ariel was twelve cubits long by twelve cubits wide, quadrangular with equal sides.

17 And the ledge was fourteen cubits long by fourteen cubits wide at its four corners. Its rim round about was half a cubit, and its hollow one cubit round about. Its steps faced toward the east.”

18 And he said to me: “Son of man, thus says the Lord God: These are the rites of the altar on whatever day it is built, that a holocaust may be offered upon it and blood poured out.

19 And you shall give to the priests and Levites who are of the seed of Sadoc, who draw near to me, says the Lord God, a calf from the herd to offer to me for sin.

20 And taking some of its blood, you shall place it upon its four horns, upon the four corners of the ledge, and upon the rim round about. And you shall cleanse and expiate it.

21 And you shall take the calf offered for sin and burn it in the separate place of the house, outside the sanctuary.

22 And on the second day you shall offer an unblemished he-goat for sin; and they shall expiate the altar as they expiated it with the calf.

23 And when you have completed its expiation, you shall offer an unblemished calf from the herd and an unblemished ram from the flock.

24 And you shall offer them in the sight of the Lord. The priests shall cast salt upon them and offer them as a holocaust to the Lord.

25 For seven days you shall prepare a he-goat for sin each day; and they shall offer an unblemished calf from the herd and an unblemished ram from the flock.

26 For seven days they shall expiate the altar, cleanse it, and fill its hand.

27 And when the days are completed, on the eighth day and thereafter, the priests shall prepare upon the altar your holocausts and the things you offer for peace; and I shall be appeased toward you, says the Lord God.

CHAPTER 44

1 And he turned me toward the way of the outer gate of the sanctuary that looked toward the east; and it was shut.

2 And the Lord said to me: “This gate shall be shut. It shall not be opened, and no man shall pass through it, because the Lord God of Israel entered through it; and it shall remain shut

3 for the prince. The prince himself shall sit in it to eat bread before the Lord. By the way of the vestibule of the gate he shall enter, and by its way he shall go out.”

4 And he brought me by the way of the northern gate before the house. And I saw, and behold, the glory of the Lord filled the house of the Lord; and I fell upon my face.

5 And the Lord said to me: “Son of man, set your heart, see with your eyes, and hear with your ears all that I speak to you concerning all the ceremonies of the house of the Lord and all its laws. And set your heart upon the ways of the temple, through all the exits of the sanctuary.

6 And you shall say to the house of Israel that provokes me: Thus says the Lord God: Let all your crimes suffice for you, O house of Israel,

7 because you bring in foreign sons, uncircumcised in heart and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in my sanctuary and pollute my house. You offer my bread, the fat and the blood, and dissolve my pact by all your crimes.

8 And you did not keep the commandments of my sanctuary, but you appointed keepers of my observances for yourselves in my sanctuary.

9 Thus says the Lord God: No foreigner uncircumcised in heart and uncircumcised in flesh shall enter my sanctuary—no foreign son who is in the midst of the children of Israel.

10 But even the Levites who withdrew far from me in the error of the children of Israel, who strayed from me after their idols and bore their iniquity,

11 shall be attendants in my sanctuary, gatekeepers of the house and ministers of the house. They shall slay the holocausts and victims of the people and stand before them to minister to them.

12 Because they ministered to them before their idols and became a stumbling block of iniquity to the house of Israel, therefore I lifted my hand over them, says the Lord God, and they shall bear their iniquity.

13 And they shall not draw near to me to exercise the priesthood for me, nor shall they approach any of my sanctuaries beside the Holy of Holies; but they shall bear their shame and the crimes they committed.

14 And I shall make them gatekeepers of the house in all its ministry and in all that shall be done in it.

15 But the priests and Levites, the sons of Sadoc, who kept the ceremonies of my sanctuary when the children of Israel strayed from me, they shall draw near to me to minister to me. They shall stand before me to offer me fat and blood, says the Lord God.

16 They shall enter my sanctuary and draw near to my table to minister to me and keep my ceremonies.

17 And when they enter the gates of the inner court, they shall be clothed in linen garments. Nothing woolen shall come upon them when they minister at the gates of the inner court and within.

18 Linen bands shall be upon their heads, and linen undergarments shall be upon their loins; and they shall not gird themselves in sweat.

19 And when they go out to the people in the outer court, they shall take off the garments in which they ministered and lay them in the treasury of the sanctuary. They shall clothe themselves with other garments, and they shall not sanctify the people in their garments.

20 They shall not shave their heads or grow their hair long, but shall clip their heads by shearing.

21 And no priest shall drink wine when he is about to enter the inner court.

22 And they shall not take a widow or a divorced woman as wives, but virgins from the seed of the house of Israel. Yet they may take a widow who is the widow of a priest.

23 And they shall teach my people what is between holy and polluted, and show them the difference between clean and unclean.

24 And when there is a controversy, they shall stand in my judgments and judge. They shall keep my laws and my commandments in all my solemn feasts and sanctify my sabbaths.

25 And they shall not enter to a dead man, lest they be polluted, except for father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister who has had no other husband; by these they may be defiled.

26 And after he has been cleansed, seven days shall be counted for him.

27 And on the day of his entrance into the sanctuary, into the inner court, to minister to me in the sanctuary, he shall offer for his sin, says the Lord God.

28 But there shall be no inheritance for them: I am their inheritance. And you shall give them no possession in Israel, for I am their possession.

29 They shall eat the victim, the offering for sin, and the offering for transgression; and every vow in Israel shall be theirs.

30 And the first of all firstfruits and all the libations from all that is offered shall belong to the priests. And you shall give the first of your foods to the priest, that he may lay up a blessing for your house.

31 The priests shall not eat anything that died of itself or was captured by a beast, whether bird or animal.

CHAPTER 45

1 “And when you begin to divide the land by lot, separate firstfruits to the Lord, a sanctified portion of the land, twenty-five thousand long and ten thousand wide. It shall be sanctified within all its boundary round about.

2 And from all this there shall be a sanctified square, five hundred by five hundred on every side round about, with fifty cubits for its suburbs round about.

3 And from this measure you shall measure a length of twenty-five thousand and a width of ten thousand; and within it shall be the temple and the Holy of Holies.

4 The sanctified portion of the land shall be for the priests who minister in the sanctuary and draw near for the ministry of the Lord. It shall be for them as a place for houses and for the sanctuary of holiness.

5 And twenty-five thousand in length and ten thousand in width shall be for the Levites who minister to the house. They shall possess twenty treasuries.

6 And you shall give as the possession of the city a width of five thousand and a length of twenty-five thousand, alongside the separation of the sanctuary, for all the house of Israel.

7 And for the prince there shall be a portion on this side and on that side of the separation of the sanctuary and the possession of the city, opposite the face of the separation of the sanctuary and opposite the face of the possession of the city, from the side of the sea toward the sea and from the side of the east toward the east. Its length shall correspond to each portion, from the western border to the eastern border.

8 He shall have a possession from the land in Israel; and the princes shall no longer depopulate my people, but shall give the land to the house of Israel according to their tribes.

9 Thus says the Lord God: Let this suffice for you, O princes of Israel. Cease from iniquity and robbery, and perform judgment and justice. Separate your boundaries from my people, says the Lord God.

10 You shall have a just balance, a just ephi, and a just bath.

11 The ephi and the bath shall be equal and of one measure, so that the bath contains a tenth part of a cor and the ephi a tenth part of a cor. Their weighing shall be equal according to the measure of the cor.

12 Now the shekel has twenty obols; and twenty shekels, twenty-five shekels, and fifteen shekels make a mina.

13 And these are the firstfruits you shall take: a sixth part of an ephi from a cor of wheat, and a sixth part of an ephi from a cor of barley.

14 The measure of oil also, a bath of oil, is a tenth part of a cor; and ten baths make a cor, because ten baths fill a cor.

15 And one ram from a flock of two hundred, from those Israel nourishes, shall be given for sacrifice, holocaust, and peace offerings, to expiate for them, says the Lord God.

16 All the people of the land shall be bound to give these firstfruits to the prince in Israel.

17 And upon the prince shall be the holocausts, sacrifice, and libations at the solemn feasts, new moons, sabbaths, and all the solemn feasts of the house of Israel. He shall prepare the sacrifice for sin, the holocaust, and the peace offerings, to expiate for the house of Israel.

18 Thus says the Lord God: In the first month, on the first of the month, you shall take an unblemished calf from the herd and expiate the sanctuary.

19 And the priest shall take from the blood of the offering for sin and place it upon the doorposts of the house, upon the four corners of the ledge of the altar, and upon the doorposts of the gate of the inner court.

20 And thus you shall do on the seventh of the month for everyone who was ignorant and deceived by error; and you shall expiate for the house.

21 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, you shall have the solemn feast of Passover. Unleavened bread shall be eaten for seven days.

22 And on that day the prince shall prepare for himself and for all the people of the land a calf for sin.

23 And during the solemn feast of seven days he shall prepare as a holocaust to the Lord seven unblemished calves and seven unblemished rams each day for seven days, and a he-goat for sin each day.

24 And he shall prepare as sacrifice one ephi for each calf and one ephi for each ram, and one hin of oil for each ephi.

25 In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month, during the solemn feast, he shall do as stated above for seven days, both for the offering for sin and for the holocaust, in the sacrifice and in the oil.

CHAPTER 46

1 Thus says the Lord God: “The gate of the inner court that looks toward the east shall be shut during the six days in which work is done; but on the sabbath day it shall be opened, and on the day of the new moon it shall also be opened.

2 And the prince shall enter by the way of the vestibule of the gate from outside and stand at the threshold of the gate. The priests shall prepare his holocaust and his peace offerings. He shall adore upon the threshold of the gate and go out; but the gate shall not be shut until evening.

3 And the people of the land shall adore before the Lord at the entrance of that gate on the sabbaths and new moons.

4 Now this is the holocaust the prince shall offer to the Lord on the sabbath day: six unblemished lambs and one unblemished ram,

5 and as sacrifice, one ephi for the ram; but for the lambs, as much sacrifice as his hand shall give, and one hin of oil for each ephi.

6 And on the day of the new moon there shall be one unblemished calf from the herd, six unblemished lambs, and unblemished rams.

7 And he shall prepare as sacrifice one ephi for the calf and one ephi for the ram; but for the lambs, as much as his hand shall find, and one hin of oil for each ephi.

8 And when the prince is about to enter, he shall enter by the way of the vestibule of the gate and go out by the same way.

9 And when the people of the land enter before the Lord at the solemn feasts, he who enters by the northern gate to adore shall go out by the way of the southern gate. But he who enters by the way of the southern gate shall go out by the way of the northern gate. He shall not return by the way of the gate through which he entered, but shall go out opposite it.

10 And the prince shall enter in their midst with those who enter and go out with those who go out.

11 And at the markets and solemn feasts, the sacrifice shall be one ephi for a calf and one ephi for a ram; but for the lambs, as much sacrifice as his hand shall find, and one hin of oil for each ephi.

12 But when the prince prepares a voluntary holocaust or voluntary peace offerings to the Lord, the gate that looks toward the east shall be opened for him. And he shall prepare his holocaust and his peace offerings as is customarily done on the sabbath day. Then he shall go out, and the gate shall be shut after he leaves.

13 And each day he shall prepare as a holocaust to the Lord an unblemished lamb of the same year. He shall always prepare it in the morning.

14 And every morning he shall prepare with it as sacrifice a sixth part of an ephi and a third part of a hin of oil, that it may be mingled with the fine flour—a lawful, continual, and everlasting sacrifice to the Lord.

15 He shall prepare the lamb, the sacrifice, and the oil every morning as an everlasting holocaust.

16 Thus says the Lord God: If the prince gives a gift to any of his sons, it shall be an inheritance for his sons; they shall possess it by inheritance.

17 But if he gives a legacy from his inheritance to one of his servants, it shall belong to that servant until the year of release, and then it shall return to the prince. But his inheritance shall belong to his sons.

18 And the prince shall not take from the inheritance of the people by violence or from their possession, but from his own possession he shall give an inheritance to his sons, so that my people are not scattered, each one from his own possession.”

19 And he brought me through the entrance beside the gate into the treasuries of the sanctuary for the priests, which looked toward the north; and there was a place there inclining toward the west.

20 And he said to me, “This is the place where the priests shall cook the offering for sin and for transgression, where they shall cook the sacrifice, so that they do not carry it out into the outer court and the people become sanctified.”

21 And he led me out into the outer court and led me round through the four corners of the court. And behold, there was a little court at each corner of the court—one little court at every corner.

22 At the four corners of the court were little courts arranged, forty cubits long and thirty cubits wide. The four were of one measure.

23 And a wall surrounded the four little courts round about, and kitchens were built beneath the porticoes on every side.

24 And he said to me, “This is the house of kitchens in which the ministers of the house of the Lord shall cook the victims of the people.”

CHAPTER 47

1 And he turned me toward the gate of the house; and behold, waters went out from beneath the threshold of the house toward the east, for the face of the house looked toward the east. And the waters descended on the right side of the temple, south of the altar.

2 And he led me out by the way of the northern gate and turned me toward the way outside the outer gate, the way that looked toward the east; and behold, waters overflowed from the right side.

3 And when the man who had the cord in his hand went out toward the east, he measured one thousand cubits and led me through the water up to the ankles.

4 And again he measured one thousand and led me through the water up to the knees.

5 And he measured one thousand and led me through the water up to the loins. Then he measured one thousand more—a torrent that I could not cross, because the waters had swollen into a deep torrent that could not be forded.

6 And he said to me, “Surely you have seen, son of man.” And he led me out and turned me toward the bank of the torrent.

7 And when I had turned, behold, there were exceedingly many trees upon the bank of the torrent on both sides.

8 And he said to me, “These waters that go out toward the mounds of the eastern sand and descend into the plains of the desert shall enter the sea and flow out; and the waters shall be healed.

9 And every living soul that creeps, wherever the torrent comes, shall live. There shall be exceedingly many fish after these waters come there. The waters shall be healed, and everything to which the torrent comes shall live.

10 And fishermen shall stand beside them. From Engaddi even to Engallim there shall be a drying place for nets. Its fish shall be of very many kinds, like the fish of the great sea, an exceedingly great multitude.

11 But its shores and marshes shall not be healed, because they shall be given over to salt pits.

12 And beside the torrent, upon its banks on both sides, every fruit-bearing tree shall arise. Its leaf shall not fall, and its fruit shall not fail. Each month it shall bring forth firstfruits, because its waters go out from the sanctuary. Its fruit shall be for food, and its leaves for medicine.

13 Thus says the Lord God: This is the boundary within which you shall possess the land among the twelve tribes of Israel, for Joseph has a double portion.

14 But each one shall possess it equally with his brother, the land over which I lifted my hand to give it to your fathers. And this land shall fall to you as a possession.

15 Now this is the boundary of the land: on the northern side, from the great sea by the way of Hethalon, as one comes to Sedada,

16 Emath, Berotha, Sabarim, which is between the border of Damascus and the boundary of Emath, the house of Tichon, which is beside the border of Auran.

17 And the boundary shall be from the sea even to the court of Enon, the border of Damascus; and from the north toward the north, the border of Emath—the northern side.

18 But the eastern side shall be from the midst of Auran, from the midst of Damascus, from the midst of Galaad, and from the midst of the land of Israel, with the Jordan dividing toward the eastern sea. You shall also measure the eastern side.

19 And the southern side toward the south shall be from Thamar even to the waters of Contradiction at Cades, and the torrent even to the great sea. This is the southern side toward the south.

20 And the side of the sea shall be the great sea from the boundary in a straight line until you come to Emath. This is the side of the sea.

21 And you shall divide this land among yourselves according to the tribes of Israel.

22 And you shall cast it as an inheritance for yourselves and for the strangers who draw near to you and beget sons in your midst. They shall be to you like native-born children among the children of Israel; they shall divide the possession with you in the midst of the tribes of Israel.

23 And in whatever tribe the stranger is, there you shall give him a possession, says the Lord God.

CHAPTER 48

1 “And these are the names of the tribes from the northern borders, beside the way of Hethalon as one goes to Emath, the court of Enan, the border of Damascus toward the north beside the way of Emath. And from the eastern side to the sea, one portion for Dan.

2 And above the border of Dan, from the eastern side even to the side of the sea, one portion for Aser.

3 And above the border of Aser, from the eastern side even to the side of the sea, one portion for Nephthali.

4 And above the border of Nephthali, from the eastern side even to the side of the sea, one portion for Manasses.

5 And above the border of Manasses, from the eastern side even to the side of the sea, one portion for Ephraim.

6 And above the border of Ephraim, from the eastern side even to the side of the sea, one portion for Ruben.

7 And above the border of Ruben, from the eastern side even to the side of the sea, one portion for Juda.

8 And above the border of Juda, from the eastern side even to the side of the sea, shall be the firstfruits that you shall separate, twenty-five thousand in width and in length like each of the portions from the eastern side even to the side of the sea; and the sanctuary shall be in its midst.

9 The firstfruits that you shall separate to the Lord shall be twenty-five thousand long and ten thousand wide.

10 And these shall be the firstfruits of the sanctuary for the priests: toward the north, a length of twenty-five thousand; toward the sea, a width of ten thousand; toward the east also, a width of ten thousand; and toward the south, a length of twenty-five thousand. The sanctuary of the Lord shall be in its midst.

11 The sanctuary shall be for the priests from among the sons of Sadoc, who kept my ceremonies and did not stray when the children of Israel strayed, as the Levites also strayed.

12 And they shall have the firstfruits from the firstfruits of the land, the Holy of Holies, beside the border of the Levites.

13 And likewise for the Levites, beside the borders of the priests, there shall be twenty-five thousand in length and ten thousand in width. The whole length shall be twenty-five thousand and the width ten thousand.

14 And they shall not sell from it or exchange it, nor shall the firstfruits of the land be transferred, because they are sanctified to the Lord.

15 But the five thousand remaining in width by twenty-five thousand shall be the common portion of the city, for habitation and suburbs; and the city shall be in its midst.

16 And these shall be its measurements: on the northern side, four thousand five hundred; on the southern side, four thousand five hundred; on the eastern side, four thousand five hundred; and on the western side, four thousand five hundred.

17 And the suburbs of the city shall be two hundred and fifty toward the north, two hundred and fifty toward the south, two hundred and fifty toward the east, and two hundred and fifty toward the sea.

18 And what remains in length alongside the firstfruits of the sanctuary, ten thousand toward the east and ten thousand toward the west, shall be like the firstfruits of the sanctuary. Its crops shall be bread for those who serve the city.

19 And those who serve the city shall work it from all the tribes of Israel.

20 All the firstfruits, twenty-five thousand by twenty-five thousand square, shall be separated as the firstfruits of the sanctuary and as the possession of the city.

21 And what remains shall belong to the prince on every side of the firstfruits of the sanctuary and the possession of the city: opposite the twenty-five thousand of the firstfruits even to the eastern border, and toward the sea, opposite the twenty-five thousand even to the border of the sea. Likewise these shall be among the prince’s portions; and the firstfruits of the sanctuary and the sanctuary of the temple shall be in its midst.

22 And the possession of the Levites and the possession of the city, in the midst of the prince’s portions, shall be between the border of Juda and the border of Benjamin and shall belong to the prince.

23 And for the remaining tribes, from the eastern side even to the western side, one portion for Benjamin.

24 And opposite the border of Benjamin, from the eastern side even to the western side, one portion for Simeon.

25 And above the border of Simeon, from the eastern side even to the western side, one portion for Issachar.

26 And above the border of Issachar, from the eastern side even to the western side, one portion for Zabulon.

27 And above the border of Zabulon, from the eastern side even to the side of the sea, one portion for Gad.

28 And above the border of Gad, toward the southern side in the south, the boundary shall be from Thamar even to the waters of Contradiction at Cades, and the inheritance toward the great sea.

29 This is the land that you shall cast by lot to the tribes of Israel, and these are their divisions, says the Lord God.

30 And these are the exits of the city: on the northern side you shall measure four thousand five hundred.

31 And the gates of the city shall be named from the tribes of Israel. Three gates shall be on the north: one gate of Ruben, one gate of Juda, and one gate of Levi.

32 And on the eastern side, four thousand five hundred, with three gates: one gate of Joseph, one gate of Benjamin, and one gate of Dan.

33 And on the southern side you shall measure four thousand five hundred, with three gates: one gate of Simeon, one gate of Issachar, and one gate of Zabulon.

34 And on the western side, four thousand five hundred, with their three gates: one gate of Gad, one gate of Aser, and one gate of Nephthali.

35 Round about, eighteen thousand. And the name of the city from that day shall be: The Lord Is There.

BOOK TWENTY-SEVEN: DANIEL

CHAPTER 1

1 In the third year of the reign of Joakim king of Judah, Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and besieged it.

2 And the Lord (YHWH) delivered Joakim king of Judah into his hand, together with part of the vessels of the house of God. And he carried them away into the land of Sennaar, into the house of his god, and brought the vessels into the treasure house of his god.

3 And the king told Asphenez, the chief of the eunuchs, to bring in some of the children of Israel, of the royal seed and of the nobles:

4 youths in whom there was no blemish, handsome in appearance, instructed in all wisdom, discerning in knowledge, learned in discipline, and able to stand in the king's palace, that he might teach them the letters and language of the Chaldeans.

5 And the king appointed them a daily allowance from his own food and from the wine he drank, so that, nourished for three years, they might afterward stand in the king's presence.

6 Now among them, from the children of Judah, were Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias.

7 And the chief of the eunuchs gave them names: to Daniel, Baltassar; to Ananias, Sidrach; to Misael, Misach; and to Azarias, Abdenago.

8 But Daniel resolved in his heart not to be polluted by the king's table or by the wine he drank; and he asked the chief of the eunuchs that he might not be defiled.

9 And God gave Daniel favor and mercy in the sight of the prince of the eunuchs.

10 And the prince of the eunuchs said to Daniel, "I fear my lord the king, who has appointed your food and drink. If he sees your faces leaner than those of the other youths of your age, you will make my head liable to condemnation before the king."

11 And Daniel said to Malasar, whom the prince of the eunuchs had appointed over Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias, 12 "Test us, I beg you, your servants, for ten days, and let vegetables be given us to eat and water to drink.

13 Then look upon our faces and the faces of the youths who eat the king's food; and deal with your servants according to what you see."

14 And when he had heard such a proposal, he tested them for ten days.

15 But after ten days, their faces appeared better and fuller than those of all the youths who ate the king's food.

16 Thereafter Malasar took away their food and the wine of their drink and gave them vegetables.

17 And to these youths God gave knowledge and discipline in every book and in all wisdom; but to Daniel he gave understanding of all visions and dreams.

18 When the days were completed after which the king had said they should be brought in, the chief of the eunuchs brought them into the presence of Nabuchodonosor.

19 And when the king had spoken with them, none among them all were found like Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias; and they stood in the king's presence.

20 And in every matter of wisdom and understanding about which the king questioned them, he found them ten times beyond all the diviners and magicians who were in his entire kingdom.

21 And Daniel remained until the first year of King Cyrus.

CHAPTER 2

1 In the second year of the reign of Nabuchodonosor, Nabuchodonosor saw a dream; and his spirit was terrified, and his dream fled from him.

2 Then the king commanded that the diviners, magicians, sorcerers, and Chaldeans be summoned to tell the king his dreams. And when they had come, they stood before the king.

3 And the king said to them, “I saw a dream, and, confused in mind, I do not know what I saw.”

4 And the Chaldeans answered the king in Syriac, “O king, live forever! Tell the dream to your servants, and we will declare its interpretation.”

5 And the king answered and said to the Chaldeans, “The matter has departed from me. Unless you tell me the dream and its meaning, you shall perish, and your houses shall be confiscated.

6 But if you relate the dream and its meaning, you shall receive rewards, gifts, and great honor from me. Therefore tell me the dream and its interpretation.”

7 They answered a second time and said, “Let the king tell the dream to his servants, and we will declare its interpretation.”

8 The king answered and said, “I know for certain that you are buying time, because you know that the matter has departed from me.

9 Therefore, if you do not tell me the dream, there is but one sentence concerning you: that you have also composed an interpretation both false and full of deceit, to speak before me until the time passes. Tell me the dream, therefore, so that I may know that you will also speak its true interpretation.”

10 Then the Chaldeans answered before the king and said, “There is no man upon the earth who can fulfill your demand, O king; neither has any king, however great and powerful, asked such a thing of any diviner, magician, or Chaldean.

11 For the matter you ask, O king, is difficult, and no one can be found who could declare it before the king except the gods, whose dwelling is not with men.”

12 Hearing this, the king, in fury and great wrath, commanded that all the wise men of Babylon should perish.

13 And the sentence went forth, and the wise men were being slain; Daniel and his companions also were sought, that they might perish.

14 Then Daniel inquired about the law and sentence from Arioch, the commander of the king’s army, who had gone out to slay the wise men of Babylon.

15 And he asked him, who had received authority from the king, for what reason so cruel a sentence had gone forth from the king’s presence. And when Arioch had told Daniel the matter,

16 Daniel went in and asked the king to give him time to make the solution known to the king.

17 And he entered his house and told the matter to Ananias, Misael, and Azarias, his companions,

18 that they should seek mercy from the God of heaven concerning this mystery, so that Daniel and his companions might not perish with the rest of Babylon’s wise men.

19 Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in a vision by night, and Daniel blessed the God of heaven

20 and spoke, saying, “Blessed be the name of the Lord from age to age, for wisdom and strength are his.

21 And he changes times and ages; he removes kingdoms and establishes them. He gives wisdom to the wise and knowledge to those who understand discipline.

22 He reveals deep and hidden things and knows what is established in darkness; and light is with him.

23 To you, God of our fathers, I give thanks and praise, because you have given me wisdom and strength; and now you have shown me what we asked of you, for you have disclosed the king’s matter to us.”

24 After this Daniel went in to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon, and spoke to him in this way: “Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon. Bring me into the king’s presence, and I will tell the king the solution.”

25 Then Arioch hurriedly brought Daniel before the king and said to him, “I have found a man among the children of Judah’s migration who will make the solution known to the king.”

26 The king answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Baltassar, “Do you truly think you can tell me the dream I saw and its interpretation?”

27 And Daniel answered before the king and said, “The mystery about which the king inquires, the wise men, magicians, diviners, and soothsayers cannot disclose to the king.

28 But there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he has shown you, King Nabuchodonosor, what is to come in the last times. Your dream and the visions of your head upon your bed were these:

29 You, O king, began to consider upon your bed what would come after these things; and he who reveals mysteries showed you what is to come.

30 To me also this mystery was revealed, not by wisdom that is in me beyond all the living, but so that the interpretation might be made manifest to the king and you might know the thoughts of your mind.

31 You, O king, were looking, and behold, something like one great statue. That statue, great and tall in stature, stood before you, and its appearance was terrible.

32 The head of this statue was of the finest gold, but its breast and arms were of silver, and its belly and thighs of bronze.

33 Its legs were of iron; part of its feet was iron, and part earthenware.

34 You looked on until a stone was cut from the mountain without hands; and it struck the statue upon its feet of iron and earthenware and crushed them.

35 Then the iron, earthenware, bronze, silver, and gold were crushed together and reduced as though to the chaff of a summer threshing floor. They were carried away by the wind, and no place was found for them; but the stone that had struck the statue became a great mountain and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dream; we shall also tell its interpretation before you, O king.

37 You are a king of kings, and the God of heaven has given you kingdom, strength, dominion, and glory.

38 And everything in which the children of men dwell, and the beasts of the field, and the birds of heaven, he has given into your hand and placed them all under your dominion. You, therefore, are the head of gold.

39 And after you another kingdom, of silver and inferior to you, shall arise; and another, a third kingdom of bronze, which shall rule over the whole earth.

40 And the fourth kingdom shall be like iron. As iron crushes and subdues all things, so shall it crush and shatter all these.

41 But because you saw part of the feet and toes of potter’s clay and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; yet it shall arise from the stock of iron, according as you saw the iron mixed with earthen clay.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part iron and part earthenware, part of the kingdom shall be strong and part broken.

43 And because you saw iron mixed with earthen clay, they shall indeed be mingled with human seed, but they shall not cleave to one another, just as iron cannot be mixed with earthenware.

44 But in the days of those kingdoms, the God of heaven shall raise up a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, and his kingdom shall not be handed over to another people. It shall crush and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever,

45 just as you saw that a stone was cut from the mountain without hands and crushed the earthenware, iron, bronze, silver, and gold. The great God has shown the king what shall come afterward. The dream is true, and its interpretation is faithful.”

46 Then King Nabuchodonosor fell upon his face and worshiped Daniel, and he commanded that sacrifices and incense be offered to him.

47 Then the king spoke and said to Daniel, “Truly your God is the God of gods and the Lord of kings and the revealer of mysteries, since you were able to disclose this mystery.”

48 Then the king raised Daniel on high and gave him many great gifts; and he appointed him prince over all the provinces of Babylon and prefect of the magistrates over all the wise men of Babylon.

49 But Daniel asked the king, and he appointed Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago over the works of the province of Babylon; Daniel himself was at the king’s gate.

CHAPTER 3

1 King Nabuchodonosor made a golden statue, sixty cubits high and six cubits wide, and set it up in the plain of Dura in the province of Babylon.

2 Then King Nabuchodonosor sent to gather the satraps, magistrates, judges, commanders, governors, prefects, and all the rulers of the regions, that they might assemble for the dedication of the statue King Nabuchodonosor had erected.

3 Then the satraps, magistrates, judges, commanders, governors, nobles placed in authority, and all the rulers of the regions were gathered for the dedication of the statue King Nabuchodonosor had erected. And they stood before the statue Nabuchodonosor had set up.

4 And a herald cried mightily, “To you it is commanded, peoples, tribes, and languages:

5 At the hour when you hear the sound of trumpet, pipe, harp, sackbut, psaltery, symphony, and every kind of music, fall down and worship the golden statue King Nabuchodonosor has set up.

6 But whoever does not fall down and worship shall that same hour be cast into the furnace of burning fire.”

7 Therefore, after this, as soon as all the peoples heard the sound of trumpet, pipe, harp, sackbut, psaltery, symphony, and every kind of music, all the peoples, tribes, and languages fell down and worshiped the golden statue King Nabuchodonosor had set up.

8 And immediately, at that very time, Chaldean men approached and accused the Jews.

9 And they said to King Nabuchodonosor, “O king, live forever!

10 You, O king, established a decree that every man who hears the sound of trumpet, pipe, harp, sackbut, psaltery, symphony, and every kind of music should prostrate himself and worship the golden statue;

11 and that whoever does not fall down and worship should be cast into the furnace of burning fire.

12 There are Jewish men whom you appointed over the works of the province of Babylon—Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago. These men, O king, have despised your decree. They do not worship your gods, nor do they adore the golden statue you erected.”

13 Then Nabuchodonosor, in fury and wrath, commanded that Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago be brought; and they were brought at once into the king’s presence.

14 And King Nabuchodonosor pronounced and said to them, “Is it true, Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, that you do not worship my gods or adore the golden statue I have set up?

15 Now therefore, if you are ready, at whatever hour you hear the sound of trumpet, pipe, harp, sackbut, psaltery, symphony, and every kind of music, prostrate yourselves and worship the statue I have made. But if you do not worship, that same hour you shall be cast into the furnace of burning fire. And who is the God who will deliver you from my hand?”

16 Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago answered and said to King Nabuchodonosor, “We have no need to answer you concerning this matter.

17 For behold, our God whom we worship is able to deliver us from the furnace of burning fire and to rescue us from your hands, O king.

18 But if he is unwilling, let it be known to you, O king, that we do not worship your gods, nor shall we adore the golden statue you have erected.”

19 Then Nabuchodonosor was filled with fury, and the appearance of his face changed against Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago. And he commanded that the furnace be heated seven times more than it was accustomed to be heated.

20 And he commanded the strongest men of his army to bind the feet of Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago and cast them into the furnace of burning fire.

21 And at once those men, bound in their trousers, tiaras, shoes, and garments, were cast into the midst of the furnace of burning fire,

22 for the king’s command was urgent. But the furnace had been heated exceedingly, and the flame of the fire slew those men who had cast in Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago.

23 But these three men—that is, Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago—fell bound into the midst of the furnace of burning fire.

24 And they walked in the midst of the flame, praising God and blessing the Lord.

25 Then Azarias stood and prayed in this way; and opening his mouth in the midst of the fire, he said:

26 [“Blessed are you, O Lord, God of our fathers, and praiseworthy and glorious is your name forever.

27 For you are just in all that you have done to us, and all your works are true, and your ways are right, and all your judgments are true.

28 For you have executed true judgments according to all that you have brought upon us and upon Jerusalem, the holy city of our fathers; because in truth and judgment you have brought all these things upon us for our sins.

29 For we have sinned and acted iniquitously by departing from you, and we have transgressed in all things.

30 We have not listened to your commandments, nor observed them, nor done as you commanded us, that it might be well with us.

31 Therefore all that you have brought upon us and all that you have done to us, you have done in true judgment.

32 And you have delivered us into the hands of our enemies—iniquitous, utterly wicked, and transgressing—and to an unjust king, the most wicked in all the earth.

33 And now we cannot open our mouths; we, your servants and those who worship you, have become confusion and reproach.

34 We beg you, do not deliver us up forever for your name's sake, and do not dissolve your covenant.

35 And do not take your mercy away from us, for the sake of Abraham your beloved, Isaac your servant, and Israel your holy one,

36 to whom you spoke, promising that you would multiply their seed like the stars of heaven and like the sand upon the seashore.

37 For we, O Lord, have been diminished more than all nations and are humbled in all the earth this day because of our sins.

38 And at this time there is no prince, commander, or prophet, no holocaust, sacrifice, oblation, incense, or place of firstfruits before you,

39 that we might be able to find your mercy; but may we be received with a contrite soul and a spirit of humility.

40 As in a holocaust of rams and bulls, and as in thousands of fat lambs, so let our sacrifice be in your sight this day, that it may please you; for there is no confusion for those who trust in you.

41 And now we follow you with all our heart; we fear you and seek your face.

42 Do not put us to confusion, but deal with us according to your gentleness and according to the multitude of your mercy.

43 And deliver us through your wonders, and give glory to your name, O Lord.

44 And let all who show evil to your servants be put to confusion. Let them be confounded by all your power, and let their strength be crushed.

45 And let them know that you alone are the Lord God, glorious over the whole earth."]

46 And the king's servants who had cast them in did not cease heating the furnace with naphtha, tow, pitch, and dry sticks.

47 And the flame poured out above the furnace forty-nine cubits,

48 and broke forth and burned those Chaldeans it found near the furnace.

49 But the angel of the Lord descended with Azarias and his companions into the furnace and drove the flame of fire out of the furnace.

50 And he made the midst of the furnace like a wind of dew blowing, and the fire did not touch them at all, nor grieve them, nor cause them any trouble.

51 Then these three, as though with one mouth, praised, glorified, and blessed God in the furnace, saying:

52 ["Blessed are you, O Lord, God of our fathers, and praiseworthy, glorious, and exalted above all forever. And blessed is your holy name of glory, and praiseworthy and exalted above all in all ages.

53 Blessed are you in the holy temple of your glory, and praiseworthy and glorious above all forever.

54 Blessed are you upon the throne of your kingdom, and praiseworthy and exalted above all forever.

55 Blessed are you who behold the depths and sit above the cherubim, and praiseworthy and exalted above all forever.

56 Blessed are you in the firmament of heaven, and praiseworthy and glorious forever.

57 Bless the Lord, all works of the Lord; praise and exalt him above all forever.

58 Bless the Lord, angels of the Lord; praise and exalt him above all forever.

59 Bless the Lord, heavens; praise and exalt him above all forever.

60 Bless the Lord, all waters that are above the heavens; praise and exalt him above all forever.

61 Bless the Lord, all powers of the Lord; praise and exalt him above all forever.

62 Bless the Lord, sun and moon; praise and exalt him above all forever.

63 Bless the Lord, stars of heaven; praise and exalt him above all forever.

64 Bless the Lord, every shower and dew; praise and exalt him above all forever.

65 Bless the Lord, all spirits of God; praise and exalt him above all forever.

66 Bless the Lord, fire and heat; praise and exalt him above all forever.

67 Bless the Lord, cold and heat; praise and exalt him above all forever.

68 Bless the Lord, dews and hoarfrost; praise and exalt him above all forever.

69 Bless the Lord, frost and cold; praise and exalt him above all forever.

70 Bless the Lord, ice and snows; praise and exalt him above all forever.

71 Bless the Lord, nights and days; praise and exalt him above all forever.

72 Bless the Lord, light and darkness; praise and exalt him above all forever.

73 Bless the Lord, lightnings and clouds; praise and exalt him above all forever.

74 Let the earth bless the Lord; let it praise and exalt him above all forever.

75 Bless the Lord, mountains and hills; praise and exalt him above all forever.

76 Bless the Lord, all things growing upon the earth; praise and exalt him above all forever.

77 Bless the Lord, fountains; praise and exalt him above all forever.

78 Bless the Lord, seas and rivers; praise and exalt him above all forever.

79 Bless the Lord, whales and all things that move in the waters; praise and exalt him above all forever.

80 Bless the Lord, all birds of heaven; praise and exalt him above all forever.

81 Bless the Lord, all beasts and cattle; praise and exalt him above all forever.

82 Bless the Lord, children of men; praise and exalt him above all forever.

83 Let Israel bless the Lord; let Israel praise and exalt him above all forever.

84 Bless the Lord, priests of the Lord; praise and exalt him above all forever.

85 Bless the Lord, servants of the Lord; praise and exalt him above all forever.

86 Bless the Lord, spirits and souls of the just; praise and exalt him above all forever.

87 Bless the Lord, holy and humble of heart; praise and exalt him above all forever.

88 Ananias, Azarias, and Misael, bless the Lord; praise and exalt him above all forever, for he has delivered us from the realm of the dead and saved us from the hand of death. He has freed us from the midst of the burning flame and delivered us from the midst of the fire.

89 Give thanks to the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is forever.

90 All you who are devout, bless the Lord, the God of gods; praise him and give thanks to him, for his mercy is through all ages."]

91 Then King Nabuchodonosor was astonished, and he rose in haste and said to his nobles, "Did we not cast three men, bound, into the midst of the fire?" They answered the king and said, "Truly, O king."

92 He answered and said, "Behold, I see four men unbound and walking in the midst of the fire, and there is no harm in them; and the appearance of the fourth is like a son of God."

93 Then Nabuchodonosor approached the door of the furnace of burning fire and said, "Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, servants of the Most High God, come out and come here." And immediately Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago came out from the midst of the fire.

94 And the satraps, magistrates, judges, and powerful men of the king gathered and looked upon those men, for the fire had exercised no power over their bodies. Not a hair of their heads was singed, their trousers were not altered, and the smell of fire had not passed over them.

95 And Nabuchodonosor broke forth and said, “Blessed is their God—the God of Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago—who sent his angel and delivered his servants who believed in him. They defied the word of the king and gave up their bodies rather than serve or worship any god except their own God.

96 Therefore this decree is established by me: that every people, tribe, and language that speaks blasphemy against the God of Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago shall perish, and his house shall be laid waste; for there is no other god who can save in this way.”

97 Then the king advanced Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago in the province of Babylon.

98 King Nabuchodonosor, to all peoples, nations, and languages who dwell in the whole earth: May peace be multiplied to you.

99 The Most High God has performed signs and wonders with me. Therefore it has pleased me to proclaim

100 his signs, for they are great, and his wonders, for they are mighty. His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his power is from generation to generation.

CHAPTER 4

1 I, Nabuchodonosor, was at rest in my house and flourishing in my palace.

2 I saw a dream that terrified me; and my thoughts upon my bed and the visions of my head troubled me.

3 And a decree was established by me that all the wise men of Babylon should be brought into my presence, that they might tell me the solution of the dream.

4 Then the diviners, magicians, Chaldeans, and soothsayers came in, and I related the dream before them; but they did not tell me its solution,

5 until at last Daniel came into my presence, whose name is Baltassar according to the name of my god, and who has the spirit of the holy gods within him; and I spoke the dream before him.

6 “Baltassar, prince of the diviners, because I know that you have the spirit of the holy gods within you and no mystery is impossible for you, tell the visions of my dreams that I saw and their solution.

7 The vision of my head upon my bed was this: I looked, and behold, a tree in the midst of the earth, and its height was exceedingly great.

8 The tree was great and strong, and its height reached heaven; the sight of it extended to the ends of the whole earth.

9 Its leaves were exceedingly beautiful, and its fruit abundant; and in it was food for all. Beneath it dwelt animals and beasts, and in its branches the birds of heaven made their home; and from it all flesh was fed.

10 I looked in the vision of my head upon my bed, and behold, a watcher and holy one descended from heaven.

11 He cried mightily and spoke in this way: ‘Cut down the tree and lop off its branches; shake off its leaves and scatter its fruit. Let the beasts beneath it flee, and the birds from its branches.

12 Nevertheless, leave the stock of its roots in the earth, and let it be bound with a band of iron and bronze among the plants outside. Let it be drenched with the dew of heaven, and let its portion be with the wild beasts in the grass of the earth.

13 Let his heart be changed from a human heart, and let the heart of a beast be given to him; and let seven times pass over him.

14 By the sentence of the watchers it has been decreed, and the word and petition are of the holy ones, until the living know that the Most High rules in the kingdom of men, gives it to whomever he wills, and appoints the humblest man over it.’

15 I, King Nabuchodonosor, saw this dream. You therefore, Baltassar, tell its interpretation quickly, because all the wise men of my kingdom are unable to declare the solution to me; but you are able, because the spirit of the holy gods is in you.”

16 Then Daniel, whose name was Baltassar, began to think silently within himself for almost an hour, and his thoughts troubled him. But the king answered and said, “Baltassar, do not let the dream and its interpretation trouble you.” Baltassar answered and said, “My lord, may the dream be for those who hate you and its interpretation for your enemies.

17 The tree you saw, lofty and strong, whose height reached heaven and whose sight extended over all the earth,

18 whose branches were exceedingly beautiful and fruit abundant, in which was food for all, beneath which the beasts of the field dwelt, and in whose branches the birds of heaven made their home—

19 it is you, O king, who have become great and grown strong. Your greatness has increased and reached to heaven, and your power to the ends of the whole earth.

20 And the king saw a watcher and holy one descend from heaven and say, ‘Cut down the tree and destroy it; nevertheless, leave the stock of its roots in the earth, and let it be bound with iron and bronze among the plants outside. Let it be sprinkled with the dew of heaven, and let its food be with the wild beasts until seven times pass over it.’

21 This is the interpretation of the sentence of the Most High that has come upon my lord the king:

22 They shall cast you out from among men, and your dwelling shall be with beasts and wild animals. You shall eat grass like an ox and be drenched with the dew of heaven; and seven times shall pass over you, until you know that the Most High rules over the kingdom of men and gives it to whomever he wills.

23 But as he commanded that the stock of the tree’s roots be left, your kingdom shall remain for you after you have acknowledged that the power is heavenly.

24 Therefore, O king, let my counsel be pleasing to you: redeem your sins with alms and your iniquities with mercies to the poor; perhaps he will forgive your offenses.”

25 All these things came upon King Nabuchodonosor.

26 At the end of twelve months, he was walking in the palace of Babylon.

27 And the king answered and said, “Is this not great Babylon, which I built as the house of my kingdom by the strength of my might and in the glory of my splendor?”

28 While the word was still in the king’s mouth, a voice rushed down from heaven: “To you it is spoken, King Nabuchodonosor: Your kingdom shall pass from you.

29 They shall cast you out from among men, and your dwelling shall be with beasts and wild animals. You shall eat grass like an ox, and seven times shall pass over you, until you know that the Most High rules in the kingdom of men and gives it to whomever he wills.”

30 That same hour the word was fulfilled upon Nabuchodonosor. He was cast out from among men and ate grass like an ox, and his body was soaked with the dew of heaven, until his hair grew like eagles’ feathers and his nails like those of birds.

31 Therefore, at the end of the days, I, Nabuchodonosor, lifted my eyes to heaven, and my understanding was restored to me. And I blessed the Most High and praised and glorified him who lives forever, because his power is everlasting power and his kingdom is from generation to generation.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are accounted as nothing before him; for according to his will he acts both among the powers of heaven and among the inhabitants of earth. And there is no one who can resist his hand or say to him, “Why have you done this?”

33 At that same time my understanding returned to me, and I came again to the honor and splendor of my kingdom. My appearance returned to me, my nobles and magistrates sought me, and I was restored in my kingdom; and still greater magnificence was added to me.

34 Now therefore, I, Nabuchodonosor, praise, magnify, and glorify the King of heaven, because all his works are true and his ways are judgments, and he is able to humble those who walk in pride.

CHAPTER 5

1 King Baltassar made a great feast for a thousand of his nobles, and each one drank according to his age.

2 And when he was already drunk, he commanded that the gold and silver vessels Nabuchodonosor his father had carried away from the temple in Jerusalem be brought, so that the king, his nobles, his wives, and his concubines might drink from them.

3 Then the gold and silver vessels carried away from the temple that had been in Jerusalem were brought, and the king, his nobles, his wives, and his concubines drank from them.

4 They drank wine and praised their gods of gold, silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone.

5 In that same hour fingers appeared, as of a man's hand writing opposite the lampstand upon the surface of the wall of the royal hall; and the king watched the joints of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the king's face changed, and his thoughts troubled him; the joints of his loins were loosened, and his knees struck against one another.

7 Therefore the king cried mightily that the magicians, Chaldeans, and soothsayers should be brought in. And the king spoke and said to Babylon's wise men, "Whoever reads this writing and makes its interpretation manifest to me shall be clothed in purple, shall have a golden chain around his neck, and shall be third in my kingdom."

8 Then all the king's wise men entered, but they could neither read the writing nor declare the interpretation to the king.

9 Therefore King Baltassar was greatly troubled and his countenance changed; and his nobles also were disturbed.

10 But because of what had happened to the king and his nobles, the queen entered the banquet hall and spoke, saying, "O king, live forever! Do not let your thoughts trouble you, nor let your face change.

11 There is a man in your kingdom who has the spirit of the holy gods within him; and in the days of your father, knowledge and wisdom were found in him. For King Nabuchodonosor your father appointed him prince of the magicians, enchanters, Chaldeans, and soothsayers—your father, I say, O king—

12 because a surpassing spirit, prudence, understanding, interpretation of dreams, disclosure of secrets, and loosening of things bound were found in him, that is, in Daniel, to whom the king gave the name Baltassar. Therefore let Daniel now be summoned, and he will relate the interpretation."

13 Then Daniel was brought before the king, and the king spoke to him and said, "Are you Daniel, one of the children of Judah's captivity, whom my father the king brought from Judea?

14 I have heard of you, that you have the spirit of the gods and that surpassing knowledge, understanding, and wisdom have been found in you.

15 And now the wise men and magicians have entered my presence to read this writing and declare its interpretation to me; but they could not tell the meaning of this word.

16 But I have heard of you, that you can interpret obscure things and loose what is bound. Therefore, if you are able to read the writing and declare its interpretation to me, you shall be clothed in purple, have a golden chain around your neck, and be the third prince in my kingdom."

17 Daniel answered and said before the king, "Let your gifts be yours, and give the presents of your house to another. But I shall read the writing for you, O king, and show you its interpretation.

18 O king, the Most High God gave Nabuchodonosor your father kingdom and magnificence, glory and honor.

19 And because of the magnificence he had given him, all peoples, tribes, and languages trembled and feared him. Whom he willed, he slew; whom he willed, he struck; whom he willed, he exalted; and whom he willed, he humbled.

20 But when his heart was lifted up and his spirit hardened in pride, he was deposed from the throne of his kingdom, and his glory was taken away.

21 And he was cast out from among the children of men, his heart was placed with the beasts, and his dwelling was with wild asses. He ate grass like an ox, and his body was soaked with the dew of heaven, until he knew that the Most High held power in the kingdom of men and would raise over it whomever he willed.

22 You also, Baltassar his son, have not humbled your heart, though you knew all these things.

23 Instead, you have lifted yourself against the Ruler of heaven. The vessels of his house were brought before you, and you, your nobles, your wives, and your concubines drank wine from them. You praised gods of silver, gold, bronze, iron, wood, and stone, which neither see nor hear nor perceive; but the God who holds your breath in his hand and all your ways, you have not glorified.

24 Therefore the joint of the hand that wrote what was inscribed was sent from him.

25 And this is the writing that was set down: Mane, Thecel, Phares.

26 And this is the interpretation of the word. Mane: God has numbered your kingdom and completed it.

27 Thecel: You have been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

28 Phares: Your kingdom has been divided and given to the Medes and Persians."

29 Then, by the king's command, Daniel was clothed in purple, a golden chain was placed around his neck, and it was proclaimed concerning him that he should have power as third in his kingdom.

30 That same night Baltassar, king of the Chaldeans, was slain.

31 And Darius the Mede succeeded to the kingdom, being sixty-two years old.

CHAPTER 6

1 It pleased Darius, and he appointed one hundred twenty satraps over the kingdom, that they might be throughout his whole kingdom.

2 And over them he appointed three princes, of whom Daniel was one, so that the satraps might give account to them and the king would not suffer trouble.

3 Therefore Daniel surpassed all the princes and satraps, because the Spirit of God was more abundant in him.

4 And the king considered appointing him over the whole kingdom. Therefore the princes and satraps sought an occasion against Daniel from the king's affairs, but they could find no cause or suspicion, because he was faithful, and no fault or suspicion was found in him.

5 Then those men said, "We shall find no occasion against this Daniel unless perhaps in the law of his God."

6 Then the princes and satraps crept upon the king and spoke to him in this way: "King Darius, live forever!

7 All the princes of your kingdom, the magistrates, satraps, senators, and judges, have taken counsel that an imperial decree and edict should go forth: that anyone who makes any petition of any god or man for thirty days, except of you, O king, shall be cast into the lions' den.

8 Now therefore, O king, confirm the sentence and write the decree, so that what has been established by the Medes and Persians may not be changed, nor may anyone be permitted to transgress it."

9 Then King Darius set forth and established the edict.

10 And when Daniel learned that the law had been established, he entered his house; and with the windows of his upper room opened toward Jerusalem, three times a day he bent his knees, worshiped, and gave thanks before his God, as he had been accustomed to do before.

11 Therefore those men, searching more carefully, found Daniel praying and making supplication to his God.

12 And they approached and spoke to the king concerning the edict: "O king, did you not establish that every man who petitioned any god or man for thirty days, except you, O king, should be cast into the lions' den?" The king answered them and said, "The word is true, according to the decree of the Medes and Persians, which it is not permitted to transgress."

13 Then they answered and said before the king, "Daniel, one of the children of Judah's captivity, has paid no heed to your law or to the edict you established, but three times a day he prays his supplication."

14 When the king heard this word, he was deeply grieved; and he set his heart upon delivering Daniel, and until sunset he labored to rescue him.

15 But those men, understanding the king, said to him, "Know, O king, that it is the law of the Medes and Persians that no decree established by the king may be changed."

16 Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel and cast him into the lions' den. And the king said to Daniel, "Your God, whom you always worship, he will deliver you."

17 And one stone was brought and placed over the mouth of the den, and the king sealed it with his ring and the ring of his nobles, so that nothing might be done against Daniel.

18 And the king went away to his house and slept without supper; no food was brought before him, and moreover sleep departed from him.

19 Then the king rose at the first light of dawn and went in haste to the lions' den.

20 And approaching the den, he called to Daniel with a tearful voice and addressed him: "Daniel, servant of the living God, has your God whom you always serve been able, do you think, to deliver you from the lions?"

21 And Daniel answered the king and said, "O king, live forever!

22 My God sent his angel and shut the mouths of the lions, and they have not harmed me, because justice was found in me before him; and before you also, O king, I have committed no offense."

23 Then the king rejoiced exceedingly over him and commanded Daniel to be brought up from the den. And Daniel was brought up from the den, and no injury was found in him, because he believed his God.

24 But by the king's command, those men who had accused Daniel were brought, and they, their children, and their wives were cast into the lions' den. They had not reached the floor of the den before the lions seized them and crushed all their bones.

25 Then King Darius wrote to all peoples, tribes, and languages dwelling in the whole earth: “May peace be multiplied to you.

26 A decree has been established by me that throughout all my empire and kingdom, they tremble and fear the God of Daniel. For he is the living God, eternal through the ages; his kingdom shall not be destroyed, and his power shall endure forever.

27 He is the deliverer and savior, performing signs and wonders in heaven and upon earth, who delivered Daniel from the lions’ den.”

28 And Daniel persevered until the reign of Darius and the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

CHAPTER 7

1 In the first year of Baltassar king of Babylon, Daniel saw a dream and a vision of his head upon his bed. And writing the dream, he comprehended it in a brief account; and summarizing it, he said:

2 “I looked in my vision by night, and behold, the four winds of heaven were fighting upon the great sea.

3 And four great beasts, different from one another, came up from the sea.

4 The first was like a lioness and had the wings of an eagle. I watched until its wings were plucked out, and it was lifted from the earth and stood upon its feet like a man; and the heart of a man was given to it.

5 And behold, another beast, like a bear, stood to one side; and there were three rows in its mouth and between its teeth, and thus they said to it: ‘Arise, devour much flesh.’

6 After this I looked, and behold, another like a leopard, and it had four wings like those of a bird upon it; and the beast had four heads, and power was given to it.

7 After this I looked in the vision of the night, and behold, a fourth beast, terrible, wondrous, and exceedingly strong. It had great iron teeth, devouring and crushing, and trampling what remained beneath its feet. It was unlike the other beasts I had seen before it, and it had ten horns.

8 I considered the horns, and behold, another little horn arose from their midst; and three of the first horns were plucked out before it. And behold, in that horn were eyes like the eyes of a man and a mouth speaking great things.

9 I watched until thrones were set in place and the Ancient of Days sat. His garment was white as snow and the hair of his head like pure wool; his throne was flames of fire, its wheels a burning fire.

10 A swift river of fire issued from before him. Thousands of thousands ministered to him, and ten thousand times a hundred thousand stood before him. The judgment sat, and the books were opened.

11 I watched because of the sound of the great words the horn was speaking; and I saw that the beast was slain, its body perished, and it was handed over to be burned with fire.

12 The power of the other beasts also was taken away, and times of life were appointed to them until a time and a time.

13 Therefore I looked in the vision of the night, and behold, with the clouds of heaven one like a son of man was coming. And he came as far as the Ancient of Days, and they presented him before him.

14 And he gave him power, honor, and kingdom; and all peoples, tribes, and languages shall serve him. His power is everlasting power that shall not be taken away, and his kingdom shall not be destroyed.

15 My spirit shuddered; I, Daniel, was terrified by these things, and the visions of my head troubled me.

16 I approached one of those standing by and sought the truth from him concerning all these things. And he told me the interpretation of the words and instructed me:

17 ‘These four great beasts are four kingdoms that shall arise from the earth.

18 But the saints of the Most High God shall receive the kingdom and possess it forever and unto the age of ages.’

19 After this I desired to learn diligently concerning the fourth beast, which was exceedingly unlike all the others and very terrible, whose teeth and claws were iron, which devoured and crushed and trampled what remained beneath its feet;

20 and concerning the ten horns it had upon its head, and the other that had arisen, before which three horns had fallen; and concerning that horn which had eyes and a mouth speaking great things and was greater than the others.

21 I watched, and behold, that horn made war against the saints and prevailed over them,

22 until the Ancient of Days came and gave judgment to the saints of the Most High; and the time arrived, and the saints possessed the kingdom.

23 And he said this: ‘The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom upon earth, which shall be greater than all the kingdoms and shall devour the whole earth and trample and crush it.

24 And the ten horns of that kingdom shall be ten kings; and another shall arise after them, and he shall be mightier than those before him and shall humble three kings.

25 And he shall speak words against the Most High and wear down the saints of the Most High. He shall think himself able to change times and laws, and they shall be delivered into his hand until a time, times, and half a time.

26 And the judgment shall sit, that his power may be taken away, crushed, and destroyed unto the end.

27 But the kingdom, power, and greatness of the kingdom beneath the whole heaven shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom; and all kings shall serve and obey him.'

28 Here is the end of the word. I, Daniel, was greatly troubled by my thoughts, and my face changed within me; but I kept the word in my heart.

CHAPTER 8

1 In the third year of the reign of King Baltassar, a vision appeared to me, I, Daniel, after that which I had seen at the beginning.

2 I saw in my vision, while I was in the citadel of Susa, which is in the region of Elam; and in the vision I saw myself above the gate of Ulai.

3 And I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, one ram stood before the marsh, having high horns, one higher than the other and growing up afterward.

4 Then I saw the ram thrusting with its horns toward the west, north, and south; and no beast could withstand it or be delivered from its hand. It acted according to its will and became great.

5 And I was considering, when behold, a he-goat came from the west over the face of the whole earth without touching the ground; and the he-goat had a notable horn between its eyes.

6 And it came as far as that horned ram which I had seen standing before the gate, and it ran at him in the fury of its strength.

7 And when it had approached the ram, it raged against him and struck the ram and shattered his two horns. The ram could not withstand it; and when it had cast him to the ground, it trampled him, and no one was able to deliver the ram from its hand.

8 But the he-goat became exceedingly great; and when it had grown, the great horn was broken, and four horns arose beneath it toward the four winds of heaven.

9 But from one of them came forth one little horn, and it became great toward the south, toward the east, and toward the strength.

10 And it was magnified even to the strength of heaven; and it cast down some of the strength and the stars and trampled them.

11 And it was magnified even to the prince of the strength; and it took away from him the perpetual sacrifice and cast down the place of his sanctuary.

12 And strength was given to it against the perpetual sacrifice because of sins; and truth shall be cast down upon the earth, and it shall act and prosper.

13 And I heard one of the holy ones speaking; and one holy one said to another—I do not know to whom he spoke—"How long shall the vision, the perpetual sacrifice, and the sin of the desolation that has been made endure? And how long shall the sanctuary and the strength be trampled?"

14 And he said to him, "Until evening and morning, two thousand three hundred days; then the sanctuary shall be cleansed."

15 And it came to pass, when I, Daniel, saw the vision and sought understanding, behold, there stood before me something like the appearance of a man.

16 And I heard the voice of a man between Ulai; and he cried and said, "Gabriel, make him understand this vision."

17 And he came and stood beside where I was standing; and when he came, I was afraid and fell upon my face. And he said to me, "Understand, son of man, for at the time of the end the vision shall be fulfilled."

18 And while he spoke to me, I fell prostrate upon the earth; but he touched me and set me upon my feet.

19 And he said to me, "I shall show you what is to come at the last of the curse, for the time has its end.

20 The ram you saw having horns is the king of the Medes and Persians.

21 But the he-goat is the king of the Greeks; and the great horn that was between his eyes is the first king.

22 And because, when it was broken, four arose in its place, four kings shall arise from his nation, but not with his strength.

23 And after their reign, when iniquities have grown, a king shall arise, shameless in face and understanding propositions.

24 And his strength shall be made powerful, but not by his own forces. Beyond what can be believed, he shall lay waste all things and shall prosper and act; and he shall slay the mighty and the people of the saints

25 according to his will. Deceit shall be directed in his hand, and he shall magnify his heart; and amid abundance of all things he shall slay many. He shall rise against the Prince of princes and be crushed without hand.

26 And the vision of evening and morning that was spoken is true. Therefore seal the vision, because it shall be after many days."

27 And I, Daniel, languished and was sick for days; and when I had risen, I carried out the king's works. I was astonished at the vision, and there was no one to interpret it.

CHAPTER 9

1 In the first year of Darius son of Assuerus, of the seed of the Medes, who ruled over the kingdom of the Chaldeans,

2 in the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, understood from the books the number of years concerning which the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the prophet: that seventy years of Jerusalem's desolation should be completed.

3 And I set my face toward the Lord my God, to seek and implore him with fasting, sackcloth, and ashes.

4 And I prayed to the Lord my God and confessed and said, "I beseech you, O Lord, great and terrible God, who keeps pact and mercy with those who love you and keep your commandments:

5 We have sinned, committed iniquity, acted wickedly, and departed; and we have turned away from your commandments and judgments.

6 We have not obeyed your servants the prophets, who spoke in your name to our kings, our princes, our fathers, and all the people of the land.

7 To you, O Lord, belongs justice, but to us confusion of face, as it is this day—to the men of Judah, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and all Israel, those who are near and those who are far away in all the lands to which you cast them for their iniquities by which they sinned against you.

8 O Lord, to us belongs confusion of face—to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, who have sinned.

9 But to you, the Lord our God, belong mercy and propitiation, because we have departed from you

10 and have not listened to the voice of the Lord our God, that we should walk in his law, which he set before us through his servants the prophets.

11 And all Israel have transgressed your law and turned away so that they would not hear your voice; and the curse and denunciation written in the book of Moses, the servant of God, have dripped down upon us, because we have sinned against him.

12 And he has established his words that he spoke against us and against our princes who judged us, that he would bring upon us a great evil such as has never been beneath all heaven, according to what was done in Jerusalem.

13 As it is written in the law of Moses, all this evil has come upon us; and we did not seek your face, O Lord our God, that we might turn back from our iniquities and consider your truth.

14 And the Lord kept watch over the evil and brought it upon us. The Lord our God is just in all the works he has done, for we did not listen to his voice.

15 And now, O Lord our God, who brought your people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand and made yourself a name as at this day: we have sinned; we have committed iniquity.

16 O Lord, according to all your justice, I beseech you, let your wrath and fury turn away from your city Jerusalem and from your holy mountain. For because of our sins and the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and your people are a reproach to all around us.

17 Now therefore, our God, hear the prayer of your servant and his petitions; and for your own sake, show your face upon your sanctuary, which is desolate.

18 Incline your ear, my God, and hear; open your eyes and see our desolation and the city upon which your name has been invoked. For we do not cast down our prayers before your face because of our justifications, but because of your many tender mercies.

19 Hear, O Lord; be appeased, O Lord; attend and act. Do not delay for your own sake, my God, because your name has been invoked upon your city and upon your people."

20 And while I was still speaking and praying, confessing my sins and the sins of my people Israel, and casting down my prayers in the presence of my God for the holy mountain of my God—

21 while I was still speaking in prayer, behold, the man Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, flying swiftly, touched me at the time of the evening sacrifice.

22 And he instructed me and spoke to me and said, "Daniel, I have now come forth to teach you, that you may understand.

23 From the beginning of your prayers, the word went forth; and I have come to tell you, because you are a man of desires. Therefore attend to the word and understand the vision.

24 Seventy weeks are shortened upon your people and upon your holy city, that transgression may be consummated, sin receive an end, iniquity be blotted out, everlasting justice be brought in, vision and prophecy be fulfilled, and the Holy of Holies be anointed.

25 Know therefore and take heed: from the going forth of the word that Jerusalem should be built again until Christ the leader, there shall be seven weeks and sixty-two weeks; and the street and walls shall be built again in straitened times.

26 And after sixty-two weeks Christ shall be slain, and the people who will deny him shall no longer be his. And a people with a leader who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary; and its end shall be desolation, and after the end of the war, the appointed desolation.

27 And he shall confirm the pact with many for one week; and in the middle of the week victim and sacrifice shall cease, and in the temple shall be the abomination of desolation; and until the consummation and the end, the desolation shall persist.

CHAPTER 10

1 In the third year of Cyrus king of the Persians, a word was revealed to Daniel, surnamed Baltassar; and the word was true, and the strength was great. And he understood the word, for understanding is needed in the vision.

2 In those days I, Daniel, mourned for the days of three weeks.

3 I ate no desirable bread; neither flesh nor wine entered my mouth, nor was I anointed with ointment, until the days of three weeks were completed.

4 And on the twenty-fourth day of the first month, I was beside the great river, which is the Tigris.

5 And I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, one man clothed in linen, his loins girded with the finest gold.

6 His body was like chrysolite, his face like the appearance of lightning, his eyes like a burning lamp, his arms and everything downward as far as his feet like the appearance of glowing bronze, and the sound of his words like the sound of a multitude.

7 And I, Daniel, alone saw the vision; the men who were with me did not see, but an exceedingly great terror rushed upon them, and they fled into hiding.

8 But I was left alone and saw this great vision. No strength remained in me; my appearance changed within me, I withered, and I had no strength at all.

9 And I heard the sound of his words; and as I heard, I lay stunned upon my face, and my countenance clung to the earth.

10 And behold, a hand touched me and raised me upon my knees and the joints of my hands.

11 And he said to me, “Daniel, man of desires, understand the words I speak to you and stand upon your feet, for I have now been sent to you.” And when he had spoken this word to me, I stood trembling.

12 And he said to me, “Do not fear, Daniel, because from the first day you set your heart to understand and to afflict yourself in the presence of your God, your words were heard; and I have come because of your words.

13 But the prince of the kingdom of the Persians resisted me for twenty-one days; and behold, Michael, one of the chief princes, came to my aid, and I remained there beside the king of the Persians.

14 But I have come to teach you what shall come upon your people in the last days, for the vision is yet for days.”

15 And while he spoke such words to me, I cast my face toward the earth and was silent.

16 And behold, something like the likeness of a son of man touched my lips. And opening my mouth, I spoke and said to him who stood before me, “My lord, at your vision my joints have been loosened, and no strength remains in me.

17 And how can the servant of my lord speak with my lord? For no strength remains in me, and even my breath is stopped.”

18 Therefore, again something like the appearance of a man touched me and strengthened me.

19 And he said, “Do not fear, man of desires. Peace be to you. Take courage and be strong.” And while he spoke with me, I recovered strength and said, “Speak, my lord, for you have strengthened me.”

20 And he said, “Do you know why I have come to you? And now I shall return to fight against the prince of the Persians. When I was going forth, the prince of the Greeks appeared, coming.

21 Nevertheless, I shall announce to you what is expressed in the scripture of truth; and no one is my helper in all these things except Michael your prince.

CHAPTER 11

1 “But from the first year of Darius the Mede, I stood that he might be strengthened and fortified.

2 And now I shall announce the truth to you. Behold, three kings shall yet stand in Persia, and the fourth shall be enriched with exceedingly great wealth beyond them all; and when he has grown strong through his riches, he shall stir up all against the kingdom of Greece.

3 But a mighty king shall arise, rule with great power, and do whatever pleases him.

4 And when he has stood, his kingdom shall be broken and divided toward the four winds of heaven, but not among his descendants, nor according to the power by which he ruled; for his kingdom shall be torn apart and given even to outsiders besides these.

5 And the king of the south shall be strengthened; and one of his princes shall prevail over him and rule with dominion, for his dominion shall be great.

6 And after the end of years, they shall enter a covenant. The daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to make friendship, but she shall not retain the strength of the arm, nor shall her seed stand; and she shall be handed over, together with the young men who brought her, and those who strengthened her in those times.

7 And a plant from the stock of her roots shall stand; and he shall come with an army and enter the province of the king of the north. He shall abuse them and prevail.

8 Moreover, he shall carry captive into Egypt their gods, carved images, and precious vessels of silver and gold; he shall prevail against the king of the north.

9 And the king of the south shall enter the kingdom and return to his own land.

10 But his sons shall be provoked and gather a multitude of many armies; and he shall come hastening and overflowing. He shall return, be stirred up, and engage his strength.

11 And the king of the south, provoked, shall go forth and fight against the king of the north. He shall prepare an exceedingly great multitude, and the multitude shall be given into his hand.

12 And he shall seize the multitude, and his heart shall be exalted; and he shall cast down many thousands, but he shall not prevail.

13 For the king of the north shall return and prepare a multitude much greater than before; and at the end of times and years, he shall come hastening with a great army and exceedingly great wealth.

14 And in those times many shall rise against the king of the south; the children of the transgressors of your people also shall exalt themselves to fulfill the vision, and they shall fall.

15 And the king of the north shall come, heap up an embankment, and take the strongest cities. The arms of the south shall not withstand, and his chosen men shall rise to resist, but there shall be no strength.

16 And the one coming against him shall act according to his pleasure, and there shall be no one to stand before him. He shall stand in the glorious land, and it shall be consumed in his hand.

17 And he shall set his face to come and take possession of his entire kingdom, and he shall make fair terms with him. He shall give him a daughter of women to overthrow it, but she shall not stand, nor shall she be his.

18 And he shall turn his face toward the islands and take many; and a prince shall cause his reproach to cease, and shall turn his reproach back upon him.

19 And he shall turn his face toward the empire of his own land, and he shall stumble and fall and not be found.

20 And in his place shall stand one utterly vile and unworthy of royal splendor; and within a few days he shall be crushed, but not in fury or in battle.

21 And in his place shall stand one despised, and royal honor shall not be given to him. He shall come secretly and obtain the kingdom by fraud.

22 And the arms of the fighter shall be overthrown before his face and crushed, and moreover the leader of the covenant.

23 And after friendships are made, he shall deal deceitfully with him; and he shall ascend and overcome with a small people.

24 And he shall enter abundant and fertile cities and do what his fathers and his fathers’ fathers did not do. He shall scatter their plunder, spoil, and riches, and devise plans against the strongest places, and this until a time.

25 And his strength and heart shall be stirred against the king of the south with a great army; and the king of the south shall be provoked to battle with many exceedingly strong auxiliaries, but they shall not stand, because they shall devise plans against him.

26 And those eating bread with him shall crush him, his army shall be oppressed, and very many shall fall slain.

27 The heart of the two kings also shall be set to do evil, and at one table they shall speak falsehood; but they shall not prosper, because the end is still for another time.

28 And he shall return to his land with much wealth, and his heart shall be against the holy testament; and he shall act and return to his land.

29 At the appointed time he shall return and come to the south, but the last time shall not be like the first.

30 And triremes and the Romans shall come upon him; and he shall be struck and return, and he shall be indignant against the testament of the sanctuary and shall act. And he shall return and devise against those who have forsaken the testament of the sanctuary.

31 And arms from him shall stand and pollute the sanctuary of strength, take away the perpetual sacrifice, and place the abomination unto desolation.

32 And the impious shall deceitfully feign concerning the testament; but the people who know their God shall prevail and act.

33 And the learned among the people shall teach many; and they shall fall by sword, flame, captivity, and plunder for days.

34 And when they have fallen, they shall be raised by a little help; and very many shall join themselves to them deceitfully.

35 And some of the learned shall fall, that they may be refined, chosen, and made white until the appointed time, because there shall still be another time.

36 And the king shall act according to his will; he shall be exalted and magnified against every god and shall speak great things against the God of gods. And he shall be directed until the wrath is completed, for the determination has been accomplished.

37 And he shall have no regard for the God of his fathers; he shall be amid the desires of women, and he shall care for none of the gods, because he shall rise against all things.

38 But in his place he shall worship the god Maozim; and a god whom his fathers did not know he shall honor with gold, silver, precious stone, and costly things.

39 And he shall fortify Maozim with a foreign god whom he acknowledged; he shall multiply glory and give them power over many, and he shall divide the land freely.

40 And at the appointed time the king of the south shall fight against him, and the king of the north shall come against him like a tempest, with chariots, horsemen, and a great fleet. He shall enter the lands, crush them, and pass through.

41 And he shall enter the glorious land, and many shall fall; but these alone shall be saved from his hand: Edom, Moab, and the chief part of the children of Ammon.

42 And he shall stretch forth his hand against the lands, and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 And he shall rule over the treasures of gold and silver and all the precious things of Egypt; he shall also pass through Libya and Ethiopia.

44 And a report from the east and north shall trouble him, and he shall come with a great multitude to crush and slay many.

45 And he shall pitch his tabernacle at Apadno, between the seas, upon the glorious and holy mountain; and he shall come to its summit, and no one shall help him.

CHAPTER 12

1 “But at that time Michael shall arise, the great prince who stands for the children of your people; and there shall come a time such as has not been since nations began to exist until that time. And at that time your people shall be saved, everyone who is found written in the book.

2 And many of those who sleep in the dust of the earth shall awaken: some to everlasting life and others to reproach, that they may see it forever.

3 But those who are learned shall shine like the brightness of the firmament, and those who instruct many toward justice like stars through perpetual eternities.

4 But you, Daniel, close the words and seal the book until the appointed time. Very many shall pass through, and knowledge shall be manifold.”

5 And I, Daniel, saw, and behold, something like two others stood: one here upon one bank of the river and another there upon the other bank of the river.

6 And I said to the man clothed in linen who stood above the waters of the river, “How long until the end of these wonders?”

7 And I heard the man clothed in linen who stood above the waters of the river, when he had raised his right and left hands toward heaven and sworn by him who lives forever, that it would be for a time, times, and half a time; and when the scattering of the hand of the holy people has been completed, all these things shall be fulfilled.

8 And I heard but did not understand. And I said, “My lord, what shall be after these things?”

9 And he said, “Go, Daniel, for the words are closed and sealed until the appointed time.

10 Many shall be chosen and made white and shall be tested as by fire; and the impious shall act impiously, and none of the impious shall understand, but the learned shall understand.

11 And from the time when the perpetual sacrifice is taken away and the abomination is placed unto desolation, there shall be one thousand two hundred ninety days.

12 Blessed is he who waits and reaches one thousand three hundred thirty-five days.

13 But you, go to the appointed end; and you shall rest and stand in your lot at the end of the days.”

CHAPTER 13

1 And there was a man dwelling in Babylon whose name was Joakim.

2 And he took a wife named Susanna, the daughter of Helcias, exceedingly beautiful and fearing God.

3 For her parents, being just, had instructed their daughter according to the law of Moses.

4 Now Joakim was very rich, and he had an orchard adjoining his house; and the Jews flocked to him because he was more honorable than all.

5 And in that year two elders from among the people were appointed judges, of whom the Lord had spoken: “Iniquity has gone forth from Babylon, from elder judges who seemed to govern the people.”

6 These men frequented Joakim’s house, and all who had legal cases came to them.

7 But when the people had returned at midday, Susanna would enter and walk in her husband’s orchard.

8 And the elders saw her entering and walking every day, and they burned with desire for her.

9 And they perverted their understanding and turned away their eyes so that they would not look toward heaven or remember just judgments.

10 Therefore both were wounded with love for her, yet they did not disclose their pain to one another,

11 for they were ashamed to reveal to each other their desire, wishing to lie with her.

12 And every day they watched more intently to see her. And one said to the other,

13 “Let us go home, for it is the hour of the midday meal.” And going out, they departed from one another.

14 But when they had returned, they came together; and asking one another the reason, they confessed their desire. Then together they appointed a time when they might find her alone.

15 And it came to pass, as they watched for a suitable day, that she entered on a certain day, as yesterday and the day before, with only two maidservants, and wished to bathe in the orchard, for it was hot.

16 And no one was there except the two elders, hidden and watching her.

17 Therefore she said to the maidservants, “Bring me oil and washing preparations, and close the orchard doors so that I may bathe.”

18 And they did as she commanded. They closed the orchard doors and went out by the back entrance to bring what she had ordered, not knowing that the elders were hidden inside.

19 But when the maidservants had gone out, the two elders arose and ran to her and said,

20 “Behold, the orchard doors are closed, and no one sees us, and we desire you. Therefore consent to us and lie with us.

21 But if you refuse, we shall bear witness against you that a young man was with you and that for this reason you sent your maidservants away from you.”

22 Susanna groaned and said, “I am hemmed in on every side. For if I do this, it is death to me; but if I do not do it, I shall not escape your hands.

23 Yet it is better for me to fall into your hands without doing it than to sin in the sight of the Lord.”

24 And Susanna cried out with a loud voice; but the elders also cried out against her.

25 And one ran to the orchard doors and opened them.

26 Therefore, when the household servants heard the cry in the orchard, they rushed in by the back entrance to see what it was.

27 But after the elders had spoken, the servants were exceedingly ashamed, because such a thing had never been said of Susanna. And the next day came.

28 And when the people had come to Joakim her husband, the two elders also came, full of an iniquitous purpose against Susanna, that they might put her to death.

29 And they said before the people, “Send for Susanna, daughter of Helcias and wife of Joakim.” And immediately they sent for her.

30 And she came with her parents, children, and all her relatives.

31 Now Susanna was exceedingly delicate and beautiful in appearance.

32 But those iniquitous men commanded that she be uncovered—for she was veiled—so that even in this way they might satisfy themselves with her beauty.

33 Therefore her own people and all who knew her wept.

34 And the two elders rose in the midst of the people and placed their hands upon her head.

35 And weeping, she looked up toward heaven, for her heart trusted in the Lord.

36 And the elders said, “While we were walking alone in the orchard, this woman entered with two maidservants; and she closed the orchard doors and sent the maidservants away from her.

37 And a young man who had been hidden came to her and lay with her.

38 But we, being in a corner of the orchard, saw the iniquity and ran to them, and we saw them lying together.

39 We could not seize him, for he was stronger than we, and opening the doors, he leapt out.

40 But when we had seized her, we asked who the young man was, and she refused to tell us. We are witnesses of this matter.”

41 The multitude believed them as elders and judges of the people, and they condemned her to death.

42 But Susanna cried out with a loud voice and said, “Eternal God, who knows hidden things, who knows all things before they come to pass,

43 you know that they have borne false witness against me. And behold, I die, though I have done none of the things these men maliciously devised against me.”

44 And the Lord heard her voice.

45 And as she was being led to death, the Lord raised up the holy spirit of a younger boy whose name was Daniel.

46 And he cried out with a loud voice, “I am clean of this woman’s blood.”

47 And all the people turned toward him and said, “What is this word you have spoken?”

48 And standing in their midst, he said, “Are you so foolish, children of Israel, that without judging or knowing what is true, you have condemned a daughter of Israel?

49 Return to judgment, for these men have spoken false witness against her.”

50 Therefore the people returned in haste, and the elders said to him, “Come and sit in our midst and show us, because God has given you the honor of old age.”

51 And Daniel said to them, “Separate them far from one another, and I shall judge them.”

52 Therefore, when they had been divided from one another, he called one of them and said to him, “You who have grown old in evil days, now your sins that you committed before have come upon you:

53 judging unjust judgments, oppressing the innocent and releasing the guilty, though the Lord says, ‘You shall not kill the innocent and the just.’

54 Now therefore, if you saw her, tell me under what tree you saw them speaking together.” And he said, “Under a mastic tree.”

55 And Daniel said, “You have lied rightly against your own head; for behold, the angel of God, having received sentence from him, shall cut you in two.”

56 And when he had removed him, he commanded the other to come and said to him, “Seed of Canaan and not of Judah, beauty has deceived you, and desire has perverted your heart.

57 Thus you dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they, being afraid, spoke to you; but a daughter of Judah did not endure your iniquity.

58 Now therefore, tell me under what tree you caught them speaking together.” And he said, “Under a holm oak.”

59 And Daniel said to him, “You also have lied rightly against your own head; for the angel of the Lord waits, holding a sword, to cut you in two and kill you both.”

60 Then the whole assembly cried out with a loud voice and blessed God, who saves those who hope in him.

61 And they rose against the two elders—for Daniel had convicted them from their own mouths of speaking false witness—and they did to them as they had maliciously dealt against their neighbor,

62 acting according to the law of Moses. And they killed them, and innocent blood was saved that day.

63 But Helcias and his wife praised God for their daughter Susanna, together with Joakim her husband and all their relatives, because no shameful thing had been found in her.

64 And Daniel became great in the sight of the people from that day onward.

65 And King Astyages was gathered to his fathers, and Cyrus the Persian received his kingdom.

CHAPTER 14

1 Now Daniel was the king's table companion and was honored above all his friends.

2 And there was also an idol among the Babylonians named Bel; and every day twelve artabas of fine flour, forty sheep, and six amphoras of wine were spent upon it.

3 The king also worshiped it and went every day to adore it, but Daniel adored his God. And the king said to him, "Why do you not adore Bel?"

4 He answered and said to him, "Because I do not worship idols made by hands, but the living God, who created heaven and earth and holds power over all flesh."

5 And the king said to him, "Does Bel not appear to you to be a living god? Do you not see how much he eats and drinks each day?"

6 And Daniel, smiling, said, "Do not be deceived, O king, for this one is clay within and bronze without, and he has never eaten."

7 And the king became angry and called his priests and said to them, "Unless you tell me who it is that eats these provisions, you shall die.

8 But if you show that Bel eats these things, Daniel shall die, because he has blasphemed against Bel." And Daniel said to the king, "Let it be according to your word."

9 Now the priests of Bel were seventy, besides their wives, little children, and sons. And the king came with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

10 And the priests of Bel said, "Behold, we are going outside. You, O king, set out the food, mix the wine, close the door, and seal it with your ring.

11 And when you enter in the morning, unless you find everything eaten by Bel, we shall die by death—or Daniel, who has lied against us."

12 But they were unconcerned, because they had made a hidden entrance beneath the table and always entered through it and devoured the provisions.

13 Therefore, after they had gone out, the king set the food before Bel. Daniel commanded his servants, and they brought ashes, and he sifted them throughout the whole temple before the king. Then they went out, closed the door, sealed it with the king's ring, and departed.

14 But the priests entered by night according to their custom, together with their wives and children, and they ate and drank everything.

15 And the king rose at the first light of dawn, and Daniel with him.

16 And the king said, "Are the seals intact, Daniel?" He answered, "They are intact, O king."

17 And immediately, when he had opened the door, the king looked upon the table and cried out with a loud voice, "Great are you, O Bel, and there is no deceit with you at all."

18 And Daniel laughed and restrained the king from entering, and said, "Behold the pavement. Notice whose footprints these are."

19 And the king said, "I see the footprints of men, women, and children." And the king became angry.

20 Then he seized the priests and their wives and children; and they showed him the hidden little doors through which they entered and consumed what was upon the table.

21 Therefore the king killed them and delivered Bel into Daniel's power, and he overthrew it and its temple.

22 And there was a great dragon in that place, and the Babylonians worshiped it.

23 And the king said to Daniel, "Behold, now you cannot say that this is not a living god; therefore adore it."

24 And Daniel said, "I adore the Lord my God, because he is the living God; but this is not a living god.

25 But you, O king, give me authority, and I shall kill the dragon without sword or club." And the king said, "I give it to you."

26 Therefore Daniel took pitch, fat, and hair and boiled them together; and he made lumps and gave them into the dragon's mouth, and the dragon burst apart. And he said, "Behold what you worshiped."

27 When the Babylonians heard this, they were exceedingly indignant; and gathering against the king, they said, "The king has become a Jew. He has destroyed Bel, killed the dragon, and slain the priests."

28 And when they had come to the king, they said, “Deliver Daniel to us, or else we shall kill you and your house.”

29 Therefore the king saw that they were rushing violently upon him, and compelled by necessity, he delivered Daniel to them.

30 And they cast him into the lions’ den, and he was there six days.

31 Now in the den were seven lions, and two bodies and two sheep were given to them each day; but then these were not given to them, so that they might devour Daniel.

32 And the prophet Habacuc was in Judea. He had cooked a stew and crumbled bread into a bowl and was going into the field to carry it to the reapers.

33 And the angel of the Lord said to Habacuc, “Carry the meal you have into Babylon to Daniel, who is in the lions’ den.”

34 And Habacuc said, “O Lord, I have not seen Babylon, and I do not know the den.”

35 And the angel of the Lord seized him by the crown of his head and carried him by the hair of his head, and by the force of his spirit set him in Babylon above the den.

36 And Habacuc cried out, saying, “Daniel, servant of God, take the meal God has sent you.”

37 And Daniel said, “You have remembered me, O God, and have not forsaken those who love you.”

38 And Daniel arose and ate. But the angel of the Lord immediately restored Habacuc to his own place.

39 Therefore the king came on the seventh day to mourn Daniel; and he came to the den and looked within, and behold, Daniel was sitting in the midst of the lions.

40 And the king cried out with a loud voice, saying, “Great are you, O Lord, God of Daniel.” And he drew him out of the lions’ den.

41 But those who had been the cause of his destruction he cast into the den, and they were devoured in a moment before him.

42 Then the king said, “Let all who dwell in the whole earth fear the God of Daniel, because he is the Savior, performing signs and wonders upon earth, who delivered Daniel from the lions’ den.”

BOOK TWENTY-EIGHT: HOSEA

CHAPTER 1

1 The word of the Lord (YHWH) that came to Hosea son of Beeri, in the days of Ozias, Joathan, Achaz, and Ezechias, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joas, king of Israel.

2 The beginning of the Lord's speaking through Hosea. And the Lord said to Hosea, "Go, take for yourself a wife of fornications and make for yourself children of fornications, because the land, fornicating, shall fornicate away from the Lord."

3 And he went and took Gomer daughter of Debelaim, and she conceived and bore him a son.

4 And the Lord said to him, "Call his name Jezrahel, because yet a little while, and I shall visit the blood of Jezrahel upon the house of Jehu and cause the kingdom of the house of Israel to cease.

5 And on that day I shall break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezrahel."

6 And she conceived again and bore a daughter. And he said to him, "Call her name Without Mercy, because I shall no longer continue to have mercy upon the house of Israel, but with oblivion I shall forget them.

7 But I shall have mercy upon the house of Judah and shall save them in the Lord their God; and I shall not save them by bow, sword, battle, horses, or horsemen."

8 And she weaned her who was Without Mercy. And she conceived and bore a son.

9 And he said, "Call his name Not My People, because you are not my people, and I shall not be yours.

10 And the number of the children of Israel shall be like the sand of the sea, which is without measure and cannot be numbered. And in the place where it shall be said to them, 'You are Not My People,' it shall be said to them, 'Children of the living God.'

11 And the children of Judah and the children of Israel shall be gathered together; and they shall appoint for themselves one head and shall ascend from the land, because great is the day of Jezrahel.

CHAPTER 2

1 Say to your brothers, “My People,” and to your sister, “She Who Has Obtained Mercy.”

2 “Judge your mother, judge her, because she is not my wife, and I am not her husband. Let her remove her fornications from her face and her adulteries from between her breasts,

3 lest I strip her naked and set her as on the day of her birth, make her like a wilderness, set her like a pathless land, and kill her with thirst.

4 And I shall not have mercy upon her children, because they are children of fornications.

5 For their mother has fornicated; she who conceived them has been put to confusion. For she said, ‘I shall go after my lovers, who give me my bread and my waters, my wool and my flax, my oil and my drink.’

6 Because of this, behold, I shall hedge your way with thorns and enclose it with a wall, and she shall not find her paths.

7 And she shall pursue her lovers but not overtake them; she shall seek them but not find them. And she shall say, ‘I shall go and return to my former husband, because it was better for me then than now.’

8 And she did not know that it was I who gave her grain, wine, and oil, and multiplied silver and gold for her, which they made into Baal.

9 Therefore I shall turn and take my grain in its season and my wine in its season; and I shall recover my wool and my flax that covered her shame.

10 And now I shall reveal her folly before the eyes of her lovers, and no man shall deliver her from my hand.

11 And I shall cause all her joy to cease—her solemnity, her new moon, her sabbath, and all her appointed feasts.

12 And I shall destroy her vineyard and her fig tree, of which she said, ‘These are my wages, which my lovers gave me.’ And I shall turn her into a forest, and the beast of the field shall devour her.

13 And I shall visit upon her the days of the Baals, on which she burned incense and adorned herself with her earring and necklace. And she went after her lovers and forgot me,” says the Lord.

14 “Because of this, behold, I shall nurse her, lead her into the wilderness, and speak to her heart.

15 And I shall give her her vinedressers from that same place and the valley of Achor as an opening of hope; and she shall sing there as in the days of her youth and as in the days of her ascent from the land of Egypt.

16 And it shall be on that day,” says the Lord, “that she shall call me ‘My Husband’ and shall no longer call me ‘My Baal.’

17 And I shall remove the names of the Baals from her mouth, and she shall no longer remember their name.

18 And on that day I shall strike a covenant with them—with the beast of the field, the bird of heaven, and the creeping thing of the earth; and I shall break bow, sword, and war from the land and make them sleep securely.

19 And I shall espouse you to myself forever; and I shall espouse you to myself in justice and judgment, in mercy and tender mercies.

20 And I shall espouse you to myself in faith; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

21 And it shall be on that day: I shall answer,” says the Lord. “I shall answer the heavens, and they shall answer the earth.

22 And the earth shall answer the grain, wine, and oil, and these shall answer Jezrahel.

23 And I shall sow her for myself in the land and have mercy upon her who was Without Mercy.

24 And I shall say to Not My People, ‘You are my people,’ and he shall say, ‘You are my God.’”

CHAPTER 3

1 And the Lord said to me, “Go again and love a woman beloved by a friend and an adulteress, as the Lord loves the children of Israel, though they look to foreign gods and love the pressed cakes of grapes.”

2 And I dug her out for myself for fifteen pieces of silver and a cor of barley and half a cor of barley.

3 And I said to her, “You shall wait for me many days. You shall not fornicate, and you shall not belong to a man; and I also shall wait for you.”

4 For the children of Israel shall sit many days without king, without prince, without sacrifice, without altar, without ephod, and without theraphim.

5 And after these things the children of Israel shall return and seek the Lord their God and David their king; and in the last days they shall fearfully approach the Lord and his goodness.

CHAPTER 4

1 Hear the word of the Lord, children of Israel, because the Lord has a judgment with the inhabitants of the land: for there is no truth, no mercy, and no knowledge of God in the land.

2 Cursing, falsehood, murder, theft, and adultery have overflowed, and blood has touched blood.

3 Because of this the land shall mourn, and everyone who dwells in it shall grow weak, together with the beast of the field and the bird of heaven; even the fish of the sea shall be gathered away.

4 Nevertheless, let no one judge, and let no man be reproved, for your people are like those who contradict the priest.

5 And you shall fall today, and the prophet also shall fall with you. By night I have silenced your mother.

6 My people have been silent because they had no knowledge. Because you rejected knowledge, I shall reject you from serving as my priest; and because you forgot the law of your God, I also shall forget your children.

7 According to their multitude, so they sinned against me; I shall change their glory into shame.

8 They shall eat the sins of my people, and they shall lift up their souls toward their iniquity.

9 And it shall be: like people, like priest. And I shall visit his ways upon him and repay his designs to him.

10 And they shall eat but not be satisfied. They have fornicated and have not ceased, because they have forsaken the Lord by not keeping watch.

11 Fornication, wine, and drunkenness take away the heart.

12 My people consulted their wood, and their staff declared to them; for a spirit of fornications deceived them, and they fornicated away from their God.

13 They sacrificed upon the tops of the mountains and burned incense upon the hills, beneath oak, poplar, and terebinth, because their shade was good. Therefore your daughters shall fornicate and your brides shall be adulteresses.

14 I shall not visit upon your daughters when they fornicate or upon your brides when they commit adultery, because the men themselves kept company with harlots and sacrificed with the effeminate; and a people without understanding shall be beaten.

15 If you fornicate, Israel, at least let Judah not transgress. Do not enter Galgala, do not ascend into Bethaven, and do not swear, “The Lord lives!”

16 For Israel has turned aside like a wanton heifer; now the Lord shall feed them like a lamb in a broad place.

17 Ephraim is a partner of idols; let him alone.

18 Their feast has been separated; fornicating, they have fornicated. Her protectors have loved to bring shame.

19 The spirit has bound him in its wings, and they shall be put to confusion because of their sacrifices.

CHAPTER 5

1 Hear this, priests; attend, house of Israel; and listen, house of the king, because judgment is for you, for you have become a snare to the watch and a net spread over Thabor.

2 And you have turned victims aside into the depths; but I am the instructor of them all.

3 I know Ephraim, and Israel is not hidden from me; for now Ephraim has fornicated, and Israel is defiled.

4 They shall not direct their thoughts to return to their God, because a spirit of fornications is in their midst, and they have not known the Lord.

5 And the arrogance of Israel shall answer to his face; and Israel and Ephraim shall fall in their iniquity; Judah also shall fall with them.

6 With their flocks and herds they shall go to seek the Lord but shall not find him; he has withdrawn from them.

7 They have transgressed against the Lord, because they have begotten foreign children; now a month shall devour them with their portions.

8 Sound the horn in Gabaa, the trumpet in Rama; howl in Bethaven—behind you, Benjamin!

9 Ephraim shall be in desolation on the day of correction; among the tribes of Israel I have shown faithfulness.

10 The princes of Judah have become like those who move a boundary; upon them I shall pour out my wrath like water.

11 Ephraim suffers oppression, broken by judgment, because he began to go after filth.

12 And I am like a moth to Ephraim and like decay to the house of Judah.

13 And Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah his bond; and Ephraim went to Assur and sent to the avenging king. But he shall not be able to heal you or release the bond from you.

14 For I am like a lioness to Ephraim and like a lion’s cub to the house of Judah. I, I shall seize and go; I shall carry away, and there is no one to deliver.

15 I shall go and return to my place until you waste away and seek my face.

CHAPTER 6

1 “In their tribulation they shall rise early to me: ‘Come, and let us return to the Lord,

2 for he has seized us and will heal us; he will strike and will cure us.

3 He will enliven us after two days; on the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight. We shall know and shall follow on to know the Lord. His going forth is prepared like the dawn, and he shall come to us like the early and latter rain upon the land.’

4 What shall I do to you, Ephraim? What shall I do to you, Judah? Your mercy is like a morning cloud and like the dew passing away in the morning.

5 Because of this I have hewn through the prophets; I have slain them by the words of my mouth, and your judgments shall go forth like light.

6 For I desired mercy and not sacrifice, and knowledge of God more than holocausts.

7 But they, like Adam, transgressed the pact; there they transgressed against me.

8 Galaad is a city of those who work an idol, supplanted with blood.

9 And like the jaws of robber men, the company of priests go forth slaying on the road from Sichem, for they have committed wickedness.

10 In the house of Israel I have seen a horrible thing: there are the fornications of Ephraim; Israel is defiled.

11 But for you also, Judah, set a harvest, when I shall turn back the captivity of my people.”

CHAPTER 7

1 “When I wished to heal Israel, the iniquity of Ephraim and the malice of Samaria were revealed, because they practiced falsehood; and the thief entered plundering, while the robber was outside.

2 And lest they say in their hearts that I remember all their malice, now their inventions have surrounded them; they have been done before my face.

3 By their malice they made the king glad, and the princes by their falsehoods.

4 They are all adulterers, like an oven kindled by the baker. The city rested a little from mixing the leaven until the whole was leavened.

5 The day of our king: the princes began to rage from wine; he extended his hand with mockers.

6 For they applied their heart like an oven when he laid snares for them. All night the one baking them slept; in the morning he himself was kindled like a flaming fire.

7 They were all heated like an oven and devoured their judges. All their kings have fallen; there is no one among them who cries to me.

8 Ephraim himself was mingled among the peoples; Ephraim became a hearth cake that is not turned.

9 Foreigners devoured his strength, and he did not know it; even gray hairs were spread upon him, and he was unaware.

10 And the pride of Israel shall be humbled before his face; yet they have not returned to the Lord their God and have not sought him in all these things.

11 And Ephraim became like a deceived dove without a heart. They called upon Egypt; they went to the Assyrians.

12 And when they have gone forth, I shall spread my net over them; like a bird of heaven I shall draw them down. I shall strike them according to what was heard in their assembly.

13 Woe to them, because they have departed from me! They shall be laid waste, because they have transgressed against me. And I redeemed them, but they spoke falsehoods against me.

14 And they did not cry to me from their heart, but howled upon their beds. They ruminated over grain and wine; they departed from me.

15 And I instructed them and strengthened their arms, but they devised evil against me.

16 They returned so that they might be without a yoke; they became like a deceitful bow. Their princes shall fall by the sword because of the fury of their tongue. This shall be their mockery in the land of Egypt.”

CHAPTER 8

1 “Let the trumpet be at your throat, like an eagle over the house of the Lord, because they have transgressed my covenant and violated my law.

2 They shall call upon me: ‘My God, we Israel have known you.’

3 Israel has cast away what is good; the enemy shall pursue him.

4 They reigned, but not from me; princes arose, but I did not know them. From their silver and gold they made idols for themselves, that they might perish.

5 Your calf has been cast away, Samaria; my fury is angry against them. How long will they be unable to be cleansed?

6 For it also is from Israel: a craftsman made it, and it is no god; for the calf of Samaria shall become spiders’ webs.

7 For they shall sow wind and reap whirlwind. There is no standing stalk in it; the shoot shall make no flour. Even if it should make any, foreigners shall eat it.

8 Israel has been devoured; now he has become among the nations like an unclean vessel.

9 For they themselves went up to Assur, a wild ass alone to himself; Ephraim gave gifts to lovers.

10 But even when they hire the nations for wages, now I shall gather them, and they shall rest a little from the burden of king and princes.

11 Because Ephraim multiplied altars to sin, the altars became an offense to him.

12 I shall write for him my manifold laws, which were accounted as foreign.

13 They shall offer victims, immolate flesh, and eat it, but the Lord shall not receive them. Now he shall remember their iniquity and visit their sins; they shall return to Egypt.

14 And Israel forgot his Maker and built shrines, while Judah multiplied fortified cities; and I shall send fire upon his cities, and it shall devour his houses.”

CHAPTER 9

1 “Do not rejoice, Israel; do not exult like the peoples, because you have fornicated away from your God; you have loved wages upon every threshing floor of grain.

2 The threshing floor and winepress shall not feed them, and the wine shall lie to them.

3 They shall not dwell in the land of the Lord. Ephraim has returned to Egypt and has eaten what is defiled among the Assyrians.

4 They shall not pour out wine to the Lord, and they shall not please him. Their sacrifices shall be like the bread of mourners; all who eat it shall be defiled, because their bread is for their own soul and shall not enter the house of the Lord.

5 What will you do on the solemn day, on the day of the Lord’s feast?

6 For behold, they have departed because of devastation; Egypt shall gather them, Memphis shall bury them. The nettle shall inherit their desirable silver, and the bur shall be in their tents.

7 The days of visitation have come; the days of recompense have come. Know, Israel, that the prophet is foolish, the spiritual man insane, because of the multitude of your iniquity and the multitude of madness.

8 The watchman of Ephraim was with my God; the prophet has become a snare of ruin upon all his ways, madness in the house of his God.

9 They have sinned deeply, as in the days of Gabaa. He shall remember their iniquity and visit their sins.

10 Like grapes in the wilderness I found Israel; like the first fruits of the fig tree at its top I saw their fathers. But they entered into Beelphegor, alienated themselves into shame, and became abominable like the things they loved.

11 Ephraim has flown away like a bird; their glory is gone from birth, womb, and conception.

12 Even if they raise their sons, I shall make them childless among men; and woe to them also when I depart from them!

13 Ephraim, as I saw him, was Tyre founded in beauty; but Ephraim shall lead his sons to the slayer.

14 Give them, O Lord. What will you give them? Give them a womb without children and withered breasts.

15 All their wickedness is in Galgal, because there I held them hateful. Because of the malice of their inventions, I shall cast them out of my house; I shall no longer love them. All their princes are withdrawing.

16 Ephraim is struck; their root is dried up. They shall bear no fruit; and even if they beget, I shall slay the dearly loved offspring of their womb.

17 My God shall cast them away because they did not listen to him, and they shall be wanderers among the nations.”

CHAPTER 10

1 “Israel is a leafy vine; its fruit has equaled it. According to the abundance of his fruit, he multiplied altars; according to the fertility of his land, he abounded in images.

2 Their heart is divided; now they shall perish. He shall break their images and lay waste their altars.

3 For now they shall say, ‘We have no king, because we do not fear the Lord; and what will a king do for us?’

4 Speak words of useless vision, and you shall strike a covenant; and judgment shall spring up like bitterness upon the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria worshiped the cows of Bethaven; for its people mourned over it, and its temple wardens rejoiced over it in its glory, because it migrated from them.

6 Indeed, it also was carried into Assur as a gift to the avenging king. Confusion shall seize Ephraim, and Israel shall be put to confusion in his own will.

7 Samaria caused her king to pass away like foam upon the face of the water.

8 And the high places of the idol, the sin of Israel, shall be destroyed; bur and thistle shall rise over their altars. And they shall say to the mountains, ‘Cover us,’ and to the hills, ‘Fall upon us.’

9 From the days of Gabaa Israel has sinned; there they stood. Battle in Gabaa shall not overtake them because of the children of iniquity.

10 According to my desire I shall correct them; peoples shall be gathered against them when they are corrected for their two iniquities.

11 Ephraim is a trained heifer that loves threshing, and I passed over the beauty of her neck. I shall ride upon Ephraim; Judah shall plow, and Jacob shall break the furrows for himself.

12 Sow for yourselves in justice and reap in the mouth of mercy. Renew for yourselves fallow ground; for it is time to seek the Lord, when he who will teach you justice has come.

13 You have plowed impiety and reaped iniquity; you have eaten the fruit of falsehood, because you trusted in your ways and in the multitude of your mighty men.

14 Tumult shall arise among your people, and all your fortifications shall be laid waste, as Salmana was laid waste by the house of him who judged Baal on the day of battle, when the mother was dashed upon her children.

15 Thus Bethel has done to you because of the malice of your wickedness.”

CHAPTER 11

1 “Like the morning, the king of Israel has passed away. Because Israel was a child, I loved him; and out of Egypt I called my son.

2 They called them, and so they went away from before them. They sacrificed to the Baals and offered sacrifice to images.

3 And I was like a foster father to Ephraim; I carried them in my arms, and they did not know that I cared for them.

4 I shall draw them with the cords of Adam, with bonds of charity; and I shall be to them like one lifting the yoke above their jaws, and I bent down to him that he might eat.

5 He shall not return to the land of Egypt, but Assur himself shall be his king, because they refused to be converted.

6 The sword has begun in his cities and shall consume his chosen ones and devour their heads.

7 And my people shall hang in suspense at my return; but a yoke shall be placed upon them together, which shall not be taken away.

8 How shall I give you up, Ephraim? How shall I protect you, Israel? How shall I give you up like Adama or make you like Seboim? My heart has turned within me; together my repentance has been troubled.

9 I shall not execute the fury of my wrath; I shall not turn to destroy Ephraim, because I am God and not man, the Holy One in your midst, and I shall not enter the city.

10 They shall walk after the Lord; he shall roar like a lion. For he himself shall roar, and the children of the sea shall tremble.

11 And they shall fly like a bird from Egypt and like a dove from the land of the Assyrians; and I shall settle them in their houses,” says the Lord.

12 “Ephraim has surrounded me with denial and the house of Israel with deceit; but Judah descended as a witness with God and is faithful with the saints.”

CHAPTER 12

1 “Ephraim feeds upon wind and follows heat; all day he multiplies falsehood and devastation. He entered a covenant with the Assyrians and carried oil into Egypt.

2 Therefore the Lord has a judgment with Judah and a visitation upon Jacob; according to his ways and according to his inventions he shall repay him.

3 In the womb he supplanted his brother, and in his strength he was directed with an angel.

4 And he prevailed toward the angel and was strengthened; he wept and implored him. At Bethel he found him, and there he spoke with us.

5 And the Lord God of hosts—the Lord is his memorial.

6 And you shall be converted to your God; keep mercy and judgment, and hope in your God always.

7 Canaan—in his hand is a deceitful balance; he has loved oppression.

8 And Ephraim said, ‘Nevertheless, I have become rich; I have found an idol for myself. In all my labors they shall find in me no iniquity that I have sinned.’

9 And I am the Lord your God from the land of Egypt; I shall yet cause you to dwell in tabernacles as in the days of the feast.

10 And I spoke through the prophets, and I multiplied visions, and by the hand of the prophets I was represented.

11 If Galaad is an idol, then in vain were they sacrificing oxen in Galgal; for even their altars are like heaps upon the furrows of the field.

12 Jacob fled into the region of Syria, and Israel served for a wife and kept sheep for a wife.

13 But through a prophet the Lord brought Israel out of Egypt, and through a prophet he was preserved.

14 Ephraim provoked me to wrath by his bitterness; and his blood shall come upon him, and his Lord shall restore his reproach to him.”

CHAPTER 13

1 “When Ephraim spoke, horror seized Israel; and he transgressed through Baal and died.

2 And now they have added to their sinning; and they made for themselves a molten thing from their silver, like the likeness of idols—the whole is the work of craftsmen. To these they themselves say, ‘Sacrifice men, you who adore calves.’

3 Therefore they shall be like a morning cloud and like the early dew that passes away, like dust swept from the threshing floor by a whirlwind and like smoke from a chimney.

4 But I am the Lord your God from the land of Egypt; you shall know no God apart from me, and there is no savior except me.

5 I knew you in the wilderness, in the land of solitude.

6 According to their pastures they were filled and satisfied; and they lifted up their heart and forgot me.

7 And I shall be to them like a lioness, like a leopard on the way of the Assyrians.

8 I shall meet them like a bear whose cubs have been seized, and I shall tear apart the innermost parts of their liver; and there I shall consume them like a lion. The beast of the field shall tear them apart.

9 Your destruction is yours, Israel; only in me is your help.

10 Where is your king? Let him now especially save you in all your cities—and your judges, of whom you said, ‘Give me a king and princes.’

11 I shall give you a king in my fury and take him away in my indignation.

12 The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up; his sin is hidden.

13 The pains of a woman in labor shall come upon him. He is an unwise son; for now he shall not stand in the breaking forth of children.

14 From the hand of death I shall deliver them; from death I shall redeem them. I shall be your death, O death! I shall be your bite, O realm of the dead! Consolation is hidden from my eyes.

15 Because he shall divide among brothers, the Lord shall bring a burning wind rising from the wilderness; it shall dry up his veins and lay waste his spring. And he shall plunder the treasure of every desirable vessel.”

CHAPTER 14

1 “Let Samaria perish, because she has provoked her God to bitterness! Let them perish by the sword; let their little ones be dashed, and their pregnant women be ripped open!”

2 “Be converted, Israel, to the Lord your God, because you have fallen in your iniquity.

3 Take words with you and return to the Lord, and say to him, ‘Take away all iniquity, receive what is good, and we shall render the calves of our lips.

4 Assur shall not save us; we shall not mount the horse, nor shall we any longer say, “Our gods,” to the works of our hands, because you shall have mercy upon the orphan who is in you.’

5 I shall heal their brokenness; I shall love them freely, because my fury has turned away from them.

6 I shall be like dew; Israel shall spring forth like the lily, and his root shall break forth like Lebanon.

7 His branches shall spread, his glory shall be like the olive tree, and his fragrance like Lebanon.

8 Those dwelling beneath his shadow shall return; they shall live by grain and spring forth like the vine; his memorial shall be like the wine of Lebanon.

9 Ephraim, what have I to do any longer with idols? I shall hear him and direct him; I am like a green fir tree—from me your fruit is found.

10 Who is wise and shall understand these things? Who has understanding and shall know them? For the ways of the Lord are right, and the just shall walk in them, but transgressors shall fall in them.”

BOOK TWENTY-NINE: JOEL

CHAPTER 1

1 The word of the Lord (YHWH) that came to Joel son of Phatuel.

2 Hear this, elders, and perceive with your ears, all inhabitants of the land: Has such a thing happened in your days or in the days of your fathers?

3 Tell your children about it, and let your children tell their children, and their children another generation.

4 What the caterpillar left, the locust ate; what the locust left, the bruchus ate; and what the bruchus left, the blight ate.

5 Awaken, drunkards, and weep; and howl, all you who drink wine in sweetness, because it has perished from your mouth.

6 For a nation has ascended over my land, mighty and innumerable. Its teeth are like the teeth of a lion, and its molars like those of a lion's cub.

7 It has made my vineyard a wilderness and stripped the bark from my fig tree. Stripping it bare, it has cast it away; its branches have become white.

8 Lament like a virgin girded in sackcloth for the husband of her youth.

9 Sacrifice and libation have perished from the house of the Lord; the priests, ministers of the Lord, have mourned.

10 The region has been laid waste; the ground has mourned, because the grain is devastated, the wine put to confusion, and the oil has languished.

11 The farmers are put to confusion; the vinedressers have howled over the grain and barley, because the harvest of the field has perished.

12 The vineyard is put to confusion, and the fig tree has languished. Pomegranate, palm, apple, and all the trees of the field have withered, because joy has been put to confusion away from the children of men.

13 Gird yourselves and lament, priests; howl, ministers of the altar. Enter and lie in sackcloth, ministers of my God, because sacrifice and libation have perished from the house of your God.

14 Sanctify a fast, call an assembly, gather the elders and all the inhabitants of the land into the house of your God, and cry to the Lord:

15 Ah, ah, ah, for the day! For the day of the Lord is near, and it shall come like devastation from the Mighty One.

16 Have not food, joy, and exultation perished before your eyes from the house of our God?

17 The animals have rotted in their dung; the barns have been torn down, the storehouses destroyed, because the grain is put to confusion.

18 How the animals have groaned! The herds of cattle have bellowed because there is no pasture for them; even the flocks of sheep have perished.

19 To you, O Lord, I shall cry, because fire has devoured the beautiful places of the wilderness, and flame has set all the trees of the region ablaze.

20 Even the beasts of the field have looked up to you like a threshing floor thirsting for rain, because the springs of water have dried up and fire has devoured the beautiful places of the wilderness.

CHAPTER 2

1 Sound the trumpet in Sion; howl upon my holy mountain. Let all the inhabitants of the land be troubled, because the day of the Lord comes, because it is near:

2 a day of darkness and gloom, a day of cloud and whirlwind. Like morning spread over the mountains comes a numerous and mighty people; none like it has existed from the beginning, nor shall there be after it through the years of generation after generation.

3 Before its face is devouring fire, and behind it a burning flame. The land before it is like a garden of delight, but behind it a wilderness of desolation; and there is no one who escapes it.

4 Their appearance is like the appearance of horses, and they shall run like horsemen.

5 They shall leap upon the tops of the mountains like the sound of chariots, like the sound of a flame of fire devouring stubble, like a mighty people prepared for battle.

6 Before its face the peoples shall be tormented; all faces shall be reduced like a pot.

7 They shall run like mighty men and climb the wall like warriors. Each shall walk in his own ways, and they shall not turn aside from their paths.

8 No one shall press his brother; each shall walk in his own track. They shall even fall through the windows and shall not be destroyed.

9 They shall enter the city, run upon the wall, climb the houses, and enter through the windows like a thief.

10 Before its face the earth trembled and the heavens were moved; the sun and moon were darkened, and the stars withdrew their brightness.

11 And the Lord gave his voice before the face of his army, because his camps are exceedingly many, because they are mighty and carry out his word. For the day of the Lord is great and exceedingly terrible, and who shall endure it?

12 “Now therefore,” says the Lord, “be converted to me with all your heart, with fasting, weeping, and lamentation.

13 And tear your hearts and not your garments, and be converted to the Lord your God, because he is gracious and merciful, patient and abundant in mercy, and ready to relent concerning evil.

14 Who knows whether he may turn and forgive and leave a blessing behind him—a sacrifice and libation to the Lord your God?

15 Sound the trumpet in Sion, sanctify a fast, call an assembly.

16 Gather the people, sanctify the assembly, unite the elders, gather the little ones and those nursing at the breasts. Let the bridegroom go out from his bed and the bride from her bridal chamber.

17 Between the vestibule and the altar, the priests, ministers of the Lord, shall weep and say, ‘Spare, O Lord, spare your people, and do not give your inheritance to reproach, that the nations should rule over them. Why do they say among the peoples: “Where is their God?”’”

18 The Lord was zealous for his land and spared his people.

19 And the Lord answered and said to his people, “Behold, I shall send you grain, wine, and oil, and you shall be filled with them; and I shall no longer make you a reproach among the nations.

20 And I shall drive the one from the north far from you and cast him into a pathless and desolate land, his face toward the eastern sea and his farthest part toward the last sea. His stench shall rise, and his rottenness shall rise, because he acted proudly.

21 Do not fear, O land; exult and rejoice, because the Lord has magnified what he has done.

22 Do not fear, animals of the region, because the beautiful places of the wilderness have sprung forth, because the tree has borne its fruit, and fig tree and vine have yielded their strength.

23 And you, children of Sion, exult and rejoice in the Lord your God, because he has given you the teacher of justice and shall cause the early and latter rain to descend upon you as at the beginning.

24 And the threshing floors shall be filled with grain, and the presses shall overflow with wine and oil.

25 And I shall restore to you the years that locust, bruchus, blight, and caterpillar ate—my great army that I sent among you.

26 And you shall eat and be satisfied, and you shall praise the name of the Lord your God, who has done wonders with you; and my people shall not be put to confusion forever.

27 And you shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and I am the Lord your God, and there is no other; and my people shall not be put to confusion eternally.

28 And it shall be after these things: I shall pour out my Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and daughters shall prophesy; your elders shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions.

29 And upon my servants and maidservants also, in those days I shall pour out my Spirit.

30 And I shall give wonders in heaven and upon earth: blood, fire, and vapor of smoke.

31 The sun shall be turned into darkness and the moon into blood before the great and terrible day of the Lord comes.

32 And it shall be that everyone who calls upon the name of the Lord shall be saved; for in Mount Sion and in Jerusalem there shall be salvation, as the Lord has said, and among the remnant whom the Lord shall call.

CHAPTER 3

1 For behold, in those days and at that time, when I shall turn back the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem,

2 I shall gather all nations and lead them down into the valley of Josaphat; and there I shall dispute with them concerning my people and my inheritance Israel, whom they scattered among the nations and whose land they divided.

3 And they cast lots over my people; and they placed a boy in a brothel and sold a girl for wine, that they might drink.

4 Indeed, what is there between me and you, Tyre and Sidon and every border of the Palestinians? Will you repay vengeance to me? And if you avenge yourselves against me, swiftly and speedily I shall return your recompense upon your own head.

5 For you took my silver and gold and brought my desirable and most beautiful things into your shrines.

6 And you sold the children of Judah and the children of Jerusalem to the children of the Greeks, that you might remove them far from their own borders.

7 Behold, I shall raise them from the place into which you sold them and turn your recompense upon your own head.

8 And I shall sell your sons and daughters into the hands of the children of Judah, and they shall sell them to the Sabeans, a distant nation, because the Lord has spoken.

9 Proclaim this among the nations: Sanctify war, awaken the mighty; let all the warriors approach and ascend.

10 Cut your plows into swords and your hoes into spears. Let the weak say, “I am strong.”

11 Break forth and come, all nations round about, and gather together; there the Lord shall cause your mighty ones to fall.

12 Let the nations arise and ascend into the valley of Josaphat, because there I shall sit to judge all the nations round about.

13 Send forth the sickles, because the harvest has ripened; come and descend, because the winepress is full and the presses overflow, because their malice has multiplied.

14 Peoples, peoples, in the valley of cutting down, because the day of the Lord is near in the valley of cutting down.

15 The sun and moon are darkened, and the stars have withdrawn their brightness.

16 And the Lord shall roar from Sion and give his voice from Jerusalem, and heaven and earth shall be moved; but the Lord is the hope of his people and the strength of the children of Israel.

17 And you shall know that I am the Lord your God, dwelling in Sion, my holy mountain; and Jerusalem shall be holy, and foreigners shall no longer pass through her.

18 And it shall be on that day: the mountains shall drip sweetness, the hills shall flow with milk, and waters shall flow through all the streams of Judah; and a fountain shall go forth from the house of the Lord and water the torrent of thorns.

19 Egypt shall be a desolation, and Idumea a wilderness of destruction, because they acted iniquitously against the children of Judah and shed innocent blood in their land.

20 And Judea shall be inhabited forever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation.

21 And I shall cleanse their blood, which I had not cleansed; and the Lord shall dwell in Sion.

BOOK THIRTY: AMOS

CHAPTER 1

1 The words of Amos, who was among the shepherds of Thecua, which he saw concerning Israel in the days of Ozias king of Judah and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joas, king of Israel, two years before the earthquake.

2 And he said: “The Lord (YHWH) shall roar from Sion and give his voice from Jerusalem; and the beautiful places of the shepherds have mourned, and the summit of Carmel has dried up.

3 Thus says the Lord: For three crimes of Damascus and for four I shall not turn it back, because they threshed Galaad with iron wagons.

4 And I shall send fire into the house of Azael, and it shall devour the houses of Benadad.

5 And I shall break the bar of Damascus; I shall destroy the inhabitant from the field of the idol and the one holding the scepter from the house of pleasure; and the people of Syria shall be transported to Cyrene,” says the Lord.

6 Thus says the Lord: “For three crimes of Gaza and for four I shall not turn it back, because they carried away a complete captivity to shut it up in Idumea.

7 And I shall send fire upon the wall of Gaza, and it shall devour its houses.

8 And I shall destroy the inhabitant from Azotus and the one holding the scepter from Ascalon; and I shall turn my hand against Accaron, and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish,” says the Lord God.

9 Thus says the Lord: “For three crimes of Tyre and for four I shall not turn it back, because they shut up a complete captivity in Idumea and did not remember the covenant of brothers.

10 And I shall send fire upon the wall of Tyre, and it shall devour its houses.”

11 Thus says the Lord: “For three crimes of Edom and for four I shall not turn it back, because he pursued his brother with the sword, violated his mercy, held his fury beyond measure, and preserved his indignation to the end.

12 I shall send fire into Theman, and it shall devour the houses of Bosra.”

13 Thus says the Lord: “For three crimes of the children of Ammon and for four I shall not turn it back, because he cut open the pregnant women of Galaad to enlarge his border.

14 And I shall kindle fire upon the wall of Rabba, and it shall devour its houses amid howling on the day of battle and whirlwind on the day of commotion.

15 And Melchom shall go into captivity, he and his princes together,” says the Lord.

CHAPTER 2

1 Thus says the Lord: “For three crimes of Moab and for four I shall not turn it back, because he burned the bones of the king of Idumea into ashes.

2 And I shall send fire into Moab, and it shall devour the houses of Carioth; and Moab shall die amid noise, amid the sound of the trumpet.

3 And I shall destroy the judge from its midst and slay all its princes with him,” says the Lord.

4 Thus says the Lord: “For three crimes of Judah and for four I shall not turn it back, because he rejected the law of the Lord and did not keep his commandments; for their idols deceived them, after which their fathers had gone.

5 And I shall send fire into Judah, and it shall devour the houses of Jerusalem.”

6 Thus says the Lord: “For three crimes of Israel and for four I shall not turn it back, because he sold the just for silver and the poor for sandals.

7 They crush the heads of the poor upon the dust of the earth and turn aside the way of the humble; and son and father went to the same girl, that they might violate my holy name.

8 And they reclined upon garments taken in pledge beside every altar, and drank the wine of the condemned in the house of their god.

9 But I exterminated the Amorrhite before their face, whose height was the height of cedars and who was strong like an oak; and I crushed his fruit above and his roots beneath.

10 I am he who caused you to ascend from the land of Egypt and led you in the wilderness forty years, that you might possess the land of the Amorrhite.

11 And I raised up prophets from among your sons and Nazarites from among your young men. Is it not so, children of Israel?” says the Lord.

12 “But you gave wine to the Nazarites to drink, and you commanded the prophets, saying, ‘Do not prophesy.’

13 Behold, I shall creak beneath you as a wagon loaded with hay creaks.

14 And flight shall perish from the swift, the strong shall not retain his strength, and the mighty shall not save his soul.

15 The one holding the bow shall not stand; the swift of foot shall not be saved; and the rider of the horse shall not save his soul.

16 And the stouthearted among the mighty shall flee naked on that day,” says the Lord.

CHAPTER 3

1 Hear the word the Lord has spoken concerning you, children of Israel, concerning the entire family I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying:

2 “You alone have I known from all the families of the earth; therefore I shall visit upon you all your iniquities.

3 Shall two walk together unless they have agreed?

4 Shall a lion roar in the forest unless he has prey? Shall a lion’s cub give its voice from its den unless it has seized something?

5 Shall a bird fall into a snare upon the earth without a fowler? Shall a snare be lifted from the earth before it has caught something?

6 If the trumpet sounds in a city, shall the people not be terrified? If there is evil in a city, has the Lord not done it?

7 For the Lord God does not do a thing unless he has revealed his secret to his servants the prophets.

8 The lion shall roar—who will not fear? The Lord God has spoken—who will not prophesy?

9 Make it heard in the houses of Azotus and in the houses of the land of Egypt, and say: ‘Gather upon the mountains of Samaria, and see the many insanities in her midst and those suffering oppression in her inner chambers.’

10 And they did not know how to do what is right,” says the Lord, “storing up iniquity and plunder in their houses.

11 Therefore thus says the Lord God: “The land shall be troubled and surrounded; your strength shall be torn from you, and your houses shall be plundered.”

12 Thus says the Lord: “As a shepherd rescues two legs or the tip of an ear from the mouth of a lion, so shall the children of Israel who dwell in Samaria be rescued—in the corner of a bed and upon the couch of Damascus.

13 Hear and bear witness in the house of Jacob,” says the Lord God of hosts.

14 “For on the day when I begin to visit Israel’s transgressions upon him, I shall also visit the altars of Bethel; and the horns of the altar shall be cut off and fall to the ground.

15 And I shall strike the winter house together with the summer house; the ivory houses shall perish, and many houses shall be destroyed,” says the Lord.

CHAPTER 4

1 Hear this word, fat cows who are upon the mountain of Samaria, who oppress the needy and crush the poor, who say to your lords, “Bring, and we shall drink.”

2 The Lord God has sworn by his holiness: Behold, days shall come upon you, and they shall lift you upon pikes and your remnants in boiling pots.

3 And you shall go out through the breaches, one opposite another, and you shall be cast into Armon,” says the Lord.

4 “Come to Bethel and act impiously; to Galgala, and multiply transgression. Bring your victims in the morning and your tithes every three days.

5 And sacrifice praise from what is leavened; call for voluntary offerings and proclaim them, for thus you have desired, children of Israel,” says the Lord God.

6 “Therefore I also gave you numbness of teeth in all your cities and want of bread in all your places; yet you did not return to me,” says the Lord.

7 “I also withheld rain from you when three months still remained until harvest. And I rained upon one city and did not rain upon another; one portion was rained upon, and the portion upon which I did not rain withered.

8 And two or three cities came to one city to drink water but were not satisfied; yet you did not return to me,” says the Lord.

9 “I struck you with a burning wind and mildew. The caterpillar devoured the multitude of your gardens and vineyards, your olive groves and fig groves; yet you did not return to me,” says the Lord.

10 “I sent death among you in the way of Egypt; I struck your young men with the sword, even to the captivity of your horses, and I caused the rottenness of your camps to rise into your nostrils; yet you did not return to me,” says the Lord.

11 “I overthrew you as God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrha, and you became like a firebrand snatched from the burning; yet you did not return to me,” says the Lord.

12 “Therefore I shall do these things to you, Israel; and after I have done these things to you, prepare to meet your God, Israel.

13 For behold, he forms the mountains, creates the wind, declares his word to man, makes the morning mist, and walks upon the heights of the earth; the Lord God of hosts is his name.”

CHAPTER 5

1 Hear this word that I raise over you as a lament: “The house of Israel has fallen and shall no longer rise.

2 The virgin Israel is cast upon her land; there is no one to raise her up.”

3 For thus says the Lord God: “The city from which a thousand went forth shall have a hundred left in it; and from that which sent forth a hundred, ten shall be left in the house of Israel.”

4 For thus says the Lord to the house of Israel: “Seek me and you shall live.

5 And do not seek Bethel; do not enter Galgala; and you shall not pass into Bersabee, because Galgala shall be led captive and Bethel shall be useless.

6 Seek the Lord and live, lest the house of Joseph burn like fire, and it devour, and there be no one to extinguish Bethel—

7 you who turn judgment into wormwood and leave justice upon the earth.”

8 He makes Arcturus and Orion, turns darkness into morning and changes day into night; he calls the waters of the sea and pours them over the face of the earth. The Lord is his name.

9 He smiles devastation upon the mighty and brings depopulation upon the powerful.

10 They hated the one who reproved at the gate and abhorred the one who spoke perfectly.

11 Therefore, because you plundered the poor and took choice spoil from him, you shall build houses of squared stone but shall not dwell in them; you shall plant most beloved vineyards but shall not drink their wine.

12 For I have known your many crimes and your powerful sins: enemies of the just, accepting a gift and oppressing the poor at the gate.

13 Therefore the prudent shall be silent at that time, because it is an evil time.

14 Seek good and not evil, that you may live; and the Lord God of hosts shall be with you, as you have said.

15 Hate evil and love good, and establish judgment at the gate; perhaps the Lord God of hosts may have mercy upon the remnant of Joseph.

16 Therefore thus says the Lord God of hosts, the Ruler: “In all the streets there shall be lamentation, and in all places outside they shall say, ‘Woe, woe!’ And they shall call the farmer to mourning and those skilled in lamentation to wailing.

17 And in all vineyards there shall be lamentation, because I shall pass through your midst,” says the Lord.

18 Woe to those who desire the day of the Lord! What is it to you? That day of the Lord is darkness and not light.

19 It is as if a man fled from the face of a lion and a bear met him; or he entered the house, leaned his hand upon the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Is not the day of the Lord darkness and not light, gloom and no brightness in it?

21 “I hate and have rejected your feast days, and I shall not receive the fragrance of your assemblies.

22 Even if you offer me holocausts and your gifts, I shall not receive them; and I shall not look upon the vows of your fattened animals.

23 Take away from me the tumult of your songs, and I shall not hear the songs of your lyre.

24 And judgment shall be revealed like water, and justice like a mighty torrent.

25 Did you offer me victims and sacrifice in the wilderness for forty years, house of Israel?

26 Yet you carried the tabernacle of your Moloch and the image of your idols, the star of your god, which you made for yourselves.

27 And I shall cause you to migrate beyond Damascus,” says the Lord, whose name is the God of hosts.

CHAPTER 6

1 Woe to you who are wealthy in Sion and trust in the mountain of Samaria—nobles, heads of the peoples, entering the house of Israel with pomp!

2 Cross over to Chalane and see; go from there into great Emath, and descend into Geth of the Palestinians and to the finest kingdoms among these. Is their border wider than your border?

3 You who are set apart for the evil day and draw near to the throne of iniquity;

4 who sleep upon ivory beds and luxuriate upon your couches; who eat a lamb from the flock and calves from the midst of the herd;

5 who sing to the sound of the psaltery and, like David, thought themselves to possess instruments of song;

6 who drink wine in bowls and are anointed with the finest ointment, yet suffered nothing over the ruin of Joseph.

7 Therefore now they shall migrate at the head of those migrating, and the faction of those luxuriating shall be taken away.

8 The Lord God has sworn by his own soul, says the Lord God of hosts: “I detest the pride of Jacob and hate his houses, and I shall deliver the city with its inhabitants.

9 And if ten men remain in one house, they also shall die.

10 And his relative shall take him and burn him, that he may carry the bones out of the house; and he shall say to the one in the inner rooms of the house, ‘Is there still anyone with you?’

11 And he shall answer, ‘It is the end.’ And he shall say to him, ‘Be silent, and do not remember the name of the Lord.’

12 For behold, the Lord shall command, and he shall strike the greater house with ruins and the lesser house with fissures.

13 Can horses run upon rocks, or can one plow with buffaloes? For you have turned judgment into bitterness and the fruit of justice into wormwood.

14 You who rejoice in nothing, who say, ‘Have we not taken horns for ourselves by our own strength?’

15 For behold, house of Israel, I shall raise up a nation against you,” says the Lord God of hosts, “and it shall crush you from the entrance of Emath to the torrent of the wilderness.”

CHAPTER 7

1 The Lord God showed me this: and behold, one forming the locust at the beginning of the growth from the latter rain; and behold, the latter growth came after the king's mowing.

2 And it came to pass, when it had finished eating the grass of the land, that I said, "O Lord God, be merciful, I beg you. Who shall raise up Jacob, for he is little?"

3 The Lord had mercy concerning this. "It shall not be," said the Lord.

4 The Lord God showed me this: and behold, the Lord God called for judgment by fire; and it devoured the great abyss and consumed a portion at once.

5 And I said, "O Lord God, cease, I beg you. Who shall raise up Jacob, for he is little?"

6 The Lord had mercy concerning this also. "This too shall not be," said the Lord God.

7 The Lord showed me this: and behold, the Lord stood upon a plastered wall, and in his hand was a mason's trowel.

8 And the Lord said to me, "What do you see, Amos?" And I said, "A mason's trowel." And the Lord said, "Behold, I shall place a trowel in the midst of my people Israel; I shall no longer continue to pass him by.

9 And the high places of the idol shall be demolished, and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be desolated; and I shall rise against the house of Jeroboam with the sword."

10 Then Amasias, the priest of Bethel, sent to Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, "Amos has rebelled against you in the midst of the house of Israel; the land cannot endure all his words.

11 For Amos says this: 'Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall migrate captive from his land.'"

12 And Amasias said to Amos, "You who see, go; flee into the land of Judah, eat bread there, and prophesy there.

13 And do not continue to prophesy in Bethel, because it is the king's sanctuary and the house of the kingdom."

14 And Amos answered and said to Amasias, "I am not a prophet, and I am not the son of a prophet; but I am a herdsman who plucks sycamore figs.

15 And the Lord took me as I followed the flock, and the Lord said to me, 'Go, prophesy to my people Israel.'

16 And now hear the word of the Lord: You say, 'You shall not prophesy concerning Israel, and you shall not drip words upon the house of the idol.'

17 Therefore thus says the Lord: 'Your wife shall fornicate in the city; your sons and daughters shall fall by the sword; your soil shall be measured by a line; and you shall die in a polluted land, and Israel shall migrate captive from his land.'"

CHAPTER 8

1 The Lord God showed me this: and behold, a hook of fruit.

2 And he said, “What do you see, Amos?” And I said, “A hook of fruit.” And the Lord said to me, “The end has come upon my people Israel; I shall no longer continue to pass him by.

3 And the hinges of the temple shall creak on that day,” says the Lord God. “Many shall die; in every place silence shall be cast down.”

4 Hear this, you who crush the poor and cause the needy of the land to fail,

5 saying, “When will the month pass, that we may sell merchandise? And the sabbath, that we may open the grain, diminish the measure, increase the shekel, and substitute deceitful balances,

6 that we may possess the needy for silver and the poor for sandals, and sell the refuse of the grain?”

7 The Lord has sworn by the pride of Jacob: “I shall not forget all their works, even to the end.

8 Shall the land not be moved because of this, and every inhabitant of it mourn? And shall it not rise wholly like a river, be cast out, and flow away like the river of Egypt?

9 And it shall be on that day,” says the Lord God, “that the sun shall set at midday, and I shall darken the earth on a day of light.

10 And I shall turn your feasts into mourning and all your songs into lamentation; I shall bring sackcloth upon every back and baldness upon every head. And I shall make it like mourning for an only-begotten son, and its last things like a bitter day.

11 Behold, days are coming,” says the Lord, “when I shall send famine into the land—not a famine of bread or a thirst for water, but of hearing the word of the Lord.

12 And they shall be moved from sea to sea and from the north to the east; they shall go round seeking the word of the Lord and shall not find it.

13 On that day the beautiful virgins and young men shall fail from thirst,

14 those who swear by the offense of Samaria and say, ‘Your god lives, Dan,’ and, ‘The way of Bersabee lives.’ And they shall fall and no longer rise.”

CHAPTER 9

1 I saw the Lord standing upon the altar, and he said, “Strike the hinge, and let the lintels be shaken, for greed is upon the head of them all; and I shall slay the last of them with the sword. There shall be no flight for them; they shall flee, but the one who flees shall not be saved.

2 If they descend as far as the realm of the dead, from there my hand shall bring them out; and if they ascend as far as heaven, from there I shall draw them down.

3 And if they hide upon the summit of Carmel, from there I shall search and take them away; and if they conceal themselves from my eyes in the depth of the sea, there I shall command the serpent, and it shall bite them.

4 And if they go into captivity before their enemies, there I shall command the sword, and it shall slay them; and I shall set my eyes upon them for evil and not for good.

5 And the Lord God of hosts touches the earth, and it shall melt, and all who dwell in it shall mourn; and all of it shall rise like a river and flow away like the river of Egypt.

6 He builds his ascent in heaven and has founded his bundle upon the earth; he calls the waters of the sea and pours them over the face of the earth. The Lord is his name.

7 Are you not like the children of the Ethiopians to me, children of Israel?” says the Lord. “Did I not cause Israel to ascend from the land of Egypt, the Palestinians from Cappadocia, and the Syrians from Cyrene?”

8 Behold, the eyes of the Lord God are upon the sinning kingdom, and I shall crush it from the face of the earth. Nevertheless, crushing, I shall not crush the house of Jacob,” says the Lord.

9 “For behold, I shall command, and I shall shake the house of Israel among all nations as grain is shaken in a sieve, and not one little stone shall fall upon the earth.

10 All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, those who say, ‘Evil shall not approach or come upon us.’

11 On that day I shall raise up the tabernacle of David that has fallen; and I shall rebuild the breaches of its walls and restore what had fallen, and I shall rebuild it as in the ancient days,

12 that they may possess the remnant of Idumea and all nations, because my name has been invoked upon them,” says the Lord who does these things.

13 “Behold, days are coming,” says the Lord, “when the plowman shall overtake the reaper, and the treader of grapes the one casting seed; and the mountains shall drip sweetness, and all the hills shall be cultivated.

14 And I shall turn back the captivity of my people Israel; and they shall build the deserted cities and dwell in them. They shall plant vineyards and drink their wine, make gardens and eat their fruit.

15 And I shall plant them upon their soil, and I shall no longer uproot them from their land that I gave them,” says the Lord your God.

BOOK THIRTY-ONE: OBADIAH

CHAPTER 1

1 The vision of Obadiah. Thus says the Lord (YHWH) God to Edom: “We have heard a report from the Lord, and he has sent an envoy to the nations: ‘Arise, and let us rise against him in battle.’

2 Behold, I have made you little among the nations; you are exceedingly contemptible.

3 The pride of your heart has lifted you up, you who dwell in the clefts of the rocks and exalt your throne, who say in your heart, ‘Who shall bring me down to the earth?’

4 Though you be exalted like the eagle, and though you set your nest among the stars, from there I shall bring you down,” says the Lord.

5 “If thieves had entered to you, if robbers by night, how would you have been silent? Would they not have stolen enough for themselves? If grape-gatherers had entered to you, would they not at least have left you a cluster?

6 How they have searched Esau and investigated his hidden things!

7 They have sent you as far as the border. All the men of your covenant have mocked you; the men of your peace who eat with you have prevailed against you and shall place snares beneath you. There is no prudence in him.

8 Shall I not on that day,” says the Lord, “destroy the wise from Idumea and prudence from Mount Esau?

9 And your mighty men from the south shall fear, so that man may perish from Mount Esau.

10 Because of the slaughter and because of the iniquity against your brother Jacob, confusion shall cover you, and you shall perish forever.

11 On the day when you stood against him, when foreigners seized his army, strangers entered his gates, and they cast lots over Jerusalem, you also were like one of them.

12 And you shall not look with contempt on the day of your brother, on the day of his migration; and you shall not rejoice over the children of Judah on the day of their destruction; and you shall not magnify your mouth on the day of distress.

13 Nor shall you enter the gate of my people on the day of their ruin; nor shall you also look with contempt upon his evils on the day of his devastation. And you shall not be sent against his army on the day of his devastation,

14 nor stand at the exits to slay those who flee; and you shall not shut up his remnant on the day of tribulation.

15 For the day of the Lord is near upon all nations. As you have done, so shall it be done to you; your recompense shall return upon your own head.

16 For as you drank upon my holy mountain, all nations shall drink continually; and they shall drink and swallow, and they shall be as though they were not.

17 But upon Mount Sion there shall be salvation, and it shall be holy; and the house of Jacob shall possess those who had possessed them.

18 And the house of Jacob shall be fire, the house of Joseph flame, and the house of Esau stubble. They shall be kindled among them and devour them, and there shall be no remnant of the house of Esau, because the Lord has spoken.

19 And those who are toward the south shall inherit Mount Esau, and those in the plains shall inherit the Philistines; and they shall possess the region of Ephraim and the region of Samaria, and Benjamin shall possess Galaad.

20 And the migration of this army of the children of Israel shall possess all the places of the Canaanites as far as Sarepta; and the migration of Jerusalem that is in the Bosphorus shall possess the cities of the south.

21 And saviors shall ascend Mount Sion to judge Mount Esau, and the kingdom shall belong to the Lord.”

BOOK THIRTY-TWO: JONAH

CHAPTER 1

1 And the word of the Lord (YHWH) came to Jonah, the son of Amathi, saying:

2 “Arise, and go to Nineveh, the great city, and preach in it, because its wickedness has ascended before me.”

3 And Jonah arose to flee to Tharsis from the face of the Lord. He went down to Joppa and found a ship going to Tharsis; and he paid its fare and went down into it, to go with them to Tharsis from the face of the Lord.

4 But the Lord sent a great wind upon the sea, and a great tempest arose in the sea, and the ship was in danger of being broken.

5 And the sailors were afraid, and each man cried to his god; and they cast the vessels that were in the ship into the sea, so that it might be lightened of them. But Jonah went down into the inner part of the ship and slept in a heavy slumber.

6 And the shipmaster came to him and said to him, “Why are you weighed down with sleep? Arise, call upon your God, if perhaps God may think of us, and we may not perish.”

7 And each man said to his companion, “Come, and let us cast lots, so that we may know why this evil has come upon us.” And they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah.

8 And they said to him, “Tell us: for whose cause has this evil come upon us? What is your work? What is your land, and where are you going? Or from what people are you?”

9 And he said to them, “I am a Hebrew, and I fear the Lord God of heaven, who made the sea and the dry land.”

10 And the men feared with a great fear and said to him, “Why have you done this?” For the men knew that he was fleeing from the face of the Lord, because he had told them.

11 And they said to him, “What shall we do to you, so that the sea may cease from raging against us?” For the sea continued to rise and swell.

12 And he said to them, “Take me and cast me into the sea, and the sea shall cease from raging against you; for I know that because of me this great tempest has come upon you.”

13 And the men rowed to return to dry land, but they were not able, because the sea continued to rise and swell against them.

14 And they cried to the Lord and said, “We beseech you, O Lord, let us not perish for the soul of this man, and do not lay innocent blood upon us; for you, O Lord, have done as you willed.”

15 And they took Jonah and cast him into the sea, and the sea ceased from its fury.

16 And the men feared the Lord with a great fear; and they sacrificed victims to the Lord and made vows.

CHAPTER 2

1 And the Lord prepared a great fish to swallow Jonah; and Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

2 And Jonah prayed to the Lord his God from the belly of the fish,

3 and said: “I cried out from my tribulation to the Lord, and he heard me; from the belly of the realm of the dead I cried out, and you heard my voice.

4 And you cast me into the deep, in the heart of the sea, and the flood surrounded me; all your whirlpools and your waves passed over me.

5 And I said, ‘I am cast away from before your eyes’; nevertheless, I shall again see your holy temple.

6 The waters surrounded me even to the soul; the abyss enclosed me; the sea covered my head.

7 I descended to the extremities of the mountains; the bars of the earth enclosed me forever. Yet you shall lift up my life from corruption, O Lord my God.

8 When my soul was in anguish within me, I remembered the Lord, that my prayer might come to you, to your holy temple.

9 Those who keep vain things to no purpose forsake their own mercy.

10 But I shall sacrifice to you with a voice of praise; whatever I have vowed, I shall render to the Lord for salvation.”

11 And the Lord spoke to the fish, and it vomited Jonah onto the dry land.

CHAPTER 3

1 And the word of the Lord came to Jonah a second time, saying:

2 “Arise, and go to Nineveh, the great city, and preach in it the preaching that I speak to you.”

3 And Jonah arose and went to Nineveh according to the word of the Lord. Now Nineveh was a great city, a journey of three days.

4 And Jonah began to enter the city by a journey of one day; and he cried out and said, “Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.”

5 And the men of Nineveh believed in God; and they proclaimed a fast and were clothed in sackcloth, from the greatest even to the least.

6 And the word reached the king of Nineveh; and he arose from his throne, cast off his garment from himself, was clothed in sackcloth, and sat in ashes.

7 And he proclaimed and spoke in Nineveh, by the mouth of the king and his princes, saying, “Let men and beasts, oxen and sheep, taste nothing; let them neither feed nor drink water.

8 And let men and beasts be covered with sackcloth, and let them cry to the Lord with strength; and let every man turn from his evil way and from the iniquity that is in their hands.

9 Who knows whether God may turn and forgive, and turn away from the fury of his wrath, so that we may not perish?”

10 And God saw their works, that they had turned from their evil way; and God had mercy concerning the evil that he had spoken to do to them, and he did not do it.

CHAPTER 4

1 And Jonah was afflicted with a great affliction, and he was angry.

2 And he prayed to the Lord and said, “I beseech you, O Lord, was this not my word while I was still in my own land? Because of this I went beforehand to flee to Tharsis; for I know that you are a gracious and merciful God, patient and of great compassion, and forgiving concerning evil.

3 And now, O Lord, take, I beseech you, my soul from me, for death is better for me than life.”

4 And the Lord said, “Do you think you are right to be angry?”

5 And Jonah went out of the city and sat toward the east of the city; and he made himself a shelter there and sat beneath it in the shade, until he might see what would happen to the city.

6 And the Lord God prepared an ivy, and it rose over Jonah’s head, so that there might be shade over his head and it might protect him—for he was suffering. And Jonah rejoiced over the ivy with great joy.

7 And God prepared a worm at the rising of dawn on the next day; and it struck the ivy, and it withered.

8 And when the sun had risen, the Lord commanded a hot and burning wind; and the sun beat upon Jonah’s head, and he grew faint. And he asked for his soul that he might die, and said, “It is better for me to die than to live.”

9 And the Lord said to Jonah, “Do you think you are right to be angry over the ivy?” And he said, “I am right to be angry, even unto death.”

10 And the Lord said, “You grieve over the ivy for which you did not labor, nor did you cause it to grow; it came into being in one night and perished in one night.

11 And shall I not spare Nineveh, the great city, in which there are more than one hundred twenty thousand people who do not know what lies between their right hand and their left, and many beasts?”

BOOK THIRTY-THREE: MICAH

CHAPTER 1

1 The word of the Lord (YHWH) that came to Micah the Morasthite, in the days of Joathan, Achaz, and Ezechias, kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

2 Hear, all peoples, and let the earth attend, and its fullness; and let the Lord God be a witness against you, the Lord from his holy temple.

3 For behold, the Lord shall go forth from his place; and he shall descend and tread upon the high places of the earth.

4 And the mountains shall be consumed beneath him, and the valleys shall be split like wax before the face of fire, and like waters that rush down a precipice.

5 All this is for the crime of Jacob and for the sins of the house of Israel. What is the crime of Jacob? Is it not Samaria? And what are the high places of Judah? Are they not Jerusalem?

6 And I shall make Samaria like a heap of stones in a field when a vineyard is planted; and I shall drag its stones down into the valley and reveal its foundations.

7 And all its carved images shall be cut down, and all its wages shall be burned with fire, and I shall place all its idols in perdition; for they were gathered from the wages of a prostitute, and to the wages of a prostitute they shall return.

8 Over this I shall lament and wail; I shall go stripped and naked. I shall make lamentation like dragons and mourning like ostriches,

9 because her wound is desperate, because it has come even to Judah; it has touched the gate of my people, even Jerusalem.

10 Do not announce it in Geth; do not weep with tears. In the house of dust, sprinkle yourselves with dust.

11 Pass on for yourselves, O beautiful habitation, confounded with shame. She who dwells at the exit has not gone out; the neighboring house shall receive lamentation from you, though it stood by itself.

12 For she who dwells in bitterness has grown weak for good, because evil has descended from the Lord to the gate of Jerusalem.

13 A tumult of the chariot of astonishment is for her who dwells in Lachis. She is the beginning of sin for the daughter of Sion, because in you the crimes of Israel were found.

14 Therefore she shall send emissaries over the inheritance of Geth; the house of falsehood shall be a deception to the kings of Israel.

15 Yet I shall bring an heir to you, O inhabitant of Maresa; the glory of Israel shall come as far as Odollam.

16 Make yourself bald and be shorn for the children of your delights; enlarge your baldness like the eagle, because they have been led captive from you.

CHAPTER 2

1 Woe to you who devise what is useless and work evil upon your beds! In the morning light they do it, because their hand is against God.

2 And they coveted fields and took them violently; and they seized houses and falsely accused a man and his house—a man and his inheritance.

3 Therefore thus says the Lord: “Behold, I am devising evil against this family, from which you shall not remove your necks; and you shall not walk proudly, because it is a most evil time.

4 On that day a parable shall be taken up against you, and a song shall be sung with sweetness by those saying, ‘We have been devastated by desolation; the portion of my people has been changed. How shall it withdraw from me, when he returns who divides our regions?’

5 Because of this, there shall be no one for you to cast the measuring cord of a lot in the assembly of the Lord.

6 Do not speak, you who speak; it shall not drip upon these, and confusion shall not overtake them.

7 The house of Jacob says, ‘Has the Spirit of the Lord been shortened, or are these his thoughts?’ Are not my words good with him who walks uprightly?

8 But, on the contrary, my people have risen as an adversary. You have taken away the cloak from over the tunic, and those who passed by innocently you have turned toward war.

9 You have cast the women of my people out of the house of their delights; from their little children you have taken away my praise forever.

10 Arise and go, because you have no rest here. Because of its uncleanness, it shall be corrupted with a most evil decay.

11 Would that I were not a man having the spirit, but rather spoke a lie! I shall drip to you concerning wine and drunkenness; and this shall be the people upon whom it is dripped.

12 With gathering I shall gather all of you, O Jacob; I shall bring together the remnant of Israel. I shall place him together like a flock in the fold, like sheep in the midst of the pens; they shall make a tumult because of the multitude of men.

13 For he who opens the way shall ascend before them. They shall divide and pass through the gate, and they shall enter through it; and their king shall pass before them, and the Lord at their head.

CHAPTER 3

1 And I said: Hear, O princes of Jacob and leaders of the house of Israel: Is it not yours to know judgment,

2 you who hate good and love evil, who violently tear their skins from upon them and their flesh from upon their bones;

3 who have eaten the flesh of my people, flayed their skin from upon them, broken their bones, and cut them to pieces as in a kettle and like flesh in the midst of a pot?

4 Then they shall cry to the Lord, and he shall not hear them; and he shall hide his face from them at that time, just as they acted wickedly in their inventions.

5 Thus says the Lord concerning the prophets who lead my people astray, who bite with their teeth and proclaim peace, but if anyone does not put something into their mouth, they sanctify war against him.

6 Therefore night shall be yours instead of vision, and darkness yours instead of divination; and the sun shall set upon the prophets, and the day shall grow dark over them.

7 And those who see visions shall be confounded, and the diviners shall be confounded; and they shall all cover their faces, because there is no answer from God.

8 Nevertheless, I am filled with the strength of the Spirit of the Lord, with judgment and power, to announce to Jacob his crime and to Israel his sin.

9 Hear this, O princes of the house of Jacob and judges of the house of Israel, who abhor judgment and pervert everything upright,

10 who build Sion with blood and Jerusalem with iniquity.

11 Her princes judged for gifts, her priests taught for wages, and her prophets divined for money; yet they rested upon the Lord, saying, “Is not the Lord in our midst? Evils shall not come upon us.”

12 Because of this, on account of you, Sion shall be plowed like a field, Jerusalem shall become like a heap of stones, and the mountain of the temple like the high places of forests.

CHAPTER 4

1 And it shall be: In the last days, the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be prepared upon the summit of the mountains and exalted above the hills; and peoples shall flow to it.

2 And many nations shall hasten and say, “Come, let us ascend to the mountain of the Lord and to the house of the God of Jacob. And he shall teach us of his ways, and we shall walk in his paths; for from Sion the law shall go forth, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem.”

3 And he shall judge among many peoples and rebuke strong nations from afar. And they shall cut their swords into plowshares and their spears into hoes; nation shall not take up sword against nation, nor shall they learn warfare any longer.

4 And each man shall sit beneath his vine and beneath his fig tree, and there shall be no one to terrify him, because the mouth of the Lord of hosts has spoken.

5 For all peoples shall walk, each one in the name of his god; but we shall walk in the name of the Lord our God, forever and beyond.

6 “On that day,” says the Lord, “I shall gather her who limps, and I shall collect her whom I had cast out and her whom I had afflicted.

7 And I shall make her who limps into a remnant, and her who suffered into a strong nation; and the Lord shall reign over them on Mount Sion, from now and even forever.

8 And you, O cloudy tower of the flock of the daughter of Sion, to you it shall come; and the first power shall come, the kingdom of the daughter of Jerusalem.

9 Now why are you contracted with grief? Is there no king in you, or has your counselor perished, because pain has seized you like a woman in labor?

10 Grieve and labor, O daughter of Sion, like a woman giving birth; for now you shall go forth from the city and dwell in the countryside, and you shall come even to Babylon. There you shall be delivered; there the Lord shall redeem you from the hand of your enemies.

11 And now many nations have gathered against you, saying, “Let her be stoned, and let our eye look upon Sion.”

12 But they have not known the thoughts of the Lord, nor have they understood his counsel, because he has gathered them like the hay of the threshing floor.

13 Arise and thresh, O daughter of Sion, because I shall make your horn iron and your hooves bronze; and you shall crush many peoples and slay their spoils to the Lord, and their strength to the Lord of the whole earth.

CHAPTER 5

1 Now you shall be devastated, O daughter of the robber. They have laid siege against us; with a rod they shall strike the cheek of the judge of Israel.

2 And you, Bethlehem Ephrata, are little among the thousands of Judah; from you shall go forth for me one who is to be ruler in Israel, and his going forth is from the beginning, from the days of eternity.

3 Because of this, he shall give them up until the time when she who gives birth shall bring forth; and the remnant of his brothers shall be converted to the children of Israel.

4 And he shall stand and feed in the strength of the Lord, in the sublimity of the name of the Lord his God; and they shall be converted, because now he shall be magnified even to the ends of the earth.

5 And this one shall be peace. When the Assyrian comes into our land and when he treads in our houses, we shall raise against him seven shepherds and eight chief men.

6 And they shall feed the land of Assur with the sword and the land of Nemrod with its spears; and he shall deliver from Assur when he comes into our land and when he treads within our borders.

7 And the remnant of Jacob shall be in the midst of many peoples like dew from the Lord and like drops upon the grass, which does not await man nor wait for the children of men.

8 And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the nations, in the midst of many peoples, like a lion among the beasts of the forests and like a lion’s cub among flocks of sheep, which, when it passes through and tramples and seizes, has no one to rescue.

9 Your hand shall be exalted over your enemies, and all your enemies shall perish.

10 “And it shall be on that day,” says the Lord, “I shall take away your horses from your midst and destroy your chariots.

11 And I shall destroy the cities of your land and tear down all your fortifications; and I shall take sorceries from your hand, and divinations shall not be in you.

12 And I shall cause your carved images and your statues to perish from your midst, and you shall no longer adore the works of your hands.

13 And I shall uproot your sacred groves from your midst, and I shall crush your cities.

14 And in fury and indignation I shall execute vengeance upon all nations that have not heard.”

CHAPTER 6

1 Hear what the Lord speaks: “Arise, contend in judgment against the mountains, and let the hills hear your voice.”

2 Let the mountains hear the judgment of the Lord, and the strong foundations of the earth; for the Lord has a judgment with his people, and he shall be judged with Israel.

3 “My people, what have I done to you? Or how have I been burdensome to you? Answer me.

4 For I brought you out of the land of Egypt and delivered you from the house of servants, and I sent Moses and Aaron and Miriam before your face.

5 My people, remember, I beseech you, what Balach king of Moab devised and what Balaam son of Beor answered him, from Setim even to Galgala, so that you might know the just deeds of the Lord.”

6 What worthy thing shall I offer to the Lord? Shall I bend the knee to the Most High God? Shall I offer him holocausts and year-old calves?

7 Can the Lord be appeased by thousands of rams or by many thousands of fat goats? Shall I give my firstborn for my crime, the fruit of my womb for the sin of my soul?

8 I shall show you, O man, what is good and what the Lord requires of you: surely, to do judgment, to love mercy, and to walk carefully with your God.

9 The voice of the Lord cries to the city, and salvation shall be for those who fear your name: Hear, O tribes—and who shall approve it?

10 Is there still fire in the house of the wicked, treasures of iniquity, and a smaller measure full of wrath?

11 Shall I justify wicked scales and the deceitful weights of the bag,

12 by which her rich are filled with iniquity, and those who dwell in her speak falsehood, and their tongue is deceitful in their mouth?

13 And therefore I have begun to strike you with destruction for your sins.

14 You shall eat and not be satisfied, and your humiliation shall be in your midst; and you shall seize but not save, and those whom you save I shall give to the sword.

15 You shall sow and not reap; you shall tread the olive but not be anointed with oil, and the new wine but not drink the wine.

16 And you have kept the precepts of Amri and every work of the house of Achab, and you have walked in their wills, so that I might give you to perdition, and those who dwell in her to hissing; and you shall bear the reproach of my people.

CHAPTER 7

1 Woe is me, because I have become like one who gathers the clusters of the vintage in autumn! There is no cluster to eat; my soul desired early figs.

2 The holy man has perished from the earth, and there is no upright one among men. All lie in ambush for blood; each man hunts his brother to death.

3 They call the evil of their hands good. The prince demands, and the judge is ready to repay; and the great man has spoken the desire of his soul, and they have troubled it.

4 The best among them is like the buckthorn, and he who is upright like a thorn from the hedge. The day of your watch, your visitation, has come; now shall be their devastation.

5 Do not believe a friend, and do not trust in a leader; from her who sleeps in your bosom, guard the barriers of your mouth.

6 For the son dishonors the father, and the daughter rises against her mother, the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law; and a man's enemies are those of his own household.

7 But I shall look to the Lord; I shall wait for God my Savior. My God shall hear me.

8 Do not rejoice over me, O my enemy, because I have fallen. I shall rise; when I sit in darkness, the Lord is my light.

9 I shall bear the wrath of the Lord, because I have sinned against him, until he judges my cause and executes my judgment. He shall bring me out into the light; I shall see his justice.

10 And my enemy shall see and shall be covered with confusion, she who says to me, "Where is the Lord your God?" My eyes shall look upon her; now she shall be for trampling like the mud of the streets.

11 The day shall come for your walls to be built; on that day the law shall be removed far away.

12 On that day they shall come even to you from Assur and even from fortified cities, and from fortified cities even to the river, and from sea to sea and from mountain to mountain.

13 And the land shall be for desolation because of its inhabitants and because of the fruit of their thoughts.

14 Feed your people with your rod, the flock of your inheritance, dwelling alone in the forest in the midst of Carmel. They shall feed in Basan and Galaad as in the ancient days.

15 As in the days of your departure from the land of Egypt, I shall show him wonders.

16 The nations shall see and be confounded over all their strength. They shall place a hand over their mouth; their ears shall be deaf.

17 They shall lick dust like serpents; like creeping things of the earth, they shall be troubled in their dwellings. They shall dread the Lord our God, and they shall fear you.

18 Who is a God like you, who takes away iniquity and passes over the sin of the remnant of your inheritance? He shall no longer send forth his fury, because he wills mercy.

19 He shall return and have mercy upon us; he shall cast down our iniquities and cast all our sins into the depth of the sea.

20 You shall give truth to Jacob, mercy to Abraham, which you swore to our fathers from the ancient days.

BOOK THIRTY-FOUR: NAHUM

CHAPTER 1

1 The burden of Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum the Elcesite.

2 God is jealous, and the Lord (YHWH) is avenging; the Lord is avenging and possesses fury. The Lord takes vengeance upon his enemies, and he himself is angry with his adversaries.

3 The Lord is patient and great in strength, and in cleansing he shall not make innocent. The Lord's way is in tempest and whirlwind, and the clouds are the dust of his feet.

4 He rebukes the sea and dries it up, and he leads all rivers into desert. Basan has grown weak, and Carmel; and the flower of Lebanon has withered.

5 The mountains have been moved by him, and the hills have been made desolate; and the earth has trembled before his face—the world and all who dwell in it.

6 Who shall stand before the face of his indignation? And who shall resist the wrath of his fury? His indignation has been poured out like fire, and the rocks have been dissolved by him.

7 The Lord is good and gives strength in the day of tribulation, and he knows those who hope in him.

8 And with an overflowing flood he shall make an end of its place, and darkness shall pursue his enemies.

9 What do you devise against the Lord? He himself shall make an end; double tribulation shall not arise,

10 because just as thorns embrace one another, so does their banquet of those drinking together; they shall be consumed like stubble filled with dryness.

11 From you shall go forth one who devises wickedness against the Lord, pondering transgression in his mind.

12 Thus says the Lord: "Though they be complete and so very many, even so they shall be shorn, and he shall pass through. I have afflicted you, and I shall afflict you no more.

13 And now I shall break his rod from off your back, and I shall burst your bonds.

14 And the Lord shall command concerning you: No more shall seed be sown from your name. From the house of your god I shall destroy the carved image and the molten image; I shall make your grave, because you are dishonored.

15 Behold, upon the mountains are the feet of one who brings good news and announces peace. Celebrate your festivals, O Judah, and render your vows, because Belial shall no longer pass through you; he has utterly perished.

CHAPTER 2

1 He who scatters has ascended before you, he who keeps the siege. Watch the road; strengthen your loins; fortify your power exceedingly.

2 For the Lord has restored the pride of Jacob, as the pride of Israel, because the ravagers have scattered them and corrupted their branches.

3 The shield of his mighty men is fiery; the men of the army are in scarlet. The reins of the chariot are fiery on the day of his preparation, and the drivers are stupefied.

4 They have been thrown into confusion on the roads; the chariots have collided in the streets. Their appearance is like lamps, like lightning running to and fro.

5 He shall remember his mighty men; they shall fall upon their roads. They shall ascend her walls swiftly, and a shelter shall be prepared.

6 The gates of the rivers have been opened, and the temple has been torn down to the ground.

7 And the captive soldier has been led away, and her maidservants were driven along, groaning like doves, murmuring in their hearts.

8 And Nineveh is like a pool of waters—her waters—but they have fled. “Stand, stand!” Yet there is no one who turns back.

9 Plunder the silver; plunder the gold. There is no end to the riches from all the desirable vessels.

10 She has been scattered and split and torn apart; and the heart melts, the knees dissolve, all loins fail, and all their faces are like the blackness of a pot.

11 Where is the dwelling of the lions and the pasture of the lion cubs, to which the lion went so that the lion cub might enter there, with no one to terrify them?

12 The lion seized enough for his cubs and killed for his lionesses; and he filled his caves with prey and his den with plunder.

13 “Behold, I am against you,” says the Lord of hosts, “and I shall burn your chariots even to smoke, and the sword shall devour your young lions. And I shall exterminate your prey from the earth, and the voice of your messengers shall be heard no more.”

CHAPTER 3

1 Woe to the city of blood, entirely filled with the tearing of falsehood! Plunder shall not depart from you.

2 The sound of the whip, and the sound of the rushing wheel, and the neighing horse, and the raging chariot, and the ascending horseman,

3 and the flashing sword, and the gleaming spear, and the multitude of the slain, and the grievous ruin. There is no end to the corpses, and they shall fall upon their bodies.

4 Because of the multitude of the fornications of the beautiful and pleasing prostitute who possesses sorceries, who sold nations by her fornications and families by her sorceries:

5 “Behold, I am against you,” says the Lord of hosts, “and I shall reveal your shameful parts before your face; and I shall show your nakedness to the nations and your disgrace to kingdoms.

6 And I shall cast abominations upon you, afflict you with insults, and make you an example.

7 And it shall be that everyone who sees you shall recoil from you and say, ‘Nineveh has been devastated.’ Who shall shake his head over you? From where shall I seek a comforter for you?

8 Are you better than Alexandria of the peoples, which dwells among rivers? Waters are around it; its wealth is the sea, waters are its walls.

9 Ethiopia was its strength, and Egypt, and there is no end; Africa and the Libyans were your help.

10 Yet she also was led away in migration into captivity. Her little children were dashed to pieces at the head of every road; they cast lots over her renowned men, and all her nobles were bound in fetters.

11 Therefore you also shall become drunk and shall be despised; you also shall seek help from the enemy.

12 All your fortifications are like fig trees with their unripe figs; if they are shaken, they shall fall into the mouth of the one who eats.

13 Behold, your people are women in your midst. The gates of your land shall be opened wide to your enemies; fire shall devour your bars.

14 Draw water for yourself because of the siege; build up your fortifications. Enter into the clay and tread it; take hold of the brick mold.

15 There fire shall devour you; you shall perish by the sword; it shall devour you like the bruchus. Gather yourself like the bruchus; multiply like the locust.

16 You have made your commerce more numerous than the stars of heaven; the bruchus has spread out and flown away.

17 Your guards are like locusts, and your little ones like swarms of locusts that settle in hedges on a cold day. The sun has risen, and they have flown away; and the place where they were is not known.

18 Your shepherds have slumbered, O king of Assur; your princes shall be buried. Your people have hidden in the mountains, and there is no one to gather them.

19 Your ruin is not hidden; your wound is exceedingly grievous. All who have heard the report of you have clapped their hands over you, for over whom has your wickedness not passed continually?

BOOK THIRTY-FIVE: HABAKKUK

CHAPTER 1

1 The burden that Habakkuk the prophet saw.

2 How long, O Lord (YHWH), shall I cry out and you not hear? I shall cry aloud to you, suffering violence, and you shall not save?

3 Why have you shown me iniquity and suffering, to see plunder and injustice against me? And judgment has come to pass, and contradiction is more powerful.

4 Because of this, the law has been torn apart, and judgment does not reach its end; because the wicked prevails against the just, therefore perverted judgment goes forth.

5 Look among the nations and see; wonder and be astonished. For a work has been done in your days that no one shall believe when it is told.

6 For behold, I shall raise up the Chaldeans, a bitter and swift nation, walking over the breadth of the earth to possess dwellings not their own.

7 It is dreadful and terrible; from itself its judgment and its burden shall go forth.

8 Its horses are swifter than leopards and faster than evening wolves; and its horsemen shall spread abroad. For its horsemen shall come from afar; they shall fly like an eagle hastening to devour.

9 They shall all come for plunder; their faces are a burning wind, and it shall gather captivity like sand.

10 And it shall triumph over kings, and tyrants shall be its ridicule. It shall laugh at every fortress, heap up an embankment, and capture it.

11 Then its spirit shall change and pass through, and it shall fall. This is the strength of its god.

12 Are you not from the beginning, O Lord my God, my Holy One? And we shall not die. O Lord, you have appointed him for judgment, and established him strong so that you might correct.

13 Your eyes are pure, so that you cannot see evil, and you cannot look upon iniquity. Why do you look upon those who act wickedly, and remain silent while the wicked devours one more just than himself?

14 And you make men like the fish of the sea and like a creeping thing that has no ruler.

15 He has lifted up all of it with a hook, dragged it in his seine, and gathered it into his net. Over this he shall rejoice and exult.

16 Therefore he shall sacrifice to his seine and offer sacrifice to his net, because through them his portion has become fat and his food choice.

17 Because of this, therefore, he spreads out his seine and shall not spare continually to kill nations.

CHAPTER 2

1 I shall stand upon my watch, and I shall set my step upon the fortress; and I shall watch to see what may be said to me and what I may answer to the one who reproves me.

2 And the Lord answered me and said: “Write the vision and make it plain upon tablets, so that he who reads it may run through it.

3 For the vision is still far off, and it shall appear at the end and shall not lie. If it delays, wait for it, because in coming it shall come and shall not be late.

4 Behold, the one who is unbelieving—his soul shall not be upright within himself; but the just shall live by his faith.

5 And just as wine deceives the one drinking, so shall the proud man be, and he shall not be adorned. He has enlarged his soul like the realm of the dead; and he is like death and is not filled. And he shall gather all nations to himself and heap all peoples together to himself.

6 Shall not all these take up a parable against him and an enigmatic saying concerning him? And it shall be said: ‘Woe to him who multiplies what is not his own! How long shall he load thick clay against himself?’

7 Shall those who bite you not suddenly arise, and those who tear you awake, and you become plunder for them?

8 Because you have despoiled many nations, all who remain of the peoples shall despoil you, because of human blood and the iniquity of the land, the city, and all who dwell in it.

9 Woe to him who gathers evil greed for his house, so that his nest may be on high, and who thinks himself delivered from the hand of evil!

10 You have devised confusion for your house; you have cut down many peoples, and your soul has sinned.

11 For the stone shall cry out from the wall, and the wood that is between the joints of the buildings shall answer.

12 Woe to him who builds a city with blood and prepares a city in iniquity!

13 Are not these things from the Lord of hosts? For peoples shall labor in a great fire, and nations for emptiness, and they shall fail.

14 For the earth shall be filled, that they may know the glory of the Lord, like waters covering the sea.

15 Woe to him who gives drink to his friend, sending forth his gall and making him drunk so that he may look upon his nakedness!

16 You are filled with disgrace instead of glory. You also, drink and fall into a stupor. The cup of the Lord’s right hand shall surround you, and the vomit of disgrace shall come upon your glory.

17 For the iniquity of Lebanon shall cover you, and the devastation of beasts shall terrify them, because of human blood and the iniquity of the land, the city, and all who dwell in it.

18 What profit is there in a carved image, because its maker has carved it—a molten image and a false image? For its maker has trusted in the thing he formed, making mute idols.

19 Woe to him who says to wood, ‘Awake,’ and to the silent stone, ‘Arise!’ Can it teach? Behold, it is covered with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all within it.

20 But the Lord is in his holy temple; let all the earth be silent before his face.

CHAPTER 3

1 A prayer of Habakkuk the prophet, for ignorances.

2 O Lord, I have heard your report, and I was afraid. O Lord, give life to your work in the midst of the years; in the midst of the years you shall make it known. When you are angry, you shall remember mercy.

3 God shall come from the south, and the Holy One from Mount Pharan. His glory has covered the heavens, and the earth is full of his praise.

4 His splendor shall be like light; horns are in his hands. There his strength is hidden.

5 Death shall go before his face, and the devil shall go forth before his feet.

6 He stood and measured the earth; he looked and dissolved the nations. The mountains of the age were crushed; the hills of the world were bowed down by the journeys of his eternity.

7 Because of iniquity I saw the tents of Ethiopia; the skins of the land of Madian shall be troubled.

8 Were you angry with the rivers, O Lord? Or was your fury against the rivers, or your indignation against the sea—you who shall ascend upon your horses, and your chariots are salvation?

9 In awakening, you shall awaken your bow—the oaths to the tribes that you spoke. You shall split the rivers of the earth.

10 The mountains saw you and grieved; the torrent of waters passed by. The abyss gave its voice; the height lifted up its hands.

11 The sun and moon stood still in their dwelling; they shall go by the light of your arrows, by the brightness of your flashing spear.

12 With roaring you shall tread the earth; in fury you shall astonish the nations.

13 You went forth for the salvation of your people, for salvation with your Christ. You struck the head from the house of the wicked; you laid bare its foundation even to the neck.

14 You cursed his scepters, the head of his warriors, who came like a whirlwind to scatter me. Their exultation was like that of one who devours the poor in secret.

15 You made a way in the sea for your horses, in the mud of many waters.

16 I heard, and my belly was troubled; at the sound my lips trembled. Let decay enter my bones and swarm beneath me, so that I may rest in the day of tribulation, that I may ascend to our girded people.

17 For the fig tree shall not blossom, and there shall be no shoot in the vineyards. The work of the olive shall lie, and the fields shall bring forth no food. The flock shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no herd in the stalls.

18 But I shall rejoice in the Lord, and I shall exult in God my Jesus (my salvation).

19 The Lord God is my strength, and he shall make my feet like those of deer; and the victor shall lead me upon my high places, singing in psalms.

BOOK THIRTY-SIX: ZEPHANIAH

CHAPTER 1

1 The word of the Lord (YHWH) that came to Zephaniah, son of Chusi, son of Godolias, son of Amarias, son of Ezechias, in the days of Josias, son of Amon, king of Judah.

2 “In gathering, I shall gather all things from the face of the earth,” says the Lord.

3 “I shall gather man and beast; I shall gather the birds of heaven and the fish of the sea. And there shall be the ruins of the wicked, and I shall destroy men from the face of the earth,” says the Lord.

4 “And I shall stretch out my hand over Judah and over all who dwell in Jerusalem; and from this place I shall destroy the remnant of Baal and the names of the temple keepers with the priests,

5 and those who worship the host of heaven upon the housetops, who worship and swear by the Lord and swear by Melchom,

6 and those who turn away from following behind the Lord, and who have not sought the Lord nor investigated him.”

7 Be silent before the face of the Lord God, because the day of the Lord is near; for the Lord has prepared a victim and sanctified those he has called.

8 “And it shall be on the day of the Lord’s victim that I shall visit the princes and the king’s sons and all who are clothed in foreign garments.

9 And on that day I shall visit everyone who enters arrogantly over the threshold, those who fill the house of the Lord their God with iniquity and deceit.

10 And on that day,” says the Lord, “there shall be the sound of a cry from the Fish Gate, and wailing from the Second, and a great crushing from the hills.

11 Wail, inhabitants of the Mortar! All the people of Canaan have fallen silent; all who are wrapped in silver have perished.

12 And it shall be at that time: I shall search Jerusalem with lamps, and I shall visit the men settled upon their dregs, who say in their hearts, ‘The Lord shall do no good, and he shall do no evil.’

13 And their strength shall become plunder, and their houses a desert. They shall build houses and not dwell in them; and they shall plant vineyards and not drink their wine.”

14 The great day of the Lord is near; it is near and exceedingly swift. The voice of the day of the Lord is bitter; there the mighty man shall be troubled.

15 That day is a day of wrath, a day of tribulation and anguish, a day of calamity and misery, a day of darkness and gloom, a day of cloud and whirlwind,

16 a day of trumpet and alarm against fortified cities and against lofty corners.

17 “And I shall trouble men, and they shall walk like the blind because they have sinned against the Lord; and their blood shall be poured out like soil, and their bodies like dung.

18 But neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them on the day of the Lord’s wrath. In the fire of his jealousy the whole earth shall be devoured, because he shall make a swift end of all who dwell upon the earth.”

CHAPTER 2

1 Come together; be gathered, O nation not worthy of love,

2 before the command brings forth the day like passing dust, before the wrath of the Lord's fury comes upon you, before the day of the Lord's indignation comes upon you.

3 Seek the Lord, all you meek of the earth who have performed his judgment; seek what is just, seek what is meek, if somehow you may be hidden on the day of the Lord's fury.

4 For Gaza shall be destroyed, and Ascalon shall become a desert. They shall cast out Azotus at midday, and Accaron shall be uprooted.

5 Woe to you who dwell along the coastline, O nation of the perishing! The word of the Lord is against you, O Canaan, land of the Philistines; and I shall destroy you so that there shall be no inhabitant.

6 And the coastline shall become a resting place for shepherds and folds for sheep.

7 And it shall be the portion of the remnant of the house of Judah. There they shall feed; in the houses of Ascalon they shall rest in the evening, because the Lord their God shall visit them and turn away their captivity.

8 "I have heard the reproach of Moab and the blasphemies of the children of Ammon, by which they reproached my people and magnified themselves over their borders.

9 Therefore, as I live," says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, "Moab shall become like Sodom, and the children of Ammon like Gomorrah: a dryness of thorns, heaps of salt, and a desert forever. The remnant of my people shall plunder them, and the residue of my nation shall possess them.

10 This shall come upon them for their pride, because they blasphemed and magnified themselves against the people of the Lord of hosts."

11 The Lord shall be dreadful over them, and he shall make all the gods of the earth waste away; and men shall worship him, each from his own place, all the islands of the nations.

12 "But you also, O Ethiopians, shall be slain by my sword."

13 And he shall stretch out his hand over the north and destroy Assur; and he shall make the beautiful city a wilderness, trackless and like a desert.

14 And flocks shall lie down in its midst, all the beasts of the nations. The pelican and the hedgehog shall dwell upon its thresholds; the voice of one singing shall be in the window, and the raven upon the lintel, because I shall make its strength waste away.

15 This is the glorious city that dwelt in confidence, which said in her heart, "I am, and besides me there is no other." How has she become a desert, a lair of beasts? Everyone who passes through her shall hiss and wave his hand.

CHAPTER 3

1 Woe to the provoking and redeemed city, the dove!

2 She did not hear the voice, nor did she receive discipline; she did not trust in the Lord, nor did she draw near to her God.

3 Her princes in her midst are like roaring lions; her judges are evening wolves that left nothing for the morning.

4 Her prophets are senseless, faithless men; her priests have polluted the holy place and acted unjustly against the law.

5 The just Lord in her midst shall not do iniquity; morning after morning he shall bring his judgment to light, and it shall not be hidden. But the wicked one has not known confusion.

6 “I have destroyed nations, and their corners have been scattered. I have made their roads desolate so that no one passes through; their cities have been laid waste, with no man remaining and no inhabitant at all.

7 I said, ‘Nevertheless, you shall fear me; you shall receive discipline, and her habitation shall not perish because of all the things for which I visited her.’ Yet, rising at dawn, they corrupted all their thoughts.

8 Therefore wait for me,” says the Lord, “until the day of my resurrection in the future; for my judgment is to gather nations and collect kingdoms, and to pour out upon them my indignation, all the wrath of my fury. For in the fire of my jealousy the whole earth shall be devoured.

9 For then I shall restore to the peoples a chosen lip, so that they may all call upon the name of the Lord and serve him with one shoulder.

10 From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia, from there my suppliants, the children of my dispersed, shall bring me a gift.

11 On that day you shall not be confounded over all your inventions by which you transgressed against me; for then I shall remove from your midst those who boast in your pride, and you shall no longer continue to be exalted upon my holy mountain.

12 And I shall leave in your midst a poor and needy people, and they shall hope in the name of the Lord.

13 The remnant of Israel shall not do iniquity, nor speak falsehood; and a deceitful tongue shall not be found in their mouth. For they shall feed and lie down, and there shall be no one to terrify them.

14 Praise, O daughter of Sion; shout for joy, O Israel. Rejoice and exult with all your heart, O daughter of Jerusalem.

15 The Lord has taken away your judgment; he has turned aside your enemies. The Lord, the King of Israel, is in your midst; you shall fear evil no more.

16 On that day it shall be said to Jerusalem, “Do not fear,” and to Sion, “Let not your hands grow weak.”

17 The Lord your God is mighty in your midst; he himself shall save. He shall rejoice over you with gladness; he shall be silent in his love; he shall exult over you with praise.

18 I shall gather the triflers who had withdrawn from the law, because they were from you, so that you may no longer bear reproach over them.

19 Behold, at that time I shall kill all who afflicted you; and I shall save her who limps, and gather her who had been cast out. And I shall set them for praise and for a name in every land of their confusion,

20 at that time when I bring you in and at the time when I gather you. For I shall give you for a name and for praise among all the peoples of the earth, when I turn back your captivity before your eyes,” says the Lord.

BOOK THIRTY-SEVEN: HAGGAI

CHAPTER 1

1 In the second year of King Darius, in the sixth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord (YHWH) came by the hand of Haggai the prophet to Zorobabel, son of Salathiel, leader of Judah, and to Jesus, son of Josedec, the high priest, saying:

2 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “This people says, ‘The time for the house of the Lord to be built has not yet come.’”

3 And the word of the Lord came by the hand of Haggai the prophet, saying:

4 “Is it time for you to dwell in paneled houses while this house is desolate?

5 And now, thus says the Lord of hosts: Set your hearts upon your ways.

6 You have sown much and brought in little; you have eaten and have not been satisfied; you have drunk and have not been filled with drink; you have clothed yourselves and have not been warmed; and he who gathered wages put them into a bag full of holes.

7 Thus says the Lord of hosts: Set your hearts upon your ways.

8 Ascend the mountain, carry wood, and build the house; and it shall be acceptable to me, and I shall be glorified,” says the Lord.

9 “You looked for more, and behold, it became less; and you brought it into the house, and I blew it away. For what reason?” says the Lord of hosts. “Because my house is desolate, while each of you hastens to his own house.

10 Because of this, the heavens over you have been forbidden to give dew, and the earth has been forbidden to give its growth.

11 And I called drought upon the land and upon the mountains, upon the grain and upon the wine and upon the oil, upon whatever the soil brings forth, upon men and upon beasts, and upon every labor of the hands.”

12 And Zorobabel, son of Salathiel, and Jesus, son of Josedec, the high priest, and all the remnant of the people heard the voice of the Lord their God and the words of Haggai the prophet, just as the Lord their God had sent him to them; and the people feared before the face of the Lord.

13 And Haggai, the messenger of the Lord from among the messengers of the Lord, spoke to the people, saying, “‘I am with you,’ says the Lord.”

14 And the Lord stirred up the spirit of Zorobabel, son of Salathiel, leader of Judah, and the spirit of Jesus, son of Josedec, the high priest, and the spirit of the remnant of all the people; and they entered and did the work in the house of the Lord of hosts, their God.

CHAPTER 2

1 On the twenty-fourth day of the month, in the sixth month, in the second year of King Darius.

2 In the seventh month, on the twenty-first day of the month, the word of the Lord came by the hand of Haggai the prophet, saying:

3 “Speak to Zorobabel, son of Salathiel, leader of Judah, and to Jesus, son of Josedec, the high priest, and to the remnant of the people, saying:

4 ‘Who among you remains who saw this house in its first glory? And how do you see it now? Is it not as though it did not exist in your eyes?

5 And now take courage, Zorobabel,’ says the Lord, ‘and take courage, Jesus, son of Josedec, high priest; and take courage, all the people of the land,’ says the Lord of hosts, ‘and work—for I am with you,’ says the Lord of hosts.

6 ‘The word that I covenanted with you when you came out of the land of Egypt—and my Spirit shall be in your midst. Do not fear.

7 For thus says the Lord of hosts: Yet one little while, and I shall shake heaven and earth, the sea and the dry land.

8 And I shall shake all nations, and the Desired One of all nations shall come; and I shall fill this house with glory,’ says the Lord of hosts.

9 ‘The silver is mine, and the gold is mine,’ says the Lord of hosts.

10 ‘The glory of this latter house shall be greater than that of the first,’ says the Lord of hosts, ‘and in this place I shall give peace,’ says the Lord of hosts.”

11 On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, in the second year of King Darius, the word of the Lord came to Haggai the prophet, saying:

12 “Thus says the Lord of hosts: Ask the priests concerning the law, saying:

13 If a man carries sanctified flesh in the edge of his garment, and its edge touches bread or cooked food or wine or oil or any food, shall it be sanctified?” And the priests answered and said, “No.”

14 And Haggai said, “If one polluted in soul touches any of these things, shall it be contaminated?” And the priests answered and said, “It shall be contaminated.”

15 And Haggai answered and said: “‘So is this people, and so is this nation before my face,’ says the Lord, ‘and so is every work of their hands; and all that they have offered there shall be contaminated.

16 And now set your hearts from this day and upward, before stone was laid upon stone in the temple of the Lord.

17 When you approached a heap of twenty measures and it became ten, and entered the winepress to press fifty jars and they became twenty,

18 I struck you with a burning wind and mildew and hail—all the works of your hands; and there was no one among you who returned to me,’ says the Lord.

19 ‘Set your hearts from this day and into the future, from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month—from the day when the foundations of the Lord’s temple were laid, set it upon your heart.

20 Is the seed already in the shoot? And still the vine and the fig tree and the pomegranate and the olive tree have not blossomed. From this day I shall bless.’”

21 And the word of the Lord came a second time to Haggai on the twenty-fourth day of the month, saying:

22 “Speak to Zorobabel, leader of Judah, saying: ‘I shall shake heaven and earth together.

23 And I shall overthrow the throne of kingdoms and crush the strength of the kingdom of the nations; and I shall overthrow chariot and rider, and horses and their riders shall fall, each man by the sword of his brother.

24 On that day,’ says the Lord of hosts, ‘I shall take you, Zorobabel, son of Salathiel, my servant,’ says the Lord, ‘and I shall set you like a signet, because I have chosen you,’ says the Lord of hosts.”

BOOK THIRTY-EIGHT: ZECHARIAH

CHAPTER 1

1 In the eighth month, in the second year of King Darius, the word of the Lord (YHWH) came to Zechariah, son of Barachias, son of Addo, the prophet, saying:

2 “The Lord was angry with your fathers—with anger.

3 And you shall say to them: Thus says the Lord of hosts: ‘Turn to me,’ says the Lord of hosts, ‘and I shall turn to you,’ says the Lord of hosts.

4 Do not be like your fathers, to whom the former prophets cried out, saying, ‘Thus says the Lord of hosts: Turn from your evil ways and from your most wicked thoughts.’ But they did not hear nor attend to me, says the Lord.

5 Your fathers—where are they? And shall the prophets live forever?

6 Nevertheless, did not my words and my statutes, which I commanded my servants the prophets, overtake your fathers? And they turned and said, ‘Just as the Lord of hosts devised to do to us according to our ways and according to our inventions, so he has done to us.’”

7 On the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month, which is Sabath, in the second year of Darius, the word of the Lord came to Zechariah, son of Barachias, son of Addo, the prophet, saying:

8 I saw by night, and behold, a man riding upon a red horse; and he stood among the myrtle trees that were in the deep, and behind him were red, speckled, and white horses.

9 And I said, “What are these, my lord?” And the angel who spoke in me said to me, “I shall show you what these are.”

10 And the man who stood among the myrtle trees answered and said, “These are those whom the Lord has sent to walk throughout the earth.”

11 And they answered the angel of the Lord, who stood among the myrtle trees, and said, “We have walked throughout the earth, and behold, all the earth is inhabited and at rest.”

12 And the angel of the Lord answered and said, “O Lord of hosts, how long shall you not have mercy upon Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, with which you have been angry? This is now the seventieth year.”

13 And the Lord answered the angel who spoke in me with good words, consoling words.

14 And the angel who spoke in me said to me, “Cry out, saying: Thus says the Lord of hosts: ‘I have been jealous for Jerusalem and Sion with a great jealousy,

15 and with great anger I am angry against the wealthy nations; for I was angry a little, but they helped toward evil.

16 Therefore thus says the Lord: I shall return to Jerusalem with mercies, and my house shall be built in it,’ says the Lord of hosts, ‘and a measuring line shall be stretched over Jerusalem.’

17 Cry out again, saying: Thus says the Lord of hosts: ‘My cities shall yet overflow with good things, and the Lord shall yet console Sion and shall yet choose Jerusalem.’”

18 And I lifted up my eyes and saw, and behold, four horns.

19 And I said to the angel who spoke in me, “What are these?” And he said to me, “These are the horns that scattered Judah and Israel and Jerusalem.”

20 And the Lord showed me four craftsmen.

21 And I said, “What have these come to do?” And he spoke, saying, “These are the horns that scattered Judah, man by man, so that none of them lifted up his head. And these have come to terrify them, to cast down the horns of the nations that lifted up the horn over the land of Judah to scatter it.”

CHAPTER 2

1 And I lifted up my eyes and saw, and behold, a man, and in his hand was a measuring line.

2 And I said, “Where are you going?” And he said to me, “To measure Jerusalem and see how great its width is and how great its length.”

3 And behold, the angel who spoke in me was going out, and another angel was going out to meet him.

4 And he said to him, “Run, speak to this young man, saying: Jerusalem shall be inhabited without a wall because of the multitude of men and beasts in its midst.

5 And I shall be to her,” says the Lord, “a wall of fire all around, and I shall be in glory in her midst.”

6 “O, O, flee from the land of the north,” says the Lord, “because I have scattered you into the four winds of heaven,” says the Lord.

7 “O Sion, flee, you who dwell with the daughter of Babylon!

8 For thus says the Lord of hosts: After glory he sent me to the nations that despoiled you; for he who touches you touches the pupil of my eye.

9 For behold, I lift my hand over them, and they shall become plunder for those who served them; and you shall know that the Lord of hosts has sent me.

10 Praise and rejoice, O daughter of Sion, because behold, I come, and I shall dwell in your midst,” says the Lord.

11 “And many nations shall be joined to the Lord on that day, and they shall become my people; and I shall dwell in your midst, and you shall know that the Lord of hosts has sent me to you.

12 And the Lord shall possess Judah as his portion in the sanctified land, and he shall yet choose Jerusalem.

13 Let all flesh be silent before the face of the Lord, because he has risen from his holy habitation.”

CHAPTER 3

1 And the Lord showed me Jesus the high priest, standing before the angel of the Lord; and Satan stood at his right hand to oppose him.

2 And the Lord said to Satan, “May the Lord rebuke you, Satan! And may the Lord who chose Jerusalem rebuke you! Is this not a brand plucked from the fire?”

3 And Jesus was clothed in filthy garments and stood before the face of the angel.

4 And he answered and spoke to those who stood before him, saying, “Remove the filthy garments from him.” And he said to him, “Behold, I have removed your iniquity from you, and I have clothed you in garments of change.”

5 And he said, “Place a clean turban upon his head.” And they placed a clean turban upon his head and clothed him with garments; and the angel of the Lord stood there.

6 And the angel of the Lord testified to Jesus, saying:

7 “Thus says the Lord of hosts: If you walk in my ways and keep my charge, you also shall judge my house and keep my courts; and I shall give you those who walk among these who now stand here.

8 Hear, O Jesus the high priest, you and your friends who dwell before you, because they are men of portent. For behold, I shall bring my servant, the East.

9 For behold, the stone that I have set before Jesus: upon one stone are seven eyes. Behold, I shall engrave its engraving,” says the Lord of hosts, “and I shall remove the iniquity of that land in one day.

10 On that day,” says the Lord of hosts, “each man shall call his friend beneath the vine and beneath the fig tree.”

CHAPTER 4

1 And the angel who spoke in me returned and awakened me, like a man awakened from his sleep.

2 And he said to me, “What do you see?” And I said, “I saw, and behold, a lampstand entirely of gold, and its lamp upon its top, and its seven lamps upon it, and seven funnels for the lamps that were upon its top.

3 And two olive trees above it, one at the right of the lamp and one at its left.”

4 And I answered and spoke to the angel who spoke in me, saying, “What are these, my lord?”

5 And the angel who spoke in me answered and said to me, “Do you not know what these are?” And I said, “No, my lord.”

6 And he answered and spoke to me, saying, “This is the word of the Lord to Zorobabel, saying: ‘Not by army nor by strength, but by my Spirit,’ says the Lord of hosts.

7 What are you, O great mountain, before Zorobabel? You shall become a plain. And he shall bring forth the chief stone, and he shall make its grace equal to its grace.”

8 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

9 “The hands of Zorobabel have founded this house, and his hands shall complete it; and you shall know that the Lord of hosts has sent me to you.

10 For who has despised the small days? They shall rejoice and see the tin stone in the hand of Zorobabel. These seven are the eyes of the Lord, which run throughout the whole earth.”

11 And I answered and said to him, “What are these two olive trees at the right of the lampstand and at its left?”

12 And I answered a second time and said to him, “What are the two olive branches that are beside the two golden beaks, in which are the golden pouring vessels?”

13 And he spoke to me, saying, “Do you not know what these are?” And I said, “No, my lord.”

14 And he said, “These are the two sons of oil who stand before the Ruler of the whole earth.”

CHAPTER 5

1 And I turned and lifted up my eyes and saw, and behold, a flying scroll.

2 And he said to me, “What do you see?” And I said, “I see a flying scroll; its length is twenty cubits, and its width ten cubits.”

3 And he said to me, “This is the curse that goes forth over the face of the whole earth; for every thief, as it is written there, shall be judged, and everyone who swears shall likewise be judged by it.

4 I shall bring it forth,” says the Lord of hosts, “and it shall come to the house of the thief and to the house of him who swears falsely in my name; and it shall remain in the midst of his house and consume it, both its timber and its stones.”

5 And the angel who spoke in me went out and said to me, “Lift up your eyes and see what this is that goes forth.”

6 And I said, “What is it?” And he said, “This is an amphora going forth.” And he said, “This is their eye in the whole earth.”

7 And behold, a talent of lead was being carried, and behold, one woman sitting in the midst of the amphora.

8 And he said, “This is ungodliness.” And he cast her into the midst of the amphora and cast the mass of lead upon its mouth.

9 And I lifted up my eyes and saw, and behold, two women going forth; and there was spirit in their wings, and they had wings like the wings of a kite, and they lifted the amphora between earth and heaven.

10 And I said to the angel who spoke in me, “Where are these carrying the amphora?”

11 And he said to me, “That a house may be built for it in the land of Sennaar, and that it may be established and set there upon its base.”

CHAPTER 6

1 And I turned and lifted up my eyes and saw, and behold, four chariots going forth from between two mountains; and the mountains were mountains of bronze.

2 In the first chariot were red horses, and in the second chariot black horses,

3 and in the third chariot white horses, and in the fourth chariot speckled and strong horses.

4 And I answered and said to the angel who spoke in me, “What are these, my lord?”

5 And the angel answered and said to me, “These are the four winds of heaven, which go forth to stand before the Ruler of the whole earth.

6 The one in which were the black horses went forth into the land of the north; and the white went forth after them, and the speckled went forth toward the land of the south.

7 But those that were strongest went forth and sought to go and run throughout the whole earth.” And he said, “Go, walk throughout the earth.” And they walked throughout the earth.

8 And he called me and spoke to me, saying, “Behold, those who go forth into the land of the north have made my Spirit rest in the land of the north.”

9 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

10 “Take from the migration—from Holdai and from Tobias and from Idaias—and you shall come on that day and enter the house of Josias, son of Zephaniah, who have come from Babylon.

11 And you shall take gold and silver and make crowns, and you shall place them upon the head of Jesus, son of Josedec, the high priest.

12 And you shall speak to him, saying: Thus says the Lord of hosts: ‘Behold the man whose name is the East; and beneath him he shall spring up, and he shall build a temple to the Lord.

13 And he himself shall build a temple to the Lord; and he himself shall bear glory, and he shall sit and rule upon his throne. And he shall be a priest upon his throne, and the counsel of peace shall be between those two.’

14 And the crowns shall be for Helem and Tobias and Idaias and Hem, son of Zephaniah, as a memorial in the temple of the Lord.

15 And those who are far away shall come and build in the temple of the Lord; and you shall know that the Lord of hosts has sent me to you. And this shall be, if in hearing you shall hear the voice of the Lord your God.”

CHAPTER 7

1 And it came to pass in the fourth year of King Darius that the word of the Lord came to Zechariah on the fourth day of the ninth month, which is Casleu.

2 And Sarasar and Rogommelech and the men who were with him sent to the house of God to entreat the face of the Lord,

3 that they might speak to the priests of the house of the Lord of hosts and to the prophets, saying, “Must I weep in the fifth month, or must I sanctify myself, as I have now done for many years?”

4 And the word of the Lord of hosts came to me, saying:

5 “Speak to all the people of the land and to the priests, saying: When you fasted and mourned in the fifth and seventh months through these seventy years, did you fast a fast for me?

6 And when you ate and drank, did you not eat for yourselves and drink for yourselves?

7 Are these not the words that the Lord spoke by the hand of the former prophets, when Jerusalem was still inhabited and prosperous, she and the cities around her, and when the south and the plains were inhabited?”

8 And the word of the Lord came to Zechariah, saying:

9 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “Judge true judgment, and practice mercy and acts of compassion, each one with his brother.

10 And do not falsely accuse the widow and the orphan, the stranger and the poor; and let no man devise evil against his brother in his heart.”

11 But they refused to attend; and they turned away a withdrawing shoulder and made their ears heavy so that they would not hear.

12 And they made their heart like adamant, so that they would not hear the law and the words that the Lord of hosts sent by his Spirit through the hand of the former prophets; and great indignation came from the Lord of hosts.

13 “And it came to pass that just as he spoke and they did not hear, so they shall cry and I shall not hear,” says the Lord of hosts.

14 “And I scattered them throughout all kingdoms that they did not know; and the land was desolated behind them so that no one passed through or returned; and they made the desirable land into a desert.”

CHAPTER 8

1 And the word of the Lord of hosts came, saying:

2 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “I have been jealous for Sion with a great jealousy, and with great indignation I have been jealous for her.”

3 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “I have returned to Sion and shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem; and Jerusalem shall be called the city of truth, and the mountain of the Lord of hosts the sanctified mountain.”

4 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “Old men and old women shall yet dwell in the streets of Jerusalem, each man with his staff in his hand because of the multitude of his days.

5 And the streets of the city shall be filled with boys and girls playing in its streets.”

6 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “If it shall seem difficult in the eyes of the remnant of this people in those days, shall it therefore be difficult in my eyes?” says the Lord of hosts.

7 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “Behold, I shall save my people from the land of the east and from the land of the setting sun.

8 And I shall bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem; and they shall be my people, and I shall be their God, in truth and in justice.”

9 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “Let your hands be strengthened, you who in these days hear these words from the mouth of the prophets, on the day when the house of the Lord of hosts was founded, that the temple might be built.

10 For before those days there was no wage for men, nor was there a wage for beasts; and there was no peace for the one entering or the one going out because of tribulation. And I sent every man against his neighbor.

11 But now I shall not deal with the remnant of this people as in the former days,” says the Lord of hosts.

12 “Rather, there shall be a seed of peace: the vine shall give its fruit, the earth shall give its growth, and the heavens shall give their dew; and I shall cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things.

13 And it shall be that just as you were a curse among the nations, O house of Judah and house of Israel, so I shall save you, and you shall be a blessing. Do not fear; let your hands be strengthened.”

14 For thus says the Lord of hosts: “Just as I devised to afflict you when your fathers provoked me to anger,” says the Lord,

15 “and I did not have mercy, so, having turned, I have devised in these days to do good to the house of Judah and Jerusalem. Do not fear.

16 These, then, are the words that you shall do: Speak truth, each one with his neighbor; judge truth and the judgment of peace in your gates.

17 And let none of you devise evil against his friend in your hearts, nor love a false oath; for all these are things that I hate,” says the Lord.

18 And the word of the Lord of hosts came to me, saying:

19 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “The fast of the fourth month and the fast of the fifth and the fast of the seventh and the fast of the tenth shall become joy and gladness and glorious solemnities for the house of Judah. Only love truth and peace.”

20 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “Peoples shall yet come and dwell in many cities,

21 and the inhabitants shall go, one to another, saying, ‘Let us go and entreat the face of the Lord and seek the Lord of hosts; I also shall go.’

22 And many peoples and strong nations shall come to seek the Lord of hosts in Jerusalem and to entreat the face of the Lord.”

23 Thus says the Lord of hosts: “In those days, ten men from every language of the nations shall take hold; and they shall take hold of the fringe of a Jewish man, saying, ‘We shall go with you, for we have heard that God is with you.’”

CHAPTER 9

1 The burden of the word of the Lord in the land of Hadrach and of Damascus, his resting place, because the eye of man and of all the tribes of Israel belongs to the Lord.

2 Emath also is within its borders, and Tyre and Sidon; for they have assumed great wisdom for themselves.

3 And Tyre built her fortress and heaped up silver like soil and gold like the mud of the streets.

4 Behold, the Lord shall possess her; and he shall strike her strength in the sea, and she shall be devoured by fire.

5 Ascalon shall see and fear, and Gaza shall grieve exceedingly, and Accaron, because her hope has been confounded. And the king shall perish from Gaza, and Ascalon shall not be inhabited.

6 And a divider shall sit in Azotus, and I shall destroy the pride of the Philistines.

7 And I shall remove his blood from his mouth and his abominations from between his teeth; and he also shall be left for our God and shall be like a leader in Judah, and Accaron like the Jebusite.

8 And I shall surround my house with those who fight for me, going and returning; and the oppressor shall no longer pass over them, because now I have seen with my eyes.

9 Exult greatly, O daughter of Sion; shout for joy, O daughter of Jerusalem. Behold, your king shall come to you, just and Savior. He is poor and riding upon a she-ass and upon a colt, the son of a she-ass.

10 And I shall destroy the chariot from Ephraim and the horse from Jerusalem, and the bow of war shall be broken. And he shall speak peace to the nations, and his dominion shall be from sea to sea and from the rivers even to the ends of the earth.

11 You also, by the blood of your covenant, have sent forth your prisoners from the pit in which there is no water.

12 Turn to the fortress, O prisoners of hope; today also I announce that I shall render double to you.

13 For I have stretched Judah for myself like a bow; I have filled Ephraim. And I shall raise your sons, O Sion, against your sons, O Greece, and I shall make you like the sword of the mighty.

14 And the Lord God shall be seen over them, and his weapon shall go forth like lightning; and the Lord God shall sound the trumpet and shall go in the whirlwind of the south.

15 The Lord of hosts shall protect them; and they shall devour and subdue with slingstones. And as they drink they shall become drunk as with wine, and they shall be filled like bowls and like the horns of the altar.

16 And the Lord their God shall save them on that day as the flock of his people, because holy stones shall be lifted up over his land.

17 For what is his good, and what is his beauty, except the grain of the chosen and wine bringing forth virgins?

CHAPTER 10

1 Ask the Lord for rain in the time of the latter rain, and the Lord shall make snows; and he shall give them showers of rain, to each one grass in the field.

2 For the idols have spoken what is useless, and the diviners have seen falsehood; and dreamers have spoken in vain and comforted without purpose. Therefore they were led away like a flock; they shall be afflicted because they have no shepherd.

3 “My fury has been angry against the shepherds, and I shall visit the he-goats; for the Lord of hosts has visited his flock, the house of Judah, and has made them like the horse of his glory in battle.

4 From him is the cornerstone, from him the peg, from him the bow of battle; from him every oppressor shall go forth together.

5 And they shall be like mighty men treading the mud of the roads in battle; and they shall fight because the Lord is with them, and the riders of horses shall be confounded.

6 And I shall strengthen the house of Judah and save the house of Joseph; and I shall turn them back because I shall have mercy upon them. And they shall be as they were when I had not cast them away, for I am the Lord their God, and I shall hear them.

7 And they shall be like the mighty men of Ephraim, and their heart shall rejoice as from wine; and their children shall see and rejoice, and their heart shall exult in the Lord.

8 I shall whistle for them and gather them, because I have redeemed them; and I shall multiply them as they were multiplied before.

9 And I shall sow them among the peoples, and from afar they shall remember me; and they shall live with their children and return.

10 And I shall bring them back from the land of Egypt and gather them from among the Assyrians; and I shall lead them to the land of Galaad and Lebanon, and no place shall be found for them.

11 And he shall pass through the strait of the sea and strike the waves in the sea, and all the depths of the river shall be confounded; and the pride of Assur shall be humbled, and the scepter of Egypt shall depart.

12 I shall strengthen them in the Lord, and they shall walk in his name,” says the Lord.

CHAPTER 11

1 Open your gates, O Lebanon, and let fire devour your cedars.

2 Wail, O fir tree, because the cedar has fallen, because the magnificent have been devastated. Wail, O oaks of Basan, because the fortified forest has been cut down.

3 The sound of the wailing of shepherds, because their magnificence has been devastated; the sound of the roaring of lions, because the pride of the Jordan has been devastated.

4 Thus says the Lord my God: “Feed the flock of slaughter,

5 which those who possessed them killed and did not grieve, and sold them, saying, ‘Blessed be the Lord! We have become rich.’ And their shepherds did not spare them.

6 And I shall no longer spare those who dwell in the land,” says the Lord. “Behold, I shall deliver the men, each one into the hand of his neighbor and into the hand of his king; and they shall cut down the land, and I shall not rescue them from their hand.”

7 And I shall feed the flock of slaughter because of this, O poor of the flock. And I took for myself two staffs; one I called Beauty, and the other I called Cord; and I fed the flock.

8 And I cut off three shepherds in one month; and my soul was contracted toward them, for their soul also varied toward me.

9 And I said, “I shall not feed you. What dies, let it die; and what is cut off, let it be cut off; and let those who remain devour, each one the flesh of his neighbor.”

10 And I took my staff that was called Beauty and cut it apart, that I might make void my covenant that I had struck with all the peoples.

11 And it was made void on that day; and thus the poor of the flock who kept watch for me knew that it was the word of the Lord.

12 And I said to them, “If it is good in your eyes, bring my wages; and if not, be still.” And they weighed my wages: thirty pieces of silver.

13 And the Lord said to me, “Cast it to the statuary—the splendid price at which I was valued by them.” And I took the thirty pieces of silver and cast them into the house of the Lord, to the statuary.

14 And I cut apart my second staff, which was called Cord, that I might dissolve the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

15 And the Lord said to me, “Take for yourself yet again the implements of a foolish shepherd.

16 For behold, I shall raise up a shepherd in the land who shall not visit what is forsaken, nor seek what is scattered, nor heal what is broken, nor nourish what stands; but he shall eat the flesh of the fat and tear apart their hooves.

17 O shepherd and idol who forsakes the flock! The sword shall be upon his arm and upon his right eye. His arm shall wither with dryness, and his right eye shall be darkened with darkness.”

CHAPTER 12

1 The burden of the word of the Lord concerning Israel. The Lord says—he who stretches out heaven and founds the earth and forms the spirit of man within him:

2 “Behold, I shall make Jerusalem a lintel of drunkenness to all the peoples around; but Judah also shall be in the siege against Jerusalem.

3 And it shall be on that day that I shall make Jerusalem a stone of burden for all peoples. All who lift it shall be torn with cutting, and all the kingdoms of the earth shall be gathered against it.

4 On that day,” says the Lord, “I shall strike every horse with astonishment and its rider with madness; and I shall open my eyes over the house of Judah, and strike every horse of the peoples with blindness.

5 And the leaders of Judah shall say in their heart, ‘Let the inhabitants of Jerusalem be strengthened for me in the Lord of hosts, their God.’

6 On that day I shall make the leaders of Judah like a furnace of fire among wood and like a torch of fire among hay; and they shall devour all the peoples around, to the right and to the left. And Jerusalem shall again be inhabited in her own place, in Jerusalem.

7 And the Lord shall save the tents of Judah as at the beginning, so that the house of David may not boast magnificently, nor the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem against Judah.

8 On that day the Lord shall protect the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and he who stumbles among them on that day shall be like David, and the house of David like God, like the angel of the Lord before them.

9 And it shall be on that day: I shall seek to crush all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

10 And I shall pour out upon the house of David and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit of grace and prayers; and they shall look upon me whom they pierced, and they shall mourn for him with mourning as for an only-begotten son, and shall grieve over him as one is accustomed to grieve at the death of a firstborn.

11 On that day there shall be great mourning in Jerusalem, like the mourning of Adadremmon in the field of Mageddon.

12 And the land shall mourn, family by family separately: the families of the house of David separately, and their women separately;

13 the families of the house of Nathan separately, and their women separately; the families of the house of Levi separately, and their women separately; the families of Semei separately, and their women separately;

14 all the remaining families, family by family separately, and their women separately.

CHAPTER 13

1 On that day there shall be a fountain opened for the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for the washing of the sinner and the menstruant.

2 “And it shall be on that day,” says the Lord of hosts, “that I shall destroy the names of idols from the land, and they shall be remembered no more; and I shall remove the false prophets and the unclean spirit from the land.

3 And it shall be that when anyone prophesies any longer, his father and his mother who begot him shall say to him, ‘You shall not live, because you have spoken a lie in the name of the Lord.’ And his father and his mother, his parents, shall pierce him when he prophesies.

4 And it shall be on that day that the prophets shall be confounded, each one by his vision when he prophesies; nor shall they be covered with a sackcloth cloak in order to lie.

5 But he shall say, ‘I am not a prophet; I am a man who works the soil, because Adam has been my example from my youth.’

6 And it shall be said to him, ‘What are these wounds in the midst of your hands?’ And he shall say, ‘With these I was wounded in the house of those who loved me.’

7 Sword, awake against my shepherd and against the man who cleaves to me,” says the Lord of hosts. “Strike the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered; and I shall turn my hand toward the little ones.

8 And there shall be in all the land,” says the Lord, “two parts in it shall be scattered and fail, and the third part shall be left in it.

9 And I shall lead the third part through fire and burn them as silver is burned, and test them as gold is tested. He shall call upon my name, and I shall hear him. I shall say, ‘You are my people,’ and he shall say, ‘The Lord is my God.’”

CHAPTER 14

1 Behold, the days of the Lord shall come, and your spoils shall be divided in your midst.

2 And I shall gather all nations to Jerusalem for battle; and the city shall be captured, the houses shall be devastated, and the women shall be violated. And half the city shall go forth into captivity, but the remnant of the people shall not be taken away from the city.

3 And the Lord shall go forth and fight against those nations, as he fought on the day of battle.

4 And his feet shall stand on that day upon the Mount of Olives, which is opposite Jerusalem toward the east; and the Mount of Olives shall be split through its middle toward the east and toward the west, with an exceedingly great rupture. And half the mountain shall be separated toward the north, and half of it toward the south.

5 And you shall flee to the valley of those mountains, because the valley of the mountains shall be joined even to the nearest place. And you shall flee as you fled before the earthquake in the days of Ozias king of Judah; and the Lord my God shall come, and all the saints with him.

6 And it shall be on that day: there shall be no light, but cold and frost.

7 And there shall be one day that is known to the Lord, neither day nor night; and at evening time there shall be light.

8 And it shall be on that day that living waters shall go forth from Jerusalem, half of them toward the eastern sea and half of them toward the last sea; they shall be in summer and in winter.

9 And the Lord shall be King over the whole earth. On that day the Lord shall be one, and his name shall be one.

10 And all the land shall return even to the desert, from the hill of Remmon to the south of Jerusalem; and she shall be exalted and shall dwell in her place, from the Gate of Benjamin even to the place of the former gate and even to the Gate of the Corners, and from the tower of Hananeel even to the king’s winepresses.

11 And they shall dwell in it, and there shall be no curse any longer; but Jerusalem shall sit secure.

12 And this shall be the plague with which the Lord shall strike all the nations that fought against Jerusalem: the flesh of each one shall waste away while he stands upon his feet, and his eyes shall waste away in their sockets, and their tongue shall waste away in their mouth.

13 On that day there shall be a great tumult from the Lord among them; and a man shall seize the hand of his neighbor, and his hand shall be joined upon the hand of his neighbor.

14 But Judah also shall fight against Jerusalem; and the riches of all the nations around shall be gathered—gold and silver and exceedingly many garments.

15 And such shall be the ruin of the horse and mule and camel and donkey and all the beasts that shall be in those camps, like this ruin.

16 And all who remain of all the nations that came against Jerusalem shall ascend from year to year to adore the King, the Lord of hosts, and to celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles.

17 And it shall be that upon anyone from the families of the earth who does not ascend to Jerusalem to adore the King, the Lord of hosts, there shall be no rain.

18 But if the family of Egypt does not ascend and does not come, neither shall it be upon them; instead there shall be the ruin with which the Lord shall strike all nations that do not ascend to celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles.

19 This shall be the sin of Egypt, and this the sin of all nations that do not ascend to celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles.

20 On that day, what is upon the horse’s bridle shall be holy to the Lord; and the kettles in the house of the Lord shall be like bowls before the altar.

21 And every kettle in Jerusalem and Judah shall be sanctified to the Lord of hosts; and all who sacrifice shall come and take from them and cook in them. And there shall no longer be a merchant in the house of the Lord of hosts on that day.

BOOK THIRTY-NINE: MALACHI

CHAPTER 1

1 The burden of the word of the Lord (YHWH) to Israel by the hand of Malachi.

2 "I have loved you," says the Lord. And you said, "In what way have you loved us?" "Was not Esau Jacob's brother?" says the Lord. "And I loved Jacob,

3 but Esau I hated; and I made his mountains a wilderness and his inheritance for the dragons of the desert.

4 But if Idumea says, 'We have been destroyed, but returning, we shall build what has been destroyed,' thus says the Lord of hosts: 'They shall build, and I shall destroy; and they shall be called the borders of ungodliness and the people with whom the Lord is angry forever.'

5 And your eyes shall see, and you shall say, 'May the Lord be magnified beyond the border of Israel.'

6 A son honors his father, and a servant his master. If, then, I am Father, where is my honor? And if I am Lord, where is my fear?" says the Lord of hosts. "To you, O priests, who despise my name, and you have said, 'In what way have we despised your name?'

7 You offer polluted bread upon my altar, and you say, 'In what way have we polluted you?' In that you say, 'The table of the Lord is despised.'

8 If you offer the blind for sacrifice, is it not evil? And if you offer the lame and sick, is it not evil? Offer it to your leader, if it might please him or if he might receive your face," says the Lord of hosts.

9 "And now entreat the face of God, that he may have mercy upon you—for this has been done by your hand—if somehow he may receive your faces," says the Lord of hosts.

10 "Who is there among you who would close the doors and kindle my altar without payment? I have no pleasure in you," says the Lord of hosts, "and I shall not receive a gift from your hand.

11 For from the rising of the sun even to its setting, my name is great among the nations; and in every place sacrifice is offered, and a pure offering is offered to my name, because my name is great among the nations," says the Lord of hosts.

12 "But you have polluted it in that you say, 'The table of the Lord is contaminated, and what is placed upon it is contemptible, together with the fire that devours it.'

13 And you have said, 'Behold, it is from labor,' and you have blown it away," says the Lord of hosts. "And you brought what was taken by plunder, and the lame and sick, and you brought it as a gift. Shall I receive it from your hand?" says the Lord.

14 "Cursed is the deceitful man who has a male in his flock and, making a vow, sacrifices what is weak to the Lord; for I am a great King," says the Lord of hosts, "and my name is dreadful among the nations."

CHAPTER 2

1 And now, O priests, this command is for you.

2 “If you refuse to hear and refuse to set it upon your heart, to give glory to my name,” says the Lord of hosts, “I shall send poverty upon you and curse your blessings; and I shall curse them, because you have not set it upon your heart.

3 Behold, I shall cast the arm to you and scatter upon your face the dung of your solemnities, and it shall take you away with it.

4 And you shall know that I sent this command to you, that my pact might be with Levi,” says the Lord of hosts.

5 “My pact was with him, of life and peace; and I gave him fear, and he feared me and trembled before the face of my name.

6 The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found upon his lips; he walked with me in peace and equity and turned many away from iniquity.

7 For the lips of the priest shall keep knowledge, and they shall seek the law from his mouth, because he is the angel of the Lord of hosts.

8 But you have withdrawn from the way and caused many to stumble in the law; you have made void the pact of Levi,” says the Lord of hosts.

9 “Because of this, I also have made you contemptible and low before all peoples, just as you have not kept my ways and have accepted a face in the law.

10 Do we not all have one Father? Has not one God created us? Why, then, does each one of us despise his brother, violating the pact of our fathers?

11 Judah has transgressed, and an abomination has been committed in Israel and in Jerusalem, because Judah has contaminated the sanctification of the Lord, which he loved, and has taken the daughter of a foreign god.

12 The Lord shall destroy the man who has done this, master and disciple, from the tabernacles of Jacob, and him who offers a gift to the Lord of hosts.

13 And this again you have done: you covered the altar of the Lord with tears, with weeping and bellowing, so that I no longer look upon the sacrifice nor receive anything appeasing from your hand.

14 And you have said, “For what reason?” Because the Lord has testified between you and the wife of your puberty, whom you have despised; yet she is your partner and the wife of your covenant.

15 Did not one make them, and the residue of his Spirit is his? And what does the one seek except the seed of God? Therefore guard your spirit, and do not despise the wife of your youth.

16 “When you have hated her, put her away,” says the Lord God of Israel. “But iniquity shall cover his garment,” says the Lord of hosts. “Guard your spirit, and do not despise.”

17 You have made the Lord labor with your words, and you have said, “In what way have we made him labor?” In that you say, “Everyone who does evil is good in the sight of the Lord, and such people please him”; or certainly, “Where is the God of judgment?”

CHAPTER 3

1 “Behold, I send my angel, and he shall prepare the way before my face. And immediately the Ruler whom you seek shall come to his temple, and the angel of the covenant whom you desire. Behold, he comes,” says the Lord of hosts.

2 And who shall be able to consider the day of his coming, and who shall stand to see him? For he is like a refining fire and like the herb of fullers.

3 And he shall sit, refining and purifying silver; and he shall purify the sons of Levi and filter them like gold and like silver, and they shall offer sacrifices to the Lord in justice.

4 And the sacrifice of Judah and Jerusalem shall please the Lord, as in the days of the age and as in ancient years.

5 “And I shall draw near to you in judgment, and I shall be a swift witness against sorcerers and adulterers and perjurers, and those who falsely accuse the wages of the hired worker, widows and orphans, and who oppress the stranger and have not feared me,” says the Lord of hosts.

6 “For I am the Lord, and I do not change; and you, O sons of Jacob, have not been consumed.

7 For from the days of your fathers you have withdrawn from my statutes and have not kept them. Return to me, and I shall return to you,” says the Lord of hosts. And you have said, “In what way shall we return?”

8 “Shall a man afflict God, because you pierce me?” And you have said, “In what way do we pierce you?” “In tithes and firstfruits.

9 And in poverty you are cursed, and you pierce me—the whole nation.

10 Bring every tithe into the storehouse, and let there be food in my house; and test me in this,” says the Lord, “whether I shall not open for you the floodgates of heaven and pour out blessing for you even to abundance.

11 And for your sake I shall rebuke the devourer, and it shall not corrupt the fruit of your land, nor shall the vine in the field be barren,” says the Lord of hosts.

12 “And all nations shall call you blessed, for you shall be a desirable land,” says the Lord of hosts.

13 “Your words have grown strong against me,” says the Lord.

14 And you have said, “What have we spoken against you?” You have said, “He who serves God is vain. And what profit is there because we have kept his commands and because we have walked sorrowful before the Lord of hosts?

15 Therefore now we call the arrogant blessed, since those who practice ungodliness have been built up; and they have tested God and have been saved.”

16 Then those who feared the Lord spoke, each one with his neighbor; and the Lord attended and heard, and a book of remembrance was written before him for those who fear the Lord and think upon his name.

17 “And they shall be mine,” says the Lord of hosts, “on the day that I act, as a special possession; and I shall spare them as a man spares his son who serves him.

18 And you shall turn and see what lies between the just and the wicked, and between him who serves God and him who does not serve him.

CHAPTER 4

1 For behold, the day shall come, kindled like a furnace; and all the proud and all who practice ungodliness shall be stubble. And the coming day shall set them aflame," says the Lord of hosts, "and it shall leave them neither root nor shoot.

2 But for you who fear my name, the sun of justice shall rise, and healing shall be in his wings; and you shall go forth and leap like calves from the herd.

3 And you shall tread down the wicked when they have become ashes beneath the soles of your feet, on the day that I act," says the Lord of hosts.

4 "Remember the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded him at Horeb for all Israel—the commands and judgments.

5 Behold, I shall send you Elias the prophet before the great and dreadful day of the Lord comes.

6 And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the sons and the heart of the sons to their fathers, lest perhaps I come and strike the land with anathema."

BOOK FORTY: MATTHEW

CHAPTER 1

1 The book of the generation of Jesus Christ, son of David, son of Abraham.

2 Abraham begot Isaac. And Isaac begot Jacob. And Jacob begot Judah and his brothers.

3 And Judah begot Perez and Zerah by Tamar. And Perez begot Hezron. And Hezron begot Ram.

4 And Ram begot Amminadab. And Amminadab begot Nahshon. And Nahshon begot Salmon.

5 And Salmon begot Boaz by Rahab. And Boaz begot Obed by Ruth. And Obed begot Jesse. And Jesse begot David the king.

6 And David the king begot Solomon by her who had been Uriah's.

7 And Solomon begot Rehoboam. And Rehoboam begot Abijah. And Abijah begot Asa.

8 And Asa begot Jehoshaphat. And Jehoshaphat begot Joram. And Joram begot Uzziah.

9 And Uzziah begot Jotham. And Jotham begot Ahaz. And Ahaz begot Hezekiah.

10 And Hezekiah begot Manasseh. And Manasseh begot Amon. And Amon begot Josiah.

11 And Josiah begot Jechoniah and his brothers at the migration to Babylon.

12 And after the migration to Babylon, Jechoniah begot Shealtiel. And Shealtiel begot Zerubbabel.

13 And Zerubbabel begot Abiud. And Abiud begot Eliakim. And Eliakim begot Azor.

14 And Azor begot Zadok. And Zadok begot Achim. And Achim begot Eliud.

15 And Eliud begot Eleazar. And Eleazar begot Matthan. And Matthan begot Jacob.

16 And Jacob begot Joseph, the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, who is called Christ.

17 Therefore, all the generations from Abraham to David were fourteen generations; and from David to the migration to Babylon, fourteen generations; and from the migration to Babylon to Christ, fourteen generations.

18 Now the generation of Christ was in this way: when his mother Mary had been betrothed to Joseph, before they came together, she was found having conceived in her womb from the Holy Spirit.

19 But Joseph her husband, being just and unwilling to expose her publicly, resolved to put her away secretly.

20 But as he considered these things, behold, an angel of the Lord (YHWH) appeared to him in a dream, saying, "Joseph, son of David, do not fear to receive Mary as your wife, for what has been born in her is from the Holy Spirit.

21 And she shall bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins."

22 Now all this was done that what was spoken by the Lord through the prophet might be fulfilled, saying:

23 "Behold, the virgin shall have a child in her womb and shall bear a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel," which is interpreted, "God with us."

24 And Joseph, rising from sleep, did as the angel of the Lord had commanded him and received his wife.

25 And he did not know her until she bore her firstborn son; and he called his name Jesus.

CHAPTER 2

1 Therefore, when Jesus had been born in Bethlehem of Judah in the days of King Herod, behold, Magi from the east came to Jerusalem,

2 saying, “Where is he who has been born King of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the east and have come to adore him.”

3 But when King Herod heard this, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

4 And assembling all the chief priests and scribes of the people, he inquired of them where Christ would be born.

5 And they said to him, “In Bethlehem of Judah, for thus it is written through the prophet:

6 ‘And you, Bethlehem, land of Judah, are by no means least among the leaders of Judah; for from you shall come forth a leader who shall rule my people Israel.’”

7 Then Herod, secretly summoning the Magi, learned diligently from them the time of the star that had appeared to them.

8 And sending them into Bethlehem, he said, “Go and inquire diligently concerning the child; and when you have found him, report to me, so that I also may come and adore him.”

9 And when they had heard the king, they departed. And behold, the star that they had seen in the east went before them, until, coming, it stood above where the child was.

10 And seeing the star, they rejoiced with exceedingly great joy.

11 And entering the house, they found the child with Mary his mother; and falling down, they adored him. And opening their treasures, they offered him gifts: gold, frankincense, and myrrh.

12 And having received an answer in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they went back to their own country by another way.

13 And when they had departed, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream, saying, “Rise, and take the child and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and remain there until I tell you. For it will come to pass that Herod will seek the child to destroy him.”

14 And rising, he took the child and his mother by night and withdrew into Egypt.

15 And he was there until the death of Herod, that what was spoken by the Lord through the prophet might be fulfilled, saying, “Out of Egypt I called my son.”

16 Then Herod, seeing that he had been deceived by the Magi, became exceedingly angry; and sending men, he killed all the boys who were in Bethlehem and in all its borders, from two years old and under, according to the time that he had diligently learned from the Magi.

17 Then was fulfilled what was spoken through Jeremiah the prophet, saying:

18 “A voice was heard in Ramah, weeping and great wailing: Rachel weeping for her sons, and she refused to be comforted, because they are not.”

19 But when Herod had died, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph in Egypt,

20 saying, “Rise, and take the child and his mother, and go into the land of Israel, for those who sought the soul of the child are dead.”

21 And rising, he took the child and his mother and came into the land of Israel.

22 But hearing that Archelaus reigned in Judea in place of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there; and having been warned in a dream, he withdrew into the regions of Galilee.

23 And coming, he dwelt in a city called Nazareth, that what was spoken through the prophets might be fulfilled: “He shall be called a Nazarene.”

CHAPTER 3

1 Now in those days John the Baptist came preaching in the desert of Judea,

2 and saying, “Do penance, for the kingdom of heaven has drawn near.”

3 For this is he who was spoken of through Isaiah the prophet, saying, “A voice of one crying in the desert: Prepare the way of the Lord; make his paths straight.”

4 Now John himself had a garment of camel hair and a leather belt around his waist, and his food was locusts and wild honey.

5 Then Jerusalem went out to him, and all Judea, and all the region around the Jordan;

6 and they were baptized by him in the Jordan, confessing their sins.

7 But seeing many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to his baptism, he said to them, “Brood of vipers, who showed you how to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Therefore, produce fruit worthy of penance.

9 And do not presume to say within yourselves, ‘We have Abraham as our father.’ For I tell you that God is able to raise up children of Abraham from these stones.

10 For already the axe has been laid to the root of the trees. Therefore, every tree that does not produce good fruit shall be cut down and cast into the fire.

11 I indeed baptize you in water unto penance; but he who is to come after me is mightier than I, whose sandals I am not worthy to carry. He shall baptize you in the Holy Spirit and fire.

12 His winnowing fan is in his hand, and he shall thoroughly cleanse his threshing floor; and he shall gather his wheat into the barn, but the chaff he shall burn with unquenchable fire.”

13 Then Jesus came from Galilee to John at the Jordan, that he might be baptized by him.

14 But John tried to prevent him, saying, “I ought to be baptized by you, and you come to me?”

15 And Jesus, answering, said to him, “Permit it now, for thus it is fitting for us to fulfill all justice.” Then he permitted him.

16 And when Jesus had been baptized, immediately he came up from the water. And behold, the heavens were opened to him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove and coming upon him.

17 And behold, a voice from the heavens, saying, “This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.”

CHAPTER 4

1 Then Jesus was led into the desert by the Spirit, that he might be tempted by the devil.

2 And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, afterward he was hungry.

3 And the tempter, drawing near, said to him, “If you are the Son of God, command that these stones become loaves of bread.”

4 But he answered and said, “It is written: Man does not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God.”

5 Then the devil took him into the holy city and set him upon the pinnacle of the temple,

6 and said to him, “If you are the Son of God, cast yourself down. For it is written: ‘He has commanded his angels concerning you,’ and, ‘In their hands they shall bear you up, lest perhaps you strike your foot against a stone.’”

7 Jesus said to him, “Again it is written: You shall not tempt the Lord your God.”

8 Again the devil took him up onto an exceedingly high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their glory,

9 and said to him, “All these I shall give you, if you will fall down and adore me.”

10 Then Jesus said to him, “Go, Satan. For it is written: You shall adore the Lord your God, and him alone shall you serve.”

11 Then the devil left him. And behold, angels drew near and ministered to him.

12 Now when Jesus had heard that John had been handed over, he withdrew into Galilee.

13 And leaving the city of Nazareth, he came and dwelt in Capernaum by the sea, within the borders of Zebulun and Naphtali,

14 that what was spoken through Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled:

15 “Land of Zebulun and land of Naphtali, the way of the sea beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations:

16 the people who sat in darkness have seen a great light; and for those sitting in the region of the shadow of death, a light has risen.”

17 From that time Jesus began to preach and to say, “Do penance, for the kingdom of heaven has drawn near.”

18 And as Jesus walked beside the Sea of Galilee, he saw two brothers, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea, for they were fishermen.

19 And he said to them, “Come after me, and I shall make you become fishers of men.”

20 And immediately, leaving their nets, they followed him.

21 And proceeding from there, he saw two other brothers, James the son of Zebedee and John his brother, in a boat with Zebedee their father, mending their nets; and he called them.

22 And immediately, leaving their nets and father, they followed him.

23 And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues and preaching the Gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every infirmity among the people.

24 And his fame went throughout all Syria; and they brought to him all who were ill, seized by various sicknesses and torments, and those who had demons, and lunatics, and paralytics; and he healed them.

25 And great crowds followed him from Galilee and the Decapolis, and from Jerusalem and Judea, and from beyond the Jordan.

CHAPTER 5

1 And seeing the crowds, Jesus ascended the mountain; and when he had sat down, his disciples drew near to him.

2 And opening his mouth, he taught them, saying:

3 “Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

4 Blessed are the meek, for they shall possess the land.

5 Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted.

6 Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for justice, for they shall be filled.

7 Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy.

8 Blessed are the clean of heart, for they shall see God.

9 Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called sons of God.

10 Blessed are those who suffer persecution for the sake of justice, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

11 Blessed are you when they curse you and persecute you and, lying, say every evil thing against you because of me.

12 Rejoice and exult, for your reward is abundant in heaven. For so they persecuted the prophets who were before you.

13 You are the salt of the earth. But if the salt loses its savor, with what shall it be salted? It is no longer useful for anything except to be cast outside and trampled by men.

14 You are the light of the world. A city set upon a mountain cannot be hidden.

15 Nor do they light a lamp and place it under a bushel, but upon a lampstand, so that it may shine for all who are in the house.

16 So let your light shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father who is in heaven.

17 Do not think that I came to dissolve the law or the prophets. I came not to dissolve, but to fulfill.

18 For amen I say to you: until heaven and earth pass away, not one iota or one apex shall pass from the law until all things are accomplished.

19 Therefore, whoever dissolves one of these least commandments and teaches men so shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven; but whoever does and teaches them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

20 For I say to you that unless your justice abounds more than that of the scribes and Pharisees, you shall not enter the kingdom of heaven.

21 You have heard that it was said to the ancients: ‘You shall not kill’; and whoever kills shall be liable to judgment.

22 But I say to you that everyone who is angry with his brother shall be liable to judgment. And whoever says to his brother, ‘Raca,’ shall be liable to the council; but whoever says, ‘Fool,’ shall be liable to the Gehenna of fire.

23 Therefore, if you offer your gift at the altar and there remember that your brother has something against you,

24 leave your gift there before the altar, and go first to be reconciled to your brother; and then, coming, you shall offer your gift.

25 Come to agreement with your adversary quickly while you are on the way with him, lest perhaps the adversary hand you over to the judge, and the judge hand you over to the officer, and you be cast into prison.

26 Amen I say to you: you shall not come out from there until you repay the last farthing.

27 You have heard that it was said to the ancients: ‘You shall not commit adultery.’

28 But I say to you that everyone who looks upon a woman in order to desire her has already committed adultery with her in his heart.

29 And if your right eye scandalizes you, tear it out and cast it away from you; for it is expedient for you that one of your members perish rather than that your whole body be cast into Gehenna.

30 And if your right hand scandalizes you, cut it off and cast it away from you; for it is expedient for you that one of your members perish rather than that your whole body go into Gehenna.

31 And it was said: ‘Whoever puts away his wife, let him give her a writ of divorce.’

32 But I say to you that everyone who puts away his wife, except for the cause of fornication, makes her commit adultery; and whoever marries her who has been put away commits adultery.

33 Again, you have heard that it was said to the ancients: ‘You shall not swear falsely, but you shall render your oaths to the Lord.’

34 But I say to you: do not swear at all, neither by heaven, because it is the throne of God;

35 nor by the earth, because it is the footstool of his feet; nor by Jerusalem, because it is the city of the great King.

36 Nor shall you swear by your head, because you cannot make one hair white or black.

37 But let your word be ‘Yes, yes; no, no.’ And what is more than these is from evil.

38 You have heard that it was said: ‘An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.’

39 But I say to you: do not resist evil; but if anyone strikes you on your right cheek, present the other to him also.

40 And to him who wishes to contend with you in judgment and take away your tunic, release your cloak to him also.

41 And whoever compels you to go a thousand paces, go with him another two thousand.

42 Give to him who asks of you; and do not turn away from him who wishes to borrow from you.

43 You have heard that it was said: ‘You shall love your neighbor and shall hate your enemy.’

44 But I say to you: love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who persecute and falsely accuse you,

45 that you may be sons of your Father who is in heaven, who makes his sun rise upon the good and the evil and rains upon the just and the unjust.

46 For if you love those who love you, what reward shall you have? Do not even the publicans do this?

47 And if you greet only your brothers, what more do you do? Do not even the Gentiles do this?

48 Therefore, be perfect, as your heavenly Father also is perfect.

CHAPTER 6

1 Take care not to practice your justice before men in order to be seen by them; otherwise, you shall have no reward with your Father who is in heaven.

2 Therefore, when you give alms, do not sound a trumpet before you, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and streets, that they may be honored by men. Amen I say to you: they have received their reward.

3 But when you give alms, do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing,

4 so that your alms may be in secret; and your Father, who sees in secret, shall repay you.

5 And when you pray, you shall not be like the hypocrites, who love to pray standing in the synagogues and at the corners of the streets, that they may be seen by men. Amen I say to you: they have received their reward.

6 But when you pray, enter your chamber and, having closed the door, pray to your Father in secret; and your Father, who sees in secret, shall repay you.

7 And when praying, do not speak many words, as the Gentiles do; for they think that in their abundance of words they shall be heard.

8 Therefore, do not become like them, for your Father knows what you need before you ask him.

9 Therefore, you shall pray in this way: “Our Father, who are in heaven, hallowed be your name.

10 May your kingdom come. May your will be done, as in heaven, so also on earth.

11 Give us today our supersubstantial bread.

12 And forgive us our debts, as we also forgive our debtors.

13 And do not lead us into temptation, but deliver us from evil. Amen.”

14 For if you forgive men their sins, your heavenly Father shall also forgive you your offenses.

15 But if you do not forgive men, neither shall your Father forgive you your sins.

16 And when you fast, do not become gloomy like the hypocrites. For they disfigure their faces, that they may appear to men to be fasting. Amen I say to you: they have received their reward.

17 But when you fast, anoint your head and wash your face,

18 so that you may not appear to men to be fasting, but to your Father who is in secret; and your Father, who sees in secret, shall repay you.

19 Do not store up treasures for yourselves on earth, where rust and moth destroy, and where thieves dig through and steal.

20 But store up treasures for yourselves in heaven, where neither rust nor moth destroys, and where thieves do not dig through or steal.

21 For where your treasure is, there your heart is also.

22 The lamp of your body is your eye. If your eye is simple, your whole body shall be full of light.

23 But if your eye is evil, your whole body shall be dark. Therefore, if the light that is in you is darkness, how great shall the darkness itself be?

24 No one can serve two masters. For either he shall hate the one and love the other, or he shall sustain the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon.

25 Therefore I say to you: do not be anxious for your soul, what you shall eat, nor for your body, what you shall put on. Is not the soul more than food and the body more than clothing?

26 Look upon the birds of heaven, for they neither sow nor reap nor gather into barns; and your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not of much greater value than they?

27 And which of you, by thinking, can add one cubit to his stature?

28 And why are you anxious about clothing? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow: they do not labor, nor do they spin.

29 Yet I say to you that not even Solomon in all his glory was clothed like one of these.

30 But if God so clothes the grass of the field, which is here today and tomorrow is cast into the oven, how much more you, O you of little faith?

31 Therefore, do not be anxious, saying, ‘What shall we eat?’ or ‘What shall we drink?’ or ‘With what shall we be clothed?’

32 For the nations seek all these things. For your Father knows that you need all these things.

33 Therefore, seek first the kingdom of God and his justice, and all these things shall be added to you.

34 Therefore, do not be anxious for tomorrow, for tomorrow shall be anxious for itself. Sufficient for the day is its own evil.

CHAPTER 7

1 Do not judge, that you may not be judged.

2 For with the judgment by which you judge, you shall be judged; and with the measure by which you measure, it shall be measured back to you.

3 And why do you see the speck in your brother's eye but do not see the beam in your own eye?

4 Or how do you say to your brother, 'Permit me to cast the speck from your eye,' and behold, a beam is in your own eye?

5 Hypocrite, first cast the beam from your own eye, and then you shall see to cast the speck from your brother's eye.

6 Do not give what is holy to dogs, nor cast your pearls before swine, lest perhaps they trample them under their feet and, turning, tear you apart.

7 Ask, and it shall be given to you; seek, and you shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you.

8 For everyone who asks receives; and he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, it shall be opened.

9 Or what man among you, if his son asks him for bread, will hand him a stone?

10 Or if he asks for a fish, will hand him a serpent?

11 Therefore, if you, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more shall your Father who is in heaven give good things to those who ask him?

12 Therefore, whatever you desire that men should do to you, do the same also to them; for this is the law and the prophets.

13 Enter through the narrow gate, for wide is the gate and spacious is the way that leads to destruction, and many are those who enter through it.

14 How narrow is the gate and constricted the way that leads to life, and few are those who find it!

15 Beware of false prophets, who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly are ravenous wolves.

16 By their fruits you shall know them. Do they gather grapes from thorns or figs from thistles?

17 Thus every good tree produces good fruits, but an evil tree produces evil fruits.

18 A good tree cannot produce evil fruits, nor can an evil tree produce good fruits.

19 Every tree that does not produce good fruit shall be cut down and cast into the fire.

20 Therefore, by their fruits you shall know them.

21 Not everyone who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven shall enter the kingdom of heaven.

22 Many shall say to me on that day, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and cast out demons in your name, and perform many mighty works in your name?'

23 And then I shall declare to them, 'I never knew you. Depart from me, you who work iniquity.'

24 Therefore, everyone who hears these words of mine and does them shall be likened to a wise man who built his house upon rock.

25 And the rain descended, and the rivers came, and the winds blew and rushed upon that house, and it did not fall, for it had been founded upon rock.

26 And everyone who hears these words of mine and does not do them shall be like a foolish man who built his house upon sand.

27 And the rain descended, and the rivers came, and the winds blew and rushed upon that house; and it fell, and great was its ruin.

28 And it came to pass, when Jesus had completed these words, that the crowds marveled at his teaching.

29 For he was teaching them as one having authority, and not as their scribes and Pharisees.

CHAPTER 8

1 And when he had descended from the mountain, great crowds followed him.

2 And behold, a leper came and adored him, saying, “Lord, if you will, you can cleanse me.”

3 And Jesus, stretching out his hand, touched him, saying, “I will. Be cleansed.” And immediately his leprosy was cleansed.

4 And Jesus said to him, “See that you tell no one; but go, show yourself to the priest, and offer the gift that Moses commanded, as a testimony to them.”

5 And when he had entered Capernaum, a centurion drew near to him, pleading with him

6 and saying, “Lord, my servant lies paralyzed at home and is grievously tormented.”

7 And Jesus said to him, “I shall come and heal him.”

8 And the centurion answered and said, “Lord, I am not worthy that you should enter beneath my roof; but only speak the word, and my servant shall be healed.

9 For I also am a man placed under authority, having soldiers under me; and I say to this one, ‘Go,’ and he goes; and to another, ‘Come,’ and he comes; and to my servant, ‘Do this,’ and he does it.”

10 And hearing this, Jesus marveled and said to those following him, “Amen I say to you: I have not found such great faith in Israel.

11 And I say to you that many shall come from east and west and shall recline with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven.

12 But the sons of the kingdom shall be cast into the exterior darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.”

13 And Jesus said to the centurion, “Go, and as you have believed, so let it be done for you.” And the servant was healed in that hour.

14 And when Jesus had come into Peter’s house, he saw his mother-in-law lying sick with a fever.

15 And he touched her hand, and the fever left her; and she arose and ministered to them.

16 And when evening had come, they brought to him many who had demons; and he cast out the spirits with a word and healed all who were ill,

17 that what was spoken through Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled, saying, “He took our infirmities and bore our sicknesses.”

18 And Jesus, seeing great crowds around him, commanded them to go across the strait.

19 And one scribe, drawing near, said to him, “Master, I shall follow you wherever you go.”

20 And Jesus said to him, “Foxes have dens, and the birds of heaven have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to rest his head.”

21 And another of his disciples said to him, “Lord, permit me first to go and bury my father.”

22 But Jesus said to him, “Follow me, and leave the dead to bury their dead.”

23 And as he entered the little boat, his disciples followed him.

24 And behold, a great movement arose in the sea, so that the little boat was covered by the waves; but he was sleeping.

25 And his disciples drew near to him and awakened him, saying, “Lord, save us; we are perishing.”

26 And Jesus said to them, “Why are you fearful, O you of little faith?” Then rising, he commanded the winds and the sea, and a great calm came to pass.

27 And the men marveled, saying, “What manner of man is this, that the winds and the sea obey him?”

28 And when he had come across the strait into the region of the Gerasenes, two men having demons met him, coming out from the tombs, exceedingly fierce, so that no one could pass by that way.

29 And behold, they cried out, saying, “What is there between us and you, Jesus, Son of God? Have you come here to torment us before the time?”

30 Now not far from them was a herd of many swine feeding.

31 And the demons pleaded with him, saying, “If you cast us out from here, send us into the herd of swine.”

32 And he said to them, “Go.” And they, going out, went into the swine. And behold, the whole herd rushed violently down the precipice into the sea, and they died in the waters.

33 And the herdsmen fled; and coming into the city, they reported everything, including what had happened to those who had demons.

34 And behold, the whole city went out to meet Jesus; and seeing him, they pleaded that he would pass away from their borders.

CHAPTER 9

1 And entering the little boat, he crossed the strait and came into his own city.

2 And behold, they were bringing him a paralytic lying on a bed. And Jesus, seeing their faith, said to the paralytic, “Take heart, son; your sins are forgiven you.”

3 And behold, some of the scribes said within themselves, “This man blasphemes.”

4 And when Jesus had seen their thoughts, he said, “Why do you think evil things in your hearts?

5 Which is easier to say: ‘Your sins are forgiven you,’ or to say, ‘Rise and walk’?

6 But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins”—then he said to the paralytic—“Rise, take up your bed, and go into your house.”

7 And he arose and went away into his house.

8 But the crowds, seeing this, were afraid and glorified God, who gave such authority to men.

9 And as Jesus passed on from there, he saw a man named Matthew sitting at the tax booth. And he said to him, “Follow me.” And rising, he followed him.

10 And it came to pass, as he reclined in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and reclined with Jesus and his disciples.

11 And the Pharisees, seeing this, said to his disciples, “Why does your master eat with publicans and sinners?”

12 But Jesus, hearing this, said, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are ill.

13 But go and learn what this means: ‘I desire mercy and not sacrifice.’ For I came not to call the just, but sinners.”

14 Then the disciples of John drew near to him, saying, “Why do we and the Pharisees fast frequently, but your disciples do not fast?”

15 And Jesus said to them, “Can the sons of the bridegroom mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? But days shall come when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then they shall fast.

16 And no one puts a patch of unshrunk cloth into an old garment, for it takes its fullness away from the garment, and the tear becomes worse.

17 Neither do they put new wine into old wineskins; otherwise the wineskins burst, and the wine is poured out, and the wineskins perish. But they put new wine into new wineskins, and both are preserved.”

18 While he was speaking these things to them, behold, one ruler drew near and adored him, saying, “Lord, my daughter has just died; but come, lay your hand upon her, and she shall live.”

19 And Jesus, rising, followed him, and his disciples also.

20 And behold, a woman who had suffered a flow of blood for twelve years came up behind him and touched the fringe of his garment.

21 For she said within herself, “If I only touch his garment, I shall be saved.”

22 But Jesus, turning and seeing her, said, “Take heart, daughter; your faith has saved you.” And the woman was saved from that hour.

23 And when Jesus had come into the ruler’s house and had seen the flute players and the crowd making a tumult, he said,

24 “Withdraw, for the girl is not dead, but sleeps.” And they ridiculed him.

25 And when the crowd had been cast out, he entered and took hold of her hand, and the girl arose.

26 And this fame went out throughout all that land.

27 And as Jesus passed on from there, two blind men followed him, crying out and saying, “Have mercy on us, Son of David.”

28 And when he had come into the house, the blind men drew near to him. And Jesus said to them, “Do you believe that I am able to do this for you?” They said to him, “Indeed, Lord.”

29 Then he touched their eyes, saying, “According to your faith, let it be done for you.”

30 And their eyes were opened; and Jesus sternly charged them, saying, “See that no one knows it.”

31 But going out, they spread his fame throughout all that land.

32 And as they were going out, behold, they brought him a mute man who had a demon.

33 And when the demon had been cast out, the mute man spoke; and the crowds marveled, saying, “Never has anything like this appeared in Israel.”

34 But the Pharisees said, “By the prince of demons he casts out demons.”

35 And Jesus went about all the cities and towns, teaching in their synagogues and preaching the Gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every infirmity.

36 But seeing the crowds, he had mercy on them, because they were harassed and lying prostrate, like sheep having no shepherd.

37 Then he said to his disciples, “The harvest indeed is abundant, but the workers are few.

38 Therefore, pray the Lord of the harvest to send workers into his harvest.”

CHAPTER 10

1 And calling together his twelve disciples, he gave them authority over unclean spirits, that they might cast them out and heal every sickness and every infirmity.

2 Now these are the names of the twelve apostles: first, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother;

3 James son of Zebedee, and John his brother; Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew the publican; James son of Alphaeus, and Thaddeus;

4 Simon the Canaanite, and Judas Iscariot, who also handed him over.

5 These twelve Jesus sent, commanding them and saying, “Do not go into the way of the nations, and do not enter the cities of the Samaritans;

6 but go rather to the sheep of the house of Israel who have perished.

7 And as you go, preach, saying, ‘The kingdom of heaven has drawn near.’

8 Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse lepers, cast out demons. You received freely; give freely.

9 Do not possess gold, or silver, or money in your belts;

10 no bag on the way, nor two tunics, nor sandals, nor a staff; for the worker is worthy of his food.

11 And into whatever city or town you enter, inquire who in it is worthy, and remain there until you depart.

12 And entering the house, greet it, saying, ‘Peace to this house.’

13 And if that house is indeed worthy, your peace shall come upon it; but if it is not worthy, your peace shall return to you.

14 And whoever does not receive you or hear your words, go outside that house or city and shake the dust from your feet.

15 Amen I say to you: it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah on the day of judgment than for that city.

16 Behold, I send you as sheep in the midst of wolves. Therefore, be prudent as serpents and simple as doves.

17 But beware of men. For they shall hand you over in councils, and in their synagogues they shall scourge you;

18 and you shall be led before governors and kings because of me, as a testimony to them and to the nations.

19 But when they hand you over, do not think about how or what you shall speak; for what you shall speak shall be given you in that hour.

20 For it is not you who speak, but the Spirit of your Father who speaks in you.

21 And brother shall hand brother over to death, and a father his son; and children shall rise up against parents and put them to death.

22 And you shall be hated by all because of my name; but he who perseveres to the end, this one shall be saved.

23 But when they persecute you in this city, flee into another. Amen I say to you: you shall not finish the cities of Israel until the Son of Man comes.

24 A disciple is not above his master, nor a servant above his lord.

25 It is enough for the disciple that he be like his master, and the servant like his lord. If they have called the father of the household Beelzebub, how much more those of his household?

26 Therefore, do not fear them. For nothing is covered that shall not be revealed, nor hidden that shall not be known.

27 What I say to you in darkness, speak in the light; and what you hear in the ear, preach upon the housetops.

28 And do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul; rather, fear him who can destroy both soul and body in Gehenna.

29 Are not two sparrows sold for an as? And not one of them shall fall upon the ground without your Father.

30 But all the hairs of your head are numbered.

31 Therefore, do not fear; you are better than many sparrows.

32 Therefore, everyone who confesses me before men, I also shall confess him before my Father who is in heaven.

33 But he who denies me before men, I also shall deny him before my Father who is in heaven.

34 Do not suppose that I came to send peace upon the earth. I came not to send peace, but a sword.

35 For I came to separate a man against his father, and a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law;

36 and a man's enemies shall be those of his own household.

37 He who loves father or mother more than me is not worthy of me; and he who loves son or daughter above me is not worthy of me.

38 And he who does not take his cross and follow me is not worthy of me.

39 He who finds his soul shall lose it; and he who loses his soul because of me shall find it.

40 He who receives you receives me; and he who receives me receives him who sent me.

41 He who receives a prophet in the name of a prophet shall receive a prophet's reward; and he who receives a just man in the name of a just man shall receive a just man's reward.

42 And whoever gives one of these least ones only a cup of cold water to drink in the name of a disciple, amen I say to you, he shall not lose his reward."

CHAPTER 11

1 And it came to pass, when Jesus had finished commanding his twelve disciples, that he passed from there to teach and preach in their cities.

2 Now when John had heard in bonds of the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples

3 and said to him, “Are you he who is to come, or do we await another?”

4 And Jesus answered and said to them, “Go and report to John what you have heard and seen:

5 the blind see, the lame walk, lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead rise again, and the poor are evangelized.

6 And blessed is he who shall not be scandalized in me.”

7 And as they were going away, Jesus began to say to the crowds concerning John, “What did you go out into the desert to see? A reed shaken by the wind?

8 But what did you go out to see? A man clothed in soft garments? Behold, those who are clothed in soft garments are in the houses of kings.

9 But what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I say to you, and more than a prophet.

10 For this is he of whom it is written: ‘Behold, I send my angel before your face, who shall prepare your way before you.’

11 Amen I say to you: among those born of women, there has not arisen one greater than John the Baptist; but he who is lesser in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.

12 And from the days of John the Baptist until now, the kingdom of heaven suffers violence, and the violent seize it.

13 For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John;

14 and if you are willing to receive it, he is Elijah who is to come.

15 He who has ears to hear, let him hear.

16 But to what shall I compare this generation? It is like children sitting in the marketplace who call to their companions

17 and say, ‘We sang to you, and you did not dance; we lamented, and you did not mourn.’

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, ‘He has a demon.’

19 The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, ‘Behold, a man who is a glutton and a drinker of wine, a friend of publicans and sinners.’ And wisdom has been justified by her children.”

20 Then he began to reproach the cities in which very many of his mighty works had been done, because they had not done penance:

21 “Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the mighty works that were done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would long ago have done penance in sackcloth and ashes.

22 Nevertheless, I say to you: it shall be easier for Tyre and Sidon on the day of judgment than for you.

23 And you, Capernaum, shall you be exalted as far as heaven? You shall descend as far as the realm of the dead. For if the mighty works that were done in you had been done in Sodom, perhaps they would have remained until this day.

24 Nevertheless, I say to you: it shall be easier for the land of Sodom on the day of judgment than for you.”

25 At that time Jesus answered and said, “I confess to you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and prudent and revealed them to little ones.

26 Yes, Father, for so it was pleasing before you.

27 All things have been handed over to me by my Father. And no one knows the Son except the Father; neither does anyone know the Father except the Son, and he to whom the Son wills to reveal him.

28 Come to me, all you who labor and are burdened, and I shall refresh you.

29 Take my yoke upon you and learn from me, for I am meek and humble of heart; and you shall find rest for your souls.

30 For my yoke is sweet, and my burden is light.”

CHAPTER 12

1 At that time Jesus went through the grainfields on the Sabbath; and his disciples, being hungry, began to pluck ears of grain and eat.

2 But the Pharisees, seeing this, said to him, “Behold, your disciples are doing what it is not lawful to do on Sabbaths.”

3 But he said to them, “Have you not read what David did when he was hungry, with those who were with him:

4 how he entered the house of God and ate the loaves of proposition, which it was not lawful for him to eat, nor for those who were with him, but only for the priests?

5 Or have you not read in the law that on Sabbaths the priests in the temple violate the Sabbath and are without guilt?

6 But I say to you that here is one greater than the temple.

7 And if you had known what this means, ‘I desire mercy and not sacrifice,’ you would never have condemned the innocent.

8 For the Son of Man is Lord even of the Sabbath.”

9 And when he had passed from there, he came into their synagogue.

10 And behold, there was a man with a withered hand; and they questioned him, saying, “Is it lawful to heal on Sabbaths?”—that they might accuse him.

11 But he said to them, “What man among you who has one sheep, if it falls into a pit on Sabbaths, will not take hold of it and lift it out?

12 How much better is a man than a sheep? Therefore, it is lawful to do good on Sabbaths.”

13 Then he said to the man, “Extend your hand.” And he extended it, and it was restored to health like the other.

14 But the Pharisees went out and took counsel against him as to how they might destroy him.

15 But Jesus, knowing it, withdrew from there; and many followed him, and he healed them all.

16 And he commanded them not to make him manifest,

17 that what was spoken through Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled, saying:

18 “Behold my servant, whom I chose, my beloved, in whom my soul was well pleased. I shall place my Spirit upon him, and he shall announce judgment to the nations.

19 He shall not contend, nor cry out, nor shall anyone hear his voice in the streets.

20 A bruised reed he shall not break, and smoking flax he shall not extinguish, until he casts judgment forth unto victory;

21 and in his name the nations shall hope.”

22 Then there was brought to him a man who had a demon, blind and mute; and he healed him, so that he spoke and saw.

23 And all the crowds were astounded and said, “Can this be the Son of David?”

24 But the Pharisees, hearing this, said, “This man does not cast out demons except by Beelzebub, prince of demons.”

25 But Jesus, knowing their thoughts, said to them, “Every kingdom divided against itself shall be laid waste; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand.

26 And if Satan casts out Satan, he is divided against himself. How then shall his kingdom stand?

27 And if I cast out demons by Beelzebub, by whom do your sons cast them out? Therefore, they themselves shall be your judges.

28 But if I cast out demons by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God has come upon you.

29 Or how can anyone enter the house of a strong man and plunder his vessels unless he first binds the strong man? And then he shall plunder his house.

30 He who is not with me is against me; and he who does not gather with me scatters.

31 Therefore I say to you: every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven men, but blasphemy against the Spirit shall not be forgiven.

32 And whoever says a word against the Son of Man, it shall be forgiven him; but he who speaks against the Holy Spirit, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this age nor in the future.

33 Either make the tree good and its fruit good, or make the tree evil and its fruit evil; for indeed, the tree is recognized by its fruit.

34 Brood of vipers, how can you speak good things, since you are evil? For from the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks.

35 A good man brings forth good things from a good treasure, and an evil man brings forth evil things from an evil treasure.

36 But I say to you that every idle word men shall have spoken, they shall render an account of it on the day of judgment.

37 For by your words you shall be justified, and by your words you shall be condemned."

38 Then some of the scribes and Pharisees answered him, saying, "Master, we wish to see a sign from you."

39 But he answered and said to them, "An evil and adulterous generation seeks a sign, and no sign shall be given it except the sign of Jonah the prophet.

40 For as Jonah was in the belly of the whale for three days and three nights, so shall the Son of Man be in the heart of the earth for three days and three nights.

41 The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation and condemn it, because they did penance at the preaching of Jonah; and behold, more than Jonah is here.

42 The queen of the south shall rise in judgment with this generation and condemn it, because she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and behold, more than Solomon is here.

43 And when an unclean spirit has gone out from a man, it walks through dry places seeking rest, and does not find it.

44 Then it says, 'I shall return into my house, from which I came out.' And coming, it finds it vacant, swept, and adorned.

45 Then it goes and takes with it seven other spirits more wicked than itself; and entering, they dwell there. And the last things of that man become worse than the former things. So shall it be also for this most evil generation."

46 While he was still speaking to the crowds, behold, his mother and brothers stood outside, seeking to speak to him.

47 And someone said to him, "Behold, your mother and your brothers are standing outside, seeking you."

48 But answering the one who spoke to him, he said, "Who is my mother, and who are my brothers?"

49 And stretching out his hand toward his disciples, he said, "Behold my mother and my brothers.

50 For whoever does the will of my Father who is in heaven, this one is my brother and sister and mother."

CHAPTER 13

1 On that day Jesus went out of the house and sat beside the sea.

2 And great crowds were gathered to him, so that he entered the little boat and sat; and the whole crowd stood on the shore.

3 And he spoke many things to them in parables, saying, “Behold, the sower went out to sow.

4 And while he sowed, some fell beside the way, and the birds of heaven came and ate them.

5 And others fell upon rocky places, where they did not have much earth; and immediately they sprang up, because they had no depth of earth.

6 But when the sun had risen, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered.

7 And others fell among thorns; and the thorns grew and choked them.

8 And others fell upon good earth and yielded fruit: some a hundredfold, some sixtyfold, and some thirtyfold.

9 He who has ears to hear, let him hear.”

10 And the disciples drew near and said to him, “Why do you speak to them in parables?”

11 He answered and said to them, “Because it has been given to you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given.

12 For he who has, to him shall be given, and he shall abound; but he who does not have, even what he has shall be taken away from him.

13 Therefore, I speak to them in parables, because seeing they do not see, and hearing they do not hear, nor do they understand.

14 And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Isaiah, saying: ‘Hearing, you shall hear and shall not understand; and seeing, you shall see and shall not see.

15 For the heart of this people has grown fat, and with their ears they have heard heavily, and they have closed their eyes, lest at any time they see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and be converted, and I heal them.’

16 But blessed are your eyes because they see, and your ears because they hear.

17 For amen I say to you that many prophets and just men longed to see the things you see and did not see them, and to hear the things you hear and did not hear them.

18 You, therefore, hear the parable of the sower.

19 Everyone who hears the word of the kingdom and does not understand: the evil one comes and snatches away what was sown in his heart. This is the one sown beside the way.

20 But the one sown upon rocky places is he who hears the word and immediately receives it with joy;

21 yet he has no root in himself, but is temporary. And when tribulation and persecution arise because of the word, he is immediately scandalized.

22 And the one sown among thorns is he who hears the word, and the anxiety of this age and the deceit of riches choke the word, and it becomes fruitless.

23 But the one sown upon good earth is he who hears the word and understands, and he bears fruit and produces, one indeed a hundredfold, another sixtyfold, and another thirtyfold.”

24 He set another parable before them, saying, “The kingdom of heaven has become like a man who sowed good seed in his field.

25 But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed darnel amid the wheat and went away.

26 And when the blade had grown and produced fruit, then the darnel also appeared.

27 And the servants of the father of the household drew near and said to him, ‘Lord, did you not sow good seed in your field? From where, then, does it have darnel?’

28 And he said to them, ‘An enemy man did this.’ But the servants said to him, ‘Do you wish us to go and gather it?’

29 And he said, ‘No, lest perhaps, in gathering the darnel, you uproot the wheat together with it.

30 Permit both to grow until the harvest, and at the time of the harvest I shall say to the reapers: Gather first the darnel and bind it into bundles for burning, but gather the wheat into my barn.’”

31 He set another parable before them, saying, “The kingdom of heaven is like a grain of mustard that a man took and sowed in his field.

32 It indeed is the least of all seeds; but when it has grown, it is greater than all the garden plants and becomes a tree, so that the birds of heaven come and dwell in its branches.”

33 He spoke another parable to them: “The kingdom of heaven is like leaven that a woman took and hid in three measures of flour, until the whole was leavened.”

34 Jesus spoke all these things in parables to the crowds, and without parables he did not speak to them,

35 that what had been spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled, saying, “I shall open my mouth in parables; I shall utter things hidden from the foundation of the world.”

36 Then, dismissing the crowds, he came into the house; and his disciples drew near to him, saying, “Explain to us the parable of the darnel in the field.”

37 He answered and said to them, “He who sows the good seed is the Son of Man.

38 And the field is the world. The good seed are the sons of the kingdom; but the darnel are the wicked sons.

39 And the enemy who sowed it is the devil. The harvest is the consummation of the age, and the reapers are the angels.

40 Therefore, just as the darnel is gathered and burned with fire, so shall it be at the consummation of the age.

41 The Son of Man shall send his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all scandals and those who work iniquity, 42 and they shall cast them into the furnace of fire. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

43 Then the just shall shine like the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He who has ears to hear, let him hear.

44 The kingdom of heaven is like a treasure hidden in a field. When a man finds it, he hides it, and for joy over it he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field.

45 Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant man seeking good pearls.

46 And having found one precious pearl, he went and sold all that he had and bought it.

47 Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a dragnet cast into the sea and gathering from every kind of fish.

48 When it was filled, they drew it out and sat beside the shore; and they selected the good into vessels, but cast the bad outside.

49 So shall it be at the consummation of the age: the angels shall go out and separate the evil from the midst of the just,

50 and shall cast them into the furnace of fire. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.”

51 “Have you understood all these things?” They said to him, “Yes.”

52 He said to them, “Therefore, every scribe learned in the kingdom of heaven is like a man who is a father of a household, who brings forth new things and old from his treasure.”

53 And it came to pass, when Jesus had completed these parables, that he passed on from there.

54 And coming into his own country, he taught them in their synagogues, so that they marveled and said, “From where does this man have this wisdom and these mighty works?

55 Is this not the carpenter’s son? Is not his mother called Mary, and his brothers James and Joseph and Simon and Judas?

56 And are not all his sisters among us? From where, then, does this man have all these things?”

57 And they were scandalized in him. But Jesus said to them, “A prophet is not without honor except in his own country and in his own house.”

58 And he did not perform many mighty works there because of their unbelief.

CHAPTER 14

1 At that time Herod the tetrarch heard the fame of Jesus,

2 and he said to his servants, “This is John the Baptist. He himself has risen from the dead, and therefore mighty works are at work in him.”

3 For Herod had seized John and bound him and put him in prison because of Herodias, his brother’s wife.

4 For John was saying to him, “It is not lawful for you to have her.”

5 And though he wished to kill him, he feared the people, because they regarded him as a prophet.

6 But on Herod’s birthday, the daughter of Herodias danced in the midst and pleased Herod.

7 Whereupon he promised her with an oath to give her whatever she would ask of him.

8 But she, instructed beforehand by her mother, said, “Give me here on a platter the head of John the Baptist.”

9 And the king was grieved; but because of the oath and those reclining with him, he ordered it to be given.

10 And he sent and had John beheaded in prison.

11 And his head was brought on a platter and given to the girl, and she brought it to her mother.

12 And his disciples drew near and took his body and buried it; and coming, they announced it to Jesus.

13 When Jesus had heard this, he withdrew from there in a little boat to a desert place apart; and when the crowds had heard, they followed him on foot from the cities.

14 And going out, he saw a great crowd and had mercy on them, and he healed the sick among them.

15 And when evening had come, his disciples drew near to him, saying, “The place is desert, and the hour has already passed. Dismiss the crowds, that they may go into the towns and buy food for themselves.”

16 But Jesus said to them, “They have no need to go. You give them something to eat.”

17 They answered him, “We have nothing here except five loaves and two fish.”

18 He said to them, “Bring them here to me.”

19 And when he had commanded the crowd to recline upon the grass, he took the five loaves and two fish, and looking up to heaven, he blessed and broke and gave the loaves to the disciples, and the disciples gave them to the crowds.

20 And they all ate and were filled. And they took up the remnants: twelve baskets full of fragments.

21 Now the number of those who ate was five thousand men, apart from women and little ones.

22 And immediately Jesus compelled the disciples to enter the little boat and go before him across the strait, until he dismissed the crowds.

23 And when the crowd had been dismissed, he ascended the mountain alone to pray. And when evening had come, he was there alone.

24 But the little boat in the middle of the sea was tossed by the waves, for the wind was contrary.

25 For in the fourth watch of the night, he came to them walking upon the sea.

26 And seeing him walking upon the sea, they were troubled, saying, “It is a phantom.” And they cried out from fear.

27 And immediately Jesus spoke to them, saying, “Have confidence; I am. Do not fear.”

28 And Peter answered and said, “Lord, if you are, command me to come to you upon the waters.”

29 But he said, “Come.” And Peter descended from the little boat and walked upon the water to come to Jesus.

30 But seeing the strong wind, he was afraid; and when he began to sink, he cried out, saying, “Lord, save me.”

31 And immediately Jesus extended his hand and caught him, and said to him, “O you of little faith, why did you doubt?”

32 And when they had ascended into the little boat, the wind ceased.

33 And those who were in the little boat came and adored him, saying, “Truly, you are the Son of God.”

34 And when they had crossed the strait, they came into the land of Genesar.

35 And when the men of that place had recognized him, they sent throughout all that region and brought him all who were ill;

36 and they pleaded with him that they might touch even the fringe of his garment. And all who touched it were saved.

CHAPTER 15

1 Then scribes and Pharisees from Jerusalem drew near to him, saying,

2 “Why do your disciples transgress the tradition of the elders? For they do not wash their hands when they eat bread.”

3 But he answered and said to them, “Why do you also transgress the commandment of God for the sake of your tradition? For God said:

4 ‘Honor father and mother,’ and, ‘He who curses father or mother shall die by death.’

5 But you say: ‘Whoever says to father or mother, “The gift—whatever is from me—shall benefit you,”

6 shall not honor his father or his mother.’ And you have made the commandment of God void for the sake of your tradition.

7 Hypocrites, well did Isaiah prophesy concerning you, saying:

8 ‘This people honors me with their lips, but their heart is far from me.

9 But they worship me without cause, teaching doctrines and commandments of men.’”

10 And calling the crowds to himself, he said to them, “Hear and understand.

11 What enters into the mouth does not defile a man. What proceeds from the mouth is what defiles a man.”

12 Then his disciples drew near and said to him, “Do you know that the Pharisees, upon hearing this word, were scandalized?”

13 But he answered and said, “Every planting that my heavenly Father did not plant shall be uprooted.

14 Leave them. They are blind and leaders of the blind; and if a blind man gives guidance to a blind man, both fall into the pit.”

15 But Peter answered and said to him, “Explain this parable to us.”

16 But he said, “Are you also still without understanding?

17 Do you not understand that everything that enters into the mouth goes into the belly and is discharged into the privy?

18 But the things that proceed from the mouth come out of the heart, and they defile a man.

19 For from the heart come evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false testimonies, and blasphemies.

20 These are the things that defile a man. But to eat with unwashed hands does not defile a man.”

21 And Jesus went out from there and withdrew into the regions of Tyre and Sidon.

22 And behold, a Canaanite woman came out from those borders and cried out to him, saying, “Have mercy on me, Lord, Son of David. My daughter is grievously vexed by a demon.”

23 But he did not answer her a word. And his disciples drew near and pleaded with him, saying, “Dismiss her, for she cries after us.”

24 But he answered and said, “I was not sent except to the sheep of the house of Israel who have perished.”

25 But she came and adored him, saying, “Lord, help me.”

26 He answered and said, “It is not good to take the bread of the sons and cast it to the dogs.”

27 But she said, “Yes, Lord, for even the little dogs eat from the crumbs that fall from the table of their lords.”

28 Then Jesus answered and said to her, “O woman, great is your faith. Let it be done for you as you will.” And her daughter was healed from that hour.

29 And when Jesus had passed from there, he came beside the Sea of Galilee; and ascending the mountain, he sat there.

30 And great crowds drew near to him, having with them the mute, the blind, the lame, the disabled, and many others; and they cast them at his feet, and he healed them,

31 so that the crowds marveled, seeing the mute speaking, the lame walking, and the blind seeing; and they magnified the God of Israel.

32 But Jesus called his disciples together and said, “I have mercy on the crowd, because they have now persevered with me for three days and have nothing to eat; and I do not wish to dismiss them fasting, lest they faint on the way.”

33 And the disciples said to him, “From where, then, do we have so many loaves in the desert as to fill so great a crowd?”

34 And Jesus said to them, “How many loaves do you have?” But they said, “Seven, and a few little fish.”

35 And he commanded the crowd to recline upon the ground.

36 And taking the seven loaves and the fish, and giving thanks, he broke and gave them to his disciples, and the disciples gave them to the people.

37 And they all ate and were filled. And they took up what remained of the fragments: seven full hampers.

38 Now those who ate were four thousand men, apart from little ones and women.

39 And dismissing the crowd, he entered the little boat and came into the borders of Magedan.

CHAPTER 16

1 And the Pharisees and Sadducees drew near to him, tempting him; and they asked him to show them a sign from heaven.

2 But he answered and said to them, “When evening comes, you say, ‘It will be fair, for the sky is red.’

3 And in the morning, ‘Today there will be a storm, for the gloomy sky glows red.’

4 Therefore, you know how to discern the face of the sky; but are you unable to know the signs of the times? An evil and adulterous generation seeks a sign; and no sign shall be given to it except the sign of Jonah the prophet.” And leaving them, he went away.

5 And when his disciples had come across the strait, they forgot to take loaves.

6 And he said to them, “Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees.”

7 But they reasoned among themselves, saying, “Because we did not take loaves.”

8 And Jesus, knowing this, said, “Why do you reason among yourselves, O you of little faith, because you have no loaves?

9 Do you not yet understand, nor remember the five loaves among five thousand men, and how many baskets you took up?

10 Nor the seven loaves among four thousand men, and how many hampers you took up?

11 Why do you not understand that it was not concerning bread that I said to you, ‘Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees’?”

12 Then they understood that he had not said to beware of the leaven of loaves, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

13 And Jesus came into the regions of Caesarea Philippi; and he questioned his disciples, saying, “Whom do men say the Son of Man is?”

14 And they said, “Some, John the Baptist; and others, Elijah; and still others, Jeremiah, or one of the prophets.”

15 Jesus said to them, “But you, whom do you say that I am?”

16 Simon Peter answered and said, “You are Christ, the Son of the living God.”

17 And Jesus answered and said to him, “Blessed are you, Simon Bar-Jonah, for flesh and blood has not revealed this to you, but my Father who is in heaven.

18 And I say to you that you are Peter, and upon this rock I shall build my Church, and the gates of the realm of the dead shall not prevail against it.

19 And I shall give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven. And whatever you bind upon earth shall be bound also in heaven; and whatever you loose upon earth shall be loosed also in heaven.”

20 Then he commanded his disciples to tell no one that he himself was Jesus Christ.

21 From that time Jesus began to show his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and suffer many things from the elders and scribes and chief priests, and be killed, and rise again on the third day.

22 And Peter, taking him, began to rebuke him, saying, “May this be far from you, Lord. This shall not happen to you.”

23 But he turned and said to Peter, “Go behind me, Satan. You are a scandal to me, for you do not mind the things of God, but the things of men.”

24 Then Jesus said to his disciples, “If anyone wishes to come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me.

25 For whoever wishes to save his soul shall lose it; but whoever loses his soul because of me shall find it.

26 For what does it profit a man if he gains the whole world but suffers the loss of his soul? Or what exchange shall a man give for his soul?

27 For the Son of Man shall come in the glory of his Father with his angels, and then he shall render to each one according to his works.

28 Amen I say to you: there are some of those standing here who shall not taste death until they see the Son of Man coming in his kingdom.”

CHAPTER 17

1 And after six days Jesus took Peter and James and John his brother, and led them apart onto a high mountain.

2 And he was transfigured before them. And his face shone like the sun, but his garments became white as snow.

3 And behold, Moses and Elijah appeared to them, speaking with him.

4 And Peter answered and said to Jesus, “Lord, it is good for us to be here. If you will, let us make three tabernacles: one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah.”

5 While he was still speaking, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them. And behold, a voice from the cloud, saying, “This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. Hear him.”

6 And hearing this, the disciples fell upon their faces and feared greatly.

7 And Jesus drew near and touched them, and said to them, “Rise, and do not fear.”

8 And lifting their eyes, they saw no one except Jesus alone.

9 And as they descended from the mountain, Jesus commanded them, saying, “Tell the vision to no one until the Son of Man rises from the dead.”

10 And the disciples questioned him, saying, “Why then do the scribes say that Elijah must come first?”

11 But he answered and said to them, “Elijah indeed is to come, and he shall restore all things.

12 But I say to you that Elijah has already come, and they did not recognize him, but did to him whatever they wished. So also the Son of Man is to suffer from them.”

13 Then the disciples understood that he had spoken to them concerning John the Baptist.

14 And when he had come to the crowd, a man drew near to him, falling upon his knees before him and saying, “Lord, have mercy on my son, for he is a lunatic and suffers grievously; for he often falls into the fire, and frequently into the water.

15 And I brought him to your disciples, and they could not heal him.”

16 And Jesus answered and said, “O unbelieving and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? How long shall I endure you? Bring him here to me.”

17 And Jesus rebuked him, and the demon went out from him; and the boy was healed from that hour.

18 Then the disciples drew near to Jesus in secret and said, “Why could we not cast him out?”

19 Jesus said to them, “Because of your unbelief. For amen I say to you: if you have faith like a grain of mustard seed, you shall say to this mountain, ‘Pass from here to there,’ and it shall pass; and nothing shall be impossible for you.

20 But this kind is not cast out except through prayer and fasting.”

21 And while they were dwelling in Galilee, Jesus said to them, “The Son of Man is to be handed over into the hands of men, 22 and they shall kill him, and on the third day he shall rise again.” And they were exceedingly sorrowful.

23 And when they had come to Capernaum, those who collected the didrachma drew near to Peter and said to him, “Does your Master not pay the didrachma?”

24 He said, “Yes.” And when he had entered the house, Jesus spoke to him first, saying, “What do you think, Simon? From whom do the kings of the earth receive tribute or tax: from their own sons, or from strangers?”

25 And he said, “From strangers.” Jesus said to him, “Therefore, the sons are free.

26 But lest we scandalize them, go to the sea and cast in a hook. Take the fish that first comes up; and when you open its mouth, you shall find a stater. Take it and give it to them for me and you.”

CHAPTER 18

1 In that hour the disciples drew near to Jesus, saying, “Who, do you think, is greater in the kingdom of heaven?”

2 And Jesus called a little child and placed him in their midst,

3 and said, “Amen I say to you: unless you are converted and become like little children, you shall not enter the kingdom of heaven.

4 Therefore, whoever humbles himself like this little child, he is greater in the kingdom of heaven.

5 And whoever receives one such little child in my name receives me.

6 But for whoever scandalizes one of these little ones who believe in me, it is expedient that a millstone turned by an ass be hung around his neck and that he be submerged in the depth of the sea.

7 Woe to the world because of scandals! For it is necessary that scandals come; nevertheless, woe to that man through whom scandal comes.

8 And if your hand or your foot scandalizes you, cut it off and cast it away from you. It is good for you to enter into life maimed or lame rather than, having two hands or two feet, to be cast into eternal fire.

9 And if your eye scandalizes you, tear it out and cast it away from you. It is good for you to enter into life with one eye rather than, having two eyes, to be cast into the Gehenna of fire.

10 See that you do not despise one of these little ones. For I say to you that their angels in heaven always see the face of my Father who is in heaven.

11 For the Son of Man came to save what had perished.

12 What do you think? If a man has a hundred sheep and one of them wanders, does he not leave the ninety-nine in the mountains and go to seek the one that wandered?

13 And if it happens that he finds it, amen I say to you that he rejoices over it more than over the ninety-nine that did not wander.

14 Thus, it is not the will before your Father who is in heaven that one of these little ones should perish.

15 But if your brother sins against you, go and reprove him between you and him alone. If he hears you, you shall have gained your brother.

16 But if he does not hear you, take with you one or two more, that every word may stand in the mouth of two or three witnesses.

17 And if he does not hear them, tell the Church. But if he does not hear the Church, let him be to you like a Gentile and a publican.

18 Amen I say to you: whatever you bind upon earth shall be bound also in heaven; and whatever you loose upon earth shall be loosed also in heaven.

19 Again I say to you that if two of you agree upon earth concerning any matter whatsoever they ask, it shall be done for them by my Father who is in heaven.

20 For where two or three are gathered in my name, there I am in their midst.”

21 Then Peter drew near to him and said, “Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and shall I forgive him? Up to seven times?”

22 Jesus said to him, “I do not say to you, up to seven times, but up to seventy times seven.

23 Therefore, the kingdom of heaven is likened to a man who was a king and wished to settle accounts with his servants.

24 And when he had begun to settle accounts, one was brought to him who owed him ten thousand talents.

25 But since he had no means to repay, his master commanded that he be sold, with his wife and children and everything he had, and that payment be made.

26 And that servant, falling down, pleaded with him, saying, ‘Have patience with me, and I shall repay everything to you.’

27 And the master of that servant, having mercy on him, released him and forgave him the debt.

28 But that servant went out and found one of his fellow servants who owed him a hundred denarii; and seizing him, he choked him, saying, ‘Repay what you owe.’

29 And his fellow servant, falling down, pleaded with him, saying, ‘Have patience with me, and I shall repay everything to you.’

30 But he would not; instead, he went and cast him into prison until he repaid the debt.

31 And when his fellow servants saw the things that were done, they were exceedingly sorrowful; and they came and told their master all the things that had been done.

32 Then his master called him and said to him, ‘Wicked servant, I forgave you all the debt because you pleaded with me.

33 Therefore, ought you not also to have had mercy on your fellow servant, just as I had mercy on you?’

34 And his master, being angry, handed him over to the torturers until he repaid the entire debt.

35 So also shall my heavenly Father do to you if you do not each forgive your brother from your hearts.”

CHAPTER 19

1 And it came to pass, when Jesus had completed these words, that he departed from Galilee and came into the borders of Judea beyond the Jordan.

2 And great crowds followed him, and he healed them there.

3 And the Pharisees drew near to him, tempting him and saying, “Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for any cause whatsoever?”

4 He answered and said to them, “Have you not read that he who made man from the beginning made them male and female? And he said:

5 ‘For this reason a man shall leave father and mother and shall cleave to his wife, and the two shall be in one flesh.’

6 Therefore, they are no longer two, but one flesh. Therefore, what God has joined together, let man not separate.”

7 They said to him, “Why then did Moses command that a writ of divorce be given and that she be put away?”

8 He said to them, “Because of the hardness of your heart, Moses permitted you to put away your wives; but from the beginning it was not so.

9 And I say to you that whoever puts away his wife, except because of fornication, and marries another commits adultery; and he who marries her who has been put away commits adultery.”

10 His disciples said to him, “If the condition of a man with his wife is such, it is not expedient to marry.”

11 And he said to them, “Not all receive this word, but only those to whom it has been given.

12 For there are eunuchs who were born so from their mother’s womb; and there are eunuchs who were made so by men; and there are eunuchs who castrated themselves because of the kingdom of heaven. Let him who is able to receive it receive it.”

13 Then little children were brought to him, that he might lay his hands upon them and pray. But the disciples rebuked them.

14 But Jesus said to them, “Permit the little children, and do not prevent them from coming to me, for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these.”

15 And when he had laid his hands upon them, he went away from there.

16 And behold, one man drew near and said to him, “Good Master, what good shall I do that I may have eternal life?”

17 And he said to him, “Why do you ask me about the good? One is good: God. But if you wish to enter into life, keep the commandments.”

18 He said to him, “Which?” And Jesus said, “You shall not commit murder; you shall not commit adultery; you shall not commit theft; you shall not speak false testimony;

19 honor your father and your mother; and you shall love your neighbor as yourself.”

20 The young man said to him, “All these I have kept from my youth. What do I still lack?”

21 Jesus said to him, “If you wish to be perfect, go, sell what you have and give to the poor, and you shall have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me.”

22 But when the young man had heard the word, he went away sorrowful, for he had many possessions.

23 And Jesus said to his disciples, “Amen I say to you that a rich man shall enter the kingdom of heaven with difficulty.

24 And again I say to you: it is easier for a camel to pass through the opening of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven.”

25 And hearing these things, the disciples marveled exceedingly, saying, “Who then shall be able to be saved?”

26 And Jesus, looking upon them, said, “With men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible.”

27 Then Peter answered and said to him, “Behold, we have left all things and followed you. What then shall there be for us?”

28 And Jesus said to them, “Amen I say to you that you who have followed me, in the regeneration, when the Son of Man sits upon the throne of his majesty, you also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

29 And everyone who has left house, or brothers, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or fields because of my name shall receive a hundredfold and shall possess eternal life.

30 But many who are first shall be last, and the last first.

CHAPTER 20

1 The kingdom of heaven is like a man who was a householder and went out early in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard.

2 And when he had made an agreement with the laborers for a denarius a day, he sent them into his vineyard.

3 And going out around the third hour, he saw others standing idle in the marketplace,

4 and he said to them, ‘You also go into my vineyard, and I shall give you what is just.’

5 And they went. And again he went out around the sixth and ninth hours and did likewise.

6 But around the eleventh hour he went out and found others standing, and he said to them, ‘Why do you stand here idle all day?’

7 They said to him, ‘Because no one has hired us.’ He said to them, ‘You also go into my vineyard.’

8 And when evening had come, the master of the vineyard said to his steward, ‘Call the laborers and render their wages to them, beginning from the last even to the first.’

9 Therefore, when those who had come around the eleventh hour drew near, they each received a denarius.

10 But when the first also came, they thought that they would receive more; yet they too received a denarius each.

11 And receiving it, they murmured against the householder,

12 saying, ‘These last have worked one hour, and you have made them equal to us, who bore the weight of the day and the heat.’

13 But he answered one of them and said, ‘Friend, I do you no injustice. Did you not agree with me for a denarius?

14 Take what is yours and go. But I wish to give to this last one also, just as to you.

15 Or is it not lawful for me to do what I wish? Is your eye evil because I am good?’

16 So shall the last be first, and the first last. For many are called, but few chosen.”

17 And as Jesus ascended to Jerusalem, he took the twelve disciples aside in secret and said to them,

18 “Behold, we are ascending to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man shall be handed over to the chief priests and scribes, and they shall condemn him to death,

19 and shall hand him over to the Gentiles to be mocked and scourged and crucified; and on the third day he shall rise again.”

20 Then the mother of the sons of Zebedee drew near to him with her sons, adoring him and asking something from him.

21 And he said to her, “What do you wish?” She said to him, “Say that these two sons of mine may sit, one at your right hand and one at your left, in your kingdom.”

22 And Jesus answered and said, “You do not know what you ask. Are you able to drink the cup that I am about to drink?” They said to him, “We are able.”

23 He said to them, “My cup indeed you shall drink; but to sit at my right or left is not mine to give to you, but it is for those for whom it has been prepared by my Father.”

24 And hearing this, the ten were indignant concerning the two brothers.

25 But Jesus called them to himself and said, “You know that the rulers of the nations lord it over them, and those who are greater exercise power over them.

26 It shall not be so among you; but whoever wishes to become greater among you, let him be your minister;

27 and whoever wishes to be first among you shall be your servant,

28 just as the Son of Man did not come to be ministered to, but to minister and to give his soul as redemption for many.”

29 And as they went out from Jericho, a great crowd followed him.

30 And behold, two blind men sitting beside the way heard that Jesus was passing by, and they cried out, saying, “Lord, have mercy on us, son of David.”

31 But the crowd rebuked them so that they would be silent. Yet they cried out all the more, saying, “Lord, have mercy on us, son of David.”

32 And Jesus stood and called them and said, “What do you wish me to do for you?”

33 They said to him, “Lord, that our eyes may be opened.”

34 And Jesus, having mercy on them, touched their eyes. And immediately they saw and followed him.

CHAPTER 21

1 And when they had drawn near to Jerusalem and had come to Bethphage, at Mount Olivet, then Jesus sent two disciples,

2 saying to them, “Go into the village that is opposite you, and immediately you shall find an ass tied and a colt with her. Loose them and bring them to me.

3 And if anyone says anything to you, say that the Lord has need of them, and he will immediately release them.”

4 Now all this was done that what was spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled, saying:

5 “Tell the daughter of Zion: ‘Behold, your king comes to you meek, seated upon an ass and a colt, the foal of a beast under the yoke.’”

6 And the disciples went and did as Jesus had commanded them.

7 And they brought the ass and the colt, and placed their garments upon them, and made him sit upon them.

8 And a very great crowd spread their garments in the way; and others cut branches from the trees and spread them in the way.

9 And the crowds that went before and that followed cried out, saying, “Hosanna to the son of David! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest!”

10 And when he had entered Jerusalem, the whole city was moved, saying, “Who is this?”

11 And the people said, “This is Jesus, the prophet from Nazareth of Galilee.”

12 And Jesus entered the temple of God and cast out all who were selling and buying in the temple; and he overturned the tables of the money changers and the seats of those selling doves.

13 And he said to them, “It is written: ‘My house shall be called a house of prayer,’ but you have made it a den of robbers.”

14 And the blind and the lame drew near to him in the temple, and he healed them.

15 But when the chief priests and scribes saw the wonders that he did, and the boys crying out in the temple and saying, “Hosanna to the son of David,” they were indignant,

16 and said to him, “Do you hear what these are saying?” And Jesus said to them, “Certainly. Have you never read, ‘Out of the mouth of infants and sucklings you have perfected praise’?”

17 And leaving them, he went outside the city to Bethany, and he remained there.

18 And in the morning, as he returned to the city, he was hungry.

19 And seeing one fig tree beside the way, he came to it; and he found nothing on it except leaves only, and said to it, “May fruit never be born from you, forever.” And immediately the fig tree withered.

20 And when the disciples saw this, they marveled, saying, “How did it wither immediately?”

21 And Jesus answered and said to them, “Amen I say to you: if you have faith and do not hesitate, you shall do not only this concerning the fig tree; but even if you say to this mountain, ‘Take yourself up and cast yourself into the sea,’ it shall be done.

22 And all things whatsoever you ask in prayer, believing, you shall receive.”

23 And when he had come into the temple, the chief priests and elders of the people drew near to him as he was teaching, saying, “By what authority do you do these things? And who gave you this authority?”

24 Jesus answered and said to them, “I also shall ask you one question. If you answer me, I also shall tell you by what authority I do these things.

25 From where was the baptism of John? From heaven, or from men?” But they reasoned among themselves, saying,

26 “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he shall say to us, ‘Why then did you not believe him?’ But if we say, ‘From men,’ we fear the crowd, for all held John as a prophet.”

27 And they answered Jesus and said, “We do not know.” And he also said to them, “Neither do I tell you by what authority I do these things.

28 But what do you think? A certain man had two sons; and drawing near to the first, he said, ‘Son, go work today in my vineyard.’

29 And he answered and said, ‘I do not wish to.’ But afterward, moved by penance, he went.

30 And drawing near to the other, he spoke likewise. But he answered and said, ‘I am going, sir,’ and he did not go.

31 Which of the two did the will of the father?" They said to him, "The first." Jesus said to them, "Amen I say to you that the publicans and prostitutes shall go before you into the kingdom of God.

32 For John came to you in the way of justice, and you did not believe him; but the publicans and prostitutes believed him. But you, seeing this, did not have penance afterward, that you might believe him.

33 Hear another parable. There was a man who was a householder, who planted a vineyard and surrounded it with a hedge, and dug a winepress in it, and built a tower, and leased it to farmers, and went abroad.

34 And when the time of the fruits drew near, he sent his servants to the farmers, that they might receive its fruits.

35 And the farmers seized his servants; one they beat, another they killed, and another they stoned.

36 Again he sent other servants, more than the former, and they did likewise to them.

37 And lastly he sent his son to them, saying, 'They will reverence my son.'

38 But the farmers, seeing the son, said among themselves, 'This is the heir. Come, let us kill him, and we shall have his inheritance.'

39 And seizing him, they cast him outside the vineyard and killed him.

40 Therefore, when the master of the vineyard comes, what shall he do to those farmers?"

41 They said to him, "He shall bring an evil destruction upon those evil men, and shall lease his vineyard to other farmers who shall render its fruit to him in their seasons."

42 Jesus said to them, "Have you never read in the Scriptures: 'The stone that the builders rejected, this has become the head of the corner. This was done by the Lord, and it is marvelous in our eyes'?

43 Therefore I say to you that the kingdom of God shall be taken away from you and shall be given to a nation producing its fruits.

44 And whoever falls upon this stone shall be broken; but the one upon whom it falls, it shall crush."

45 And when the chief priests and Pharisees had heard his parables, they knew that he was speaking concerning them.

46 And seeking to seize him, they feared the crowds, because they held him as a prophet.

CHAPTER 22

1 And Jesus answered and again spoke to them in parables, saying:

2 “The kingdom of heaven has become like a man who was a king and made a wedding feast for his son.

3 And he sent his servants to call those who were invited to the wedding, and they would not come.

4 Again he sent other servants, saying, ‘Tell those who are invited: Behold, I have prepared my dinner. My bulls and fattened animals have been slaughtered, and all things are ready. Come to the wedding.’

5 But they neglected it and went away, one to his farm and another to his business.

6 And the rest seized his servants and, after subjecting them to insults, killed them.

7 And when the king heard this, he was angry; and sending his armies, he destroyed those murderers and burned their city.

8 Then he said to his servants, ‘The wedding indeed is ready, but those who were invited were not worthy.

9 Therefore, go to the crossroads, and call whomever you find to the wedding.’

10 And his servants went out into the roads and gathered all whom they found, evil and good; and the wedding was filled with those reclining.

11 And the king entered to see those reclining, and he saw there a man not clothed in a wedding garment.

12 And he said to him, ‘Friend, how did you enter here without having a wedding garment?’ But he was speechless.

13 Then the king said to the attendants, ‘With his hands and feet bound, cast him into the exterior darkness. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’

14 For many are called, but few chosen.”

15 Then the Pharisees went away and took counsel how they might catch him in a word.

16 And they sent their disciples to him with the Herodians, saying, “Master, we know that you are truthful and teach the way of God in truth, and you have no concern for anyone, for you do not regard the person of men.

17 Tell us, therefore, what you think: is it lawful to give tax to Caesar, or not?”

18 But Jesus, knowing their wickedness, said, “Why do you tempt me, hypocrites?

19 Show me the coin of the tax.” And they offered him a denarius.

20 And Jesus said to them, “Whose image and inscription is this?”

21 They said to him, “Caesar’s.” Then he said to them, “Therefore, render to Caesar the things that are Caesar’s, and to God the things that are God’s.”

22 And hearing this, they marveled; and leaving him, they went away.

23 On that day the Sadducees, who say that there is no resurrection, drew near to him and questioned him,

24 saying, “Master, Moses said: ‘If a man dies having no son, let his brother take that man’s wife and raise up seed for his brother.’

25 Now there were seven brothers among us. And the first, having taken a wife, died; and having no seed, he left his wife to his brother.

26 Likewise the second, and the third, even to the seventh.

27 And last of all, the woman also died.

28 Therefore, in the resurrection, of the seven, whose wife shall she be? For they all had her.”

29 And Jesus answered and said to them, “You err, knowing neither the Scriptures nor the power of God.

30 For in the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but they shall be like the angels of God in heaven.

31 But concerning the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what was spoken by God, saying to you:

32 ‘I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob’? He is not the God of the dead, but of the living.”

33 And when the crowds heard this, they marveled at his teaching.

34 But the Pharisees, hearing that he had imposed silence upon the Sadducees, came together as one.

35 And one of them, a teacher of the law, questioned him, tempting him:

36 “Master, which is the great commandment in the law?”

37 Jesus said to him, “You shall love the Lord your God from your whole heart and in your whole soul and in your whole mind.

38 This is the greatest and first commandment.

39 And the second is like it: ‘You shall love your neighbor as yourself.’

40 On these two commandments hang the whole law and the prophets.”

41 And when the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus questioned them,

42 saying, “What do you think concerning Christ? Whose son is he?” They said to him, “David’s.”

43 He said to them, “How then does David in spirit call him Lord, saying:

44 ‘The Lord said to my Lord: Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies the footstool of your feet’?

45 Therefore, if David calls him Lord, how is he his son?”

46 And no one was able to answer him a word, nor did anyone dare from that day to question him any further.

CHAPTER 23

1 Then Jesus spoke to the crowds and to his disciples,

2 saying, “The scribes and Pharisees have sat upon the chair of Moses.

3 Therefore, observe and do all things whatsoever they tell you; but do not act according to their works. For they say and do not.

4 For they bind heavy and unbearable burdens and lay them upon the shoulders of men, but they are unwilling to move them with their own finger.

5 And they do all their works that they may be seen by men. For they broaden their phylacteries and enlarge their fringes.

6 And they love the first reclining places at suppers and the first chairs in the synagogues,

7 and greetings in the marketplace, and to be called Rabbi by men.

8 But you shall not be called Rabbi, for one is your master, and you are all brothers.

9 And call no one your father upon earth, for one is your Father, who is in heaven.

10 Neither shall you be called masters, for one is your master, Christ.

11 He who is greater among you shall be your minister.

12 But he who exalts himself shall be humbled, and he who humbles himself shall be exalted.

13 But woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, because you shut the kingdom of heaven before men! For you do not enter, nor do you permit those who are entering to enter.

14 Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, because you devour the houses of widows while praying long prayers! Because of this, you shall receive greater judgment.

15 Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, because you go about sea and dry land to make one proselyte; and when he has been made one, you make him a son of Gehenna twice as much as yourselves.

16 Woe to you, blind guides, who say, ‘Whoever swears by the temple, it is nothing; but whoever swears by the gold of the temple is bound.’

17 Foolish and blind! For which is greater: the gold, or the temple that sanctifies the gold?

18 And, ‘Whoever swears by the altar, it is nothing; but whoever swears by the gift that is upon it is bound.’

19 Blind men! For which is greater: the gift, or the altar that sanctifies the gift?

20 Therefore, he who swears by the altar swears by it and by all things that are upon it.

21 And whoever swears by the temple swears by it and by him who dwells in it.

22 And he who swears by heaven swears by the throne of God and by him who sits upon it.

23 Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, who tithe mint and dill and cumin, and have left behind the weightier things of the law: judgment and mercy and faith! These you ought to have done, and not to have omitted those.

24 Blind guides, straining out the gnat but swallowing the camel.

25 Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, because you cleanse what is outside the cup and the platter, but within you are full of plunder and uncleanness!

26 Blind Pharisee, first cleanse what is within the cup and the platter, that what is outside may become clean.

27 Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, because you are like whitewashed sepulchers, which appear beautiful to men on the outside but within are full of the bones of the dead and of all filth!

28 So also you indeed appear just to men on the outside, but within you are full of hypocrisy and iniquity.

29 Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, who build the sepulchers of the prophets and adorn the monuments of the just,

30 and say, ‘If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been their companions in the blood of the prophets.’

31 Thus you bear witness to yourselves that you are sons of those who killed the prophets.

32 And you—fill up the measure of your fathers.

33 Serpents, brood of vipers, how shall you flee from the judgment of Gehenna?

34 Therefore, behold, I send to you prophets and wise men and scribes. Some of them you shall kill and crucify, and some of them you shall scourge in your synagogues and persecute from city to city,

35 that all the just blood poured out upon the earth may come upon you, from the blood of Abel the just to the blood of Zechariah, son of Barachiah, whom you killed between the temple and the altar.

36 Amen I say to you: all these things shall come upon this generation.

37 Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you who kill the prophets and stone those who have been sent to you, how often I desired to gather your children, as a hen gathers her chicks beneath her wings, and you were unwilling!

38 Behold, your house shall be left to you desolate.

39 For I say to you: you shall not see me from now on until you say, ‘Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.’”

CHAPTER 24

1 And Jesus, going out from the temple, went away. And his disciples approached to show him the buildings of the temple.

2 But he answered and said to them, “Do you see all these things? Amen I say to you: no stone shall be left here upon stone that shall not be destroyed.”

3 And as he sat upon the Mount of Olives, the disciples approached him privately, saying, “Tell us, when shall these things be? And what shall be the sign of your coming and of the consummation of the age?”

4 And Jesus answered and said to them, “See that no one leads you astray.

5 For many shall come in my name, saying, ‘I am Christ,’ and they shall lead many astray.

6 For you shall hear of wars and reports of wars. See that you are not troubled, for these things must happen, but the end is not yet.

7 For nation shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be pestilences and famines and earthquakes in places.

8 But all these things are the beginnings of sorrows.

9 Then they shall hand you over to tribulation and shall kill you, and you shall be hated by all nations because of my name.

10 And then many shall be scandalized, and they shall hand one another over and hate one another.

11 And many false prophets shall arise and shall lead many astray.

12 And because iniquity has abounded, the love of many shall grow cold.

13 But he who perseveres to the end, he shall be saved.

14 And this Gospel of the kingdom shall be preached throughout the whole world as a testimony to all nations, and then the consummation shall come.

15 Therefore, when you see the abomination of desolation, which was spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing in the holy place—let him who reads understand—

16 then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains.

17 And let him who is on the housetop not descend to take anything from his house.

18 And let him who is in the field not return to take his tunic.

19 But woe to those who are pregnant and those who nurse in those days!

20 And pray that your flight may not take place in winter or on the sabbath.

21 For then there shall be great tribulation, such as has not been from the beginning of the world until now, nor shall be.

22 And unless those days had been shortened, no flesh would be saved; but because of the elect, those days shall be shortened.

23 Then if anyone says to you, ‘Behold, here is Christ,’ or, ‘There,’ do not believe it.

24 For false Christs and false prophets shall arise, and they shall give great signs and wonders, so that even the elect may be led into error, if it can be done.

25 Behold, I have foretold it to you.

26 Therefore, if they say to you, ‘Behold, he is in the desert,’ do not go out; ‘Behold, he is in the inner rooms,’ do not believe it.

27 For as lightning comes from the east and appears as far as the west, so also shall be the coming of the Son of Man.

28 Wherever the body shall be, there the eagles shall also be gathered.

29 And immediately after the tribulation of those days, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be moved.

30 And then the sign of the Son of Man shall appear in heaven. And then all the tribes of the earth shall lament, and they shall see the Son of Man coming in the clouds of heaven with great power and majesty.

31 And he shall send his angels with a trumpet and a great voice, and they shall gather his elect from the four winds, from the furthest reaches of the heavens to their boundaries.

32 And from the fig tree learn a parable: when its branch has now become tender and its leaves have been born, you know that summer is near.

33 So also you, when you see all these things, know that it is near, at the doors.

34 Amen I say to you: this generation shall not pass away until all these things take place.

35 Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

36 But of that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels of heaven, except the Father alone.

37 And as in the days of Noah, so also shall be the coming of the Son of Man.

38 For as in the days before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day when Noah entered the ark,

39 and they did not know until the flood came and took them all, so also shall be the coming of the Son of Man.

40 Then two shall be in the field: one shall be taken up, and one shall be left.

41 Two women shall be grinding at the mill: one shall be taken up, and one shall be left.

42 Therefore, watch, because you do not know at what hour your Lord is to come.

43 But know this: if the master of the household knew at what hour the thief would come, he would certainly watch and would not permit his house to be dug through.

44 Therefore, you also, be ready, because at an hour you do not know, the Son of Man is to come.

45 Who, do you think, is the faithful and prudent servant whom his master appointed over his household to give them food in its season?

46 Blessed is that servant whom his master, when he comes, shall find doing so.

47 Amen I say to you: he shall appoint him over all his goods.

48 But if that evil servant says in his heart, ‘My master has delayed coming,’

49 and begins to strike his fellow servants, and eats and drinks with drunkards,

50 the master of that servant shall come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour he does not know,

51 and shall cut him apart and place his portion with the hypocrites. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

CHAPTER 25

1 Then the kingdom of heaven shall be like ten virgins who, taking their lamps, went out to meet the bridegroom and the bride.

2 And five of them were foolish, and five prudent.

3 But the five foolish virgins, having taken their lamps, did not take oil with them.

4 But the prudent took oil in their vessels with their lamps.

5 And as the bridegroom delayed, they all grew drowsy and slept.

6 But at midnight a cry arose: ‘Behold, the bridegroom comes! Go out to meet him.’

7 Then all those virgins arose and put their lamps in order.

8 And the foolish said to the wise, ‘Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.’

9 The prudent answered, saying, ‘Lest perhaps there be not enough for us and for you, go rather to those who sell and buy for yourselves.’

10 But while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and those who were ready entered with him into the wedding feast, and the door was closed.

11 And at last the remaining virgins also came, saying, ‘Lord, Lord, open to us.’

12 But he answered and said, ‘Amen I say to you: I do not know you.’

13 Watch, therefore, because you know neither the day nor the hour.

14 For it is as when a man setting out abroad called his servants and handed his goods over to them.

15 And to one he gave five talents, and to another two, and to another one, to each according to his own ability; and he set out immediately.

16 And he who had received the five talents went and worked with them and gained another five.

17 Likewise, he who had received two gained another two.

18 But he who had received one went away, dug into the earth, and hid his master’s money.

19 And after a long time, the master of those servants came and settled an account with them.

20 And he who had received five talents approached and offered another five talents, saying, ‘Lord, you handed five talents over to me. Behold, I have gained another five besides.’

21 His master said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant. Because you have been faithful over a few things, I shall appoint you over many. Enter into the joy of your master.’

22 And he who had received two talents also approached and said, ‘Lord, you handed two talents over to me. Behold, I have gained another two.’

23 His master said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant. Because you have been faithful over a few things, I shall appoint you over many. Enter into the joy of your master.’

24 But he who had received one talent also approached and said, ‘Lord, I know that you are a hard man: you reap where you did not sow and gather where you did not scatter.

25 And being afraid, I went and hid your talent in the earth. Behold, you have what is yours.’

26 But his master answered and said to him, ‘Evil and slothful servant, you knew that I reap where I do not sow and gather where I did not scatter.

27 Therefore, you ought to have entrusted my money to the money changers, and when I came, I would certainly have received what is mine with interest.

28 Therefore, take the talent away from him and give it to him who has ten talents.

29 For to everyone who has, it shall be given, and he shall abound; but from him who does not have, even what he seems to have shall be taken away.

30 And cast the useless servant into the exterior darkness. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’

31 And when the Son of Man comes in his majesty, and all the angels with him, then he shall sit upon the seat of his majesty.

32 And all nations shall be gathered before him, and he shall separate them from one another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the young goats.

33 And he shall indeed set the sheep at his right, but the young goats at his left.

34 Then the king shall say to those who shall be at his right, ‘Come, you blessed of my Father; possess the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.

35 For I was hungry, and you gave me food; I was thirsty, and you gave me drink; I was a stranger, and you took me in.

36 I was naked, and you covered me; I was sick, and you visited me; I was in prison, and you came to me.’

37 Then the just shall answer him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you drink?

38 And when did we see you a stranger and take you in, or naked and cover you?

39 Or when did we see you sick or in prison and come to you?’

40 And the king shall answer and say to them, ‘Amen I say to you: as long as you did it to one of these least brothers of mine, you did it to me.’

41 Then he shall also say to those who shall be at his left, ‘Depart from me, you cursed, into the eternal fire that has been prepared for the devil and his angels.

42 For I was hungry, and you did not give me food; I was thirsty, and you did not give me drink.

43 I was a stranger, and you did not take me in; naked, and you did not cover me; sick and in prison, and you did not visit me.’

44 Then they also shall answer him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison and did not minister to you?’

45 Then he shall answer them, saying, ‘Amen I say to you: as long as you did not do it to one of these lesser ones, neither did you do it to me.’

46 And these shall go into eternal punishment, but the just into eternal life.”

CHAPTER 26

1 And it came to pass, when Jesus had completed all these discourses, that he said to his disciples,

2 “You know that after two days the Passover shall take place, and the Son of Man shall be handed over to be crucified.”

3 Then the chief priests and the elders of the people assembled in the courtyard of the high priest, who was called Caiaphas,

4 and took counsel that they might seize Jesus by guile and kill him.

5 But they said, “Not on the feast day, lest perhaps a tumult arise among the people.”

6 And when Jesus was in Bethany in the house of Simon the leper,

7 a woman approached him, having an alabaster vessel of precious ointment, and poured it upon his head as he reclined.

8 But when the disciples saw this, they were indignant, saying, “Why this waste?

9 For this could have been sold for much and given to the poor.”

10 But Jesus, knowing this, said to them, “Why do you trouble this woman? For she has performed a good work upon me.

11 For you always have the poor with you, but you do not always have me.

12 For in pouring this ointment upon my body, she did it for my burial.

13 Amen I say to you: wherever this Gospel shall be preached in the whole world, what she has done shall also be told in memory of her.”

14 Then one of the twelve, who was called Judas Iscariot, went to the chief priests

15 and said to them, “What will you give me, and I shall hand him over to you?” And they appointed for him thirty silver pieces.

16 And from then on, he sought an opportunity to hand him over.

17 And on the first day of Unleavened Bread, the disciples approached Jesus, saying, “Where do you wish us to prepare for you to eat the Passover?”

18 But Jesus said, “Go into the city to a certain man and say to him, ‘The Master says: My time is near. At your house I keep the Passover with my disciples.’”

19 And the disciples did as Jesus appointed them, and they prepared the Passover.

20 And when evening had come, he reclined with his twelve disciples.

21 And as they ate, he said, “Amen I say to you: one of you is about to hand me over.”

22 And grieved exceedingly, they each began to say, “Surely it is not I, Lord?”

23 But he answered and said, “He who dips his hand with me into the platter, he shall hand me over.

24 The Son of Man indeed goes, as it is written of him; but woe to that man through whom the Son of Man shall be handed over! It would have been good for him if that man had not been born.”

25 And Judas, who handed him over, answered and said, “Surely it is not I, Rabbi?” He said to him, “You have said it.”

26 And while they were at supper, Jesus took bread and blessed and broke it, and gave it to his disciples and said, “Take and eat. This is my body.”

27 And taking the cup, he gave thanks and gave it to them, saying, “Drink from this, all of you.

28 For this is my blood of the new testament, which shall be poured out for many unto the remission of sins.

29 But I say to you: I shall not drink from now on of this produce of the vine until that day when I shall drink it new with you in the kingdom of my Father.”

30 And having sung a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives.

31 Then Jesus said to them, “All of you shall suffer scandal because of me this night. For it is written: ‘I shall strike the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered.’

32 But after I have risen, I shall go before you into Galilee.”

33 And Peter answered and said to him, “Even if all are scandalized because of you, I shall never be scandalized.”

34 Jesus said to him, “Amen I say to you: this night, before the cock crows, you shall deny me three times.”

35 Peter said to him, “Even if it should be necessary for me to die with you, I shall not deny you.” And all the disciples spoke likewise.

36 Then Jesus came with them to an estate called Gethsemane, and he said to his disciples, “Sit here while I go there and pray.”

37 And taking Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, he began to grow sorrowful and to be mournful.

38 Then he said to them, “My soul is sorrowful even unto death. Remain here and watch with me.”

39 And going forward a little, he fell upon his face, praying and saying, “My Father, if it is possible, let this cup pass from me. Nevertheless, not as I will, but as you will.”

40 And he came to his disciples and found them sleeping, and he said to Peter, “Were you thus unable to watch one hour with me?

41 Watch and pray that you may not enter into temptation. The spirit indeed is ready, but the flesh is weak.”

42 Again, he went away a second time and prayed, saying, “My Father, if this cup cannot pass unless I drink it, may your will be done.”

43 And he came again and found them sleeping, for their eyes were weighed down.

44 And leaving them, he went away again and prayed a third time, saying the same thing.

45 Then he came to his disciples and said to them, “Sleep now and rest. Behold, the hour has drawn near, and the Son of Man shall be handed over into the hands of sinners.

46 Rise, let us go. Behold, he who shall hand me over has drawn near.”

47 While he was still speaking, behold, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great crowd with swords and clubs, sent by the chief priests and elders of the people.

48 And he who handed him over gave them a sign, saying, “Whomever I kiss, he is the one. Seize him.”

49 And immediately approaching Jesus, he said, “Hail, Rabbi,” and kissed him.

50 And Jesus said to him, “Friend, for what have you come?” Then they approached and laid hands upon Jesus and seized him.

51 And behold, one of those who were with Jesus stretched out his hand, drew his sword, and striking the servant of the high priest, cut off his ear.

52 Then Jesus said to him, “Return your sword to its place, for all who take the sword shall perish by the sword.

53 Or do you think that I cannot entreat my Father, and he will furnish me now with more than twelve legions of angels?

54 How then shall the Scriptures be fulfilled, that it must happen thus?”

55 In that hour Jesus said to the crowds, “You have come out with swords and clubs to apprehend me, as though against a robber. Daily I sat with you, teaching in the temple, and you did not seize me.

56 But all this has happened that the Scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled.” Then all the disciples left him and fled.

57 But they seized Jesus and led him to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and elders had assembled.

58 And Peter followed him from afar, as far as the courtyard of the high priest. And entering within, he sat with the attendants that he might see the end.

59 And the chief priests and the whole council sought false testimony against Jesus, that they might hand him over to death,

60 and they did not find any, though many false witnesses had approached. And at last two false witnesses came

61 and said, “This man said, ‘I can destroy the temple of God and rebuild it after three days.’”

62 And the high priest arose and said to him, “Do you answer nothing to what these men testify against you?”

63 But Jesus was silent. And the high priest said to him, “I adjure you by the living God to tell us whether you are Christ, the Son of God.”

64 Jesus said to him, “You have said it. Nevertheless, I say to you: from now on, you shall see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of the power of God and coming in the clouds of heaven.”

65 Then the high priest tore his garments, saying, “He has blasphemed! What further need have we of witnesses? Behold, now you have heard the blasphemy.

66 What do you think?” And they answered and said, “He is guilty of death.”

67 Then they spat in his face and struck him with fists, while others struck his face with their palms,

68 saying, “Prophesy to us, Christ. Who is it that struck you?”

69 But Peter sat outside in the courtyard, and one maid approached him, saying, “You also were with Jesus the Galilean.”

70 But he denied it before them all, saying, “I do not know what you are saying.”

71 And as he went out through the gate, another maid saw him and said to those who were there, “This man also was with Jesus the Nazarene.”

72 And again he denied it with an oath: “I do not know the man.”

73 And after a little while, those who stood there approached and said to Peter, “Truly, you also are one of them, for even your speech makes you manifest.”

74 Then he began to curse and to swear that he did not know the man. And immediately the cock crowed.

75 And Peter remembered the word of Jesus, which he had said: “Before the cock crows, you shall deny me three times.” And going outside, he wept bitterly.

CHAPTER 27

1 And when morning had come, all the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Jesus, that they might hand him over to death.

2 And they led him away bound and handed him over to Pontius Pilate the governor.

3 Then Judas, who handed him over, seeing that he had been condemned, was moved by repentance and returned the thirty silver pieces to the chief priests and elders,

4 saying, “I have sinned by handing over just blood.” But they said, “What is that to us? You see to it.”

5 And casting the silver pieces into the temple, he withdrew; and going away, he hanged himself with a noose.

6 But the chief priests, taking the silver pieces, said, “It is not lawful to put them into the corban, because it is the price of blood.”

7 And having taken counsel, they bought with them the potter’s field as a burial place for strangers.

8 Because of this, that field has been called Haceldama, that is, the Field of Blood, even to this day.

9 Then was fulfilled what was spoken through Jeremiah the prophet, saying, “And they took the thirty silver pieces, the price of the one valued, whom they valued from the sons of Israel,

10 and they gave them for the potter’s field, as the Lord appointed me.”

11 And Jesus stood before the governor, and the governor questioned him, saying, “Are you the King of the Jews?” Jesus said to him, “You say it.”

12 And when he was accused by the chief priests and elders, he answered nothing.

13 Then Pilate said to him, “Do you not hear how many testimonies they speak against you?”

14 And he did not answer him a single word, so that the governor marveled exceedingly.

15 Now on the solemn day, the governor was accustomed to release to the people one prisoner whom they wished.

16 And at that time, he had a notable prisoner who was called Barabbas.

17 Therefore, when they had assembled, Pilate said, “Whom do you wish me to release to you: Barabbas, or Jesus who is called Christ?”

18 For he knew that they had handed him over through envy.

19 And as he sat upon the judgment seat, his wife sent to him, saying, “Have nothing to do with that just man, for I have suffered many things today through a vision because of him.”

20 But the chief priests and elders persuaded the crowds that they should ask for Barabbas and destroy Jesus.

21 And the governor answered and said to them, “Which of the two do you wish to be released to you?” And they said, “Barabbas.”

22 Pilate said to them, “What then shall I do with Jesus, who is called Christ?”

23 They all said, “Let him be crucified.” The governor said to them, “For what evil has he done?” But they cried out all the more, saying, “Let him be crucified.”

24 And Pilate, seeing that he accomplished nothing but that a tumult arose all the more, took water and washed his hands before the people, saying, “I am innocent of the blood of this just man. You see to it.”

25 And all the people answered and said, “His blood be upon us and upon our children.”

26 Then he released Barabbas to them; but Jesus, having been scourged, he handed over to them to be crucified.

27 Then the governor’s soldiers took Jesus into the praetorium and gathered the whole cohort around him.

28 And stripping him, they wrapped a scarlet cloak around him.

29 And plaiting a crown from thorns, they placed it upon his head and a reed in his right hand. And bending the knee before him, they mocked him, saying, “Hail, King of the Jews.”

30 And spitting upon him, they took the reed and kept striking his head.

31 And after they had mocked him, they stripped the cloak from him and clothed him in his own garments, and led him away to crucify him.

32 And as they went out, they found a Cyrenian man named Simon. They compelled him to take up his cross.

33 And they came to the place called Golgotha, which is the Place of Calvary.

34 And they gave him wine mixed with gall to drink. And when he had tasted it, he would not drink.

35 And after they had crucified him, they divided his garments, casting a lot, that what was spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled, saying, “They divided my garments among themselves, and over my garment they cast the lot.”

36 And sitting down, they guarded him.

37 And they placed the written charge against him above his head: “This is Jesus, the King of the Jews.”

38 Then two robbers were crucified with him, one at his right and one at his left.

39 And those passing by blasphemed him, moving their heads

40 and saying, “Ha! You who destroy the temple of God and rebuild it in three days, save yourself. If you are the Son of God, come down from the cross.”

41 Likewise, the chief priests also, mocking him with the scribes and elders, said,

42 “He saved others; he cannot save himself. If he is the King of Israel, let him now come down from the cross, and we shall believe him.

43 He trusts in God. Let him deliver him now, if he wants him, for he said, ‘I am the Son of God.’”

44 And the robbers who had been crucified with him reproached him with the same thing.

45 And from the sixth hour, darkness came over the whole earth until the ninth hour.

46 And around the ninth hour, Jesus cried out with a great voice, saying, “Eli, Eli, lamma sabacthani?” That is, “My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?”

47 And some who stood there and heard this said, “This man calls Elijah.”

48 And immediately one of them ran and, taking a sponge, filled it with vinegar and placed it upon a reed and gave it to him to drink.

49 But the others said, “Leave him. Let us see whether Elijah comes to deliver him.”

50 And Jesus, crying out again with a great voice, gave up the spirit.

51 And behold, the veil of the temple was torn into two parts from top to bottom, and the earth was moved, and the rocks were split.

52 And the monuments were opened, and many bodies of the saints who had slept arose.

53 And going out from the monuments after his resurrection, they came into the holy city and appeared to many.

54 And the centurion and those who were with him guarding Jesus, having seen the earthquake and the things that were happening, feared exceedingly, saying, “Truly, this man was the Son of God.”

55 And there were many women there from afar who had followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering to him,

56 among whom were Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Joseph, and the mother of the sons of Zebedee.

57 And when evening had come, a certain rich man from Arimathea came, named Joseph, who was himself also a disciple of Jesus.

58 This man approached Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded that the body be given to him.

59 And taking the body, Joseph wrapped it in a clean linen cloth

60 and placed it in his own new monument, which he had hewn in the rock. And he rolled a great stone to the entrance of the monument and went away.

61 And Mary Magdalene and the other Mary were there, sitting opposite the sepulcher.

62 And on the next day, which is after the Parasceve, the chief priests and Pharisees assembled before Pilate,

63 saying, “Sir, we have remembered that while he was still living, that deceiver said, ‘After three days I shall rise again.’

64 Therefore, command the sepulcher to be guarded until the third day, lest perhaps his disciples come and steal him and say to the people, ‘He has risen from the dead,’ and the last error will be worse than the first.”

65 Pilate said to them, “You have a guard. Go, guard it as you know how.”

66 And they went away and secured the sepulcher, sealing the stone, with the guards.

CHAPTER 28

1 Now in the evening of the sabbath, as it dawned toward the first day of the week, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary came to see the sepulcher.

2 And behold, a great earthquake came to pass. For an angel of the Lord descended from heaven and, approaching, rolled back the stone and sat upon it.

3 And his appearance was like lightning, and his garment like snow.

4 And for fear of him, the guards were terrified and became like dead men.

5 But the angel answered and said to the women, “As for you, do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus, who was crucified.

6 He is not here, for he has risen, as he said. Come and see the place where the Lord had been laid.

7 And go quickly and tell his disciples that he has risen. And behold, he goes before you into Galilee. There you shall see him. Behold, I have foretold it to you.”

8 And they went out quickly from the monument with fear and great joy, running to announce it to his disciples.

9 And behold, Jesus met them, saying, “Greetings.” And they approached and held his feet and adored him.

10 Then Jesus said to them, “Do not be afraid. Go, announce to my brothers that they are to go into Galilee. There they shall see me.”

11 And when they had gone away, behold, some of the guards came into the city and reported to the chief priests all the things that had happened.

12 And assembling with the elders and taking counsel, they gave abundant money to the soldiers,

13 saying, “Say that his disciples came by night and stole him while we were sleeping.

14 And if this is heard by the governor, we shall persuade him and make you secure.”

15 And they, taking the money, did as they had been taught. And this word was spread among the Jews even to this day.

16 And the eleven disciples went into Galilee, to the mountain that Jesus had appointed for them.

17 And seeing him, they adored him; but some doubted.

18 And Jesus approached and spoke to them, saying, “All authority has been given to me in heaven and on earth.

19 Therefore, go and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit,

20 teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you all days, until the consummation of the age.”

BOOK FORTY-ONE: MARK

CHAPTER 1

1 The beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

2 As it is written in Isaiah the prophet: “Behold, I send my angel before your face, who shall prepare your way before you.

3 A voice of one crying in the desert: Prepare the way of the Lord (YHWH); make his paths straight.”

4 John was in the desert, baptizing and preaching a baptism of penance unto the remission of sins.

5 And the whole region of Judea was going out to him, and all the Jerusalemites; and they were baptized by him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins.

6 And John was clothed in camel hair, with a leather belt around his waist; and he ate locusts and wild honey.

7 And he preached, saying, “One stronger than I is coming after me, the strap of whose sandals I am not worthy to stoop down and loose.

8 I have baptized you with water, but he shall baptize you with the Holy Spirit.”

9 And it came to pass that in those days Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee and was baptized by John in the Jordan.

10 And immediately, coming up from the water, he saw the heavens opened, and the Spirit descending like a dove and remaining in him.

11 And a voice came from the heavens: “You are my beloved Son; in you I am well pleased.”

12 And immediately the Spirit drove him out into the desert.

13 And he was in the desert forty days and forty nights, and he was tempted by Satan; and he was with the beasts, and the angels ministered to him.

14 But after John had been handed over, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the Gospel of the kingdom of God,

15 and saying, “The time has been fulfilled, and the kingdom of God has drawn near. Do penance, and believe the Gospel.”

16 And passing beside the Sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting nets into the sea, for they were fishermen.

17 And Jesus said to them, “Come after me, and I shall make you become fishers of men.”

18 And immediately, leaving their nets, they followed him.

19 And going on a little from there, he saw James son of Zebedee and John his brother, themselves also mending nets in the boat.

20 And immediately he called them. And leaving their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired men, they followed him.

21 And they entered Capernaum; and immediately, entering the synagogue on the Sabbath, he taught them.

22 And they were astounded at his teaching, for he was teaching them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.

23 And in their synagogue was a man in an unclean spirit, and he cried out,

24 saying, “What is there between us and you, Jesus the Nazarene? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are: the Holy One of God.”

25 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, “Be silent, and come out of the man.”

26 And the unclean spirit, tearing him and crying out with a great voice, came out from him.

27 And they all marveled, so that they questioned among themselves, saying, “What is this? What is this new teaching, that with authority he commands even the unclean spirits, and they obey him?”

28 And the report of him went out immediately into all the region of Galilee.

29 And immediately, going out from the synagogue, they came into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John.

30 Now Simon’s mother-in-law lay ill with a fever, and immediately they told him about her.

31 And drawing near, he raised her, grasping her hand; and immediately the fever left her, and she ministered to them.

32 Now when evening had come, when the sun had set, they brought to him all who were ill and those who had demons.

33 And the whole city was gathered at the door.

34 And he healed many who were vexed by various sicknesses, and cast out many demons; and he did not permit them to speak, because they knew him.

35 And rising very early, he went out to a desert place and prayed there.

36 And Simon and those who were with him went after him.

37 And when they had found him, they said to him, “Everyone is seeking you.”

38 And he said to them, “Let us go into the neighboring villages and cities, that I may preach there also; for I came for this.”

39 And he was preaching in their synagogues and throughout all Galilee, and casting out demons.

40 And a leper came to him, pleading with him; and bending the knee, he said to him, “If you will, you can cleanse me.”

41 And Jesus, having mercy on him, extended his hand and touched him, and said to him, “I will. Be cleansed.”

42 And when he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleansed.

43 And sternly charging him, he immediately cast him out,

44 and said to him, “See that you tell no one; but go, show yourself to the chief priest, and offer for your cleansing what Moses commanded, as a testimony to them.”

45 But going out, he began to preach and spread the word abroad, so that Jesus could no longer enter a city openly, but was outside in desert places; and they came to him from every side.

CHAPTER 2

1 And after some days he again entered Capernaum,

2 and it was heard that he was in the house; and many came together, so that there was no room, not even at the door, and he spoke the word to them.

3 And they came to him bringing a paralytic, who was carried by four.

4 And when they could not bring him to Jesus because of the crowd, they uncovered the roof where he was; and opening it, they lowered the pallet on which the paralytic lay.

5 And when Jesus had seen their faith, he said to the paralytic, “Son, your sins are forgiven you.”

6 Now certain scribes were sitting there and thinking in their hearts:

7 “Why does this man speak thus? He blasphemes. Who can forgive sins except God alone?”

8 And Jesus, immediately knowing in his spirit that they were thinking thus within themselves, said to them, “Why do you think these things in your hearts?

9 Which is easier to say to the paralytic: ‘Your sins are forgiven you,’ or to say, ‘Rise, take up your pallet, and walk’?

10 But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins”—he said to the paralytic—

11 “I say to you: Rise, take up your pallet, and go into your house.”

12 And immediately he arose; and taking up the pallet, he went away before them all, so that they all marveled and honored God, saying, “We have never seen anything like this.”

13 And he went out again to the sea; and the whole crowd came to him, and he taught them.

14 And as he passed by, he saw Levi son of Alphaeus sitting at the tax booth, and said to him, “Follow me.” And rising, he followed him.

15 And it came to pass, as he reclined in his house, that many publicans and sinners reclined together with Jesus and his disciples; for there were many who also followed him.

16 And the scribes and Pharisees, seeing that he ate with publicans and sinners, said to his disciples, “Why does your Master eat and drink with publicans and sinners?”

17 Hearing this, Jesus said to them, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are ill. For I came not to call the just, but sinners.”

18 Now the disciples of John and the Pharisees were fasting; and they came and said to him, “Why do the disciples of John and of the Pharisees fast, but your disciples do not fast?”

19 And Jesus said to them, “Can the sons of the wedding fast as long as the bridegroom is with them? During all the time they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast.

20 But days shall come when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then, in those days, they shall fast.

21 No one sews a patch of unshrunk cloth onto an old garment; otherwise the new patch pulls away from the old, and the tear becomes greater.

22 And no one puts new wine into old wineskins; otherwise the wine shall burst the wineskins, and the wine shall be poured out, and the wineskins shall perish. But new wine must be put into new wineskins.”

23 And it came to pass again, as the Lord walked through the grainfields on Sabbaths, that his disciples began to go forward and to pluck ears of grain.

24 And the Pharisees said to him, “Behold, why do they do on Sabbaths what is not lawful?”

25 And he said to them, “Have you never read what David did when he had need and was hungry, he and those who were with him?

26 How he entered the house of God under Abiathar the chief priest and ate the loaves of proposition, which it was not lawful to eat except for priests, and gave them to those who were with him?”

27 And he said to them, “The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

28 Therefore, the Son of Man is Lord even of the Sabbath.”

CHAPTER 3

1 And he entered the synagogue again; and there was a man there who had a withered hand.

2 And they watched him to see whether he would heal on Sabbaths, that they might accuse him.

3 And he said to the man who had the withered hand, “Rise into the midst.”

4 And he said to them, “Is it lawful on Sabbaths to do good, or evil? To save a soul, or destroy it?” But they were silent.

5 And looking around at them with anger, grieved over the blindness of their heart, he said to the man, “Extend your hand.” And he extended it, and his hand was restored.

6 But the Pharisees went out and immediately took counsel with the Herodians against him, as to how they might destroy him.

7 But Jesus withdrew with his disciples to the sea; and a great crowd from Galilee and Judea followed him,

8 and from Jerusalem, and Idumea, and beyond the Jordan; and those around Tyre and Sidon—a great multitude—hearing what he did, came to him.

9 And he told his disciples that a little boat should stand ready for him because of the crowd, lest they press upon him.

10 For he healed many, so that all who had plagues rushed upon him, that they might touch him.

11 And the unclean spirits, when they saw him, fell down before him and cried out, saying,

12 “You are the Son of God.” And he charged them vehemently not to make him manifest.

13 And ascending the mountain, he called to himself those whom he himself willed; and they came to him.

14 And he appointed twelve to be with him, and so that he might send them to preach.

15 And he gave them authority to heal infirmities and to cast out demons.

16 And he gave Simon the name Peter;

17 and James son of Zebedee, and John the brother of James; and he gave them the names Boanerges, that is, Sons of Thunder;

18 and Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James son of Alphaeus, and Thaddeus, and Simon the Canaanite,

19 and Judas Iscariot, who also handed him over.

20 And they came to the house; and the crowd came together again, so that they could not even eat bread.

21 And when his own people heard, they went out to seize him; for they were saying, “He has gone mad.”

22 And the scribes who had come down from Jerusalem were saying, “He has Beelzebub, and by the prince of demons he casts out demons.”

23 And calling them together, he said to them in parables, “How can Satan cast out Satan?

24 And if a kingdom is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand.

25 And if a house is divided against itself, that house cannot stand.

26 And if Satan has risen up against himself, he is divided and shall not be able to stand, but has an end.

27 No one can enter a strong man’s house and plunder his vessels unless he first binds the strong man; and then he shall plunder his house.

28 Amen I say to you: all sins shall be forgiven the sons of men, and the blasphemies by which they shall have blasphemed;

29 but whoever shall blaspheme against the Holy Spirit shall not have forgiveness forever, but shall be guilty of an eternal offense.”

30 For they were saying, “He has an unclean spirit.”

31 And his mother and brothers came; and standing outside, they sent to him, calling him.

32 And a crowd sat around him; and they said to him, “Behold, your mother and your brothers are outside seeking you.”

33 And answering them, he said, “Who is my mother, and who are my brothers?”

34 And looking around at those who sat around him, he said, “Behold my mother and my brothers.

35 For whoever does the will of God, this one is my brother and my sister and mother.”

CHAPTER 4

1 And again he began to teach beside the sea; and a great crowd gathered to him, so that, entering a boat, he sat on the sea, while the whole crowd was on the land beside the sea.

2 And he taught them many things in parables and said to them in his teaching:

3 “Hear: behold, the sower went out to sow.

4 And as he sowed, one fell beside the way; and the birds of heaven came and ate it.

5 And another fell upon rocky places, where it did not have much earth; and immediately it sprang up, because it had no depth of earth.

6 And when the sun had risen, it was scorched; and because it had no root, it withered.

7 And another fell among thorns; and the thorns rose and choked it, and it gave no fruit.

8 And another fell upon good earth; and it yielded fruit that rose and grew, and it bore, one thirtyfold, one sixtyfold, and one a hundredfold.”

9 And he said, “He who has ears to hear, let him hear.”

10 And when he was alone, those who were with him, the twelve, questioned him about the parable.

11 And he said to them, “To you it has been given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God; but to those who are outside, all things are done in parables,

12 so that seeing they may see and not see, and hearing they may hear and not understand, lest at any time they be converted and their sins be forgiven them.”

13 And he said to them, “Do you not know this parable? And how shall you know all the parables?

14 He who sows, sows the word.

15 Now these are those beside the way, where the word is sown; and when they hear, immediately Satan comes and takes away the word that was sown in their hearts.

16 And these likewise are those sown upon rocky places: when they hear the word, they immediately receive it with joy;

17 and they have no root in themselves, but are temporary. Then, when tribulation and persecution arise because of the word, they are immediately scandalized.

18 And others are those sown among thorns; these are those who hear the word,

19 and the hardships of the age, and the deceit of riches, and desires for other things enter in and choke the word, and it becomes fruitless.

20 And these are those who were sown upon good earth, who hear the word and receive it and bear fruit, one thirtyfold, one sixtyfold, and one a hundredfold.”

21 And he said to them, “Does a lamp come that it may be placed beneath a bushel or beneath a bed? Is it not that it may be placed upon a lampstand?

22 For there is nothing hidden that shall not be manifested; nor has anything been made secret, but that it may come into the open.

23 If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear.”

24 And he said to them, “See what you hear. With the measure by which you measure, it shall be measured back to you, and shall be added to you.

25 For he who has, to him shall be given; and he who does not have, even what he has shall be taken away from him.”

26 And he said, “So is the kingdom of God, as if a man should cast seed into the earth, 27 and should sleep and rise, night and day, while the seed sprouts and grows, and he does not know it.

28 For the earth bears fruit of itself: first the blade, then the ear, then the full grain in the ear.

29 And when the earth has produced fruit, he immediately puts in the sickle, because the harvest is at hand.”

30 And he said, “To what shall we liken the kingdom of God? Or to what parable shall we compare it?

31 It is like a grain of mustard, which, when sown in the earth, is smaller than all the seeds that are in the earth;

32 and when it has been sown, it rises and becomes greater than all the garden plants, and makes great branches, so that the birds of heaven can dwell beneath its shade."

33 And with many such parables he spoke the word to them, according as they were able to hear.

34 But without a parable he did not speak to them; and apart, he expounded all things to his disciples.

35 And on that day, when evening had come, he said to them, "Let us cross over."

36 And dismissing the crowd, they took him along just as he was in the boat; and other boats were with him.

37 And a great windstorm arose, and the surge was breaking into the boat, so that the boat was being filled.

38 And he himself was in the stern, sleeping upon a cushion; and they awakened him and said to him, "Master, does it not concern you that we are perishing?"

39 And rising, he rebuked the wind and said to the sea, "Be silent. Be mute." And the wind ceased, and there came a great calm.

40 And he said to them, "Why are you fearful? Do you not yet have faith?" And they feared with great fear and said to one another, "Who, do you think, is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?"

CHAPTER 5

1 And they came across the strait of the sea into the region of the Gerasenes.

2 And as he came out of the boat, immediately a man from the tombs met him, in an unclean spirit,

3 who had his dwelling in the tombs; and no one could bind him anymore, not even with chains,

4 because, having often been bound with fetters and chains, he had burst the chains and shattered the fetters; and no one could tame him.

5 And always, day and night, he was in the tombs and in the mountains, crying out and cutting himself with stones.

6 But seeing Jesus from afar, he ran and adored him;

7 and crying out with a great voice, he said, “What is there between me and you, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I adjure you by God, do not torment me.”

8 For he was saying to him, “Come out of the man, unclean spirit.”

9 And he questioned him, “What is your name?” And he said to him, “My name is Legion, for we are many.”

10 And he pleaded with him greatly not to be driven outside the region.

11 Now there near the mountain was a great herd of swine, feeding.

12 And the spirits pleaded with him, saying, “Send us into the swine, that we may enter into them.”

13 And Jesus immediately granted it to them. And the unclean spirits, coming out, entered into the swine; and the herd, about two thousand, plunged headlong with great force into the sea, and they were suffocated in the sea.

14 And those who were feeding them fled and reported it in the city and in the fields. And people went out to see what had happened.

15 And they came to Jesus; and they saw the man who had been vexed by the demon sitting, clothed, and of sound mind, and they were afraid.

16 And those who had seen it recounted to them how it had happened to the man who had had the demon, and concerning the swine.

17 And they began to plead with him to depart from their borders.

18 And as he entered the boat, the man who had been vexed by the demon began to plead with him that he might be with him.

19 And he did not permit him, but said to him, “Go into your house, to your own, and announce to them what great things the Lord has done for you, and how he has had mercy on you.”

20 And he went away and began to preach in the Decapolis what great things Jesus had done for him; and all marveled.

21 And when Jesus had crossed back in the boat across the strait, a great crowd came together to him, and he was beside the sea.

22 And one of the rulers of the synagogue, named Jairus, came; and seeing him, he fell at his feet,

23 and pleaded with him greatly, saying, “My daughter is at the point of death. Come, lay your hand upon her, that she may be saved and live.”

24 And he went with him; and a great crowd followed him, and they pressed him.

25 And a woman who had suffered a flow of blood for twelve years,

26 and had suffered many things at the hands of many physicians, and had spent all she possessed, yet had profited nothing, but rather had grown worse,

27 when she had heard of Jesus, came behind him in the crowd and touched his garment.

28 For she was saying, “If I touch even his garment, I shall be saved.”

29 And immediately the fountain of her blood was dried up; and she felt in her body that she had been healed of the plague.

30 And immediately Jesus, knowing in himself the power that had gone out from him, turned to the crowd and said, “Who touched my garments?”

31 And his disciples said to him, “You see the crowd pressing you, and you say, ‘Who touched me?’”

32 And he looked around to see the woman who had done this.

33 But the woman, fearing and trembling, knowing what had been done in her, came and fell down before him and told him the whole truth.

34 And he said to her, “Daughter, your faith has saved you. Go in peace, and be well, free of your plague.”

35 While he was still speaking, people came from the ruler of the synagogue, saying, “Your daughter is dead. Why trouble the Master any further?”

36 But Jesus, upon hearing the word that was spoken, said to the ruler of the synagogue, “Do not fear; only believe.”

37 And he permitted no one to follow him except Peter, and James, and John the brother of James.

38 And they came to the house of the ruler of the synagogue; and he saw a tumult, and people weeping and wailing greatly.

39 And entering, he said to them, “Why are you troubled and weeping? The girl is not dead, but sleeps.”

40 And they ridiculed him. But he, having cast them all out, took the girl’s father and mother and those who were with him, and entered where the girl lay.

41 And holding the girl’s hand, he said to her, “Talitha cumi,” which is interpreted, “Girl (I say to you), rise.”

42 And immediately the girl arose and was walking; now she was twelve years old. And they were astounded with great astonishment.

43 And he commanded them vehemently that no one should know this; and he said that she should be given something to eat.

CHAPTER 6

1 And going out from there, he went away into his own country; and his disciples followed him.

2 And when the Sabbath had come, he began to teach in the synagogue; and many who heard him marveled at his teaching, saying, “From where does this man have all these things? And what is the wisdom that has been given to him, and such mighty works as are accomplished through his hands?

3 Is this not the carpenter, the son of Mary, the brother of James and Joseph and Judas and Simon? And are not his sisters here with us?” And they were scandalized in him.

4 And Jesus said to them, “A prophet is not without honor except in his own country, and in his own house, and among his own kindred.”

5 And he was not able to perform any mighty work there, except that he healed a few who were sick by laying his hands upon them.

6 And he marveled because of their unbelief; and he went about the villages round about, teaching.

7 And he called the twelve, and began to send them two by two, and gave them authority over unclean spirits.

8 And he commanded them to take nothing for the way except a staff only: no bag, no bread, and no bronze coin in the belt;

9 but to be shod with sandals, and not to put on two tunics.

10 And he said to them, “Whenever you enter a house, remain there until you depart from there.

11 And whoever do not receive you or hear you, as you go out from there, shake the dust from your feet as a testimony to them.”

12 And going out, they preached that men should do penance.

13 And they cast out many demons, and anointed with oil many who were sick, and healed them.

14 And King Herod heard—for his name had become manifest—and he was saying, “John the Baptist has risen from the dead, and therefore mighty works are at work in him.”

15 But others said, “He is Elijah.” And still others said, “He is a prophet, like one of the prophets.”

16 When Herod heard this, he said, “John, whom I beheaded—this man has risen from the dead.”

17 For Herod himself had sent and seized John and bound him in prison because of Herodias, the wife of his brother Philip, for he had married her.

18 For John was saying to Herod, “It is not lawful for you to have your brother’s wife.”

19 But Herodias was laying snares for him and wished to kill him, but could not.

20 For Herod feared John, knowing him to be a just and holy man; and he guarded him, and when he heard him, he did many things and listened to him gladly.

21 And when an opportune day had come, Herod made a supper on his birthday for the princes and tribunes and leading men of Galilee.

22 And when the daughter of Herodias herself had entered and danced and pleased Herod and those reclining with him, the king said to the girl, “Ask of me whatever you wish, and I shall give it to you.”

23 And he swore to her, “Whatever you ask, I shall give you, even half my kingdom.”

24 And when she had gone out, she said to her mother, “What shall I ask?” But she said, “The head of John the Baptist.”

25 And immediately entering with haste to the king, she asked, saying, “I want you to give me at once, on a platter, the head of John the Baptist.”

26 And the king was grieved; but because of his oath and those reclining with him, he did not wish to grieve her.

27 But sending an executioner, he commanded that John’s head be brought on a platter. And the executioner beheaded him in prison, 28 and brought his head on a platter and gave it to the girl; and the girl gave it to her mother.

29 When his disciples heard this, they came and took his body and laid it in a tomb.

30 And the apostles gathered to Jesus and reported to him all that they had done and taught.

31 And he said to them, “Come apart into a desert place and rest a little.” For many were coming and going, and they had no opportunity even to eat.

32 And ascending into the boat, they went away apart into a desert place.

33 And many saw them going away and recognized them; and they ran together on foot from all the cities and arrived there before them.

34 And going out, Jesus saw a great crowd and had mercy on them, because they were like sheep having no shepherd; and he began to teach them many things.

35 And when it had now grown late, his disciples drew near, saying, “This place is desert, and the hour has already passed.

36 Dismiss them, that they may go into the neighboring farms and villages and buy themselves food to eat.”

37 But he answered and said to them, “You give them something to eat.” And they said to him, “Shall we go and buy loaves for two hundred denarii and give them something to eat?”

38 And he said to them, “How many loaves do you have? Go and see.” And when they had learned, they said, “Five, and two fish.”

39 And he commanded them to make everyone recline company by company upon the green grass.

40 And they reclined in divisions, by hundreds and by fifties.

41 And taking the five loaves and the two fish, he looked up to heaven, blessed and broke the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before the people; and he divided the two fish among them all.

42 And they all ate and were filled.

43 And they took up the remains: twelve baskets full of fragments and of the fish.

44 Now those who ate were five thousand men.

45 And immediately he compelled his disciples to ascend into the boat and go before him across the strait to Bethsaida, while he dismissed the people.

46 And when he had dismissed them, he went away to the mountain to pray.

47 And when evening had come, the boat was in the middle of the sea, and he was alone on the land.

48 And seeing them laboring at the oars—for the wind was contrary to them—he came to them around the fourth watch of the night, walking upon the sea; and he wished to pass by them.

49 But when they saw him walking upon the sea, they thought he was a phantom and cried out.

50 For they all saw him and were troubled. And immediately he spoke with them and said to them, “Have confidence; I am. Do not fear.”

51 And he ascended to them into the boat, and the wind ceased. And within themselves they were astonished all the more, 52 for they had not understood concerning the loaves; for their heart had been blinded.

53 And when they had crossed the strait, they came into the land of Gennesareth and landed.

54 And when they had gone out from the boat, the people immediately recognized him.

55 And running throughout that whole region, they began to carry about on pallets those who were ill, wherever they heard that he was.

56 And wherever he entered—into villages, or farms, or cities—they placed the sick in the marketplaces and pleaded with him that they might touch even the fringe of his garment; and as many as touched him were saved.

CHAPTER 7

1 And the Pharisees and some of the scribes, coming from Jerusalem, gathered to him.

2 And when they had seen some of his disciples eat bread with common hands, that is, unwashed, they censured them.

3 For the Pharisees and all the Jews do not eat unless they wash their hands often, holding to the tradition of the elders;

4 and when they come from the marketplace, they do not eat unless they wash themselves. And there are many other things that have been handed down to them to observe: the washings of cups and pitchers and vessels of bronze and beds.

5 And the Pharisees and scribes questioned him, “Why do your disciples not walk according to the tradition of the elders, but eat bread with common hands?”

6 But he answered and said to them, “Well did Isaiah prophesy concerning you hypocrites, as it is written: ‘This people honors me with their lips, but their heart is far from me;

7 but they worship me in vain, teaching doctrines and commandments of men.’

8 For leaving the commandment of God, you hold to the tradition of men: the washings of pitchers and cups; and you do many other things like these.”

9 And he said to them, “Well do you make the commandment of God void, that you may keep your tradition.

10 For Moses said, ‘Honor your father and your mother,’ and, ‘He who curses father or mother shall die by death.’

11 But you say, ‘If a man says to his father or mother, “Whatever from me might have benefited you is Corban”—which means “Gift”—’

12 you no longer permit him to do anything for his father or mother,

13 nullifying the word of God through your tradition, which you have handed down; and you do many things like these.”

14 And calling the crowd to himself again, he said to them, “Hear me, all of you, and understand.

15 There is nothing outside a man that, entering into him, can defile him; but the things that proceed from a man are those that defile a man.

16 If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear.”

17 And when he had entered the house away from the crowd, his disciples questioned him concerning the parable.

18 And he said to them, “Are you also thus without understanding? Do you not understand that everything entering into a man from outside cannot defile him, 19 because it does not enter into his heart, but goes into the belly and passes out into the privy, purging all foods?”

20 And he said that the things that go out from a man are those that defile a man.

21 For from within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders,

22 thefts, acts of greed, wicked deeds, deceit, shameless acts, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, and foolishness.

23 All these evils proceed from within and defile a man.

24 And rising from there, he went away into the borders of Tyre and Sidon. And entering a house, he wished no one to know, but he could not remain hidden.

25 For a woman whose daughter had an unclean spirit entered immediately when she heard of him, and fell at his feet.

26 Now the woman was a Gentile, a Syrophoenician by race. And she pleaded with him to cast the demon out of her daughter.

27 He said to her, “Permit the sons first to be filled, for it is not good to take the bread of the sons and cast it to the dogs.”

28 But she answered and said to him, “Indeed, Lord, for even the little dogs under the table eat from the crumbs of the children.”

29 And he said to her, “Because of this word, go; the demon has gone out from your daughter.”

30 And when she had gone away to her house, she found the girl lying upon the bed, with the demon gone out.

31 And going out again from the borders of Tyre, he came through Sidon to the Sea of Galilee, through the midst of the territory of the Decapolis.

32 And they brought him a man who was deaf and mute, and pleaded with him to lay his hand upon him.

33 And taking him aside from the crowd, he put his fingers into the man’s ears; and spitting, he touched his tongue.

34 And looking up to heaven, he groaned and said to him, “Ephphetha,” which means, “Be opened.”

35 And immediately his ears were opened, and the bond of his tongue was loosed, and he spoke properly.

36 And he commanded them to tell no one. But the more he commanded them, the more abundantly they proclaimed it;

37 and they marveled all the more, saying, “He has done all things well: he has made both the deaf hear and the mute speak.”

CHAPTER 8

1 In those days, when there was again a great crowd and they had nothing to eat, he called his disciples together and said to them,

2 “I have mercy on the crowd, because, behold, they have now stayed with me for three days and have nothing to eat;

3 and if I dismiss them fasting to their own homes, they will faint on the way, for some of them have come from far away.”

4 And his disciples answered him, “From where will anyone be able to fill them with loaves in the desert?”

5 And he questioned them, “How many loaves do you have?” They said, “Seven.”

6 And he commanded the crowd to recline upon the ground. And taking the seven loaves and giving thanks, he broke them and gave them to his disciples to set before the crowd; and they set them before the crowd.

7 And they had a few little fish; and he blessed these also and ordered them to be set before the crowd.

8 And they ate and were filled; and they took up what remained of the fragments: seven hampers.

9 Now those who ate were about four thousand; and he dismissed them.

10 And immediately ascending into the boat with his disciples, he came into the region of Dalmanutha.

11 And the Pharisees went out and began to dispute with him, seeking from him a sign from heaven, tempting him.

12 And groaning in spirit, he said, “Why does this generation seek a sign? Amen I say to you: if a sign shall be given to this generation—”

13 And leaving them, he ascended into the boat again and went away across the strait.

14 And they forgot to take loaves, and they had only one loaf with them in the boat.

15 And he charged them, saying, “Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the leaven of Herod.”

16 And they reasoned with one another, saying, “Because we have no loaves.”

17 When Jesus knew this, he said to them, “Why do you reason because you have no loaves? Do you not yet know or understand? Do you still have your heart blinded?

18 Having eyes, do you not see? And having ears, do you not hear? And do you not remember,

19 when I broke the five loaves among five thousand men, how many baskets full of fragments did you take up?” They said to him, “Twelve.”

20 “And when I broke the seven loaves among four thousand men, how many hampers of fragments did you take up?” And they said to him, “Seven.”

21 And he said to them, “How do you not yet understand?”

22 And they came to Bethsaida; and they brought him a blind man and pleaded with him to touch him.

23 And taking the blind man by the hand, he led him outside the village; and after spitting into his eyes and laying his hands upon him, he asked him whether he saw anything.

24 And looking up, he said, “I see men like trees walking.”

25 Then he laid his hands upon the man’s eyes again; and he began to see, and was restored, so that he saw all things clearly.

26 And he sent him to his house, saying, “Go into your house; and if you enter the village, tell no one.”

27 And Jesus and his disciples went out into the villages of Caesarea Philippi; and on the way he questioned his disciples, saying to them, “Whom do men say that I am?”

28 They answered him, saying, “John the Baptist; others, Elijah; and still others, as one of the prophets.”

29 Then he said to them, “But you, whom do you say that I am?” Peter answered and said to him, “You are Christ.”

30 And he sternly charged them to tell no one concerning him.

31 And he began to teach them that the Son of Man must suffer many things and be rejected by the elders and the chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and after three days rise again.

32 And he spoke the word openly. And Peter, taking him, began to rebuke him.

33 But turning and seeing his disciples, he rebuked Peter, saying, “Go behind me, Satan, for you do not mind the things of God, but the things of men.”

34 And calling the crowd together with his disciples, he said to them, “If anyone wishes to follow me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.

35 For whoever wishes to save his soul shall lose it; but whoever loses his soul because of me and the Gospel shall save it.

36 For what shall it profit a man if he gains the whole world but suffers the loss of his soul?

37 Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

38 For whoever is ashamed of me and my words in this adulterous and sinful generation, the Son of Man also shall be ashamed of him when he comes in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.”

39 And he said to them, “Amen I say to you: there are some of those standing here who shall not taste death until they see the kingdom of God coming in power.”

CHAPTER 9

1 And after six days Jesus took Peter and James and John, and led them apart, alone, onto a high mountain; and he was transfigured before them.

2 And his garments became shining and exceedingly white, like snow, such as no fuller upon earth can make white.

3 And Elijah with Moses appeared to them; and they were speaking with Jesus.

4 And Peter answered and said to Jesus, “Rabbi, it is good for us to be here. And let us make three tabernacles: one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah.”

5 For he did not know what he was saying, for they were terrified with fear.

6 And a cloud came, overshadowing them; and a voice came from the cloud, saying, “This is my dearest Son. Hear him.”

7 And immediately, looking around, they no longer saw anyone except Jesus alone with them.

8 And as they descended from the mountain, he commanded them to tell no one the things they had seen until the Son of Man had risen from the dead.

9 And they kept the word among themselves, questioning what “when he has risen from the dead” meant.

10 And they questioned him, saying, “Why then do the Pharisees and scribes say that Elijah must come first?”

11 He answered and said to them, “Elijah, when he comes first, shall restore all things; and as it is written concerning the Son of Man, he must suffer many things and be despised.

12 But I say to you that Elijah also has come—and they did to him whatever they wished—as it is written concerning him.”

13 And coming to his disciples, he saw a great crowd around them and scribes disputing with them.

14 And immediately all the people, seeing Jesus, were astonished and afraid; and running to him, they greeted him.

15 And he questioned them, “What are you disputing among yourselves?”

16 And one from the crowd answered and said, “Master, I brought my son to you, who has a mute spirit.

17 And wherever it seizes him, it dashes him down; and he foams and gnashes his teeth and withers. And I told your disciples to cast it out, and they could not.”

18 He answered them and said, “O unbelieving generation, how long shall I be among you? How long shall I endure you? Bring him to me.”

19 And they brought him. And when the spirit saw him, it immediately convulsed the boy; and being dashed to the ground, he rolled about foaming.

20 And he questioned his father, “How long has it been since this began to happen to him?” But he said, “From infancy.

21 And frequently it has cast him into fire and into waters to destroy him. But if you can do anything, help us, having mercy on us.”

22 But Jesus said to him, “If you can believe, all things are possible to him who believes.”

23 And immediately the father of the boy cried out with tears, saying, “I believe, Lord; help my unbelief.”

24 And when Jesus saw the crowd running together, he rebuked the unclean spirit, saying to it, “Deaf and mute spirit, I command you: go out from him, and enter into him no more.”

25 And crying out and rending him severely, it went out from him; and he became like one dead, so that many said, “He is dead.”

26 But Jesus, taking him by the hand, raised him up; and he arose.

27 And when he had entered the house, his disciples questioned him privately, “Why could we not cast it out?”

28 And he said to them, “This kind cannot go out except through prayer and fasting.”

29 And departing from there, they passed through Galilee; and he did not wish anyone to know.

30 But he taught his disciples and said to them, “The Son of Man shall be handed over into the hands of men, and they shall kill him; and when killed, he shall rise again on the third day.”

31 But they did not understand the word, and they were afraid to question him.

32 And they came to Capernaum. And when they were in the house, he questioned them, “What were you discussing on the way?”

33 But they were silent, for on the way they had disputed among themselves which of them was greater.

34 And sitting down, he called the twelve and said to them, “If anyone wishes to be first, he shall be last of all and minister of all.”

35 And taking a child, he placed him in their midst; and when he had embraced him, he said to them,

36 “Whoever receives one of such children in my name receives me; and whoever receives me receives not me, but him who sent me.”

37 John answered him, saying, “Master, we saw someone casting out demons in your name who does not follow us, and we forbade him.”

38 But Jesus said, “Do not forbid him, for there is no one who performs a mighty work in my name and can quickly speak evil of me.

39 For he who is not against you is for you.

40 For whoever gives you a cup of water to drink in my name, because you belong to Christ, amen I say to you, he shall not lose his reward.

41 And whoever scandalizes one of these little ones who believe in me, it is better for him if a millstone turned by an ass is placed around his neck and he is cast into the sea.

42 And if your hand scandalizes you, cut it off. It is good for you to enter maimed into life rather than, having two hands, to go into Gehenna, into unquenchable fire,

43 where their worm does not die, and the fire is not extinguished.

44 And if your foot scandalizes you, amputate it. It is good for you to enter lame into eternal life rather than, having two feet, to be cast into the Gehenna of unquenchable fire,

45 where their worm does not die, and the fire is not extinguished.

46 But if your eye scandalizes you, cast it out. It is good for you to enter one-eyed into the kingdom of God rather than, having two eyes, to be cast into the Gehenna of fire,

47 where their worm does not die, and the fire is not extinguished.

48 For everyone shall be salted with fire, and every victim shall be salted with salt.

49 Salt is good; but if salt becomes tasteless, with what shall you season it? Have salt in yourselves, and have peace among yourselves.”

CHAPTER 10

1 And rising from there, he came into the borders of Judea beyond the Jordan; and the crowds gathered to him again, and as he was accustomed, he taught them again.

2 And the Pharisees drew near and questioned him whether it was lawful for a man to put away his wife, tempting him.

3 But he answered and said to them, “What did Moses command you?”

4 They said, “Moses permitted a writ of divorce to be written, and her to be put away.”

5 Jesus answered and said to them, “Because of the hardness of your heart, he wrote this commandment for you.

6 But from the beginning of creation, God made them male and female.

7 ‘For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and shall cleave to his wife,

8 and the two shall be in one flesh.’ Therefore, they are now no longer two, but one flesh.

9 Therefore, what God has joined together, let man not separate.”

10 And in the house his disciples questioned him again concerning the same matter.

11 And he said to them, “Whoever puts away his wife and marries another commits adultery against her.

12 And if a wife puts away her husband and marries another, she commits adultery.”

13 And they were bringing little children to him that he might touch them. But the disciples rebuked those who brought them.

14 When Jesus saw them, he was indignant and said to them, “Permit the little children to come to me, and do not prevent them; for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these.

15 Amen I say to you: whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a little child shall not enter into it.”

16 And embracing them and laying his hands upon them, he was blessing them.

17 And when he had gone out upon the way, someone ran up and, bending his knee before him, asked him, “Good Master, what shall I do that I may receive eternal life?”

18 But Jesus said to him, “Why do you call me good? No one is good except one: God.

19 You know the commandments: do not commit adultery; do not kill; do not steal; do not speak false testimony; do not commit fraud; honor your father and mother.”

20 But he answered and said to him, “Master, I have kept all these things from my youth.”

21 And Jesus, looking upon him, loved him and said to him, “One thing is lacking to you: go, sell whatever you have and give to the poor, and you shall have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me.”

22 But he, saddened at the word, went away mourning, for he had many possessions.

23 And looking around, Jesus said to his disciples, “How difficult it shall be for those who have money to enter into the kingdom of God!”

24 And the disciples were astonished at his words. But Jesus, answering again, said to them, “Little children, how difficult it is for those who trust in money to enter into the kingdom of God!

25 It is easier for a camel to pass through the opening of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.”

26 And they marveled still more, saying among themselves, “And who can be saved?”

27 And looking upon them, Jesus said, “With men it is impossible, but not with God; for all things are possible with God.”

28 And Peter began to say to him, “Behold, we have left all things and followed you.”

29 Jesus answered and said, “Amen I say to you: there is no one who has left house, or brothers, or sisters, or father, or mother, or children, or fields because of me and because of the Gospel,

30 who shall not receive a hundred times as much now in this time: houses, and brothers, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and fields, with persecutions; and in the age to come, eternal life.

31 But many who are first shall be last, and the last first.”

32 Now they were on the way ascending to Jerusalem, and Jesus went before them; and they were astonished, and those following were afraid. And taking the twelve again, he began to tell them the things that were to befall him:

33 “Behold, we are ascending to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man shall be handed over to the chief priests and the scribes and the elders, and they shall condemn him to death and hand him over to the Gentiles;

34 and they shall mock him and spit upon him and scourge him and kill him; and on the third day he shall rise again.”

35 And James and John, the sons of Zebedee, drew near to him, saying, “Master, we wish that whatever we ask, you would do for us.”

36 But he said to them, “What do you wish me to do for you?”

37 And they said, “Grant us to sit, one at your right hand and the other at your left, in your glory.”

38 But Jesus said to them, “You do not know what you ask. Are you able to drink the cup that I drink, or to be baptized with the baptism with which I am baptized?”

39 But they said to him, “We are able.” And Jesus said to them, “The cup indeed that I drink, you shall drink; and with the baptism with which I am baptized, you shall be baptized.

40 But to sit at my right hand or at my left is not mine to give to you, but it is for those for whom it has been prepared.”

41 And hearing this, the ten began to be indignant concerning James and John.

42 But Jesus called them and said to them, “You know that those who appear to rule the nations lord it over them, and their leaders exercise authority over them.

43 But it is not so among you; instead, whoever wishes to become greater shall be your minister,

44 and whoever wishes to be first among you shall be the servant of all.

45 For the Son of Man also did not come to be ministered to, but to minister and to give his soul as redemption for many.”

46 And they came to Jericho. And as he set out from Jericho with his disciples and a very great multitude, Bartimaeus, the son of Timaeus, a blind man, sat beside the way begging.

47 When he heard that it was Jesus the Nazarene, he began to cry out and say, “Jesus, son of David, have mercy on me.”

48 And many rebuked him so that he would be silent. But he cried out much more, “Son of David, have mercy on me.”

49 And Jesus stood and commanded him to be called. And they called the blind man, saying to him, “Take heart. Rise; he calls you.”

50 Casting off his garment, he sprang up and came to him.

51 And Jesus answered and said to him, “What do you wish me to do for you?” But the blind man said to him, “Rabboni, that I may see.”

52 And Jesus said to him, “Go; your faith has saved you.” And immediately he saw and followed him on the way.

CHAPTER 11

1 And as they drew near to Jerusalem and Bethany, at the Mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples,

2 and said to them, “Go into the village opposite you, and immediately upon entering it, you shall find a colt tied, upon which no man has yet sat. Loose it and bring it.

3 And if anyone says to you, ‘What are you doing?’ say, ‘The Lord has need of it,’ and he will immediately send it here.”

4 And going away, they found the colt tied before a door outside, at the crossroads, and they loosed it.

5 And some of those standing there said to them, “What are you doing, loosing the colt?”

6 And they spoke to them just as Jesus had commanded; and they let them go.

7 And they led the colt to Jesus, and laid their garments upon it, and he sat upon it.

8 And many spread their garments in the way, while others cut branches from the trees and spread them in the way.

9 And those who went before and those who followed cried out, saying, “Hosanna! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord!

10 Blessed is the kingdom of our father David that comes! Hosanna in the highest!”

11 And he entered Jerusalem, into the temple; and after looking around at all things, as it was already the evening hour, he went out to Bethany with the twelve.

12 And the next day, when they went out from Bethany, he was hungry.

13 And when he had seen from afar a fig tree having leaves, he came to see whether perhaps he might find anything on it. And when he had come to it, he found nothing except leaves, for it was not the season of figs.

14 And answering, he said to it, “May no one ever again eat fruit from you.” And his disciples heard it.

15 And they came to Jerusalem. And when he had entered the temple, he began to cast out those selling and buying in the temple; and he overturned the tables of the money changers and the seats of those selling doves.

16 And he did not permit anyone to carry a vessel through the temple.

17 And he taught, saying to them, “Is it not written, ‘My house shall be called a house of prayer for all nations’? But you have made it a den of robbers.”

18 When the chief priests and scribes heard this, they sought how they might destroy him; for they feared him, because the whole crowd marveled at his teaching.

19 And when evening had come, he went out from the city.

20 And as they passed by in the morning, they saw the fig tree withered from the roots.

21 And Peter, remembering, said to him, “Rabbi, behold, the fig tree that you cursed has withered.”

22 And Jesus answered and said to them, “Have faith in God.

23 Amen I say to you: whoever says to this mountain, ‘Be taken up and cast into the sea,’ and does not hesitate in his heart, but believes that whatsoever he says shall be done, it shall be done for him.

24 Therefore I say to you: all things whatsoever you ask while praying, believe that you shall receive them, and they shall come to you.

25 And when you stand to pray, forgive if you have anything against anyone, that your Father who is in heaven may also forgive you your sins.

26 But if you do not forgive, neither shall your Father who is in heaven forgive you your sins.”

27 And they came again to Jerusalem. And as he walked in the temple, the chief priests and scribes and elders approached him,

28 and said to him, “By what authority do you do these things? And who gave you this authority to do these things?”

29 But Jesus answered and said to them, “I also shall ask you one question. Answer me, and I shall tell you by what authority I do these things.

30 Was the baptism of John from heaven, or from men? Answer me.”

31 But they reasoned among themselves, saying, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he shall say, ‘Why then did you not believe him?’

32 If we say, ‘From men,’ we fear the people, for all held John to be truly a prophet.”

33 And answering, they said to Jesus, “We do not know.” And Jesus answered and said to them, “Neither do I tell you by what authority I do these things.”

CHAPTER 12

1 And he began to speak to them in parables: “A man planted a vineyard, surrounded it with a hedge, dug a pit, built a tower, leased it to farmers, and went abroad.

2 And at the season he sent a servant to the farmers, that he might receive from the farmers some of the fruit of the vineyard.

3 But they seized him, beat him, and sent him away empty.

4 And again he sent another servant to them; and they wounded him in the head and treated him with insults.

5 And again he sent another, and him they killed; and many others—some they beat, but others they killed.

6 Therefore, still having one son, most beloved to him, he also sent him to them last, saying, ‘They will reverence my son.’

7 But the farmers said to one another, ‘This is the heir. Come, let us kill him, and the inheritance shall be ours.’

8 And seizing him, they killed him and cast him outside the vineyard.

9 What, therefore, shall the master of the vineyard do? He shall come and destroy the farmers and give the vineyard to others.

10 Have you not read this Scripture: ‘The stone that the builders rejected, this has become the head of the corner.

11 This was done by the Lord, and it is marvelous in our eyes’?”

12 And they sought to seize him, but they feared the crowd; for they knew that he had spoken this parable against them. And leaving him, they went away.

13 And they sent to him certain men from the Pharisees and the Herodians, that they might catch him in a word.

14 And they came and said to him, “Master, we know that you are truthful and have no concern for anyone, for you do not regard the person of men, but teach the way of God in truth. Is it lawful for tax to be given to Caesar, or shall we not give it?”

15 But knowing their cunning, he said to them, “Why do you tempt me? Bring me a denarius, that I may see it.”

16 And they brought one to him. And he said to them, “Whose image and inscription is this?” They said to him, “Caesar’s.”

17 And Jesus answered and said to them, “Therefore, render to Caesar the things that are Caesar’s, and to God the things that are God’s.” And they marveled at him.

18 And the Sadducees, who say that there is no resurrection, came to him and questioned him, saying,

19 “Master, Moses wrote to us that if anyone’s brother dies and leaves a wife but leaves no children, his brother is to take that man’s wife and raise up seed for his brother.

20 Therefore, there were seven brothers; and the first took a wife and died, leaving no seed.

21 And the second took her and died, and neither did he leave seed. And the third likewise.

22 And the seven took her likewise, and they left no seed. Last of all, the woman also died.

23 Therefore, in the resurrection, when they have risen, whose wife among them shall she be? For the seven had her as wife.”

24 And Jesus answered and said to them, “Is this not why you err: because you know neither the Scriptures nor the power of God?

25 For when they have risen from the dead, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like the angels in heaven.

26 But concerning the dead, that they rise, have you not read in the book of Moses, at the bush, how God spoke to him, saying, ‘I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob’?

27 He is not the God of the dead, but of the living. Therefore, you greatly err.”

28 And one of the scribes, who had heard them disputing and saw that he had answered them well, approached and asked him which was the first of all the commandments.

29 And Jesus answered him, “The first of all the commandments is: ‘Hear, Israel: the Lord your God is one God.

30 And you shall love the Lord your God from your whole heart and from your whole soul and from your whole mind and from your whole strength.’ This is the first commandment.

31 And the second is like it: ‘You shall love your neighbor as yourself.’ There is no other commandment greater than these.”

32 And the scribe said to him, “Well said, Master. You have spoken in truth, that there is one God, and there is no other besides him;

33 and that he be loved from the whole heart and from the whole understanding and from the whole soul and from the whole strength, and that one love his neighbor as himself, is greater than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.”

34 And Jesus, seeing that he had answered wisely, said to him, “You are not far from the kingdom of God.” And no one now dared to question him.

35 And Jesus answered and said, as he taught in the temple, “How do the scribes say that Christ is the son of David?

36 For David himself says in the Holy Spirit: ‘The Lord said to my Lord: Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies the footstool of your feet.’

37 Therefore, David himself calls him Lord; and how is he his son?” And the great crowd heard him gladly.

38 And he said to them in his teaching, “Beware of the scribes, who desire to walk in long robes and to be greeted in the marketplace,

39 and to sit in the first chairs in the synagogues and have the first reclining places at suppers;

40 who devour the houses of widows under the pretext of prolonged prayer. These shall receive a more prolonged judgment.”

41 And Jesus, sitting opposite the treasury, watched how the crowd cast bronze coins into the treasury; and many rich people cast in much.

42 But when one poor widow came, she cast in two mites, which is a farthing.

43 And calling his disciples together, he said to them, “Amen I say to you: this poor widow has put in more than all who have put into the treasury.

44 For they all put in from what abounded to them, but she, from her poverty, put in all things that she had, her whole livelihood.”

CHAPTER 13

1 And as he went out from the temple, one of his disciples said to him, “Master, behold what stones, and what buildings!”

2 And Jesus answered and said to him, “Do you see all these great buildings? There shall not be left a stone upon a stone that shall not be destroyed.”

3 And as he sat upon the Mount of Olives opposite the temple, Peter and James and John and Andrew questioned him privately:

4 “Tell us, when shall these things take place? And what shall be the sign when all these things begin to be consummated?”

5 And Jesus answered and began to say to them, “See that no one leads you astray.

6 For many shall come in my name, saying, ‘I am,’ and they shall lead many astray.

7 But when you hear of wars and reports of wars, do not be afraid. For these things must happen, but the end is not yet.

8 For nation shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be earthquakes in places and famines. These things are the beginning of sorrows.

9 But take heed to yourselves. For they shall hand you over in councils, and you shall be beaten in synagogues; and you shall stand before governors and kings because of me, as a testimony to them.

10 And the Gospel must first be preached to all nations.

11 And when they lead you away, handing you over, do not consider beforehand what you shall say; but speak that which shall be given to you in that hour. For it is not you who speak, but the Holy Spirit.

12 And brother shall hand brother over to death, and a father his son; and children shall rise against their parents and put them to death.

13 And you shall be hated by all because of my name. But he who endures to the end, he shall be saved.

14 But when you see the abomination of desolation standing where it ought not—let him who reads understand—then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains.

15 And let him who is upon the housetop not descend into the house, nor enter to take anything from his house.

16 And let him who shall be in the field not turn back to take his garment.

17 But woe to those who are pregnant and those who nurse in those days!

18 And pray that these things may not happen in winter.

19 For those days shall be tribulations such as have not been from the beginning of the creation that God made until now, nor shall there be.

20 And unless the Lord had shortened the days, no flesh would have been saved; but because of the elect whom he chose, he has shortened the days.

21 And then if anyone says to you, ‘Behold, here is Christ; behold, there,’ do not believe it.

22 For false Christs and false prophets shall arise, and they shall give signs and portents to lead astray, if it can be done, even the elect.

23 Therefore, take heed. Behold, I have foretold all things to you.

24 But in those days, after that tribulation, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her brightness,

25 and the stars of heaven shall be falling, and the powers that are in heaven shall be moved.

26 And then they shall see the Son of Man coming in the clouds with great power and glory.

27 And then he shall send his angels and gather his elect from the four winds, from the farthest reach of earth to the farthest reach of heaven.

28 But from the fig tree learn a parable: when its branch has now become tender and its leaves have been born, you know that summer is near.

29 So also you, when you see these things taking place, know that it is near, at the doors.

30 Amen I say to you: this generation shall not pass away until all these things take place.

31 Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

32 But of that day or hour no one knows, neither the angels in heaven nor the Son, except the Father.

33 Take heed, watch, and pray; for you do not know when the time is.

34 It is as when a man who went abroad left his house and gave his servants authority, each over his own work, and commanded the doorkeeper to watch.

35 Watch, therefore—for you do not know when the master of the house is to come: in the evening, or at midnight, or at cockcrow, or in the morning—

36 lest, when he comes suddenly, he find you sleeping.

37 But what I say to you, I say to all: Watch.”

CHAPTER 14

1 Now the Passover and Unleavened Bread were two days away; and the chief priests and scribes sought how they might seize him by guile and kill him.

2 But they said, “Not on the feast day, lest perhaps a tumult arise among the people.”

3 And when he was in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, and was reclining, a woman came, having an alabaster vessel of precious ointment of spikenard; and breaking the alabaster vessel, she poured it upon his head.

4 But there were some who were indignant within themselves and said, “Why has this waste of the ointment been made?

5 For this ointment could have been sold for more than three hundred denarii and given to the poor.” And they railed against her.

6 But Jesus said, “Let her be. Why do you trouble her? She has performed a good work upon me.

7 For you always have the poor with you, and whenever you wish, you can do good to them; but you do not always have me.

8 She did what was in her power: she anointed my body beforehand for burial.

9 Amen I say to you: wherever this Gospel shall be preached in the whole world, what she has done shall also be told in memory of her.”

10 And Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went to the chief priests, that he might betray him to them.

11 And when they heard this, they rejoiced and promised that they would give him money. And he sought how he might hand him over at an opportune time.

12 And on the first day of Unleavened Bread, when they sacrificed the Passover, his disciples said to him, “Where do you wish us to go and prepare for you to eat the Passover?”

13 And he sent two of his disciples and said to them, “Go into the city, and a man carrying a pitcher of water shall meet you. Follow him,

14 and wherever he enters, say to the master of the house, ‘The Master says: Where is my dining room, where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?’

15 And he shall show you a large upper room, furnished; and there prepare for us.”

16 And his disciples went away and came into the city; and they found it just as he had told them, and they prepared the Passover.

17 And when evening had come, he came with the twelve.

18 And as they reclined and ate, Jesus said, “Amen I say to you: one of you, who eats with me, shall hand me over.”

19 But they began to be sorrowful and to say to him one by one, “Surely it is not I?”

20 And he said to them, “One of the twelve, who dips his hand with me into the dish.

21 The Son of Man indeed goes, as it is written of him; but woe to that man through whom the Son of Man shall be handed over! It would have been good for him if that man had not been born.”

22 And as they ate, Jesus took bread and, blessing it, broke it and gave it to them, and said, “Take. This is my body.”

23 And taking the cup, he gave thanks and gave it to them; and they all drank from it.

24 And he said to them, “This is my blood of the new testament, which shall be poured out for many.

25 Amen I say to you: I shall no longer drink of this produce of the vine until that day when I shall drink it new in the kingdom of God.”

26 And having sung a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives.

27 And Jesus said to them, “All of you shall be scandalized in me this night, for it is written: ‘I shall strike the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered.’

28 But after I have risen, I shall go before you into Galilee.”

29 But Peter said to him, “Even if all shall be scandalized in you, yet not I.”

30 And Jesus said to him, “Amen I say to you: you, today, on this night, before the cock has given its voice twice, shall deny me three times.”

31 But he spoke still more insistently: “Even if it should be necessary for me to die together with you, I shall not deny you.” And all spoke likewise.

32 And they came to an estate whose name was Gethsemane. And he said to his disciples, “Sit here until I pray.”

33 And he took Peter and James and John with him, and he began to tremble and to be distressed.

34 And he said to them, “My soul is sorrowful even unto death. Remain here and watch.”

35 And when he had gone forward a little, he fell upon the ground and prayed that, if it could be done, the hour might pass from him.

36 And he said, “Abba, Father, all things are possible to you. Take this cup away from me; but not what I will, but what you will.”

37 And he came and found them sleeping. And he said to Peter, “Simon, are you sleeping? Were you unable to watch one hour?

38 Watch and pray that you may not enter into temptation. The spirit indeed is ready, but the flesh is weak.”

39 And going away again, he prayed, saying the same thing.

40 And returning, he again found them sleeping, for their eyes were weighed down; and they did not know what to answer him.

41 And he came a third time and said to them, “Sleep now and rest. It is enough. The hour has come. Behold, the Son of Man shall be handed over into the hands of sinners.

42 Rise, let us go. Behold, he who shall hand me over is near.”

43 And while he was still speaking, Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests and scribes and elders.

44 Now his betrayer had given them a sign, saying, “Whomever I kiss, he is the one. Seize him and lead him away securely.”

45 And when he had come, immediately approaching him, he said, “Hail, Rabbi,” and kissed him.

46 But they laid hands upon him and seized him.

47 And a certain one of those standing by drew his sword and struck the servant of the high priest and cut off his ear.

48 And Jesus answered and said to them, “Have you come out as though against a robber, with swords and clubs, to apprehend me?

49 Daily I was among you, teaching in the temple, and you did not seize me. But—that the Scriptures may be fulfilled.”

50 Then all his disciples left him and fled.

51 But a certain young man followed him, clothed in a linen cloth over his naked body; and they seized him.

52 But casting off the linen cloth, he fled naked from them.

53 And they led Jesus to the high priest; and all the priests and scribes and elders assembled.

54 But Peter followed him from afar, all the way into the courtyard of the high priest; and he sat with the attendants at the fire and warmed himself.

55 And the chief priests and the whole council sought testimony against Jesus, that they might hand him over to death; and they found none.

56 For many spoke false testimony against him, but their testimonies did not agree.

57 And some rose and bore false testimony against him, saying,

58 “We heard him saying, ‘I shall destroy this temple made by hand, and over the course of three days I shall build another not made by hand.’”

59 And their testimony did not agree.

60 And the high priest, rising into the midst, questioned Jesus, saying, “Do you answer nothing to what these men charge against you?”

61 But he was silent and answered nothing. Again the high priest questioned him and said to him, “Are you Christ, the Son of the blessed God?”

62 And Jesus said to him, “I am. And you shall see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of the power of God and coming with the clouds of heaven.”

63 Then the high priest, tearing his garments, said, “What further need have we of witnesses?

64 You have heard the blasphemy. What do you think?” And they all condemned him to be guilty of death.

65 And some began to spit upon him and to cover his face and strike him with fists, and to say to him, “Prophesy.” And the attendants struck him with their palms.

66 And while Peter was below in the courtyard, one of the maids of the high priest came.

67 And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked at him and said, “You also were with Jesus the Nazarene.”

68 But he denied it, saying, “I neither know nor understand what you are saying.” And he went outside into the forecourt, and the cock crowed.

69 And again, when the maid saw him, she began to say to those standing by, “This man is one of them.”

70 But he denied it again. And after a little while, those who stood by again said to Peter, “Truly, you are one of them, for you also are a Galilean.”

71 But he began to curse and to swear: “I do not know this man of whom you speak.”

72 And immediately the cock crowed again. And Peter remembered the word that Jesus had said to him: “Before the cock crows twice, you shall deny me three times.” And he began to weep.

CHAPTER 15

1 And immediately in the morning, the chief priests, taking counsel with the elders and scribes and the whole council, bound Jesus, led him away, and handed him over to Pilate.

2 And Pilate questioned him, “Are you the King of the Jews?” But he answered and said to him, “You say it.”

3 And the chief priests accused him of many things.

4 But Pilate again questioned him, saying, “Do you answer nothing? See how many things they accuse you of.”

5 But Jesus answered nothing further, so that Pilate marveled.

6 Now on the feast day, he was accustomed to release to them one of the prisoners, whomever they requested.

7 And there was one called Barabbas, who was bound with the rebels and had committed murder in the insurrection.

8 And when the crowd had come up, they began to ask for what he always did for them.

9 But Pilate answered them and said, “Do you wish me to release to you the King of the Jews?”

10 For he knew that the chief priests had handed him over through envy.

11 But the chief priests stirred up the crowd, that he should release Barabbas to them instead.

12 And Pilate answered again and said to them, “What, then, do you wish me to do to the King of the Jews?”

13 But they cried out again, “Crucify him.”

14 And Pilate said to them, “For what evil has he done?” But they cried out all the more, “Crucify him.”

15 But Pilate, wishing to satisfy the people, released Barabbas to them and handed Jesus over, beaten with scourges, to be crucified.

16 And the soldiers led him into the courtyard of the praetorium and called together the whole cohort.

17 And they clothed him in purple and, plaiting a crown of thorns, placed it upon him.

18 And they began to greet him, “Hail, King of the Jews.”

19 And they kept striking his head with a reed and spitting upon him; and bending their knees, they adored him.

20 And after they had mocked him, they stripped the purple from him and clothed him in his own garments; and they led him out to crucify him.

21 And they compelled a certain passerby, Simon the Cyrenian, coming from the countryside, the father of Alexander and Rufus, to take up his cross.

22 And they brought him to the place Golgotha, which is interpreted, the Place of Calvary.

23 And they gave him wine mixed with myrrh to drink, but he did not accept it.

24 And crucifying him, they divided his garments, casting a lot over them as to who should take what.

25 Now it was the third hour, and they crucified him.

26 And the title of the charge against him was inscribed: “The King of the Jews.”

27 And with him they crucified two robbers, one at his right and the other at his left.

28 And the Scripture was fulfilled, which says, “And he was reckoned with the wicked.”

29 And those passing by blasphemed him, moving their heads and saying, “Ha! You who destroy the temple of God and rebuild it in three days, 30 save yourself by descending from the cross.”

31 Likewise, the chief priests also, mocking him, said to one another with the scribes, “He saved others; he cannot save himself.

32 Let Christ, the King of Israel, descend now from the cross, that we may see and believe.” And those who were crucified with him reproached him.

33 And when the sixth hour had come, darkness came over the whole earth until the ninth hour.

34 And at the ninth hour Jesus cried out with a great voice, saying, “Eloi, Eloi, lamma sabacthani?” Which is interpreted, “My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?”

35 And some of those standing by, hearing this, said, “Behold, he calls Elijah.”

36 But one ran and filled a sponge with vinegar, placed it around a reed, and gave him drink, saying, “Let him be. Let us see whether Elijah comes to take him down.”

37 But Jesus, uttering a great cry, expired.

38 And the veil of the temple was torn in two, from top to bottom.

39 And when the centurion who stood opposite saw that he had expired while crying out in this way, he said, “Truly, this man was the Son of God.”

40 And there were also women watching from afar, among whom were Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James the Less and Joseph, and Salome;

41 and when he was in Galilee, they followed him and ministered to him; and there were many other women who had come up with him to Jerusalem.

42 And when evening had now come—because it was the Parasceve, which is the day before the sabbath—

43 Joseph of Arimathea came, a noble decurion who was himself also awaiting the kingdom of God; and he boldly went in to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus.

44 But Pilate wondered whether he had already died. And summoning the centurion, he questioned him whether he was already dead.

45 And when he had learned this from the centurion, he granted the body to Joseph.

46 And Joseph, buying a linen cloth and taking him down, wrapped him in the linen cloth and placed him in a monument that had been cut from rock; and he rolled a stone to the entrance of the monument.

47 And Mary Magdalene and Mary of Joseph watched where he was laid.

CHAPTER 16

1 And when the sabbath had passed, Mary Magdalene, and Mary of James, and Salome bought spices, that they might come and anoint Jesus.

2 And very early, on the first day of the week, they came to the monument, the sun having now risen.

3 And they said to one another, “Who shall roll back the stone for us from the entrance of the monument?”

4 And looking, they saw that the stone had been rolled back, for it was very great.

5 And entering the monument, they saw a young man sitting on the right, clothed in a white robe; and they were astonished.

6 And he said to them, “Do not be terrified. You seek Jesus the Nazarene, who was crucified. He has risen; he is not here. Behold the place where they laid him.

7 But go, tell his disciples and Peter that he goes before you into Galilee. There you shall see him, as he told you.”

8 But going out, they fled from the monument, for trembling and dread had seized them; and they said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid.

9 And rising in the morning, on the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, from whom he had cast out seven demons.

10 She went and announced it to those who had been with him, as they mourned and wept.

11 And when they heard that he was alive and had been seen by her, they did not believe.

12 But after this, he was shown in another form to two of them as they walked, going into the country.

13 And they went and announced it to the rest; neither did they believe them.

14 At last he appeared to the eleven as they reclined; and he reproached their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they did not believe those who had seen him risen.

15 And he said to them, “Go into the whole world and preach the Gospel to every creature.

16 He who believes and has been baptized shall be saved; but he who does not believe shall be condemned.

17 And these signs shall follow those who believe: in my name they shall cast out demons; they shall speak with new tongues;

18 they shall take up serpents; and if they drink anything deadly, it shall not harm them; they shall lay hands upon the sick, and they shall be well.”

19 And the Lord Jesus, after he had spoken to them, was taken up into heaven and sits at the right hand of God.

20 But they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord cooperating and confirming the word through the signs that followed.

BOOK FORTY-TWO: LUKE

CHAPTER 1

1 Since indeed many have undertaken to set in order a narrative of the things that have been fulfilled among us,

2 just as those who from the beginning were themselves eyewitnesses and ministers of the word handed them down to us,

3 it seemed good also to me, having carefully followed all things from the beginning, to write them to you in order, most excellent Theophilus,

4 that you may know the truth of those words in which you have been instructed.

5 In the days of Herod, king of Judea, there was a certain priest named Zachariah, of the division of Abijah; and his wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth.

6 And they were both just before God, walking blamelessly in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord (YHWH).

7 And they had no son, because Elizabeth was barren, and they were both advanced in their days.

8 Now it came to pass, while he was performing the priestly office in the order of his division before God,

9 according to the custom of the priesthood, that it fell to him by lot to offer incense, entering the temple of the Lord;

10 and the whole multitude of the people was praying outside at the hour of incense.

11 And an angel of the Lord appeared to him, standing at the right of the altar of incense.

12 And Zachariah was troubled at the sight, and fear fell upon him.

13 But the angel said to him, “Do not fear, Zachariah, for your supplication has been heard; and your wife Elizabeth shall bear you a son, and you shall call his name John.

14 And you shall have joy and exultation, and many shall rejoice at his birth.

15 For he shall be great before the Lord, and he shall drink neither wine nor strong drink; and he shall be filled with the Holy Spirit even from his mother’s womb.

16 And he shall turn many of the sons of Israel to the Lord their God.

17 And he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Elijah, that he may turn the hearts of fathers toward children, and the unbelieving to the prudence of the just, to prepare for the Lord a perfect people.”

18 And Zachariah said to the angel, “How shall I know this? For I am an old man, and my wife is advanced in her days.”

19 And the angel answered and said to him, “I am Gabriel, who stand before God; and I was sent to speak to you and to bring you this good news.

20 And behold, you shall be silent and unable to speak until the day these things come to pass, because you did not believe my words, which shall be fulfilled in their time.”

21 And the people were waiting for Zachariah, and they marveled that he delayed in the temple.

22 But when he came out, he could not speak to them; and they knew that he had seen a vision in the temple. And he was making signs to them and remained mute.

23 And it came to pass, when the days of his service were fulfilled, that he went away to his house.

24 And after those days Elizabeth his wife conceived, and she hid herself for five months, saying,

25 “Thus has the Lord done for me in the days when he looked upon me, to take away my reproach among men.”

26 Now in the sixth month, the angel Gabriel was sent by God into a city of Galilee whose name was Nazareth,

27 to a virgin betrothed to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin’s name was Mary.

28 And the angel, entering to her, said, “Hail, full of grace; the Lord is with you. Blessed are you among women.”

29 And when she had heard, she was troubled at his word and considered what manner of greeting this might be.

30 And the angel said to her, “Do not fear, Mary, for you have found grace with God.

31 Behold, you shall conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus.

32 He shall be great and shall be called the Son of the Most High; and the Lord God shall give him the throne of David his father, and he shall reign in the house of Jacob forever,

33 and of his kingdom there shall be no end.”

34 But Mary said to the angel, “How shall this be, since I do not know a man?”

35 And the angel answered and said to her, “The Holy Spirit shall come upon you, and the power of the Most High shall overshadow you. And therefore also the holy one who shall be born of you shall be called the Son of God.

36 And behold, Elizabeth your kinswoman has herself conceived a son in her old age, and this is the sixth month for her who is called barren;

37 for no word shall be impossible with God.”

38 And Mary said, “Behold the handmaid of the Lord; let it be done to me according to your word.” And the angel departed from her.

39 And rising in those days, Mary went with haste into the hill country, into a city of Judah;

40 and she entered the house of Zachariah and greeted Elizabeth.

41 And it came to pass, when Elizabeth heard Mary’s greeting, that the infant exulted in her womb; and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit.

42 And she cried out with a great voice and said, “Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb.

43 And how is this granted to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me?

44 For behold, as the voice of your greeting came into my ears, the infant in my womb exulted with joy.

45 And blessed are you who believed, for the things spoken to you by the Lord shall be accomplished.”

46 And Mary said, “My soul magnifies the Lord,

47 and my spirit has exulted in God my Savior.

48 For he has looked upon the lowliness of his handmaid; for behold, from this time all generations shall call me blessed,

49 because he who is mighty has done great things for me, and holy is his name.

50 And his mercy is from generation unto generations for those who fear him.

51 He has wrought might with his arm; he has scattered the proud in the thought of their heart.

52 He has cast the mighty down from the throne and exalted the lowly.

53 He has filled the hungry with good things, and the rich he has sent away empty.

54 He has taken up Israel his servant, remembering his mercy,

55 as he spoke to our fathers, to Abraham and to his seed forever.”

56 And Mary remained with her about three months, and returned to her house.

57 Now Elizabeth’s time to give birth was fulfilled, and she bore a son.

58 And her neighbors and kinsfolk heard that the Lord had magnified his mercy with her, and they rejoiced with her.

59 And it came to pass on the eighth day that they came to circumcise the child, and they were calling him by his father’s name, Zachariah.

60 And his mother answered and said, “By no means; rather, he shall be called John.”

61 And they said to her, “There is no one among your kindred who is called by this name.”

62 And they made signs to his father, asking what he wished him to be called.

63 And asking for a writing tablet, he wrote, saying, “John is his name.” And they all marveled.

64 And immediately his mouth was opened, and his tongue, and he spoke, blessing God.

65 And fear came upon all their neighbors; and throughout all the hill country of Judea all these words were spread abroad.

66 And all who had heard laid them up in their heart, saying, “What, do you think, shall this child be?” For indeed the hand of the Lord was with him.

67 And Zachariah his father was filled with the Holy Spirit and prophesied, saying,

68 “Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, because he has visited and wrought redemption for his people.

69 And he has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of David his servant,

70 as he spoke through the mouth of his holy prophets, who have been from of old:

71 salvation from our enemies and from the hand of all who hate us,

72 to show mercy with our fathers and to remember his holy testament,

73 the oath that he swore to Abraham our father, that he would grant us

74 that, delivered from the hand of our enemies, we may serve him without fear,

75 in holiness and justice before him all our days.

76 And you, child, shall be called the prophet of the Most High; for you shall go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways,

77 to give knowledge of salvation to his people, unto the remission of their sins,

78 through the bowels of the mercy of our God, in which the rising from on high has visited us,

79 to illuminate those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to direct our feet into the way of peace.”

80 And the child grew and was strengthened in spirit; and he was in the deserts until the day of his manifestation to Israel.

CHAPTER 2

1 And it came to pass in those days that an edict went out from Caesar Augustus, that the whole world should be enrolled.

2 This first enrollment was made by Cyrenius, governor of Syria;

3 and all went to register, each into his own city.

4 And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and family of David,

5 to register with Mary, his betrothed wife, who was pregnant.

6 And it came to pass, while they were there, that the days were fulfilled for her to give birth.

7 And she bore her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling cloths, and laid him in a manger, because there was no place for them in the lodging place.

8 And shepherds were in that same region, keeping watch and guarding the watches of the night over their flock.

9 And behold, an angel of the Lord stood beside them, and the brightness of God shone around them, and they feared with great fear.

10 And the angel said to them, “Do not fear; for behold, I bring you good news of great joy, which shall be for all the people:

11 because today a Savior has been born for you in the city of David, who is Christ the Lord.

12 And this shall be a sign for you: you shall find an infant wrapped in swaddling cloths and laid in a manger.”

13 And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly army, praising God and saying,

14 “Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of good will.”

15 And it came to pass, when the angels had departed from them into heaven, that the shepherds said to one another, “Let us cross over as far as Bethlehem and see this word that has come to pass, which the Lord has shown us.”

16 And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the infant laid in the manger.

17 And when they had seen, they understood concerning the word that had been spoken to them about this child.

18 And all who heard marveled at the things that were spoken to them by the shepherds.

19 But Mary kept all these words, weighing them together in her heart.

20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things they had heard and seen, just as it had been spoken to them.

21 And after eight days were completed for the child to be circumcised, his name was called Jesus, which had been called by the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

22 And after the days of purification were fulfilled according to the law of Moses, they took him to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord,

23 as it is written in the law of the Lord: “Every male that opens the womb shall be called holy to the Lord,”

24 and to give a sacrifice according to what is said in the law of the Lord, “A pair of turtledoves, or two young pigeons.”

25 And behold, there was a man in Jerusalem whose name was Simeon; and this man was just and reverent, awaiting the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit was in him.

26 And he had received an answer from the Holy Spirit that he would not see death unless he first saw the Christ of the Lord.

27 And he came in spirit into the temple. And when his parents brought in the child Jesus, that they might do for him according to the custom of the law,

28 he also received him into his arms, and blessed God and said,

29 “Now you dismiss your servant, Lord, according to your word, in peace,

30 because my eyes have seen your salvation,

31 which you have prepared before the face of all peoples:

32 a light for the revelation of the Gentiles and the glory of your people Israel.”

33 And his father and mother were marveling at the things that were spoken concerning him.

34 And Simeon blessed them and said to Mary his mother, “Behold, this child is set for the ruin and resurrection of many in Israel, and for a sign that shall be contradicted;

35 and a sword shall pass through your own soul, that thoughts from many hearts may be revealed.”

36 And there was Anna, a prophetess, daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher. She was advanced in many days and had lived with her husband for seven years from her virginity.

37 And she was a widow unto eighty-four years; she did not depart from the temple, serving night and day with fastings and supplications.

38 And she, coming upon them at that very hour, confessed to the Lord; and she spoke concerning him to all who awaited the redemption of Israel.

39 And when they had accomplished all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their city Nazareth.

40 And the child grew and was strengthened, full of wisdom; and the grace of God was in him.

41 And his parents went every year to Jerusalem on the solemn day of Passover.

42 And when he had become twelve years old, they went up to Jerusalem according to the custom of the feast day.

43 And when the days were completed, as they returned, the child Jesus remained in Jerusalem, and his parents did not know it.

44 But supposing him to be in the company, they went a day’s journey and sought him among their kinsfolk and acquaintances.

45 And not finding him, they returned to Jerusalem, seeking him.

46 And it came to pass that after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the teachers, hearing them and questioning them.

47 And all who heard him were astounded at his prudence and his answers.

48 And seeing him, they marveled. And his mother said to him, “Son, why have you done this to us? Behold, your father and I were seeking you in sorrow.”

49 And he said to them, “Why is it that you were seeking me? Did you not know that I must be in the things that are my Father’s?”

50 And they did not understand the word that he spoke to them.

51 And he went down with them and came to Nazareth, and was subject to them. And his mother kept all these words in her heart.

52 And Jesus advanced in wisdom and age and grace with God and men.

CHAPTER 3

1 Now in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, when Pontius Pilate was governing Judea, and Herod was tetrarch of Galilee, and his brother Philip tetrarch of Iturea and the region of Trachonitis, and Lysanias tetrarch of Abilene,

2 under the chief priests Annas and Caiaphas, the word of the Lord came upon John son of Zachariah in the desert.

3 And he came into all the region of the Jordan, preaching a baptism of penance unto the remission of sins,

4 as it is written in the book of the words of Isaiah the prophet: “A voice of one crying in the desert: Prepare the way of the Lord; make his paths straight.

5 Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low; and the crooked shall become straight, and the rough shall become level ways;

6 and all flesh shall see the salvation of God.”

7 Therefore, he said to the crowds that went out to be baptized by him, “Brood of vipers, who showed you how to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Therefore, produce fruits worthy of penance, and do not begin to say, ‘We have Abraham as our father.’ For I tell you that God is able to raise up children of Abraham from these stones.

9 For already the axe has been laid to the root of the trees. Therefore, every tree that does not produce good fruit shall be cut down and cast into the fire.”

10 And the crowds questioned him, saying, “What then shall we do?”

11 And he answered and said to them, “He who has two tunics, let him give to him who has none; and he who has food, let him do likewise.”

12 And publicans also came to be baptized, and they said to him, “Master, what shall we do?”

13 But he said to them, “Do nothing beyond what has been appointed to you.”

14 And soldiers also questioned him, saying, “And what shall we do?” And he said to them, “Extort no one, nor make false accusations; and be content with your pay.”

15 Now as the people were supposing, and all were thinking in their hearts concerning John whether perhaps he was the Christ,

16 John answered, saying to all, “I indeed baptize you with water; but one stronger than I shall come, the strap of whose sandals I am not worthy to loose. He shall baptize you in the Holy Spirit and fire.

17 His winnowing fan is in his hand, and he shall cleanse his threshing floor and gather the wheat into his barn; but the chaff he shall burn with unquenchable fire.”

18 And exhorting them with many other things, he proclaimed the Gospel to the people.

19 But Herod the tetrarch, when he was rebuked by him concerning Herodias, his brother’s wife, and concerning all the evils that Herod had done,

20 added this also above all: he shut John in prison.

21 Now it came to pass, when all the people were baptized, and Jesus also had been baptized and was praying, that heaven was opened;

22 and the Holy Spirit descended in bodily form like a dove into him, and a voice came from heaven: “You are my beloved Son; in you I am well pleased.”

23 And Jesus himself was about thirty years old when he began, being, as it was supposed, son of Joseph, son of Heli, son of Matthat,

24 son of Levi, son of Melchi, son of Jannai, son of Joseph,

25 son of Mattathias, son of Amos, son of Nahum, son of Esli, son of Naggai,

26 son of Maath, son of Mattathias, son of Shemei, son of Joseph, son of Judah,

27 son of Joanna, son of Rhesa, son of Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, son of Neri,

28 son of Melchi, son of Addi, son of Cosan, son of Elmadam, son of Er,

29 son of Jesus, son of Eliezer, son of Jorim, son of Matthat, son of Levi,

30 son of Simeon, son of Judah, son of Joseph, son of Jonah, son of Eliakim,

31 son of Melea, son of Menna, son of Mattatha, son of Nathan, son of David,

32 son of Jesse, son of Obed, son of Boaz, son of Salmon, son of Nahshon,

33 son of Amminadab, son of Aram, son of Hezron, son of Perez, son of Judah,

34 son of Jacob, son of Isaac, son of Abraham, son of Terah, son of Nahor,

35 son of Serug, son of Reu, son of Peleg, son of Heber, son of Salah,

36 son of Cainan, son of Arphaxad, son of Shem, son of Noah, son of Lamech,

37 son of Methuselah, son of Enoch, son of Jared, son of Mahalaleel, son of Cainan, 38 son of Enosh, son of Seth, son of Adam, son of God.

CHAPTER 4

1 And Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, returned from the Jordan and was led by the Spirit into the desert

2 for forty days, and was tempted by the devil. And he ate nothing in those days; and when they were completed, he was hungry.

3 And the devil said to him, “If you are the Son of God, command this stone to become bread.”

4 And Jesus answered him, “It is written: Man does not live by bread alone, but by every word of God.”

5 And the devil led him onto a high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time,

6 and said to him, “I shall give you all this authority and their glory, because they have been handed over to me, and I give them to whomever I will.

7 Therefore, if you adore before me, they shall all be yours.”

8 And Jesus answered and said to him, “It is written: You shall adore the Lord your God, and him alone shall you serve.”

9 And he led him into Jerusalem and set him upon the pinnacle of the temple, and said to him, “If you are the Son of God, cast yourself down from here.

10 For it is written that he has commanded his angels concerning you, that they should guard you,

11 and that in their hands they shall bear you up, lest perhaps you strike your foot against a stone.”

12 And Jesus answered and said to him, “It is said: You shall not tempt the Lord your God.”

13 And when every temptation was completed, the devil withdrew from him until a time.

14 And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee, and a report concerning him went out through the whole region.

15 And he taught in their synagogues and was magnified by all.

16 And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up; and according to his custom, he entered the synagogue on the Sabbath day and rose to read.

17 And the book of Isaiah the prophet was handed to him. And when he had unrolled the book, he found the place where it was written:

18 “The Spirit of the Lord is upon me; because of this he has anointed me. He has sent me to proclaim the Gospel to the poor, to heal the contrite of heart,

19 to proclaim remission to captives and sight to the blind, to send the broken away in remission, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord and the day of recompense.”

20 And when he had rolled up the book, he returned it to the attendant and sat down. And the eyes of all in the synagogue were fixed upon him.

21 And he began to say to them, “Today this Scripture has been fulfilled in your ears.”

22 And all bore witness to him and marveled at the words of grace that proceeded from his mouth; and they said, “Is this not the son of Joseph?”

23 And he said to them, “Surely you shall say to me this similitude: ‘Physician, heal yourself. The great things we have heard were done in Capernaum, do here also in your own country.’”

24 And he said, “Amen I say to you: no prophet is accepted in his own country.

25 In truth I say to you: there were many widows in Israel in the days of Elijah, when heaven was shut for three years and six months, when a great famine came upon the whole land;

26 and Elijah was sent to none of them except to a widow woman in Sarepta of Sidon.

27 And there were many lepers in Israel under Elisha the prophet, and none of them was cleansed except Naaman the Syrian.”

28 And all in the synagogue were filled with wrath when they heard these things.

29 And they rose and cast him outside the city; and they led him as far as the brow of the mountain upon which their city had been built, that they might cast him down headlong.

30 But he, passing through their midst, went away.

31 And he went down to Capernaum, a city of Galilee, and there he taught them on the Sabbaths.

32 And they were astounded at his teaching, because his word was with authority.

33 And in the synagogue was a man having an unclean demon, and he cried out with a great voice,

34 saying, “Let us be! What is there between us and you, Jesus the Nazarene? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are: the Holy One of God.”

35 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, “Be mute, and come out of him.” And when the demon had thrown him into the midst, it came out of him and harmed him not at all.

36 And dread came upon all, and they spoke with one another, saying, “What is this word, that with authority and power he commands the unclean spirits, and they go out?”

37 And the report concerning him was spread abroad into every place of the region.

38 And Jesus, rising from the synagogue, entered Simon’s house. Now Simon’s mother-in-law was held by great fevers, and they pleaded with him for her.

39 And standing over her, he commanded the fever, and it left her. And immediately rising, she ministered to them.

40 And when the sun had set, all who had people ill with various sicknesses brought them to him. And laying his hands upon each one, he healed them.

41 And demons went out from many, crying and saying, “You are the Son of God.” And rebuking them, he did not permit them to speak, because they knew him to be the Christ.

42 And when day came, he went out and made his way into a desert place; and the crowds sought him and came as far as him, and they held him back lest he depart from them.

43 And he said to them, “I must proclaim the Gospel of the kingdom of God to other cities also, because I was sent for this.”

44 And he was preaching in the synagogues of Galilee.

CHAPTER 5

1 And it came to pass, as the crowds pressed upon him to hear the word of God, that he stood beside the Lake of Gennesaret.

2 And he saw two boats standing beside the lake; but the fishermen had gone down and were washing their nets.

3 And ascending into one of the boats, which was Simon's, he asked him to put out a little from the land. And sitting down, he taught the crowds from the little boat.

4 And when he ceased speaking, he said to Simon, "Put out into the deep, and let down your nets for a catch."

5 And Simon answered and said to him, "Master, laboring through the whole night, we caught nothing; but at your word I shall let down the net."

6 And when they had done this, they enclosed an abundant multitude of fish, and their net was breaking.

7 And they beckoned to their partners who were in the other boat, that they should come and help them. And they came and filled both little boats, so that they were almost sinking.

8 When Simon Peter saw this, he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, "Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, Lord."

9 For astonishment had surrounded him and all who were with him at the catch of fish they had taken,

10 and likewise James and John, sons of Zebedee, who were Simon's partners. And Jesus said to Simon, "Do not fear; from now on you shall be catching men."

11 And when they had brought the boats to land, leaving all things, they followed him.

12 And it came to pass, when he was in one of the cities, behold, a man full of leprosy saw Jesus; and falling upon his face, he pleaded with him, saying, "Lord, if you will, you can cleanse me."

13 And extending his hand, he touched him, saying, "I will. Be cleansed." And immediately the leprosy departed from him.

14 And he commanded him to tell no one, "But go, show yourself to the priest, and offer for your cleansing as Moses commanded, as a testimony to them."

15 But the word concerning him went abroad all the more; and great crowds came together to hear and to be healed of their infirmities.

16 But he withdrew into the desert and prayed.

17 And it came to pass on one of the days that he was sitting and teaching. And Pharisees and doctors of the law were sitting there, who had come out of every village of Galilee and Judea and from Jerusalem; and the power of the Lord was there to heal them.

18 And behold, men were carrying on a bed a man who was a paralytic, and they sought to bring him in and place him before Jesus.

19 And finding no way to bring him in because of the crowd, they ascended onto the roof and lowered him through the tiles, with the bed, into the midst before Jesus.

20 And when he saw their faith, he said, "Man, your sins are forgiven you."

21 And the scribes and Pharisees began to reason, saying, "Who is this who speaks blasphemies? Who can forgive sins except God alone?"

22 But when Jesus knew their thoughts, he answered and said to them, "Why do you think these things in your hearts?

23 Which is easier to say: 'Your sins are forgiven you,' or to say, 'Rise and walk'?

24 But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins"—he said to the paralytic—"I say to you: Rise, take up your bed, and go into your house."

25 And immediately rising before them, he took up the bed on which he had lain and went away into his house, magnifying God.

26 And astonishment seized them all, and they magnified God. And they were filled with fear, saying, "We have seen wonders today."

27 And after these things he went out and saw a publican named Levi sitting at the tax booth, and he said to him, "Follow me."

28 And leaving all things, he rose and followed him.

29 And Levi made a great feast for him in his house; and there was a great crowd of publicans and of others who were reclining with them.

30 And their Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying to his disciples, “Why do you eat and drink with publicans and sinners?”

31 And Jesus answered and said to them, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are ill.

32 I came not to call the just, but sinners to penance.”

33 But they said to him, “Why do the disciples of John fast frequently and make supplications, and likewise those of the Pharisees, but yours eat and drink?”

34 And he said to them, “Can you make the sons of the bridegroom fast while the bridegroom is with them?

35 But days shall come when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them; then they shall fast in those days.”

36 And he also spoke a similitude to them: “No one puts a patch from a new garment onto an old garment; otherwise he both tears the new, and the patch from the new does not agree with the old.

37 And no one puts new wine into old wineskins; otherwise the new wine shall burst the wineskins, and it shall itself be spilled, and the wineskins shall perish.

38 But new wine must be put into new wineskins, and both are preserved.

39 And no one drinking the old immediately desires the new; for he says, ‘The old is better.’”

CHAPTER 6

1 And it came to pass on the second-first Sabbath, as he passed through the grainfields, that his disciples plucked ears of grain and ate them, rubbing them in their hands.

2 And certain of the Pharisees said to them, “Why do you do what is not lawful on the Sabbaths?”

3 And Jesus answered and said to them, “Have you not read even this, what David did when he was hungry, he and those who were with him?

4 How he entered the house of God and took the loaves of proposition and ate, and gave them to those who were with him, which it is not lawful to eat except for priests alone?”

5 And he said to them, “The Son of Man is Lord even of the Sabbath.”

6 And it came to pass on another Sabbath that he entered the synagogue and taught. And there was a man there, and his right hand was withered.

7 And the scribes and Pharisees watched to see whether he would heal on the Sabbath, that they might find grounds to accuse him.

8 But he knew their thoughts and said to the man who had the withered hand, “Rise, and stand in the midst.” And rising, he stood.

9 And Jesus said to them, “I ask you: Is it lawful on the Sabbaths to do good, or evil? To save a soul, or destroy it?”

10 And looking around at them all, he said to the man, “Extend your hand.” And he extended it, and his hand was restored.

11 But they were filled with folly and discussed with one another what they might do to Jesus.

12 And it came to pass in those days that he went out onto the mountain to pray, and he spent the night in prayer to God.

13 And when day came, he called his disciples and chose twelve from them, whom he also named apostles:

14 Simon, whom he surnamed Peter, and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew,

15 Matthew and Thomas, James son of Alphaeus, and Simon, who is called the Zealot,

16 and Judas of James, and Judas Iscariot, who was a traitor.

17 And descending with them, he stood in a level place, with a crowd of his disciples and an abundant multitude of people from all Judea and Jerusalem, and from the seacoast, and from Tyre and Sidon,

18 who had come to hear him and to be healed of their sicknesses. And those who were vexed by unclean spirits were healed.

19 And the whole crowd sought to touch him, because power went out from him and healed all.

20 And lifting his eyes upon his disciples, he said, “Blessed are you poor, for yours is the kingdom of God.

21 Blessed are you who hunger now, for you shall be filled. Blessed are you who weep now, for you shall laugh.

22 Blessed shall you be when men hate you, and when they separate you and reproach you and cast out your name as evil because of the Son of Man.

23 Rejoice on that day and exult, for behold, your reward is abundant in heaven; for their fathers did the same things to the prophets.

24 Nevertheless, woe to you who are rich, for you have your consolation.

25 Woe to you who are filled, for you shall hunger. Woe to you who laugh now, for you shall mourn and weep.

26 Woe when men bless you, for their fathers did the same things to the false prophets.

27 But I say to you who hear: Love your enemies; do good to those who hate you.

28 Bless those who curse you, and pray for those who falsely accuse you.

29 And to him who strikes you on the cheek, offer the other also. And from him who takes away your garment, do not withhold your tunic also.

30 But give to everyone who asks of you; and from him who takes away what is yours, do not demand it back.

31 And just as you desire that men should do to you, do likewise also to them.

32 And if you love those who love you, what grace is there for you? For even sinners love those who love them.

33 And if you do good to those who do good to you, what grace is there for you? For even sinners do this.

34 And if you lend to those from whom you hope to receive, what grace is there for you? For even sinners lend to sinners, that they may receive equal things.

35 Nevertheless, love your enemies; do good, and lend, hoping for nothing from it. And your reward shall be abundant, and you shall be sons of the Most High, for he is kind to the ungrateful and the evil.

36 Therefore, be merciful, as your Father also is merciful.

37 Do not judge, and you shall not be judged. Do not condemn, and you shall not be condemned. Forgive, and you shall be forgiven.

38 Give, and it shall be given to you: a good measure, pressed down, shaken together, and overflowing, they shall give into your bosom. For with the same measure by which you have measured, it shall be measured back to you."

39 And he also spoke a similitude to them: "Can the blind lead the blind? Do they not both fall into the pit?

40 A disciple is not above his master; but everyone shall be perfect if he is like his master.

41 And why do you see the speck in your brother's eye, but do not consider the beam that is in your own eye?

42 Or how can you say to your brother, 'Brother, permit me to cast the speck out of your eye,' while you yourself do not see the beam in your own eye? Hypocrite, first cast the beam out of your own eye, and then you shall see clearly to take the speck out of your brother's eye.

43 For there is no good tree that produces evil fruits, nor an evil tree producing good fruit.

44 For every tree is known by its own fruit. For they do not gather figs from thorns, nor do they harvest a grape from a bramble.

45 A good man out of the good treasure of his heart brings forth good, and an evil man out of the evil treasure brings forth evil. For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks.

46 And why do you call me 'Lord, Lord,' and do not do the things I say?

47 Everyone who comes to me and hears my words and does them, I shall show you whom he is like:

48 he is like a man building a house, who dug deep and laid the foundation upon rock. And when a flood arose, the river struck against that house and could not move it, for it had been founded upon rock.

49 But he who hears and does not do is like a man building his house upon earth without a foundation. The river struck against it, and immediately it fell, and the ruin of that house was great."

CHAPTER 7

1 And when he had completed all his words in the ears of the people, he entered Capernaum.

2 Now a certain centurion's servant, who was precious to him, was ill and about to die.

3 And when he had heard of Jesus, he sent elders of the Jews to him, asking him to come and save his servant.

4 And when they came to Jesus, they pleaded with him earnestly, saying to him, "He is worthy that you should grant this to him,

5 for he loves our nation, and he himself built us a synagogue."

6 And Jesus went with them. And when he was now not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to him, saying, "Lord, do not be troubled, for I am not worthy that you should enter beneath my roof.

7 For this reason I did not judge even myself worthy to come to you; but say it with a word, and my servant shall be healed.

8 For I also am a man placed under authority, having soldiers under me; and I say to this one, 'Go,' and he goes; and to another, 'Come,' and he comes; and to my servant, 'Do this,' and he does it."

9 When Jesus heard this, he marveled; and turning to the crowds following him, he said, "Amen I say to you: not even in Israel have I found such great faith."

10 And those who had been sent returned to the house and found the servant who had been ill in good health.

11 And it came to pass afterward that he went into a city called Nain; and his disciples went with him, and an abundant crowd.

12 And as he drew near to the gate of the city, behold, a dead man was being carried out, the only son of his mother; and she was a widow, and a great crowd from the city was with her.

13 And when the Lord saw her, he was moved with mercy toward her and said to her, "Do not weep."

14 And he drew near and touched the bier. And those who carried it stood still. And he said, "Young man, I say to you, rise."

15 And he who had been dead sat up and began to speak. And he gave him to his mother.

16 And fear took hold of them all, and they magnified God, saying, "A great prophet has risen among us," and, "God has visited his people."

17 And this word concerning him went out into all Judea and all the surrounding region.

18 And John's disciples announced to him concerning all these things.

19 And John called two of his disciples and sent them to Jesus, saying, "Are you he who is to come, or do we await another?"

20 And when the men came to him, they said, "John the Baptist sent us to you, saying, 'Are you he who is to come, or do we await another?'"

21 Now in that same hour he healed many from sicknesses and plagues and evil spirits, and granted sight to many who were blind.

22 And answering, he said to them, "Go and report to John the things you have heard and seen: the blind see, the lame walk, lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead rise, the poor have the Gospel proclaimed to them;

23 and blessed is whoever shall not be scandalized in me."

24 And when John's messengers had departed, he began to say to the crowds concerning John, "What did you go out into the desert to see? A reed shaken by the wind?

25 But what did you go out to see? A man clothed in soft garments? Behold, those who are in precious clothing and delights are in the houses of kings.

26 But what did you go out to see? A prophet? Certainly I say to you, and more than a prophet.

27 This is he of whom it is written: 'Behold, I send my angel before your face, who shall prepare your way before you.'

28 For I say to you: among those born of women, no prophet is greater than John the Baptist; but he who is lesser in the kingdom of God is greater than he."

29 And all the people who heard, and the publicans, justified God, having been baptized with the baptism of John.

30 But the Pharisees and the lawyers despised the counsel of God against themselves, not having been baptized by him.

31 And the Lord said, "To whom, then, shall I say the men of this generation are like? And to whom are they like?

32 They are like children sitting in the marketplace and speaking to one another and saying, ‘We played pipes for you, and you did not dance; we lamented, and you did not weep.’

33 For John the Baptist came neither eating bread nor drinking wine, and you say, ‘He has a demon.’

34 The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and you say, ‘Behold, a man who devours and drinks wine, a friend of publicans and sinners.’

35 And wisdom has been justified by all her sons.”

36 And one of the Pharisees asked him to eat with him. And entering the Pharisee’s house, he reclined.

37 And behold, a woman who was a sinner in the city, when she knew that he reclined in the Pharisee’s house, brought an alabaster vessel of ointment.

38 And standing behind beside his feet, she began to wet his feet with tears, and she was wiping them with the hairs of her head, and kissing his feet, and anointing them with the ointment.

39 And when the Pharisee who had invited him saw this, he spoke within himself, saying, “If this man were a prophet, he would surely know who and what manner of woman she is who touches him, for she is a sinner.”

40 And Jesus answered and said to him, “Simon, I have something to say to you.” And he said, “Master, speak.”

41 “A certain moneylender had two debtors. One owed five hundred denarii, and the other fifty.

42 And when they had nothing with which to repay, he forgave them both. Which of them, therefore, loves him more?”

43 Simon answered and said, “I suppose he to whom he forgave more.” And he said to him, “You have judged rightly.”

44 And turning toward the woman, he said to Simon, “Do you see this woman? I entered your house; you gave me no water for my feet, but she has wet my feet with tears and wiped them with her hair.

45 You gave me no kiss, but she, from the time she entered, has not ceased to kiss my feet.

46 You did not anoint my head with oil, but she has anointed my feet with ointment.

47 Therefore I say to you: her many sins are forgiven, because she loved much. But he to whom less is forgiven loves less.”

48 And he said to her, “Your sins are forgiven you.”

49 And those who reclined together began to say within themselves, “Who is this who even forgives sins?”

50 And he said to the woman, “Your faith has saved you. Go in peace.”

CHAPTER 8

1 And it came to pass afterward that he journeyed through cities and villages, preaching and proclaiming the Gospel of the kingdom of God; and the twelve were with him,

2 and certain women who had been healed of malignant spirits and infirmities: Mary, who is called Magdalene, from whom seven demons had gone out,

3 and Joanna, wife of Chuza, Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many others, who ministered to him from their means.

4 And when a very great crowd came together, and people hurried to him from the cities, he spoke by a similitude:

5 "He who sows went out to sow his seed. And as he sowed, another fell beside the way, and it was trampled, and the birds of heaven ate it.

6 And another fell upon rock, and when it had sprung up, it withered because it had no moisture.

7 And another fell among thorns, and the thorns, springing up with it, choked it.

8 And another fell into good earth, and when it had sprung up, it produced fruit a hundredfold." Saying these things, he cried out, "He who has ears to hear, let him hear."

9 And his disciples questioned him as to what this parable might be.

10 And he said to them, "To you it has been given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God, but to the rest in parables, that seeing they may not see, and hearing they may not understand.

11 Now this is the parable: The seed is the word of God.

12 And those beside the way are those who hear; then the devil comes and takes the word from their heart, lest they believe and be saved.

13 For those upon rock are those who, when they hear, receive the word with joy; and these have no roots. They believe for a time and withdraw in the time of temptation.

14 And that which fell among thorns: these are those who have heard, and as they go, they are choked by the cares and riches and pleasures of life, and they bear no fruit.

15 But that which fell into good earth: these are those who, hearing the word in a good and excellent heart, retain it and bring forth fruit in patience.

16 And no one lighting a lamp covers it with a vessel or places it beneath a bed, but places it upon a lampstand, that those entering may see the light.

17 For there is nothing hidden that shall not be manifested, nor concealed that shall not be known and come into the open.

18 Therefore, see how you hear. For he who has, to him shall be given; and whoever does not have, even what he thinks he has shall be taken away from him."

19 And his mother and brothers came to him, and they could not approach him because of the crowd.

20 And it was announced to him, "Your mother and your brothers are standing outside, wishing to see you."

21 And he answered and said to them, "My mother and my brothers are those who hear the word of God and do it."

22 And it came to pass on one of the days that he and his disciples entered a little boat; and he said to them, "Let us cross over the lake." And they put out.

23 And as they sailed, he fell asleep; and a windstorm descended upon the lake, and they were being filled and were in danger.

24 And drawing near, they awakened him, saying, "Master, we are perishing." But rising, he rebuked the wind and the tempest of the water, and it ceased, and there came a calm.

25 And he said to them, "Where is your faith?" And fearing, they marveled and said to one another, "Who, do you think, is this, that he commands even the winds and the sea, and they obey him?"

26 And they sailed to the region of the Gerasenes, which is opposite Galilee.

27 And when he had gone out onto the land, a certain man met him who had had a demon for a long time; and he wore no garment and did not remain in a house, but among the tombs.

28 When he saw Jesus, he fell down before him and, crying out with a great voice, said, “What is there between me and you, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I beseech you, do not torment me.”

29 For he was commanding the unclean spirit to come out of the man. For it had seized him many times, and he was bound with chains and guarded with fetters. And when the bonds had been broken, he was driven by the demon into the deserts.

30 And Jesus questioned him, saying, “What is your name?” And he said, “Legion,” because many demons had entered into him.

31 And they pleaded with him not to command them to go into the abyss.

32 Now there was a herd of many swine feeding on the mountain, and they pleaded with him to permit them to enter into the swine. And he permitted them.

33 Therefore, the demons went out from the man and entered into the swine; and the herd rushed violently over the precipice into the lake and was suffocated.

34 And when those who fed them saw what had happened, they fled and announced it in the city and in the villages.

35 And people went out to see what had happened, and they came to Jesus and found the man from whom the demons had gone out sitting at his feet, clothed and of sound mind; and they were afraid.

36 And those also who had seen it announced to them how he had been restored to health from the legion.

37 And the whole multitude of the region of the Gerasenes pleaded with him to depart from them, because they were held by great fear. And he, ascending the boat, returned.

38 And the man from whom the demons had gone out pleaded with him that he might be with him. But Jesus dismissed him, saying,

39 “Return to your house and recount what great things God has done for you.” And he went away through the whole city, preaching what great things Jesus had done for him.

40 And it came to pass, when Jesus had returned, that the crowd received him, for they were all awaiting him.

41 And behold, a man named Jairus came, and he was a ruler of the synagogue; and he fell at Jesus’ feet, pleading with him to enter his house,

42 because he had an only daughter, about twelve years old, and she was dying. And it happened that as he went, he was pressed by the crowd.

43 And there was a certain woman with a flow of blood for twelve years, who had spent all her substance upon physicians and could be healed by no one.

44 She came behind him and touched the fringe of his garment, and immediately the flow of her blood stopped.

45 And Jesus said, “Who is it who touched me?” But when all denied it, Peter and those who were with him said, “Master, the crowds press and afflict you, and you say, ‘Who touched me?’”

46 And Jesus said, “Someone touched me, for I know that power has gone out from me.”

47 And the woman, seeing that she was not hidden, came trembling and fell down before his feet; and she declared before all the people for what cause she had touched him and how she had been healed immediately.

48 And he said to her, “Daughter, your faith has saved you. Go in peace.”

49 While he was still speaking, someone came to the ruler of the synagogue, saying to him, “Your daughter is dead; do not trouble him.”

50 But Jesus, having heard this word, answered the girl’s father, “Do not fear; only believe, and she shall be saved.”

51 And when he came to the house, he did not permit anyone to enter with him except Peter and James and John, and the father and mother of the girl.

52 And all were weeping and mourning her. But he said, “Do not weep. The girl is not dead, but sleeps.”

53 And they ridiculed him, knowing that she was dead.

54 But he, holding her hand, cried out, saying, “Girl, rise.”

55 And her spirit returned, and she arose immediately. And he commanded that she be given something to eat.

56 And her parents were astounded; and he commanded them to tell no one what had been done.

CHAPTER 9

1 And calling together the twelve apostles, he gave them power and authority over all demons, and to cure ailments.

2 And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God and to heal the sick.

3 And he said to them, “Take nothing for the way: neither staff, nor bag, nor bread, nor money; and do not have two tunics.

4 And into whatever house you enter, remain there, and do not depart from there.

5 And as many as do not receive you: as you go out from that city, shake even the dust from your feet as a testimony against them.”

6 And going out, they went about through the towns, evangelizing and healing everywhere.

7 Now Herod the tetrarch heard all the things that were being done by him, and he was perplexed because it was said

8 by some, “John has risen from the dead”; but by some, “Elijah has appeared”; and by others, “One of the prophets of old has risen.”

9 And Herod said, “John I beheaded; but who is this man, about whom I hear such things?” And he sought to see him.

10 And the apostles returned and recounted to him all the things they had done. And taking them with him, he withdrew apart into a desert place belonging to Bethsaida.

11 But when the crowds learned this, they followed him; and he received them, and spoke to them concerning the kingdom of God, and healed those who had need of healing.

12 Now the day had begun to decline. And the twelve drew near and said to him, “Dismiss the crowds, that they may go into the towns and villages round about, find lodging, and find food; for we are here in a desert place.”

13 But he said to them, “You give them something to eat.” And they said, “We have no more than five loaves and two fish, unless perhaps we go and buy food for this entire crowd.”

14 Now there were about five thousand men. And he said to his disciples, “Make them recline in companies of fifty.”

15 And they did so, and made them all recline.

16 Then taking the five loaves and the two fish, he looked up to heaven and blessed them; and he broke them and distributed them to his disciples, that they might set them before the crowds.

17 And they all ate and were filled. And what remained over from them was taken up: twelve baskets of fragments.

18 And it came to pass, when he was praying alone, that his disciples also were with him; and he questioned them, saying, “Whom do the crowds say that I am?”

19 But they answered and said, “John the Baptist; but others, Elijah; and others, that one of the former prophets has risen.”

20 Then he said to them, “But you, whom do you say that I am?” Simon Peter answered and said, “Christ of God.”

21 But sternly rebuking them, he commanded them to tell this to no one,

22 saying, “The Son of Man must suffer many things, and be rejected by the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and rise again on the third day.”

23 And he said to all, “If anyone wishes to come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me.

24 For whoever wishes to save his soul shall lose it; but whoever loses his soul because of me shall save it.

25 For what does it profit a man if he gains the whole world, but loses himself and brings ruin upon himself?

26 For whoever is ashamed of me and my words, the Son of Man shall be ashamed of him when he comes in his own majesty and that of the Father and of the holy angels.

27 But I tell you truly: there are some standing here who shall not taste death until they see the kingdom of God.”

28 And it came to pass, about eight days after these words, that he took Peter and James and John and ascended the mountain to pray.

29 And while he prayed, the appearance of his face became different, and his clothing became white and radiant.

30 And behold, two men were speaking with him. They were Moses and Elijah,

31 appearing in majesty; and they spoke of his departure, which he was to accomplish in Jerusalem.

32 But Peter and those who were with him were weighed down with sleep. And awakening, they saw his majesty and the two men who stood with him.

33 And it came to pass, as they were departing from him, that Peter said to Jesus, “Master, it is good for us to be here. And let us make three tabernacles: one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah”—not knowing what he was saying.

34 But while he spoke these things, a cloud came and overshadowed them; and they became afraid as they entered into the cloud.

35 And a voice came from the cloud, saying, “This is my beloved Son; hear him.”

36 And while the voice was being uttered, Jesus was found alone. And they were silent, and in those days told no one anything of the things they had seen.

37 And it came to pass on the following day, as they descended from the mountain, that a great crowd met them.

38 And behold, a man from the crowd cried out, saying, “Master, I beseech you, look upon my son, for he is my only one.

39 And behold, a spirit takes hold of him, and suddenly cries out; and it dashes him down and convulses him amid foam, and scarcely departs from him, mangling him.

40 And I pleaded with your disciples to cast it out, and they could not.”

41 Then Jesus answered and said, “O unbelieving and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you and endure you? Bring your son here.”

42 And as he drew near, the demon dashed him down and tore him.

43 And Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the boy, and restored him to his father.

44 And all were astonished at the greatness of God. And while everyone marveled at all the things he did, he said to his disciples, “Place these words in your hearts: for the Son of Man is to be handed over into the hands of men.”

45 But they did not understand this word, and it was veiled before them so that they would not perceive it; and they were afraid to question him concerning this word.

46 And a thought entered into them as to which of them was greater.

47 But Jesus, seeing the thoughts of their heart, took hold of a child and placed him beside himself,

48 and said to them, “Whoever receives this child in my name receives me; and whoever receives me receives him who sent me. For he who is least among you all, this one is great.”

49 And John answered and said, “Master, we saw someone casting out demons in your name, and we forbade him, because he does not follow with us.”

50 And Jesus said to him, “Do not forbid him; for he who is not against you is for you.”

51 And it came to pass, when the days of his being taken up were being fulfilled, that he steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem.

52 And he sent messengers before his face; and going, they entered a city of the Samaritans to prepare for him.

53 And they did not receive him, because his face was set on going to Jerusalem.

54 And when his disciples James and John saw this, they said, “Lord, do you wish us to say that fire should descend from heaven and consume them?”

55 But turning, he rebuked them, saying, “You do not know of what spirit you are.

56 The Son of Man did not come to destroy souls, but to save them.” And they went into another town.

57 And it came to pass, as they walked along the way, that a certain man said to him, “I shall follow you wherever you go.”

58 Jesus said to him, “Foxes have dens, and the birds of heaven have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to rest his head.”

59 And he said to another, “Follow me.” But he said, “Lord, permit me first to go and bury my father.”

60 And Jesus said to him, “Let the dead bury their dead; but you, go and announce the kingdom of God.”

61 And another said, “I shall follow you, Lord; but first permit me to bid farewell to those at home.”

62 Jesus said to him, “No one putting his hand to the plow and looking back is fit for the kingdom of God.”

CHAPTER 10

1 Now after these things, the Lord appointed seventy-two others also, and sent them two by two before his face into every city and place where he himself was about to come.

2 And he said to them, “The harvest indeed is abundant, but the workers are few. Therefore, pray the Lord of the harvest to send workers into his harvest.

3 Go; behold, I send you as lambs among wolves.

4 Do not carry a moneybag, or a traveling bag, or shoes; and greet no one along the way.

5 Into whatever house you enter, first say, ‘Peace to this house.’

6 And if a son of peace is there, your peace shall rest upon him; but if not, it shall return to you.

7 And remain in the same house, eating and drinking the things they have; for the worker is worthy of his wages. Do not pass from house to house.

8 And into whatever city you enter, if they receive you, eat the things set before you;

9 and heal the sick who are in it, and say to them, ‘The kingdom of God has drawn near upon you.’

10 But into whatever city you enter, if they do not receive you, go out into its streets and say,

11 ‘Even the dust from your city that has clung to us, we wipe off against you. Nevertheless, know this: the kingdom of God has drawn near.’

12 I say to you that it shall be more tolerable for Sodom on that day than for that city.

13 Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the mighty works that were done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would long ago have done penance, sitting in sackcloth and ashes.

14 Nevertheless, it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon in the judgment than for you.

15 And you, Capernaum, exalted as far as heaven, shall be plunged as far as the realm of the dead.

16 He who hears you hears me; and he who despises you despises me. But he who despises me despises him who sent me.”

17 And the seventy-two returned with joy, saying, “Lord, even the demons are subject to us in your name.”

18 And he said to them, “I watched Satan falling like lightning from heaven.

19 Behold, I have given you authority to tread upon serpents and scorpions and over all the power of the enemy; and nothing shall harm you.

20 Nevertheless, do not rejoice in this, that the spirits are subject to you; but rejoice that your names are written in the heavens.”

21 In that same hour, he exulted in the Holy Spirit and said, “I confess to you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and prudent and revealed them to little ones. Yes, Father, for so it was pleasing before you.

22 All things have been handed over to me by my Father. And no one knows who the Son is except the Father, and who the Father is except the Son and he to whom the Son wills to reveal him.”

23 And turning to his disciples, he said, “Blessed are the eyes that see the things you see.

24 For I say to you that many prophets and kings wished to see the things you see and did not see them, and to hear the things you hear and did not hear them.”

25 And behold, a certain lawyer rose up, tempting him and saying, “Master, what shall I do to possess eternal life?”

26 But he said to him, “What is written in the law? How do you read?”

27 He answered and said, “You shall love the Lord your God from your whole heart, and from your whole soul, and from all your strength, and from your whole mind; and your neighbor as yourself.”

28 And he said to him, “You have answered rightly. Do this, and you shall live.”

29 But he, wishing to justify himself, said to Jesus, “And who is my neighbor?”

30 Jesus replied, “A certain man was descending from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among robbers, who also stripped him; and after inflicting wounds, they departed, leaving him half dead.

31 Now it happened that a certain priest was descending by the same way; and seeing him, he passed by.

32 Likewise, a Levite also, when he was near the place and saw him, passed by.

33 But a certain Samaritan, making his journey, came near him; and seeing him, he was moved with mercy.

34 And drawing near, he bound his wounds, pouring in oil and wine; and placing him upon his own beast, he led him to an inn and cared for him.

35 And the next day, he brought out two denarii and gave them to the innkeeper, and said, ‘Take care of him; and whatever more you spend, I shall repay you when I return.’

36 Which of these three seems to you to have been neighbor to him who fell among the robbers?”

37 But he said, “He who showed mercy toward him.” And Jesus said to him, “Go, and do likewise yourself.”

38 And it came to pass, as they went, that he himself entered a certain town; and a certain woman named Martha received him into her house.

39 And she had a sister named Mary, who also sat beside the Lord’s feet and heard his word.

40 But Martha was occupied with much serving. And standing, she said, “Lord, is it no concern to you that my sister has left me to serve alone? Tell her therefore to help me.”

41 And the Lord answered and said to her, “Martha, Martha, you are anxious and troubled about many things;

42 but one thing is necessary. Mary has chosen the best part, which shall not be taken away from her.”

CHAPTER 11

1 And it came to pass, when he was praying in a certain place, that as he ceased, one of his disciples said to him, “Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.”

2 And he said to them, “When you pray, say: ‘Father, hallowed be your name. May your kingdom come.

3 Give us today our daily bread.

4 And forgive us our sins, since we ourselves also forgive everyone indebted to us. And do not lead us into temptation.’”

5 And he said to them, “Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go to him at midnight and say to him, ‘Friend, lend me three loaves,

6 because a friend of mine has come to me from a journey, and I have nothing to set before him’;

7 and he from within should answer and say, ‘Do not trouble me. The door is already shut, and my children are with me in bed. I cannot rise and give to you’?

8 And if he continues knocking, I say to you: even if he will not rise and give to him because he is his friend, yet because of his importunity he will rise and give him as many as he needs.

9 And I say to you: ask, and it shall be given to you; seek, and you shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you.

10 For everyone who asks receives; and he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, it shall be opened.

11 But which of you asks his father for bread? Will he give him a stone? Or for a fish—will he give him a serpent instead of a fish?

12 Or if he asks for an egg, will he offer him a scorpion?

13 Therefore, if you, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more shall your Father from heaven give a good spirit to those who ask him?”

14 And he was casting out a demon, and it was mute. And when he had cast out the demon, the mute man spoke, and the crowds marveled.

15 But some of them said, “By Beelzebub, prince of demons, he casts out demons.”

16 And others, tempting him, sought from him a sign from heaven.

17 But when he saw their thoughts, he said to them, “Every kingdom divided against itself shall be laid waste, and house shall fall upon house.

18 But if Satan also is divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand? For you say that I cast out demons by Beelzebub.

19 But if I cast out demons by Beelzebub, by whom do your sons cast them out? Therefore, they themselves shall be your judges.

20 But if I cast out demons by the finger of God, surely the kingdom of God has come upon you.

21 When a strong man, armed, guards his courtyard, the things he possesses are in peace.

22 But if a stronger man comes upon him and conquers him, he shall take away all his armor in which he trusted, and shall distribute his spoils.

23 He who is not with me is against me; and he who does not gather with me scatters.

24 When an unclean spirit has gone out from a man, it walks through waterless places seeking rest; and not finding it, it says, ‘I shall return into my house, from which I came out.’

25 And when it comes, it finds it swept clean and adorned.

26 Then it goes and takes with it seven other spirits more wicked than itself; and entering, they dwell there. And the last things of that man become worse than the former things.”

27 And it came to pass, as he said these things, that a certain woman from the crowd raised her voice and said to him, “Blessed is the womb that carried you, and the breasts that you sucked.”

28 But he said, “Rather, blessed are those who hear the word of God and keep it.”

29 And as the crowds gathered together, he began to say, “This generation is a wicked generation. It seeks a sign, and no sign shall be given to it except the sign of Jonah the prophet.

30 For just as Jonah was a sign to the Ninevites, so also shall the Son of Man be to this generation.

31 The queen of the south shall rise in judgment with the men of this generation and condemn them, because she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and behold, more than Solomon is here.

32 The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation and condemn it, because they did penance at the preaching of Jonah; and behold, more than Jonah is here.

33 No one lights a lamp and places it in a hidden place, nor under a bushel, but upon a lampstand, that those who enter may see the light.

34 The lamp of your body is your eye. If your eye is simple, your whole body shall be luminous; but if it is evil, your body also shall be dark.

35 See therefore lest the light that is in you be darkness.

36 Therefore, if your whole body is luminous, having no part of darkness, it shall be entirely luminous, and shall illuminate you like a lamp of brightness."

37 And while he was speaking, a certain Pharisee asked him to dine with him. And entering, he reclined.

38 But the Pharisee began, considering within himself, to say why Jesus had not washed before dinner.

39 And the Lord said to him, "Now you Pharisees cleanse what is outside the cup and platter, but that which is within you is full of plunder and iniquity.

40 Fools! Did not he who made what is outside make what is inside also?

41 Nevertheless, give what remains as alms; and behold, all things are clean for you.

42 But woe to you, Pharisees, because you tithe mint and rue and every herb, and pass over judgment and the love of God. These you ought to have done, and not to have omitted those.

43 Woe to you, Pharisees, because you love the first chairs in the synagogues and greetings in the marketplace.

44 Woe to you, because you are like monuments that do not appear, and the men who walk over them do not know it."

45 Then one of the lawyers answered and said to him, "Master, by saying these things, you insult us also."

46 But he said, "Woe to you lawyers also, because you load men with burdens they cannot bear, and you yourselves do not touch the loads with one of your fingers.

47 Woe to you who build the monuments of the prophets, while your fathers killed them.

48 Surely you bear witness that you consent to the works of your fathers; for they indeed killed them, but you build their sepulchers.

49 Therefore, the wisdom of God also said: 'I shall send to them prophets and apostles, and some of them they shall kill and persecute,'

50 that the blood of all the prophets, which has been poured out from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation,

51 from the blood of Abel to the blood of Zechariah, who perished between the altar and the temple. Yes, I say to you: it shall be required of this generation.

52 Woe to you lawyers, because you have taken away the key of knowledge. You yourselves did not enter, and those who were entering you prohibited."

53 And as he said these things to them, the Pharisees and lawyers began to press him vehemently and to beset his mouth concerning many things, 54 lying in wait for him and seeking to catch something from his mouth, that they might accuse him.

CHAPTER 12

1 Meanwhile, as the crowds gathered around in great numbers, so that they trampled one another, he began to say to his disciples, “Take heed of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy.

2 For there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed, nor hidden that shall not be known.

3 For the things you have said in darkness shall be spoken in the light; and what you have spoken into the ear in private rooms shall be preached upon the housetops.

4 But I say to you, my friends: do not fear those who kill the body and after these things have no more that they can do.

5 But I shall show you whom you should fear: fear him who, after he has killed, has authority to cast into Gehenna. Yes, I say to you, fear him.

6 Are not five sparrows sold for a two-as coin? And not one of them is forgotten before God.

7 But even all the hairs of your head are numbered. Therefore, do not fear; you are of more value than many sparrows.

8 But I say to you: everyone who confesses me before men, the Son of Man also shall confess him before the angels of God.

9 But he who denies me before men shall be denied before the angels of God.

10 And everyone who speaks a word against the Son of Man, it shall be forgiven him; but he who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit shall not be forgiven.

11 And when they bring you into the synagogues and before magistrates and authorities, do not be anxious about how or what you shall answer, or what you shall say.

12 For the Holy Spirit shall teach you in that same hour what you ought to say.”

13 And someone from the crowd said to him, “Master, tell my brother to divide the inheritance with me.”

14 But he said to him, “Man, who appointed me judge or divider over you?”

15 And he said to them, “See and beware of all avarice, for a man’s life is not in the abundance of the things he possesses.”

16 And he spoke a parable to them, saying, “The field of a certain rich man brought forth abundant fruits.

17 And he thought within himself, saying, ‘What shall I do, because I have nowhere to gather my fruits?’

18 And he said, ‘I shall do this: I shall tear down my barns and build larger ones, and there I shall gather all my produce and my goods.

19 And I shall say to my soul: Soul, you have many good things laid up for many years; rest, eat, drink, feast.’

20 But God said to him, ‘Fool, this night they demand your soul back from you. But the things you have prepared, whose shall they be?’

21 So is he who stores up treasure for himself and is not rich toward God.”

22 And he said to his disciples, “Therefore I say to you: do not be anxious for your soul, what you shall eat, nor for your body, what you shall put on.

23 The soul is more than food, and the body more than clothing.

24 Consider the ravens, for they neither sow nor reap; they have neither storeroom nor barn, and God feeds them. How much more valuable are you than they?

25 And which of you, by thinking, can add one cubit to his stature?

26 Therefore, if you are unable to do even the least thing, why are you anxious about the rest?

27 Consider the lilies, how they grow: they do not labor, nor do they spin. Yet I say to you that not even Solomon in all his glory was clothed like one of these.

28 But if God so clothes the grass that is in the field today and is cast into the oven tomorrow, how much more you, O you of little faith?

29 And do not seek what you shall eat or what you shall drink, and do not be lifted up on high.

30 For the nations of the world seek all these things. But your Father knows that you need them.

31 Nevertheless, seek first the kingdom of God and his justice, and all these things shall be added to you.

32 Do not fear, little flock, for it was pleasing to your Father to give you the kingdom.

33 Sell the things you possess and give alms. Make for yourselves moneybags that do not grow old, an unfailing treasure in the heavens, where no thief approaches and no moth corrupts.

34 For where your treasure is, there your heart shall be also.

35 Let your loins be girded and your lamps burning in your hands,

36 and be like men waiting for their master when he returns from the wedding feast, that when he comes and knocks, they may open to him immediately.

37 Blessed are those servants whom their master, when he comes, shall find watching. Amen I say to you that he shall gird himself and make them recline, and passing by shall minister to them.

38 And if he comes in the second watch, and if he comes in the third watch, and finds them so, blessed are those servants.

39 But know this: if the master of the household knew at what hour the thief would come, he would certainly watch and would not permit his house to be dug through.

40 And you also, be ready, because at an hour you do not expect, the Son of Man shall come."

41 Then Peter said to him, "Lord, do you speak this parable to us, or also to all?"

42 And the Lord said, "Who, do you think, is the faithful and prudent steward whom his master has appointed over his household, to give them their measure of wheat at the proper time?

43 Blessed is that servant whom his master, when he comes, shall find doing so.

44 Truly I say to you: he shall appoint him over all the things he possesses.

45 But if that servant says in his heart, 'My master delays coming,' and begins to strike the servants and maidservants, and to eat and drink and become drunk,

46 the master of that servant shall come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour he does not know, and shall cut him apart and place his portion with the unbelievers.

47 But that servant who knew his master's will and did not prepare, and did not act according to his will, shall be beaten with many blows;

48 but he who did not know and did things worthy of blows shall be beaten with few. And from everyone to whom much has been given, much shall be sought; and from him to whom they entrusted much, they shall demand more.

49 I came to cast fire upon the earth; and what do I desire except that it be kindled?

50 But I have a baptism with which to be baptized; and how I am constrained until it is accomplished!

51 Do you suppose that I came to give peace upon the earth? No, I say to you, but separation.

52 For from this time there shall be five in one house divided: three against two, and two against three.

53 They shall be divided: father against son, and son against his father; mother against daughter, and daughter against mother; mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law, and daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law."

54 And he said also to the crowds, "When you see a cloud rising from the west, immediately you say, 'A rainstorm is coming'; and so it happens.

55 And when the south wind blows, you say, 'There will be heat'; and it happens.

56 Hypocrites! You know how to discern the face of heaven and earth; but how do you not discern this time?

57 And why do you not judge from yourselves also what is just?

58 But when you go with your adversary to the ruler, make an effort on the way to be delivered from him, lest perhaps he drag you to the judge, and the judge hand you over to the officer, and the officer cast you into prison.

59 I say to you: you shall not come out from there until you repay even the last mite."

CHAPTER 13

1 Now there were some present at that very time, reporting to him concerning the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices.

2 And he answered and said to them, “Do you think that these Galileans were sinners above all the Galileans because they suffered such things?

3 No, I say to you; but unless you have penance, you shall all perish likewise.

4 Likewise, those eighteen upon whom the tower in Siloam fell and killed them: do you think that they too were debtors beyond all the men dwelling in Jerusalem?

5 No, I say to you; but if you do not do penance, you shall all perish likewise.”

6 And he also spoke this parable: “A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard, and he came seeking fruit on it and did not find any.

7 Then he said to the cultivator of the vineyard, ‘Behold, for three years I have come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and I find none. Therefore, cut it down. Why does it also occupy the ground?’

8 But he answered and said to him, ‘Master, leave it this year also, until I dig around it and put down manure;

9 and if indeed it bears fruit—but if not, in the future you shall cut it down.’”

10 Now he was teaching in their synagogue on the Sabbaths.

11 And behold, there was a woman who had a spirit of infirmity for eighteen years; and she was bent over and could not look upward at all.

12 And when Jesus saw her, he called her to himself and said to her, “Woman, you are released from your infirmity.”

13 And he laid his hands upon her, and immediately she was made upright and glorified God.

14 But the ruler of the synagogue answered indignantly because Jesus had healed on the Sabbath, and said to the crowd, “There are six days in which one ought to work. Therefore, come on those days and be healed, and not on the Sabbath day.”

15 But the Lord answered him and said, “Hypocrites, does not each one of you loose his ox or ass from the manger on the Sabbath and lead it to water?

16 But this daughter of Abraham, whom Satan has bound—behold, for eighteen years—ought she not to be loosed from this bond on the Sabbath day?”

17 And as he said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed; and all the people rejoiced in all the things that were done gloriously by him.

18 Therefore, he said, “To what is the kingdom of God like, and to what shall I liken it?

19 It is like a grain of mustard seed that a man took and cast into his garden; and it grew and became a great tree, and the birds of heaven rested in its branches.”

20 And again he said, “To what shall I liken the kingdom of God?

21 It is like leaven that a woman took and hid in three measures of flour, until the whole was leavened.”

22 And he went through the cities and towns, teaching and making his journey toward Jerusalem.

23 And a certain man said to him, “Lord, are those who are saved few?” But he said to them,

24 “Strive to enter through the narrow gate; for many, I say to you, shall seek to enter and shall not be able.

25 But when the master of the household has entered and shut the door, you shall begin to stand outside and knock at the door, saying, ‘Lord, open to us.’ And he shall answer and say to you, ‘I do not know you, where you are from.’

26 Then you shall begin to say, ‘We ate and drank before you, and you taught in our streets.’

27 And he shall say to you, ‘I do not know you, where you are from. Depart from me, all you workers of iniquity.’

28 There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth when you see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, but yourselves driven outside.

29 And they shall come from the east and west and north and south, and shall recline in the kingdom of God.

30 And behold, there are last who shall be first, and there are first who shall be last.”

31 On that same day, certain Pharisees drew near, saying to him, “Go out and depart from here, for Herod wishes to kill you.”

32 And he said to them, “Go and tell that fox: ‘Behold, I cast out demons and accomplish healings today and tomorrow, and on the third day I am consummated.’

33 Nevertheless, I must walk today and tomorrow and the following day, for it does not befit a prophet to perish outside Jerusalem.

34 Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you who kill the prophets and stone those who are sent to you, how often I wished to gather your children as a bird gathers its nest beneath its wings, and you were unwilling!

35 Behold, your house shall be left to you desolate. But I say to you that you shall not see me until the time comes when you say, ‘Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.’”

CHAPTER 14

1 And it came to pass, when Jesus entered the house of a certain prince of the Pharisees on the Sabbath to eat bread, that they were watching him.

2 And behold, a certain man suffering from dropsy was before him.

3 And Jesus answered and said to the lawyers and Pharisees, “Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath?”

4 But they were silent. Then he took hold of the man, healed him, and dismissed him.

5 And answering them, he said, “Which of you, if his ass or ox falls into a well, will not immediately pull it out on the Sabbath day?”

6 And they could not answer him concerning these things.

7 And he also spoke a parable to those who were invited, observing how they chose the first reclining places, and said to them,

8 “When you are invited to a wedding feast, do not recline in the first place, lest perhaps one more honorable than you has been invited by him,

9 and he who invited you and him should come and say to you, ‘Give this man your place.’ And then you begin with shame to occupy the lowest place.

10 But when you are invited, go and recline in the lowest place, that when he who invited you comes, he may say to you, ‘Friend, come up higher.’ Then you shall have glory before those reclining with you.

11 For everyone who exalts himself shall be humbled, and he who humbles himself shall be exalted.”

12 And he also said to him who had invited him, “When you make a luncheon or a supper, do not call your friends, or your brothers, or your kindred, or rich neighbors, lest perhaps they also invite you in return and repayment be made to you.

13 But when you make a feast, call the poor, the disabled, the lame, and the blind;

14 and you shall be blessed, because they have no means to repay you. For it shall be repaid to you in the resurrection of the just.”

15 When one of those reclining with him heard these things, he said to him, “Blessed is he who shall eat bread in the kingdom of God.”

16 But he said to him, “A certain man made a great supper and invited many.

17 And at the hour of supper he sent his servant to say to those invited that they should come, because all things were now prepared.

18 And all at once they began to make excuses. The first said to him, ‘I have bought a farm, and I must go out and see it. I ask you, consider me excused.’

19 And another said, ‘I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I am going to test them. I ask you, consider me excused.’

20 And another said, ‘I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.’

21 And the servant returned and reported these things to his master. Then the master of the household, being angry, said to his servant, ‘Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in here the poor and the disabled and the blind and the lame.’

22 And the servant said, ‘Master, it has been done as you commanded, and there is still room.’

23 And the master said to the servant, ‘Go out into the roads and hedges, and compel them to enter, that my house may be filled.

24 But I say to you that none of those men who were invited shall taste my supper.’”

25 Now great crowds went with him; and turning, he said to them,

26 “If anyone comes to me and does not hate his father and mother and wife and children and brothers and sisters, and still further, even his own soul, he cannot be my disciple.

27 And he who does not bear his cross and come after me cannot be my disciple.

28 For which of you, wishing to build a tower, does not first sit down and count the necessary costs, to see whether he has enough to finish it,

29 lest, after he has laid the foundation and is unable to finish, all who see it begin to mock him,

30 saying, ‘This man began to build and was unable to complete it’?

31 Or what king, about to engage in war against another king, does not first sit down and consider whether he is able with ten thousand to meet him who comes against him with twenty thousand?

32 Otherwise, while the other is still far away, he sends an embassy and asks for the terms of peace.

33 So then, every one of you who does not renounce all the things he possesses cannot be my disciple.

34 Salt is good; but if salt has lost its savor, with what shall it be seasoned?

35 It is useful neither for the soil nor for the dung heap, but shall be cast outside. He who has ears to hear, let him hear.”

CHAPTER 15

1 Now publicans and sinners were drawing near to him to hear him.

2 And the Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying, “This man receives sinners and eats with them.”

3 And he spoke this parable to them, saying,

4 “What man among you who has a hundred sheep, if he loses one of them, does not leave the ninety-nine in the desert and go after the one that had perished until he finds it?

5 And when he finds it, he lays it upon his shoulders, rejoicing;

6 and coming home, he calls together his friends and neighbors, saying to them, ‘Rejoice with me, because I have found my sheep that had perished.’

7 I say to you that in this way there shall be more joy in heaven over one sinner doing penance than over ninety-nine just men who have no need of penance.

8 Or what woman who has ten drachmas, if she loses one drachma, does not light a lamp and sweep the house and seek diligently until she finds it?

9 And when she finds it, she calls together her female friends and neighbors, saying, ‘Rejoice with me, because I have found the drachma that I had lost.’

10 In this way, I say to you, there shall be joy before the angels of God over one sinner doing penance.”

11 And he said, “A certain man had two sons.

12 And the younger of them said to his father, ‘Father, give me the portion of the property that falls to me.’ And he divided the property between them.

13 And not many days later, after gathering all things together, the younger son journeyed abroad into a distant region; and there he squandered his property by living extravagantly.

14 And after he had consumed everything, a severe famine arose in that region, and he began to be in need.

15 And he went and attached himself to one of the citizens of that region; and the man sent him to his farm to feed swine.

16 And he desired to fill his belly with the pods that the swine ate, and no one gave him any.

17 But returning into himself, he said, ‘How many hired servants in my father’s house abound with loaves, while I perish here with hunger!

18 I shall rise and go to my father, and I shall say to him: Father, I have sinned against heaven and before you.

19 I am no longer worthy to be called your son; make me like one of your hired servants.’

20 And rising, he came to his father. But while he was still far away, his father saw him and was moved with mercy; and running, he fell upon his neck and kissed him.

21 And the son said to him, ‘Father, I have sinned against heaven and before you. I am no longer worthy to be called your son.’

22 But the father said to his servants, ‘Quickly bring out the first robe and clothe him, and put a ring on his hand and shoes on his feet.

23 And bring the fatted calf and kill it, and let us eat and feast;

24 because this son of mine was dead and has lived again; he had perished and is found.’ And they began to feast.

25 Now his elder son was in the field; and as he came and drew near to the house, he heard music and dancing.

26 And he called one of the servants and questioned him as to what these things were.

27 And the servant said to him, ‘Your brother has come, and your father has killed the fatted calf because he received him back safe.’

28 But he was indignant and would not enter. Therefore, his father came out and began to plead with him.

29 But he answered and said to his father, ‘Behold, for so many years I have served you, and I have never transgressed your commandment; and you have never given me a young goat that I might feast with my friends.

30 But after this son of yours, who devoured his property with prostitutes, came, you killed the fatted calf for him.’

31 But he said to him, ‘Son, you are always with me, and all that is mine is yours.

32 But it was necessary to feast and rejoice, because this brother of yours was dead and has lived again; he had perished and is found.’”

CHAPTER 16

1 And he also said to his disciples, “There was a certain rich man who had a steward; and this man was reported to him as though he had squandered his goods.

2 And he called him and said to him, ‘What is this I hear about you? Render an account of your stewardship, for now you shall no longer be able to act as steward.’

3 Then the steward said within himself, ‘What shall I do, because my master is taking the stewardship away from me? I am not strong enough to dig; I am ashamed to beg.

4 I know what I shall do, so that when I am removed from the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.’

5 Therefore, calling together each of his master’s debtors, he said to the first, ‘How much do you owe my master?’

6 But he said, ‘One hundred jars of oil.’ And the steward said to him, ‘Take your bond, and sit down quickly and write fifty.’

7 Then he said to another, ‘And how much do you owe?’ He said, ‘One hundred measures of wheat.’ He said to him, ‘Take your papers and write eighty.’

8 And the master praised the steward of iniquity because he had acted prudently; for the sons of this age are more prudent than the sons of light in their generation.

9 And I say to you: make friends for yourselves from the mammon of iniquity, that when you fail, they may receive you into the eternal tabernacles.

10 He who is faithful in the least is faithful also in the greater; and he who is unjust in a little is unjust also in the greater.

11 Therefore, if you have not been faithful in unjust mammon, who shall entrust to you that which is true?

12 And if you have not been faithful in that which belongs to another, who shall give you that which is yours?

13 No servant can serve two masters; for either he shall hate the one and love the other, or he shall adhere to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon.”

14 Now the Pharisees, who were avaricious, heard all these things and derided him.

15 And he said to them, “You are those who justify yourselves before men; but God knows your hearts, for that which is exalted among men is an abomination before God.

16 The law and the prophets were until John. From that time the kingdom of God is evangelized, and everyone uses violence toward it.

17 But it is easier for heaven and earth to pass away than for one apex of the law to fall.

18 Everyone who puts away his wife and marries another commits adultery; and he who marries a woman put away by her husband commits adultery.

19 There was a certain rich man who was clothed in purple and fine linen and feasted splendidly every day.

20 And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, who lay at his gate, full of ulcers,

21 desiring to be filled with the crumbs that fell from the rich man’s table, and no one gave him any; but even the dogs came and licked his ulcers.

22 And it came to pass that the beggar died and was carried by the angels into Abraham’s bosom. The rich man also died and was buried in the realm of the dead.

23 And lifting up his eyes, while he was in torments, he saw Abraham far away and Lazarus in his bosom.

24 And crying out, he said, ‘Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus to dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, because I am tormented in this flame.’

25 And Abraham said to him, ‘Son, remember that you received good things in your life, and Lazarus likewise evil things; but now he is comforted here, while you are tormented.

26 And besides all these things, a great chasm has been fixed between us and you, so that those who wish to cross from here to you cannot, nor can they cross from there to here.’

27 And he said, ‘Therefore, I ask you, Father, to send him to my father’s house,

28 for I have five brothers, that he may testify to them, lest they also come into this place of torments.’

29 And Abraham said to him, ‘They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them.’

30 But he said, ‘No, Father Abraham; but if someone from the dead goes to them, they shall do penance.’

31 And he said to him, ‘If they do not hear Moses and the prophets, neither shall they believe if someone rises from the dead.’”

CHAPTER 17

1 And he said to his disciples, “It is impossible that scandals should not come; but woe to him through whom they come.

2 It would be more expedient for him if a millstone were placed around his neck and he were cast into the sea than that he should scandalize one of these little ones.

3 Take heed to yourselves. If your brother sins against you, reprove him; and if he does penance, forgive him.

4 And if he sins against you seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turns to you, saying, ‘I repent,’ forgive him.”

5 And the apostles said to the Lord, “Increase our faith.”

6 But the Lord said, “If you have faith like a grain of mustard seed, you shall say to this mulberry tree, ‘Be uprooted and transplanted into the sea,’ and it shall obey you.

7 But which of you, having a servant plowing or tending the flock, would say to him when he returned from the field, ‘Come at once and recline’?

8 And would he not say to him, ‘Prepare what I may eat for supper, and gird yourself and minister to me until I eat and drink; and after these things, you shall eat and drink’?

9 Does he have gratitude toward that servant because he did the things commanded him?

10 I think not. So also you, when you have done all the things commanded you, say, ‘We are unprofitable servants. We have done what we ought to have done.’”

11 And it came to pass, while he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee.

12 And as he entered a certain village, ten leprous men met him, who stood afar off.

13 And they lifted up their voice, saying, “Jesus, Master, have mercy on us.”

14 And when he saw them, he said, “Go, show yourselves to the priests.” And it came to pass, as they went, that they were cleansed.

15 But one of them, when he saw that he had been cleansed, returned, magnifying God with a great voice.

16 And he fell upon his face before his feet, giving thanks; and this man was a Samaritan.

17 But Jesus answered and said, “Were not ten cleansed? And where are the nine?

18 No one was found who would return and give glory to God except this foreigner.”

19 And he said to him, “Rise, go; your faith has saved you.”

20 And being questioned by the Pharisees, “When does the kingdom of God come?” he answered them and said, “The kingdom of God does not come with observation.

21 Neither shall they say, ‘Behold, here,’ or, ‘Behold, there.’ For behold, the kingdom of God is within you.”

22 And he said to his disciples, “The days shall come when you shall desire to see one day of the Son of Man, and you shall not see it.

23 And they shall say to you, ‘Behold, here,’ and, ‘Behold, there.’ Do not go, nor follow after them.

24 For as lightning flashing from beneath heaven shines across the things beneath heaven, so shall the Son of Man be in his day.

25 But first, he must suffer many things and be rejected by this generation.

26 And as it came to pass in the days of Noah, so shall it also be in the days of the Son of Man.

27 They were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day when Noah entered the ark; and the flood came and destroyed them all.

28 Likewise, as it came to pass in the days of Lot: they were eating and drinking, buying and selling, planting and building.

29 But on the day when Lot went out from Sodom, it rained fire and sulphur from heaven and destroyed them all.

30 According to these things shall it be on the day when the Son of Man shall be revealed.

31 In that hour, he who shall be on the housetop, and his goods in the house, let him not descend to take them; and he who is in the field, likewise let him not turn back.

32 Remember Lot’s wife.

33 Whoever seeks to save his soul shall lose it; and whoever loses it shall give it life.

34 I say to you: in that night there shall be two in one bed. One shall be taken up, and the other shall be left.

35 Two women shall be grinding together. One shall be taken up, and the other shall be left. Two shall be in the field. One shall be taken up, and the other shall be left.”

36 And they answered and said to him, “Where, Lord?”

37 And he said to them, “Wherever the body shall be, there the eagles also shall be gathered.”

CHAPTER 18

1 And he also spoke a parable to them, that it is necessary always to pray and not to faint,

2 saying, “There was a certain judge in a certain city who did not fear God and did not reverence man.

3 And there was a certain widow in that city, and she came to him, saying, ‘Vindicate me against my adversary.’

4 And for a long time he would not. But after these things he said within himself, ‘Although I do not fear God, nor reverence man,

5 yet because this widow is troublesome to me, I shall vindicate her, lest she come at last and batter me.’”

6 And the Lord said, “Hear what the judge of iniquity says.

7 But shall God not bring about the vindication of his elect, who cry to him day and night, and shall he have patience concerning them?

8 I say to you that he shall bring about their vindication swiftly. Nevertheless, when the Son of Man comes, do you think he shall find faith upon the earth?”

9 And he also spoke this parable to certain ones who trusted in themselves as though they were just and spurned the rest:

10 “Two men ascended into the temple to pray, one a Pharisee and the other a publican.

11 The Pharisee, standing, prayed these things within himself: ‘God, I give thanks to you that I am not like the rest of men—robbers, unjust, adulterers—or even like this publican.

12 I fast twice in the week; I give tithes of all things that I possess.’

13 And the publican, standing afar off, would not even lift his eyes to heaven, but kept striking his breast, saying, ‘God, be propitious to me, a sinner.’

14 I say to you: this man went down to his house justified rather than the other, because everyone who exalts himself shall be humbled, and he who humbles himself shall be exalted.”

15 And they were also bringing infants to him that he might touch them. And when the disciples saw this, they rebuked them.

16 But Jesus called them to him and said, “Permit the little children to come to me, and do not prevent them; for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these.

17 Amen I say to you: whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a little child shall not enter into it.”

18 And a certain ruler questioned him, saying, “Good Master, what shall I do that I may possess eternal life?”

19 But Jesus said to him, “Why do you call me good? No one is good except God alone.

20 You know the commandments: you shall not kill; you shall not commit adultery; you shall not commit theft; you shall not speak false testimony; honor your father and mother.”

21 And he said, “All these things I have kept from my youth.”

22 When Jesus heard this, he said to him, “One thing is still lacking to you. Sell all things whatsoever you have and give to the poor, and you shall have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me.”

23 When he heard these things, he became sorrowful, because he was exceedingly rich.

24 And when Jesus saw that he had become sorrowful, he said, “How difficult it is for those who have money to enter into the kingdom of God!

25 For it is easier for a camel to pass through the opening of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.”

26 And those who heard said, “And who can be saved?”

27 He said to them, “The things that are impossible with men are possible with God.”

28 But Peter said, “Behold, we have left all things and followed you.”

29 And he said to them, “Amen I say to you: there is no one who has left house, or parents, or brothers, or wife, or children because of the kingdom of God

30 who shall not receive much more in this time, and eternal life in the age to come.”

31 And Jesus took the twelve and said to them, “Behold, we are ascending to Jerusalem, and all things written through the prophets concerning the Son of Man shall be consummated.

32 For he shall be handed over to the Gentiles and mocked and scourged and spit upon.

33 And after they have scourged him, they shall kill him; and on the third day he shall rise again.”

34 And they understood none of these things, and this word was hidden from them, and they did not understand the things that were said.

35 And it came to pass, as he drew near to Jericho, that a certain blind man sat beside the way, begging.

36 And when he heard the crowd passing by, he asked what this might be.

37 And they told him that Jesus the Nazarene was passing by.

38 And he cried out, saying, “Jesus, son of David, have mercy on me.”

39 And those who went before rebuked him so that he would be silent. But he cried out much more, “Son of David, have mercy on me.”

40 And Jesus stood and commanded him to be brought to him. And when he had drawn near, he questioned him,

41 saying, “What do you wish me to do for you?” But he said, “Lord, that I may see.”

42 And Jesus said to him, “See; your faith has saved you.”

43 And immediately he saw and followed him, magnifying God. And all the people, when they saw it, gave praise to God.

CHAPTER 19

1 And entering, he was passing through Jericho.

2 And behold, there was a man named Zacchaeus; and he was a chief of the publicans, and he himself was rich.

3 And he sought to see Jesus, who he was, and he could not because of the crowd, for he was small in stature.

4 And running ahead, he climbed into a sycamore tree that he might see him, because he was to pass that way.

5 And when he had come to the place, Jesus looked up, saw him, and said to him, “Zacchaeus, hasten and descend, for today I must remain in your house.”

6 And he hastened, descended, and received him rejoicing.

7 And when they all saw this, they murmured, saying that he had turned aside to a man who was a sinner.

8 But Zacchaeus stood and said to the Lord, “Behold, Lord, I give half of my goods to the poor; and if I have defrauded anyone of anything, I repay fourfold.”

9 Jesus said to him, “Today salvation has come to this house, because he too is a son of Abraham.

10 For the Son of Man came to seek and to save what had perished.”

11 And as they heard these things, he added and spoke a parable, because he was near Jerusalem and because they thought that the kingdom of God would immediately be manifested.

12 Therefore he said, “A certain noble man went away into a far country to receive a kingdom for himself and to return.

13 And calling his ten servants, he gave them ten minas and said to them, ‘Trade until I come.’

14 But his citizens hated him, and they sent an embassy after him, saying, ‘We do not wish this man to reign over us.’

15 And it came to pass that he returned, having received the kingdom; and he commanded the servants to whom he had given the money to be called, that he might know how much each had gained by trading.

16 And the first came, saying, ‘Lord, your mina has gained ten minas.’

17 And he said to him, ‘Well done, good servant. Because you were faithful in a little, you shall have authority over ten cities.’

18 And another came, saying, ‘Lord, your mina has made five minas.’

19 And to this one he said, ‘And you, be over five cities.’

20 And another came, saying, ‘Lord, behold your mina, which I kept laid away in a cloth.

21 For I feared you, because you are an austere man. You take up what you did not lay down, and reap what you did not sow.’

22 He said to him, ‘From your own mouth I judge you, wicked servant. You knew that I am an austere man, taking up what I did not lay down and reaping what I did not sow.

23 And why did you not give my money to the bank, that when I came I might surely have exacted it with interest?’

24 And he said to those standing by, ‘Take the mina away from him and give it to him who has ten minas.’

25 And they said to him, ‘Lord, he has ten minas.’

26 ‘But I say to you that to everyone who has shall be given, and he shall abound; but from him who does not have, even what he has shall be taken away from him.

27 Nevertheless, as for those enemies of mine who did not wish me to reign over them, bring them here and kill them before me.’”

28 And when he had said these things, he went before them, ascending to Jerusalem.

29 And it came to pass, when he had drawn near to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mountain called Olivet, that he sent two of his disciples,

30 saying, “Go into the village opposite you. As you enter it, you shall find the colt of an ass tied, upon which no man has ever sat. Loose it and bring it.

31 And if anyone questions you, ‘Why do you loose it?’ you shall say this to him: ‘Because the Lord desires its service.’”

32 And those who were sent went away and found the colt standing, just as he had told them.

33 And as they loosed the colt, its owners said to them, “Why do you loose the colt?”

34 But they said, “Because the Lord has need of it.”

35 And they led it to Jesus. And casting their garments upon the colt, they set Jesus upon it.

36 And as he went, they spread their garments beneath him in the way.

37 And as he now drew near to the descent of Mount Olivet, all the crowds of the disciples began rejoicing and praising God with a great voice over all the works of power they had seen,

38 saying, “Blessed is he who comes as king in the name of the Lord! Peace in heaven, and glory in the highest!”

39 And some of the Pharisees from among the crowds said to him, “Master, reprove your disciples.”

40 And he said to them, “I say to you that if these are silent, the stones shall cry out.”

41 And as he drew near, seeing the city, he wept over it, saying,

42 “If only you too had known—and indeed in this, your day—the things that are for your peace! But now they are hidden from your eyes.

43 For the days shall come upon you, and your enemies shall surround you with a rampart, and shall surround you, and shall hem you in on every side.

44 And they shall cast you to the ground, and your children who are within you; and they shall not leave in you a stone upon a stone, because you did not know the time of your visitation.”

45 And entering the temple, he began to cast out those selling and buying in it,

46 saying to them, “It is written: ‘My house is a house of prayer,’ but you have made it a den of robbers.”

47 And he was teaching daily in the temple. But the chief priests and the scribes and the rulers of the people sought to destroy him,

48 and they did not find what they might do to him. For all the people hung upon him, listening to him.

CHAPTER 20

1 And it came to pass on one of the days, while he was teaching the people in the temple and preaching the Gospel, that the chief priests and the scribes came together with the elders.

2 And they spoke, saying to him, “Tell us, by what authority do you do these things? Or who is he who gave you this authority?”

3 But Jesus answered and said to them, “I also shall ask you one question. Answer me:

4 Was the baptism of John from heaven, or from men?”

5 But they considered within themselves, saying, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he shall say, ‘Why then did you not believe him?’

6 But if we say, ‘From men,’ the entire people shall stone us, for they are certain that John is a prophet.”

7 And they answered that they did not know from where it was.

8 And Jesus said to them, “Neither do I tell you by what authority I do these things.”

9 And he began to tell the people this parable: “A man planted a vineyard and leased it to farmers, and he himself was abroad for many seasons.

10 And at the season he sent a servant to the cultivators, that they might give him some of the fruit of the vineyard. But after beating him, they sent him away empty.

11 And again he sent another servant. But they beat this one also, treated him with insults, and sent him away empty.

12 And again he sent a third; and after wounding him, they cast him out.

13 Then the master of the vineyard said, ‘What shall I do? I shall send my beloved son. Perhaps when they see him, they shall reverence him.’

14 But when the farmers saw him, they considered within themselves, saying, ‘This is the heir. Let us kill him, that the inheritance may become ours.’

15 And casting him outside the vineyard, they killed him. What, therefore, shall the master of the vineyard do to them?

16 He shall come and destroy these farmers and give the vineyard to others.” And when they heard this, they said to him, “Far be it.”

17 But looking upon them, he said, “What, then, is this that is written: ‘The stone that the builders rejected, this has become the head of the corner’?

18 Everyone who falls upon that stone shall be shattered; but upon whomever it falls, it shall grind him to pieces.”

19 And the chief priests and scribes sought to lay hands upon him in that hour, but they feared the people; for they knew that he had spoken this parable against them.

20 And watching him, they sent spies who would feign themselves to be just, that they might catch him in a word and hand him over to the rule and authority of the governor.

21 And they questioned him, saying, “Master, we know that you speak and teach rightly, and you do not regard the person, but teach the way of God in truth.

22 Is it lawful for us to give tribute to Caesar, or not?”

23 But considering their guile, he said to them, “Why do you tempt me?

24 Show me a denarius. Whose image and inscription does it have?” And they answered and said to him, “Caesar’s.”

25 And he said to them, “Therefore, render to Caesar the things that are Caesar’s, and to God the things that are God’s.”

26 And they could not find fault with his word before the people; and marveling at his answer, they were silent.

27 And certain Sadducees, who deny that there is a resurrection, drew near and questioned him,

28 saying, “Master, Moses wrote to us: if anyone’s brother shall have died having a wife, and he shall have been without children, his brother is to take her as wife and raise up seed for his brother.

29 Therefore, there were seven brothers, and the first took a wife and died without children.

30 And the next took her, and he himself died without a son.

31 And the third took her. Likewise also all seven; and they left no seed and died.

32 Last of all, the woman also died.

33 Therefore, in the resurrection, whose wife among them shall she be? For the seven had her as wife.”

34 And Jesus said to them, “The sons of this age marry and are given in marriage.

35 But those who shall be accounted worthy of that age and of the resurrection from the dead shall neither marry nor take wives.

36 For neither shall they be able to die any more, for they are equal to the angels and are sons of God, since they are sons of the resurrection.

37 But that the dead rise, Moses also showed at the bush, when he calls the Lord ‘the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob.’

38 Now God is not the God of the dead, but of the living, for all live to him.”

39 And certain of the scribes answered and said to him, “Master, you have spoken well.”

40 And they no longer dared to question him about anything.

41 But he said to them, “How do they say that Christ is the son of David?

42 For David himself says in the book of Psalms: ‘The Lord said to my Lord: Sit at my right hand

43 until I place your enemies as the footstool of your feet.’

44 Therefore, David calls him Lord; and how is he his son?”

45 And while all the people were listening, he said to his disciples,

46 “Beware of the scribes, who desire to walk in long robes and love greetings in the marketplace, and the first chairs in the synagogues, and the first reclining places at feasts;

47 who devour the houses of widows, feigning prolonged prayer. These shall receive greater condemnation.”

CHAPTER 21

1 And looking up, he saw the rich who were casting their gifts into the treasury.

2 And he also saw a certain very poor widow casting in two small bronze coins.

3 And he said, “Truly I say to you that this poor widow has cast in more than all.

4 For all these cast into the gifts of God from what abounded to them; but she, from her want, cast in all her livelihood that she had.”

5 And when some were saying of the temple that it was adorned with fine stones and gifts, he said,

6 “These things that you see—the days shall come in which there shall not be left a stone upon a stone that shall not be destroyed.”

7 And they questioned him, saying, “Master, when shall these things be, and what shall be the sign when they begin to take place?”

8 And he said, “See that you are not led astray. For many shall come in my name, saying, ‘I am,’ and, ‘The time has drawn near.’ Therefore, do not go after them.

9 But when you hear of battles and seditions, do not be terrified. These things must first take place, but the end does not come immediately.”

10 Then he said to them, “Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom.

11 And there shall be great earthquakes in places, and pestilences, and famines, and terrors from heaven, and there shall be great signs.

12 But before all these things, they shall lay their hands upon you and persecute you, handing you over into synagogues and prisons, dragging you before kings and governors because of my name.

13 And this shall happen to you for a testimony.

14 Therefore, place it in your hearts not to premeditate how you shall answer.

15 For I shall give you a mouth and wisdom that all your adversaries shall not be able to resist or contradict.

16 And you shall be handed over by parents and brothers and kindred and friends, and they shall put some of you to death.

17 And you shall be hated by all because of my name.

18 And not a hair of your head shall perish.

19 In your patience you shall possess your souls.

20 But when you see Jerusalem surrounded by an army, then know that its desolation has drawn near.

21 Then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains, and those in its midst depart; and let those in the regions not enter into it.

22 For these are the days of vengeance, that all things that are written may be fulfilled.

23 But woe to those who are pregnant and those who nurse in those days! For there shall be great distress upon the earth and wrath against this people.

24 And they shall fall by the edge of the sword and shall be led captive into all nations; and Jerusalem shall be trodden down by the Gentiles until the times of the nations are fulfilled.

25 And there shall be signs in the sun and moon and stars, and upon the earth distress of nations in confusion at the roaring of the sea and waves;

26 men withering from fear and from expectation of the things that shall come upon the whole world, for the powers of the heavens shall be moved.

27 And then they shall see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with great power and majesty.

28 But when these things begin to take place, look up and lift your heads, because your redemption draws near.”

29 And he spoke a similitude to them: “See the fig tree and all the trees.

30 When they now produce fruit from themselves, you know that summer is near.

31 So also you, when you see these things taking place, know that the kingdom of God is near.

32 Amen I say to you: this generation shall not pass away until all things take place.

33 Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

34 But take heed to yourselves, lest perhaps your hearts be weighed down with gluttony and drunkenness and the cares of this life, and that day suddenly come upon you.

35 For like a snare it shall come upon all who sit upon the face of the whole earth.

36 Therefore, watch, praying at all times, that you may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that are to come and to stand before the Son of Man.”

37 And by day he was teaching in the temple, but by night he went out and remained on the mountain called Olivet.

38 And all the people came early to him in the temple to hear him.

CHAPTER 22

1 Now the feast day of Unleavened Bread, which is called the Passover, drew near.

2 And the chief priests and scribes sought how they might kill Jesus, but they feared the people.

3 And Satan entered into Judas, who was surnamed Iscariot, one of the twelve.

4 And he went away and spoke with the chief priests and magistrates about how he might hand him over to them.

5 And they rejoiced and made a pact to give him money.

6 And he promised, and sought an opportunity to hand him over without the crowds.

7 And the day of Unleavened Bread came, on which it was necessary for the Passover to be slain.

8 And he sent Peter and John, saying, “Go and prepare the Passover for us, that we may eat.”

9 But they said, “Where do you wish us to prepare?”

10 And he said to them, “Behold, as you enter the city, a certain man carrying an amphora of water shall meet you. Follow him into the house that he enters.

11 And you shall say to the master of the house, ‘The Master says to you: Where is the lodging room where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?’

12 And he shall show you a large upper room, furnished; and there prepare.”

13 And going, they found it just as he had told them, and they prepared the Passover.

14 And when the hour had come, he reclined, and the twelve apostles with him.

15 And he said to them, “With desire I have desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer.

16 For I say to you that from this time I shall not eat it until it is fulfilled in the kingdom of God.”

17 And taking the cup, he gave thanks and said, “Take this and divide it among yourselves.

18 For I say to you that I shall not drink of the produce of the vine until the kingdom of God comes.”

19 And taking bread, he gave thanks and broke it and gave it to them, saying, “This is my body, which is given for you. Do this in commemoration of me.”

20 Likewise also the cup, after he had supped, saying, “This cup is the new testament in my blood, which shall be poured out for you.

21 Nevertheless, behold, the hand of him who hands me over is with me at the table.

22 And indeed, the Son of Man goes according to what has been determined; nevertheless, woe to that man through whom he shall be handed over.”

23 And they began to inquire among themselves which of them it was who would do this.

24 And a contention also arose among them as to which of them appeared to be greater.

25 But he said to them, “The kings of the nations lord it over them, and those who have authority over them are called benefactors.

26 But you shall not be so; instead, he who is greater among you, let him become like the lesser, and he who is foremost, like one who ministers.

27 For which is greater: he who reclines, or he who ministers? Is it not he who reclines? But I am in your midst as he who ministers.

28 But you are those who have remained with me in my temptations.

29 And I appoint to you, just as my Father appointed to me, a kingdom,

30 that you may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and sit upon thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

31 And the Lord said, “Simon, Simon, behold, Satan has demanded all of you, that he might sift you like wheat.

32 But I have prayed for you, that your faith may not fail; and you, once converted, strengthen your brothers.”

33 And he said to him, “Lord, I am ready to go with you both into prison and into death.”

34 But he said, “I say to you, Peter: the cock shall not crow today until you deny three times that you know me.” And he said to them,

35 “When I sent you without purse and bag and sandals, did anything lack to you?”

36 But they said, “Nothing.” Therefore, he said to them, “But now, he who has a purse, let him take it, and likewise a bag; and he who does not have, let him sell his tunic and buy a sword.

37 For I say to you that this which is written must still be fulfilled in me: ‘And he was reckoned with the wicked.’ For the things concerning me have an end.”

38 But they said, “Lord, behold, here are two swords.” And he said to them, “It is enough.”

39 And going out, he went according to custom to the Mount of Olives. And his disciples also followed him.

40 And when he had reached the place, he said to them, “Pray that you may not enter into temptation.”

41 And he was withdrawn from them about a stone’s throw; and kneeling, he prayed,

42 saying, “Father, if you wish, transfer this cup from me. Nevertheless, not my will, but yours be done.”

43 And an angel from heaven appeared to him, strengthening him. And being in agony, he prayed at greater length.

44 And his sweat became like drops of blood running down upon the ground.

45 And when he had risen from prayer and come to his disciples, he found them sleeping from sorrow.

46 And he said to them, “Why do you sleep? Rise and pray that you may not enter into temptation.”

47 While he was still speaking, behold, a crowd; and he who was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them and approached Jesus to kiss him.

48 But Jesus said to him, “Judas, do you hand over the Son of Man with a kiss?”

49 And when those who were around him saw what was to happen, they said to him, “Lord, shall we strike with the sword?”

50 And one of them struck the servant of the high priest and cut off his right ear.

51 But Jesus answered and said, “Allow it thus far.” And when he had touched his ear, he healed him.

52 And Jesus said to those who had come to him—the chief priests and magistrates of the temple and elders—“Have you come out as though against a robber, with swords and clubs?

53 When I was with you daily in the temple, you did not stretch out your hands against me. But this is your hour and the power of darkness.”

54 And seizing him, they led him to the house of the high priest. But Peter followed from afar.

55 And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the courtyard and sat around it, Peter was in their midst.

56 And when a certain maid saw him sitting at the light and had looked intently at him, she said, “This man also was with him.”

57 But he denied him, saying, “Woman, I do not know him.”

58 And after a little while, another saw him and said, “You also are one of them.” But Peter said, “Man, I am not.”

59 And after an interval of about one hour, another man affirmed, saying, “Truly, this man also was with him, for he too is a Galilean.”

60 And Peter said, “Man, I do not know what you are saying.” And immediately, while he was still speaking, the cock crowed.

61 And the Lord turned and looked upon Peter. And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said, “Before the cock crows, you shall deny me three times.”

62 And Peter went outside and wept bitterly.

63 And the men who held him mocked him, beating him.

64 And they covered him and kept striking his face; and they kept questioning him, saying, “Prophesy. Who is it that struck you?”

65 And blaspheming, they said many other things against him.

66 And when day had come, the elders of the people and the chief priests and scribes assembled, and they led him into their council, saying, “If you are Christ, tell us.”

67 And he said to them, “If I tell you, you shall not believe me.

68 And if I also question you, you shall not answer me, nor release me.

69 But from now on, the Son of Man shall be sitting at the right hand of the power of God.”

70 And they all said, “Are you, then, the Son of God?” He said, “You say that I am.”

71 But they said, “What further testimony do we desire? For we ourselves have heard it from his mouth.”

CHAPTER 23

1 And their whole multitude rose and led him to Pilate.

2 And they began to accuse him, saying, “We have found this man subverting our nation, and prohibiting tribute to be given to Caesar, and saying that he himself is Christ the King.”

3 And Pilate questioned him, saying, “Are you the King of the Jews?” But he answered and said, “You say it.”

4 And Pilate said to the chief priests and the crowds, “I find no cause in this man.”

5 But they grew more insistent, saying, “He stirs up the people, teaching throughout all Judea, beginning from Galilee even to this place.”

6 And when Pilate heard Galilee, he asked whether the man was a Galilean.

7 And when he learned that he was under Herod’s authority, he sent him to Herod, who himself also was in Jerusalem in those days.

8 And when Herod saw Jesus, he rejoiced exceedingly. For he had desired to see him for a long time because he had heard many things about him, and he hoped to see some sign done by him.

9 And he questioned him with many words. But he answered him nothing.

10 And the chief priests and scribes stood, persistently accusing him.

11 And Herod despised him with his army and mocked him while he was clothed in a white garment, and sent him back to Pilate.

12 And Herod and Pilate became friends on that very day, for before this they were enemies to one another.

13 And Pilate called together the chief priests and magistrates and the people,

14 and said to them, “You have brought me this man as one who turns the people away; and behold, examining him before you, I have found no cause in this man concerning those things of which you accuse him.

15 Neither has Herod, for I sent you to him; and behold, nothing worthy of death has been done to him.

16 Therefore, I shall chastise him and release him.”

17 Now he was obliged to release one to them on the feast day.

18 But the entire crowd cried out together, saying, “Take this man away, and release Barabbas to us,”

19 who had been sent into prison because of a certain sedition that had taken place in the city, and because of murder.

20 And Pilate spoke to them again, wishing to release Jesus.

21 But they shouted back, saying, “Crucify him! Crucify him!”

22 And he said to them a third time, “For what evil has this man done? I find no cause of death in him. Therefore, I shall chastise him and release him.”

23 But they insisted with great voices, demanding that he be crucified; and their voices grew stronger.

24 And Pilate adjudged that their petition be carried out.

25 And he released to them the man who had been sent into prison because of murder and sedition, whom they requested; but Jesus he handed over to their will.

26 And as they led him, they seized a certain Simon the Cyrenian, coming from the countryside, and laid the cross upon him to carry after Jesus.

27 And a great crowd of the people and of women followed him, and the women mourned and lamented him.

28 But Jesus turned to them and said, “Daughters of Jerusalem, do not weep over me; but weep over yourselves and over your children.

29 For behold, the days shall come in which they shall say, ‘Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that have not borne, and the breasts that have not nursed.’

30 Then they shall begin to say to the mountains, ‘Fall upon us,’ and to the hills, ‘Cover us.’

31 For if they do these things in the green wood, what shall be done in the dry?”

32 And two others, wicked men, were also led with him to be killed.

33 And after they came to the place called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the robbers, one at his right and the other at his left.

34 And Jesus was saying, “Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing.” But dividing his garments, they cast lots.

35 And the people stood watching, and the rulers with them derided him, saying, “He saved others; let him save himself, if this man is Christ, the elect of God.”

36 And the soldiers also mocked him, approaching and offering him vinegar,

37 and saying, “If you are the King of the Jews, save yourself.”

38 And there was also a superscription written above him in Greek and Latin and Hebrew letters: “This is the King of the Jews.”

39 And one of the robbers who hung there blasphemed him, saying, “If you are Christ, save yourself and us.”

40 But the other answered and rebuked him, saying, “Do you not even fear God, because you are in the same condemnation?

41 And we indeed justly, for we receive things worthy of our deeds; but this man has done nothing evil.”

42 And he said to Jesus, “Lord, remember me when you come into your kingdom.”

43 And Jesus said to him, “Amen I say to you: today you shall be with me in paradise.”

44 And it was about the sixth hour, and darkness came over the whole earth until the ninth hour.

45 And the sun was darkened, and the veil of the temple was torn in the middle.

46 And Jesus, crying out with a great voice, said, “Father, into your hands I commend my spirit.” And saying this, he expired.

47 And when the centurion saw what had happened, he glorified God, saying, “Truly, this man was just.”

48 And the whole crowd of those who had come together for that spectacle and saw the things that were happening returned, striking their breasts.

49 And all his acquaintances stood afar off, and the women who had followed him from Galilee, seeing these things.

50 And behold, there was a man named Joseph who was a decurion, a good and just man.

51 This man had not consented to their counsel and deeds. He was from Arimathea, a city of Judea, and he himself also awaited the kingdom of God.

52 This man approached Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus.

53 And taking him down, he wrapped him in a linen cloth and placed him in a hewn monument, in which no one had yet been laid.

54 And it was the day of the Parasceve, and the sabbath was dawning.

55 And the women who had come with him from Galilee followed after and saw the monument and how his body was laid.

56 And returning, they prepared spices and ointments; but on the sabbath they kept silence according to the commandment.

CHAPTER 24

1 But on the first day of the week, very early, they came to the monument, carrying the spices they had prepared.

2 And they found the stone rolled back from the monument.

3 And entering, they did not find the body of the Lord Jesus.

4 And it came to pass, while they were confounded in mind about this, that behold, two men stood beside them in radiant clothing.

5 And as they were afraid and lowered their faces toward the ground, the men said to them, “Why do you seek the living among the dead?

6 He is not here, but has risen. Remember how he spoke to you when he was still in Galilee,

7 saying, ‘The Son of Man must be handed over into the hands of sinful men and be crucified and rise again on the third day.’”

8 And they remembered his words.

9 And returning from the monument, they announced all these things to the eleven and to all the rest.

10 Now it was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary of James, and the other women who were with them, who told these things to the apostles.

11 And these words seemed before them like delirium, and they did not believe them.

12 But Peter rose and ran to the monument; and stooping down, he saw the linen cloths laid alone, and went away, marveling within himself at what had happened.

13 And behold, two of them went that same day to a village named Emmaus, which was sixty stadia from Jerusalem.

14 And they spoke to one another about all these things that had happened.

15 And it came to pass, while they talked and questioned together, that Jesus himself drew near and went with them.

16 But their eyes were held, lest they recognize him.

17 And he said to them, “What are these words that you exchange with one another as you walk, and are sad?”

18 And one of them, whose name was Cleophas, answered and said to him, “Are you the only stranger in Jerusalem, and have you not known the things that have happened there in these days?”

19 And he said to them, “What things?” And they said, “Concerning Jesus the Nazarene, who was a man, a prophet powerful in work and word before God and all the people;

20 and how our chief priests and rulers handed him over to the condemnation of death and crucified him.

21 But we hoped that he was to redeem Israel. And now, besides all these things, today is the third day since these things were done.

22 But certain women from among us also terrified us. They were at the monument before daylight,

23 and when they did not find his body, they came, saying that they had also seen a vision of angels who say that he lives.

24 And certain of our people went to the monument and found it just as the women had said; but him they did not find.”

25 And he said to them, “O foolish and slow of heart to believe all the things that the prophets have spoken!

26 Did not Christ have to suffer these things and thus enter into his glory?”

27 And beginning from Moses and all the prophets, he interpreted to them in all the Scriptures the things that concerned him.

28 And they drew near to the village to which they were going, and he feigned that he would go farther.

29 And they constrained him, saying, “Remain with us, for it grows toward evening, and the day is now declining.” And he entered with them.

30 And it came to pass, while he reclined with them, that he took bread and blessed and broke it and was handing it to them.

31 And their eyes were opened, and they recognized him; and he vanished from their eyes.

32 And they said to one another, “Was not our heart burning within us while he spoke on the way and opened the Scriptures to us?”

33 And rising in that same hour, they returned to Jerusalem; and they found the eleven gathered together, and those who were with them,

34 saying, “The Lord has truly risen and has appeared to Simon.”

35 And they recounted the things that had happened on the way, and how they recognized him in the breaking of bread.

36 And while they were speaking these things, Jesus stood in their midst and said to them, “Peace to you; I am. Do not fear.”

37 But troubled and terrified, they thought that they saw a spirit.

38 And he said to them, “Why are you troubled, and why do thoughts ascend into your hearts?

39 See my hands and feet, that it is I myself. Touch and see, for a spirit does not have flesh and bones, as you see me have.”

40 And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and feet.

41 But while they still did not believe and marveled for joy, he said, “Do you have here anything that may be eaten?”

42 And they offered him a piece of roasted fish and a honeycomb.

43 And when he had eaten before them, he took the remnants and gave them to them.

44 And he said to them, “These are the words that I spoke to you while I was still with you: that all things written concerning me in the law of Moses and the prophets and the Psalms must be fulfilled.”

45 Then he opened their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures.

46 And he said to them, “Thus it is written, and thus it was necessary for Christ to suffer and to rise from the dead on the third day;

47 and for penance and the remission of sins to be preached in his name to all nations, beginning from Jerusalem.

48 But you are witnesses of these things.

49 And I send the promise of my Father into you. But you, remain in the city until you are clothed with power from on high.”

50 And he led them outside into Bethany; and lifting up his hands, he blessed them.

51 And it came to pass, while he blessed them, that he withdrew from them and was carried into heaven.

52 And they, having adored, returned to Jerusalem with great joy.

53 And they were always in the temple, praising and blessing God. Amen.

BOOK FORTY-THREE: JOHN

CHAPTER 1

1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

2 He was in the beginning with God.

3 All things were made through him, and without him nothing was made that was made.

4 In him was life, and the life was the light of men;

5 and the light shines in the darkness, and the darkness did not lay hold of it.

6 There was a man sent from God, whose name was John.

7 He came for testimony, that he might bear testimony concerning the light, that all might believe through him.

8 He was not the light, but came that he might bear testimony concerning the light.

9 He was the true light, who enlightens every man coming into this world.

10 He was in the world, and the world was made through him, and the world did not know him.

11 He came into what was his own, and his own did not receive him.

12 But as many as received him, he gave them authority to become sons of God: to those who believe in his name,

13 who were born not from bloods, nor from the will of flesh, nor from the will of man, but from God.

14 And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us; and we saw his glory, glory as of the Only-begotten from the Father, full of grace and truth.

15 John bears testimony concerning him and cries out, saying, “This was he of whom I said: He who is to come after me has come to be before me, because he was prior to me.”

16 And from his fullness we all have received, and grace for grace.

17 For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came to be through Jesus Christ.

18 No one has ever seen God; the only-begotten Son, who is in the bosom of the Father, has himself declared him.

19 And this is the testimony of John, when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem to him, that they might question him: “Who are you?”

20 And he confessed, and did not deny, and confessed, “I am not Christ.”

21 And they questioned him, “What then? Are you Elijah?” And he said, “I am not.” “Are you the prophet?” And he answered, “No.”

22 Therefore, they said to him, “Who are you, that we may give an answer to those who sent us? What do you say of yourself?”

23 He said, “I am the voice of one crying in the desert: Make straight the way of the Lord (YHWH), as Isaiah the prophet said.”

24 And those who had been sent were of the Pharisees.

25 And they questioned him and said to him, “Why then do you baptize, if you are not Christ, nor Elijah, nor the prophet?”

26 John answered them, saying, “I baptize in water; but one has stood in your midst whom you do not know.

27 He is the one who is to come after me, who has come to be before me, the strap of whose sandal I am not worthy to loose.”

28 These things were done in Bethany beyond the Jordan, where John was baptizing.

29 The next day John saw Jesus coming to him and said, “Behold the Lamb of God; behold him who takes away the sin of the world.

30 This is he of whom I said: After me comes a man who has come to be before me, because he was prior to me.

31 And I did not know him; but that he might be made manifest in Israel, for this reason I came baptizing in water.”

32 And John bore testimony, saying, “I saw the Spirit descending as a dove from heaven, and he abode upon him.

33 And I did not know him; but he who sent me to baptize in water said to me: ‘He upon whom you shall see the Spirit descending and abiding, this is he who baptizes in the Holy Spirit.’

34 And I saw, and I bore testimony that this is the Son of God.”

35 The next day John was standing again, and two of his disciples.

36 And looking upon Jesus as he walked, he said, “Behold the Lamb of God.”

37 And the two disciples heard him speaking and followed Jesus.

38 But Jesus, turning and seeing them following him, said to them, “What do you seek?” And they said to him, “Rabbi”—which translated is Master—“where do you dwell?”

39 He said to them, “Come and see.” They came and saw where he abode, and they abode with him that day; now it was about the tenth hour.

40 And Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, was one of the two who had heard from John and followed him.

41 He first found his brother Simon and said to him, “We have found the Messiah”—which translated is Christ.

42 And he brought him to Jesus. And Jesus, looking intently upon him, said, “You are Simon, son of Jonah; you shall be called Cephas”—which is interpreted Peter.

43 On the following day, Jesus wished to go out into Galilee, and he found Philip. And Jesus said to him, “Follow me.”

44 Now Philip was from Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter.

45 Philip found Nathanael and said to him, “We have found him of whom Moses wrote in the law, and of whom the prophets wrote: Jesus son of Joseph, from Nazareth.”

46 And Nathanael said to him, “Can anything good be from Nazareth?” Philip said to him, “Come and see.”

47 Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him and said of him, “Behold, truly an Israelite in whom there is no deceit.”

48 Nathanael said to him, “From where do you know me?” Jesus answered and said to him, “Before Philip called you, when you were beneath the fig tree, I saw you.”

49 Nathanael answered him and said, “Rabbi, you are the Son of God; you are the King of Israel.”

50 Jesus answered and said to him, “Because I said to you, ‘I saw you beneath the fig tree,’ you believe; something greater than these shall you see.”

51 And he said to him, “Amen, amen I say to you: you shall see heaven opened, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of Man.”

CHAPTER 2

1 And on the third day there was a wedding in Cana of Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there.

2 And Jesus also was invited to the wedding, and his disciples.

3 And when the wine failed, the mother of Jesus said to him, “They have no wine.”

4 And Jesus said to her, “What is there between me and you, woman? My hour has not yet come.”

5 His mother said to the ministers, “Whatever he shall say to you, do.”

6 Now there were six stone water jars set there according to the purification of the Jews, each holding two or three measures.

7 Jesus said to them, “Fill the water jars with water.” And they filled them to the brim.

8 And Jesus said to them, “Draw now, and carry it to the chief steward.” And they carried it.

9 Now when the chief steward tasted the water made wine—and he did not know where it was from, but the ministers who had drawn the water knew—the chief steward called the bridegroom

10 and said to him, “Every man sets out the good wine first, and when they have become drunk, then that which is worse. But you have kept the good wine until now.”

11 Jesus did this as the beginning of signs in Cana of Galilee; and he manifested his glory, and his disciples believed in him.

12 After this, he went down to Capernaum—he and his mother and his brothers and his disciples—and they abode there not many days.

13 And the Passover of the Jews was near, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem.

14 And he found in the temple those selling oxen and sheep and doves, and the money changers seated.

15 And when he had made a kind of whip from cords, he drove all out of the temple, the sheep also and the oxen; and he poured out the coins of the money changers and overturned their tables.

16 And to those who were selling doves he said, “Take these things away from here, and do not make the house of my Father a house of commerce.”

17 And his disciples remembered that it is written: “The zeal of your house has consumed me.”

18 Therefore, the Jews answered and said to him, “What sign do you show us, since you do these things?”

19 Jesus answered and said to them, “Destroy this temple, and in three days I shall raise it up.”

20 Therefore, the Jews said, “This temple was built over forty-six years, and will you raise it up in three days?”

21 But he spoke of the temple of his body.

22 Therefore, when he had risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this, and they believed the Scripture and the word that Jesus had spoken.

23 Now while he was in Jerusalem at Passover, on the feast day, many believed in his name, seeing the signs he was doing.

24 But Jesus did not entrust himself to them, because he knew all,

25 and because he had no need for anyone to bear testimony concerning man; for he knew what was in man.

CHAPTER 3

1 Now there was a man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews.

2 He came to Jesus by night and said to him, “Rabbi, we know that you have come from God as a teacher, for no one can do these signs that you do unless God is with him.”

3 Jesus answered and said to him, “Amen, amen I say to you: unless one has been born anew, he cannot see the kingdom of God.”

4 Nicodemus said to him, “How can a man be born when he is old? Can he enter his mother’s womb a second time and be born again?”

5 Jesus answered, “Amen, amen I say to you: unless one has been reborn from water and the Holy Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6 That which has been born from flesh is flesh, and that which has been born from spirit is spirit.

7 Do not marvel that I said to you: You must all be born anew.

8 The spirit breathes where it wills, and you hear its voice, but you do not know from where it comes or where it goes; so is everyone who has been born from spirit.”

9 Nicodemus answered and said to him, “How can these things be done?”

10 Jesus answered and said to him, “You are a teacher in Israel, and you do not know these things?

11 Amen, amen I say to you: what we know we speak, and what we have seen we bear testimony to, and you do not receive our testimony.

12 If I have spoken earthly things to you and you do not believe, how will you believe if I shall speak heavenly things to you?

13 And no one has ascended into heaven except he who descended from heaven: the Son of Man, who is in heaven.

14 And just as Moses lifted up the serpent in the desert, so must the Son of Man be lifted up, 15 that everyone who believes in him may not perish, but may have eternal life.

16 For God so loved the world that he gave his only-begotten Son, that everyone who believes in him may not perish, but may have eternal life.

17 For God did not send his Son into the world that he might judge the world, but that the world might be saved through him.

18 He who believes in him is not judged; but he who does not believe is already judged, because he does not believe in the name of the only-begotten Son of God.

19 And this is the judgment: that the light came into the world, and men loved darkness more than the light, for their works were evil.

20 For everyone who acts wickedly hates the light and does not come to the light, that his works may not be reproved.

21 But he who does the truth comes to the light, that his works may be made manifest, because they have been done in God.”

22 After these things, Jesus and his disciples came into the land of Judea, and there he stayed with them and baptized.

23 Now John also was baptizing in Aenon, near Salim, because there were many waters there; and people came and were baptized.

24 For John had not yet been sent into prison.

25 Then a question arose between the disciples of John and the Jews concerning purification.

26 And they came to John and said to him, “Rabbi, he who was with you beyond the Jordan, to whom you bore testimony—behold, he baptizes, and all come to him.”

27 John answered and said, “A man cannot receive anything unless it has been given to him from heaven.

28 You yourselves bear me testimony that I said, ‘I am not Christ,’ but that I have been sent before him.

29 He who has the bride is the bridegroom; but the friend of the bridegroom, who stands and hears him, rejoices with joy because of the bridegroom’s voice. This joy of mine, therefore, has been fulfilled.

30 He must increase, but I must decrease.

31 He who comes from above is above all. He who is from the earth is from the earth and speaks from the earth. He who comes from heaven is above all.

32 And that which he has seen and heard, this he bears testimony to; and no one receives his testimony.

33 He who has received his testimony has set his seal that God is truthful.

34 For he whom God has sent speaks the words of God, for God does not give the Spirit by measure.

35 The Father loves the Son and has given all things into his hand.

36 He who believes in the Son has eternal life; but he who does not believe the Son shall not see life, and the wrath of God abides upon him.”

CHAPTER 4

1 Therefore, when Jesus knew that the Pharisees had heard that Jesus was making and baptizing more disciples than John

2 —although Jesus himself did not baptize, but his disciples—

3 he left Judea and went away again into Galilee.

4 Now he had to pass through Samaria.

5 Therefore, he came to a city of Samaria called Sychar, near the estate that Jacob gave to his son Joseph.

6 And the spring of Jacob was there. Jesus, therefore, wearied from the journey, sat thus at the spring. It was about the sixth hour.

7 A woman of Samaria came to draw water. Jesus said to her, “Give me a drink.”

8 For his disciples had gone into the city to buy food.

9 Therefore, that Samaritan woman said to him, “How do you, though you are a Jew, ask a drink of me, who am a Samaritan woman?” For the Jews do not associate with the Samaritans.

10 Jesus answered and said to her, “If you knew the gift of God, and who it is who says to you, ‘Give me a drink,’ perhaps you would have asked of him, and he would have given you living water.”

11 The woman said to him, “Lord, you have nothing with which to draw, and the well is deep. From where, then, do you have living water?

12 Are you greater than our father Jacob, who gave us the well, and drank from it himself, and his sons, and his livestock?”

13 Jesus answered and said to her, “Everyone who drinks from this water shall thirst again; but he who shall drink from the water that I shall give him shall not thirst forever.

14 But the water that I shall give him shall become in him a spring of water springing up into eternal life.”

15 The woman said to him, “Lord, give me this water, that I may not thirst, nor come here to draw.”

16 Jesus said to her, “Go, call your husband, and come here.”

17 The woman answered and said, “I have no husband.” Jesus said to her, “You have said well, ‘I have no husband’;

18 for you have had five husbands, and he whom you now have is not your husband. This you have said truly.”

19 The woman said to him, “Lord, I see that you are a prophet.

20 Our fathers adored upon this mountain, and you say that Jerusalem is the place where one must adore.”

21 Jesus said to her, “Woman, believe me, the hour is coming when neither upon this mountain nor in Jerusalem will you adore the Father.

22 You adore what you do not know; we adore what we know, because salvation is from the Jews.

23 But the hour is coming, and now is, when the true adorers shall adore the Father in spirit and truth. For the Father also seeks such as may adore him.

24 God is spirit, and those who adore him must adore in spirit and truth.”

25 The woman said to him, “I know that the Messiah is coming, who is called Christ. Therefore, when he comes, he shall announce all things to us.”

26 Jesus said to her, “I am, I who am speaking with you.”

27 And immediately his disciples came, and they marveled that he was speaking with a woman. Yet no one said, “What do you seek?” or, “Why are you speaking with her?”

28 Therefore, the woman left her water jar, went away into the city, and said to the men there,

29 “Come and see a man who told me all things whatsoever I have done. Is this not Christ?”

30 Therefore, they went out from the city and were coming to him.

31 Meanwhile, his disciples were asking him, saying, “Rabbi, eat.”

32 But he said to them, “I have food to eat that you do not know.”

33 Therefore, the disciples said to one another, “Has anyone brought him something to eat?”

34 Jesus said to them, “My food is that I may do the will of him who sent me, that I may complete his work.

35 Do you not say that there are yet four months, and the harvest comes? Behold, I say to you: lift up your eyes and see the fields, for they are already white for harvest.

36 And he who reaps receives wages and gathers fruit unto eternal life, that both he who sows and he who reaps may rejoice together.

37 For in this the word is true: one is he who sows, and another he who reaps.

38 I sent you to reap that over which you did not labor. Others have labored, and you have entered into their labors.”

39 Now many of the Samaritans from that city believed in him because of the word of the woman bearing testimony: “He told me all things whatsoever I have done.”

40 Therefore, when the Samaritans came to him, they asked him to abide there. And he abode there two days.

41 And many more believed in him because of his word.

42 And they said to the woman, “Now we believe not because of your speech, for we ourselves have heard and know that this is truly the Savior of the world.”

43 And after two days he departed from there and went away into Galilee.

44 For Jesus himself bore testimony that a prophet has no honor in his own country.

45 Therefore, when he came into Galilee, the Galileans received him, having seen all the things he had done at Jerusalem on the feast day; for they also had come to the feast day.

46 Therefore, he came again into Cana of Galilee, where he had made the water wine. And there was a certain royal officer whose son was ill at Capernaum.

47 When this man had heard that Jesus was coming from Judea into Galilee, he went to him and pleaded with him to come down and heal his son, for he was beginning to die.

48 Therefore, Jesus said to him, “Unless you see signs and wonders, you do not believe.”

49 The royal officer said to him, “Lord, come down before my son dies.”

50 Jesus said to him, “Go; your son lives.” The man believed the word that Jesus spoke to him and went.

51 And as he was now going down, his servants met him and announced, saying that his son was alive.

52 Therefore, he asked them the hour at which he had grown better. And they said to him, “Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him.”

53 Therefore, the father knew that it was the same hour in which Jesus said to him, “Your son lives”; and he himself believed, and his whole house.

54 Jesus did this again as a second sign, when he had come from Judea into Galilee.

CHAPTER 5

1 After these things there was a feast day of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem.

2 Now at Jerusalem there is the Sheep Pool, which is called in Hebrew Bethsaida, having five porticoes.

3 In these lay a great multitude of the sick, the blind, the lame, and the withered, awaiting the movement of the water.

4 For an angel of the Lord used to descend at a certain time into the pool, and the water was moved. And whoever first went down into the pool after the movement of the water was made well from whatever infirmity held him.

5 And there was a certain man there who had been in his infirmity for thirty-eight years.

6 When Jesus saw him lying there and knew that he had already been so for a long time, he said to him, “Do you wish to be made well?”

7 The sick man answered him, “Lord, I have no man to put me into the pool when the water has been disturbed; for while I am coming, another goes down before me.”

8 Jesus said to him, “Rise, take up your pallet, and walk.”

9 And immediately that man was made well; and he took up his pallet and was walking. Now it was the Sabbath on that day.

10 Therefore, the Jews said to him who had been healed, “It is the Sabbath; it is not lawful for you to take up your pallet.”

11 He answered them, “He who made me well, he said to me, ‘Take up your pallet and walk.’”

12 Therefore, they questioned him, “Who is that man who said to you, ‘Take up your pallet and walk’?”

13 But he who had been made well did not know who it was. For Jesus had withdrawn from the crowd assembled in the place.

14 Afterward, Jesus found him in the temple and said to him, “Behold, you have been made well; now sin no more, lest something worse happen to you.”

15 The man went away and announced to the Jews that it was Jesus who had made him well.

16 For this reason, the Jews were persecuting Jesus, because he was doing these things on the Sabbath.

17 But Jesus answered them, “My Father works even until now, and I work.”

18 For this reason, therefore, the Jews sought all the more to kill him, because he was not only breaking the Sabbath, but was also calling God his Father, making himself equal to God. And so Jesus answered and said to them:

19 “Amen, amen I say to you: the Son can do nothing of himself except what he sees the Father doing; for whatever he does, these things the Son also does in like manner.

20 For the Father loves the Son and shows him all things that he himself does; and greater works than these he shall show him, that you may marvel.

21 For just as the Father raises the dead and gives life, so also the Son gives life to whom he wills.

22 For neither does the Father judge anyone, but he has given all judgment to the Son,

23 that all may honor the Son just as they honor the Father. He who does not honor the Son does not honor the Father who sent him.

24 Amen, amen I say to you: he who hears my word and believes him who sent me has eternal life and does not come into judgment, but has passed from death into life.

25 Amen, amen I say to you: the hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and those who shall hear shall live.

26 For just as the Father has life in himself, so he has also given to the Son to have life in himself;

27 and he has given him authority to execute judgment, because he is the Son of Man.

28 Do not marvel at this, because the hour is coming in which all who are in the monuments shall hear the voice of the Son of God,

29 and they shall come forth: those who have done good, into the resurrection of life; but those who have done evil, into the resurrection of judgment.

30 I can do nothing of myself. As I hear, I judge; and my judgment is just, because I do not seek my own will, but the will of him who sent me.

31 If I bear testimony concerning myself, my testimony is not true.

32 There is another who bears testimony concerning me, and I know that the testimony he bears concerning me is true.

33 You sent to John, and he bore testimony to the truth.

34 But I do not receive testimony from man; rather, I say these things that you may be saved.

35 He was a lamp burning and shining; but you wished for an hour to exult in his light.

36 But I have testimony greater than John. For the works that the Father gave me to complete—the works themselves that I do—bear testimony concerning me, that the Father sent me.

37 And the Father who sent me has himself borne testimony concerning me. Neither have you ever heard his voice nor seen his appearance;

38 and you do not have his word abiding in you, because you do not believe him whom he sent.

39 Search the Scriptures, because you think that in them you have eternal life; and they are those that bear testimony concerning me.

40 And you are unwilling to come to me that you may have life.

41 I do not receive glory from men.

42 But I know you: you do not have the love of God in you.

43 I have come in the name of my Father, and you do not receive me. If another shall come in his own name, him you shall receive.

44 How can you believe, who receive glory from one another and do not seek the glory that is from God alone?

45 Do not think that I am going to accuse you before the Father. There is one who accuses you: Moses, in whom you hope.

46 For if you believed Moses, perhaps you would also believe me, for he wrote concerning me.

47 But if you do not believe his writings, how will you believe my words?”

CHAPTER 6

1 After these things, Jesus went away beyond the Sea of Galilee, which is the Sea of Tiberias;

2 and a great multitude followed him, because they saw the signs that he did upon those who were sick.

3 Therefore, Jesus went up onto the mountain, and there he sat with his disciples.

4 Now Passover, the feast day of the Jews, was near.

5 Therefore, when Jesus had lifted up his eyes and seen that a very great multitude was coming to him, he said to Philip, “From where shall we buy loaves, that these may eat?”

6 But he said this, testing him; for he himself knew what he was about to do.

7 Philip answered him, “Two hundred denarii worth of loaves are not sufficient for them, that each one may receive a little.”

8 One of his disciples, Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, said to him,

9 “There is one boy here who has five barley loaves and two fish. But what are these among so many?”

10 Therefore, Jesus said, “Make the people recline.” Now there was much grass in the place. Therefore, the men reclined, about five thousand in number.

11 Therefore, Jesus took the loaves and, when he had given thanks, distributed them to those reclining; and likewise also from the fish, as much as they wished.

12 And when they were filled, he said to his disciples, “Gather the fragments that remain, that they may not perish.”

13 Therefore, they gathered them and filled twelve baskets with the fragments that remained from the five barley loaves after the people had eaten.

14 Therefore, when those men had seen the sign that Jesus had done, they said, “This is truly the prophet who is to come into the world.”

15 Therefore, when Jesus knew that they were about to come and seize him to make him king, he himself fled again onto the mountain alone.

16 And when evening had come, his disciples went down to the sea.

17 And when they had entered a boat, they came across the sea to Capernaum. And darkness had already come, and Jesus had not come to them.

18 Now the sea was rising, a great wind blowing.

19 Therefore, when they had rowed about twenty-five or thirty stadia, they saw Jesus walking upon the sea and drawing near the boat, and they were afraid.

20 But he said to them, “I am; do not fear.”

21 Therefore, they wished to receive him into the boat, and immediately the boat was at the land toward which they were going.

22 The next day, the crowd that stood beyond the sea saw that there was no other little boat there except one, and that Jesus had not entered the boat with his disciples, but his disciples alone had gone away;

23 yet other boats came from Tiberias near the place where they had eaten the bread, after the Lord had given thanks.

24 Therefore, when the crowd saw that Jesus was not there, nor his disciples, they entered the little boats and came to Capernaum, seeking Jesus.

25 And when they had found him beyond the sea, they said to him, “Rabbi, when did you come here?”

26 Jesus answered them and said, “Amen, amen I say to you: you seek me not because you saw signs, but because you ate from the loaves and were filled.

27 Work not for the food that perishes, but for that which endures unto eternal life, which the Son of Man shall give you. For God the Father has set his seal upon him.”

28 Therefore, they said to him, “What shall we do, that we may work the works of God?”

29 Jesus answered and said to them, “This is the work of God: that you believe in him whom he sent.”

30 Therefore, they said to him, “What sign, then, do you do, that we may see and believe you? What do you work?

31 Our fathers ate manna in the desert, as it is written: ‘He gave them bread from heaven to eat.’”

32 Therefore, Jesus said to them, “Amen, amen I say to you: Moses did not give you the bread from heaven, but my Father gives you the true bread from heaven.

33 For the bread of God is that which descends from heaven and gives life to the world.”

34 Therefore, they said to him, “Lord, always give us this bread.”

35 And Jesus said to them, “I am the bread of life. He who comes to me shall not hunger, and he who believes in me shall never thirst.

36 But I said to you that you have seen me, and you do not believe.

37 Everything that the Father gives me shall come to me, and him who comes to me I shall not cast outside,

38 because I descended from heaven not that I may do my own will, but the will of him who sent me.

39 Now this is the will of him who sent me, the Father: that I lose nothing of all that he has given me, but raise it up on the last day.

40 And this is the will of my Father who sent me: that everyone who sees the Son and believes in him may have eternal life, and I shall raise him on the last day.”

41 Therefore, the Jews murmured concerning him, because he had said, “I am the living bread, I who have descended from heaven.”

42 And they said, “Is this not Jesus son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? How, then, does this man say, ‘I have descended from heaven’?”

43 Therefore, Jesus answered and said to them, “Do not murmur among one another.

44 No one can come to me unless the Father who sent me draws him; and I shall raise him on the last day.

45 It is written in the prophets: ‘And they shall all be taught by God.’ Everyone who has heard from the Father and has learned comes to me.

46 Not that anyone has seen the Father except he who is from God; this one has seen the Father.

47 Amen, amen I say to you: he who believes in me has eternal life.

48 I am the bread of life.

49 Your fathers ate manna in the desert and died.

50 This is the bread descending from heaven, that if anyone shall eat from it, he may not die.

51 I am the living bread, I who have descended from heaven.

52 If anyone shall eat from this bread, he shall live forever; and the bread that I shall give is my flesh for the life of the world.”

53 Therefore, the Jews disputed among themselves, saying, “How can this man give us his flesh to eat?”

54 Therefore, Jesus said to them, “Amen, amen I say to you: unless you shall eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you shall not have life in you.

55 He who eats my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I shall raise him on the last day.

56 For my flesh is truly food, and my blood is truly drink.

57 He who eats my flesh and drinks my blood abides in me, and I in him.

58 Just as the living Father sent me and I live because of the Father, so he who eats me, he himself also shall live because of me.

59 This is the bread that descended from heaven. It is not as when your fathers ate manna and died. He who eats this bread shall live forever.”

60 He said these things while teaching in the synagogue at Capernaum.

61 Therefore, many of his disciples, hearing this, said, “This word is hard, and who can hear it?”

62 But Jesus, knowing within himself that his disciples were murmuring about this, said to them, “Does this scandalize you?

63 What then if you shall see the Son of Man ascending where he was before?

64 The Spirit is he who gives life; the flesh profits nothing. The words that I have spoken to you are spirit and life.

65 But there are some of you who do not believe.” For Jesus knew from the beginning who they were who did not believe, and who would hand him over.

66 And he said, “For this reason I said to you that no one can come to me unless it has been given to him by my Father.”

67 From this time many of his disciples went back, and they no longer walked with him.

68 Therefore, Jesus said to the twelve, “Do you also wish to go away?”

69 Therefore, Simon Peter answered him, “Lord, to whom shall we go? You have the words of eternal life,

70 and we have believed and known that you are Christ, the Son of God.”

71 Jesus answered them, “Did I not choose you twelve? And one of you is a devil.”

72 Now he spoke of Judas Iscariot, son of Simon; for this man was about to hand him over, though he was one of the twelve.

CHAPTER 7

1 After these things, Jesus walked in Galilee; for he did not wish to walk in Judea, because the Jews sought to kill him.

2 Now the feast day of the Jews, the Feast of Tabernacles, was near.

3 And his brothers said to him, “Pass from here and go into Judea, that your disciples also may see your works that you do.

4 For no one does anything in secret and himself seeks to be in the open. If you do these things, manifest yourself to the world.”

5 For neither did his brothers believe in him.

6 Therefore, Jesus said to them, “My time has not yet arrived, but your time is always ready.

7 The world cannot hate you, but it hates me, because I bear testimony concerning it that its works are evil.

8 You go up to this feast day, but I am not going up to this feast day, because my time has not yet been fulfilled.”

9 When he had said these things, he himself abode in Galilee.

10 But when his brothers had gone up, then he also went up to the feast day, not manifestly, but as though in secret.

11 Therefore, the Jews sought him on the feast day and said, “Where is he?”

12 And there was much murmuring in the crowd concerning him. For some said, “He is good.” But others said, “No, rather he seduces the crowds.”

13 Yet no one spoke openly concerning him, because of fear of the Jews.

14 Now when the feast day was midway through, Jesus went up into the temple and was teaching.

15 And the Jews marveled, saying, “How does this man know letters, though he has not learned?”

16 Jesus answered them and said, “My doctrine is not mine, but his who sent me.

17 If anyone wills to do his will, he shall know concerning the doctrine whether it is from God, or whether I speak of myself.

18 He who speaks from himself seeks his own glory; but he who seeks the glory of him who sent him, this man is truthful, and injustice is not in him.

19 Did not Moses give you the law? And none of you does the law.

20 Why do you seek to kill me?” The crowd answered and said, “You have a demon. Who seeks to kill you?”

21 Jesus answered and said to them, “I did one work, and you all marvel.

22 For this reason Moses gave you circumcision—not because it is from Moses, but from the fathers—and on the Sabbath you circumcise a man.

23 If a man receives circumcision on the Sabbath, that the law of Moses may not be broken, are you indignant at me because I made an entire man well on the Sabbath?

24 Do not judge according to the face, but judge a just judgment.”

25 Therefore, some of those from Jerusalem said, “Is this not he whom they seek to kill?

26 And behold, he speaks openly, and they say nothing to him. Have the rulers truly known that this is Christ?

27 But we know this man, from where he is. Yet when Christ comes, no one knows from where he is.”

28 Therefore, Jesus cried out in the temple, teaching and saying, “Both you know me and you know from where I am. And I have not come of myself, but he who sent me is true, whom you do not know.

29 I know him, because I am from him, and he sent me.”

30 Therefore, they sought to apprehend him, and no one laid hands upon him, because his hour had not yet come.

31 But many of the crowd believed in him and said, “When Christ comes, shall he do more signs than these that this man does?”

32 The Pharisees heard the crowd murmuring these things concerning him, and the rulers and Pharisees sent ministers to apprehend him.

33 Therefore, Jesus said to them, “Yet a little time I am with you, and I go to him who sent me.

34 You shall seek me and shall not find me; and where I am, you cannot come."

35 Therefore, the Jews said among themselves, "Where will this man go, that we shall not find him? Will he go into the dispersion among the nations and teach the nations?

36 What is this word that he said, 'You shall seek me and shall not find me; and where I am, you cannot come'?"

37 Now on the last and great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried out, saying, "If anyone thirsts, let him come to me and drink.

38 He who believes in me, as the Scripture says, rivers of living water shall flow from his belly."

39 Now he said this concerning the Spirit, whom those believing in him were to receive. For the Spirit had not yet been given, because Jesus had not yet been glorified.

40 Therefore, some of that crowd, when they had heard these words of his, said, "This is truly the prophet."

41 Others said, "This is Christ." But some said, "Does Christ come from Galilee?

42 Does not the Scripture say that Christ comes from the seed of David and from Bethlehem, the town where David was?"

43 And so a dissension arose in the crowd because of him.

44 Now some of them wished to apprehend him, but no one laid hands upon him.

45 Therefore, the ministers came to the chief priests and Pharisees. And they said to them, "Why have you not brought him?"

46 The ministers answered, "Never has a man spoken thus, as this man has."

47 Therefore, the Pharisees answered them, "Have you also been seduced?

48 Has anyone of the rulers believed in him, or of the Pharisees?

49 But this crowd—those who do not know the law—are accursed."

50 Nicodemus, he who came to him by night and who was one of them, said to them,

51 "Does our law judge a man unless it has first heard from him and known what he does?"

52 They answered and said to him, "Are you also a Galilean? Search the Scriptures and see that no prophet arises from Galilee."

53 And each one returned to his own house.

CHAPTER 8

1 But Jesus proceeded to the Mount of Olives.

2 And at daybreak he came again into the temple, and all the people came to him; and sitting down, he taught them.

3 But the scribes and Pharisees brought a woman caught in adultery, and they set her in the midst.

4 And they said to him, “Master, this woman was just now caught in adultery.

5 Now in the law, Moses commanded us to stone such women. What, therefore, do you say?”

6 But they said this, tempting him, that they might be able to accuse him. But Jesus, bending himself down, wrote with his finger upon the ground.

7 Therefore, when they persisted in questioning him, he raised himself up and said to them, “He who among you is without sin, let him be the first to cast a stone at her.”

8 And bending himself down again, he wrote upon the ground.

9 But hearing this, they went out one after another, beginning with the elders; and Jesus alone remained, with the woman standing in the midst.

10 Then Jesus, raising himself up, said to her, “Woman, where are those who accused you? Has no one condemned you?”

11 And she said, “No one, Lord.” Then Jesus said, “Neither shall I condemn you. Go, and now sin no more.”

12 Therefore Jesus spoke to them again, saying, “I am the light of the world. He who follows me does not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.”

13 Therefore the Pharisees said to him, “You bear testimony concerning yourself; your testimony is not true.”

14 Jesus answered and said to them, “Even if I bear testimony concerning myself, my testimony is true, because I know from where I came and where I go; but you do not know from where I come or where I go.

15 You judge according to the flesh; I judge no one.

16 And even if I judge, my judgment is true, because I am not alone, but I and the Father who sent me.

17 And it is written in your law that the testimony of two men is true.

18 I am he who bears testimony concerning myself, and the Father who sent me bears testimony concerning me.”

19 Therefore they said to him, “Where is your Father?” Jesus answered, “You know neither me nor my Father. If you knew me, perhaps you would also know my Father.”

20 Jesus spoke these words in the treasury while teaching in the temple; and no one seized him, because his hour had not yet come.

21 Therefore Jesus said to them again, “I go, and you shall seek me, and you shall die in your sin. Where I go, you cannot come.”

22 Therefore the Jews said, “Will he kill himself, because he said, ‘Where I go, you cannot come’?”

23 And he said to them, “You are from below; I am from above. You are of this world; I am not of this world.

24 Therefore I said to you that you shall die in your sins; for if you do not believe that I am, you shall die in your sin.”

25 Therefore they said to him, “Who are you?” Jesus said to them, “The Beginning, I who also speak to you.

26 I have many things to speak and to judge concerning you; but he who sent me is truthful, and the things I heard from him, these I speak in the world.”

27 And they did not understand that he was saying God was his Father.

28 Therefore Jesus said to them, “When you have lifted up the Son of Man, then you shall know that I am, and that I do nothing of myself, but as the Father taught me, these things I speak.

29 And he who sent me is with me, and he has not left me alone, because I always do the things that are pleasing to him.”

30 As he spoke these things, many believed in him.

31 Therefore Jesus said to those Jews who believed him, “If you abide in my word, you shall truly be my disciples,

32 and you shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.”

33 They answered him, “We are the seed of Abraham, and we have never been servants to anyone. How do you say, ‘You shall be free’?”

34 Jesus answered them, “Amen, amen I say to you: everyone who commits sin is a servant of sin.

35 Now the servant does not abide in the house forever, but the son abides forever.

36 Therefore, if the Son makes you free, you shall be truly free.

37 I know that you are sons of Abraham; but you seek to kill me, because my word takes no hold in you.

38 I speak that which I have seen with my Father; and you do the things you have seen with your father.”

39 They answered and said to him, “Our father is Abraham.” Jesus said to them, “If you are sons of Abraham, do the works of Abraham.

40 But now you seek to kill me, a man who has spoken to you the truth that I heard from God. Abraham did not do this.

41 You do the works of your father.” Therefore they said to him, “We were not born of fornication. We have one Father: God.”

42 Therefore Jesus said to them, “If God were your Father, you would indeed love me; for I proceeded from God and came. Neither did I come of myself, but he sent me.

43 Why do you not understand my speech? Because you cannot hear my word.

44 You are of your father the devil, and you wish to do the desires of your father. He was a murderer from the beginning, and he did not stand in the truth, because truth is not in him. When he speaks a lie, he speaks from his own, because he is a liar and the father of it.

45 But if I speak the truth, you do not believe me.

46 Which of you shall convict me of sin? If I speak the truth to you, why do you not believe me?

47 He who is of God hears the words of God. For this reason you do not hear, because you are not of God.”

48 Therefore the Jews answered and said to him, “Do we not rightly say that you are a Samaritan and have a demon?”

49 Jesus answered, “I do not have a demon, but I honor my Father, and you have dishonored me.

50 But I do not seek my own glory. There is one who seeks it and judges.

51 Amen, amen I say to you: if anyone keeps my word, he shall not see death forever.”

52 Therefore the Jews said, “Now we know that you have a demon. Abraham died, and the prophets; and you say, ‘If anyone keeps my word, he shall not taste death forever.’

53 Are you greater than our father Abraham, who died? And the prophets died. Whom do you make yourself?”

54 Jesus answered, “If I glorify myself, my glory is nothing. It is my Father who glorifies me, whom you say is your God,

55 and you have not known him; but I know him. And if I shall say that I do not know him, I shall be like you, a liar. But I know him and keep his word.

56 Abraham your father exulted that he might see my day. He saw it and rejoiced.”

57 Therefore the Jews said to him, “You do not yet have fifty years, and have you seen Abraham?”

58 Jesus said to them, “Amen, amen I say to you: before Abraham came to be, I am.”

59 Therefore they took up stones to cast at him; but Jesus hid himself and went out from the temple.

CHAPTER 9

1 And as Jesus passed by, he saw a man blind from birth.

2 And his disciples questioned him, “Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he should be born blind?”

3 Jesus answered, “Neither this man sinned, nor his parents, but that the works of God might be manifested in him.

4 I must work the works of him who sent me while it is day. The night comes, when no one can work.

5 As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.”

6 When he had said these things, he spat upon the ground and made clay from the spittle, and spread the clay over his eyes.

7 And he said to him, “Go, wash in the pool of Siloam”—which is interpreted “Sent.” Therefore he went away and washed, and came seeing.

8 And so the neighbors, and those who had seen him before when he was a beggar, said, “Is this not he who sat and begged?” Some said, “This is he.”

9 But others said, “Not at all, but he is like him.” Yet he said, “I am.”

10 Therefore they said to him, “How were your eyes opened?”

11 He answered, “That man who is called Jesus made clay and anointed my eyes, and said to me, ‘Go to the pool of Siloam and wash.’ And I went and washed, and I see.”

12 And they said to him, “Where is he?” He said, “I do not know.”

13 They brought him who had been blind to the Pharisees.

14 Now it was the Sabbath when Jesus made the clay and opened his eyes.

15 Therefore the Pharisees again questioned him as to how he had come to see. And he said to them, “He put clay upon my eyes, and I washed, and I see.”

16 Therefore some of the Pharisees said, “This man is not from God, for he does not keep the Sabbath.” But others said, “How can a sinful man perform these signs?” And there was a schism among them.

17 Therefore they said to the blind man again, “What do you say concerning him who opened your eyes?” And he said, “He is a prophet.”

18 Therefore the Jews did not believe concerning him that he had been blind and had come to see, until they called the parents of the man who had come to see.

19 And they questioned them, saying, “Is this your son, whom you say was born blind? How, then, does he now see?”

20 His parents answered them and said, “We know that this is our son and that he was born blind.

21 But how he now sees, we do not know; or who opened his eyes, we do not know. Question him. He is of age; let him speak for himself.”

22 His parents said these things because they feared the Jews; for the Jews had already conspired that if anyone confessed him to be Christ, he should be put out of the synagogue.

23 For this reason his parents said, “He is of age; question him.”

24 Therefore they called again the man who had been blind and said to him, “Give glory to God. We know that this man is a sinner.”

25 Therefore he said to them, “Whether he is a sinner, I do not know. One thing I know: though I was blind, now I see.”

26 Therefore they said to him, “What did he do to you? How did he open your eyes?”

27 He answered them, “I told you already, and you heard. Why do you wish to hear again? Do you also wish to become his disciples?”

28 Therefore they cursed him and said, “You be his disciple. But we are disciples of Moses.

29 We know that God spoke to Moses; but this man, we do not know from where he is.”

30 The man answered and said to them, “For in this is the marvel: that you do not know from where he is, and he opened my eyes.

31 Now we know that God does not hear sinners; but if anyone is a worshiper of God and does his will, to him he listens.

32 From the beginning of the world it has not been heard that anyone opened the eyes of one born blind.

33 Unless this man were from God, he could do nothing.”

34 They answered and said to him, “You were born wholly in sins, and do you teach us?” And they cast him outside.

35 Jesus heard that they had cast him outside; and when he had found him, he said to him, “Do you believe in the Son of God?”

36 He answered and said, “Who is he, Lord, that I may believe in him?”

37 And Jesus said to him, “You have both seen him, and it is he who speaks with you.”

38 And he said, “I believe, Lord.” And falling down, he adored him.

39 And Jesus said, “For judgment I came into this world, that those who do not see may see, and those who see may become blind.”

40 And some of the Pharisees who were with him heard this and said to him, “Are we also blind?”

41 Jesus said to them, “If you were blind, you would not have sin. But now you say, ‘We see.’ Your sin abides.”

CHAPTER 10

1 “Amen, amen I say to you: he who does not enter through the door into the fold of the sheep, but climbs up another way, is a thief and a robber.

2 But he who enters through the door is the shepherd of the sheep.

3 To him the porter opens, and the sheep hear his voice; and he calls his own sheep by name and leads them out.

4 And when he has brought out his own sheep, he goes before them; and the sheep follow him, because they know his voice.

5 But they do not follow a stranger, but flee from him, because they do not know the voice of strangers.”

6 Jesus spoke this proverb to them, but they did not understand what he was saying to them.

7 Therefore Jesus said to them again, “Amen, amen I say to you: I am the door of the sheep.

8 All, as many as have come, are thieves and robbers; and the sheep did not hear them.

9 I am the door. If anyone enters through me, he shall be saved; and he shall enter and go out, and shall find pasture.

10 The thief comes only to steal and slaughter and destroy. I came that they may have life, and may have it more abundantly.

11 I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd gives his soul for his sheep.

12 But the hireling, who is not the shepherd and to whom the sheep do not belong, sees the wolf coming and leaves the sheep and flees; and the wolf snatches and scatters the sheep.

13 But the hireling flees because he is a hireling, and the sheep are no concern of his.

14 I am the good shepherd, and I know mine, and mine know me,

15 as the Father knows me, and I know the Father; and I lay down my soul for my sheep.

16 And I have other sheep that are not of this fold. Them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold and one shepherd.

17 For this reason the Father loves me: because I lay down my soul, that I may take it again.

18 No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of myself. And I have authority to lay it down, and I have authority to take it again. This commandment I received from my Father.”

19 A dissension arose again among the Jews because of these words.

20 And many of them said, “He has a demon and is mad. Why do you listen to him?”

21 Others said, “These words are not those of one who has a demon. Can a demon open the eyes of blind men?”

22 Now the feast of Dedication took place at Jerusalem, and it was winter.

23 And Jesus walked in the temple, in Solomon’s portico.

24 Therefore the Jews surrounded him and said to him, “How long do you hold our soul in suspense? If you are Christ, tell us openly.”

25 Jesus answered them, “I speak to you, and you do not believe. The works that I do in my Father’s name, these bear testimony concerning me.

26 But you do not believe because you are not of my sheep.

27 My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me.

28 And I give them eternal life, and they shall not perish forever; and no one shall snatch them from my hand.

29 That which my Father gave me is greater than all, and no one can snatch it from my Father’s hand.

30 I and the Father are one.”

31 Therefore the Jews took up stones to stone him.

32 Jesus answered them, “I have shown you many good works from my Father. For which of those works do you stone me?”

33 The Jews answered him, “We do not stone you for a good work, but for blasphemy, and because you, being a man, make yourself God.”

34 Jesus answered them, “Is it not written in your law, ‘I said: You are gods’?

35 If he called them gods to whom the word of God came—and Scripture cannot be broken—

36 do you say of him whom the Father sanctified and sent into the world, ‘You blaspheme,’ because I said, ‘I am the Son of God’?

37 If I do not do the works of my Father, do not believe me.

38 But if I do them, even if you do not wish to believe me, believe the works, that you may know and believe that the Father is in me, and I in the Father.”

39 Therefore they sought to seize him, but he went out of their hands.

40 And he went again beyond the Jordan, to that place where John was baptizing at first, and abode there.

41 And many came to him and said, “John indeed performed no sign.

42 But all things whatsoever John said concerning this man were true.” And many believed in him.

CHAPTER 11

1 Now a certain man was ill: Lazarus of Bethany, from the village of Mary and Martha her sister.

2 And Mary was she who anointed the Lord with ointment and wiped his feet with her hair; her brother Lazarus was ill.

3 Therefore his sisters sent to him, saying, “Lord, behold, he whom you cherish is ill.”

4 But when Jesus heard, he said to them, “This illness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God may be glorified through it.”

5 Now Jesus loved Martha, and her sister Mary, and Lazarus.

6 Therefore, when he heard that he was ill, he then indeed abode in the same place for two days.

7 Then after these things he said to his disciples, “Let us go into Judea again.”

8 The disciples said to him, “Rabbi, the Jews were just now seeking to stone you, and do you go there again?”

9 Jesus answered, “Are there not twelve hours in the day? If anyone walks in the day, he does not stumble, because he sees the light of this world.

10 But if he walks in the night, he stumbles, because the light is not in him.”

11 He said these things, and after this he said to them, “Lazarus our friend sleeps, but I go that I may awaken him from sleep.”

12 Therefore his disciples said, “Lord, if he sleeps, he shall be saved.”

13 But Jesus had spoken of his death, while they thought he spoke of the repose of sleep.

14 Then, therefore, Jesus said to them plainly, “Lazarus is dead.

15 And because I was not there, I rejoice for your sake, so that you may believe. But let us go to him.”

16 Therefore Thomas, who is called Didymus, said to his fellow disciples, “Let us also go, that we may die with him.”

17 And so Jesus came and found that he had already been in the monument four days.

18 Now Bethany was near Jerusalem, about fifteen stadia away.

19 And many of the Jews had come to Martha and Mary to console them concerning their brother.

20 Therefore Martha, when she heard that Jesus was coming, went to meet him; but Mary sat at home.

21 Therefore Martha said to Jesus, “Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died.

22 But even now I know that whatsoever you shall ask of God, God shall give you.”

23 Jesus said to her, “Your brother shall rise again.”

24 Martha said to him, “I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection on the last day.”

25 Jesus said to her, “I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in me, even if he has died, shall live.

26 And everyone who lives and believes in me shall not die forever. Do you believe this?”

27 She said to him, “Indeed, Lord, I have believed that you are Christ, the Son of the living God, who have come into this world.”

28 And when she had said these things, she went away and called Mary her sister quietly, saying, “The Master is here and calls you.”

29 As soon as she heard, she rose quickly and came to him.

30 For Jesus had not yet come into the village, but was still in that place where Martha had met him.

31 Therefore the Jews who were with her in the house and were consoling her, when they saw that Mary rose quickly and went out, followed her, saying, “She goes to the monument to weep there.”

32 Therefore Mary, when she came where Jesus was and saw him, fell at his feet and said to him, “Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died.”

33 Therefore Jesus, when he saw her weeping, and the Jews who had come with her weeping, groaned in spirit and troubled himself.

34 And he said, “Where have you laid him?” They said to him, “Lord, come and see.”

35 And Jesus wept.

36 Therefore the Jews said, “Behold how he cherished him.”

37 But some of them said, “Could not this man, who opened the eyes of one born blind, have caused this man not to die?”

38 Therefore Jesus, again groaning within himself, came to the monument. Now it was a cave, and a stone had been placed over it.

39 Jesus said, “Take away the stone.” Martha, the sister of him who had died, said to him, “Lord, by now he stinks, for he has been dead four days.”

40 Jesus said to her, “Did I not say to you that if you believe, you shall see the glory of God?”

41 Therefore they took away the stone. And Jesus, lifting his eyes upward, said, “Father, I give thanks to you because you have heard me.

42 Now I knew that you always hear me, but because of the people standing around I said it, that they may believe that you sent me.”

43 When he had said these things, he cried out with a great voice, “Lazarus, come outside.”

44 And immediately he who had been dead came forth, his feet and hands bound with bands, and his face bound with a cloth. Jesus said to them, “Loose him and let him go.”

45 Therefore many of the Jews who had come to Mary and Martha and had seen the things Jesus did believed in him.

46 But some of them went away to the Pharisees and told them the things Jesus did.

47 Therefore the chief priests and Pharisees gathered a council and said, “What are we doing? For this man performs many signs.

48 If we leave him thus, all shall believe in him, and the Romans shall come and take away our place and nation.”

49 But one of them, named Caiaphas, being the high priest that year, said to them, “You know nothing,

50 nor do you consider that it is expedient for you that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation should not perish.”

51 But he did not say this of himself; rather, being the high priest that year, he prophesied that Jesus was to die for the nation,

52 and not only for the nation, but that he might gather into one the sons of God who were dispersed.

53 Therefore from that day they planned to kill him.

54 Therefore Jesus no longer walked openly among the Jews, but went away into the region beside the desert, to a city called Ephrem; and he stayed there with his disciples.

55 Now the Passover of the Jews was near, and many went up from the country to Jerusalem before the Passover, that they might sanctify themselves.

56 Therefore they sought Jesus and spoke with one another while standing in the temple: “What do you think—that he will not come to the feast day?” Now the chief priests and Pharisees had given a command that if anyone knew where he was, he should disclose it, that they might seize him.

CHAPTER 12

1 Therefore Jesus, six days before the Passover, came to Bethany, where Lazarus had been dead, whom Jesus raised.

2 And they made him a supper there, and Martha ministered; but Lazarus was one of those reclining with him.

3 Therefore Mary took a pound of precious ointment of pure spikenard and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair; and the house was filled with the fragrance of the ointment.

4 Therefore one of his disciples, Judas Iscariot, who was to hand him over, said,

5 "Why was this ointment not sold for three hundred denarii and given to the needy?"

6 But he said this not because the needy were a concern to him, but because he was a thief; and having the money bag, he carried the things that were put into it.

7 Therefore Jesus said, "Let her alone, that she may keep it for the day of my burial.

8 For you always have the poor with you, but you do not always have me."

9 Therefore a great crowd of the Jews learned that he was there, and they came not only because of Jesus, but that they might see Lazarus, whom he raised from the dead.

10 But the chief priests planned that they might also kill Lazarus,

11 because on account of him many of the Jews were going away and believing in Jesus.

12 Now on the next day, the great crowd that had come to the feast day, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem,

13 took branches of palms and went out to meet him; and they cried out, "Hosanna! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord, the King of Israel!"

14 And Jesus found a young ass and sat upon it, as it is written:

15 "Do not fear, daughter of Zion. Behold, your King comes, sitting upon the colt of a she-ass."

16 His disciples did not understand these things at first; but when Jesus was glorified, then they remembered that these things were written concerning him and that they had done these things to him.

17 Therefore the crowd that was with him when he called Lazarus from the monument and raised him from the dead bore testimony.

18 For this reason the crowd also came to meet him, because they heard that he had performed this sign.

19 Therefore the Pharisees said among themselves, "Do you see that we accomplish nothing? Behold, the whole world has gone after him."

20 Now there were certain Gentiles among those who had gone up to adore on the feast day.

21 Therefore these men approached Philip, who was from Bethsaida of Galilee, and asked him, saying, "Sir, we wish to see Jesus."

22 Philip came and told Andrew; Andrew in turn, with Philip, told Jesus.

23 But Jesus answered them, saying, "The hour has come that the Son of Man should be glorified.

24 Amen, amen I say to you: unless a grain of wheat, falling into the ground, has died,

25 it abides alone; but if it has died, it bears much fruit. He who cherishes his soul shall lose it, and he who hates his soul in this world keeps it unto eternal life.

26 If anyone ministers to me, let him follow me; and where I am, there also shall my minister be. If anyone ministers to me, my Father shall honor him.

27 Now my soul is troubled. And what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour. But for this reason I came unto this hour.

28 Father, glorify your name." Therefore a voice came from heaven: "I have glorified it, and I shall glorify it again."

29 Therefore the crowd that stood by and had heard said that thunder had occurred. Others said, "An angel spoke to him."

30 Jesus answered and said, "This voice came not for my sake, but for yours.

31 Now is the judgment of the world; now the ruler of this world shall be cast outside.

32 And I, if I am lifted up from the earth, shall draw all things to myself."

33 But he said this, signifying by what death he was to die.

34 The crowd answered him, “We have heard from the law that Christ abides forever. And how do you say, ‘The Son of Man must be lifted up’? Who is this Son of Man?”

35 Therefore Jesus said to them, “Yet a little while, the light is in you. Walk while you have the light, lest the darkness lay hold of you; and he who walks in darkness does not know where he goes.

36 While you have the light, believe in the light, that you may be sons of light.” Jesus spoke these things and went away and hid himself from them.

37 But although he had performed so many signs before them, they did not believe in him,

38 that the word of Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled, which he said: “Lord, who has believed what we have heard? And to whom has the arm of the Lord been revealed?”

39 For this reason they could not believe, because Isaiah said again:

40 “He has blinded their eyes and hardened their heart, that they may not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and be converted, and I may heal them.”

41 Isaiah said these things when he saw his glory and spoke concerning him.

42 Nevertheless, many even of the rulers believed in him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess, lest they should be cast out of the synagogue.

43 For they loved the glory of men more than the glory of God.

44 But Jesus cried out and said, “He who believes in me does not believe in me, but in him who sent me.

45 And he who sees me sees him who sent me.

46 I came as light into the world, that everyone who believes in me may not abide in darkness.

47 And if anyone hears my words and does not keep them, I do not judge him; for I did not come to judge the world, but to save the world.

48 He who despises me and does not receive my words has one who judges him. The word that I have spoken, that shall judge him on the last day.

49 For I have not spoken of myself, but the Father who sent me himself gave me a commandment as to what I should say and what I should speak.

50 And I know that his commandment is eternal life. Therefore, the things I speak, just as the Father told me, so I speak.”

CHAPTER 13

1 Before the feast day of the Passover, Jesus, knowing that his hour had come that he should pass from this world to the Father, having loved his own who were in the world, loved them unto the end.

2 And when supper had been made, the devil having already put into the heart that Judas, son of Simon Iscariot, should hand him over,

3 Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he came forth from God and goes to God,

4 rose from supper and laid aside his garments; and when he had taken a linen towel, he girded himself.

5 Then he poured water into a basin and began to wash the disciples' feet and to wipe them with the linen towel with which he was girded.

6 Therefore he came to Simon Peter. And Peter said to him, "Lord, do you wash my feet?"

7 Jesus answered and said to him, "What I do, you do not know now, but you shall know afterward."

8 Peter said to him, "You shall not wash my feet forever." Jesus answered him, "If I do not wash you, you shall not have a part with me."

9 Simon Peter said to him, "Lord, not only my feet, but also my hands and my head."

10 Jesus said to him, "He who is washed needs only to wash his feet, but is wholly clean. And you are clean, but not all."

11 For he knew who it was who would hand him over; therefore he said, "Not all of you are clean."

12 Therefore, after he had washed their feet and taken his garments, when he had reclined again, he said to them, "Do you know what I have done to you?

13 You call me Master and Lord, and you say well, for so I am.

14 Therefore, if I, the Lord and Master, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash one another's feet.

15 For I have given you an example, that just as I have done to you, so you also should do.

16 Amen, amen I say to you: a servant is not greater than his lord, nor is an apostle greater than he who sent him.

17 If you know these things, you shall be blessed if you do them.

18 I do not speak concerning all of you. I know whom I have chosen; but that Scripture may be fulfilled: 'He who eats bread with me shall lift up his heel against me.'

19 From now on I tell you before it happens, that when it has happened, you may believe that I am.

20 Amen, amen I say to you: he who receives anyone I shall send receives me; and he who receives me receives him who sent me."

21 When Jesus had said these things, he was troubled in spirit; and he bore testimony and said, "Amen, amen I say to you: one of you shall hand me over."

22 Therefore the disciples looked at one another, uncertain of whom he spoke.

23 Now one of his disciples, whom Jesus loved, was reclining in the bosom of Jesus.

24 Therefore Simon Peter signaled to him and said, "Who is it of whom he speaks?"

25 And so, leaning back upon the breast of Jesus, he said to him, "Lord, who is it?"

26 Jesus answered, "He it is to whom I shall offer the bread when I have dipped it." And when he had dipped the bread, he gave it to Judas, son of Simon Iscariot.

27 And after the morsel, Satan entered into him. And Jesus said to him, "What you do, do more quickly."

28 But no one among those reclining knew why he said this to him.

29 For some thought that, because Judas had the money bag, Jesus had said to him, "Buy the things we need for the feast day," or that he should give something to the needy.

30 Therefore, when he had received the morsel, he went out immediately. And it was night.

31 Therefore, when he had gone out, Jesus said, "Now the Son of Man has been glorified, and God has been glorified in him.

32 If God has been glorified in him, God shall also glorify him in himself, and shall glorify him immediately.

33 Little children, yet a little while I am with you. You shall seek me; and just as I said to the Jews, ‘Where I go, you cannot come,’ so I say to you now.

34 I give you a new commandment: that you love one another. Just as I have loved you, so you also are to love one another.

35 By this all shall know that you are my disciples: if you have love toward one another.”

36 Simon Peter said to him, “Lord, where are you going?” Jesus answered, “Where I go, you cannot follow me now, but you shall follow afterward.”

37 Peter said to him, “Why can I not follow you now? I shall lay down my soul for you.”

38 Jesus answered him, “Will you lay down your soul for me? Amen, amen I say to you: the cock shall not crow until you deny me three times.”

CHAPTER 14

1 “Let not your heart be troubled. You believe in God; believe also in me.

2 In my Father’s house are many mansions. If it were not so, I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you.

3 And if I shall have gone and prepared a place for you, I come again and shall receive you to myself, that where I am, you also may be.

4 And where I go you know, and the way you know.”

5 Thomas said to him, “Lord, we do not know where you go. And how can we know the way?”

6 Jesus said to him, “I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me.

7 If you had known me, you would surely have known my Father also. And from now on you shall know him, and you have seen him.”

8 Philip said to him, “Lord, show us the Father, and it is enough for us.”

9 Jesus said to him, “Have I been with you so long a time, and you have not known me? Philip, he who sees me sees the Father also. How do you say, ‘Show us the Father’?

10 Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me? The words that I speak to you I do not speak from myself. But the Father, abiding in me, himself does the works.

11 Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me?

12 Otherwise, believe because of the works themselves. Amen, amen I say to you: he who believes in me, the works that I do, he also shall do; and he shall do greater things than these, because I go to the Father.

13 And whatsoever you shall ask the Father in my name, this I shall do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

14 If you shall ask me anything in my name, this I shall do.

15 If you love me, keep my commandments.

16 And I shall ask the Father, and he shall give you another Paraclete, that he may abide with you forever:

17 the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it does not see him nor know him. But you shall know him, because he shall abide with you and shall be in you.

18 I shall not leave you orphans; I shall come to you.

19 Yet a little while, and the world now sees me no more. But you see me; because I live, you also shall live.

20 On that day you shall know that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you.

21 He who has my commandments and keeps them, he it is who loves me. And he who loves me shall be loved by my Father; and I shall love him and manifest myself to him.”

22 Judas—not the Iscariot—said to him, “Lord, what has come to pass that you are about to manifest yourself to us and not to the world?”

23 Jesus answered and said to him, “If anyone loves me, he shall keep my word, and my Father shall love him; and we shall come to him and make a mansion with him.

24 He who does not love me does not keep my words. And the word that you have heard is not mine, but that of the Father who sent me.

25 These things I have spoken to you while abiding with you.

26 But the Paraclete, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father shall send in my name, he shall teach you all things and shall bring to your remembrance all things whatsoever I shall have said to you.

27 Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. Not as the world gives do I give to you. Let not your heart be troubled, nor let it be afraid.

28 You have heard that I said to you, ‘I go, and I come to you.’ If you loved me, you would indeed rejoice because I go to the Father, for the Father is greater than I.

29 And now I have told you before it happens, that when it has happened, you may believe.

30 I shall no longer speak many things with you, for the ruler of this world comes, and in me he has nothing.

31 But that the world may know that I love the Father, and as the Father gave me a commandment, so I do. Rise, let us go from here.”

CHAPTER 15

1 “I am the true vine, and my Father is the vine-grower.

2 Every branch in me that does not bear fruit, he shall take it away; and every branch that bears fruit, he shall cleanse, that it may bear more fruit.

3 You are now clean because of the word that I have spoken to you.

4 Abide in me, and I in you. As a branch cannot bear fruit from itself unless it abides in the vine, so neither can you unless you abide in me.

5 I am the vine; you are the branches. He who abides in me, and I in him, he bears much fruit, because without me you can do nothing.

6 If anyone does not abide in me, he shall be cast outside like a branch and shall wither; and they shall gather him and cast him into the fire, and he burns.

7 If you abide in me, and my words abide in you, whatsoever you desire, you shall ask, and it shall be done for you.

8 In this my Father has been glorified: that you bear fruit in abundance and become my disciples.

9 As the Father loved me, I also loved you. Abide in my love.

10 If you keep my commandments, you shall abide in my love, just as I too have kept my Father’s commandments and abide in his love.

11 These things I have spoken to you, that my joy may be in you and your joy may be fulfilled.

12 This is my commandment: that you love one another as I have loved you.

13 No one has greater love than this: that one lay down his soul for his friends.

14 You are my friends if you do the things that I command you.

15 I shall no longer call you servants, because a servant does not know what his master is doing. But I have called you friends, because all things whatsoever I have heard from my Father, I have made known to you.

16 You did not choose me, but I chose you and appointed you that you should go and bear fruit, and that your fruit should abide, so that whatsoever you ask the Father in my name, he may give you.

17 These things I command you: that you love one another.

18 If the world hates you, know that it hated me before it hated you.

19 If you had been of the world, the world would love what was its own. But because you are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, therefore the world hates you.

20 Remember my word, which I spoke to you: a servant is not greater than his lord. If they persecuted me, they shall also persecute you; if they kept my word, they shall also keep yours.

21 But all these things they shall do to you because of my name, because they do not know him who sent me.

22 If I had not come and spoken to them, they would have no sin; but now they have no excuse concerning their sin.

23 He who hates me also hates my Father.

24 If I had not done among them works that no one else did, they would have no sin; but now they have seen and hated both me and my Father.

25 But this was so that the word written in their law might be fulfilled: ‘They hated me without cause.’

26 But when the Paraclete comes, whom I shall send to you from the Father—the Spirit of truth, who proceeds from the Father—he shall bear testimony concerning me;

27 and you shall bear testimony, because you are with me from the beginning.

CHAPTER 16

1 These things I have spoken to you that you may not be scandalized.

2 They shall put you out of the synagogues; but the hour comes when everyone who kills you shall think that he is rendering service to God.

3 And they shall do these things to you because they have known neither the Father nor me.

4 But these things I have spoken to you so that, when their hour comes, you may remember that I told you.

5 But I did not tell you these things from the beginning because I was with you. And now I go to him who sent me, and none of you asks me, ‘Where are you going?’

6 But because I have spoken these things to you, sorrow has filled your heart.

7 Yet I tell you the truth: it is expedient for you that I go. For if I do not go away, the Paraclete shall not come to you; but if I go away, I shall send him to you.

8 And when he comes, he shall convict the world concerning sin and concerning justice and concerning judgment:

9 concerning sin, indeed, because they have not believed in me;

10 but concerning justice, because I go to the Father and you shall no longer see me;

11 and concerning judgment, because the ruler of this world has now been judged.

12 I still have many things to say to you, but you cannot bear them now.

13 But when that Spirit of truth comes, he shall teach you all truth. For he shall not speak from himself, but whatsoever he hears he shall speak, and the things that are to come he shall announce to you.

14 He shall glorify me, because he shall receive from what is mine and shall announce it to you.

15 All things whatsoever the Father has are mine. Therefore I said that he shall receive from what is mine and shall announce it to you.

16 A little while, and you shall no longer see me; and again a little while, and you shall see me, because I go to the Father.”

17 Then some of his disciples said to one another, “What is this that he says to us: ‘A little while, and you shall not see me; and again a little while, and you shall see me,’ and, ‘Because I go to the Father’?”

18 Therefore they were saying, “What is this that he says, ‘A little while’? We do not know what he is saying.”

19 But Jesus knew that they wished to ask him, and he said to them, “Do you inquire among yourselves about this, because I said, ‘A little while, and you shall not see me; and again a little while, and you shall see me’?

20 Amen, amen I say to you: you shall lament and weep, but the world shall rejoice. And you shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy.

21 When a woman gives birth, she has sorrow because her hour has come; but when she has given birth to a child, she no longer remembers the distress because of her joy that a human being has been born into the world.

22 Therefore, you too have sorrow now; but I shall see you again, and your heart shall rejoice, and no one shall take your joy from you.

23 And in that day you shall ask me nothing. Amen, amen I say to you: if you ask the Father for anything in my name, he shall give it to you.

24 Until now you have asked nothing in my name. Ask, and you shall receive, that your joy may be full.

25 These things I have spoken to you in proverbs. The hour comes when I shall no longer speak to you in proverbs, but shall announce to you openly concerning the Father.

26 In that day you shall ask in my name; and I do not say to you that I shall ask the Father concerning you,

27 for the Father himself cherishes you, because you have cherished me and have believed that I came forth from God.

28 I came forth from the Father and came into the world; again I leave the world and go to the Father.”

29 His disciples said to him, “Behold, now you speak openly and utter no proverb.

30 Now we know that you know all things and have no need for anyone to question you. In this we believe that you came forth from God.”

31 Jesus answered them, “Do you believe now?

32 Behold, the hour comes, and has now come, when you shall be scattered, each to what is his own, and shall leave me alone. And I am not alone, because the Father is with me.

33 These things I have spoken to you that you may have peace in me. In the world you shall have distress; but take courage: I have conquered the world.”

CHAPTER 17

1 Jesus spoke these things, and lifting his eyes to heaven, he said, “Father, the hour has come. Glorify your Son, that your Son may glorify you,

2 just as you gave him authority over all flesh, that he may give eternal life to all whom you have given him.

3 Now this is eternal life: that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you sent.

4 I have glorified you upon earth. I have consummated the work that you gave me to do.

5 And now you, Father, glorify me with yourself, with the glory that I had with you before the world existed.

6 I have made your name manifest to the men whom you gave me out of the world. They were yours, and you gave them to me, and they have kept your word.

7 Now they have known that all things you have given me are from you,

8 because the words you gave me, I have given them; and they themselves received them and truly knew that I came forth from you, and they believed that you sent me.

9 I pray for them. I do not pray for the world, but for those whom you have given me, because they are yours.

10 And all things of mine are yours, and yours are mine; and I have been glorified in them.

11 And now I am no longer in the world, and they are in the world, and I come to you. Holy Father, keep in your name those whom you have given me, that they may be one, as we also are.

12 While I was with them, I kept them in your name. I guarded those whom you gave me, and no one of them perished except the son of perdition, that the Scripture might be fulfilled.

13 But now I come to you, and I speak these things in the world that they may have my joy fulfilled in themselves.

14 I have given them your word, and the world hated them because they are not of the world, just as I am not of the world.

15 I do not pray that you take them away from the world, but that you keep them from evil.

16 They are not of the world, just as I am not of the world.

17 Sanctify them in truth. Your word is truth.

18 Just as you sent me into the world, I also sent them into the world.

19 And for them I sanctify myself, that they also may be sanctified in truth.

20 But I pray not only for them, but also for those who shall believe in me through their word:

21 that they all may be one, as you, Father, are in me and I in you; that they also may be one in us, that the world may believe that you sent me.

22 And the glory that you gave me, I have given them, that they may be one, as we also are one:

23 I in them, and you in me, that they may be consummated into one, and the world may know that you sent me and loved them just as you loved me.

24 Father, I desire that those whom you have given me may also be with me where I am, that they may see my glory, which you gave me, because you loved me before the foundation of the world.

25 Just Father, the world has not known you, but I have known you; and these men have known that you sent me.

26 And I have made your name known to them, and shall make it known, that the love with which you loved me may be in them, and I in them.”

CHAPTER 18

1 When Jesus had said these things, he went out with his disciples across the torrent Cedron, where there was a garden, into which he and his disciples entered.

2 Now Judas, who was handing him over, also knew the place, because Jesus had often met there with his disciples.

3 Therefore Judas, having received the cohort together with attendants from the chief priests and Pharisees, came there with lanterns and torches and weapons.

4 Then Jesus, knowing all things that were to come upon him, went forward and said to them, “Whom do you seek?”

5 They answered him, “Jesus the Nazarene.” Jesus said to them, “I am.” And Judas, who was handing him over, was also standing with them.

6 Therefore, when he said to them, “I am,” they went backward and fell to the ground.

7 Then he questioned them again, “Whom do you seek?” And they said, “Jesus the Nazarene.”

8 Jesus answered, “I told you that I am. Therefore, if you seek me, let these men go away.”

9 This was so that the word he had spoken might be fulfilled: “Of those whom you have given me, I have lost no one.”

10 Then Simon Peter, having a sword, drew it and struck the servant of the high priest and cut off his right ear. Now the servant’s name was Malchus.

11 Therefore Jesus said to Peter, “Put your sword into its sheath. The cup that the Father has given me—shall I not drink it?”

12 Then the cohort and the tribune and the attendants of the Jews laid hold of Jesus and bound him.

13 And they led him to Annas first, for he was the father-in-law of Caiaphas, who was high priest that year.

14 Now Caiaphas was the one who had given counsel to the Jews that it is expedient for one man to die for the people.

15 Now Simon Peter was following Jesus, along with another disciple. And that disciple was known to the high priest, and he entered with Jesus into the courtyard of the high priest.

16 But Peter stood outside at the door. Therefore the other disciple, who was known to the high priest, went out and spoke to the maid who kept the door, and brought Peter in.

17 Then the maid who kept the door said to Peter, “Are you also one of this man’s disciples?” He said, “I am not.”

18 Now the servants and attendants were standing by the coals, because it was cold, and they were warming themselves. And Peter also was standing with them and warming himself.

19 Then the high priest questioned Jesus concerning his disciples and his doctrine.

20 Jesus answered him, “I have spoken openly to the world. I always taught in the synagogue and in the temple, where all the Jews come together, and I have spoken nothing in secret.

21 Why do you question me? Question those who heard what I spoke to them. Behold, they know the things I said.”

22 But when he had said these things, one of the attendants standing by struck Jesus across the face, saying, “Is this how you answer the high priest?”

23 Jesus answered him, “If I have spoken evil, bear testimony concerning the evil; but if I have spoken well, why do you strike me?”

24 And Annas sent him bound to Caiaphas the high priest.

25 Now Simon Peter was standing and warming himself. Therefore they said to him, “Are you also one of his disciples?” He denied it and said, “I am not.”

26 One of the servants of the high priest, a kinsman of the man whose ear Peter had cut off, said to him, “Did I not see you in the garden with him?”

27 Therefore Peter denied it again, and immediately the cock crowed.

28 Then they led Jesus from Caiaphas to the praetorium. Now it was morning, and they themselves did not enter the praetorium, that they might not be defiled but might eat the Passover.

29 Therefore Pilate went outside to them and said, “What accusation do you bring against this man?”

30 They answered and said to him, “If this man were not an evildoer, we would not have handed him over to you.”

31 Then Pilate said to them, “Take him yourselves and judge him according to your law.” Therefore the Jews said to him, “It is not lawful for us to kill anyone.”

32 This was so that the word of Jesus might be fulfilled, which he spoke, signifying by what death he was to die.

33 Then Pilate entered the praetorium again, called Jesus, and said to him, “Are you the King of the Jews?”

34 Jesus answered, “Do you say this from yourself, or have others told you about me?”

35 Pilate answered, “Am I a Jew? Your nation and the chief priests handed you over to me. What have you done?”

36 Jesus answered, “My kingdom is not of this world. If my kingdom were from this world, my attendants would certainly fight, that I might not be handed over to the Jews; but now my kingdom is not from here.”

37 Therefore Pilate said to him, “Then you are a king?” Jesus answered, “You say that I am a king. For this I was born, and for this I came into the world: that I may bear testimony to truth. Everyone who is of truth hears my voice.”

38 Pilate said to him, “What is truth?” And when he had said this, he went outside to the Jews again and said to them, “I find no cause in him.

39 But you have a custom that I release one to you at the Passover. Do you wish, therefore, that I release to you the King of the Jews?”

40 Then they all cried out again, saying, “Not this man, but Barabbas.” Now Barabbas was a robber.

CHAPTER 19

1 Then Pilate took Jesus and scourged him.

2 And the soldiers, plaiting a crown of thorns, placed it upon his head and wrapped him in a purple garment.

3 And they kept coming to him and saying, “Hail, King of the Jews,” and striking him across the face.

4 Therefore Pilate went outside again and said to them, “Behold, I bring him out to you, that you may know that I find no cause in him.”

5 (Therefore Jesus came out, bearing the crown of thorns and the purple garment.) And Pilate said to them, “Behold the man.”

6 Therefore, when the chief priests and attendants saw him, they cried out, saying, “Crucify, crucify him.” Pilate said to them, “Take him yourselves and crucify him, for I find no cause in him.”

7 The Jews answered him, “We have a law, and according to the law he ought to die, because he made himself the Son of God.”

8 Therefore, when Pilate heard this word, he was more afraid.

9 And he entered the praetorium again and said to Jesus, “From where are you?” But Jesus gave him no answer.

10 Therefore Pilate said to him, “Do you not speak to me? Do you not know that I have authority to crucify you and authority to release you?”

11 Jesus answered, “You would have no authority at all against me unless it had been given to you from above. Therefore, he who handed me over to you has greater sin.”

12 And from then on, Pilate sought to release him. But the Jews cried out, saying, “If you release this man, you are not Caesar’s friend. For everyone who makes himself a king opposes Caesar.”

13 But when Pilate had heard these words, he brought Jesus outside and sat upon the judgment seat, at the place called Lithostrotos, but in Hebrew Gabbatha.

14 Now it was the Parasceve of the Passover, about the sixth hour, and he said to the Jews, “Behold your king.”

15 But they cried out, “Take him away, take him away; crucify him.” Pilate said to them, “Shall I crucify your king?” The chief priests answered, “We have no king except Caesar.”

16 Then he handed him over to them that he might be crucified. And they received Jesus and led him out.

17 And carrying his own cross, he went out to what is called the Place of Calvary, but in Hebrew Golgotha,

18 where they crucified him, and with him two others, one on either side, but Jesus in the midst.

19 Pilate also wrote a title and placed it upon the cross. And it was written: “Jesus the Nazarene, the King of the Jews.”

20 Therefore many of the Jews read this title, because the place where Jesus was crucified was near the city; and it was written in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin.

21 Then the chief priests of the Jews said to Pilate, “Do not write, ‘The King of the Jews,’ but that he himself said, ‘I am the King of the Jews.’”

22 Pilate answered, “What I have written, I have written.”

23 Therefore, when the soldiers had crucified him, they took his garments (and made four parts, a part for each soldier) and the tunic. Now the tunic was without seam, woven from the top throughout.

24 Therefore they said to one another, “Let us not tear it, but cast lots over it, whose it shall be.” This was so that the Scripture might be fulfilled, saying, “They divided my garments among themselves, and upon my garment they cast a lot.” And indeed the soldiers did these things.

25 Now beside the cross of Jesus stood his mother, and his mother’s sister, Mary of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene.

26 Therefore, when Jesus saw his mother and the disciple whom he loved standing there, he said to his mother, “Woman, behold your son.”

27 Then he said to the disciple, “Behold your mother.” And from that hour the disciple received her into his own home.

28 Afterward, Jesus, knowing that all things had now been consummated, that the Scripture might be consummated, said, “I thirst.”

29 Now a vessel full of vinegar had been set there. And they, placing a sponge full of vinegar upon hyssop, offered it to his mouth.

30 Therefore, when Jesus had received the vinegar, he said, “It is consummated.” And bowing his head, he handed over the spirit.

31 Therefore the Jews, because it was the Parasceve, asked Pilate that their legs might be broken and the bodies taken away, so that the bodies might not remain on the cross on the Sabbath, for that Sabbath day was great.

32 Therefore the soldiers came and broke the legs of the first, and of the other who had been crucified with him.

33 But when they came to Jesus and saw him already dead, they did not break his legs.

34 But one of the soldiers opened his side with a lance, and immediately blood and water came out.

35 And he who saw it bore testimony, and his testimony is true. And he knows that what he says is true, that you also may believe.

36 For these things were done that the Scripture might be fulfilled: “You shall not break a bone of him.”

37 And again another Scripture says, “They shall look upon him whom they pierced through.”

38 Now after these things, Joseph of Arimathea asked Pilate (because he was a disciple of Jesus, though in secret for fear of the Jews) that he might take away the body of Jesus. And Pilate permitted it. Therefore he came and took away the body of Jesus.

39 And Nicodemus also came, who at first had come to Jesus by night, carrying a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about one hundred pounds.

40 Therefore they took the body of Jesus and bound it in linen cloths with the spices, as the custom is for the Jews to bury.

41 Now in the place where he was crucified there was a garden, and in the garden a new monument, in which no one had yet been laid.

42 Therefore, because of the Parasceve of the Jews, since the monument was near, they laid Jesus there.

CHAPTER 20

1 Now on the first day of the week, Mary Magdalene came early to the monument, while there was still darkness, and she saw the stone taken away from the monument.

2 Therefore she ran and came to Simon Peter and to the other disciple, whom Jesus cherished, and said to them, “They have taken the Lord away from the monument, and we do not know where they have laid him.”

3 Therefore Peter and that other disciple went out and came to the monument.

4 Now the two ran together, and that other disciple ran more quickly than Peter and came first to the monument.

5 And when he had stooped down, he saw the linen cloths lying there, but he did not enter.

6 Then Simon Peter came, following him, and entered the monument; and he saw the linen cloths lying there,

7 and the cloth that had been over his head, not lying with the linen cloths, but rolled up separately in one place.

8 Then that disciple who had come first to the monument also entered, and he saw and believed.

9 For they did not yet know the Scripture, that it was necessary for him to rise from the dead.

10 Therefore the disciples went away again to their own places.

11 But Mary stood outside at the monument, lamenting. Therefore, while she wept, she stooped down and looked into the monument,

12 and she saw two angels in white, sitting one at the head and one at the feet, where the body of Jesus had been laid.

13 They said to her, “Woman, why are you lamenting?” She said to them, “Because they have taken away my Lord, and I do not know where they have laid him.”

14 When she had said these things, she turned back and saw Jesus standing, but she did not know that it was Jesus.

15 Jesus said to her, “Woman, why are you lamenting? Whom do you seek?” She, supposing that he was the gardener, said to him, “Sir, if you have taken him away, tell me where you have laid him, and I shall take him away.”

16 Jesus said to her, “Mary.” Turning, she said to him, “Rabboni” (which is called Master).

17 Jesus said to her, “Do not touch me, for I have not yet ascended to my Father. But go to my brothers and say to them: ‘I ascend to my Father and your Father, my God and your God.’”

18 Mary Magdalene came, announcing to the disciples, “I have seen the Lord, and he said these things to me.”

19 Therefore, when it was evening on that day, the first day of the week, and the doors were shut where the disciples were gathered for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood in the midst and said to them, “Peace to you.”

20 And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and his side. Therefore the disciples rejoiced when they saw the Lord.

21 Then he said to them again, “Peace to you. Just as the Father sent me, I also send you.”

22 When he had said these things, he breathed upon them and said to them, “Receive the Holy Spirit.

23 Whose sins you shall remit, they are remitted to them; and whose sins you shall retain, they have been retained.”

24 But Thomas, one of the twelve, who is called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came.

25 Therefore the other disciples said to him, “We have seen the Lord.” But he said to them, “Unless I see in his hands the mark of the nails, and put my finger into the place of the nails, and put my hand into his side, I shall not believe.”

26 And after eight days, his disciples were inside again, and Thomas with them. Jesus came with the doors closed and stood in the midst and said, “Peace to you.”

27 Then he said to Thomas, “Put your finger here and see my hands; and bring your hand and put it into my side. And do not be unbelieving, but faithful.”

28 Thomas answered and said to him, “My Lord and my God.”

29 Jesus said to him, “Because you have seen me, Thomas, you have believed. Blessed are those who have not seen and have believed.”

30 Jesus indeed did many other signs in the sight of his disciples, which are not written in this book.

31 But these have been written that you may believe that Jesus is Christ, the Son of God, and that, believing, you may have life in his name.

CHAPTER 21

1 Afterward Jesus manifested himself again to the disciples at the Sea of Tiberias. And he manifested himself in this way:

2 Simon Peter and Thomas, who is called Didymus, and Nathanael, who was from Cana of Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two others of his disciples were together.

3 Simon Peter said to them, “I am going to fish.” They said to him, “We also are coming with you.” And they went out and ascended into the boat, and that night they caught nothing.

4 But when morning had come, Jesus stood on the shore; yet the disciples did not know that it was Jesus.

5 Therefore Jesus said to them, “Children, do you have anything to eat?” They answered him, “No.”

6 He said to them, “Cast the net on the right side of the boat, and you shall find.” Therefore they cast it, and now they were unable to draw it because of the multitude of fish.

7 Then that disciple whom Jesus loved said to Peter, “It is the Lord.” When Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girded himself with his tunic (for he was naked) and cast himself into the sea.

8 But the other disciples came in the boat (for they were not far from land, but about two hundred cubits), dragging the net of fish.

9 Therefore, when they came down onto the land, they saw coals laid there, and a fish placed upon them, and bread.

10 Jesus said to them, “Bring some of the fish that you have caught now.”

11 Simon Peter went up and drew the net to land, full of one hundred fifty-three large fish. And though they were so many, the net was not torn.

12 Jesus said to them, “Come, dine.” And none of those reclining dared to question him, “Who are you?” for they knew that it was the Lord.

13 And Jesus came and took the bread and gave it to them, and the fish likewise.

14 This was now the third time Jesus was manifested to his disciples after he had risen from the dead.

15 Therefore, when they had dined, Jesus said to Simon Peter, “Simon, son of John, do you love me more than these?” He said to him, “Yes, Lord, you know that I cherish you.” He said to him, “Feed my lambs.”

16 He said to him again, “Simon, son of John, do you love me?” He said to him, “Yes, Lord, you know that I cherish you.” He said to him, “Feed my lambs.”

17 He said to him the third time, “Simon, son of John, do you cherish me?” Peter was grieved because he said to him the third time, “Do you cherish me?” And he said to him, “Lord, you know all things; you know that I cherish you.” He said to him, “Feed my sheep.

18 Amen, amen I say to you: when you were younger, you girded yourself and walked wherever you wished; but when you grow old, you shall stretch out your hands, and another shall gird you and lead you where you do not wish.”

19 Now he said this, signifying by what death he was to glorify God. And when he had said this, he said to him, “Follow me.”

20 Peter turned and saw the disciple whom Jesus loved following—the one who also had reclined at supper upon his breast and said, “Lord, who is he who shall hand you over?”

21 Therefore, when Peter saw him, he said to Jesus, “Lord, but what about this man?”

22 Jesus said to him, “I wish him to abide thus until I come; what is that to you? You follow me.”

23 Therefore this word went out among the brothers, that this disciple does not die. Yet Jesus did not say to him, “He does not die,” but, “I wish him to abide thus until I come; what is that to you?”

24 This is that disciple who bears testimony concerning these things and wrote these things; and we know that his testimony is true.

25 Now there are also many other things that Jesus did, which, if they were written one by one, I think that not even the world itself could contain the books that would be written.

BOOK FORTY-FOUR: ACTS

CHAPTER 1

1 I made the former discourse, O Theophilus, concerning all that Jesus began to do and to teach,

2 until the day when, after giving commands through the Holy Spirit to the Apostles whom he had chosen, he was taken up;

3 to whom he also showed himself alive after his passion by many proofs, appearing to them over forty days and speaking about the kingdom of God.

4 And while eating with them, he commanded them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, “which,” he said, “you heard from my mouth;

5 for John indeed baptized with water, but you will be baptized with the Holy Spirit not many days from now.”

6 Therefore those who had come together asked him, saying, “Lord, will you restore the kingdom of Israel at this time?”

7 But he said to them, “It is not yours to know the times or moments that the Father has placed in his own authority;

8 but you will receive power when the Holy Spirit comes upon you, and you will be witnesses to me in Jerusalem, in all Judea and Samaria, and even to the farthest part of the earth.”

9 And when he had said these things, as they watched, he was lifted up, and a cloud received him from their eyes.

10 And while they were gazing into heaven as he went, behold, two men in white garments stood beside them,

11 and they said, “Men of Galilee, why do you stand looking into heaven? This Jesus, who has been taken up from you into heaven, will come in the same way as you saw him going into heaven.”

12 Then they returned to Jerusalem from the mountain called Olivet, which is near Jerusalem, a Sabbath day’s journey away.

13 And when they had entered the upper room, they went up to where Peter and John, James and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, James of Alphaeus, Simon the Zealot, and Judas of James were staying.

14 All these persevered with one accord in prayer, with the women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and his brothers.

15 In those days Peter rose in the midst of the brothers and said—the gathering of people together was about one hundred and twenty—

16 “Men, brothers, the Scripture had to be fulfilled which the Holy Spirit foretold through the mouth of David concerning Judas, who was the guide of those who seized Jesus;

17 for he was numbered among us and received a share in this ministry.

18 This man indeed acquired a field from the wages of iniquity, and, having been hanged, burst open in the middle, and all his inward parts poured out.

19 And it became known to all who lived in Jerusalem, so that in their language that field was called Haceldama, that is, Field of Blood.

20 For it is written in the book of Psalms: ‘Let their dwelling become desolate, and let there be no one to inhabit it’; and, ‘Let another receive his office of oversight.’

21 Therefore, from these men who have gathered with us throughout the whole time when the Lord Jesus came in and went out among us,

22 beginning from the baptism of John until the day when he was taken up from us, one of these must become a witness with us of his resurrection.”

23 And they appointed two: Joseph, who was called Barsabas and surnamed Justus, and Matthias.

24 And praying, they said, “You, Lord, who know the hearts of all, show which one of these two you have chosen

25 to take the place of this ministry and apostleship, from which Judas transgressed, so that he might go to his own place.”

26 And they gave them lots, and the lot fell upon Matthias, and he was numbered with the eleven Apostles.

CHAPTER 2

1 And when the days of Pentecost were being completed, they were all together in the same place;

2 and suddenly there came from heaven a sound like the coming of a mighty wind, and it filled the whole house where they were sitting.

3 And divided tongues, as of fire, appeared to them, and one rested upon each of them;

4 and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak in various tongues, as the Holy Spirit gave them utterance.

5 Now there were devout Jewish men living in Jerusalem from every nation under heaven.

6 And when this sound was made, the multitude came together and was bewildered in mind, because each one heard them speaking in his own tongue.

7 And they were all astounded and marveled, saying, “Behold, are not all these who are speaking Galileans?

8 And how have we each heard our own tongue in which we were born?

9 Parthians and Medes and Elamites, and those who dwell in Mesopotamia, Judea and Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia,

10 Phrygia and Pamphylia, Egypt and the parts of Libya around Cyrene, and visitors from Rome,

11 Jews also and proselytes, Cretans and Arabs—we have heard them speaking in our tongues the mighty works of God.”

12 And they were all astounded and marveled with one another, saying, “What can this mean?”

13 But others mocked and said, “These men are full of new wine.”

14 But Peter, standing with the eleven, raised his voice and spoke to them: “Men of Judea, and all you who dwell in Jerusalem, let this be known to you, and perceive my words with your ears.

15 For these men are not drunk, as you suppose, since it is the third hour of the day;

16 but this is what was spoken through the prophet Joel:

17 ‘And it shall be in the last days, says the Lord (YHWH), that I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your young men shall see visions, and your elders shall dream dreams.

18 And indeed, upon my male servants and my female servants in those days I will pour out of my Spirit, and they shall prophesy;

19 and I will give wonders in heaven above and signs on earth below: blood and fire and vapor of smoke.

20 The sun shall be turned into darkness and the moon into blood, before the great and manifest day of the Lord comes.

21 And it shall be that everyone who calls upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.’

22 Men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved by God among you through works of power and wonders and signs which God did through him in your midst, as you yourselves also know—

23 this man, handed over by the determined counsel and foreknowledge of God, you afflicted and killed by the hands of the lawless;

24 whom God raised up, loosening the pains of the realm of the dead, since it was impossible for him to be held by it.

25 For David says concerning him: ‘I saw the Lord before me always, for he is at my right hand, so that I may not be moved.

26 Therefore my heart rejoiced and my tongue exulted; moreover, my flesh also shall rest in hope,

27 because you will not abandon my soul in the realm of the dead, nor will you allow your Holy One to see corruption.

28 You have made known to me the ways of life; you will fill me with gladness with your face.’

29 Men, brothers, let me speak boldly to you concerning the patriarch David: he died and was buried, and his tomb is with us to this very day.

30 Therefore, being a prophet and knowing that God had sworn to him with an oath that one from the fruit of his loin would sit upon his throne,

31 he foresaw and spoke concerning the resurrection of Christ: that he was neither abandoned in the realm of the dead, nor did his flesh see corruption.

32 This Jesus God raised up, of whom we are all witnesses.

33 Therefore, exalted by the right hand of God and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he poured out this Spirit, whom you see and hear.

34 For David did not ascend into heaven, but he himself said: ‘The Lord said to my Lord, “Sit at my right hand,

35 until I make your enemies the footstool of your feet.”’

36 Therefore let all the house of Israel know with utmost certainty that God has made this Jesus, whom you crucified, both Lord and Christ.”

37 Now when they heard these things, they were pierced in the heart and said to Peter and the rest of the Apostles, “What shall we do, men, brothers?”

38 But Peter said to them, “Repent, and let each one of you be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of your sins, and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.

39 For the promise is for you and your children and all who are far away—whomever the Lord our God shall call.”

40 And with many other words he bore testimony and exhorted them, saying, “Be saved from this depraved generation.”

41 Therefore those who received his word were baptized, and about three thousand souls were added on that day.

42 And they persevered in the doctrine of the Apostles, in the fellowship of the breaking of bread, and in prayers.

43 And fear came upon every soul; many wonders and signs also were done through the Apostles in Jerusalem, and great fear was in everyone.

44 And all who believed were together and held all things in common.

45 They sold their possessions and goods and divided them among all, according as each had need.

46 And daily, continuing with one accord in the temple and breaking bread around the houses, they took food with exultation and simplicity of heart, 47 together praising God and having favor with all the people. And the Lord daily increased the company of those who were being saved.

CHAPTER 3

1 Now Peter and John were going up to the temple at the ninth hour of prayer.

2 And a certain man who was lame from his mother's womb was being carried. They placed him daily at the gate of the temple called Beautiful, so that he might ask alms from those entering the temple.

3 When he saw Peter and John about to enter the temple, he asked that he might receive alms.

4 But Peter, gazing at him with John, said, "Look at us."

5 And he fixed his attention on them, hoping that he would receive something from them.

6 But Peter said, "Silver and gold I do not have. But what I have, this I give you: in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise and walk."

7 And taking hold of his right hand, he raised him up, and immediately his ankles and soles were made firm.

8 And leaping up, he stood and walked; and he entered the temple with them, walking and leaping and praising God.

9 And all the people saw him walking and praising God.

10 And they recognized him as the one who used to sit for alms at the Beautiful Gate of the temple; and they were filled with astonishment and ecstasy at what had happened to him.

11 And as he held Peter and John, all the people ran together to them at the portico called Solomon's, astounded.

12 But when Peter saw this, he answered the people: "Men of Israel, why do you marvel at this? Or why do you gaze at us, as though by our own power or authority we had made this man walk?

13 The God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob, the God of our fathers, has glorified his Son Jesus, whom you handed over and denied before the face of Pilate, when he had judged that he should be released.

14 But you denied the Holy and Just One, and asked that a man who was a murderer be given to you;

15 and you killed the Author of life, whom God raised from the dead, of whom we are witnesses.

16 And through faith in his name, his name has strengthened this man whom you have seen and know; and the faith which is through him has given him this complete soundness in the sight of you all.

17 And now, brothers, I know that you acted through ignorance, as did your rulers also.

18 But the things God foretold through the mouth of all the prophets—that his Christ should suffer—he has thus fulfilled.

19 Therefore repent and be converted, so that your sins may be blotted out,

20 so that, when times of refreshment have come from the face of the Lord, he may send the one who has been proclaimed to you, Jesus Christ,

21 whom heaven indeed must receive until the times of the restoration of all things, of which God has spoken through the mouth of his holy prophets from of old.

22 Moses indeed said, 'The Lord your God shall raise up for you a prophet from among your brothers, like me. You shall hear him in all things whatsoever he speaks to you.

23 And it shall be that every soul who does not hear that prophet shall be exterminated from the people.'

24 And all the prophets who have spoken, from Samuel and afterward, announced these days.

25 You are the sons of the prophets and of the testament which God made with our fathers, saying to Abraham, 'And in your seed all the families of the earth shall be blessed.'

26 To you first, God, raising up his Son, sent him to bless you, so that each one might turn himself away from his wickedness."

CHAPTER 4

1 But while they were speaking to the people, the priests and the magistrate of the temple and the Sadducees came upon them,

2 grieved that they were teaching the people and announcing in Jesus the resurrection from the dead;

3 and they laid hands on them and put them in custody until the next day, for it was already evening.

4 But many of those who had heard the word believed, and the number of the men became five thousand.

5 And it came to pass on the next day that their rulers and elders and scribes gathered in Jerusalem,

6 along with Annas the high priest, and Caiaphas and John and Alexander, and all who were of priestly lineage.

7 And setting them in the midst, they questioned them: “By what power or in what name have you done this?”

8 Then Peter, filled with the Holy Spirit, said to them, “Rulers of the people and elders, hear:

9 if we are judged today for a good deed done to an infirm man, by what means this man has been saved,

10 let it be known to you all and to all the people of Israel that in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom you crucified, whom God raised from the dead—in this name this man stands healthy before you.

11 This is the stone which was rejected by you, the builders, which has become the head of the corner;

12 and there is salvation in no one else. For neither is there any other name under heaven given to men in which we must be saved.”

13 Now when they saw the constancy of Peter and John, and learned that they were unlettered and ordinary men, they marveled and recognized that they had been with Jesus;

14 and seeing the man who had been healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it.

15 But they commanded them to withdraw outside the council, and they conferred with one another,

16 saying, “What shall we do with these men? For indeed, a well-known sign has been done through them, plain to all who live in Jerusalem, and we cannot deny it.

17 But so that it may spread no further among the people, let us threaten them not to speak to any man any longer in this name.”

18 And calling them in, they commanded them not to speak at all or teach in the name of Jesus.

19 But Peter and John answered and said to them, “Whether it is just in the sight of God to listen to you rather than to God, judge for yourselves.

20 For we cannot refrain from speaking the things we have seen and heard.”

21 But they threatened them and released them, finding no way to punish them because of the people, for everyone was glorifying what had been done through what had happened.

22 For the man upon whom this sign of healing had been done was more than forty years old.

23 And when they were released, they went to their own people and reported all that the chief priests and elders had said to them.

24 When they heard this, they raised their voice to God with one accord and said, “Lord, you are the one who made heaven and earth, the sea and all that is in them;

25 you who through the Holy Spirit said by the mouth of our father David, your servant: ‘Why did the nations rage, and the peoples devise empty things?

26 The kings of the earth stood up, and the rulers gathered together as one against the Lord and against his Christ.’

27 For truly, in this city Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the nations and the peoples of Israel, gathered together against your holy servant Jesus, whom you anointed, 28 to do the things your hand and your counsel decreed should be done.

29 And now, Lord, look upon their threats, and grant to your servants to speak your word with all boldness,

30 while you stretch out your hand for healings, and for signs and wonders to be done through the name of your holy Son Jesus.”

31 And when they had prayed, the place in which they were gathered was shaken; and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and spoke the word of God with boldness.

32 Now the multitude of believers had one heart and one soul; neither did anyone say that anything he possessed was his own, but all things were common to them.

33 And with great power the Apostles bore testimony to the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ, and great grace was upon them all.

34 For neither was anyone needy among them. For as many as were owners of fields or houses sold them and brought the proceeds of the things they sold,

35 and placed them before the feet of the Apostles; and distribution was made to each one according as each had need.

36 And Joseph, who was surnamed Barnabas by the Apostles—which is translated Son of Consolation—a Levite, a Cypriot by birth, 37 having a field, sold it and brought the proceeds and placed them before the feet of the Apostles.

CHAPTER 5

1 But a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, sold a field,

2 and held back part of the price of the field, with his wife's knowledge; and bringing a certain part, he placed it at the feet of the Apostles.

3 But Peter said, "Ananias, why has Satan tempted your heart, that you should lie to the Holy Spirit and hold back part of the price of the field?

4 While it remained unsold, did it not remain yours? And once it was sold, was it not in your authority? Why have you placed this thing in your heart? You have not lied to men, but to God."

5 And when Ananias heard these words, he fell down and expired. And great fear came upon all who heard.

6 Then the young men rose, removed him, carried him out, and buried him.

7 And it came to pass after a space of about three hours that his wife came in, not knowing what had happened.

8 And Peter said to her, "Tell me, woman, did you sell the field for this much?" And she said, "Yes, for this much."

9 But Peter said to her, "How did you agree together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? Behold, the feet of those who buried your husband are at the door, and they will carry you out."

10 Immediately she fell before his feet and expired. And the young men came in and found her dead; and they carried her out and buried her beside her husband.

11 And great fear came upon the whole church and upon all who heard these things.

12 And through the hands of the Apostles many signs and wonders were done among the people. And they were all with one accord in Solomon's portico.

13 But none of the others dared join them, though the people magnified them.

14 And the multitude of men and women believing in the Lord increased all the more,

15 so that they brought the infirm out into the streets and placed them on small beds and pallets, so that when Peter came, at least his shadow might overshadow any one of them, and they might be freed from their infirmities.

16 And a multitude also came running together from the cities neighboring Jerusalem, bringing the sick and those tormented by unclean spirits, and they were all healed.

17 But the high priest rose, and he and all who were with him—that is, the sect of the Sadducees—were filled with jealousy;

18 and they laid hands on the Apostles and put them in the public prison.

19 But during the night an angel of the Lord opened the doors of the prison, led them out, and said,

20 "Go, and standing in the temple, speak to the people all the words of this life."

21 And when they had heard this, they entered the temple at dawn and taught. But the high priest arrived with those who were with him, and they summoned the council and all the elders of the sons of Israel; and they sent to the prison for them to be brought.

22 But when the ministers came and, after opening the prison, did not find them, they returned and reported,

23 saying, "We indeed found the prison closed with all diligence, and the guards standing before the doors; but when we opened it, we found no one inside."

24 And when the magistrate of the temple and the chief priests heard these words, they were perplexed concerning them as to what might come of this.

25 But someone came and reported to them, "Behold, the men whom you put in prison are standing in the temple and teaching the people."

26 Then the magistrate went with the ministers and brought them without force, for they feared that they might be stoned by the people.

27 And when they had brought them, they set them before the council, and the high priest questioned them,

28 saying, "Commanding you, we commanded you not to teach in this name, and behold, you have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine and intend to bring this man's blood upon us."

29 But Peter and the Apostles answered and said, “We must obey God rather than men.

30 The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom you killed by hanging him on a tree.

31 God exalted this man by his right hand as Leader and Savior, to give repentance to Israel and remission of sins;

32 and we are witnesses of these words, and so is the Holy Spirit, whom God has given to all who obey him.”

33 When they heard these things, they were cut through and considered killing them.

34 But a certain Pharisee in the council rose, named Gamaliel, a teacher of the law honored by all the people, and ordered the men to be put outside for a little while.

35 And he said to them, “Men of Israel, take heed to yourselves concerning what you intend to do with these men.

36 For before these days Theudas arose, saying that he was someone, and about four hundred men assented to him. He was killed, and all who believed him were scattered and reduced to nothing.

37 After him Judas the Galilean arose in the days of the registration and turned the people away after him. He also perished, and all who assented to him were dispersed.

38 And now, therefore, I say to you: withdraw from these men and leave them alone; for if this counsel or work is from men, it will be dissolved;

39 but if it is from God, you will not be able to dissolve it, lest perhaps you be found even to fight against God.” And they assented to him.

40 And calling in the Apostles, they beat them, commanded them not to speak at all in the name of Jesus, and released them.

41 And they indeed went rejoicing from the presence of the council, because they had been counted worthy to suffer insult for the name of Jesus.

42 And every day, in the temple and around the houses, they did not cease teaching and evangelizing Christ Jesus.

CHAPTER 6

1 In those days, as the number of the disciples grew, a murmuring arose among the Greeks against the Hebrews because their widows were being overlooked in the daily ministry.

2 Then the twelve summoned the multitude of the disciples and said, “It is not right for us to leave the word of God and minister at tables.

3 Therefore consider, brothers, seven men from among you of good testimony, full of the Holy Spirit and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this work.

4 But we will persevere in prayer and in the ministry of the word.”

5 And the proposal pleased the whole multitude. And they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and the Holy Spirit, and Philip and Prochorus and Nicanor and Timon and Parmenas and Nicolas, a sojourner from Antioch.

6 They set these men before the Apostles, and praying, they laid hands on them.

7 And the word of the Lord grew, and the number of the disciples multiplied greatly in Jerusalem; a great multitude of the priests also obeyed the faith.

8 And Stephen, full of grace and strength, did great wonders and signs among the people.

9 But some arose from the synagogue called that of the Libertines and Cyrenians and Alexandrians, and of those who were from Cilicia and Asia, disputing with Stephen;

10 and they could not withstand the wisdom and the Spirit who spoke.

11 Then they suborned men to say that they had heard him speaking words of blasphemy against Moses and against God.

12 And so they stirred up the people and the elders and the scribes; and rushing upon him, they seized him and brought him before the council,

13 and they set up false witnesses who said, “This man does not cease speaking words against the holy place and the law;

14 for we heard him say that this Jesus of Nazareth will destroy this place and change the traditions which Moses handed down to us.”

15 And all who sat in the council gazed at him and saw his face like the face of an angel.

CHAPTER 7

1 Then the high priest said, “Are these things so?”

2 And he said, “Men, brothers and fathers, hear me. The God of glory appeared to our father Abraham when he was in Mesopotamia, before he lived in Haran,

3 and said to him, ‘Go out from your land and from your kindred, and come into the land that I shall show you.’

4 Then he went out from the land of the Chaldeans and lived in Haran. And from there, after his father died, God transferred him into this land in which you now dwell.

5 And he gave him no inheritance in it, not even a foot’s breadth; but he promised to give it to him as a possession, and to his seed after him, when he had no son.

6 And God spoke to him: ‘His seed shall be a sojourner in a foreign land, and they shall subject them to slavery and mistreat them for four hundred years;

7 and the nation they serve I will judge,’ said the Lord, ‘and after these things they shall come out and serve me in this place.’

8 And he gave him the testament of circumcision. And so he fathered Isaac and circumcised him on the eighth day; and Isaac fathered Jacob, and Jacob the twelve patriarchs.

9 And the patriarchs, envying Joseph, sold him into Egypt; but God was with him,

10 and delivered him from all his tribulations, and gave him grace and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh, king of Egypt; and Pharaoh appointed him governor over Egypt and over his whole house.

11 Then famine came upon all Egypt and Canaan, and great tribulation, and our fathers could find no provisions.

12 But when Jacob heard that there was grain in Egypt, he sent our fathers the first time;

13 and on the second visit Joseph was recognized by his brothers, and his family was made known to Pharaoh.

14 Then Joseph sent and summoned Jacob his father and all his kindred, seventy-five souls.

15 And Jacob went down into Egypt; and he died, and so did our fathers.

16 And they were transferred to Shechem and laid in the tomb which Abraham bought for a price in silver from the sons of Hamor, son of Shechem.

17 But as the time of the promise which God had declared to Abraham drew near, the people grew and multiplied in Egypt,

18 until another king arose in Egypt who did not know Joseph.

19 This man dealt craftily with our race and afflicted our fathers, so that they exposed their infants, that they might not be kept alive.

20 At that time Moses was born, and he was pleasing to God; and he was nourished for three months in his father’s house.

21 And when he had been exposed, Pharaoh’s daughter took him up and raised him as her own son.

22 And Moses was instructed in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and he was powerful in his words and in his deeds.

23 But when his time of forty years was being completed, it rose in his heart to visit his brothers, the sons of Israel.

24 And when he saw a certain man suffering injury, he defended him and avenged the one who was being wronged by striking the Egyptian.

25 And he supposed that his brothers understood that God would give them salvation through his hand, but they did not understand.

26 And on the following day he appeared to them while they were quarreling, and he sought to reconcile them in peace, saying, ‘Men, you are brothers. Why do you harm one another?’

27 But the one who was wronging his neighbor pushed him away, saying, ‘Who appointed you ruler and judge over us?

28 Do you intend to kill me as you killed the Egyptian yesterday?’

29 Then Moses fled at this word and became a stranger in the land of Midian, where he fathered two sons.

30 And when forty years had been completed, an angel appeared to him in the desert of Mount Sinai, in the fire of a flame in a bush.

31 And when Moses saw it, he marveled at the sight. And as he drew near to look at it, the voice of the Lord came to him, saying,

32 ‘I am the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.’ And Moses, trembling, did not dare to look.

33 But the Lord said to him, ‘Loosen the footwear from your feet, for the place where you stand is holy ground.

34 Seeing, I have seen the affliction of my people who are in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and I have come down to free them. And now come, and I will send you into Egypt.’

35 This Moses, whom they denied, saying, ‘Who appointed you ruler and judge?’—this man God sent as ruler and redeemer by the hand of the angel who appeared to him in the bush.

36 This man led them out, performing wonders and signs in the land of Egypt and in the Red Sea and in the desert for forty years.

37 This is the Moses who said to the sons of Israel, ‘God shall raise up for you a prophet from among your brothers, like me; you shall hear him.’

38 This is the one who was in the assembly in the desert with the angel who spoke to him on Mount Sinai and with our fathers; he received words of life to give to us.

39 Our fathers were unwilling to obey him; instead, they pushed him away and turned back in their hearts to Egypt,

40 saying to Aaron, ‘Make us gods to go before us; for as to this Moses, who led us out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has happened to him.’

41 And in those days they made a calf and offered a sacrifice to the idol and rejoiced in the works of their hands.

42 But God turned and handed them over to serve the host of heaven, as it is written in the book of the prophets: ‘Did you offer victims and sacrifices to me for forty years in the desert, O house of Israel?

43 And you took up the tabernacle of Moloch and the star of your god Rempham, figures which you made to adore them; and I will carry you away beyond Babylon.’

44 The tabernacle of testimony was with our fathers in the desert, just as God ordained for them when he spoke to Moses, that he should make it according to the pattern he had seen.

45 Our fathers, receiving it, also brought it in with Joshua when they took possession of the nations whom God expelled from the face of our fathers, until the days of David,

46 who found grace before God and asked that he might find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

47 But Solomon built him a house.

48 Yet the Most High does not dwell in things made by hands, as the prophet says:

49 ‘Heaven is my throne, and earth the footstool of my feet. What house will you build for me?’ says the Lord. ‘Or what is the place of my rest?

50 Did not my hand make all these things?’

51 Stiff-necked and uncircumcised in hearts and ears, you always resist the Holy Spirit; as your fathers did, so do you.

52 Which of the prophets did your fathers not persecute? And they killed those who foretold the coming of the Just One, whose betrayers and murderers you have now become,

53 you who received the law by the disposition of angels and did not keep it.”

54 Now when they heard these things, they were cut through in their hearts and gnashed their teeth at him.

55 But being full of the Holy Spirit, he gazed into heaven and saw the glory of God and Jesus standing at the right hand of God. And he said, “Behold, I see the heavens opened and the Son of Man standing at the right hand of God.”

56 But crying out with a loud voice, they stopped their ears and rushed upon him with one accord.

57 And casting him outside the city, they stoned him; and the witnesses laid down their garments beside the feet of a young man who was called Saul.

58 And they stoned Stephen as he called upon the Lord and said, “Lord Jesus, receive my spirit.”

59 And kneeling down, he cried out with a loud voice, saying, “Lord, do not set this sin against them.” And when he had said this, he fell asleep in the Lord. And Saul was consenting to his slaying.

CHAPTER 8

1 And on that day a great persecution arose against the church which was in Jerusalem, and all were scattered through the regions of Judea and Samaria except the Apostles.

2 And devout men took care of Stephen and made great mourning over him.

3 But Saul devastated the church, entering house after house; and dragging away men and women, he handed them over into custody.

4 Therefore those who had been scattered passed through the regions, evangelizing the word of God.

5 And Philip went down to a city of Samaria and preached Christ to them.

6 And the crowds gave heed with one accord to the things Philip said, hearing and seeing the signs he did.

7 For many of those who had unclean spirits went out, crying with a loud voice; and many paralytics and lame people were healed.

8 Therefore great joy arose in that city.

9 But a certain man named Simon, who had previously been a sorcerer in the city, was seducing the nation of Samaria, saying that he was someone great.

10 They all listened to him, from the least to the greatest, saying, “This man is the power of God which is called Great.”

11 And they gave heed to him because for a long time he had driven them out of their minds by his magic arts.

12 But when they believed Philip as he evangelized concerning the kingdom of God, men and women were baptized in the name of Jesus Christ.

13 Then Simon himself also believed; and when he had been baptized, he kept close to Philip. And seeing signs and very great works of power being done, he marveled in astonishment.

14 Now when the Apostles who were in Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent Peter and John to them.

15 And when they had come, they prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Spirit;

16 for he had not yet come upon any one of them, but they had only been baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.

17 Then they laid hands upon them, and they received the Holy Spirit.

18 But when Simon saw that the Holy Spirit was given through the laying on of the Apostles’ hand, he offered them money,

19 saying, “Give me this authority also, so that anyone upon whom I lay hands may receive the Holy Spirit.” But Peter said to him,

20 “May your money be with you unto perdition, because you thought the gift of God could be possessed with money.

21 You have no part or lot in this matter, for your heart is not upright before God.

22 Therefore repent of this wickedness of yours and pray to God, if perhaps this thought of your heart may be forgiven you.

23 For I see that you are in the gall of bitterness and the bond of iniquity.”

24 But Simon answered and said, “You pray to the Lord for me, that none of the things you have spoken may come upon me.”

25 And when they had borne testimony and spoken the word of the Lord, they returned to Jerusalem and evangelized many regions of the Samaritans.

26 But an angel of the Lord spoke to Philip, saying, “Rise and go toward the south, to the road which descends from Jerusalem to Gaza; this is desert.”

27 And rising, he went. And behold, an Ethiopian man, a eunuch, a powerful officer of Candace, queen of the Ethiopians, who was over all her treasures, had come to adore in Jerusalem;

28 and he was returning, seated upon his chariot and reading the prophet Isaiah.

29 Then the Spirit said to Philip, “Draw near and join yourself to this chariot.”

30 And Philip ran up and heard him reading the prophet Isaiah, and said, “Do you think you understand what you are reading?”

31 He said, “And how can I, unless someone shows me?” And he asked Philip to come up and sit with him.

32 Now the passage of Scripture which he was reading was this: ‘Like a sheep he was led to slaughter; and as a lamb before the one shearing him is voiceless, so he did not open his mouth.

33 In humiliation his judgment was taken away. Who shall recount his generation? For his life shall be taken from the earth.’

34 And the eunuch answered Philip and said, “I beg you, about whom does the prophet say this? About himself, or about someone else?”

35 Then Philip opened his mouth and, beginning from this Scripture, evangelized Jesus to him.

36 And as they went along the road, they came to some water; and the eunuch said, “Behold, water. What prevents me from being baptized?”

37 And Philip said, “If you believe with your whole heart, it is permitted.” And he answered and said, “I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God.”

38 And he commanded the chariot to stand still; and they both went down into the water, Philip and the eunuch, and he baptized him.

39 And when they came up from the water, the Spirit of the Lord seized Philip, and the eunuch saw him no more. And he went on his way rejoicing.

40 But Philip was found in Azotus, and passing through, he evangelized all the cities until he came to Caesarea.

CHAPTER 9

1 But Saul, still breathing threats and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went to the high priest

2 and asked him for letters to the synagogues in Damascus, so that if he found any men or women of this Way, he might lead them bound to Jerusalem.

3 And as he journeyed, it happened that he drew near Damascus; and suddenly a light from heaven shone all around him.

4 And falling to the ground, he heard a voice saying to him, “Saul, Saul, why do you persecute me?”

5 He said, “Who are you, Lord?” And the voice answered, “I am Jesus, whom you persecute. It is hard for you to kick against the goad.”

6 And trembling and astonished, he said, “Lord, what do you want me to do?”

7 And the Lord said to him, “Rise and enter the city, and there you will be told what you must do.” Now the men who were accompanying him stood astonished, indeed hearing the voice but seeing no one.

8 Then Saul rose from the ground, and though his eyes were open, he saw nothing. And drawing him by the hands, they brought him into Damascus.

9 And he was there for three days without sight, and he neither ate nor drank.

10 Now there was a certain disciple in Damascus named Ananias, and the Lord said to him in a vision, “Ananias.” And he said, “Behold, I am here, Lord.”

11 And the Lord said to him, “Rise and go into the street called Straight, and ask in the house of Judas for a man named Saul of Tarsus; for behold, he is praying.

12 And he has seen a man named Ananias entering and laying hands upon him so that he may receive his sight.”

13 But Ananias answered, “Lord, I have heard from many about this man, how many evils he has done to your saints in Jerusalem;

14 and here he has authority from the chief priests to bind all who call upon your name.”

15 But the Lord said to him, “Go, for this man is a vessel of election for me, to carry my name before the Gentiles and kings and the sons of Israel.

16 For I will show him how many things he must suffer for my name.”

17 And Ananias went and entered the house; and laying hands upon him, he said, “Saul, brother, the Lord Jesus, who appeared to you on the road by which you were coming, has sent me so that you may see and be filled with the Holy Spirit.”

18 And immediately there fell from his eyes something like scales, and he received his sight; and rising, he was baptized.

19 And when he had taken food, he was strengthened. Then he was with the disciples who were in Damascus for some days.

20 And immediately he preached Jesus in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God.

21 And all who heard were astounded and said, “Is this not the man who assaulted in Jerusalem those who called upon this name, and came here for this purpose, that he might lead them bound to the chief priests?”

22 But Saul grew strong all the more and confounded the Jews who lived in Damascus, affirming that Jesus is the Christ.

23 And when many days had been completed, the Jews made a plan together to kill him.

24 But their plot became known to Saul. And they watched the gates day and night so that they might kill him.

25 Then the disciples took him by night and let him down through the wall, lowering him in a basket.

26 And when he had come to Jerusalem, he attempted to join himself to the disciples; but they all feared him, not believing that he was a disciple.

27 But Barnabas took hold of him and led him to the Apostles, and told them how he had seen the Lord on the road, and that the Lord had spoken to him, and how in Damascus he had acted boldly in the name of Jesus.

28 And he was with them, coming in and going out in Jerusalem and acting boldly in the name of the Lord.

29 He also spoke to the Gentiles and disputed with the Greeks, but they sought to kill him.

30 And when the brothers learned this, they brought him down to Caesarea and sent him away to Tarsus.

31 The church indeed had peace throughout all Judea and Galilee and Samaria, and was built up; walking in the fear of the Lord, it was filled with the consolation of the Holy Spirit.

32 And it came to pass that as Peter passed through among them all, he came to the saints who lived at Lydda.

33 And he found there a certain man named Aeneas, who was a paralytic and had lain on a pallet for eight years.

34 And Peter said to him, “Aeneas, the Lord Jesus Christ heals you. Rise and make your bed for yourself.” And immediately he rose.

35 And all who lived at Lydda and Sharon saw him, and they were converted to the Lord.

36 Now in Joppa there was a certain female disciple named Tabitha, whose name in translation is Dorcas. She was full of good works and alms which she performed.

37 And it came to pass in those days that she became sick and died. And when they had washed her, they placed her in the upper room.

38 And since Lydda was near Joppa, the disciples, hearing that Peter was there, sent two men to him, asking, “Do not be slow to come to us.”

39 Then Peter rose and went with them. And when he arrived, they led him into the upper room; and all the widows stood around him, weeping and showing him the tunics and garments which Dorcas made for them.

40 But when everyone had been put outside, Peter knelt down and prayed; and turning to the body, he said, “Tabitha, rise.” And she opened her eyes, and seeing Peter, sat up.

41 And giving her his hand, he raised her up. And when he had called the saints and the widows, he presented her alive.

42 And it became known throughout all Joppa, and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to pass that he stayed many days in Joppa with a certain Simon, a tanner.

CHAPTER 10

1 Now there was a certain man in Caesarea named Cornelius, a centurion of the cohort called the Italian,

2 devout and fearing God with all his household, giving many alms to the people, and always beseeching God.

3 At about the ninth hour of the day, he clearly saw in a vision an angel of God coming into his presence and saying to him, “Cornelius.”

4 But gazing upon him and being seized with fear, he said, “What is it, lord?” And he said to him, “Your prayers and your alms have ascended as a memorial in the sight of God.

5 And now send men to Joppa and summon a certain Simon who is surnamed Peter.

6 He is lodging with a certain Simon, a tanner, whose house is beside the sea. He shall tell you what you ought to do.”

7 And when the angel who spoke to him had departed, he called two of his household servants and a soldier who feared the Lord from among those who obeyed him.

8 And when he had related all things to them, he sent them to Joppa.

9 Now on the next day, as they made their journey and approached the city, Peter went up into the upper parts of the house to pray, about the sixth hour.

10 And when he grew hungry, he wished to taste food. But while they were preparing it, an ecstasy of mind fell upon him.

11 And he saw heaven opened, and a certain vessel descending, like a great linen sheet being let down by its four corners from heaven to the earth,

12 in which were all the four-footed creatures, and the creeping things of the earth, and the birds of heaven.

13 And a voice came to him: “Rise, Peter. Kill and eat.”

14 But Peter said, “Far be it from me, Lord, for I have never eaten anything common and unclean.”

15 And the voice came to him again a second time: “What God has cleansed, do not call common.”

16 Now this was done three times, and immediately the vessel was received back into heaven.

17 And while Peter was perplexed within himself as to what the vision he had seen might mean, behold, the men who had been sent by Cornelius, having inquired for Simon’s house, stood at the door.

18 And when they had called out, they asked whether Simon who was surnamed Peter lodged there.

19 But as Peter was thinking about the vision, the Spirit said to him, “Behold, three men seek you.

20 Rise therefore, go down, and go with them, doubting nothing, because I have sent them.”

21 And Peter, going down to the men, said, “Behold, I am the one whom you seek. What is the cause for which you have come?”

22 And they said, “Cornelius the centurion, a just man who fears God and has testimony from the whole nation of the Jews, received an answer from a holy angel to summon you to his house and to hear words from you.”

23 Therefore, bringing them in, he received them as guests. And on the following day he rose and set out with them, and certain brothers from Joppa accompanied him.

24 And on the next day he entered Caesarea. Now Cornelius was waiting for them, having called together his relatives and intimate friends.

25 And it came to pass when Peter entered that Cornelius came to meet him; and falling at his feet, he adored him.

26 But Peter raised him up, saying, “Rise. I myself also am a man.”

27 And speaking with him, he entered and found many who had assembled.

28 And he said to them, “You know how abominable it is for a Jewish man to join himself or draw near to a foreigner. But God has shown me to call no man common or unclean.

29 For this reason I came without hesitation when summoned. Therefore I ask: for what cause did you summon me?”

30 And Cornelius said, “Four days ago, at this very hour, I was praying at the ninth hour in my house; and behold, a man stood before me in white clothing and said,

31 ‘Cornelius, your prayer has been heard, and your alms have been remembered in the sight of God.

32 Therefore send to Joppa and summon Simon who is surnamed Peter. He is lodging in the house of Simon the tanner beside the sea.’

33 Therefore I immediately sent to you, and you have done well in coming. Now, therefore, we are all present in your sight to hear all things whatsoever have been commanded you by the Lord.”

34 Then Peter, opening his mouth, said, “In truth I have discovered that God does not show partiality, 35 but in every nation, he who fears him and practices justice is acceptable to him.

36 God sent the word to the sons of Israel, announcing peace through Jesus Christ—he is Lord of all.

37 You know the word that came to pass throughout all Judea, beginning from Galilee after the baptism that John preached:

38 Jesus of Nazareth, how God anointed him with the Holy Spirit and with power; he went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, because God was with him.

39 And we are witnesses of all things that he did in the region of the Jews and in Jerusalem. They killed him by hanging him on a tree.

40 God raised him on the third day and granted him to be made manifest, 41 not to all the people, but to witnesses preordained by God: to us, who ate and drank with him after he rose from the dead.

42 And he commanded us to preach to the people and to testify that he is the one appointed by God as judge of the living and the dead.

43 All the prophets bear testimony to him that all who believe in him receive remission of sins through his name.”

44 While Peter was still speaking these words, the Holy Spirit fell upon all who heard the word.

45 And the believers from the circumcision who had come with Peter were astonished that the grace of the Holy Spirit had been poured out even upon the nations.

46 For they heard them speaking in tongues and magnifying God.

47 Then Peter answered, “Can anyone forbid water, that these who have received the Holy Spirit just as we have should not be baptized?”

48 And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. Then they asked him to remain with them for some days.

CHAPTER 11

1 Now the Apostles and brothers who were in Judea heard that the Gentiles also had received the word of God.

2 But when Peter had gone up to Jerusalem, those who were of the circumcision contended against him,

3 saying, “Why did you enter among men who have foreskin and eat with them?”

4 But Peter began and explained the order of events to them, saying,

5 “I was in the city of Joppa praying, and in an ecstasy of mind I saw a vision: a certain vessel descending like a great linen sheet, being let down from heaven by its four corners, and it came as far as me.

6 Gazing into it, I considered it and saw the four-footed creatures of the earth, and beasts, and creeping things, and birds of heaven.

7 And I also heard a voice saying to me, ‘Rise, Peter. Kill and eat.’

8 But I said, ‘By no means, Lord, for nothing common or unclean has ever entered my mouth.’

9 But the voice answered a second time from heaven, ‘What God has cleansed, do not call common.’

10 Now this was done three times, and all things were received back again into heaven.

11 And behold, immediately three men stood at the house in which I was, sent to me from Caesarea.

12 And the Spirit told me to go with them, hesitating at nothing. These six brothers also came with me, and we entered the man’s house.

13 And he related to us how he had seen an angel standing in his house and saying to him, ‘Send to Joppa and summon Simon who is surnamed Peter,

14 who shall speak to you words by which you and your whole household shall be saved.’

15 But when I had begun to speak, the Holy Spirit fell upon them, just as upon us at the beginning.

16 And I remembered the word of the Lord, as he used to say, ‘John indeed baptized with water, but you will be baptized with the Holy Spirit.’

17 If, therefore, God gave them the same grace as he gave us who believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I, that I could hinder God?”

18 When they heard these things, they fell silent and glorified God, saying, “Therefore God has also given the Gentiles repentance unto life.”

19 Now those who had been dispersed by the tribulation that had occurred under Stephen traveled as far as Phoenicia, Cyprus, and Antioch, speaking the word to no one except the Jews alone.

20 But some of them were men of Cyprus and Cyrene, who, when they had entered Antioch, also spoke to the Greeks, announcing the Lord Jesus.

21 And the hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number of believers were converted to the Lord.

22 Then the report concerning these things reached the ears of the church that was in Jerusalem, and they sent Barnabas as far as Antioch.

23 When he arrived and saw the grace of God, he rejoiced; and he exhorted them all to remain in the Lord with purpose of heart,

24 because he was a good man and full of the Holy Spirit and faith. And a great crowd was added to the Lord.

25 Then Barnabas set out for Tarsus to seek Saul; and when he had found him, he brought him to Antioch.

26 And for a whole year they lived there in the church and taught a great crowd, so that at Antioch the disciples were first surnamed Christians.

27 Now in those days prophets arrived at Antioch from Jerusalem.

28 And one of them, named Agabus, rose and signified through the Spirit that a great famine would come upon the whole world, which came to pass under Claudius.

29 And the disciples, each according to what he had, individually determined to send something for ministry to the brothers dwelling in Judea.

30 This they also did, sending it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

CHAPTER 12

1 Now at that same time King Herod stretched forth his hands to afflict certain ones from the church.

2 And he killed James the brother of John with the sword.

3 And seeing that it pleased the Jews, he proceeded to apprehend Peter also. Now it was during the days of Unleavened Bread.

4 And when he had apprehended him, he sent him into prison, handing him over to four squads of four soldiers to be guarded, intending to bring him out to the people after the Passover.

5 Peter indeed was kept in prison, but prayer was made to God for him without interruption by the church.

6 And when Herod was about to bring him out, that very night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains, and guards before the door were guarding the prison.

7 And behold, an angel of the Lord stood beside him, and a light shone in the chamber. And striking Peter's side, he awakened him, saying, "Rise quickly." And the chains fell from his hands.

8 Then the angel said to him, "Gird yourself and put your sandals on your feet." And he did so. And he said to him, "Wrap your garment around yourself and follow me."

9 And going out, he followed him; and he did not know that what was done by the angel was real, but thought that he was seeing a vision.

10 And passing the first and second guard, they came to the iron gate that leads into the city, which opened to them of its own accord. And going out, they proceeded along one street, and immediately the angel departed from him.

11 And Peter, returning to himself, said, "Now I know truly that the Lord sent his angel and delivered me from Herod's hand and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews."

12 And after considering, he came to the house of Mary, the mother of John who was surnamed Mark, where many were gathered and praying.

13 And as he knocked at the door of the gate, a girl named Rhoda came to listen.

14 And when she recognized Peter's voice, because of her joy she did not open the gate, but ran inside and announced that Peter was standing before the gate.

15 But they said to her, "You are mad." Yet she insisted that it was so. But they said, "It is his angel."

16 But Peter continued knocking. And when they had opened the door, they saw him and were astonished.

17 But motioning to them with his hand to be silent, he related how the Lord had led him out of prison, and said, "Report these things to James and the brothers." And going out, he departed to another place.

18 And when day came, there was no small disturbance among the soldiers as to what had become of Peter.

19 Now when Herod had sought him and did not find him, he interrogated the guards and commanded that they be led away. And going down from Judea to Caesarea, he remained there.

20 Now he was angry with the Tyrians and Sidonians. But they came to him with one accord, and having persuaded Blastus, who was over the king's bedchamber, they sought peace, because their regions were nourished by him.

21 Then on the appointed day, Herod, clothed in royal clothing, sat upon the tribunal and addressed them.

22 But the people acclaimed, "The voices are of God, and not of a man!"

23 And immediately an angel of the Lord struck him because he had not given honor to God; and being consumed by worms, he expired.

24 But the word of the Lord grew and multiplied.

25 And Barnabas and Saul returned from Jerusalem after completing the ministry, taking with them John who was surnamed Mark.

CHAPTER 13

1 Now in the church that was at Antioch there were prophets and teachers, among whom were Barnabas, and Simon who was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manahen, the foster-brother of Herod the tetrarch, and Saul.

2 And as they were ministering to the Lord and fasting, the Holy Spirit said to them, “Set apart for me Saul and Barnabas for the work to which I have taken them.”

3 Then, fasting and praying and laying their hands upon them, they sent them away.

4 And they, indeed, being sent by the Holy Spirit, went away to Seleucia, and from there they sailed to Cyprus.

5 And when they came to Salamis, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews. They also had John in the ministry.

6 And when they had traveled through the whole island as far as Paphos, they found a certain man who was a magician and false prophet, a Jew whose name was Barjesu,

7 who was with the proconsul Sergius Paulus, a prudent man. He summoned Barnabas and Saul and desired to hear the word of God.

8 But Elymas the magician—for so his name is interpreted—resisted them, seeking to turn the proconsul away from the faith.

9 Then Saul, who is also Paul, filled with the Holy Spirit, gazed intently upon him

10 and said, “O you who are full of every deceit and every fraud, son of the devil, enemy of all justice, will you not cease subverting the straight ways of the Lord?

11 And now, behold, the hand of the Lord is upon you, and you shall be blind, not seeing the sun for a time.” And immediately mist and darkness fell upon him; and going around, he sought someone to give him a hand.

12 Then the proconsul, when he had seen what was done, believed, marveling at the doctrine of the Lord.

13 And when Paul and those who were with him had sailed from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia. But John departed from them and returned to Jerusalem.

14 And they, passing through Perga, came to Antioch in Pisidia; and entering the synagogue on the Sabbath day, they sat down.

15 And after the reading of the law and the prophets, the rulers of the synagogue sent to them, saying, “Men, brothers, if there is among you any word of exhortation for the people, speak.”

16 Then Paul rose, and signaling for silence with his hand, said, “Men of Israel, and you who fear God, listen.

17 The God of the people of Israel chose our fathers and exalted the people when they were sojourners in the land of Egypt, and with an uplifted arm he led them out of it.

18 And for a period of forty years, he endured their conduct in the desert.

19 And destroying seven nations in the land of Canaan, he distributed their land to them by lot,

20 after about four hundred and fifty years. And after these things he gave them judges, until Samuel the prophet.

21 And from then on they asked for a king, and God gave them Saul, son of Cis, a man from the tribe of Benjamin, for forty years.

22 And after removing him, he raised up David as king for them. Bearing testimony to him, he said, ‘I have found David, son of Jesse, a man according to my heart, who shall do all my wills.’

23 From this man’s seed, according to the promise, God brought forth Jesus as Savior for Israel,

24 John having preached, before the face of his coming, a baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel.

25 And as John was completing his course, he said, ‘Whom do you suppose me to be? I am not he. But behold, one comes after me, the footwear of whose feet I am not worthy to loosen.’

26 Men, brothers, sons of the stock of Abraham, and those among you who fear God: to you the word of this salvation has been sent.

27 For those who inhabited Jerusalem, and its rulers, knowing neither him nor the voices of the prophets that are read every Sabbath, fulfilled them by judging him.

28 And finding no cause of death in him, they asked Pilate that they might kill him.

29 And when they had completed all things that were written concerning him, taking him down from the wood, they laid him in a monument.

30 But God raised him from the dead on the third day. And he was seen for many days by those 31 who had gone up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who even now are his witnesses to the people.

32 And we announce to you the promise that was made to our fathers,

33 because God has fulfilled it for our children by raising Jesus, as it is also written in the second psalm: ‘You are my Son; today I have begotten you.’

34 And because he raised him from the dead, no longer to return again into corruption, he spoke thus: ‘I shall give you the holy and faithful things of David.’

35 Therefore he also says in another place: ‘You will not allow your Holy One to see corruption.’

36 For David, after he had served the will of God in his own generation, fell asleep; and he was laid with his fathers and saw corruption.

37 But he whom God raised from the dead did not see corruption.

38 Therefore, let it be known to you, men, brothers, that through him remission of sins is announced to you, and from all things from which you could not be justified in the law of Moses,

39 in him everyone who believes is justified.

40 See, therefore, that what was spoken in the prophets does not come upon you:

41 ‘See, you despisers, and marvel, and perish, because I work a work in your days, a work that you shall not believe if anyone relates it to you.’”

42 And as Paul and Barnabas went out, the people asked them to speak these words to them on the following Sabbath.

43 And when the synagogue had been dismissed, many of the Jews and worshiping sojourners followed Paul and Barnabas, who spoke to them and persuaded them to remain in the grace of God.

44 But on the following Sabbath, almost the whole city assembled to hear the word of God.

45 Now the Jews, seeing the crowds, were filled with zeal; and blaspheming, they contradicted the things that were spoken by Paul.

46 Then Paul and Barnabas said steadfastly, “It was necessary for us to speak the word of God first to you. But because you reject it and judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life, behold, we turn to the Gentiles.

47 For so the Lord commanded us: ‘I have set you as a light of the nations, that you may be for salvation unto the farthest part of the earth.’”

48 And when the Gentiles heard this, they rejoiced and glorified the word of the Lord; and as many as were preordained to eternal life believed.

49 And the word of the Lord was disseminated throughout the whole region.

50 But the Jews incited religious and honorable women and the leading men of the city, and they stirred up persecution against Paul and Barnabas and cast them out of their borders.

51 But they, shaking the dust from their feet against them, came to Iconium.

52 And the disciples were filled with joy and with the Holy Spirit.

CHAPTER 14

1 Now it came to pass in Iconium that they entered the synagogue of the Jews together and spoke in such a way that a great multitude of Jews and Greeks believed.

2 But the unbelieving Jews stirred up the souls of the nations and incited them to anger against the brothers.

3 Therefore they remained a long time, acting boldly in the Lord, who bore testimony to the word of his grace and granted signs and wonders to be done by their hands.

4 But the multitude of the city was divided: some indeed were with the Jews, but others with the Apostles.

5 And when an assault was made by the Gentiles and the Jews with their rulers, to treat them with insults and stone them,

6 they learned of it and fled to the cities of Lycaonia, Lystra and Derbe, and the whole surrounding region; and there they were evangelizing.

7 And a certain man in Lystra sat infirm in his feet, lame from his mother's womb, who had never walked.

8 He heard Paul speaking. And Paul, gazing upon him and seeing that he had faith to be saved,

9 said with a great voice, "Stand upright upon your feet." And he leaped up and walked.

10 And when the crowds saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voices in the Lycaonian language, saying, "Gods made like men have descended to us."

11 And they called Barnabas Jupiter, but Paul Mercury, because he was the leader of the word.

12 The priest of Jupiter also, who was before the city, brought bulls and wreaths before the gates and wished to sacrifice with the peoples.

13 But when the Apostles Barnabas and Paul heard this, they tore their tunics and leaped into the crowds, crying out

14 and saying, "Men, why do you do these things? We also are mortals, men like you, announcing to you that you are to turn from these vain things to the living God, who made heaven and earth and sea and all things that are in them.

15 In past generations, he allowed all the nations to enter their own ways.

16 And yet he did not leave himself without testimony, doing good from heaven, giving rains and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness."

17 And saying these things, they scarcely stilled the crowds from sacrificing to them.

18 Then certain Jews came from Antioch and Iconium; and after persuading the crowds and stoning Paul, they dragged him outside the city, supposing him to be dead.

19 But as the disciples surrounded him, he rose and entered the city; and on the next day he set out with Barnabas for Derbe.

20 And when they had evangelized that city and taught many, they returned to Lystra and Iconium and Antioch,

21 strengthening the souls of the disciples, exhorting them to remain in the faith, and saying that through many tribulations we must enter into the kingdom of God.

22 And when they had appointed presbyters for them in every church and prayed with fastings, they commended them to the Lord in whom they had believed.

23 And passing through Pisidia, they came to Pamphylia;

24 and speaking the word of the Lord in Perga, they went down to Attalia.

25 And from there they sailed to Antioch, from where they had been entrusted to the grace of God for the work that they had completed.

26 And when they arrived and assembled the church, they reported how great things God had done with them, and that he had opened the door of faith to the Gentiles.

27 And they remained no little time with the disciples.

CHAPTER 15

1 And certain men, coming down from Judea, taught the brothers, “Unless you are circumcised according to the custom of Moses, you cannot be saved.”

2 Therefore, when there arose no small dissension as Paul and Barnabas opposed them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas, and certain others from among them, should go up to the Apostles and presbyters in Jerusalem concerning this question.

3 Therefore, being conducted on their way by the church, they passed through Phoenicia and Samaria, relating the conversion of the Gentiles; and they caused great joy to all the brothers.

4 And when they came to Jerusalem, they were received by the church and by the Apostles and elders, announcing how great things God had done with them.

5 But certain men from the sect of the Pharisees who believed rose, saying, “They must be circumcised and also commanded to keep the law of Moses.”

6 And the Apostles and elders assembled to consider this matter.

7 And when a great inquiry had taken place, Peter rose and said to them, “Men, brothers, you know that from ancient days God chose among us that through my mouth the Gentiles should hear the word of the Gospel and believe.

8 And God, who knows hearts, bore testimony, giving them the Holy Spirit just as he did to us,

9 and made no distinction between us and them, cleansing their hearts by faith.

10 Now, therefore, why do you tempt God, placing a yoke upon the necks of the disciples that neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?

11 But through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we believe ourselves to be saved, in the same manner as they.”

12 Then the whole multitude fell silent and listened to Barnabas and Paul relating how great signs and wonders God had done among the Gentiles through them.

13 And after they had become silent, James answered, saying, “Men, brothers, listen to me.

14 Simon has related how God first visited the Gentiles to take from among them a people for his name.

15 And the words of the prophets agree with this, as it is written:

16 ‘After these things I shall return and rebuild the tabernacle of David that has fallen; and I shall rebuild its ruins and raise it up,

17 that the rest of men may seek the Lord, and all the nations upon whom my name has been invoked, says the Lord who does these things.

18 From the beginning of the world, his work is known to the Lord.’

19 Therefore I judge that those from among the Gentiles who are converted to God should not be troubled,

20 but that we write to them to abstain from the contaminations of idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood.

21 For from ancient times Moses has had in every city those who preach him in the synagogues, where he is read every Sabbath.”

22 Then it pleased the Apostles and elders, with the whole church, to choose men from among them and send them to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas: Judas, who was surnamed Barsabas, and Silas, leading men among the brothers.

23 They wrote by their hands: “The Apostles and elders, brothers, to the brothers from among the Gentiles who are at Antioch and in Syria and Cilicia: greetings.

24 Because we have heard that certain men who went out from us troubled you with words, overturning your souls, to whom we gave no command,

25 it pleased us, having assembled as one, to choose men and send them to you with our dearest Barnabas and Paul,

26 men who have handed over their souls for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

27 Therefore we have sent Judas and Silas, who themselves shall also report the same things to you in words.

28 For it has seemed good to the Holy Spirit and to us to place no further burden upon you than these necessary things:

29 that you abstain from things sacrificed to idols, and from blood, and from what is strangled, and from fornication. Keeping yourselves from these things, you shall do well. Farewell.”

30 Therefore, having been sent away, they went down to Antioch; and assembling the multitude, they handed over the letter.

31 And when they had read it, they rejoiced at the consolation.

32 And Judas and Silas, themselves also being prophets, consoled the brothers with many a word and strengthened them.

33 And when they had spent some time there, they were sent away in peace by the brothers to those who had sent them.

34 But it seemed good to Silas to remain there, while Judas departed alone to Jerusalem.

35 And Paul and Barnabas remained in Antioch, teaching and evangelizing the word of the Lord with many others also.

36 And after some days Paul said to Barnabas, “Let us return and visit the brothers throughout every city in which we preached the word of the Lord, to see how they are.”

37 Now Barnabas wished to take with him John also, who was surnamed Mark.

38 But Paul asked that he should not be received, as one who had departed from them in Pamphylia and had not gone with them into the work.

39 Then a dissension arose, so that they departed from one another; and Barnabas, taking Mark, sailed to Cyprus.

40 But Paul, choosing Silas, set out, being entrusted by the brothers to the grace of God.

41 And he traveled through Syria and Cilicia, strengthening the churches and commanding them to keep the precepts of the Apostles and elders.

CHAPTER 16

1 Then he came to Derbe and Lystra. And behold, a certain disciple named Timothy was there, the son of a faithful Jewish woman and a Gentile father.

2 The brothers who were in Lystra and Iconium bore good testimony to him.

3 Paul wished this man to set out with him; and taking him, he circumcised him because of the Jews who were in those places. For they all knew that his father was a Gentile.

4 And as they passed through the cities, they handed over to them for keeping the decrees that had been determined by the Apostles and elders who were in Jerusalem.

5 And the churches indeed were strengthened in faith, and shall abound in number daily.

6 And passing through Phrygia and the region of Galatia, they were forbidden by the Holy Spirit to speak the word of God in Asia.

7 And when they came into Mysia, they attempted to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit of Jesus did not permit them.

8 And when they had passed through Mysia, they went down to Troas.

9 And a vision was shown to Paul by night: a certain Macedonian man was standing and beseeching him, saying, “Pass over into Macedonia and help us.”

10 And as soon as he had seen the vision, we immediately sought to set out for Macedonia, being assured that God had called us to evangelize them.

11 And sailing from Troas, we came by a straight course to Samothrace, and on the following day to Neapolis,

12 and from there to Philippi, which is the first city of that part of Macedonia, a colony. And we were in this city for some days, conferring.

13 And on the Sabbath day we went outside the gate beside the river, where prayer appeared to be held; and sitting down, we spoke to the women who had assembled.

14 And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple from the city of the Thyatirans, who worshiped God, listened. The Lord opened her heart to attend to the things that were spoken by Paul.

15 And when she and her household had been baptized, she besought us, saying, “If you have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, enter my house and remain.” And she constrained us.

16 Now it came to pass, as we were going to prayer, that a certain girl having a python spirit met us, who provided great gain to her masters by divining.

17 She followed Paul and us and cried out, saying, “These men are servants of the Most High God, who announce to you the way of salvation.”

18 And she did this for many days. But Paul, being grieved, turned and said to the spirit, “I command you in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her.” And it came out that very hour.

19 But her masters, seeing that the hope of their gain had departed, apprehended Paul and Silas and brought them into the marketplace before the rulers.

20 And presenting them to the magistrates, they said, “These men trouble our city, being Jews,

21 and they announce a custom that it is not lawful for us to receive or practice, since we are Romans.”

22 And the people ran together against them; and the magistrates tore the tunics off Paul and Silas and commanded them to be beaten with rods.

23 And when they had laid many blows upon them, they cast them into prison, commanding the keeper to guard them diligently.

24 Having received such a command, he cast them into the inner prison and fastened their feet in wood.

25 But at midnight Paul and Silas, praying, praised God; and those who were in custody heard them.

26 Then suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were moved. And immediately all the doors were opened, and the bonds of everyone were loosed.

27 And the keeper of the prison, awakening and seeing the doors of the prison open, drew his sword and wished to kill himself, supposing that the prisoners had fled.

28 But Paul cried out with a great voice, saying, “Do yourself no harm, for we are all here.”

29 And asking for a light, he entered; and trembling, he fell at the feet of Paul and Silas.

30 And bringing them outside, he said, “Lords, what must I do to be saved?”

31 But they said, “Believe in the Lord Jesus, and you shall be saved, you and your household.”

32 And they spoke the word of the Lord to him and to all who were in his house.

33 And taking them in that hour of the night, he washed their wounds; and immediately he and all his household were baptized.

34 And when he had brought them into his house, he set a table before them and rejoiced with all his household, believing God.

35 And when day came, the magistrates sent the lictors, saying, “Release those men.”

36 Then the keeper of the prison reported these words to Paul: “The magistrates have sent word that you may be released. Now, therefore, go out and proceed in peace.”

37 But Paul said to them, “After publicly beating us, uncondemned men who are Romans, they cast us into prison; and now do they cast us out secretly? Not so. Rather, let them come, 38 and let them themselves cast us out.” And the lictors reported these words to the magistrates, and they were afraid when they heard that they were Romans.

39 And coming, they besought them; and leading them out, they asked them to depart from the city.

40 Then going out of the prison, they went in to Lydia; and when they had seen the brothers, they consoled them and set out.

CHAPTER 17

1 And when they had traveled through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where there was a synagogue of the Jews.

2 And according to his custom, Paul entered among them and reasoned with them from the Scriptures for three Sabbaths,

3 opening and showing that Christ had to suffer and rise from the dead, and that “this is Jesus Christ, whom I announce to you.”

4 And some of them believed and were joined to Paul and Silas, as were a great multitude of worshipers and Gentiles, and not a few noble women.

5 But the Jews, being jealous and taking certain evil men from the common people, formed a crowd and stirred up the city; and standing before Jason’s house, they sought to bring them out to the people.

6 And when they did not find them, they dragged Jason and certain brothers to the rulers of the city, crying out, “These men who stir up the city have also come here,

7 and Jason has received them. And all these act contrary to the decrees of Caesar, saying that there is another king, Jesus.”

8 And they stirred up the people and the rulers of the city, who heard these things.

9 And after taking security from Jason and the others, they released them.

10 But the brothers immediately sent Paul and Silas away by night to Berea. And when they arrived, they entered the synagogue of the Jews.

11 Now these were nobler than those who were in Thessalonica; they received the word with all eagerness, examining the Scriptures daily to see whether these things were so.

12 And indeed many of them believed, as did honorable Gentile women and not a few men.

13 But when the Jews in Thessalonica learned that the word of God was also preached by Paul in Berea, they came there also, stirring and troubling the multitude.

14 And then the brothers immediately sent Paul away to go as far as the sea, but Silas and Timothy remained there.

15 Now those who escorted Paul brought him as far as Athens; and after receiving a command from him for Silas and Timothy to come to him as quickly as possible, they departed.

16 And while Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was incited within him as he saw the city given over to idolatry.

17 Therefore he disputed in the synagogue with the Jews and the worshipers, and in the marketplace every day with those who were present.

18 And certain Epicurean and Stoic philosophers reasoned with him. Some said, “What does this word-sower wish to say?” But others said, “He appears to be an announcer of new demons,” because he announced Jesus and the resurrection to them.

19 And taking hold of him, they led him to the Areopagus, saying, “Can we know what this new doctrine is that is spoken by you?

20 For you bring certain new things to our ears. Therefore we wish to know what these things mean.”

21 Now all the Athenians, and the foreigners who were guests there, occupied themselves with nothing else except either speaking or hearing something new.

22 Then Paul, standing in the midst of the Areopagus, said, “Men of Athens, I see that in all things you are, as it were, more superstitious.

23 For as I passed by and saw your idols, I also found an altar on which was written, ‘To the unknown God.’ Therefore, what you worship without knowing, this I announce to you.

24 God, who made the world and all things that are in it, being Lord of heaven and earth, does not dwell in temples made by hands,

25 nor is he worshiped by human hands as though needing anything, since he himself gives life and breath and all things to everyone.

26 And from one he made the whole stock of men to inhabit the whole face of the earth, determining appointed times and the boundaries of their habitation,

27 that they should seek God, if perhaps they might feel after him or find him, although he is not far from each one of us.

28 For in him we live and move and are, as certain of your own poets also have said, ‘For we also are his stock.’

29 Therefore, being the stock of God, we ought not to suppose the divine to be like gold or silver or stone, a sculpture of the art and thought of man.

30 And indeed, having overlooked the times of this ignorance, God now announces to men that everyone everywhere is to repent,

31 because he has appointed a day on which he shall judge the world in equity by the man whom he appointed, providing faith to all by raising him from the dead.”

32 And when they heard of the resurrection of the dead, some indeed mocked, but others said, “We shall hear you again concerning this.”

33 Thus Paul went out from their midst.

34 But certain men, adhering to him, believed; among them were Dionysius the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

CHAPTER 18

1 After these things he departed from Athens and came to Corinth.

2 And finding a certain Jew named Aquila, a native of Pontus, who had recently come from Italy with Priscilla his wife—because Claudius had commanded all the Jews to depart from Rome—he approached them.

3 And because he was of the same craft, he remained with them and worked. Their craft was tentmaking.

4 And he disputed in the synagogue every Sabbath, bringing in the name of the Lord Jesus; and he persuaded Jews and Greeks.

5 And when Silas and Timothy had come from Macedonia, Paul was intent upon the word, testifying to the Jews that Jesus is Christ.

6 But when they opposed and blasphemed, he shook out his garments and said to them, “Your blood is upon your own head. I am clean. From now on I shall go to the Gentiles.”

7 And moving from there, he entered the house of a certain man named Titus Justus, who worshiped God, whose house adjoined the synagogue.

8 Now Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, believed in the Lord with his whole household; and many of the Corinthians, hearing, believed and were baptized.

9 And the Lord said to Paul by night through a vision, “Do not fear, but speak, and do not be silent,

10 because I am with you, and no one shall set upon you so as to harm you, because I have many people in this city.”

11 And he remained there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them.

12 But when Gallio was proconsul of Achaia, the Jews rose with one accord against Paul and brought him to the tribunal,

13 saying, “This man persuades men to worship God contrary to the law.”

14 And as Paul began to open his mouth, Gallio said to the Jews, “If indeed it were some wrongdoing or a most wicked crime, O men of the Jews, I would rightly bear with you.

15 But if the questions are about a word, and names, and your law, see to it yourselves. I do not wish to be a judge of these things.”

16 And he drove them away from the tribunal.

17 Then they all took hold of Sosthenes, the ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the tribunal; and none of these things was of concern to Gallio.

18 But Paul, after remaining yet many days, said farewell to the brothers and sailed to Syria, and with him Priscilla and Aquila. He had shorn his head in Cenchreae, for he had a vow.

19 And he came to Ephesus and left them there. But he himself entered the synagogue and disputed with the Jews.

20 And although they asked him to remain for a longer time, he did not consent,

21 but said farewell, saying, “I shall return to you again, God willing.” And he departed from Ephesus.

22 And going down to Caesarea, he went up and greeted the church, and went down to Antioch.

23 And after spending some time there, he set out, traveling in order through the region of Galatia and Phrygia and strengthening all the disciples.

24 Now a certain Jew named Apollos, an Alexandrian by origin, an eloquent man, came to Ephesus, powerful in the Scriptures.

25 He had been instructed in the Way of the Lord; and fervent in spirit, he spoke and diligently taught the things of Jesus, knowing only the baptism of John.

26 Therefore he began to act boldly in the synagogue. And when Priscilla and Aquila heard him, they took him with them and expounded the Way of the Lord to him more diligently.

27 And when he wished to go to Achaia, the brothers encouraged him and wrote to the disciples that they should receive him. When he arrived, he contributed much to those who had believed.

28 For he vigorously refuted the Jews in public, showing through the Scriptures that Jesus is Christ.

CHAPTER 19

1 Now it happened, while Apollos was at Corinth, that Paul, after traveling through the upper regions, came to Ephesus and found certain disciples.

2 And he said to them, “Did you receive the Holy Spirit when you believed?” But they said to him, “We have not even heard whether there is a Holy Spirit.”

3 He said, “Into what, then, were you baptized?” And they said, “Into John’s baptism.”

4 Then Paul said, “John baptized the people with the baptism of repentance, telling them that they should believe in the one who was to come after him, that is, in Jesus.”

5 When they had heard these things, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.

6 And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Spirit came upon them, and they spoke in tongues and prophesied.

7 Now all the men were about twelve in number.

8 Then he entered the synagogue and spoke with boldness for three months, disputing and persuading concerning the kingdom of God.

9 But when some were hardened and did not believe, cursing the Way of the Lord before the multitude, he withdrew from them and separated the disciples, disputing daily in the school of a certain Tyrannus.

10 This continued for two years, so that all who lived in Asia heard the word of the Lord, both Jews and Gentiles.

11 And God performed works of power of no ordinary kind through the hand of Paul,

12 so that even handkerchiefs and aprons from his body were carried to the sick, and the maladies departed from them, and the wicked spirits went out.

13 Now certain itinerant Jewish exorcists also attempted to invoke the name of the Lord Jesus over those who had evil spirits, saying, “I adjure you by Jesus, whom Paul preaches.”

14 And there were certain Jews, seven sons of Sceva, a chief priest, who were doing this.

15 But the wicked spirit answered and said to them, “Jesus I know, and Paul I recognize; but who are you?”

16 And the man who had the most wicked demon in him leaped upon them; and mastering both of them, he prevailed against them, so that they fled naked and wounded from that house.

17 Now this became known to all the Jews and Gentiles who lived at Ephesus; and fear fell upon them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified.

18 And many of those who believed came, confessing and declaring their deeds.

19 And many of those who had pursued curious arts brought their books together and burned them before everyone; and when they had calculated their prices, they found the sum to be fifty thousand denarii.

20 Thus the word of God grew mightily and was strengthened.

21 Now when these things were completed, Paul resolved in the Spirit to pass through Macedonia and Achaia and go to Jerusalem, saying, “After I have been there, I must also see Rome.”

22 And sending into Macedonia two of those who ministered to him, Timothy and Erastus, he himself remained in Asia for a time.

23 Now at that time there arose no small disturbance concerning the Way of the Lord.

24 For a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith who made silver shrines of Diana, provided no small profit to the craftsmen.

25 Calling them together, along with the workmen in trades of this kind, he said, “Men, you know that our gain comes from this craft.

26 And you see and hear that not only at Ephesus, but in almost all Asia, this Paul, by persuasion, has turned away a great multitude, saying, ‘Those made by hands are not gods.’

27 And not only will this trade of ours be in danger of coming into disrepute, but the temple of the great Diana will also be accounted as nothing, and even her majesty, which all Asia and the world worships, will begin to be destroyed.”

28 When they had heard these things, they were filled with anger and cried out, saying, “Great is Diana of the Ephesians!”

29 And the city was filled with confusion, and with one accord they rushed into the theater, having seized Gaius and Aristarchus, Macedonians and companions of Paul.

30 But when Paul wished to enter among the people, the disciples did not permit him.

31 And some of the leaders of Asia, who were his friends, also sent to him, begging him not to venture into the theater.

32 Now some cried one thing and some another, for the assembly was confused, and most did not know for what cause they had come together.

33 But they drew Alexander out of the crowd, the Jews thrusting him forward. And Alexander, asking for silence with his hand, wished to make a defense before the people.

34 But when they recognized that he was a Jew, one voice arose from them all, crying out for about two hours, “Great is Diana of the Ephesians!”

35 And when the clerk had quieted the crowds, he said, “Men of Ephesus, what man is there who does not know that the city of the Ephesians is the worshiper of the great Diana and of Jupiter’s offspring?

36 Since these things cannot be contradicted, you ought to be quiet and do nothing rashly.

37 For you have brought forward these men, who are neither sacrilegious nor blasphemers of your goddess.

38 Therefore, if Demetrius and the craftsmen who are with him have a cause against anyone, the courts are in session and there are proconsuls. Let them accuse one another.

39 But if you seek anything concerning some other matter, it can be resolved in a lawful assembly.

40 For we are also in danger of being charged with today’s sedition, since there is no one guilty concerning whom we can give an account of this gathering.” And when he had said these things, he dismissed the assembly.

CHAPTER 20

1 After the tumult had ceased, Paul called the disciples, exhorted them, and said farewell; then he set out to go into Macedonia.

2 And when he had traveled through those regions and exhorted them with many words, he came to Greece.

3 After he had spent three months there, a plot was formed against him by the Jews as he was about to sail into Syria, and he decided to return through Macedonia.

4 Now Sopater of Berea, son of Pyrrhus, accompanied him; and of the Thessalonians, Aristarchus and Secundus; also Gaius of Derbe and Timothy; and of Asia, Tychicus and Trophimus.

5 These went ahead and waited for us at Troas.

6 But we sailed from Philippi after the days of Unleavened Bread, and within five days we came to them at Troas, where we stayed seven days.

7 Now on the first day of the week, when we had assembled to break bread, Paul discoursed with them, intending to depart the next day, and he prolonged his discourse until midnight.

8 And there were many lamps in the upper room where we were assembled.

9 A certain young man named Eutychus, sitting upon the window, was sinking into a heavy sleep as Paul discoursed at length. Overcome by sleep, he fell down from the third story and was taken up dead.

10 Paul went down to him, bent over him, and embracing him said, “Do not be troubled, for his soul is in him.”

11 Then he went up, broke bread and tasted it, and spoke with them a long while, even until daybreak; and so he departed.

12 And they brought the boy alive and were comforted not a little.

13 But we boarded the ship and sailed to Assos, intending to take Paul aboard from there; for so he had arranged, as he himself intended to make the journey by land.

14 And when he met us at Assos, we took him aboard and came to Mitylene.

15 Sailing from there, the following day we came opposite Chios; on another day we put in at Samos, and the next day we came to Miletus.

16 For Paul had resolved to sail past Ephesus, lest any delay should befall him in Asia. For he was hastening, if it were possible for him, to keep the day of Pentecost at Jerusalem.

17 But from Miletus he sent to Ephesus and called the elders of the church.

18 And when they had come to him and were together, he said to them, “You know from the first day on which I entered Asia how I was with you the whole time,

19 serving the Lord with all humility, with tears, and with the trials that befell me through the plots of the Jews;

20 how I withheld nothing that was profitable, but announced it to you and taught you publicly and from house to house,

21 bearing testimony both to Jews and Gentiles of repentance toward God and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ.

22 And now, behold, bound in spirit, I go to Jerusalem, not knowing what things will befall me there,

23 except that the Holy Spirit testifies to me in every city, saying that bonds and tribulations await me in Jerusalem.

24 But I fear none of these things, nor do I make my soul more precious than myself, provided that I may consummate my course and the ministry of the word that I received from the Lord Jesus: to testify to the Gospel of the grace of God.

25 And now, behold, I know that you all, among whom I passed preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more.

26 Therefore I call you to witness this day that I am clean from the blood of all.

27 For I did not shrink from announcing to you the whole counsel of God.

28 Attend to yourselves and to the whole flock, in which the Holy Spirit has placed you as bishops to rule the church of God, which he acquired with his own blood.

29 I know that after my departure ravenous wolves shall enter among you, not sparing the flock.

30 And from among your own selves men shall arise speaking perverse things, that they may draw away disciples after them.

31 Therefore keep watch, retaining in memory that for three years, night and day, I did not cease warning each one of you with tears.

32 And now I commend you to God and to the word of his grace—to him who is able to build up and to give an inheritance among all who are sanctified.

33 I coveted no one's silver or gold or clothing, as 34 you yourselves know, because these hands ministered to my needs and to the needs of those who are with me.

35 In all things I showed you that, laboring in this way, you ought to support the weak and remember the word of the Lord Jesus, for he himself said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

36 And when he had said these things, he knelt down and prayed with them all.

37 Then there was great weeping among them all; and falling upon Paul's neck, they kissed him,

38 grieving most of all over the word he had spoken, that they would see his face no more. And they accompanied him to the ship.

CHAPTER 21

1 Now when it happened that we sailed away, having torn ourselves from them, we came by a straight course to Cos, the next day to Rhodes, and from there to Patara.

2 And when we found a ship crossing over to Phoenicia, we went aboard and sailed.

3 When Cyprus came into sight, we left it on the left and sailed into Syria, and we came to Tyre, for there the ship was to unload its cargo.

4 And having found the disciples, we stayed there seven days. Through the Spirit they told Paul not to go up to Jerusalem.

5 When the days were completed, we departed and went on, while they all, with their wives and children, accompanied us outside the city; and kneeling down on the shore, we prayed.

6 And when we had said farewell to one another, we boarded the ship, while they returned to their own places.

7 But when we had completed the voyage from Tyre, we came down to Ptolemais; and having greeted the brothers, we stayed with them one day.

8 Setting out the next day, we came to Caesarea. And entering the house of Philip the evangelist, who was one of the seven, we stayed with him.

9 Now this man had four virgin daughters who prophesied.

10 And while we stayed for some days, a certain prophet named Agabus arrived from Judea.

11 When he had come to us, he took Paul's belt; and binding his own feet and hands, he said, "Thus says the Holy Spirit: 'The man whose belt this is, the Jews shall bind in this way at Jerusalem and shall hand him over into the hands of the Gentiles.'"

12 And when we had heard this, both we and those of that place begged him not to go up to Jerusalem.

13 Then Paul answered and said, "What are you doing, weeping and afflicting my heart? For I am ready not only to be bound but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus."

14 And when we could not persuade him, we became quiet, saying, "The will of the Lord be done."

15 Now after those days, we made preparations and went up to Jerusalem.

16 And some of the disciples from Caesarea also came with us, bringing with them a certain Mnason of Cyprus, a long-standing disciple, with whom we were to lodge.

17 And when we came to Jerusalem, the brothers received us gladly.

18 On the following day Paul went in with us to James, and all the elders assembled.

19 And when he had greeted them, he related one by one the things God had done among the Gentiles through his ministry.

20 But when they had heard, they magnified God and said to him, "You see, brother, how many thousands there are among the Jews who have believed, and they are all zealots for the law.

21 But they have heard concerning you that you teach the Jews who are among the Gentiles to depart from Moses, telling them that they ought not to circumcise their sons or walk according to custom.

22 What, then, is to be done? The multitude must certainly come together, for they will hear that you have arrived.

23 Therefore do this that we tell you. We have four men who have a vow upon themselves.

24 Take these men, sanctify yourself with them, and pay the expenses for them so that they may shave their heads; and everyone will know that the things they have heard concerning you are false, but that you yourself walk in observance of the law.

25 But concerning those of the Gentiles who have believed, we wrote, judging that they should abstain from what has been sacrificed to idols, and from blood, and from what is strangled, and from fornication."

26 Then Paul took the men and, on the next day, having been purified with them, entered the temple, announcing the completion of the days of purification until an offering should be offered for each one of them.

27 But as the seven days were being consummated, the Jews who were from Asia, when they saw him in the temple, stirred up all the people and laid hands upon him, crying out,

28 "Men of Israel, help! This is the man who teaches everyone everywhere against the people, and the law, and this place; and moreover he has brought Gentiles into the temple and violated this holy place."

29 For they had seen Trophimus the Ephesian in the city with him, whom they supposed Paul had brought into the temple.

30 And the whole city was moved, and there was a rush of the people. Seizing Paul, they dragged him outside the temple, and immediately the doors were shut.

31 And while they sought to kill him, it was reported to the tribune of the cohort that all Jerusalem was in confusion.

32 He immediately took soldiers and centurions and ran down to them. And when they saw the tribune and the soldiers, they ceased beating Paul.

33 Then the tribune drew near, seized him, and ordered him to be bound with two chains; and he asked who he was and what he had done.

34 But some in the crowd cried out one thing and some another. And since he could not learn anything certain because of the uproar, he ordered Paul to be led into the fortress.

35 And when he came to the steps, it happened that he was carried by the soldiers because of the violence of the people.

36 For the multitude of the people followed, crying out, “Away with him!”

37 And as Paul began to be brought into the fortress, he said to the tribune, “May I say something to you?” He said, “Do you know Greek?

38 Are you not the Egyptian who before these days stirred up a tumult and led four thousand men—assassins—out into the desert?”

39 And Paul said to him, “I am indeed a Jewish man from Tarsus in Cilicia, a citizen of no obscure city. But I beg you, permit me to speak to the people.”

40 And when he had given permission, Paul, standing on the steps, motioned with his hand to the people. And when a great silence had fallen, he addressed them in the Hebrew language, saying:

CHAPTER 22

1 “Men, brothers and fathers, hear the defense I now make before you.”

2 And when they heard that he spoke to them in the Hebrew language, they kept still more silent.

3 And he said, “I am a Jewish man, born at Tarsus in Cilicia but raised in this city, instructed at the feet of Gamaliel according to the truth of the law of our fathers, a zealot for the law, just as you all are today.

4 I persecuted this Way even to death, binding both men and women and handing them over into prisons,

5 as the high priest and all the elders bear me testimony. From them I also received letters and went to the brothers at Damascus, that I might bring those who were there bound to Jerusalem to be punished.

6 But it happened as I journeyed and drew near Damascus at midday that suddenly an abundant light from heaven shone around me.

7 And falling to the ground, I heard a voice saying to me, ‘Saul, Saul, why do you persecute me?’

8 And I answered, ‘Who are you, Lord?’ And he said to me, ‘I am Jesus the Nazarene, whom you persecute.’

9 And those who were with me indeed saw the light, but they did not hear the voice of him who spoke with me.

10 And I said, ‘What shall I do, Lord?’ Then the Lord said to me, ‘Arise and go to Damascus, and there you shall be told of all the things you must do.’

11 And since I could not see because of the brightness of that light, I was led by the hand by my companions and came to Damascus.

12 Now a certain Ananias, a man according to the law, having testimony from all the Jews who lived there,

13 came to me, stood beside me, and said, ‘Brother Saul, look again.’ And in that same hour I looked again at him.

14 And he said, ‘The God of our fathers has foreordained you to know his will, to see the Just One, and to hear a voice from his mouth, 15 because you shall be his witness to all men concerning the things you have seen and heard.

16 And now why do you delay? Arise, be baptized, and wash away your sins, calling upon his name.’

17 Now it happened that when I had returned to Jerusalem and was praying in the temple, I fell into a trance,

18 and I saw him saying to me, ‘Hurry, and go quickly out of Jerusalem, because they will not receive your testimony concerning me.’

19 And I said, ‘Lord, they themselves know that I was imprisoning and beating throughout the synagogues those who believed in you.

20 And when the blood of Stephen your witness was poured out, I stood by and consented, and I guarded the garments of those who were killing him.’

21 And he said to me, ‘Go, because I will send you far away to the nations.’”

22 Now they listened to him until this word, and then they raised their voices, saying, “Away from the earth with such a man, for it is not right that he should live!”

23 And as they shouted, threw off their garments, and flung dust into the air,

24 the tribune ordered him to be brought into the fortress and to be beaten with scourges and tortured, so that the tribune might learn for what cause they cried out against him in this way.

25 And when they had bound him with straps, Paul said to the centurion standing by, “Is it lawful for you to scourge a Roman man who is uncondemned?”

26 When the centurion heard this, he went to the tribune and reported it to him, saying, “What are you about to do? For this man is a Roman citizen.”

27 Then the tribune came and said to him, “Tell me, are you a Roman?” And he said, “Yes.”

28 And the tribune answered, “I acquired this citizenship with a large sum.” And Paul said, “But I was even born in it.”

29 Therefore those who were about to torture him immediately withdrew from him. The tribune also was afraid after he learned that Paul was a Roman citizen, and because he had bound him.

30 But the next day, wishing to know more diligently for what cause he was accused by the Jews, he unbound him and ordered the priests and the entire council to assemble; and bringing Paul forward, he set him among them.

CHAPTER 23

1 And Paul, looking intently at the council, said, “Men and brothers, I have lived before God with an entirely good conscience until this day.”

2 But Ananias the high priest ordered those standing by him to strike Paul’s mouth.

3 Then Paul said to him, “God shall strike you, you whitewashed wall! You sit judging me according to the law, and contrary to the law you order me to be struck?”

4 And those standing by said, “You are cursing the high priest of God.”

5 But Paul said, “I did not know, brothers, that he is the high priest. For it is written, ‘You shall not curse the ruler of your people.’”

6 Now Paul, knowing that one part consisted of Sadducees and the other of Pharisees, cried out in the council, “Men and brothers, I am a Pharisee, a son of Pharisees. Concerning the hope and resurrection of the dead I am being judged.”

7 And when he had said these things, a dissension arose between the Pharisees and Sadducees, and the gathering was dissolved.

8 For the Sadducees say there is no resurrection, nor angel, nor spirit; but the Pharisees confess both.

9 Then a great clamor arose. And some of the Pharisees rose and contended, saying, “We find nothing evil in this man. What if a spirit spoke to him, or an angel?”

10 And when a great dissension had arisen, the tribune, fearing that Paul might be torn apart by them, ordered the soldiers to go down, snatch him from their midst, and lead him into the fortress.

11 But the following night the Lord stood beside him and said, “Be steadfast; for just as you have testified concerning me at Jerusalem, so you must also testify at Rome.”

12 When day came, certain Jews gathered together and bound themselves under a curse, saying they would neither eat nor drink until they had killed Paul.

13 And there were more than forty men who had made this conspiracy.

14 They went to the chief priests and elders and said, “With a curse we have cursed ourselves to taste nothing until we kill Paul.

15 Therefore now, you with the council should make it known to the tribune that he is to bring Paul forward to you, as though you were about to learn something more certain concerning him. But before he draws near, we are ready to kill him.”

16 But when the son of Paul’s sister heard of the plot, he came, entered the fortress, and reported it to Paul.

17 Then Paul called one of the centurions to him and said, “Bring this young man to the tribune, for he has something to report to him.”

18 So he took him and led him to the tribune, and said, “Paul, who is bound, asked me to bring this young man to you, since he has something to say to you.”

19 Then the tribune took him by the hand, withdrew with him privately, and asked him, “What is it that you have to report to me?”

20 And he said, “The Jews have agreed to ask you to bring Paul forward to the council tomorrow, as though they intended to make a more certain inquiry concerning him.

21 But do not believe them, for more than forty of their men lie in wait for him. They have bound themselves under a curse neither to eat nor drink until they kill him; and now they are ready, awaiting your promise.”

22 Therefore the tribune dismissed the young man, ordering him to tell no one that he had made these things known to him.

23 Then he called two centurions and said to them, “Prepare two hundred soldiers to go as far as Caesarea, and seventy horsemen, and two hundred spearmen, from the third hour of the night;

24 and prepare mounts, so that they may set Paul upon them and bring him safely to Felix the governor.”

25 (For he feared that perhaps the Jews might seize and kill him, and that he himself might afterward suffer accusation, as though he were going to receive money.)

26 And he wrote a letter containing these words: “Claudius Lysias, to the excellent governor Felix: Greetings.

27 This man was seized by the Jews and was beginning to be killed by them. Coming upon them with the army, I rescued him, having learned that he is a Roman.

28 And wishing to know the cause they were bringing against him, I led him down into their council.

29 I found that he was accused concerning questions of their law, but had no charge worthy of death or bonds.

30 And when I was informed of the plot they had prepared against him, I sent him to you, also instructing his accusers to speak before you. Farewell."

31 Therefore the soldiers, according to the command given them, took Paul and led him by night to Antipatris.

32 And the next day they let the horsemen go with him and returned to the fortress.

33 When they came to Caesarea and handed the letter to the governor, they also presented Paul before him.

34 And when he had read it and asked from which province Paul was, learning that he was from Cilicia,

35 he said, "I shall hear you when your accusers have come." And he ordered him to be kept in Herod's praetorium.

CHAPTER 24

1 Now after five days, Ananias the high priest came down with certain elders and a certain orator named Tertullus, and they approached the governor against Paul.

2 And when Paul had been summoned, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, “Since through you we enjoy much peace, and many things are corrected through your providence,

3 we accept these things always and everywhere, most excellent Felix, with all thanksgiving.

4 But lest I detain you any longer, I beg you, by your clemency, to hear us briefly.

5 We have found this man to be pestilent, stirring up seditions among all the Jews throughout the whole world, and a leader of the sedition of the sect of the Nazarenes.

6 He even attempted to violate the temple. We seized him and wished to judge him according to our law.

7 But the tribune Lysias came upon us and with great force snatched him from our hands,

8 ordering his accusers to come to you. By examining him yourself, you will be able to learn about all these things of which we accuse him.”

9 And the Jews also joined in, saying that these things were so.

10 Then Paul answered, when the governor motioned for him to speak: “Knowing that you have been judge over this nation for many years, I shall answer for myself with good courage.

11 For you can ascertain that it has been no more than twelve days since I went up to adore at Jerusalem.

12 And they did not find me disputing with anyone in the temple or causing a crowd to gather, either in the synagogues or in the city.

13 Nor can they prove to you the things of which they now accuse me.

14 But I confess this to you: that according to the sect which they call heresy, so I serve my Father and God, believing all things that are written in the law and the prophets,

15 having hope in God, which these men themselves also await, that there shall be a resurrection of the just and the unjust.

16 In this I myself also strive always to have a conscience without offense toward God and toward men.

17 Now after many years I came to give alms to my nation, and to make offerings and vows.

18 Amid these they found me purified in the temple, not with a crowd nor with a tumult.

19 But there were certain Jews from Asia who ought to be present before you and accuse me, if they had anything against me.

20 Or let these men themselves say whether they found any iniquity in me when I stood before the council,

21 except for this one utterance alone, which I cried out while standing among them: ‘Concerning the resurrection of the dead I am being judged by you today.’”

22 Then Felix, knowing most certainly about this Way, deferred them, saying, “When the tribune Lysias comes down, I shall hear you.”

23 And he ordered a centurion to keep Paul, to allow him rest, and to forbid none of his own people to minister to him.

24 But after some days, Felix came with his wife Drusilla, who was a Jewess, and he summoned Paul and heard from him the faith that is in Christ Jesus.

25 And as Paul disputed concerning justice, chastity, and the judgment to come, Felix trembled and answered, “For what concerns the present, go; but at an opportune time I shall summon you.”

26 At the same time he also hoped that money would be given to him by Paul. For this reason he frequently summoned him and spoke with him.

27 But when two years had been completed, Felix received Porcius Festus as his successor. And Felix, wishing to grant favor to the Jews, left Paul bound.

CHAPTER 25

1 Therefore when Festus had come into the province, after three days he went up from Caesarea to Jerusalem.

2 And the chief priests and leading men of the Jews approached him against Paul, and they begged him,

3 requesting a favor against Paul, that he would order him to be brought to Jerusalem, while they laid a plot to kill him on the way.

4 But Festus answered that Paul was being kept at Caesarea and that he himself would soon depart.

5 "Therefore," he said, "let those among you who are able go down with me and accuse him, if there is any crime in the man."

6 And when he had stayed among them no more than eight or ten days, he went down to Caesarea. The next day he sat upon the judgment seat and ordered Paul to be brought forward.

7 When he had been brought forward, the Jews who had come down from Jerusalem stood around him, bringing many serious charges that they could not prove.

8 Paul made his defense: "I have sinned in nothing against the law of the Jews, nor against the temple, nor against Caesar."

9 But Festus, wishing to grant favor to the Jews, answered Paul and said, "Do you wish to go up to Jerusalem and be judged there concerning these things before me?"

10 Then Paul said, "I stand before Caesar's judgment seat; there I ought to be judged. I have not harmed the Jews, as you know very well.

11 For if I have done harm, or have done anything worthy of death, I do not refuse to die. But if there is nothing in the things of which these men accuse me, no one can surrender me to them. I appeal to Caesar."

12 Then Festus, having spoken with the council, answered, "You have appealed to Caesar? To Caesar you shall go."

13 And when some days had passed, King Agrippa and Bernice came down to Caesarea to greet Festus.

14 And since they remained there many days, Festus informed the king about Paul, saying, "There is a certain man left bound by Felix.

15 When I was at Jerusalem, the chief priests and elders of the Jews approached me concerning him, requesting condemnation against him.

16 I answered them that it is not the custom of the Romans to condemn any man before the accused has his accusers present and receives an opportunity to defend himself for the clearing of the charges.

17 Therefore when they had assembled here, without any delay I sat upon the judgment seat the following day and ordered the man to be brought forward.

18 When his accusers stood up, they brought no charge concerning the things of which I suspected evil.

19 But they had certain questions against him concerning their own superstition and concerning a certain Jesus who had died, whom Paul affirmed to be alive.

20 And since I hesitated concerning a question of this kind, I asked whether he wished to go to Jerusalem and be judged there concerning these matters.

21 But when Paul appealed to be kept for the hearing of Augustus, I ordered him to be kept until I send him to Caesar."

22 Then Agrippa said to Festus, "I myself also wished to hear the man." He said, "Tomorrow you shall hear him."

23 So the next day, when Agrippa and Bernice had come with great pomp and had entered the audience hall with the tribunes and principal men of the city, Paul was brought in at the command of Festus.

24 And Festus said, "King Agrippa and all you men who are present here with us, you see this man concerning whom the whole multitude of the Jews petitioned me at Jerusalem, begging and crying out that he ought to live no longer.

25 But I truly found that he had committed nothing worthy of death. And since he himself appealed to Augustus, I decided to send him.

26 I have nothing certain to write to my lord concerning him. Therefore I have brought him before you, and especially before you, King Agrippa, so that after an examination I may have something to write.

27 For it seems unreasonable to me to send a bound man and not signify the causes against him."

CHAPTER 26

1 Then Agrippa said to Paul, “You are permitted to speak for yourself.” Then Paul stretched out his hand and began to make his defense:

2 “Concerning all the things of which I am accused by the Jews, King Agrippa, I consider myself blessed that I am to defend myself before you today,

3 especially since you know all the customs and questions that are among the Jews. Therefore I beg you to hear me patiently.

4 Indeed, all the Jews know my life from my youth, which from the beginning was among my nation at Jerusalem.

5 They knew me beforehand from the beginning—if they are willing to bear testimony—that according to the most certain sect of our religion, I lived as a Pharisee.

6 And now I stand subject to judgment in the hope of the promise made by God to our fathers,

7 which our twelve tribes, serving night and day, hope to attain. Concerning this hope I am accused by the Jews, O king.

8 Why is it judged unbelievable among you if God raises the dead?

9 And I indeed had thought that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus the Nazarene,

10 which I also did at Jerusalem. And I shut many of the saints in prisons, having received authority from the chief priests; and when they were killed, I gave my sentence.

11 And throughout all the synagogues, frequently punishing them, I compelled them to blaspheme; and raging still more exceedingly against them, I persecuted them even into foreign cities.

12 While, in these pursuits, I was going to Damascus with authority and permission from the chief priests,

13 at midday on the way, O king, I saw a light from heaven, brighter than the splendor of the sun, shining around me and those who were together with me.

14 And when we had all fallen to the ground, I heard a voice speaking to me in the Hebrew language: ‘Saul, Saul, why do you persecute me? It is hard for you to kick against the goad.’

15 And I said, ‘Who are you, Lord?’ And the Lord said, ‘I am Jesus, whom you persecute.

16 But arise and stand upon your feet, for I have appeared to you for this purpose: to appoint you a minister and a witness of the things you have seen and of the things in which I shall appear to you,

17 rescuing you from the people and the nations into which I now send you,

18 to open their eyes, that they may turn from darkness to light and from the authority of Satan to God; that they may receive remission of sins and an allotted share among the saints, through the faith that is in me.’

19 Therefore, King Agrippa, I was not unbelieving toward the heavenly vision,

20 but first to those who are at Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the region of Judea, and to the Gentiles, I announced that they should repent and turn to God, doing works worthy of repentance.

21 For this cause the Jews seized me while I was in the temple and attempted to kill me.

22 But aided by the help of God until this day, I stand, testifying to small and great, saying nothing beyond what the prophets and Moses said was to come:

23 whether the Christ is subject to suffering; whether, as the first from the resurrection of the dead, he is to announce light to the people and to the Gentiles.”

24 As he spoke these things and made his defense, Festus said with a loud voice, “You are mad, Paul! Much learning is turning you to madness.”

25 And Paul said, “I am not mad, most excellent Festus, but I speak words of truth and sobriety.

26 For the king knows of these things, and to him I also speak with confidence. For I do not think any of these things escapes his notice, since none of these things was done in a corner.

27 Do you believe the prophets, King Agrippa? I know that you believe.”

28 Then Agrippa said to Paul, “In a little you persuade me to become a Christian.”

29 And Paul said, “I pray to God that, both in little and in great, not only you but also all who hear me today might become such as I am—except for these bonds.”

30 And the king rose, and the governor, and Bernice, and those who sat with them.

31 And when they had withdrawn, they spoke to one another, saying, “This man has done nothing worthy of death or bonds.”

32 Then Agrippa said to Festus, “This man could have been released if he had not appealed to Caesar.”

CHAPTER 27

1 Now when it was decided that he should sail to Italy and that Paul, with the remaining prisoners, should be handed over to a centurion named Julius of the Augustan cohort,

2 we boarded an Adrumetine ship that was about to sail around the coasts of Asia and set sail, Aristarchus, a Macedonian of Thessalonica, remaining with us.

3 And the next day we arrived at Sidon. Julius treated Paul humanely and permitted him to go to his friends and care for himself.

4 And when we had set sail from there, we sailed under Cyprus because the winds were contrary.

5 And sailing across the sea off Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Lystra, which is in Lycia.

6 There the centurion found an Alexandrian ship sailing to Italy and transferred us into it.

7 And when we had sailed slowly for many days and had scarcely come opposite Cnidus, because the wind hindered us, we sailed toward Crete near Salmone.

8 And coasting along with difficulty, we came to a certain place called Boniportus, near which was the city of Thalassa.

9 Now when much time had passed and sailing was no longer safe, since even the Fast had now passed, Paul consoled them,

10 saying, “Men, I see that the voyage is beginning with injury and much loss, not only to the cargo and the ship but also to our souls.”

11 But the centurion believed the helmsman and the shipmaster more than the things Paul said.

12 And because the harbor was not suitable for wintering, the greater number formed a plan to sail from there, if somehow they might reach Phoenix and winter there, a harbor of Crete facing Africus and Corus.

13 And when the south wind began to blow, they supposed that they had secured their purpose; and setting out from Assos, they coasted along Crete.

14 But not long afterward, a typhonic wind that is called Euroaquilo cast itself against it.

15 And when the ship had been seized and could not strive against the wind, we gave the ship to the winds and were carried along.

16 Then, running down toward a certain island called Cauda, we were scarcely able to secure the skiff.

17 When they had hoisted it, they used supports, girding the ship; and fearing that they might fall into the Syrtis, they lowered the gear and so were carried along.

18 And since we were being tossed by a violent storm, the next day they made a jettison.

19 And on the third day, with their own hands they threw the ship’s equipment overboard.

20 Now when neither sun nor stars appeared for many days and no small storm lay upon us, all hope of our salvation was at last taken away.

21 And after there had been much fasting, Paul stood in their midst and said, “You should indeed, O men, have listened to me, not set out from Crete, and have gained this injury and loss.

22 And now I counsel you to be of good courage, for there shall be no loss of any soul among you, but only of the ship.

23 For this night there stood beside me an angel of God, whose I am and whom I serve,

24 saying, ‘Do not fear, Paul. You must stand before Caesar; and behold, God has given you all who sail with you.’

25 Therefore be of good courage, men, for I believe God that it shall be just as it was told me.

26 But we must come to a certain island.”

27 Then after the fourteenth night had come upon us, as we sailed in Adria, about midnight the sailors suspected that some land was appearing to them.

28 And lowering the sounding line, they found twenty paces; then moving a little farther from there, they found fifteen paces.

29 And fearing that we might fall upon rocky places, they cast four anchors from the stern and wished for day to come.

30 But as the sailors sought to flee from the ship and had lowered the skiff into the sea, under the pretense that they were beginning to extend anchors from the bow,

31 Paul said to the centurion and the soldiers, “Unless these men remain in the ship, you cannot be saved.”

32 Then the soldiers cut away the ropes of the skiff and allowed it to fall away.

33 And as daylight began to come, Paul begged everyone to take food, saying, “Today is the fourteenth day that you remain fasting as you wait, taking nothing.

34 Therefore I beg you to take food for your salvation, because not a hair from the head of any one of you shall perish.”

35 And when he had said these things, he took bread, gave thanks to God in the sight of everyone, broke it, and began to eat.

36 Then they all became more courageous, and they too took food.

37 Now we were in all two hundred seventy-six souls in the ship.

38 And when they had been satisfied with food, they lightened the ship, throwing the wheat into the sea.

39 When day came, they did not recognize the land, but they observed a certain bay that had a shore, into which they planned, if they could, to run the ship.

40 And when they had taken up the anchors, they committed themselves to the sea, at the same time loosening the fastenings of the rudders; and raising the foresail to the blowing of the breeze, they made for the shore.

41 And when we fell into a place between two seas, they ran the ship aground. The bow remained fixed and immovable, but the stern was broken apart by the force of the sea.

42 Now the soldiers’ plan was to kill those in custody, lest anyone should swim away and escape.

43 But the centurion, wishing to save Paul, prevented it from being done. And he ordered those who could swim to cast themselves in first, escape, and go out onto land, 44 and they carried the rest, some on boards and some upon things from the ship. And so it happened that all the souls escaped onto land.

CHAPTER 28

1 And when we had escaped, we then learned that the island was called Melita. Now the barbarians showed us no small kindness.

2 For they kindled a fire and refreshed us all because of the rain that was coming upon us and because of the cold.

3 But when Paul had gathered a quantity of branches and placed them on the fire, a viper came out because of the heat and fastened upon his hand.

4 And when the barbarians saw the beast hanging from his hand, they said to one another, “Surely this man is a murderer. Though he has escaped from the sea, vengeance does not permit him to live.”

5 But he shook the beast into the fire and suffered nothing evil.

6 Yet they supposed that he would swell up and suddenly fall and die. But after they had waited a long time and saw nothing evil happen to him, they changed their minds and said that he was a god.

7 Now in those places were estates belonging to the chief man of the island, named Publius, who received us and entertained us kindly for three days.

8 And it happened that the father of Publius lay afflicted with fevers and dysentery. Paul went in to him, and when he had prayed and laid his hands upon him, he saved him.

9 When this had been done, all on the island who had infirmities also came and were cured.

10 They also honored us with many honors, and when we sailed, they put aboard the things that were necessary.

11 Now after three months, we sailed in an Alexandrian ship that had wintered at the island, whose emblem was the Castors.

12 And when we came to Syracuse, we remained there three days.

13 From there, coasting around, we came to Rhegium; and after one day, when the south wind blew, on the second day we came to Puteoli.

14 There we found brothers and were asked to remain with them seven days; and so we came to Rome.

15 And from there, when the brothers had heard of us, they came to meet us as far as the Forum of Appius and the Three Taverns. When Paul saw them, he gave thanks to God and received confidence.

16 And when we had come to Rome, Paul was permitted to remain by himself with the soldier who guarded him.

17 Now after the third day, he called together the leading men of the Jews. And when they had assembled, he said to them, “Men and brothers, though I had done nothing against the people or the custom of the fathers, I was handed over bound from Jerusalem into the hands of the Romans.

18 When they had examined me, they wished to release me, because there was no cause of death in me.

19 But when the Jews spoke against it, I was compelled to appeal to Caesar—not as though I had anything of which to accuse my nation.

20 Therefore for this cause I asked to see you and speak with you. For because of the hope of Israel I am surrounded by this chain.”

21 But they said to him, “We have neither received letters concerning you from Judea, nor has any of the brothers who arrived reported or spoken anything evil concerning you.

22 But we ask to hear from you what you think, for concerning this sect, we know that it is contradicted everywhere.”

23 And when they had appointed a day for him, many came to him at his lodging. To them he expounded, testifying to the kingdom of God and persuading them concerning Jesus from the law of Moses and the prophets, from morning until evening.

24 And some believed the things that were said, but others did not believe.

25 And when they did not agree with one another, they were departing as Paul spoke one word: “Well did the Holy Spirit speak through Isaiah the prophet to our fathers,

26 saying, ‘Go to this people and say to them: With the ear you shall hear and shall not understand; and seeing you shall see and shall not perceive.

27 For the heart of this people has grown fat, and with their ears they have heard heavily, and they have pressed their eyes shut, lest perhaps they should see with their eyes, hear with their ears, understand with their heart, turn, and I should heal them.’

28 Therefore let it be known to you that this salvation of God has been sent to the Gentiles, and they themselves shall hear.”

29 And when he had said these things, the Jews went out from him, having much dispute among themselves.

30 And he remained for two whole years in his own rented lodging, and received all who came in to him,

31 preaching the kingdom of God and teaching the things concerning the Lord Jesus Christ with all boldness, without prohibition.

BOOK FORTY-FIVE: ROMANS

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ, called to be an Apostle, set apart for the Gospel of God,

2 which he had promised beforehand through his prophets in the holy Scriptures

3 concerning his Son, who was made for him from the seed of David according to the flesh,

4 who was predestined the Son of God in power, according to the spirit of sanctification, by the resurrection of the dead: Jesus Christ our Lord,

5 through whom we received grace and apostleship for obedience to faith among all nations, for his name,

6 among whom you also are called of Jesus Christ:

7 to all who are in Rome, beloved of God, called to be saints. Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

8 First indeed, I give thanks to my God through Jesus Christ for you all, because your faith is proclaimed throughout the whole world.

9 For God is my witness, whom I serve in my spirit in the Gospel of his Son, that without ceasing I make remembrance of you,

10 always in my prayers, beseeching that somehow, at last, I may have a prosperous journey by the will of God to come to you.

11 For I long to see you, that I may impart to you something of spiritual grace to confirm you;

12 that is, that we may be consoled together among you through the faith that is mutual—yours and mine.

13 But I do not want you to be ignorant, brothers, that I have often purposed to come to you—and have been hindered until now—so that I may have some fruit among you also, as among the other Gentiles.

14 To Greeks and barbarians, to the wise and the foolish, I am a debtor;

15 thus, so far as lies in me, I am ready to evangelize to you also who are in Rome.

16 For I am not ashamed of the Gospel. For it is the power of God unto salvation for everyone who believes, for the Jew first, and for the Greek.

17 For in it the justice of God is revealed from faith to faith, as it is written: “But the just one lives by faith.”

18 For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven upon every impiety and injustice of those men who suppress the truth of God in injustice,

19 because what is known of God is manifest in them; for God has manifested it to them.

20 For his invisible things, from the creation of the world, are clearly seen, being understood through the things that have been made—his everlasting power also, and divinity—so that they are without excuse.

21 For although they knew God, they did not glorify him as God or give thanks; instead, they became empty in their thoughts, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22 For, claiming to be wise, they became fools.

23 And they changed the glory of the incorruptible God into the likeness of an image of corruptible man, and of birds, and four-footed creatures, and serpents.

24 Therefore God handed them over to the desires of their heart, to uncleanness, so that they might dishonor their own bodies in themselves:

25 they exchanged the truth of God for a lie, and worshiped and served the creature rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen.

26 For this reason God handed them over to passions of dishonor; for their women exchanged the natural use for the use that is against nature.

27 And likewise the men also, abandoning the natural use of the woman, burned in their desires toward one another, males committing shameful acts with males and receiving in themselves the recompense that was due for their error.

28 And just as they did not see fit to have God in their knowledge, God handed them over to a debased mind, to do the things that are not fitting,

29 filled with all iniquity, malice, fornication, avarice, and wickedness; full of envy, murder, contention, deceit, and malignity; whisperers,

30 detractors, hateful to God, abusive, proud, arrogant, inventors of evils, disobedient to parents,

31 foolish, disorderly, without affection, without covenant, without mercy.

32 Though they had known the justice of God, they did not understand that those who do such things are worthy of death; and not only those who do them, but also those who consent to those who do them.

CHAPTER 2

1 Therefore you are without excuse, O man, every one of you who judges. For in judging another, you condemn yourself; for you do the same things that you judge.

2 For we know that the judgment of God is according to truth against those who do such things.

3 But do you suppose this, O man—you who judge those who do such things, and do them yourself—that you will escape the judgment of God?

4 Or do you despise the riches of his goodness and patience and long-suffering? Do you not know that the kindness of God leads you to repentance?

5 But according to your hardness and impenitent heart, you store up wrath for yourself on the day of wrath and of the revelation of God's just judgment,

6 who will render to each one according to his works:

7 to those who, through patience in good work, seek glory and honor and incorruption, eternal life;

8 but to those who act from contention, who do not assent to the truth but believe iniquity, wrath and indignation.

9 Tribulation and anguish upon every soul of man who works evil: for the Jew first, and for the Greek;

10 but glory and honor and peace to everyone who works what is good: to the Jew first, and to the Greek.

11 For there is no acceptance of persons with God.

12 For whoever sinned without the law will perish without the law; and whoever sinned in the law will be judged through the law.

13 For the hearers of the law are not just before God, but the doers of the law will be justified.

14 For when Gentiles, who do not have the law, naturally do the things that are of the law, these, not having the law, are a law to themselves;

15 they show the work of the law written in their hearts, their conscience bearing witness to them, and their thoughts among themselves accusing or even defending them,

16 on the day when God will judge the secrets of men through Jesus Christ, according to my Gospel.

17 But if you are called a Jew, and rest in the law, and glory in God,

18 and know his will, and approve the things that are more profitable, being instructed through the law,

19 and trust yourself to be a guide of the blind, a light to those who are in darkness,

20 an instructor of the foolish, a teacher of infants, having the form of knowledge and of truth in the law—

21 you, then, who teach another, do you not teach yourself? You who preach that one must not steal, do you steal?

22 You who say that one must not commit adultery, do you commit adultery? You who abhor idols, do you commit sacrilege?

23 You who glory in the law, do you dishonor God through transgression of the law?

24 For, as it is written, "The name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles through you."

25 Circumcision indeed profits if you observe the law; but if you are a transgressor of the law, your circumcision has become foreskin.

26 Therefore, if the foreskin keeps the just requirements of the law, will not his foreskin be reckoned as circumcision?

27 And will not the one who is foreskin by nature, yet fulfills the law, judge you, who through letter and circumcision are a transgressor of the law?

28 For the one who is outwardly a Jew is not a Jew; nor is that which is outward in the flesh circumcision.

29 But the one who is hidden within is a Jew, and circumcision is of the heart, in spirit, not in letter—whose praise is not from men, but from God.

CHAPTER 3

1 What advantage, then, does the Jew have? Or what is the profit of circumcision?

2 Much in every way. First indeed, because the oracles of God were entrusted to them.

3 For what if some of them did not believe? Will their unbelief make the faith of God void? By no means!

4 But God is truthful, and every man a liar, as it is written: “That you may be justified in your words, and may prevail when you are judged.”

5 But if our iniquity commends the justice of God, what shall we say? Is God unjust, who inflicts wrath?

6 I speak according to man. By no means! Otherwise, how will God judge this world?

7 For if the truth of God has abounded in my lie unto his glory, why am I still judged as a sinner?

8 And why not—as we are blasphemed, and as some claim that we say—“Let us do evil things so that good things may come”? Their condemnation is just.

9 What then? Do we surpass them? Not at all. For we have charged that Jews and Greeks are all under sin,

10 as it is written: “For there is no one who is just;

11 there is no one who understands; there is no one who seeks God.

12 All have turned aside; together they have become unprofitable. There is no one who does good; there is not even one.

13 Their throat is an open tomb; with their tongues they acted deceitfully. The venom of asps is under their lips.

14 Their mouth is full of cursing and bitterness.

15 Their feet are swift to shed blood.

16 Destruction and unhappiness are in their ways,

17 and they have not known the way of peace.

18 There is no fear of God before their eyes.”

19 Now we know that whatever the law speaks, it speaks to those who are in the law, so that every mouth may be stopped and the whole world may become subject to God;

20 because no flesh will be justified before him from the works of the law. For through the law comes knowledge of sin.

21 But now, without the law, the justice of God has been manifested, testified to by the law and the prophets.

22 And the justice of God is through the faith of Jesus Christ, unto all and upon all who believe in him; for there is no distinction,

23 for all have sinned and are in need of the glory of God.

24 They are justified freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus,

25 whom God set forth as a propitiation through faith in his blood, to show his justice because of the remission of preceding offenses,

26 in the forbearance of God, to show his justice at this time, so that he himself may be just and may justify the one who is of the faith of Jesus Christ.

27 Where, then, is your glorying? It is excluded. Through what law? Of works? No, but through the law of faith.

28 For we judge that a man is justified through faith without the works of the law.

29 Is God of the Jews only? Is he not also of the Gentiles? Indeed, of the Gentiles also,

30 since there is one God, who justifies circumcision from faith and foreskin through faith.

31 Do we, then, destroy the law through faith? By no means! Instead, we establish the law.

CHAPTER 4

1 What then shall we say that Abraham, our father according to the flesh, found?

2 For if Abraham was justified from works, he has glory, but not before God.

3 For what does Scripture say? “Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him unto justice.”

4 Now to the one who works, the wage is not imputed according to grace, but according to debt.

5 But to the one who does not work, yet believes in him who justifies the ungodly, his faith is reckoned unto justice according to the purpose of God’s grace.

6 Thus David also declares the blessedness of the man to whom God credits justice without works:

7 “Blessed are those whose iniquities have been remitted and whose sins have been covered.

8 Blessed is the man to whom the Lord (YHWH) has not imputed sin.”

9 Does this blessedness, then, remain in circumcision only, or also in foreskin? For we say that Abraham’s faith was reckoned unto justice.

10 How, then, was it reckoned? In circumcision, or in foreskin? Not in circumcision, but in foreskin.

11 And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the justice of the faith that he had in foreskin, so that he might be the father of all who believe while in foreskin, that it might also be reckoned to them unto justice,

12 and the father of circumcision not only to those who are of circumcision, but also to those who follow the footsteps of the faith that our father Abraham had in foreskin.

13 For the promise to Abraham, or to his seed, that he should be heir of the world, did not come through the law, but through the justice of faith.

14 For if those who are of the law are heirs, faith has been emptied and the promise abolished.

15 For the law works wrath; for where there is no law, neither is there transgression.

16 Therefore it is from faith, so that it may be according to grace and the promise may be secure to all the seed—not only to the one who is of the law, but also to the one who is of the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all,

17 as it is written, “For I have appointed you the father of many nations”—before God, whom he believed, who gives life to the dead and calls the things that are not as though they are.

18 Against hope, he believed in hope, so that he might become the father of many nations, according to what was said to him: “So shall your seed be.”

19 And he was not weakened in faith, nor did he consider his own body, already deadened, when he was now nearly one hundred years old, and the deadened womb of Sarah.

20 Moreover, he did not waver at the promise of God through distrust, but was strengthened in faith, giving glory to God,

21 knowing most fully that whatever God has promised, he is also able to do.

22 Therefore it was also reckoned to him unto justice.

23 Now it was not written only for his sake that it was reckoned to him unto justice,

24 but also for us, to whom it will be reckoned, who believe in him who raised Jesus Christ our Lord from the dead,

25 who was handed over because of our offenses and rose because of our justification.

CHAPTER 5

1 Therefore, having been justified from faith, let us have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ,

2 through whom we also have access through faith into this grace in which we stand, and we glory in the hope of the glory of the sons of God.

3 And not only this, but we also glory in tribulations, knowing that tribulation works patience,

4 and patience, proof; and proof, hope;

5 and hope does not confound, because the charity of God has been poured forth in our hearts through the Holy Spirit, who was given to us.

6 For why did Christ, while we were still weak, die for the ungodly according to the time?

7 For scarcely does anyone die for a just man; indeed, perhaps for a good man someone might dare to die.

8 But God commends his charity in us, because while we were still sinners, according to the time,

9 Christ died for us. Much more, then, having now been justified in his blood, we will be saved from wrath through him.

10 For if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God through the death of his Son, much more, having been reconciled, we will be saved in his life.

11 And not only this, but we also glory in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received reconciliation.

12 Therefore, just as through one man sin entered into this world, and through sin death, and so death passed through all men, in whom all sinned.

13 For until the law, sin was in the world; but sin was not imputed when the law did not exist.

14 Yet death reigned from Adam until Moses, even over those who did not sin in the likeness of Adam’s transgression, who is the figure of the one to come.

15 But the gift is not like the offense; for if by the offense of one many died, much more did the grace of God and the gift, in the grace of the one man Jesus Christ, abound unto many.

16 And the gift is not like what came through one sin. For the judgment indeed came from one unto condemnation, but grace came from many offenses unto justification.

17 For if, by the offense of one, death reigned through one, much more will those who receive the abundance of grace, and of bestowal, and of justice reign in life through the one, Jesus Christ.

18 Therefore, just as through the offense of one it came unto all men unto condemnation, so also through the justice of one it came unto all men unto justification of life.

19 For just as through the disobedience of one man many were constituted sinners, so also through the obedience of one many will be constituted just.

20 Now the law entered by stealth so that the offense might abound. But where the offense abounded, grace superabounded,

21 so that, just as sin reigned unto death, so also grace might reign through justice unto eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

CHAPTER 6

1 What then shall we say? Shall we remain in sin so that grace may abound?

2 By no means! For we who have died to sin, how shall we still live in it?

3 Or do you not know that all of us who have been baptized into Christ Jesus have been baptized into his death?

4 For we have been buried together with him through baptism into death, so that just as Christ rose from the dead through the glory of the Father, so we also may walk in newness of life.

5 For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall also be planted together in the likeness of his resurrection.

6 Knowing this, that our old man was crucified together with him so that the body of sin may be destroyed, and we may no longer serve sin.

7 For the one who has died has been justified from sin.

8 But if we have died with Christ, we believe that we shall also live together with Christ,

9 knowing that Christ, rising from the dead, now dies no more; death shall no longer have dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, he died to sin once; but in that he lives, he lives to God.

11 So you also reckon yourselves indeed dead to sin, but living to God, in Christ Jesus our Lord.

12 Therefore let sin not reign in your mortal body, so that you obey its desires.

13 But neither present your members as weapons of iniquity to sin; rather, present yourselves to God as living from the dead, and your members as weapons of justice to God.

14 For sin shall not have dominion over you; for you are not under law, but under grace.

15 What then? Shall we sin because we are not under law, but under grace? By no means!

16 Do you not know that to whom you present yourselves as servants for obedience, you are servants of the one whom you obey, whether of sin unto death or of obedience unto justice?

17 But thanks be to God, because you were servants of sin, yet you obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine into which you were handed over.

18 But being freed from sin, you were made servants of justice.

19 I speak in human terms because of the weakness of your flesh. For just as you presented your members to serve uncleanness and iniquity unto iniquity, so now present your members to serve justice unto sanctification.

20 For when you were servants of sin, you were free from justice.

21 What fruit, then, did you have at that time in those things of which you are now ashamed? For their end is death.

22 But now, freed from sin and made servants of God, you have your fruit unto sanctification, but the end, eternal life.

23 For the wages of sin are death. But the grace of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.

CHAPTER 7

1 Or do you not know, brothers—for I speak to those who know the law—that the law has dominion over a man for as long as he lives?

2 For the woman who is under a husband is bound to the law while her husband lives; but if her husband has died, she is released from the law of her husband.

3 Therefore, while her husband lives, she will be called an adulteress if she is with another man; but if her husband has died, she is freed from the law of her husband, so that she is not an adulteress if she is with another man.

4 Thus, my brothers, you also were made dead to the law through the body of Christ, so that you might belong to another—to him who rose from the dead—so that we may bear fruit to God.

5 For when we were in the flesh, the passions of sins, which were through the law, worked in our members so that they might bear fruit unto death.

6 But now we have been released from the law of death, in which we were held, so that we may serve in newness of spirit and not in oldness of letter.

7 What then shall we say? Is the law sin? By no means! But I did not know sin except through the law; for I did not know desire unless the law said, “You shall not desire.”

8 But sin, having received an occasion, worked every desire in me through the commandment. For without the law sin was dead.

9 But I once lived without the law; but when the commandment came, sin revived.

10 But I died; and the commandment that was unto life was found for me to be unto death.

11 For sin, having received an occasion through the commandment, seduced me, and through it killed me.

12 And so the law indeed is holy, and the commandment holy and just and good.

13 Therefore did what is good become death to me? By no means! But sin, so that it might appear as sin, worked death for me through what is good, so that through the commandment sin might become sinful beyond measure.

14 For we know that the law is spiritual; but I am carnal, sold under sin.

15 For what I work, I do not understand. For the good that I will, this I do not do; but the evil that I hate, that I do.

16 But if I do what I do not will, I consent to the law that it is good.

17 But now it is no longer I who work it, but the sin that dwells in me.

18 For I know that good does not dwell in me, that is, in my flesh. For willing lies near me, but I do not find how to accomplish the good.

19 For the good that I will, I do not do; but the evil that I do not will, this I do.

20 But if I do what I do not will, now it is no longer I who work it, but the sin that dwells in me.

21 I find, then, the law that, when I wish to do good, evil lies near me;

22 for according to the inward man I delight in the law of God,

23 but I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind and taking me captive in the law of sin that is in my members.

24 Unhappy man that I am, who will deliver me from the body of this death?

25 The grace of God, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Therefore I myself serve the law of God with the mind, but the law of sin with the flesh.

CHAPTER 8

1 Therefore now there is no condemnation to those who are in Christ Jesus, who do not walk according to the flesh.

2 For the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus has freed me from the law of sin and death.

3 For what was impossible for the law, in that it was weakened through the flesh, God, sending his Son in the likeness of sinful flesh and concerning sin, condemned sin in the flesh,

4 so that the justification of the law might be fulfilled in us, who do not walk according to the flesh but according to the spirit.

5 For those who are according to the flesh savor the things of the flesh; but those who are according to the spirit perceive the things of the spirit.

6 For the prudence of the flesh is death; but the prudence of the spirit is life and peace,

7 because the wisdom of the flesh is hostile to God; for it is not subject to the law of God, nor indeed can it be.

8 But those who are in the flesh cannot please God.

9 But you are not in the flesh, but in the spirit, if indeed the Spirit of God dwells in you. But if anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, he is not his.

10 But if Christ is in you, the body indeed is dead because of sin, but the spirit lives because of justification.

11 But if the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead dwells in you, he who raised Jesus Christ from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies because of his Spirit dwelling in you.

12 Therefore, brothers, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live according to the flesh.

13 For if you live according to the flesh, you will die; but if by the spirit you put to death the acts of the flesh, you will live.

14 For all who are led by the Spirit of God, they are sons of God.

15 For you did not receive the spirit of servitude again in fear, but you received the spirit of adoption of sons, in which we cry: Abba (Father).

16 For the Spirit himself bears witness to our spirit that we are sons of God.

17 But if sons, then heirs: heirs indeed of God, but coheirs with Christ, if indeed we suffer together so that we may also be glorified together.

18 For I judge that the sufferings of this time are not commensurate with the future glory that will be revealed in us.

19 For the expectation of creation awaits the revelation of the sons of God.

20 For creation was subjected to vanity, not willingly, but because of him who subjected it, in hope;

21 because creation itself also will be freed from the servitude of corruption into the liberty of the glory of the sons of God.

22 For we know that all creation groans and labors in birth until now.

23 And not only it, but we ourselves also, having the firstfruits of the spirit—we ourselves groan within ourselves, awaiting the adoption of the sons of God, the redemption of our body.

24 For in hope we were saved. But hope that is seen is not hope; for what anyone sees, what does he hope for?

25 But if we hope for what we do not see, we await it through patience.

26 Likewise the Spirit also helps our weakness. For what we should pray for, as we ought, we do not know; but the Spirit himself petitions for us with unutterable groanings.

27 But he who searches hearts knows what the Spirit desires, because the Spirit petitions according to God for the saints.

28 But we know that to those who love God, all things cooperate unto good—to the saints who are called according to purpose.

29 For those whom he foreknew, he also predestined to become conformed to the image of his Son, so that he himself might be the firstborn among many brothers.

30 But those whom he predestined, these he also called; and whom he called, these he also justified; and whom he justified, those he also glorified.

31 What then shall we say to these things? If God is for us, who is against us?

32 He who did not spare even his own Son, but handed him over for us all: how has he not also, with him, bestowed all things upon us?

33 Who will bring an accusation against the elect of God? God is the one who justifies;

34 who is he who condemns? Christ Jesus, who died—indeed, who also rose—who is at the right hand of God, who also intercedes for us.

35 Who then will separate us from the charity of Christ? Tribulation? Or anguish? Or famine? Or nakedness? Or danger? Or persecution? Or sword?

36 As it is written: “For because of you we are put to death all day long; we are reckoned as sheep for slaughter.”

37 But in all these things we overcome because of him who loved us.

38 For I am certain that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor strength,

39 nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature will be able to separate us from the charity of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

CHAPTER 9

1 I speak the truth in Christ; I do not lie, my conscience bearing witness to me in the Holy Spirit,

2 that I have great sadness and continual sorrow in my heart.

3 For I myself was wishing to be anathema from Christ for my brothers, who are my kin according to the flesh,

4 who are Israelites, whose is the adoption of sons, and the glory, and the testament, and the lawgiving, and the service, and the promises;

5 whose are the fathers, and from whom is Christ according to the flesh, who is over all, God blessed forever. Amen.

6 But it is not as though the word of God has fallen away. For not all who are from Israel are Israelites;

7 neither are all who are the seed of Abraham sons; but, “In Isaac shall seed be called to you”;

8 that is, it is not those who are sons of the flesh who are sons of God, but those who are sons of the promise are reckoned in the seed.

9 For this is the word of promise: “According to this time I will come, and Sarah shall have a son.”

10 And not only she, but Rebecca also, having conceived through a single act of intercourse with Isaac our father,

11 for when they had not yet been born or done anything good or evil—so that the purpose of God according to election might remain—

12 not from works, but from the one calling, it was said to her, “The elder shall serve the younger,”

13 as it is written: “I loved Jacob, but Esau I hated.”

14 What then shall we say? Is there iniquity with God? By no means!

15 For he says to Moses: “I will have mercy on whom I have mercy, and I will bestow mercy on whom I will have mercy.”

16 Therefore, it is not of the one who wills, nor of the one who runs, but of God who shows mercy.

17 For Scripture says to Pharaoh: “For this very purpose I raised you up, that I may show my power in you, and that my name may be proclaimed in the whole earth.”

18 Therefore he has mercy on whom he wills, and whom he wills he hardens.

19 You therefore say to me: “Why does he still find fault? For who resists his will?”

20 O man, who are you who answer back to God? Does the thing formed say to the one who formed it, “Why have you made me this way?”

21 Or does not the potter of clay have authority, from the same lump, to make one vessel indeed unto honor, and another unto dishonor?

22 But what if God, willing to show wrath and make known his power, endured with much patience vessels of wrath fitted for destruction, 23 so that he might show the riches of his glory in the vessels of mercy that he prepared for glory?

24 Whom he also called—us—not only from the Jews, but also among the Gentiles,

25 as in Hosea he says: “I will call the one who was not my people ‘my people’; and the one who was not beloved ‘beloved’; and the one who had not obtained mercy ‘one who has obtained mercy.’

26 And it shall be: ‘In the place where it was said to them, “You are not my people,” there they shall be called sons of the living God.’”

27 But Isaiah cries out concerning Israel: “If the number of the sons of Israel should be as the sand of the sea, a remnant shall be saved.

28 For he consummates and shortens the word in equity, because the Lord will make a shortened word upon the earth.”

29 And as Isaiah foretold: “Unless the Lord Sabaoth had left us seed, we would have become like Sodom, and we would have been made like Gomorrah.”

30 What then shall we say? That the Gentiles, who were not pursuing justice, laid hold of justice—justice, however, that is from faith.

31 But Israel, pursuing the law of justice, did not attain unto the law of justice.

32 Why? Because it was not from faith, but as though from works; for they stumbled at the stone of stumbling,

33 as it is written: “Behold, I place in Zion a stone of stumbling and a rock of scandal; and everyone who believes in him shall not be confounded.”

CHAPTER 10

1 Brothers, indeed, the will of my heart and my supplication to God are for them unto salvation.

2 For I bear witness to them that they have zeal of God, but not according to knowledge.

3 For, being ignorant of the justice of God and seeking to establish their own justice, they are not subject to the justice of God.

4 For Christ is the end of the law, unto justice for everyone who believes.

5 For Moses wrote that the man who has done the justice that is from the law will live in it.

6 But the justice that is from faith speaks this way: “Do not say in your heart, ‘Who will ascend into heaven?’”—that is, to bring Christ down;

7 “or ‘Who will descend into the abyss?’”—that is, to call Christ back from the dead.

8 But what does Scripture say? “The word is near, in your mouth and in your heart”—this is the word of faith that we preach.

9 Because if you confess in your mouth the Lord Jesus, and in your heart believe that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved.

10 For with the heart one believes unto justice, but with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.

11 For Scripture says: “Everyone who believes in him shall not be confounded.”

12 For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek; for the same Lord of all is rich unto all who invoke him.

13 For everyone—whoever invokes the name of the Lord—shall be saved.

14 How then will they invoke the one in whom they have not believed? Or how will they believe him whom they have not heard? And how will they hear without one preaching?

15 And how will they preach unless they are sent? As it is written: “How beautiful are the feet of those evangelizing peace, of those evangelizing good things!”

16 But not all obey the Gospel. For Isaiah says: “Lord, who has believed our report?”

17 Therefore faith is from hearing, but hearing is through the word of Christ.

18 But I say: Have they not heard? And indeed, “their sound went forth into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the world.”

19 But I say: Did Israel not know? First Moses says: “I will bring you to jealousy toward a non-nation; toward a foolish nation I will send you into anger.”

20 But Isaiah is bold and says: “I was found by those not seeking me; I appeared openly to those who were not asking me.”

21 But to Israel he says: “All day long I stretched out my hands to an unbelieving and contradicting people.”

CHAPTER 11

1 I say then: Has God rejected his people? By no means! For I too am an Israelite, from the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin.

2 God has not rejected his people, whom he foreknew. Or do you not know what Scripture says in Elijah—how he appeals to God against Israel?

3 “Lord, they killed your prophets and dug down your altars; and I was left alone, and they seek my soul.”

4 But what does the divine answer say to him? “I have left for myself seven thousand men who have not bowed their knees before Baal.”

5 Thus, then, in this time also, a remnant according to the election of grace has been saved.

6 But if by grace, it is no longer from works; otherwise grace is no longer grace.

7 What then? What Israel sought, it did not attain; but the election attained it, while the rest were blinded,

8 as it is written: “God gave them a spirit of compunction: eyes so that they may not see, and ears so that they may not hear, even to the present day.”

9 And David says: “Let their table become a snare, and a trap, and a stumbling block, and a recompense for them.

10 Let their eyes be darkened so that they may not see, and bend their back always.”

11 I say then: Did they stumble so that they should fall? By no means! But by their offense, salvation is for the Gentiles, so that they may emulate them.

12 Now if their offense is the riches of the world, and their diminution the riches of the Gentiles, how much more their fullness?

13 For I say to you Gentiles: as long indeed as I am the Apostle of the Gentiles, I will honor my ministry,

14 if somehow I may provoke my flesh to emulation and save some of them.

15 For if their loss is the reconciliation of the world, what will their reception be but life from the dead?

16 Now if the first portion is holy, the lump is also; and if the root is holy, the branches are also.

17 But if some of the branches were broken off, and you, though you were a wild olive, were grafted in among them and became a sharer in the root and in the fatness of the olive tree,

18 do not glory against the branches. But if you glory, it is not you who bear the root, but the root that bears you.

19 You will say then, “The branches were broken off so that I might be grafted in.”

20 Well: they were broken off because of unbelief. But you stand by faith. Do not think loftily, but fear.

21 For if God did not spare the natural branches, beware lest perhaps he not spare you either.

22 See, then, the goodness and the severity of God: toward those who fell, severity; but toward you, the goodness of God, if you remain in goodness—otherwise you too will be cut off.

23 But they also, if they do not remain in unbelief, will be grafted in; for God is able to graft them in again.

24 For if you were cut out of a natural wild olive, and contrary to nature were grafted into the good olive tree, how much more will those who are according to nature be grafted into their own olive tree?

25 For I do not want you to be ignorant, brothers, of this mystery—so that you may not be wise in yourselves—that partial blindness has befallen Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles should enter,

26 and thus all Israel might be saved, as it is written: “From Zion will come the one who is to deliver and turn impiety away from Jacob.

27 And this is the testament from me to them: when I shall have taken away their sins.”

28 As regards the Gospel, indeed, they are enemies because of you; but as regards election, they are most beloved because of the fathers.

29 For the gifts and the calling of God are without repentance.

30 For just as you also once did not believe God, but now have attained mercy because of their unbelief,

31 so these also have now not believed in your mercy, so that they too may attain mercy.

32 For God has enclosed all things in unbelief, so that he may have mercy on all.

33 O the depth of the riches of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How incomprehensible are his judgments, and how unsearchable his ways!

34 For who has known the mind of the Lord? Or who has been his counselor?

35 Or who first gave to him, and it will be repaid to him?

36 For from him, and through him, and in him are all things. To him be glory forever. Amen.

CHAPTER 12

1 I beseech you therefore, brothers, through the mercy of God, to present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy, pleasing to God—your rational service.

2 And do not be conformed to this age, but be transformed in the newness of your mind, so that you may test what the will of God is: good, pleasing, and perfect.

3 For through the grace given to me, I say to everyone among you not to think more highly than one ought to think, but to think unto sobriety, as God has apportioned to each a measure of faith.

4 For just as in one body we have many members, but all the members do not have the same function,

5 so we who are many are one body in Christ, but individually, members one of another.

6 But we have gifts that differ according to the grace given to us: whether prophecy, according to the proportion of faith;

7 or ministry, in ministering; or the one who teaches, in teaching;

8 the one who exhorts, in exhortation; the one who gives, in simplicity; the one who presides, with diligence; the one who shows mercy, with cheerfulness.

9 Love without pretense; hating evil, clinging to good;

10 loving one another in brotherly charity; anticipating one another in honor;

11 not slothful in diligence; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord;

12 rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; persistent in prayer;

13 sharing in the needs of the saints; pursuing hospitality.

14 Bless those who persecute you; bless, and do not curse.

15 Rejoice with those who rejoice; weep with those who weep.

16 Be of the same mind toward one another; do not mind lofty things, but consent to the lowly. Do not be wise in yourselves.

17 Render evil for evil to no one; provide what is good not only before God but also before all men.

18 If it is possible, as far as it lies with you, be at peace with all men.

19 Do not defend yourselves, beloved, but give place to wrath. For it is written: “Vengeance is mine; I will repay, says the Lord.”

20 But if your enemy is hungry, feed him; if he thirsts, give him drink. For in doing this, you will heap coals of fire upon his head.

21 Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good.

CHAPTER 13

1 Let every soul be subject to the higher authorities; for there is no authority except from God, and those that exist have been ordained by God.

2 Therefore, the one who resists authority resists the ordering of God. But those who resist acquire condemnation for themselves,

3 for rulers are not a terror to good work, but to evil. But do you wish not to fear the authority? Do good, and you will have praise from it,

4 for the ruler is God’s minister to you unto good. But if you do evil, fear, for he does not carry the sword without cause. For he is God’s minister, an avenger unto wrath against the one who does evil.

5 Therefore be subject by necessity, not only because of wrath but also because of conscience.

6 For this reason you also pay tribute, for they are ministers of God, serving in this very thing.

7 Render therefore to all what is due: to whom tribute, tribute; to whom toll, toll; to whom fear, fear; to whom honor, honor.

8 Owe nothing to anyone except that you love one another; for the one who loves his neighbor has fulfilled the law.

9 For, “You shall not commit adultery; you shall not kill; you shall not steal; you shall not bear false witness; you shall not covet,” and if there is any other commandment, it is gathered together in this word: “You shall love your neighbor as yourself.”

10 Love of neighbor works no evil. Therefore love is the fullness of the law.

11 And this, knowing the time: that it is already the hour for us to rise from sleep. For now our salvation is nearer than when we believed.

12 The night has passed, but the day has drawn near. Let us therefore cast off the works of darkness and put on the weapons of light.

13 Let us walk honorably, as in the day: not in revelry and drunkenness, not in beds and shameless acts, not in contention and emulation;

14 but put on the Lord Jesus Christ, and take no care of the flesh in desires.

CHAPTER 14

1 Now receive the one who is weak in faith, but not into disputes of thoughts.

2 For one believes that he may eat all things, but let the one who is weak eat vegetables.

3 Let the one who eats not despise the one who does not eat; and let the one who does not eat not judge the one who eats, for God has received him.

4 Who are you, who judge another's servant? To his own lord he stands or falls; but he will stand, for God is able to make him stand.

5 For one distinguishes one day from another, but another judges every day. Let each one abound in his own mind.

6 The one who observes the day observes it to the Lord; and the one who eats eats to the Lord, for he gives thanks to God. And the one who does not eat does not eat to the Lord, and gives thanks to God.

7 For none of us lives to himself, and none dies to himself.

8 For whether we live, we live to the Lord; or whether we die, we die to the Lord. Therefore, whether we live or die, we are the Lord's.

9 For to this end Christ died and rose: that he might have dominion over both the dead and the living.

10 But why do you judge your brother? Or why do you despise your brother? For we will all stand before the judgment seat of Christ.

11 For it is written: "As I live, says the Lord, every knee shall bend to me, and every tongue shall confess to God."

12 Therefore each one of us will render an account for himself to God.

13 Therefore let us no longer judge one another; but judge this rather: that you not put a stumbling block or a scandal before a brother.

14 I know, and am confident in the Lord Jesus, that nothing is common through itself; except to the one who considers anything to be common, to him it is common.

15 For if your brother is grieved because of food, you no longer walk according to charity. Do not destroy by your food the one for whom Christ died.

16 Therefore let our good not be blasphemed.

17 For the kingdom of God is not food and drink, but justice and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit.

18 For the one who serves Christ in this pleases God and is approved by men.

19 Therefore let us pursue the things that are of peace, and let us keep among one another the things that are of edification.

20 Do not destroy the work of God because of food. All things indeed are clean, but it is evil for the man who eats through a stumbling block.

21 It is good not to eat flesh, and not to drink wine, nor anything in which your brother is offended, or scandalized, or weakened.

22 Do you have faith? Have it with yourself before God. Blessed is the one who does not judge himself in what he approves.

23 But the one who doubts, if he eats, is condemned, because it is not from faith. But everything that is not from faith is sin.

CHAPTER 15

1 But we who are stronger ought to bear the weaknesses of the weak and not please ourselves.

2 Let each of you please his neighbor unto good, unto edification.

3 For Christ did not please himself, but as it is written: “The reproaches of those who reproach you fell upon me.”

4 For whatever things were written were written for our doctrine, so that through patience and through the consolation of the Scriptures we may have hope.

5 But may the God of patience and comfort grant you to be of the same mind toward one another according to Jesus Christ,

6 so that with one mind and one mouth you may honor the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

7 Therefore receive one another, just as Christ also received you, unto the honor of God.

8 For I say that Christ Jesus was a minister of circumcision because of the truth of God, to confirm the promises of the fathers,

9 but that the Gentiles should honor God for mercy, as it is written: “Therefore I will confess to you among the Gentiles, Lord, and I will sing to your name.”

10 And again he says: “Rejoice, Gentiles, with his people.”

11 And again: “Praise the Lord, all Gentiles, and magnify him, all peoples.”

12 And again Isaiah says: “There shall be the root of Jesse, and the one who rises to rule the Gentiles; in him the Gentiles shall hope.”

13 But may the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that you may abound in hope and in the power of the Holy Spirit.

14 But I myself also am certain about you, my brothers, that you yourselves are full of love, filled with all knowledge, so that you are able to admonish one another.

15 But I have written to you more boldly in part, brothers, as though recalling you to memory, because of the grace given to me by God,

16 so that I may be a minister of Christ Jesus among the Gentiles, sanctifying the Gospel of God, so that the offering of the Gentiles may become acceptable and sanctified in the Holy Spirit.

17 Therefore I have glory in Christ Jesus toward God.

18 For I dare not speak of anything that Christ does not accomplish through me unto the obedience of the Gentiles, by word and deeds,

19 in the power of signs and wonders, in the power of the Holy Spirit, so that I have filled the circuit from Jerusalem as far as Illyricum with the Gospel of Christ.

20 But I have so preached this Gospel, not where Christ was named, lest I build upon another’s foundation,

21 but as it is written: “Those to whom nothing was announced concerning him will see, and those who have not heard will understand.”

22 Because of this I was also greatly hindered from coming to you, and was prevented until now.

23 But now, having no further place in these regions, and having had a desire to come to you for many years now,

24 when I begin to set out for Spain, I hope that, passing through, I may see you and be conducted there by you, if I have first enjoyed your company in part.

25 Now, therefore, I will set out for Jerusalem to minister to the saints.

26 For Macedonia and Achaia have judged it good to make some contribution for the poor among the saints who are in Jerusalem.

27 For it pleased them, and they are their debtors. For if the Gentiles have become partakers of their spiritual things, they ought also to minister to them in carnal things.

28 Therefore, when I have completed this and delivered this fruit to them, I will set out through you for Spain.

29 But I know that, coming to you, I will come in the abundance of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ.

30 Therefore I beseech you, brothers, through our Lord Jesus Christ and through the charity of the Holy Spirit, to assist me in your prayers for me to God,

31 so that I may be delivered from the unbelievers who are in Judea, and that the offering of my service may become acceptable to the saints in Jerusalem,

32 so that I may come to you in joy through the will of God and be refreshed with you.

33 But may the God of peace be with you all. Amen.

CHAPTER 16

1 Now I commend to you Phoebe our sister, who is in the ministry of the church that is in Cenchreae,

2 so that you may receive her in the Lord in a manner worthy of the saints, and assist her in whatever matter she may need you; for she herself also assisted many, and me myself.

3 Greet Prisca and Aquila, my helpers in Christ Jesus,

4 who placed their own necks in danger for my soul—to whom not I alone give thanks, but also all the churches of the Gentiles—

5 and the church in their household. Greet Epaenetus, beloved to me, who is the first fruit of Asia in Christ.

6 Greet Mary, who labored much among you.

7 Greet Andronicus and Junia, my relatives and fellow prisoners, who are distinguished among the Apostles and who were in Christ before me.

8 Greet Ampliatus, most beloved to me in the Lord.

9 Greet Urbanus, our helper in Christ Jesus, and Stachys, my beloved.

10 Greet Apelles, approved in Christ.

11 Greet those who are of the household of Aristobulus. Greet Herodion, my relative. Greet those who are of the household of Narcissus who are in the Lord.

12 Greet Tryphaena and Tryphosa, who labor in the Lord. Greet Persis, very dear, who labored much in the Lord.

13 Greet Rufus, elect in the Lord, and his mother—and mine.

14 Greet Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Hermes, and the brothers who are with them.

15 Greet Philologus and Julia, Nereus and his sister, and Olympias, and all the saints who are with them.

16 Greet one another with a holy kiss. All the churches of Christ greet you.

17 Now I ask you, brothers, to watch those who create dissensions and stumbling blocks contrary to the doctrine that you learned, and turn away from them.

18 For such people do not serve Christ our Lord, but their own belly; and through sweet speeches and blessings they seduce the hearts of the innocent.

19 For your obedience has been spread abroad into every place. I rejoice in you, therefore. But I want you to be wise in good and simple in evil.

20 Now may the God of peace crush Satan under your feet swiftly. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

21 Timothy, my helper, greets you, and Lucius and Jason and Sosipater, my relatives.

22 I, Tertius, who wrote the letter, greet you in the Lord.

23 Gaius, my host, and the entire church greet you. Erastus, the treasurer of the city, and Quartus, a brother, greet you.

24 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

25 But to him who is able to confirm you according to my Gospel and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery kept silent in eternal times,

26 which has now been made manifest through the Scriptures of the prophets, according to the command of the eternal God, unto the obedience of faith, and made known among all nations—

27 to the only wise God, through Jesus Christ, to whom be honor and glory forever and ever. Amen.

BOOK FORTY-SIX: 1 CORINTHIANS

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, called to be an apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, and Sosthenes the brother,

2 to the church of God that is at Corinth, to those sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, together with all who invoke the name of our Lord Jesus Christ in every place, theirs and ours.

3 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I give thanks to my God always for you, for the grace of God that has been given to you in Christ Jesus:

5 because in all things you have been made rich in him, in every word and in all knowledge.

6 Just as the testimony of Christ has been confirmed in you,

7 so that you lack nothing in any grace as you await the revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ,

8 who will also confirm you to the end, without accusation, on the day of the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 Faithful is God, through whom you have been called into fellowship with his Son, Jesus Christ our Lord.

10 But I beseech you, brothers, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that you all say the same thing, and that there be no schisms among you, but that you be made complete in the same mind and in the same opinion.

11 For it has been made known to me concerning you, my brothers, by those of Chloe, that there are contentions among you.

12 Now I mean this: each one of you says, “I am of Paul,” or “I am of Apollo,” or “I am of Cephas,” or “I am of Christ.”

13 Has Christ been divided? Was Paul crucified for you? Or were you baptized in the name of Paul?

14 I give thanks to God that I baptized none of you except Crispus and Caius, 15 lest anyone say that you were baptized in my name.

16 And I also baptized the household of Stephanas; beyond that, I do not know whether I baptized anyone else.

17 For Christ did not send me to baptize, but to evangelize—not in wisdom of word, so that the cross of Christ may not be emptied.

18 For the word of the cross is foolishness indeed to those who are perishing, but to those who are being saved, that is, to us, it is the power of God.

19 For it is written: “I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and I will reject the prudence of the prudent.”

20 Where is the wise? Where is the scribe? Where is the searcher of this age? Has not God made foolish the wisdom of this world?

21 For since, in the wisdom of God, the world did not know God through wisdom, it pleased God through the foolishness of preaching to save those who believe.

22 For the Jews also ask for signs, and the Greeks seek wisdom,

23 but we preach Christ crucified: to the Jews indeed a scandal, and to the Gentiles foolishness,

24 but to those very ones who are called, Jews and Greeks alike, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God;

25 because the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

26 For look at your calling, brothers: not many are wise according to the flesh, not many powerful, not many noble;

27 but God chose the foolish things of the world, that he might confound the wise; and God chose the weak things of the world, that he might confound the strong;

28 and God chose the ignoble and contemptible things of the world, and the things that are not, that he might destroy the things that are,

29 so that no flesh may glory in his sight.

30 But it is from him that you are in Christ Jesus, who by God was made for us wisdom, and justice, and sanctification, and redemption,

31 so that, as it is written, “Whoever glories, let him glory in the Lord (YHWH).”

CHAPTER 2

1 And I, when I came to you, brothers, came not in loftiness of speech or of wisdom, announcing to you the testimony of Christ.

2 For I judged that I should know nothing among you except Jesus Christ, and him crucified.

3 And I was among you in weakness, and fear, and much trembling;

4 and my speech and my preaching were not in persuasive words of human wisdom, but in a demonstration of spirit and power,

5 so that your faith might rest not in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God.

6 Yet we speak wisdom among the perfect: wisdom, however, not of this age, nor of the rulers of this age, who are being destroyed,

7 but we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, which is hidden, which God predestined before the ages for our glory,

8 which none of the rulers of this age knew; for if they had known it, they would never have crucified the Lord of glory.

9 But as it is written, “What eye has not seen, nor ear heard, nor has ascended into the heart of man—the things God has prepared for those who love him—”

10 but God has revealed them to us through his Spirit; for the Spirit searches all things, even the depths of God.

11 For what human being knows the things of a human being except the human spirit that is in him? So also, no one has known the things of God except the Spirit of God.

12 But we have received not the spirit of this world, but the Spirit who is from God, so that we may know the things that have been given to us by God,

13 which we also speak, not in words taught by human wisdom, but in the doctrine of the Spirit, comparing spiritual things with the spiritual.

14 But the animal person does not perceive the things of the Spirit of God, for it is foolishness to him, and he cannot understand, because it is examined spiritually.

15 But the spiritual one judges all things, and he himself is judged by no one.

16 For who has known the mind of the Lord, who might instruct him? But we have the mind of Christ.

CHAPTER 3

1 And I, brothers, could not speak to you as to people who are spiritual, but as to people who are fleshly. As to infants in Christ,

2 I gave you milk to drink, not food, for you were not yet able; nor indeed are you able even now, for you are still fleshly.

3 For since jealousy and contention are among you, are you not fleshly and walking according to man?

4 For when one says, “I am of Paul,” and another, “I am of Apollo,” are you not men? What then is Apollo, and what is Paul—

5 ministers of him whom you believed, as the Lord gave to each?

6 I planted, Apollo watered, but God gave the increase.

7 Thus neither he who plants is anything, nor he who waters, but God, who gives the increase.

8 Now he who plants and he who waters are one. Yet each will receive his own reward according to his own labor.

9 For we are God’s fellow workers; you are God’s cultivation, God’s building.

10 According to the grace of God that was given to me, as a wise architect I laid the foundation; another builds upon it. But let each one see how he builds upon it.

11 For no one can lay another foundation besides the one that has been laid, which is Christ Jesus.

12 But if anyone builds upon this foundation with gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, or stubble,

13 each one’s work will be manifest; for the day of the Lord will declare it, because it will be revealed in fire, and the fire will test the quality of each one’s work.

14 If anyone’s work that he built upon it remains, he will receive a reward.

15 If anyone’s work burns, he will suffer loss; but he himself will be saved, yet so as through fire.

16 Do you not know that you are God’s temple, and that the Spirit of God dwells in you?

17 If anyone violates God’s temple, God will destroy him. For God’s temple is holy, which you are.

18 Let no one deceive himself. If anyone among you seems to be wise in this age, let him become foolish so that he may be wise.

19 For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, “I will seize the wise in their craftiness.”

20 And again, “The Lord knows the thoughts of the wise, because they are vain.”

21 Therefore let no one glory in men.

22 For all things are yours, whether Paul, or Apollo, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come—all are yours,

23 but you are Christ’s, and Christ is God’s.

CHAPTER 4

1 Let one regard us thus: as ministers of Christ and dispensers of the mysteries of God.

2 Now here among dispensers it is required that one be found faithful.

3 But to me it is a very small thing that I should be judged by you, or by a human day; but neither do I judge myself.

4 For I am conscious of nothing against myself, yet I am not justified by this; but he who judges me is the Lord.

5 Therefore do not judge before the time, until the Lord comes, who will both illuminate the hidden things of darkness and make manifest the counsels of hearts; and then praise will come to each one from God.

6 But these things, brothers, I have transfigured in myself and Apollo for your sakes, so that in us you may learn not to go beyond what is written, lest one be puffed up against another on behalf of another.

7 For who distinguishes you? And what do you have that you did not receive? But if you received it, why do you glory as if you had not received it?

8 Already you are filled, already you have become rich; without us you reign. And would that you did reign, so that we too might reign with you.

9 For I think that God has displayed us, the apostles, last, as those destined for death, because we have become a spectacle to the world, and to angels, and to humans.

10 We are foolish for Christ’s sake, but you are prudent in Christ; we are weak, but you are strong; you are noble, but we are ignoble.

11 To this very hour we hunger, and thirst, and are naked, and are struck with fists, and are without a settled place;

12 and we labor, working with our own hands. We are cursed, and we bless; we suffer persecution, and endure it;

13 we are reviled, and we entreat. We have become as the refuse of this world, the scum of all, even until now.

14 I do not write these things to confound you, but I admonish you as my dearest sons.

15 For though you may have ten thousand pedagogues in Christ, yet not many fathers; for in Christ Jesus, through the Gospel, I begot you.

16 Therefore I beseech you: be imitators of me, as I also am of Christ.

17 For this reason I sent Timothy to you, who is my dearest son and faithful in the Lord; he will remind you of my ways which are in Christ Jesus, just as I teach everywhere in every church.

18 As though I were not coming to you, some have thus become puffed up.

19 Yet I will come to you soon, if the Lord wills, and I will know not the speech of those who are puffed up, but the power.

20 For the kingdom of God is not in speech, but in power.

21 What do you wish? Shall I come to you with a rod, or with charity and a spirit of gentleness?

CHAPTER 5

1 Fornication is indeed reported among you—and such fornication as is not even among the Gentiles: that a man has his father’s wife.

2 And you are puffed up, and have not rather mourned, so that the one who did this deed might be removed from your midst.

3 I indeed, absent in body but present in spirit, have already judged, as though present, the one who acted so:

4 in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, with you and my spirit assembled together, with the power of our Lord Jesus,

5 to deliver such a man to Satan for the destruction of the flesh, so that the spirit may be saved on the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

6 Your glorying is not good. Do you not know that a little leaven corrupts the whole batch?

7 Purge out the old leaven, so that you may be a new batch, as you are unleavened. For Christ our Pasch has been sacrificed.

8 Therefore let us feast, not with old leaven, nor with the leaven of malice and wickedness, but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.

9 I wrote to you in a letter: do not associate with fornicators—

10 not, to be sure, with the fornicators of this world, or the covetous, or robbers, or those serving idols; otherwise you would have had to go out of this world.

11 But now I have written to you not to associate: if one who is called a brother is a fornicator, or covetous, or serves idols, or is a reviler, or a drunkard, or a robber, do not even eat with such a person.

12 For what have I to do with judging those who are outside? Do you not judge those who are inside?

13 For God will judge those who are outside. Remove the evil from among yourselves.

CHAPTER 6

1 Does any of you dare, having a case against another, to be judged before the unjust and not before the saints?

2 Or do you not know that the saints will judge this world? And if the world is to be judged by you, are you unworthy to judge the smallest matters?

3 Do you not know that we shall judge angels? How much more secular matters?

4 Therefore, if you have secular judgments, appoint as judges those who are contemptible in the church.

5 I say this to your shame. Is there thus not a single wise person among you who can judge between one brother and another?

6 But brother contends with brother in court—and this before unbelievers?

7 It is already an utter fault among you that you have lawsuits with one another. Why do you not rather accept injury? Why do you not rather suffer fraud?

8 But you commit injury and defraud, and do this to brothers.

9 Or do you not know that the unjust will not possess the kingdom of God? Do not err: neither fornicators, nor those serving idols, nor adulterers,

10 nor the effeminate, nor men who lie with males, nor thieves, nor the covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor robbers will possess the kingdom of God.

11 And these some of you were; but you have been washed, but you have been sanctified, but you have been justified in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ and in the Spirit of our God.

12 All things are lawful for me, but not all things are expedient; all things are lawful for me, but I will be brought under the authority of no one.

13 Food is for the belly and the belly for foods; but God will destroy both the belly and the foods. Yet the body is not for fornication but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body.

14 But God has also raised the Lord, and he will raise us by his power.

15 Do you not know that your bodies are members of Christ? Taking then the members of Christ, shall I make them members of a prostitute? Far be it!

16 Or do you not know that he who cleaves to a prostitute is made one body? For, he says, “The two shall be in one flesh.”

17 But he who cleaves to the Lord is one spirit.

18 Flee fornication. Every sin, whatever a human being commits, is outside the body; but he who fornicates sins against his own body.

19 Or do you not know that your members are the temple of the Holy Spirit, who is in you, whom you have from God, and that you do not belong to yourselves?

20 For you have been bought at a great price. Glorify and bear God in your body.

CHAPTER 7

1 Now concerning the things you wrote to me: It is good for a man not to touch a woman.

2 But because of fornication, let each man have his own wife, and let each woman have her own husband.

3 Let the husband render the debt to his wife; and likewise the wife to her husband.

4 The wife does not have authority over her own body, but the husband does. Likewise, the husband does not have authority over his own body, but the wife does.

5 Do not defraud one another, except perhaps by mutual consent for a time, that you may devote yourselves to prayer; and then return again to the same, lest Satan tempt you because you lack self-control.

6 But I say this by concession, not by command.

7 For I wish you all to be as I myself am; but each has his own gift from God, one in this way, another in that.

8 But I say to the unmarried and to widows: it is good for them if they remain so, as I also do.

9 But if they do not control themselves, let them marry; for it is better to marry than to burn.

10 But to those joined in marriage I command—not I, but the Lord—that a wife not depart from her husband;

11 and if she departs, let her remain unmarried or be reconciled to her husband. And let a husband not dismiss his wife.

12 For to the rest I say, not the Lord: If any brother has an unbelieving wife, and she consents to dwell with him, let him not dismiss her.

13 And if any believing woman has an unbelieving husband, and he consents to dwell with her, let her not dismiss her husband;

14 for the unbelieving husband has been sanctified through the believing wife, and the unbelieving wife has been sanctified through the believing husband. Otherwise your children would be unclean, but now they are holy.

15 But if the unbeliever departs, let the unbeliever depart. For the brother or sister is not subjected to servitude in such cases; but God has called us in peace.

16 For how do you know, woman, whether you will save your husband? Or how do you know, man, whether you will save your wife?

17 Only let each one walk as the Lord has allotted to each, and as God has called each one; and so I teach in all the churches.

18 Was anyone called while circumcised? Let him not draw the foreskin forward. Was anyone called with a foreskin? Let him not be circumcised.

19 Circumcision is nothing, and the foreskin is nothing, but the observance of God’s commandments.

20 Let each one remain in the calling in which he was called.

21 Were you called as a slave? Let it not concern you. But even if you can become free, use it rather.

22 For the one called in the Lord as a slave is the Lord’s freedman; likewise, the one called while free is Christ’s servant.

23 You were bought at a price; do not become servants of men.

24 Brothers, let each one remain with God in that in which he was called.

25 Now concerning virgins, I have no command from the Lord; but I give counsel as one who has obtained mercy from the Lord to be faithful.

26 I judge, then, that because of the present necessity this is good—that it is good for a man to be so.

27 Are you bound to a wife? Do not seek to be loosed. Are you loosed from a wife? Do not seek a wife.

28 But if you take a wife, you have not sinned; and if a virgin marries, she has not sinned. Yet such people will have tribulation of the flesh. But I spare you.

29 This, then, I say, brothers: time is short. What remains is that even those who have wives be as though they had none;

30 and those who weep, as though not weeping; and those who rejoice, as though not rejoicing; and those who buy, as though not possessing;

31 and those who use this world, as though not using it; for the figure of this world is passing away.

32 But I want you to be without anxiety. The man without a wife is anxious about the things of the Lord, how he may please God.

33 But the man who is with a wife is anxious about the things of the world, how he may please his wife, and he is divided.

34 Both the unmarried woman and the virgin give thought to the things of the Lord, so as to be holy in body and spirit. But she who is married gives thought to the things of the world, how she may please her husband.

35 Now I say this for your benefit, not to cast a snare over you, but for what is honorable and what affords the opportunity of beseeching the Lord without hindrance.

36 But if anyone thinks that he appears dishonorable toward his virgin, because she has passed full age and thus it ought to happen, let him do what he wills. He does not sin if she marries.

37 For he who has determined firmly in his heart, having no necessity but having authority over his own will, and has judged this in his heart—to preserve his virgin—does well.

38 Therefore both he who joins his virgin in marriage does well, and he who does not join her does better.

39 A woman is bound by the law for as long as her husband lives; but if her husband has fallen asleep, she is freed. Let her marry whom she wills, only in the Lord.

40 But she will be happier if she remains so, according to my counsel; and I think that I too have the Spirit of God.

CHAPTER 8

1 Now concerning things sacrificed to idols, we know that we all have knowledge. Knowledge puffs up, but charity builds up.

2 But if anyone thinks that he knows something, he has not yet known as he ought to know.

3 But if anyone loves God, he is known by him.

4 Now concerning foods sacrificed to idols, we know that an idol is nothing in the world, and that there is no God except one.

5 For even if there are those called gods, whether in heaven or on earth (since indeed there are many gods and many lords),

6 yet for us there is one God, the Father, from whom are all things and unto whom we are; and one Lord Jesus Christ, through whom are all things and through whom we are.

7 But knowledge is not in everyone. Some, still with a conscience of the idol, eat it as an idol offering; and their conscience, being weak, is defiled.

8 But food does not commend us to God. For if we eat, we shall not abound; nor, if we do not eat, shall we lack.

9 But take care lest this liberty of yours become a stumbling block to the weak.

10 For if anyone sees one who has knowledge reclining in an idol’s temple, will not his conscience, since it is weak, be built up to eat things sacrificed to idols?

11 And through your knowledge shall the weak one perish—a brother for whom Christ died?

12 Thus, sinning against the brothers and wounding their weak conscience, you sin against Christ.

13 Therefore, if food scandalizes my brother, I will never eat meat, lest I scandalize my brother.

CHAPTER 9

1 Am I not free? Am I not an apostle? Have I not seen Christ Jesus our Lord? Are you not my work in the Lord?

2 Even if I am not an apostle to others, yet certainly I am to you; for you are the seal of my apostleship in the Lord.

3 My defense before those who question me is this:

4 Do we not have authority to eat and drink?

5 Do we not have authority to take along a woman, a sister, as do the other apostles, and the brothers of the Lord, and Cephas?

6 Or do Barnabas and I alone not have authority to do this?

7 Who ever serves as a soldier at his own expense? Who plants a vineyard and does not eat of its fruit? Who feeds a flock and does not eat of the flock's milk?

8 Do I say these things according to man? Or does not the law also say these things?

9 For it is written in the law of Moses: "You shall not bind the mouth of the threshing ox." Does God have care for oxen?

10 Or does he surely say this for us? For these things were written for us: because the one who plows ought to plow in hope, and the one who threshes, in hope of receiving fruit.

11 If we have sown spiritual things for you, is it a great thing if we reap your carnal things?

12 If others are partakers of authority over you, why not we rather? But we have not used this authority; instead, we endure all things, lest we give any stumbling block to the Gospel of Christ.

13 Do you not know that those who work in the sanctuary eat what comes from the sanctuary, and those who serve the altar partake with the altar?

14 So also the Lord ordained that those who announce the Gospel should live from the Gospel.

15 But I have used none of these things. Nor have I written this so that these things should be done for me; for it is better for me to die than for anyone to empty my glory.

16 For if I preach the Gospel, there is no glory for me; necessity lies upon me. For woe is me if I do not preach the Gospel.

17 For if I do this willingly, I have a reward; but if unwillingly, a dispensation has been entrusted to me.

18 What then is my reward? That in preaching the Gospel I may set forth the Gospel without cost, so as not to abuse my authority in the Gospel.

19 For though I was free from all, I made myself the servant of all, that I might gain more.

20 And to the Jews I became as a Jew, that I might gain the Jews;

21 to those who are under the law, as though I were under the law (though I myself was not under the law), that I might gain those who were under the law; to those who were without law, as though I were without law (though I was not without God's law, but was within Christ's law), that I might gain those who were without law.

22 To the weak I became weak, that I might gain the weak. I became all things to all, that I might save all.

23 And I do all things for the Gospel, that I may become a partaker of it.

24 Do you not know that those who run in the stadium all indeed run, but one receives the prize? Run so that you may take hold of it.

25 But everyone who contends in the contest abstains from all things. They indeed do so to receive a corruptible crown, but we an incorruptible one.

26 Therefore this is how I run: not toward uncertainty. This is how I fight: not as one beating the air.

27 But I chastise my body and bring it into servitude, lest perhaps, after I have preached to others, I myself should become reprobate.

CHAPTER 10

1 For I do not want you to be ignorant, brothers, that our fathers were all under the cloud and all passed through the sea;

2 and all were baptized in Moses, in the cloud and in the sea;

3 and all ate the same spiritual food;

4 and all drank the same spiritual drink (for they drank from the spiritual rock that followed them, and the rock was Christ);

5 but with most of them God was not well pleased, for they were laid low in the desert.

6 Now these things happened as a figure for us, so that we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted.

7 Nor become idolaters, as some of them did; as it is written: “The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.”

8 Nor let us commit fornication, as some of them committed fornication, and twenty-three thousand fell in one day.

9 Nor let us tempt Christ, as some of them tempted him and perished by serpents.

10 Nor murmur, as some of them murmured and perished by the destroyer.

11 Now all these things were happening to them in figure; and they were written as correction for us, upon whom the ends of the ages have come.

12 Therefore let the one who thinks he stands take care lest he fall.

13 Let no temptation seize you except a human one. But God is faithful, who will not allow you to be tempted beyond what you are able; rather, with the temptation he will also provide the outcome, so that you may be able to endure.

14 Therefore, my dearly beloved, flee from the worship of idols.

15 I speak as to prudent people; judge for yourselves what I say.

16 The cup of blessing that we bless—is it not the communion of Christ’s blood? And the bread that we break—is it not the participation of the Lord’s body?

17 Because the bread is one, we who are many are one body—all who partake of the one bread.

18 Look at Israel according to the flesh: are not those who eat the sacrifices partakers of the altar?

19 What then? Do I say that what is sacrificed to idols is anything, or that an idol is anything?

20 But the things the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to demons and not to God. And I do not want you to become partners with demons;

21 you cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons; you cannot be partakers of the Lord’s table and the table of demons.

22 Or do we provoke the Lord to jealousy? Are we stronger than he? All things are lawful to me, but not all are expedient.

23 All things are lawful to me, but not all build up.

24 Let no one seek his own good, but another’s.

25 Eat whatever comes to market, asking nothing because of conscience.

26 “The earth is the Lord’s, and its fullness.”

27 If any of the unbelievers invites you, and you wish to go, eat everything set before you, asking nothing because of conscience.

28 But if anyone says, “This has been sacrificed to idols,” do not eat, because of the one who pointed it out, and because of conscience;

29 but by conscience I mean not your own, but another’s. For why is my liberty judged by another’s conscience?

30 If I partake with gratitude, why am I blasphemed for that for which I give thanks?

31 Whether, then, you eat or drink, or whatever else you do, do all things for the glory of God.

32 Be without offense to Jews, Gentiles, and the church of God;

33 just as I also please all people in all things, not seeking what is profitable to me but what is profitable to the many, so that they may be saved.

CHAPTER 11

1 Be imitators of me, as I also am of Christ.

2 But I praise you, brothers, because you remember me in all things and hold my precepts just as I delivered them to you.

3 But I want you to know that the head of every man is Christ, the head of woman is man, and the head of Christ is God.

4 Every man praying or prophesying with his head veiled dishonors his head.

5 But every woman praying or prophesying with her head unveiled dishonors her head; for it is one and the same as if she were made bald.

6 For if a woman is not veiled, let her be shorn. But if it is shameful for a woman to be shorn or made bald, let her veil her head.

7 A man indeed ought not to veil his head, because he is the image and glory of God; but woman is the glory of man.

8 For man is not from woman, but woman from man.

9 For man was not created for woman, but woman for man.

10 Therefore a woman ought to have authority over her head because of the angels.

11 Nevertheless, neither is man without woman nor woman without man in the Lord.

12 For as woman is from man, so man also is through woman; but all things are from God.

13 Judge for yourselves: Is it fitting for an unveiled woman to pray to God?

14 Does not nature itself teach you that if a man lets his hair grow long, it is a dishonor to him,

15 but if a woman lets her hair grow long, it is a glory to her, because her hair has been given her for a veil?

16 But if anyone seems to be contentious, we have no such custom, nor does the church of God.

17 But I command this without praising you, because you assemble not for the better but for the worse.

18 First, indeed, when you assemble in church, I hear that there are divisions among you; and in part I believe it.

19 For there must also be heresies, so that those who are approved may also be made manifest among you.

20 Therefore, when you assemble together, it is no longer the Lord’s supper that you eat.

21 For each one goes ahead with eating his own supper, and one is hungry while another is drunk.

22 Do you not have houses in which to eat and drink? Or do you despise the church of God and shame those who have nothing? What shall I say to you? Shall I praise you? In this I do not praise you.

23 For I received from the Lord what I also delivered to you: that the Lord Jesus, on the night in which he was handed over, took bread,

24 and giving thanks, broke it and said, “Take and eat. This is my body, which shall be delivered for you. Do this in commemoration of me.”

25 and likewise the cup after he had supped, saying, “This cup is the new testament in my blood. Do this, as often as you drink, in commemoration of me.”

26 For as often as you eat this bread and drink the cup, you shall proclaim the death of the Lord until he comes.

27 Therefore whoever eats this bread or drinks the cup of the Lord unworthily shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord.

28 But let a man prove himself, and so let him eat of that bread and drink of the cup.

29 For whoever eats and drinks unworthily eats and drinks judgment to himself, not discerning the Lord’s body.

30 Therefore many among you are weak and sick, and many sleep.

31 But if we judged ourselves, we certainly would not be judged.

32 But while we are judged, we are chastened by the Lord, so that we may not be condemned with this world.

33 Therefore, my brothers, when you assemble to eat, wait for one another.

34 If anyone is hungry, let him eat at home, so that you may not assemble unto judgment. But the remaining matters I shall set in order when I come.

CHAPTER 12

1 Now concerning spiritual things, brothers, I do not want you to be ignorant.

2 You know that when you were Gentiles, you went to mute idols, just as you were led.

3 Therefore I make known to you that no one speaking in the Spirit of God says, “Anathema to Jesus.” And no one can say, “Jesus is Lord,” except in the Holy Spirit.

4 There are divisions of graces, but the Spirit is the same;

5 and there are divisions of ministries, but the Lord is the same;

6 and there are divisions of operations, but it is the same God who operates all things in all.

7 But to each is given the manifestation of the Spirit for benefit.

8 To one indeed, through the Spirit, is given a speech of wisdom; to another, a speech of knowledge, according to the same Spirit;

9 to another, faith in the same Spirit; to another, the grace of healings in one Spirit;

10 to another, the operation of powers; to another, prophecy; to another, discernment of spirits; to another, kinds of tongues; to another, interpretation of speeches.

11 But the one and same Spirit operates all these things, dividing to each one just as he wills.

12 For just as the body is one and has many members, while all the body’s members, though they are many, are nevertheless one body, so also is Christ.

13 For in one Spirit we were all baptized into one body, whether Jews or Gentiles, whether servants or free; and we were all made to drink in one Spirit.

14 For the body also is not one member, but many.

15 If the foot should say, “Because I am not a hand, I am not of the body,” is it therefore not of the body?

16 And if the ear should say, “Because I am not an eye, I am not of the body,” is it therefore not of the body?

17 If the whole body were an eye, where would hearing be? If the whole were hearing, where would smell be?

18 But now God has placed the members, each one of them, in the body just as he willed.

19 But if they were all one member, where would the body be?

20 But now indeed there are many members, yet one body.

21 But the eye cannot say to the hand, “I have no need of your works”; or again the head to the feet, “You are not necessary to me.”

22 But much more, the members of the body that seem to be weaker are more necessary;

23 and those we think to be less noble members of the body, around these we bestow more abundant honor; and our unseemly parts have more abundant seemliness.

24 But our seemly parts need nothing; rather, God tempered the body, bestowing more abundant honor on the part that lacked it,

25 so that there might be no schism in the body, but the members might have the same care for one another.

26 And if one member suffers anything, all the members suffer with it; or if one member glories, all the members rejoice with it.

27 Now you are the body of Christ and members from a member.

28 And God has indeed placed some in the church: first apostles, second prophets, then teachers, next powers, afterward graces of healings, helps, governments, kinds of tongues, interpretations of speeches.

29 Are all apostles? Are all prophets? Are all teachers?

30 Are all powers? Do all have the grace of healings? Do all speak in tongues? Do all interpret?

31 But desire the better charisms. And I show you a still more excellent way.

CHAPTER 13

1 If I speak with the tongues of humans and of angels, but do not have charity, I have become like sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal.

2 And if I have prophecy, and know all mysteries and all knowledge; and if I have all faith, so that I move mountains, but do not have charity, I am nothing.

3 And if I distribute all my possessions as food for the poor, and if I hand over my body so that I may burn, but do not have charity, it profits me nothing.

4 Charity is patient, is kind. Charity does not envy, does not act perversely, is not puffed up,

5 is not ambitious, does not seek the things that are its own, is not irritated, does not think evil,

6 does not rejoice over iniquity, but rejoices with truth;

7 bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things.

8 Charity never falls away: whether there are prophecies, they shall be emptied; whether there are tongues, they shall cease; whether there is knowledge, it shall be destroyed.

9 For we know in part, and we prophesy in part.

10 But when what is perfect comes, what is in part shall be emptied.

11 When I was a little child, I spoke as a little child, understood as a little child, reasoned as a little child. But when I became a man, I emptied what belonged to the little child.

12 Now we see through a mirror in an enigma; but then, face to face. Now I know in part; but then I shall know just as I also am known.

13 But now faith, hope, and charity remain, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

CHAPTER 14

1 Pursue charity; desire spiritual things, but desire still more to prophesy.

2 For one who speaks in a tongue speaks not to humans but to God, for no one hears. But in spirit he speaks mysteries.

3 For one who prophesies speaks to humans for edification and exhortation and consolation.

4 One who speaks in a tongue edifies himself; but one who prophesies edifies the church of God.

5 Now I want you all to speak in tongues, but I want you even more to prophesy. For one who prophesies is greater than one who speaks in tongues—unless perhaps he interprets, so that the church may receive edification.

6 But now, brothers, if I come to you speaking in tongues, how shall I profit you unless I speak to you either in revelation, or in knowledge, or in prophecy, or in doctrine?

7 Yet even things without a soul that give a voice, whether flute or harp—unless they give a distinction of sounds, how will what is played on the flute or on the harp be known?

8 For if the trumpet gives an uncertain voice, who will prepare himself for battle?

9 So also you: unless by the tongue you give clear speech, how will what is said be known? For you will be speaking into the air.

10 There are, as it were, so many kinds of tongues in this world, and nothing is without a voice.

11 Therefore, if I do not know the power of the voice, I shall be a barbarian to the one to whom I speak, and the one who speaks, a barbarian to me.

12 So also you, since you are zealous for spirits, seek to abound for the edification of the church.

13 And therefore, let one who speaks in a tongue pray that he may interpret.

14 For if I pray in a tongue, my spirit prays, but my mind is without fruit.

15 What then is it? I will pray with the spirit, and I will pray with the mind also; I will sing psalms with the spirit, and I will sing psalms with the mind also.

16 Otherwise, if you bless with the spirit, how will the one who fills the place of the unlearned say “Amen” over your blessing? For he does not know what you are saying.

17 For you indeed give thanks well, but the other is not edified.

18 I give thanks to my God that I speak with the tongue of all of you.

19 But in the church I prefer to speak five words with my sense, so that I may also instruct others, rather than ten thousand words in a tongue.

20 Brothers, do not become children in your senses; but be little children in malice, and be mature in your senses.

21 In the law it is written: “With other tongues and other lips I will speak to this people, and not even so will they hear me,” says the Lord.

22 And so tongues are for a sign, not to the faithful but to unbelievers; but prophecies, not to unbelievers but to the faithful.

23 Therefore, if the whole church comes together as one, and all speak in tongues, and the unlearned or unbelievers enter, will they not say that you are mad?

24 But if all prophesy, and some unbeliever or unlearned person enters, he is convicted by all, judged by all;

25 the secrets of his heart become manifest; and so, falling on his face, he will adore God, declaring that God is truly among you.

26 What then is it, brothers? When you come together, each of you has a psalm, has doctrine, has a revelation, has a tongue, has an interpretation. Let all things be done for edification.

27 If anyone speaks in a tongue, let two speak, or at most three, each in turn, and let one interpret.

28 But if there is no interpreter, let him be silent in the church, and let him speak to himself and to God.

29 But let two or three prophets speak, and let the rest judge.

30 But if something is revealed to another who is sitting, let the first be silent.

31 For you can all prophesy one by one, so that all may learn and all may be exhorted;

32 and the spirits of prophets are subject to prophets.

33 For God is not of dissension but of peace, as I teach in all the churches of the saints.

34 Let women be silent in the churches, for they are not permitted to speak, but are to be subject, as the law also says.

35 But if they wish to learn anything, let them ask their husbands at home. For it is shameful for a woman to speak in church.

36 Or did the word of God go forth from you? Or did it reach you alone?

37 If anyone seems to be a prophet or spiritual, let him know that the things I write to you are commandments of the Lord.

38 But if anyone is ignorant, he will be ignored.

39 And so, brothers, desire to prophesy, and do not forbid speaking in tongues.

40 But let all things be done honorably and according to order.

CHAPTER 15

1 Now I make known to you, brothers, the Gospel that I preached to you, which you also received, and in which you also stand,

2 through which you are also saved, if you hold to the manner in which I preached it to you—unless you believed in vain.

3 For I delivered to you first of all what I also received: that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures;

4 and that he was buried, and that he rose on the third day according to the Scriptures;

5 and that he was seen by Cephas, and after this by the eleven;

6 then he was seen by more than five hundred brothers together, of whom many remain until now, but some have fallen asleep;

7 then he was seen by James, then by all the apostles;

8 but last of all, as by one born out of due time, he was seen by me also.

9 For I am the least of the apostles, who am not worthy to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God.

10 But by God's grace I am what I am, and his grace in me was not empty; rather, I labored more abundantly than all of them—yet not I, but the grace of God with me;

11 for whether I or they, so we preach, and so you believed.

12 But if Christ is preached as having risen from the dead, how do some among you say that there is no resurrection of the dead?

13 But if there is no resurrection of the dead, neither has Christ risen.

14 But if Christ has not risen, then our preaching is empty, and your faith is empty also;

15 and we are even found to be false witnesses of God, because we bore witness against God that he raised Christ, whom he did not raise if the dead do not rise.

16 For if the dead do not rise, neither has Christ risen.

17 But if Christ has not risen, your faith is vain, for you are still in your sins.

18 Therefore those also who have fallen asleep in Christ have perished.

19 If in this life only we are hoping in Christ, we are more pitiable than all humans.

20 But now Christ has risen from the dead, the firstfruits of those who sleep,

21 since indeed through a human came death, and through a human the resurrection of the dead.

22 And as in Adam all die, so also in Christ all shall be made alive.

23 But each in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; then those who are Christ's, who believed at his coming.

24 Then the end, when he has delivered the kingdom to God and the Father, when he has abolished every principality and authority and power.

25 But he must reign until he puts all enemies under his feet.

26 But the last enemy to be destroyed is death, for he has subjected all things beneath his feet. But when he says,

27 "All things have been subjected to him," without doubt the one who subjected all things to him is excepted.

28 But when all things have been subjected to him, then the Son himself also will be subjected to him who subjected all things to himself, so that God may be all in all.

29 Otherwise what will those who are baptized for the dead do, if the dead do not rise at all? Why are they also baptized for them?

30 Why are we also in danger every hour?

31 I die daily by your glory, brothers, which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord.

32 If, in human terms, I fought with beasts at Ephesus, what does it profit me if the dead do not rise? Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we shall die.

33 Do not be led astray: evil conversations corrupt good morals.

34 Awake, just ones, and do not sin; for some have ignorance of God. I say this to bring you to reverence.

35 But someone will say: “How do the dead rise? And with what kind of body will they come?”

36 Foolish one, what you sow is not made alive unless it first dies;

37 and what you sow, you do not sow the body that is to be, but a naked grain—for instance, of wheat or of one of the others.

38 But God gives it a body as he wills, and to each of the seeds its own body.

39 Not all flesh is the same flesh; rather, one is the flesh of humans, another of beasts, another of birds, and another of fish.

40 There are also heavenly bodies and earthly bodies; but the glory of heavenly bodies is one, and that of earthly bodies another.

41 The brightness of the sun is one, the brightness of the moon another, and the brightness of the stars another. For star differs from star in brightness;

42 so also the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it will rise in incorruption.

43 It is sown in ignobility; it will rise in glory. It is sown in weakness; it will rise in power.

44 An animal body is sown; a spiritual body will rise. If there is an animal body, there is also a spiritual one, as it is written:

45 “The first man Adam was made into a living soul”; the last Adam, into a life-giving spirit.

46 But the spiritual is not first, but the animal; afterward, the spiritual.

47 The first man is from the earth, earthly; the second man is from heaven, heavenly.

48 As is the earthly, such also are the earthly; and as is the heavenly, such also are the heavenly.

49 Therefore, just as we have borne the image of the earthly, let us also bear the image of the heavenly.

50 But this I say, brothers: flesh and blood cannot possess the kingdom of God, nor will corruption possess incorruption.

51 Behold, I tell you a mystery: we shall indeed all rise, but we shall not all be changed.

52 In a moment, in the blink of an eye, at the last trumpet—for the trumpet will sound, and the dead will rise incorrupt, and we shall be changed.

53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.

54 But when this mortal has put on immortality, then shall come to pass the saying that is written: “Death is swallowed up in victory.”

55 Where, O death, is your victory? Where, O death, is your sting?

56 Now the sting of death is sin, but the power of sin is the law.

57 But thanks be to God, who has given us victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

58 Therefore, my beloved brothers, be stable and immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that your labor is not empty in the Lord.

CHAPTER 16

1 Now concerning the collections made for the saints: as I directed the churches of Galatia, so you also do.

2 On the first day of the week, let each of you set something aside privately, storing up whatever pleases him, so that collections may not be made then, when I come.

3 But when I am present, those whom you approve by letters, I will send to carry your grace to Jerusalem.

4 But if it is worthy that I also go, they will go with me.

5 But I shall come to you when I have passed through Macedonia, for I shall pass through Macedonia.

6 But perhaps I shall remain with you, or even winter there, so that you may conduct me wherever I go.

7 For I do not wish to see you now in passing, for I hope to remain with you for some little time, if the Lord permits.

8 But I shall remain at Ephesus until Pentecost.

9 For a door, great and evident, has been opened to me, and there are many adversaries.

10 But if Timothy comes, see that he may be among you without fear, for he works the work of the Lord, as I also do.

11 Therefore let no one despise him, but conduct him in peace, so that he may come to me; for I await him with the brothers.

12 Now concerning brother Apollo, I make known to you that I urged him greatly to come to you with the brothers; and indeed there was no will for him to come now, but he will come when he has opportunity.

13 Watch; stand in the faith; act manfully; be strengthened.

14 Let everything you do be done in charity.

15 Now I beseech you, brothers—you know the house of Stephanas, Fortunatus, and Achaicus, that they are the firstfruits of Achaia and have appointed themselves to the ministry of the saints—

16 that you also be subject to such as these, and to everyone who cooperates and labors.

17 And I rejoice in the presence of Stephanas and Fortunatus and Achaicus, because they have supplied what was lacking on your part;

18 for they refreshed both my spirit and yours. Therefore recognize those who are such.

19 The churches of Asia greet you. Aquila and Priscilla greet you greatly in the Lord, with their domestic church, with whom I also lodge.

20 All the brothers greet you. Greet one another with a holy kiss.

21 The greeting is Paul’s, by my own hand.

22 If anyone does not love our Lord Jesus Christ, let him be anathema. Maran Atha.

23 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

24 My charity be with all of you in Christ Jesus. Amen.

BOOK FORTY-SEVEN: 2 CORINTHIANS

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, and Timothy the brother, to the church of God that is at Corinth, with all the saints who are throughout Achaia.

2 Grace to you, and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies and the God of all consolation,

4 who consoles us in all our tribulation, so that we ourselves may also console those who are in every pressure, through the exhortation by which we ourselves also are exhorted by God.

5 For as the sufferings of Christ abound in us, so also through Christ our consolation abounds.

6 And whether we are afflicted, it is for your exhortation and salvation; or whether we are consoled, it is for your consolation; or whether we are exhorted, it is for your exhortation and salvation, which works patient endurance of the same sufferings that we also suffer,

7 so that our hope for you may be firm, knowing that as you are partners in the sufferings, so you will also be partners in the consolation.

8 For we do not want you to be ignorant, brothers, concerning our tribulation that occurred in Asia: we were burdened beyond measure, beyond our strength, so that we grew weary even of living.

9 But in our very selves we had the answer of death, so that our trust might not be in ourselves, but in God, who raises the dead;

10 who rescued us from such great dangers and delivers us; in him we hope that he will yet rescue us,

11 while you also help in prayer for us, so that from many persons, for the gift that is in us, thanks may be given through many on our behalf.

12 For this is our glory: the testimony of our conscience, that in simplicity of heart and the sincerity of God—not in fleshly wisdom, but in the grace of God—we have conducted ourselves in this world, and more abundantly toward you.

13 For we write no other things to you than what you have read and known. And I hope that you will know even to the end, 14 as you have also known us in part: that we are your glory, just as you are ours, on the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

15 And in this confidence I wished to come to you first, so that you might have a second grace,

16 and to pass through you into Macedonia, and again to come from Macedonia to you, and by you to be conducted into Judea.

17 Therefore, when I wished this, did I act lightly? Or do I plan what I plan according to the flesh, so that with me there should be Yes and No?

18 But God is faithful: our word, which was among you, is not Yes and No in him.

19 For the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who was preached among you through us—through me and Silvanus and Timothy—was not Yes and No; but in him was Yes.

20 For however many the promises of God are, in him is Yes; therefore also through him is Amen to God, unto our glory.

21 Now the one who confirms us with you in Christ, and who anointed us, is God,

22 who also sealed us and gave the pledge of the Spirit in our hearts.

23 But I call God as witness upon my soul that, sparing you, I came no farther to Corinth—not because we exercise lordship over your faith, but because we are helpers of your joy; for by faith you stand.

CHAPTER 2

1 But I determined this very thing within myself: not to come to you again in sorrow.

2 For if I grieve you, who is there to gladden me except the one who is grieved by me?

3 And I wrote this very thing to you so that, when I come, I may not have sorrow upon sorrow from those in whom I ought to rejoice, trusting in all of you, because my joy is the joy of you all.

4 For out of much tribulation and anguish of heart I wrote to you through many tears—not so that you should be grieved, but so that you might know the charity I have more abundantly toward you.

5 But if anyone has caused grief, he has not grieved me, but in part—so that I may not burden all of you.

6 For one such as this, this rebuke made by the many is sufficient,

7 so that, on the contrary, you should rather forgive him and console him, lest one such as this perhaps be swallowed by more abundant sorrow.

8 For this reason I beseech you to confirm charity toward him.

9 For I wrote for this reason also: that I might know your proof—whether you are obedient in all things.

10 And anyone whom you have forgiven anything, I also forgive. For what I have forgiven—if I have forgiven anything—I have done for your sake in the person of Christ,

11 so that we may not be circumvented by Satan; for we are not ignorant of his thoughts.

12 But when I came to Troas for the Gospel of Christ, and a door had been opened to me in the Lord,

13 I had no rest in my spirit because I did not find Titus my brother; but taking leave of them, I set out for Macedonia.

14 But thanks be to God, who always triumphs over us in Christ Jesus and manifests through us in every place the aroma of his knowledge;

15 for we are the good aroma of Christ to God, among those who are being saved and among those who are perishing:

16 to some, indeed, an aroma of death unto death; but to others an aroma of life unto life. And who is so fit for these things?

17 For we are not like the many, adulterating the word of God; but out of sincerity, but as from God, before God, in Christ, we speak.

CHAPTER 3

1 Are we beginning again to commend ourselves? Or do we need, as some do, letters of commendation to you or from you?

2 You are our letter, written in our hearts, which is known and read by all people,

3 made manifest as Christ's letter, ministered by us and written not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God; not on tablets of stone, but on fleshly tablets of the heart.

4 And such confidence we have through Christ toward God:

5 not that we are sufficient to think anything from ourselves, as though from ourselves; but our sufficiency is from God,

6 who also made us fit ministers of the new testament: not by the letter, but by the Spirit; for the letter kills, but the Spirit gives life.

7 But if the administration of death, formed with letters upon stones, was in glory, so that the sons of Israel could not gaze upon Moses's face because of the glory of his countenance, a glory that is made void,

8 how will the administration of the Spirit not be even more in glory?

9 For if the administration of condemnation is glory, much more does the ministry of justice abound in glory.

10 For even that which shone was not glorified in this respect, because of the surpassing glory.

11 For if that which is made void is through glory, much more is that which remains in glory.

12 Therefore, having such hope, we use great confidence,

13 and not as Moses used to place a veil over his face, so that the sons of Israel would not gaze upon his face, at that which is made void;

14 rather, their senses were blunted. For even to this present day, the selfsame veil remains unrevealed in the reading of the old testament (because it is made void in Christ),

15 but even to this present day, when Moses is read, a veil is placed upon their heart.

16 But when he has turned to the Lord (YHWH), the veil will be taken away.

17 Now the Lord is the Spirit; and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.

18 But we all, with unveiled face beholding the glory of the Lord, are transformed into the same image from brightness to brightness, as by the Spirit of the Lord.

CHAPTER 4

1 Therefore, having this administration, according as we have obtained mercy, we do not fail,

2 but we renounce the hidden things of shame, not walking in cunning nor adulterating the word of God, but by the manifestation of truth commending ourselves to every human conscience before God.

3 But even if our Gospel is veiled, it is veiled in those who perish,

4 in whom the god of this age has blinded the minds of unbelievers, so that the illumination of the Gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God, may not shine upon them.

5 For we do not preach ourselves, but Jesus Christ our Lord; ourselves, however, as your servants through Jesus.

6 For God, who said that light should shine out of darkness, has himself shone in our hearts, unto the illumination of the knowledge of God's brightness in the face of Christ Jesus.

7 But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, so that the sublimity may be of God's power, and not from us.

8 In all things we suffer tribulation, but are not constricted; we are perplexed, but not left destitute;

9 we suffer persecution, but are not forsaken; we are cast down, but do not perish;

10 always carrying about the mortification of Jesus in our body, so that the life of Jesus also may be manifested in our bodies.

11 For we who live are always delivered into death because of Jesus, so that the life of Jesus also may be manifested in our mortal flesh.

12 Therefore death works in us, but life in you.

13 But having the same spirit of faith, as it is written, “I believed, therefore I spoke,” we also believe, and therefore we also speak,

14 knowing that he who raised Jesus will also raise us with Jesus and will establish us with you.

15 For all things are for your sake, so that grace, abounding through many in thanksgiving, may abound unto the glory of God.

16 For this reason we do not fail; but though our outward human being is corrupted, nevertheless the inward is renewed from day to day.

17 For what is present, momentary, and light in our tribulation works in us—beyond measure, in sublimity—an eternal weight of glory,

18 while we contemplate not the things that are seen, but the things that are not seen. For the things that are seen are temporal, but the things that are not seen are eternal.

CHAPTER 5

1 For we know that if our earthly house of this habitation is dissolved, we have a building from God, a house not made by hands, eternal in the heavens.

2 For in this also we groan, longing to be clothed over with our habitation that is from heaven,

3 if indeed we are found clothed, not naked.

4 For we who are in this tabernacle also groan, burdened, because we do not wish to be unclothed, but to be clothed over, so that what is mortal may be swallowed by life.

5 But the one who fashions us for this very thing is God, who has given us the pledge of the Spirit.

6 Therefore, always courageous, knowing that while we are in the body we are pilgrims away from the Lord—

7 for we walk by faith and not by sight—

8 yet we are courageous, and we prefer to be pilgrims away from the body and to be present with the Lord.

9 And therefore we strive, whether absent or present, to please him.

10 For we all must be made manifest before the tribunal of Christ, so that each person may receive the things proper to the body, according to what each has done, whether good or evil.

11 Knowing, then, the fear of the Lord, we persuade people; but to God we are manifest. And I hope that in your consciences also we are manifest.

12 We are not commending ourselves to you again, but giving you an occasion to boast on our behalf, so that you may have it for those who boast in face and not in heart.

13 For whether we are beside ourselves, it is for God; or whether we are sober, it is for you.

14 For the charity of Christ presses us, judging this: that if one died for all, then all died;

15 and Christ died for all, so that those who live, too, may now no longer live for themselves, but for him who died for them and rose again.

16 And so, from now on, we know no one according to the flesh. And even if we have known Christ according to the flesh, yet now we know him so no longer.

17 Therefore, if anyone is in Christ—a new creature. Old things have passed away; behold, all things have become new.

18 But all things are from God, who reconciled us to himself through Christ and gave us the ministry of reconciliation:

19 for indeed God was in Christ reconciling the world to himself, not reckoning their offenses to them, and he placed in us the word of reconciliation.

20 Therefore we serve as ambassadors on Christ’s behalf, as though God were exhorting through us. We beseech you on Christ’s behalf: be reconciled to God.

21 He made him who knew no sin to be sin for us, so that we might become the justice of God in him.

CHAPTER 6

1 And as helpers, we exhort you not to receive the grace of God into emptiness.

2 For he says, “In an accepted time I heard you, and on the day of salvation I helped you.” Behold, now is the acceptable time; behold, now is the day of salvation.

3 Giving no offense to anyone, so that our ministry may not be blamed,

4 but in all things let us present ourselves as ministers of God: in much patience, in tribulations, in necessities, in straits,

5 in blows, in prisons, in seditions, in labors, in vigils, in fastings;

6 in chastity, in knowledge, in longsuffering, in sweetness, in the Holy Spirit, in unfeigned charity;

7 in the word of truth, in the power of God, through the weapons of justice on the right and on the left;

8 through glory and ignobility, through infamy and good fame; as deceivers and yet true; as unknown and yet known;

9 as though dying, and behold, we live; as chastened and not killed;

10 as though sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as needy, yet enriching many; as though having nothing, yet possessing all things.

11 Our mouth is open to you, O Corinthians; our heart is enlarged.

12 You are not constricted in us, but you are constricted in your bowels.

13 But having the same recompense—I speak as to children—be enlarged yourselves also.

14 Do not draw a yoke with unbelievers. For what participation has justice with iniquity? Or what fellowship has light with darkness?

15 And what agreement has Christ with Belial? Or what part has a believer with an unbeliever?

16 And what consent has the temple of God with idols? For you are the temple of the living God, as God says: “For I will dwell in them and walk among them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

17 Therefore, come out from their midst and be separated, says the Lord, and do not touch what is unclean;

18 and I will receive you, and I will be a father to you, and you will be sons and daughters to me, says the Lord Almighty.”

CHAPTER 7

1 Therefore, having these promises, beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from every contamination of flesh and spirit, perfecting sanctification in the fear of God.

2 Receive us. We have harmed no one, corrupted no one, circumvented no one.

3 I do not say this for your condemnation; for we have said before that you are in our hearts, to die together and to live together.

4 Much is my confidence toward you; much is my boasting on your behalf. I am filled with consolation; I superabound in joy in all our tribulation.

5 For even when we had come into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we suffered every tribulation: battles outside, fears within.

6 But God, who consoles the lowly, consoled us by the arrival of Titus.

7 And not only by his arrival, but also by the consolation with which he was consoled among you, reporting to us your longing, your weeping, your zeal for me, so that I rejoiced all the more.

8 For though I grieved you in the letter, I do not regret it; even if I had regretted it, seeing that that letter grieved you—though only for an hour—

9 now I rejoice—not because you were grieved, but because you were grieved into repentance. For you were grieved toward God, so that you might suffer no loss from us in anything.

10 For sorrow that is according to God works repentance into a stable salvation, but the sorrow of the age works death.

11 For behold, this very thing—your being grieved according to God—what great solicitude it works in you; but what defense, but what indignation, but what fear, but what desire, but what zeal, but what vengeance. In all things you showed yourselves to be uncontaminated in the matter.

12 Therefore, though I wrote to you, it was not because of the one who did the injury, nor because of the one who suffered it, but to make manifest our solicitude, which we have for you

13 before God; therefore we were consoled. But in our consolation we rejoiced all the more abundantly over the joy of Titus, because his spirit was refreshed by all of you.

14 And if I boasted of anything about you before him, I was not put to shame; but just as we spoke all things to you in truth, so also our boasting before Titus became truth,

15 and his bowels are all the more toward you, as he remembers the obedience of all of you—how you received him with fear and trembling.

16 I rejoice that in all things I am confident in you.

CHAPTER 8

1 Now we make known to you, brothers, the grace of God that has been given in the churches of Macedonia:

2 that in a great testing of tribulation there was an abundance of their joy, and their deepest poverty abounded into the riches of their simplicity;

3 for I bear witness concerning them: according to ability, and beyond ability, they were willing,

4 beseeching us with much exhortation for the grace and communion of the ministry that is carried out toward the saints.

5 And not as we had hoped, but they gave themselves first to the Lord, then to us through the will of God,

6 so that we asked Titus to complete this grace in you also, in the same way as he began it.

7 But as you abound in all things—in faith, in speech, in knowledge, in every solicitude, and besides, in your charity toward us—may you also abound in this grace.

8 I do not speak as though commanding, but through the solicitude of others, testing also the good quality of your charity.

9 For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ: that for your sake he became needy, though he was rich, so that through his need you might be rich.

10 And in this I give counsel; for this is useful to you, who began in the previous year not only to do, but also to will:

11 now, then, complete it also in deed, so that, just as there is readiness of will, there may also be completion from what you have.

12 For if the will is ready, it is accepted according to what one has, not according to what one does not have.

13 For it is not that there should be ease for others and tribulation for you, but from equality.

14 At the present time let your abundance supply their need, so that their abundance also may be a supplement for your need, so that there may be equality, as it is written:

15 “He who had much did not abound, and he who had little did not diminish.”

16 But thanks be to God, who gave the same solicitude for you in the heart of Titus,

17 for indeed he received the exhortation; but since he was more solicitous, of his own will he set out toward you.

18 We also sent with him the brother whose praise is in the Gospel throughout all the churches;

19 and not only this, but he was also appointed by the churches as the companion of our journey in this grace, which is administered by us for the Lord’s glory and our destined will;

20 avoiding this: that anyone should blame us in this fullness which is administered by us.

21 For we provide good things not only before God, but also before people.

22 And with them we have also sent our brother, whom we have often proved to be solicitous in many things, and now far more solicitous, with great confidence in you,

23 whether concerning Titus, who is my companion and a helper toward you, or our brothers, apostles of the churches, the glory of Christ.

24 Therefore show toward them, before the face of the churches, the demonstration of your charity and of our glory on your behalf.

CHAPTER 9

1 For it is beyond necessity for me to write to you concerning the ministry carried out toward the saints.

2 For I know your ready mind, for which I boast of you among the Macedonians: that Achaia too has been ready since the previous year, and your zeal has provoked very many.

3 But I sent the brothers so that our boasting about you may not be made void in this respect, and so that, as I said, you may be ready,

4 lest, when Macedonians come with me and find you unprepared, we—not to say you—should be ashamed in this substance.

5 Therefore I thought it necessary to ask the brothers to go ahead to you and prepare this promised blessing to be ready thus: as a blessing, not as avarice.

6 But this I say: he who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and he who sows in blessings will also reap from blessings.

7 Each one, according as he has determined in his heart—not from sorrow or from necessity; for God loves a cheerful giver.

8 And God is able to make every grace abound in you, so that in all things, always having all sufficiency, you may abound in every good work,

9 as it is written: “He dispersed; he gave to the poor; his justice remains into the age of the age.”

10 And he who provides seed to the sower will also furnish bread for eating, and will multiply your seed, and will increase the growths of the fruits of your justice,

11 so that, enriched in all things, you may abound into every simplicity, which through us works thanksgiving to God.

12 For the ministry of this service not only supplies the things the saints lack, but also abounds through many thanksgivings in the Lord,

13 as, through the proof of this ministry, they glorify God in the obedience of your confession into the Gospel of Christ, and in the simplicity of your communion toward them and toward all,

14 and in their supplication for you, as they long for you because of the eminent grace of God in you.

15 Thanks be to God for his unspeakable gift.

CHAPTER 10

1 Now I myself, Paul, appeal to you through the meekness and modesty of Christ—I who indeed am humble among you face-to-face, but while absent am confident toward you.

2 But I beg you that, when present, I may not have to dare with that confidence with which I am thought to dare against certain people who judge us as though we walk according to flesh.

3 For though walking in flesh, we do not wage war according to flesh.

4 For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but powerful before God for the destruction of fortifications, as we destroy counsels,

5 and every height that exalts itself against the knowledge of God, and lead every intellect captive into the obedience of Christ,

6 and stand ready to avenge every disobedience when your obedience has been fulfilled.

7 Look at what is before your face. If anyone trusts in himself that he is Christ's, let him consider this again within himself: that just as he is Christ's, so also are we.

8 For even if I should boast somewhat more of our authority, which the Lord gave us for building and not for your destruction, I will not be ashamed.

9 But lest I seem as though I would terrify you through letters—

10 for "His letters," they say, "are weighty and strong, but his bodily presence is weak, and his speech contemptible"—

11 let such a person consider this: that as we are in word through letters when absent, so we are in deed when present.

12 For we do not dare to insert ourselves among or compare ourselves with certain people who commend themselves; but we ourselves, measuring ourselves within ourselves and comparing ourselves with ourselves.

13 But we will not boast immeasurably, but according to the measure of the rule God measured out to us—a measure reaching even as far as you.

14 For we do not overextend ourselves, as though not reaching you; for we came as far as you in the Gospel of Christ.

15 We do not boast immeasurably in the labors of others; but we have hope that, as your faith grows, we may be magnified in you according to our rule into abundance, 16 even to evangelize the regions beyond you, not to boast in another's rule over things already prepared.

17 But "the one who glories, let him glory in the Lord."

18 For it is not the one who commends himself who is approved, but the one whom God commends.

CHAPTER 11

1 Would that you bore with a little of my foolishness—but also bear with me.

2 For I am jealous over you with God's jealousy. For I betrothed you to one man, to present you as a chaste virgin to Christ.

3 But I fear that, just as the serpent deceived Eve by his cunning, so your senses may be corrupted and fall away from the simplicity that is in Christ.

4 For if the one who comes preaches another Christ whom we did not preach, or you receive another spirit whom you did not receive, or another Gospel which you did not receive, you would bear it well.

5 For I reckon that I have done nothing less than the great Apostles.

6 For though unskilled in speech, I am not in knowledge; but in all things we have been made manifest to you.

7 Or did I commit a sin by humbling myself so that you might be exalted, because I evangelized God's Gospel to you without charge?

8 I plundered other churches, taking a stipend for ministry to you.

9 And when I was with you and in need, I was burdensome to no one, for what I lacked the brothers who came from Macedonia supplied; and in all things I kept myself without burden to you, and will keep myself so.

10 The truth of Christ is in me: this boasting shall not be broken in me in the regions of Achaia.

11 Why? Because I do not love you? God knows.

12 But what I do, I also will do, so that I may cut off the opportunity of those who desire an opportunity, that in what they boast they may be found even as we are.

13 For such people are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into apostles of Christ.

14 And no wonder, for Satan himself transforms himself into an angel of light.

15 It is therefore no great thing if his ministers are transformed as though ministers of justice; their end will be according to their works.

16 Again I say (let no one think me foolish; otherwise, receive me as foolish, so that I too may boast a little):

17 what I speak, I do not speak according to God, but as in foolishness, in this substance of glory.

18 Since many boast according to flesh, I also will boast.

19 For you gladly tolerate the foolish, though you yourselves are wise.

20 For you tolerate it if someone brings you into slavery, if someone devours you, if someone takes, if someone exalts himself, if someone strikes you in the face.

21 To our dishonor I say it, as though we had been weak in this regard. But in whatever anyone dares—I speak in foolishness—I too dare:

22 They are Hebrews; I also. They are Israelites; I also. They are Abraham's seed; I also.

23 They are ministers of Christ—I speak as one less wise—I more so: in very many labors, in prisons more abundantly, in blows beyond measure, in deaths frequently.

24 From the Jews, five times I received forty blows less one.

25 Three times I was beaten with rods; once I was stoned; three times I suffered shipwreck; a night and a day I was in the deep sea,

26 in journeys often, in dangers from rivers, dangers from robbers, dangers from my own race, dangers from Gentiles, dangers in the city, dangers in the wilderness, dangers in the sea, dangers among false brothers;

27 in labor and hardship, in many vigils, in hunger and thirst, in many fasts, in cold and nakedness,

28 besides those things that are outside, my daily urgency, the concern for all the churches.

29 Who is weak, and I am not weak? Who is scandalized, and I do not burn?

30 If I must boast, I will boast of the things of my infirmity.

31 The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who is blessed into the ages, knows that I do not lie.

32 At Damascus, the official of King Aretas's nation was guarding the city of the Damascenes so that he might seize me;

33 and through a window I was lowered in a basket, down the wall, and thus escaped his hands.

CHAPTER 12

1 If I must boast (indeed, it is not expedient), I will come, however, to visions and revelations of the Lord.

2 I know a man in Christ, fourteen years ago—whether in the body I do not know, or outside the body I do not know; God knows—such a one caught up as far as the third heaven.

3 And I know such a man—whether in the body or outside the body I do not know; God knows—

4 that he was caught up into paradise and heard secret words which it is not lawful for a human to speak.

5 For such a one I will boast; but for myself I will boast of nothing except my infirmities.

6 For even if I should wish to boast, I will not be foolish, for I will speak truth; but I refrain, lest anyone reckon me above what he sees in me or what he hears from me.

7 And lest the magnitude of the revelations exalt me, there was given to me a thorn of my flesh, an angel of Satan, who should strike me with fists.

8 Because of this I asked the Lord three times that he might depart from me;

9 and he said to me, “My grace is sufficient for you, for power is perfected in infirmity.” Therefore I will gladly boast in my infirmities, so that the power of Christ may dwell in me.

10 Because of this I am pleased in my infirmities, in insults, in necessities, in persecutions, in straits for Christ; for when I am weak, then I am powerful.

11 I have become foolish; you compelled me. For I ought to have been commended by you, for I was nothing less than those who are apostles above measure, although I am nothing.

12 Yet the signs of my apostleship were wrought among you in all patience, in signs and wonders and powers.

13 For what did you have less than the other churches, except that I myself did not burden you? Forgive me this injury.

14 Behold, this third time I am ready to come to you, and I will not be burdensome to you. For I do not seek what is yours, but you. For children ought not lay up treasure for parents, but parents for children.

15 But I will most gladly spend and myself be utterly spent for your souls, though the more I love you, the less I am loved.

16 But let it be so: “I did not burden you; yet, being crafty, I caught you by guile.”

17 Did I circumvent you through any of those whom I sent to you?

18 I entreated Titus, and sent the brother with him. Did Titus circumvent you? Did we not walk in the same spirit? Did we not walk in the same footsteps?

19 Have you long thought that we are excusing ourselves before you? Before God in Christ we speak; but all things, beloved, are for your building.

20 For I fear lest perhaps, when I come, I may find you not such as I wish, and I may be found by you such as you do not wish; lest perhaps contentions, emulations, animosities, dissensions, detractions, whisperings, inflations, and seditions be among you;

21 lest, when I come again, God humble me among you, and I mourn many of those who sinned before and have not repented of the uncleanness and fornication and immodesty which they practiced.

CHAPTER 13

1 Behold, this third time I am coming to you: “In the mouth of two or three witnesses every word shall stand.”

2 I warned before, and now while absent I warn as though present, those who sinned before and all the rest: if I come again, I will not spare.

3 Do you seek proof of the one who speaks in me—Christ, who is not weak in you, but powerful in you?

4 For though he was crucified from infirmity, yet he lives from the power of God. For we also are weak in him, but we shall live with him from the power of God in you.

5 Test your own selves, whether you are in the faith; prove your own selves. Or do you not know your own selves, that Christ Jesus is in you—unless perhaps you are reprobate?

6 But I hope that you will know that we are not reprobate.

7 But we pray to God that you do no evil—not that we may appear approved, but that you may do what is good, while we may be as reprobates.

8 For we can do nothing against truth, but for truth.

9 For we rejoice because we are weak but you are powerful. This also we pray for: your completion.

10 Therefore I write these things while absent, so that when present I may not act more harshly according to the authority the Lord gave me for building and not for destruction.

11 For the rest, brothers, rejoice; be made complete; be exhorted; be of the same mind; have peace; and the God of peace and love will be with you.

12 Greet one another with a holy kiss. All the saints greet you.

13 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the charity of God, and the communion of the Holy Spirit be with all of you. Amen.

BOOK FORTY-EIGHT: GALATIANS

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, an apostle—not from men, nor through a man, but through Jesus Christ and God the Father, who raised him from the dead—

2 and all the brothers who are with me, to the churches of Galatia.

3 Grace to you, and peace from God the Father and our Lord Jesus Christ,

4 who gave himself for our sins, that he might rescue us from the present evil age, according to the will of God and our Father,

5 to whom is glory for ages of ages. Amen.

6 I marvel that you are being moved away so very quickly from the one who called you into the grace of Christ, to another Gospel—

7 which is not another, except that there are some who trouble you and wish to turn the Gospel of Christ.

8 But even if we, or an angel from heaven, should evangelize to you beyond what we evangelized to you, let him be anathema.

9 As we said before, so now I say again: if anyone evangelizes to you beyond what you received, let him be anathema.

10 For am I now persuading men, or God? Or am I seeking to please men? If I were still pleasing men, I would not be Christ's servant.

11 For I make known to you, brothers, that the Gospel evangelized by me is not according to a human:

12 for neither did I receive it from a human, nor did I learn it, but through the revelation of Jesus Christ.

13 For you have heard of my former conduct in Judaism: that beyond measure I persecuted the church of God and attacked it,

14 and I advanced in Judaism beyond many of my contemporaries among my own kindred, being far more zealous for my ancestral traditions.

15 But when it pleased him who set me apart from my mother's womb and called me through his grace,

16 to reveal his Son in me, that I might evangelize him among the Gentiles, immediately I did not yield to flesh and blood,

17 nor did I go to Jerusalem to the apostles who preceded me; but I went away into Arabia, and again returned to Damascus.

18 Then after three years I came to Jerusalem to see Peter, and remained with him fifteen days.

19 But I saw none other of the apostles, except James, the brother of the Lord.

20 Now what I write to you—behold, before God, I do not lie.

21 Then I came into the regions of Syria and Cilicia.

22 But I was unknown by face to the churches of Judea that were in Christ;

23 and they had only heard that the one who once persecuted us now evangelizes the faith that he once attacked;

24 and in me they glorified God.

CHAPTER 2

1 Then after fourteen years I went up again to Jerusalem with Barnabas, and with Titus also taken along.

2 Now I went up according to revelation, and conferred with them concerning the Gospel that I preach among the Gentiles, but separately with those who seemed to be something, lest perhaps I might be running, or might have run, in vain.

3 But not even Titus, who was with me, though he was a Gentile, was compelled to be circumcised;

4 but because of false brothers brought in secretly, who came in secretly to spy out our liberty, which we have in Christ Jesus, so that they might reduce us into servitude.

5 To them we yielded in subjection not even for an hour, so that the truth of the Gospel might remain with you.

6 But as for those who seemed to be something (what sort they once were is no concern of mine; God does not accept the face of a human), those who seemed to be something contributed nothing to me.

7 But on the contrary, when they saw that the Gospel of the foreskin had been entrusted to me, just as that of the circumcision to Peter—

8 for he who worked in Peter unto the apostleship of circumcision worked also in me among the Gentiles—

9 and when they had recognized the grace that was given to me, James and Cephas and John, who seemed to be pillars, gave the right hands of fellowship to me and Barnabas, so that we should go among the Gentiles, but they among the circumcision;

10 only that we should remember the poor, the very thing I was also careful to do.

11 But when Cephas came to Antioch, I resisted him to his face, because he was blameworthy.

12 For before certain men came from James, he ate with the Gentiles; but when they had come, he drew back and separated himself, fearing those who were of the circumcision.

13 And the other Jews joined in his pretense, so that Barnabas also was led away by them into that pretense.

14 But when I saw that they were not walking rightly toward the truth of the Gospel, I said to Cephas before them all: If you, though you are a Jew, live in a Gentile way and not in a Jewish way, how do you compel the Gentiles to Judaize?

15 We, Jews by nature and not sinners from among the Gentiles,

16 yet knowing that a human is not justified by works of the law, except through the faith of Jesus Christ, we also believe in Christ Jesus, that we may be justified by the faith of Christ and not by works of the law; for this reason, no flesh will be justified by works of the law.

17 But if, while seeking to be justified in Christ, we ourselves also have been found sinners, is Christ then a minister of sin? Far be it.

18 For if I build again the very things I destroyed, I make myself a transgressor.

19 For I, through the law, have died to the law, that I may live to God: I have been crucified with Christ.

20 And I live, now no longer I; but Christ lives in me. And what I now live in the flesh, I live in the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and delivered himself for me.

21 I do not reject the grace of God. For if justice is through the law, then Christ died in vain.

CHAPTER 3

1 O senseless Galatians, who has bewitched you not to obey the truth, before whose eyes Jesus Christ was set forth, crucified in you?

2 This only I wish to learn from you: did you receive the Spirit from works of the law, or from the hearing of faith?

3 Are you so foolish that, having begun with the Spirit, you are now being perfected by flesh?

4 Have you suffered such things without cause? If indeed without cause.

5 He, then, who supplies the Spirit to you and works powers in you—does he do so from works of the law, or from the hearing of faith?

6 As it is written: “Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him unto justice.”

7 Know, therefore, that those who are of faith are sons of Abraham.

8 But Scripture, foreseeing that God justifies the Gentiles from faith, pre-announced to Abraham: “All Gentiles shall be blessed in you.”

9 Therefore, those who are of faith shall be blessed with believing Abraham.

10 For all who are of works of the law are under a curse. For it is written: “Cursed is everyone who does not continue in all things that are written in the book of the law, to do them.”

11 Now it is manifest that no one is justified in the law before God, because “the just lives from faith.”

12 But the law is not from faith; rather, “The one who does them shall live in them.”

13 Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law, having been made a curse for us, because it is written: “Cursed is everyone who hangs upon wood,”

14 so that the blessing of Abraham might come to be among the Gentiles in Christ Jesus, so that we might receive the promise of the Spirit through faith.

15 Brothers (I speak according to man), yet no one spurns a human testament once confirmed or adds to it.

16 The promises were spoken to Abraham and to his seed. It does not say, “And to seeds,” as though to many, but as though to one: “And to your seed,” who is Christ.

17 Now I say this: the law, which was made four hundred and thirty years later, does not make void the testament confirmed by God, so as to empty the promise.

18 For if the inheritance is from the law, it is no longer from promise. But God gave it to Abraham through a promise.

19 What, then, is the law? It was placed because of transgressions until the seed should come, to whom he had promised, and was arranged through angels in the hand of a mediator.

20 Now a mediator is not of one; but God is one.

21 Is the law, then, against the promises of God? Far be it! For if a law had been given that could make alive, justice truly would be from the law.

22 But Scripture enclosed all things under sin, so that the promise from the faith of Jesus Christ might be given to those who believe.

23 But before faith came, we were guarded under the law, enclosed unto that faith which was to be revealed.

24 And so the law was our pedagogue in Christ, so that we might be justified from faith.

25 But when faith came, we are no longer under a pedagogue.

26 For you are all sons of God through faith, which is in Christ Jesus.

27 For as many of you as were baptized in Christ have put on Christ.

28 There is no Jew nor Greek; there is no servant nor free person; there is no male nor female. For all of you are one in Christ Jesus.

29 But if you are Christ’s, then you are Abraham’s seed, heirs according to promise.

CHAPTER 4

1 Now I say: for as long as the heir is a little child, he differs in nothing from a servant, though he is owner of all;

2 but he is under tutors and administrators until the time fixed beforehand by the father.

3 So also we, when we were little children, were serving under the elements of the world.

4 But when the fullness of time came, God sent his Son, made from a woman, made under the law,

5 so that he might redeem those who were under the law, so that we might receive the adoption of sons.

6 And because you are sons, God sent the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying: “Abba, Father.”

7 Therefore, he is now no longer a servant, but a son; and if a son, then also an heir through God.

8 But then, indeed, not knowing God, you served those who by nature are not gods.

9 But now that you have come to know God—or rather, have been known by God—how are you turning again to the weak and needy elements, which you wish to serve anew?

10 You observe days, and months, and times, and years.

11 I fear for you, lest perhaps I have labored in you without cause.

12 Be as I, because I also am as you; brothers, I beseech you. You harmed me nothing.

13 But you know that through infirmity of flesh I evangelized to you formerly; and your trial in my flesh—

14 you did not spurn or reject, but received me as an angel of God, as Christ Jesus.

15 Where, then, is your blessedness? For I bear witness to you that, if it could have been done, you would have plucked out your eyes and given them to me.

16 Have I then become your enemy by speaking truth to you?

17 They zealously pursue you, not well; but they wish to exclude you, so that you may zealously pursue them.

18 But always zealously pursue the good in good, and not only when I am present with you.

19 My little sons, whom I am laboring to bear again, until Christ is formed in you—

20 I wish I could be with you now and change my voice, because I am confounded in you.

21 Tell me, you who wish to be under the law: have you not read the law?

22 For it is written that Abraham had two sons: one from the slavewoman and one from the freewoman.

23 But the one from the slavewoman was born according to flesh, whereas the one from the freewoman through promise.

24 These things are said through allegory. For these are two testaments. One, indeed, on Mount Sinai, generating into servitude—which is Hagar.

25 For Sinai is a mountain in Arabia, joined to the Jerusalem that now is; and she serves with her children.

26 But the Jerusalem above is free, and she is our mother.

27 For it is written: “Rejoice, barren woman, who do not bear; break forth and cry, you who are not in labor: for many are the sons of the deserted woman, more than those of her who has a husband.”

28 But we, brothers, according to Isaac, are sons of promise.

29 But just as then he who had been born according to flesh persecuted him who was according to spirit, so also now.

30 But what does Scripture say? “Cast out the slavewoman and her son; for the son of the slavewoman shall not be heir with the son of the freewoman.”

31 Therefore, brothers, we are not sons of the slavewoman, but of the freewoman: by the freedom with which Christ freed us.

CHAPTER 5

1 Stand, and do not be held again by a yoke of servitude.

2 Behold, I, Paul, tell you that if you are circumcised, Christ will profit you nothing.

3 Again I testify to every man who circumcises himself that he is a debtor to do the entire law.

4 You have been emptied from Christ, you who are justified in the law; you have fallen from grace.

5 For by the Spirit, from faith, we await the hope of justice.

6 For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision avails anything nor foreskin, but faith that works through charity.

7 You were running well. Who hindered you from obeying the truth?

8 This persuasion is not from him who calls you.

9 A little leaven corrupts the whole mass.

10 I trust in you in the Lord that you will think nothing else; but the one who troubles you will bear judgment, whoever he is.

11 But I, brothers, if I still preach circumcision, why do I still suffer persecution? Therefore the scandal of the cross has been emptied.

12 Would that those who trouble you might even be cut off.

13 For you, brothers, were called into liberty; only do not give liberty as an occasion for the flesh, but through the charity of the Spirit serve one another.

14 For the whole law is fulfilled in one word: “You shall love your neighbor as yourself.”

15 But if you bite and eat one another, see that you are not consumed by one another.

16 But I say: Walk by the Spirit, and you will not fulfill the desires of the flesh.

17 For the flesh desires against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; for these oppose one another, so that you do not do whatever you wish.

18 But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law.

19 Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are fornication, uncleanness, immodesty, debauchery,

20 servitude to idols, sorceries, enmities, contentions, emulations, wraths, quarrels, dissensions, sects,

21 envies, homicides, drunkennesses, revelries, and things like these, of which I warn you beforehand, as I warned you beforehand: those who do such things will not attain the kingdom of God.

22 But the fruit of the Spirit is charity, joy, peace, patience, benignity, goodness, longanimity,

23 meekness, faith, modesty, continence, chastity. Against such there is no law.

24 But those who are Christ's have crucified their flesh with vices and desires.

25 If we live by the Spirit, let us also walk by the Spirit.

26 Let us not become desirous of vain glory, provoking one another, envying one another.

CHAPTER 6

1 Brothers, even if a man has been overtaken in some offense, you who are spiritual, instruct such a one in a spirit of gentleness, considering yourself, lest you too be tempted.

2 Bear one another's burdens, and so you will fulfill the law of Christ.

3 For if anyone thinks himself to be something, when he is nothing, he deceives himself.

4 But let each one prove his own work, and so he will have glory only in himself, and not in another.

5 For each one will bear his own burden.

6 But let the one who is catechized in the word share in all good things with the one who catechizes him.

7 Do not go astray: God is not mocked.

8 For whatever a man sows, that he will also reap. For he who sows in his flesh will also reap corruption from the flesh; but he who sows in the spirit will reap eternal life from the spirit.

9 But let us not fail in doing good; for in its own time we will reap, if we do not fail.

10 Therefore, while we have time, let us do good to all, but especially to the household of faith.

11 See with what kind of letters I have written to you with my hand.

12 For all who wish to please in the flesh—these compel you to be circumcised, only so that they may not suffer persecution for the cross of Christ.

13 For neither do those who are circumcised keep the law; but they wish you to be circumcised so that they may glory in your flesh.

14 But far be it from me to glory, except in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom the world has been crucified to me, and I to the world.

15 For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision avails anything nor foreskin, but a new creation.

16 And all who will have followed this rule: peace upon them, and mercy, and upon the Israel of God.

17 For the rest, let no one be troublesome to me; for I bear the stigmas of the Lord Jesus in my body.

18 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit, brothers. Amen.

BOOK FORTY-NINE: EPHESIANS

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, to all the saints who are at Ephesus, and the faithful in Christ Jesus.

2 Grace to you, and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who blessed us with every spiritual blessing in heavenly places in Christ,

4 just as he chose us in him before the foundation of the world, that we might be holy and immaculate in his sight in charity,

5 who predestined us unto the adoption of sons through Jesus Christ unto himself, according to the purpose of his will,

6 for praise of the glory of his grace, with which he graced us in his beloved Son.

7 In whom we have redemption through his blood, the remission of sins according to the riches of his grace,

8 which superabounded in us in all wisdom and prudence:

9 that he might make known to us the sacrament of his will, according to his good pleasure, which he purposed in him,

10 in the dispensation of the fullness of times, to restore all things in Christ, those that are in the heavens and those that are on earth, in him;

11 in whom we also have been called by lot, predestined according to the purpose of him who works all things according to the counsel of his will,

12 that we may be for praise of his glory, we who hoped beforehand in Christ;

13 in whom you also, when you had heard the word of truth, the Gospel of your salvation, in whom also believing, were sealed with the Holy Spirit of promise,

14 who is the pledge of our inheritance, unto the redemption of acquisition, unto praise of his glory.

15 For this reason I also, hearing of your faith which is in the Lord Jesus and your love toward all the saints,

16 do not cease giving thanks for you, making remembrance of you in my prayers:

17 that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give you a spirit of wisdom and revelation in recognition of him,

18 with the eyes of your heart enlightened, that you may know what is the hope of his calling, and what are the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints,

19 and what is the surpassing greatness of his power toward us who believe, according to the operation of the might of his power,

20 which he worked in Christ, raising him from the dead and setting him at his right hand in heavenly places:

21 above every principality and authority and power and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this age but also in the future age.

22 And he subjected all things beneath his feet, and gave him as head over every church,

23 which is his body, and the fullness of him who is filled all in all.

CHAPTER 2

1 And you, when you were dead in your offenses and sins,

2 in which you once walked according to the age of this world, according to the prince of the power of this air, of the spirit who now works in the sons of distrust,

3 among whom we all also once conducted ourselves in the desires of our flesh, doing the will of the flesh and of thoughts, and were by nature sons of wrath, as also the rest:

4 but God, who is rich in mercy, because of his exceeding charity with which he loved us,

5 even when we were dead in sins, made us alive together in Christ (by whose grace you are saved),

6 and raised us together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus:

7 that he might show in the coming ages the abundant riches of his grace, in goodness upon us in Christ Jesus.

8 For by grace you are saved through faith, and this is not from yourselves; for it is the gift of God:

9 not from works, so that no one may glory.

10 For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus in good works, which God prepared that we may walk in them.

11 Therefore remember that once you, Gentiles in the flesh, who are called foreskin by what is called circumcision in the flesh, made by hand:

12 because at that time you were without Christ, alienated from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers to the testaments, having no hope of the promise, and without God in this world.

13 But now in Christ Jesus, you who were once far away have been made near in the blood of Christ.

14 For he himself is our peace, who made both one, dissolving the middle wall of the enclosure, the enmities in his flesh,

15 emptying the law of commandments in decrees, that he might create the two in himself into one new man, making peace:

16 and might reconcile both in one body to God through the cross, slaying the enmities in himself.

17 And coming, he evangelized peace to you who were far away, and peace to those who were near.

18 For through him we both have access in one Spirit to the Father.

19 Therefore you are now no longer strangers and newcomers, but you are citizens with the saints and members of God's household,

20 built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus himself being the chief cornerstone:

21 in whom every building constructed grows into a holy temple in the Lord,

22 in whom you also are being built together into a habitation of God in the Spirit.

CHAPTER 3

1 For this reason, I Paul, prisoner of Christ Jesus, for you Gentiles,

2 if indeed you have heard of the dispensation of God's grace, which was given to me in you:

3 because according to revelation the sacrament was made known to me, as I wrote above briefly,

4 as you can, by reading, understand my prudence in the mystery of Christ:

5 which in other generations was not known to the sons of men, as it has now been revealed to his holy apostles and prophets in the Spirit,

6 that the Gentiles are coheirs, and of the same body, and co-partakers of his promise in Christ Jesus through the Gospel:

7 of which I was made a minister according to the gift of God's grace, which was given to me according to the operation of his power.

8 To me, the least of all the saints, this grace was given: to evangelize among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ,

9 and to enlighten all as to what is the dispensation of the sacrament hidden from the ages in God, who created all things:

10 so that the manifold wisdom of God may be made known through the church to principalities and powers in heavenly places,

11 according to the foreordination of the ages, which he made in Christ Jesus our Lord:

12 in whom we have boldness and access in confidence through his faith.

13 For this reason I ask that you not fail in my tribulations for you, which is your glory.

14 For this reason I bend my knees to the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,

15 from whom every fatherhood in the heavens and on earth is named,

16 that he may grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with power through his Spirit into the inner man,

17 that Christ may dwell through faith in your hearts; being rooted and founded in charity,

18 that you may be able to comprehend with all the saints what is the width and length and height and depth:

19 and also to know the charity of Christ surpassing knowledge, that you may be filled unto all the fullness of God.

20 Now to him who is able to do all things superabundantly beyond what we ask or understand, according to the power that works in us:

21 to him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus, unto all generations of the age of ages. Amen.

CHAPTER 4

1 Therefore I, a prisoner in the Lord, beseech you to walk worthily of the calling by which you were called,

2 with all humility and meekness, with patience, supporting one another in charity,

3 careful to preserve the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

4 One body and one Spirit, as you were called in one hope of your calling.

5 One Lord, one faith, one baptism.

6 One God and Father of all, who is over all, and through all things, and in us all.

7 But to each one of us grace was given according to the measure of the gift of Christ.

8 For which reason it says: “Ascending on high, he led captivity captive; he gave gifts to men.”

9 Now that he ascended, what is it except that he also first descended into the lower parts of the earth?

10 He who descended is himself also the one who ascended above all the heavens, that he might fill all things.

11 And he himself gave some indeed as apostles, some as prophets, others as evangelists, and others as pastors and teachers,

12 unto the completion of the saints, into the work of ministry, into the edification of the body of Christ:

13 until we all come together into the unity of faith and of the recognition of the Son of God, into a perfect man, into the measure of the age of the fullness of Christ:

14 that we may no longer be little ones, wave-tossed and carried around by every wind of doctrine in the wickedness of men, in cunning unto the circumvention of error.

15 But doing the truth in charity, let us grow in him in all things, who is the head, Christ:

16 from whom the whole body, compacted and connected through every joint of ministration, according to the operation in the measure of each member, makes the body's growth unto the edification of itself in charity.

17 This therefore I say and testify in the Lord: that you no longer walk as the Gentiles also walk, in the vanity of their sense,

18 having their understanding darkened with darkness, alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart,

19 who, having despaired, handed themselves over to shamelessness, unto the operation of every uncleanness, into avarice.

20 But you did not so learn Christ,

21 if indeed you heard him and were taught in him, as truth is in Jesus,

22 to put off, according to your former conduct, the old man, who is being corrupted according to desires of error.

23 But be renewed in the spirit of your mind,

24 and put on the new man, who was created according to God in justice and holiness of truth.

25 For this reason, putting off falsehood, speak truth, each one with his neighbor, because we are members of one another.

26 Be angry, and do not sin; let the sun not set over your anger.

27 Do not give place to the devil.

28 The one who used to steal, let him no longer steal; but rather let him labor, working with his own hands what is good, so that he may have from which to give to the one suffering need.

29 Let no evil speech proceed from your mouth, but if any good speech is unto the edification of faith, let that proceed, so that it may give grace to the hearers.

30 And do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, in whom you were sealed unto the day of redemption.

31 Let all bitterness and wrath and indignation and clamor and blasphemy be taken away from you, with all malice.

32 But be kind to one another, merciful, forgiving one another, just as God also forgave you in Christ.

CHAPTER 5

1 Therefore be imitators of God, as most beloved sons,

2 and walk in love, as Christ also loved us and delivered himself for us, an oblation and a sacrifice to God, for an odor of sweetness.

3 But let fornication and all uncleanness or avarice not even be named among you, as befits saints;

4 or shamefulness, or foolish speech, or scurrility, which does not pertain to the matter; but rather thanksgiving.

5 For know this, understanding: that every fornicator, or unclean person, or avaricious person, whose avarice is servitude to idols, has no inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and God.

6 Let no one deceive you with empty words; for because of these things the wrath of God comes upon sons of distrust.

7 Therefore do not become their partakers.

8 For you were once darkness; but now you are light in the Lord. Walk as sons of light;

9 for the fruit of light is in all goodness, and justice, and truth,

10 proving what is well-pleasing to God;

11 and do not share in the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them.

12 For it is shameful even to speak of the things that are done by them in secret.

13 But all things that are reproved are manifested by light; for everything that is manifested is light.

14 Because of this it says: “Rise, you who sleep, and arise from the dead, and Christ will enlighten you.”

15 See therefore, brothers, how cautiously you walk: not as unwise,

16 but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil.

17 Therefore do not become imprudent, but understand what the will of God is.

18 And do not be drunk with wine, in which is debauchery, but be filled with the Holy Spirit,

19 speaking to yourselves in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, singing and psalming in your hearts to the Lord,

20 always giving thanks for all things in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God and Father, 21 subject to one another in the fear of Christ.

22 Let wives be subject to their own husbands, as to the Lord;

23 for the husband is head of the wife, as Christ is head of the church; he, the savior of his body.

24 But as the church is subject to Christ, so also wives are subject to their husbands in all things.

25 Husbands, love your wives, as Christ also loved the church and delivered himself for her,

26 that he might sanctify her, cleansing her by the washing of water in the word of life,

27 that he himself might present the glorious church to himself, having no spot, or wrinkle, or anything of this kind, but that she may be holy and immaculate.

28 So also husbands ought to love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his own wife loves himself.

29 For no one ever hated his own flesh, but nourishes and cherishes it, as Christ also nourishes and cherishes the church;

30 because we are members of his body, from his flesh and from his bones.

31 “Because of this a man will leave his father and his mother, and will adhere to his wife, and the two will be in one flesh.”

32 This sacrament is great; but I speak in Christ and in the church.

33 Nevertheless, let each one of you also, individually, love his own wife as himself; but let the wife fear her own husband.

CHAPTER 6

1 Children, obey your parents in the Lord; for this is just.

2 “Honor your father and your mother, which is the first commandment in promise:

3 that it may be well with you, and you may be long-lived upon the earth.”

4 And you, fathers, do not provoke your sons to anger, but educate them in the discipline and correction of the Lord.

5 Servants, obey your masters according to the flesh with fear and trembling, in the simplicity of your heart, as to Christ;

6 not serving to the eye, as pleasers of humans, but as servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the soul,

7 serving with a good will, as to the Lord and not to humans;

8 knowing that whatever good each one has done, this he will receive from the Lord, whether servant or free.

9 And you, masters, do the same to them, releasing threats, knowing that both their and your Lord is in the heavens, and there is no acceptance of persons with him.

10 For the rest, brothers, be strengthened in the Lord and in the might of his power.

11 Clothe yourselves in the armor of God, so that you may stand against the snares of the devil;

12 for our wrestling is not against flesh and blood, but against princes and powers, against the world-rulers of this darkness, against spiritual things of wickedness in heavenly places.

13 Because of this, take the armor of God, so that you may resist in the evil day and, perfected in all things, stand.

14 Stand therefore, with your loins girded in truth and clothed in the breastplate of justice,

15 and with your feet shod in the preparation of the Gospel of peace,

16 in all things taking the shield of faith, in which you may extinguish all the fiery missiles of the most wicked one;

17 and take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit (which is the word of God),

18 praying through every prayer and supplication at every time in spirit, and watching in it with all perseverance and supplication for all the saints,

19 and for me, that speech may be given to me in the opening of my mouth with boldness, to make known the mystery of the Gospel,

20 for which I perform an embassy in a chain, so that in it I may dare to speak as I ought.

21 But so that you also may know the things around me and what I do, Tychicus, the dearest brother and faithful minister in the Lord, will make all things known to you;

22 whom I sent to you for this very purpose, that you may know the things around us, and that he may comfort your hearts.

23 Peace to the brothers, and charity with faith, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

24 Grace be with all who love our Lord Jesus Christ in incorruption. Amen.

BOOK FIFTY: PHILIPPIANS

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul and Timothy, servants of Jesus Christ, to all the saints in Christ Jesus who are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons.

2 Grace to you, and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 I give thanks to my God in every remembrance of you,

4 always, in all my prayers for all of you, making petition with joy,

5 for your communion in the Gospel of Christ from the first day until now.

6 Confident of this very thing, that he who began a good work in you will perfect it until the day of Christ Jesus,

7 just as it is just for me to feel this about all of you, because I have you in my heart, and because in my bonds and in the defense and confirmation of the Gospel all of you are companions of my joy.

8 For God is my witness how I long for all of you in the bowels of Jesus Christ.

9 And this I pray: that your charity may abound more and more in knowledge and in every sense,

10 that you may test the more excellent things; that you may be sincere and without offense unto the day of Christ,

11 filled with the fruit of justice through Jesus Christ, unto the glory and praise of God.

12 But I want you to know, brothers, that the things around me have come all the more unto the progress of the Gospel,

13 so that my bonds were made manifest in Christ throughout the entire praetorium and among all the rest,

14 and more of the brothers, being confident in the Lord through my bonds, would dare more abundantly to speak the word of God without fear.

15 Some indeed preach Christ even because of envy and contention; but others also because of good will:

16 some from charity, knowing that I am set for the defense of the Gospel.

17 But some announce Christ from contention, not sincerely, supposing themselves to raise pressure upon my bonds.

18 What then? So long as in every way, whether through pretext or through truth, Christ is announced, in this I rejoice, but I will also rejoice.

19 For I know that this will come to me unto salvation through your prayer and the ministration of the Spirit of Jesus Christ,

20 according to my expectation and hope, that in nothing shall I be put to shame; but with every boldness, as always, so now also, Christ will be magnified in my body, whether through life or through death.

21 For me, living is Christ, and dying is gain.

22 But if living in the flesh, this for me is fruit of work; and what I should choose, I do not know.

23 But I am pressed between the two: having the desire to be dissolved and to be with Christ, far, far better;

24 but to remain in the flesh is necessary because of you.

25 And confident of this, I know that I shall stay and remain with all of you, unto your progress and joy of faith,

26 so that your rejoicing may abound in Christ Jesus in me through my coming to you again.

27 Only conduct yourselves worthily of the Gospel of Christ, so that whether I come and see you, or am absent and hear of you, you stand in one spirit, one-souled, collaborating for the faith of the Gospel,

28 and in nothing be terrified by the adversaries; which to them is a cause of destruction, but to you of salvation, and this from God,

29 because to you it has been given for Christ, not only that you may believe in him, but also that you may suffer for him,

30 having the same struggle, such as you saw in me and have now heard about me.

CHAPTER 2

1 If, therefore, there is any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of charity, if any fellowship of spirit, if any bowels of compassion:

2 make my joy full, that you may be of the same mind, having the same charity, one-souled, feeling the very same,

3 doing nothing through contention, nor through empty glory; but in humility judging one another superior to yourselves,

4 each one considering not the things that are his own, but the things belonging to others.

5 For have this disposition in yourselves, which also is in Christ Jesus:

6 who, being in the form of God, did not judge it robbery to be equal to God:

7 but emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, being made into the likeness of men, and found in bearing as a man.

8 He humbled himself, becoming obedient unto death, even the death of the cross.

9 For which reason God also exalted him, and gave him a name that is above every name:

10 so that in the name of Jesus every knee of heavenly beings, earthly beings, and beings below may bend,

11 and every tongue may confess that the Lord Jesus Christ is in the glory of God the Father.

12 Therefore, my dearest ones (as you have always obeyed), not only as in my presence, but much more now in my absence, work your salvation with fear and trembling.

13 For it is God who works in you both to will and to accomplish, for good will.

14 But do all things without murmurings and hesitations:

15 so that you may be without complaint, and simple sons of God, without reproach in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation; among whom you shine like lights in the world,

16 holding the word of life unto my glory on the day of Christ, because I did not run in vain, nor did I labor in vain.

17 But even if I am sacrificed upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, I rejoice and rejoice together with you all.

18 And you also, in the very same thing, rejoice and rejoice together with me.

19 But I hope in the Lord Jesus to send Timothy to you soon, so that I too may be of good heart, when I have learned the things around you.

20 For I have no one so one-souled, who would be concerned for you with sincere affection.

21 For all seek the things that are their own, not those of Jesus Christ.

22 But know his proof, for as a son to a father he has served with me in the Gospel.

23 Him, therefore, I hope to send to you as soon as I have seen the things around me.

24 But I am confident in the Lord that I myself also shall come to you soon.

25 But I judged it necessary to send Epaphroditus to you, my brother and coworker and fellow soldier, but your apostle and minister of my necessity:

26 because indeed he was longing for you all, and was sorrowful because you had heard that he had fallen ill.

27 For indeed he was ill unto death; but God had mercy on him, and not on him only, but also on me, lest I should have sorrow upon sorrow.

28 Therefore I sent him the more quickly, so that, having seen him, you may rejoice again, and I may be without sorrow.

29 Therefore receive him with all joy in the Lord, and hold such men in honor;

30 because for the work of Christ he drew near unto death, delivering his soul, so that he might fill that which was lacking from you toward my service.

CHAPTER 3

1 For the rest, my brothers, rejoice in the Lord. To write the same things to you is indeed not irksome to me, but is necessary for you.

2 Beware of the dogs, beware of evil workers, beware of the concision.

3 For we are the circumcision, who serve God in spirit, and glory in Christ Jesus, placing no reliance upon flesh,

4 though I myself also have confidence in flesh. If anyone else seems to have confidence in flesh, I have more:

5 circumcised on the eighth day, of the stock of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew of Hebrews; according to the law, a Pharisee;

6 according to zeal, persecuting the church of God; according to the justice that is in the law, having conducted myself without complaint.

7 But the things that were gains to me, these I judged to be losses because of Christ.

8 Nevertheless, I count all things to be loss because of the eminent knowledge of Jesus Christ my Lord; for whose sake I have made all things a loss and reckon them as dung, that I may gain Christ,

9 and may be found in him, not having my own justice, which is from the law, but that which is from faith of Christ Jesus: the justice which is from God in faith,

10 to know him, and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his sufferings, being conformed to his death,

11 if in some way I may come to the resurrection that is from the dead:

12 not that I have already received, or am already perfect; but I pursue, if in some way I may take hold of that in which I also was taken hold of by Christ Jesus.

13 Brothers, I do not judge myself to have taken hold. But one thing: forgetting the things that are behind, but extending myself toward those that are ahead,

14 I pursue toward the mark, toward the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

15 Therefore, all of us who are perfect, let us be of this mind; and if in anything you are of another mind, God will reveal this also to you.

16 Nevertheless, to what we have reached, let us be of the same mind, and let us remain in the same rule.

17 Be imitators of me, brothers, and observe those who walk in this way, just as you have our pattern.

18 For many walk, whom I often declared to you (but now also declare, weeping) to be enemies of the cross of Christ:

19 whose end is destruction; whose god is their belly; and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things.

20 But our common life is in the heavens; from there we also await the Savior, our Lord Jesus Christ,

21 who will reform the body of our humility to be conformed to the body of his glory, according to the operation by which he is also able to subject all things to himself.

CHAPTER 4

1 Therefore, my brothers, dearest and most longed-for, my joy and my crown: thus stand in the Lord, dearest ones.

2 I ask Evodia, and I entreat Syntyche, to be of the same mind in the Lord.

3 Indeed, I ask you also, genuine companion, help those women who labored with me in the Gospel, with Clement and my other helpers, whose names are in the book of life.

4 Rejoice in the Lord always; again I say, rejoice.

5 Let your modesty be known to all people; the Lord is near.

6 Be anxious about nothing; but in every prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your petitions be made known before God.

7 And may the peace of God, which surpasses every sense, guard your hearts and your understandings in Christ Jesus.

8 For the rest, brothers, whatever things are true, whatever things are chaste, whatever things are just, whatever things are holy, whatever things are lovable, whatever things are of good report; if there is any virtue, if there is any praise of discipline, think on these things.

9 The things you also learned, and received, and heard, and saw in me, do these; and the God of peace will be with you.

10 But I rejoiced vehemently in the Lord because at long last you reflourished in concern for me, just as indeed you had been concerned; but you were occupied.

11 I do not say this as though it were because of lack; for I have learned to be sufficient in the circumstances in which I am.

12 I know both how to be humbled, and I know how to abound (everywhere and in all things I have been initiated): both to be sated and to hunger, both to abound and to suffer lack.

13 I can do all things in him who strengthens me.

14 Nevertheless, you have done well, sharing in my tribulation.

15 But you Philippians also know that at the beginning of the Gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church shared with me in the account of giving and receiving, except you alone:

16 for even to Thessalonica you sent once and twice for my use.

17 Not because I seek the gift, but I look for fruit abounding in your account.

18 But I have all things, and abound. I am filled, having received from Epaphroditus the things you sent: an odor of sweetness, an accepted sacrifice, pleasing to God.

19 And may my God fill every desire of yours according to his riches in glory in Christ Jesus.

20 But to God and our Father be glory through ages of ages. Amen.

21 Greet every saint in Christ Jesus.

22 The brothers who are with me greet you. All the saints greet you, but especially those who are from Caesar's household.

23 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

BOOK FIFTY-ONE: COLOSSIANS

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, and Timothy the brother:

2 to those who are at Colossae, saints and faithful brothers in Christ Jesus.

3 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. We give thanks to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, always praying for you:

4 hearing of your faith in Christ Jesus and the love that you have toward all the saints,

5 because of the hope stored up for you in the heavens, which you heard in the word of the truth of the Gospel:

6 which has reached you, just as it is also in the whole world; and it bears fruit and grows, just as it does in you, from the day when you heard and recognized the grace of God in truth,

7 just as you learned from Epaphras, our dearest fellow servant, who is a faithful minister of Christ Jesus for you,

8 who also made your love in spirit manifest to us.

9 For this reason, we too, from the day we heard, do not cease praying for you and petitioning that you may be filled with recognition of his will, in all wisdom and spiritual understanding:

10 so that you may walk worthily of God, pleasing in all things: bearing fruit in every good work and growing in the knowledge of God:

11 strengthened with all power according to the might of his glory, in all patience and long-suffering with joy,

12 giving thanks to God the Father, who has made us worthy for a part of the saints' lot in light:

13 who has rescued us from the power of darkness and transferred us into the kingdom of the Son of his love,

14 in whom we have redemption through his blood, the remission of sins:

15 who is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of every creature:

16 because in him all things were brought into being, in the heavens and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones, whether dominations, whether principalities, or whether powers: all things were created through him and in him:

17 and he himself is before all, and all things hold together in him.

18 And he himself is the head of the body of the Church; he is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, so that in all things he himself may hold the primacy:

19 because it was pleasing that all fullness should dwell in him:

20 and through him to reconcile all things into him, making peace through the blood of his cross, whether the things on earth or the things in the heavens.

21 And you, when you were once alienated and enemies in mind in evil works:

22 but now he has reconciled you in the body of his flesh through death, to present you holy and immaculate and irreproachable before him:

23 if indeed you remain in the faith, founded and stable and immovable from the hope of the Gospel, which you heard, which has been preached in every creature that is under heaven, of which I, Paul, have been made a minister.

24 I now rejoice in sufferings for you, and I fill up in my flesh what is lacking of Christ's sufferings, for his body, which is the Church:

25 of which I have been made a minister according to the dispensation of God, which was given to me for you, so that I may fulfill the word of God:

26 the mystery that was hidden from ages and generations, but now has been made manifest to his saints,

27 to whom God willed to make known the riches of the glory of this sacrament among the nations, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory,

28 whom we proclaim, correcting every person and teaching every person in all wisdom, so that we may present every person perfect in Christ Jesus:

29 in this I also labor, striving according to his operation, which he works in me in power.

CHAPTER 2

1 For I want you to know what solicitude I have for you, and for those who are at Laodicea, and for all who have not seen my face in flesh:

2 so that their hearts may be comforted, while they are instructed in charity and unto all the riches of the fullness of understanding, unto the recognition of the mystery of God the Father and Christ Jesus:

3 in whom are all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge hidden.

4 But I say this so that no one may deceive you by the loftiness of words.

5 For even though I am absent in body, yet I am with you in spirit: rejoicing and seeing your order and the firmament of that faith of yours which is in Christ.

6 Therefore, just as you received Jesus Christ the Lord, walk in him,

7 rooted, and built upon him, and confirmed in faith, just as you also learned, abounding in him in thanksgiving.

8 Beware lest anyone deceive you through philosophy and empty fallacy according to human tradition, according to the elements of the world, and not according to Christ:

9 because in him all the fullness of divinity dwells bodily:

10 and you are filled in him, who is the head of every principality and power:

11 in whom you also have been circumcised with a circumcision not made by hand, in the stripping of the body of flesh, but in the circumcision of Christ:

12 buried together with him in baptism, in which you also rose again through faith of the operation of God, who raised him from the dead.

13 And when you were dead in offenses and in the foreskin of your flesh, he made you alive together with him, forgiving you all offenses:

14 erasing the handwriting of the decree that was against us, which was contrary to us, and he took that very thing out of the midst, nailing it to the cross:

15 and, despoiling principalities and powers, he led them forth with confidence, openly triumphing over them in himself.

16 Therefore let no one judge you regarding food, or drink, or a part of a feast day, or of a new moon, or of sabbaths:

17 which are a shadow of future things, but the body of Christ.

18 Let no one seduce you, willing in humility and the religion of angels, walking in things he has not seen, vainly inflated by the sense of his flesh,

19 and not holding the head, from which the whole body, supplied and constructed through bonds and joints, grows into God's increase.

20 If, therefore, you have died with Christ from the elements of this world: why do you still decree as though living in the world?

21 “Do not touch, nor taste, nor handle”:

22 all of which go into destruction through their very use, according to human commandments and doctrines:

23 which indeed have an appearance of wisdom in superstition, and humility, and not for sparing the body, not in any honor unto the satisfaction of the flesh.

CHAPTER 3

1 Therefore, if you have risen together with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God:

2 mind the things that are above, not the things that are upon the earth.

3 For you have died, and your life is hidden with Christ in God.

4 When Christ, your life, appears, then you also will appear with him in glory.

5 Therefore put to death your members that are upon the earth: fornication, uncleanness, lust, evil desire, and avarice, which is the service of idols:

6 because of these things the wrath of God comes upon the sons of unbelief:

7 in these you too once walked, when you lived in them.

8 But now you too lay aside all these: wrath, indignation, malice, blasphemy, shameful speech from your mouth.

9 Do not lie to one another, stripping yourselves of the old person with his acts,

10 and putting on the new person, who is renewed unto recognition according to the image of the one who created him:

11 where there is neither Gentile nor Jew, circumcision nor foreskin, barbarian nor Scythian, servant nor free; but all things, and in all, Christ.

12 Therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, put on bowels of mercy, benignity, humility, modesty, and patience:

13 supporting one another and forgiving one another, if anyone has a complaint against anyone; as the Lord also forgave you, so also do you.

14 But above all these, have charity, which is the bond of perfection:

15 and let the peace of Christ exult in your hearts, in which you also have been called in one body; and be grateful.

16 Let the word of Christ dwell abundantly in you, in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another with psalms, hymns, and spiritual songs, singing in grace in your hearts to God.

17 Everything, whatever you do in word or in deed, do all things in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, giving thanks to God the Father through him.

18 Wives, be subject to your husbands, as is fitting in the Lord.

19 Husbands, love your wives, and do not be bitter toward them.

20 Children, obey your parents in all things, for this is pleasing in the Lord.

21 Fathers, do not provoke your children to indignation, lest they become small-souled.

22 Servants, obey masters according to the flesh in all things, not serving to the eye, as pleasers of humans, but in simplicity of heart, fearing God.

23 Whatever you do, work from the soul, as for the Lord and not for humans:

24 knowing that from the Lord you will receive the recompense of inheritance. Serve the Lord Christ.

25 For whoever does injury will receive back what he has unjustly done; and there is no acceptance of persons before God.

CHAPTER 4

1 Masters, provide servants with what is just and equitable, knowing that you too have a Lord in heaven.

2 Persevere in prayer, watching in it with thanksgiving:

3 praying at the same time for us also, that God may open for us a door of speech to speak the mystery of Christ (because of which I also am bound),

4 so that I may manifest it as I ought to speak.

5 Walk in wisdom toward those who are outside, redeeming the time.

6 Let your speech always be in grace, seasoned with salt, so that you may know how you ought to answer each one.

7 Tychicus—dearest brother, faithful minister, and fellow servant in the Lord—will make known to you all things around me:

8 I sent him to you for this very purpose, that he may know the things around you and comfort your hearts,

9 along with Onesimus, the dearest and faithful brother, who is from among you. They will make known to you all things that are done here.

10 Aristarchus, my fellow captive, greets you, as does Mark, Barnabas's kinsman, about whom you received commands: if he comes to you, welcome him.

11 Jesus, who is called Justus, also greets you. They are from the circumcision; these alone are my helpers in the kingdom of God, and they have been a comfort to me.

12 Epaphras, who is from among you, a servant of Christ Jesus, greets you, always anxious for you in prayers, that you may stand perfect and full in every will of God.

13 For I testify for him that he has much labor for you, and for those who are at Laodicea and those at Hierapolis.

14 Luke, the dearest physician, and Demas greet you.

15 Greet the brothers who are at Laodicea, and Nympha, and the church that is in her house.

16 And when this letter has been read among you, see that it is also read in the church of the Laodiceans; and you are to read the one that is of the Laodiceans.

17 And say to Archippus: See to the ministry that you received in the Lord, that you may fulfill it.

18 The greeting of Paul, by my own hand. Be mindful of my chains. Grace be with you. Amen.

BOOK FIFTY-TWO: FIRST THESSALONIANS

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, and Silvanus, and Timothy, to the church of the Thessalonians in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

2 Grace to you, and peace. We give thanks to God always for all of you, making remembrance of you in our prayers without interruption,

3 mindful of your work of faith, and of labor, and of charity, and of the endurance of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, before God and our Father:

4 knowing, brothers beloved by God, your election:

5 because our Gospel did not come to you in speech alone, but also in power, and in the Holy Spirit, and in much fullness, just as you know what sort we were among you for your sake.

6 And you became imitators of us and of the Lord, receiving the word in much tribulation, with joy of the Holy Spirit:

7 so that you became a pattern for all who believe in Macedonia and in Achaia.

8 For from you the speech of the Lord was sounded abroad, not only in Macedonia and in Achaia, but your faith, which is toward God, also went forth into every place, so that it is not necessary for us to say anything.

9 For they themselves announce concerning us what sort of entry we had to you, and how you turned to God from idols, to serve the living and true God,

10 and to wait for his Son from the heavens, Jesus (whom God raised from the dead), who rescued us from the wrath to come.

CHAPTER 2

1 For you yourselves know, brothers, that our entry to you was not empty:

2 but, having suffered beforehand and been treated with insults (as you know) at Philippi, we had confidence in our God to speak God's Gospel to you in much solicitude.

3 For our exhortation is not from error, nor from uncleanness, nor in deceit,

4 but just as we have been approved by God so that the Gospel might be entrusted to us, so we speak, not as though pleasing human beings, but God, who tests our hearts.

5 For we were never in flattering speech, as you know, nor in an occasion of avarice; God is witness;

6 nor seeking glory from human beings, neither from you nor from others.

7 Though we could have been a burden to you as apostles of Christ, we became little ones in your midst, as if a nurse were cherishing her own children.

8 So, longing for you, we eagerly wished to hand over to you not only God's Gospel, but also our own souls, because you had become dearest to us.

9 For you remember, brothers, our labor and fatigue: working night and day, so as not to burden any one of you, we preached God's Gospel among you.

10 You are witnesses, and God, of how holily, and justly, and without reproach we conducted ourselves toward you who have believed:

11 just as you know how, with each one of you (as a father with his children),

12 entreating you and consoling you, we testified, so that you would walk worthily of God, who called you into his kingdom and glory.

13 Therefore we also give thanks to God without interruption: because, when you had received from us the word of the hearing of God, you received it not as a human word but (as it truly is) as God's word—God, who works in you who have believed:

14 for you became imitators, brothers, of the churches of God that are in Judea in Christ Jesus, because you too suffered the same things from your compatriots, just as they did from the Jews:

15 who also killed the Lord Jesus and the prophets, and persecuted us, and do not please God, and oppose all human beings,

16 forbidding us to speak to the nations so that the nations may be saved, so that the persecutors may always fill up their sins; for God's wrath has reached them unto the end.

17 But we, brothers, bereft of you for the time of an hour, in sight, not in heart, made all the more haste to see your face with much desire:

18 because we wished to come to you—I indeed, Paul, once and again—but Satan hindered us.

19 For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of glory? Is it not you, before our Lord Jesus Christ at his advent?

20 For you are our glory and joy.

CHAPTER 3

1 For this reason, no longer enduring, we resolved to remain in Athens alone,

2 and we sent Timothy, our brother and minister of God in the Gospel of Christ, to confirm you and exhort you concerning your faith,

3 so that no one may be moved amid these tribulations; for you yourselves know that we have been placed for this.

4 For even when we were with you, we kept telling you beforehand that we would suffer tribulations, just as it happened, and you know it.

5 Therefore I too, no longer enduring, sent to learn your faith, lest perhaps the one who tempts might have tempted you and our labor might become empty.

6 But now, upon Timothy's coming to us from you and announcing to us your faith and charity, and that you always keep a good memory of us and long to see us, just as we too long to see you,

7 therefore, brothers, we were consoled in you through your faith, amid all our necessity and tribulation,

8 because now we live, if you stand in the Lord.

9 For what thanksgiving can we repay to God for you in all the joy with which we rejoice because of you before our God,

10 Night and day, praying more abundantly that we may see your face and complete what is lacking in your faith?

11 But may God himself, and our Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ, direct our way to you.

12 But may the Lord multiply you and make your charity abound toward one another and toward all, just as we also do toward you,

13 to confirm your hearts blameless in holiness before God and our Father, at the advent of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his saints. Amen.

CHAPTER 4

1 For the rest, therefore, brothers, we ask you and beseech you in the Lord Jesus that, just as you received from us how you ought to walk and please God, so may you also walk, so that you may abound more.

2 For you know what commands I gave you through the Lord Jesus.

3 For this is the will of God, your sanctification: that you abstain from fornication,

4 that each one of you may know how to possess his own vessel in sanctification and honor,

5 not in a passion of desire, as also do the nations that do not know God,

6 and that no one overstep or circumvent his brother in the matter; because the Lord is the avenger concerning all these things, as we told you beforehand and testified.

7 For God did not call us into uncleanness, but into sanctification.

8 Therefore, whoever rejects these things does not reject a human but rejects God, who also gave his Holy Spirit in us.

9 But concerning the charity of brotherhood, we have no need to write to you, for you yourselves have learned from God to love one another.

10 For indeed, you do that toward all the brothers throughout all Macedonia. But we ask you, brothers, that you may abound more,

11 and make it your endeavor to be quiet, to attend to your own business, and to work with your hands, as we commanded you,

12 and that you may walk honorably toward outsiders, and desire nothing of anyone.

13 But we do not want you to be ignorant, brothers, concerning the sleepers, so that you may not grieve as the rest also do, who have no hope.

14 For if we believe that Jesus died and rose, so also God will bring those who slept through Jesus with him.

15 For we say this to you in the word of the Lord: we who live, who remain until the advent of the Lord, will not precede those who slept.

16 For the Lord himself, with a command, and with an archangel's voice, and with God's trumpet, will descend from heaven; and the dead in Christ will rise first.

17 Then we who live, who are left, will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet Christ in the air, and so we will always be with the Lord.

18 Therefore console one another with these words.

CHAPTER 5

1 But concerning the times and the moments, brothers, you have no need for us to write to you.

2 For you yourselves know carefully that the day of the Lord will come just as a thief in the night:

3 for when they shall say, “Peace and security,” then sudden destruction will overtake them, like pain upon one who carries in the womb, and they will not escape.

4 But you, brothers, are not in darkness, that that day should seize you like a thief:

5 for all of you are sons of light and sons of day; we are not of night, nor of darkness.

6 Therefore let us not sleep like the rest, but let us watch and be sober.

7 For those who sleep, sleep by night; and those who are drunk, are drunk by night.

8 But let us, who are of the day, be sober, having put on the breastplate of faith and charity, and, as a helmet, the hope of salvation:

9 because God did not appoint us unto wrath, but unto the acquisition of salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ,

10 who died for us, that whether we watch or sleep, we may live together with him.

11 Therefore console one another, and edify each other, just as you also do.

12 But we ask you, brothers, to know those who labor among you, and preside over you in the Lord, and admonish you,

13 that you hold them more abundantly in charity because of their work. Have peace with them.

14 But we ask you, brothers: correct the restless, console the small-souled, receive the weak, be patient toward all.

15 See that no one render evil for evil to anyone; but always pursue what is good toward one another and toward all.

16 Always rejoice.

17 Pray without interruption.

18 In all things give thanks; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus in all of you.

19 Do not extinguish the Spirit.

20 Do not despise prophecies.

21 But test all things; hold what is good.

22 Abstain from every evil form.

23 But may the God of peace himself sanctify you in every respect, so that your whole spirit, and soul, and body may be preserved blameless at the advent of our Lord Jesus Christ.

24 Faithful is he who called you, who also will do it.

25 Brothers, pray for us.

26 Greet all the brothers with a holy kiss.

27 I adjure you through the Lord that this letter be read to all the holy brothers.

28 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

BOOK FIFTY-THREE: SECOND THESSALONIANS

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, and Silvanus, and Timothy, to the church of the Thessalonians in God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

2 Grace to you, and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 We ought always to give thanks to God for you, brothers, as is fitting, because your faith grows exceedingly, and the charity of each one of you toward one another abounds:

4 so that we ourselves boast of you in the churches of God for your endurance and faith in all your persecutions and tribulations that you sustain,

5 as an example of the just judgment of God, so that you may be considered worthy of the kingdom of God, for which you also suffer.

6 If indeed it is just with God to repay tribulation to those who bring tribulation upon you,

7 and to you who are troubled, rest with us at the revelation of the Lord Jesus from heaven with the angels of his power,

8 in a flame of fire giving vengeance to those who have not known God and to those who do not obey the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ,

9 all of whom will pay eternal penalties in destruction, from the face of the Lord and from the glory of his power,

10 when he comes to be glorified in his saints and to become admirable in all who have believed, because our testimony concerning you was believed on that day.

11 With this in view, we also always pray for you: that our God may deem you worthy of his calling and fulfil every purpose of goodness and the work of faith in power,

12 so that the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and you in him, according to the grace of our God and of the Lord Jesus Christ.

CHAPTER 2

1 Now we ask you, brothers, by the advent of our Lord Jesus Christ and our gathering together to him:

2 that you not quickly be moved from your understanding or be terrified, neither through a spirit, nor through speech, nor through a letter as though sent through us, as though the day of the Lord were at hand.

3 Let no one deceive you in any way; for unless the departure comes first and the man of sin, the son of perdition, is revealed,

4 who opposes and is exalted above everything that is called God or that is worshiped, so that he sits in the temple of God, showing himself as though he were God.

5 Do you not remember that, while I was still with you, I kept telling you these things?

6 And now you know what restrains, so that he may be revealed in his own time.

7 For the mystery of iniquity is already at work; only, let the one who now holds continue to hold, until he comes to be out of the midst.

8 And then that lawless one will be revealed—the Lord Jesus will kill him with the breath of his mouth and destroy him by the illumination of his advent:

9 the advent of that lawless one is according to the operation of Satan, with all power and signs and lying wonders,

10 and with all deception of iniquity for those who are perishing, because they did not receive the charity of truth so that they might be saved.

11 For this reason God will send them an operation of error so that they may believe a lie, 12 so that all who did not believe the truth but consented to iniquity may be judged.

13 But we ought always to give thanks to God for you, brothers loved by God, because God has chosen you as firstfruits for salvation, in sanctification of spirit and in faith of truth:

14 in which he also called you through our Gospel, for the acquisition of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

15 Therefore, brothers, stand, and hold to the traditions that you learned, whether through speech or through our letter.

16 But may our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God and our Father, who loved us and gave eternal consolation and good hope in grace, 17 exhort your hearts and confirm them in every good work and speech.

CHAPTER 3

1 For the rest, brothers, pray for us, that the speech of God may run and be glorified, just as it is also among you;

2 and that we may be delivered from troublesome and evil people; for faith does not belong to everyone.

3 But God is faithful; he will confirm you and guard you from evil.

4 But in the Lord we are confident concerning you, that you do, and will do, what we have commanded.

5 May the Lord direct your hearts into the charity of God and the patience of Christ.

6 Now we charge you, brothers, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that you withdraw yourselves from every brother walking disorderly and not according to the tradition which they received from us.

7 For you yourselves know how you ought to imitate us, because we were not restless among you,

8 nor did we eat anyone's bread without payment, but with labor and fatigue, working night and day, so that we might not burden any of you.

9 Not as though we had no authority, but that we might give ourselves to you as a model for you to imitate us.

10 For even when we were with you, we repeatedly gave you this charge: if anyone is unwilling to work, neither let him eat.

11 For we have heard that some among you are walking restlessly, doing no work, but acting as busybodies.

12 But we charge those who are such, and we beseech them in the Lord Jesus Christ, that, working in quietness, they eat their own bread.

13 But you, brothers, do not fail in doing good.

14 But if anyone does not obey our word through the letter, take note of that one, and do not mix with him, so that he may be ashamed.

15 And do not regard him as an enemy, but rebuke him as a brother.

16 Now may the Lord of peace himself give you everlasting peace in every place. The Lord be with all of you.

17 The greeting in my own hand—Paul's: this is the sign in every letter; so I write.

18 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with all of you. Amen.

BOOK FIFTY-FOUR: FIRST TIMOTHY

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, an Apostle of Jesus Christ according to the command of God our Savior and Christ Jesus our hope,

2 to Timothy, a beloved son in faith. Grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

3 Just as I asked you to remain at Ephesus when I was going into Macedonia, so that you might charge certain persons not to teach otherwise,

4 nor to attend to fables and interminable genealogies, which furnish questions rather than the edification of God, which is in faith.

5 Now the end of the charge is charity from a pure heart, and a good conscience, and unfeigned faith.

6 Having wandered away from these, some have turned aside to vain talk,

7 desiring to be teachers of the law, understanding neither the things they say nor those concerning which they make assertions.

8 But we know that the law is good, if anyone uses it lawfully,

9 knowing this: that the law is not laid down for a just person, but for the unjust and insubordinate, the impious and sinners, the wicked and defiled, parricides and matricides, murderers,

10 fornicators, men who lie with males, kidnappers, liars, and perjurers, and whatever else is opposed to sound doctrine,

11 which is according to the Gospel of the glory of the blessed God, which was entrusted to me.

12 I give thanks to him who strengthened me—Christ Jesus our Lord—because he counted me faithful, placing me in ministry:

13 I, who was formerly a blasphemer, a persecutor, and a reviler; but I obtained God's mercy, because I acted ignorantly in unbelief.

14 And the grace of our Lord abounded exceedingly, together with faith and love in Christ Jesus.

15 The saying is faithful and worthy of all acceptance: that Christ Jesus came into this world to save sinners, of whom I am first.

16 But for this reason I obtained mercy: so that in me first Christ Jesus might show all patience, for the instruction of those who will believe in him unto eternal life.

17 Now to the King of the ages, immortal, invisible, the only God, be honor and glory unto ages of ages. Amen.

18 This charge I entrust to you, son Timothy, according to the prophecies that went before concerning you, so that in them you may soldier a good warfare,

19 having faith and a good conscience, which some, having cast away, have suffered shipwreck concerning faith;

20 among whom are Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I delivered to Satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme.

CHAPTER 2

1 I beseech, therefore, first of all, that entreaties, prayers, petitions, and thanksgivings be made for all people:

2 for kings and all who are in high station, so that we may lead a quiet and tranquil life in all piety and chastity;

3 for this is good and acceptable before God our Savior,

4 who wills all people to be saved and to come to recognition of the truth.

5 For there is one God, and one mediator of God and human beings: the man Christ Jesus,

6 who gave himself as redemption for all, a testimony in its own times:

7 in which I was appointed a preacher and an Apostle—I speak the truth; I do not lie—a teacher of the nations in faith and truth.

8 Therefore I desire men to pray in every place, lifting pure hands without wrath and disputation.

9 Likewise also women, in adorned attire, adorning themselves with modesty and sobriety, and not with braided hair, or gold, or pearls, or a costly garment,

10 but with what befits women professing piety through good works.

11 Let a woman learn in silence with all subjection.

12 But I do not permit a woman to teach, nor to exercise dominion over a man, but to be in silence.

13 For Adam was formed first, then Eve;

14 and Adam was not deceived, but the woman, having been deceived, was in transgression.

15 But she will be saved through the bearing of children, if she remains in faith, and love, and sanctification with sobriety.

CHAPTER 3

1 The saying is faithful: if anyone desires the episcopate, he desires a good work.

2 It is necessary, therefore, for a bishop to be irreproachable, the husband of one wife, sober, prudent, orderly, chaste, hospitable, a teacher,

3 not given to wine, not a striker, but gentle; not quarrelsome, not covetous, but

4 well set over his own house, having his sons subject with all chastity.

5 But if anyone does not know how to preside over his own house, how will he have care of the church of God?

6 He must not be a neophyte, lest, lifted up into pride, he fall into the judgment of the devil.

7 And it is necessary that he also have a good testimony from those who are outside, that he may not fall into reproach and into the snare of the devil.

8 Likewise, deacons must be chaste, not double-tongued, not given to much wine, not pursuing shameful gain,

9 holding the mystery of faith in a pure conscience.

10 And let these also be proved first; and thus let them minister, having no charge against them.

11 Women likewise must be chaste, not given to slander, sober, faithful in all things.

12 Let deacons be husbands of one wife, presiding well over their own sons and their own houses.

13 For those who have ministered well will acquire for themselves a good degree and much boldness in the faith that is in Christ Jesus.

14 I write these things to you, hoping to come to you soon;

15 but if I should delay, so that you may know how you ought to conduct yourself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and firmament of truth.

16 And manifestly great is the sacrament of piety, which was manifested in the flesh, was justified in spirit, appeared to angels, was preached to the nations, was believed in the world, was taken up in glory.

CHAPTER 4

1 Now the Spirit says manifestly that in the last times some will depart from the faith, attending to spirits of error and doctrines of demons,

2 in the hypocrisy of those who speak a lie and have their own conscience cauterized,

3 who forbid marrying and require abstinence from foods—what God created to be received with thanksgiving by the faithful and by those who have known the truth.

4 For every creature of God is good, and nothing is to be rejected that is received with thanksgiving;

5 for it is sanctified through the word of God and prayer.

6 By setting these things before the brothers, you will be a good minister of Christ Jesus, nourished on the words of faith and of the good doctrine which you have followed.

7 But avoid foolish and old-womanish fables; rather, exercise yourself toward piety.

8 For bodily exercise is useful for a little; but piety is useful for all things, having the promise of the life that now is and of the life to come.

9 The saying is faithful and worthy of all acceptance.

10 For in this we labor and are cursed, because we hope in the living God, who is the Savior of all people, especially of the faithful.

11 Command these things, and teach.

12 Let no one despise your youth; but be an example to the faithful in word, in conduct, in charity, in faith, in chastity.

13 Until I come, attend to reading, exhortation, and doctrine.

14 Do not neglect the grace that is in you, which was given to you through prophecy, with the imposition of the hands of the presbytery.

15 Meditate on these things; be in them, so that your progress may be manifest to all.

16 Attend to yourself and to doctrine; persist in them. For by doing this you will save both yourself and those who hear you.

CHAPTER 5

1 Do not rebuke an older man, but beseech him as a father; younger men as brothers;

2 older women as mothers; younger women as sisters, in all chastity;

3 honor widows who are truly widows.

4 But if any widow has children or grandchildren, let her first learn to govern her own house and to render reciprocal duty to her parents; for this is acceptable before God.

5 But she who is truly a widow and desolate, let her hope in God and be constant in entreaties and prayers night and day.

6 For she who lives in pleasures is dead while living.

7 And command this, that they may be irreproachable.

8 But if anyone has no care for his own, and especially for those of his household, he has denied the faith and is worse than an unbeliever.

9 Let a widow be chosen who is no less than sixty years old, who has been the wife of one husband,

10 having testimony in good works: if she has raised children, if she has received guests, if she has washed the feet of the saints, if she has ministered to those suffering tribulation, if she has followed every good work.

11 But avoid younger widows; for when they have become wanton in Christ, they wish to marry,

12 bearing condemnation because they have made their first faith void;

13 at the same time, being idle, they also learn to go about the houses; and not only idle, but talkative and meddlesome as well, speaking things they ought not.

14 Therefore I want the younger women to marry, bear children, be mothers of households, and give the adversary no occasion for reviling.

15 For some have already turned back after Satan.

16 If any believer has widows, let that believer minister to them, and let not the church be burdened, so that it may suffice for those who are truly widows.

17 Let presbyters who preside well be held worthy of double honor, especially those who labor in word and doctrine.

18 For Scripture says: “You shall not bind the mouth of an ox that threshes.” And: “The worker is worthy of his wage.”

19 Do not receive an accusation against a presbyter except under two or three witnesses.

20 Reprove those who sin before everyone, so that the others also may have fear.

21 I testify before God and Christ Jesus and the elect angels that you guard these things without prejudgment, doing nothing by inclining toward the other side.

22 Do not lay hands quickly on anyone, nor share in the sins of others. Keep yourself chaste.

23 Do not drink water any longer, but use a little wine because of your stomach and your frequent infirmities.

24 The sins of some people are manifest, preceding to judgment; but they also follow some people.

25 Likewise, good deeds also are manifest; and those that are otherwise cannot be hidden.

CHAPTER 6

1 All who are slaves under the yoke are to consider their masters worthy of every honor, lest the name of the Lord and the doctrine be blasphemed.

2 But those who have believing masters are not to despise them because they are brothers; rather, let them serve all the more, because those who partake of the benefit are faithful and beloved. Teach and exhort these things.

3 If anyone teaches otherwise and does not acquiesce to the sound speeches of our Lord Jesus Christ and to the doctrine that is according to piety,

4 he is proud, knowing nothing, but languishing around questions and battles of words, from which arise envies, contentions, blasphemies, evil suspicions,

5 clashes of people corrupted in mind and deprived of truth, supposing gain to be piety.

6 But piety with sufficiency is great gain.

7 For we brought nothing into this world; there is no doubt that we can take nothing away either.

8 But having food and things with which we may be covered, with these let us be content.

9 For those who wish to become rich fall into temptation and the snare of the devil, and into many useless and harmful desires, which plunge people into destruction and perdition.

10 For covetousness is the root of all evils; seeking after it, some have wandered from the faith and entangled themselves in many pains.

11 But you, O man of God, flee these things; pursue justice, piety, faith, charity, patience, meekness.

12 Fight the good fight of faith; lay hold of eternal life, in which you were called and confessed the good confession before many witnesses.

13 I command you before God, who gives life to all things, and Christ Jesus, who under Pontius Pilate rendered testimony—the good confession—

14 that you keep the commandment without spot, irreproachable until the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ,

15 whom in his own times the blessed and only Mighty One will show—the King of kings and Lord of those who rule;

16 he alone has immortality and dwells in inaccessible light; no human being has seen him, nor indeed can see him; to him be honor and everlasting dominion. Amen.

17 Command the rich of this age not to think loftily, nor to hope in the uncertainty of riches, but in the living God (who provides us all things abundantly to enjoy),

18 to do good, to become rich in good works, to give readily, to share,

19 storing up for themselves a good foundation for the future, that they may lay hold of true life.

20 O Timothy, guard the deposit, avoiding profane novelties of utterances and oppositions of falsely named knowledge,

21 which some, professing, have fallen away concerning the faith. Grace be with you. Amen.

BOOK FIFTY-FIVE: SECOND TIMOTHY

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, an Apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, according to the promise of life which is in Christ Jesus,

2 to Timothy, a most beloved son: grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

3 I give thanks to God, whom I serve from my forefathers in a pure conscience, that without intermission I hold remembrance of you in my prayers, night and day,

4 longing to see you, mindful of your tears, that I may be filled with joy,

5 receiving the recollection of that unfeigned faith which is in you, which first also dwelt in your grandmother Lois and your mother Eunice; but I am certain of it also in you.

6 For this reason I remind you to revive the grace of God which is in you through the imposition of my hands.

7 For God did not give us a spirit of fear, but of power, and love, and sobriety.

8 Therefore do not be ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, nor of me, his prisoner; but labor together with the Gospel according to the power of God,

9 who delivered us and called us with his holy calling—not according to our works, but according to his own purpose and grace, which was given to us in Christ Jesus before the times of the ages,

10 but has now been manifested through the illumination of our Savior Jesus Christ, who indeed destroyed death, but illuminated life and incorruption through the Gospel,

11 in which I was appointed a preacher, and an Apostle, and a teacher of the nations.

12 For which cause I also suffer these things; but I am not put to shame. For I know whom I have believed, and I am certain that he is able to preserve my deposit unto that day.

13 Hold the form of sound words which you heard from me, in faith and in love in Christ Jesus.

14 Guard the good deposit through the Holy Spirit who dwells in us.

15 You know this: that all who are in Asia have turned away from me, among whom are Phigellus and Hermogenes.

16 May the Lord give mercy to the house of Onesiphorus, because he often refreshed me and was not ashamed of my chain;

17 but when he had come to Rome, he sought me diligently and found me.

18 May the Lord grant him to find mercy from the Lord in that day. And in how many things he ministered to me at Ephesus, you know better.

CHAPTER 2

1 You therefore, my son, be strengthened in the grace which is in Christ Jesus;

2 and the things which you heard from me through many witnesses, entrust these to faithful people who were fit to teach others also.

3 Labor as a good soldier of Christ Jesus.

4 No one soldiering for God entangles himself in worldly affairs, so that he may please him to whom he has proved himself.

5 For even one who contends in the contest is not crowned unless he has contended lawfully.

6 The laboring farmer must first receive from the fruits.

7 Understand the things I say; for the Lord will give you understanding in all things.

8 Be mindful that the Lord Jesus Christ has risen from the dead, from the seed of David, according to my Gospel,

9 in which I labor even unto bonds, as though working evil; but the word of God is not bound.

10 Therefore I endure all things for the sake of the elect, so that they also may attain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus, with heavenly glory.

11 The saying is faithful: for if we have died together, we shall also live together;

12 if we endure, we shall also reign together; if we have denied (him), he also will deny us;

13 if we do not believe, he remains faithful; he cannot deny himself.

14 Remind them of these things, testifying before the Lord. Do not contend with words: for it is useful for nothing except for the subversion of those who hear.

15 Take diligent care to present yourself approved to God, a worker not to be put to shame, rightly handling the word of truth.

16 But avoid profane things and vain talk; for they advance greatly toward impiety,

17 and their speech creeps like a cancer; among whom are Hymenaeus and Philetus,

18 who fell away from the truth, saying that the resurrection has already taken place, and they subverted the faith of some.

19 But God's firm foundation stands, having this seal: The Lord has known those who are his; and: Let everyone who names the name of the Lord depart from iniquity.

20 But in a great house there are not only vessels of gold and silver, but also of wood and clay; and some indeed unto honor, but some unto dishonor.

21 Therefore, if anyone cleanses himself from these, he will be a vessel unto honor, sanctified and useful to the Lord, prepared for every good work.

22 But flee youthful desires; yet pursue justice, faith, hope, charity, and peace with those who invoke the Lord from a pure heart.

23 But avoid foolish and undisciplined questions, knowing that they beget quarrels.

24 But the servant of the Lord ought not to quarrel, but to be meek toward all, teachable, patient,

25 with modesty correcting those who resist the truth, if perhaps God may give them repentance unto recognition of the truth,

26 and they may recover their senses from the snares of the devil, by whom they are held captive unto his will.

CHAPTER 3

1 But know this: that in the last days perilous times will be at hand.

2 People will be lovers of themselves, covetous, haughty, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, ungrateful, wicked,

3 without affection, without peace, accusers, incontinent, harsh, without kindness,

4 traitors, headstrong, swollen, and lovers of pleasures more than of God,

5 having indeed an appearance of piety, but denying its power. And avoid these.

6 For among these are those who penetrate houses and lead captive little women laden with sins, who are led by various desires,

7 always learning and never arriving at knowledge of the truth.

8 But just as Jannes and Mambres resisted Moses, so these also resist the truth: people corrupted in mind, reprobate concerning the faith;

9 but they will advance no farther, for their folly will be manifest to all, as theirs also was.

10 But you have followed my doctrine, instruction, purpose, faith, longsuffering, love, patience,

11 persecutions, sufferings—such things as befell me at Antioch, Iconium, and Lystra; what persecutions I endured, and from all of them the Lord rescued me.

12 And all who desire to live piously in Christ Jesus will suffer persecution.

13 But evil people and seducers will advance into worse, erring and casting into error.

14 But you, remain in the things which you learned and which were entrusted to you, knowing from whom you learned them,

15 and that from infancy you have known the sacred letters, which can instruct you unto salvation through the faith which is in Christ Jesus.

16 Every Scripture divinely inspired is useful for teaching, for reproving, for correcting, for instructing in justice,

17 so that the person of God may be perfect, instructed for every good work.

CHAPTER 4

1 I testify before God and Jesus Christ, who is to judge the living and the dead, by his coming and his kingdom:

2 preach the word; be insistent in season, out of season; reprove, entreat, rebuke with all patience and doctrine.

3 For there will be a time when they will not endure sound doctrine, but according to their own desires they will heap up teachers for themselves, with their ears itching,

4 and they will indeed turn their hearing away from the truth, but will be turned toward fables.

5 But you, watch; labor in all things; do the work of an evangelist; fulfill your ministry. Be sober.

6 For I am already being poured out in libation, and the time of my dissolution is at hand.

7 I have contended the good contest; I have completed the course; I have preserved the faith.

8 For the rest, there is laid up for me the crown of justice, which the Lord, the just judge, will render to me in that day; and not only to me, but also to those who hold his coming dear. Make haste to come to me quickly.

9 For Demas has abandoned me, holding this age dear, and has gone to Thessalonica;

10 Crescens to Galatia, Titus to Dalmatia.

11 Luke alone is with me. Take Mark and bring him with you, for he is useful to me in ministry.

12 But Tychicus I sent to Ephesus.

13 The cloak which I left at Troas with Carpus, when you come, bring with you, and the books, but especially the parchments.

14 Alexander the coppersmith showed me many evils; the Lord will render to him according to his works.

15 You also avoid him, for he strongly resisted our words.

16 At my first defense no one stood with me, but all forsook me; may it not be imputed to them.

17 But the Lord stood by me and strengthened me, so that through me the preaching might be fulfilled and all the nations might hear; and I was delivered from the mouth of the lion.

18 The Lord delivered me from every evil work, and will save me into his heavenly kingdom; to whom be glory unto ages of ages. Amen.

19 Greet Prisca and Aquila, and the house of Onesiphorus.

20 Erastus remained at Corinth. But Trophimus I left sick at Miletus.

21 Make haste to come before winter. Eubulus, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the brothers greet you.

22 The Lord Jesus Christ with your spirit. Grace with you. Amen.

BOOK FIFTY-SIX: TITUS

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, a servant of God, but an apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the faith of God’s elect and the knowledge of truth, which is according to godliness,

2 in the hope of eternal life, which the one who does not lie, God, promised before the ages of time—

3 in his own times, however, he manifested his word in the proclamation entrusted to me according to the commandment of our Savior God—

4 to Titus, a beloved son according to the common faith: grace and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Savior.

5 For this reason I left you in Crete: that you might set right what is lacking and appoint presbyters city by city, as I also directed you:

6 if anyone is without reproach, the husband of one wife, having faithful children—neither accused of debauchery nor insubordinate.

7 For a bishop must be without reproach, as God’s steward: not proud, not given to anger, not given to wine, not one who strikes, not greedy for shameful gain,

8 but hospitable, kind, sober, just, holy, self-controlled,

9 embracing the faithful speech that accords with doctrine, so that he may be able to exhort in sound doctrine and to reprove those who contradict.

10 For there are many, too, who are disobedient, empty talkers, and deceivers—especially those of the circumcision.

11 They must be reproved: they overturn whole households, teaching what ought not to be taught for the sake of shameful gain.

12 One of them, their own prophet, said: “Cretans are always liars, evil beasts, lazy bellies.”

13 This testimony is true. For this reason rebuke them severely, so that they may be sound in faith,

14 not attending to Jewish fables and the commands of people who turn themselves away from the truth.

15 All things are clean to the clean; however, to the contaminated and faithless, nothing is clean, but both their mind and their conscience have been defiled.

16 They confess that they know God, but by their deeds they deny, being detestable, unbelieving, and unfit for every good work.

CHAPTER 2

1 But you, speak what befits sound doctrine:

2 that older men be sober, modest, prudent, sound in faith, in love, in patience;

3 that older women likewise be holy in bearing, not accusers, not enslaved to much wine, teaching well,

4 so that they may teach prudence to the young women: that they love their husbands, cherish their children,

5 be prudent, chaste, sober, care for the household, be kind, and be subject to their husbands, so that the word of God may not be blasphemed.

6 Likewise, exhort the young men to be sober.

7 In all things, present yourself as an example of good works—in doctrine, in integrity, in gravity—

8 with speech that is sound and irreproachable, so that the one who stands opposed may fear, having nothing evil to say of us.

9 Slaves are to be subject to their masters, pleasing them in all things, not contradicting,

10 not defrauding, but showing good faith in all things, so that they may adorn the doctrine of our Savior God in all things.

11 For the grace of God our Savior has appeared to all people,

12 instructing us so that, renouncing impiety and the desires of the age, we may live soberly, justly, and piously in this age,

13 awaiting the blessed hope and the coming of the glory of the great God and of our Savior Jesus Christ:

14 who gave himself for us, so that he might redeem us from all iniquity and cleanse for himself an acceptable people, a pursuer of good works.

15 Speak these things, and exhort, and reprove with all authority. Let no one despise you.

CHAPTER 3

1 Remind them to be subject to rulers and authorities, to obey the command, to be ready for every good work:

2 to revile no one, not to be quarrelsome, but forbearing, showing all gentleness toward all people.

3 For we too were once foolish, unbelieving, erring, serving desires and pleasures of many kinds, living in malice and envy, hateful, hating one another.

4 But when the kindness and humaneness of our Savior God appeared,

5 not from works of justice that we ourselves did, but according to his own mercy he saved us through the washing of regeneration and renewal of the Holy Spirit,

6 whom he poured abundantly into us through Jesus Christ our Savior:

7 so that, having been justified by his grace, we might be heirs according to the hope of eternal life.

8 The saying is faithful: and I want you to confirm these things: so that those who believe God may make it their care to take the lead in good works. These things are good and useful to people.

9 But avoid foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and fights over the law: for they are useless and vain.

10 Avoid a heretical person after one and a second correction:

11 knowing that a person of this kind has been overturned and sins, being condemned by a judgment of their own.

12 When I have sent Artemas or Tychicus to you, hasten to come to me at Nicopolis: for there I have resolved to winter.

13 Send Zenas, skilled in law, and Apollo ahead with care, so that nothing may be lacking to them.

14 But let our own also learn to take the lead in good works for necessary uses: so that they may not be unfruitful.

15 All who are with me greet you: greet those who love us in faith. The grace of God with all of you. Amen.

BOOK FIFTY-SEVEN: PHILEMON

CHAPTER 1

1 Paul, a prisoner of Christ Jesus, and Timothy the brother, to Philemon, the beloved and our helper,

2 and to Appia, the most beloved sister, and Archippus our fellow soldier, and the church which is in your house.

3 Grace to you, and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I give thanks to my God, always making remembrance of you in my prayers,

5 hearing of your charity and the faith that you have in the Lord Jesus and toward all the saints:

6 that the sharing of your faith may become evident in the knowledge of every good work which is among you in Christ Jesus.

7 For I had great joy and consolation in your charity, because the bowels of the saints found rest through you, brother.

8 For this reason, having great confidence in Christ Jesus to command you what pertains to the matter:

9 because of charity, I appeal instead, since you are such a one—as Paul, an old man, and now also a prisoner of Jesus Christ:

10 I appeal to you for my son, whom I begot in bonds, Onesimus,

11 who once was useless to you, but now is useful both to me and to you,

12 whom I have sent back to you. But you, receive him as my bowels:

13 I had wished to keep him with me, so that on your behalf he might minister to me in the bonds of the Gospel:

14 but without your counsel I wished to do nothing, so that your good might not be as though from necessity, but voluntary.

15 For perhaps he departed from you for an hour for this reason: that you might receive him forever,

16 now no longer as a slave, but, in place of a slave, a most beloved brother, especially to me; but how much more to you, both in flesh and in the Lord?

17 If therefore you have me as a partner, receive him as you would me:

18 but if he has harmed you in anything, or owes you anything, charge this to me.

19 I, Paul, have written with my own hand: I will repay—not to say to you that you owe me even your very self:

20 Yes, brother. May I enjoy you in the Lord: refresh my bowels in the Lord.

21 Confident in your obedience, I have written to you, knowing that you will do even beyond what I say.

22 But at the same time, also prepare a lodging for me: for I hope through your prayers to be given to you.

23 Epaphras, my fellow captive in Christ Jesus, greets you;

24 Marcus, Aristarchus, Demas, and Lucas, my helpers, greet you.

25 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ with your spirit. Amen.

BOOK FIFTY-EIGHT: HEBREWS

CHAPTER 1

1 In many portions and in many ways, God, speaking formerly to the fathers in the prophets,

2 has most recently, in these days, spoken to us in the Son, whom he appointed heir of all things, through whom he also made the ages;

3 who, being the splendor of glory and the figure of his substance, and bearing all things by the word of his power, making purification of sins, sits at the right hand of majesty in the heights,

4 having been made so much better than the angels as the name he has inherited is more excellent than theirs.

5 For to which of the angels did he ever say, “You are my Son; today I have begotten you”? And again, “I will be to him a Father, and he will be to me a Son”?

6 And when he again brings the firstborn into the world, he says, “And let all the angels of God adore him.”

7 And to the angels indeed he says, “He who makes his angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire.”

8 But to the Son: “Your throne, God, is for the age of the age; a rod of equity is the rod of your kingdom.

9 You loved justice and hated iniquity; therefore God, your God, anointed you with the oil of exultation above your companions.”

10 And: “You, the Lord (YHWH), in the beginning founded the earth, and the heavens are works of your hands.

11 They themselves will perish, but you will remain; and they will all grow old like a garment,

12 and like a cloak you will change them, and they will be changed. But you yourself are the same, and your years will not fail.”

13 But to which of the angels did he ever say, “Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet”?

14 Are they not all administering spirits, sent into ministry on account of those who will receive the inheritance of salvation?

CHAPTER 2

1 Therefore we must attend all the more to the things we have heard, lest perhaps we drift away.

2 For if the speech spoken through angels was made firm, and every transgression and disobedience received a just repayment of wages,

3 how shall we escape if we have neglected so great a salvation—which, when it had begun to be proclaimed through the Lord, was confirmed into us by those who heard,

4 with God bearing joint witness by signs and wonders, and various powers, and distributions of the Holy Spirit according to his will?

5 For God did not subject to angels the world to come, about which we speak.

6 But someone testified in a certain place, saying, “What is man, that you are mindful of him, or the son of man, that you visit him?

7 You made him a little lower than the angels; you crowned him with glory and honor, and you appointed him over the works of your hands.

8 You subjected all things under his feet.” For in subjecting all things to him, he left nothing not subject to him. But now we do not yet see all things subject to him.

9 But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels, crowned with glory and honor because of the suffering of death, so that, by the grace of God, he might taste death for all.

10 For it befitted him, for whom are all things and through whom are all things, who had led many sons into glory, to bring the author of their salvation to completion through suffering.

11 For he who sanctifies and those who are sanctified are all from one. For this reason he is not ashamed to call them brothers, saying,

12 “I will announce your name to my brothers; in the midst of the church I will praise you.”

13 And again, “I will be trusting in him.” And again, “Behold, I and my children, whom God has given me.”

14 Since, therefore, the children shared in flesh and blood, he himself likewise partook of the same, so that through death he might destroy the one who had the dominion of death, that is, the devil,

15 and might free those who through fear of death were subject to servitude throughout their whole life.

16 For nowhere does he take hold of angels, but he takes hold of the seed of Abraham.

17 Therefore he ought in all things to be made like his brothers, so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest toward God, to make propitiation for the offenses of the people.

18 For in that in which he himself suffered and was tempted, he is also able to help those who are tempted.

CHAPTER 3

1 Therefore, holy brothers, partakers of the heavenly calling, consider Jesus, the apostle and high priest of our confession,

2 who is faithful to him who made him, as Moses also was in all his house.

3 For this one has been held worthy of greater glory than Moses, to the degree that the one who built the house has greater honor than the house.

4 For every house is built by someone, but he who created all things is God.

5 And Moses indeed was faithful in all his house as a servant, for a testimony of those things that were to be said;

6 but Christ as a Son in his own house—which house we are, if we hold firm unto the end the confidence and glory of hope.

7 Therefore, as the Holy Spirit says, “Today, if you hear his voice,

8 do not harden your hearts as in the provocation, according to the day of temptation in the desert,

9 where your fathers tempted me; they tested me and saw my works

10 for forty years. For this reason I was incensed against this generation, and I said: They always err in heart. But they themselves have not known my ways,

11 as I swore in my wrath: They shall not enter into my rest.”

12 Take heed, brothers, lest perhaps there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, to depart from the living God;

13 but exhort yourselves throughout each day, as long as it is called Today, so that none of you may be hardened by the deceitfulness of sin.

14 For we have been made partakers of Christ, if only we hold the beginning of his substance firm unto the end.

15 While it is said, “Today, if you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts as in that provocation.”

16 For some, when they heard, provoked; but not all who departed from Egypt through Moses.

17 But with whom was he incensed for forty years? Was it not with those who sinned, whose corpses were laid low in the desert?

18 But to whom did he swear that they would not enter into his rest, except to those who were unbelieving?

19 And we see that they could not enter because of unbelief.

CHAPTER 4

1 Therefore let us fear lest perhaps, while a promise of entering his rest remains, any of you should be judged to be lacking.

2 For indeed it was announced to us also, just as to them; but the speech heard did not profit them, not mingled with faith from the things they heard.

3 For we who have believed shall enter into rest, as he said, “As I swore in my wrath: They shall not enter into my rest”; and indeed, the works had been completed from the establishment of the world.

4 For he said in a certain place concerning the seventh day thus: “And God rested on the seventh day from all his works.”

5 And in this place again: “They shall not enter into my rest.”

6 Since, therefore, it remains for some to enter into it, and those to whom it was first announced did not enter because of unbelief,

7 he again defines a certain day—Today—saying in David, after so much time, as it was said above: “Today, if you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts.”

8 For if Jesus had afforded them rest, he would never afterward have spoken of another day.

9 Therefore a sabbath observance remains for the people of God.

10 For the one who has entered into his rest has himself also rested from his works, as God did from his own.

11 Let us therefore hasten to enter into that rest, so that no one may fall into that same example of unbelief.

12 For the speech of God is living and effective and more penetrating than every two-edged sword, reaching even to the division of soul and spirit, and also of joints and marrow, and a discerner of the thoughts and intentions of the heart.

13 And no creature is invisible in his sight, but all things are naked and open to his eyes, to whom we have an account.

14 Therefore, having a great high priest who has penetrated the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold our confession.

15 For we do not have a high priest who cannot have compassion on our infirmities, but one tempted in all things according to likeness, without sin.

16 Let us therefore approach the throne of grace with confidence, so that we may obtain mercy and find grace for timely aid.

CHAPTER 5

1 For every high priest taken from among people is appointed for people in those things that are toward God, so that he may offer gifts and sacrifices for sins;

2 one who can sympathize with those who do not know and who err, since he himself also is surrounded by infirmity,

3 and because of it he ought, as for the people, so also for himself, to offer for sins.

4 Nor does anyone take the honor for himself, but one who is called by God, as Aaron was.

5 So too Christ did not glorify himself that he might become a high priest, but the one who spoke to him did: “You are my Son; today I have begotten you.”

6 As also in another place he says, “You are a priest for eternity, according to the order of Melchisedech.”

7 He, in the days of his flesh, offering prayers and supplications with a mighty cry and tears to the one who could save him from death, was heard because of his reverence.

8 And indeed, although he was the Son of God, he learned obedience from the things he suffered;

9 and having been brought to completion, he became, to all who obey him, the cause of eternal salvation,

10 called by God a high priest according to the order of Melchisedech.

11 Concerning him, we have a great discourse, and one difficult to explain, because you have become weak in hearing.

12 For although you ought to be teachers because of the time, you again need to be taught what the elements of the beginning of God’s sayings are; and you have become those who need milk, not solid food.

13 For everyone who partakes of milk is inexperienced in the speech of justice, for he is an infant.

14 But solid food is for the perfect: those who through habit have their senses exercised for the discernment of good and evil.

CHAPTER 6

1 Therefore, leaving aside the discourse of the beginning of Christ, let us be borne toward more perfect things, not laying again a foundation of repentance from dead works and of faith toward God,

2 of the doctrine of baptisms, and also of the laying on of hands, and of the resurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgment.

3 And this we shall do, if indeed God permits.

4 For it is impossible for those who have once been illuminated, have also tasted the heavenly gift, and have been made partakers of the Holy Spirit,

5 have likewise tasted the good word of God and the powers of the age to come,

6 and have fallen away, to be renewed again to repentance, crucifying again for themselves the Son of God and holding him as a spectacle.

7 For land that drinks the rain which often comes upon it and produces vegetation suitable for those by whom it is cultivated receives a blessing from God;

8 but bringing forth thorns and briars, it is rejected and near to a curse, and its consummation is in burning.

9 But concerning you, most beloved, we trust better things and things nearer to salvation, although we speak thus.

10 For God is not unjust, that he should forget your work and the love which you have shown in his name, you who ministered to the saints and continue to minister.

11 But we desire each one of you to show the same diligence toward the fulfillment of hope unto the end,

12 so that you may not become sluggish, but rather imitators of those who through faith and patience will inherit the promises.

13 For when God made a promise to Abraham, since he had no one greater by whom he might swear, he swore by himself,

14 saying, “Surely, blessing I will bless you, and multiplying I will multiply you.”

15 And thus, enduring with patience, he obtained the promise.

16 For people swear by one greater than themselves, and the end of every controversy among them, for confirmation, is an oath.

17 In this, God, wishing more abundantly to show the heirs of the promise the immutability of his counsel, interposed an oath,

18 so that through two immutable things, in which it is impossible for God to lie, we may have the strongest consolation—we who have fled for refuge to hold the hope set before us,

19 which we have as an anchor of the soul, safe and firm, and advancing as far as the inner parts of the veil,

20 where Jesus entered as a forerunner for us, having been made a high priest for eternity according to the order of Melchisedech.

CHAPTER 7

1 For this Melchisedech, king of Salem, priest of God Most High, who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings and blessed him:

2 to whom Abraham also apportioned tithes of everything; first indeed he is interpreted as king of justice, and then he is also king of Salem, which is king of peace,

3 without father, without mother, without genealogy, having neither beginning of days nor end of life, but made like the Son of God, he remains a priest forever.

4 Now behold how great this man is, to whom Abraham the patriarch gave tithes even from the choicest portions.

5 And indeed, those of the sons of Levi who receive the priesthood have a command to take tithes from the people according to the law, that is, from their own brothers, although they themselves also came out of the loins of Abraham.

6 But he whose lineage is not numbered among them took tithes from Abraham and blessed him who held the promises.

7 Now without any contradiction, what is lesser is blessed by what is better.

8 And here indeed dying men receive tithes, but there testimony is borne that he lives.

9 And, so to speak, through Abraham even Levi, who received tithes, was tithed:

10 for he was still in the loins of his father when Melchisedech met him.

11 Therefore, if completion was through the Levitical priesthood—for the people received the law under it—what further need was there for another priest to arise according to the order of Melchisedech, and not to be called according to the order of Aaron?

12 For when the priesthood is transferred, it is necessary that a transfer of the law also take place.

13 For the one concerning whom these things are said is from another tribe, from which no one stood in attendance at the altar.

14 For it is evident that our Lord arose from Judah, in which tribe Moses said nothing about priests.

15 And it is still more evident if another priest arises according to the likeness of Melchisedech, 16 who was made not according to the law of a carnal command, but according to the power of an indissoluble life.

17 For he testifies: “Because you are a priest forever, according to the order of Melchisedech.”

18 There is indeed a rejection of the preceding command because of its weakness and uselessness:

19 for the law brought nothing to perfection; but there is the introduction of a better hope, through which we draw near to God.

20 And to the extent that this was not without an oath (the others indeed were made priests without an oath, 21 but he with an oath, through the one who said to him, “The Lord has sworn and will not repent: you are a priest forever”),

22 to that extent Jesus was made the guarantor of a better testament.

23 And the others indeed were made priests in greater number, because they were prevented by death from remaining;

24 but he, because he remains forever, has an everlasting priesthood.

25 Therefore he is also able to save forever those who approach God through himself, always living to intercede for us.

26 For it was fitting that we should have such a high priest: holy, innocent, undefiled, separated from sinners, and made higher than the heavens;

27 one who has no need each day, as the priests do, first to present sacrificial offerings for his own offenses and then for the people’s. For this he did once, by offering himself.

28 For the law appoints as priests men who have weakness; but the word of the oath, which is after the law, appoints the Son, made perfect forever.

CHAPTER 8

1 Now the chief point concerning the things being said is this: we have such a high priest, who has sat down at the right hand of the throne of majesty in the heavens,

2 a minister of the holy places and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord set up, and not man.

3 For every high priest is appointed for presenting gift-offerings and sacrificial offerings; hence it is necessary that this one also have something to offer.

4 Therefore, if he were upon earth, he would not even be a priest, since those who will present gift-offerings according to the law would be present,

5 who attend upon a copy and shadow of heavenly things. As it was answered to Moses when he was completing the tabernacle: “See,” he says, “that you make all things according to the pattern that was shown to you on the mountain.”

6 But now he has obtained a better ministry, by as much as he is also the mediator of a better testament, which has been established upon better promises.

7 For if that first one had been free of fault, a place for a second would certainly not have been sought.

8 For finding fault with them, he says: “Behold, days will come, says the Lord, and I will complete a new testament upon the house of Israel and upon the house of Judah,

9 not according to the testament that I made with their fathers on the day when I took hold of their hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt; because they did not remain in my testament, and I neglected them, says the Lord.

10 For this is the testament that I will arrange for the house of Israel after those days, says the Lord: giving my laws into their mind, I will inscribe them upon their heart; and I will be God for them, and they themselves will be a people for me.

11 And each one will not teach his neighbor, and each one his brother, saying, ‘Know the Lord,’ because all will know me, from the lesser to the greater of them.

12 For I will be propitious to their iniquities, and I will no longer remember their sins.”

13 Now in saying “new,” he has made the first old. But what is becoming old and aging is near destruction.

CHAPTER 9

1 The first indeed also had justifications of worship and a worldly holy place.

2 For a first tabernacle was made, in which were the lampstands, and the table, and the presentation of the loaves; this is called the Holy Place.

3 But after the second veil was the tabernacle that is called the Holy of Holies,

4 having a golden censer and the ark of the testament, covered on every side with gold, in which were a golden urn holding manna, and the rod of Aaron that had put forth leaves, and the tablets of the testament;

5 and above it were cherubim of glory overshadowing the propitiatory. These things are not now to be discussed one by one.

6 Now when these things had been arranged in this way, the priests were always entering the first tabernacle, fulfilling the offices of sacrifice;

7 but into the second the high priest alone entered once in the year, not without blood, which he offers for his own ignorance and that of the people;

8 the Holy Spirit thereby signifying that the way of the holy places had not yet been laid open while the first tabernacle still held its standing:

9 which is a parable of the present time, according to which gift-offerings and sacrificial offerings are presented that cannot make the one serving perfect according to conscience, being concerned only with foods and drinks,

10 and various baptisms and justifications of the flesh, all imposed until the time of correction.

11 But Christ, arriving as high priest of future good things, through a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made by hand, that is, not of this creation,

12 entered once into the holy places, not by the blood of goats or calves but by his own blood, eternal redemption having been found.

13 For if the blood of goats and bulls and the ash of a heifer, sprinkled upon the defiled, sanctifies for the cleansing of the flesh,

14 how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the Holy Spirit offered himself unblemished to God, cleanse our conscience from dead works, to serve the living God?

15 And therefore he is the mediator of the new testament, so that, with death intervening for the redemption of those transgressions which were under the former testament, those who are called may receive the promise of eternal inheritance.

16 For where there is a testament, the death of the testator must necessarily intervene.

17 For a testament is confirmed in the dead; otherwise it is not yet valid while the one who made the testament lives.

18 Hence not even the first was dedicated without blood.

19 For when every command of the law had been read by Moses to all the people, he took the blood of calves and goats with water, scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book itself and all the people,

20 saying, “This is the blood of the testament that God commanded to you.”

21 He also sprinkled the tabernacle and all the vessels of ministry with blood in the same way.

22 And according to the law almost all things are cleansed in blood, and without the shedding of blood remission does not take place.

23 Therefore it is necessary for the copies of heavenly things to be cleansed by these, but the heavenly things themselves by better sacrificial offerings than these.

24 For Jesus did not enter into holy places made by hand, copies of the true ones, but into heaven itself, that he may now appear before the face of God for us;

25 nor did he enter that he might offer himself often, as the high priest enters the holy places each year in another’s blood;

26 otherwise he ought to have suffered frequently from the origin of the world. But now, once at the consummation of the ages, he has appeared for the destruction of sin through his own sacrificial offering.

27 And just as it is appointed for men to die once, but after this, judgment,

28 so also Christ was offered once to exhaust the sins of many; a second time he will appear without sin to those who await him, unto salvation.

CHAPTER 10

1 For the law, having a shadow of future good things and not the very image of the things, can never, through the very same sacrificial offerings which they offer without ceasing each year, make those who approach perfect;

2 otherwise they would have ceased to be offered, because the worshipers, once cleansed, would no longer have any consciousness of sin.

3 But in those sacrifices a remembrance of sins is made each year.

4 For it is impossible for sins to be taken away by the blood of bulls and goats.

5 Therefore, entering the world, he says: “A sacrificial offering and an oblation you did not desire, but you fitted a body for me;

6 whole burnt offerings for sin did not please you.

7 Then I said, ‘Behold, I come—in the head of the book it is written of me—that I may do your will, O God.’”

8 Saying above, “Because sacrificial offerings, oblations, and whole burnt offerings for sin you did not desire, nor were they pleasing to you—things that are offered according to the law—

9 then I said, ‘Behold, I come that I may do your will, O God,’” he takes away the first so that he may establish what follows.

10 In which will we have been sanctified through the oblation of the body of Jesus Christ once.

11 And every priest indeed stands ready each day, ministering and frequently presenting the same sacrificial offerings, which can never take away sins;

12 but he, presenting one sacrificial offering for sins, sits forever at the right hand of God,

13 from then on awaiting until his enemies are placed as a footstool for his feet.

14 For by one oblation he has brought those who have been sanctified to completion forever.

15 And the Holy Spirit also bears witness to us. For after he said,

16 “And this is the testament that I will testify to them after those days, says the Lord: giving my laws in their hearts, I will inscribe them upon their minds;

17 and their sins and iniquities I will no longer remember at all,”

18 But where there is remission of these, there is now no oblation for sin.

19 Therefore, brothers, having confidence in the entrance into the holy places in the blood of Christ,

20 by the new and living way which he inaugurated for us through the veil, that is, his flesh,

21 and having a great priest over the house of God,

22 let us approach with a true heart in fullness of faith, our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience and our body washed with clean water.

23 Let us hold the confession of our hope unbending (for the one who promised is faithful),

24 and let us consider one another unto the provocation of charity and of good works,

25 not forsaking our gathering, as is the custom of some, but consoling, and so much the more as you see the day drawing near.

26 For to us who sin voluntarily after receiving the knowledge of truth, there no longer remains a sacrificial offering for sins,

27 but a certain terrifying expectation of judgment and a jealous fire that is going to consume the adversaries.

28 A person who makes the law of Moses void dies without any pity, with two or three as witnesses;

29 how much more do you think one merits worse punishments who has trampled the Son of God, regarded as polluted the blood of the testament in which he was sanctified, and done insult to the Spirit of grace?

30 For we know the one who said, “Vengeance is mine, and I will repay.” And again, “Because the Lord will judge his people.”

31 It is dreadful to fall into the hands of the living God.

32 But remember the former days, in which, once enlightened, you endured a great contest of sufferings:

33 and on one hand, you were made a spectacle by reproaches and tribulations; on the other, you became companions of those living in this way.

34 For you both had compassion on those in bonds and accepted with joy the plunder of your goods, knowing that you have a better and abiding substance.

35 Therefore do not lose your confidence, which has a great recompense.

36 For patience is necessary for you, so that, doing the will of God, you may receive the promise.

37 For yet a little, a very little while: he who is to come will come and will not delay.

38 But my just one lives by faith; but if he withdraws himself, he will not please my soul.

39 But we are not sons of withdrawal unto perdition, but sons of faith unto the acquisition of the soul.

CHAPTER 11

1 Now faith is the substance of things to be hoped for, the proof of things not appearing.

2 For in this the elders obtained testimony.

3 By faith we understand that the ages were fitted together by the word of God, so that visible things were made from invisible things.

4 By faith Abel offered to God a far greater sacrificial offering than Cain, through which he obtained testimony that he was just, God bearing testimony to his gift-offerings; and through it, having died, he still speaks.

5 By faith Enoch was translated so that he would not see death, and he was not found, because God translated him; for before his translation he had testimony that he had pleased God.

6 Yet without faith it is impossible to please God. For the one approaching God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of those who seek him.

7 By faith Noah, having received a response concerning the things that were not yet seen, fearfully fitted an ark for the salvation of his house; through it he condemned the world, and was appointed an heir of the justice that is through faith.

8 By faith he who is called Abraham obeyed by going out to the place that he was to receive as an inheritance; and he went out, not knowing where he was going.

9 By faith he stayed in the land of promise as in a foreign land, dwelling in huts with Isaac and Jacob, coheirs of the same promise.

10 For he awaited a city having foundations, whose craftsman and builder is God.

11 By faith Sarah herself also, being barren, received power for the conception of seed, even beyond the time of her age, because she believed that the one who had promised was faithful.

12 For this reason also, from one man—and him as good as dead—there came forth a multitude like the stars of heaven, and like the innumerable sand at the shore of the sea.

13 According to faith all these died, not having received the promises, but beholding them from afar, and greeting them, and confessing that they are pilgrims and guests upon the earth.

14 For those who say these things signify that they are seeking a homeland.

15 And indeed, if they had remembered that land from which they went out, they certainly had time to return;

16 but now they desire a better one, that is, a heavenly one. Therefore God is not ashamed to be called their God, for he has prepared a city for them.

17 By faith Abraham offered Isaac when he was being tested; and he who had received the promises was offering the only-begotten,

18 to whom it was said: “Because in Isaac shall seed be called for you,”

19 judging that God is able even to raise him from the dead; from which he also received him in a parable.

20 By faith Isaac also blessed Jacob and Esau concerning things to come.

21 By faith Jacob, dying, blessed each of Joseph’s sons, and adored the top of his rod.

22 By faith Joseph, dying, made mention of the departure of the children of Israel, and gave a command concerning his bones.

23 By faith Moses, when born, was hidden for three months by his parents, because they had seen that the infant was elegant, and they did not fear the king’s edict.

24 By faith Moses, when he had grown up, denied that he was a son of Pharaoh’s daughter,

25 choosing rather to be afflicted with the people of God than to have the pleasure of temporal sin,

26 esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasure of the Egyptians; for he was looking toward the reward.

27 By faith he left Egypt, not fearing the king’s fierceness; for he endured as though seeing the Invisible One.

28 By faith he celebrated the Pasch and the pouring out of blood, lest the one devastating the firstborn should touch them.

29 By faith they passed through the Red Sea as through dry land; when the Egyptians tried this, they were devoured.

30 By faith the walls of Jericho fell after seven days of circling.

31 By faith Rahab the prostitute did not perish with the unbelieving, receiving the explorers with peace.

32 And what more shall I say? For time will fail me in recounting Gideon, Barak, Samson, Jephthah, David, Samuel, and the prophets,

33 who through faith conquered kingdoms, practiced justice, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions,

34 quenched the force of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, became strong out of weakness, were made valiant in war, and routed the camps of foreigners.

35 Women received their dead by resurrection; but others were stretched, not accepting redemption, so that they might find a better resurrection.

36 But others experienced mockeries and blows, and moreover chains and prisons;

37 they were stoned, they were cut apart, they were tested, they died in the slaughter of the sword, they went about in sheepskins, in goatskins, needy, distressed, afflicted—

38 those of whom the world was not worthy—wandering in deserts, in mountains, in caves, and in caverns of the earth.

39 And all these, approved by the testimony of faith, did not receive the promise,

40 God providing something better for us, so that they should not be brought to completion without us.

CHAPTER 12

1 Therefore we also, having so great a cloud of witnesses laid upon us, laying aside every weight and the sin surrounding us, let us run with endurance toward the contest set before us,

2 looking to Jesus, the author and consummator of faith, who, for the joy set before him, endured the cross, despising shame, and sits at the right hand of the throne of God.

3 For consider him who endured such contradiction against himself from sinners, so that you may not grow weary, growing faint in your spirits.

4 For you have not yet resisted to the point of blood, fighting against sin;

5 and you have forgotten the consolation that speaks to you as to sons, saying: “My son, do not neglect the discipline of the Lord, nor grow weary while you are reproved by him.

6 For whom the Lord loves, he chastens; and he scourges every son whom he receives.”

7 Persevere in discipline. God offers himself to you as to sons; for what son is there whom a father does not correct?

8 But if you are outside discipline, of which all have been made participants, then you are adulterers and not sons.

9 Then indeed we had the fathers of our flesh as instructors, and we revered them; shall we not much more obey the Father of spirits, and live?

10 And they indeed instructed us for a time of few days, according to their own will; but he instructs us toward what is useful in receiving his sanctification.

11 Now every discipline, for the present, indeed seems to be not of joy but of sorrow; but afterward it will render the most peaceful fruit of justice to those trained by it.

12 Therefore raise up the drooping hands and loosened knees,

13 and make straight steps for your feet, so that whoever limps may not stray, but rather be healed.

14 Pursue peace with all, and holiness, without which no one will see God,

15 watching lest anyone fall short of the grace of God; lest any root of bitterness, springing upward, hinder, and through it many be defiled;

16 lest anyone be a fornicator or profane like Esau, who for one meal sold his rights as firstborn.

17 For know that afterward also, desiring to inherit the blessing, he was rejected; for he found no place of repentance, although he had sought it with tears.

18 For you have not approached a mountain that can be touched, and a fire that can be kindled, and whirlwind, and darkness, and storm,

19 and the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of words; those who heard it excused themselves, lest the word be spoken to them.

20 For they could not bear what was being said: “And if a beast touches the mountain, it shall be stoned.”

21 And so terrible was what appeared. Moses said: “I am terrified and trembling.”

22 But you have approached Mount Zion, and the city of the living God, heavenly Jerusalem, and the assembly of many thousands of angels,

23 and the church of the firstborn, who are enrolled in the heavens, and God the judge of all, and the spirits of the just made perfect,

24 and Jesus the mediator of the new testament, and the sprinkling of blood speaking better than Abel.

25 See that you do not refuse the one speaking. For if they did not escape, refusing him who spoke upon earth, much more shall we not escape, we who turn away from the one speaking to us from heaven.

26 His voice moved the earth then; but now he promises, saying: “Yet once more, and I will move not only the earth but also heaven.”

27 Now his saying “Yet once more” declares the removal of movable things, as of things made, so that those things which are immovable may remain.

28 Therefore, receiving an immovable kingdom, we have grace; through it let us serve, pleasing God, with fear and reverence.

29 For indeed our God is a consuming fire.

CHAPTER 13

1 Let brotherly charity remain in you,

2 and do not forget hospitality; for through it some were unaware when angels were received as guests.

3 Remember those in bonds, as though bound together with them, and those who suffer, as though you yourselves also remain in the body.

4 Marriage is honorable in all, and the bed undefiled. For God will judge fornicators and adulterers.

5 Let your conduct be without avarice; be content with present things, for he himself said: “I will not forsake you, nor abandon you,”

6 so that we may confidently say: “The Lord is my helper; I will not fear what man may do to me.”

7 Remember your leaders, who spoke to you the word of God; contemplating the end of their way of life, imitate their faith.

8 Jesus Christ yesterday and today—he himself also through the ages.

9 Do not be led away by varied and foreign doctrines. For it is best to establish the heart by grace, not by foods, which did not profit those walking in them.

10 We have an altar from which those who attend upon the tabernacle have no power to eat.

11 For the bodies of those animals whose blood is brought into the Holy Places by the high priest for sin are burned outside the camp.

12 For this reason Jesus also, that he might sanctify the people through his own blood, suffered outside the gate.

13 Let us therefore go out to him outside the camp, bearing his reproach.

14 For here we have no city that remains, but we seek the one to come.

15 Through him, therefore, let us always offer to God a sacrificial offering of praise, that is, the fruit of lips making confession to his name.

16 But do not forget beneficence and fellowship, for by such sacrificial offerings God is pleased.

17 Obey your leaders and be subject to them. For they keep vigilant watch as those who will render an account for your souls, so that they may do this with joy and not groaning; for this is not advantageous to you.

18 Pray for us; for we trust that we have a good conscience, wishing to conduct ourselves well in all things.

19 But I beseech you all the more to do this, that I may be restored to you more quickly.

20 Now may the God of peace, who brought from the dead the great shepherd of the sheep, in the blood of the eternal testament, our Lord Jesus Christ,

21 fit you in every good thing, that you may do his will, doing in you what may please before him through Jesus Christ, to whom is glory through the ages of ages. Amen.

22 But I ask you, brothers, to endure the word of consolation. For indeed I wrote to you in very few words.

23 Know that our brother Timothy has been released; with him, if he comes more quickly, I will see you.

24 Greet all your leaders and all the saints. The brothers from Italy greet you.

25 Grace with you all. Amen.

BOOK FIFTY-NINE: JAMES

CHAPTER 1

1 James, a servant of God and of our Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes that are in dispersion: greetings.

2 Regard it as all joy, my brothers, when you fall into various temptations,

3 knowing that the proving of your faith works patience.

4 Patience, however, has a perfect work, so that you may be perfect and whole, lacking in nothing.

5 But if any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask of God, who gives to all abundantly and does not reproach; and it will be given to him.

6 But let him ask in faith, without hesitating at all; for he who hesitates is like a wave of the sea, moved by the wind and carried about.

7 Therefore let that man not suppose that he will receive anything from the Lord.

8 A man double in mind is unstable in all his ways.

9 But let the lowly brother glory in his exaltation,

10 but the rich in his lowliness, because he will pass away like a flower of grass;

11 for the sun rose with burning heat and dried the grass, and its flower fell and the beauty of its face perished; so also the rich will wither in his journeys.

12 Blessed is the man who endures temptation, because when he has been proved, he will receive the crown of life, which God has promised to those who love him.

13 Let no one, when tempted, say that he is tempted by God; for God is no tempter of evils, but he himself tempts no one.

14 But each one is tempted by his own desire, drawn away and enticed.

15 Then desire, when it has conceived, gives birth to sin; but sin, when it has been completed, begets death.

16 Therefore do not go astray, my most beloved brothers.

17 Every excellent thing given and every perfect gift comes from above, descending from the Father of lights, with whom there is no change, nor shadowing of variation.

18 For he willingly begot us by the word of truth, so that we might be some beginning of his creation.

19 You know, my most beloved brothers. But let every man be swift to hear, yet slow to speak and slow to anger.

20 For the anger of man does not work the justice of God.

21 Therefore, casting off all uncleanness and abundance of malice, receive with meekness the implanted word, which is able to save your souls.

22 But be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves.

23 For if anyone is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he will be compared to a man considering the face of his birth in a mirror;

24 for he considered himself and went away, and immediately forgot what he was like.

25 But he who has looked closely into the perfect law of liberty and has remained in it, not having become a forgetful hearer but a doer of work—this one will be blessed in his deed.

26 But if anyone thinks that he is religious, not restraining his tongue but leading his own heart astray, his religion is empty.

27 Religion clean and unstained before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their tribulation, and to keep oneself unstained from this age.

CHAPTER 2

1 My brothers, do not hold the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ of glory with acceptance of persons.

2 For if a man having a gold ring, in white clothing, enters your assembly, and a poor man in filthy attire also enters,

3 and you look intently at the one clothed in splendid clothing and say to him, “You, sit well here,” but say to the poor man, “You, stand there,” or, “Sit beneath the footstool of my feet,”

4 do you not judge among yourselves, and have you become judges of unjust thoughts?

5 Listen, my most beloved brothers: has God not chosen the poor in this world to be rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom, which God has promised to those who love him?

6 But you have dishonored the poor man. Do not the rich oppress you by force, and do they themselves not drag you into courts?

7 Do they themselves not blaspheme the good name that has been invoked over you?

8 Yet if you fulfill the royal law according to the Scriptures, “You shall love your neighbor as yourself,” you do well;

9 but if you accept persons, you work sin, convicted by the law as transgressors.

10 But whoever may have kept the whole law, yet should stumble in one, has become guilty of all.

11 For he who said, “You shall not commit adultery,” also said, “You shall not kill.” But if you do not commit adultery, yet do kill, you have become a transgressor of the law.

12 So speak, and so act, as those who are beginning to be judged through the law of liberty.

13 For judgment without mercy is for him who has not done mercy; but mercy exalts itself above judgment.

14 What will it profit, my brothers, if someone says that he has faith but has no works? Can faith save him?

15 But if a brother and a sister are naked and lack daily sustenance,

16 and someone among you should say to them, “Go in peace; be warmed and be filled,” but you have not given them what is necessary for the body, what will it profit?

17 So faith also, if it has no works, is dead in itself.

18 But someone will say, “You have faith, and I have works. Show me your faith without works, and I will show you my faith from works.”

19 You believe that God is one. You do well; and the demons believe, and shudder.

20 But do you wish to know, O empty man, that faith without works is dead?

21 Was not Abraham our father justified from works, offering Isaac his son upon the altar?

22 Do you see that faith was working together with his works, and that from the works faith was completed?

23 And the Scripture was fulfilled, saying, “Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him as justice,” and he was called a friend of God.

24 Do you see that a man is justified from works, and not from faith alone?

25 Likewise, was not Rahab the prostitute also justified from works, receiving the messengers and sending them out by another way?

26 For just as the body without the spirit is dead, so also faith without works is dead.

CHAPTER 3

1 My brothers, do not become teachers in great numbers, knowing that you receive a greater judgment.

2 For we all stumble in many things. If anyone does not stumble in word, he is a perfect man; he is also able to lead the whole body around with a bridle.

3 But if we put bridles into horses' mouths to make them consent to us, we also turn their whole body around.

4 Behold, ships also, though they are great and are driven by strong winds, are turned around by a small rudder wherever the impulse of the one steering wills.

5 So also the tongue is indeed a small member, and exalts great things. Behold how great a fire sets so great a forest ablaze!

6 And the tongue is a fire, the totality of iniquity. The tongue is set among our members: it stains the whole body and sets ablaze the wheel of our birth, itself set ablaze by Gehenna.

7 For every nature—of beasts, birds, serpents, and the rest—is tamed, and has been tamed, by human nature:

8 but no one among men can tame the tongue: a restless evil, full of deadly poison.

9 With it we bless God and the Father; and with it we curse men, who were made according to the likeness of God.

10 From the same mouth comes blessing and curse. My brothers, these things ought not to be so.

11 Does a spring send forth sweet and bitter water from the same opening?

12 Can a fig tree, my brothers, make grapes, or a vine figs? So neither can what is salty make sweet water.

13 Who among you is wise and trained? Let him show, from good conduct, his work in the meekness of wisdom.

14 But if you have bitter zeal, and contentions are in your hearts, do not boast, and do not be liars against the truth:

15 for this wisdom is not descending from above, but is earthly, soulish, diabolical.

16 For where there are zeal and contention, there are instability and every wicked work.

17 But the wisdom that is from above is first indeed chaste, then peaceful, modest, persuadable, consenting to good things, full of mercy and good fruits, not judging, without pretense.

18 But the fruit of justice is sown in peace for those who make peace.

CHAPTER 4

1 From where do the wars and quarrels among you come? Is it not from here: from your desires, which wage war in your members?

2 You desire and do not have; you kill and envy, and cannot obtain; you quarrel and wage war, and do not have, because you make no request.

3 You ask and do not receive, because you ask badly, so that you may spend it on your desires.

4 Adulterers, do you not know that friendship with this world is hostile to God? Whoever, therefore, wills to be a friend of this age is constituted an enemy of God.

5 Or do you think that Scripture says in vain, “The spirit that dwells in you desires toward envy”?

6 But greater grace is given. Therefore it is said: “God resists the proud, but gives grace to the humble.”

7 Therefore be subject to God, but resist the devil, and he will flee from you.

8 Draw near to God, and he will draw near to you. Cleanse your hands, sinners, and purify your hearts, double in mind.

9 Be miserable, and mourn, and weep; let your laughter be turned into mourning, and your joy into sorrow.

10 Be humbled in the sight of the Lord, and he will exalt you.

11 Brothers, do not speak against one another. Whoever speaks against a brother, or judges his own brother, speaks against the law and judges the law. But if you judge the law, you are not a doer of the law, but a judge.

12 There is one lawgiver and judge, who is able to destroy and to set free.

13 But who are you, who judge your neighbor? Behold now, you who say, “Today or tomorrow we will go into that city, and we will indeed spend a year there, and trade, and make a profit”—

14 you who do not know what tomorrow will be.

15 For what is your life? It is a vapor, appearing for a little while, and afterward it will disappear; instead, you should say: “If the Lord wills.” And: “If we live, we will do this or that.”

16 But now you exult in your boastings. Every such exultation is evil.

17 Therefore, for the one who knows to do good and does not do it, it is sin.

CHAPTER 5

1 Come now, you rich: weep, howling in your miseries that will come upon you.

2 Your riches have rotted, and your garments have been eaten by moths.

3 Your gold and silver have rusted; and their rust will be a witness to you and will eat your flesh like fire. You have stored up wrath for yourselves in the last days.

4 Behold, the wage of the workers who reaped your lands, which has been withheld by you, cries out; and their cry has entered into the ears of the Lord (YHWH) Sabaoth.

5 You have feasted upon the earth, and amid indulgences you have fattened your hearts on the day of slaughter.

6 You have condemned and killed the just one, and he did not resist you.

7 Be patient, therefore, brothers, until the coming of the Lord. Behold, the farmer awaits the precious fruit of the earth, bearing patiently until he receives the early and the late.

8 Be patient, therefore, you too, and strengthen your hearts, because the coming of the Lord has drawn near.

9 Do not groan, brothers, against one another, so that you may not be judged. Behold, the judge stands before the door.

10 Take, brothers, as an example of the outcome of evil, labor, and patience, the prophets who spoke in the name of the Lord.

11 Behold, we call blessed those who have endured. You have heard the suffering of Job and have seen the end of the Lord, because the Lord is merciful and compassionate.

12 But before all things, my brothers, do not swear—neither by heaven, nor by earth, nor by any other oath whatsoever. But let your speech be: Yes, yes; no, no; so that you may not fall under judgment.

13 Is anyone among you distressed? Let him pray. Is anyone in an even frame of mind? Let him sing psalms.

14 Is anyone among you sick? Let him summon the presbyters of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord:

15 and the prayer of faith will save the sick one, and the Lord will raise him up; and if he is in sins, they will be remitted to him.

16 Therefore confess your sins to one another, and pray for one another so that you may be saved; for the assiduous supplication of a just person avails much.

17 Elijah was a man like us, susceptible to suffering; and with prayer he prayed that it might not rain upon the earth, and it did not rain for three years and six months.

18 And he prayed again; and heaven gave rain, and the earth gave its fruit.

19 My brothers, if anyone among you should stray from the truth, and someone should turn him back:

20 he must know that the one who causes a sinner to turn from the error of his way will save his soul from death and will cover a multitude of sins.

BOOK SIXTY: FIRST PETER

CHAPTER 1

1 Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the elect sojourners of the dispersion—of Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia—

2 according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, in the sanctification of the Spirit, in obedience and the sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ. Grace to you, and peace be multiplied.

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who, according to his great mercy, has begotten us anew into a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead,

4 into an incorruptible, undefiled, and unfading inheritance, kept in the heavens in you,

5 who by the power of God are guarded through faith for a salvation ready to be revealed at the last time.

6 In this you will exult, though now for a little, if it is necessary to be grieved amid various temptations,

7 so that the proving of your faith, far more precious than gold—which is tested by fire—may be found unto praise, glory, and honor in the revelation of Jesus Christ;

8 whom, although you have not seen, you love; in whom, though even now you do not see, you believe; but believing, you will exult with joy unspeakable and glorified,

9 receiving the end of your faith: the salvation of souls.

10 Concerning this salvation, the prophets sought and searched, who prophesied of the grace to come in you,

11 searching what time, or what kind of time, the Spirit of Christ in them signified, foretelling the sufferings that are in Christ and the glories that follow;

12 to whom it was revealed that they were ministering not to themselves but to you the things now announced to you by those who evangelized you, through the Holy Spirit sent from heaven, into whom angels desire to look.

13 Therefore, with the loins of your mind girded, and being sober, hope fully in the grace that is offered to you at the revelation of Jesus Christ,

14 as children of obedience, not conformed to the former desires of your ignorance;

15 but according to the Holy One who called you, be holy yourselves also in all your conduct,

16 for it is written: “You will be holy, because I am holy.”

17 And if you invoke as Father him who judges without acceptance of persons according to each one’s work, conduct yourselves in fear during the time of your sojourning,

18 knowing that you were redeemed from the vain conduct of your paternal tradition, not with corruptible things, gold or silver,

19 but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb immaculate and undefiled,

20 foreknown indeed before the foundation of the world, but manifested in the last times for your sake,

21 who through him have faith in God, who raised him from the dead and gave him glory, so that your faith and hope might be in God.

22 Having purified your souls in the obedience of charity, in the love of brotherhood, love one another more earnestly from a simple heart,

23 reborn not from corruptible seed but from incorruptible seed, through the word of the living God, who abides forever;

24 for all flesh is like grass, and all its glory like the flower of grass; the grass withered, and its flower fell.

25 But the word of the Lord (YHWH) abides forever; and this is the word that was proclaimed to you as good news.

CHAPTER 2

1 Therefore, laying aside all malice and all deceit, and pretenses and envies, and all detractions,

2 as infants newly born, long for the rational milk, without guile, so that in it you may grow into salvation,

3 if indeed you have tasted that the Lord is sweet.

4 Coming to him, a living stone, rejected indeed by men, but chosen and honored by God,

5 you yourselves also, like living stones, are being built up, a spiritual house, a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ.

6 For this reason Scripture contains: “Behold, I lay in Zion a chief cornerstone, chosen, precious; and whoever believes in him will not be confounded.”

7 To you, therefore, who believe, honor; but to those who do not believe, “The stone which the builders rejected—this has become the head of the corner,”

8 and “a stone of offense and a rock of scandal,” to those who take offense at the word and do not believe, in which also they have been placed.

9 But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people of acquisition, that you may proclaim the excellences of him who called you out of darkness into his admirable light.

10 You who were once not a people, but now are the people of God; who had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy.

11 Beloved, I beseech you, as sojourners and pilgrims, to abstain from fleshly desires, which wage war against the soul,

12 keeping your conduct good among the nations, so that in that for which they disparage you as evildoers, when they observe you by your good works, they may glorify God on the day of visitation.

13 Therefore be subject to every human creature for God’s sake: whether to the king as preeminent,

14 or to governors as sent by him for the punishment of evildoers, but for the praise of those who do good;

15 for so is the will of God, that by doing good you may cause the ignorance of foolish men to fall silent,

16 as free, yet not having freedom as a veil for malice, but as servants of God.

17 Honor everyone; love the brotherhood; fear God; give honor to the king.

18 Servants, be subject in all fear to your masters, not only to the good and modest, but also to the difficult.

19 For this is grace, if, because of conscience toward God, someone endures sorrows, suffering unjustly.

20 For what glory is it if, sinning and being struck with fists, you endure? But if, doing good, you endure patiently, this is grace with God.

21 For to this you have been called, because Christ also suffered for us, leaving you an example, that you may follow his footprints,

22 who did no sin, neither was deceit found in his mouth;

23 who, when he was cursed, did not curse; when he suffered, did not threaten; but handed himself over to one judging him unjustly;

24 who himself bore our sins in his own body upon the wood, so that we, dead to sins, might live to justice; by whose bruise you were healed.

25 For you were like wandering sheep, but now you have returned to the shepherd and overseer of your souls.

CHAPTER 3

1 Likewise, let wives be subject to their own husbands, so that even if some do not believe the word, they may be won without a word through the conduct of the wives:

2 as they observe your chaste conduct in fear.

3 Let your adornment not be outward: the arrangement of hair, the encircling of gold, or the adornment of clothing;

4 but the hidden person of the heart, in the incorruptibility of a quiet and modest spirit, who is rich in the sight of God.

5 For in this way formerly the holy women also, hoping in God, adorned themselves, subject to their own husbands.

6 Thus Sara obeyed Abraham, calling him lord; whose daughters you are, doing good and not fearing any disturbance.

7 Husbands likewise, dwell together according to knowledge, bestowing honor as to the weaker, female vessel, as also to coheirs of the grace of life, so that your prayers may not be hindered.

8 Finally, however, all of you be of one mind, compassionate, lovers of brotherhood, merciful, modest, humble:

9 not repaying evil for evil, nor curse for curse, but on the contrary blessing, because for this you were called: that you may possess a blessing as an inheritance.

10 For he who desires to love life and to see good days, let him restrain his tongue from evil, and his lips so that they speak no deceit.

11 Let him turn away from evil and do good; let him seek peace and follow it:

12 because the eyes of the Lord are upon the just, and his ears toward their prayers; but the face of the Lord is against those who do evil.

13 And who is there to harm you, if you become zealous followers of good?

14 But even if you suffer something because of justice, blessed are you. Yet do not fear their fear, and do not be troubled.

15 But sanctify the Lord Christ in your hearts, always ready to make a defense to everyone who asks you for an account concerning the hope that is in you;

16 yet with modesty and fear, having a good conscience, so that in the very matter in which they speak against you, those who slander your good conduct in Christ may be confounded.

17 For it is better to suffer while doing good—if the will of God so wills—than while doing evil.

18 Because Christ also died once for our sins, the just for the unjust, that he might offer us to God, put to death indeed in flesh but made alive in spirit.

19 In which also, coming, he preached to the spirits who were in prison:

20 who had once been unbelieving, when they awaited the patience of God in the days of Noah, while the ark was being built; in which a few—that is, eight souls—were saved through water.

21 And baptism, of a form like this, has now saved you also—not the removal of the filth of the flesh, but the inquiry of a good conscience toward God—through the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

22 Who is at the right hand of God, swallowing death so that we might be made heirs of eternal life; having gone into heaven, with angels, powers, and virtues subjected to him.

CHAPTER 4

1 Therefore, Christ having suffered in the flesh, arm yourselves also with the same thought, because the one who has suffered in the flesh has ceased from sins:

2 so that, for what remains of time in the flesh, he may live no longer for human desires, but for the will of God.

3 For the past time is sufficient for accomplishing the will of the nations, for those who walked in excesses, desires, drunkenness, revelries, drinking bouts, and unlawful worship of idols.

4 In this they marvel that you do not run together into the same confusion of excess, and they blaspheme.

5 They will give an account to him who is ready to judge the living and the dead.

6 For because of this the gospel was proclaimed also to the dead: that they might indeed be judged according to men in flesh, but live according to God in spirit.

7 But the end of all things has drawn near. Therefore be prudent, and be vigilant in prayers.

8 But before all things, have continual mutual charity among yourselves, because charity covers a multitude of sins.

9 Be hospitable to one another without murmuring.

10 As each one has received grace, minister it to one another as good stewards of the manifold grace of God.

11 If anyone speaks, let it be as words of God; if anyone ministers, let it be as from the power that God supplies, so that in all things God may be honored through Jesus Christ, to whom are glory and dominion for ages of ages. Amen.

12 Beloved, do not be as strangers amid the heat that is brought upon you for trial, as though something new were happening to you:

13 but, sharing in the sufferings of Christ, rejoice, so that at the revelation of his glory you also may rejoice, exulting.

14 If you are reproached in the name of Christ, you will be blessed, because that which is of honor, glory, and the power of God—and which is his Spirit—rests upon you.

15 But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or a thief, or a reviler, or one who covets what belongs to others.

16 But if he suffers as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; rather, let him glorify God in this name:

17 for it is time for judgment to begin from the house of God. But if first from us, what will be the end of those who do not believe the Gospel of God?

18 And if the just person will scarcely be saved, where will the impious and the sinner appear?

19 Therefore, let those also who suffer according to the will of God entrust their souls to the faithful Creator in good deeds.

CHAPTER 5

1 Therefore I entreat the elders who are among you—I, a fellow elder and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, who am also a sharer in the glory that is to be revealed in the future:

2 shepherd the flock of God that is among you, exercising oversight not under compulsion, but willingly according to God; not for the sake of shameful gain, but freely;

3 nor as lording it over the allotted portions, but becoming, from the heart, a pattern for the flock.

4 And when the Prince of Shepherds appears, you shall receive the unfading crown of glory.

5 Likewise, you younger ones, be subject to the elders. And all of you, impress humility upon yourselves toward one another, because God resists the proud, but gives grace to the humble.

6 Humble yourselves, therefore, under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in the time of visitation,

7 casting all your anxious care upon him, because he himself has care for you.

8 Be sober and vigilant, because your adversary the devil circles like a roaring lion, seeking someone to devour;

9 resist him, strong in faith, knowing that the same suffering is taking place in your brotherhood throughout the world.

10 But the God of all grace, who has called us into his eternal glory in Christ Jesus, after we have suffered a little, will himself perfect, confirm, and establish us.

11 To him be glory and dominion unto ages of ages. Amen.

12 Through Silvanus, a faithful brother to you, as I account him, I have written briefly, entreating and testifying that this is the true grace of God, in which you stand.

13 The church that is in Babylon, co-elect with you, greets you, as does Marcus, my son.

14 Greet one another with a holy kiss. Grace be to all of you who are in Christ Jesus. Amen.

BOOK SIXTY-ONE: SECOND PETER

CHAPTER 1

1 Simon Peter, servant and apostle of Jesus Christ, to those who have been allotted a faith coequal with ours, in the justice of our God, and of the Savior Jesus Christ.

2 May grace and peace be fulfilled for you in the knowledge of God and of Christ Jesus our Lord:

3 just as all things of his divine power that pertain to life and piety have been given to us through the knowledge of him who called us by his own glory and virtue,

4 through whom he gave us the greatest and precious promises, so that through these you may become sharers of divine nature, fleeing the corruption of the desire that is in the world.

5 But you, bringing to bear all care, supply virtue in your faith, and knowledge in virtue,

6 and abstinence in knowledge, and patience in abstinence, and piety in patience,

7 and the love of brotherhood in piety, and charity in the love of brotherhood.

8 For if these things are present with you and abound, they will render you neither empty nor without fruit in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 For he to whom these things are not at hand is blind and groping with his hand, receiving forgetfulness of the purification of his former offenses.

10 Therefore, brothers, labor all the more so that through good works you may make your calling and election certain; for in doing these things, you will not sin at any time.

11 For thus an entrance into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ will be abundantly ministered to you.

12 For this reason I shall begin always to remind you of these things, though indeed you know them and are confirmed in the present truth.

13 Yet I judge it just, as long as I am in this tabernacle, to stir you by reminder,

14 certain that the laying aside of my tabernacle is swift, according as our Lord Jesus Christ also signified to me.

15 But I shall also endeavor to have you, after my death, frequently make remembrance of these things.

16 For it was not by following learned fables that we made known to you the power and presence of our Lord Jesus Christ, but by having become eyewitnesses of his magnificence.

17 For he received honor and glory from God the Father, when a voice of this kind descended to him from the magnificent glory: “This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear him.”

18 And this voice we heard brought from heaven, when we were with him on the holy mountain.

19 And we have the firmer prophetic word, to which you do well to attend, as to a lamp shining in a dark place, until the day dawns and the daystar arises in your hearts,

20 understanding this first: that no prophecy of Scripture comes about by private interpretation.

21 For prophecy was not at any time brought by human will; rather, inspired by the Holy Spirit, holy people of God spoke.

CHAPTER 2

1 But there were also false prophets among the people, just as among you there will also be lying teachers, who will introduce sects of destruction; and they deny the Lord who bought them, bringing swift destruction upon themselves.

2 And many will follow their sexual excesses, through whom the way of truth will be blasphemed;

3 and in greed, with fabricated words, they will make merchandise of you; for them judgment has not ceased since long ago, and their destruction does not sleep.

4 For if God did not spare the angels when they sinned, but handed them over—dragged down with ropes of hell into Tartarus—to be tormented and reserved for judgment;

5 and did not spare the original world, but preserved Noah as the eighth, a herald of justice, bringing a flood upon the world of the impious;

6 and, reducing the cities of the Sodomites and Gomorrheans to ashes, condemned them by overthrow, setting an example of those who will act impiously;

7 and rescued just Lot, oppressed by the injury and sexually excessive conduct of abominable people—

8 for by sight and hearing he was just, dwelling among those who, from day to day, tormented his just soul with lawless works—

9 the Lord (YHWH) knows how to rescue the pious from temptation, but to reserve the unjust for the day of judgment to be tormented,

10 especially, however, those who walk after the flesh in the desire of uncleanness and despise dominion—audacious, self-pleasing, they do not fear to introduce sects while blaspheming;

11 where angels, though greater in strength and power, do not bear an execrable judgment against themselves.

12 But these, like irrational beasts, by nature for capture and destruction, blaspheming in the things they do not know, will perish in their own corruption,

13 receiving the wage of injustice, considering daytime delicacies a pleasure; defilements and stains, abounding in delicacies, living in excess with you in their own feasts,

14 having eyes full of adultery and of unceasing sin. Enticing unstable souls, having a heart trained in greed, children of curse,

15 abandoning the straight way, they went astray, having followed the way of Balaam from Bosor, who loved the wage of iniquity;

16 but he received correction for his own madness: a yoked mute animal, speaking with a human voice, restrained the prophet’s foolishness.

17 These are springs without water and clouds driven by whirlwinds, for whom the gloom of darkness is reserved.

18 For, speaking proud things of vanity, they entice, through the fleshly desires of excess, those who escape but a little, who conduct themselves in error;

19 promising them freedom, while they themselves are slaves of corruption; for by whomever someone has been overcome, of that one he is also a slave.

20 For if, having fled the defilements of the world through knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, they are again entangled in these and overcome, the latter things have become worse for them than the former.

21 For it was better for them not to know the way of justice than, after recognition, to turn backward from the holy command that was handed down to them.

22 For that saying of the true proverb has befallen them: “A dog having returned to its own vomit”; and, “a sow, washed, in a wallowing place of mud.”

CHAPTER 3

1 Behold, beloved, I write this second epistle to you; in these I awaken your sincere mind by reminder,

2 that you may remember the words which I foretold, from the holy prophets, and the commandments of your apostles, of the Lord and Savior.

3 Know this first: that in the last days there will come, in deception, mockers walking according to their own desires,

4 saying, “Where is the promise, or his coming? For since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue thus from the beginning of creation.”

5 For by their own will this is hidden from them: that the heavens were of old, and the earth—out of water and through water, standing together by the word of God—

6 through which things the world that then was, flooded with water, perished.

7 But the heavens that now are, and the earth, have been stored by the same word, reserved for fire unto the day of judgment and the destruction of impious men.

8 But let this one thing not be hidden from you, beloved: that one day with the Lord is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day.

9 The Lord does not delay his promise, as some suppose, but acts patiently for your sake, not willing any to perish, but all to return to repentance.

10 But the day of the Lord will come as a thief, in which the heavens will pass away with great force; the elements will be dissolved by heat, and the earth and the works within it will be burned up.

11 Since, therefore, all these things are to be dissolved, what manner of persons ought you to be in holy conducts and pieties,

12 awaiting and hastening unto the coming of the day of the Lord, through which the heavens, burning, will be dissolved, and the elements will melt away in the ardor of fire?

13 But according to his promises we await new heavens and a new earth, in which justice dwells.

14 Therefore, beloved, awaiting these things, strive to be found by him immaculate and inviolate, in peace;

15 and account the long-suffering of our Lord as salvation, just as our dearest brother Paul, according to the wisdom given to him, wrote to you,

16 as also in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things, in which there are certain things difficult to understand, which the unlearned and unstable distort, as also the other Scriptures, unto their own destruction.

17 You therefore, brothers, knowing beforehand, guard yourselves lest, led away by the error of the foolish, you fall from your own firmness;

18 but grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. To him be glory both now and unto the day of eternity. Amen.

BOOK SIXTY-TWO: FIRST JOHN

CHAPTER 1

1 That which was from the beginning, that which we heard, that which we have seen with our eyes, that which we gazed upon, and that which our hands handled, concerning the word of life—

2 and the life was manifested, and we have seen, and we testify, and we announce to you the eternal life which was with the Father and appeared to us—

3 that which we have seen and heard, we announce to you, so that you also may have fellowship with us, and our fellowship may be with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ.

4 And these things we write to you so that you may rejoice, and your joy may be full.

5 And this is the announcement which we heard from him and announce to you: that God is light, and darkness in him is none whatever.

6 If we say that we have fellowship with him and walk in darkness, we lie and do not do the truth.

7 But if we walk in the light just as he also is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanses us from every sin.

8 If we say that we do not have sin, we ourselves lead ourselves astray, and the truth is not in us.

9 If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just, so that he may forgive us our sins and cleanse us from all iniquity.

10 If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

CHAPTER 2

1 My little children, these things I write to you so that you may not sin. But even if anyone should sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the just;

2 and he himself is the propitiation for our sins; but not for ours only, but also for those of the whole world.

3 And by this we know that we have known him: if we observe his commandments.

4 Whoever says that he knows him and does not keep his commandments is a liar, and the truth is not in him.

5 But whoever keeps his word, truly in him the charity of God has been perfected; and by this we know that we are in him.

6 Whoever says that he remains in him ought himself also to walk just as he walked.

7 Dearest, I write you not a new command, but the old command which you had from the beginning. The old command is the word which you heard.

8 Again, I write you a new command, which is true both in him and in you, because the darkness has passed and the true light now shines.

9 Whoever says that he is in the light and hates his brother is in darkness until now.

10 Whoever loves his brother remains in the light, and there is no scandal in him.

11 But whoever hates his brother is in darkness and walks in darkness and does not know where he goes, because the darkness has blinded his eyes.

12 I write to you, little children, because your sins are forgiven you on account of his name.

13 I write to you, fathers, because you have known him who is from the beginning. I write to you, adolescents, because you have overcome the malignant one.

14 I write to you, infants, because you have known the Father. I write to you, young men, because you are strong, and the word of God remains in you, and you have overcome the malignant one.

15 Do not love the world, nor the things that are in the world. If anyone loves the world, the charity of the Father is not in him;

16 for all that is in the world is the desire of the flesh, and the desire of the eyes, and the pride of life; which is not from the Father but is from the world.

17 And the world passes away, and its desire; but whoever does the will of God remains forever.

18 Little children, it is the last hour; and just as you have heard that antichrist comes, even now many antichrists have been made; from this we know that it is the last hour.

19 They went out from us, but they were not from us; for if they had been from us, they would surely have remained with us; but so that they may be manifest, because not all are from us.

20 But you have an anointing from the Holy One, and you know all things.

21 I have not written to you as to those ignorant of the truth, but as to those who know it, and because every lie is not from the truth.

22 Who is the liar, unless it is he who denies that Jesus is the Christ? This one is antichrist, who denies the Father and the Son.

23 Everyone who denies the Son does not have the Father either; whoever confesses the Son has the Father also.

24 As for you, let that which you heard from the beginning remain in you. If that which you heard from the beginning remains in you, you also will remain in the Son and the Father.

25 And this is the re-promise which he himself promised us: eternal life.

26 These things I have written to you about those who lead you astray.

27 And as for you, let the anointing which you received from him remain in you. And you have no need that anyone teach you; but as his anointing teaches you concerning all things, and it is truth and is not a lie, and just as it taught you, remain in him.

28 And now, little children, remain in him, so that when he appears we may have confidence and not be confounded by him at his advent.

29 If you know that he is just, know that everyone also who does justice has been born from him.

CHAPTER 3

1 Behold what manner of charity the Father has given us: children of God—so we should be called, and so we are. For this reason the world does not know us, because it does not know him.

2 Beloved, now we are children of God; and what we shall be has not yet appeared. We know that when he appears, we shall be like him, because we shall see him just as he is.

3 And everyone who has this hope in him sanctifies himself, just as he himself is holy.

4 Everyone who does sin also does iniquity; and sin is iniquity.

5 And you know that he appeared to take away our sins; and in him there is no sin.

6 Everyone who remains in him does not sin; and everyone who sins has neither seen him nor come to know him.

7 Little children, let no one lead you astray. Whoever does justice is just, just as he himself is just.

8 Whoever does sin is from the devil, because the devil sins from the beginning. For this the Son of God appeared: that he might dissolve the works of the devil.

9 Everyone who is born from God does not do sin, because his seed remains in him; and he cannot sin, because he is born from God.

10 In this the children of God and the children of the devil are manifest. Everyone who is not just is not from God, and neither is he who does not love his brother:

11 because this is the announcement you heard from the beginning: that you should love one another.

12 Not like Cain, who was from the malignant one and killed his brother. And why did he kill him? Because his works were evil, but his brother's were just.

13 Do not marvel, brothers, if the world hates you.

14 We know that we have been transferred from death to life, because we love the brothers. He who does not love remains in death.

15 Everyone who hates his brother is a murderer. And you know that no murderer has eternal life remaining within himself.

16 In this we have come to know the charity of God: because it was his soul he laid down for us; and it is our souls we ought to lay down for the brothers.

17 Whoever has the substance of this world, and sees that his brother has need, and closes his bowels against him—how does the charity of God remain in him?

18 My little children, let us love neither in word nor in tongue, but in deed and truth:

19 in this we recognize that we are from the truth; and in his sight we shall persuade our hearts.

20 For if our heart reproaches us, God is greater than our heart and knows all things.

21 Beloved, if our heart does not reproach us, we have confidence toward God;

22 and whatever we ask, we shall receive from him, because we keep his commands and do those things that are pleasing before him.

23 And this is his command: that we should believe in the name of his Son, Jesus Christ, and love one another, just as he gave command to us.

24 And he who keeps his commands remains in him, and he in him; and in this we know that he remains in us: from the Spirit whom he gave us.

CHAPTER 4

1 Beloved, do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits, whether they are from God, because many false prophets have gone out into the world.

2 By this the Spirit of God is recognized: every spirit that confesses Jesus Christ to have come in the flesh is from God;

3 and every spirit that dissolves Jesus is not from God; and this is the antichrist, of whom you have heard that he comes, and is now already in the world.

4 You are from God, little children, and you have overcome him, because greater is he who is in you than he who is in the world.

5 They are from the world; therefore they speak from the world, and the world hears them.

6 We are from God. He who knows God hears us; he who is not from God does not hear us. By this we recognize the Spirit of truth and the spirit of error.

7 Beloved, let us love one another, because charity is from God. And everyone who loves is born from God and knows God.

8 He who does not love does not know God, because God is charity.

9 In this the charity of God appeared in us: because his only-begotten Son was sent by God into the world, so that we might live through him.

10 In this is charity: not as though we loved God, but because he first loved us and sent his Son as propitiation for our sins.

11 Beloved, if God so loved us, we also ought to love one another.

12 No one has ever seen God. If we love one another, God remains in us, and his charity is perfected in us.

13 By this we recognize that we remain in him, and he in us: because he has given us from his Spirit.

14 And we have seen and testify that the Father sent his Son as Savior of the world.

15 Whoever confesses that Jesus is the Son of God, God remains in him, and he in God.

16 And we have come to know, and have believed in, the charity that God has in us. God is charity; and he who remains in charity remains in God, and God in him.

17 In this the charity of God is perfected with us: that we may have confidence on the day of judgment, because just as he is, we also are in this world.

18 Fear is not in charity; but perfect charity casts out fear, because fear has punishment. But he who fears is not perfect in charity.

19 Therefore let us love God, because God first loved us.

20 If anyone should say, “I love God,” and hates his brother, he is a liar. For he who does not love his brother whom he has seen—God, whom he has not seen—how can he love?

21 And this command we have from God: that he who loves God should love his brother also.

CHAPTER 5

1 Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ is born of God. And everyone who loves him who begot loves also him who was born of him.

2 In this we know that we love those born of God: when we love God and do his commandments.

3 For this is the charity of God: that we keep his commandments; and his commandments are not heavy.

4 For everything that is born of God conquers the world; and this is the victory that conquers the world: our faith.

5 Who is he who conquers the world, except he who believes that Jesus is the Son of God?

6 This is he who came through water and blood, Jesus Christ: not in water only, but in water and blood. And it is the Spirit who testifies that Christ is truth.

7 For there are three who give testimony in heaven: the Father, the Word, and the Holy Spirit; and these three are one.

8 And there are three who give testimony on earth: the spirit, and the water, and the blood; and these three are one.

9 If we receive the testimony of men, the testimony of God is greater; for this is the testimony of God, which is greater: that he has testified concerning his Son.

10 He who believes in the Son of God has the testimony of God in himself. He who does not believe the Son makes him a liar, because he does not believe in the testimony which God has testified concerning his Son.

11 And this is the testimony: that God has given us eternal life; and this life is in his Son.

12 He who has the Son has life; he who does not have the Son does not have life.

13 These things I write to you so that you may know that you have eternal life, you who believe in the name of the Son of God.

14 And this is the confidence which we have toward him: that whatever we ask according to his will, he hears us.

15 And we know that he hears us, whatever we ask; we know that we have the petitions which we ask from him.

16 He who knows that his brother is sinning a sin not unto death, let him ask, and life shall be given to him who sins not unto death. There is a sin unto death; I do not say that anyone should ask for that.

17 Every iniquity is sin; and there is a sin unto death.

18 We know that everyone who is born of God does not sin; but the generation of God preserves him, and the malignant one does not touch him.

19 We know that we are from God; and the whole world is placed in the malignant one.

20 And we know that the Son of God came and gave us sense, so that we may know the true God and may be in his true Son. This is the true God and eternal life.

21 Little children, guard yourselves from idols. Amen.

BOOK SIXTY-THREE: SECOND JOHN

CHAPTER 1

1 The Elder to the Elect Lady and her children, whom I love in truth—and not I alone, but also all who have come to know the truth—

2 on account of the truth that remains in us and will be with us forever.

3 May grace, mercy, and peace be with you from God the Father and from Christ Jesus, the Son of the Father, in truth and charity.

4 I rejoiced greatly because I found some of your children walking in truth, just as we received a command from the Father.

5 And now I ask you, Lady—not as though writing a new command to you, but writing what we had from the beginning—that we love one another.

6 And this is charity: that we walk according to his commands. For this is the command: that, just as you heard from the beginning, you should walk in it.

7 For many deceivers have gone out into the world, who do not confess Jesus Christ to have come in the flesh. This is the deceiver and the antichrist.

8 Look to yourselves, lest you lose the things you have wrought, but that you may receive a full reward.

9 Everyone who departs and does not remain in the doctrine of Christ does not have God; he who remains in the doctrine, this one has both the Father and the Son.

10 If anyone comes to you and does not bring this doctrine, do not receive him into the house, nor say to him, “Hail.”

11 For he who says to him, “Hail,” shares in his malignant works.

12 Having more to write to you, I was unwilling to write by paper and ink; for I hope that I shall be with you and speak mouth to mouth, so that your joy may be full.

13 The children of your Elect sister greet you.

BOOK SIXTY-FOUR: THIRD JOHN

CHAPTER 1

1 The Elder to Gaius, most beloved, whom I myself love in truth.

2 Most beloved, concerning all things I pray that you may fare prosperously and be in health, just as your soul fares prosperously.

3 I rejoiced greatly when brothers came and bore testimony to your truth, just as you walk in truth.

4 I have no greater grace than these: that I should hear my children walking in truth.

5 Most beloved, you act faithfully in whatever you work toward the brothers—and this toward strangers—

6 who have rendered testimony to your charity in the sight of the church; whom, doing well, you will lead onward worthily of God.

7 For on account of his name they went forth, receiving nothing from the nations.

8 Therefore we ought to receive such persons, so that we may be co-workers of truth.

9 Perhaps I might have written to the church; but Diotrephes, who loves to hold primacy among them, does not receive us.

10 Because of this, if I come, I will call his works to mind, chattering against us with malignant words. And as though these things were not enough for him, neither does he himself receive the brothers; and he forbids those who receive them and casts out those same persons from the church.

11 Most beloved, do not imitate evil, but what is good. He who does good is from God; he who does evil has not seen God.

12 To Demetrius testimony is rendered by all, and by truth itself; but we too bear testimony, and you know that our testimony is true.

13 I had many things to write to you; but I was unwilling, by ink and reed, to write to you.

14 But I hope soon to see you, and mouth to mouth we will speak. Peace to you. The friends greet you. Greet the friends by name.

BOOK SIXTY-FIVE: JUDE

CHAPTER 1

1 Jude, a servant of Jesus Christ, but brother of James, to those who are beloved in God the Father, and preserved in Christ Jesus, and called.

2 May mercy and peace and charity be fulfilled for you.

3 Most beloved, exercising all solicitude to write to you concerning your common salvation, I found it necessary to write to you, entreating you to contend beyond measure for the faith once delivered to the saints.

4 For certain people have entered secretly—who long ago were written beforehand into this judgment—impious, transferring the grace of our God into luxury and denying the only Sovereign and our Lord Jesus Christ.

5 But I wish to remind you, though you know all things once for all, that Jesus, after saving the people from the land of Egypt, secondly destroyed those who did not believe;

6 but the angels who did not keep their principality, but abandoned their dwelling, he reserved under darkness in eternal bonds for the judgment of the great day.

7 Just as Sodom and Gomorrah and the neighboring cities, having fornicated in like manner and gone after other flesh, were made an example, sustaining the punishment of eternal fire.

8 In like manner these also indeed defile the flesh, but despise dominion and blaspheme majesty.

9 When Michael the Archangel, disputing with the devil, contended over the body of Moses, he did not dare to bring a judgment of blasphemy, but said, “May the Lord (YHWH) command you.”

10 But these blaspheme whatever things indeed they do not know; and whatever things they know naturally, like mute animals, in these they are corrupted.

11 Woe to them, because they have gone in the way of Cain, and have poured themselves out in the error of Balaam for a wage, and have perished in the contradiction of Core!

12 These are spots in their feasts, feasting together without fear, feeding themselves; clouds without water, which are carried about by winds; autumnal trees, fruitless, twice dead, uprooted;

13 wild waves of the sea, foaming out their shames; wandering stars, for whom the storm of darkness has been reserved forever.

14 And Enoch, seventh from Adam, prophesied also concerning these, saying, “Behold, the Lord comes in his holy thousands

15 to execute judgment against all, and to convict all the impious concerning all works of their impiety by which they acted impiously, and concerning all hard things that impious sinners have spoken against God.”

16 These are murmurers, querulous, walking according to their desires; and their mouth speaks proud things, admiring persons for the sake of gain.

17 But you, most beloved, be mindful of the words that were foretold by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ,

18 who were saying to you that in the last time mockers will come, walking according to their desires in impieties.

19 These are they who separate themselves, soulish, not having the Spirit.

20 But you, most beloved, building yourselves upon your most holy faith, praying in the Holy Spirit,

21 keep yourselves in the love of God, awaiting the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.

22 And reprove these, who have been judged;

23 but save those, snatching them from the fire. And have mercy on others in fear, hating even the stained garment that is fleshly.

24 But to him who is able to preserve you without sin and to set you immaculate before the sight of his glory, in exultation, at the advent of our Lord Jesus Christ,

25 to the only God our Savior, through Jesus Christ our Lord, be glory and magnificence, dominion and power, before every age, and now, and unto all ages of ages. Amen.

BOOK SIXTY-SIX: REVELATION

CHAPTER 1

1 The revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave him to make manifest to his servants the things that must happen soon; and he signified it, sending through his angel to his servant John,

2 who bore testimony to the word of God and to the testimony of Jesus Christ—to whatever things he saw.

3 Blessed is he who reads and hears the words of this prophecy, and keeps the things written in it; for the time is near.

4 John, to the seven churches that are in Asia. Grace to you and peace from him who is, and who was, and who is to come; and from the seven spirits who are before his throne;

5 and from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, the firstborn of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth; who loved us and washed us from our sins in his blood,

6 and made us a kingdom and priests to God and his Father. To him be glory and dominion unto ages of ages. Amen.

7 Behold, he comes with the clouds, and every eye will see him, even those who pierced him. And all the tribes of the earth will lament over him. Yes. Amen.

8 "I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end," says the Lord (YHWH) God, "who is, and who was, and who is to come, the Almighty."

9 I, John, your brother and a sharer in tribulation and kingdom and patience in Christ Jesus, was on the island called Patmos because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus.

10 I was in spirit on the Lord's Day, and I heard behind me a great voice, like that of a trumpet,

11 saying, "What you see, write in a book, and send it to the seven churches that are in Asia: to Ephesus, and Smyrna, and Pergamum, and Thyatira, and Sardis, and Philadelphia, and Laodicea."

12 And I turned to see the voice that was speaking with me; and having turned, I saw seven golden lampstands,

13 and in the midst of the seven golden lampstands, one like the Son of Man, clothed in a long garment and girded at the breasts with a golden belt.

14 But his head and hair were white like white wool and like snow, and his eyes like a flame of fire;

15 and his feet were like orichalcum, as in a burning furnace, and his voice like the voice of many waters;

16 and he had seven stars in his right hand, and from his mouth came a sword sharpened on both sides, and his face was like the sun shining in its power.

17 And when I had seen him, I fell at his feet as though dead. And he placed his right hand upon me, saying, "Do not be afraid. I am the first and the last,

18 and the living one. I was dead, and behold, I am living unto ages of ages; and I have the keys of death and of the realm of the dead.

19 Therefore write the things you have seen, and the things that are, and the things that must happen after these.

20 The mystery of the seven stars that you saw in my right hand, and the seven golden lampstands: the seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands are the seven churches."

CHAPTER 2

1 “To the angel of the church of Ephesus write: Thus says he who holds the seven stars in his right hand, who walks in the midst of the seven golden lampstands:

2 I know your works and labor and patience, and that you cannot endure evil people; and you tested those who say they are apostles and are not, and found them liars;

3 and you have patience, and have endured for my name, and have not failed.

4 But I have this against you: that you have forsaken your first charity.

5 Therefore remember from where you have fallen, and do penance, and do the first works. But if not, I am coming to you and will move your lampstand from its place, unless you do penance.

6 But this you have: that you hate the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

7 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers, I will give to eat from the tree of life, which is in the paradise of my God.

8 And to the angel of the church of Smyrna write: Thus says the first and the last, who was dead and lives:

9 I know your tribulation and your poverty—but you are rich—and that you are blasphemed by those who say they are Jews and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan.

10 Fear none of the things you are about to suffer. Behold, the devil is about to cast some of you into prison, so that you may be tested; and you will have tribulation for ten days. Be faithful unto death, and I will give you the crown of life.

11 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. He who conquers will not be harmed by the second death.

12 And to the angel of the church of Pergamum write: Thus says he who has the sword sharpened on both sides:

13 I know where you dwell, where the throne of Satan is; and you hold fast my name and have not denied my faith. Even in those days Antipas was my faithful witness, who was slain among you, where Satan dwells.

14 But I have a few things against you: because you have there those who hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balak to cast a stumbling block before the children of Israel: to eat and to fornicate.

15 So you also have those who hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans.

16 In like manner, do penance. Otherwise I will come to you soon and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

17 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers I will give the hidden manna, and I will give him a white stone; and on the stone, a new name written, which no one knows except the one who receives it.

18 And to the angel of the church of Thyatira write: Thus says the Son of God, who has eyes like a flame of fire, and his feet like orichalcum:

19 I know your works and faith and charity and ministry and patience, and your last works, which are more than the former.

20 But I have a few things against you: because you permit the woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess, to teach and seduce my servants to fornicate and to eat things sacrificed to idols.

21 And I gave her time to do penance, but she is unwilling to repent of her fornication.

22 Behold, I will cast her into a bed; and those who commit adultery with her will be in the greatest tribulation, unless they do penance from their works.

23 And I will slay her children with death, and all the churches will know that I am he who searches the kidneys and hearts; and I will give to each one of you according to your works. But to you I say,

24 and to the rest who are in Thyatira—all who do not have this doctrine and who have not known the depths of Satan, as they say—I will not cast another burden upon you.

25 Nevertheless, hold fast what you have until I come.

26 And he who conquers and keeps my works unto the end, I will give him authority over the nations,

27 and he will rule them with a rod of iron, and like a potter’s vessel they will be shattered,

28 just as I also received from my Father; and I will give him the morning star.

29 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.”

CHAPTER 3

1 “And to the angel of the church of Sardis write: Thus says he who has the seven spirits of God and the seven stars: I know your works, that you have a name that you are alive, and you are dead.

2 Be watchful, and strengthen the remaining things that were about to die. For I do not find your works full before my God.

3 Therefore keep in mind how you received and heard, and keep it, and do penance. Therefore, if you do not watch, I will come to you like a thief, and you will not know at what hour I will come to you.

4 But you have a few names in Sardis who have not defiled their garments; and they will walk with me in white, because they are worthy.

5 He who conquers will thus be clothed in white garments, and I will not blot his name from the book of life, and I will confess his name before my Father and before his angels.

6 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.

7 And to the angel of the church of Philadelphia write: Thus says the Holy and True One, who has the key of David; who opens, and no one shuts; shuts, and no one opens:

8 I know your works. Behold, I have set before you an open door that no one can shut, because you have a little strength, and have kept my word, and have not denied my name.

9 Behold, I will give some from the synagogue of Satan, who say they are Jews and are not, but lie. Behold, I will make them come and worship before your feet; and they will know that I have loved you,

10 because you have kept the word of my patience; and I will keep you from the hour of temptation that is to come upon the whole world, to test those who dwell on the earth.

11 Behold, I come soon. Hold fast what you have, so that no one may take your crown.

12 He who conquers, I will make him a pillar in the temple of my God, and he will no longer go outside; and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God—the new Jerusalem, which descends from heaven from my God—and my new name.

13 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.

14 And to the angel of the church of Laodicea write: Thus says the Amen, the faithful and true witness, who is the beginning of the creation of God:

15 I know your works: that you are neither cold nor hot. Would that you were cold or hot!

16 But because you are lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will begin to vomit you out of my mouth;

17 because you say, ‘I am rich and have been enriched, and I need nothing,’ and you do not know that you are wretched and pitiable and poor and blind and naked.

18 I counsel you to buy from me gold fired and tested, so that you may become rich; and to be clothed in white garments, so that the shame of your nakedness may not appear; and anoint your eyes with eye-salve, so that you may see.

19 Those whom I love, I reprove and chastise. Therefore be zealous, and do penance.

20 Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door to me, I will enter to him and will sup with him, and he with me.

21 He who conquers, I will give him to sit with me on my throne, just as I also conquered and sat with my Father on his throne.

22 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.”

CHAPTER 4

1 After these things I saw, and behold, a door opened in heaven; and the first voice, which I had heard like a trumpet speaking with me, said, “Ascend here, and I will show you the things that must happen after these.”

2 And immediately I was in spirit; and behold, a throne had been set in heaven, and one sitting upon the throne.

3 And he who sat there was like, in appearance, a jasper stone and a carnelian; and around the throne was a rainbow like the appearance of an emerald.

4 And around the throne were twenty-four seats; and upon the thrones sat twenty-four elders, wrapped in white garments, and on their heads were golden crowns.

5 And from the throne proceeded lightning and voices and thunder; and seven lamps burned before the throne, which are the seven spirits of God.

6 And before the throne was something like a glassy sea, like crystal; and in the midst of the throne and around the throne were four living creatures, full of eyes before and behind.

7 And the first living creature was like a lion, and the second living creature like a calf, and the third living creature had a face like that of a man, and the fourth living creature was like a flying eagle.

8 And the four living creatures, each one of them, had six wings; and around and within they were full of eyes. And they had no rest day or night, saying, “Holy, Holy, Holy, the Lord God Almighty, who was, and who is, and who is to come.”

9 And when those living creatures gave glory and honor and blessing to him who sits upon the throne, who lives unto ages of ages,

10 the twenty-four elders would fall down before him who sits upon the throne, and would worship him who lives unto ages of ages, and would cast their crowns before the throne, saying,

11 “You are worthy, O Lord our God, to receive glory and honor and power, because you created all things, and by your will they were, and were created.”

CHAPTER 5

1 And I saw in the right hand of him who sat upon the throne a book written within and without, sealed with seven seals.

2 And I saw a mighty angel proclaiming with a great voice, “Who is worthy to open the book and loose its seals?”

3 And no one was able—neither in heaven, nor on earth, nor beneath the earth—to open the book or to look upon it.

4 And I wept greatly, because no one was found worthy to open the book or to see it.

5 And one of the elders said to me, “Do not weep. Behold, the Lion from the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has conquered, to open the book and loose its seven seals.”

6 And I saw; and behold, in the midst of the throne and of the four living creatures, and in the midst of the elders, a Lamb standing as though slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God sent into all the earth.

7 And he came and took the book from the right hand of him who sat upon the throne.

8 And when he had opened the book, the four living creatures and the twenty-four elders fell before the Lamb, each having harps and golden bowls full of fragrances, which are the prayers of the saints;

9 and they sang a new song, saying, “You are worthy, O Lord, to take the book and open its seals, because you were slain and redeemed us for God in your blood, from every tribe and tongue and people and nation;

10 and you made us a kingdom and priests to our God, and we shall reign over the earth.”

11 And I saw, and I heard the voice of many angels around the throne and the living creatures and the elders; and their number was thousands of thousands,

12 saying with a great voice, “Worthy is the Lamb who was slain to receive power and divinity and wisdom and strength and honor and glory and blessing.”

13 And every creature that is in heaven and upon the earth and beneath the earth, and the things that are in the sea and that are in it—I heard them all saying, “To him who sits upon the throne, and to the Lamb, be blessing and honor and glory and might unto ages of ages.”

14 And the four living creatures said, “Amen.” And the twenty-four elders fell upon their faces and worshiped him who lives unto ages of ages.

CHAPTER 6

1 And I saw that the Lamb had opened one of the seven seals, and I heard one of the four living creatures saying, like a voice of thunder, “Come and see.”

2 And I saw; and behold, a white horse, and he who sat upon it had a bow. And a crown was given to him, and he went out conquering so that he might conquer.

3 And when he had opened the second seal, I heard the second living creature saying, “Come and see.”

4 And another horse went out, red; and to him who sat upon it, it was given to take peace from the earth, so that they might slay one another; and a great sword was given to him.

5 And when he had opened the third seal, I heard the third living creature saying, “Come and see.” And behold, a black horse; and he who sat upon it had a balance in his hand.

6 And I heard something like a voice in the midst of the four living creatures, saying, “Two pounds of wheat for a denarius, and three two-pound measures of barley for a denarius; and do not harm the wine and oil.”

7 And when he had opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature saying, “Come and see.”

8 And behold, a pale horse; and he who sat upon it—his name was Death—and the realm of the dead followed him. And authority was given to him over the four parts of the earth, to slay by sword, by famine, by death, and by the beasts of the earth.

9 And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw beneath the altar the souls of those slain because of the word of God and because of the testimony that they held.

10 And they cried out with a great voice, saying, “How long, O Lord—holy and true—do you not judge and avenge our blood upon those who dwell on the earth?”

11 And to each of them a white robe was given; and it was said to them that they should rest yet a little time, until their fellow servants and their brothers, who are to be slain just as they were, should be completed.

12 And I saw when he had opened the sixth seal; and behold, a great earthquake occurred, and the sun became black like a sackcloth of hair, and the whole moon became like blood;

13 and the stars from heaven fell upon the earth, as a fig tree casts its unripe figs when it is shaken by a great wind;

14 and heaven withdrew like a book rolled up, and every mountain and the islands were moved from their places;

15 and the kings of the earth, and the princes, and the tribunes, and the rich, and the strong, and every bondservant and free person hid themselves in caves and among the rocks of the mountains;

16 and they say to the mountains and the rocks, “Fall upon us and hide us from the face of him who sits upon the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb;

17 for the great day of their wrath has come, and who will be able to stand?”

CHAPTER 7

1 After these things I saw four angels standing upon the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, so that they would not blow upon the earth, nor upon the sea, nor upon any tree.

2 And I saw another angel ascending from the rising of the sun, having the seal of the living God; and he cried with a great voice to the four angels to whom it was given to harm the earth and the sea,

3 saying, “Do not harm the earth, or the sea, or the trees, until we seal the servants of our God on their foreheads.”

4 And I heard the number of those sealed: one hundred forty-four thousand sealed, from every tribe of the children of Israel.

5 From the tribe of Judah, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Reuben, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Gad, twelve thousand sealed;

6 from the tribe of Asher, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Naphtali, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Manasseh, twelve thousand sealed;

7 from the tribe of Simeon, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Levi, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Issachar, twelve thousand sealed;

8 from the tribe of Zebulun, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Joseph, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Benjamin, twelve thousand sealed.

9 After these things I saw a great multitude that no one could number, from all nations and tribes and peoples and tongues, standing before the throne and in the sight of the Lamb, clothed in white robes, with palms in their hands;

10 and they cried with a great voice, saying, “Salvation to our God, who sits upon the throne, and to the Lamb.”

11 And all the angels stood around the throne and the elders and the four living creatures; and they fell before the throne upon their faces and worshiped God,

12 saying, “Amen. Blessing and brightness and wisdom and thanksgiving, honor and power and strength, to our God unto ages of ages. Amen.”

13 And one of the elders answered and said to me, “These who are clothed in white robes—who are they, and from where have they come?”

14 And I said to him, “My lord, you know.” And he said to me, “These are they who have come out of the great tribulation, and they washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

15 Therefore they are before the throne of God and serve him day and night in his temple; and he who sits upon the throne will dwell over them.

16 They will hunger no more, nor thirst any more; neither will the sun fall upon them, nor any heat;

17 because the Lamb who is in the midst of the throne will shepherd them and lead them to the fountains of waters of life, and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes.”

CHAPTER 8

1 And when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour.

2 And I saw seven angels standing before God, and seven trumpets were given to them.

3 And another angel came and stood before the altar, having a golden censer; and much incense was given to him, so that he might offer it with the prayers of all the saints upon the golden altar that is before the throne of God.

4 And the smoke of the incenses from the prayers of the saints ascended from the hand of the angel before God.

5 And the angel took the censer and filled it from the fire of the altar and cast it upon the earth; and there came thunder and voices and lightning and a great earthquake.

6 And the seven angels who had the seven trumpets prepared themselves to sound the trumpet.

7 And the first angel sounded the trumpet, and there came hail and fire mingled in blood, and it was cast upon the earth; and a third part of the earth was burned, and a third part of the trees was consumed, and all green grass was burned.

8 And the second angel sounded the trumpet; and something like a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea, and a third part of the sea became blood,

9 and a third part of their creatures that had souls in the sea died, and a third part of the ships perished.

10 And the third angel sounded the trumpet; and a great star fell from heaven, burning like a torch, and it fell upon a third part of the rivers and upon the fountains of waters.

11 And the name of the star is called Wormwood; and a third part of the waters became wormwood, and many of the people died from the waters because they had become bitter.

12 And the fourth angel sounded the trumpet; and a third part of the sun was struck, and a third part of the moon, and a third part of the stars, so that a third part of them was darkened, and the day did not shine for its third part, and the night likewise.

13 And I saw and heard the voice of one eagle flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a great voice, “Woe, woe, woe to those who dwell on the earth, because of the remaining voices of the three angels who were about to sound the trumpet.”

CHAPTER 9

1 And the fifth angel sounded the trumpet; and I saw a star that had fallen from heaven to the earth, and the key of the pit of the abyss was given to it.

2 And it opened the pit of the abyss, and smoke ascended from the pit like the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by the smoke of the pit.

3 And from the smoke of the pit locusts went out upon the earth, and power was given to them like the power the scorpions of the earth have.

4 And they were commanded not to harm the grass of the earth, nor anything green, nor any tree, but only the people who do not have the mark of God on their foreheads.

5 And it was given to them not to kill them, but to torment them for five months; and their torment was like the torment of a scorpion when it strikes a person.

6 And in those days people will seek death and will not find it; and they will desire to die, and death will flee from them.

7 And the likenesses of the locusts were like horses prepared for battle; and upon their heads were what seemed like crowns resembling gold, and their faces were like the faces of people.

8 And they had hair like the hair of women, and their teeth were like the teeth of lions.

9 And they had breastplates like iron breastplates, and the sound of their wings was like the sound of chariots of many horses rushing into war.

10 And they had tails like scorpions, and stings were in their tails; and their power was to harm people for five months.

11 And they had over them as king the angel of the abyss, whose name in Hebrew is Abaddon, but in Greek Apollyon, having in Latin the name Destroyer.

12 One woe has passed away; and behold, two woes are still coming after these things.

13 And the sixth angel sounded the trumpet; and I heard one voice from the four horns of the golden altar that is before the sight of God,

14 saying to the sixth angel, who had the trumpet, “Release the four angels who are bound at the great river Euphrates.”

15 And the four angels were released, who had been prepared for the hour, and the day, and the month, and the year, so that they might kill a third part of humanity.

16 And the number of the cavalry army was two hundred million; and I heard their number.

17 And in this manner I saw the horses in the vision: those who sat upon them had fiery and hyacinth-colored and sulfurous breastplates; and the heads of the horses were like the heads of lions, and from their mouths proceeds fire and smoke and sulfur.

18 And by these three plagues a third part of humanity was killed: by the fire and the smoke and the sulfur that proceeded from their mouths.

19 For the power of the horses is in their mouths and in their tails; for their tails are like serpents, having heads, and with these they do harm.

20 And the rest of humanity, who were not killed by these plagues, neither did penance for the works of their hands, so that they would not worship demons and idols of gold and silver and bronze and stone and wood, which can neither see, nor hear, nor walk;

21 and they did not do penance from their murders, nor from their sorceries, nor from their fornication, nor from their thefts.

CHAPTER 10

1 And I saw another mighty angel descending from heaven, clothed with a cloud, and a rainbow upon his head; and his face was like the sun, and his feet like pillars of fire.

2 And he had in his hand an open little book; and he set his right foot upon the sea, but his left upon the earth.

3 And he cried out with a great voice, as when a lion roars. And when he had cried out, the seven thunders uttered their voices.

4 And when the seven thunders had uttered their voices, I was about to write; and I heard a voice from heaven saying to me, “Seal the things that the seven thunders have spoken, and do not write them.”

5 And the angel whom I saw standing upon the sea and upon the earth raised his hand to heaven,

6 and swore by him who lives unto ages of ages, who created heaven and the things that are in it, and the earth and the things that are in it, and the sea and the things that are in it, that there will be no more time;

7 but in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he begins to sound the trumpet, the mystery of God will be consummated, as he evangelized through his servants the prophets.

8 And I heard the voice from heaven speaking with me again and saying, “Go and take the open book from the hand of the angel standing upon the sea and upon the earth.”

9 And I went to the angel, saying to him that he should give me the book. And he said to me, “Take the book and devour it; and it will make your belly bitter, but in your mouth it will be sweet like honey.”

10 And I took the book from the hand of the angel and devoured it; and in my mouth it was sweet like honey, and when I had devoured it, my belly became bitter.

11 And he said to me, “You must prophesy again to nations and peoples and tongues and many kings.”

CHAPTER 11

1 And a reed like a rod was given to me, and it was said to me, “Arise and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and those worshiping in it.

2 But the court that is outside the temple, cast it outside, and do not measure it, because it has been given to the nations; and they will trample the holy city for forty-two months.

3 And I will give to my two witnesses, and they will prophesy for one thousand two hundred sixty days, clothed in sackcloth.”

4 These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands standing in the sight of the Lord of the earth.

5 And if anyone should wish to harm them, fire will go out from their mouths and devour their enemies; and if anyone should wish to injure them, thus must he be killed.

6 These have power to close heaven, so that it may not rain during the days of their prophecy; and they have power over the waters to turn them into blood, and to strike the earth with every plague as often as they wish.

7 And when they have finished their testimony, the beast that ascends from the abyss will make war against them and conquer them and kill them.

8 And their bodies will lie in the streets of the great city, which is spiritually called Sodom and Egypt, where also their Lord was crucified.

9 And those from tribes and peoples and tongues and nations will see their bodies for three and a half days, and they will not permit their bodies to be placed in tombs.

10 And those dwelling upon the earth will rejoice over them and make merry; and they will send gifts to one another, because these two prophets tormented those who dwelt upon the earth.

11 And after three and a half days, the spirit of life from God entered into them. And they stood upon their feet, and great fear fell upon those who saw them.

12 And they heard a great voice from heaven saying to them, “Ascend here.” And they ascended into heaven in a cloud, and their enemies saw them.

13 And in that hour a great earthquake occurred, and a tenth part of the city fell; and in the earthquake, names of people—seven thousand—were killed; and the rest were cast into fear and gave glory to the God of heaven.

14 The second woe has passed away; and behold, the third woe will come soon.

15 And the seventh angel sounded the trumpet; and there came great voices in heaven, saying, “The kingdom of this world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ, and he will reign unto ages of ages. Amen.”

16 And the twenty-four elders, who sit in their seats in the sight of God, fell upon their faces and worshiped God, saying,

17 “We give thanks to you, O Lord God Almighty, who are, and who were, and who are to come, because you have taken your great power and have reigned.

18 And the nations became angry, and your wrath came, and the time for the dead to be judged, and to give reward to your servants the prophets, and to the saints, and to those who fear your name, small and great, and to destroy those who corrupted the earth.”

19 And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and the ark of his testament was seen in his temple; and there came lightning and voices and an earthquake and great hail.

CHAPTER 12

1 And a great sign appeared in heaven: a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon beneath her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars.

2 And being with child, she cried out in labor and was tormented so that she might give birth.

3 And another sign was seen in heaven; and behold, a great red dragon having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his heads seven diadems.

4 And his tail drew a third part of the stars of heaven and cast them to the earth; and the dragon stood before the woman who was about to give birth, so that when she had given birth he might devour her son.

5 And she gave birth to a male son, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron; and her son was caught up to God and to his throne.

6 And the woman fled into the wilderness, where she had a place prepared by God, so that there they might feed her for one thousand two hundred sixty days.

7 And a great battle took place in heaven: Michael and his angels fought with the dragon, and the dragon and his angels fought.

8 And they did not prevail, nor was their place found any longer in heaven.

9 And that great dragon was cast down, the ancient serpent, who is called the devil and Satan, who seduces the whole world; and he was cast down to the earth, and his angels were sent down with him.

10 And I heard a great voice in heaven saying, “Now have come the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God and the authority of his Christ, because the accuser of our brothers has been cast down, who accused them before the sight of our God day and night.

11 And they themselves overcame him because of the blood of the Lamb and because of the word of their testimony, and they did not love their souls even unto death.

12 Therefore rejoice, O heavens, and you who dwell in them. Woe to the earth and the sea, because the devil has descended to you, having great wrath, knowing that he has little time.”

13 And after the dragon saw that he had been cast down to the earth, he persecuted the woman who had given birth to the male.

14 And the two wings of a great eagle were given to the woman, so that she might fly into the wilderness, into her place, where she is nourished for a time and times and half a time, away from the face of the serpent.

15 And the serpent sent from his mouth, after the woman, water like a river, so that he might cause her to be dragged away by the river.

16 And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed the river that the dragon sent from his mouth.

17 And the dragon was angry with the woman; and he went away to make war with the rest of her seed, who keep the commands of God and have the testimony of Jesus Christ.

18 And he stood upon the sand of the sea.

CHAPTER 13

1 And I saw a beast ascending from the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon its horns ten diadems, and upon its heads names of blasphemy.

2 And the beast that I saw was like a leopard, and its feet like the feet of a bear, and its mouth like the mouth of a lion. And the dragon gave it his strength and great authority.

3 And I saw one of its heads as though slain to death, and its mortal wound was healed. And the whole earth marveled after the beast.

4 And they worshiped the dragon, who gave authority to the beast; and they worshiped the beast, saying, “Who is like the beast, and who will be able to fight with it?”

5 And a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies was given to it; and authority was given to it to act for forty-two months.

6 And it opened its mouth in blasphemies against God, to blaspheme his name and his tabernacle and those who dwell in heaven.

7 And it was given to it to make war with the saints and to conquer them. And authority was given to it over every tribe and people and tongue and nation;

8 and all who dwell upon the earth worshiped it, whose names have not been written in the book of life of the Lamb, who was slain from the origin of the world.

9 If anyone has an ear, let him hear.

10 He who shall lead into captivity will go into captivity; he who shall kill by the sword must be killed by the sword. Here is the patience and the faith of the saints.

11 And I saw another beast ascending from the earth, and it had two horns like the Lamb, and it spoke like the dragon.

12 And it exercised all the authority of the first beast in its sight; and it caused the earth and those dwelling in it to worship the first beast, whose mortal wound was healed.

13 And it performed great signs, so that it even caused fire to descend from heaven to the earth in the sight of people.

14 And it seduced those dwelling upon the earth because of the signs it was given to perform in the sight of the beast, telling those dwelling upon the earth to make an image of the beast that has the wound of the sword and lived.

15 And it was given to it to give breath to the image of the beast, so that the image of the beast would speak, and to cause whoever would not worship the image of the beast to be killed.

16 And it will cause all—the small and the great, the rich and the poor, the free and the bondservants—to have a mark on their right hand, or on their foreheads,

17 and that no one may be able to buy or sell except the one who has the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of its name.

18 Here is wisdom. He who has understanding, let him compute the number of the beast. For it is the number of a man, and its number is six hundred sixty-six.

CHAPTER 14

1 And I saw; and behold, the Lamb stood upon Mount Sion, and with him one hundred forty-four thousand, having his name and the name of his Father written upon their foreheads.

2 And I heard a voice from heaven like the voice of many waters and like the voice of great thunder; and the voice that I heard was like harpists harping upon their harps.

3 And they sang what seemed like a new song before the throne and before the four living creatures and the elders; and no one was able to utter the song except those one hundred forty-four thousand who were purchased from the earth.

4 These are they who were not defiled with women, for they are virgins. These follow the Lamb wherever he goes. These were purchased from among humanity as firstfruits to God and to the Lamb;

5 and in their mouth no lie was found, for they are without blemish before the throne of God.

6 And I saw another angel flying through the midst of heaven, having the eternal Gospel, so that he might evangelize those sitting upon the earth, and every nation and tribe and tongue and people,

7 saying with a great voice, “Fear the Lord and give him honor, because the hour of his judgment has come; and worship him who made heaven and earth, the sea and the fountains of waters.”

8 And another angel followed, saying, “Fallen, fallen is that great Babylon, who made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.”

9 And a third angel followed them, saying with a great voice, “If anyone worships the beast and its image, and receives the mark on his forehead or on his hand,

10 he also will drink from the wine of the wrath of God, which is mixed with pure wine in the cup of his wrath, and he will be tormented with fire and sulfur in the sight of the holy angels and before the sight of the Lamb.

11 And the smoke of their torments will ascend unto ages of ages; and they have no rest day or night, those who worshiped the beast and its image, and if anyone received the mark of its name.

12 Here is the patience of the saints, who keep the commands of God and the faith of Jesus.

13 And I heard a voice from heaven saying to me, “Write: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord. From now on, says the Spirit, let them rest from their labors, for their works follow them.”

14 And I saw; and behold, a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sitting like the Son of Man, having upon his head a golden crown and in his hand a sharp sickle.

15 And another angel went out from the temple, crying with a great voice to him who sat upon the cloud, “Send forth your sickle and reap, because the hour to reap has come, for the harvest of the earth has grown dry.”

16 And he who sat upon the cloud sent his sickle into the earth, and the earth was reaped.

17 And another angel went out from the temple that is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle.

18 And another angel went out from the altar, who had authority over fire; and he cried with a great voice to him who had the sharp sickle, saying, “Send forth your sharp sickle and gather the clusters of the vineyard of the earth, because its grapes are ripe.”

19 And the angel sent his sharp sickle into the earth and gathered the vineyard of the earth, and cast it into the great winepress of the wrath of God.

20 And the winepress was trodden outside the city, and blood went out from the winepress up to the bridles of the horses, for one thousand six hundred stadia.

CHAPTER 15

1 And I saw another sign in heaven, great and wonderful: seven angels having the seven last plagues, because in them the wrath of God was consummated.

2 And I saw what seemed like a glassy sea mingled with fire, and those who had conquered the beast and its image and the number of its name, standing upon the glassy sea, having the harps of God;

3 and singing the song of Moses, the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, “Great and wonderful are your works, O Lord God Almighty; just and true are your ways, O King of the ages.

4 Who will not fear you, O Lord, and magnify your name? For you alone are holy, because all nations will come and worship in your sight, because your judgments have been made manifest.”

5 And after these things I saw; and behold, the temple of the tabernacle of testimony was opened in heaven,

6 and from the temple went out the seven angels having the seven plagues, clothed in clean and bright linen and girded about their breasts with golden bands.

7 And one of the four living creatures gave to the seven angels seven golden bowls, full of the indignation of God, who lives unto ages of ages.

8 And the temple was filled with smoke from the majesty of God and from his power; and no one was able to enter into the temple until the seven plagues of the seven angels were consummated.

CHAPTER 16

1 And I heard a great voice from the temple saying to the seven angels, “Go and pour out the seven bowls of the wrath of God upon the earth.”

2 And the first went and poured out his bowl upon the earth, and a fierce and most grievous wound came upon the people who had the mark of the beast and upon those who worshiped its image.

3 And the second angel poured out his bowl upon the sea, and it became blood like that of a dead person; and every living soul in the sea died.

4 And the third poured out his bowl upon the rivers and upon the fountains of waters, and they became blood.

5 And I heard the angel of the waters saying, “Just are you, O Lord, who are and who were, the Holy One, because you have judged these things;

6 because they poured out the blood of saints and prophets, and you have given them blood to drink, for they are worthy.”

7 And I heard another from the altar saying, “Yes, O Lord God Almighty, true and just are your judgments.”

8 And the fourth angel poured out his bowl upon the sun, and it was given to it to afflict people with heat and with fire;

9 and the people were scorched with great heat and blasphemed the name of God, who has authority over these plagues, and they did not do penance so as to give him glory.

10 And the fifth angel poured out his bowl upon the throne of the beast, and its kingdom became dark; and they chewed their tongues because of pain,

11 and blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their wounds, and they did not do penance from their works.

12 And the sixth angel poured out his bowl upon that great river Euphrates, and dried up its water, so that a way might be prepared for the kings from the rising of the sun.

13 And I saw from the mouth of the dragon and from the mouth of the beast and from the mouth of the false prophet three unclean spirits in the manner of frogs.

14 For they are spirits of demons performing signs, and they go out to the kings of the whole earth to gather them for battle on the great day of Almighty God.

15 “Behold, I come like a thief. Blessed is he who watches and keeps his garments, lest he walk naked and they see his shame.”

16 And he will gather them into the place that in Hebrew is called Armagedon.

17 And the seventh angel poured out his bowl into the air, and a great voice went out from the temple, from the throne, saying, “It is done.”

18 And there came lightning and voices and thunders, and a great earthquake occurred, such as had never occurred since people were upon the earth—such an earthquake, so great.

19 And the great city became three parts, and the cities of the nations fell. And great Babylon came into remembrance before God, to give her the cup of the wine of the indignation of his wrath.

20 And every island fled, and the mountains were not found.

21 And great hail, like a talent in weight, descended from heaven upon the people; and the people blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail, for it became exceedingly great.

CHAPTER 17

1 And one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls came and spoke with me, saying, “Come; I will show you the condemnation of the great harlot who sits upon many waters,

2 with whom the kings of the earth committed fornication, and those who inhabit the earth were made drunk from the wine of her prostitution.”

3 And he carried me away in spirit into a desert. And I saw a woman sitting upon a scarlet beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

4 And the woman was clothed round with purple and scarlet, and gilded with gold and precious stone and pearls, having in her hand a golden cup full of the abomination and uncleanness of her fornication.

5 And upon her forehead was a name written: “Mystery: Babylon the great, mother of fornications and of the abominations of the earth.”

6 And I saw the woman drunk from the blood of the saints and from the blood of the martyrs of Jesus. And when I saw her, I wondered with great wonder.

7 And the angel said to me, “Why do you wonder? I will tell you the mystery of the woman and of the beast that carries her, which has seven heads and ten horns.

8 The beast that you saw was, and is not, and will ascend from the abyss and go into destruction; and those who inhabit the earth—whose names have not been written in the book of life from the foundation of the world—will wonder when they see the beast, which was and is not.

9 And here is the understanding that has wisdom. The seven heads are seven mountains upon which the woman sits, and they are seven kings.

10 Five have fallen; one is, and the other has not yet come. And when he comes, he must remain a brief time.

11 And the beast that was and is not: it itself is the eighth, and is of the seven, and goes into destruction.

12 And the ten horns that you saw are ten kings who have not yet received a kingdom, but will receive authority as kings for one hour after the beast.

13 These have one counsel, and they will hand over their strength and authority to the beast.

14 These will fight with the Lamb, and the Lamb will conquer them, because he is Lord of lords and King of kings; and those who are with him are called, elect, and faithful.

15 And he said to me, “The waters that you saw, where the harlot sits, are peoples and nations and tongues.

16 And the ten horns that you saw upon the beast: these will hate the harlot and make her desolate and naked, and they will eat her flesh and burn her with fire.

17 For God has given into their hearts to do what is pleasing to him: that they give their kingdom to the beast until the words of God are consummated.

18 And the woman that you saw is the great city that has a kingdom over the kings of the earth.

CHAPTER 18

1 And after these things I saw another angel descending from heaven, having great authority; and the earth was illuminated by his glory.

2 And he cried out in strength, saying, “Fallen, fallen is Babylon the great; and she has become the habitation of demons, and a cage for every unclean spirit, and a cage for every unclean and hateful bird.

3 For all nations have drunk from the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth became rich from the power of her delights.”

4 And I heard another voice from heaven saying, “Come out of her, my people, lest you become partakers of her offenses and receive from her plagues.

5 For her sins have reached even to heaven, and the Lord has remembered her iniquities.

6 Repay her as she herself repaid you, and double the double according to her works; in the cup in which she mixed, mix for her a double portion.

7 As much as she glorified herself and lived in delights, so much give her torment and mourning; because in her heart she says, ‘I sit as queen, and I am not a widow, and mourning I shall not see.’

8 Therefore in one day her plagues will come—death and mourning and famine—and she will be burned with fire, because strong is God, who will judge her.”

9 And the kings of the earth who committed fornication with her and lived in delights will weep and lament over her when they see the smoke of her burning,

10 standing far away because of fear of her torments, saying, “Woe, woe, that great city Babylon, that mighty city! For in one hour your judgment has come.”

11 And the traders of the earth will weep and mourn over her, because no one will buy their merchandise any longer:

12 merchandise of gold and silver and precious stone and pearl and fine linen and purple and silk and scarlet (and every thyine wood, and every vessel of ivory, and every vessel of precious stone and bronze and iron and marble, 13 and cinnamon), and perfumes and ointment and incense and wine and oil and fine flour and wheat and beasts of burden and sheep and horses and chariots and bondpersons and souls of people.

14 And the fruits desired by your soul have departed from you, and all rich and splendid things have perished from you, and they will no longer find them.

15 The merchants of these things, who became rich from her, will stand far away from her because of fear of her torments, weeping and mourning,

16 and saying, “Woe, woe, that great city, which was clothed in fine linen and purple and scarlet, and was gilded with gold and precious stone and pearls!

17 For in one hour such great riches have been laid waste.” And every shipmaster and everyone who sails into the lake, and the sailors and those who labor at sea, stood far away,

18 and cried out when they saw the place of her burning, saying, “What city is like this great city?”

19 And they cast dust upon their heads and cried out, weeping and mourning, saying, “Woe, woe, that great city, in which all who had ships at sea became rich from her prices! For in one hour she has been made desolate.”

20 Exult over her, O heaven, and holy apostles and prophets, because God has judged your judgment against her.

21 And one mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone and cast it into the sea, saying, “With this force Babylon, that great city, will be cast down, and she will no longer be found.

22 And the voice of harpists and musicians and flute-players, and the sound of the trumpet, will no longer be heard in you; and every artisan of every craft will no longer be found in you; and the voice of a mill will no longer be heard in you;

23 and the light of a lamp will no longer shine in you; and the voice of bridegroom and bride will no longer be heard in you. For your merchants were the princes of the earth, because by your sorceries all nations went astray.

24 And in her was found the blood of prophets and saints, and of all who were slain upon the earth.”

CHAPTER 19

1 After these things I heard what seemed like the voice of great crowds in heaven, saying, “Alleluia! Salvation and glory and power belong to our God,

2 because his judgments are true and just: he has judged the great harlot who corrupted the earth in her prostitution, and has avenged the blood of his servants from her hands.”

3 And again they said, “Alleluia!” And her smoke ascends unto ages of ages.

4 And the twenty-four elders and the four living creatures fell down and worshiped God, who sits upon the throne, saying, “Amen. Alleluia!”

5 And a voice went out from the throne, saying, “Speak praise to our God, all his servants and you who fear him, small and great.”

6 And I heard what seemed like the voice of a great multitude and like the voice of many waters and like the voice of great thunders, saying, “Alleluia! For the Lord our God Almighty has reigned.

7 Let us rejoice and exult and give glory to him, because the marriage of the Lamb has come, and his wife has prepared herself.”

8 And it was given to her that she should clothe herself in fine linen, shining and white. For the fine linen is the justifications of the saints.

9 And he said to me, “Write: Blessed are those who have been called to the supper of the marriage of the Lamb.” And he said to me, “These words of God are true.”

10 And I fell before his feet to worship him. And he says to me, “See that you do not do it. I am a fellow servant of yours and of your brothers who have the testimony of Jesus. Worship God. For the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.”

11 And I saw heaven opened; and behold, a white horse, and he who sat upon it was called Faithful and True, and with justice he judges and fights.

12 And his eyes were like a flame of fire, and upon his head were many diadems; he had a name written that no one knows except himself.

13 And he was clothed in a garment sprinkled with blood, and his name is called the Word of God.

14 And the armies that are in heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean.

15 And from his mouth proceeds a sharp sword edged on both sides, so that with it he may strike the nations. And he will rule them with an iron rod, and he treads the winepress of the wine of the fury of the wrath of Almighty God.

16 And he has written upon his garment and upon his thigh: “King of kings and Lord of rulers.”

17 And I saw one angel standing in the sun, and he cried with a great voice, saying to all the birds that flew through the midst of heaven, “Come and gather together for the great supper of God,

18 so that you may eat the flesh of kings and the flesh of tribunes and the flesh of the mighty and the flesh of horses and of those sitting upon them, and the flesh of all—free and enslaved, small and great.”

19 And I saw the beast and the kings of the earth and their armies gathered to make war with him who sat upon the horse and with his army.

20 And the beast was seized, and with it the false prophet who performed signs before it, by which he deceived those who received the mark of the beast and who worshiped its image. These two were cast alive into the lake of fire burning with sulfur;

21 and the rest were slain by the sword of him who sat upon the horse, which proceeds from his mouth, and all the birds were filled with their flesh.

CHAPTER 20

1 And I saw an angel descending from heaven, having the key of the abyss and a great chain in his hand.

2 And he seized the dragon, the ancient serpent, who is the devil and Satan, and bound him for one thousand years;

3 and he cast him into the abyss and shut it and sealed it over him, so that he would no longer deceive the nations until the thousand years were consummated; and after these things he must be loosed for a little time.

4 And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given to them; and I saw the souls of those beheaded because of the testimony of Jesus and because of the word of God, and those who did not worship the beast or its image, nor receive its mark upon their foreheads or upon their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ for one thousand years.

5 The rest of the dead did not live until the thousand years were consummated. This is the first resurrection.

6 Blessed and holy is he who has a part in the first resurrection. Over these the second death has no power; but they will be priests of God and of Christ, and will reign with him for one thousand years.

7 And when the thousand years have been consummated, Satan will be loosed from his prison and will go out and deceive the nations that are upon the four corners of the earth, Gog and Magog, and will gather them for battle; their number is like the sand of the sea.

8 And they ascended over the breadth of the earth and surrounded the camp of the saints and the beloved city.

9 And fire descended from God out of heaven and devoured them; and the devil who deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and sulfur, where also the beast

10 and the false prophet will be tormented day and night unto ages of ages.

11 And I saw a great white throne and the one sitting upon it, from whose sight earth and heaven fled, and no place was found for them.

12 And I saw the dead, great and small, standing in the sight of the throne, and books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life. And the dead were judged from those things that were written in the books, according to their works.

13 And the sea gave up the dead who were in it, and death and the realm of the dead gave up their dead who were in them; and each one was judged according to his works.

14 And the realm of the dead and death were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death.

15 And whoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire.

CHAPTER 21

1 And I saw a new heaven and a new earth. For the first heaven and the first earth passed away, and the sea is now no more.

2 And I, John, saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, descending from heaven from God, prepared like a bride adorned for her husband.

3 And I heard a great voice from the throne saying, “Behold, the tabernacle of God is with humanity, and he will dwell with them. And they will be his people, and God himself with them will be their God;

4 and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death will be no more; neither mourning nor crying nor pain will be any more, because the first things have passed away.”

5 And he who sat upon the throne said, “Behold, I make all things new.” And he said to me, “Write, because these words are most faithful and true.”

6 And he said to me, “It is done. I am alpha and omega, the beginning and the end. To him who thirsts I will give freely from the fountain of the water of life.

7 He who conquers will possess these things; and I will be his God, and he will be my son.

8 But the timid and unbelieving and accursed and murderers and fornicators and sorcerers and idolaters and all liars—their portion will be in the lake burning with fire and sulfur, which is the second death.”

9 And one of the seven angels who had the bowls full of the seven last plagues came and spoke with me, saying, “Come, and I will show you the bride, the wife of the Lamb.”

10 And he carried me away in spirit to a great and high mountain, and showed me the holy city Jerusalem descending from heaven from God,

11 having the glory of God; and its light was like a precious stone, like a jasper stone, like crystal.

12 And it had a great and high wall, having twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels and inscribed names, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel:

13 on the east three gates, and on the north three gates, and on the south three gates, and on the west three gates.

14 And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and upon them the twelve names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

15 And he who spoke with me had a golden measuring reed, so that he might measure the city and its gates and wall.

16 And the city is set in a square, and its length is as great as its width. And he measured the city with the golden reed: twelve thousand stadia; and its length and height and width are equal.

17 And he measured its wall: one hundred forty-four cubits, by the measure of a man, which is that of an angel.

18 And the structure of its wall was of jasper stone, but the city itself was pure gold, like clean glass.

19 And the foundations of the wall of the city were adorned with every precious stone. The first foundation was jasper; the second, sapphire; the third, chalcedony; the fourth, emerald;

20 the fifth, sardonyx; the sixth, carnelian; the seventh, chrysolite; the eighth, beryl; the ninth, topaz; the tenth, chrysoprase; the eleventh, hyacinth; the twelfth, amethyst.

21 And the twelve gates are twelve pearls, one for each; and each individual gate was of a single pearl. And the street of the city was pure gold, like translucent glass.

22 And I saw no temple in it, for the Lord God Almighty is its temple, and the Lamb.

23 And the city has no need of sun or moon to shine in it, for the glory of God has illuminated it, and its lamp is the Lamb.

24 And the nations will walk in its light, and the kings of the earth will bring their glory and honor into it.

25 And its gates will not be shut by day, for there will be no night there.

26 And they will bring the glory and honor of the nations into it.

27 Nothing defiled will enter into it, nor anyone who does abomination and a lie, but only those who are written in the book of life of the Lamb.

CHAPTER 22

1 And he showed me a river of the water of life, splendid like crystal, proceeding from the throne of God and of the Lamb.

2 In the midst of its street and on either side of the river was the tree of life, bearing twelve fruits, yielding its fruit in each month; and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations.

3 And every curse will be no more; but the thrones of God and of the Lamb will be in it, and his servants will serve him.

4 And they will see his face, and his name will be upon their foreheads.

5 And night will be no more, and they will need neither the light of a lamp nor the light of the sun, because the Lord God will illuminate them, and they will reign unto ages of ages.

6 And he said to me, “These words are most faithful and true. And the Lord God of the spirits of the prophets sent his angel to show his servants what must happen soon.

7 And behold, I come swiftly. Blessed is he who keeps the words of the prophecy of this book.”

8 And I, John, am he who heard and saw these things. And after I had heard and seen, I fell to worship before the feet of the angel who showed me these things;

9 and he said to me, “See that you do not do it, for I am a fellow servant of yours and of your brothers the prophets and of those who keep the words of the prophecy of this book. Worship God.”

10 And he says to me, “Do not seal the words of the prophecy of this book, for the time is near.

11 He who does harm, let him do harm still; and he who is in filth, let him become filthy still; and he who is just, let him be justified still; and he who is holy, let him be sanctified still.

12 Behold, I come soon, and my reward is with me, to render to each one according to his works.

13 I am alpha and omega, the first and the last, the beginning and the end.

14 Blessed are those who wash their robes in the blood of the Lamb, so that theirs may be the right to the tree of life, and through the gates they may enter into the city.

15 Outside are dogs and sorcerers and the unchaste and murderers and those serving idols, and everyone who loves and makes a lie.

16 I, Jesus, have sent my angel to testify these things to you in the churches. I am the root and stock of David, the bright and morning star.”

17 And the Spirit and the bride say, “Come.” And let him who hears say, “Come.” And let him who thirsts come; and let him who wills receive the water of life freely.

18 For I bear witness to everyone who hears the words of the prophecy of this book: if anyone adds to these things, God will add upon him the plagues written in this book.

19 And if anyone takes away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God will take away his part from the book of life and from the holy city and from the things written in this book.

20 He who bears testimony to these things says, “Yes, I come soon.” Amen. Come, Lord Jesus.

21 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with all of you. Amen.
